The Imposing Funeral Procession at Windsor.

Impressive Services at St. George's Chapel—The Royal Mourners—Unique Floral Tributes—Universal Evidences of Sorrow and Sympathy—The People of London Debarred from Taking Part in a Procession.

IN LONDON.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—The Government and many private buildings in London had their blinds drawn down and flags at half-mast to-day. A large number of factories, shops, etc., did no business after 12 o'clock. All the policemen wore mourning, and the 'bus drivers had crape on their whips.

AT WINDSOR.

At Windsor the weather was cold and dismal. It snowed during the night and the streets were covered with slush. The shops in the town were closed, and the shop fronts along the route followed by the funeral procession were draped with black. The route from Windsor station to the castle was lined with guards. Behind the soldiers there was an immense crowd of people, who patiently waited the coming of the body and the royal mourners. Most all of the people comprising the crowd wore mourning. At noon bells began tolling their requiem for the dead.

The railway station presented a beautiful appearance, willing hands having decorated it with a large number of floral wreaths and palms. The trappings of woe were conspicuous by their absence, not a single decoration of black being seen.

THE FUNERAL CAR.

The railway carriage, in which the body was conveyed from Wolverton to Windsor, was lined with purple velvet. In it was suspended a large wreath, bearing the letters "A. C." in silver. In accordance with the wish that no public or military procession be held in London, the railway officials made arrangements to convey the body to Windsor without transhipping it at London. This was done by means of a branch line connecting the Great Eastern and Soutwestern Railways in the outskirts of the city, and consequently the people of London had no opportunity of showing their respect and sympathy by marching in procession behind the body of the Duke.

ARRIVAL OF THE TRAIN.

At 3:30 the train bearing the remains came into the station. On it were the Prince and Princess of Wales. Another train, which followed immediately after the funeral train, conveyed the members of the Prince of Wales' household at Sandringham. The coffin was taken on the shoulders of men from the Tenth Hussars. It was enwrapped in a silken Union Jack, and on it was a single splendid wreath which had been sent by the Queen. A silken ribbon was attached to the wreath, on which were the words, "A mark of the tenderest affection and love from your devoted, loving and sorrowing grandmother."

THE PROCESSION.

As the detachment of soldiers bearing the coffin walked slowly along the platform a signal was given to a party of the Life Guards on the round tower of the castle, and immediately the boom of minute guns could be heard. At the same time the roll of the drum from the massed bands swelled out upon the air, and the procession began to move. The Life Guards had the right of the line, and were followed by the bands which played Chopin's and Beethoven's funeral marches alternately. A detachment of the Tenth Hussars and of the Horse Artillery immediately preceded the gun carriage upon which the remains had been placed. On each side of the gun carriage walked guards of officers of the Tenth Hussars. The charger which had been ridden by the Duke of Clarence, saddiled and bridled, and with the boots of its owner reversed in the stirrups, was led directly after the gun carriage.

THE MOURNERS

mourners came next. The Prince of Wales, Prince George of Wales and the Duke of Fife led the mourners. Next came the Duke of Connaught, Duke of Edinburgh, Prince Christian, Prince Henry of Battenburg and the Marquis of Lorne. Then followed the Grand Duke Alexis, representing the Czar of Russia, Prince Albert of Schleswig-Holstein, the Crown Prince of Denmark, the Duke of Oporto (brother of the King of Portugal), Prince Frederick Leopold of Prussia, the Duke of Teck, between Prince Ernest of Leiningen and Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar. Then followed the three Princes of Teck, sons of the Duke of Teck, the Duke of Wurtemburg and Prince Philip of Saxe-Coburg Gotha. The Princess drove from the station by a private road to the chapel. The procession moved slowly amid the solemn silence of the spectators, many of whom shed tears as the procession passed. All heads were uncovered during the passage of the funeral procession.

AT ST. GEORGE'S CHAPEL.

It was nearly 4 o'clock, an hour after the time appointed for the services to begin, when the cortege reached St. George's Chapel. The clergy and the choir marched down the aisle to the door of the chapel and ranged themselves on either side to receive the body of the Duke. When the heavily-draped gun carriage arrived opposite the door of the chapel the coffin-bearers from the Hussars stepped from the ranks quickly lifted their burden to their shoulders, and with bared and bowed heads passed into the chapel. As the coffin was carried, the clergymen, headed by the Very Rev. Philip Frank Eliot, domestic chaplain to the Queen, Dean of Windsor and Registrar of the Garter, and Right Rev. Randall Thomas Davidson, D.D., Bishop of Rochester, and choristers, preceded it down the main aisle, singing: "I am the Resurrection and the Life." They were followed by three equerries in scarlet uniform, bearing on cushions the coronet of the Duke and other insignia of his rank. Then came a small detachment from the Hussars, and behind them was the coffin, flanked by ten officers of the Duke's regiment, the Tenth Hussars. Behind them came the Prince of Wales, Prince George of Wales and the Duke of Fife, who were in turn followed by the royal personages who had walked behind the coffin from the station.

The coffin was placed upon a bier before the altar, and the coronet and other insignia were placed upon it. As the same moment the window in the Queen's gallery, situated directly above the altar, on the right, opened, and the Princess of Wales and her daughters, Princess Louise (Duchess of Fife), Princess Victoria May of Teck, took seats in the gallery.

THE SERVICES.

The services were conducted by the Dean of Windsor, assisted by the Bishop of Rochester. A psalm was chanted by the choir, and the dean then read the lesson. The choir then sang hymns which had been selected by the Queen. After the reading of the lessons the Bishop of Rochester read the sentences beginning, "Forasmuch as it hath pleased," and the Duke's tutor, Canon Dalton, stepped forward and cast a handful of earth upon the coffin. After this the choir sang "I heard a voice from Heaven." The Bishop of Rochester read the concluding prayer and the religious ceremony was closed by the singing of Sullivan's anthem, "Better gone before us," and the pronouncing of the benediction by the Bishop of Rochester.

At about the middle of the service, which lasted for nearly an hour, a chair wasbrought for the Prince of Wales, who sat down. He looked greatly fatigued, and his face gave evidence of his great sorrow. As the Bishop of Rochester pronounced the benediction the Prince knelt with his head buried in his hands. When the bishop had finished the Prince remained kneeling for a short time, and a most impressive silence filled the chapel until he arose. Then, in consonance with the ancient custom, Sir Albert Woods, C.B., K.C.M.G., F.S.A., Garter King of Arms, (the Duke was Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter) in full insignia and habit of his rank, stepped forward and proclaimed the full list of the titles of the Prince. The Prince of Wales, followed by the other royal personages, then proceeded by the private way from the chapel to the castle.

THE BEREAVED MOTHER.

The Princess of Wales could be seen looking mournfully from the Queen's gallery upon the coffin of her beloved son for some time after the services were concluded. There were only a few women in the chapel, and they were all seated in the nave. All the space in the choir under the banners of the knights were reserved for the distinguished guests, most of whom were attired in brilliant uniform. On the altar was displayed during the service the gold communion plate, one of the valuable treasures of the chapel. No daylight was allowed to enter the chapel, which was illuminated entirely by wax tapers. The entire service was marked by a solemn impressiveness that made itself deeply felt by every one in attendance. Every detail had been most carefully arranged, and there was not a single accident to mar the solemnity of the occasion.

TOUCHING TRIBUTES.

After the coffin had been deposited in St. George's Chapel wreaths from the Duchess of Teck and Princess May were placed on it, beside the wreath sent by Her Majesty. Until late in the day floral tributes continued to pour into the castle from every part of the country. Some of them were of such size that it was a difficult task to get them through the doorway of the chapel.

OTHER SERVICES.

The American Legation and embassies of other governments which are not connected by family ties with the Queen were not represented at the services at St. George's Chapel, but attended a memorial service in the Chapel Royal, St. James' Chapel. Memorial services were held in Westminster Abbey, at which Archdeacon Farrar officiated. An immense assemblage was present at the service. Services were also held in St. Paul's Cathedral. The Rt. Hon. and Rev. Frederick Temple, D.D., bishop of London, preached the memorial sermon. There were present at these services 12,000 persons, including Lord Mayor Evans and the sheriffs of London.

The Queen, accompanied by Princess Louise (Marchioness of Lorne), attended a special memorial service in the chapel at Osborne House, conducted by Canon Duckworth.

Memorial services were held in all the capitals of Europe.

IN THE MEMORIAL CHAPEL.

During the evening the coffin containing the Duke's remains was removed to the Albert Memorial Chapel. Here it was placed between the cenotaph of the late Prince Consort and the recumbent figure of the Duke of Albany. The coffin will remain in its present position till Saturday, in order that the Queen may be enabled to place a wreath upon it.

IN CANADA.

TORONTO, Jan. 20.—Business generally was suspended this morning in the city from 10 to 11 o'clock, the hour corresponding with the time of the funeral of the late Duke. The schools were closed during the same hours, and the bells of many churches and all the fire halls tolled. The Stock Exchange closed.

Memorial services were held at Montreal, Quebec, Halifax, London and other places.

NOTE FROM THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The Prince and Princess of Wales have issued a note saying they are anxious to express their deep gratitude to her Majesty's subjects at home and abroad for the universal feeling of sympathy manifested on the death of their son, and that if sympathy at such a moment is of any avail, the remembrance that their grief has been shared by all classes will be a lasting consolation to their sorrowing hearts, and will, if possible, make them more than ever attached to their dear country.

AT HOME AND ABROAD.

Memorial services were held yesterday in all important cities in England and the colonies. In Bristol there was such a crush of people in the cathedral that many fainted and had to be removed, while outside many women had their dresses nearly torn off, and dozens of persons were injured in trying to secure admission. At the Portsmouth and other royal dockyards in the garrisons at Gibraltar and in Malta wherever the British flag floats, signs of mourning were displayed. Special services were held, troops paraded and minute guns were fired. The corporations of all cities attended the church services in their robes of office.

TERRIBLE STORM AT HONG KONG

Three Hundred Vessels Wrecked and Many Lives Lost.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Jan. 21.—Advices by steamer state that the most destructive storm experienced at Hong Kong in years occurred the night of Dec. 3. Chinese crafts suffered severely. It is believed 300 vessels, including a Chinese junk, with a large number of people, and the Chinese-Norwegian bark Aaron, foundered or were driven ashore and wrecked. A number of large vessels were damaged by colliding. The loss of life and money value of the wrecked vessels has not been determined.

"He Was Good to the Poor"

Funeral of the Late Cardinal Manning

Witnessed by an Immense Concourse of Sincere Mourners.

The Working People Turn Out in Thousands—Royalty Represented—The Remains Laid in Kensall Green Cemetery.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—London saw a funeral to-day with less pomp perhaps than that of the Duke of Clarence, but with no less accompaniment of genuine sorrow. No labored eulogy is needed to impress upon the hearts of the populace the virtues of Cardinal Manning, nor to remind the people of what they have lost in losing him. Fully 50,000 persons visited the Brompton Oratory yesterday to gaze upon the features of the deceased prelate. The offices for the dead were recited during the afternoon by a corpse of 200 priests. The oratory was superbly draped, and the scene was a most solemn one. There was an immense concourse of people on the occasion of the funeral procession from the oratory to the cemetery. The Queen and the Prince of Wales arranged to be specially represented and seats of honor were reserved in their names.

THE FUNERAL.

The funeral services were held in the Brompton Oratory to-day. Admission to the oratory was by ticket only, for it would have been utterly impossible for the structure to contain a hundredth part of the vast crowd who were desirous of paying a last token of respect to the dead prelate. Notwithstanding the miserable weather conditions prevailing—the city being shrouded by fog which seemed to penetrate with its chilliness and dampness through the heaviest clothing—the crowd began to gather in the vicinity of the oratory at an early hour. It was composed largely of workingmen and their families, and on every side could be heard expressions of love for the man who had devoted so much time and talent to bring about a betterment in their condition, and who having fought the good fight had gone to his reward. "He was good to the poor," people were heard to exclaim. Hundreds of times was this repeated through the vast crowd, many of the members of which had a personal knowledge of kindness of heart of the dead Cardinal which had taken in people of all religion.

At 5 o'clock this morning matins and other services for the dead were said in the oratory, where the body had been lying in state. When the solemn mass of requiem commenced the oratory was filled with notable personages, representing the Church, the State, and all political parties.

ROYALTY REPRESENTED.

The Queen and the Prince and Princess of Wales were represented by high members of their households. All the ambassadors of foreign powers were present.

THE COFFIN

reposed in front of the altar. It was enveloped in a black pall, ornamented with a gold cross, crimson cords and fringe of bullion. Surmounting the coffin was the hat of the cardinal. The altar was draped with black, the only ornament visible being a solitary gold cross. The Right Rev. John Cuthbert Hedley, bishop of Newport and Menevia, preached the funeral sermon. He opened his remarks with a touching tribute to the late Duke of Clarence and Avondale. He said that an era had closed in the history of Catholicism in England with the death of Cardinal Manning, and a new one had opened. He made special reference to the cardinal's efforts to secure the Catholic education of children, and declared that the struggle was not yet over. He added that perhaps the hottest and deadliest hour of the education battle which is raging throughout the world would soon be fought.

The music throughout the services was splendidly rendered. Mr. Santley, the well known baritone, sang the "Dies Irc."

PROMINENT PERSONS PRESENT.

Among those who occupied the front pews were the Duke of Norfolk, the Marquis of Ripon, the Marquis of Bute, Lord Howard of Glossip, Burdett-Coutts, Justin McCarthy, Wm. O'Brien, John Dillon and Thomas Sexton.

TO THE GRAVE.

At the conclusion of the service the clergy preceded the body to the hearse in waiting. The first coach was occupied by the cross bearers, then followed the clergy who preceded the hearse, and following came carriages with the relatives of the cardinal, the members of his household, diplomats, members of the nobility, Knights of Malta, a deputation of members of the House of Commons, and a deputation from the Irish Parlimentary party. Following these came 300 carriages containing private citizens and after them marched a large number of workmen's societies. The dock-laborers and the stevedores were represted by delegations.

The body was interred in Kensal Green Cemetery.

Dense Fog in London.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The city to-day is wrapped in a dense almost impenetrable fog equal to that which prevailed at Christmas time and which caused much loss. Traffic is greatly impeded and it is so dark that the use of electric and gas lights has been resorted to throughout the city in houses, shops and factories.

Halifax Liberals at Work in Earnest.

In Re the Retirement of Mr. Chapleau from the Cabinet.

Mr. Preston Puts Pertinent Pointers Before the Young Liberals of Montreal.

THE CAMPAIGN IN HALIFAX.

The Liberals of Halifax are working hard. They hold a public meeting in the Academy of Music next week, at which the candidates, Premier Fielding and Mr. Roche, M.P.P., will speak. There is a great disappointment that Ministers Thompson and Tupper, who came here for the express purpose of assisting in the bye-elections in Nova Scotia, are unable to take any part. Mr. Tupper is still confined to the house. He is staying with his father-in-law, Chief Justice McDonald. Sir John Thompson's condition is causing his friends grave concern. He has obtained temporary relief, but is said he is contemplating undergoing at Montreal an operation which will necessitate entire abstinence from work for some time.

MR. PRESTON IN MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, Jan. 21.—Mr. W. T. R. Preston, the Ontario Liberal organizer, addressed the members of the Junior Liberal Club, which met Monday for inauguration and enrollment of members. He spoke of the dangers attending the establishment of such a precedent as had been set by Mr. Angers. It was absurd that the existence of a Ministry should be determined by the comings and goings of Lieutenant-Governors. Such an act could happen only in Quebec. Mr. Mowat had declared over his own signature that an Angers dare not do in Ontario what he had done in Quebec, taking the decision altogether out of the hands of the people and clothing himself with despotic power. Mr. Angers was advised by the Government at Ottawa. When charges were brought against the Government and sworn to, the party in power at Ottawa shielded the offenders and voted down an inquiry. Their Thompsons and their Tuppers were in the habit of telling us that such things took place in England and no harm came of it. Things would come right if left alone. But let them imagine a Gladstone selling a contract or a Salisbury receiving bribes from a contractor, and when charged with the offense voting down an honest inquiry. Such a state of things would not be permitted to exist for 24 hours. They charge us with disloyalty when we speak of reciprocity. They see the farmers suffer and call the McKinley Bill a blessing, the greatest that could come to Canada. Their loyalty was a loyalty for office. Sir John Thompson must often wish a great part of his past to be forgotten. Did he forget the $25,000 which he received from the United States? As to Sir Charles Tupper, last year's accounts showed that there was not one member of the Tupper family but was not quartered on the public service, and that in all $90,000 had gone into the pockets of the Tupper clique. Mr. Preston next spoke of the showing of our last census. He said the last decade should have been productive of a steady boom to Canada, as $500,000 had been spent in public works, yet the returns showed our population to be 1,500,000 less than it ought to be, a discrepancy which would correspond to a decrease of 20,000,000 in the United States, and yet they tell us that it will all come right. Now was the time to show what our patriotism consisted of. We should face the facts. If such were the fruits of the past ten years what could we hope for the time from now till the year 2000?

MR. CHAPLEAU'S RETIREMENT.

The Globe's Ottawa correspondent telegraphs the announcement that Mr. Chapleau has been ordered to Florida by his physicians is a significant one, if we are to believe the intimates of the honorable gentleman, because if he goes to Florida he will leave his resignation in the hands of the Premier and retire from public life for at least a twelvemonth. It is certain that his greatest friends are urging him to take this course. He is getting better rapidly, and the chances are that in a week or ten days he would be restored to his normal health. From two different and independent sources I learn that Mr. Abbott steadfastly declines to accept Mr. Chapleau's resignation and that the Secretary of State is not yet prepared to go to the extreme of insisting upon it. With Mr. Chapleau in Florida, Sir Adolphe Caron becomes senior Privy Councilor from Quebec and leader from that Province which once boasted of Cartier.

President Harrison has filled the Liberian mission and consulate general by the appointment of William D. McCoy, the well-known colored educator of Indiana. The new diplomat was born at Cambridge City, Ind., Nov. 17, 1853, soon after which the family removed to Indianapolis, when the youngster was sent to a colored school. In 1861, the boy's parents went to Cambridge, when the father enlisted in a colored regiment, but he was not allowed to serve, being over age. He remained, however, in Cambridge, as a barber, sending his sons to the city schools for ten years. Since 1879, he has resided and taught continuously in Indianapolis.

BUILDINGS BURNED.

Disastrous Fires in Montreal—Loss Over $200 000.

MONTREAL, Jan. 21.—Last night a fire broke out in the stone building at the corner of Victoria Square and Craig street, occupied by Mill & McDougall, wholesale woolens; A. M. Fisher & Sons, importers, and Evans, Sons & Mason, coal and wood merchants. The fire did damage amounting to $150,000. The brigades from eleven stations responded and played fifteen streams on the flames. It had gained too great a headway, and nothing could be done but to save the adjoining property. It lasted till midnight. The firemen were handicapped by the telegraph and telephone wires, which came to the ground with the weight of ice formed in the intense cold. The building belonged to Evans Sons & Mason, and was insured to its full value, $20,000. Mills & McDougall were insured for $70,000.

MONTREAL, Jan. 21.—At an early hour this morning fire broke out in the stone building at the corner of Foundling and Port streets, occupied by McLean & Campbell, Geo. McBean, J. E. Hunseiker and Leonard Bros. The flames originated in the top of the building and quickly burned through the roof. The loss will be about $60,000.

CLINTON, Jan. 21.—A disastrous fire occurred in Whitehead's block, caused by the exploding of a lamp in J. C. Gilroy's drygoods store. The flames spread to the premises of J. B. Rumball, jeweler, and Cunningham, grocer. Mr. Gilroy's stock was almost totally destroyed, the stocks of Rumball & Co. and J. Cunningham being saved. Mr. Gilroy was insured for $6,000 and Rumball for $800. Cunningham had no insurance. The central telephone agency and the Canadian Express Company lose considerable.

PORT HURON, Mich., Jan. 21.—Fred A. Beard, a wealthy stock raiser of Ruby, ten miles west of here, met with a serious loss at 4 o'clock yesterday. West Middlesex Agricultural Society.

On Wednesday the annual meeting of the West Middlesex Agricultural Society was held in Strathroy, and a genuine surprise met the officers and members when the hour for meeting arrived. Frank Evans, the well-known secretary-treasurer, was absent, and inquiries forced the conviction that he had left the country under pressure of difficulties, the extent of which has not yet been made known.

A balance of $163 was carried over from 1890 in the hands of the treasurer, and the past year was a successful one and should have added considerably to the balance on hand. In the books and papers left few entries have been made, and the auditors have been unable to form any conclusions as to the condition of the society's finances. So far as is known, nearly all the prize money has been paid out, and the duties performed by Mr. Evans have seemingly been so regular that no suspicion has been directed towards him. He was the chief business man of the Age publishing firm of Evans Brothers, and his brothers David and Fred, are equally surprised at the absence of Frank, who is happily married and apparently lived without a cloud of trouble to mar his pleasure.

The society will lose nothing, even should the absence of Mr. Evans be permanent, as bonds were executed and acknowledged, though their whereabouts are at present unknown. Mr. Evans had been secretary-treasurer of the society for two years, during which John McPherson, Lobo, was president.

The new officers elected are: Jas. Ferguson, president; Wm. Thompson, vice; James Cox, second vice; and John McPherson, T. O. Currie, Wm. Cummings, Thomas Bogue, Wm. Brock, Charles Demary, D. Campbell, and James Haley, directors. No new secretary has been appointed, a committee being named to appoint a successor to Mr. Evans, if it is found necessary to do so.

Mr. Evans has left some small liabilities in Strathroy, but it is not believed that the aggregate amount of his indebtedness is large.

The British cruiser Blake, the strongest in the English navy, will be sent out as flagship on the North American station in place of the Bellerophon. This is considered significant at this time, in view of the pending trouble between Chili and the United States. The Blake is of 9,000 tons burden and 20,000 horse power, and made nineteen knots on her trial trip without very high pressure.

IT'S HERE!

The most fatal epidemic of la grippe that has scourged humanity within recent years is now sweeping over England, Europe and America, Alone, or associated with some form of throat or lung trouble—such as quinsey, diphtheria, pneumonia, or with typhoid, or malarial fever of various types, or with some atonic or other abnormal conditions of the stomach, liver, kidneys or bowels—it has carried off many of our most valued citizens, and thousands in Canadian homes are this day completely prostrated by it.

As a specific for the prevention of, especially such zymotic diseases, and almost every other form of disease by thoroughly cleansing and toning up the entire system and strengthening it to resist and throw off contagion, and for the speedy breaking up of la gripre, typhoid or any other fever, and every illness arising from a disordered stomach, liver, bowels, kidneys, lungs or from a diseased nervous system, and for immediately mitigating the severity of any acute disease, nothing has ever equaled the new system which A. Wilford Hall, Ph.D., so thoroughly tested during a 40 years' remarkable experience.

This system is called "THE NEW PROCESS"—without medicine, and may be immediately and easily applied by anyone without previous training or skill. "THE MICROCOSMIC HEALTH PAMPHLET" published by us fully and clearly explains the system and contains much else of a most valuable and practical character in the treatment of several diseases—notably, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Inflammation of Kidneys, Constipation of the Bowels, etc., etc.

The great evangelist, Rev. Miles Grant, of Boston, calls this system a veritable "LIFE PRESERVER," worth hundreds of dollars to any family, and has written many letters of the strongest possible indorsement. Hundreds of clergymen who have tested it have done the same; so have thousands of intelligent men and women, hundreds of whose letters we have published.

We have sold thousands of copies of this $1 Health Pamphlet and have yet to meet or hear from the first dissatisfied purchaser using the treatment, but on the other hand we have received hundreds of the most grateful letters expressive of entire satisfaction, many of whom say they would not take $500 and have their family deprived of it.

A Special Offer for January, 1892.

We want every family to own a copy of this "Health Pamphlet," and though Dr. Hall still charges $1 for it we have decided to offer it DURING JANUARY AT $2—less than is often paid for a single call from a physician. Our confidence is so absolute in the intrinsic merits of this best of all processes for curing disease that we hereby agree to refund the $2 to any dissatisfied purchaser who will agree, after testing the treatment for one week, never to use it again. It will certainly save life and reduce the doctor bill to almost nothing. EXPLANATORY and TESTIMONIAL CIRCULARS FREE. Remit by Postoffice Order or Registered Letter at our risk. Address

THE BEST KIND OF PIGS TO BREED.

[Professor Shaw in Breeders' Gazette.]

In my opinion the best style of pig to breed is one possessing average size and medium bone of good quality; head not more than medium and jowl not over heavy. It should possess good shoulders, good hams, a back of medium width and even throughout; sides deep and of medium length, good heart and flank girth, and hair rather abundant and of medium fineness; in fact a general purpose pig; that is, one that will mature quickly in finished form if necessary, or that can be kept to a greater age and that will give good results whether running at large or under the restriction of a measure of confinement, the other conditions being favorable.

I desire average size on the principle of that law of nature which seems to reserve the best all-round capabilities for animals of medium size. In these the forces of nature are not drawn aside to sustain what may be irreguar, if not positively abnormal. Medium bone is usually associated with fair flesh-producing capabilities, and the power of resisting the tendency to a diminution in size and bone of good quality keeps the animal well on his feet during all the days of his natural life when he is fairly treated. For making pork I am less particular with the shape of the head than its size, but do not like to see it over-narrow, since all useful animals should have some brains. We do not want a big head, for the reason, first, that its money value per pound is not high, and second, that on the principle of the law of correlation a big head is usually associated with coarseness of structure throughout. We do not want a little head, for then on the same principle we are likely to have a little body. By good shoulders I mean broad, smooth and deep shoulders and well laid within the animal, and by good hams those which are long and deep and broad. We cannot get a back of uniform width without good development of fore and hind quarters. The deep sides increase the weight of a very valuable part, and are also associated with strong development. The side of medium length is better than the short side, since the latter is associated with lack of scale and undue fattening tendencies; and it is better than the very long side, since the latter is too closely linked with ill-feeding properties and a lack of ruggedness. Good heart girth is essential to good constitutional development, and a deep side and heavy hind quarter cannot be obtained without good girth at the hind flank.

It has been said that the grower of pork must produce an article such as the consumer wants or eventually he must give up the business. This is only measurably correct. If the consumer wants only sides of pork and hams, and if these must be long and lean, then the time must come when pork must cease to be grown, for a certain weight of shoulder, and back and head, and other parts of even less value. If the consumer is content with medium and deep hams, in which the proportion of lean is large, then the grower can give him what he wants, providing at the same time that he gets a fair price for the other portions of the animal. It does not prove anything to affirm that because the market cries out for the greatest possible length of ham that the grocer should furnish it, nor is it true that though higher prices should be paid for this kind of pork, therefore it will pay the producer better to grow it. When the buyers cry out for the greatest possible length of sides, on the ground that the consumers want this, I cannot but conclude that they misrepresent the wants of the consumers. I fail to see why a customer would not content himself with a piece of side deep and thick as well as with a piece long and thin, providing the proportions of fat and lean are the same. Every successful breeder since the world began when trying to secure constitution and good feeding properties in the animals which he had bred has eschewed the beast with the long slab side. These animals are invariably hard keepers and their constitutional tendencies lean toward deterioration. I am glad that I have this opportunity of raising my voice against this unreasonable demand on the part of the pork buyers, and call upon breeders everywhere who may chance to read this paper to resist it. In the production of meat with a due proportion of fat and lean intermixed we must have regard to selection in breeding and to feeding and exercise. We must have regard to selection since the way in which meat will be laid on by an animal is as much an object of hereditary transmission as are the general characteristics of form. The character of the food given mightily influences the relative proportions of the fat and lean.

Feeding Poultry in Winter.

In the morning give the fowls a warm breakfast, prepared the evening previous by cutting up a bucketful of clover hay in half-inch lengths, using a cutter made for the purpose. To this cut hay add one quart of cornmeal and two quarts of bran; scald with boiling water and let it stand over night, covered with a piece of old carpet or bagging. Before feeding it in the morning stir the whole mass thoroughly together and while it is warm place it in the feed troughs. At first they eat sparingly of it, but in a few days they will clean it all up nicely and very quickly. After this feed they will sing merrily and be very happy, and a little later their crooning song is changed to the staccato cackle which announces the much coveted eggs. At dinner time two quarts of wheat may be scattered among the litter, and the fowls will scramble in great confusion for it. They scratch and pick among the chaff, obtaining the exercise needed to prevent storing up fat, which is to be always avoided as an enemy to egg production. In the evening, before they go to their roosts, give them a feed of whole corn, which furnishes employment to their digestive machinery during the night, and supplies the needed heat while inactive. This promotes a comfortable night's rest, which poultry need as well as man.

Twice a week change the morning feed. Omit the cut clover hay, and give them a warm mess composed of mashed boiled potatoes, turnips, beef scraps and dissolved pork cracklings, some corn meal and wheat bran, all thoroughly mixed and fed warm (not hot). This supplies the variety necessary to health. The beef scraps and pork cracklings supply animal food in place of the worms and bugs they get while at liberty. Occasionally give them corn and oats ground together in the place of pure corn meal.

A Dinner Pill.—Many persons suffer excruciating agony after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment it becomes a poison to the sytem. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and conver the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with Indigestion or Dyspepsia.

On the train on which Mr. Diment met his death, the engineer had only been recently promoted from fireman. When the coupling pin had been pulled the engineer, without waiting for the customary signal from the brakeman, pulled out and Mr. Diment was thrown to the ground between the rails. He caught the brakebeam and was dragged along several car lengths when the train turned into a siding. In turning his body was thrown under the wheels, death being instantaneous. The body was fearfully mangled. Deceased at one time was employed on the G. T. R.

Frozen Eggs.

In the winter season quantities of eggs are frozen, and it is generally considered that such eggs are worth but little, or, to say the least, are much injured for cooking purposes. This, however, is not strictly true, for if properly treated they are but little injured. Instead of (as was the custom) putting them into cold water to take out the frost and waiting several hours for the thawing to take place, and then finding the yolks in such a solid state that they can be used with no satisfaction in cooking, try the following method: Place them in boiling water and leave them there for from five to twenty minutes, according to the amount of frost in them, when, upon being opened, the yolks will be found soft and in such a state that they can be used for almost any culinary purpose.

"The Advertiser" is an organ of news and of thoroughly independent opinion. The ADVERTISER alone is responsible for opinions expressed in these columns.

"The Advertiser" advocates Continental Free Trade, and as early as possible after, free trade with the whole world.

"The Advertiser" looks forward with hope to Canada's future as that of an Independent Canadian Nationality, in equally friendly alliance with the United States and with Great Britain, believing that such a status would be best for Canada, best for Great Britain, and promotive of the best attainable relations with the United States. As to Imperial Federation, sometimes spoken of, the ADVERTISER as yet has seen nothing proposed that bears any stamp of practicability, and in any case infinitely prefers the grander and more really hopeful scheme of a federation of the English-speaking peoples of the world.

"The Advertiser" advocates prohibition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor; and all expedient general legislation and persuasion in the meantime.

"The Advertiser" is an advocate of equal rights for women, whether as regards the franchise, or equal wages for equal work.

"The Advertiser" is a believer in Christian Union, and considers the time has come when the various Christian denominations should come closer together. Those bodies which are now nearest should unite first. Under the present system there is an unjustifiable waste of men, means and effort. The ADVERTISER will endeavor to promote the movement for Christian union not alone by direct appeal and argument, but by seeking to present the best rather than the worst side of each denomination.

"The Advertiser" advocates Obligatory Voting as both necessary and practicable. Nothing would so much purify electoral contests. Nothing would so much enforce the idea that the franchise is a duty, not a chattel.

London, Thursday, Jan. 21.

EAST MIDDLESEX.

The writ for this constituency has at length been issued. Nomination will be on Thursday, Feb. 4, and polling a week later—Feb. 11. The candidates are Mr. Joseph Marshall and ex-Mayor Taylor, a native of the riding.

THE LATE MR. BURDETTE, M.P.

Canada has lost a good statesman by the death of Mr. Burdette, M. P. for East Hastings. Deceased was the grandson of United Empire loyalists who settled in Prince Edward county, and was born in Tyendinaga in 1843. He was educated at Albert College, Belleville, and represented that institution in the Senate of the Provincial University. In In 1879 he took the degree of LL.D. He represented East Hastings since 1887, and was a Liberal. He has long been a sufferer from consumption, and to that fell malady he succumbed. Mr. Burdette had many friends in the West.

KEEP GOOD-NATURED.

We have entered on another electoral campaign. Long or short, it will interfere with the business of the city. Let us strive to minimize its disadvantages as much as possible. It is a foregone conclusion that Mr. Hyman will be re-elected. He has proved an able representative of London, even in his first session, and he has done nothing to violate the confidence which the electorate has reposed in him. Nevertheless, it is evident, from what we have heard, that the opponents of Mr. Hyman intend to make the contest as bitter as they possibly can. They hope to gain votes by that means. Let them try to do so. We counsel the friends of Mr. Hyman not to follow their example, but to keep their tempers, and conduct a good-natured contest, knowing always that the man who first gets angry is the loser.

A GROSS LIBEL AND THE APOLOGY.

When the so-called bill of particulars in the London election case was published in November last, every person who knew anything about the manner in which the campaign had been conducted by the friends of Mr. Hyman reached the conclusion that it contained gross libels. It was freely conceded, even by Conservatives who had hitherto been opposed to Mr. Hyman, that the "particulars" were in many regards a disgrace to the men responsible for their compilation, and wonder was expressed that Messrs. E. Meredith and Joseph Judd should have accepted the views of the bosses that all sorts of charges should be made against many of the best citizens of London, no matter though it could readily have been ascertained that they had no foundation. There was the charge, for example, that Mr. Frank E. Leonard, manufacturer, had intimidated the liquor dealers, presumably because some time after the election he was appointed a license commissioner. This charge could only have been put in the particulars to bring Mr. Leonard into disrepute among his fellow-citizens, because there could not be even a shadow of proof that it had any foundation. Then there was the accusation that Mr. John W. Little, wholesale merchant, had bribed Mr. Dufton, manufacturer. As Mr. Little proved in the witness box—and no attempt was made to rebut his testimony—this charge was a villainous slander, Mr. Little not having spoken to or had any dealings with Mr. Dufton for some years before the date of the accusation.

It is difficult to fix the responsibility for such character-stabbing as was indulged in, because the attorneys who prepared these documents take refuge behind their professional privileges. But when the London Free Press printed and commented upon the libelous document, a number of representative citizens resolved that it should go no further. They promptly decided to bring the offender to book, and an action for libel was entered. The plaintiffs willingly agreed to have the case held over till after the election trial, not because they had any fears of the results of an appeal for justice to their fellow-citizens, but in order that the men originally responsible for the libel might have opportunity to do their worst, as they had threatened to do.

The election trial is over, the election has been voided on a single illegal act by an alleged agent, but the petitioners have failed, in any degree, to implicate either Mr. Hyman or any responsible member of the Liberal Association in wrong-doing. Moreover, in order to head off prosecution for libel, the Free Press has been moved to print an apology to the leaders in the list of citizens libeled. The apology is in the following terms:

CITIZENS EXONERATED.

The public will remember that when the proceedings against the return of Mr. Hyman, which have been brought to so satisfactory a conclusion, were begun, the Free Press published at length the charges of the petitioner contained in his bill of particulars. Among these charges were several a leging that the following well-known citizens, Messrs. M. Masuret, George C. Gibbons, Q.C., J. W. Little, F. E. Leonard, John Walmsley, J. G. Shuff, and D. H. Tennant, barrister, were guilty of corrupt practices of a more or less grave character. The trial, at which the petitioner had an opportunity of proving, is now over, and during its progress it has not been shown that the gentlemen named were guilty of the charges mentioned in the particulars printed by the Free Press. It is, therefore, only fair to the gentlemen named to say that they are free from all personal corrupt practices. The Free Press is glad to be able to entirely exonerate them from complicity in the alleged wrong-doing, as it is satisfied that an error was made in placing these charges in the particulars.

"An error was made in placing these charges in the particulars!" Undoubtedly it was an error; it was, as the evidence has shown, an intentional error and a great wrong, the effects of which will react upon the men who authorized Messrs. Meredith and Judd to commit it. We blame these men much more than we blame their newspaper mouthpiece, though its comments on the particulars proved that it was far too ready to jump at the conclusion that the slanders were true because Messrs. Meredith and Judd had penned them.

Now that the trial is over it is interesting to note how many other citizens in addition to those to whom the Free Press apologizes were traduced in this precious bill of particulars. Among other respected citizens embraced in the libelous compilation are John Macpherson, barrister; Donald Ferguson, lumber dealer; Wm. Wanless, jun., clerk; John Clarke, Charles Stevens and John H. Glass, boot and shoe manufacturers; Ald. Connor; Finlay McNeil, grocer; Wm. J. McHarg, railway employe; John Stephens, agent; James B. McKillop, barrister; James B. Vining; A. Masuret, book-keeper; John Sullivan and Robert Moore, London West; John O'Gorman, T. S. Hobbs, Robert Hueston, Wm. Tripp, Frank W. Lilley; John D. LeBel, lumber merchant; George Shaver, farmer, Westminster; C. J. Beale, accountant; A. M. Hamilton, merchant; James Magee, barrister; Fred L. Evans, Fred Thompson, George M. Reid, Thos. A. Browne, John McDonald, John Lewis, Harry C. Smythe, Walter Simpson and many others, not to mention Mr. Hyman himself, against whom the most scandalous charges were made, only to be dropped when the day of trial came.

The Free Press has apologized and paid the expenses of the legal proceedings necessitated by its haste to homologate the bill of slanders laid to the charge of many of the best citizens of London. Is it too much to ask that the real transgressors, the men who instructed Messrs. Meredith and Judd to compile the ill-founded document, make haste to apologize and make what reparation is in their power for the injury which they have done to their fellow-citizens and to the reputation of our fair city?

A FORLORN HOPE.

So strongly is M. C. Cameron intrenched in the good graces of the people of West Huron that a local man cannot be prevailed upon to run against him. The election has been kept back to enable Mr. Birmingham, a Toronto agent, to choose a candidate for the high tax leaders. Poor unfortunates, they could not trust themselves to select a candidate!

It is now said that John Joseph Hawkins, of Brantford, the standing sacrificial lamb of the party, is ready and willing to oppose Mr. Cameron, and that he will be the candidate. The friends of trade freedom should be up and doing. United, as we know they are, they will have a picnic with John Joseph.

STILL THEY COME, ALAS!

At the opening of next session of the Dominion Parliament, serious charges will be brought against Sir Adolphe Caron, Minister of Militia. It is probable that some Western friends of the Dominion Government will be seriously implicated. Is there a department of the Government free from corruption? It does not seem like it.

IN THE past six years, the total fire losses in the United States and Canada have been as follows:

1886	$116,900,000
1887	129,264,400
1888	123,290,520
1889	131,949,250
1890	106,998,345
1891	137,716,150

This shows the immensity of our natural resources and our relative ability to recuperate. Over $750,000,000 have thus been burned up in half a dozen years, and the loss is scarcely apparent.

THE ravages of the grip have been far greater in Great Britain than on this continent. As demonstrated by the Registrar-General's report, the epidemic has been most disastrous in its effects. The statistics cover 33 of the principal towns of the Kingdom, containing a population of 10,185,736. They show that the mortality for the week just passed was 33 per 1,000, compared with 28.7 per 1,000 during the previous week. The increase in some towns seems incredible. In Brighton the death rate increased from 37.2 to 51.5; in Liverpool, from 36.3 to 42; in London, from 32.8 to 40; in Norwich, from 31 to 40.1; in Portsmouth, from 36 to 57; and in Wolverhampton, from 35 to 48.1. There were 186 fewer births and 1,193 more deaths in London than the average. The number of deaths in London due primarily to influenza rose from 95 to 271, besides 63 due secondarily to that cause. The deaths in the metropolis from primary diseases of the respiratory organs rose to 1,248. There were only 1.3 hours of bright sunshine registered in London during the week. All over the country a semi-panic prevails on account of the growth of the distressing and dangerous malady. Although the death rate at Birmingham has as yet reached only 20 in 1,000, the people are very much disturbed by the steady increase of the epidemic. At a meeting of the health committee of that city this week it was agreed that no effective measures could be devised for the isolation of the disease. The hospitals are filled to overflowing, and it was decided to make the best arrangements possible for the nursing of patients at their homes.

Why It Is Popular.

Because it has proven its absolute merit over and over again, because it has an unequaled record of cures, because its business is conducted in a thoroughly honest manner, and because it combines economy and strength, being the only medicine of which "100 Doses One Dollar" is true—these strong points have made Hood's Sarsaparilla the most successful medicine of the day. f

PASSED BY A SILENT SHIP.

Topsails Set, Yards Braced, Hull Seemingly Sound, Nobody Aboard.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—The Italian bark Colombo D., which arrived yesterday from Alexandretta, Syria, fell in with the abandoned Nova Scotian barkentine Hutchings Bros., bound from Pernambuco for New York, on Jan. 11, about 200 miles east southeast of Bermuda. Capt. Giovanni Vigiani, of the Colombo D., reports that the Hutchings Bros. was apparently in good condition. Her topsails were set, but all other canvas was furled. Her masts were all standing, and her yards, which were braced up, were intact. Darkness prevented the Italian skipper from making a thorough examination of her. She had enough freeboard to justify the belief that she was not waterlogged, and the Italians wondered why she had been abandoned.

She is owned by Hutchings Bros., of 31 South street, and they were surprised to learn that she was apparently entirely seaworthy when the Colombo D. passed her. She sailed from Pernambuco on Dec. 10 with a cargo of sugar in bags. She was only 1 year old and had made only one voyage. Her skipper, Captain Armstrong, is a Nova Scotian, who has followed the sea since his boyhood. He is 50 years old, and his employers do not believe he would have abandoned the Hutchings Bros. unless she was unseaworthy. The Hutchings Bros. was rated first-class in the American Lloyds. She had not been spoken since she left Pernambuco. She may have been caught in a cyclone off the Bermudas and all hands—they numbered nine—may have been swept off her decks by a huge sea.

After all, the old-fashioned meter by moonlight is about the only one that has stood the test of time and the experts.

Minister Montt's Statement—Chili Has No Quarrel With the United States.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Minister Montt informed the New York Herald correspondent at Washington yesterday that Chili has only the warmest feeling toward the United States. That the American people do not understand Chili; that the statement that the Baltimore sailors were assaulted and killed because Minister Egan and other American officers sympathized with Balmaceda is a pure invention. The Minister said: "Chili has done and is doing all she possibly can to investigate this trouble and ascertain the facts whereupon to punish the guilty. Before she obtains these facts it is impossible for her to make any reply to the demands of this Government. She has conducted the matter just the same as the United States or any country would have conducted it if it had happened within their borders. There has been no delay in the investigation, nor has there been undue haste.

MARRIED WITHOUT CEREMONY.

Actress Loie Fuller Has Her Husband Arrested for Bigamy.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Loie Fuller, the actress, is after Wm. B. Hayes, the lawyer, and her husband, with a club. He is said to be a nephew of ex-President Rutherford B. Hayes. Loie has had him arrested on a charge of bigamy.

Hayes has a wife at 240 West Thirty-fouth street. He was married before he met Miss Fuller.

Miss Fuller says that she married Hayes not ceremoniously, but by written agreement, which they signed. She states most emphatically that she has never lived with Hayes as his wife. Nevertheless, she says, she is his wife, and has an agreement bearing their signatures which will be put in evidence. This is a copy.

NEW YORK CITY, May 11, 1889.

I, W. B. Hayes, in the presence of God, do take Loie Fuller for my lawful wife.

I, Loie Fuller, in the presence of God, do take W. B. Hayes for my lawful husband.

(Signed) W. B. Hayes,
Loie Fuller.

Witness, Mrs. D. R. Fuller.

Loie Fuller is playing in Philadelphia this week. It was generally reported some time ago that she was married to Ramsay Morris, the English actor and author. She was born in Chicago in 1864, and made her debut ten years later; lectured on temperance the same year; toured as a dramatic reader in 1876, and after that achieved fame as a soubrette. In 1882 and 1883 she was with Buffalo Bill's Wild West, then studied music two years and returned to the stage. Her mother accompanied her on her travels.

Loie has been busy and successful as a soubrette, but has found time for some neat advertising acts, like knocking down her stage manager, Paul Vernon, for alleged insults. None of her friends knew of her marriage. She borrowed $1,200 from Lawyer Hayes as a sort of introduction. The money was paid back. Loie took a theater in London and it cost her father $8,000 for her experience.

Hayes said an open marriage would hurt his business. It is said he spent some $40,000 on the soubrette, though Loie says she has not seen Hayes since she came back from England. He was arrested and charged with bigamy. Hayes says it is a case of blackmail.

Her Mother Chastised Her and She Eloped.

NEW LONDON, Jan. 21.—Miss Maggie McGowan and John Bailey, well-known young people of Noank, eloped on Sunday and were married at Mystic. The bride is 17 and her husband is 21. They had been engaged for a year, but Mrs. McGowan objected because the girl was a Catholic and her lover an Episcopalian. One night last week there was a dance in Noank. Mrs. McGowan forbade her daughter to attend. Parential authority was defied, and when Maggie returned home her mother chastised her. Then the elopement was decided upon, and on Sunday after church the lovers met and securing a team drove to Mystic, where the Rev. Joseph Hooper married them.

Annual Congregational Meeting of St. Andrew's Church.

Record of This Leading Presbyterian Body for 1891—The Managers' Report and Discussion Thereon.

The 41st annual report of the Board of Managers of the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was submitted last night at the yearly congregational meeting of the church. The church basement held a large gathering, over which the pastor, Rev. J. A. Murray, presided. The report, signed by Jas. McSween, chairman, and Alex. McIntosh, secretary-treasurer, was read as follows:

The Board of Managers has to congratulate the congregation upon the fact that the ordinary sources of revenue under the envelope system have been very well sustained during the year. The amount raised by weekly contributions during the year were $4,947 82, and by collections $547 44, making a total of $5,495 26. In comparing the year 1890 with 1891, there is a slight deficiency in 1891 of $202 63. The collections are about the usual sum. The financial statement for the year has been drawn up, and will show the total amount of receipts and disbursements, leaving a balance in hand of $184 98.

Regarding the election of managers, in order that a judicious selection be made, the Board recommends the appointment of a nominating committee, composed of two managers, not retiring, named by the chairman of the Board, and three persons chosen by the congregation at its annual meeting (five in all) the duty of which will be to nominate suitable persons for election, and report back to congregational meeting for its adoption or amendment. And in the event of a greater number of names being nominated by the said committee than the required number to fill the places of the retiring members, a ballot to be taken.

In accordance with a resolution passed at the last annual meeting, the managers were authorized to borrow $3,000 by a note, and pay off the large note and several small ones due by the congregation. The money was raised and notes paid off, consolidating the debt at $2,800.

At a joint meeting of the Session and Board of Management it was agreed that an assistant be given Mr. Murray for the summer months of 1891. Mr. J. S. Scott, a Knox College student, was engaged, and preached and worked very acceptably from June 1 to Sept. 15.

Mr. Wm. Kent is executor of the estate of the late Thomas McChlery, who in his will left a portion of his estate to St. Andrew's Church, but owing to advancing years and ill-health, Mr. Kent applied to the Board of Management of St. Andrew's Church to relieve him of the responsibility. The Board considered the request favorably and placed the matter in Mr. T. H. Purdom's hands, who directed that Mr. Geo. A. Somerville, of the Huron and Erie, be appointed to take the estate in trust, and dispose of it (and this has been sanctioned by an order from Judge Elliot). The estate was sold for $1,888 22, and applied on the church debt and interest thereof, reducing the amount from $2,800 to $1,000. The half yearly interest of the estate, $52 50, will be paid to Miss McChlery during life.

On account of the great difficulty experienced by the Pew Committee in locating applicants for sittings and accommodating strangers the managers deem it advisable to recommend that the present system of placing the names of occupants upon the pews be discontinued in order that the Board may have the privilege of appropriating sittings now unoccupied.

A cordial vote of thanks is due to the members of the choir for their regular attendance, and for the efficient manner in which the service of praise has been conducted by them, under the direction of Mr. Wheeler, and as Mr. Wheeler has applied for $100 additional to his salary the Board would recommend that the increase be granted.

A hearty vote of thanks is also due to the ushers and auditors for the valuable services rendered by them to the congregation.

The managers who now retire by rotation are Messrs. Jas. McSween, C. McCallum, Dr. Macarthur, Geo. A. Somerville, James Mills, M. H. Rowland, all of whom are eligible for re-election.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

ALEX. McINTOSH, Secretary-Treasurer. JS. McSWEEN, Chairman.

Clauses one and two passed. Mr. C. McCallum said, in connection with the first, that some subscriptions had been cut down by some who were compelled to do so by circumstances, while some of the members had ceased to support the church because dissatisfied with the Board's course. This year, he had reason to hope, would be equal if not superior to any.

Clause three created a good deal of discussion. The chairman explained that because of irregularities they were going to vote this year, and all must sign their names.

Mr. Rowland was not pleased with the idea. The principle of the ballot was secrecy.

A vote was taken, by which it was decided that a voter need not attach his signature. H. E. Nelles, Mr. Irwin and T. H. Purdom, with Messrs. Cairncross and Gray, the non-retiring Board members, were placed on the committee and started to work immediately.

The next three clauses passed.

A warm and protracted debate was stirred up on the manager's recommendation regarding the pews.

Mr. A. G. Chisholm said he would leave the church if his name was taken off his pew.

Mr. McCallum did not want the name taken off, but thought something should be done to provide seats for visitors.

Mr. C. R. Somerville said that the adherents of the church should not be inconvenienced for those coming in occasionally. The latter could be seated in the gallery if there was no room downstairs.

Mr. T. H. Purdom said he would have difficulty in finding his seat were it not for the name. If a rule was laid down it would tend to break up the church and that would be a pity when Presbyterianism was in so flourishing a condition.

Mr. M. H. Rowland, the pew committee chairman, said the recommendation was made more to educate the people to the idea than from any hope of it passing. Many would not attend the church for fear of putting somebody else out, although there were church members who did not nearly fill their pews, and these spare seats were vacant week after week.

Dr. Gardiner moved that each family be allowed the number of seats they now occupied and that other seats be left with the pew committee. This was made a notice of motion and the clause of the report struck out almost unanimously.

The rest of the report passed.

The nominating committee appointed, returned and reported the following nominations: John McMillan, A. M. Gunn, Jas. McSween, C. R. Somerville, M. H. Rowland, Dr. McArthur, James Houston, Dr. Gardiner, James Mills, Geo. Woods, S. Wright and D. Fraser. Mr. Fraser declined. On the vote being taken the following were elected: Messrs. Rowland, Somerville, Gunn, McSween, McArthur, Mills, Gardiner and McMillan.

The sum of $159 33 was ordered to be handed over to the Sunday school for usual expenditure.

Mr. G. W. Armstrong was tendered a vote of thanks for the handsome stands which adorn the church platform.

The grant to the North End Mission was placed at $100 instead of $50. Mr. Nelles pointing out the necessity.

It was also resolved to pay $100 towards the augmentation fund if possible. Rev. Mr. Murray explained that there had been a shrinkage of $160 in contributions and the Presbytery had apportioned $200 as the church's share for the fund; hence the necessity of the $100 grant.

Mr. A. G. Chisholm commented upon the condition of the church cemetery. The congregation decided to patch up the fence and make desired improvements.

The meeting will be continued on Wednesday when the full reports will have been got ready.

A resolution of sympathy with the royal family in their recent bereavement was unanimously passed.

NORTH MIDDLESEX FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

A series of three meetings of the above institute was held in Parkhill on Jan. 13. Each meeting was moderately well attended. Considerable interest was shown in the various subjects introduced, and in the discussions which took place. Papers or addresses were given on the following subjects: On "Sheep husbandry," by W. H. Taylor; on "Dairying," by H. B. Sharman, B.S.A.; on "Apple culture," by A. H. Pettit; on "Beef cattle," by J. McMillan, M.P.; on "A farmer's life," by Geo. F. Johnson; on "Some facts in relation to the production of crops," and "The education of farmers' sons and daughters," by E. M. Bigg, principal of high school; on "Education," by C. M. Simmons; on "The home training of our children," by J. McMillan; on "The commonest thing in the world," by H. B. Sharman.

C. M. Simmons, president; Peter Stewart, vice-president, and S. P. Zavitz, secretary-treasurer, were in attendance. The following were appointed officers for the coming year, which begins July 1 next, viz.: President, Peter Stewart, Parkhill; vice-president; C. C. Hodgins, Lucan; secretary and treasury, George T. Johnson, West McGillvray. For delegates to attend the Central Institute to be held in Toronto, beginning Feb. 2, W. H. Taylor, Parkhill, and S. P. Zavitz, Coldstream, were appointed.

A large and enthusiastic series of three meetings of North Middlesex Farmers' Institute was held in Coldstream on Jan. 16. J. McMillan, and A. H. Pettit were in attendance, and they were ably supported by local talent. Papers were read or addresses given upon the following subjects in the day sessions: "Apple growing, picking, packing and marketing," by A. H. Pettit; "The silo, growing corn and making ensilage," by J. McMillan, M.P.; "The profitable production of wheat," by A. Cameron; "How shall we establish an apple market," by A. H. Pettit; "How to make the farm pay," by S. Nicholson; "Rotation of crops," by J. McMillan. At the evening session the hall was crowded by an intelligent and attentive audience, and the following addresses, which were supplimented at intervals by excellent music, were well received, and made the evening a very enjoyable one, and concluded one of the most successful institutes yet held. Addresses: Chairman Alex. Gray's remarks; "Farmers' organizations, how shall we benefit by them;" a paper by E. M. Zavitz, and read by Mr. C. A. Zavitz, Ontario Agriculture College, Guelph, "Stand by your vocation;" "The free delivery of mail to the homes of the farmers," an address by S. P. Zavitz; "Make home attractive," an address by J. McMillan. Thirty members joined the institute at Parkhill, and 60 at Coldstream.

Buffalo Barley Market.

BUFFALO, Jan. 20.—Barley steady; some inquiry for malting grade; 86c bid for No. 2 Canada (choice sample) on track; a round lot of Michigan sold at 63c. Other grades of barley are more firmly held as the demand has been more brisk for several days than at any time this season, maltsters being engaged in sorting up, but there is no really great activity, an odd lot here and there being picked up to fill out with. At New York there is not a very active market, six-rowed State, choice, in store, 72c; No. 2 Milwaukee, 71c to 73c afloat. At Albany sales were made of 1,000 bu No. 1 bright Canada (by samples) at 95c; mensury (sample) at 65c. At Oswego the market is quiet and quotations are nominally 92c for No. 1 Canada, and 89c for No. 2 choice. At St. Louis—Market steady; Iowa, 57c; Minnesota, 59½c to 61c. At Chicago—Market quiet; No. 1, 60c in store. At Milwaukee—Market weak and lower; No. 2 sold at 57½c in store; sample (choice) on track, 61c.

British Grain Trade.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—The Mark Lane Express, in its weekly review of the British grain trade, says: English wheats are dull and demand light. The heavy English reserves and the colossal stocks in the various ports have caused a fall of 1s in the finest samples without inducing buyers to purchase. Foreign wheats have suffered a similar reduction. The total decline since the 1st of December is 4s on California and 2s on American red winter. The stock of foreign wheats amounts to 6,253,000 qrs against 4,043,000 qrs on the corresponding date last year. Until the demand shall have moved a part of this surplus of 2,000,000 qrs dull markets are inevitable. A hopeful sign of the increase in continental buying and relief is the cessation of the Russian and Roumanian supplies. American flour is lower. Oats are 1s and corn 6d cheaper. During the week beans and peas were scarce and commanded better prices to-day, but the prices of English and foreign did not move buyers to purchase. English flour dropped 1s; barley was steady; oats and corn unchanged; beans and peas were held for an advance. Linseed was 3d dearer.

Petrolea Oil Market.

PETROLEA, Jan. 20.—Oil to-day at $1 20.

Live Stock Markets.

EAST BUFFALO.

EAST BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 20.—Cattle—Fifteen cars on sale; good to choice cows and heifers, $2 50 to $3, and light to fair stockers at $1 50 to $2 per cwt; market closed dull.

Sheep and Lambs—About 5,000 head on sale, 800 head being Canada lambs. The market was firmer and mostly all sold. Canadas sold generally at $6 75 for very good and extra might bring more. The native stock was common and sold mostly at $5 75 to $6 15. Canada sheep at $4 75 to $5 25.

Hogs—Eight cars offered; not enough to establish a market. Good hogs sold at $4 70 to $4 75 for Yorkers; medium and heavy pigs brought $4 35 to $4 50; roughs, $3 50 to $3 75, and stags, $3 to $3 25, the market ruling firm at quotations.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, Jan. 21.—Cattle—Receipts a little heavier, but business was active. Prices if anything somewhat firmer. Quite a few were taken for Montreal, at which market 4c to 4½c per lb is being paid for choice butchers' cattle. The highest price reached at this market was 4c per lb, which is an improvement of ½c over the highest last week. One seller held for 4½c, but did not find a taker. The most of the sales were made at between 2¾c and 3½c per lb, the lower figure being paid for scraggy animals to feed for a future market.

Sheep—Trade weaker. Prices tended downward from the opening of the market, and closed at $2 90 to $3 per cwt. A few choice sheep are being taken for export. The local demand is not brisk.

Milch Cows and Springers—Firm at from $28 to $45 per head though a little higher was paid in one instance. Two head were sold for $28 each, 3 for $48 and 1 choice beast at $50, with a fraction off for luck.

Calves—There is a weak tone to this trade, and not much doing. Quotations range at from $3 to $8 per head, according to quality; the latter price being paid for extra choice veals.

Hogs—Receipts of hogs light; prices did not show any improvement. Quite a number were sent through to Montreal, where good straight fat hogs are fetching $4 25 to $4 50 per cwt. Here the general run for best hogs is from $4 25 to $4 30; for stores and light fat there is hardly any demand, and rough hogs sell slowly. Heavy rough fetch from $4 to $4 20, and half fat about the same. The cold weather caused a decline in the demand for live hogs, and created a better inquiry for dressed carcasses.

THE LADIES WELCOME.

Doubtless the Grand Opera House will be crowded on Saturday night when the people's candidate for the representation of London in the House of Commons will be chosen. The ADVERTISER has been asked to discover if ladies can attend. The decision of the committee is that they will be heartily welcome, and an endeavor will be made to provide them with seats if they are present by 7:30 or 7:45 p.m. The proceedings start at 8 sharp.

—The firemen were called to near the corner of Talbot and Kent streets last night. Somebody had been thawing out frozen pipes and the woodwork had caught fire. The blaze was easily put out.

A Farewell Token.

Mr. Thomas Muir, late manager of the Ontario car shops, this city, has been appointed treasurer of the Detroit electrical works, and at his residence, Waterloo street, the other evening was presented with a farewell token by his associate teachers and his class in St. Andrew's Church Sabbath school. It consisted of a handsome tea service of six pieces. Walter Laidlaw read the address and the presentation was made by Hugh Gunn. Mr. Muir's departure is greatly regretted by hundreds of his friends.

His Action Approved.

County Crown Attorney Hutchinson received a communication this morning from the Secretary of the Toronto Humane Society stating that they were heartily in sympathy with him in the action he has taken against dehorning cattle. He suggested that all the societies in Canada be asked to contribute funds for carrying on the investigation. The letter further stated that Chas. Black, formerly vice-president of the Hamilton Humane Society, had interviewed several farmers near Hamilton and that they all regarded it as an exceedingly painful and cruel operation.

Two of a Kind.

Ellen Collins, a woman about 75 years of age was picked up on the streets in a helpless condition yesterday. She said at the Police Court this morning that she had been down to the hospital to see her husband and denied that she was drunk, although she had to be carried into the Police Station. She was also charged with vagrancy. Her husband was remanded a week ago on a charge of being drunk and a vagrant, but it was discovered in jail that his arm was broken. He was therefore sent to the hospital. The magistrate dismissed his case and sent Ellen to jail for four months.

Merry Money-Makers.

The Ohio Benefit Society people invited their friends to enjoy a social evening with them last evening in the K. of P. hall, and about 200 responded. Alex. Gardner, D.D. for Ontario, presided, and introduced a programme of song, etc., that passed a pleasant hour. Mrs. Ada Gauld recited twice, her rendition of two comic pieces exciting the admiration of all. Misses Mutch, Barnard and Land each sang popular selections in good voice. Mr. Firth played a guitar solo so sweetly that an encore was demanded and a whistling song was rendered in capital style. Fred Evans acted as accompanist in his usual acceptable manner. An interesting address on the aims and claims of the order was delivered by Charles A. Parsons, Cleveland, Ohio, after which the young folks took possession of the floor and danced for a few hours, refreshments being served a little before midnight.

Nye and Burbank.

The entertainment to be given by Bill Nye and A. P. Burbank at the Grand to-morrow night promises to be one of the most enjoyable of the season. The Des Moines Register, April 11, 1891, says: The "man who has made all America laugh," with his equally humorous associate, Mr. Burbank, gave their entertainment at Foster's last night to a well filled house. They were all that the humor-loving people of this city expected. Mr. Burbank took well, and displayed a remarkable degree of ability and tact in his presentation of the various sentimental or humorous pieces. Mr. Nye's selections were good and well received. No one could help laughing at his odd phrases, given in his old original way. The entertainment is much after the kind given when James Whitcomb Riley was with Mr. Nye, the gentlemen reading or reciting alternately, and giving a pleasant two hours entertainment.

Plenty of Criminal Proceedings Possible.

It would be just as well for the Free Press to keep cool, and say no more about criminal proceedings. What rubbish! Against whom could criminal proceedings be taken, unless certain young Conservatives who made oath to declarations that are admittedly false, in order to get their names on the voters' lists, are to be prosecuted? These offenders now have the assurance to appeal. This is one of the most remarkable developments of the many in connection with the infamous Franchise Act. These men, nominally respectable, have been guilty of perjury in that they have sworn to be residents of Canada for one year, when it is known that they had not been in the country for two months, yet they appeal to the county judge under pretense that they had not proper notice of objection. It would not surprise us if there were a number of prosecutions and convictions in this connection.

Companions at Church.

Forest Home Circle, No. 67, Companions of the Forest, South London, accompanied by members of Pride of the East Circle, attended divine service last evening in St. James' Episcopal Church, when Rev. Canon Davis preached a forcible and instructive sermon, basing his remarks on Galatians, vi., 2: "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ." Sociability, the care of the sick, furnishing medical attendance and paying weekly benefits to sick members were pointed out by the reverend gentleman to be the governing principles of the order, and in thus combining for protection in time of distress he thought benevolent societies were doing a Christ-like work, as neither man or woman were now able to stand entirely independent. Co-operation was a principle that ruled the universe.

The McKelvin Case.

At Osgoode Hall yesterday, in Queen's Bench division before Judge MacMahon, ruling was made as follows: McKelvin vs. City of London.—Judgment in action tried with a jury at London. Action for damages for an injury to the plaintiff, alleged to have been caused by the negligence of the defendant corporation in leaving the highway in bad repair. Mr. Charles Colwell was made a party defendant under sec. 531 of the Municipal Act on motion of the defendant corporation. The injury to the plaintiff occurred while he was driving a horse and sleigh on the highway at the corner of Palace street and Princess avenue, London, the runner of his sleigh coming in contact with a large boulder which had been placed there by the defendant Colwell, the plaintiff's horse and sleigh having been overturned and the plaintiff thrown from his sleigh, and in his endeavor to raise his horse having sustained a fracture of the right leg. The jury found that the boulder was an obstruction; that the corporation had reasonable notice of the obstruction; that the plaintiff was not guilty of any negligence in the manner in which he raised his horse or otherwise; that the defendant Colwell placed the stone in the position it was in when the accident took place, and they assessed the damages at $250. The principal question raised at the trial was as to the damages being too remote. The learned judge refers to Page vs. Town of Bricksport, 64 Maine 51, and holds that the damages are not too remote. Judgment to be entered after the second day of the next sittings of the Divisional Court against the defendant corporation for $250 and full costs of suit, and for relief over for the defendant corporation against the defendant Colwell for the amount of the plaintiff's judgment and costs, and the costs of the defendant corporation occasioned by defending the plaintiff's action. Hellmuth (London) and Thomas (London) for the plaintiff. W. R. Meredith, Q.C., and T. G. Meredith (London) for the defendants the City of London. Gibbons, Q.C., for the defendant Colwell.

Cook vs. Huron and Middlesex Mutual Fire Insurance Company.—Aylesworth, Q.C., for the defendants, appealed from the judgment of the County Court of Oxford refusing to direct a new trial or to interfere with the verdict of the jury in favor of the plaintiff in an action in that court to recover for the loss by fire of the plaintiff's barn and contents which were insured by the defendants. The principal defense relied upon was a release of the plaintiff's claim upon payment of 50 cents on the dollar. Hegler (Ingersoll), for the plaintiff, contra. Reserved.

TO THE ELECTORS OF

EAST MIDDLESEX.

Gentlemen.—In compliance with the solicitations and requests of a large number of the electors of the Electoral District of East Middlesex, I have again consented to become the Independent candidate for the representation of this riding in the Parliament of Canada, believing as I do, that at no time in the history of our Dominion has there been a greater necessity for independent thought and action than at present. I would, if elected, support a liberal trade policy between Canada and Great Britain, thereby tending to strengthen the bonds of union that exist between the Dominion and the mother land. A tariff for revenue purposes only, is all that should be maintained. I would favor the obtaining by every legitimate effort, of a favorable reciprocity treaty between Canada and the United States. The freest trade relations possible should exist between the two countries, that would be consistent with the position we hold as a part of the British Empire. I am opposed to all combinations that advance the value of the necessaries of life to consumers. The freest possible exchange of productions should be brought about between the farmer and the manufacturer. The farmer has a right to obtain the full value of his earnings, and the produce of the country should be carried to the seaboard for a just consideration. The system of granting railway charters requires amending, and attention will have to be paid to protect the public from railway monopolies. The public lands should be reserved for actual settlers. Not another acre should be given to railways. While the church is entitled to entire freedom in its own domain, I will oppose the granting to any creed or nationality of privileges not equally enjoyed by all. I believe in complete separation of Church and State, and will defend to the utmost the rights and privileges that have been handed down to us by our forefathers. A simpler and less expensive method than the present system of preparing the voters' lists is desirable, and the principle of one man one vote and the purity of elections I would heartily support. If elected I will support all good measures that may come before the House, independent of party consideration. As a retired farmer who has successfully carried on farming operations for a considerable portion of my life, I can well understand and appreciate the requirements of a farming community, and should the electors of this riding confide their trust in me by securing my return as their representative the interests of the electors of this constituency shall be my first and last thought. The will of the people should be supreme in all matters of legislation and government and, I am therefore in favor of submitting to a vote of the electors of the Dominion, whenever petitioned for the question of prohibition of the liquor traffic or other matters of vital importance to the country.

Trusting to meet with the approval of the electors in this my native riding, and asking for their support as an independent candidate, I have the honor to be. Yours respectfully

George Taylor.

Fate of Sir Hugh.

But when a few more days had passed, Mrs. Heron thought she had been tired long enough, and sent for Dr. Martin.

He looked very grave when he saw her, and Fay smiled to herself, for she said, "The time is very near now, and then he thinks that I shall die."

But Margaret's reproachful speech came back to her—"Would you wish to die without winning your husband's love?" and to the alarm of the good housekeeper she suddenly became hysterical and begged her to send for Sir Hugh.

But her piteous request was forgotten for a time, for before night her life was in danger.

Hour after hour the desolate young creature looked death in the face and found him terrible, and called out in her agony that she was afraid to die unless Hugh would hold her hand; and for many a long day after that Fay did not see her baby boy, for the least excitement would kill her, the doctor said, and her only chance was perfect quiet.

And the urgent letters that were sent did not reach Sir Hugh for a long time, for he was wandering about Switzerland. He had carelessly altered his route, and had forgotten to tell Fay so.

But on his homeward route, which was not until the six weeks were past, he found a budget awaiting him at Interlachen.

Hugh was deeply shocked when he heard of his wife's danger, and blamed himself for his selfishness in leaving her.

The trip had refreshed him, but the idea of returning home was still irksome to him. He had enjoyed his freedom from domestic restraint; and he had planned a longer route, that should end in the Pyramids, when Fay was well and strong again. It would not matter then; but he was a brute, he confessed, to have left her just at that time. Then he added in self-extenuation that he was not quite himself.

And one lovely summer morning, when Fay lay like a broken lily on her pillow, and looked languidly out upon the world and life, they brought her baby to her and laid it in her weak arms; and Fay gazed wonderingly into a dimpled, tiny face and blue-gray eyes that seemed to her the counterpart of Hugh's eyes; and then, as she felt the soft breathing of the warm, nestling thing against her shoulder, and saw the crumpled hand on her breast, a new, strange flood of happiness came into her starved heart.

"Hugh's little boy," she whispered, and a tender look shone in her eyes; and then she added, "he will love me for my baby's sake."

And she was very happy in her belief.

As long as they would let her, she lay cradling her boy in her feeble arms and whispering to him about his father; and when night came she would lie awake happily trying to hear baby's soft breathing in the bassinet beside her, and if he woke and cried, she would ask the nurse to lay him beside her.

"He will not cry when he is with his mother," she would say, with maternal pride. "He is always so good with me; indeed, I never knew such a good baby," which was not wonderful, considering her experience had been confined to Catharine's baby at the lodge. And if the nurse humored her, Fay would cover the little downy head with noiseless kisses, and tell him not to cry, for father was coming home to love them and take care of them both.

"You will love me now; yes, I know you will, Hugh," she would murmur softly when baby was slumbering peacefully in his blankets again, and nurse had begged Lady Redmond not to think any more about Master Baby, but to go to sleep." And as she obediently closed her eyes, the happy tears would steal through her eyelids.

Poor innocent child! when she had first discovered that Hugh did not love her, her despair had nearly cost her her life; but no sooner was her baby brought to her than hope revived, for from the depth of her sanguine heart she believed that by her boy's help she should win his love; not knowing in her ignorance that Hugh might possibly care nothing for the son though he desired the heir, and the baby charms that had been so potent with her should possess no magic for him.

CHAPTER XXX.

"IT IS ALL OVER, BABY."

Sleep and rest, sleep and rest,
Father will come to thee soon,
Rest, rest on mother's breast,
Father will come to the soon;
Father will come to his babe in the nest,
Silver sails all out of the west
Under the silver moon;
Sleep, my little one, sleep, my pretty one, sleep.

—Tennyson.

It was on a hot thundery July afternoon that Sir Hugh entered Redmond Hall, weary and heated and dusty, and thoroughly ashamed of himself.

There are some men who hate to be reminded of their own shortcomings—who are too proud and impatient to endure self-humiliation, and who would rather go through fire and water than own themselves in the wrong. Sir Hugh was one of these. Despite his moral weakness, he was a Redmond all over, and had a spice of the arrogance that had belonged to them in the old feudal days, when they had ruled their vassals most tyrannically. And especially did he hate to be reminded by word or deed that his conduct had not been faultless; his conscience made him uncomfortable enough, for he was really kind-hearted in spite of his selfishness; so it did not improve matters when Mrs. Heron met him in the hall, and, quite forgetting her usually stately manners, suddenly burst out, while her tearful eyes gave emphasis to her words:

"Oh, Sir Hugh, I am grateful and thankful to see you again, for we thought my lady would have died in her trouble, for, bless her dear heart, she fretted herself cruelly when you left her, and more's the pity!"

The housekeeper had meant no reproach to her master, but Sir Hugh's uneasy conscience took alarm.

"Thank you, Mrs. Heron," he said, with icy politeness, "I am deeply indebted to you for reminding you me of my shortcomings. Ellerton, be good enough to tell Lady Redmond's nurse that I am here, and that I wish to see my wife at once;" and he passed on in a very bad humor indeed, leaving Mrs. Heron thoroughly crest-fallen by her master's unexpected sarcasm.

Ellerton was an old servant, and he ventured to remonstrate before carrying out this order.

"Will you not get rid of a little of the dust of your journey, Sir Hugh, and have some refreshment before you go up to my lady?"

"You have my orders, Ellerton," returned his master, curtly; and he ascended the staircase with the frown still heavy on his face.

He did not like to feel so ashamed of himself, and this was his mode of showing it.

Fay lay on a couch in her bedroom looking very lovely, in her white-gown trimmed with lace, with her brown hair hanging in long plaits, and a little rose-leaf color tinting her cheeks. She was listening with a beating heart for the well-known footsteps; as they sounded at last in the corridor and she heard his voice speaking to Ellerton, she sat up, flushed and trembling, and under the soft shawl something that lay hidden stirred uneasily as she moved.

"You must not excite yourself, my lady," observed the nurse, anxiously; but she might as well have spoken to the wind, for Fay seemed to have forgotten her presence.

"Oh, Hugh, my darling husband!" she exclaimed, as the door opened; and the tender rose flush deepened in her cheeks as she stretched out her hand to him with her old smile.

Hugh stooped over the couch and kissed her, and then sat down with rather a dissatisfied expression on his face; he thought they had made a fuss to frighten him, and bring him home—she did not look so very ill after all.

"I could not come to meet you, love," she said, with a little clasp of his hand, and she kissed it in her old way and laid it against her face.

"My dear Fay," he remonstrated, and bit his lip. "Nurse, you can trust your patient in my care. I will ring for you in a little while." Then as the door closed behind her, he said in a vexed tone, "Fay, why will you be so childish? You know that I object to demonstrations before the servants, and have told you so, and yet you never seem to remember; do try to be a little more dignified, my dear, and wait until we are alone." And this to her who had come back to him through "The Valley of the Shadow of death," bringing his boy with her!

Fay became very white, and drew her hand away. "You do not seem to remember how very ill I have been," she faltered. And then the baby's blind wondering touches over her breast soothed her.

Hugh grew a little remorseful.

"My dear, I assure you I have not forgotten it; I was very grieved to hear it, and to know that you should not have been alone in your trouble; but was it my fault, Fay? Did you keep your promise to me not to fret yourself ill when I was gone?"

"I kept my promise," she replied, quietly; "the fretting and the mischief were done before. We will not talk about my illness; it is too bad even to think of it. Have you nothing else to say to me, Hugh? do you not wish to see our boy?"

Hugh started, conscience-stricken—he had forgotten his child altogether; and then he laughed off his confusion.

"Our boy! what an important Wee Wifie. Yes, show him to me by all means. Do you mean you have got him under that shawl?"

A Romance in a Nutshell.

She went to a ball; wore too thin clothing; caught cold; was very ill for many days; a devoted admirer brought a remedy, when her life seemed to hang by a thread; she took it; recovered; and, finally, married the man who had saved her life. And the remedy he brought her was Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which is a certain cure for all throat and lung diseases and scrofulous complaints, of which consumption is one.

FUN, FACTS AND FICTION.

One of the first things necessary in friendship is to find out what a man's red flag is and avoid waving it.

Carter's Little Liver Pills must not be confounded with common Cathartic or Purgative Pills, as they are entirely unlike them in every respect. One trial will prove their superiority.

The only temptation that some men resist is the momentary one to give a dollar to a man in trouble.

A man's wife should always be the same especially to her husband; but if she is weak and nervous and uses Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they will make her "feel like a different person," at least so they all say, and their husbands say so, too.

A man's goodness to his wife depends entirely on her ability to make him enjoy being good to her.

THE THIRTY-THIRD

Annual Meeting of the London Horticultural and Agricultural Society.

The 33rd annual meeting of the City of London Horticultural and Agricultural Society was held in the City Hall last evening, Capt. A. W. Porte, president, in the chair, and Secretary T. A. Browne in charge of the books. The secretary read the notice of meeting and the minutes of the last regular meeting, the latter being adopted. Capt. A. W. Porte, president of the directors of the society, reported as follows;

"Gentlemen,—The annual report of your directors for the year 1891 is very brief, nothing of special importance having transpired to furnish data for a lengthy address. The year just closed has been similar to its predecessors in regard to the work performed by us. Your directors determined that the aims and objects of this society could be best accomplished by continuing their efforts with the other societies in the advancement of the great exhibition of the West—the Western Fair—and, as you will see by the treasurer's statement, the balance of the funds, after paying expenses, has been therefore handed over to the Western Fair Association as heretofore. The Western Fair of 1891 was an unparalleled success, especially in regard to the exhibit in the horticultural department, as such a display of fruits and flowers was never before seen in this city. Your directors regret extremely that the society will hereafter be deprived of the valuable services of the treasurer, Mr. W. Y. Brunton, who has held the position for many years, performing his duties to the satisfaction of the Board and to the great benefit of the society."

The treasurer's statement showed receipts to have been $484, and balance handed over to Western Fair Association $268 40. Both reports were adopted.

Thomas J. Murphy, of Simcoe, secretary of the North Norfolk Agricultural Society, sent a communication asking the society to co-operate in an endeavor to have the Government raise the annual grant to the electoral district agricultural societies from $700 to $1,000. The matter was left to the new Board of Directors.

Nominations were then received for officers for 1892. Captain A. W. Porte was re-elected president by acclamation. A. M. Smart was elected first vice-president, and Colonel Leys second vice-president by acclamation.

It was moved and carried that the nine directors be elected en bloc. Wm. Yates, Geo. M. Reid, Geo. Taylor, J. D. Sharman, James Brown, James Douglas, Lieut.-Col. R. Lewis, W. R. Hobbs and W. M. Gartshore were therefore elected. J. S. Dewar and A. G. Smyth were re-elected auditors.

The directors were empowered to elect the directors to the Western Fair Association from among themselves.

IN MEMORIAM.

"And God Shall Wipe Away All Tears from Their Eyes."

At St. Paul's Cathedral last evening there was a packed congregation to commemorate the death of Prince Albert Victor. A company from the Military School attended, and a full choir under the directorship of Mr. Sippi rendered a service of sacred song that was much appreciated. The pulpit was draped and prayers were read by Very Rev. Dean Innes, the lessons being read by Rev. W. T. Hill and Rev. Principal Millar. The Bishop of Huron preached an impressive sermon from the text, "And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes, and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain, for the former things are passed away."

After an eloquent introduction, the bishop referred personally to the late Prince by saying that the peculiar circumstances which make affliction intensely trying, both to her Majesty and the Prince, are as follows: The deceased was in the prime of his youth, being only in the 28th year of his age. Life was not only bright about him, but the hopes of his family were centered in him. The Prince was only in the morning of his life; bright avenues of future usefulness were all before him; the music and the harmonies of his royal home about him, while anxiety and sorrow, the unfailing accompaniments of power, stood as yet unrecognized and unknown.

Secondly, he was the heir presumptive to the throne—the throne of England; that grand historic throne which from the days of Egbert to the present hour has gathered around it the strength and vigor of the Anglo-Saxon race. On it have sat men of undoubted piety, like the Confessor Edward, the unconquerable Alfred and the youthful Edward VI. Here, too, once reigned Richard of the lion heart, who left his palace to fight with Saracen for the freedom of Jerusalem and the recovery of the tomb. Here also sat the fiery Edwards and the victorious Henry V.—men of blood and iron, who made England terrible in their days. Here, too, governed good Queen Bess, who from her rocky isle saw approaching to her shores the Armada of Spain, against which the stars in their courses fought; and quiet Queen Anne, made famous by the victories of Marlborough and the architectural triumphs of Sir Christopher Wren. Here, too, sat good King George, who in an age singularly dissolute and corrupt, lived a pure and blameless life, while England with giant strides advanced in wealth, in power and in fame. To occupy such a throne, to wield such a scepter and to wear such a crown was apparently God's design and purpose toward him, for by him, and by him alone, do kings reign and princes decree justice. God's design, however, was really otherwise. As the late Robert Hall said of the Princess Charlotte of Wales, I, using his words, will say, "God permitted the late Prince to touch whatever this sublunary scene presents that is most attractive and alluring, but to grasp nothing, and after conducting him to an eminence whence he could survey all the glories of empire as his destined possession, closed his eyes in death."

Thirdly, he had pledged his troth to one who was to be his future bride, so that his unexpected death will plunge two families into unutterable grief. Who will refuse his sympathy and condolence to our widowed Queen and her sorrowing son? Let us not only give them our sympathy and condolence, but let us deeply and earnestly pray for them, that in this the hour of great bereavement they may find their solace and support in him who has said: "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest," for he it is, and he alone, who being in himself the resurrection and life, can comfort in the present and fill the future with unmeasured joy. The Redeemer's presence is needed in the palace of kings as well as in the cot of the lowliest, and we will pray that the God of all consolation and love will now be with them and sanctify by his abounding grace this their affliction to them.

The closing sentences of the bishop were expressions of love and admiration for the bereaved grandmother and Queen. The noble woman who to-day sits on the throne of her fathers has had her characted tested by the vicissitudes of half a century. She has governed in times of profoundest peace and during the fiercest of sanguinary wars. She and her son are now deeply bereaved. As members of the same church and heirs of the same hope, we will place them in the loving hands of him who was the "man of sorrows and acquainted with grief;" while as subjects of her empire, we will extend her our sympathy, and thus show how strong are those bonds of union which clasp this free land of ours to the throne and realm of England.

Presbytery of Paris.

The Presbytery of Paris met on Tuesday in Brantford and transacted a large amount of important business. There was a good attendance of members. A committee was appointed to meet with the Chesterfield congregation on the 4th of February in regard to matters connected with the election of a pastor. Rev. James H. Whyte, a licentiate of the Free Church of Scotland, was received as a probationer of the church on designation from the Colonial Committee. Messrs. McGregor, of Tilsonburg, and Hutt, of Ingersoll, reported progress in connection with the establishment of a new preaching station at Verschoyle. Dr. McMullen reported that the committee appointed to negotiate for the sale of the old St. Andrew's property in Blenheim had disposed of it for over $400, and that the amount would be forwarded as formerly agreed upon to the friends of the Home Mission Committee. Rev. D. M. Gordon, of Halifax, was nominated as moderator of the next General Assembly. The Presbytery disapproved of the proposal to appoint a secretary to devote his whole time to the Foreign Mission Committee, but recommended that a secretary be appointed for both home and foreign missions, and unanimously nominated Rev. Dr. Cochrane to the office. Dr. Cochrane stated that he was not to be considered as in any way committed to this proposal. Rev. Mr. Strait was appointed to represent the Presbytery at the meeting of the Women's Presbyterial Society to be held in Ayr next month. Leave was given the Rev. J. S. Hardie to moderate it a call at Embro. Dr. McMullen submitted a minute in reference to the translation of the Rev. Gustavus Munro from Embro to Harriston. The Onondaga congregation were permitted to mortgage the new manse property to the extent of $400. The next regular meeting was fixed for the third Tuesday of March in St. Paul's Church, Ingersoll.

A Tailor's Bill 400 Years Old.

BERLIN, Jan. 21.—An unpaid tailor's bill of the Emperor Maximilian of Germany, who flourished just 400 years ago, has been discovered in the archives of the ancient Swiss city of Coire. The heirs of the tailor are now in possession of the relic, and it has been suggested that they present the bill to the present Emperor for payment. If they also claim interest the amount which the Kaiser will be called on to pay on account of his distinguished political ancestor will be a startling one.

Warm Water in Winter.

Professor Roberts, of Cornell University, claims that warm water at a very low expense saved him 14 per cent. of the food fed to his dairy cow. John Boyd, of Chicago, tells us that it increased his cow's milk flow 25 per cent, to warm her up to blood heat. Professor Shelton, of the State Agricultural college, says that it saves 12 per cent. of the food to warm the water for his cows. H. C. Adams, superintendent Wisconsin Institute, says that in his experience it has increased his flow at least 25 per cent.

He further says a cow will not drink all she needs when the water is extremely cold, and she will suffer in digestive processes because she doesn't do it. The first winter he gave his cows warm water they shed their coats along in February, and came out in May as sleek and smooth and looked as nicely as they ordinarily did before in the latter part of June. The large quantities of water which they drank seemed to wash out all the channels of their circulation, and kept them healthy and vigorious and thrifty.

A Single Standard.

Every dairyman should have a distinct variety or family of daily cows, representing the object he aims to reach. How is this to be obtained? Select from those coming nearest to representing the ideas of the owner, not arbitrarily, or by guess work, but in accordance with well defined ideas. The quantity of the product of the animal must be ascertained to an ounce, and the quality accurately tested. No man can hereafter lay claim to being a good dairyman who keeps cows three years old and over, which bring in a gross product worth only $25 a year. Neither can he call himself a progressive dairyman unless he owns or uses a male whose ancestors have for generations been noted for superior qualities.—[Professor I. P. Robert.

CLIMATIC ECCENTRICITIES FAVORABLE TO DISEASE!

A Warning to Our People.

Canada's Health Shield!

Climatic eccentricities in Canada have, to a very large extent, contributed to the spread of sickness in our principal cities and towns; and, as a consequence, the death rate is steadily increasing. It is worthy of note, that the majority of the young and middle-aged taken off by the hand of death, were predisposed to disease.

Typhoid, diphtheria, malarial fever, grippe, neuralgic troubles and rheumatism, propped up by peculiar and changeable weather, and further strengthened by unsanitary surroundings, have taken off thousands in Canada during the past year.

This is certainly a warning—a sermon of truths for young and old, rich and poor. The duty of all at this time is to see that perfect health is maintained, so that prevailing sickness cannot, with impunity; choose its victims. The nervous system should be in such a position as to enable the body to successfully resist all attacks. We should carefully guard against feelings of depression, headaches, nervous debility, sleeplessness and irritation. These symptoms are sure forerunners of disease and suffering, and should be driven off without delay.

All may succeed in these endeavors to keep healthy and robust, and at the same time ward off sickness, if Paine's Celery Compound is used. It should be in every home in Canada at the present time where any ailments or troubles exist. No other remedy can so safely protect and shield our people from prevailing dangers. Paine's Celery Compound is truly a noble friend to the weak, and all who are predisposed to disease, and can, under all circumstances, be thoroughly relied on. When it is faithfully used people have no need of a physician's services, as they have in Celery Compound a power and an agency, which regular medical prescriptions can never compete with.
