WHO WROTE RAILWAY BOARD REGARDING CITY DEBENTURES?

It Is Alleged That Some Person or Persons in the City Is or Are Responsible for Move to Hold Up Money Wanted for Niagara Power in London.

Some person or persons at the present time unknown is or are endeavoring to hold up the issuing of $90,000 debentures for Niagara power purposes, passed by the council some time ago.

These debentures were issued by the city council at the request of the water commissioners, the money to be used for extending the system, installing meters and many other things in connection with the development of the business.

As is the custom when debentures are issued, they are sent to the Ontario railway and municipal board for ratification. The Legislature always passes upon the bylaws issuing the debentures, but when the House is not in session, the railway board pass upon them, the ratification of the Legislature later being a matter of form.

Wrote to Board.

It is understood that when the $90,000 issue was sent to the board some person wrote to the chairman, Mr. Leitch, complaining that the money was not needed for capital expenditure, but that the commissioners were charging up to capital expenditure, materials and work that should come out of current revenue.

The railway board at once wrote to City Solicitor Meredith, calling his attention to the complaints, and asked for the fullest information on the expenditure, for which the money is needed. That information is now being forwarded, it is understood.

The commissioners are not worrying over the situation, for if the railway board hold the debenture issue up, they can go to the Legislature at the next session and have it ratified, they say.

STREET RAILWAY DIRECTORS WILL AGAIN TALK POWER

President Everett, of the London street railway, and Mrs E. W. Moore, one of the directors, of Cleveland, are in the city today attending the semi-annual meeting of the company being held in their offices in the east end.

The most important matter to be discussed will be that relative to the purchase of Niagara power. The expert engineer of the company is in the city, and it is expected at the whole matter will be thoroughly gone into, it is expected by the directors that some decision will be arrived at today.

Mr. Everett is in better health than he has been for some time. He is making a trip through the country in an auto, and is being much benefitted by it.

"We are here on our semi-annual meeting," said Mr. Moore. "We will discuss the company's affairs as best we can. There is nothing of public importance coming up so far as I know."

PAVILION WILL HAVE TO BE CUT

Bank, It Is Said, Will Prefer to Have It Taken Away if They Buy Hall.

MAYOR TAKES IT EASY

Says That Only Ten Feet Will Have To Be Chopped Off the End.

Mayor Beattie is of the opinion that little of the butchers' pavilion will have to be removed in case the city hall is sold to the Royal Bank. He said that there is but 10 feet of the pavilion that will be on the bank property, and that it would be more economical to remove that portion than pay rental for the ground. While they would not discuss the proposition at all, it was stated that the bank would prefer to have the pavilion removed from their property.

"From what I can learn, there is about 10 feet of the pavilion on the property," said his worship. "We will simply tear that down, and remove it. We would not be justified in paying any rental, as the pavilion is not so much of a business proposition that it would pay the city to invest any more in it."

It is stated, however, that more than 10 feet of pavilion is on the property it is proposed to sell to the bank. There is no question that the pavilion is a great convenience, and its removal will mean a big loss to the public.

This feature of the case will be brought up at the next meeting of the city council, and will undoubtedly create considerable discussion.

ERROR OF BANK MAY COME HIGH

Exceeded by $30,000 Circulation Allowed by Bank Act.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, June 15.—By an inadvertence and owing to an unusual combination of circumstances, the Bank of Nova Scotia exceeded by some $30,000 the circulation allowed by the banking act last April, and is now liable to the penalty provided under the act.

The excess circulation was only issued for one day, and the attention of the finance department was immediately called to it by the general manager. The treasury board now has the matter under consideration. The law expressly states that there shall be a fine for any excess circulation issued, and some penalty will have to be imposed, although the bank's explanation shows that the error was entirely inadvertent, and the excess issue was in circulation for only part of one day. The fine imposed will probably be about ten thousand dollars.

KAISER CONGRATULATES.

Berlin, June 15.—Emperor William sent an enthusiastic congratulatory telegram to the governor of East Prussia today upon the receipt of the announcement that East Prussian fancy saddle horses had won second, third and fourth prizes at the International Horse Show in London. In his message the Emperor said:

"The only higher premium was the 15,000 horse of the billionaire, Winans. The victory was won in competition with the finest horses that gold could obtain. I send, with an overflowing heart, my congratulations and royal thanks to East Prussian breeders."

CHURCH INVESTMENTS.

Kingston, June 15.—The investment committee of the Diocese of Ontario will look into the matter of investing trust funds in guarantee companies rather than in mortgages. The synod agreed to the sale of Sydenham Church to the C. N. R. Company for $5,000, as the property is crossed by the railway line.

DRUG CLERKS HAVE FORMED AN ASSOCIATION

Mr. A. Kitchen Has Been Chosen President and L. H. James Vice-President.

The drug clerks of the city, at a very largely attended meeting held Wednesday night, formed a local association. Mr. A. Kitchen was elected president; L. H. James, vice-president, and George Taylor secretary of the new organization. The members will hold a big picnic at Springbank on July 19, and the druggists of the city are co-operating heartily with the clerks to make it a great success.

Many of them have offered handsome prizes for races and other events in the fine programme of sports that is being arranged. The association which was formed Wednesday night is the first organization of its kind ever formed among the drug clerks of the city.

When it was proposed a few weeks ago to form such an association by which the clerks can get together and become better acquainted with one another and work together in carrying out various social affairs, such as picnics and other gatherings, the idea was heartily indorsed and the organization at last night's big meeting was the result.

JUST MIND YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Young Man Fined in Court for "Butting In."

Leonard Hardy, a young man residing in West London, appeared in the police court this morning, charged with an assault and battery upon a girl, who also resides in the subarb named. It appears that the lady was sitting under a bamboo tree, or some other kind of tree, with a gentleman friend named Fred Davis, when Hardy, who was her sweetheart in days gone by, happened around. He struck a match and endeavored to get in conversation with her when she hit him, and he struck her, damaging a pair of glasses she wore.

Hardy denied the charge, but was found guilty and fined $1, to pay for the damage done the glasses. Magistrate Judd contended that Hardy should have minded his own business, and not bothered when he saw a couple spooning in the shade of the bamboo or old apple tree.

JARDINE PAYS PENALTY TOMORROW

Says Good-Bye to His Mother and Brothers.

SHOWS LITTLE EMOTION

Now Declares That He Is Innocent and Is Trying to Implicate Others.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Goderich, Ont., June 15.—At an early hour tomorrow morning Ed. Jardine will be led to the scaffold to pay the penalty of the law for the murder of Lizzie Anderson last September. His last good-bye has been said to his mother and brothers yesterday, he mother taking it all apparently as a matter of course, merely taking him by the hand and saying, "Good-bye, Ed." No emotion was visible, and no tears were shed on either side. The scaffold was erected some days ago. It is of the usual kind, 12-foot square, with a railing around and a trap-door. Sheriff Reynolds has decided that no member of the press will be allowed to be present, and an official report of the hanging will be handed out. He has been very highly commended for taking this position, and is daily receiving many letters of congratulations even from members of the press for his refusal to have the gruesome details of the hanging made public.

SO MANY WEDDINGS TRAINS WERE LATE!

Novel Excuse Is Furnished the Grand Trunk Railway by June Brides.

A novel excuse was given by the railway people last night to account for the Grand Trunk Eastern Flyer being 56 minutes late out of London.

The train is one of the fastest on the road, and almost invariably runs right on the dot, but last night it is explained that all along the line there were such numerous wedding parties that it had to stop at the stations much longer than usual.

When the express pulled into London there were several new brides waiting to depart on their honeymoons, and they were not altogether pleased at having had to stand at the station for nearly an hour, and endure the rice and confetti throwing of their friends.

REMAINS WERE TAKEN TO TILLSONBURG TODAY

Funeral of Men Asphyxiated in Westminster Will Be Held There.

The remains of Warren and Elias Hicks, the victims of the well accident in Westminster Township, were taken to Tillsonburg this afternoon on the 2.30 M. C. R. train.

Interment will be made there later, but the time has not yet been definitely set, as a brother in Washington is on his way. He wired this morning that he had missed one train, but was coming on the next.

Relatives in Tillsonburg telephoned this morning that they thought there should be an inquest, but after having had the circumstances of the asphyxiation fully explained to them, they agreed with the authorities that it was unnecessary.

When the funeral is held it will be from the residence of Mr. Lorne Hicks, a brother, who, although critically ill himself, insists that it take place from his home.

DRUNK WAS ROUGH WITH POLICE SERGEANT

Smashed Officer's Chain and Is Told He Must "Make Good."

George Pugsley, of 61 William street, a drunk, who when he was brought into the police station Wednesday night started in to clean up Sergeant John Monaghan, and succeeded in smashing the officer's heavy gold watch chain, appeared before Magistrate Judd today. Pugsley was bailed until Monday, when he will be given a chance to pay the costs of fixing up the chain. If he does this he will be allowed to go. During the night he was in a very hilarious mood, and kept the other prisoners awake by his renditions of the latest popular songs.

Edward Flanagan, a drunk, was fined $2, and Mike Luggis, a gigantic Hungarian, who explained in broken English that he only arrived last night was told that he would have to find some other place than the street in which to sleep. Luggis, apparently not having enough money to buy a bed, bought liquor and then wanted to sleep on the sidewalk.

ALLEGED LONDONER ARRESTED IN TORONTO

Man Giving Name of E. Maitland, Charged With Stealing Cigars.

A dispatch from Toronto to The Advertiser states that a civil engineer from London, giving his name as E. Maitland, was arrested there last night. He is charged with stealing a box of cigars from the United Cigar Company's store, while purchasing a cigar. He is described as being 35 years of age, 5 feet, 9½ inches in height, clean shaven, light brown hair and light blue eyes.

He was remanded to jail for a week.

ALL IS PEACE NOW IN REGARD TO THE FLATS WANTED BY CITY

Certain Rights Will Be Acquired on the Gerry Land and the Parke Property Will Be Bought Outright by Water Commissioners.

The water commissioners, at their meeting this afternoon, will in all probability ratify the deal whereby the Parke and Gerry Flats are to be acquired by the city.

Shortly after the injunction suit was tried at the court, a proposition was made to settle the Gerry Flats difficulty. Negotiations were at once opened, and after some little time a basis of agreement was reached, by which the wells are to be handed over to the commissioners, with enough land about each well to protect it, at a cost of $200 each.

Since that time the details of the bargain, together with a satisfactory agreement, have been worked out. Today Mayor Beattie and Chairman Pocock looked over the agreement, and so far as can be learned, everything is highly satisfactory.

The water commissioners will hold their meeting this afternoon, and it is expected that the agreement will be ratified. All the members are conversant with the matter, and will not hesitate to give it their approval. The papers are now being looked over by Mr. William Gerry and the solicitors on his behalf, and from what can be learned, they are all satisfied.

The Parke Flats will also be turned over very shortly, as an agreement has been practically arrived at.

FALLS INTO THE DON RIVER WHILE ATTEMPTING SUICIDE

Insane Man From Haileybury Attaches Rope to Strap Around Neck and Leaps From Bridge.

[Canadian Press.]

Toronto, June 15.—Tying a rope to a piece of strap which was around his neck, and then attaching the rope to the railing of a Gerrard steet bridge, E. J. Boswell, a miner from Haileybury, tried to commit suicide by hanging this morning. The strap slipped from the rope and Boswell fell into the Don River. Two men passing saw him struggling to get out and went to his rescue. He was later taken to the police station and then to the hospital. Boswell was declared insane by the hospital authorities and was removed to the asylum. He had intended sailing for Scotland on the Empress of Britain.

MAMMA'S BOY KEPT POLICE IN CONVERSATION LAST NIGHT

Shortly after 8 o'clock last night a citizen brought a fine little 3-year-old boy whom he had found wandering about on Dundas street to the police station.

All the youngster could say when asked who he was, was that he was "Georgie," and that he was "Mamma's Boy."

This interesting information was hardly sufficient to enable the police to locate his place of residence, so they decided to wait until somebody either called up on the 'phone or came to the station looking for a lost boy.

It was not long before a woman whose eyes were red with weeping, and in whose face were very evident traces of anxiety called to know if one had seen a little boy. Georgie was produced, and a few moment later was on his way home.

At the station the little fellow kept the police busy finding ways to amuse him, so that he would not cry.

MAULED FATHER AND HIS SONS

Lively Battle Followed Mistake of Jacob Harris in Regard to a Wheel.

FIGHT ON DUNDAS ST.

Police Are Looking For Two Men Who Are Said To Have Been in a Very Rough Mood.

Mr. Jacob Harris, of King street, and two young sons, were seriously assaulted in front of Mr. Harris' moving picture theatre in East London last night by two men for whom the police are looking.

Mr. John Thompson, who was present at the time, and whom the police have secured as one of the principal witnesses, stated to The Advertiser this afternoon that the trouble was caused when Mr. Harris came out and, mistaking a bicycle that was standing by the curb for his own mounted it, and started to ride away.

After going a short distance he discovered his mistake and returned. The man who apparently owned the wheel called him a thief, and Mr. Harris' son told his father not to pay any attention and that the fellow was drunk. The men thereupon seized the boy and, it is alleged, struck him.

Mr. Harris interfered to save the lad from being hurt, and another man who was with the first man struck at him.

Mr. Harris' other son then took a hand in the trouble, and for a time there was a lively mix-up, in which all the participants rolled about the sidewalk and pavement.

Mr. Harris was kicked in the mouth, and the wound bled freely. Some one called for the police, and when the fellows saw them coming one jumped on his wheel and rode away as fast as possible and the other escaped by running through a livery stable and climbing fences.

The police, it is stated, have a pretty good idea who the men are, and it is expected that they will appear in court in a day or so.

COMPROMISE DECISION.

El Paso, Texas, June 15.—The international arbitration court, which has been sitting in the so-called Chamizal case, in El Paso, to decide ownership of seven million dollars' worth of property in the southern part of El Paso, today rendered its decision, which is a compromise. The decision gives Mexico part of the land in question and El Paso part of it. Both the United States and Mexico dissent.

The New Lights.

The entire new street lighting system will be ready for coronation night. Practically all the poles are erected now, and by an extra effort the commissioners could doubtless have the system in order by Saturday night, but Superintendent Glaubitz figures that it would be a good thing to reserve the opening until coronation night, and so has decided to postpone the opening until that date.

A Serious Charge.

John Twitchen and George Kemp, two youths charged with furiously driving a livery horse, were to have appeared for trial at the police court today. Twitchen was the only one present, and it was stated that Kemp could not come today. The court decided to enlarge the matter until Saturday next.

MILLION WANTED FOR MISSIONS

That Should Be Presbyterian Slogan for 1912.

DECLARES PROF. GANDIER

Says the Church Gives Too Much to Outside Agencies.

[Canadian Press.]

Ottawa, June 15.—Action to make effective the stand on the temere decree was taken by the Presbyterian General Assembly at its closing session this morning. The assembly had previously passed a resolution, and this was augmented by a motion by Rev. G. Wilson, of Vancouver, to name a committee to act with other denominations. The committee adds: Moderator, Rev. Dr. MacKay, Toronto; Rev. Dr. Duval, Judge Forbes, St. John, N. B.; Judge MacTavish, Ottawa.

Principal Gandier, of Knox College, Toronto, in telling of the campaign for systematic giving, said that in the whirlwind campaign of the Y. M. C. A. many members of the Presbyterian Church had given more than they should have and so can't give what they should to the demands of the church. Others who could afford to give to both make the Y. M. C. A. an excuse for not giving to the church. One reason for the poor showing of the year was that men were investing every dollar in profitable business ventures. They forgot that they would lose the power to give. The most pitiable man he ever saw, he said, was the poor old man who had spent his days accumulating until he had not the power to give. Bordering on the brink of the grave he was worrying because when he died the Government would take some of his money. The wayworn churches did not give to missions caused those outside the church to regard the church members as drivelling hypocrites.

The New Slogan.

A million dollars for 1912 is the new slogan. This is the sum Professor Gandier wants for mission work in the Canadian west. Twenty cents per week per family or ten cents per communicant would realize this sum.

Prof. Pidgeon, Vancouver, spoke along similar lines. There was work in the west just as picturesque, just as attractive and with even vaster possibilities than the great work done by Dr. Grenfell in Labrador.

The assembly approved the recommendation that in future, instead of the various committees allocate to the synod the amount required for each, all estimates will be sent to the systematic giving committee, which will then allocate to synod the amount wanted for the whole of the schemes of the church. Synods would then allocate to the presbyteries, presbyteries to the churches and churches to members, "as a matter of church honor" to raise the sum asked.

Another resolution read: "That the general assembly expresses its conviction that congregations should not give to organizations outside the church an advantage over our own schemes by allowing special collections for them when such are not allowed for special funds. The assembly recommends that when a congregation desires to support these organizations provision be made for them in the congregational budget and an allocation made."

There was considerable discussion on this end, and it was finally voted down.

SYNOD OF HURON WILL NOT DISCUSS ST. JOHN'S TROUBLE

Memorial Regarding London Church Was Improperly Presented to the Anglican Meeting in Stratford—Lord's Day Alliance Comes In for Criticism.

The difference between the rector and the congregation of St. John's Church, London, will not be discussed by the Synod of Huron, unless new ways and means of presenting it are found. There was no mention in the minutes of the memorial, and when the question was raised by Rev. Mr. Wright, of Sarnia, the lay secretary, Mr. John Ransford, pointed out that the memorial had not been properly presented. He had put the memorial in his desk, only to find later that not one of the seventy mentioned signatures was attached to the document. He had tried to locate Mr. Macklin, but failed, so that there was really no memorial before the synod.

There the matter was dropped.

Moral Reform.

The chief interest of the morning centered in the social and moral reform report. One clause commended the Lord's Day Alliance and Mr. Walter Mills, of Ridgetown, took exception. He objected to the extremes taken as to Sabbath observance, and said the alliance was tyrannous.

Rev Canon Tucker and others defended the alliance, but Rev. C. H. Gunn, mentioning the suit against the London and Lake Erie, said he had gone to Lambeth on Sunday, and did not feel that he had desecrated the day.

Objection was also taken to the mention of Winnipeg in the clause relating to the segregation of vice, but both clauses remained.

Baseball Defended.

The gambling spirit was attacked, and also professionalism. Rev. R. S. W. Howard defended baseball with the result that the name of that game was eliminated, though the clause was still objectionable to many, as relating to professionalism.

A motion of Judge Ermatinger was defeated, however, and the report adopted.

GOTHAM BANDITS USE AUTOMOBILE

Raid Hotel in Early Morning and Loot Cash Drawer.

GUNS SCARE THE CLERK

Patrolman, by Quick Work With Revolver, Captures Two of Gang.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, June 15.—An automobile containing eight men pulled up in front of the Hotel Roy, on West Thirty-Fifth street, near Broadway, early this morning, and the men lined up before Charles Simmons, the night clerk. Each of them held a revolver, and their leader ordered the clerk to stand back while he explored the cash drawer of the open safe. There was nothing for the clerk to do but obey, and the fatruder quickly scooped out $160 in bills. Then the men filed out, the last one covering the clerk with his revolver until all were outside.

As soon as he was free the clerk grabbed his own gun from a drawer and fired five shots to call the police. He was so quick about it that he got a response from a Broadway patrolman before the robbers could crank their automobile and get started. The patrolman captured the last two of the men, and found in the pockets of one of them a roll of bills twice the size of that which the hotel clerk had lost.

JUDGMENT WAS GIVEN IN THREE CASES TODAY

Judge Macbeth Decides Three Actions Heard at County Court.

At today's session of the county court Judge Macbeth gave judgment in three cases, and then adjourned the court until tomorrow morning.

In the case of Chittick vs. McKee, in which plaintiff claimed a furnace that was in a hotel when he bought it, judgment was given for plaintiff, who, the judge held, is entitled to it.

In the case of Mrs. Nellie Steinberg, of this city, against W. Scown, of Sudbury, an action to recover $500 plaintiff had loaned, judgment was given in favor of the plaintiff for $500 and costs.

The action of Barfett vs. Baird to recover an amount alleged to be due in connection with the drilling of the McGregor wells, was dismissed, and no costs allowed.

The case of the London Concrete Machinery Company vs. Whitwam was dismissed with costs.

LOWANCE TO BE CARED FOR IN HOME

Man Is Alleged to Have Talked of Taking His Life.

Richard Lowance, the man who was recently sent in from West Nissouri on a charge of being insane, will in all probability be placed in one of the homes.

At a consultation this morning between Crown Attorney McKillop, Dr. Robinson, of the asylum, and Dr. Macarthur, the jail surgeon, Squire Flaherty, of Nissouri, was present, and explained that Lowance had been sent in by him in order that he might be properly examined, as charges had been made that Lowance had threatened to take his life. While the physicians agreed that Lowance is not what might be called insane, his condition is such that they recommended that he be cared for in a home.

LUTHERAN CONVENTION.

Duluth, Minn., June 15.—The business session of the Augustana synod of Swedish Lutheran Churches of America, opened today. Fully 400 delegates from all over Canada and the United States are in attendance. Dr. Norelius delivered his annual message and report. Following this the annual election of officers took place.

The Women's Home and Foreign Mission Society also opened its session.

At each of the four Swedish-Lutheran Churches of the city, two subjects were discussed by speakers. They were: "The Calling of the Church in Regard to the Young People," and "The Calling of the Young People in Regard to the Church."

JUDGMENT GIVEN IN FRASER CASE

The Court Decides That Others Shall Manage His Affairs.

IS OF UNSOUND MIND

Judge Comments on His Strange Behavior at Time of His Marriage.

Toronto, June 15.—Judgment was given by the divisional court at Osgoode Hall this morning in the Fraser case.

The substance of their lordships' finding is very concisely put in the judgment of Mr. Justice Teetzel, who says:

"I agree that the proper conclusion upon all evidence is that Michael Fraser at the beginning of the proceedings herein and at the present time although not a lunatic in the popular acceptance of that term, was, and is, a person of unsound mind and incapable of managing himself or his affairs, within the meaning of the lunacy act, and that the Toronto General Trust Company should be appointed committee of his estate, and that Margaret Fraser should be appointed committee of his person. His childlike submissiveness and the extraordinary circumstances of his alleged marriage, when he neither expressed surprise at the unexpected and violent methods of his invaders, or a word of condemnation against those who are alleged to have kept him from his pursuing fiance, the improvident disposition of substantially all the property under his control to his alleged wife, the absolute obliviousness of his mind to every business transaction he has had since the death of his brother John, his complete lack of knowledge or appreciation of the property he had at that time or since, and of the fact that he has divested himself of his property, demonstrate to my mind that he is no more fit to manage his own affairs or to act as execu-

MAN PICKS CHILD FROM BEFORE CAR

Little One Was Almost Under the Fender When Rescued.

George Sperring, of East London, rescued the little child of Mrs. Coleman, of Hill street east, from in front of an Ottawa car yesterday afternoon just in the nick of time. The little one was playing on the tracks and failed to notice an approaching car. The motorman on his part failed to notice the child until he was too clase to stop the car. Sperring was near by, however, and with considerable risk to himself snatched the child from in front of the fender just as the car bore down upon it.

ROBERT DONNELLY DIES IN BIDDULPH

One of the Survivors of the Awful Murder of 1880.

[Special to The Adertiser.]

Lucan, June 15.—Robert Donnelly, whose father, mother, two brothers and cousin were murdered in the famous Donnelly tragedy, in Biddulph, Feb. 4, 1880, died very unexpectedly at his home in Lucan yesterday, as a result of a paralytic stroke.

Mr. Donnelly himself was one of the figures in the events that occurred before the murder, but at the time of its occurrence he was in Kingston, where he had been sent on a charge of having shot at a constable.

Mr. Donnelly contended throughout that he had not shot at the man, and made an affidavit to that effect, but the constable swore that Donnelly did the shooting, and he was sent down.

Mr. Donnelly was 60 years old, and is survived by his wife. The funeral, which will be held to St. Patrick's Cemetery, Biddulph, on Saturday, will be conducted by Father Hanlon.

Spring Finds the Human System

LOADED WITH IMPURITIES, WHICH CAUSE PAINS, ACHES AND FEELINGS OF FATIGUE.

When th Liver and Kidneys Are Overworked and Break Down Get Them Right by Using

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

In the spring the human system is loaded with poisons which have accumulated as a res: t of artificial winter life. There has been too much breathing of poisoned indoor air, too little outdoor exercise, too much eating of heavy, indigestible food, especially too much meat and too little fruit.

The liver and kidneys struggle to overcome this condition, but the task is too great for them and they get sluggish and torpid, fail in their work and often become diseased themselves.

They must have help, such as is given them by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. There is no great mystery of how these pills purify the blood and take away the cause of tired, spring feelings, backaches, headaches, bodily pains or derangements of the digestive system.

If the blood is to be purified the liver and kidneys must do it. And they will, if you awaken their action by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

It will not take long to get these blood filters into working order if you use this treatment. A few hours will bring improvement and you will learn how to keep these organs healthy and active. One pill a dose, 25c a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Closing Meeting for the Season Was Held.

The Empress Avenue Mothers' Club held their closing meeting for this term at the school last evening. There was quite a large attendance. The programme was as follows:

After this somewhat lengthy programme, dainty refreshments were served, and the meeting broke up, all having enjoyed a pleasant and profitable time.

PATTEN DISLIKES PROBE

Says That There Is Too Much Investigating Nowadays.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, June 14.—James A. Patten, the former Chicago wheat and cotton operator, in sailing today on the Mauretania to be the coronation guest of Premier Roblin, of Manitoba, commented on recent official investigations.

"It seems to me," he said, "that every person with 15 or 20 cents, has to be investigated. The man who makes $2 a day appears to be the only man who is exempt from the official probe.

"Crops are looking good. Corn is the only uncertainty, but more rain in the corn belt will relieve any anxiety on that score."

BRIER-ROOT PIPES.

The extraction of white heather roots for briar-root pipes is carried on actively in Algeria, and a British consular officer says that the government has auctioned the rights of extraction, during five years, of more than 50,000 acres of forest in the department of Constantine. A company, said to be American, is working in several forests and is putting up buildings on the reclaimed lands near the quays at Bone for the preparation of the roots. It is by no means an easy job, on account of the care that has to be taken to keep the roots wet until the rough form of the pipe has been cut and boiled. If the root dries it cracks at once and becomes useless.

CAUSE OF TONSILITIS.

Opinions differ on the cause of tonsilitis. In some instances it has been claimed that it is due to milk and the disease has been traced along certain milk routes, but a number of physicians discard the milk theory and say that it is due to the dryness of the weather. Their explanation is that the air is filled with dust, owing to the lack of rain, so that the people are constantly breathing irritating air, which causes soreness and inflammation of the mouth and throat. They say that a good rain does more than anything else to stop this throat trouble, as it cleanses the atmosphere.

TO WIDEN POWER OF THE BISHOP

Motion to Permit Him to Remove Clergymen Debated by Synod.

A LOYAL RESOLUTION

Anglican Convention at Stratford Sends a Message to King George.

Stratford, Ont., June 14. — A debate on a motion by Canon Hicks, granting power to the bishop to remove a clergyman from one parish and send him to another on trial, was before the Anglican Synod of Huron today. On one side it was urged that the advantage of such an amendment lay in the fact that the bishop, being better qualified to pick out the better men for a certain parish, should have the power of removal. On the other hand, it was thought not desirable that any one official should have absolute power of such a decision. At the present time the people and the incumbent have a voice as to whether a clergyman shall remain or leave.

Mr. John Ransford strongly opposed Canon Hicks' amendment. In his opinion it would be an agency of disruption in congregations and a hardship on the clergy.

Mr. Ransford, of Clinton, stated that it is far easier to grant privileges to an official than it is to take them away. "I yield to no one in devotion and loyalty to the episcopal office," he said, "but I am opposed to imposing on its occupant the onerous responsibility which would become his were such a measure passed."

Canon Hague thought it was wrong to give the bishop too great a latitude, and still worse to give him too small a latitude. He also stated that, although he was a democratic churchman, he did not wish to take away from the episcopal office any power it should have.

Bishop Williams.

Bishop Williams stated that the present canon was unworkable. It provides that two months' notice must be given a congregation. The result of this is very unsatisfactory, as the congregation have time to hunt up any little defects, and thus the clergyman in question is refused. "There is an opinion among all people," he concluded, "that the bishop has great powers. This is not the case. If you wish to have the bishop perform duties you think he ought to perform, you must give him the power."

The matter was finally referred to a committee to report next synod.

The committee appointed to adopt a resolution of loyalty to King George and the throne presented the following, which will be cabled to the Sovereign: "The Synod of Huron, in the province of Ontario, Canada, assembled, desire to approach His Majesty King George the Fifth, and express their profound loyalty to the throne and to the persons of their sovereign and their beloved Queen Mary, and add their prayer that the Divine blessing may abundantly rest upon their majesties the King and Queen and the royal family throughout the years to come."

At the conclusion of the reading of the resolution the synod rose and sang the National Anthem.

A motion of Mr Geo Little, of Primrose, seconded by Rev. G. M. Cox, of Woodstock, that Children's Day be the Sunday before May 24th every year, was passed.

Little business was done on this morning's session. Mayor Brown bore the welcome of the city to the members of the synod.

At the meeting this evening reports on mission work in the diocese by the Missionary Society were submitted. Two interesting and instructive addresses by Rev. Canon Gould and Mr. R. W. Allen, general and assistant general secretaries of the society, were also heard.

Civic Delegation.

The rules of order were suspended to receive a civic delegation, and His Worship Mayor Brown and Rev. Messrs. Wootton and Hughson extended greetings to the synod. The mayor was brief but cordial in his welcome. Rev. F. M. Wootton, of the Central Methodist Church, in speaking for the Methodists and Ministerial Alliance, referred to the bishop's declaration for religious teaching in the schools, and said he hoped the day was not far distant when the voice of the people would proclaim for the Bible in the public schools. He also referred to the progress of church union, and to the pronouncement his lordship made against the ne temere decree.

Rev. L. S. Hughson, of the Baptist Church, said he represented a body that differed with others on the questions of Bible teaching in the schools and of church union, but he believed they were united in purpose. He hoped love would find a way to closer harmony.

In reply, Mr John Ransford made a happy speech of thanks.

Very Rev. Dean Innis, Mr. Charles Jenkins and Rev. Canon Tucker also thanked the delegation, Canon Tucker referring especially to church union. Division he believed a sin and they should cease to glory in their divisions. The two great questions before the Christian world were the evangelization of the world and the unification of the broken fragments of the body of Christ, with one flock and one Shepherd.

His lordship added his thanks to the city and alliance, and though he thought church union was out of practical politics for the Anglican Church, he hoped that there would come in the future the unity of the Church of England with the other communions.

Sunday School Report.

Rev. Canon Downie presented the annual report of the Sunday school committee of the diocese, which was adopted clause by clause. The Port Stanley rector was commended and congratulated on all sides for the success of the movement he began for the establishment of an Empire Sunday school paper.

Senate Sub-Committee Agress on Protection of Falls.

Washington, June 14. The Senate sub-committee on foreign relations in charge of bills relating to the protection of Niagara Falls, today reached an agreement for the continuation of the Burton law until 1913. The law limits to 15,600 cubic feet per second the water that may be taken out on the American side, and to 160,000 horsepower the power that may be imported from Canada.

EMPIRE CITIZENS OR INDEPENDENCE

New Zealand's Premier Makes Strong Plea For Imperial Unity.

London, June 15. — Sir Joseph Ward, premier of New Zealand, in an address given under the auspices of the Colonial Institute at the Whitehall rooms, said the outlook for imperial unity was gravely clouded. Two courses presented themselves. First, Great Britain might acquiesce in non-continuance of the present system and permit time to lead the great self-governing dominions to a fuller nationhood; to enter upon a foreign policy of their own; to enter into alliances, commercial or perhaps even defensive, with other nations; to permit them to develop along their own lines a naval policy of their own and ultimately to permit them to declare whether they would remain at peace while she was at war, and they logically must in such a case secure that peace by the assertion of independence, for by no other means could such a state of things be consummated. The other, and only other, course that he could see was that of steady promotion of imperial co-operation for all the vital questions, including defence which affected the Empire as a whole, and of this the first principle was the creation of a true citizenship of Empire. Sentiment, like zeal, was, after all, the breeze that impelled, not the rudder that guided, and what was wanted today was chart and rudder in our imperial ship of state to guide the world-wide sentiment of patriotism in its most effective paths for the protection of the Empire and for the promotion of its imperial interests.

The instincts of the British people should teach them that the British over-seas dominions would not be content unless a scheme were devised by which they might be brought truly and of right within the Empire as its citizens; otherwise the drift must be as they grew in wealth and population towards disintegration.

ROMANCE OF MEDICINE

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle Tells How Ailments Leave Changed History.

London, June 14.—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, speaking to some London medical students, says the Lancet, told several stories illustrating what he called "the romance of medicine."

The fashion of wearing wigs, for instance, was due to a skin disease which produced bald spatches on the august head of Francis I. of France. He got a wig, and his courtiers followed suit, just as they all whispered when he had an attack of laryngitis. "One can trace for many years," says the same authority, "certainly from 1802, the inception of that disease which killed Napoleon at St. Helena in 1821. In 1802 Bourrienne said: 'I have often seen him at Malmaison lean against the right arm of his chair and, unbuttoning his waistcoat, exclaim, 'What a pain I feel!'

"That was perhaps the first allusion to his stomachic and hepatic trouble, but from then onward it continually appeared, like Banquo at the banquet. He could scatter the hosts of Europe and alter its kingdoms, but he was powerless against the mutinous cells of his own mucous membrane.

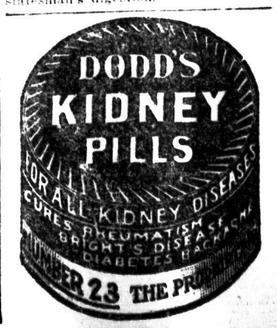

"Again and again he had attacks of lethargy, amounting almost to collapse, at moments when all his energy was most required. At the crisis of Waterloo he had such an attack, and sat on his horse like a man dazed for hours of the action. Finally the six years at St. Helena furnish a clinical study of gastric disease which was all explained in the historical post-mortem examinations, which disclosed cancer covering the whole wall of the stomach and actually perforating it at the hepatic border.

"Napoleon's whole career was profoundly modified by his complaint. There have been many criticisms—not unnatural ones—of his petty, querulous and undignified attitude during his captivity; but if his critics knew what it was to digest their food with an organ which had hardly a square inch of healthy tissue upon it they would perhaps take a more generous view of the conduct of Napoleon. For my own part, I think that his fortitude was never more shown than during those years—the best proof of which was that his guardians had no notion how ill he was until within a few days of his actual death.

"History abounds with examples of what I have called the romance of medicine. Look at the men, for example, who were the prime movers in the French revolution. They were a diseased company — a pathological museum. Was Marat's view of life tainted by the loathsome skin disease for which he was taking hot baths when Charlotte Corday cut him off? Was the incorruptible bat bilious Robespierre the victim of his own liver? Was Couthon's heart embittered by his disfigured limbs?

"These are the problems where medicine infringes upon history, and these are the illustrations of the philosophy which is only open to the medical thinker. How many times do the most important historical developments appear to depend upon small physical causes? There is, for example, the case of the revocation of the edict at Nantes. By this measure the whole history of France has been profoundly modified, because by that action there were given forth the Huguenots.

"Now, how came Louis XIV., who had always held out upon this point, to give way at last to the pressure of Mme. de Maintenon and his clerical advisers? The answer lay in one of his molar teeth. It is historical that he had for some months had toothache, caries, abscess of the jaw, and finally a sinus which required operation, and it was at this time, when he was pathologically abnormal and irritable, that he took the step which has modified history. Great results may depend upon a King's jaw or a statesman's digestion."

SUBSTITUTES FOR MATCHES.

A pocket lighting device is extensively used in France by smokers in preference to matches, which are expensive in that country, their manufacture and sale, like tobacco, being entirely monopolized by the Government. The most popular lighter is a nickel-plated box, containing a reservoir, filled with gasolene or benzine, communicating with a wick at the top. By pressing a button the lid opens, producing a flame by the friction caused by a small wheel coming in contact with a piece of ferrocerium. Most of these devices were made in Germany. One lighter will suffice for fifteen hundred ignitions without renewing the interior parts. These lighters became so popular that the Government has decided to permit their manufacture and sale in France, under very strict regulations.

WOMAN'S RIGHTS AND PROPERTY.

The Senate of Connecticut has just passed a bill giving women who possess at least $600 in personality the right to take part in city, town and borough meetings. This is a step toward equal suffrage that seems to point the way.

Equal suffrage is one of the reforms that cannot much longer be delayed. Before getting full suffrage rights, however, women may have to be content with such concessions as are proposed in this Connecticut bill. On account of an unconscious veneration for property which most people have, the woman with property cannot be wholly disregarded, while her sister who is less fortunate may be obliged to wait. A census of the number of women who own in their own right real estate, and stocks and bonds in corporations might supply material for an argument in favor of restricted woman suffrage, yet why should the male voter who has neither lands, nor stocks, nor bonds, vote to favor the possessor of them?

AN ATTRACTIVE PRISON.

New South Wales, Australia, since the advent of woman's suffrage, has proceeded upon the principle that nothing is too good for the women—even for those who are being deprived of their liberty. The new penitentiary of women at Long Bay is probably the most up to date, comfortable and even luxurious place of its kind in the world. It is fitted up with hot and cold baths, with well ventilated cells painted in pleasing colors, electric lighted and stocked with suitable reading matter. The prisoners, continues Success, are graded according to the most advanced ideas and special privileges are awarded for good behavior. The wardresses are all educated and refined women and a committee of ladies of Sydney has charge of those who are discharged from the prison. Gardening, dressmaking, cooking and washing are taught.

COAL MERCHANTS ELECT

Several Londoners on Executive of Canadian Association.

Toronto, June 15.—At the seventh annual convention of the Canadian Retail Coal Association, held at the King Edward Hotel last evening the following officers were elected: President, J. M. Peregrine, Hamilton; vice-president, J. K. McLaughlan, Owen Sound; secretary-treasurer, R. J. Webster, London; directors, J. C. Hay, of Listowel; J. M. Daly, London; R. Blair, of Woodstock; E. Brown, of Port Hope; F. Mann, of Brantford; D. B. Jacques, Toronto, and W. Heaman, of London.

Mr. Arthur M. Hull, of Chicago, in an address, pointed out that the retail coal merchants throughout the country were doing much for the consuming public in taking the lead in many centres to secure correct weight ordinances. Organization, he said, was a wonderful aid towards helping one another. Constant effort should be made by the retail coal merchant to gather facts on the costs of handling and selling coal at retail, in order that he may be able to set his prices so as to derive a fair margin of profit.

The 200 odd delegates from all parts of Ontario were welcomed to the city by Falls today and will be entertained at Acting Mayor Spence.

The association will visit Niagara dinner by the anthracite coal producers.

TRUE BILL AGAINST ROAD

C. P. R. Must Answer Charge of Negligence in Thamesford Crash.

Woodstock, June 15.—The Canadian Pacific Railway will have to answer a charge of criminal negligence brought against it by the crown in connection with the death of Brakeman R. N. Lane at Thamesford last January.

Conductor Fitzpatrick was first tried on a charge of negligence and acquitted, and then the crown brought proceedings against the railway company, which is alleged to have left Thamesford yard unguarded and without proper signals to afford a safeguard for the trainmen.

The grand jury at the county court brought in a true bill against the company, and the case will go to trial at the fall assizes.

LONDON, THURSDAY, JUNE 15.

NOVA SCOTIA ELECTION.

The winter of Conservative discontent in Nova Scotia will have to go on, the thermometer up a few points, but not enough for a real thaw. Campaign and elction were alike tame and uninteresting, as the conclusion was foregone.

It is in a way a pity that the Opposition should remain so weak. With that idea or out of commiseration, Nova Scotians have been decreasing the Liberal majority, with Scottish caution, in the last three elections. Nine years ago there were only two Conservatives elected, in 1906 five, yesterday eleven. Another encouragement to the Conservatives this time is the election of Mr. Tanner, a former leader who may be expected to take charge of the hitherto leaderless forces.

It is wonderful that a Government already 29 years in office should receive so striking an indorsement, and a new lease of power for five years more. It is more wonderful that nobody expected or hoped for the contrary. The only explanation of the phenomenon lies in the clean and brilliant record of that Government, in the intelligence of the best-educated province of the Dominion, and perhaps, to some extent, in the general revival of Liberal enthusiasm by the prospect of the reciprocity agreement. Against such a combination of advantages the insignificant cry about school books, a somewhat false echo from Ontario, a few local considerations, and perhaps some little governmental over-confidence could make small headway for the Opposition.

METHOD IN THEIR MADNESS?

Why do the enemy continue to rage and imagine vain things against the reciprocity agreement? It is only an agreement and may be dissolved at any time if found unsuited to either country. But the antis are apparently afraid to try it.

Some profess to fear that it will lead to an undermining of the protection policy in general, and they will not be comforted by the assurances of cabinet ministers to the contrary. Their fears might be treated with respect if they believed that the agreement would be successful enough to warrant a further advance towards free trade. But they deny up and down that it can be a success. They hold up pictures of ruin and devastation by the American packing and canning trusts. Really they paint the devil too black altogether for a cunning seducer.

While certain benefits of the agreement will by no means necessarily entail extension of the free trade principle to other lines of commerce than natural products, it is clear that the failure of the agreement could never induce such an extension.

Either, then, the anti-reciprocists, who hurl from all sides sticks and stones that hit their own party oftener than the mark, are a mere mob, actuated by no clear or common motive except ill-will and an impotent desire to upset a triumphant administration; or there is an organized insincerity in this strange campaign. By making a hub-bub and throwing dust in the eyes of the masses those Montreal and Toronto magnates, who have an inherent unbelief in the people's ability to think for themselves and to govern themselves accordingly, endeavor to cloud the issues, play on vulgar prejudice, and perhaps win an election by a monster campaign fund.

The shorter the "educational" campaign the better for them. Force an election, disfranchise in part the west, rush a verdict if possible in temporary alliance with the Nationalists, and then once in power conclude a reciprocity agreement with the United States on much the same lines as the one now proposed, while heightening the protective tariff all round—is that the plan? It will not work.

BRITISH TRADES UNIONS BILL.

The repeated victories of the Radical-Labor coalition in Great Britain on the budget, veto and free trade issues seem to have knocked the breath from the Conservative party for the time being. In the first reckless misery of triple defeat its leaders had an impulse to out-Herod Herod, as they might put it, to outbid even the budget. They went to work to reconstruct the House of Lords, but were prevented by the Government, which has great respect for that priceless relic. They shouted for referendum, would put everything into the people's hands. Some of them advocated "one man one vote" or proposed the payment of members of Parliament—rather late, as the Liberals had already determined on these. Was there ever such a revel of democracy on a Conservative platform?

That revel of despair has been followed by a sad acquiescence. Measure after measure of social reform, brought in by the constructive geniuses of the Government passes with the general assent of all parties. These were the shop assistants' bill, the national insurance bill, etc., and now while the veto bill itself is sliding through the House of Lords, the trades union bill seems likely to encounter almost no opposition in the Commons. The Opposition has lain down to get back its wind, and everything passes.

Some years ago a serious difficulty was created for the trades unions as political organizations by what is known as the Osborne judgment. Osborne was a member of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants, who brought an action against that union's use of its funds in the interest of the Labor party. After the case had gone through all the courts, he was sustained by the judicial committee of the Privy Council, with the result that the Labor party, whose representatives in Parliament had to depend upon the contributions of the unions, has been somewhat embarrassed.

It is true that representation has gone on as before, but funds had to be indirectly provided or voluntarily subscribed by individual members of the unions. Those members who would not pay up, because, for example, they were Liberals or Conservatives, have been subjected to intimidation, insult and ill-treatment; and on the other hand, the unions have been harrassed by frequent litigation in the past decade. The trades unions bill, therefore, has two aims: (1) to mitigate the severity of the Osborne judgment as regards the political activity of the unions, (2) to protect the minorities among the membership.

It is provided that a union may have a political fund which can be used for holding meetings, bringing forward and supporting election candidates for the House of Commons or local bodies, provided that there is a majority vote in favor of this by secret ballot of the members, who must all have full opportunity of voting. Even then, any member still objecting to contributing for political purposes is to be exempt from payment on giving notice that he objects; he must not be subjected to any disadvantage, or lose any benefits of the union.

In answer to an objection that not a mere majority vote, but a voting majority of the total membership should be secured for the political use of society funds, Mr. Churchill said that the Government "sought to protect conviction, not indifference. If a man dissociated himself from the general corporate action of the union he ought to take a formal step." After all, the whole question of trades unions' political activity will become less acute through the introduction of payment of members; and Mr. Churchill held out the prospect that the present Parliament would add to the payment of members the payment of officially reported election expenses.

The Opposition made a few spasmodic kicks at the measure as explained by Sir Rufus Isaacs. Mr. F. E. Smith, behind the times a little, attacked the trade union movement in the spirit of the late Lord Salisbury's famous dictum about "cruel organizations," and told some stories illustrative of their wickedness. But the bill, though not very well-beloved in any quarter, will go through pretty easily, with some amendments in detail, as a way out of a difficult situation, Unionists and Liberals alike recognizing that the Osborne judgment put an injurious handicap upon the trades unions.

KING A DEMOCRAT.
[Victoria Colonist.]

The action of the King in sending an invitation to two representatives of the trades unions to attend the coronation in Westminster Abbey is an innovation that will call for much comment. What we see in it that is of special interest is that it signifies an appreciation of trades unionism such as it has never received in any country. The United Kingdom is moving rapidly on the way to the broadest democracy that the world has ever seen.

A GREAT NOVEL.
[Collier's.]

Arnold Bennett's "The Old Wives' Tale" is a great book. It goes to show that England is still the chief custodian of English literature. As a book "The Old Wives' Tale" is as complete as human life. It is, indeed, the story of two human lives—their rise, their climax, and their gradual decline. Each stage of Constance and Sophia's journey has its pace—sauntering, plodding, hurrying, slowing down, coming to a full stop. When the book ends we have travelled every foot of the long road with them, and have kept step. Incident does not crowd character off the page, and character has plenty of time to glide into consequences. William Dean Howells makes use of the same kind of leisurely development, but Arnold Bennett has more action. Arnold Bennett did not grow in a day. He had been trying for a long time. Anyone who has read "The City of Pleasure" will realize the distance between that and "The Old Wives' Tale." Cleverness is only second best; sincerity is the genuine achievement. The people have a true instinct of choosing between the green and the ripe fruit of novelists. They know better than the critics even when a book is good enough to eat. Some people said that "Peter Ibbetson" was a better book than "Trilby", "Simon the Jester" than "The Morals of Marcus." Each was a stepping-stone to the best book, which the public spotted with unerring discrimination. The case of William De Morgan only proves our point. He had lived all his books before he began to write them. Few novelists can expect to wait as long as William De Morgan. For them there must be trial performances. They must improve as they go along.

DISINFECT ALL PUBLIC PLACES.
[Brantford Expositor.]

Living in the fresh air, day and night, is a great preventive of tuberculosis, but it is not merely dwelling-houses and offices and work-places which need attention. What about places of public resort, such as theatres and churches, school buildings, railway trains, etc.? How often the atmosphere of such places is absolutely stifling, and tuberculosis finds a congenial atmosphere?

OLD LAND VERY MUCH ALIVE.
[Victoria Colonist.]

We confess that what we liked best in Lloyd George's speech was what he said about the future of the mother country. Those of us who live beyond seas are fully satisfied of our own future, but many of us have grown disheartened because of the pessimism that has been so rampant in Britain during the past few years, and it is indeed inspiring to read, coming from the lips of the public man who today is unquestionably the most popular with the masses, of any Englishman, that "there are still chapters to be written which will thrill us with a story of nobler deeds than have yet been recorded even in its great past." The references of the Chancellor of the Exchequer to the dominions beyond the seas was everything that could be desired.

WHY HE TREMBLED.
[Ideas.]

A detachment of British soldiers was about to attack a tribe of rebel Indian tribesmen, who awaited them drawn up in battle order. A seasoned old sergeant noticed a young fellow, fresh from home, visibly affected by the nearness of the coming fight. His face was pale, his teeth chattered, and his knees tried hard to knock each other out. It was sheer nervousness, but the sergeant thought it was downright funk.

"Callaghan," he whispered, "is it trimblin' ye are for yer own dirty skin?"

"N-no, sergint," replied Callaghan, making a brave attempt to still his shaking limbs, "Oi'm trimblin' for the inimy. They don't know Callaghan's here."

NEW GRAIN ROUTE

C. P. R. Line From Georgian Bay to Montreal Open By Fall.

[Canadian Press.]

Montreal, June 15. — Statements made here indicate that the Canadian Pacific Railway officials fully expect to have their new grain line from Victoria, on the Georgian Bay, to Montreal, in commission by the time this year's wheat crop is ready to be moved. The engineers in charge of the construction work state that good progress is being made, and that if the present rate is maintained, the new line will be in operation early in the fall. The new line will mean the saving of considerable time and expense in handling of grain crops. At present grain leaving Port Arthur is taken to Owen Sound by water, and thence to Montreal by way of Toronto, making a total haul of 460 miles. When the new line is completed the haul will be considerably shortened, as, leaving Victoria Harbor, the line will be practically a direct one to Montreal, and will make an ultimate saving of 91 miles over the old route.

Wiarton is preparing for a big celebration on Coronation Day.

South Perth Conservatives will gather at Mitchell June 20 to nominate for the Commons.

JUDGMENT GIVEN

tor of John's estate than would be a child of tender years. The court would be recreant to its duty if it did not appoint a committee to protect him and his estate not only against his own acts but against the efforts of others."

Judges Agreed.

A lengthy judgment is also given by Chief Justice Mulock, who goes into the argument very fully, and another judgment by Mr. Justice Middleton. Their conclusions are substantially the same.

Chief Justice Mulock gives a very lengthy judgment, in which he says in part:

"The additional evidence taken by the divisional court discloses facts beyond dispute as to Fraser's dealings with his property, knowledge of which by the court is, in my opinion, essential in order that a right conclusion be reached."

Referring then to certain of the additional evidence adduced in this case, the following facts were brought out: On the 28th of September, 1909, Fraser drew two checks on the Bank of British North America in favor of W. Finlayson or bearer, one for $1,000 for the benefit of Catherine McCormack, and the other for $3,000 for the benefit of Richard McCormack. On or about the 5th of February, 1910, he executed a conveyance to his wife of his residence in Midland. On or about the 7th of Feburary, 1910, he conveyed to her his homestead farm. On the 14th of February, 1910, he signed a check in her favor for $2,998 41, being his balance in the Bank of Hamilton. On the 14th of February, 1910, he drew a check in favor of his wife on the Standard Bank for the balance of his credit there, namely, the sum of $4,393 33. On the 15th of February, 1910, he drew a check for the sum of $2,536 05, being his balance in the Bank of British North America, and signed a direction to the bank to place the amount to his wife's credit. In March, 1910, he executed his will, giving his whole estate to his wife.

Michael Fraser had originally owned ten debentures of $1,300 each, issued by the city of Midland. They were held by his solicitor for him. On or about July, 1910, seven or eight of these debentures were unpaid, and at that time Mr. Fraser signed an order directing Mr. Finlayson to hand the debentures to Mr. Grant, for Mrs. Fraser. This was done and she claims to be now the owner of these debentures. Thus, between the date of the marriage on the 13th of January, 1910, and July, 1910, Mrs. Fraser had succeeded in obtaining transfers to herself, for her own benefit, from Michael Fraser, of all his moneys, securities for moneys and lands and real estate, except his interest in the estate of his brother John.

Scores Mrs. Fraser.

In conclusion the chief justice says:

"The inference which I draw from the evidence is that in August, 1909, Fraser was suffering from senile deterioration, and that he was then, and has continued to be, and now is, of unsound mind, and incapable of managing his affairs or himself, and a committee of his person and estate should be appointed.

"As regards possessing will power to resist his wife's mercenary and covetous conduct, he is mere clay in the potter's hand. Her marriage with Fraser was simply a device on her part to acquire his property, and for no other purpose. Within a couple of hours after the marriage she commenced her efforts to that end, and unless protected by the court there is, in my opinion, no doubt that she will at the earliest moment obtain a transfer from Fraser of his interest in John's estate, being his only remaining property, the nature and extent of which he is incapable of understanding.

"Then, having stripped him of everything, Fraser will be entirely at her mercy, and if she chooses to desert him he will be a pauper, dependent on charity for the necessities of life.

"For the time being she might be appointed a committee of his person, but the Toronto General Trust Corporation should be appointed a committee of the estate, and should institute proceedings to recover all the properties of which Mrs. Fraser may have fraudulently possessed herself.

"The costs of the matter, including the costs of appeal, to be paid out of the estate."

The most interesting point in the judgment of Mr. Justice Middleton is his reference to the medical evidence. He finds the medical evidence of very little use, as the medical experts did not approach the question from the right point of view, and apparently did not make any effort to ascertain the aecuracy of his answers. He finds that Fraser is of unsound mind now and at the time of Mr. Justice Britton's examination.

SUMMER LIBRARY SCHOOL

First Ever Held in This Province Opened at Toronto.

[Canadian Press.]

Toronto, June 15.—The first summer library school ever held in Ontario is now in session at the Model School in St. James' Square. It opened this morning in the domestic science room of the school, and its origin is mainly due to the efforts of Walter Nursey. The only other such school in Canada is that of McGill University, Montreal, over which C. H. Gould, B. A., librarian of McGill, presides.

Twenty-four students registered this afternoon, and it is likely that this number will be increased tomorrow.

The school is in charge of Miss B. Mabel Dunham, B. A., chief librarian at Berlin, with a large staff of instructors. Lectures will also be given by Prof. E. L. Horning, of Toronto University; E. A. Hardy, secretary of the Ontario Library Association; Dr. Locke, chief librarian; E. S. Caswell, secretary of the Toronto Public Library Board, and H. S. Langton, of the Toronto University Library.

BRICKS FROM LAVA.

A company has erected a great plant at Honolulu where bricks will be made from lava.

It is said that methods have been discovered by which the lava from volcanoes can be used in the manufacture of brick and other building blocks, and that these will be very durable. If the scheme is a success bricks for paving as well as building purposes will be made.

At Honolulu, says Harper's Weekly, where the plant is now in operation, the owners are supplying material for the construction of extensive military quarters, and private individuals are using the new material for constructing dwellings, which are expected to be more substantial than many of the former types of dwelling constructed in that and other cities.

HOW WAS MOTHER TO KNOW?

"Mother, come home; we all want you."—Advertisement in "personal column" of a newspaper.

And somewhere out in the world is "mother"—sorry, and sad, and bitter; remorseful and maybe reckless—all because she does not know that they ALL want her. There were so many years of toil, and struggle; of night watches and wearisome days; when it seemed to mother that they only "wanted" her for the drudgery she did. Days when she grew old and haggard, and uncouth, and she did not see how ANYONE could "want" her.

When father went out into his active business world, and John and Nellie went their sunny, joyous way, and she stayed alone because they did not want her. Perhaps they did want her; but how was she to know when THEY NEVER TOLD HER SO.

She remembered the time when "father" wanted her so much that life was not complete without "his Mollie." When little baby fingers wanted to feel the mother-hand about their own, and baby feet only wanted to keep pace with the mother step.

But that was so long ago—so long ago that they "all" forgot, and only she remembered. AND THE REMEMBRANCE ADDED TO THE BITTERNESS.

If mother had only known; if they had told her so with loving arms about her, and in tender speech. Some day she may see the sad little message and "come home;" but there will always be a sting and rankle because of that going away. Maybe she will never know that they "wanted" her; and somewhere—it may be best that they should never know how—she will not be "mother" any more—only a name to be forever unspoken; a memory to be shunned through all the years to come, because mother never knew—UNTIL IT WAS TOO LATE—that they "wanted" her.

Latest Fashions

Sash and girdle arrangements are of many kinds. Big bows and long, wide scarf ends of black maline appear on some of the light-hued models, and the new velvet, with taffeta back in color, is effectively used for sashes. A wide end in two loops lying flat, one over the other, but of different lengths, being a popular method of using the velvet ribbon or satin. This gives much the effect of the detached skirt panel, and breaks the tight skirt line in the back, without introducing any bouffancy.

Fringes are seen on many of the new lingerie gowns, as girdle and tunic trimming. One beautiful variety is of knotted silver braid, very long and with the strands set very far apart, strips of cut leather and cloth in Indian fashion trim walking frocks. Coarse crochet has several sizes of small wooden beads knotted into it. This last gives charming color possibilities in odd crazy quilt effects. But the best of them can be duplicated by the home seamstress, thus saving money and gaining originality by modification.

TO PROTECT YOUR BEAUTY FROM THE SUMMER SUN

Fine straws, of ample size, trimmed with filmy lace and big willow plumes are designed this year to protect beauty from the sun's ardent kisses. The snowy whiteness of the hat shown, in contrast with the brunette loveliness it shelters, is decidedly modish. Willow plumes, by the way, seem to have taken a new lease of fashionable life, and naturally, for nothing is more graceful or better subject to variety of use.

A TENDERFOOT'S WOOING

BY CLIVE PHILLIPS WOLLEY, Auther of "Gold, Gold in Cariboo," etc.

[All Rights Reserved.]

Mrs. Rolt read such a volume from cover to cover, only to fall back in despair upon such simple remedies as warmth and quiet. She could only give nature a fair chance. Probably she could have done no better, and half the doctor's success at least depends upon the patient's faith in him, but when you good folk at home twist yourselves of your many colonial by Hsions, in which you take only an casional pride and very little serious tirest, allow something not alone for e courage of the men who hew out fresh dominions for you all over the world, but something too for the martyrdoms of women, who watch through the long nights of lone lands, growing old between a sun's setting and a sun's rising, while all that makes life valuable for them is fading away under their eyes for want of that which to you is but a natural accessory of your everyday life.

Through that long and wild night those two women watched, while it seemed to them that the winds clamored round the house for the prey which had escaped them.

Towards morning Mrs. Rolt, who had been dozing in a chair by the fireside, asked:

"Is he sleeping now, Kitty?"

"No; he is pretending to, but I can see how his poor lips are pressed together. I don't believe he has slept once since they carried him in," she whispered.

"Oh, nonsense. He was sleeping nicely through the night while I watched."

"He was shamming, Mary, so that we should not worry. Isn't it brave of him?" and bending over her head, she pressed her fair head upon Mrs. Rolt's shoulder, to smother the sobs which shook her.

Mrs. Rolt's arm wound round the girl, and drew her gently to her knee, soothing her quietly, while a very wistful, motherly look came into her own steady gray eyes.

This woman had a right to know love when she met him, for she had served him very faithfully, and she knew him now.

Whatever had been her dreams for Jim Combe she recognized that they had only been dreams. Whether he lived or died, the man lying there with strained, pale face, would always hold the first place in Kitty Clifford's heart, so her arm held up her younger sister while she whispered to her, "Be brave, darling, and we will save him for you. If only God would send our men home!"

Hardly were the words out of her mouth when the girl sprang from her and stood with lips parted and head bent forward, listening.

"He has, Mary!" she cried. "He has! I can hear the beat of the hoofs."

But Mary Rolt, looking out into the blizzard, could neither hear nor see anything.

"Not yet, dear, I am afraid, but they cannot be more than another day now," and her own heart failed her, wondering whether it was all well with her own man.

But the great hounds, chained near the stables, contradicted her. First a low growl and then in a chorus, Glory, Lupus and Venom bayed their welcome, as, dim and indistinct from the driving sleet, half a dozen horsemen emerged and dismounted in the corral, and before Mrs. Rolt could reach the door, Kitty, all her waywardness forgotten, was clinging to Jim Combe's arm, and dragging him toward the house.

For the others she had no word, not even the boss, but with wild hair flying in the storm she clung to her old friend, crying:

"Oh, Jim, Jim, you dear old Jim, come quickly. I want you so badly."

And Jim fell into his old place at once. It was so natural to him to serve this spoiled child, who always came to him when in trouble, that he forgot himself and answered:

"What is it, dear? What do you want Jim to do for you? Can't it wait?"

"No, no, not a second. Come," and she drew him away from his horse, which he would have left standing in the storm for no other person on earth. "Oh, Jim, he has waited so long. I thought that you would never come. He's almost dead, Jim," and her sweet mouth quivered in a way that made him wince.

"Who is nearly dead?" he asked, climbing the stairs three at a time, with clanking spurs.

"Frank—Mr. Anstruther."

Jim's face contracted as with physical pain, but he controlled himself and said no word until he was in the sick room, where Mrs. Rolt welcomed him silently.

One glance at that strained white face on the pillow, banished Jim's devil for good. Here was a comrade down, and all the woman in the big fellow's heart came to the surface at once.

It was a marvel how softly his long loose limbs moved now. Even his great Mexican spurs ceased to clank by the sick bed.

"What's the trouble, partner? Bin riding Job for amusement?"

The sick man's eyes smiled, but the involuntary effort to turn sent a spasm of pain across his face.

"Lie still, old chap, and let me see what the trouble is. Would you ladies mind leaving the room. I won't be rough on him, Kitty," and he pushed her gently before him to the door.

When they had gone Jim stripped off the bedclothes, and, as tenderly as might be, felt for the injuries he could not see.

"How did it happen?" he asked.

Anstruther told him.

"I see, I see," he muttered. It was a foolish thing to do to go into that brule when the trees were tumbling, but then he would have done it himself for Kitty. That made all the difference.

"Don't hurt you while you lie still, does it? Hurts considerable when you move?"

The sick man nodded. To turn did hurt "considerable."

"Well, so far as I can see, there ain't no great damage done. It's a bad smash-up. Three ribs, or it may be four, stove in, but as long as the inside machinery ain't injured you'll be about again in a week. We'll have to get Protheroe from Soda Creek to splice you up a bit. You can come in, ladies."

They came in, followed by Dick Rolt.

"Is it, is it anything very bad, Jim," whispered Kitty, taking both his hands in hers.

"It ain't no undertaker's job, if that's what you mean, Miss Kitty," laughed Jim. "'Twon't take so long to mend as a broken heart, and they mend easy. It's just three or four ribs stove in. If you'll get me some linen bandages and something stiff to make a waistcoat of, I'll cinch him up so as he can't do no harm until we get Dr. Protheroe to fix him up properly. Your job is to keep him still, if you want him well again soon," and still holding both her hands in his, he led her to the chair by his rival's bedside and left her there.

It was Jim's act of renunciation, and he did it, as he did everything, quietly and without protest.

CHAPTER IX.
A Ride for Life.

"Where are you going, Jim?" asked the boss, who had followed Combe out of the sick room.

Jim came back from his dream with a start, and turned a very white and haggard face to his old friend

"To Soda Creek to fetch Protheroe, if you can spare me."

"But you can't go yet. You haven't had a bite of food today, and, after all, Anstruther's injuries do not appear to be so very serious."

"Can't tell. She might lose him."

There was something strangely pitiful in the way in which all Jim's mind turned upon what she might suffer, the woman who had just dealt him the hardest blow of his life.

"Oh, nonsense, man, she has got to take her chance like the rest. I insist on your having something before you go."

"Well, if you insist, boss," replied Jim, with a quer laugh, "you can put some cold grub and a little whiskey in a cartridge bag for me. I can eat when the horse plays out."

"What do you mean to ride? We've ridden the tails off the best of the stock. Will you take that big hunter? Anstruther's?"

"No; I'll take the young roan. He's the only horse that could make it."

"That devil! He isn't broken, and never will be."

Jim grinned. "Maybe," he said, "this will break him. It'll break him or me," and he went over to the stables, calling the men to help him saddle a beast which no one else had attempted to handle, a young stallion as beautiful as Lucifer and as tractable.

When Rolt hurried out to him with the cartridge case and the flask, four men were trying to hold as perfect a demon as ever wore hide.

The wind shrieked around them, the loose litter of the yard rattled about the frightened horse's feet, and the rain lashed his blood-red flanks. Within a radius of twenty or thirty feet from his flying heels it was unsafe for any living thing to come, but the men held on to the ropes, hoping that in time he might quiet down a little.

"Cinch the bag on for me good and tight, boss. It might get shook off."

Rolt obeyed, and Jim shook himself to try the fastenings.

"Nothing loose is there? Now, steady, you devil," and he went to the horse's head, which bared its teeth, laid its ears down and backed away from across the corral, dragging the four men with it.

For a quarter of an hour Jim tried in vain to approach near enough to mount the roan, but by striking, biting and kicking the savage beast frustrated every effort.

"Guess we'll have to throw him, after all, but it's a pity to take anything out of him that way," and then suddenly Jim's voice came from a higher level:

"Gee whiz! Let him go!"

The chance had come while he was speaking, and with a tiger-like spring the cowboy had taken it, dodging the flying heels like a miracle.

It was done so quickly that no one had time to see how Jim scrambled or sprang into the saddle, and after that there was not enough time for the spectators to seek shelter in the first doorway that offered.

But it was a magnificent sight for those who were safe from the mad beast's heels.

THIS IS "MOMBASA," THE BABY HIPPO.

Mombasa, the baby hippopotamus in the Government's zoo at Rock Creek Park, near Washington, D. C., is only two years old, but she weighs 830 pounds. She was born in the jungles in East Africa, where she was captured by some German explorers and sold to this Government for $2,500.

Mombasa drinks several buckets—large sized buckets, too—of milk every day, and eats a few pecks of fresh vegetables. As she grows older this diet will be substituted for hay, water, etc., but just now she likes potatoes better than anything else, eating a half bushel in a very few minutes.

VACATION TIME

Traveling help—When planning for a trip of some distance, if you are a bit particular you will find a piece of white muslin five or six feet long and a yard wide to be of great convenience and comfort in the sleeping car as well as at the hotel. Fold it over and under the top of the bed clothes, thus keeping your face from coming in contact with bed cloths. Large safety pins can be used to keep it in place if desired. A small down cushion is another comfort both for day and night and may ward off a severe headache.

Laundry Help—Put aside all your waists, lingeries, stockings, etc., which are fit for just one wearing. Before going on your vacation darn or mend them catefully and pack in your suitcase. After wearing, throw them away, thus saving laundry bills and giving extra space in your suitcase for souvenirs of your trip.

Packing Help—In packing your trunk a large sheet of blue muslin will be found very useful. Open it out and place in the bottom of trunk. When everything has been packed, fold it over the top of the clothes and pin firmly with safety pins. With this precaution garments will be found as smooth at the end of the trip as at the start.

Luncheon Help—In preparing lunch for a several days' trip bake some bread in empty one pound baking powder cans. After slicing and spreading, replace carefully in the cans, put on the covers and you will have fresh bread during the entire trip.

Tomato Pancakes.

Savory pancakes are very good. They are easily made by the following recipe:

Make the usual pancake batter, and stir in the desired flavoring with the stiffly beaten whites, either finely chopped parsley, mushrooms, ham, or grated cheese, as you wish.

These can be spread when ready with any mixture of fish, meat, or chicken, and serve dusted lightly with a pinch of salt, paprika, or with any rich gravy or sauce.

Make some pancakes, flavoring them with shallots and grated cheese. Serve them very hot, filled with the following:

Wash some spinach, boil in water, when cooked drain and rub through a sieve, add to it an equal quantity of fine bredcrumbs, previously soaked in as much milk as they will take up, about two tablespoonfuls of grated parmesan cheese (according to the amount of spinach.)

Flavor it with pepper, salt, and a little grated nutmeg. Heat together, place a little of this mixture on each of the hot pancakes. Roll them up, pressing the edges well together.

Serve at once very hot, with a good tomato sauce poured over them.

A GOOD SAMARITAN

She was a forlorn little old woman, clad in dusty, dingy black. She sat timidly on the end of the car seat as though doubtful of her right to be there. When the conductor began his rounds she commenced to search hurriedly in a faded velvet "reticule." The look of dismay that overspread the tired old face was enough to have touched a man of stone, but the conductor only looked on impatiently. "Can't you find your fare, madam?" he said, with his hand on the rope. "I've lost my nickel—my last one," she said piteously, and glanced out towards the hot, dusty street.

A girl on the next seat leaned forward. "Here's the fare, con," she said. "The idea of putting grandma off the car on a hot day like this."

As the car went on "grandma" looked nervously at the houses. Presently she turned to her benefactor, "I wonder if you know where Mary Johnston lives? It's somewhere around here. She's my niece."

"Don't you know her number?" asked the girl.

"Deary me, yes, I have it in here. I do get so flustered." The reticule was searched once more and a bit of grimy paper handed out.

"Yes, you should get out at the next corner. I live near there and will help you," said this friend in need.

As they left the car I recognized in the girl one who had been pointed out to me as meriting the world's scorn; whose name is more frequently spoken with a sneer than not. Yet, how many of the dozen or so "respectable" people in that street car would have been as ready to play the "Good Samaritan" to the old lady as this girl from "without the pale?" Who shall say?

BIG WINNIPEG MEETING FAVORS RECIPROCITY

Packed Theatre Listens to Hon. Frank Oliver and Leader Norris.

Winnipeg, June 14.—An audience which completely filled the Winnipeg Theatre, and included a large number of Winnipeg's leading citizens, came to hear the speeches made by Hon. Frank Oliver, minister of the interior; Dr. Michael Clark, M. P., Red Deer, and T. C. Norris, M. P. P., in favor of reciprocity.

Mr. Oliver expressed astonishment that the Winnipeg Board of Trade should have passed a resolution unfavorable to reciprocity, and doubted whether the resolution properly reflected the opinions of a majority of the members. Mr. Oliver depicted the relation of Winnipeg to the farming community from the Red River to the Rockies, and made the statement that Winnipeg took toll of every bushel of grain grown in that great area. If reciprocity benefited the western farmers it must undoubtedly, he argued, also benefit the city of Winnipeg.

Dr. Clark was vigorous in argument in favoring the pact. The opposition to reciprocity Dr. Clark characterized as economic folly and moral squalor.

Mr. T. C. Norris, the provincial Liberal leader, spoke for about half an hour at the end of a protracted meeting and dwelt on the point that the west would not be made more loyal by being kept poor.

At the close of the meeting the following resolution, proposed by E. D. Martin and seconded by T. D. Robinson, passed unanimously, to the accompaniment of loud applause:

"That this meeting is strongly in favor of the ratification by the Parliament of Canada of the reciprocity arrangement between representatives of Canada and the United States, and desires to place on record its appreciation of the able manner in which the facts of the case have been presented to the meeting by the Hon. Frank Oliver, Dr. Clark and Mr. Norris."

ROOT AMENDMENT NOT LIKELY TO GO

Indications That It Will Be Dropped From Senate Report.

[Canadian Press.]

Washington, June 14.—After a conference with President Taft at the White House today, Majority Leader Underwood, of the House, declared he thought the Root amendment to the Canadian reciprocity bill will not be adopted by the Senate. "If it should be," he added, "there would be a serious hitch between the House and Senate, as the Democrats are pledged against it."

HUGE BAKERS' MERGER

Twenty-one American Concerns Unite, Involving Sum of $25,000,000.

New York, June 15. — The General Baking Company was incorporated today as a combination of 21 concerns engaged in bread and the general baking business. The merger is the first since the decisions in the Standard Oil and Tobacco cases, and the incorporators in a statement disclaim any intention of violating the law as construed, or attempting to establish a monopoly.

The company has an authorized capital of $25,000,000. The list of constituent companies includes firms in New York, St. Louis, Boston, Rochester and Buffalo.

AN ALL-RED CABLE

Sir Wilfrid Says It Is Necessary to Canada and Empire.

London, June 15. — Sir Frederick Borden has been indisposed for a week, but he was able to attend the conference yesterday.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier also put in an appearance, disregarding the advice of his doctors. He is suffering from neuralgia and throat trouble.

Explaining his stand in the matter of all-red cables, he says that "we need an all-British Atlantic cable carrying a land line through Canada, if possible, at such a distance from the southern frontier that it could by no possibility get itself involved in the American strategic telegraphic or economic system; for it must be remembered that we need independent communication for other than military reasons. As things stand there is a danger that the Canadian land lines may become mere subsidiaries to the enormously powerful and wealthy organizations of the United States."

GREAT SEAMEN'S STRIKE STARTED LAST NIGHT

Walk-Out Was Formally Declared and Many British Ports Affected.

London, June 14. — The seamen's strike was formally declared tonight at London, Glasgow, Liverpool, Cardiff, Bristol, Southampton and other British ports, and also at Belgian and Dutch ports, but the chances of any real international strike being declared seem remote. So far as tonight's indications show the confidence of the Shipping Federation is well placed, for at hardly any of these ports was enthusiasm displayed for the strike, and the shipowners maintain an attitude of indifference, seemingly satisfied that they will have no trouble in filling the places of the strikers, who thus far can be counted by hundreds.

Tom Mann at Liverpool, Ben Tillett at London, and Havelock Wilson at Southampton, are doing their utmost to galvanize the movement, but with small success. They demand chiefly a conciliation board and the establishment of a minimum wage, and complain bitterly of the wholesale employment of Asiatics by the shipowners.

There appears very small hope here that either Germany, Norway or Denmark will come into the movement.

The strike has spread to Middlesborough, Belfast, Bristol, Cardiff, Swansea, Manchester and Newcastle. Several hundreds have handed in their notices, but hitherto there has been an absence of unity and enthusiasm. The strike leaders have ordered the men not to break existing engagements, hence the strike, if it continues, will not reach a maximum for quite a while. Boett, the secretary of the Shipping Federation, representing 13,000,000 of Great Britain's 15,000,000 tons of shipping, says that the federation does not take the strike seriously. The vast majority of sailors, he says, are satisfied, and do not wish to strike. The Seamen's Union represents only a small section, and possesses no funds.

NAVY TO BUILD GIANT "WIRELESS"

Plant at Arlington to Have Radius of 3,000 Miles.

Washington, June 14.—Bids for three gigantic steel towers for a wireless plant for the navy department will be opened on June 17. The towers will be erected on the government. The tallest of the three will stand 600 feet. The others will each be 450 feet high.

Originally it was planned to have the main tower of concrete. As its height will be greater than that of the Washington monument the plan was so altered as to provide for its construction in open stone work. The monument and the towers will be but a comparatively short distance apart and within easy view. The open construction of the towers, however, will render them less conspicuous.

The wireless plant will be the most complete in the world and will have a radius of about 3,000 miles.

JAP BELL BOY NOW COLLEGE PROFESSOR

Yoshio Tanikwa, Graduate of Harvard, On Way to Native Country.

Boston, June 15.—A good looking quiet-mannered Japanese, who usually sat on the end of the bellboys' bench, waiting the call of "front" in a Boston hotel, will carry bags for the guests no longer. It became known today that he sailed on the Romanic Saturday on his return to Japan, where he will be known as Prof. Yoshio Tanikwa, head of the department of philosophy in the University of Kioto.

Yoshio, as he was known to the patrons of the hotel, received the degree of master of arts from Harvard University last year, after a year in the graduate school, having previously obtained his bachelor's degree at an educational institution in Minneapolis, Minn.

The young Japanese has refused to tell why he became a bellboy. When asked whether it was on account of the money he earned or the chance it gave him to study practical philosophy, he merely smiled.

Prof. Tanikwa, who in addition to being student and bellboy, has also been a special commissioner of the Japanese Buddhist Charitable association, occupied a first cabin stateroom on the Romanic. He will return to Japanese Buddhist Charitable Association more important of the charitable institutions of the larger European countries.

ALL ENGLAND NOW MOVES TO LONDON

Feverish Rush of Metropolis an Indication of What It Will Be in Big Week.

London, June 14.—London has already become inconveniently crowded, mostly, of course, with English people who have abandoned their country houses for the season being, in view of the many functions and festivities arranged in advance of the coronation.

The west end is tremendously congested in consequence of the arrivals of leisured visitors of every class. Huge concourses of people surge hither and thither on foot and in private and public vehicles of many sorts, rendering traffic very tedious at every crossing. Taxicabs and busses are always blocked and the tubes are packed. When the stands and decorations which so many go out to see are nearer completion, what the jostling and squeezing will be like one fails to imagine.

Such a rush on the part of hostesses of every degree to entertain was surely never known. The feverishness of the hour could hardly be better illustrated than by the numerous telephone invitations issued every day asking guests to dinners or impromptu dances. Musicales were never so much the rage as they are now, several being on the lists for every day in the next month.

The musical party, it would seem, is beginning to take the place of the dance and the ball for young people. Though one hears less of the smart bridge dinners nowadays—for the game is not in favor at court—there are still plenty of them night after night, to say nothing of the small luncheon parties for bridge which are still very popular in a certain set.

Which is to be "the" coronation ball is a question. The society correspondents of various papers talk about this or that being "the" ball of the coronation year, according to taste. It is generally conceded that the two great coronation balls which have already taken place will be hard to beat, but there is one ball, at any rate, being organized for charity, namely, the British Home and Hospital for Incurables, in which two prominent American hostesses, the Duchess of Manchester and Lady Cheylesmore, are interesting themselves, which will be a very grand affair. Then the coronation ball which the Duke of Marlborough is to give at Blenheim Palace should make a very fine spectacle, seeing that it will take place in the longest room in England Blenheim is, indeed, a wonderful place, from the point of view of spaciousness.

A LONDON CASE

Judgment Given in Garthorne vs. Wickerson at Toronto.

In the case of Garthorne vs. Wickerson, which was heard at the high court on Saturday, Judge Falconbridge has given judgment as follows:

Motion for an order for representation of heirs at law and next of kin. Judgment: I make the following order: (1) Order striking out the defendant, other than the defendant Mabel Wickerson; (2) declaring that the plaintiffs sufficiently represent the heirs at law and next of kin to Agnes Garthorne, deceased, and that the judgment upon the trial of the action shall bind them as though they were parties thereto; (3) that a copy of the order, together with a copy of the statement of claim, shall be within one week mailed to each of the said heirs and next of kin by registered letter, postage prepaid, at their present addresses; (4) that any of the said heirs or next of kin not content to be so represented may apply to be made parties to this action or to vary this order at any time within two months from the mailing of the said copies; (5) that the action be not entered for trial for ten weeks from the mailing of the said copies.

JUDGMENT AGAINST ROAD

Jury Decides for Plaintiff in Railway Accident Case.

[Canadian Press.]

St. Catharines, Ont., June 14. — The jury in the sessions returned verdicts of $500 and $590 respectively in actions brought by Miss Della Thompson and her brother, W. T. Thompson, of Gainsboro Township, against the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway Company. A special train in June last hit a buggy Miss Thompson was driving at Fenwick level crossing. The horse, owned by her brother, was killed, and Miss Thompson injured. Miss Frereua, who was in the buggy with Miss Thompson, died of her injuries. Many witnesses swore that the engineer did not blow his whistle or ring the bell, and that all view of the approaching train was obstructed.

TEST YOUR COWS

The Agricultural Department Gives Advice to Dairymen.

Ottawa, June 14—Records of dairy cows are always of interest not only to the owner who is anxious to increase the yield, but also to neighboring dairymen who desire some standard whereby to check the production of their cows. In April the yield of ten cows near Birnam, Ont., was 383 pounds of butter fat; but from records to hand, from the cow testing association near Bobcaygeon, Ont., it is seen that it took 21 cows, more than twice as many, to produce just as much butter fat.

In a year or two every man with these poor cows will probably have got his herd up to nearly double their present capacity, because he will know for certain which cows are not worth keeping.

Dairy farmers in all provinces have done this, some are now getting nearly three times as much milk and fat as they used to obtain before they determined to gather information as to which poor cows were sheltering themselves, coward fashion, behind either a fair herd average or a heavy yield from one or two extra good cows in the herd; such, for instance, as a seven-year-old grade cow near Woodstock, Ont., that gave last month 2,161 pounds of milk, testing 33 per cent of fat, thus giving over 72 pounds of butter fat in one month, almost double the good average yield above noted at Birnam.

PATRON SAINT HONORED

The Students of Assumption College, Windsor, in Celebration.

Windsor, Ont., June 14.—Students of Assumption College united today in celebrating St. Basil's Day, anniversary of the patron saint of the Community of the Bascilian Fathers, by whom the college was founded. In the morning his Lordship Bishop Fallon confirmed a class of twenty students. Class reunions were held by former students, and the class of 1896 held a memorial service in the chapel for Rev. H. Bourion, of Bellefontaine, Ohio, the only member of the class who died in the 15 years since graduation.

The class meetings were followed by a general reunion in the form of a banquet, at which addresses were given by Bishop Fallon, Rev. Father Aylward, rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, London; Rev. Father Eardley, of Dubuque, Ia., and others.

Among the members of the graduation class in arts are: James Bell, Blythe, Ont.; F. Costello, London; M. Finn, Tilbury; Charles McGee, Stratford; F. Sneath, St. Catharines; J. Sheridan, Brechin, and Paul Costello, Peterborough.

In the commercial course graduating diplomas were awarded to H. Palmer, London, and V. Bell, Blythe, Ont.

HITS AT BLAKE

Rural Dean Cayley Says His Attendance Figures Are Slanderous.

Toronto, June 14.—Church union in new work to include the Anglican, Methodist and Presbyterian Church was advocated by Rural Dean E. E. Cayley, of Toronto, at the Anglican Synod this morning. There was no discussion.

Considerable discussion took place over the proposition of Rev. L. Skey, that all ministers should be assessed one per cent. of their incomes for the superannuation fund.

Rural Dean Cayley, of Toronto, took a rap at Hon. S. H. Blake, who has had published certain church attendance figures, which, Cayley says, are slanderous, and his ideas entirely impracticable.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Hamilton, June 14.—The London Canadian League baseball team made their initial bow to Hamilton fandom this afternoon, and to say the least they made a decidedly favorable impression, due to the fact that they accomplished something hitherto considered impossible—defeat Knotty Lee's Kolts on home grounds. Berlin, St. Thomas, Guelph and Brantford had time after time attempted to administer a defeat here, but were always retired in disorder, so it was not considered likely that the London team, which are so near the foot of the league would be able to administer the bitter cup. Not only did they win the game, but they knocked "Babe" Kolseth, one of the most popular of Hamilton pitchers, out of the box in the ninth inning, during which they made five hits and five runs, thereby putting the game on ice. Wendell, who relieved Kolseth, succeeded in retiring the London team before further damage had been done.

Despite the fact that the score was uneven, the game, with the exception of the last inning, was a fine exhibition of baseball, and a number of feature plays were pulled off. One that should have been but was not, was a running catch of a fly by Jo Jo Keenan, who, judging from the encouragement he was receiving from the bleachers, has many friends in this city. Jo Jo sprinted clear up to second base, and then dropped the spheroid, for which he was continually jollied throughout the rest of the game.

Nichols was the heavy hitter of the game, scoring only one run, but connecting with the pill on three different occasions, one hit being a three-bagger, another a two-bagger, and the third a single. Bierbauer, the first baseman of the visiting team, in the ninth inning, during which nine men faced the pitcher, drove out the only homer of the game, which was the third of the season in this city.

Two runs were chalked up by the London team in the first inning. Pankratz singled, and Andrews did likewise a moment afterward, and Barton, in throwing to first in attempting to cut him off, struck him on the shoulder, and the ball bounding off the diamond, allowed the first man up to score, while Andrews got in on a fielder's choice, when Brant grounded to Killilea. Andrews was allowed a hit in the play as he would have beaten the ball out.

Hamilton retaliated in the second inning by scoring two runs, when one man was walked and the next two up hit. That was the last scoring done by Hamilton, although on several occasions after they succeeded in getting men on bases.

The last inning was the swatfest on the part of London. When Nichols smashed out his three-bagger there were three men on, who, of course, scored. Bierbauer had already soaked out his homer, and Nichols was brought home by Kyle's single.

ORTH AND HADLEY HAVE PITCHING DUEL

Maple Leafs' Spitball Artist Has the Better of the Southpaw in Great Game at Guelph Yesterday.

Guelph, June 14.—One of the finest games of the season was that played this afternoon between the Brantford Red Sox and the Maple Leafs, the latter winning the game by the narrow margin of 2 to 1. This was Brantford's first appearance of the season in Guelph, and the fans were anxious to get a look at the team that defeated the Berlin bunch two games in a row. The weather was advantageous for good ball playing, but the crowd was small, owing to the bad work of Umpire Hardy of the day before. He worked much better in today's game, and may improve as he gets used to the work. The game itself was a pitchers' battle between Hadley and Orth, with the Leafs' spitball artist having a shade the better of the argument over the southpaw. Both pitched gilt-edged ball, and pulled themselves out of some tight corners, while the fielding of both teams left nothing to be desired. Guelph scored a run in the first inning on a hit by Jeffries, a sacrifice, and Lane's single, but their second run was the direct result of an error by Duffy and a wild pitch by Hadley. Brantford's run was earned. It came in the sixth inning, when Barry singled, was sacrificed to second, and came home on Burke's double to left. The same teams play a double-header here tomorrow. WILD AND WOOLLY PLAY BY SAINTS

Make Thirteen Errors in Game With Flying Dutchmen, and Hand It to the Leaders—Infield Very Bad.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

St. Thomas, June 14.—The weirdest exhibition of baseball seen here in many moons was given by St. Thomas at Pinafore Park yesterday afternoon, when Elliott's men made thirteen juicy errors, and let the Flying Dutchmen get away with the game, 11 to 5.

The Saints got away to a good start, but couldn't stand prosperity, and when the Green Sox were making safe hits off Killingsworth, who was far from form, the ball was being tossed all over the lot. One redeeming feature on the part of the home nine was Dougherty's steal home in the fifth inning. The score:

SPIT-BALLER FORD TAMES THE TIGERS

Fans Cobb and Crawford With Men on Bases, Enabling Highlanders to Win Game.

CASEY HAS BAD DAY

Little Irishman Has Trouble Filling Stanage's Shoes—Athletics Still Coming—Gessler Tripled Twice With Three Men On.

New York, June 14.—Russell Ford showed Gotham fans this afternoon that he has something on the Tigers. Ford's pitching today was not the kind he displayed in the Tiger-Yankee series in Detroit, but when he had to work there was not one of the league leaders who was too much for him, and the result was that Hal Chase pulled in the first game of the Tiger-New York series, 5 to 3.

Ford's pitching was what prevented the Michiganders from winning, but it was not because the Tiger twirlers were off form that New York won. Lively started the game and was wild for the first two innings. Summers relieved him after he passed Wolter to start the third, and the hot weather man of Jennings' lineup was in even better form than the Highlanders' sensational twirler. Detroit, however, threw the game away. At least, they tossed the ball so that enough runs came in the seventh, when the score had been tied in the fourth, so that they could not overcome the two-run lead.

BOSTON 5, CLEVELAND 1.

Boston, June 14.—Gardner's double and Speaker's triple sent four runs across the plate in the fifth inning, and they proved sufficient. WASHINGTON 13, ST. LOUIS 0.

Washington, June 14.—St. Louis was easy in the opening game of the series here today, the Senators knocking Nelson and Mitchell out of the box and hitting Criss hard, winning 13 to 0. Walter Johnson was in his old-time form, and although touched up freely, kept the hits spread wide apart. Doc Gessler's terrific hitting scored half the Nationals' runs. Twice he tripled with the bases filled. Score:

JERSEY CITY 6, BALTIMORE 2.

Baltimore, June 14.—Jersey City and Baltimore played a double-header today, each winning a game. By sandwiching their hits in with Dygert's bases on balls in the first and ninth innings, the Jerseyites took the initial game. With the exception of these two innings, the ex-Philadelphian was very effective, but as Birds were unable to find Bumpus Jones when hits meant runs, the Skeeters corralled enough tallies to win out. The second was easy. Score:

PROVIDENCE 2, NEWARK 0.

Providence, R. I., June 14.—Bedient's grand pitching was a feature of the double-header played here this afternoon. He held Newark to one hit, and that by Kelly in the ninth inning after two were out. It was a pinch hit to Rock that bounded badly. McGinnity was hit hard, but was saved a worse beating by his fielders, the Grays winning by a score of 2 to 0. In the second engagement Doyle was driven from the mound in the fourth inning, and Busick, who succeeded him, was also ea. . Lee got away good and Newark batted hard, Newark winning by 8 to 3. MATTY IS CINCY'S JINKS.

When the Giants beat Cincinnati on Tuesday by a 5 to 2 score they helped Christy Mathewson to his nineteenth consecutive victory over the Reds. Cincinnati is one rival that is practically beaten the moment "Big Six" reaches for his glove. Cincinnati fans have had very few opportunities to make sport of Mathewson. The last time they beat the big fellow the unexpected was accomplished before a Cincinnati audience. That was in the early summer of 1908. Since then Matty has taken revenge on the Rhinelanders just nineteen straight times.

DAILY HISTORY OF BASEBALL

JUNE 15.

1884—Henry Beckendorf, one of the catchers of the Buffalo Eastern League Club, born in New York. Beckendorf once played in the Hudson River League and last season was with both Detroit and Washington.

1885—Nichols, pitching for Harvard, against Brown, struck out 20 men, 11 players being retired in succession on strikes.

1893—William D. ("Darby") O'Brien, who was a noted outfielder with the old Mets and the Brooklyns, died of consumption in Peoria, Ill.

1893—Jesse Burkett, of Cleveland, who now is captaining Worcester, made a home run with the bases filled in the game with Brooklyn, and got three singles as well.

1894—Shortstop Bob Allen, of the Phillies, was hit under the right eye by a ball pitched by Elton Chamberlain, of Cincinnati, became gun shy thereafter, and soon was in the minor leagues.

1897—Gene Demont, of the Washington Nationals, made four singles and a double against Pittsburg, a team which had given him a very brief trial a few years previously.

1900—Bill Dahlen, now managing Brooklyn, and then playing short field for the Superbas, accepted sixteen chances in a game with Boston.

1910—Three games of extraordinary length were played in the major leagues. The Cincinnati and Philadelphia Nationals played a 16-innings tie, in which Rowan, now a member of the Phillies, allowed his present team only five hits. The Superbas defeated the Cubs, 3 to 2, in fourteen innings, Barger pitching against Cole, and the White Sox, in a game of the same length against the White Elephants, won 4 to 3, Walsh then working against Plank and Morgan. Rollie Zeider, of the Chicagoans, made five errors at second base.

Canadian League Ball Talk

"Clucker" Dunn is playing shortstop for Guelph, and getting by very nicely. He had a couple of wobbles yesterday, but they cost nothing but a little worry.

Bierbauer is showing class and improving with every game. He looks to be there all the time, that youngster.

Three wins in a row makes it look as if the team was going back, owing to outside interference. A baseball team could not have been made out of the first batch of material shown here, even if Connie Mack had them in his charge. The bunch are getting together, and they will win many games before the season is over.

Hamilton fans are looking for Lee's Kolts to be at the head of the league before the end of the week. Not this week.

Maybe Sammy Smith is not pitching the real kind of ball. With care this fellow should again make the big show. He has the stuff, and should get there.

Chawser Elliott's Saints have made 20 errors in two consecutive games. That is going a few, and is reminiscent of the Tecumsehs early in the season.

Andy Kyle is not hitting very heavy lately, but he is getting on and coming around very often. He will start hitting soon.

McIntyre, farmed out by Toronto, will be given another chance, perhaps today in Hamilton. His friends claim that he is there with the stuff. We are from the Show-Me-State so far.

The flinger has not been selected for Friday's games, but it will probably be either Hynes, or Silcox.

Tomorrow (Friday), the fans will have a look at Deneau's Flying Dutchmen. The leaders are a scrappy team, playing good ball all the time. They have not got a big lead at the present time, and if the locals can take a brace of games from them, it will tighten the league up wonderfully.

Sammy Smith will pitch on Saturday, and the home folks will see a real game of baseball.

Kolseth, Knotty Lee's best twirler, is getting bumped often lately. He is a good one, with some fine curves, but he weakens before the end of the game. Critics claim that he uses too many curves.

Around the circuit, Brant is classed the best shortstop in Dan Ferguson's league. He sure is doing some lovely work.

Pancratz pulled off some Ty Cobb base running in St. Thomas, starting the bunch on their crazy heaving. The kid is getting his hits and stolen bases regularly.

Nichols' hard hitting yesterday was the feature. Three hits for a total of six bases is rather a good day's work. His three-base hit shoved in three runs.

Bierbauer had a four-ply wallop yesterday. It started the fuss in the ninth inning.

Chawser Elliott is scouring the country for new players, and hopes to land a few soon. It is to be hoped that he does get a few soon.

London's position in the race does not look too bad now, and the Tecumsehs will have a chance to better themselves from this time on.

The fans are satisfied that they have a real team now, and are pulling hard for the bunch to come through with a few more wins. They cannot be kept out of the first division.

FRANCE ANSWERS KAISER INTENDS TO REFORM MOROCCO

[Canadian Press.]

Paris, June 15.—During the course of an interpellation on Morocco in the senate yesterday, M. Croupp, minister of foreign affairs, made an important declaration in which he outlined the policy of France. This would consist, he said, in the creation of a Moroccan army, hastening reforms in the organization of the police and according of debts, placing the Sultan's authority on a firm basis in the interests of all, maintaining the open door and establishing economic and commercial liberty.

When this policy was in a fair way of accomplishment, the foreign minister said, General Moinier would evacuate, after chastising the tribesmen.

HINDOSTAN AND DOMINION HAVE BUMPER WHEAT CROPS

British India's Yield Placed at 369,000,000 Bushels, Surpassing All Previous Records—Africa Corn Crop Failure.

[Canadian Press.]

Washington, D. C., June 15.—A bumper harvest of wheat in British India, estimated at 369,000,000 bushels, surpassing all previous yields, and a record area sown to spring wheat in Western Canada, where 90 per cent of the dominion wheat is grown, giving rise to seemingly extravagant estimates of probable yield, are the features of the world's review of May agricultural news announced by the United States department of agriculture today. In other respects foreign agriculture in general made general progress.

The corn crop of South Africa is reported damaged by drought, and there probably will be none for export.

ARMY OF SIGHTSEERS POURING INTO LONDON

Procession Route Barricaded and Traffic Is Greatly Congested.

[Canadian Press.]

London, June 15.—The fleets are assembling off Spithead for the coronation naval review. London seems in a state of siege. In all thoroughfares leading to the route of the royal procession are wooden barricades, with gateways that will be closed on the two great days, and have been erected to keep the crowds back instead of the cavalry used formerly.

As a result traffic is terribly congested and merchants are complaining. Canadian and other visitors from abroad are pouring into London, and many Englishmen and their families are flocking to the seaside and country places to get away from the crowds.

FIREMAN KILLED.

Montreal, June 15. — The Boston train on the Central Vermont Railway, due here at 10:10 last night, was derailed half a mile south of Iberville, Que., at 9:20 p.m., the engine and cars leaving the track.

Fireman Martin, of St. Alban's, Vt., was caught between the engine and tender and killed.

NO FURTHER QUAKES.

Mexico City, June 15.—Since the earthquake of June 7 there have been no seismic disturbances in Mexico. Delayed reports from various parts of the republic, which have been arriving here ever since that date have led to rumors of a second earth shock Tuesday. These, however, are entirely without foundation, as no earthquake occurred yesterday or the day before in any part of the country.

CHILD BURNED.

Chicago, June 15.—While playing "ring-around-the-rosy" last night, Helen Denamark, 5 years of age, was fatally burned. The child and half a dozen playmates were circling around a bonfire and the ring was broken when one let go. Helen Denamark was drawn into the bonfire and fatally burned before the frightened children could pull her out.

TORNADO IN SOUTH.

Baltimore, Md., June 15.—Dispatches from points on the eastern shore of Maryland and in Lower Delaware tell of the death of three persons, serious injuries to a number of others, and destruction of property valued at over $100,000, caused by a tornado and electrical storm that swept that section Tuesday night.

The house of Harry Tull, near Federalsburg, Md., was blown over, and over three times, with Tull and his wife inside. Both were seriously injured.

So great was the force of the wind that swept across a mill pond at Smithville that the water was blown out, leaving the bottom bare for some time.

A GOOD FRUIT YEAR FOR MIDDLESEX COUNTY

Bumper Apple Harvest Ahead and Other Species Look Promising.

Notwithstanding diverse reports which have been rumored of a small apple crop this season, farmers from the surrounding district are looking forward to a bumper apple harvest. Present prospects are said to point to a large crop that usual, and in other fruits a corresponding increase is looked for. Plums may be just a trifle below the average, but in peaches, pears, cherries and other fruits everything is looking bright at present.

It is a little too early to predict how the grape crop will turn out, but there is no particular reason why it should not be fairly good.

Cherries will be exceptionally good this year, and will be on the market very shortly now. After this week there will be a dropping off in the supply of strawberries, although the supply is very much above the average of usual seasons.

Black currants and gooseberries have suffered, it is said, from the ravages of the June bug, but raspberries are to be plentiful.

Altogether this season will be a good fruit year.

A PRINCE BUMPED.

Berlin, June 15.—Crown Prince Frederick William was in an automobile accident today but escaped injury. He was driving to the home of Dr. Von Lethmann Hollweg to call upon the chancellor when his car struck the curb, smashing a wheel. The crown prince was thrown to the sidewalk but not with great force. The chauffeur was thrown out, and striking against a lamp post, was slightly bruised. The crown prince continued his trip in an ordinary cab.

FIRE IN DRY KILN.

Trenton, N. J., June 15.—Fire last night completely destroyed the Acme pole mill works, located near Trenton Junction. The fire originated in the dry kiln. The loss is estimated at about $100,000; fully insured.

CANADIANS BANQUETTED.

London, June 15. — Col. MacLean and the officers of the Coronation Contingent were entertained at dinner at Chelsea, by Prince Leopold of Battenberg. Other guests were Lord Cheylesmore, Premier Hazen, Col. Stimson, Mr. Donald McMaster, Hon G. W. Brown, Mr. W. L. Griffith, Mr. Max Aitken, Commissioner Perry and Capt. Pellatt. There were no speeches.

SEPARATION REFUSED.

London, June 15.—A judicial separation has been refused to Mrs. Robert H. Sherard (Irene Osgood), the novelist, who says she is still seriously ill, but when she recovers she will continue the fray

ASSEMBLY PROTEST AGAINST DECREE

And Mixed Marriages Are Strongly Opposed.

CHARTERS FOR QUEEN'S

Official Separation of University and Church To Take Place in Fall.

Ottawa, June 14.—A strong pronouncement against the promulgation of the ne temere decree and a warning to the people of the church to abstain from mixed marriages till the situation is cleared up was passed by the Presbyterian General Assembly here tonight. The motion was carried unanimously by a standing vote, after Dr. Duval, of Winnipeg, and Principal Scrimger, of Montreal had spoken in favor of the strongly-worded resolution they presented. It had been announced that the matter would be discussed, and it was doubtless to a large extent to this that was due the fact of the church being filled to capacity. The adoption of the resolution unanimously was greeted with long and loud applause, not only by the commissioners, but by others. The main resolutions as presented read:

"We recognize union between one man and one woman in marriage as primarily consistent with the law of God in creation and necessary to the highest well being of the race.

"That said union in marriage has been sacred since the times of Revelation in the Old and the New Testament.

"That we unite the highest ideals of the Hebrew and Christian world for maintaining the sacredness of the marriage bond as necessary for the highest good of society.

"But inasmuch as marriage involves both social and property rights which can be inforced owing to the civil government, it is necessary that the contracts be entered into under the full sanction and security of the civil government.

"That we are profoundly grateful that the civil government is pleased to authorize marriages according to the rites and ceremonies of the various religious denominations, and to maintain the validity of the same in law.

"That we deeply regret that any denomination should presume to reflect upon, or morally or materially damage any persons that may be united in marriage according to the provisions of the civil law, whether with or without the sanction of any particular religious denomination.

"That while recognizing the right of any church to make regulations for the discipline of its members, it is desirable that marriage union once formed should not be canceled for any but the weightiest ethical reasons."

Legislation Urged.

"That the Legislatures of the various provinces be urged to remove as far as possible all ambiguity in the law respecting the validity of marriages and provide that the legal hindrances to marriages should be defined by the civil law and not by any charch or other body whose rules do not apply to the whole community.

"And because the peace and training of our Canadian life has been greatly disturbed and the civil rights of the people greatly interfered with by the publication and attempted enforcement in Canada of the Ne Temere decree by the Church of Rome, we, therefore, in the common bonds of fraternity, so long and happily secured to us in our beloved land, record our respectful protest against the enforcement in Canada of the decree and call upon all good citizens to resist the same, and our Legislatures to render it impossible by law.

"But so long as the ne temere decree is attempted to be enforced in Canada, and so long as the Roman Catholic Church assumes the authority to interfere with and destroy the peace of those who contract mixed marriages, while deeply regretting the necessity of suffering any cloud to rest upon the social harmony that should exist among all Christians in this Dominion, the General Assembly is compelled, until the cause of this disharmony is removed by the Church of Rome, to warn all our people to abstain from entering into the marriage tie with those who give their allegiance to the Roman Catholic authority."

Rev. J. H. Edmison, Kincardine, was nominated by the home mission committee as secretary of home missions, and the assembly approved. He will really be assistant to the new superintendent of missions, Rev. Dr. Grant. These two appointments were necessitated by the resignation of Rev. Dr. McLaren. Rev. Dr. Edmison asked for time to consider the acceptance of the position.

Queen's Provisional Board.

The provisional board of management of Queen's Theology Faculty, as it will be after the legislation for separation, was named as follows: Principal Gordon, Dr. McGillivray, Dr. MacTavish, G. M. MacDonnell, D. G. Laidlaw, W. T. Mlunis, Profs. Ross and Laird, Revs. Gray and Brown, Hamilton Cassels, Hon. J. M. Gibson, Sir Thomas Taylor, Revs. Drummond, Stuart Wallace, Faindon, Milne, Turnbull, Taylor and Herridge.

That the insane love of statistics, the counting of hands and the numbering of conversions were responsible for much of the feeling against evangelists was the statement by Rev. Mr. Robinson, secretary of the evangelism department in presenting his report. He spoke in glowing terms of successful evangelistic meetings, and was followed by Rev. Mr. Reid, Sault Ste. Marie, who made a whirlwind and inspiring address on evangelistic work. "A wheel-barrow Government that has to be pushed, and only goes when it is pushed."

This is the picturesque description of the British Columbia Government as given by Rev. Mr. Main, Cranbrook. The remark was made while he was telling the effect of an evangelistic campaign that resulted in vastly improved social conditions caused by an enlivened Christian church awakening public opinion, and then bringing this opinion to bear on the Government.

Church Union.

At this afternoon's session the question of church union came up again. The standing committee, of which Principal Patrick is chairman, reported, incorporating the recommendations of the special committee, which the assembly had already accepted, and also making an additional recommendation that in addition to the vote from church sessions, members and adherents, a vote be also asked from the Presbyteries. This was agreed to. The vote of members and adherents will be taken up to March 15 and of Presbyteries up to March 25. The vacancies on the committee were filled and the committee was authorized to take what steps it deemed best to lay the proposed basis of union before the church members. It is possible that printed copies of the proposed basis may be sent to every member, so that an intelligent vote may be taken. In addition to the vote on the submitted question form, the members and presbyteries will be asked to make suggestions.

It is possible for legislation to affect the separation of Queen's University from the church will be secured in August, though Rev. Dr. Herridge and some others think it will take a year. Principal Gordon announced that two charters would be secured, a provincial and a federal. Rev. J. H. Edmison said he understood there would be two incorporations, one for the university and one for the theological college. If the necessary legislation was secured in August he thought the assembly should appoint a board of management for the theological college so that it could take charge as representing the church as soon as the legislation was secured. If the legislation were not secured for a year the board of management simply would not act. After a discussion the assembly agreed that the committee on standing committees should name a provisional board of management, composed of 25 members as decided in the agreement of separation.

QUICK ACTION SAVES MANY

Ohio River Captain Prevents Great Disaster.

BOAT AFIRE AT NIGHT

Steamer Rammed Into Bank, and Passengers and Crew Escape.

[Canadian Press.]

Paducah, Ky., June 15.—Quick work on the part of Captain John L. Lowry, of the river steamer John L. Lowry, saved the lives of 65 persons early today when the boat burned opposite Smithland, Ky., in the Ohio River. Crowded with fifty excursionists and the crew of fifteen the craft was slowly making its way up the river in midstream when fire broke out near the engines.

Aroused from their sleep the passengers crowded on to the decks in a near-panic, and only the coolness of the boat's crew averted a heavy loss of life. Several barrels of oil exploded but no one was hurt.

Seeing the fire about to consume the craft, Captain Lowry made for the Illinois side with all speed. By the time the nose of the steamer touched the shore the fire had gained a great headway, but the passengers got off without a rush. Roll-call of passengers showed everyone present, and none injured. It had not been determined this morning whether any of the negro deck hands had been burned, but it is believed that they too escaped.

TWO BREAK JAIL

McNeilly and Verlinder Get Away From Woodstock Lockout.

Woodstock June 15—Vincent McNeilly and James Verlinder, two youths who were awaiting sentence in the county jail here, broke out and escaped just before noon yesterday. They were allowed in the exercise yard and when alone they climbed up by means of two windows, and with the help of a towel they had stolen, to the roof edge. They worked along to the outside wall, crawled along it, and dropped over the north wall to freedom. All was done where passers-by might have seen them, but no one noticed them escape. Verlinder has been caught near Eastwood, and McNeilly is being corraled up in the same district.

LIBERALS SCORE IN NOVA SCOTIA

The Murray Government Returned to Power Yesterday.

MAJORITY OF SIXTEEN

The Conservatives Show a Gain of Six Seats—The Majorities.

Halifax, June 14.—The Liberals were victorious in the Nova Scotia provincial elections today, the Murray Government being returned to power. It carried twenty-seven out of the thirty-eight seats, and has a possibility of making it twenty-eight when the final returns are in. The only seat at present in dout is Cape Breton, where Dr. A. S. Kendall, the former senior representative, is some seventy-two behind J. C. Douglas, the second Conservative. There are, however, a number of outlying districts to be reported, and it is not improbable that the final returns will give Dr. Kendall the seat.

The Opposition held five seats in the last house, and they have therefore made a gain of six, giving them the outside figure. If Cape Breton splits even, as it is expected at the hour of writing, it will be five. The only county which does not return a representative of the Government is Colchester, where both Conservatives were elected.

The election was one of the quietest in the history of the province, although the Opposition everywhere put up a keen fight, and in cases where seats were captured from the Liberals the result is largely due to over-confidence on the part of the Government side. In Yarmouth, where Hon. Henry S. Leiblanc, member of the Government without portfolio, was defeated, both French-Acadian candidates appear to have been dropped. In Annapolis the Conservatives captured the seat through the election of a man who was strong locally. In Hants the parties split even as usual. In Lunenburg the Opposition made a gain by electing J. W. Margeson, who ran second to Attorney-General Maclean. In this case the result is due to a split vote and the absence of 2,000 fishermen, who are strong for reciprocity. In Queen's the party split even, the former Conservative member being returned, as well as a new Liberal candidate. In Colchester, Hon. B. F. Pearson and his colleague, W. Davison Hill, were both defeated. Here the result is claimed to be due to corrupt practices. Only the day before the election the Liberals seized three large dry goods cases filled with liquor, containing 3,000 bottles. In Pictou two Liberals were elected, and Mr. C. E. Tanner, former leader of the Opposition, managed to squeeze in as third man. In Antigonish, Hon. Christopher Chisholm, commissioner of works and mines, was defeated, although his Liberal colleague was elected. The result there was entirely due to local dissatisfaction.

Uncertain in Cape Breton.

In Cape Breton, with its large mining vote, the issue was uncertain from the start, and the strike of two years ago, which caused a split between the miners, no doubt contributed to the Tory success.

The Liberals won a notable victory in Halifax, where three candidates were elected by over one thousand majority. The Labor candidate, who ran as an Independent, was at the foot of the pole, but polled a surprisingly large vote.

In Cumberland, where both Liberals, Ralston and Carter, were elected, the victory was a notable one, for there E. N. Rhodes, M. P., campaigned the county on the reciprocity issue, and the verdict is a striking indorsement of the Fielding agreement.

The chief cry of the Opposition in the campaign was "cheap school books," and petty issues, local to each constituency, were worked to the limit.

The verdict has no significance as showing any dissatisfaction with the Government's policy, and on the whole is a signal triumph for the Liberal party, both in provincial and federal affairs. Premier Murray, in all probability, will have a majority of eighteen in the new House, and this, after a tenure of office of nearly thirty years, is nothing short of remarkable. Premier Murray himself scored a striking victory in his own constituency, receiving a majority of 1,059 over the highest Conservative, Dr. J. L. Bethune.

Following are the results as given by the Canadian Associated Press. Unless marked majority, the figures stand for the vote cast for the winning candidate:

Antigonish, Trotter, 1,285.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

BERRY DAY AGAIN ON LOCAL MARKET

The Prices This Morning Were Reasonable and Demand Was Good.

HAY SALES WERE SLOW

25 Loads Were Offered Today—Dressed Poultry Is More Plentiful.

Strawberries were again the dominant feature of the market today. They were offered for sale in great quantities, but the demand for them was good and they sold without difficulty.

Prices were very reasonable, however. Good berries could be obtained quite readily at 8c and 9c per box.

The very largest and finest retailed for 10c per box. In wholesale quantities strawberries brought 7c and 8c per box.

Flowers and vegetables were fairly plentiful, but they did not form so large a proportion of the market as on recent market days.

Dressed poultry is becoming slightly more plentiful, but the supply appears to be limited this season.

Butter and eggs were very scarce and sold at very firm prices. Eggs retailed at 18c and 19c per dozen.

Butter of the first quality brought 22c and 23c per lb. Second-rate butter sold at 20c per lb. Store lots were purchased as low as 15c and 16c per lb.

Some twenty-five loads of hay appeared on the market today. The price was lower than hitherto and sales were slow. From $10 to $11 per ton were the ruling prices.

There was no change in the price of oats, a number of loads selling all the way from $1.10 to $1 16 per cwt.

The meat market was excessively quiet today, very little of anything being offered.

[From Charles Head & Co., by private wire to J. J. Tearney.]

NEW YORK, June 15.—Price Current says: Average condition fairly good and prospects for crop above average. Harvesting progressing. Spring wheat generally maintaining high condition. Corn growing nicely and prospect good, but needs rain. Oats will be short crop. Good rains are reported from a number of points in Northern Texas, particularly in Dallas territory. Generally speaking, the crops are in prime condition. In South Texas cotton picking will soon begin.

[From Charles Head & Co., by private wire to J. J. Tearney.]

NEW YORK, June 15.—10 a.m.—London rather irregular, although steel and copers are higher, the copper stocks being strong abroad, reflecting the improved situation of metal. No change is reported in the Bank of England rate, which is still 3 per cent, though money is easy in tone. The average daily orders of the United Steel Corporation are said to be larger than in May, which causes some circles to expect a resumption of activity in the not distant future. The tariff discussion is a retarding factor, though there is no likelihood that congress will take any action other than passing the reciprocity measure before adjournment. Favorable comment is heard upon the very satisfactory foreign trade showing for the month of May, both the imports and exports being the largest on record for the eleven months, the excess of exports being over $500,000,000, which explains the control that we have in the foreign trade situation and the possibilities of gold imports if the need develops. Crop prospects are on the whole most favorable, though the drought in the southwest remains unbroken. The subway situation is mixed, but the city officials are expected to push matters so that a vote can be reached by the end of the month, provided no further delay is permitted for negotiations with the local bidders. We are firm believers in high prices, and would advise buying the better-class stocks on all recessions.

Coronation Day a Holiday in London

Coronation Day, June 22nd, has been declared a public holiday in London. A royal proclamation has been issued to that effect, and today Mayor Beattie issued another, asking the citizens to close their places of business, decorate their homes, and join in making it a memorable holiday.

"I think it is right and proper that the day should be celebrated," said his worship. "The Government have proclaimed it a holiday, and in accordance with that I have issued a proclamation, or it would be better termed a request, asking the citizens generally to join in making the holiday a great success."

MEASURING RAINDROPS.

The simplest method yet devised to ascertain the size of raindrops is as follows: The drops are allowed to fall into a layer of dry flour one inch in depth, which is exposed to the rain for a few seconds only. The flour is then set aside until the pellets of dough formed by the drops have hardened sufficiently to be picked out. Experiments with measured drops of water falling into the flour have proved that the pellets differ little in size from the drops that produce them. The largest drops yet tested by a prominent scientist somewhat exceeded one-fifth of an inch in diameter; but most of them were much smaller. The size varies with the kind of clouds from which the rain falls.

REGIMENT MAY STOP OFF IN CLEVELAND

Seventh Boys Will in Such Case Have to Secure Permission From Governments.

The report of the committee sent to Kingsville to consider the advisability of going to that place for the First of July will be handed into the Seventh Regiment officers tomorrow, and a definite announcement will be made relative to where they will go.

If they do go to Kingsville, it is the intention to spend a couple of hours going as well as coming in Cleveland. In order to do that, permission will have to be obtained from the Dominion Government, and that of the United States.

Col. Campbell is of the opinion that there will be no difficulty over that matter.

"We have not decided where we will go, nor will we until we hear the report of the committee tomorrow," he said. "If we go to Kingsville we will spend a few hours in Cleveland. Permission will have to be obtained from both Governments to do so."

GARDEN OF BAND PLAYERS.

There are remote Bavarian villages which send out wandering musicians to travel the world; three-fourths of their male population are absent for a year; some, perhaps, for years at a stretch. The majority, however, return on the name day of their parish church, to feast and play the grand seigneur. Their route through Germany lies mainly by way of hamlets and little towns; but Munich, their adored metropolis, is sure at one time or another to find them playing in the quiet inn gardens of its suburbs. Their babies' future fitness for a wander life is tested in the cradle by an old tradition. A cornet and a watch are offered them. If their hands clutch at the instrument they will become musicians; if at the timepiece they will prove scamps.

EXACT MEASUREMENT.

The extreme delicacy of scientific measurement is shown by an apparatus of English invention for comparing official standards of length. Its action depends upon the interference of light-waves, causing shadow bands, the width of which is half the wave-length of the light employed. The red radiation from hydrogen or cadmium is used, and its wave-length is, say the fifty-thousandth of an inch. The machine carries two miscroscopes, one of which is attached to one of the glass plates reflecting the light and producing the interference bands. First the recognized standard rod—say the imperial standard yard—is placed under two microscopes, and one of its terminal marks is brought under the spider-lines of each. Then the rod to be tested is substituted, and one of its terminals is accurately adjusted. If it varies from the length of the standard, the other miscroscope, carrying the reflector, must be shifted until coincidence is obtained. The number of bands that move past during the shifting, multiplied by the half-wave-lengths of the light, gives the difference in length of the rods.

VICTOR HUGO'S GOLDEN GIFT.

A Paris chiffonnier makes a living of a sort, and he sometimes, in overhauling the dustbins, comes across a find. In this respect a Paris contemporary relates a capital story of Victor Hugo. A little silver gilt souvenir spoon, which the poet valued very much, disappeared. Through the carelessness of the maid servant it had found its way into the ash bucket, and in due course into the hands of the chiffonnier who practiced in the district.

This worthy succeeded in getting the poet to awake from his reveries and to descend from the lofty heights of Olympus, in other words his study, to receive back the lost spoon. Hugo was delighted to get back his souvenir. The author of "Hernani" was never a prodigal, so he rewarded the chiffonnier by presenting him with a copy of his "Les Chansons des Rues et des Bois," saying: "There, my man, you will find in it as much gold as is contained in any jewel case in the world."

Do Not Invest all Your Funds in the Same Security

It is far from wise to invest all your funds in the same security—whether it be any one certain stock or any one issue of bonds.

The best and safest plan is to diversify your investments — buy several different securities of solid worth.

Then the fluctuations of any one or another of them will not appreciably affect your total capital—you are striking an average of solidity and safety. In other words, the stability of your entire capital is made not subject to the fluctuations of one security and the average of your income does not depend on the business prosperity of one enterprise.

Such a method of investing is the height of intelligent conservatism.

Your investment house can be of great assistance to you in diversifying your investments.

OUR SECURITY REPORTS

THE AMBER HARVEST.

The poor people who earn a precarious livelihood by gathering amber on the shores of the Baltic Sea, work only in the roughest weather. When the wind blows in from the sea, as it often does with terrific violence, the boulders are tossed and tumbled at the bottom, and great quantities of sea wrack are washed up on he beach. This is the harvest of the waders, for hidden in the roots and branches of the seaweed lumps of the precious gum may be found. In other parts of the coast divers go crawling on the bottom of the sea for the lumps of amber hidden in seaweed and under rocks. It is believed that once a great pine forest flourished there, where the great billows roll, and that amber is the gum exuded from the trees, of which not a vestige remains. The finds are variable. The largest piece known, weighing eighteen pounds, is in the Royal Museum in Berlin. The usual finds range from pieces as big as a man's head to particles like grains of sand. The larger are found in rocks or in tangles of marine vegetation. Divers work from four to five hours a day in all seasons, except when the sea is blocked with ice. The work is so arduous that they are bathed in perspiration even in the coldest weather, but for all their grinding toil the Samland natives are a happy and contented people.

The Niagara Power Excursion to the Falls on Saturday next is going to be a wonderful success. The privilege of going through the big powerp lants, granted at the instance of Hon. Could Not Walk Ten Yards Without Resting.

WEAK HEART WAS THE CAUSE.

Mrs. Robinson Collette, Rogersville, N.B., writes: "I am now enjoying the best of health after having used your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I was troubled with a weak heart and was afraid to draw a long breath for the pain it would cause me. I could not sleep at night, and it was impossible for me to walk ten yards without resting myself. I cannot speak too highly of your Heart and Nerve Pills, for they are the greatest pill I have ever used and I can recommend them to all sufferers."

Thousands of people go about their daily work on the verge of death and yet do not know it.

Little attention is paid to the slight weakness of the heart for the simple reason that one thinks it will right itself, but there is where the mistake is made. It is only when a violent shock comes that the weakness of the heart becomes apparent.

On the first sign of any weakness of the heart or nerves, flagging energy or physical breakdown, the use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will soon produce a quick and permanent cure.

A HAY MARKET ON YORK STREET

No. 3 Committee Would Have One on Saturdays Near G. T. R. Freight Sheds.

NO AUTO FOR THE CHIEF

Proposal Was Blocked at the Meeting Which Was Held Last Night.

A deadlock still exists in No. 3 committee over the purchase of an auto for Fire Chief Aitken. At the meeting of the committee last night, Ald. Wilson moved that tenders for an auto be called for. He pointed out that it was about time that London got something up-to-date.

Ald. Ashplant supported the motion, but Mayor Beattie and Ald. Donnelly opposed it, and the matter was laid over.

Ald. Wilson scored later when the recommendation came up that two new horses be purchased for the fire department. Ald. Donnelly moved that they be bought. He was supported by the mayor, but Ald. Wilson and Ald. Ashplant voted against it.

If an auto is secured, there would be no need of these horses, as those now in use on the chief's buggy could be utilized. There will be a debate on the matter at the next meeting of the council.

A Hay Market.

A hay market on Saturday will be provided for by-laymen and others. Their petition was presented last night at the committee meeting, and was favorably received. Ald. Wilson moved that it be held on York street, opposite the Grand Trunk freight sheds, and this site was acceptable to the aldermen.

Mr. R. A. Carrothers, chairman of the attractions committee of the Old Boys' Association, asked for the use of the market for concessions during Old Boys' Week. It was granted.

The bylaw to prevent the exposure of food stuffs came up for consideration, but no definite action was taken. It was decided to table the matter until information was received from other cities regarding the procedure taken there.

Those present at the meeting were Ald. Ashplant (chairman), Ald. Wilson, Ald. Donnelly, Mayor Beattie, Fire Chief Aitken, Inspector McCallum, Market Clerk Maker, Inspector Avery, and Secretary S. Baker.

BABY GIRL WAS BORN ON THE HOSPITAL LAWN

Mother, With Her Husband, Walked From Home in North End to the Institution.

That the Stork, like Time and Tide, waits for no man, or woman, either, for that matter, was demonstrated about 2 o'clock yesterday, when a fine baby girl came into the world on the lawn of Victoria Hospital. Shortly before 2 o'clock the night supervisor heard a great clatter at the main entrance, as the father sought to gain admittance. On learning what was the matter, the supervisor hurriedly summoned a house surgeon. The doctor, however, could not get into his clothes quickly enough, and before he got downstairs the baby was born. Both the mother and the little girl were taken into the wards, and neither suffered in any way from the unexpected happening, and both are doing well now.

The woman and her husband only came to this country three weeks ago from England, and during the night started to walk from their home in the northern part of the city to the hospital.

BANK WILL TELL CITY RENTAL TO BE ASKED

If City Hall Is Sold Agreement Will Have To Be Made With Royal.

The Royal Bank will submit a proposition to the city for the rental of the city hall before the next meeting of the council.

At the meeting of the special committee held last night Manager F. E. Karn, of the bank, was present, and stated that they were prepared to meet the city in any reasonable proition to rent the building.

"It was our first intention to use the treasurer's and city engineer's offices," said Mr. Karn. "However, on further consideration we decided that we would use the offices now occupied by the mayor, City Clerk Baker, and the medical health officer. There is plenty of vault accommodation for us there, and we will have sufficient room."

Mr. Karn could not make any definite statement as to the time the bank would lease the building to the city, or the rental to be asked.

"We will meet you on any reasonable proposition, both as to the duration of your tenancy, and the amount you would be expected to pay," he said.

On the suggestion of Mayor Beattie, Mr. Karn will submit a proposition in writing before the next meeting of the council.

There was no effort made last night to remove Ald. Cooper from the chairmanship of the committee. It was found out that he was right when he stated that a special meeting for that purpose would have to be called.

The Advertiser was informed that he will be removed shortly, and Ald. Bennett placed in charge. If this is done, the sale of the hall will undoubtedly be blocked.

Those present at the meeting were Ald. Cooper, chairman, Ald. Richter, Ald. Morgan, Ald. Bennett, Ald. Ashplant, Ald. Donnelly, Mayor Beattie, and Secretary Baker.

Card of Thanks.

The funeral was held at the parents' residence, 243 Talbot street, of Miss Viola Tryphenia Victoria Robinson (daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Robinson), aged 4 years and 5 months, who died of tuberculosis of the brain. She was ill for some time. Mr. and Mrs. John H. Robinson wish to thank their many friends for their expressions of deepest sympathy and floral offerings.

MEMBERSHIP SHOWS A LARGE INCREASE

Order of Good Templars Urged to Still Greater Efforts.

The Canadian Grand Lodge of the International Order of Good Templars continued their fifty-eighth annual session in Duffield Hall today. The convention will be concluded tomorrow.

The grand chief templar, Bro. F. S. Morrison, of Hamilton, in his report, expressed the hope that the members would put forth renewed and greater efforts to place the order again where it was ten years ago in the point of membership. The last year showed an increased membership and an attempt will be made during the coming year to double the present membership of the order.

The largest lodge in Canada is the Pride of St. Kitts, recently organized in St. Catharines. The greatest comparative increase in membership was made by St. John's Temple, Toronto. Hope of the West, the local lodge, stood well up in the reports of progress during the year, and other lodges which made a good showing are Chippewa Lodge, of Muncey; Hope Lodge, Brantford; Enterprise Lodge, of Milberta, and Britannia Lodge, Hamilton.

Yesterday's Session.

During the session of yesterday the grand lodge degree was conferred on a number of candidates.

Reports of substantial advances in the growth of the juvenile branch of the order were presented, and the outlook for the order is unusually bright.

A motion to hold the grand lodge convention bi-annually was voted on, but failed to carry.

At the evening session a programme of musical and literary selections was given by Sisters Bell, Johnson, Ross, and Wigham, and Bros. Dyson, J. Brown, M. Brown, Norman Winter, Lilley, Noble, Lyle, McCrea, and Robbins, after which refreshments were served an a social half-hour enjoyed by the Templars.

It is probable that the next meeting of the grand lodge will be held in St. Catharines, although the matter has not been definitely decided as yet.

FIRST METHODIST PICNIC AT LAKESIDE

A Most Enjoyable Time Spent at Port Yesterday.

The First Methodist choir picnic, which was held yesterday at Port Stanley, could scarcely have been more successful or enjoyable. Several excursions on the lake, a musical programme, races and other sports, voting contests, and not the least enjoyable supper on board the Forest City, made up a pleasant afternoon and evening. Among the athletic events were an exciting hobble race, and a baseball throwing contest in which the young women succeeded in hurling the sphere to remarkable distances.

A balloting contest, in which a handsome plaque, presented by Mr. Bert Barbour, was awarded as a prize, was decided in favor of Miss Beatrice Hunt, the soprano soloist.

The following races were run off: Egg and spoon race, blind pig race, fat men's skipping race, fat ladies' race, three-legged race, hobble-skirt race, horse race, needle and thread race, wheelbarrow race, committee race and others. Last but not least was the baseball game of five innings, between the bassos and altos on the one side and the tenors and sopranos on the other. The score was five to four in favor of the former. About one hundred were present.

The picnic party returned to the city on the 11 o'clock traction car last night thoroughly pleased with their outing.

The picnic this year was held earlier than usual on account of some of the choir members leaving earlier than usual for their vacations.

The committee in charge was composed as follows: Miss Beatrice Hunt, Mrs. Fred. Screaton, Mrs. A. D. Jordan, Mrs. Chowen, Mr. A. D. Jordan, A. E. Barbour, J. Lashbrook, George E. McCormick, Ed. Smith, George W. Hayes, John Ward, and S. W. Perry.
