A GREAT CONVENTION.

THE LARGEST MEETING EVER HELD BY THE REPUBLICANS IN STATE CONVENTION.

What the Planks are in the Platform They Have Adopted.

By MEMBERS TO THE GAZETTE. BOSTON, Sept. 25.—The State convention of the Republican party met today, being one of the largest and most interesting ever held.

They adopted a platform favoring the extinguishing of the national debt by the purchase of bonds, a vigorous foreign policy, rigid civil service reform, sound currency, the cessation of silver coinage, the reduction of the tariff, an equitable revision of the tariff, the maintenance of protection, but with adjustment to meet the changed business condition in New England and elsewhere; a national law protecting voters and ballots, a liberal pension policy, aid to steamship lines, the building up of the navy, national and state aid to education—personal hostility to the saloon power and the defense and support of public schools.

THE GREAT STATIONER. RECORDS OF THE FIVE GREAT STATIONS WHO TRAVELLED TO BOSTON YESTERDAY.

These five great stations who travel to Boston awaiting the call of the judge's bell for today's great event have never been given at length publicity, and is given in the Herald to-day for the first time.

Nelson, who went to New England to record the greatest of the lot, has a record of 214. He was foaled June 12, 1882, bred by Charles H. Nelson of Waterbury, Me., got by Young Boats, 2:21, dam Gretchen (dam of Susie Owen, 2:28 and others) by Golden, son of Rysdyck's Hambletonian dam, Kate by Hills and Vermont Black Hawk. The dam of Young Role was Judith, by Draco, second dam Lady Bala, by Risco, a once noted Maine station, owned by Mr. W. P. Balch. Nelson stands nearly 16 hands and weighs about 1100. His make like most of the best of the breed, his action is marvellous. At the Maine state fair, September 25, 1888, he first appeared, winning both the cups for stationing of all ages and for 3-year-olds, in 2:20, the fastest mile ever made by a 3-year-old up to that time on a half mile track. He was sold to the time for that age outside of California and Kentucky. Previous to that time on Aug. 3, 1888, he won a race at Lexington, Mass., over the Maxmillian in 2:26, 2:48, 2:46, and on Sept. 15 he won a race from Lawrence in 2:20, 2:21. At Lexington, on Sept. 24 of the same year, he had a walk over for 3-year-olds in 2:20. In his 3-year-old form he got 10 colts, five of them state winners, and did not appear on the turf, but had a busy business all the year.

ALYON.—A party of three sportsmen located the case of Gaspereaux station yesterday morning having spent a few days "gunning" on the South Branch of the Oronoco. The visible spots were only a brown partition, the same as the black-poor sport for three guns. There was great solitude expressed for some very heavy knapsacks, bears being reported to be in the woods, and that the supply is always much below the demand, and being so much in need of female help.

HERE AND THERE. The "Lark" for many years a peacemaker and Christian citizen, is in trouble on the charge of lapping into his mill way a man named John Miller and Maximilian in 2:26, 2:48, 2:46, and on Sept. 15 he won a race from Lawrence in 2:20, 2:21. At Lexington, on Sept. 24 of the same year, he had a walk over for 3-year-olds in 2:20. FROM HOVEL TO WEALTH.

WHAT AN EXTRAORDINARY STORY THIS IS OF RAY HAMILTON'S WIFE.

A Precocious Child in a Pennsylvania Lumber Camp—Practically Without Development of Intellect—What Was It That Fascinated a Man of Disbent Wealth to Marry Her—Her Education, Culture and Social Connections—The New Era in Her Mind and Her Home.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 21.—While Eva Hamilton was in the little attic-room of the last at May's Landing, waiting for the trial which ended the other day in her sentence to the State Prison at Trenton, she said to the Sheriff's wife: "Let me see Ray Hamilton for twenty minutes and I'll win him back, with the world against me!"

The extraordinary attraction which so depraved a creature had and has for a man of Robert Ray Hamilton's antecedents and social connections and personal refinement of mind and manner is a curious psychological study. It was worth while to trace the woman's history to her infancy, and this correspondent has done so at her birthplace, some sixty miles from this city.

It was shortly after that she met Robert Hamilton, but before that she had met Joshua Mann, whom, true to her word and innate characteristics she preferred to the gentleman who loved her so well that he married her. Here is an episode that illustrates just what she was.

The Cat and the Fox. The cat and the fox were taking a social stroll together in the forest one day discussing the traffic in domestic fowls, the probability of a financial panic as predicted by George Francis Train, a possible social uprising, etc., when the Fox said: "Let whatever may happen I am all right. I've got 1,000 fox tricks ready for any emergency."

The cat pulled out a whisker, meditatively picking her teeth with it, then, after a pause, she remarked: "Well, they would get me sure, for I have only one trick to rely upon for safety should they get after me."

"Sorry for you," said the Fox: "I would really like to teach you one or two of my tricks, but every one for himself, now you know."

Just at that moment a pack of hounds, who believed in a division of property, came up on a full cry. The cat made use of her single trick and ran up a tree quicker than a lightning calculator could compute a column of figures, but the Fox, who was not so quick, was overtaken and a division of his office immediately.

The American Starline Stone. Many years ago, at the celebration of the landing of the Pilgrims in New York city, much to Archibald Hughes' surprise he was invited to be one of the guests, and perhaps to their surprise also accepted. Among those who spoke on that occasion there was not lacking a shy deb at the church which for a part of the proceedings—but all in good fellowship. Finally the archbishop was called upon to respond to a toast, which he did in his usual happy manner, and ended by proposing "Plymouth Rock, the Starline stone of America." It was received with shouts and cheers, and the best bit of the evening.—Boston Transcript.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND FIRES.

Prince Edward Island, has never been so completely destroyed as during the past week. Aside from the Kensington conflagration, involving a loss of about $100,000, which was alluded to in yesterday's GAZETTE, great fires have raged in Ellerslie, Prince Co., destroying much valuable timber, and many large fields of grain. At Conway, in the same county, J. B. Larkin lost his house, and much valuable timber, and B. Brown's house, also in the same county, the house and mill of Bruce Wallace were completely destroyed.

At West Devon, William Arthur lost his mill and a well stocked lumber yard. The railway losses about half a mile of track, one freight car and station and platform. The track, where burnt, was completely destroyed, and the railway twisted up. Mr. Graham lost his dwelling house and its contents. Several other houses are reported as being burnt in this section. There are fears for the safety of a family named Avery, who lived in the rear of West Devon.

At St. John's several houses and barns were destroyed and miles of cedar fence. At O'Leary a steam mill and saw mill, including the post office with its contents, were wiped out by flames. The trees, all of which were cut down, in Bloomfield, Mill River, Ross and 10,0, causing an amount of destruction which at present cannot be estimated.

SPIRIT OF THE TIMES.

From Novel to Wealth.

and what were her home surroundings, and it was the events that happened at this time which the grand old Abner Hamilton may use to break forth in words that will find their way into the hearts of his readers.

Shortly after her reported marriage to Parsons, thirteen years ago, her parents removed from Berlin to Michigan, where the three years of her life were spent. Her father, who was working in the glass forests, and after a few years spent there returned to her native town. It was in 1882 that Mrs. Hamilton, who had formerly lived in Berlin, was arrested, and in 1883 she was committed to the asylum under indictment in the Wyoming County.

Her sister, Mrs. Eugene Foley, resided at this time in the suburbs of Wilkes-Barre, in a locality called the "Five Points," and received a visit from her sister Eva and John Mann. The sister quarrelled and accused each other of various unmentionable offenses. Until after the fire, she was in the city, and until she came to visit her parents who had removed from Berlin to County of Dallas, in the State of Texas.

She was about two and a half miles from the beautiful summer resort, Harvey's garden, where the house in which her parents reside is built of marble with columns and arches. That the attempt to take one life of Atlantic City saved two other lives of very little doubt now. The vulgar brawl between two women prevented the commission of a double murder, and the pulling back that had been intended, and the pulling back that had been intended, and the pulling back that had been intended.

The president heir to the Hamilton estate given his quietus, the competitor could enjoy the fruit of his cunningly contrived and almost successful plot. The Hamiltons, who were in the city, were destroyed in a flash all the planning of these years, and gave the world a tale so strange, so horrible, that it would be altogether incredible were it not supported by cold incontrovertible facts.
