SACRED COLLEGE MEETS TO ELECT PONTIFF

SEEKS TO SAVE SINN FEINERS IN ULSTER PRISON

Michael Collins Asks Premier Craig To Prevent Execution, Feb. 9.

FACE BOUNDARY ISSUES

Heads of Two Irish Governments To Discuss Territorial Exchanges.

Dublin, Feb. 2.—Several important questions were awaiting discussion by Michael Collins, head of the provisional government, and Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, at their meeting here today. Probably the most urgent matter was the fate of the three Sinn Fein prisoners under sentence of death in the Northern Prison, Belfast. Had they been confined in Southern Ireland, these men would have been released under the Anglo-Irish treaty's workings, but Londonderry is within the Ulster jurisdiction and the law is taking its course. The execution of the three has been fixed for Feb. 9, and the scaffold is being erected in the prison.

Premier Craig was to be asked to stop the executions.

Londonderry is one of the towns where, in the opinion of Southern Ireland, the terms of the Northern Parliament cannot be prolonged. It has a Nationalist majority in the city council and a Nationalist mayor, while a considerable number, even of the Unionists, feel that its business prospects would be hampered if it were kept out of the Northern Parliament, and thus separated from Donegal, of which it is the real capital.

It was expected the boundary question also would be discussed during the interview. It seems to be the feeling here that if Northern Ireland is to stay out of a united Ireland, it must give its assent to some rearrangement of the boundaries that will leave to Southern Ireland certain blocks of northern territory inhabited mainly by a population which refuses obedience to the northern government, that government receiving in exchange some bits of Ulster now included in Southern Ireland where there is a considerable Unionist population.

Negotiations along these lines are admittedly delicate, for Sir James Craig, it is pointed out, would be subject to reproach if he agrees to part with territory now possessed by Ulster, while Michael Collins is expected to find it difficult to hand over to Northern Ireland territory now included within Southern Ireland's boundaries.

REPORTS PERLEY HAS RESIGNED

Ottawa, Feb. 2.—Sir George Perley, Canadian high commissioner, was in lengthy conference with Premier King this morning, and it is understood has formally tendered his resignation. It is firmly believed that he will be succeeded to the position by P. C. Larkin of Toronto, and that there will be a complete reorganization of the high commissioner's staff.

PREPARING HOME FOR ROYAL BRIDE

London, England, Feb. 2.—Cherterfield House, the future London home of Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles, is in the hands of the upholsterers. The interior is being entirely re-decorated, and a beginning has been made with the great ballroom, which is being gilded.

Calls Conference To Discuss City Policy

MAYOR WILSON INVITES SIX CIVIC BODIES

Letters Are Addressed to the Secretaries of London Organizations.

MEETING TO BE INFORMAL

Appointment of Finance Commissioner Will Be Considered.

Mayor Wilson has sent out invitations to the heads and secretaries of six different civic bodies to attend his conference in regard to co-ordination of civic affairs. Council representatives will make the seventh civic body to be represented. The meeting is scheduled for Friday, February 19, at 8 o'clock.

The Library Board, Utilities Commission, Police Commission, Board of Education, Hospital Trust, London and Port Stanley Railway and the council are the bodies to be represented at the conference. The council will be represented by Mayor Wilson, Chairman Childs of the Finance Committee, Chairman Ash-ton of the Board of Works and City Clerk Baker.

In his letter calling the conference, Mayor Wilson does not lay down any definite program but leaves the door wide open to suggestions from any of the bodies.

The mayor points out that the conference is to consider efforts to increase co-ordination of the several departments of civic government, the appointment of a finance commissioner such other matters that may be deemed expedient by the members present for increasing the efficiency of the city government.

GETS APPROVAL FOR SEWER WORK

Provincial Department of Public Works Grants Sanction for City Operations.

City Engineer H. A. Brazier has received approval from the provincial works department at Toronto for a number of small sewers, which will be carried out under the unemployed relief scheme. As a result of the action of the government at Ottawa, London will only have to shoulder about one-sixth of the excess cost of this work, due to winter construction. The provincial government will take care of a third and the federal government the balance.

The sewers approved are:

- Dufferin avenue, storm sewer, Elizabeth street to 200 feet west.
- Ridout street, sanitary sewer, Horton street to 350 feet north.
- Regina street, sanitary sewer, from the existing sewer to Maitland.
- Glasgow street, sanitary sewer, Battle street to 200 feet north.
- Blackfriars street, storm sewer, Wharncliffe to Empress.
- West London, sanitary sewers, Beaufort street, Wharncliffe to the east limit; Wharncliffe, Saunby to Grosvenor; McDonald avenue, Wharncliffe to the end of the street; Trinity, Saunby to Beaufort; Gunn street, C. P. R. to Beaufort; Saunby, Wharncliffe to Gunn.

Several of the above sewers have already been completed.

Has Baby Gloria Inherited Daddy's Golden Notes?

STANDS TIPTOE ON STURDY LITTLE LEGS LOOKING WISTFULLY INTO DEPTHS OF PHONOGRAPH REPRODUCING VOICE OF TENOR DEATH FOREVER STILLED.

MADAME CARUSO AND BABY GLORIA.

[Special to London Advertiser.] MILAN, Italy, Feb. 2.—Gloria Caruso already is a prodigy giving promise of becoming a great singer like her famous father.

At two the only offspring of the man who for years held the position of the world's foremost tenor can sing better than most children of six.

Madame Caruso is certain that Baby Gloria will follow her father in the path of greatness.

Gloria is "her father's girl." She looks like him, and in her baby ways talks like him, and has his gestures and mannerisms.

"She loves to sing. She's not bashful when asked to sing. Her repertoire is not large, but its scope is wide, for it runs from "Three Blind Mice" to bits from her father's arias.

"Gloria never heard her father sing on the stage," says Madame Caruso. "But until he was taken sick, he often sang lullabies to her. And every day she hears records of his songs on the phonograph."

The child never can hear enough of the Caruso records.

"Daddy," she exclaims, when the record begins to turn and the tenor's voice, stilled by death but preserved by science, fills the room with cadence.

"Daddy!" she repeats, and tries to sing with him.

There is something about seeing this child, standing tip-toe on sturdy little legs with fascinatingly dimpled knees, looking wistfully into depths of the phonograph, that brings tears to one's eyes.

Baby Gloria cannot realize that she'll never see her father again.

The telephone rings. She runs to it ahead of the butler or the maid. She takes down the receiver and cries: "Daddy, Daddy."

Madame Caruso indulges her child in her fancies concerning her father. "I want to keep him alive for her," she says. "It will help her. So his pictures, his records, his arias—and the Italian word he taught her—"

It is the only Italian word Gloria knows. Enrico Caruso schooled her in enunciating it with the soft Italian accent—"Madonna."

PIPER NOW PLEADS GUILTY OF BIGAMY

Londoner Arrested On Complaint of Second Wife Changes Plea.

Stanley Piper, who was charged with bigamy and pleaded not guilty at his last hearing changed his plea to that of guilty when he appeared before deputy magistrate P. H. Bartlett Thursday.

"It seems strange that you plead guilty, when you so emphatically denied your guilt on your last appearance," remarked the court.

Although the defence was prepared to go on with the case, crown attorney J. B. McKillop, K.C., asked that it be adjourned until Friday so that Piper's wife could appear.

Piper was arrested at his boarding house by detectives Down and Bolton on a charge of bigamy preferred against him by his second wife, formerly Miss Alice Dobson.

The allegation is that Piper already had a wife when he married Miss Dobson, having been married in 1913 at Windsor to Miss Laura Laureaux, who is now believed to be residing in Michigan.

The marriage of Miss Dobson took place in London after Piper's return from overseas, where he served with the C.M.R.

MRS. W. H. NICHOLS DIES

Hamilton, Feb. 2.—Mrs. W. H. Nichols, for 18 years president of the Hamilton W. C. T. U., died this morning, aged 76 years.

DR. CAMPBELL LONDON PIONEER PASSES AWAY

Was Former Mayor and Grand Sire of Odd-fellows.

CITIZENS MOURN LOSS

Public Funeral Will Be Held Snuday at St. Paul's Cathedral.

The death of Dr. Cl. T. Campbell, at his residence, 327 Queen's avenue, early this morning, removes from London an historical figure. News of his death is being received with regret by the whole city, for Dr. Campbell was not only active in public affairs himself, but did more towards recording the history of the city and its men of affairs than any other person in the community.

That a clear record of the growth of London from its early days will form a definite part of the history of Canada, is largely due to the efforts of Dr. Campbell, who was instrumental in founding the London and Middlesex Historical Society.

Dr. Campbell was its first president in 1901, and since that time has contributed more to the historical records of the society than all the other citizens interested in this work. His whole work was recently brought to a culmination on the publication of his book, "Pioneer Days in London," a most comprehensive chronicle of London's history.

Those interested in this branch of his life work are indeed glad that he was spared to give to the city this last important piece of work. It was a fitting close to an intensely interesting career.

The public funeral service, which will be held in St. Paul's Cathedral, 2:30 o'clock, Sunday, promises to be one of the largest public funerals of its kind. Wm. Brooks, grand secretary of the Ontario Oddfellows' Lodge, arrived in the city this Thursday morning to make arrangements. It is expected that not only will the local members of this order attend, but that grand officers and officials from both Canada and the United States will also be present.

Final arrangements for the funeral had not been completed at noon Thursday.

Was Outstanding Personality. Dr. Campbell was also an outstanding personality in the Independent Order of Oddfellows of the world. He was the oldest living grand sire up to the time of his death, and but two weeks ago was signally honored by being asked to officiate at the installation of grand sire, of Judge Lucien J. Eastin of St. Joseph, Missouri.

Judge Eastin coming to this city for the installation service, Dr. Campbell was the first Canadian grand sire, becoming grand sire in 1892 and remaining in that office until 1914. He has usually attended the big Oddfellows conventions held each year, only last year being present at the Oddfellows' convention in Toronto. On each of these occasions Dr. Campbell has received a great ovation from his fellow lodgesmen. He was a member of Avon Lodge, 340, of Stratford, Ontario, and was made grand master of Ontario in 1877. Dr. Campbell was a prominent Free Mason and member of the Royal Arcanum.

REPORTS VICTORIA SCHOOL FINISHED

Trustee Rev. A. A. Bice Explains Work Not Officially Accepted Yet.

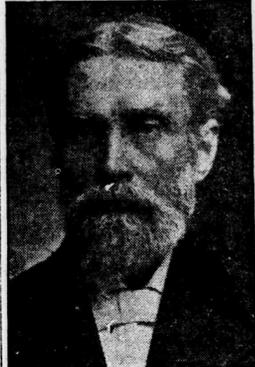

Heralded as one of the best of its kind in the province, the new Victoria public school, South London, is now completed, it was announced on Thursday.

Trustee Rev. A. A. Bice explained, however, that No. 2 committee, of which he is chairman, had not officially accepted the building. He believed that an inspection would probably be made by the members in sufficient time to present a final report at the next meeting of the board of education Tuesday.

The committee in their inspection will check up certain alleged irregularities, none of which it is presumed would be of a serious nature or would tend to defer the official opening.

Called By Death

CITY WORKERS FEAR SHAKE-UP DRAWING NEAR

Members of Municipal Office Staffs Debate Rumored Wage Cut.

LARGE SAVING SOUGHT

Aldermen Drake and Douglas To Lead General Economy Drive.

These are rather anxious days around the city hall and many of the employees are spending no small amount of their time debating rumors that a big shake-up is in the offing.

There are many tales going around about matters pending. It seems generally accepted that there is to be a cut in the cost of civic administration. Ald. Drake has proposed this in a demand that a movement be started to stop any leaks.

It was stated from one source that there was to be a 20 per cent reduction in salaries, but this is not credited. It is believed that there may be a general cut of 20 per cent, but not all on salaries. If such a cut comes it will be brought about partly by cutting salaries and partly by a staff reduction. It is said that this is one of the aims of Ald. Douglas in regard to the garbage department administration.

At the same time, there are aldermen calling for more expenditure, and this relates to the legal department. From time to time much dissatisfaction is expressed over the present method of handling the legal business of the city. If a committee or the council wants advice on a legal point, delay is necessary until the matter is taken up with T. H. Meredith, the city solicitor. Last year's board of health was somewhat critical of this method.

It is reported that a plan is on foot to have the city hire a young lawyer, who would attend all council and committee meetings and give advice on points of law. When any big action or question was to be handled, Mr. Meredith would be called in.

All these schemes are tentative. However, as one city employee said, "Anything may happen."

LAWRENCE LEE, of the Royal Cafe, was fined ten dollars and costs in the police court Thursday, because he tried to clear away the ice from the front of his premises with the aid of salt, a breach of the city bylaws.

CARDINALS NOW IN CONCLAVE IN SISTINE CHAPEL

Members of Inner Circle in Seclusion Until Choice Made.

CROWDS WATCH FOR SIGNS

Consensus of Opinion in Rome Is That Moderate Will Be Elected.

Rome, Feb. 2.—The conclave of the Sacred College, which is to choose a successor to Pope Benedict XV., began its sittings today. The fifty-two cardinals who are in Rome went into seclusion last night, and when the great oak barrier at the entrance of the courtyard of St. Damaso closed they were cut off from communication with the outside world until their sacred task was done.

The first ballot will probably not be taken until Friday morning.

The balloting is not expected to consume more than two days, and the next pope, in the consensus of opinion among the moderate section of the Sacred College, Neither the "irreconcilables" nor the "peace party" which favors closer relations with the Italian government, is understood to have a chance to elect its candidate, the moderates holding the balance of power.

Crowds gathered this morning in St. Peter's Square to watch for the tell-tale smoke wreaths from the chimney of the sistine chapel, where the conclave sits. A ballot is taken on the morning and evening of each day in the moderate section of the Sacred College.

These smoke wreaths are the only indication to the watchers as to the progress being made. When no election is effected a little straw is burned with the voting papers, causing the smoke to assume a dark color. When a vote is taken, the smoke is white, burning alone, emit a thin wisps of light smoke.

Until the election is effected the only communication between the approximately 250 persons in the Vatican and the outside is through the "frats," the cardinals, who, at the entrance of the courtyard, and such communications as are made in this way are not allowed to come to the attention of the cardinals. Penalty for violation of this secrecy is excommunication. The confidence that the conclave would hold for short duration is shared by Cardinal Gasparri, who, in making provision yesterday for the sustenance of the cardinals only provided menus for today, tomorrow and Saturday. Others who believed the election would be brief pointed out that the cardinals generally were in favor of a continuation of the late pontiff's policy, and that there was, therefore, nothing to do but choose a man who would follow that policy.

Parties Evenly Divided. As the conclave convened it appeared that the "irreconcilables," headed by Merry Del Val, and the "peace party" under Gasparri, could each count on about twenty votes, the remaining twelve constituting the moderate section. The candidate of Merry Del Val's group was said to be Cardinal LaFontaine, while any one of the cardinals was said to be favored by Ratti, who was said to be acceptable to those favoring a rapprochement with the Quirinal. Cardinal Laurenti was mentioned as a candidate who might be put forward by the moderates and fully satisfy both factions.

FIGHT FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE

English Cattle Breeders Endeavor To Check Devastating Outbreak.

London, Feb. 2.—(Canadian Press cable.)—Over a thousand slaughtering have been announced since the outbreak of foot and mouth disease in England. The disease has attacked some of the best herds of dairy cattle and numerous pedigreed stocks of sheep, Yorkshire having suffered badly. In this county some of the best short horns are threatened.

Fox-hunting throughout the north of England has been stopped through the danger of the hounds being infected. Nearly all shows and sales of pedigreed stock have been closed while all overseas trade has stopped.

Breeders and raisers of thoroughbred cattle are demanding a conference be called of all societies interested to deal with the more permanent aspect of the case in view of the constant recurrence of the disease.

Vendors and distributors of chilled and frozen meats are profiting by the situation on account of the liberation of tons of frozen carcasses from previously congested cold storage plants.

CITY ENGINEER H. A. BRAZIER and Ald. J. C. Childs attended the meeting of the town planning leaders of the province at Toronto on Wednesday. Three resolutions were passed before the conference, and later a meeting was held with Premier Drury.

MAKE YOUR OWN WIRELESS PHONE; IT'S EASY AND COSTS LITTLE!

MAKE your own radiophone! Get the latest news, concerts or sermons, right in your own parlor or bedroom here in London—through the air.

Anyone can make his own receiving set.

There are no batteries or electrical currents to frighten you. The work involved is little. The cost is small.

A man on the farm or in the city can build an instrument and rig it up for less than $5. But he will have to buy a set of receivers that will increase the cost to nearly $10. Some boys have built their sets for $2—but they probably picked up most of their parts.

What You Need

- The materials are:
- Fifty to 120 feet of No. 12 or No. 14 copper wire—bare.
- Two porcelain insulators.
- One porcelain tube.
- A wooden base—6x12 inches.
- Four bits of wood—half an inch thick 6 x 6 inches.
- A cardboard tube—an old cereal box will do—six inches long.
- Two sliders (more cheaply bought than made).

One-half pound of No. 22 enamel copper wire.

Four binding posts—with screws.

This consists of 50 to 120 feet of wire stretched above the ground as high as possible. This height should be at least 40 feet.

A good place to string the aerial is between the house and a barn or tree top.

Tie a piece of rope to the tree or pole. Attach one of the porcelain insulators—they cost about 5 cents each.

Then take one end of your wire and connect it to the insulator. Carry the rest of the wire back to the house. Pull it up to the roof at other terminal point. Attach another insulator to another bit of rope—and complete your aerial connection.

Don't pull too tightly. Allow the wire some sag for the blowing of the wind.

Double Wire Aerial

If you want, you may use a double wire aerial—but this is not necessary for the small receiving set.

From the insulator run your aerial wire as the "lead-in" to the instrument at other terminal point. Attach as insulator as it enters the house.

Now the aerial is completed. The next step is the construction of the instrument.

Get a cardboard tube five inches wide by six inches long—an empty cereal box will do.

Dry it in the oven or on the radiator.

Then take a bit of half-inch board—about six inches square—and mark out the circumference of the tube. Cut along the line and fit into tube.

Repeat this—and you have the two heads for your tube.

Making the Sides

Nail these on two other boards which will make the sides of your instrument.

Before you slip them into place, drill holes for your binding posts—one through each board.

Take the No. 22 enamel wire and start winding it about half an inch from the wood. Do this tightly and smoothly in a single layer—each turn touching the next. Finish about half an inch from the end.

This tube becomes the tuning coil. Shellac it and bake it—to make it more durable.

Radio waves are sent out in certain lengths—dependent upon the instrument and the distance. To catch these waves of varying lengths, the receiving set must have some adjustment.

This is made on the tuning coil by two slider rods.

You may purchase these cheaply at any supply store.

Making Adjusters

If you want to make them, take a piece of brass tubing that will just fit over the rods. These pieces, two in number, should be about half an inch long.

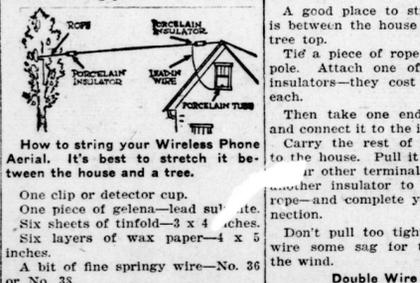

A short bit of brass is soldered to the underside of these sliders. Nail these rods on the board heads of the coil—on top and half way down the front.

Adjust the tongues of the sliders so that they just touch the wire of the coil. Scrape this carefully so that there is a path of contact under the sliders. Use a penknife and clean the strands three or four at a time.

These sliders pushed along the rod will give the variations in wave length.

In the center of each of the wooden backs mount a wood screw binding post.

The right hand end of the coil is connected to the post on the right hand side. The binding post on the left is connected to the slider rod mounted on the front of the coil. (Tomorrow's London Advertiser will tell you how to complete construction of your receiving set.)

Making the Telephone Instrument. Side view of box, section of tuning coil and end view of slider.

OPPOSE MOVE TO ENLARGE ON SHERIFF'S DUTY

Grand Jurors, in Presentment, Oppose Amalgamation With Governor.

URGE JUVENILE COURT Deplore Lack of Equipment At County Jail As Efficiency Detriment.

The grand jury in making their presentment at the winter assizes Wednesday afternoon to Chief Justice R. M. Meredith, presiding judge, strongly recommended that prisoners arrested on criminal charges should not be kept together.

They were sorry to find that two juveniles were confined to the jail, and recommended that a juvenile court be established and a suitable place be found to keep the youngsters.

The jurors referred to the satisfactory condition of the county jail as far as order and cleanliness were concerned. They regretted that the plumbing was not more modern, and suggested that it be replaced. The jury also recommended that the iron plates on top of the flush tanks be either entirely removed or else securely fastened, and that one set of the cells should be double-barred. There were 48 cells for men and 14 for women.

Jail Would Then Be Safe. The jury considered that with the proposed changes carried into effect and an efficient staff the jail would be perfectly safe for the housing of prisoners.

"We also recommend," reads the presentment, "that the office of sheriff should not be combined with the office of governor of the jail."

A visit was paid to the Ontario Hospital, and everything was found to be satisfactory. There were 1,173 inmates in the hospital.

The same condition of affairs prevailed at the Westminster Hospital. The jury was impressed with what was being done to bring the 429 soldiers there back to health and strength.

Wm. C. Moore of Belmont was foreman of the jury.

Judge Replies.

In replying to the presentment, Chief Justice Meredith expressed his appreciation of the thorough manner in which the jury had performed the duties assigned, and declared that if all the grand jurors performed their duties as they had done the administration of justice would be greatly facilitated.

The recommendation that prisoners should not be together and separated as much as possible was thoroughly approved by the judge.

"It strikes me if that had been done before there would not have been the deplorable absence from this court of two persons charged with murder," declared the chief justice.

TO ADDRESS UNION MEN OF LONDON

President of Ontario Branch of Canadian Labor Party Arrives in City.

Harry Kerwin, Canadian Grand Lodge representative of the International Machinists of America and president of the Ontario branch of the Canadian Labor party, arrived in the city Thursday afternoon to address gatherings of union men in the Labor Temple.

On Thursday evening he speaks to a gathering of automobile mechanics, following which an effort will be made by the local organizers to have them affiliate with the machinists' international. In connection with this new departure, it is proposed that a special educational program be placed in effect with classes on certain evenings at the Labor Temple for all mechanics who wish to participate.

President Kerwin will address a second mass meeting in the temple on Friday evening, at which all members of the federated ball shop crafts will attend. He has chosen as his topic "The Need for Closer Co-operation."

LABOR MEN APPRECIATE SENDING OF DELEGATE

There is a general feeling in labor circles that despite the fact that perhaps all the labor people failed to see "eye to eye" with everything that Col. Brown had to offer as a representative of the Chamber of Commerce at Thursday's meeting of the trades council, a friendly impression was created at least.

Approval of this resolution was unanimously passed offering sincere thanks to the chamber of commerce for sending Col. Brown to the Labor Temple to outline views on immigration and farm problems. The labor men generally were particularly struck with the apparent willingness to co-operate and a clause was added to the effect that "the trades council and the local labor movement as a whole would be willing at any future time to co-operate with the chamber of commerce."

YOU NEED NOT HAVE A COLD if you will take Laxative Bismuth QUININE Tablets when you feel the first symptoms of a cold coming on.

AT A MEETING of the executive of the independent Labor Party in the Labor Temple, Saturday evening, ward chairmen will be appointed as well as delegates to the Trades and Labor Party.

CRITICIZES PLAN FOR TAXING OF CITY FACTORIES

Alderman H. B. Ashplant Presents Statement to Finance Committee.

SHOWS 1921 PAYMENTS

A. Fields Lays Complaint Against Relief Inspector McCallum.

"You aren't touch that school rate out there or I'll close my fingers on you," declared ex-Ald. Adam Palmer to Ald. H. B. Ashplant at the meeting of the finance committee, when the latter criticized the taxes now being paid by the several industries located in the annexed area to the east of the old city limits.

Mr. Ashplant had in hand a statement of the taxes paid in 1921 by the different industries. He ridiculed many of the figures. He contended that steps should be taken by the council to have the industries pay school taxes on the full assessed value of their property. He had no intention whatever of touching the 15-mill rate agreement.

It was this suggestion which aroused the ire of Mr. Palmer, who was one of the main movers in having the annexed area brought into the city.

Mr. Palmer did not intimate to the committee just what action his threat implied, but it was alleged that he holds the title to the property on which the Ealing School is located, the same, it is claimed, never having been transferred to the board of education.

Does Not Affect Householder.

Mr. Ashplant, in referring to the figures returned by the city treasurer, stated that the matter did not in any way affect the householder. "It affects only the industrial and commercial corporations who, at the present time in the annex, are paying actually less to the city treasury, on the general rate, than the wage-receiving householders who work in these very same factories."

"Take two cases, for example," said Ald. Ashplant: "1.—Here we have the McCormick Manufacturing Company, which is shown on the assessor's roll to have an assessed value, including the business tax, of $244,000. This example of civic patriotism paid the miserable total of $1.79 (as proved by the report on record) towards the general tax rate of the city for the full year ending Dec. 31, 1921.

"2.—Another example is the Hunt Bros. Limited, flour mills. As shown on the assessor's roll, this corporation has an assessed value at the city hall of $128,000. The tax collector's report before us shows that the Hunt Bros. Limited, paid towards the general tax the wretched sum of only seven cents for the full year's general service in 1921.

"How can it be otherwise than that the small householders and the salaried men are being 'soaked' and dissatisfied at the burden thrown on their property with such a showing as this. The mayor and city council have a duty to perform in this matter, which calls for moral courage and a sense of obligation which should be entirely free from any personal considerations.

"The personnel of the directorates of the corporations named in this report includes many who are justly entitled to be ranged as among our finest citizens," remarked Ald. Ashplant, "and I am personally satisfied that they have never had their obligations in this matter submitted to their notice in such a way as would show the situation as it really is. We need more daylight and a little judicious publicity.

Not Paying School Taxes.

"I desire to say that there is no intention to raise the annex tax rate above the 15-mill point, as agreed. The issue I propose to try out is the collection of the school rate on the assessor's roll of the municipality. The factories in the annex are not paying that. It may not be generally known that the factories in the city who have a fixed assessment by agreement are, at the present time, and always did, pay the school rate on their full assessed value as shown on the rolls.

"I am sure that the citizens have never properly had the true situation set out in this report," concluded Ald. Ashplant.

The following gives the taxes paid by the industries in question. The general tax, school tax, and then the total being given:

Table with 4 columns: Name, General Tax, School Tax, Total. Includes entries like Keenleyside Oil, London Gas-Power, Air Liquide, etc.

Criticizes Plan

Mr. Palmer started to tell the committee that the whole matter was out of order, when he was interrupted by Ald. Ashplant and then a merry exchange of words took place. Mr. Palmer telling the alderman that if he was a gentleman he would let him have his say, and finally declaring that he could see no reason for bringing the matter up again.

City Has Moral Obligation

Mayor Wilson pointed out that although the agreement might be illegal, the city had a moral obligation to meet the matter up against Ald. Ashplant's attention to the fact that in regard to the street railway agreement, Mr. Ashplant took an entirely different stand.

There the matter ended. Recent charges of A. Fields of 629 Colborne street, that Relief Inspector McCallum was treating the poor of the city harshly, was also called to the next aired in the council. Mr. Fields contended that the inspector was unqualified for the position he holds and at his own request was given an opportunity to appear and prove his statements.

Mr. Fields presented his evidence to the committee at the conclusion told him that the testimony of a kind that would warrant the committee acting one way or another and suggested that he could, if he desired, bring the persons supplying him with the information he imparted before the committee. In the meantime the matter rests.

Questioned on Activities

The council was also asked some close questions by the members of the committee in regard to his own activities and letters were read, particularly from the Chamber of Commerce, which said that Fields was inclined to be critical of the relief work of others and that his own efforts tended to hamper and discourage other organizations.

At the outset, Fields stated that he was not out to get Mr. McCallum's job, but wanted to get just treatment for the poor. After telling of his own relief work briefly, he said that in his stand against Mr. McCallum he was supported by three organizations. It came out that the W. C. T. U. and Social Service organization are two of these.

Fields contended that poor people were afraid of Mr. McCallum. He was too critical in his questioning and asked harsh and personal questions which they applied to him for aid, it was charged.

Ald. Judd suggested at this point that the people making these assertions should appear before the committee to state their case.

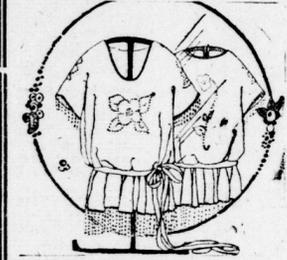

Ald. Ashplant wanted to know if Fields and Mr. McCallum had ever had any disagreement. The reply was yes, and the details were that he had taken a man to the inspector, trying to get him into a home, and that he was refused aid.

Mayor Wilson knew something of the details, and stood by the action of the inspector, declaring the case to be one not worthy of consideration. He added that the whole question seemed to center about the point as to whether the relief officer was efficient or not. He pointed out that the position was a peculiar one. The duties involved were taking care of the worthy poor of the city, and at the same time carefully watching over the city's funds. He cited a couple of cases coming to his attention during the past month, which careful investigation by the inspector showed to be unworthy, and based on misrepresentation.

Fields was here asked to read a number of letters from women and men, mostly aged persons, who had appealed from time to time to the inspector for aid. Mrs. H. Pearce said the inspector was "harsh and abrupt." Mr. Abel wrote that he had

A CLEARER VIEW

To improve the appearance of the Main Floor we have undertaken to lower the fixtures sufficient to give a clear open view from one side to the other. This work is estimated to take about four weeks, and we have chosen the month of February as a time when business will be the least interfered with by the sound of hammer and saw. By doing one section at a time, only that circle will be disturbed for a day or two, and we hope our customers will not feel inconvenienced while this work is being completed. Every department will be intact, but one section at a time will be removed temporarily to another aisle while these improvements are being made, which we feel will be appreciated by our customers when finished.

$5,000 DAMAGE CASE STARTED BY DOG BATTLE

Arthur Shaw Sues Joseph Wilkinson For Alleged Attack With Hoe.

PRESENTS HOSPITAL BILL

Defendant Claims Injurious to Plaintiff Were Accidentally Sustained.

Joseph Wilkinson, residing on Victoria street, is the owner of a dog that is not "too proud to fight." A dog fight conducted in his back yard on the afternoon of May 22, 1920, between Mr. Wilkinson's pet canine and another "growler" owned by a man named Reddick, resulted in a free-for-all scrap, and has now ended in court with Arthur Shaw demanding $5,000 damages from Wilkinson for a crack over the head with the sharp edge of a hoe, which weapon he alleges Wilkinson used right merrily.

Mr. Groundhog Unable To See Shadow, Predicts Early Spring

THOUGH this is only the second of February, the threshold of springtime is nearer, and in a week or two the croaking of the robin should greet the ear.

On Thursday, it is said, the groundhog breaks a repose of several months to come up for air and see if all's well on the Rialto.

Incidentally, the groundhog, is supposed to come out of his hole, blink, turn around twice and see if he is still strong enough to cast a shadow. If no dark patch marks the ground, such as should result when an opaque object stops the daylight, then heigho for an early spring, but if a shadow is seen by the animated party he scurries back in dismay to his subterranean retreat, thereby prognosticating another six weeks of frigidity.

A ground hog, try as he might, couldn't have glimpsed his shadow Thursday.

forward. He did not see Shaw's shadow.

Mrs. Edith Guthrie was working in a garden 40 feet away from the scene of battle, and was badly frightened. She did not see Shaw knocked down. There was a lot of bad language and the men might have been drinking.

Mrs. Mary Paisley was planting onions with her daughter, the previous witness. She saw the dog fight and heard Smith tell Reddick to take his dog home. Later she saw Wilkinson waving something in his hands saying, "Keep back, boys." Mr. Wilkinson was apparently trying to keep the men back from the fight. She did not see Shaw struck.

"Did you know that that district was at one time called Tipperary?" asked the judge.

"I had heard of it," replied Mrs. Paisley.

"I suppose you think it ought to be called Tipperary," commented the judge with a smile.

Delivery Man Testifies. WWilliam Holland, driver of a bread wagon, was fortunate enough to be in on the scrap. He was delivering bread to the O'Farrell house, where three or four fellows were sitting round the table. Witness thought that they looked as if they might have been drinking. He saw two men working overtime pulling hard on the tails of the dogs, and noted their success when it came to the parting of the dogs. He declared that Wilkinson did not go up to Shaw and hit him over the head.

Mrs. Myrtle Wilkinson, wife of defendant, said her husband was swinging the hoe back and forth, and Shaw was struck when he stepped forward into the path of the hoe.

Where the judges have been changed, so that the breeds will have a different judge from one who officiated at the December show. The following are expected to judge the various classes: Mr. E. Simmonds, Toys and Collies; Mr. H. Shortt, Bulldogs and Airedale Terriers; Mr. A. E. Ings, Boston Terriers and French Bulldogs; Mr. George Bowman, Pointers, Setters, Foxhounds and Cocker Spaniels, and all other sporting dogs other than terriers; Mr. F. H. Westbury, Fox Terriers (wire and smooth), Irish Terriers, Sealyhams and all other terriers except Boston and Airedale; Mr. C. S. Webber, all other breeds not mentioned above.

NEAL VS. BRIDGE ACTION SETTLED

The action of the Neal Baking Company against John Bridge regarding some flour transactions has been struck off the non-jury list at the winter assizes being held at the court house. J. B. McKillop, K.C., counsel for the defence, announced Wednesday that the matter had been settled out of court.

Other cases settled were: McKellar vs. Gladstone, Holgate, and the Molsons Bank vs. V. S. Williams.

CITY TO FIGHT RATE INCREASE

Application by Gas Company and Street Railway to Come Before Legislature.

When the Legislature meets this month, the city will find on its hands two battles against rate increases. The first applied for by the City Gas Company, and the second by the London street railway.

Both the above applications have been filed with the Legislature, and both will likely result in battles similar to that staged in both cases at the last session of the House.

In May the temporary agreement with the City Gas Company for $125 cent gas expires and a new agreement is being asked for by the Gas Company. Its application is for a rate of $1.40. The city will oppose this, and will urge that no agreement be authorized at all. This would mean that the rate would go back to the old one of 50 cents.

The Street Railway Company is again urging the Legislature to set aside city of London bylaw 916, which regulates the fares charged on the street railway. This matter was hard-fought before the Legislature last year. If the bylaw was set aside, it would mean that a new rate agreement would have to be made and the company would ask higher fares.

As the time for the opening of the House is drawing near, the matter of opposing both these applications will be dealt with by the city council on Monday night. A strong fighting force will likely be sent to Toronto by the city to oppose both matters.

DOG SHOW WILL BE HELD FRIDAY

Number of Classes Entered by London Canine Association.

The London Canine Association is holding another evening show on Friday of this week.

There will be a class for all breeds, and a silver spoon will be given with all first ribbons.

An additional feature of this show will be the "Green Class." This class is for dogs that have never won a prize, shown by an owner who has never won a prize on any dog. This will give those who keep dogs for companions, only a chance, as they will not have to compete with the dog fancier who has a big string of show dogs to his credit.

J. C. Beemer has given the use of Beemer's new service station on Queen's avenue, west of Richmond street for this show, so there will be plenty of room to accommodate the large crowd which is expected.

Where the judges have been changed, so that the breeds will have a different judge from one who officiated at the December show. The following are expected to judge the various classes: Mr. E. Simmonds, Toys and Collies; Mr. H. Shortt, Bulldogs and Airedale Terriers; Mr. A. E. Ings, Boston Terriers and French Bulldogs; Mr. George Bowman, Pointers, Setters, Foxhounds and Cocker Spaniels, and all other sporting dogs other than terriers; Mr. F. H. Westbury, Fox Terriers (wire and smooth), Irish Terriers, Sealyhams and all other terriers except Boston and Airedale; Mr. C. S. Webber, all other breeds not mentioned above.

Chamber of Commerce Claims City Taxes Comparatively Low

At the meeting of the Advertising and Sales Club, held last night, the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce submitted comparative figures of the assessment and taxation for the leading cities of the Dominion, which show that while high taxation is unfortunately a general thing, the city of London is no worse off, and, in fact, considerably better than most Canadian cities of equal or greater size.

The tables reproduced below show the per capita assessment for the past ten years, according to the Chamber of Commerce data, and per capita taxation, including school and local improvement taxes, for the same period. This places the comparison on an equal footing and shows that London is by no means high in the matter of taxation amongst the cities of the Dominion, according to the Chamber of Commerce.

PER CAPITA ASSESSMENT FOR SOME CANADIAN CITIES, 1911-1921. Table with columns for Year, London, Windsor, Hamilton, Ottawa, Toronto, St. John, Winnipeg, Regina, Edmonton, Vancouver.

PER CAPITA TAXATION (INCLUDING SCHOOL AND LOCAL IMPROVEMENT TAXES) FOR SOME CANADIAN CITIES, PERIOD 1911-1921. Table with columns for Year, London, Windsor, Hamilton, Ottawa, Toronto, St. John, Winnipeg, Regina, Edmonton, Vancouver.

The following percentages of increase in civic records of progress for the same period were also presented to the meeting:

Table showing percentages of increase in civic records of progress for London, 1911 to 1921. Categories include Population, Bank clearings, Inland revenue receipts, Custom collections, Postoffice revenue, City assessment, Real estate transfers, Building permits, Industrial development, Value of annual output, Amount of capital invested, Number of industries.

Percentage of Increase. Population 2.97 per cent, Bank clearings 126.3 per cent, Inland revenue receipts 522 per cent, Custom collections 191 per cent, Postoffice revenue 128 per cent, City assessment 127 per cent, Real estate transfers 143.7 per cent, Building permits 143.7 per cent, Industrial development: Value of annual output 157.6 per cent, Amount of capital invested 119 per cent, Number of industries 135.5 per cent.

DR. CAMPBELL PASSES AWAY

ing his license from the Canadian board in 1886. He was a past president of the Canadian Institute of Homeopathy. He was a member of the board of examiners, Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons, 1880-1881, and a member of the Ontario Medical Council, 1882. In 1892 he was vice-president of the Ontario Medical Council, and in the following year president.

For some years he was lecturer on sanitary science at London Normal School and Victoria Hospital Training School for nurses.

He served for many years on the London Board of Education, of which he was chairman in 1884. He was also an alderman.

Dr. Campbell was twice married, in 1869 to Miss E. A. Drake, who died in 1888, and in 1901 to Miss Charlotte Tyrrell, of Port Rowan.

Former Advertiser Employee. In early life Dr. Campbell learned the trade of journalism, being employed on The London Advertiser staff when but a young man. Although he early gave up this profession for medicine, he has always maintained a hobby, and for many years was a constant contributor to The Advertiser editorial columns.

Dr. Campbell has of late years been medical examining officer of the Northern Life Insurance Company. He is survived by his wife, one sister, Miss May Campbell of this city, and an adopted daughter, Mrs. Barry Southcott of St. Catharines.

COMPLETING HIS TOUR OF CANADA. James Cormack of Ottawa, junior trade commissioner reached London Thursday and is conducting an industrial survey of the city.

Upon his return to the capital he will leave for Cape Town, South Africa, as assistant trade commissioner for that district. While in the city he is making his headquarters at the chamber of commerce.

Edward Clark, of 237 Wellington street, charged with a breach of the Lord's Day Act and contrived ten dollars and costs to the police court coffers Thursday.

His father, who was a resident of Oswego, New York, has been visiting his son for the past two months, and unaware of the laws of this fair Dominion, he sold a package of dates during his son's absence last Sunday. The purchaser had just stepped out the side of the store when he was stopped and questioned about the parcel, which resulted in the summoning of Clark to police court.

WANT SCHOOL BUILT WEST OF POTTERSBURG

Eleanor Street Residents Will Present Petition to Board of Education.

CLAIM NEED GREATEST Small Children at Present Have To Cross Railway Tracks.

Feeling that a new public school in their district is a greater necessity than the one already proposed for Dakin street, representative citizens of Eleanor street and vicinity, East London, have informed the local department of education that at the next regular gathering of the trustees they will formally petition for the same to be immediately constructed.

Members of the Mother's Clubs of the Eleanor street locality have already approached the trustees and the claim has been made that residents of the Dakin street school have appeared willing that their building should be deferred until one has been erected between Pottersburg and Eleanor street.

It was originally intended that the Dakin school plans which the 1921 board of education had directed to be prepared, should relieve the congestion at the Chesley avenue and haling schools.

The residents of that district from Eleanor street east to Pottersburg, whose children attend the school in the latter suburb complain that the time is long since past for a small school so situated that the children will not have to encounter the daily risk of being fatally injured by passing trains.

They point out that in many instances the child has to walk possibly three-quarters of a mile, proceed down the railroad track, then through fences and across lots in order to reach the Pottersburg school.

It is felt that a school of five or six rooms would suffice for the present. A delegation from that district will present their case to the trustees next meeting.

FINES MAN $10 FOR SUNDAY SELLING

Edward Clark Mulcted Because Father Sold Package of Dates.

Edward Clark, of 237 Wellington street, charged with a breach of the Lord's Day Act and contrived ten dollars and costs to the police court coffers Thursday.

His father, who was a resident of Oswego, New York, has been visiting his son for the past two months, and unaware of the laws of this fair Dominion, he sold a package of dates during his son's absence last Sunday.

The purchaser had just stepped out the side of the store when he was stopped and questioned about the parcel, which resulted in the summoning of Clark to police court.

"You should know the law by now, you have been a resident of Canada long enough," remarked Deputy Magistrate P. H. Bartlett, in fining Clark.

Ends Life of Canine Caught in Dollar Day Traffic

In addition to the onerous duty of regulating a dollar day traffic, the traffic cop at the corner of Richmond and Dundas streets had an extra duty devolve upon him this morning. A tiny pup was caught in the continuous stream of automobiles and street cars and injured so severely that it was necessary to put an end to its life. A blow from the constable's baton immediately put the suffering animal out of its misery.

$800 DAMAGES GIVEN FOLEY IN GODERICH SUIT

Jury, After Deliberation of Two Hours, Declares Robert Kelly Guilty.

Robert Foley of Goderich was awarded $800 damages against Robert Kelly, 29 Beattie avenue, London, in the last jury action to come before Chief Justice R. M. Meredith at the winter assizes at the court house Wednesday. The jury was out almost two hours, and in rendering a verdict, declared that in their opinion Mr. Kelly was responsible for the condition of Foley's daughter, Clara, who is 17 years of age. The girl was employed as a domestic in the Kelly home from April 1, 1920, till December 17 the same year.

At the afternoon session Chester Rogers stated that he had met Clara Foley at a theatre during the fall of 1920, and he had taken her home to the Kelly's. He stated that he had known her intimately.

The judge addressed the young man in a scathing manner and declared that the police had better mark him down in their books.

Rev. A. L. Beverly called to testify as to the character of Mr. Kelly, was not allowed to give evidence, the judge objecting that it was a criminal case that was being tried, and evidence of such a nature could not properly be submitted.

PLEDGES "FAIR WAGE" CLAUSE IN CONTRACTS

Hon. Walter Rollo Reassures Representative of London Labor.

RETURNS FROM TORONTO

R. Hessel Attended Conference With Heads of Ontario Government.

The Ontario Government, notably Hon. Walter R. Rollo, minister of labor, has assured the London Trades and Labor Council that it will render every consideration to the appeal from that body that the "fair wage" clause be inserted in all contracts, let, sub-let or otherwise, supervised by the government itself.

Such legislation once effective would govern the construction of undertakings such as the proposed Western University extensions or the expected additions to the London Technical and School.

R. Hessel, delegate to the local trades council, who recently returned from Toronto, reports that the question was fully presented to the labor department heads and considered at considerable length with the result that further action was promised.

The point was raised, he states, during the conference that about 26 years ago such legislation was enacted. Those present at the gathering were none too confident on this claim, however, and it was decided that a thorough search of the statutes would first be conducted.

There is now federal legislation relating to the "fair wage" clause and the labor men pointed out that the same was effective when the Westminster Hospital was built. "The federal authorities always put the clause into effect when we get after them," they explain.

WARNS AGAINST EXPOSING CATTLE

Inspector Tustin Receives Instructions Regarding Winter Care of Animals.

Word was received from Toronto Wednesday morning by Inspector Tustin of the Humane Society that anyone guilty of driving a horse through the city, unshod, was liable to prosecution. Notice has also been issued that cattle and horses must be barned during the cold weather. Inspector Tustin has received an enormous number of complaints from different parts of the county, concerning horses, sheep and cattle exposed to the elements, or crowded into barns of insanitary conditions and insufficient capacity.

Inspector Tustin stated this morning that some sort of a conveyance was an absolute necessity in order that he might investigate all complaints. It is necessary to visit barns in outlying country districts, and owing to the inadequacy of railroad service for making these visits, the inspector is obliged to waste a great deal of time which, he claims, could be spent to much better advantage elsewhere.

Inspector Tustin stated this morning that although he considered that conditions in London were much more satisfactory than in Toronto and other large cities, yet such a large number of complaints were coming in constantly that it was an almost impossible task to investigate every one. LONDONERS REVEAL "THE HAPPIEST DAYS OF THEIR LIVES!" DR. D. L. McCRAE. "THE happiest day of my life? That is a very difficult question to answer," said Dr. D. L. McCrae, a serious look in his eye, when the query was put to him. "Throughout all ages men and women, supposed to be very wise, have spent much time and effort trying to discover the secret of true happiness, and who are really happy. We have all read the story of the engineer, Varro, for instance, who reckons up no less than 238 different opinions upon this subject; Lucien, after submitting a long catalogue of the notions of many philosophers, endeavors to show the absurdity of them all without establishing any version of his own. "Fools rush in where angels fear to tread." "It was George Stephen of Montreal, afterward Lord Mountstephen, if my memory serves me right, who used to say to the newspapermen in the long ago, that the happiest day of his life was when at Halifax, he cleaned up $50,000 in a big business transaction in connection, I think, with the salvaging of a ship cargo. Afterward, as I have reason to know, he changed his mind. "It is quite true that sufficient material prosperity for our daily necessities and the plainest comforts of life are necessary to our happiness. But it cannot be too strongly affirmed that true happiness does not depend upon the extent of our material possessions. A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of things which he possesseth. A tub was large enough for Diogenes but the world was too little for Alexander. "Shall I mention things that, as a citizen of London, would give me happiness? Then let me say that when everybody in London, fit to work, has something to do and obtains fair wages for doing it, I shall be happy; when everyone loves his work and does it faithfully and to the best of his ability; when all knickers cease and all criticism becomes fair, kindly and constructive, rather than unfair, bitter and destructive; when all our citizens, young and old, irrespective of creed, race or politics, pull together as one man in the interest of the cheeriness, beauty and prosperity of our fair city; when all people shall have comfortable homes; when the unfortunate are properly cared for; when we all have heart and soul, and our neighbor as ourselves; when we shall come back to the old-fashioned home life with its happy gatherings, wholesome amusements, games, reading and other things; when we restore home religion, the family pew in church and when all our places of worship are filled every Lord's Day, morning and evening; when our city is properly cared for; when our citizenship will be greatly augmented, and though new a septuagenarian, I shall rejoice even more in my citizenship; do my bit in every way I can, take part in the worship and join in the fun and frolic and other things with the best of them. "But I have not yet told you what I regard as the happiest day of my life? Well, I shall tell you now, as we close the interview. When Lord Kelvin, the great Scottish scientist, was asked what was the greatest discovery he ever made, he answered that it was the discovery of the Lord Jesus Christ as his Saviour. The happiest day of my life was the day I made the same discovery and I have had a wonderful life ever since. Yes, I have had my share of the ills and tears that are common to man, but with the abiding presence of the Almighty Unseen Friend, ills have no weight and tears no bitterness. That is the most that I can say." MISS JEAN HAWKINS. MISS JEAN HAWKINS, of 377 Wellington street, a young charming and successful business woman of the younger generation, who presents ideas on the subject of happiness which were the outcome of her own experience in the world of workers. "What has been my happiest day? Oh, I have a new one every week," smiling—meaning pay day of course. "But I do think every day is happy for anyone who works hard at the kind of work for which they are best adapted and which they like best. If you work hard all day you are too interested to be anything but happy, and at night—well, I am always too tired to worry about anything. "It gives one a pleasurable thrill to come to work in the morning and find a man-sized problem confronting one. And it is a glorious feeling to go home at night feeling that it has been solved. Of course, it isn't a feeling of vanity at all, but genuine satisfaction in knowing that you have something tangible to show as a result of your day's labor. "There can be no genuine happiness in a life that is just frittered away in social activity or in the life of any one who is tied down to a job for which she has no liking and in which she can take no interest. "The solution of the problem of life is work, and in my opinion the only way to happiness is in making sure you spend your life not only in working, but in working hard with a definite object always in view. It is not necessary to be ruthlessly ambitious but it is foolish to work without an object. Aimless living always leads one into a rut from which there is no escape. If you haven't any particular ambition, make your goal that of succeeding in whatever you undertake, and that plan carried out will bring you few unhappy days. "My very happiest day? I have a good many happy days to look back upon, but I really think the happiest of all was a day I spent at Port Stanley, in June. A restful visit to the lake is always a treat for city dwellers, but in June, it is a special sort of treat. On my happiest day in the long ago I felt like a lotus-eater, lazy and care-free, and what more could a hard-working little mortal like me ask?" INSPECTOR JOSEPH SANDERS. INSPECTOR JOSEPH SANDERS can look back upon a great many days of joy and sorrow, but now that he has arrived at the age when life's greatest pleasures come from reminiscence, the happiest days of his life, still longer and that I may see a time when there will be a great deal less distress and unemployment in the city and when there will be little or no difficulty in finding love and care for children left without parents." JOHN I. A. HUNT. IT was evident on entering the spacious living-room of John I. A. Hunt's home on Horton street, that anything pertaining to the equestrian was dear to his heart. The walls were hung with choice paintings of the hunt, of riders in scarlet coats, of splendid animals, thoroughbred dogs and horses, and here and there amid ornaments of the room, trophies of the chase were to be seen. Farmers and Merchants.

THE AVERAGE township and county council is concerned at present with planning a work program that will not bear heavily on the ratepayers. This can be said of nearly all of the sessions that have been during the last two or three weeks, where the programs for the year have been under discussion.

In some of the townships officials report that taxes came in very slowly, and that it was with more or less difficulty the rolls were returned. If it were hard to get returns in last year the officials reason that it will be more so this year, and for that reason the tax bill should be made as light as possible.

IN CONVERSATION with a leading farmer of Delaware, and one who has always taken an active interest in township and county problems, the point was made that some of the conditions in the cities at present had a very direct and important bearing on the problems of the farmer.

"You may think unemployment is a problem for the cities to deal with," was the contention, "and no doubt on the face of things it is, but unemployment is something that always backs up on the farmer because it affects very quickly the attitude and purse of the people to whom he wants to sell—the consumer. When things are running well, and when the shops are busy, you will always find the markets in better shape and prices better. It is impossible for the farmer to have good times when there are bread lines and soup kitchens in the cities."

WHERE IS THE start to be made to bring the farmer back to the point where he can or will buy as freely as he did a couple of years ago? The farmer quoted above claimed that he was not anxious to see prices of farm produce go up if it were going to make it harder for the people in the city to buy. His main point is that there should be a lowering of many of the things the farmer has to buy in order to equalize the value of what a farmer buys and what he sells.

"I am not discouraged," said our informant, "because I think farming is the greatest work for a man, but it is a fact that right in our district the farmer who broke even in 1921 did very well." His main point was that there was too great a spread between what the city man paid for milk and what the farmer was getting for it from the cheese factories; that difference was also too great between hides and boots; between live hogs and bacon; between live cattle and roast beef, and until there was more equality in this line it would be a hard matter to get agricultural buying well under way.

ON THE OTHER side, the man in business in the city, the grocer, the drygoods dealer, or any other line, can present a clear case. He had to buy during the period of high prices, otherwise he could not have stayed in business. Supplies were very uncertain, and he found it necessary to order more than he needed in order to get enough when his order was cut down. His old stock, bought at normal prices, was all gone when the prices started to drop. He was handling a high-cost stock, and he had to come down off his perch just as carefully and quickly as he could, because competition forced him to do it. It is wrong to hold that retailers are making a lot of money because prices are higher in proportion than the prices received by the farmer for his produce. There is a very serious effort being put forward now to get prices on many lines down to a point where buyers will take hold again. The whole fabric of business is still in the process of getting through its period of readjustment. There are few, either on farms or in the city, who went far ahead in 1921.

Positions Wanted. THE POLITICAL job-hunter is busy, but he is making very little progress. Some cases that have come to light indicate that the conception is still held that getting a "job" from the government is simply getting hitched up to so much easy money at the say-so of the government candidate in the riding concerned.

It is well to remember one or two things right at the outset. The Liberal win was due to a real and a great desire on the part of the people of the Dominion for some measure of relief from the taxes that have been too heavy for them to bear.

It was the result of a desire, expressed at the polls in no uncertain way, for greater simplicity in administration, and more efficiency from those already in office.

It may be necessary to open up some of the appointments that were made in the dying hours of the MEIGHEN government, but it is wrong to entertain the idea that a regular session of making appointments is going to take place. It surely is not the intention of the premier, nor the desire of Lib-

A STRAIGHT PROPOSAL

IN view of the street railway situation in London it is interesting to note the view taken in Winnipeg by Mayor Parnell. Winnipeg, like London, has some years ahead before the franchise runs out.

The relations existing in the city of Toronto for many years formed a glaring illustration of never-ending antagonism and bickering. In the end the company was forced to pass its dividend, and its stock slumped with a loss of millions of dollars to its shareholders, while the city on its part was forced to take over a system that had been starved and had fallen into a shameful condition of disrepair and long since had ceased to even pretend to look after the requirements of a marked expansion both in territory and in population. For this condition both parties were probably equally to blame and both paid the heavy penalty for their blind and tactless policies. Silly hostility marked the one, and a weak pandering to municipal politics followed on the part of the other. Recent disclosures that are being made in connection with the present management of Detroit United Railway bid fair to furnish in that city an equally glaring example of narrow-minded retaliatory policies.

But Winnipeg's mayor comes out with a declaration of policy towards the street railway system.

During December, 1921, strikes in Canada caused the loss of 64,133 hours of work. The printers in Toronto, who have been on strike since June, 1921, contributed 21,060 of these hours; next come the garment workers of Montreal, with 10,400; printers of the same place are third, with 9,620 hours, and fourth with Winnipeg's 4,680 hours. At a fair and conservative estimate the wage loss for the month would be $45,000.

Twenty-four is the ideal age for a woman to marry, says an authority. That will start a lot of arguments, opinion probably dividing, 50,50. He says, give a girl five years in business and she will make a better home-maker, wife and mother. Less chance for argument there. Business training makes a woman more economical and a better manager. It gives her the power of independence. Best of all, it improves on instinct in making her a better judge of men, most of whom need a lot of judging.

Discussing election results in Canada, the latest issue of The Empire Mail, of London, concludes: "We believe that British opinion, while sympathizing with Mr. Meighen and his party in their defeat, and recognizing the fine work they performed for Canada and for the Empire during the dark days of the war, will be glad to know that the affairs of the great Dominion have passed into the hands of so good an Imperialist as Mr. Mackenzie King. For us it is enough to know that he declares himself for 'unity, peace and concord in the Empire.' We look forward with interest to his practical fulfillment of that excellent policy. We are sure that by character and training he is well fitted to take his place among the distinguished men who have occupied the office of Prime Minister of Canada."

Men who make millions owning movies can thank their stars for the luck.

Dollar Day in London—when dollars behave like real old dollars ought to.

Some folks seem to get on the right track, but insist on getting headed the wrong way.

Women are growing taller than they used to, claims one expert. Perhaps that's why the skirts look shorter.

Kent has representation in the Senate and in the Cabinet at Ottawa, while Grenville houses two opposition leaders, Messrs. Ferguson and Meighen.

United States bank tellers are complaining that when they pile 20 new silver dollars in a stack the least thing will cause them to topple. Old stuff. We've seen our little pile topple over so many times that we've long ago quit tryin' to get a pile.

A few years ago we used to hear of the divining rod, which was generally a witch-hazel or peach switch that was supposed to bend toward the earth when over water. It was generally regarded as a fairy tale, but now comes a professor with an electrical apparatus to locate mineral deposits. So it may be the fairy tales of yesterday are the facts of today.

On another page of this great family paper some enthusiastic young squirt has started a series on "Spare Time Jobs for Father." Consists of showing dad how to hang doors, make pegs, ice boxes, etc. We don't like the series ourselves, as the average family father is generally scheduled far enough in advance so there won't be any spare time left over.

Upon being asked to state what was wrong with his business at the present time an Iowa farmer wrote: "I need a new wagon on my farm; so last week I priced one of standard make like the one I had purchased in 1913. The best figure the dealer would give me was $135 cash. This would require 276 bushels of corn bringing 49 cents a bushel that day. When I bought that same wagon in 1913 for $90 I had to take had much educational experience knows that this conscious shading, the old text books notwithstanding, simply isn't done.

But the deeper significance is got. You'll always find the person who shades his writing in this fashion is not at all averse to basking in the glare of the limelight, and, also, you may be sure that he or she has many other affectations. You must be careful. Such a person's opinions and statements should not be taken too readily at their face value.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY

TODAY'S word is DEMOTE. It is pronounced—de-moat, with accent on the last syllable.

It means—to reduce to a lower rank, grade or standing. It comes from—Latin, "de," down, and "moveo," to move.

It is used like this—"The officer was demoted from the rank of major to that of captain."

TO THE EDITOR

THE ENGLISH BORN. Editor Advertiser: Sir—We have just read in The Advertiser a report from the soldiers' aid commission which, at first blush, caused us to fear that the S. A. C. had hit the rocks, and was singing its "swan song." We would be very sorry to see that worthy institution meet an untimely end, for it has done a magnificent work amongst the returned soldiers of London and district, and the report tells us that it is still assisting 75 families.

Quite a strain on its funds, no doubt, but we see no immediate cause for alarm, for the old home town will never repudiate the debt.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

Here We Have Items of Local and District Interest, As Recorded in The Advertiser of 1897.

Thursday, Feb. 2, 1897. Weather—A light snowfall.

The sides led by the presidents and vice-presidents of the Forest City Curling Club played the return match on Simcoe street rink last night. The presidents' side came out on top by two shots. The lineup was as follows:

- President, M. J. Kent, Col. Lewis, R. Reid, Col. Macbeth, skip 12
Vice-presidents, T. H. Sykes, J. Pringle, R. Inglis, J. Mattinson, skip 14
Chas. Tune, Chas. Graham, J. H. A. Beattie, W. H. Goodwin, W. T. Strong, skip 9
Rink No. 2, H. Bert Lyon, R. Gardiner, Dr. E. Sterling, C. W. Davis, skip 19
Total 40, Total 38

The St. Thomas Gun Club has elected officers as follows: President, J. W. Boughner (re-elected); vice-president, Oscar Rimpf (re-elected); secretary, J. Keefe (re-elected); directors, C. Kennedy, E. Dier and W. Jessop (re-elected).

"The Carnival of Nations" at Westminster Rink last night, under the auspices of the Balmoral Club, eclipsed anything in this line that has been seen here this season. The procession left the Balmoral Club rooms at the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets, about 8 o'clock in this order: Drum Major Wrigley, of the 48th Highlanders, Toronto; Musical Society Band, a detachment from Wolsley Barracks; Robinhood Brigade; Piper John Sutherland; Highlanders; German Band and Orient Colored Sailors—and the usual following of boys. The Misses Pearce, as representatives of Canada, in gowns of white, covered with maple leaves, and wearing crowns, were the best on the ice. Miss Eva Smith, as the Flower Girl, came next. Miss Maggie Pearce, as Young America, wore a costume worthy of special mention.

Those who received prizes for best costumes were: Gentlemen—D. Thompson, as Charles I, first; C. Johns, as Spanish Count, second. Ladies—Miss Jennie Pearce, as Miss Jennie Pearce, as Miss Canada, first; Miss Eva Smith, as Flower Girl, second. The silver trophy went to the Orient German Band.

The following characters also appeared: Bruce Griffiths, negro minstrel; W. Sutherland, Knight of Sherwood Forest; Ray Hodgins, Highland Laddy; Harr Turner, Sir Colin Campbell; D. Spence, American gentleman; A. Stricker, a puzzle; W. Deacon, B. Tibbs, cowboys; G. Chadwick, colored swell; Thomas Adare, newsboy; G. Hastings, lonely swell; James Briggs, barber; A. Pinnell, rube from Leuan; A. Allan, Prince Charles; C. Nichol, bowery swell; E. Johnston, tramp from Woodstock; G. Fox, cowboy; G. Fraser, clown; W. Donohue, wild Irishman; and W. Griffith as Mephisto.

The contingent from Wolsley Barracks included Corp. Pinnell and Ptes. Hall, Beal, Scorpion, Gibbs, Clarkson, Davies, Hawthorne, Turke and Matthews.

The Robin Hood portion of the English nation was as follows: W. Young, Charles Baker, Thos. Barnes, J. Brown, T. Clift, B. Rombough, W. Pugh, B. Howe, T. Jones, F. Stanton, J. Mills.

The Balmorals in Highland costume were: Ed. Wrigley, W. Templeton, W. Allan, R. Allan, W. Barne, W. McLean, W. Fraser, F. Henry, J. Watson, Col. Feeley, J. Rankin, Alf. Hodgins, H. Turner, E. Culbert, J. Sutherland, J. Austin and Robert Allan.

The Orient Colored Sailors were: Alf. Howell, Walt. Howell, J. McKenzie, P. Kenney, F. Gleason, Sam Taylor, F. Walsh, S. Birmingham and P. Brennan.

The German Band comprised: Dave Walsh, C. Northy, W. Northy, S. Drennan, J. McKinley, M. McKeough, R. Stanley, C. Reedy, F. Gruber and B. Wheatcroft.

The committee to whom credit is due for the able management were: W. Neville, president; Dan Donaldson, chairman; R. Allan, treasurer; F. Henry, W. Templeton and W. McHarg.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Landon have returned from their honeymoon and are at their home, 193 Askin street. A friendly match between St. Marys and London Club curlers took place this morning at the Simcoe street rink. The following is the line up:

- Rink No. 1, London, A. Tillmann, W. Moyes, B. P. Cook, J. S. Rumsey, D. B. Dewar, J. D. Moore, J. P. Evans, 17 W. Andrews, 17

that it owes to the men who fought and won. After all, 75 is a very small pro ratio of the thousands who rallied to the colors from this district.

The welfare workers report that 95 per cent of the families assisted are "English born," and that only four Canadian born are on the list, as the native born were the first to re-establish themselves. That sure is a funny one, as 95 per cent of 75 is 71 1/4, and that, plus 4 for native born, exceeds the sum total, so we were wondering what has become of all the Scotchmen, Irishmen, etc., that joined the colors from this district. Don't they deserve a little "jam on it," too, for their ability to re-establish themselves?

If "percentages" are to be quoted, why does the report not give the percent of "English born" that enlisted here in 1914?

We would also like to ask if the welfare workers inquired, during their trip to Brighton last summer, how many of the "old contingents" of 1914 were English born. Play the game, sister.

Many some of the welfare workers are newcomers to our city. When they have mixed amongst us and got better acquainted they will be able to report that scores and hundreds of "English born" have re-established themselves in this city in mercantile, artistic, city police and fire employees, and scores of other spheres of human activity.

They have proven their faith in their heritage by more than the word of their mouth, and a tender sympathy films their eyes whenever they hear the strains of

"Land of hope and glory, Mother of the free, How can we extol thee, who are born of thee?"

ST. THOMAS DEATH RATE CUT IN HALF

Births and Marriages Are Also Reported On Decline.

ST. THOMAS, Feb. 1.—The grim reaper fought a losing fight in this city during the month of January, compared to the record established at the beginning of the epidemic at the beginning of last year toll was taken of 23 lives, while in the month just ended only 14 deaths occurred. There have been no epidemics in this city this year up to the present time.

There were also fewer births this year. The stark made ten calls less during January this year than in the first month of last year. Twenty-seven lusty babies were born during the past month.

Cupid, too, started the year very poorly. Only ten marriages were celebrated in St. Thomas in January, compared to fifteen in the corresponding month of 1921.

BLAMES FAULTY DESIGN FOR FALL

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1.—Bad engineering, coupled with cheap and faulty construction, was held responsible for the collapse of the roof of the Knickerbocker Theatre and the loss of nearly a hundred lives, by Senator Capper of Kansas, in a statement issued today after an investigation issued today after an investigation of the ruins of the ill-fated structure.

Senator Capper, a member of the Senate District of Columbia committee, introduced a resolution providing for senate investigation of the disaster.

THE HEALTHY MAN HAS THE BEST CHANGE

Is Always Full of Life and Energy—Failures Are Weak and Bloodless.

Some men seem to have all the luck. If there are any good things going these days seem to get them. If they are business men they are successful; if they are workmen they get the foreman's job. They have the power of influencing people.

The same is true of women. Some have the charm that makes men seek them out; others are neglected. But this is not luck. It is due to a personal gift—vitality. Men and women of this sort are never weak, puny invalids. They may not be big, but they are full of life and energy.

The whole thing is a matter of good blood, good nerves and good health. Everyone would wish to be like this and the qualities that make for vitality and energy are purely a matter of health. By building up the blood and nerves, sleeplessness, want of energy, weakness of the back, headaches and the intellectual sort of presence which really comes from weakness can be got rid of. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have made many weak, tired men, vigorous, and many pale, dejected girls and women, rosy and attractive, by improving their blood and toning up their nerves. If you are weak, low-spirited or unhealthy, try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and note their beneficial effect.

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.—Adv't.

Births and Marriages Are Also Reported On Decline.

ST. THOMAS, Feb. 1.—The grim reaper fought a losing fight in this city during the month of January, compared to the record established at the beginning of the epidemic at the beginning of last year toll was taken of 23 lives, while in the month just ended only 14 deaths occurred. There have been no epidemics in this city this year up to the present time.

There were also fewer births this year. The stark made ten calls less during January this year than in the first month of last year. Twenty-seven lusty babies were born during the past month.

Cupid, too, started the year very poorly. Only ten marriages were celebrated in St. Thomas in January, compared to fifteen in the corresponding month of 1921.

BLAMES FAULTY DESIGN FOR FALL

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1.—Bad engineering, coupled with cheap and faulty construction, was held responsible for the collapse of the roof of the Knickerbocker Theatre and the loss of nearly a hundred lives, by Senator Capper of Kansas, in a statement issued today after an investigation issued today after an investigation of the ruins of the ill-fated structure.

Senator Capper, a member of the Senate District of Columbia committee, introduced a resolution providing for senate investigation of the disaster.

THE HEALTHY MAN HAS THE BEST CHANGE

Is Always Full of Life and Energy—Failures Are Weak and Bloodless.

Some men seem to have all the luck. If there are any good things going these days seem to get them. If they are business men they are successful; if they are workmen they get the foreman's job. They have the power of influencing people.

The same is true of women. Some have the charm that makes men seek them out; others are neglected. But this is not luck. It is due to a personal gift—vitality. Men and women of this sort are never weak, puny invalids. They may not be big, but they are full of life and energy.

The whole thing is a matter of good blood, good nerves and good health. Everyone would wish to be like this and the qualities that make for vitality and energy are purely a matter of health. By building up the blood and nerves, sleeplessness, want of energy, weakness of the back, headaches and the intellectual sort of presence which really comes from weakness can be got rid of. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have made many weak, tired men, vigorous, and many pale, dejected girls and women, rosy and attractive, by improving their blood and toning up their nerves. If you are weak, low-spirited or unhealthy, try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and note their beneficial effect.

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.—Adv't.

FAMOUS SKIPPER DEAD.

ISLIP, N. Y., Feb. 1.—Captain Harry P. Haff, famous skipper, who, before the war, sailed Vanitie in trials to determine whether she or Resolute should defend the American is dead at the age of 61.

What to Take for CONSTIPATION. Take a good dose of Carter's Little Liver Pills—then take 2 or 3 for a few nights after. They cleanse your system of all waste matter and Regulate Your Bowels. Mild—as easy to take as sugar.

INDIGESTION. In five minutes "Pape's Diapepsin" ends Acidity, Sourness, Gases, Flatulence, Heartburn, Palpitation.

When the food you eat ferments into gases and stubborn lumps; your head aches and you feel sick and miserable, that's when you realize the magic in Pape's Diapepsin. It makes stomach distress go in five minutes. If your stomach is in a continuous revolt—if you can't get it regulated, please, for your sake, try Diapepsin. It's so needless to have a bad stomach—make your next meal a favorite food meal, then take a little Diapepsin. There will not be any distress.

I won't carry throat germs to those at home. All day long—in the office or shop, in the cars, the crowded stores—you have been breathing in germs of sore throat, tonsillitis, influenza. In the warm crevices of throat and mouth they multiply rapidly.

The folks at home may be less able than you to resist these armies of ill-health and the home-coming kisser may bear the dread germs of disease.

A pleasant—almost candy-like—Formamint dissolved in the mouth now and then during the day makes the mouth fluids antiseptic, keeps germ-ward within bounds, and forms a strong defence against disease.

If the throat is already sore, the frequent use of Formamint keeps the membranes bathed in this splendid antiseptic, allays inflammation, prevents new infection and gives the tissues a chance to heal.

Children are glad to use them and should do so freely, as crowded school-rooms are fruitful fields for spread of throat infection.

LIBERALS URGE CHANGE IN HIGH COMMISSIONERS

Want King Cabinet To Demand Resignation of Tory Members.

CITE PRECEDENT OF 1911

Premier Believed To Be Fully Aware of Value of Magrath's Services.

BULLETIN.
MONTREAL, Feb. 1.—D. A. Lafortune, member of Parliament for Jacques Cartier, has written to Premier King and offered to resign, so as to provide a seat for Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of the interior.

OTTAWA, Feb. 1.—The international joint commission and the fate of the Canadian representatives upon it is receiving the attention of members of Premier W. L. Mackenzie King's cabinet, and confronts them with some delicate problems. Faithful Liberal partisans make no secret of their belief that it would be little short of a crime if Conservatives, however virtuous, were allowed to retain such important and lucrative posts. Great pressure has therefore been brought to bear upon the cabinet to demand the resignation of the three Canadian commissioners and appoint a trio of Liberals in their place. In support of this plea a precedent of 1911 is being cited.

Was Slow in Starting.
The international joint commission has an interesting history. In the year 1902, largely on the initiative of U. S. President Theodore Roosevelt, it was decided by the British, American and Canadian governments that a certain number of outstanding problems should be submitted for equitable settlement to a body of arbitrators which should be called the

DO YOU SMOKE TOO MUCH?

There are many men on whose heart and nervous system tobacco produces the most serious results. It causes palpitation, pain in the heart, irregularity of its beat, makes the hands tremble, sets the nerves on edge, causes shortness of breath, and loss of sleep. To counteract this demoralizing influence on the heart and nerves there is no remedy so equal.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS.

They make the heart beat strong and steady, restore tone and vigor to the nerves, and remove all the evil results caused by the tobacco. Mr. Frank Lutes, 21 Terrace Hill street, Brantford, Ont., writes: "I had been troubled with palpitation of the heart for a number of years, and by spells it would bother me a lot. The doctor told me it would stop on me some time if I did not cut out tobacco. When I would get a spell my heart would pound, and I would break out in a perspiration, and get so weak I would have to sit right down and quit my work; also in the night I would wake up and my heart would be going. I should say, about 120 beats a minute. About three years ago I got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, took them, and found that they did the job. I am feeling fine and have gained over 20 pounds in weight." Price, 50c a box, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.—Advt.

"DANDERINE"

Grows Thick, Heavy Hair

85-cent Bottle Ends all Dandruff, Stops Hair Coming Out

Ten minutes after using Danderine you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair, and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them, helping the hair to grow long, strong and luxuriant. One application of Danderine makes thin, lifeless, colorless hair look youthfully bright, lustrous and just twice as abundant.

"Ask 'Em to Buy" Slogan Adopted By Ontario Automotive Dealers

TORONTO, Feb. 1.—The costs of the retail automobile business and the tire situation were subjects which brought out a great deal of helpful discussion at the 5th annual convention of the Ontario Automotive Section of the Retail Merchants' Association, which opened here this afternoon.

Closing a year during which in this line, as in most others, depression brooded over business, today's meeting did not display a pessimistic outlook regarding the year ahead. "Ask 'em to buy," was the slogan at the top of the program, and this business-getting spirit was echoed by nearly every speaker.

Committees appointed were:
Legislation—S. H. Rowed, London; G. R. Eaton, Orillia; I. F. Gillis, Ayr; C. A. Wiseman, Napanee.
Commissions—A. J. Gilmore, St. Catharines; W. H. Keil, Stratford; C. S. Whiting, Cannington; A. Robinson, Niagara Falls.
Membership—W. Hodgins, London; George Grainger and Claude Pearce, Toronto.

The question-box will be conducted by Frank McLaughlin of London. At the afternoon session, Wilfred Hodgins, president of the London and Middlesex branch, gave a stirring address on "Co-operation."

international waterways commission, but after authority was secured the project hung fire for years, and the commission did not actually begin to function till 1905, when the late Sir George Gibbons of London, Prof. King, the well-known astronomer, and Eugene Coste, an experienced engineer, were appointed as representatives of Canada.

The commission performed its allotted tasks with skill and thoroughness and satisfied observers in both countries, but when its special work was finished, Sir George Gibbons, who had been deeply impressed with its possibilities on a more extended scale, pleaded strongly, both at Washington and Ottawa, for its retention in some permanent form on the ground that there could be no better engine for the prevention of disputes and controversies between the two countries. Gibbons' arguments obtained a sympathetic hearing with both Sir Wilfred Laurier and Lord Bryce, who was then British ambassador at Washington, and Elihu Root, who was serving as U. S. secretary of state, was found to be equally enthusiastic, so the work of drafting a treaty which would establish an arbitral commission on a permanent basis was set about as soon as the consent of Downing street had been obtained.

Lord Bryce and Mr. Root were the nominal authors of the treaty, but both of them always ascribed its success largely to the work of Sir George Gibbons, whose services had been retained as special adviser during the negotiations. The treaty was finally signed in 1905, but it was not until December, 1910, that the Canadian Parliament was asked to pass legislation embodying its terms.

Board Never Sat.
Even when the bill was passed and Parliament had voted the necessary financial appropriations, further delays ensued before the Canadian commissioners were named. The arrangements were that the actual appointments should be left to the imperial government, who would act on nominations received from Ottawa. The year 1911 was a busy one for Sir Wilfrid, and he only sent in the names of the three commissioners selected, namely, Sir George Gibbons, Mr. Aime Geoffrion, K.C., of Montreal, and Mr. Barnhill of St. John, to London late in the summer.

Downing street always moves leisurely, and before the appointments had been actually made the Laurier government had been defeated and resigned. Sir Robert Borden's cable to suspend the appointments was not too late, and when the nominations were received a few weeks later, three well-known Conservatives, Mr. C. A. Magrath, the late Mr. T. Chase Casgrain, and Mr. H. A. Powell of New Brunswick, were substituted and duly appointed by the imperial government.

Assailed in Parliament.
When the new parliament met this action of the Borden government was strongly assailed by the Liberals, who took the ground that the functions of the commission were judicial, and the appointments should not be at the mercy of the fortunes of partisan warfare.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was very severe in his criticism, and there was especial resentment at the dropping of Sir George Gibbons, who was virtually the creator of the commission. Sir George Foster was the most eloquent defender of the new government's course, and took the line that the commissioners were intrusted with ambassadorial functions and therefore must of necessity be persons completely sympathetic to the government in power.

The three new commissioners were all men of high standing, and what criticism had developed soon died down. Mr. Casgrain resigned in 1915 to enter the cabinet, and was succeeded by Mr. Mignault. When he died Sir William Hearst, fresh from his defeat at the polls, was appointed in his place, to the great indignation of the French-Canadians, who, with some justice, claimed a right to one place on the commission.

Pressure From Quebec.
As a result it is from Quebec today that the greatest pressure for a change of personnel on the commission is coming. In the case of C. A. Magrath there will be strong counter-pressure. The charge of partisanship is in his case not strong, for his independence in the years 1908-9, when he sat in the Commons for Lethbridge, cost him his chances of cabinet office, and he has long ceased to be a party man. He has served for more than ten years on the commission with great profit to his country. Few Canadians enjoy a higher reputation in the United States, where his fairness and good judgment are alike completely trusted. He has consistently endeavored to increase the prestige of the commission and kept its proceedings on a high plane, and the confidence now placed in it on both sides of the line is testimony to his success.

Practice at Washington.
In all probability Premier King is fully cognizant of these facts and the value of Mr. Magrath's experience, and would faintly retain his services. If the premier desires arguments to meet the pleas of aspirants, he can find them in abundance in the history of the American personnel of the commission. President Taft made the first appointments and, in accordance with a practice which prevails at Washington of allowing minority representation for the opposition party on various commissions, nominated two Republicans and one Democrat, the late Congressman Tawney of Minnesota being the first chairman. When President Wilson came into power in 1912 he did not disturb Mr. Tawney, but he sought and obtained the resignation of the other republican commissioner, General Streeter, and appointed in his stead a deserving Democrat, Mr. Obadiah Gardner who is the present chairman of the American delegation.

In the spring of 1921, when President Wilson was on the eve of departure, there was considerable commotion about the commission. Mr. Wilson was anxious to find a comfortable haven for his faithful secretary, Mr. Tumulty, and asked for Mr. Gardner's resignation. Mr. Gardner refused to resign, and was eventually dismissed a few days before Mr. Wilson left the White House. By this time Mr. Tumulty had other views about his own future, and declined the appointment. It was promptly given to Mr. W. B. Wilson, who had served as secretary for labor from 1913 to 1921.

Restored Former Member.
There was strong criticism of these strange proceedings even among Democrats, but as President Wilson was then in precarious health and was practically out of action, he was largely acquitted of personal blame. But one of President Harding's first executive acts was to cancel the Wilson appointment and restore Mr. Gardner, despite the latter's Democratic politics, to his old post. It was felt that his experience was needed there to keep up the American end, and as the other Democrat had not been disturbed, the present American representatives, Messrs. Gardner, Smith and Clarke, consist of two Democrats and one Republican, which is clear proof that partisan considerations weigh little with Mr. Harding in comparison with public efficiency.

If Mr. King desires to retain Mr. Magrath's services, he has an unanswerable argument in the attitude of the Harding administration, and can ask if Canadian Liberals are prepared to be less public-spirited in this matter than the Republicans of the United States.

CONFIRM DEATH OF TWO SOLDIERS

WILL INTRODUCE LAW TO PREVENT TRADE COMBINES

Drury Government Includes Legislation in Next Program.

CAUCUS APPROVED

Hydro-Radial Matters Also Discussed and Premier's Views Indorsed.

BULLETIN.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 1.—For purposes of general discussion, a meeting of provincial Liberal members has been called at the parliament buildings on Tuesday of next week.

TORONTO, Feb. 1.—Anti-combine legislation will be included in the Drury government's program at the coming session of the Legislature. An outline of the proposed bill was submitted to the pre-session caucus of government members at the Parliament Buildings today, and the general principle indorsed.

During war years, and especially after the appearance of the board of commerce, the rights of the province of Ontario to act through the department of the attorney-general in instances of restraint of trade or palpable extortion has been in doubt. The rights and responsibilities of the federal authorities to deal with such matters were advanced as overriding those of the province. It is understood that the legislation tentatively submitted to today's caucus places beyond dispute the rights of the provincial attorney-general to act.

Hydro-Radio Discussed.

Hydro-radial legislation, it is understood, was submitted in general outline and approved by the caucus, although the matter was not definitely disposed of, and will be discussed again at a later gathering of government forces. In effect, the proposed bill is drafted along the lines intimated by Premier Drury at Glenora last summer, when he stated that the municipalities would be given the authority to go ahead on their own responsibility and construct hydro-radial railways without government indorsement of bonds.

In connection with the same legislation the government bill, it is said, will permit of operation of municipal radials by the present provincial hydro commission, only the commission must not be named as such. When the municipalities appoint their operating commissioners they must name them individually. They can select part or all of the present hydro commission, including the chairman, Sir Adam Beck, and appoint outsiders to sit with them on the operating board.

"Blue-Sky" Legislation.
Proposed "blue-sky" legislation was submitted to the members and the principle indorsed. The scope of the legislation was a contentious point, and it was finally decided to leave the department to work out details.

Hon. Manning Doherty, minister of agriculture, outlined various legislative proposals from his department, including minor amendments to the rural credits act, details of which have already been published.

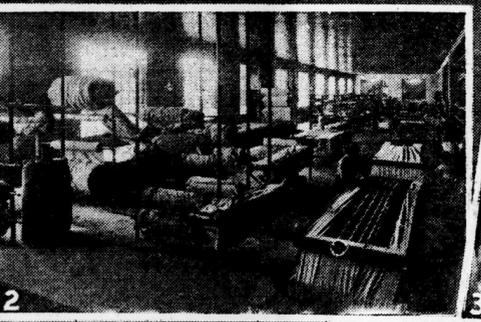

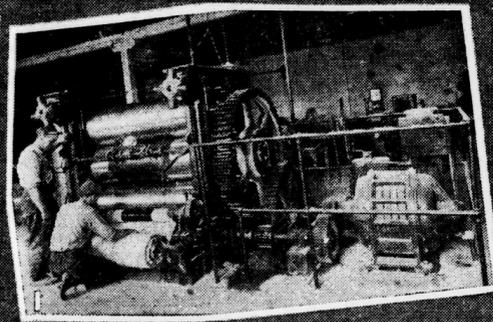

WANT BULLOCK ON MURDER CHARGE

HAMILTON, Ont., Feb. 1.—The police of Norlina, N. C., have requested the local authorities to apprehend another negro, Wilbert Perry, who is wanted at Oxford, near Norlina.

Matthew Bullock, who was recently released on an order from the Dominion government, and whose case seemed likely to cause international complications, is also wanted by the police in Norlina on a murder charge.

CATARRH MEANS IMPURE BLOOD

It is a Constitutional Disease. When it affects the nose and throat and becomes chronic it weakens the delicate lung tissues, deranges the digestive organs, and may lead to consumption. It impairs the taste, smell and hearing. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla, which purifies the blood, removes the cause of the disease, so troublesome at the time of year, and gives permanent relief. I had catarrh of the head and neck, and dreadful ringing noises in my ears. I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla; my health improved wonderfully, and I adopted Hood's Sarsaparilla as my family medicine. Mrs. M. Jennie Shaw, St. Johns, O.—Advt.

Tiger Tires

"Lead Them All"

The Pictures Tell the Story

A modern factory, equipped with the newest and most up-to-date labor-saving machinery for the manufacture of tires and inner tubes that science has yet devised.

The average layman has no idea of the many advantages in favor of a manufacturer possessing a factory so finely equipped. Many of the difficulties experienced by motorists with other tires are unknown to "TIGERS". 100 per cent perfection is the aim of the management.

Users are most enthusiastic; ten, twelve and even fifteen thousand miles is the text of unsolicited statements received from day to day from all parts of the country.

The TIGER WOVEN CORD is a new departure in tire making which has proven the superior merits of this type. By impregnation of pure gum between the strands of woven cord fabric, the various plies, breaker strip and tread are all securely rivetted together. This rivetting is proof positive against separation, which all tire manufacturers admit cords are subject to. TIGER WOVEN CORDS are manufactured in all standard sizes from 30x3 1/2 to 37x5.

TIGER INNER TUBES really do hold air. Note the elaborate departments allotted to the manufacture of this all-important article. A good tube is real tire assurance—found in every TIGER.

Made in Canada at Belleville, Ont., by Tiger Tire and Rubber Co., Ltd.

Head Office: 81 Adelaide St. W., Toronto, Canada.

Backache

Backache is the outstanding symptom of kidney disease. Women often make the mistake of attributing other causes and overlook the derangement of the kidneys until serious developments have made it difficult to obtain permanent relief.

This letter points to a treatment which has been so thoroughly tried and proven so effective in the great majority of cases that you cannot afford to overlook it when cause arises for its use.

Mrs. Albert Brunet, R.R. No. 1, Ottawa, Ont., writes:

"I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for the past two months, having been afflicted with kidney trouble. I used two doctors' medicine previous to this, without any good results. A friend told me to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and the second box made me feel a good deal better. I have now used about six or eight boxes, and am completely relieved."

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS DISCOVER OWN CITY

Visit Factories, Newspaper, Even "Go To Jail."

Six groups of collegiate girls, members of the committees which constitute the High School Girls' Club, went exploring after 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon to discover features of interest in their own city, and, in some cases, the conditions under which other girls work. Afterwards they met at "Lemmore," the King street residence of the Y. W. C. A. for their monthly tea party and meeting and to exchange experiences.

The "club purpose," as expressed in poetic form by the gifted young president, Miss Barbara Daly (and read at the meeting), is as follows:

The purpose of our club we know: To strengthen friendships as we go; Our social beings to uphold; Our true characters may unfold.

To strive for intellectual power, Not fritter away each passing hour; To consecrate our loyalty to the school And homes where're they be.

To manifest in every deed, The noblest aims, remote from greed, And may these thoughts be with us, Least we forget—lest we forget!

Consider Telephone Girls!

In order to improve the shining hour, strive for intellectual power, and "our social beings uphold," the "little journeys" were undertaken. Seated on chairs or tailor-fashion on the floor after the tea party was over, the saga of the afternoon was told.

The program committee, of which Jean McIntosh is convenor, attended by Miss Bessie McCamus, went to visiting the Bell Telephone plant. Annie McGregor, the narrator in this case, told of the impression made by the beauty of the large, airy building, with its fine rest and cloakrooms for the girls, the protection afforded against unfriendly

THE NEW MONTH

1922 FEBRUARY 1922

			FIRST Q.	FULL M.	LAST Q.	NEW M.
SECOND MONTH

February is the shortest month in the year, but full of holidays and social functions. Originally February was the last month in the year, but it was made the second month in electric currents, the fact that the Bell Telephone could keep running two weeks under its own power if hydro were cut off.

And the lesson from the tour of inspection was this: "If everybody could see the telephone girls at work, they would be much more considerate for them."

The "exchange" committee, K. Seabrooke, convener and story-teller, visited the Holograph Hosiery factory, accompanied by one of the collegiate masters, G. M. Macdonald. Their wonder grew and grew and grew that so many processes were required before the stocking made-moiselle carelessly dons is ready to wear.

Lots of Work Making Spoons.

Dorothy (Coleridge) graphically told the tale of the quick trip through the McClary factory of the business committee (convener, Katherine Campbell), Lieut.-Col. W. M. Gartshore, himself doing the honors. The girls, said Miss Dorothy, were struck with the big scale of operations, the many changes which raw material requires to undergo before emerging a kitchen spoon or enamelled cooking utensil.

"Cookies and sweets" was the choice of the decorating committee (convener, Margaret Godwin), Miss Dorothy McCann going along. Jean Buchner told of the cleavages and ripples in the wax which they had seen at work dipping chocolates, performing the many other operations in connection with evolving fancy biscuits and candies, the "movie-picture" rate at which sugar and flour, shortening and other ingredients were transformed into "readies for the table."

The committee, the club paper (Ernestine Partridge, convener), just naturally gravitated towards a local newspaper publishing house, accompanied by E. A. Miller. Margaret Strang humorously told the tale of following the paper backward from the printed piles for sale in the business office to the "raw material" in the "brains" of the plant, otherwise the editorial department.

"Orphans" Went to Jail.

The committee which specially looks after the interests of a French orphan which has been adopted by the club (convener, Madeline Roddick), had a novel and interesting experience in visiting the jail, charged by Mrs. Harrison, head of the social service department of the W. C. T. U., and Miss Helen D'Avignon.

They were amazed to find the jail such a specklessly clean place, and brought the story that the prisoners kept it so themselves. They saw the sleeping quarters of women prisoners, but they were glad there were no girls or women in jail at present to fill them.

As they made their tour, Mrs. Harrison talked, urging the high school girls, as specially privileged young people, to keep their standards of life and conduct high, because the girls who filled the jail cells from time to time frequently went there trying in a cheap way to imitate more privileged girls.

WITH THE BRIDES

FLEMING-LAURIE.
A quiet wedding took place Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 in the Wellington Street Methodist Church, when Frances Laurie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Laurie, was married to Robert A. Fleming of Markham, Rev. G. T. Watts officiating, assisted by Rev. C. B. Gunne. The bride, who was unattended, looked charming in a gown of brown tulle lace, with a smart hat to match, and her corsage was of Columbia roses. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride, Hill street, where a dainty buffet luncheon was served. Mr. and Mrs. Fleming left for Jacksonville, Fla., by way of New York and Washington, the bride traveling in a smart suit of brown duvetyne, with beaver trimmings, and a small hat to match.

PERSONALS

MUNROE-RUSKEY.
The home of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Ruskey, Lorne avenue, was the scene of a pretty wedding Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when their daughter, Olive Pearl, was married to Hugh Munroe of Niagara Falls, Rev. A. E. M. Thompson officiating. The bride, who was given away by her father, was smartly gowned in blue tulle, and carried an arm bouquet of American Beauty roses. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Munroe left on a honeymoon, which will be spent in Palm Beach and Miami, Fla., and upon their return they will reside in Niagara Falls.

SEWING FOR SHELTER.

The Wortley Road Mothers' Club has recently undertaken the task of making up garments for the little people in the Children's Shelter, holding weekly sewing meetings. Tuesday evening this week, Mrs. F. W. Chambers, 154 Tecumseh avenue, was the hostess, when about 30 were present, making good progress on gingham dresses. Mrs. J. E. Mowat, 169 Duchess avenue, will be the hostess next week.

FIRST METHODIST W. M. S.

An interesting meeting of the W. M. S. of the First Methodist Church was held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. A. Harvey, Talbot street. The study of "Canada's Share in the World's Tasks" was continued, and the chapter on China was taken up, which proved very entertaining and informing. Tea was served by the hostess, who was assisted by Mrs. Alex. Harvey, Jun., and Miss Harvey.

FAREWELL REV. AND MRS. ROY.

A farewell supper was held Monday evening by the Talbot Street W. M. S. in honor of Rev. T. S. Roy and Mrs. Roy. A short address was given by the president, Mr. W. Clark, in which he expressed the appreciation of the society for the splendid work done by Mr. and Mrs. Roy. A presentation of a silver tea service was made by Miss Carra Blackwell on behalf of the society. Following the supper the R. Y. P. U. went to the Wortley Road Rally.

PHYLISS LIKED PATTERN.

Dear Miss Grey,—In today's paper there is a letter from Martha By-The-Day, saying she had some quilt patches she would be kind enough to send me. Now, would you please forward this letter to her? I am also returning the crochet patterns, for which I thank you very much. They were just splendid. I am also sending you the 25 cents, as I promised, for the quilt patches, also 25 cents for the sick children. PHYLISS.

LOTS OF SKATING IN HURON.
Dear Miss Grey and Readers,—I thought I would call a few minutes this evening just to pass away the time. We are having a little more snow tonight. Haven't we had a fine winter so far?

I think it will be good all through. Cutters and bungies and cars are running out this way. Some one said in the Mail-Box that she didn't have any skating yet. She should live in Huron, where the ice is smooth and strong. We have had skating and hockey ever since Christmas.

I noticed a letter from the Two Country Rosebuds. They write a very beautiful letter. I think I would like to see more of our old friends writing. It would make the Mail-Box worth while. We had a grand skating party the other night, about 30 at it. Dances and box socials are all the style. One boy paid $3.00 for a box. SUNNY JIM.

We have had plenty of skating in this vicinity also, Sunny Jim. Don't you enjoy a good skate in the open this glorious weather? Tell us more about your box socials next time. Thanks for the hospital diary.

MISS PEPPERY GIVES HER RECIPE.

Dear Miss Grey,—Do you think this recipe would suit Mrs. Hoople for soft brown sugar frosting? MISS PEPPERY.

Caramel Icing—Two cups brown sugar, 1 cup milk, 1 tablespoonful butter, 2 teaspoonful vanilla. Put sugar and milk on stove together till boiling, then add butter. Boil until it begins to thicken. Take it off the stove and beat until it cools down some, then add vanilla, beat again and spread over cake, while you can still pour; smooth over cake with a buttered knife. The children

Wanted Money Spent in Unusual Way For Institutions Benefiting.

Much satisfaction with conditions at the Victoria Home and Aged People's Home was reported by visiting committees at the monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon of the Women's Christian Association, held at the Wellington street residence of the Y. W. C. A., and presided over by Mrs. John Currie.

Visitors to the city who have seen the Victoria Home are amazed to find such an institution in London, such a fine building and such care provided for the patients. This was a statement made. Legacies reported evidenced a very practical appreciation of both the Victoria Home and Aged People's. Forty dollars, paid in part of a legacy of the late John Hiles for the Victoria Home, provided that the money should be expended in some unusual way, for a special treat or entertainment for the patients. From the same estate a legacy of $50 was to be spent in a similar way for the inmates of the Aged People's Home. The late Rev. A. K. Birks left $200 to the Victoria Home For Incubables as a mark of appreciation of the fine care given the patients. Another legacy gratefully acknowledged was for $100 from the late John Scott for the Aged People's Home. Gratitude was expressed by the religious committee to the ministers and others who make possible the Sunday and mid-week services for inmates in both homes.

SEWING FOR SHELTER.

The Wortley Road Mothers' Club has recently undertaken the task of making up garments for the little people in the Children's Shelter, holding weekly sewing meetings. Tuesday evening this week, Mrs. F. W. Chambers, 154 Tecumseh avenue, was the hostess, when about 30 were present, making good progress on gingham dresses. Mrs. J. E. Mowat, 169 Duchess avenue, will be the hostess next week.

FIRST METHODIST W. M. S.

An interesting meeting of the W. M. S. of the First Methodist Church was held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. A. Harvey, Talbot street. The study of "Canada's Share in the World's Tasks" was continued, and the chapter on China was taken up, which proved very entertaining and informing. Tea was served by the hostess, who was assisted by Mrs. Alex. Harvey, Jun., and Miss Harvey.

PLAN CRUSADE FOR NEW MEMBERS

A membership crusade is planned by the London W. C. T. U. in connection with the observance of the Ontario Provincial Week of Prayer, Feb. 14, 15, 16 and 17, a reception of new members to be held on Friday, 17, when the daily service of the week will take place from 3 to 5 o'clock, in Colborne Street Methodist Church. It is stated that at least 25 members of the union will take part in this meeting.

LOVED ART ENOUGH TO SKETCH SUNRISE

To the left rises sheer and perpendicular a massive rock formation, deep purple-shadowed. On the right are the rounded shoulders of mountains. Between, at the base, a mountain torrent churns over its rocky bed while high in background is caught a glimpse of snow-clad peak, coldly serene beneath a melting sky of azure, purple-tinged. This is the picture which Mr. J. P. Hunt, London's well-known artist, has reproduced of the Mill Creek Canyon in the San Bernardino Mountains in California, a picture which combines the awe-inspiring strength of the everlasting hills with the tenderness of mountain mist shot through with sunlight, and a wealth of coloring to tax the resources of the artist's palette.

Recently, with his artist son, "Tom" Hunt of Cleveland, Mr. Hunt realized one of the dreams of his life in visiting, for some months, the "artist's paradise" of California, motoring for miles each day, sketching, sketching, drinking in marvels of color and outline, enriching his art and finding new inspiration.

"Never in my life have I seen such beautiful colorings, especially in the Arizona Desert," he said a few days ago to The Advertiser, when he was complimented on the picture, which has been attracting admiring attention for days past in the window of the Starr Photograph Company.

"The Rocky Mountains, which we saw on our way home through the Canadian West," he continued, "were magnificent and awe-inspiring. The San Bernardino Mountains are more, well, domesticated, and the colorings of rock formation and lighting effects indescribable."

His enthusiasm-awakening experience in California has recalled his young manhood, when he left his farm home, near St. Marys, and came to London to seriously study art. That meant close application to studio work daily from 9 to 5.

Many a morning he got up at 4 o'clock to get all the light possible for sketching before school time, in the old art institute.

"If you don't care enough about anything to get up and work at it, the chances are you won't go far with it," says Mr. Hunt.

He is still enough enamored of his art to "get up early and work at it," hence the consensus of opinion that his Californian work is among the most successful he has achieved.

Marie dear: Thankyou for recommending Campese's Italian Balm

It certainly is wonderful. My poor hands are once more presentable, as I told you, the cold needles and work played with them. But Campese's Italian Balm softened and whitened them in quick order, and what more, it is keeping them soft and white. And, they are so useful for preventing chills and cracked lips. The children are crazy about it. I'm really grateful to you for telling me about it. Lovingly, Betty.

Nemo Corset Service

Nemo Corset Service was originated twenty-seven years ago to meet and solve the problem of obtaining a corset for permanent use that was at once hygienic, comfortable, stylish and long-wearing. To-day millions of women in the United States and Canada consider Nemo Corsets indispensable for the protection of health and the natural grace and symmetry which is every woman's birthright.

Nemo Corsets embody valuable economic, hygienic and style features not found in other Corsets—they are made throughout from the finest materials obtainable—they are priced as reasonably as substantial, well-made Corsets can be priced.

When you have read the brief descriptions that follow, we are confident that you too will decide to let your next Corset be a Nemo.

Nemo Kop Service.

Designed for that large class of women who do not require abdominal reduction, but are overdeveloped in hips and thighs. The reduction of these parts is accomplished by bands of patented semi-elastic Kops Webbing, which will not lose their elasticity, and are guaranteed to last the life of the corset. A Nemo Maternity and Convalescent Corset is also furnished in this Service. 5 Models, 20-36, $3.00 to $10.00.

Nemo Self-Reducing Service.

A Service for women of full figure, based upon the reducing power of Nemo Self-Reducing Straps—an exclusive patented feature. These Straps—slightly tighter than the portion of the corset they cover—afford a constant gentle massage which softens superfluous flesh and allows it to be carried off in the circulation. Other features combine to make these corsets ideal for reducing the excess fatty tissue which accumulates in the abdominal region. 11 Models, 22-44, $4.50 to $8.50.

Nemo Wonderlift Service.

The invention of the Wonderlift Corset marked a new era in the science of corsetry. Intended for women of all types, its secret lies in the Wonderlift Bandlet, a band of LastiKops webbing, adjustable to the exact individual lines of the wearer, yet cleverly concealed beneath the corset-skirt. The support of this Bandlet with its firm uplifting action is invaluable to women who suffer—even slightly—from weakened and fallen abdominal muscles and organs. In several models 22-44, $7.75 to $8.50.

Nemo Corset Service is furnished by most better-class stores and shops. If, however, you have any difficulty in obtaining the exact Nemo Model you need communicate with us direct and we will see that you are supplied through our nearest dealer.

"Once try a Nemo and you'll never change."

Jewels Harmonize

SCOTCH CHAPTER HAS MANY PLANS

The Loch Lomond Chapter, L. O. D. E., organized just one week ago, has all kinds of interesting plans under way. Tuesday afternoon the first regular meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Schwab, 606 Princess avenue, Mrs. R. W. Tagg presiding, when arrangements were made for a military euche on Feb. 14 to raise chapter funds, and also for a rummage sale in the store formerly occupied by Peters on Richmond street.

A handsome homespun bag, donated by Mr. E. B. Smith, the regent of the Municipal Chapter and honorary regent of the new chapter, who was present, will be raffled to raise money for the War Memorial Children's Hospital. It was also decided to raffie a pair of bellows donated to the baby chapter by Mrs. F. J. Greenaway, regent of the Campbell Becher Chapter, who had received them as a donation to her chapter from Mr. Smith, St. James street.

Further work of a patriotic character to be undertaken immediately will be social activities in connection with the Westminster Hospital and Byron Sanatorium, in the way of providing entertainments for the patients.

Col. (Rev.) W. Beattie, D.D., C.M.G., has consented to act as honorary patron of the chapter, the members of the "Loch Lomond," on suggestion of the honorary regent, Mrs. E. B. Smith, arranging to attend a service in Dr. Beattie's church, the First Presbyterian, in a body in the near future.

A ways and means committee, to consider ways and means of raising money, was appointed, with Mrs. B. J. Dunlevy as convener, and to assist her, Mesdames F. Tullat, R. Mercer, R. Brown.

A social committee includes Mrs. James Smith (convener), Mrs. J. W. Stark, Mrs. F. Tullat and Mrs. Day. The hostess served afternoon tea at the close of the business, Mrs. R. Waugh presiding over the tea cups.

A much-appreciated donation towards chapter funds was received from Mrs. E. B. Smith.

BY MIRIAM HALE.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Following the fashion set by the French, women of England are wearing a great many jewels. Even during the day one sees two and three necklaces worn at the same time.

But they must harmonize, contrast, or relate in some way.

The newest and quite the most correct way of wearing a collection of ornaments is this arrangement of Cartier Jewels—pearls and diamonds, all white with a single accent of color, the ruby.

A pearl sash which comes quite to the waist line, sometimes slightly below, a necklace circling the throat and a strand of pearls just between the two in length and ornamented with a pendant might, several seasons ago, have been thought too many jewels to wear at once. But not now!

The brooch, too, is coming into its own, but instead of being worn at the neck or at the point of a rather low neck, with an eye to bringing out the beauties of her figure, Milady fastens the gems low on her bodice, possibly at the waist line.

WANTS TO KNOW WHY THE GLOW WORM GLOWS

Carrington Says Science Has Sought the Answer in Vain.

SHINES THROUGH SKIN

BY HERWARD CARRINGTON [Written Expressly for The London Advertiser.]

HO put the fire in the glow worm? If he were living today he easily could become a millionaire overnight.

Because the light produced by these tiny creatures is in many respects the most perfect the world ever has known.

The animal light produced by these living organisms is known as cold light because it produces no heat.

And right there's where its value lies. For every gas or arc or electric light that man produces wastes a large proportion of its energy in useless heat instead of converting it into light.

The more heat, the less light. And the less heat, the more light.

Only Efficient Light. So, you see, the light produced by fireflies and glow worms is almost 100 per cent efficient.

It is interesting to learn the secret of these tiny organisms, it would mean saving millions of dollars every year in illumination.

Here's an opportunity for you if you've a scientific mind and if you want to make a fortune out of an interesting hobby.

The light given off by glow worms and fireflies is called bioluminescence. That's pronounced by-o-loom-i-nescens with the accent on the "nes." It means "light of life."

Besides fireflies and glow worms, this light is produced by certain fish, animals and bacteria. The glow worm is nothing but a larva or baby firefly but the organ producing the light is quite different in the two creatures.

Shines Through Skin. In the firefly the light merely shines through the skin, which is transparent. Certain cells near the skin are devised especially for producing light.

These cells are filled with a luminous substance which when the proper chemical reaction takes place, glows brilliantly.

Scientists have devoted much research to analyze the substance that produces this glow but the ultimate chemical composition is highly complex and more or less of a mystery.

Scientists likewise have made a detailed examination of these light-producing organs and have found that the cells are very complicated and very beautifully designed.

Men of learning say "the light cells proper are often equipped with reflectors, lenses, opaque screens and color screens."

So everything that man has devised to perfect his artificial light-giving apparatus, has existed millions of years in these light-producing organisms on a small but perfect scale.

Why has nature provided these little creatures with lights? Many theories have been advanced.

The lights may be a warning to drive away other animals that would eat these creatures.

Lantern to guide the creature on its way.

GUNSIGHT PASS

WILLIAM MACLEOD RAINE

BEHOLD HERE TODAY. DAVE SAUNDERS, ranga rider on the D Bar Lazy R outfit, and his pal, BOB HART, are in hot pursuit of a gambler.

AD MILLER, and his confederate, George Doble, who have stolen Sanders' red pony, Chiquito. In response to an appeal from JOYCE CRAWFORD, they rescue her father, EMERSON CRAWFORD, owner of the D Bar Lazy R ranch, who has been captured by his enemy, BRADLEY STEELMAN, a rival ranch owner. Bob and Dave resume the hunt for the horse thieves.

GO ON WITH THE STORY. CHAPTER IX. THE pursuit took the riders across a wide, undulating plain above which danced the dry heat of the desert. Lizards rattled themselves on flat rocks. A sunbaked snake slid toward the cover of a prickly pear. The bleached bones of a cow shone white beside the trail.

"No use, Bob," said Dave, while they were cooking supper "They've made their getaway. Might as well drift back to Malapi, don't you reckon?"

At the Delmonico restaurant they found Buck Byington and Steve Russell. The trail herd had been driven in an hour before.

"Dug's payin' off today, boys," Russell told them. "You'll find him round to the Boston Emporium." The foreman settled first with Hart, after which he turned to the D Bar in his pocket notebook that held the account of Sanders.

He stopped to look down sarcastically at the new boots Sanders was wearing.

"I see you've bought you a new pair of boots," he said in a heavy, domineering voice.

The big fellow laid a paper on the breast of the cowpuncher. "Here's a bill for a pair of boots you charged to the old man's account—eighteen dollars. I got it just now at the store. You'll die up."

"It was the custom for riders who came to town to have the supplies they needed charged to their employers against wages due them. Doble took it for granted that Sanders had done this, which was contrary to the orders he had given his outfit. He did not know the young man had lost his boots while rescuing Crawford, and had been authorized by him to get another pair in place of them.

Nor did Dave intend to tell him. Here was a chance to even the score against the foreman.

"See you later!" he shouted, and leaped into his saddle.

The foreman waited no breath in futile rage. He strode to the nearest hitching-post and his horse's hoofs pounded down the road in pursuit.

Sanders was riding the same bronco he had used to follow the horse thieves. It had been under a saddle most of the time for a week, and was far from fresh. Before he had gone a mile he knew that the foreman would catch up with him.

He was riding for Gunsight Pass. It was necessary to get there before Doble reached him. Otherwise he would have to surrender or fight, and neither of these fitted in with his plans.

By the time the foreman showed against the skyline at the entrance to the pass the younger man had disappeared.

The D Bar Lazy R foreman found out at once what had become of him. A crisp voice gave clear directions. "That'll be far enough. Stop right where you're at or you'll notice trouble pop."

The words came, it seemed to Doble, out of the air. He looked up. Two great boulders lay edge to edge beside the path. Through a narrow rift the blue nose of a forty-five protruded. Back of it glittered a pair of steady, steely eyes.

"Come out there and shell out that eighteen dollars," demanded Doble.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN PARTY SALADS

YOU are having four or five tables of bridges or the Sewing Club in for the afternoon. Salad is the first thing you think of serving, being a woman, but you wonder just how much "it will take."

These rules are calculated to serve twenty-five. Chicken Salad for Twenty-five. Ten pounds fowl, 4 heads celery, 3-4 cup oil, 6 tablespoons vinegar, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon paprika, 1 can pimientos, 4 hard-boiled eggs, 1 bunch parsley, 3 cups mayonnaise.

Put chickens on to cook in boiling water. Use as little water as possible to prevent burning. Cook until tender, but not falling from the bones. Care should be taken in choosing chickens for salads.

The chickens should be year-old hens if possible, but on no account choose a springer, for the meat will simply cook to pieces and be impossible to cut in neat dice.

When chicken is tender, cool. Then remove meat and cut in dice. There should be about 8 cups. Chill oil and vinegar. Beat well, season with salt and paprika and pour over diced meat. Let stand in a cool place for an hour or two before mixing. Wash celery. Cut in dice and chill in cold water. Drain and dry on a towel.

If the celery is prepared in the morning and left wrapped in a towel until needed it will be very crisp. There should be as much celery as meat. Cut pimientos in matchlike strips. Wash parsley, drain and wrap in a towel to crisp. Mix chicken, celery, pimientos and enough mayonnaise to make moist.

Put crisp lettuce leaves on large chop plates and mound the salad on the lettuce. Mask with mayonnaise and cover with slices of hard-boiled egg and tiny tufts of parsley.

Salmon and Walnut Salad. Three cans salmon, 1 can little green peas, 4 cups walnut meats, 3

Artliss a Comedian in Overalls in Latest Film

BY JAMES W. DEAN. New York, Feb. 1.—Picture George Artliss with his monocle and wearing overalls and a dilapidated clouch hat. That in itself sounds comical.

Well, Artliss appears that way in his latest film, "The Ruling Passion." And it takes Artliss back to the kind of performance in which he was famous 20 years ago. He was one of the most famous of satirical comedians until David Belasco induced him to assume sinister character roles.

"The Ruling Passion" is a satire on the retired businessman. A wealthy auto engine manufacturer is ordered to retire by his physician. Rest, complete rest, was the prescription.

But the obituary columns were full of notices of deaths of retired men. So Artliss, incognito, buys half interest in a garage. He learns that he and his youthful partner have been swindled.

He uses his wits rather than his wealth to triumph over unfair competition. After a year of tinkering with engines and filling gasoline tanks he is restored to perfect health—and the physician attributes it to his complete rest.

His youthful partner falls in love with his daughter. This romance is also a source of interest to the old man, for his daughter knows nothing of his life in the garage and his partner is not aware that he is the girl's father.

Here is a picture of the beaten path of movie comedians. Artliss is Artliss, as he was in "Disraeli," but he's a different Artliss. Doris Kenyon makes a very pleasing heroine, and the other players fit their characters as naturally as an old shoe fits a tender foot.

The picture is horribly over-lighted. The lighting effects in a measure destroy the note of naturalism that is otherwise predominant in the film.

It has been observed in these columns several times lately that there is seldom outward show of excitement—and the chances were that if he let them know who he was—he would force them to the expense of going to law for Chiquito. What was sauce for the goose must be for the gander, too.

POLLY AND PAUL AND PARIS

CHAPTER XI.—A STORM By Zoe Beckley

AT last, when, despite Crenshaw's comforting presence, Polly's nerves were at the snapping point, Paul's tall figure came into view—of course beside him Violet.

"Well—nothing to be alarmed about!" sung out Paul. "Perfectly simple explanation. We caught a wireless from a vessel in distress far to the north—and S. O. S. If we had been the nearest ship the law of the sea would have made it imperative that we go to her rescue—putting us back 24 hours at least. The ship hope to, so as to be ready to change her course toward the Grand Banks, but they got word just now that another boat was closer by 70 miles, and she's gone to the aid of the other. So that's that. Listen—the engines are pounding again. We're off!"

Paul and Crenshaw, after a few moments' chat, went off together to the smoke-room. Between Polly and Violet passed the flash of hostility that follows a feminine rivalry—over some man.

"I told you it was nothing serious!" said Violet. "And I won in the tug-of-war over your husband!"

"They seemed to read each other's thoughts." "You'll be glad when the voyage is over, I take it," said Violet.

"Glad—why?" snapped Polly. "I've enjoyed every moment of the trip. Even this episode of the ship stopping! Why, it was almost amusing to see how excited some people got over nothing!"

"I suppose," you mean me? Well, I assure you, Mrs. Dawson, there are times when mere serenity is proof of inexperience, if not stupidity!"

"They were both angry and over-wrought. Polly's class, usually softly sheathed, now flew.

"There are some experiences I prefer not to have. As for stupidity, I am not so stupid as to fling myself at another woman's husband, to his intense disgust—and boredom."

"I hadn't noticed it," Miss Rand stilled an elaborate yawn. "On the contrary, I thought he seemed interested."

"Paul is very polite," scored Polly, unwinding herself from her wraps and preparing to flee before she burst into tears. "I suppose in Paris—where life is so free and worthwhile, everyone's feelings are frankly expressed. If you'll excuse me I'll go down for a nap."

Paul came into the dim light of their cabin few moments later.

"Polly! Polly, dear, I say, whatever have you been doing to Violet Rand? She says you had a regular cat-fight on—Hello—why my own darling, what's the matter! Tell me, dearest!"

He had not seen her lying there on her bed, hair in disarray, eyes shouldering shaking. Now he bent over her tenderly.

Polly answered only with renewed sobbing, pushing him away as she caught her breath convulsively. He had never seen her cry.... He had never dreamed she could push him away.... He knelt in an agony, one hand drawing her to him, the other groping for his handkerchief to wipe her tears.

"G-go away! Go t-talk to your Miss Rand. She—interests you—I don't." (A gust of sob.) "I'm not a celebrity like her—a writer—and singer—and—He-knit-in—I'm only a stupid—in-experienced—"

Paul shook her gently. "Polly—you're upset, nervous. You know I love every hair of your head—the ground you walk on—every breath you draw. I love—"

She twisted from him. "Go away! Go back to—her! I want to be alone—alone—or I shall scream!"

BOOKS

EDITED BY CABR. THE DEEPER FAITH. By Carlos Wuppermann. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons.

RATHER an unusual little book is this, in these days of cynicism and denial and of absorption in material things. For the philosophy which it outlines is one of spiritual vision, of faith in the things of the spirit. But, for all this, it is a practical philosophy, one that is meant for everyday living.

The author is, perhaps, a little too indefinite about his conception of "Beauty," a little too insistent as to the inclusion of "Beauty" in his philosophy without making clear to his reader just what he means by the term. One surmises sometimes that he is not quite sure himself, especially when his worship at the shrine leads him into colorful rhetorical flourishes.

Unfortunately there is more of this in the beginning of the book than there is later on, and, therefore, those who are in search of the real significance of the little work will do well to open at the middle and read both ways. This will not destroy its coherence, for the short essays which compose it, usually about a page in length, are complete in itself, so that it is possible to dip into the book anywhere. And almost anywhere in it one finds something worth while. Here is a quotation from one page:

I wonder if it is not high time that we closed our Frankish eyes and opened our Emersons; that we turned from the multitudinous volumes on how to succeed with which our bookshelves are laden to the rare masterpieces of literature which teach us how to fail. It is so much easier to succeed than to fail!

It is a little book of fine and high ideals, which champions the things of greatest moment to the human soul, and it is written, for the most part, in beautiful and exquisitely simple English.

IRISH AND CANADIAN POEMS. By M. A. Hargadon. Montreal: The Modern Printing Co.

NOW that Ireland has constituted herself a free state, with a status and opportunities bordering on those enjoyed by the Dominion of Canada, "Irish and Canadian Poems," by Michael A. Hargadon of the Canadian Pacific Railway, with an introduction by George H. Ham, is a little volume that may find favor with readers who welcome reminiscences of the ever-green lore of the Emerald Isle.

Several poems will be of particular interest to those who lost relatives in the European war, for the author has paid glowing tributes to Canadian soldiers. Here is a verse from a poem to a Canadian who fell:

"So bright, so sweet the days that here were trod, They might be days Cullied from time that you will spend with God In heavenly ways."

In reading "Irish and Canadian Poems" one gets a good idea of the beauties of Ireland. The poet says that when the springtime is in the Green Isle:

"God brings the lark half way to Heaven To hear him sing of joys below." And in an Irish springtime, too—

"The peary hammers of the showers Beat velvet leaves out on the trees."

School days and many phases of Irish life are described by the poet, and there are many love poems in the volume. It is a tribute to the popularity of this book that the publishers have already received requests for it from Australia, India, Ireland, and from all parts of Canada and from the United States.

M. A. Hargadon is an Irishman who has lived in Canada for the last eight years. "Irish and Canadian Poems" is illustrated with beautiful pictures of Ireland and Canada. The book is likely to create a wide interest. It appears at a particularly opportune period.

St. Thomas' Desire To Break Away From L. and D. Causes Comment

O. F. A. MAY TRY TO HEAL BREACH BETWEEN TWO

Is Echo of Trouble Last Year Over Venue of Final Cup Game—St. Thomas District Would Be But City League.

BY C. S. G.
Included in the heap of matters for disposal at the annual meeting of the O. F. A. in Hamilton last Saturday was an item that escaped mention in most reports, but which concerns local football circles. It was an application from St. Thomas for direct affiliation with the O. F. A. and to form an association of their own, exclusive of London.

This is apparently an echo of the trouble which arose last season in the L. and D. cup competition, when the final game between St. Thomas Rovers and Public Utilities was transferred to London, and the former club refused to comply with the orders.

Considering that it was the first season for the London district, and that they had 18 teams, a big district for the infant class, the officials chosen perhaps made mistakes in their first attempts at soccer legislation, which might well be expected. Apparently their mistakes have not been forgotten in St. Thomas at least.

Has Been Tabled.
The St. Thomas application has been tabled for future action by the newly-elected executive of the O. F. A. Whether the executive will grant the application, of course, is not known, but in well advised soccer circles, it is believed that there is a big likelihood of the O. F. A. trying to heal whatever fancied breach there may be rather than forming a new district which would be nothing more than another name for a St. Thomas City League.

The London and District started out by being an ideally made-up group and giving the best of football, and even if its government was not ideal, inter-city competition is one of the best stimulants any district can have, and with London, Sarnia, and St. Thomas providing this factor, the L. and D. seemed to have everything in its favor. Some of the arrangements went wrong admittedly, but it would seem that St. Thomas could be justified in giving the arrangement another chance in 1922.

One thing wrong last year was that there were really too many teams to provide the best of football, and one or two teams were entirely too strong for the rest of the association and took away much of the interest.

Present Problem.
If some plan could be formulated whereby teams out of the association's class could be left to play inter-city representative games or an exhibition string until they could go in for the Connaught and Ontario Cup games, the L. and D. would be greatly benefited. This in itself presents a knotty problem and really penalized the club which has shown initiative in developing a great playing machine, manifestly an unjust thing to do, but on the other hand it would also penalize clubs, which, owing to their circumstances or the industries behind them, are able to gather in soccer players from all over the Dominion.

The L. and D. provides lots of problems to be worked out, but St. Thomas' right answer to any of them in trying to form a district of their own, it would be nothing more or less than a city league; it would force the London and District to take on the same complexion and much of the progress made during the first year of the regime of the new association, even though some of it was made at the cost of legislating blunders, would have been wasted.

N.H.L. PROGRAM FOR 3 LOCAL TEAMS IS UNCERTAIN

Anything's Possible With This Trade Germ in Air

WOODSTOCK THINKS PARIS KIDS NEXT
WOODSTOCK, Feb. 1.—The victory of the local junior O. H. A. team last night and the defeat of Ingersoll, which gave the Red and White the district championship, has set fans right up where they were three years ago, when the locals' battle with the finish was the work of Clarence Gorrie, the well-known Toronto veteran goalie-keeper, who has coached the team along from a very green bunch of kids to a well-balanced, last-playing combination, receiving bushels of praise.

Fans Fancy Chances of Red and White Crew.
The final game in the district Friday night at Ingersoll will not affect the standing, but the first-string players will be there, trying as hard as ever. Who will Woodstock meet next? is now the question. The management has not heard anything definite. It was expected that Glenoe would be in line, but the O. H. A. has grouped them with Seaford. Now the fans feel that it will be with Paris, who are group-winners and waiting. Paris is the closest spot. If the Green prove to be the opponents of the Red and Whites a battle royal should result. Both sextets are fast and have plenty of combination. With Woodstock's hubbed Friday night, it looks as if the fans will see action early next week.

COMISH PUTS BAN ON BILL-JACK GO
Says Brennan Would Be An Imposition On The Public.
NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—New York has virtually put Jack Dempsey out of his business, for some time at least. In putting a ban on the proposed Dempsey-Brennan contest, the state athletic commission announced it would not tolerate any bout between the heavyweight champion and an opponent whose record did not indicate he had a chance of defeating the champion.

Looking over the records of the heavyweights under the champion, there are a few names that come up. Harry Wills, the colored battler, is one, but the directors of the game in New York haven't expressed themselves about "mixed bloods," and a large doubt exists that Governor Miller would permit him to fight.

In putting the ban on the Dempsey-Brennan thing that Tex Rickard was cooking up for St. Patrick's Day, the commission said that it would be an imposition on the public, and intimated that it would be nothing but a "money grab."

It was pointed out that Brennan's only qualification was staying twelve rounds with the champion in 1920, and that since that time he had not been allowed to fight any first-class opponents through the desire of his manager, not to run him for another bout with Dempsey.

The commission suggested that Brennan could prove his right to another meeting with the king of the heavyweights by meeting Tommy Gibbons, Fred Fulton or Bob Beatty in the "over" any of this trio, the commission might allow him to be thrown in the ring again with the master. It insists upon a "first-class" opponent, Dempsey had better take that long-planned European trip, as it seems to be too late in the season now to "work up" an opponent for an indoor show.

WOODSTOCK, Feb. 1.—The Woodstock intermediate O. H. A. team which entered in the senior Northern League series, has dropped out owing to their inability to secure a road leader on sufficient good class, and the hole in the nets. It was expected that Chilton Childs, who was refused his certificate by the O. H. A., would be allowed to play in the Northern, but Secretary Trivett ruled that there was nothing doing, so the Woodstock boys forfeited their games with Stratford and dropped out. As Tilsonburg have also dropped out of the Northern race this group goes to Stratford by default.

ROACH TO THE RESCUE.
HAMILTON, Feb. 1.—Hamilton went farther into the cellar in the N. H. L. game by losing to St. Patrick's 2 to 4, and although the local outfit looked anything but a good team, it was really the play before, during and after the game that kept them on the short end of the count. The Toronto wizard was given a few busy sessions, especially in the second period, when the Tigers dished up their best hockey, but the best they could get was two corners.

Stuart and Matte were injured in the final period and had to be assisted from the ice.

He had his regulars in action against another team, while exposing on a battle Friday night, is confident as to the outcome of the series.

LONDON RINKS UP AT HARRISTON
Northern Ice Holding, Despite Weather of Yesterday.
HARRISTON, Feb. 1.—The bonspiel goes merrily on with the curlers in fine spirits, and the winning rinks still battling for supremacy, including the famous Merriman rink of Chatsworth, Crawford of Wingham, Skea of Palmerston, MacFarlane and Ireland from Ingersoll, with the several rinks from Ferguson are to be heard from yet. It is so long that the veteran curler in this part of the province was received at the rink Monday afternoon in the person of Mr. James Hunter from Lucknow, from whence used to come to the bonspiel a pipe band, several of the curlers and entertainers. Mr. Hunter is well and most favorably known by all the curlers in this locality, and his always welcome visitor Harriston extends the glad hand.

OTTAWA, Feb. 1.—Hockey provided its gamut of thrills in the National League fixture here tonight between the Ottawas and Canadians, which resulted in a win for the world's champions by a score of 4 to 2. Two players were seriously injured, Nighbor and Gerard of the Ottawas, and it is possible that the former will not be able to play until the championship playoffs take place. A hasty examination resulted in the bulletin that a bone in his left arm is broken, but an X-ray will be taken tomorrow for definite announcement. The Ottawa boy played nearly five minutes after receiving the injury before being taken out of the arena. Gerard received an ugly gash over the eye, and was removed to the hospital afterwards. He will be able to play Saturday night.
Both the injuries were received and given in a mysterious way, and while Sprague's legions was said to be responsible for each, there is some doubt expressed.
The line-ups:
Ottawa: Goal Canadians
Benedict Goal Vezina

St. Mathews B. C. SENIORS TO MEET STRATFORD NEXT

Alerts and Manhattans Want To Arrange Local Series.
The Northern League efforts of the three London hockey teams have every prospect of providing the fans with even better hockey than the O. H. A. has given them, although the weatherman has stepped in and made things extremely uncertain. Alert seniors received word late last night that they would meet Stratford Monday, with the return game here on Friday of next week.

Manhattans and Alert juniors are both in the same straits with Tilsonburg. The two local teams are desirous of staging a two-game series here, with the winners to meet Tilsonburg. It is something in the way of hockey competition, and Exeter, practically a new team in the O. H. A., will be one of the obstacles to this. The Northern eventually, though the pace they have been traveling would warrant them going quite a distance in the O. H. A. title-class yet.

A number of senior N. H. L. second-round games have been arranged. Preston and Guelph play off on Wednesday; Glenoe and Watford meet next week, and Milverton and Lister play Friday and Monday of next week.

KITCHENER FANS WORKED TO PITCH

KITCHENER, Feb. 1.—Kitchener sport fans are agog as a result of the impending series between Galt and Kitchener for the second round championship. The fact that the locals are drawing against Galt is reflecting genuine enthusiasm in every quarter of hockey-land locally. This is principally because it means the best in Waterloo County will go out of the county to contest further intermediate series.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

"So God created man in His own image, in the image of God created He him; male and female created He them. And God blessed them."—Genesis 1:27-28.

ARISTOTLE says that what is truly a man's self is the thinking part of him; that sooner or later all the other parts obey, willingly or unwillingly; and if this self be based on the whole man will be base; and if the self be noble, the whole man will be noble. As it is with the individual man, so it is with the ages and the generations.—W. H. Mallock.

CITY ORANGEMEN TO VISIT SARNIA

Large Turnout at Border Event Is Expected.

Inniskilling Royal Black Precinctory, No. 334, London, will pay a fraternal visit to Carmel Precinctory, No. 301, Sarnia on Friday.

The Sarnia precinctory is the largest in the jurisdiction of the county to which it belongs, and the meeting of the two will be quite an event it is expected in Orange circles.

A visit of this nature is an unusual affair, and as a result considerable interest is being shown among the members and a large turnout is anticipated.

Next Tuesday another event of some importance will take place when the county lodge will meet and elect its officers for the year.

C. W. Cross, immediate past president, will be the presiding officer on the Sarnia visit, and will be assisted in the ritual work by the following degree team: W. B. Walker, county master; J. W. Carson, past preceptor; W. C. Slyfoot, past preceptor; H. P. Knight, past preceptor; C. O. Smith, W. MacCraw, lecturers; J. Fleming, deputy preceptor.

Calcium is the principal mineral of the human body. Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful when you wash it with. Don't use prepared shampoo or anything else that contains too much alkali.

This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it. The best thing for steady use is just plain Mulsified coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls of Mulsified will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil.

The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified coconut oil shampoo at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.—Adv.

WANTS DEFINITE ACTION TAKEN

Montreal Priest Insists Upon Immediate "Conviction or Vindication."

MONTREAL, Feb. 1.—According to a statement in La Presse today Rev. Father Delorme in the course of a telephone conversation he had with Premier Taschereau on Saturday demanded that something be done by the attorney-general's department of the province to expedite the clearing up of the case of his half-brother Raoul, murdered on Jan. 6.

Father Delorme says he said to Premier Taschereau: "It is Father Adelard Delorme of Montreal, half-brother of Raoul Delorme, speaking. I take the liberty of telephoning you to inform you that I have been in the hands of the officers of your department for three weeks, and under fire of public opinion. I have been suspected of something of the most infamous nature. It seems to me that evidence either in my favor or against me should have been produced before now. This is a request for justice that I am putting before you."

Seeks Law's Ruling.
 "I wish to claim the full severity or protection of the law as soon as possible on account of the suspicion that has been levelled at me. Furthermore, that justice should be done immediately. The inquest has been adjourned sine die, but what is to become of my reputation in the meantime? Has the law the right to throw me on the screen of public opinion before a public which seems to revel in sensationalism? The public seems to associate the question of this crime with religion and morality."

"I insist that in some way or other the inquest be terminated without delay. I am quite satisfied with the conscientious work of your officers. Please get me cleared on all these points."

Father Delorme forcibly denied imputations which he said newspaper had levelled at him.
 Denies Seeking Aid.
 "I deny that I visited the archbishop of Montreal," he said, "to claim the aid of the archdiocesan authorities. I deny just as emphatically having appeared before Chief of Police Boulanger and Chief of Detectives Lepage with these same authorities. I formally deny having had recourse to money to buy silence. I deny also all interviews with judges, advocates and magistrates. "I am still carrying on the duties of my ministry."

In a dispatch from Quebec Premier Taschereau is quoted as saying the case was in the hands of the coroner, and he could not interfere. He is quoted as having told Father Delorme this.

FORMAL ASSENT TO TREATY BY WORLD POWERS

Epoch-Making Document Is Presented and Ratified.

ENDS NAVAL RACE

Happy Group of Delegates Enact Final Scene At Washington Today.

CONTINENTAL HALL, WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The great five-power naval limitation treaty, scaling down ships of war, creating a naval holiday, and providing a basis for a sounder world peace, was presented to a plenary session of the arms conference and received formal assent.

In the marble D. A. R. Hall, where on Nov. 12 Secretary of State Hughes let burst his "bombshell" proposal for scrapping a vast number of the world's finished product—a document which, written on the scrolls of time, is destined to be hailed as the world's most successful curb on competitive armaments up to the 20th century.

Naval Race Ended.
 Rounding out the naval treaty was another pact banning submarines as attackers of commerce and the use of poison gas in war.

Mr. Hughes laid the treaties before the fifth plenary session of the conference shortly after the opening at 11 o'clock. Under the naval treaty the three great naval powers—the United States, Great Britain and Japan—will scrap 68 great warships of a total tonnage of 1,861,643. The smaller number of old ships to be junked by France and Italy contribute to make these figures even higher. These ships include the capital shipbuilding programs of the great naval powers, the realization of the dreams of navy men seeking to make their country dominant in the ever faster race of naval competition.

It is also provided in the treaty—a fact not fully known before—that the United States, in consultation with the other powers, shall call another conference of the signatory nations as soon as possible after eight years from the coming into force of the treaty to consider any needed changes in the pact "in view of possible technical and scientific developments."

As conclusive evidence that the conference has done much to preserve the peace of the Far East, the Shantung settlement agreement between Japan and China was unexpectedly presented to the conference by Hughes. Likewise, the sessions formally adopted these resolutions regarding China: The open door declarations; removal of foreign post-

Dies From Lockjaw as Result of Being Shot While on Rabbit Hunt

BLENHEIM, Feb. 1.—As a result of having accidentally shot himself while hunting rabbits, Archie Vannacker, who lived near Cedar Springs, in Harwich, died yesterday in the hospital in Chatham from lockjaw.

Vannacker was out hunting near the lake in Raleigh, and had followed up the track of a rabbit in the snow until he rounded it up. He then proceeded to stir it out of a hole, and used a bit of iron rod to do it, but in doing so in some way hit the gun, setting it off. The charge hit his foot, tearing it badly.

In his wounded condition and alone he managed to drag himself nearly a mile before he got any help. Dr. A. R. Hanks of this town was summoned to attend him, and the man was found to be in such a condition that it was necessary to rush him to the hospital. He was 40 years old, and leaves a widow and three small children.

offices; eventual removal of foreign troops; provisions for barring secret treaties; the pooling of Chinese wireless; the declaration for reduction of Chinese military forces and expenditures.

A Happy Meeting.
 It was a happy group of conferees. The strain of weeks of ceaseless sessions had left its impress upon all. They wanted to be home. And the momentousness of the occasion could not hide the sense of relief, bordering on gaiety, in which the delegates hailed this forenoon's assembly.

The galleries were crowded with women, their crimson, light blue and multi-colored bonnets blending in a sea of color. The entire gathering seemed more like a super-audience at the opera instead of a diplomatic assembly. The audience still seemed to have the enthusiasm which marked the opening sessions.

Messrs. Hughes and Balfour were loudly applauded when they entered the hall. Mr. Hughes first reported to the conference resolutions previously adopted regarding China. The first resolution, he said, was that for abolition of foreign postoffices in China. This resolution was adopted unanimously—in cut and dried fashion.

The next resolution was that covering foreign troops in China, providing for a council sitting in China to pave the way for removal of such forces. Likewise was adopted.

RAILWAY THIEVES HAVE THEIR OWN PREFERENCES

MONTREAL, Feb. 1.—That liquor, tobacco and shoes were the articles most highly prized by thieves who steal from railways was the declaration of G. C. Jackson, C. P. R. auditor, in his address to the delegates of the Shoe Manufacturers' Association of Canada at their session this morning.

Mr. Jackson stated that one company had lost $65,000 during 1920 by thieves breaking into their cars and making off with thousands of pairs of shoes.

FRANCE PAYS INTEREST ON DEBT TO AMERICA

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1.—Payment of $10,000,000 on surplus supplies purchased after the war was made to the United States today by France.

The payment was the third installment of semi-annual interest on the $400,000,000 debt created by the liquidation commission after the war when army supplies in France were disposed of to the French government. The principal of the debt is due Aug. 1, 1929, and the annual five per cent of interest is payable in semi-annual installments.

STOP COUGHING TAKE

NADRUCO Syrup of Tar with Cod Liver Oil Compound

After a few doses, you will notice a distinct improvement—the phlegm will be looser, cough easier, tightness in the chest gone—and day by day you will grow better, until, almost before you realize, the cough will be gone. NADRUCO Syrup of Tar with Cod Liver Oil Compound is also excellent for Bronchitis and Whooping Cough—pleasant to take—especially recommended for children. All druggists have it. 30
