PRESBYTERY MEETING HERE

Quarterly Session Opened This Morning—Report on Grants—A Hampton Matter.

The quarterly meeting of the Presbytery of St. John was commenced this morning in St. Andrew's church with the moderator, Rev. A. V. Morash, of Sussex, presiding. There was a good attendance of members, both ministers and elders, and several matters of business were taken up. The main interest of the morning was in the report of the Home Missions Committee on the matter of grants on the basis of the new minimum stipend of $1,800 and a message from the several cases where the minimum was not received were spoken of, and the case of Hampton, in regard to the rent of the minister's house, caused a great deal of discussion. Rev. Hugh Miller of St. David's church, was welcomed as a member of the presbytery, and A. F. Bentley, M.P.P., was accepted as a representative elder from St. Martin's.

Following the reading of the report of the home missions committee, the meeting adjourned for lunch to meet again at two o'clock. It was reported that Rev. W. A. Wood and Rev. Hugh Miller, had been received into the Presbytery but had not signed their declarations. Mr. Miller then signed and was given a hearty welcome by the moderator.

Mr. Wananaker became unconscious at midnight. When his condition became grave during the night all the members of the family were summoned, and all were present with the exception of Hodman Wananaker. He arrived too late.

Public institutions which Mr. Wananaker had established were the Presbyterian Hospital of Philadelphia, and the First Penny Savings Bank. He also owned the Hotel Wananaker, a large building in various cities, and contributed toward local missionary institutions in India, China and Japan.

Early in his career Mr. Wananaker married Miss Mary B. Brown, a sister of his original partner, who co-operated with him in much of his philanthropic work. She died in August, 1920.

In 1921, to commemorate the sixtieth anniversary of the founding of his business, in a ceremony at Independence Hall, Philadelphia, he was given the freedom of the city, and later was given the honor of a luncheon attended by prominent men from all parts of the country. Among the tributes of the day were a gift and a message from the Emperor and Empress of Japan.

Mr. Wananaker governed his life by many maxims: "Every undertaking is made up of small endeavors, plus ambition and the very visions." "Business must rest upon the uncrumbling foundation of confidence in one another."

"On every road there are some young men coming on." "Keep up the old standards, and day by day raise them higher."

Rev. W. M. Townsend, convener of a committee appointed to visit Salina, Kings County, gave the report of his committee. This was adopted. The incorporation of the church at Salina was the basis of some discussion and Hon. Mr. Forbes suggested that the Presbytery should inform them of the correct method of incorporating a church and to have the church correctly incorporated. This was agreed to. The same committee was authorized to instruct the congregation.

The report of the Home Missions committee was read by Rev. W. M. Townsend, chairman. It said that the minimum stipend had been taken up by the committee but that no action would be taken until subscription lists were obtained from the congregations in question. A letter was read by Mr. Townsend from the executive of the Home Missions Board stating that the executive could not act until the subscription lists had been received. Among the churches affected were Fairville, Hampton, Kingsland, Lonsdale, Norton, Prince William, Richmond and Sackville.

There was some discussion as to the provision of a manse according to the minimum stipend regulations. The case of the failure of the Hampton congregation to pay the full rent for the house of the minister was discussed. A suggestion that a delegation from the Presbytery should meet with the Hampton people to discuss the matter was adopted. Rev. W. M. Townsend, A. F. Bentley, T. H. Somerville and Alexander Wilson, were appointed to investigate the matter and endeavor to arrange a settlement at a meeting with delegates from each part of the congregation—Hampton, Hammond River and Rothesay—at an early date. A call from Prince William for the services of Rev. George Cameron was mentioned in this report.

TORONTO FEELS RASIER ON THE COAL QUESTION

S. before the end of this month and that the situation is due to be relieved somewhat before the end of this week.

John Wananaker Passes Away at Age of 84

Dead in Philadelphia After Illness from Severe Cold—One Son and Two Daughters Survive—Some of His Maxims of Life.

(Canadian Press)

Philadelphia, Dec. 12.—John Wananaker died at his home here at eight o'clock this morning. The world famous merchant and former Postmaster-General of the U. S., passed away at his home, 2082 Walnut street. He had been kept there since early in November, with a heavy cold contracted at his country estate at Jenkintown, near here. He was eighty-four years old.

Mr. Wananaker was active in his business affairs up to the time he was stricken. He spent much of last winter in Florida, and was in this city all summer, hard at work, with the exception of occasional surcease from the duties of his office for a day at the seashore. He was always an early riser and was usually in his mercantile establishment before his doors were opened.

Mr. Wananaker is survived by his son, Roman, a resident of New York City, and two daughters, Mary B., wife of Barclay H. Warburton, and Elizabeth, wife of Norman MacLeod, both of Philadelphia.

After Mr. Wananaker was brought to his town house, he did not improve and about two weeks ago his condition became such as to cause anxiety. At five o'clock this morning he was seized with a violent coughing spell, his physician said, which resulted in an extreme heart weakness. Major Barclay H. Warburton, Mr. Wananaker's son-in-law, notified the Associated Press that Mr. Wananaker died peacefully at eight o'clock.

Mr. Wananaker became unconscious at midnight. When his condition became grave during the night all the members of the family were summoned, and all were present with the exception of Hodman Wananaker. He arrived too late.

Public institutions which Mr. Wananaker had established were the Presbyterian Hospital of Philadelphia, and the First Penny Savings Bank. He also owned the Hotel Wananaker, a large building in various cities, and contributed toward local missionary institutions in India, China and Japan.

THE ARMSTRONG SUPER-REGENERATIVE CIRCUIT PLATE VOLTAGE VARIATION

Lesson No. 579. There are several methods by which super-regeneration may be accomplished through utilization of the circuits originated by E. H. Armstrong. One method employed two tubes, the first tube performing the functions of a regenerator and detector while the second tube acts as an oscillator and in this method exceptional amplification of signal is obtained by giving the circuit an alternately positive and negative resistance.

In the accompanying diagram, super-regeneration is brought about through the method of varying the plate voltage with resultant variation in the amount of regeneration. The incoming signals are impressed upon the grid circuit of the regenerator tube (R) and after being amplified by the tube are further magnified through the magnetic coupling of the tickler coil by which a portion of the energy of the plate circuit is "fed back" to the grid circuit, thus producing a cumulative regenerative action. The tickler coil coupling is so arranged as to increase regeneration below the normal oscillating point of the tube. Tube (O) in connection with properly adjusted oscillatory circuits, produces oscillations which may have a frequency of 10,000 cycles per second, corresponding to a wave length of 30,000 meters.

It is apparent from the diagram that the plate voltage of the tube (R) varies at a rate of 10,000 cycles per second due to the fact that the plate oscillatory circuit is common to the plate circuit of the regenerator tube. During the half-cycle when the 10,000 cycle oscillations made the plate more positive, exceptional amplification of signal is obtained due to the fact that regeneration is increased beyond the normal oscillating point of the tube. Under normal conditions of regeneration, oscillations would be produced in the tube but before the oscillations can start the succeeding half-cycle of the impressed frequency causes a considerable reduction in the plate voltage. This decrease in plate voltage causes regeneration to be reduced and a consequent interruption of positive resistance in the grid circuit, thus preventing the formation of oscillations.

Tube (D) is utilized as a detector and the amplified voltage variations are impressed upon the grid circuit of the tube by means of a coil coupled to the grid circuit of the regenerator tube (R). It will be noted that a biasing battery of low voltage is so connected as to give a negative potential to the grid and thus obtain efficient rectification by operating on a proper point of the characteristic curve. A grid condenser and grid leak may be used, however, in place of the biasing battery.

It is thus apparent that super-regeneration may be effectually accomplished by variation of the plate voltage and that during the interval when the impressed frequency of the oscillator tube increases the positive value of the plate, amplification of the incoming signal is obtained to a degree heretofore unapproached.

Every Merchant His Own Editor. A merchant talking with the writer said: "I consider my Daily Newspaper Advertising to be the most important thing I do each day. It is the only thing I do that the entire community are simultaneously informed about."

"I look upon my advertising space in a somewhat similar fashion, I imagine, to the way the editor looks upon the whole paper. He has so much space and so much copy to use. His job is to make his paper as interesting as he can, to as many people as possible."

"I haven't as much space as he has; therefore it is doubly important to me to make my space most interesting than his space—if I CAN."

"Hundreds of people come into my store whom I can never hope to meet personally. So I figure that the next best I can do is to give them a definite impression of my personality through my daily newspaper advertising."

The basis of successful advertising for any local merchant is disclosed in that conversation.

PROSPECT BRIGHT FOR KINDERGARTEN

A Feeling of Optimism at Meeting Yesterday—Gratifying Reports.
A meeting of the Free Kindergarten Association was held yesterday afternoon in the Wellington Row Kindergarten with Mrs. Allan G. McAvity, the president in the chair. On account of the number of contributions received there was a strong feeling of optimism at the meeting and hopes were expressed that lack of funds would soon be over.

The treasurer, Mrs. H. A. McKeown, reported a previous balance of $75.81; contributions amounting to $236 and including $30 from St. Andrew's Church Benevolent Society. Expenditures totaled $170 and the balance amounted to $141.81. The contributions handed in at the meeting by those who had solicited them were as follows: Mrs. S. E. Elkin, $146; Mrs. McAvity, $33; Mrs. Frederick Anderson, $31; Mr. H. A. McKeown, $50 and Mrs. H. L. Spangler, $86. These were incomplete contributions.

The Christmas trees for the kindergarten clothing were spoken of and it was reported that the teachers had secured sufficient dolls for the girls and shovels for the boys. As the Rotary Club would present cars for the boys, it was understood that the teachers had underwritten the shovels for the girls also, so that each child would receive two presents. At the conclusion of the meeting, Mrs. H. H. Pickett reported that she had named the following to see about having visitors from the closing exercises: Mrs. J. W. Mabel Peters Kindergarten, Mrs. J. W. Kindergarten, Miss McArthur, South End Kindergarten, Mrs. H. Fisher Miller, Kindergarten.

A letter from the G. W. V. A. said that the veterans had decided to register the value of $60 to the kindergarten Association and might, after the New Year, be able to introduce further concessions. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to the G. W. V. A. and in answer to a request from Mr. G. W. V. A. it was decided to ask that a member of the veterans be appointed by themselves to act as a member of the kindergarten advisory board.

It was thought the children from St. Mary's Kindergarten might give a special song exercise at the meeting. Societies in the New Year and this was considered a good means of bringing greater interest in the work of the kindergarten. The offertory at the United W. M. S. meeting is for the kindergarten.

The revised constitution was presented as it had been prepared by a special committee of which Mr. W. F. Burditt is the chairman. A few slight alterations were made. Among the clauses which were approved and which provoked most discussion were that calling for a payment of an annual fee of not less than $1 by members, the election of the executive members at the annual meeting when the officers were elected, having seven executive members, the chairman of standing committees and the officers to constitute the executive committee, having a nominating committee appointed on a month prior to the annual meeting and allowing for nominations from the floor at the annual meeting also; making five constitute the quorum for the executive and seven for the association meeting. Strict rules of procedure were laid down. The financial committee was to consist of the executive and the advisory board.

As convenor for the education committee, Mrs. Pickett reported having visited the St. Mary's Kindergarten, where there were forty-two children present, and the Mabel Peters Kindergarten, where she found thirty-two children. She had spoken with J. D. P. Lewin, of the school board for the matter of taking the kindergarten in as part of the school system and had said he considered it time the school board should investigate the matter. Mrs. Pickett had shown the plan of the kindergarten and said it was part of the school system, the cost per child is $18 and in St. John, under the association, the cost is only about $20 a child.

The Girls' Association of St. John's (Stone) church met last night when the special business of the evening was arranging for the Christmas baskets to be sent out to needy families. Miss Edith Skinner, the president, was in the chair and there was a large attendance of members. It was decided to supply baskets for three families and the work of packing was to be undertaken next French Croix de Guerre and the Belgian Croix de Guerre. For a time he was principal of the High School at Cairo, Egypt. He is from Manitoba. In opening, he declared he had met with a sympathetic welcome from the local press and one that had not been exceeded in all Canada. He was glad to see Premier Foster present and he assured the Premier that he greatly appreciated the cordial tone of the correspondence between the Premier and himself.

Turning to his subject, he declared that Germany in two generations had so used her educational system that she had modeled a conglomerate mass of people into a national entity that in 1914 was ready to die for the Fatherland. This, he thought, showed the mighty force behind education. In fact, he expressed the opinion that the greatest lesson taught us by the war was that by education a national spirit could be realized.

Consolidation of purpose among the educational forces of the Dominion was necessary. If Germany could evolve an ideal, based on Prussianism, by which she could train a population of a million and a half into a national entity, it was the hope of the speaker that the educational forces of the Dominion were able to do through co-operative effort by similar process but with a Christian intent and a truer goal, he asked. In other words, could not the practically humane and Christian ideals of sacrifice and unselfishness, of service and devotion, be consciously enthroned in the schools of a nation. In concluding, he defined education as a preparation for life and the greatest force in the national history. He was warmly thanked for his address, on motion.

The National Council of Education was constituted at the national conference on education in relation to citizenship held in Winnipeg in October, 1918. The conference was a concerted attempt to rally public opinion behind the schools of the Dominion. The character of the leaders of the nation would determine the future, it was believed, and that character in turn

Chief Justice McKeown asked Major Ney if the council was looking toward uniformity of the curricula of the various schools of the provinces of the Dominion and if the council concerned itself with the subject of technical education. Major Ney replied that the council dealt only with principles and there was no desire to attempt any uniformity in any sense of the word. It was the hope of the council that the lecturership scheme would develop into a series and have the best equipment men available to serve all the provinces of Australia and New Zealand. In Manitoba, he said, there were 2,000 school boards for a population of little more than half a million. In New Zealand nine boards controlled the school system for more than a million and a quarter population. In Australia the teaching profession was placed on a stable basis by making the teachers civil servants. Rural teachers in Australia, he said, were paid a higher salary than urban teachers.

BOSTON AND ST. JOHN.

On the eve of the arrival of Sir Henry Thornton, St. John people will read with much interest the following paragraph from the Shipping and Exporting Register, of Montreal.

"Canadian grain for export to Europe is arriving at Boston from the West in ever-growing volume and it is expected that the next few months will witness an immense movement. The bulk of this business is going to Boston as a result of the closing of the St. Lawrence River to navigation.

Much of the overflow will go to Boston and arrangements have already been made to provide full cargoes for eight big ships, one of which alone will take away 350,000 bushels of rye. Practically all this grain is for commercial purposes and little for relief distribution. The delivery will go largely to countries where the crops have not come up to expectations, being booked for inland Russian points."

We are told the grain shipments from St. John will be exceptionally heavy this winter, but this does not change the fact that heavy shipments of Canadian grain are going from American ports, for of course Portland, Maine, will also handle a large quantity. Before Maritime Province ports can handle all the winter grain traffic which should come to them they must be better equipped. The Canadian National Railway has only one elevator with capacity for half a million bushels. It was originally planned to have several more of the same capacity erected, but the plan has apparently been forgotten, while the C. N. R. is also short of terminals for other traffic. We like the declared objective of the Shipping and Exporting Register, which is prominently displayed in its columns.

"Our objective is to make Canadian ports supreme in North America, believing that American ports and port authorities are well able and equipped to care for themselves. We stand for Canadian ports."

When all Canada stands for Canadian ports the people of the Maritime Provinces will feel more confident than they do at present that they really are a part of the Dominion. They only ask fair recognition and it should no longer be denied.

NEARLY A LOST ART.

Perhaps the most famous of American after-dinner speakers, Chauncey Depew, is still living at the age of eighty-eight years, and was persuaded the other day by a New York Tribune reporter to make some observations that are quite interesting. Among other things he said:

"I suppose I was the leader of after-dinner speakers, because I spoke more often than any one else living. I used after-dinner speaking as a relief from my constant hard work in the railroad, which was so exhausting. At one time I spoke almost every night, or going to make a speech without partaking of the dinner. There is no doubt that prohibition has made a tremendous change in dinner audiences. Now they are bored with serious discussions and general light ones. In fact, their general attitude is 'I want to go home.'"

Whatever has caused the change, Mr. Depew agrees that there are few after-dinner speakers of the old school left. He said:

"Take twenty or thirty years ago, there were in New York alone half a dozen men of national reputation as speakers. Now it is almost impossible to find them for public dinners, and newspapers, which used to publish after-dinner speeches in full, now pay little attention to them. Now the report is generally 'Among those present were' it was an intellectual opportunity of rare delight to have heard personally such men as William M. Everts, Joseph H. Choate, Judge Brady and his brother, James T. Brady, Richard O'Gorman and Henry Ward Beecher in their prime. The dinner platform used to be the finest opportunity for the utterance of palatable truths, sugar-coated with humor."

The veteran thinks the falling off in debating in the colleges has had something to do with the change. He was in the class of 1866 at Yale, and of ninety-seven in that class only six are living. In his description of what an after-dinner speech should be he gives this hint to the moderns, which his hearers would find have them adopt:

"An after-dinner speech ought to have some necessary truth, considerable humor, and one new story."

Of his experiences along another line than that which made him the orator at the unveiling of the Statue of Liberty and the most sought after after-dinner speaker of his time, Mr. Depew made these sprightly remarks:

veteran journalist came to me for things which he thought I knew better than other people, and I was the favorite victim for city editors to send their cub reporters to practice on. At one period when everybody was in Wall Street and stocks were bouncing up and down reporters would come to me for inside information which would be of value in the stock operations of their readers, but I never heard of anybody who got rich on these revelations. A man who is interviewed every day of his life acquires quite naturally the information habit. He gives away a lot, but nothing which would be indiscreet to reveal."

We can well imagine the enjoyment the aged raconteur gets out of the memories of his past experiences, and there are still many who came under the spell of his eloquence and wit who will regret that his tribe does not increase, for even under prohibition a real after-dinner speaker gets down to the heart-strings of his hearers and plays on them at will.

MAJOR NEY'S MESSAGE

The address of Major Ney before the Rotary Club, and his later address in the Board of Trade made very clear to his listeners the high purpose of the National Council of Education. It does not aim to centralize authority or impose any provincial right. It desires to have all the provinces, through their educational departments, co-operate along lines that will give education in each of them a more distinctly national flavor; and to provide a medium through which each of them may know what the others are doing, and also what is being done that is worth knowing about in other parts of the Empire and the world. It is a most worthy ideal; and if the desired cooperation is secured, at a new practically assured, the national feeling in the next generation will be much stronger than it is today. We are still too far apart as a people in our ways of thinking, and through co-operation of the kind now sought a stronger national spirit will be developed. The series of lectures by great educators, to be inaugurated in February, when Sir Henry Newbolt will be in St. John, is another development fraught with great benefits to the cause of education in Canada. The movement started in Winnipeg in 1919, when the great national conference on education was held, bids fair to have results of incalculable benefit to the Dominion.

ENFORCE PROHIBITION.

President Harding gives no comfort to those who assert that prohibition cannot be enforced. He does not believe the Volstead Act will ever be repealed, and he insists that before any attempt is made to modify it a more vigorous effort must be made for its enforcement, since that is what he believes the deliberate public opinion of the country desires.

"Such a course," he says, "conforms with the law and saves the humiliation of our people before the world, and challenges the destructive forces engaged in widespread violation, official corruption and individual demoralization."

There is meat in this sentence uttered by the President of the United States. It is a challenge to the authorities in the Canadian provinces which have adopted prohibition. Only rigorous and literal enforcement, says President Harding, will concentrate public attention on any requisite modification of the law. It will be found, however, that when the law is so enforced no modification will be necessary. In order to get a better enforcement the President will invite the state governors to a conference, with a view to securing state co-operation with the federal authorities. A corresponding move of local interest would be the full co-operation of the provincial authorities and the police department in the city of St. John.

Those who have been clamoring for the amendment of the Volstead Act by Congress have had a wet blanket thrown over them by the President. First make a real effort to enforce the Act in his reply—and it is the reply of reason and good statesmanship.

RABBIT DINNER PROVES FATAL

London, Nov. 22.—(By Mail) An inquest was held at Liverpool on Francis Sharp, a hair-dresser, who died as a result of a needle lodging in his throat after he had eaten a dinner of stuffed rabbit.

The woman who prepared the rabbit for dinner said that the ordinary sewing needle which was used to stitch up the rabbit might by some means have been left in the body of the animal.

It was stated that after Sharp had eaten his dinner he complained of having a bone stuck in his throat. His neck began to swell and he went into the infirmary, where an operation was performed, but the needle which had lodged in his throat could not be removed, and he died as a result of inflammation of the throat.

THE HILLS OF ACADIE

(By Merlyn Swift)
Green hills of Acadie, hills forest-clad,
Whose bosky thickets, shrubs and bending trees
Answer, ever answer, to the wallings
The rushing voices of the distant sea.

Ofthave I trod within thy virgin shade
Unknown to man, or drunk from crystal stream
That mirrored once the dusky Indian
Where trembling birches o'er the waters lean.

There, far below across the marshy
The river winds in ever-broadening
And placid-sleeping in the sunset's ray
Moves slowly onward to the silent deep.

Historic land whose page in history's
Unwritten save for tear-drops that endure
Unto the age's end, thy name is
Around the crumbling walls of Beauséjour.

Upon thy rolling hills a silence dwells,
A chastened stillness on thy wind-swept shore,
Alone the sad dirge of the ocean swells
A note of grief for those who are no more.

LIGHTER VEIN.

Playing Safe.
The dear old lady entered the drug store and looked dubitably at the youthful clerk behind the counter. "I suppose," she said, "you are a properly qualified druggist?" "Yes, madam."

"You have passed all your examinations?" "Certainly."

"You've never poisoned any one by mistake?" "Not to my knowledge."

"She heaved a sigh of relief." "Very careful, you can give me a nickel's worth of cough drops."—Houston Post.

A Careful Patient.

A woman whose throat had troubled her for a long time grew impatient at the slow progress she was making and made a complaint to the doctor. "Madame," said the physician, "I can never cure you of this throat trouble unless you stop talking and give your throat a complete rest."

"But, doctor," objected the patient, "I'm very careful when I speak. I use harsh language, or anything of that kind."

Not Personally.

The Antiquarian Society of Smithville was holding its anniversary meeting, an occasion of much splendor and interest.

A young woman who acted in the capacity of society reporter for one of the morning papers of the city, in making her rounds for the purpose of securing the names of those in attendance, approached a somewhat elderly but well-dressed spinster, who was moving in her staidest manner amid the throng.

"Miss Dunkum," the reporter said, jotting down the name, "you are an Antiquarian?" "I am a member of the Antiquarian Society," responded Miss Dunkum, with great dignity, evidently having an impression that an "antiquarian," objectively considered, was about the same thing as antiquity.

MISS E. H. MORTON WINS GOLD MEDAL

Prize for English Essay Goes to Grand-daughter of the Hon. J. G. Forbes—School Board Meeting.

At the Board of School Trustees meeting last night it was announced that the Ellis Gold Medal for English essay by a grade XI pupil had been won by Miss Elizabeth H. Morton, of St. John's, daughter of the Hon. J. G. Forbes, and grand-daughter of Hon. J. G. Forbes, Miss Morton is now studying at Dalhousie University.

Matters of important business were taken up. Hon. H. A. McKown presided. Others present were Trustees Mrs. E. R. Taylor, M. Coll, H. Colby Smith, George E. Day, Thomas Nagle, E. R. W. C. Ricker, George H. Melnyre and A. Gordon Leavitt, secretary and acting superintendent.

Applications for positions on the teaching staff were received from Mrs. Ida Kerr and Miss M. P. Hennessey, St. John; Miss E. J. Jones, Hoyt Street and Miss Alice Richards, Grand Falls.

Applications for the position of janitor were received from J. E. Travis, H. Sheehan and C. H. Willis. Miss F. G. Perry's application for six months' leave of absence was referred to the teachers' committee.

The following teachers applied for an increase of salary: A. B. Brooks, H. C. Ricker, Stanley Nason, W. T. Denham and the Misses B. Myles, M. Black, F. C. Estabrooks, M. E. Lingley, Alice G. Gale and Alma K. Gald. These applications were referred to the finance committee.

The Board of Education wrote approvingly of St. Peter's Girls' school for both St. Peter's girls and boys in one session days. Inspectors of buildings were received from George P. Hennessey and Francis E. McManus and were referred to the finance committee.

An invitation was received for the board members to attend the opening of the health centre today. W. J. S. Myles informed the board that Miss Elizabeth Homer Morton had won the Ellis gold medal for an essay on "Why the Winter sports are desirable," in which every member of Grade XI had competed. He reported that the task of deciding on the best essay had been very difficult.

Painters' local No. 794 wrote, objecting to the board's carpenter, J. W. Gald, secure leave of absence for private persons at less than union wages. Mr. Coll said this statement was false. Mr. Ingraham said it would be best to investigate the matter. The letter was referred to the buildings committee.

Cadet Matters.

The making of a miniature rifle range for cadets at the Winter school assembly hall, where shooting would take place after school hours, was discussed by the board. The hall and the provision of proper storage for cadet equipment in Albert school were urged by Lieut-Col. A. Gald. These matters were referred to the visitors to the two schools and the acting superintendent, with power.

Mr. Day reported that a member of the Kindergarten Association had given a plan to Lorne school, for the time being. Mr. Smith reported that at a meeting of the finance committee, held just previously, it had been recommended that a salary of $100 a month until a successor should be appointed, the salary to date from October. This was approved.

Mr. Ingraham drew attention to the fact that some of the schools had heating plants unsuited to burning soft coal, which is now being used. He said La Tour school and Aberdeen school were closed part of one day because of trouble with the heating, and Mr. Day said that there had been trouble with the heating in King George school also. Mr. Ingraham suggested that an arrangement would have to be made for burning soft coal, and he believed that in La Tour school a little alteration would be needed. Mr. Nagle said that in Montreal the schools were using oil fuel with great success. Burning soft coal, he recommended, would save the bill for cleaning, and he recommended that the secretary should secure information as to the use of fuel oil in Montreal.

On Mr. Smith's motion, a letter of appreciation was presented to Mrs. Richard O'Brien and flowers were to accompany the letter. The report of the secretary showed twenty-one teaching days in the month and 211 schools conducted. The number of pupils enrolled was 9,142; the number, belonging 8,751, of whom 4,316 were boys and 3,465 girls. The average number in daily attendance was 8,097. The percentage of those in attendance of those enrolled was 88.57, and the percentage in attendance of those belonging was 92.41.

The report of the trustee officer showed fifty-five irregulars and seventeen truants. The teachers' committee meeting was held after the board meeting. At the teachers' committee meeting six months' leave of absence with half pay was granted to Miss Perry and arrangements were made for bringing the question of teachers' salaries before a finance committee meeting.

SAYS SPERM WHALE IS DISAPPEARING

Ottawa, Dec. 12.—Sperm whales are disappearing rapidly, and on account of their great commercial value, are being hunted under license, and a return submitted to the government by the companies or individuals operating whalers. International co-operation would be necessary to insure such legislation being effective.

"There are many scenes of romance and mystery in 'Pink Gods,' Fernyhn Stanlaw's new Paramount production, which attracted so many people to the Imperial Theatre yesterday. They involved the use of one hundred of Los Angeles' blackest Africans to play various characters. In strong contrast to these are scenes in luxurious hotels, with beautifully dressed women, and particularly interesting are the exquisite gowns worn by Anna Q. Nilsson and Bebe Daniels.

The age-old lore of diamonds, for women and the lengths to which many women will go to acquire the precious stones, is the theme of this Cynthia Stoker in stungled stones. The foreword: "No Arabian tale can outstrip the romance of diamonds—tokens of love, but also perpetual symbols of strife and passion.

The story deals with Lorraine Temple and her husband, and Lady Margot, a widow, who go to South Africa and meet John Quelch, the man who made Kimberley." While Lady Margot feels the lure of diamonds, she is strong and well-balanced enough to resist. Lorraine, however, is faintly hypnotized by the beautiful gems she sees, and allows herself to be drawn, during her husband's absence, into an intrigue with Louis Barney, a dealer in smuggled stones.

The varied and ingenious methods of smuggling uncut stones used not only by the natives, but also by the white overseers and illicit dealers, are graphically shown. A startling custom illustrated is that by which men who swallow diamonds to get them out of the mines are summarily taken to hospital, the suspicion confirmed by X-ray, and kept in hospital until the stones are opened, and the gems recovered therefrom. This operation performed upon the film 'Wings' for the recovery of twenty diamonds, is an important factor in the drama, for, broken in health, he seeks a terrible revenge, which leads to the death of Lorraine Temple, and the union of Lady Margot and John Quelch.

This production boasts such a collection of stars and featured players as is not often seen in one picture. Bebe Daniels plays the role of Lorraine Temple, the girl who, dazzled by the flash of crystalline "pink gods" forgets her wifely vows, and lays at last with her life. The strong character of John Quelch is played by James Kirkwood, who is featured with Miss Daniels.

Anna Q. Nilsson has the part of Margot Cork. She and Mr. Kirkwood were featured in "The Man From Home," made in Europe. She and other pictures abroad, and before that was seen in "The Fighting Chance" and many other Paramount pictures.

Adolph Menjou has been seen in "The Three Musketeers," "The Faith Healer," and "Is Matrimony a Fallacy?" In addition to the excellent Paramount feature the Imperial regaled its patrons with a charming Trip Through the West Indies aboard a Royal Steamship, and on shore. There were also the interesting world news as contained in Pathe's Weekly, Never did the Empire play a richer programme. It was an evening of rare enjoyment for every present. Today and this evening the same bill will obtain but tomorrow the bill changes to the First National Marshall Nellan big feature entitled "Bits of Life," with a galaxy of stars most unusual.

One of the finest pictures that has made its appearance here this season is now at the Queen Square theatre last night when the William Fox production, "Honor First," starring John Gilbert, was flashed on the silver screen.

The story, by George Gibbs, is a romance of the war, the scenes being laid in the trenches in France. It portrays the activities of two brothers serving in the French army. One, an officer, becomes panic-stricken in the face of an impending assault, and his brother saves him from disgrace by changing uniforms with him and leading his company to the attack. He is wounded and a beautiful love tale is wound around his mistaken identity.

The picture of the latter portion of the picture are laid in Paris, in the Latin Quarter, along the River Seine, and in an underworld cafe.

John Gilbert's work in the dual role puts him in the front rank of moving picture artists. His sudden transition from the craven state of the coward to the exalted condition of the hero is a piece of noteworthy acting. The picture is worth seeing more than once. Not only is the story a clever one, written by a noted fictionist, but the photography and the direction are above par.

AVENGING WOMAN SENDS UNDERTAKERS TO "GET SQUARE"

New York, Dec. 12.—Almost every other day for the last two weeks undertakers have called at the home of Mrs. Emma Levinson, 1922 Elmmer Place, Bronx, and told her they had been sent to bury her. On Wednesday one came with three men, a wagon and a lot of embalming fluid. Mrs. Levinson was upset.

She said she "saw a light" that day when she met Mrs. Henrietta Tarlow of 1919 Bailey avenue, and Mrs. Tarlow greeted her with: "If you are still here. Didn't the undertakers call for you yet?" Mrs. Levinson recalled she had had trouble with Mrs. Tarlow and that Mrs. Tarlow had threatened to get "square."

Magistrate Well in the West Farms Court ordered Mrs. Tarlow to furnish a bond to keep the peace for six months.

Homes in Westfield are now being lighted by hydro current from Musquash, the residences of E. H. Macburn and W. S. Stevenson as well as the Methodist parsonage having been connected up on Saturday afternoon. The rate paid is four cents a K. W. H. the same as at South Bay.

SHOT AND KILLED
SINGER HE LOVED

Salesman Then Turned
Pistol on Himself—Dying,
Tried Suicide in Hospital.

Paterson, N. J., Dec. 12.—Harry Harter, 40, an automobile salesman, shot and killed Evelyn Rainbow, 25, and then shot himself in the cellar of her home at 428 Ellison street here. Although dying in General Hospital, Harter made a second attempt to end his life by strangling himself with a sheet.

Harter had been living apart from his wife and son and had been boarding with Miss Rainbow. The police say that he confessed after the shooting that he had fallen in love with Miss Rainbow and that his love was reciprocated until she found that he had a wife.

Two weeks ago, the police say, he bought the revolver, but it was not until some time later that he nervously himself to use it. He waited in the cellar until she went down to fix the furnace and then shot her. He telephoned the police and then shot himself in his left temple and three into his abdomen.

When the police arrived they found the body of Miss Rainbow on the cellar floor, clad in a house dress, with an overcoat spread over it. Two notes were left by Harter, one asking that some of his effects be given to his son, and ending: "I am taking the woman with me who broke my heart."

The other was addressed to his wife, who lives with the boy at 23 Carroll street. Mrs. Harter and the son visited him at the hospital.

Harter was employed by McFarlane and Schmitt, automobile dealers here. Miss Rainbow was a singer and had appeared at many concerts here.

NOBODY BLAMED FOR THE DEATH OF
HUGH McDONALD

Inquest Held Last Night—
Accident Due to Broken
Rope on Bank Safe.

A verdict placing no blame on anyone in connection with the death of Hugh McDonald, which occurred on December 7 as a result of an accident in the Bank of Montreal building, was returned last evening by the coroner's jury. W. M. Ryan was present on behalf of the relatives of the dead man.

The following gave evidence: William Lang, Dr. C. M. Kelly, James A. Springer, William Swanton, Frank Hogan, Hubert Foster, James Mills, W. Frank Swanton and Dr. Aaron Davis. In his evidence, James Springer said he was a foreman in the employ of William Swanton and that he had taken two men to help him hoist a safe into the second story of the Bank of Montreal building. He estimated that the safe weighed 1,700 pounds. McDonald had fastened the ropes around the safe and then they had hoisted it. When near the top of the stairs the rope had broken and the safe had rolled down the stairs and struck McDonald, which resulted in his death; further that he had never used the rope for any heavy work before.

The jury brought in the following verdict: "We, the jury, summoned to inquire into the death of Hugh McDonald, find that he died at the General Public Hospital in the city of St. John on Thursday, December 7, 1922; that he came to his death at work raising a safe in the Bank of Montreal building, owing to the breaking of a rope which caused the safe to fall and strike the said Hugh McDonald, causing injuries which resulted in his death; further that we exonerate the contractor, William Swanton, from all blame."

AGED HEROINE OF CUBA
REFUSES GOVERNMENT HELP

Santiago De Cuba, Nov. 29.—(By Mail)—Ninety-four years old, Juana Arias, the only woman who ever attained the title of heroine in the Cuban revolutionary forces by courage under fire, steadfastly refused to cede an atom of her independence by accepting either government or private aid.

Juana lives alone in a little thatched hut near Manzanillo, and her scanty wants are met by sale of leaves for thatch from the palm trees that dot her little domain. The inseparable companion of her husband, Brigadier General Angel Macre, she fought through the ten-year war and, encouraging her husband in his refusal to submit under the Treaty of Zanjon in 1878, she accompanied him in his exile in the United States and Mexico. "La Coronela" returned to Cuba only after the Spaniards had been expelled.

LOST OPPORTUNITY TO SAVE GOUNARIS

Letter Written Last February
Creates Sensation in House of Commons.

(Special Cable to the N. Y. Times and Montreal Gazette.)

London, Dec. 7.—A Cabinet mystery of the late government was revealed in parliament today when Premier Bonar Law was asked in the Commons if a letter addressed to Lord Curzon by the late Premier Gounaris, of Greece on February 19, and Lord Curzon's reply, had been communicated to and considered by the cabinet.

Mr. Law replied that they had, to the evident astonishment of at least two important members of the late cabinet, Lloyd George and Mr. Balfour. Mr. Balfour said: "Some of us are very much surprised to hear any such document was circulated, though our memories may be at fault. The Gounaris letter referred to the condition of the Greek army in Asia Minor and was an appeal to the British Government."

Lord Birkenhead took the matter up in the Lords. He declared that neither he nor Lord Lee had seen Gounaris' letter. If he had, he should have said to the Greeks: "If you cannot maintain yourselves, cannot give your financial assistance or military equipment, so clear out at once." The Cabinet had not that opportunity, because, as far as he knew none of his colleagues saw that grave letter.

Lord Birkenhead then proposed that Curzon's reply be read. When the leader of the House, Lord Salisbury, challenged him to disclose where he had procured a copy of it, Lord Birkenhead declined to say, but took full responsibility for reading the document.

It spoke in terms of admiration for the Greek army, explained that the failure to raise a Greek loan in London was due to commercial causes, and expressed the hope that the Greeks would be prepared to listen to the counsel given by the Paris conference.

"If Lord Curzon's advice does not amount to a veto on the loan," I don't understand the meaning of words," was Lord Birkenhead's comment. He deeply regretted that the Cabinet was not allowed an opportunity of discussing this correspondence. Such discussion might have prevented a ghastly tragedy and saved the lives of the Greek exiles.

ITALIAN WAS MURDERED

Chicago, Dec. 12.—Joseph Maggio, known throughout the Italian colony here as the "King of the Black Hand," was shot from behind and killed as he walked near his home, 245 East Twenty-fourth street. He is the last of three brothers to meet death in a strange vendetta.

The body of Maggio was found in front of the Hayes school. Four bullets had been fired into the back of his head, apparently at a range of only a few inches. In his pocket was an automatic pistol.

Residents of the neighborhood, aroused by the shot, ran into the street, but were not quick enough to see the killer, who disappeared, so far as the police could learn, without leaving a clue.

BISHOP BRENT PLEADS FOR U. S. LEADERSHIP IN WORLD PROBLEMS

NEW AMBASSADOR REACHES LONDON

Italy Sends Marchese Della Torretta to Succeed Signor de Martino.
London, November 16.—(By Mail)—The Marchese della Torretta, the new Italian Ambassador to the Court of St. James in succession to Signor de Martino, arrived in London last night. He was met at Victoria station by Signor Fredosi, the charge d'affaires, and by the other members of the staff of the legation, including Colonel Rigoli, military attache, and Signor Pallavicini, special attache.

The Marchese della Torretta, who entered upon his new duties today, arrived about a fortnight earlier than had at first been intended owing to the absence on leave of his predecessor, a high representative of the Italian Government should be present, and the Marchese's departure was, accordingly, expected. Although the ideas of a London conference was abandoned while the new ambassador was on his way, he did not interrupt his journey.

The Marchese della Torretta was formerly Italian Ambassador in Vienna and subsequently Foreign Minister in the last Bonomi Cabinet. As Ambassador in London, he succeeds Signor de Martino, who has been appointed to the Embassy in Tokyo.

Signor de Martino is the only Italian Ambassador de carriere to survive the recent political changes in Italy. All the others have either been placed on the retired list or have resigned. He has been long in the diplomatic service. He was at one time Permanent Under-Secretary to the Italian Foreign Office. He was appointed the first Italian Ambassador in Berlin after the war, and from Berlin was promoted to London, where he has endeavored to foster good relations between Great Britain and Italy. It has been his constant endeavor to revive the long-standing sympathy and good understanding between the two countries, not only as it has existed in relation to literature, science, and art, but also from the practical point of view of political and commercial good will.

The subject of "Missions in Canada" was dealt with last evening at a meeting of the Epworth League of the Parville Methodist Church under the supervision of Miss Eva Taylor. Papers were read by Miss Margaret Rice, Miss Lottie Kelly, Miss Gladys Scott, Miss Edrys Cheeseman and Miss Edna Shaw. Fifty dollars of the $60 realized at a recent supper was voted to the church.

"Poor Little Girl Next Door" Wins $465,000 From Parents-at-Law

Burlington, Vt., Dec. 11.—A jury of farmers has set at $465,000 the damages due Mrs. Dorrit S. Woodhouse from her wealthy parents-at-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lorenas E. Woodhouse, of New York and this city. She had sued them for $1,000,000, charging that they had alienated the affections of her young husband, C. Douglas Woodhouse, who is now at Reno, Nev., seeking divorce. The award is one of the largest ever returned in such cases. Counsel for the elder Woodhouses immediately moved that the verdict be set aside. Arguments on their appeal will be heard. The jury was out forty hours. It appeared that their long deliberations were largely over the amount of damages. Counsel for the plaintiff had developed testimony that indicated the defendants were worth approximately $1,500,000. Of the $465,000 awarded, $400,000 was given as actual damages to the young wife and $65,000 as a punitive award. The romance of young Woodhouse with the "poor little girl," who lived next door, was fairly familiar to Bur-

A shoe to fit the foot not the foot to fit the shoe

FOR how many years have people spoken of "breaking in" a pair of shoes, i.e., suffering tortures till the foot had, in time, shaped the shoes to fit the foot? But now Arch Defenders have banished all that and your foot glides into the shaped-to-nature insole of the shoe like a glove to the hand. Note also how different and shapely is the last upon which Arch Defenders are built compared with the old style.

In addition to the concealed Spring Steel Support and the special foot-form insole, the lasts upon which Arch Defenders are built, with their cupped heel and foot-contour sole, are so different from the flat shapeless lasts of ordinary shoes.

AN OLD MAN HOLDS UP SALOON

Orders Those Present to "Grab a Handful of Air," and Then Cleans Out the Cash Register.

New York, Dec. 11.—A little man with white whiskers walked with a firm step into a saloon at 1177 Second avenue and peered curiously at the wall decorations and the four occupants—Peter Quinn, the bartender, and three customers. Satisfied that all was well, he hauled an automatic pistol from his back pocket and leveled it at the men. "Grab a handful of air, snappy-like," he said, and there was no hiccough in his voice. The trio lost no time in obeying and then, following the orders of the old man, Quinn cleaned the cash register of $86, which the intruder took and departed. A few minutes later an excited man, old Patrolman Jack Reyer, that "Quinn's place has been struck up," Reyer ran up Second avenue and came upon an aged man with white whiskers staggering from door to door. Drawing his pistol, Reyer placed the man under arrest and took him to the East Sixty-seventh street station, where he was locked in a cell and promptly went to sleep. In his pocket were found the $86 and two bank books showing deposits of $4000 on Ohio banks in the name of John O'Hearn, of Springfield, O. Two hours later O'Hearn came to and asked how he had got there. When told he had robbed a saloon he was overcome with surprise and broke out crying. He said he had come to New York to see his sister, in East Sixty-first street. He had cashed a money order for $125 earlier in the day and couldn't remember anything since. As a peaceful man of sixty-five years, he said, he couldn't have been drunk. He is charged with robbery, intoxication and carrying a weapon without a license. He owns a plastering business in Springfield, he said, and has a wife and four children.

ONCE LIVED IN ST. JOHN

Mrs. Wallace, of Calais, 101 Years Old on Last Saturday — Does Household Work.

Calais, Dec. 12—One of the oldest women in Maine, or Eastern Maine, at any rate, is Mrs. Matilda (Hyland) Wallace of Calais, who was 101 years old on Saturday, December 9. Mrs. Wallace says: "They were not lavish with middle names when I was christened, so they named me just Matilda."

She became the wife of John Wallace on May 10, 1848. The ceremony took place in Paradise Church, Nova Scotia, and Rev. Edwin Gilpin, brother of Bishop Gilpin of the Episcopal church, was the officiating clergyman.

The union was blessed with thirteen children, of whom two only survive. The son, John A., who ever married, is a seafaring man, with New York city as his home port. The surviving daughter is Mrs. Margaret Kelley, a much respected citizen of Calais, with whom Mrs. Wallace makes her home. Mrs. Wallace's husband passed away in April, 1922.

Of Mother Wallace's thirty-four grandchildren, thirty are living, and she is tremendously proud of them. The subject of this article is a really remarkably active woman, busy with light housework, ironing, cooking and helping with meals for the household, as well as knitting mittens and socks for grandchildren and great-grandchildren. She is a splendid conversationalist and even keeps herself in touch with world news, her memory being remarkable. Although her sight is a little dim her hearing is as acute as when she was a girl. It is a pleasure for Mrs. Wallace to receive callers and the attention of friends, whom she can entertain by interesting conversation.

These traits combined with a wonderful disposition and blameless life have deservedly gained for Mrs. Wallace a large circle of friends and admirers. Two years ago on the occasion of her ninety-third birthday these friends presented her with a purse of money, one dollar for each year, and some other. On her one hundredth birthday she was again remembered with a goodly sum.

At the age of twenty-five Mrs. Wallace joined the Methodist church on German street, St. John, N. B., and on coming to Calais fifty-five years ago was transferred by letter and became a member of Knight Memorial church, Calais, when Rev. C. R. Eldridge was pastor. Mother Wallace declares: "I could write a book concerning the love and goodness of my God, if I were young and strong as thirty years ago, when my sight was undimmed and my hand was steady."

WORLD TOUR HAD TO BE SHORTENED

L. R. Ross was Taken Ill While in China

Is Recuperating and is at his Desk in Union Depot—Speaks of Customs of the People and Other Features of Oriental Visit.

A tour around the world which he had in view when he left St. John on September 1 was cut short by sickness, compelling him to return from Hong Kong by the shortest route, so L. R. Ross, general agent of the N. B. here told a Times reporter in an interview this morning. Although he was quite ill for a time, Mr. Ross said today that he was improving considerably in health and hoped so to continue.

During the three months that he was away, however, Mr. Ross managed to cover some 30,000 miles and had many novel experiences. He was accompanied by his son, Arthur G. Ross, who joined him at Montreal and returned as far as that place with him, and his nephew, Herman Lordly, who was married in the east and will visit England on his way home, going by way of Singapore.

After leaving Montreal, Mr. Ross and his party went to Vancouver and after a short visit in San Diego, California, returned to and sailed from Vancouver on one of the C. P. R. Empress steamships. The party landed at Yokohama and spent some time in Japan, visiting among other places Tokio, Kobe and Nagasaki. From Japan they journeyed to China, landing at Shanghai, and proceeded as far as Manila in the Philippine Islands.

Returning to China they had just reached Hong Kong when Mr. Ross took severely ill and he immediately traveled to Shanghai and left on the first trip for Vancouver via Yokohama. He had planned going from China to Singapore and thence through the Suez Canal and back to America by the Atlantic route, but his illness necessitated the change in plans.

Mr. Ross said that it would be impossible to describe the everyday life in the Orient, so vastly different it is from that of this section of the globe—it must be observed personally to be appreciated. He declared that the water in the east was very bad and it was extremely difficult for travelers to get accustomed to it; it was to this fact that he partially attributed his illness.

It was Mr. Ross' intention to take a trip of China but after arriving at Shanghai he learned that conditions were so disturbed that the transportation companies would not sell tickets to inland points.

Although he did not come directly in contact with any of the disturbed conditions, Mr. Ross heard many stories of ill-treatment and injustice inflicted on innocent residents and travelers by insurgents, particularly in the province of Honan where most of the unrest is centered. In one case he was told of a body of rebels who carried Christian missionaries in front of their forces to prevent the government troops from firing on them.

Describing economic conditions in the Orient, Mr. Ross said that, although prices were high there seemed to be plenty of work and everybody appeared to be busily engaged in one occupation or another. He was particularly struck by the fact that in Japan the stevedore work was carried on by women as well as men. The Chinese laborer received the same reward for his services as did his brother, and from his observations was capable of doing an equal amount of work as well as and as expeditiously as any of the men. The wages amounted to the equivalent of about twenty-five cents a day. The crews engaged in bunkering steamers in Japanese ports were made up of both women and men.

Mr. Ross paid a hearty tribute to the service which the C. P. R. was maintaining on the Pacific. Not only were their steamers almost invariably right on schedule, but the officials and crews spared nothing to assure the passengers of the best service and the greatest convenience possible. They were ever ready and willing, he said, to provide information and service and seemed to go out of their way to look after the needs of all classes of passengers.

Mr. Ross is being welcomed home by many friends and it is his hope that his health will be back to normal in the near future. Despite his indisposition, Mr. Ross was at his desk in the Union Depot today preparing up again the threads of his occupation where he laid them down more than three months ago.

He is a returned man, has a rich baritone voice and a thorough knowledge of music, besides a wide experience in stage work. RUSSIAN SHIPS WITH REFUGEES IN SAD PLIGHT

Shanghai, Dec. 12—Fourteen Russian ships carrying refugees from Vladivostok are now in the harbor here, five arriving today. All are short of fuel and food, and the authorities will not permit the passengers to land, although charitable organizations are planning measures to relieve the immediate needs of the homeless Russians.

Of the original fleet of fifteen vessels comprising the Russian Asiatic navy, one is missing and it is feared it may have been lost.

On the ships now here are more than 200 officers and soldiers of the former White Guards with their families, including 200 wives and daughters. There are also of them boys, former cadets of the military school in Vladivostok. With strict economy, it is said, the supplies aboard the ships will be sufficient to support life until January 1. Fuel and clothing, however, are lacking.

FOUR OF FAMILY BURNED TO DEATH BURIED TOGETHER

Fire Which Snuffed Out Lives of Nova Scotia Family Thought to Have Started From Kitchen Stove.

(Canadian Press Despatch.) Port Hood, N. S., Dec. 11.—The pathetic remains of Mrs. Donald MacDonald and her three children, victims of Saturday morning's fire tragedy at Harbor View, two miles from here, were laid to rest at 9 o'clock this morning. Solemn high mass was celebrated by Father Ronald MacDonald at the residence of the family. The children were: Mary Catherine, aged seven; John, six, and Janet, five. Mrs. MacDonald herself was forty-eight years of age. Details of the fire are scant. Archie MacDonald, brother-in-law of the dead woman, was awakened about 2 o'clock Saturday morning by the reflection from the burning house in his bedroom. He rushed to the scene of the fire, on the opposite side of the road and about 100 feet distant. The house was then a mass of flames which were bursting through the roof. It was impossible to make an entrance. He heard no cry and it is thought that the inmates were already dead or unconscious. The position of the bones when found indicated that the trapped mother and little ones attempted to escape but were cut off and met death as bravely as they could in each other's arms. The fire, from its state when discovered by Mr. MacDonald, evidently started in the kitchen, and it is presumed that it had its origin from the kitchen stove.

Help for Weak Ankles

THE skater with weak ankles does not enjoy the full pleasure and benefit of skating.

Ten chances to one all you need is a pair of C. C. M. Improved Steel Ankle Supports. Skating brings into play muscles not ordinarily used. It strains and overtaxes them.

It's really wonderful how C. C. M. Steel Supports relieve the strain on these muscles. By means of a hinge and sliding attachment, they allow the foot to bend freely forward or backward, but the ankle cannot bend sideways.

It is astonishing how quickly one's skating improves with the help of C. C. M. Supports. They give greater confidence. In a few evenings you are darting through the crowd like a swallow, and cutting corners gracefully.

DECREASE IN MARRIAGES.

New York, Social Register Records 7% Against 871 Last Year.

The New York Social Register for 1923 has made its appearance and is continued on the same lines as heretofore. The custom of affixing a star opposite the names of those who have been honorably discharged from the service in the late war is still in force. One of the interesting social statistics of prominent families show a falling off of this year of marriages. There are recorded 786 marriages against 871 of last year. There have been 539 deaths as compared with 498 last year, 244 women having died, while last year the deaths among the women registered 215. On the other hand, there have been 255 deaths of men, as compared with 284 of last year. All this shows a marked decrease in the number of marriages and a large increase in the mortality list. Where it is desired to seek the name of a married woman, who may be remembered only by her maiden name, the column of "Married Maidens" in the back of the Social Register, reveals the present married name. Where bride have married residents of other cities, the city of their present residence is indicated and their names may be traced through the locator, which alphabetizes in the one alphabetical order, the names in all of the Social Registers issued by the association, indicating what city they may be found in and the head of the family under which they may be grouped. Belgian farmers are becoming strong advocates of tractors.

FROST PROVING OF BENEFIT IN THESE OPERATIONS

Replying to a criticism made recently by a correspondent in the press regarding the carrying out of work by the water and sewerage department while the frost was in the ground, Commissioner Wigmore said today that the excavation recently done at the head of King street was not affected by the frost, which could not penetrate the asphalt and concrete pavement under which a piece of water main had been laid. The work being done at Newman brook, he added, was facilitated by the frost, as it obviated the necessity of supporting the sides of the trench in which the sewer was being laid and also made it easier for the men to get around on the surface of the marsh.

BY DIVINE AID.

(La Patrie.) "The members of the Legislative Assembly of Quebec have set an excellent example to the whole world by deciding that in future every sitting of the Legislature shall be opened by an invocation to Almighty God. At a time when so many people have delivered themselves up to materialism and socialism, and have lost their faith and abandoned the practice of divine worship; at a time when the United States and Canada are menaced by the influence of secret societies, it is a good thing to see our legislators plead with more ardor than ever before for the protection and guidance of Providence."

STARTLING THEORY ABOUT DISASTER

Chemical in T. N. T. Might Have Caused Explosion.

London, Nov. 28.—(By mail.)—Was the great Silverdown munitions factory explosion on January 19, 1917, by which seventy-four lives were lost, really due to accident? Suspicion that it was caused deliberately by a wrecker is aroused by Sir Basil Thomson, the late head of the Special Branch of Scotland Yard, in his book, "Queer People," just published. He says:—"It is known that a piece of a certain chemical substance, no larger than a Brazil nut, introduced into T. N. T. will lie in it innocuous for months, but that on the application of heat it ignites the whole mass. "A small piece of the chemical would not have been noticed by the people feeding the hopper. "This particular batch of explosive had been brought by train from the north of England, and at any stage of its journey it would have been possible to introduce the chemical into one of the bags. "Sir Basil admits that there is no proof, but he says deliberately "the facts were consistent with sabotage." He adds:—"If the explosion at Arklow during the previous September, in which a number of people lost their lives, was not due to sabotage, the coincidence is remarkable, for threatening letters had been received by the management, but in that case it is probable that the Germans were not concerned. "His use of the phrase "in that case" is significant. It seems to imply a suspicion that Germany agency was responsible for the Silverdown explosion. Sir Basil Thomson has recently been making a tour of the United States and Eastern Canada.

HONDURAN AIR SERVICE

Will Link Capital Cities of Central America. Tegucigalpa, Honduras, Nov. 22.—(By mail.)—The capital cities of the republics of Central America soon will be linked together by airplane service for passengers and mails, if ambitious plans to this end, encouraged by the Government of Honduras, are carried out successfully. An Italian aviator, Luis Stornalovo, is now here with six Italian and three French planes. Headquarters are at Tegucigalpa, and the first flights are expected the end of December. The imagination of the Honduran people has been so much stirred by stories from the outside world of the possibilities of aviation, that they recently bought an airplane by public subscription.

EXHIBITS AT FAIR OF FIFTY NATIONS

London, Nov. 28.—(By mail.)—By the decree of the League of Nations Union, St. Albert's is being "internationalized" for a few days. People of many countries are visiting the old city for a big exhibition which the Union is holding, and which already contains a large quantity of treasure. There are 18th century carpets from China, china figures representing the national costumes of Denmark, Spanish chairs of mediæval times, huge wooden jugs from Esthonia, and attar of roses from Bulgaria. Over fifty countries are represented in all. One of the gaudiest exhibits is a man's suit in nearly all the colors of the rainbow, commonly worn on festival days by Polish peasants. Different parts of the British Empire are admirably represented, and India has a most impressive stock of exhibits.

"Tastes Good on a cold morning doesn't it Son?"

ATMEAL porridge not only tastes good on a winter morning. It is good. In fact, it is the best cold-weather breakfast dish for everyone, because of its heat-producing qualities.

Oats enrich the blood, which carries its sustaining warmth to every part of the system. Analysis and tests prove that oats are more nourishing and invigorating than any other cereal. They are a simple, basic food, vital to children's health and development, because they produce brawn and bone for the growing bodies. They are invaluable as an energizing vim-food for grown-ups.

And of all oats, Quaker Oats are the best.

In Quaker Oats, you get the finest oats in the world. Puny, under-developed grains are sifted away in milling, and only the rich, plump, flavoured queen grains go into the Quaker Oats package. The sealed carton keeps the flaked kernels unbroken, sweet and fresh.

The most welcome and most nourishing breakfast for a cold day, Quaker Oats is also the most economical—actually costing less than one cent per serving.

When you are ordering groceries today, remember to add "A package of Quaker Oats."

ADVENTURES OF PRINCE OF WALES

Vividly Told Tale of Journey to Far East in New Book—Issued for Benefit of Soldiers' Home.

London, Dec. 1.—(By mail.)—Adorning the bare narrative of "The Prince of Wales' Eastern Book," in which is recorded his journey to India and the Far East, there are passages that might have strayed from the pages of "Arabian Nights Entertainments."

Visitors to the East, and even men who make it their home for a period of years, are liable to find its glamor of "fading kind; and hundreds have not the good fortune to realize the inner riches of pagantry and its wealth in splendid ceremonial.

To our Prince and Her Apparent the East exposed its soul in welcome and some of its adventures in consequence seem, to the imagination of ordinary mortals, to have belonged to the realm of dreams.

This book arrests the attention immediately through its pictures—beautiful water-colors by Donald Maxwell, and unsurpassed photographs by the Central News operator, both of whom traveled with the Prince.

Presented Fine Dignity. But the pen-pictures of Sir Percival Phillips suggest touches the kind that neither brush nor camera will ever succeed in capturing. Witness this glimpse at Aden:—

Four dignified chiefs from the mysterious country behind Aden were brought up, one after the other, in the shadows of a cool, wide veranda, and presented in phrases of stately Arabic. None of them is known beyond the Gulf of Aden, but all of them faced their future King-Emperor with fine dignity.

Came first Sir Aboul Karim bin Fadl bin Ali, a tall, erect figure in gold brocade, striding forward with one hand on his jeweled sword, his little son beside him ready to read an address in nervous, halting English; then the aged Sultan Husein bin Ahmed, who is nearly a century old and almost blind, drawing his purple robe around him as he groped forward on the arm of a sleek frock-coated chamberlain of his desert court; and last of all, the Amir Nasr bin Shaif Sef of Dali, lean, lithe, very composed, his bare feet, tipped with henna, thrust forward from a gown of dull silk.

Here is a vision of a state untouched by the thread into India of Western civilization. Pavilions of Marble. The Kaharana's (of Mewar State) massive fortress-like palace rises above a placid lake studded with little island pavilions of white marble. The streets are crooked, and the tumble-down bazars seem to have lasted miraculously through many generations of Rajput princes.

Elephants wander through the outer palace yard; fierce retainers shoulder swords, stride through the main gates. The lighting of Udapur on this night was conceived by a great artist. All the city seemed stepped in a golden glow.

The Prince was carried in a chair up the steep, winding footway from the water-gate to the banquetting hall. He was hatless, and the memory of this fair-haired youth ascending in silence with his dusky hearers against the heavy, windowless facade of the Kaharana's mysterious palace, with all the night afire around him, is one that will not be soon forgotten.

The Arabian Nights atmosphere pervades this record of the Prince's arrival in Gwalior.

King of Elephants. Outside Gwalior station the Prince found the king of all elephants kneeling humbly in the dust, an enormous beast named Hiralal. He carried a gold two-wheeled howdah over a long mantle of dark crimson silk, his legs and body were plastered with gold paint, and he was hung about with tinkling bells. He surveyed the assemblage sadly through eyes newly flamed with red paint—a strong contrast with the yellow ochre of his mournful face, and his feet supported massive silver anklets.

Six elephants were silvered all over, and carried silver howdahs; the others were mostly light blue with gaudy side cloths, and cubist designs spread over their heads and trunks.

A delightful picture of Admiral Togo occurs in the section relating to the Prince's triumphant visit to Japan. He always stood apart from the other guests, a silent, shy, little man in naval uniform, his eyes fixed meekly on the ground, and only looking up when someone was brought before him and presented.

An English guest told him that in England he was called "the Nelson of Japan." Admiral Togo shook his head deprecatingly and continued to study the pattern of the lawn.

For Benefit of Hostel.

There is at the beginning of the book a facsimile of a letter written in the Prince's own handwriting to explain that the book is issued on behalf of the Blinded Soldiers' and Sailors' Hostel at St. Dunstan's.

RUSSIAN PRINCESS WEDS IN LONDON

Was Assisted Out of Russia by Canadian Officer.

London, Nov. 28.—(By mail.)—On a recent Sunday the Church of St. Phillip's, Buckingham Palace Road, which the Bishop of London some months ago assigned to the Russian refugees in his diocese for their use according to orthodox eastern rites, was crowded to overflowing for the wedding of Princess Catherine Gallitzine to James Haldane Adair Campbell of Tullochewan Castle, nephew of the late Sir Henry Campbell Bannerman.

A little more than two years ago the princess, whose ancestral home had been pillaged and burnt, her father diled, and her mother and sister cast into a Bolshevik prison in Moscow, was rescued in hiding in South Russia with the late Grand Duchess Vladimir,

A Carload of B. C. Halibut

Other fish in olden times were eaten on fast days, but halibut has always been recognised as such a royal dish that it was eaten holy, i. e. festival, days instead. Hence its name—holy-but.

This halibut is entitled to be called festival fish because it was frozen fresh in British Columbia and delivered to us with all its original goodness retained. Tell your dealer you want some National Halibut and he'll cut you thick slices, splendid for broiling or baking.

Prize receipts are now being judged—we hope to be able to mail winners cheques in time for Christmas.

In an interview for the princess with the King's private secretary, and through him getting enquiries made by the Secret Service Department of the Foreign Office, as well as trying to get news for her by means of the American Red Cross Society.

Just before Christmas of that year, to her great joy, the princess received a short note from her mother, letting her know that she was both alive and out of prison, though still in the direst need and liable at any moment to be re-arrested.

The wedding at St. Phillip's Church was an intensely interesting ceremony, conducted entirely in Russian with the Eastern rites. The bride, wearing a white satin gown with a beautiful long train of silver-lined brocade, stood by the bridegroom in the body of the church, each of them holding throughout the ceremony, a lighted candle, while the priest intoned short sentences in a low note, which were answered by a soprano choir hidden behind the altar screen. The most important and visible rite was the taking and holding over the heads of the bride and bridegroom of two golden crowns, which did not rest upon their heads but were held just above them for a moment by the priest, and then till the end of the service by the groomsmen, of whom there were sixteen, including Prince Dimitri, Roseviev and Paul Chanchavade of Russia and Lord Inverclyde. Among the congregation were Princess Nina of Russia (formerly Mrs. W. B. Leeds), and a great many other notables. About once a minute as the arms of the pair holding the crowns in place got tired, the next pair came up in order and relieved them and so in rotation for perhaps half an hour. On the close of prayer the priest, the bride and bridegroom and the groomsmen holding the crowns, walked solemnly several times round the little illuminated table before which they had been standing, after which the bride and groom kissed each other, and the marriage service ended. The honeymoon is being spent in Spain.

The princess' father, Prince Paul Gallitzine, who not only lost all that he possessed but his life as well, in the Russian Revolution, was like the Marquis Lafayette and so many of the French noble in the second half of the 18th century, keenly alive to the faults and oppressions of the old regime, and not only anxious but active in furthering the constitutional movement for reform.

EMPIRE GROWN TOBACCO.

Special efforts are to be made to encourage the growth and manufacture of tobacco within the British Empire and the use of such tobacco in preference to foreign grown or made. One of the many Technical Committees of the British Empire Exhibition—The Tobacco Committee—under the Chairmanship of Sir William Churchman, has just passed the following resolution:—"That in the opinion of this Committee it is highly desirable that the growth and manufacture of tobacco within the British Empire should be developed and encouraged, and that the public should be advised and encouraged to use Empire-grown and Empire-manufactured tobacco in preference to tobacco of foreign growth or manufacture."

It was the opinion of the Committee that public discussion on this question would be of great advantage.

WHAT'S DOING IN THE MONEY AND STOCK MARKETS TODAY

FOR HARMONY IN INDUSTRIAL LIFE FINANCIAL RANGE NARROW AND IRREGULAR

Stetmetz Says Swinging Pendulum of Inflation and Deflation Must be Stopped to Reach Goal of Peace in Trade.

Schenectady, Dec. 12.—The orderly progress of American prosperity depends upon the harmonizing of two requirements—industry must be organized so as to guarantee to the employee a living wage, and to capital a fair and continuous return.

Dr. Stetmetz explained two main difficulties in bringing about industrial co-operation, as follows: The expectation by capital that labor will co-operate in a plan devised by capital. This, he said, is not co-operation, but paternalism.

Dr. Stetmetz argued for the domestic plan of co-operation, which he stated endeavors to unify capital and labor by having both participate in the profits through dividends, and in the management through boards of directors.

Dr. Stetmetz explained two main difficulties in bringing about industrial co-operation, as follows: The expectation by capital that labor will co-operate in a plan devised by capital.

Stars Fall From Film Firmament
Mary Miles Minter and Wanda Hawley Leaving Famous Players.
New York, Dec. 12.—A number of important figures will be missing from the motion picture line-up of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, it was learned at the New York headquarters. Of these, the most prominent is Mary Miles Minter, who has been rising with the development of the industry from early days as a child actor. With her passing from the Paramount fold occurs the last, so far as this organization is concerned, of the shooting of William Desmond Taylor, one of their directors.
Following this case, in which Miss Minter's name and letters were mentioned conspicuously, the public reception of her pictures was watched closely. "South of Suva," her first picture distributed after the murder, did not indicate any great amount of popular favor, and following the release of "The Cowboy and the Lady," Adolph Zukor, president of Famous Players, did not feel justified in renewing Miss Minter's contract, which was said to be bringing her $230,000 a year.
She is now working on her last picture for this organization, a film version of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," which will probably be finished this month. Her plans after that are uncertain.
Her departure from Famous Players-Lasky means the end of an elaborate campaign on their part to develop an actress who would take the place in their galaxy of stars left by Mary Pickford. She was known in the industry as "a synthetic star."
Wanda Hawley likewise ends her association with Famous Players this year. Miss Hawley appeared last opposite Rudolph Valentino in "The Young Rajah," and before that appeared in "Burning Sands." Alice Brady and May McAvoy are the only players now left from the group of players affiliated with Famous Players.

MORNING NEWS
OVER THE WIRES
At a gathering under the auspices of the Empire Club in Toronto yesterday, Sir Henry Thornton addressed the largest audience he had ever faced. He refused to accept any promise as to the location of the headquarters of the Canadian National Railways. He wished to win the confidence of the public and the railway employees by fair dealing, he said. Sir Henry will deliver a short address at the Winter Fair in Amherst while on his way through that town.
Godfrey Gallant, an employee of the C. N. R. at Moncton, received word today that his son, Clifford, is in the Union Avenue Hospital at Framingham, Mass., as a result of injuries sustained when hit by a train. No particulars were given.
Representatives from amateur clubs in future he said, at any meeting must be amateurs in good standing. No other person will be permitted to represent a club.
Trans-Canada Highway.
A meeting of the New Brunswick Automobile Association this afternoon at 3 o'clock will be addressed by Dr. James P. Doolittle, president of the Canadian Good Roads Association, who arrived in the city yesterday. He will speak on the matter of a Trans-Canada highway. The first road sign of the highway was unveiled last Monday in Halifax. Among those present were T. P. Regan, president, and J. C. Berrie, secretary-treasurer of the New Brunswick Automobile Association. Dr. Doolittle spoke in Halifax and Amherst and got the promise of the Nova Scotia Automobile Association to put sign boards on the roads from Halifax to the New Brunswick border. He hopes to get a similar promise from New Brunswick.
