THE THIRD LISTENER TO THE INTERVIEW CONTRADICTS STATEMENTS OF GAMEY

Says the Latter's Statement About Shorthand Writers Was All Wrong—Declares the Word "Money" Was Used in Connection With the Smoking Room Episode—Arthur Kinney Tells How He and His Companions Played the Spy From Patriotic Motives.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Toronto, April 17.-The re-examina- than the Government thought. tion of Perry Price was concluded short- corroborated the previous witness in ly after the commission convened this thought of the turnover of Gamey morning, after witness had told that and also in regard to the conversation he did not hear Gamey and Frank Sul- about "Cap" Sullivan's political prolivan speak of any $100,000 deal.

The witness also detailed the ceived to the Government and take the if Gamey was forced to resign and deal instead. In answer to a question closed his evidence by a reference as to why he wrote a certain phrase what was said about registered letters in the statement and afterwards struck being mailed from Yorkville, it out, the witness said that after readwith him and so he cut it out.

Chancellor—I suppose you read it all None. in the papers this morning? A .- Yes. Mr. Kinney then related portions of the conversation of Frank Sullivan and Gamey. His evidence was very similar to that of the two Prices. Sullivan had asked Gamey whether he had met Mr. Whitney, and the latter answered that he hadn't met many. Sullivan then spoke of the Conservatives of Manitoulin and Gamey said there was a pretty hot time up there, as some old Tories had secured the passing of a resolution of condemnation at the executive committee

Witness claimed he could not tell the rder in which different subjects were Gamey asked after Stratton and Sullivan: said Stratton was uneasy and wanted to know if Gamey to be trusted. Sullivan said he had assured Stratton he was, but told him if any more arrangements were to be made with Gamey, he (Sullivan) should do it. Sullivan spoke of being able to get in by a private way to Stratton's office.

Gamey asked if Stratton would pay the money and Sullivan said he would, as they had him right where they wanted him; he couldn't kick, and would have to put up.

Gamey spoke about a man named Meyers, and asked what kind of a fellow he was. Sullivan said they didn't tell Meyers much, as he was a sort of innocent fellow. Gamey said that he had seen a curious expression on Meyers' face when he saw Gamey, and his face had colored up, and Gamey thought he knew something. Gamey later on brought the conversation back to Meyers, by referring to him as the man who had carried the money to the smoking-room. Sullivan had answered that it was Chase, and not Meyers, who carried the money.Ga-"I'm glad you mentioned that; I'll take it down."There was a lull then for a moment in the conversation, but witness could not see whether Gamey took the name down or not.

Sullivan told of Sims being down from Little Current and seeing "Cap" Sullivan about getting Spencer appointed license inspector. Sullivan said his father told Sime that Gamey had the patronage and Sims should have pulled Gamey from the start. There was further talk of the lake and island deals, but Sullivan said there was not enough in them.

THE BLANKET APPLICATION.

The witness then went on to speak the banket application for mineral lands, and said that Gamey

The evidence of Mr. Ryrie and Mr. Edmund L. Young, who followed him, tended to divide documents submitted to them into five distinctive groups. Freight Sheds and Immigration Building Destroyed.

The Loss in City Property and C. P. R. Rolling Stock Is Said to Be Very Heavy.

St. John, N. B., April 17.-West St. John is on fire. No. 3 freight shed caught and fire is now spreading to other sheds. Apparatus from the city is going over. Three steamers are lying at the docks and are in danger. The probability is that all the sheds on the northern side of the wharf will be lost.

The fire started at 8:45 this morning in the freight shed at West St. John in a small storeroom, where it is said the lanterns and tackle used about the wharves were stored. The flames spread rapidly, and shed No. 3 was a mass of flames within a few minutes. Thence the fire extended to the cattie sheds and immigration buildings, where 1.200 passengers from the steamship Lake Simcoe were landed last night. These people were hurried out, the majority going to Carleton City Hall. The others were placed in cars and shunt ed down the track towards Sand Point Very little if any of their baggage was saved. The firemen with difficulty managed to stop the fire at the in shed, and the fire is now centered in the underwork of the trestles, which is burning fiercely. The loss will be heavy, mainly falling on the city, which owns all the wharves and sheds. The C. P. R. also will lose heavily, as a lot of their rolling stock will be a total loss. Several people were injured by falling debris.

In connection with the prosperity of the country, Mr. Fielding quoted statistics as to the increases in the deposits and discounts of the chartered banks. On Feb. 29 last the deposits were $282,000,000.

He quoted the increase in the volume of Canadian trade. In 1902 the total trade was $423,000,000, including bullion. The imports were $214,000,000.

The exports were $209,000,000.

The Finance Minister, who was evidently affected by the warmth and enthusiasm of the greeting, lost no time in preliminaries, but plunged at once into a discussion of the flattering and encouraging condition of the Canadian people today. He congratulated House that in presenting his seventh budget he was able to felicitate it upon the continuance of a period of unexampled prosperity. While his estimate of expenditure for the past year had not been exceeded, the revenue, which he had estimated at $56,800,000, had reached $58,050,790; consequently he was able to announce AN ACTUAL SURPLUS OF $7,291,389, instead of his estimated surplus of $5,-800,000. There had been considerable increase in reveiue from excise and customs. I the postoffice there was also increased revenue. Whereas the deficit of the postoffice in 1896 was $700,000, postoffice in 1896 was $700,000, there was a deficit of only $105,221 for There was a small actual surplus, leaving out the postal expenditure on Atlin and Yukon. This had been accomplished, although the rates postage had been reduced. In 1902 the expenditure on the Intercolonial Railway was $5,671,000, and the revenue was $5,574,000. In 1892 the revenue was $2,928,000, and expenditure $3,451,000. This increased revenue was an indication of the prosperity of the Maritime Provinces. There was a surplus of $96,820 on the Intercolonial Railway proper. Taking into account the deficit of $72,150 on the Prince Elward Island Railway and the operations of the Windsor branch, the net surplus was $57,989. The total revenue 1901 was $57,782,566; in 1902 it was $63,970,799. For the year 1902-03 the revenue from the July 1 to April 10 had been $48,348,125, as compared with $43,169,468 during the corresponding period of the previous year. That was an increase of $5,178,467. Mr. Fielding expected the revenue would amount to $65,000,000 by the close of the present fiscal year, as compared with some $58,000,000 last year. Corner Park Ave. 216 Dundas St. delivered. The Canadian Government would give the British Government reasonable time for consideration. If the British Government should continue to show no appreciation of the value of a preference in the Canadian market, the British Government could not complain if we should modify or change our tariff in the interest of Canada. In connection with any such change, however, there was still the question to be considered in what way and to whate extent our interests would require any changes to be made. In reference to the United States, Mr. Fielding said that for some years the United States had been none too well disposed to the admission of goods. Canada had found new markets, and the need for reciprocity was not so great today as formerly. But there were in the United States prominent men who had been advocating reciprocity lately, and if there were a change in the sentiment in the United States on this question, Canada would be willing to consider any offers that might be made. The Government WOULD NOT CHASE AFTER RECI-

PROCITY, would be willing to meet any

friendly advances to that end. Mr. Fielding read the correspondence between Senator Fairbanks and Sir Wilrier, in that correspondence, expressed his willingness for the commission to meet again, provided, after a preliminary friendly conference with Senator Fairbanks, it appeared that there would be limit is now $20,000,000. Mr. preliminary conference indicated that the American representatives had some reasonable propositions to make. MODERATION AND STABILITY. Moderation and stability, said Mr. Fielding, was now, as formerly the motto of the Government in dealing with the tariff. There were extremists on the one hand who wanted duties of 50, 60 and 70 per cent, to insure goods being made at home. The Government was not prepared to go to that extreme. On the other hand, there were extremists who would press free trade theories, sound in themselves, without regard to what other countries are doing. We must understand how our opponents play the game, and perhaps take lessons from them.

(Cheers.) The Government's policy was to compromise between the views of the extremists on both sides. The manufacturers said they wanted to keep the tariff out of politics. How were they going to do so if they insisted on duties so high that the consumers would not stand them? GROWTH OF THE WEST The Finance Minister referred to the growing power, population and prosperity of the west. The hope of the west must find for their products a market outside of Canada, where they were exposed to outside competition and gained no advantage from a Canadian protecner in which the savings banks deposits tive policy. They required to be in a position to produce their own products as cheaply as possible. They would chafe under high protective duties. The best way to help the manufacturers was to give them an increased market by filling

A Flourishing Budget. It was a pleasing duty to which the Finance Minister of Canada addressed himself yesterday. His budget speech can do. The lead industry will be enwas of necessity a narrative of prosperity, registered in a buoyant revenue, a swelling surplus, a flourishing commerce, growing bank deposits, an in- ed out that since binder twine had creasing population, and in the general condition of the country. He was able to announce a revenue of $58,050,790 for the financial year ending June 30, 1902, and a surplus of the Philippines, thereby placing the has no verbosity, no tongue tortuos-

$7,291,389, or $1,491,389 more than he had estimated. For the fiscal year ending on June 30 next, the estimated revenue is $65,000,000; the estimated expenditure, $51,650,000; and the estimated surplus $13,350,000-the largest in the history of Canada. The national debt on June 30 next will have been decreased by $5,650,000. While the expenditure has increased greatly during the yast few years, owing to the extraordinary impulse of prosperity and the growth of the country, the oldfashioned doctrine of economy is still cherished by the rank and file of the Liberal party, and nothing in the budget will furnish more pleasure than tional debt. Mr. H. S. Strathy, the second witness, merely produced the books of the Traders' Bank, showing the depositing of money by Mr. Gamey. The evidence of Mr. W. R. Smyth, M. P. P., was more interesting. He told of dogging Mr. Gamey's steps on the night of March 10, seeing him enter the Crossin factory with Frank Sullivan. His evidence tended to prove nothing so much as the fact that Mr. Gamey was thoroughly distrusted, even by the Conhis intentions.

The other two witnesses were members of the trio of eavesdroppers concealed behind pianos in the Crossin They proved to possess memories of simply superhuman power, for each readily detailed a very lengthy conversation in almost identical words. ### THE AFTERNOON SESSION.

On the reopening of the commission after the noon adjournment, Mr. Riddell concluded his cross-examination of Mr. Price by asking him a couple of questions as to Frank Sullivan's statements with regard to the registered letters mislaid from Yorkville. Frank had not made any reference to the date or the signature.

Mr. Riddell then briefly re-examined the witness. To him Mr. Price said that he had not seen the memo made brother before it was given to Mr. Gamey on the afternoon of the statement in the House. The witness was to make the report himself, but about 1 o'clock on March 11 he found that he did not have time to do it, and brother to do it. His brother did not start at it until near 2 o'clock.

The witness did not discuss the memorandum with his brother until after him right in to see Mr. Stratton and it appeared in the papers. Mr. Price stated that he was a son

He had seen Mr. Thompwere detached from the thread of their port him on votes of want of confiyes, Frank, I'll see him.'

WHAT MANITOULIN THOUGHT.

The opinion of the people in Manitoulin in regard to the turnover was then touched by Sullivan, and Games tive had thrown him down, but the members were personally with him. The people generally thought that the turnover had been accomplished because of the gift of the patronage, and a timber consideration, but they did not think any money had been received. Gamey then asked, Stratton?" Frank replied that "Oh, he is all right, but at times he is uneasy. He insisted on seeing me every day, and to keep him quiet read to him extracts from your letters One day he was very nervous and walked up and down the room, saying 'Is this man to be trusted?' said yes, so long as the Governmen does not do anything dirty, but don' do anything in any case without con-Mr. Gamey then said sulting me. FOUGHT TWENTY FAST ROUNDS. Detroit Writer Describes New Points, Weak and Strong-Did Phenomenal Work.

A writer in the Detroit Free Press STAKES AT THE AQUEDUCT has the following concerning the Shamrock: But speculation and good guessing aside, if the Shamrock III. did rightfully Thursday to the Shamrock I. what the cables from Weymouth tell us-beat her over a 30-mile windward and leeward course by 17 minutes and 25 seconds—those of us who have been saying that her form was not up to expectations, will have to haul in our horns and eat humble Last week in these columns we delicately intimated that the Shamrock I. was not being sailed for all she is worth, this surmise being due to the apparent half-hearted racing shown in the meager cables. Apparently, however, the races at Weymouth were the ance of the new challenger over a tance is nothing short of phenomenal you, bernaps, but I thought of you, perhaps, and you, perhaps of you, perhaps o and sensational-if the Shamrock I. is can tell.

The first Weymouth race showed the Shamrock III. to be decidedly weak down the wind and in great form on the wind. The marvelous race of Thursday, however, proved her to be far superior to the trial horse in run-ning, beating her in 15 miles free by over 10 minutes. On the beat back her elapsed time was over 7 minutes faster than Shamrock I., and on this point she showed herself better than ever before. There can be no doubt that Shamrock III. is a good fresh weather boat on the wind. Her performances in this respect have been consistent.

Jack Munro knows something about baseball, too. At least the West New Yorks think so, for they have secured him to umpire their game against the Cedars, at Weehawken, N. J., on Sun-
