DEATH OF REV. WM. DOLLARD

News was received here on Tuesday of the death of Rev. Wm. Dollard, a priest who labored in St. John for several years, and who had a large circle of friends by whom he was beloved.
Father Dollard was born at Kilkenny, Ireland, on May 1st, 1861, the son of Michael Dollard and Anastasia Quinn.
His father was a nephew of the Right
Rev. Wm. Dollard, first Catholic Bishop of New Brunswick, and his mother was a sister of Rev. James Quinn and Rev. Edmond Quinn, both of whom were attached to this diocese for many years. Older residents will particularly remember Father James Quinn, who spent many years of his life in active labor in this city, and died at a good old age while parish priest at St. Stephen. Father Dollard received his early education at Waterford, and was graduated from St. John's College in that city. Coming to New Brunswick he taught a year, and then went to Laval University, Quebec.
There he was ordained deacon by the Cardinal-Archbishop of Quebec. In January, 1884, he was ordained priest
in the Cathedral here by Bishop Sweeney, and for three years labored in St. John. When Milltown was organized from St. Stephen, Father Dollard was placed in charge of St. Stephen, where he lived for a long time and was exceedingly popular with the people.
Then for a year or more he was on the staff of St. Joseph's College Memram-cook, and afterwards was given the parish of Johnville, Carleton Co. A few years ago he went to Maine, and latterly had been laboring at South Brewer, his death taking place at the rectory there. He had been ill for some time.

Father Dollard was a man of varied attainments—an eloquent preacher,
a brilliant lecturer, and a pleasing writer in poetry and prose. By numerous friends throughout the province his death will be very deeply regretted.
Among his surviving relatives is his brother, Rev. J. B. Dollard, of Toronto
diocese, priest and poet.

Bangor Commercial, Aug. 21: The death of Rev. William Dollard, assistant to Rev. Father Gorman, rector of St. Teresa's Catholic church in South
Brewer, occurred very suddenly at 6 o'clock on Tuesday morning, the cause of his death being heart failure. For the few days past he had complained of being unwell and was confined to his room. No serious apprehensions were entertained in regard to his condition and his death came as a great shock to his friends and parishioners.
Father Gorman previous to January
last was not acquainted with the deceased, he having been appointed to the South Brewer assistantcy seven months ago. Father Dollard had been engaged for the past few months in arranging for the Saint Teresa's lawn
party which was to have taken place on the church grounds this week and the manifold cares of this work, coupled with his extensive duties at the church, is thought to have something to do with his condition, as he was known not to have been very rugged. While in this city Father Dollard made many friends and was beloved by his people. Father Gorman paid an excellent tribute of appreciation of his ability and personality and the South Brewer church has sustained a great loss. The arrangements for the funeral have not yet been completed and will be announced later. The lawn party has been postponed until next week.

HOUSE OF COMMONS SAT UP ALL NIGHT

London, Aug. 21.—With the Irish Nationalists wide awake and nearly everybody else asleep after a bit-long session, the House of Commons at 3:30 this morning commenced the consideration of the House of Lords amendments to the evicted tenants' bill.
Practically all the changes introduced in the bill by the Upper House were rejected and at 7:45 a.m.
the weary legislators went to bed after appointing a committee to confer with the Lords and attempt to arrange the differences.

A LOOK BEYOND THE PARISH HORIZON.

In a recent pastoral Archbishop Ireland writes: "It may well be questioned whether Catholics in America have had adequate consciousness of the interest they should take in the welfare of the Universal Church—
especially in the Sovereign Pontificate, which so vitally sums up in itself the life and the action of the whole organism, and without which several parts severed one from another and deprived of co-ordination and direction, soon should weaken and die. We are, it might seem, absorbed in the parish,
or the diocese, were the whole Church,
as if either could exist or flourish of its own vigor and initiative. It is as if in social and civil matters we never looked beyond the village, or the city, and cared little for the nation, of which the village and the city are mere local manifestations, and without which the village and the city retain neither authority nor life. The life of any part of the Church springs
from the life of the whole organism.
The glory of any part of the Church
is but the glory of the whole organism, of its wondrous universality over space and time, of its oneness in faith and government not withstanding its universality. Every diocese, or a parish, every member of a diocese or a parish is entitled to say—it is mine, the whole Catholic Church, the Catholic Church of all ages and of all peoples, the Catholic

Over 2100 persons attended St.
Peter's and Holy Trinity church pic-

was realized.

His Eminence Cardinal Rampolla,
has presented the Basilica of St.
Peter's with a splendid portable altar,
rich with malachite and other precious marbles, to be used on the great Feasts
when Mass is celebrated before the Pa-

tributed largely to the new organ which was used for the first time on the feasts of SS. Peter and Paul.

WOODSTOCK PICNIC.

The Catholic picnic held on Tuesday last, August 13th, on the grounds adjoining St. Gertrude's church, was one of the most successful ever held there. The weather was fine, the at-

pastor there, Rev. F. J. McMurray, realized over $700 at the picnic.

THE PAPAL DELEGATE TO HIS HOLINESS THE POPE.

On the occasion of the fourth anniversary of the election of the Holy Father, Pius X. to the Pontifical throne, His Excellency the Most Rev. Donatus Sbarretti, Apostolic Delegate to Canada, sent a cablegram to the Sovereign Pontiff expressing the homage and devotion of Canadian Catholics to his august person and asking for them the Apostolic Benediction.

His Excellency received the following message from His Eminence the Cardinal Secretary of State:

Rome, Aug. 5th, 1907.

His Excellency the Apostolic Delegate, Ottawa, Canada.

The Holy Father is grateful for your expression of filial sentiments and grants his blessing to you and to the Canadian Catholics.

Card. Merry Del Val.

It is a matter of great consolation to all the members of the Church in the Dominion of Canada to witness the love and harmony existing between His Excellency the Papal Delegate, the Archbishops, Bishops, priests and laity. The bond which holds in its embrace all these beautiful attributes has not been forged by expediency. It is the outcome of a spiritual affection which has for long been given a healthy growth in the Lord's vineyard by the wise and prudent and withal affectionate administration of the late Delegate Mgr. Falconio, and continued in a marked degree by the distinguished and fatherly representative of the Holy See who is with us at present. The faith of Canadian Catholics is intelligent and active. They give to God and God's Church what belongs to God, and to Caesar that which belongs to Caesar. While Catholics may differ on matters political—matters of public policy—they know when their religion is attacked, and will always resent such attack, let it come from any Party or State or Government. Enjoying the utmost freedom in both Church and State, Canadian Catholics are grateful to God for such a blessing and are determined to preserve that freedom, knowing that in this way they can serve their God in a more perfect manner, and become Canadians in the true sense of the term, taking their full share in building up a free, a happy and a prosperous country.—Catholic Record.

HAPPINESS IN NUMBERS.

(Hon. James Bryce, in the August Atlantic.)

Additions to the number of the human race are popularly treated as if they were an undoubted benefit. We see every nation and every community within a nation, down to a village just planted on a prairie, regarding its own increase as something to be proud of. The eagerness with which cities watch each successive census return for a record of their population is familiar and nowhere so familiar as in this country. But is the increase of the race any gain to the race? The population of Europe is probably three or four times, that of North America probably twenty times, as large as it was two centuries ago. This proves that there is much more food available for the support of life, much more production of all sorts of commodities, and in particular an immense increase in the area of land used for producing food and with an improvement in the methods of extracting food from the land. So the growth of a city like Boston or Chicago proves that there has been an immense increase in industry. Men work harder, or at any rate more efficiently and have far more appliances for production at their command. Whether they live happier lives is another matter.

HIS OVERSIGHT.

"She doesn't like you very well."
"I wonder why? The last time I spent the evening with her I praised her music and her educational attainments to the skies."
"I know you did, and you never once told her she was pretty."

Sorrow is God's accolade. It is the sword stroke which bids us rise up God's knights, ready ever to draw words in His service.

FIRST PICTURE OF THE MASS.

One of the decorations of the main altar of Harrisburg's new cathedral is a panel modeled after a fresco discovered by Wilpert in Capella Greca, in the Roman Catacombs, which dates from the first quarter of the first century. Seven people are pictured at a table, at the head of which sits the bishop. He is in the act of breaking bread, offering sacrifice according to the new law. On the table is a two-handled chalice cup, a dish with five loaves and one with two fishes. The original of this panel is the oldest representation of the mass.

DELAYED DELIVERY.

From Glenelg, St. Mary's, we have the following: "I shall certainly give up taking the Eastern Chronicle as my Tuesday's paper does not get to Glenelg office until Friday evening, then coming from Sherbrooke. Please inquire into this matter at once."

There is no use inquiring. A newspaper is at the mercy of the Post Office and lately it has acted as the determined enemy of the newspapers. It has practically ruined the United States circulation of Canadian newspapers, particularly of small papers like the Eastern Chronicle. If our indignant subscriber, and we don't blame him for being indignant, would get at his member of parliament he might help himself and us. There is no reason why he should not get his Tuesday's Chronicle the same evening.—Eastern Chronicle, New Glasgow.

MR. W. H. TRUEMAN HAS RESIGNED

Mr. Walter H. Trueman, reporter of the Equity Court, has tendered his resignation, to take effect on the 5th of September, when the new term begins. Mr. Trueman has held the position for the past twelve years and has done excellent service, providing splendid reports. The position is worth $500 and there are fees, etc., that net from $100 to $200 more per year. Talking with the Globe, Mr. Trueman said his only reason for giving up the position was that he felt he had held it long enough and that it was well to make a change.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND.

The Rev. J. B. McDonald, of Grafton, North Dakota, arrived in the city Thursday night, Aug. 15, for a few weeks' vacation, and went to Soutis Friday afternoon. Father McDonald is one of several young clergymen which this diocese has given to the West. He is a son of Leo McDonald, formerly of Minnis' Road, East Point, but who has been a resident of North Dakota, for the last eight years. Father McDonald has a younger brother in the priesthood, Rev. Alexander McDonald, of Sheldon, N. D. These young men, together with Revs. Augustine and John McDonald, sons of the late Charles McDonald, of Orwell, Rev. S. J. Arsenault, son of the late Senator Arsenault, of Wellington, and other Island priests, are doing good work in their extensive field of labor in the West, and their services are highly appreciated by their bishops. The Rev. J. B. McDonald is a man of great energy. He has already built several churches and parochial houses during the time he has been in North Dakota, and he is at present engaged in the erection of a handsome church in Grafton, which will be fully completed this fall. It is eight years since Father McDonald last visited his native province, and we trust that he may thoroughly enjoy his holiday amidst the scenes of his earlier years.—Charlotte-town Patriot.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL.

Mrs. T. B. O'Reilly, of Philadelphia, who has been visiting her uncle, Captain Hayes, Lancaster Heights, has returned home.

Miss Ada White is the guest at the home of her brother, Mr. James E. White, Moncton.

Mr. A. H. Lindsay, of the I. C. R. Moncton, was in town this week. Mrs. Lindsay is at the Bay Shore.

Miss Mary Dalton, Newcastle, N. B., entered the novitiate of the Sisters of St. Joseph at Peterboro, Ont., on Thursday last.

Mr. Harry Quigley returned to his home in Atchison, Kansas, Monday, after a two months visit with his aunts, the Misses Quigley, Newcastle.

HER LIMITATIONS.

She was versed in Greek and Latin,
She was versed in German, too;
She was versed in all the classics,
And the poets old and new.
She had studied art and music,
And in culture she was graced;
But I note her weary husband
Had to button up her waist.
She could talk of bygone heroes,
She could tell offhand their names;
She could tell when Rome was founded
—And the date it fell in flames.
She could tell of styles and fashions
At a mile a minute rate;
But she had to ask her husband
If her hat was pinned on straight.

DELIGHTFUL OCEAN TRIPS.

St. John to Boston Offers a Choice of Direct or Coastwise Excursions.

As in years past, August finds many embracing the excellent opportunities afforded by the International Division of the Eastern Steamship Company to visit Boston and other New England ports, and with the magnificent new turbine express steamship Yale performing the direct service, St. John to Boston, in addition to the regular service, this steamboat traffic has been given a greater impetus than ever. The tide of travel on these lines is steadily increasing, and according to all indications will continue—September doubtless witnessing a still larger patronage.

The sailings from St. John of the Yale are Tuesdays and Saturdays at 7 p. m., and for the return trips from Boston on Mondays and Thursday at 12 o'clock noon.

Coastwise steamers for Boston, the Calvin Austin and Bay State, leave St. John on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 8 a. m., stopping at Lubec, Eastport and Portland. For the return trip the leaving time at Boston (Union wharf), is 9 a. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Friday.

THE TELEGRAPHERS STRIKE IS WITHOUT JUSTIFICATION

(New York Times.)

In the whole history of labor troubles there have been few strikes so unreasonably ill-judged, and senselessly managed as that of the telegraph operators. Among the strikers themselves there was so little agreement about their "grievances," so little understanding of the nature of the demands to be made, that the officers of the local union had not made up their minds that they ought to be a strike until after the operators had actually walked out. Then they came forward with a belated pledge of "support." The ostensible cause or pretext of the strike, the discharge of nine operators for cause, is too absurd to permit of discussion. When trades unionism pushes its demands to the extreme of insisting that the case of faithless and delinquent employees must be "arbitrated" before any order of discharge is issued, it is evident that an acceptance of that principle by employers would be a complete surrender of their right to control their own business. The demand for an eight-hour day and 15 per cent. increase of wages, coming only a few months after a 10 per cent. increase of wages, is unjustified either by the business outlook or by prevailing rates in other employments. Moreover, this demand is made in a manner so irregular, without giving the employing company proper opportunity to consider and act upon it, that a strike for such a reason must appear to the public as nothing more than an attempt to demonstrate the power of the organization.

The conditions under which the strike has come about imperatively forbid the companies to yield. Not only do their own interests and their own safety compel them to resist unreasonable demands which the men seek to enforce by methods even more undesirable, but considerations of public interest and of duty to the community must constrain them firmly to maintain their position. The men act without the slightest regard to the convenience of the public or to the necessities of business. But at this dull season of the year both the companies and the public are in a position to put up with the annoyances incident to the strike much more easily, we imagine, than the operators themselves can put up with the loss of wages, particularly when, in the case of many of them, this loss promises to be permanent. If he be thrice armed who has his quarrel just, strikers whose procedure has been so wholly unjust and unreasonable must be pretty nearly disarmed. At least, the striking operators have deprived themselves of that arm without which few strikes have ever been successful—the support of public opinion.

Those who disbelieve in virtue because man has never been found perfect might as reasonably deny the sun because it is not always noon.

Winifred Lane and Josiah Dent had been lovers since their A B C days. For seventeen years now she had worn the ring he had sold his first coat to buy. Together they had "stood up" for her brother Dick and Eliza at Dick's first wedding, while all the assembled company commented upon them and looked forward to another wedding.

Her father's falling health had brought the first postponement. Then Dick came home a widower and his delicate baby became "Aunt Winnie's" charge. Dick's second marriage had brought a gleam of hope. But Julia Rebecca declined to live on the farm, and Dick bought a place in another town, leaving to his sister the care of her mother and the farm. Six years later Mother Lane and Julia Rebecca had both died in the same week, and Dick, cheerfully consigning his orphan brood to his sister's care, had taken an extended trip west.

Through it all Josiah had waited patiently, declaring always when Winifred offered him his release that there was but one woman in the world for him, and Winifred had settled down to cheerful performance of daily duty, brightened by the "some day" that would yet be hers.

The patiently awaited day seemed near at hand on this dull November afternoon. Richard Lane had unexpectedly appeared at his sister's home accompanied by his third wife, and without any unnecessary delay had taken his children to the western town in which he was located.

Miss Lane stood on the front veranda and watched the loaded wagon drive away. "Dick hasn't had any kind of luck with wives so far, but I've a notion this will last," she said aloud as she went slowly indoors.

How still it was! The children's voices seemed to echo through the empty rooms. Winifred's eyes filled with scalding tears.

"Yes," she said in a tone which held both regret and relief, "they're gone for good, and I s'pose I'm free at last. Of course he'll hear," she continued presently. "Maybe he'll be over to-night. I'd better tidy up."

Miss Lane lit the parlor lamp and, after a little hesitation, pinned on her best lace collar. "I'll do no harm even if nobody comes," she argued to herself.

But the clock struck 8 and 9, and no one came. "He hasn't heard yet," she assured herself as she went to bed.

The vigil was repeated the next evening and the next. Winifred became perplexed.

"When Dick married his second, Josiah was here before tea time," she reflected. "But I won't begin to worry until Sunday," she sensibly determined. "Josiah'll be at church, and he'll hear about Dick."

Sunday was ushered in with a drizzling rain, but in the afternoon the sun shone bravely. Miss Lane went to evening service attired in the neat gray dress and bonnet which had been purchased for her brother's second wedding, twelve years ago. Feeling lonely, she gladly accepted an invitation from the minister's wife to a seat in the front pew. She could not see Josiah, but she felt his presence two pews behind, and his deep voice in the hymns sent thrills of pride to her loving heart.

With pardonable coquetry, she lingered a little going out. A casual glance through the open door assured her that he was waiting in the entry as of old. She had nearly reached him. In another minute she would have slipped her hand within his arm with the fond assurance of ownership when a blond head, surmounted by a bright red turban, came between them, and Josiah went down the steps with pretty Nettle Searies clinging to his arm.

Miss Lane walked home through the starlight alone. Lighting the lamp, she went directly to a mirror and gazed long and thoughtfully at the reflection within, comparing it with the girlish prettiness of the face beneath the red turban. The glass refused to flatter. The angular form, the careworn brow and hollow cheeks, the lines about the patient mouth, all spoke of burdens borne and labor accomplished.

"It isn't to be wondered at," Winifred said, with a sigh, as she stirred the low fire and settled down to retrospection and consideration.

"My best years have gone and I've got dull and uninteresting in all this time."

Her first thought was one of renunciation. The freedom she had offered in years gone by she would freely give now. But she thought of the future and hesitated. Not on her own behalf—self had been put entirely out of the question from the first. But as she remembered tales of Mrs. Searies' housekeeping and the flippant remarks

she had heard from Nettie's lips she felt suddenly impelled to warfare on Josiah's behalf.

"Red cheeks and dimples can't insure a comfortable home," Miss Lane decided sagely. "If it was any nice girl that's been well brought up I wouldn't hesitate a minute. But all Bloomville knows that Nettie's reputation for dressing and flirting far outdoes her skill in housekeeping. I've no right to shrink from trying to save Josiah from a miserable home. His one hope is in my holdin' him fast to our engagement, and, talk or no talk, I'm going to do it."

"I'll spend the winter with Cousin Emma," she decided. "There ain't a soul in Bloomville knows her address. Dick says she don't look within a dozen years as old as I do, and she's a year older. She always was real tasty. Maybe I can pick up a few hints from her. Looks and dresses and general up-to-dateness makes lots of difference to a man."

All the next day she toiled steadily setting her house in order. And Tuesday morning while waiting for the expressman she penned a note to her recreant lover:

Dearest Josiah—I write to inform you that I am well and expect to spend this winter in the city. I leave today, so I shall not have the pleasure of seeing you before I go. But you will be constantly in my thoughts, and your ring, as always, will be my reminder of our engagement. Yours until death. WINIFRED

"It will show him that I'm holdin' him fast," meditated Miss Lane as the train sped cityward. "And as I didn't give any address, he won't know where to write. He isn't one to go very far with that Searies girl until he breaks with me. And he can't break with me until he finds out where to send a letter."

Bloomville was golden with dandelions and white with apple blossoms when Winifred Lane came home to her own. "Not a soul knows I've come," she reflected as she unpacked the new trunk. She sighed suddenly. "Well by tomorrow I shall know. He's had the winter to consider in, and if he's still set upon it I'll give him up."

Josiah Dent came up the church steps with a look of discontent upon his comely face. In the months that had passed since Winifred's disappearance he had nursed a growing sense of injury.

"Tain't fair," he complained, "keeping a fellow on the fence so. Her best years have been spent for Dick anyhow, and a woman ages faster'n a man. If she'd given me her address, I'd have settled it months ago."

Josiah went up the aisle to his own pew. Above the high back of the minister's pew there arose a white sailor hat, swathed with an airy muslin scarf. Beneath it soft waves of curling hair rippled across a brow from which all traces of care had been resolutely smoothed away.

Josiah, watching with some curiosity until she turned her head slightly, caught the clear profile and noted the soft color in her cheek. It was Winifred! All at once there dawned upon him the truth that immortal youth is not at the mercy of added years and that better than the passing beauty of girlhood is that womanliness which shall outlast the ages.

"I'm glad I didn't know where to write," thought Josiah, with a sense of narrow escape and a growing feeling of anxiety.

Winifred was unaware of his presence until she heard his voice in the closing hymn. As the last notes ceased she turned to him, smiling straight up into his anxious face.

"Well, Josiah," she said.

And Josiah wondered why he had not known before that raiment, whether it be the unbecoming gray of past years or the crisp muslin that seemed to give back to him the love of his early years, was not worthy of a passing thought. It was the old Winifred who smiled up at him out of those clear eyes. Nettie Searies and the throng about them were alike forgotten. He only thought of the woman before him—the only woman in the world for him—and all Bloomville had its answer to a long winter of speculation and comment as he stooped to kiss her in the crowded church. Winifred Lane's best years were yet to come.

"The March of the Men of Harlech."

In military music the march occupies a prominent position and has been employed not only to stimulate courage, but also from about the middle of the seventeenth century to insure the orderly advance of troops. One of the earliest instances of rhythmical march is the Welsh war strain, "The March of the Men of Harlech," which is supposed to have originated during the siege of Harlech castle in 1468. In England the military march was of somewhat later development. Sir John Hawkins in his "History of Music" tells us that its characteristic was dignity and gravity, in which respect it differed greatly from the French, which was brisk and alert, and apropos of this subject the same author quotes a witty reply of an Elizabethan soldier to the French Marshal Biron's remark that "the English march, being beaten by the drum, is slow, heavy and sluggish." "That may be true,"

he said, "but slow as it is it has traversed your master's country from one end to the other." — Chambers' Journal.

The Tragedies of Paris.

From 1,000 to 2,500 bodies are received in the morgue in Paris every year. These represent suicides and murders and not the deaths that occur in the ordinary course of events. And of these self slaughters nearly half are drownings, which means that every day at least two persons jump into the Seine; two poor wretches who have failed to find life worth living. In the months of October and November suicides by drowning in Paris are double what they are the remainder of the year. The prospect of having to suffer the hardships of another winter, begging about in the cold and sleeping out in the snow, is too much for many a fate cursed wanderer. An interesting fact revealed by the suicide statistics of Paris is that women show a decided dislike to drowning as a means of violent death. Four times as many men as women are fished out of the Seine. The records show that asphyxiation is the favorite way with the weaker sex for "shuffling off this mortal coil" when it has ceased to be bearable.

PICNICS.

The annual picnic of St. Peter's and Holy Trinity parishes took place Wednesday Aug. 14, at Torryburn. With beautiful weather and arrangements, under the direction of Rev. Jos. Borgman, C. S. R., the picnic was a decided success. A large line of children, headed by the City Cornet Band, and presenting a fine appearance, marched from St. Peter's church to the depot, where they boarded the morning train at 10.30 o'clock. Many favorable comments were heard regarding the little ones. Large numbers went out on the afternoon trains. Competent committees had charge of the various refreshment tables, games and sports, and all received steady patronage. The Managing Committee are to be congratulated on the grand results of their labors—both financially and the orderly manner in which everything was carried out.

St. Rose's Church picnic, Fairville, was held on the church grounds on Tuesday. A large number attended. The usual sports and games were well patronized. In the evening the grounds were brilliantly illuminated attracting large crowds and making the enjoyable affair very successful.

The private picnic of the Young Men's Society of St. Joseph was held on Tuesday, at Watter's Landing.

Monday's Globe.

A FRIENDLY PAPER.

The Moncton Transcript, which is keeping up a small bore fusillade at this very peaceful journal, says:

Many people have expressed some surprise at the attitude of the Globe towards the provincial government. This, however, is not a new feature, for it has been hostile to the provincial government for many years.

It is somewhat remarkable that a thing which has been going on for many years should be a surprise, but if the Transcript says it is, that ends it. The statement that the Globe has been hostile to the provincial government for many years is however an error, due probably to the somewhat disordered imagination of our contemporary, owing to recent events. The Globe has been patient and friendly beyond measure to the local administration, has given it good advice, has earnestly appealed to it to govern the province honestly and economically and has urged upon it to keep the financial expenditure within the bounds of the public income. In addition to all of this it bears the constant goading of the provincial premier's home organ with philosophic calmness. What better evidence is needed of true friendliness?

Goodness of heart is man's brightest honor and noblest acquisition. It is that ray of Divinity which dignifies humanity.

It is not work that kills men; it is worry. Work is healthy. You can hardly put more upon a man than he can bear. Worry is rust on the blade.

Half a gallon of beer a day and ten shillings a week cash money, are the perquisites of the British brewer's drayman. He may drink the beer or take it home as he pleases.

HEALTH OF

SCHOOL CHILDREN.

The growing interest taken in Germany in the health of school children is evidenced by the appointment of 18 school physicians, in Munich and in Elberfeld. Many other cities have followed the example of Wiesbaden, which in 1896 was the first to appoint a school doctor. In Wurtemberg the authorities have even extended the system to the high schools. In Austria it has just been ordered that candidates for teachers' positions must be examined in the subject of school hygiene. Throughout Germany efforts are being made to equip the teachers of the lowest grades of the public schools in matters of health. The installation of showerbaths in each school is being carried out as a matter of course, wherever this is possible. Two cities have already followed the example of Charlottenburg in establishing a school in the woods near the city, in which may be taught children suffering from chronic diseases who are not physically able to take the regular course, but, on the other hand, are not hospital patients or unable to study at all. During the Summer months, this "wood-school," as it is called, has kept open all day, the children being fed there. The American system of fresh air-trips is also being imitated in Germauy, special attention being paid to delicate children. In Kolberg, the popular bathing place on the Baltic, there was opened this Summer a school sanatorium to which were sent child patients from many places.

THE VALUE OF TIME.

One of the most important lessons to be learned by every man who would get on in his calling is the art of economizing time. A celebrated Italian was wont to call his time his estate; and it is true of this as of other estates of which the young come into possession, that it is rarely prized till it is nearly squandered; and then, when life is fast waning, they begin to think of spending the hours wisely, and even husbanding the moments. Unfortunately, habits of indolence, listlessness, and procrastination, once firmly fixed, cannot be suddenly thrown off; and the man who has wasted the precious hours of life's seed-time finds that he cannot reap a harvest in life's autumn. It is a truism which cannot be too often repeated, that lost wealth may be replaced by industry, lost knowledge by study, lost health by temperance or medicine, but lost time is gone forever. The men who effect great achievements bring about wonderful results mostly by steady, unremitting toil, by turning even the moments to account. They have the genius for hard work, the most desirable kind of genius.

RECONSTRUCTING THE FRENCH CHURCH.

The French Bishops are losing no time in putting their house in order. The Separation Act has brought them poverty, but with poverty freedom, at least comparatively. They are using their freedom to prepare a pious, intellectual clergy by reorganizing their system of Seminary studies. The heads of all the great Seminaries have formed a Union for the discussion and arrangement of questions affecting the training of candidates for the priesthood. Among other important decisions, already arrived at is one to secure for the more brilliant candidates a full training in theology, viewed in its highest aspects: No pains will be spared to put the young levites into possession of all that modern intellectual research has discovered, and to fit them to expound and defend the dogmatic teachings of the Church in the light of modern methods and against all modern attacks. The bishops, though sadly hampered for want of laborers in the vineyard, are co-operating zealously, and are resolved to give every student of competent ability the fullest opportunity of benefiting by this course of higher theological training. The result can only be good, for French infidels will not care to meet men in argument whose intellectual powers are more than a match for their sophistries.

MAY BE GREAT WATERING RESORT.

C. P. R. control of the Shore Line Railway will likely result in the building up of the many attractive seaside resorts along this line. The finest of these is the New River beach, which is one of the best beaches along the whole Atlantic coast. It is upwards of a mile in length, and affords excellent facilities for bathing along its whole length, while the harbor is a splendid one. On several occasions C. P. R. managers have visited this beach and it is believed its beauties and possibilities were among the influences that led to the acquisition of the Shore Line. The place has all the natural advantages of a much better beach. It will not be surprising if in a very short time a move is made towards creating at New River a great watering resort, and it may be that it will in a few years grow to be as popular and as fashionable as any along the coast. That something of that nature is already in the minds of the C. P. R. managers is believed, and when their new property is put in good shape this new development is likely to follow.

BIRD PERCHED ON HIS GUN.

"Whippoor-will, whip-poor-will." Before daybreak a bird's notes awoke Louis Reutler, who had sought rest at Lake Wonsunfunok, a few miles from Winsted, Conn. Reutler became peevish, got his shotgun and fired at the whip-poor-will, perched on a tree outside his bedroom.

Reutler, recently proprietor of the Beardsley House, was nearly asleep, when—

"Whip-poor-will, whip-poor-will."

Quite angry, Reutler shot at the bird again. The third time he fired the whip-poor-will flew to him, alighted on his gunbarrel and sang sweetly:

"Whip-poor-will."

Reutler went to the lake and plunged in to cool himself off.

A bright little girl in one of the Washington public schools applied to her teacher recently for leave to be absent half a day on the plea that her mother had received a telegram stating that company was on the way.

"It's my father's half sister and her four boys," explained the little girl, somewhat anxiously, "and mother doesn't see how she can get along without me around the house."

DEATHS AND BURIALS.

The funeral of Mr. John Walsh was held Saturday morning at 8.30 o'clock from his residence, 372 Ludlow street, West side, and was largely attended. Before leaving the house Rev. J. J. O'Donovan recited prayers. The remains were then brought over to Holy Trinity church, where Rev. E. Scully, C. SS. R., celebrated Requiem High Mass, Rev. J. J. O'Donovan was deacon, and Rev. A. J. O'Neill, of Silver Falls, sub-deacon. Rev. A. W. Meahan was master of ceremonies. In the sanctuary were Very Rev. W. F. Chapman, V. G., Revs. A. Duke, C. SS. R., J. H. Borgmann, C. SS. R., and D. S. O'Keefe. After Mass the remains were conveyed to the new Catholic cemetery, where the burial service was read by Rev. J. J. Walsh, and interment was made.

Mrs. Johanna Cullinan, widow of Mr. Edward Cullinan, died Saturday at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. M. L. Peters, 17 Peters street, in the 82nd year of her age. She is survived by two daughters and one son. They are Mrs. John Kelly, Mrs. Peters and Mr. Peter Cullinan.

Cardinal Gotti, prefect to the Congregation of Propaganda, has written to the bishop of Cleveland, O. in answer to a petition sent to Rome by a number of Italian Catholics of Youngstown, concerning the appointment of a new pastor for St. Anthony's parish. The cardinal states that the appeal cannot be considered, and that they must obey the orders of Bishop Horstmann, of the Cleveland diocese.

SOME QUERIES FOR THE BRETHERN.

Open confession, so good for the soul, is beneficial even for an institution. This time it's "United Presbyterian" of Pittsburg, Pa., that admits the necessity of religion in primary schools asking: "Is Protestantism failing in the religious training of the children?—If the Bible and religious instruction are to be excluded from our public schools and in large measure from our colleges, as it is from many of our homes, what will become of the religious culture of mind and heart? Can our Sabbath schools be depended on? Is the character of the instruction there imparted such as to encourage the hope that its pupils have clearly defined knowledge of the truth? Is the experience of teachers such as to lead to the belief that the pupils have anything like a systematic knowledge of the doctrines of grace as revealed in the Scriptures? There is certainly strong reason for believing that from the family altar and the place of secret prayer, through all the gradations of secular instruction, the culture of the spiritual side of the child is far from what it ought to be."

Hon. Edward Blake and Mrs. Blake arrived in Montreal last week from England and left for Toronto. Mr. Blake as a result of his recent stroke of paralysis is unable to walk.

DOUBLY QUALIFIED.

They had looked soulfully into each other's eyes for some time, but somehow he didn't seem to come to the point. Then suddenly he made a discovery.

"You have your mother's beautiful eyes, dear," he said.

She felt that the time had come to play her trump card.

I have also," she said, "my father's lovely cheque book."

Within thirty minutes the engagement was announced.

CARDINALS ARE PASSING AWAY.

(New York World.)

Rome, Aug. 11.—There is a Roman tradition that Cardinals die three at a time.

Cardinal Svampa, the Archbishop of Bologna, died yesterday, and Cardinals Nocella and Cretoni are reported to be near death. It is believed that two other Cardinals have not long to live.

Cardinal Svampa was fifty-six years old. Before the election of the present Pope he was spoken of as the probable successor of Leo XIII. Now that he is dead and that two other Italian Cardinals are nearing their end, there is much speculation about their successors. The last appointments were all from among the Italians, and the Pope was informed from many parts of the world that Italians get too large a representation in the Sacred College in proportion to the number of church members in Italy.

There is no possibility that any new French Cardinal will be created because of the troubles of the church in that country, but it is more than probable that the English, Spanish, Austrian and German contingent in the Sacred College will be considerably increased.

Argentina is likely to get a Cardinal in the person of the Archbishop of Buenos Ayres, and the Pope may have to yield to the demands of several other South American countries that they be represented. Mexico is nearly sure of a nomination in the person of the Archbishop of Mexico City, and Archbishop Bruchesi, of Montreal, is more than likely to be elevated.

As to the United States it is predicted that Archbishop Farley, of New York, and Archbishop Ireland, of St. Paul, will be added to the number of the intimate advisers of the Sovereign Pontiff.

CAMERA RULED OUT.

The snap of the photographer in Germany is threatened with extinction after July 1 owing to the great risk he will run of being mulcted in heavy fines under the new act which will go into effect on that date. The right of all persons to the exclusive reproduction of their own features or those of their houses or belongings is by the new enactment made absolute. The law, however, permits the granting of permission by any one to a photographer to take his photo or that of his landscape or of his cattle or horses. But there is danger ahead for the amateur or professional who snapshots some one or something without previously arming himself with the necessary authorization. Prosecution and punishment may quickly follow.

Even when requested by a friend to take a photo of a room with its contents, which the owner may desire to use as a postcard, the danger is still great, for the room may contain pictures, and if these are recognizable in the photo the photographer is liable to prosecution by the artist.

A SUCCESSFUL FAIR.

The bazaar held Tuesday at Lochomond in the Agricultural Hall, in aid of All Saints Church, proved a great success. It was in charge of Mrs. Charles Jackson and Mrs. George McArthur, who had the assistance of a number of young ladies. There were lottery features, fancy work tables, candy table, etc. Mavor Sears visited the hall and addressed those present in a happy fashion. The different booths were very attractively decorated and the fortune tellers were artistically gowned. Mrs. McArthur and M. S. Jackson and their assistants worked so energetically that all the goods were disposed of, the fair netting the handsome sum of $240.

WEDDING BELLS.

The church of the Holy Rosary, St. Stephen, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday morning at six o'clock, in which the principals were Miss Mary K. Fitzmaurice, only daughter of Mrs. Edward Fitzmaurice of St. Stephen, and Mr. Michael E. Walsh of Milltown. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Thomas Lavery, pastor, in the presence of the immediate relatives of the bride and groom, two of our most estimable and popular young people. The bride was attired in white silk chiffon applique with hat to match and her bridesmaid, Miss Addie Armstrong, of Milltown, was attired in blue silk with allover trimming. The groom was supported by Mr. James Fitzmaurice, brother of the charming young bride. After the ceremony, the happy young couple returned to the home of the bride on King street, where a wedding breakfast was served, and later Mr. and Mrs. Walsh left on the Washington County for a visit to Bangor, Portland, Boston, Providence and New York. The bride's travelling costume was of black silk with hat to match. The out of town guests included Thomas Callaghan of Boston and James Walsh and daughter of Bangor. Numerous and beautiful wedding presents attested to the popularity in which both bride and groom are deservedly held.—St. Croix Courier.

The Indian's Reply.

A distinguished army officer tells a story on himself which relates to the days when he was a young lieutenant in the far west a good many years ago. He was of a party who had gone to see the Indians at Spokane Falls. Among the redskins was Chief Moses, who was fairly well educated and spoke capital English. The young lieutenant addressed Chief Moses in the Indian tongue, saying, "Moses, I have often heard of you, and I have seen your picture and your name in the newspapers, but I have never before seen you," and offering his hand, added, "I am glad to meet you." Moses scanned him from head to foot, and as the young man stood with outstretched hand the lengthening silence and stolidity of the chief were becoming painful, when old Moses at last and with great deliberation said in English, "Young man, I have never heard of you before and I have never seen your picture in the newspapers, but," he added lightly, "nevertheless I am glad to see you," and accepted his hand.

Real Forbidden Fruit.

In some countries there grows a kind of fruit belonging to the shaddock family and which is commonly called "forbidden fruit." It is similar to grape fruit, but is larger, and the inside is somewhat coarser than the delicious acid delicacy of which we are so fond. The name forbidden fruit was given on account of three dark brown stains, like finger marks, which invariably show on this variety of the shaddock. The stains are close together on one side and are believed to be the marks of Eve's fingers left as a brand on the apple whose eating caused so much trouble in the world. Forbidden fruit is much liked by people who are able to get it fresh, but so far it has not been shipped abroad as extensively as its cousins, the grape fruit and shaddock.—New York Herald.

HIS CAMPAIGN

The speaking campaign which Mr. R.
L. Borden is to conduct this fall at important points between the Atlantic and the Pacific was opened in Halifax on Tuesday evening. The conservative leader was assisted by Mr. J. G. H.
Bergeron, M. P., Montreal; Mr. J. C.
O'Mullin, and Prof. K. C. Weldon, Halifax. There was a large attendance at the meeting, over which Senator Mc-Keen presided, and there was much enthusiasm. Mr. Borden's speech was, of course, the event of the evening.

There were, Mr. Borden said, three essentials of good government: honest appropriation and expenditure of public money; appointments to the civil service, based not alone on party service;
elections free from taint of corruption.
A government was exactly what a people made it. He then went into the question of liberal pledges, appropriation and expenditure, and spoke at length on the government's voting down all efforts at investigations. He said that appointments to office were devoid
of any merit except political efficiency.
What about clean elections? He was not bigoted enough to say that the conservative party have not run elections
that are not clean. But he would confess that there was nothing like it since 1896. The government had promised to bring down a bill looking to political reform, but had not done so. He freely confessed that the law as it is is pretty stringent. With regard to saw-offs, both parties are at fault. There should be a bill to enact that no election petition can be withdrawn until sufficient reason for such action is forthcoming. It is of no use for us to cry out corruption unless we are prepared to carry out a campaign of purity. It was not good enough to shout purity and then resort to the same means as our opponents. When you are beaten see that the law is tried to the full and that men are brought to justice. Do not be content with the tools; get at some of the respectable rascals and see that a few go to the penitentiary. We may find it hard to combat certain influences in our own party, as some might like to adhere to the methods of the other party.

Thorough and complete reformation of the civil service law was needed. He did not believe that the competitive system was best; with some appointments notably it can never apply. Then he came to the Senate and its reform.
He realized the dangers of an elective
Senate, but it may be forced upon us.
No such important change should be made without the consent of the provinces. He stood for a reform which would make it a representative body.
As regards immigration, Mr. Borden was of the opinion that the east should share in the influx of new settlers;
quality rather than quantity was our requisite. Abolition of the bonus system and a rigid inspection of newcomers was also his policy. He believed in the management of the public domain in the interest of the people.

Touching on the government-owned railways, he said that the I. C. R. had not proved a very flattering testimonial to that system. But he would say that a denial to govern a railway is to deny ourselves the right of self-government.
The I. C. R. should be freed from all partisan control and placed under an ommission.

Mr. Borden favored the development and improvement of our national waterways, the equipment of national ports,
the improvement of transportation facilities and consequent reduction of freight rates between the place of production and the market whether at home or abroad, and the establishment of a thorough system of cold storage.
He advocated a "fiscal policy which will promote the production within Canada
of all useful articles and commodities that can be advantageously produced or manufactured from or by means of our natural resources, having due regard to the interests of the consumer as well as to the just claims of our wage-earning population."

Coming to the railway commission, he said it was one of the pieces of legislation for which credit is due to the government. He wanted it reorganized and call it the public utilities commission.
It should control our systems of public telegraphs and telephones. We have now nearly 7,000 miles of state-owned telegraph lines in Canada. He also advocated the improvement of postal facilities, such as free rural mail delivery. He would say one thing—that the post office department under both governments was run more on the principle of business than any other department. Post offices are not for any class, but for the good of the country as a whole.

Mr. Borden pledged the conservative party to mutual preferential trade within the Empire. He gave the credit for the idea to Mr. Chamberlain and Sir Charles Tupper. He argued that as regards the two new provinces, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the public lands should be given to the people. Although not going exhaustively into the all-red line proposal, he pool-pooled any credit being given to Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Sir Charles Tupper urged this in 1899. He was not prepared to discuss the project until he knew more about it, but he would say that a fast Atlantic service was a desirable thing. However, it should not be sacrificed to a cheap freight service. He does not intend to be leading the opposition after the next election. The advent of the conservative party to power should not be viewed in the light of a party triumph,

but as a verdict that should be accepted as coming from the people.

"Let the people send to our aid at the next election a reinforcement of sixty men, the best that Canada can produce,
pledged to stand for a progressive policy,
to maintain the rights of the people, to uphold honest government and no
other, to enforce decency in public life,
and in return you have my pledge that in any administration that I may be called upon to form your wishes shall be observed."

GOT HIS DIPLOMA WHEN A MERE LAD.

Mr. Charles R. Wasson, who recently purchased the drug business, which for 48 years was successfully conducted by Mr. C. P. Clarke, has the distinction of being the youngest man ever obtaining the diploma of the St. John Pharmaceutical Society.

In the year 1900, Mr. Wasson, who was then a mere boy, entered the drug business as apprentice to Mr. C.
P. Clarke, and in 1903 passed the examination of the Pharmaceutical Society board, and obtained his diploma at the early age of seventeen years. In September, 1905, he severed his connection with Mr. Clarke's establishment and entered the employ of Messrs. A. Chipman Smith & Co., where, after remaining for ten months,
he purchased Mr. Clarke's business, which he took over on the first of July last.

Like Mr. Clarke, the new proprietor, who is regarded as one of the most capable druggists in the city,
has made a special study of prescription and fine drug trade. He carries a first-class, up-to-date line of druggists' sundries, and toilet articles of every description, and is one of very few local druggists who will handle neither soda water nor cigars.—Times.

Mr. Wasson has the able assistance of Mr. John H. Clarke, brother of the late proprietor. He has long experience in the business, is an excellent dispenser, and is well and favorably known to the people of St. John.

Some Fine Scenery.

Many persons who, in the hurried passage through Prince William street have been stopped at the good, large windows of Barnes's bookstore to take in a really excellent picture of our native scenery. The spot chosen is just a bit of the road which leads from Loder's Creek up to the highway,
above it, which may be found any day
now in any part of Sunbury county.
The scene presents an old elm tree,
which has low become a well known and easily recognized spot at that place. The tree has been withered and broken at the top and contrasts with the growth of young branches
which are springing up about its roots in vigorous growth. It has stood so for many years, perhaps, changing slowly as the venerable tree stands
year after year, passing away in slow decay. Near this spot a farmer is drawing up for his last day's load, showing a partly filled gathering of that last load. The manner in which the hay has been thrown upon the cart shows that it has been hastily tossed up, possibly to escape a late shower of rain, a condition which the present writer saw exhibited a few days ago in a similar condition and circumstances—as it can be found on almost every afternoon nowadays.

The driver has paused to give a moment's rest to his own tired body and his wearied oxen—possibly to talk with a passer-by for a few moments.
The very careless way in which the hay is thrown up shows this very plainly to any careful examiner. Some persons, who, indeed, has been brought up in the country fields, have found fault with the way in which the hay has been laid on the load. It is easy to see the effect and the cause of it, and the writer has heard observations made by some better critics, who once knew this very spot and worked upon it themselves, in just such circumstances as are indicated here. The old, ruinous tree is admirably delineated; and the quiet, peaceful sky,
just as it may almost every day be now seen, are exactly what they should be. This is a good, original study and work and most creditable to the artist—Mr. F. H. C. Miles

Mr. J. D. P. Lewin, who has been

H., has returned.

THE SYLLABUS OF PIUS X.

The Syllabus published by the authority of Pius X is almost unintelligible to the ordinary layman, especially here in America. The doctrines condemned are not such as the multitude thinks much about, though their practical consequences would soon open the eyes of the world. They are mostly concerned with matters of high speculation and the very cloudiness of their constitution is no small factor in their condemnation.

The whole movement just reprobated may be summed up as an attempt to create an inner circle among Catholics, or a kind of thirty-third degree. The truths which the Church teaches are meant for the gentle and the simple, for the unlearned as well as the learned. She has no secret hidden doctrine, for she obeys her Master, who commanded to preach from the housetops what had been taught in the cellar.

But it is evident that the truths of revelation are not all equally intelligible. If there is a revelation at all it must contain mysteries. The revelation of nature teems with mysteries. It would be an astounding mystery if there were no mysteries in the revelation of Faith. But the human mind is always beating its wings against mysteries—the mysteries of nature and the mysteries of grace. It would explain them, and in explaining them we have the voluminous record of the exploded theories of science and the equally voluminous record of the exploded heresies of religion.

The new school which the Pope has condemned undertook to explain mysteries and to get rid of difficulties by a kind of nebulous doctrine for the initiated. It appealed to science, to history, to evolution, development, Christian consciousness and a hundred other abstractions. By the time it had got through with the Apostles' Creed there weren't any Apostles, and when they had finished explaining the Gospel of St. John not only was their neither John nor Gospel, but our Lord Himself had been eliminated from His own biography.

There has not yet been much of an outcry about the intolerance of Rome, partly because the Protestants who would be liable to make the outcry are as shocked as Catholics at the vagaries of the new school, and partly because the men condemned are not advanced enough for the infidels. It is true to say that there are among the authors from whose works the Syllabus was composed men of the profoundest learning and most estimable character. We believe they have gone astray with the best intentions, and we hope the same good intentions will bring them back to the representative of Him who thanked God that He had revealed His mysteries to children and hid them from the wise and proud.—The Leader, San Francisco.

ABBE ROUSSIN RECANTS.

We learn from Constantinople says "Rome" that the Abbe Roussin, the French priest, who followed Vilatte, has made his submission to the Church, and he is about to return to a monastery in Italy. It did not take him long to find out what kind of a spiritual leader he had chosen in the unspeakable Vilatte, or what an odd companion and guide he had in Des Houx. Who is Des Houx? We can almost hear some people ask. Yet it is barely a few months since all the papers were full every Monday morning of Vilatte and Des Houx and the doings of the "French National Catholic Apostolic Church" they had founded, with headquarters in the Rue Legendre, and how the "Archbishop" had gone first into the provinces to make "a visitation," and then how he had gone to England to make another "visitation," and then how he had returned to the United States to make—a living by some new and original method.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Barbeau, of Montreal, who have been on a visit to Mrs. Dever, will spend the winter in Southern Europe. They left on Monday evening on their return to Montreal.

Mr. Fred M. Reed, son of the late T. M. Reed, Esq., is visiting his old home. Mr. Reed resides at Chester, Pa., and spoke enthusiastically of the Globe of the Roach shipyard at that place, where they build such steamers as the "Yale."

ON A VISIT TO CAPE BRETON.

John M. Lyons, general passenger agent of the I. C. R., was a passenger leaving today by the noon train. During his brief visit to Cape Breton Mr. Lyons, who is one of the best known and efficient officials of the people's road, visited the different stations of the I. C. R. He was accompanied by his son, George, who lately returned from the Saskatoon, where he had been engaged in farming. The latter gentleman speaks in glowing terms of the west and will in all likelihood return after he spends another year at Francis Xavier College, Antigonish, where he left for today. A year ago he matriculated from this well known institution and expects to complete his studies next year.—Sydney Post.

Grace Before and After Meals.

It is a good thing to feel grateful and it is a better thing to show it—hence the good old Catholic practice of grace before and after meals. This is a formal way of beginning and ending one of the serious and most important duties of life; for what is more important and of more vital consequence than the nourishing of our bodies and the renewing of their strength?

We pray to God to give us our daily bread, and through his bounty we receive it. He makes the earth yield up its fruits and gives us strength to reap them and mind to garner them and will to adapt them to our use and benefit; and for this we should be thankful—and thankful every time we sit down to partake of our daily repast. "Whatever ye do, whether ye eat or whether ye drink, do it to the Lord," says Holy Writ, or, in other words, we are to make all our actions a means to honor and glorify Him, and to show our love and gratitude to Him. The prayers assigned to be said before and after meals are for the faithful, short and to the point—and no Catholic should excuse himself or herself from saying them.

At one's own table they should be said by the head of the family or the senior member present and all the rest responding Amen—while if one be at another's board they should be said privately when not publicly recited. There is a disposition on the part of some to neglect grace before and after meals, a kind of affectation not to be considered pious, founded on human respect, but this is cowardly and unworthy a member of the great Catholic Church. The table has its rules of etiquette which good breeding and good form require to be observed; so Catholic teaching and principle require the observance of those brief words which comprise grace before and after meals. They make a good beginning and ending of those necessary acts in our daily life, and prepare us all the better for fulfilling the rest of our duties. Let us all be faithful in being grateful.

PROPER WAY TO FOLD COAT.

A useful thing for wives to know when they are packing up for the summer holiday is how to fold a man's coat. There is a knack in it, that it will do itself happiness for her to master. Lay the coat out perfectly flat, right side up. Spread the sleeves out smoothly, then fold them back to the elbow until the bottoms of the cuffs are even with the collar. Fold the revers back, and double the coat over, folding it on the center seam. Smooth out all wrinkles and lay it on a level surface in the trunk.—Exchange.

EVIDENCE OF PROGRESS.

Patriot, Charlottetown, P. E. I.

We congratulate the Watchman on evidence of its progress. Today, we note that it has been enlarged by four columns, and is now a thirty-two column paper instead of a twenty eight, as has been the case for the past few years. The Watchman is an up to date paper, it is edited with ability, and sinewy and readable. It takes an independent view of the questions of the day and strikes out from the shoulder. We wish Mr. Peter McCourt, the editor and manager, continued success.

Nothing is small to a God so great. It is this thought which renders so vast a majesty not tolerable only, but so sweetly intimate and so intensely dear.

A Wonderful Line.

Every student of nouns, pronouns, and verbs knows the necessity of transposing language for the sake of ascertaining its grammatical construction. The following shows twenty-seven different readings of one of Gray's well-known poetical lines, yet the sense is not affected:—

- The weary ploughman plods his homeward way.
- The ploughman, weary, plods his homeward way.
- His homeward way the weary ploughman plods.
- His homeward way the ploughman weary plods.
- The weary ploughman homeward plods his way.
- The ploughman, weary, homeward plods his way.
- His way the weary ploughman homeward plods.
- The ploughman homeward, plods his weary way.
- His way the ploughman homeward, weary plods.
- His homeward, weary way the ploughman plods.
- Weary the ploughman homeward plods his way.
- Weary, the ploughman plods his homeward way.
- Homeward, his way the weary ploughman plods.
- Homeward, his way the ploughman, weary, plods.
- Homeward, his weary way, the ploughman plods.
- The ploughman, homeward, weary plods his way.
- The ploughman, weary, homeward plods his way.
- His weary way, the homeward ploughman plods.
- His way the ploughman, weary, homeward plods.
- Homeward, the weary ploughman plods his way.
- Homeward the ploughman plods his weary way.
- The ploughman weary, his way, homeward plods.
- The ploughman plods his homeward weary way.
- The ploughman plods his weary homeward way.
- Weary the ploughman his way homeward plods.
- Weary his homeward way the ploughman plods.

BLESSING OF CHURCH AND BELL.

On last Thursday the Right Reverend Bishop Casey, R. C. Bishop of St. John N. B., with a number of priests, visited Port Elgin, to bless the new R. C. Church, called St. Clement, and the bell which was placed in the tower that day. The weather was fine, and a goodly number attended. The usual picnic attractions were on the grounds. Excellent dinner, tea, and refreshments were provided and handsomely patronized. Immediately after the blessing of the bell, a large number availed themselves of the opportunity to "tap the bell" which weighs over half a ton, and has a very good tone. The Bishop gave an address in the Church, explanatory of the exercises of the day. Our Roman Catholic friends deserve congratulation for the neat and well furnished sacred edifice they have erected in Port Elgin. It is highly creditable to them, and a pleasing addition to the churches of the village.—Sackville Tribune, Aug. 19.

AGAINST SHORT SLEEVES.

I do not think the wearing of short sleeves is in keeping with the character of the church—of a religious edifice," says Archbishop Messmer of Milwaukee. "The church is different from the home and from other places. This difference should be recognized by the women. They should not dress for the church as they do for their homes, and I do not think the wearing of short sleeves is proper.

"A woman's modesty and her finer feeling should prevent her entering as sacred a place as the church with her arms bare. Short sleeves are all right in their place, but their place is in the home and not in the church.

"There is another distressing and annoying practice in the church, especially in the summer time, and that is the use of fans. I dislike to preach in a church where all the women are waving their fans back and forth constantly. Fans have their places as much as short sleeves have. I do not think the women would suffer if they stopped using their fans while they are in church."

NOT FOR CLASS AGAINST CLASS FEELING.

Father Pardow, S. J., speaking on "The Church and the Workingman" in San Francisco, lately said: "Not only the workingman on the street, but the workingman in the office, is entitled to the title of toiler. They are all part of one body. When a member of the human body is injured, the other members come to its aid, and perform double their work until the hurt is repaired. So it should be in the body industrial. Not a class against class, for all belong to one body. This cannot be brought about by the bond of human nature and sympathy alone. All are one only in the Church. The workingman has a right to wages that will support himself, his wife and his children, in rational comfort and wellbeing. But before a man asks for an increase of wages let him look to his affairs, and see how he is spending his present wage. The harsh is that men are living for themselves. They must aid their fellowmen."

GIFT TO ST. FRANCIS XAVIER

The authorities of St. Francis Xavier College, Antigonish, recently purchased the estate of C. E. Gregory at that place, a property of some 280 acres. After the retreat to the clergy of that diocese, last week, a meeting of the clergy was held for the purpose of securing an expression of opinion upon the matter. At this meeting there were present about ninety priests, and not only did they warmly commend the purchase, but they manifested their pleasure by subscribing the generous sum of $4,000. The only condition made with respect to this substantial donation, was this, that if they desired it, any of the priests of the Antigonish diocese would be permitted to spend their declining years on the property, which, in honor of their venerable prelate (Bishop Cameron), will be known as Mount Cameron, a lasting testimonial to this prelate's great work for the church and the college there. The Bishop, the college, the priests and the people are to be congratulated upon the striking manifestation of zeal, self sacrifice and fraternal union which will endure as a brilliant example for every diocese throughout the length and breadth of Canada.

FATHER LEBLANC MAKING FRIENDS.

The Post says: The Rev. Father LeBlanc, who recently came to Sackville to become resident priest here, seems to be taking hold of the work vigorously. He has made many friends not only in Sackville but in other parts of the country where he has been called upon to labor and no doubt will be able to accomplish much good work in this part of the province.

A FINE SOUVENIR.

The Souvenir of the town of Summerside, published for Jardine's bookstore, is one of the most artistically gotten up works of the kind ever published. The photos were taken by Lorne Reed and gives bird's eye view of Summerside looking north from the top of the Post Office, before and after the fire. Street scenes, churches, the public square, the Post Office, the S. S. Empress, the Clifton House, Kensington station, the High School and St. John's Roman Catholic Church, Miscouche, are reproduced in very artistic photos. It has a most appropriate title that we wish our Charlottetown contemporaries to notice. It is Summerside Prince Edward Island—not Edward's Isle—"The Gateway of the Province."—Summerside Journal.

WIRELESS MESSAGE BY LOCAL SERVICE

BERLIN, Aug. 17.—A German engineer named Heinecke has invented a system of wireless telegraphy for short distance service, which can be transported from point to point with remarkable ease and rapidity.

It is expected that the system will come into general use in connection with military reconnoitring operations, naval landing parties and other similar purposes.

Negotiations have been begun for the installation of the system on the trains of one of the principal railway companies in the United States. American railway travellers will thus be able in the near future to transact telegraphic business during their journeys by transmitting messages to receiving stations along the line.

The transmitting and receiving apparatus are both fitted in one small case, with a weight of approximately forty pounds, which can thus be carried on a man's back. The weight of the pole for the wires and other accessories is approximately 100 pounds, so that an entire station weighs approximately 140 pounds.

A station can be moved from place to place by three men, and five men are able to erect it ready for use in eight minutes. The cost of a station is $1,500, and the range of communication about twenty-five miles. The smallest portable wireless telegraphy station hitherto in use is so much heavier that twelve men are required to carry its different parts, while its cost exceeds $4,000.

AS IT HAPPENED.

(S. E. Kiser in Chicago Record-Herald.)

For days he had rehearsed his part. He'd written out a little speech. Which, word by word, he'd learned by heart.

Upon his knees he would beseech. Before her picture day by day. He knelt as he had planned to kneel. When he should have the chance to say.

The words that would his love reveal. He sought her when the day was done. Her words were sweet, her look was glad.

Of all fair maidens there was none. Who claimed such beauty as she had. She pointed to an easy chair. And sighed a little, tender sigh.

And felt her belt and jabbed her hair. While happy moments drifted by.

He had rehearsed his part, but Fate. Upsets the plans of mice and men; He lingered on till rather late.

They heard the cook's bean leave, and then. He said he guessed he'd have to go.

And she—just how he never knew— Got tangled in his arms and lo!

His dearest dreams had all come true.
