Have Advantage of Great Natural Barriers and Still They Can Hold Teutonic Advance.

By Special Wire to the Courier. Petrograd, June 28, via London, 2 p.m.—Officers of the Russian general staff now state that they have satisfactorily achieved the regrouping of their forces necessitated by the German Galician campaign and that they stand ready effectively to oppose a further advance of the Austro-German forces in Galicia or in Southern Russia.

present front is that portion of the Vistula just north of the River San. Here the Germans in considerable numbers are attempting to force the river and by so doing flank the Russian positions along the Tanew which as yet have shown no signs of yielding to frontal attack. The wooded approach to the river at this point allows the Germans successfully to mask their operations and to conceal their batteries, but the record of the fighting up to Saturday shows that no real advantage has yet been gained by the Germans.

POLITICS ARE UNHEARD OF TO-DAY IN IRELAND, SAYS JOHN REDMOND

Ireland Has a Quarter Million of Men in the Fighting Line.

By Special Wire to the Courier. New York, June 28.—A cable to the Tribune from London says: John Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalist party, in an interview with the Times, referred to Sir Roger Casement, saying: "I am told Sir Roger was sent by the Germans to address Irish prisoners. At first they listened, unaware of the speaker's identity. As soon as they realized that the speaker was none other than Sir Roger Casement, they sat upon him. The conclusion of the incident was that the Prussian Guards had to be called out to extricate Sir Roger from peril of his life."

BRITISH SHIP INDRANA SUNK

Donaldson Line Steamer Sunk Off Tuskar Point.

By Special Wire to the Courier. London, June 28.—12.20 p.m.—The British Steamship Indrana, of 3,640 tons gross, was sunk on Sunday by a German submarine at a point south-west of Tuskar, Ireland. The crew of the Indrana was saved. The Steamship Indrana on her last eastern voyage across the Atlantic, sailed from New York May 28 by way of Bordeaux for Glasgow, where she arrived June 19. The Indrana was 301 feet long, 44 feet beam and 27 feet deep. She was built at Liverpool in 1888 and owned by Donaldson Brothers, of Glasgow.

CAR ROLLS OVER WITH FIVE IN IT; ONE BADLY HURT

Alex. Calder, of Plattsville, Pinned Under Seat of His Automobile.

Woodstock, June 28.—Five residents of Plattsville had a bad experience on the hill approaching Wellington street bridge at an early hour Saturday morning, when their auto toppled over an embankment at the southern approach to the bridge. Fortunately, no one was dangerously injured. On Friday last the Norwich lodge of Masons held an installation of officers and the installing team was composed of Alex. Calder, Albert Smart, Thos. Pratt and Geo. Veitch, prominent members of the Plattsville lodge. These men motored to Norwich, the car being in charge of S. Skellings. About 1 o'clock the start was made for home. The party arrived at Woodstock about 2 o'clock, but reaching the G. T. R. crossing on Wilson street, it was found to be blocked by a freight train. One of the party suggested going around by the Wellington street bridge. The driver had never been over the road before, but all went well until reaching the top of the hill, when the engine stalled. The car immediately started back and before the driver could prevent it crashed through the fence, toppled over and landed against the house at the bottom of the embankment.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL Fortunately for the occupants they were all thrown clear of the car, with the exception of Mr. Calder, who was pinned underneath. While he was painfully injured about the chest, no serious results are looked for. The other occupants escaped with a severe shaking up. The injured men were taken to the Buckingham Hotel, and medical aid secured. The car was not badly smashed and after being removed from the bottom of the embankment, was able to run on its own power.

Difficulties are Growing With Their Advance

By Special Wire to the Courier. Udine, Italy, June 28.—As the Italians advance in the Carso Mountains, north of Trieste, they are meeting with growing difficulties in the shape of geological formations, the innumerable Grottos, caves, wells and galleries being admirably suited for hiding batteries and being capable of defence by the large contingents of troops which the Austrians for years have been preparing to resist an invasion. Field Marshal Baron Conrad Von Hoetzendorf, the chief of the Austrian general staff, studied and wrote, a treatise regarding this district and, adding practice to theory, frequently held the manoeuvres of the Austro-Hungarian armies in this region.

THREE FAREWELL ADDRESSES WERE GIVEN BY THE LOCAL CLERGYMEN

Rev. R. D. Hamilton at Wellington, Rev. T. E. Holling at Colborne St. and Rev. A. I. Snyder at Sydenham St. Church—Splendid Sermons Characteristic of the Men, Delivered.

Three farewell addresses were listened to by Brantford congregations on Sunday. Much as the members must regret the departure of their pastors, it serves to keep the clergy from the dangers that beset a life-long minister, and the work can never fall into ruts caused by passing years. All three have left their mark on the city, and the time during which they labored, they, it can be safely said, have done so to bring into public and spiritual life the inspiration of high ideals so necessary in the constant fight for civic and personal purity. Nothing can recompense the pastors who so loyally serve the people but the reflection that will be theirs as they go out to their new sphere, that wherever they go they have given of their best, and that men and women in whose service they realized it feel grateful to them for their efforts.

science and art shall always go side by side in Colborne Street church. During the three years of his term as pastor of the church he had many pleasant times, and the years were happy ones. In spite of some misgivings he had experienced, he trusted that in the final judgment of things, it would be found that he had been of some service to the church during his term. The congregation had been increased by one hundred and sixty members. When he first came to the city he at once saw that a new church was an absolute necessity. He worked so hard for the extension of the church that the result was the erection of two fine new buildings—Marlborough street, and Elm Avenue churches. He expressed a wish that these edifices would become strong suburban churches in the future. Church extension of this kind was the work after his heart. He had had much experience in the West, but when he started to the East, he thought that he would have no more of it to do. He was pleased to find that there was an extension necessary in this city.

When these new churches were opened it made the congregation of Colborne street church smaller, but this was not to be considered, when it is easily seen how many more people are thus allowed to attend church. Besides this, the three congregations taken collectively, would be much larger than the congregation of Colborne street at its largest. Rev. Mr. Holling would not forget how splendidly the people had attended the last communion service. He stated that he was not a sacramentarian, but he believed that parents should decide for their children until they can do so for themselves. It is the duty of every parent to place their children in the church when they are young. During his term, Mr. Holling had the honor of conducting 103 baptisms. The funeral services at which he had officiated had been a great sorrow to him. He had lost several earnest church workers during his short stay. He expressed himself as being gratified with the excellent work of the young people of the church. The Epworth League had taken great onward steps. The future success of a church is assured when its young people show such enthusiasm in a church organization. To the choir he extended some very complimentary remarks. They had always been very self-sacrificing when the interests of the church were involved. He personally thanked Mrs. Leeming, Messrs. Geo. C. White and Vernon Cooper for their invaluable services. The Colborne Street church has been very prominent in social service work in the city. After his departure he wanted to feel the people of his

CANADIANS ARE NAILED TO CROSSES

Confidant of Gen. French Tells of Cruelties of German Troops.

Detroit, June 28.—George Gordon Moore, most intimate friend of Sir John French, who has just returned from a long stay at British headquarters in France, gave out yesterday a long interview in which he denounced German methods of warfare and told of astounding cruelties practised by the Teutons. Mr. Moore, who is a wealthy traction magnate and financier, was the British General's closest confidant in France, their friendship even aroused criticism in London. It was said Moore was favored over all others at General French's headquarters. He is generally credited with being responsible for the exposures in the ammunition scandal, which led to the British Cabinet shake-up. Mr. Moore said: "Young Canadian officers have been crucified by the Germans. They have been nailed to the village crosses. The cruelties the German army have practised since the outbreak of the war would make any of our Indian wars of bygone days look like a condition of Utopian peace."

SIGNAL TO GET READY "General French and I were alone when word was brought of the first use of gas by the Germans at the battle of Ypres. Our people ought to see the victims. Burning at the stake is humane in comparison. It only shows what this country would have to face if there were war. It is a signal to get ready."

The valor of the Canadian troops has won for them a place in the history of Great Britain. They are the world's greatest fighters. When gas was used by the Germans the allies' front line wavered and fell, the southern troops beating a hasty retreat and leaving the Canadians all but surrounded. "They had to turn and fire the other way. They fought for hours, and fought so courageously until reinforcements came that they saved the day."

Mr. Moore paid a tribute to the Canadian as a soldier. He reiterated the frequently told stories of German atrocities, and declared he had seen a Belgian child of seven, whose hands had been cut off by the Kaiser's soldiers. Ott School Garden, Kansas City, has won for them a place in the history of Great Britain. They are the world's greatest fighters. When gas was used by the Germans the allies' front line wavered and fell, the southern troops beating a hasty retreat and leaving the Canadians all but surrounded.

WESTERN ONTARIO BOYS EVENED UP WITH THE ENEMY

German in Counter-Attack Were Wiped Out by Canadian Fire.

The despatch herewith given furnishes further particulars of the battle of June 15, in which the 1st Battalion suffered such terrible losses. Major Campbell Becher fell on that day, with many of the officers and men. The casualties among the men of the ranks are now coming in. London, June 28.—Canadian troops have again been called upon to beat the best soldiers in the German army, and once more they have succeeded. The gallant soldiers from Canada were sent into action at La Bassée in a three-day battle lasting from June 15 to 17. The captured four lines of the German trenches, but part of these had to be relinquished later because the Canadian ammunition had been expended. Details of the Canadian feat at La Bassée arrived here Saturday in the following narrative from the front: "With other British forces the Canadians were ordered to take the German trenches in a sector at La Bassée. The Canadians were led in the undertaking by the 1st Ontario Battalion, with the 3rd Toronto Battalion acting as a support. "After a cannonade, the Canadians made a bayonet charge with great gallantry. In less than 15 minutes they were in full possession of the first line of German trenches. There they paused only for a moment. "They then went tearing at the second line, which they carried gallantly. In a few minutes the third and fourth lines were assailed and carried. "The Canadians followed at the heels of the fleeing enemy, giving him no time to rally his forces. The battalion at once began to consolidate the conquered position, but finally the Germans made a stand and opened a counter-attack. "In the meantime the Canadians' ammunition had run low. Their grenades had been expended in carrying the four lines of trenches. They resisted the counter-attack obstinately, but finally, under a shower of shells and grenades, the gallant Canadians had to relinquish the front lines of trenches. "In the partial retirement which followed," continues the narrative, "the Canadian losses were very heavy. During the night of June 15 the second brigade relieved the first brigade and the 2nd Ontario. "On the night of June 16-17 the Germans delivered a heavy counter-attack against the lines held by the 2nd Canadian brigade. This evening the score. "The Canadian riflemen waited until the attack had developed strength and then wiped the German infantry out of existence. Few Germans got back to their line."

AMMUNITION LOW. "In the meantime the Canadians' ammunition had run low. Their grenades had been expended in carrying the four lines of trenches. They resisted the counter-attack obstinately, but finally, under a shower of shells and grenades, the gallant Canadians had to relinquish the front lines of trenches. "In the partial retirement which followed," continues the narrative, "the Canadian losses were very heavy. During the night of June 15 the second brigade relieved the first brigade and the 2nd Ontario. "On the night of June 16-17 the Germans delivered a heavy counter-attack against the lines held by the 2nd Canadian brigade. This evening the score. "The Canadian riflemen waited until the attack had developed strength and then wiped the German infantry out of existence. Few Germans got back to their line."

WOUNDS BY SHELLS. "Bullets play no part now," he continued, "and the infantryman's rifle is a toy. Infantry merely occupies the trenches the cannon have won." Most devastating of all the new Skoda shells of the Germanic allies, which are 17 inches in diameter and weigh 2,800 pounds. The Skoda howitzer shoots at a high angle and its shell penetrates 20 feet into soft earth before exploding two seconds after striking. These howitzers do not resemble the Krupp mortars of the same calibre, to which they are said to be superior in every way. When a Skoda shell hits, it means death to everything within a radius of 150 yards and even farther off. The mere pressure of its gas rips open the bombproof shelters and catches those who escape the metal fragments and flying debris. This gas enters the body cavities and tears flesh asunder, sometimes stripping the men of their clothes. Of course the men in the immediate neighborhood of the explosion are annihilated. So fierce is the heat of the explosion of the shell that it melts rifle barrels as if they had been struck by lightning.

TRYING FOR VERDUN.

Paris, June, 28.—The Germans, in fighting furiously at Bagatelle and in the trenches of Calonne, are seeking to approach the strongly-fortified town of Verdun, according to Lieut.-Colonel Rousset, military critic of the Petit Parisien. He believes they are seeking to gain control of the railroad from Chalons to Sainte Menould. While they are aiming at Verdun from two directions, the critic believes the efforts of their army will prove futile.

BRITISH TERRITORIALS FOUGHT WITH GREAT CREDIT AT YPRES

Regiments Only a Few Days in France Faced the Rain of Metal Like Veterans at the Second Battle.

General Headquarters, British Expeditionary Force, June 28.—The story of the second battle of Ypres is the story of men shaken to temporary disorganization by a foul and diabolical surprise, and then for almost three weeks without cessation, battered day and night by the most terrible artillery bombardment the war has yet witnessed. The time has not yet come when the full narrative of this tremendous German effort against our lines may be given in detail to the world, but it is permissible to-day to convey an idea of the stern ordeal which our army, regulars and territorials alike, underwent with sublime heroism, with unflinching fortitude. During the past few days I have heard the full story of the fight from the shattered remnants of some of the troops that held our line. There was a brigade in that battle that emerged with but a single lieutenant-colonel, battalions that lost most of their non-commissioned officers, units (like the Suffolks) that came out of action a dozen strong. It was not a man-toman fight as at Ypres in October when our infantry stood up against the flower of the Prussian army hurled at them through the woods and beat them off. It was a scientific slaughter beginning with poisonous gas and 17-inch howitzer shells and continuing with the most appalling bombardment with very kind of cannon known to man. OUR NEW TROOPS SPLENDID. Guns may smash and shatter the body and batter in the trenches; they cannot quell the spirit. As long as our reinforcements were there we held the Germans off the fiercely desired road to Calais. In the mighty battle our latest arrivals from England showed themselves the equal of our sacred dead of the autumn over whose graves the battle raged. The skill of our generals saw to it that our resources were husbanded, and we kept our line unbroken. In a fight in which all ranks displayed the most sublime gallantry and

LEFLER HAS MADE CONFESSION OF GUILT TO POLICE AGENT WALKERVILLE BOMB OUTRAGE

After Police Had Crilled Him For Hours He Confessed That With Two Others, He Planned Outrages.

Windsor, June 28.—After the police had grilled him for hours without result, Wm. Lefler of 589 Warren ave., Detroit, watchman at the Tate Electric plant, has made a confession to Crown Attorney J. R. Rodd that he, with two other Detroit men, had conspired to blow up Windsor factories and public buildings. Lefler broke down completely when he was leaving for Sandwich jail yesterday afternoon. "I could not hold out any longer," he sobbed, as he stepped into the automobile. Besides Lefler, two other men were engaged in the plot, which contemplated not only the entire destruction of the Windsor Armory, but of the Canadian Bridge Company's plant in Walkerville, the Peabody Company, the Dominion Stamping Company at Ford, the Tate factory, as well as several other large manufacturing plants. Lefler declares he was selected as the man who was to plant the bomb at the Tate factory, but his heart failed him and he did not finish the job. Albert Kaltschmidt, who for four years was manager of the Tate plant, together with a man named Schmidt, both residents of Detroit, are named by Lefler in his confession. The confession made to Crown Attorney Rodd yesterday afternoon was brought about after Lefler's wife had come over from Detroit and seen him in his cell at police headquarters. "Tell me what you have done, Wilhelm. Please tell me that you have done no wrong," she sobbed. The prisoner, with tears running down his face, clasped his wife in his arms, declaring: "I will tell all I know if I swing for it!"

LEFLER'S ALLEGED CONFESSION

The confession, as related by the police, was as follows: "I have been employed with Albert Kaltschmidt, who was manager of the Tate plant in Ford City for four years. "When the war started the plot to blow up factories making supplies and ammunition was first introduced to me by a man whom I met in Mr. Kaltschmidt's private office, who offered me $200 if I would handle the dynamite at the Tate plant. "Several months ago this man commenced to smuggle dynamite over in his auto at Walkerville. This was stored in the vault of the Tate factory. Another man named Schmidt was to bring over the fuses and time clocks, and I was to supply the suitcases. I bought two of these in Detroit, and took them over to Walkerville without any questions being asked by the customs officers. "The details of the plot were discussed in the office of this man in the RUSSIAN JEWS' PLIGHT.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Paris June 28.—Russian Jews who are residents of France are in a difficult position. Most of them are political refugees and as such are unable to return to Russia. Since they are not naturalized French subjects, they are unable to serve in the French army but the police regulations provide that if they are subject to military duty they must render it. In this connection the Petit Parisien publishes a statement from the ministry of interior and prefect of police which says "If through their own volition they are not serving anywhere their place is in the strangers concentration camp. As everyone in France does duty, no privileges can exist for Russian Jews."

Women's Institute

South Brant Women's Institute was held at Victoria Hall, Brantford, on Thursday, June 24th. The convention opened by all singing "The Maple Leaf." The District President, Mrs. James Eadie, presided. A report of the year's work was given by the secretary showing South Brant Women's Institute to be in excellent standing and of having accomplished a great amount of work in the past year. Some of the special items of the report are as follows: Total membership 348; 87 meetings held; 109 papers and addresses given; attendance for the year 217; also social meetings, debates, bazaars, concerts, etc., have been held throughout the district. Ten dollars was donated for prizes for the Children's school fair; funds are being raised for the tuberculosis hospital and altogether over one thousand dollars has been raised and expended, principally for Red Cross work and Belgian relief; South Brant has eleven branch institutes, Burford, Falkland, New Durham, Cathart, Scotland, Oakland, Burtch, Mt. Pleasant, Ohsweken and Tansley. The district officers for the year were: Honorary president, Mrs. J. E. Brethour, Burford; president, Mrs. James Eadie, Oakland; vice-president, Mrs. A. E. Apps, Valley Mills; secretary-treasurer, Miss B. Roelison, Mt. Pleasant; Prof. R. A. Reynolds, of Guelph, O. A. C., was present and gave a very excellent address taking for his subject, "The Institute motto: For Home and Country," pertaining especially to "Home." He outlined the duties of mothers and fathers in the home especially toward the growing boys and girls and urged the mothers present to rebuild the tone and atmosphere of their homes; and as to country, Mr. Reynolds gave a grand patriotic address, showing the necessity of everyone doing their utmost for their country's needs.

Five minute reports were given from each branch Institute; also each branch contributed a five minutes paper. These reports and addresses were, indeed, of great interest. Special items of reports for Red Cross work: Burford raised and expended $414.90 in donations and material for garments, which were made up and sent to the Red Cross and the Belgians, also one-half car load of fruit. Mt. Pleasant—$54 to Red Cross and $250 in clothes and supplies to the Belgians. Cathart—$68.50 to Red Cross and additional supplies of food and clothes to other branches. Oakland—For Red Cross and Belgians, $150.00, also clothes and fruit. Other branches also gave donations to Red Cross, in clothes, fruit and money, besides doing a great deal of local improvement work.

The papers from the different branches were varied as to subjects and all were well prepared and very interesting. Some of the subjects were as follows: "Success in Success in Life, Home Gardening, Patriotism, etc."

Mrs. J. E. Brethour, Burford, gave an interesting talk on Institute work, giving some new ideas she had gathered in her recent trip as Governor Delegate in York County.

Mrs. J. Y. Brown, authoress and historian, gave a short and very interesting account of some branches of her work, which interested the institute ladies very much.

Mrs. Livingstone was present in the interests of the Brantford Hospital, and gave an outline of the splendid work being done by the Brantford ladies in connection with the hospital.

Mrs. Bayless as representative of North Brant Women's Institute was present and brought up the matter of providing a rest room in Brantford for the use of Institute ladies throughout the county. A very pleasant and profitable convention was brought to a close by the singing of God Save the King.

Fred Warranchuck, of Derry, N.H., having lost his job, faced a mirror and shot himself in the head.

HARTLEY-COSTAIN

On Wednesday, June 23rd, 1915, a quiet wedding took place at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Costain when their youngest daughter Ann Alberta, was united in marriage to W. J. Hartley, of New Durham. The Rev. D. B. Cohoe, an uncle of the bride, officiated. The wedding was a very pretty one, but very quietly solemnized, only the immediate relatives being present.

The young couple left for Niagara Falls and other points, and upon their return, will take up their residence near New Durham.

CRANDALL-TISDALE.

A very quiet, but pretty wedding took place in Flint, Mich., on June 26th, when Mr. Lloyd A. Crandall of this city, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Miss Norma Tisdale. The bride looked very charming in a gown of white satin, trimmed with shadow lace, and carried a bouquet of orange blossoms and lilies of the valley. Among the numerous gifts received was a beautiful oak dining room suite from friends of the groom. Amid showers of congratulations the happy couple left on the evening train for Chicago. On their return they will take up their residence in Flint, Michigan. Many Brantford friends extend hearty congratulations to the happy couple.

Boy Knight Notes

A week of steady work. Last Saturday our juniors organized a fishing party at an early hour. They assembled and made a captive of the C. O., and he employed as guide thought they would make an attempt to empty the Old Grand of its reserve stock of fish. There were plenty of boys to fish and fish were there also, but they were an elusive article and the boys were poor fishermen. However, a splendid lot of vim and sport was had in other directions, and a merry half day was spent, every boy enjoying himself.

Mr. Johnson paid us a visit on Tuesday evening and bid us good-bye before going to the front. Walter is a young man of sterling character and will make a good soldier. He was of great assistance to us at camp last year and we all wish him a successful return.

The thanks of all are due to Sir

Good scores have been made during the week by a large number of the boys. Bruce Eaton making perhaps the leading showing. Bruce generally makes good in everything he takes hold of. Special mention must be made of the good work being done by Cecil and David Currie. Every Boy Knight should meet July 15th with a red cross on his calendar. The procession will leave the market square at 7.30, headed by the C. band. There will certainly be some time. Are you in it? Summer School will commence on July 5 this year and there promises to be a large attendance. Every boy and girl will help. It is proposed to have a knitting class and make socks for our soldiers. Who will volunteer to help teach our girls to do this useful work. Many other new features will be introduced in the work this year. Our baseball team with its hustling manager, Austin Reynolds, is forming into shape and will give a good account of themselves. Hugh McCormack and Charles Finch, two of our coming leaders, will certainly have to learn to do less talking and more playing. It will work out to better results. Anderson Ross is one of the noiseless kind. Work carried on but never in the way.

Fish don't like Charlie S., that's why the one on Saturday was in such a hurry to leave. Gordon McLoy's crab was not of the lively variety or he might have felt his presence in a different manner. Clark Griffith, manager of the Washington Nationals, said in speaking of the work of his team during the past season: "I am convinced that our failure to come up with expectations this season has been largely due to the fact that some of the players on whom we depended, were cigarette fiends. There will be no more of it. Any player who insists on smoking cigarettes is through as far as the Nationals are concerned and that goes as long as I am manager of the team. No man in Athletics for a living can use them and make good."

DUTCH SOCIALISTS PROTEST.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

LONDON, June 28.—A great demonstration in protest against the government bill for the extension of the landrum was held yesterday afternoon at Utrecht, according to a despatch to the Reuter Telegraph Company. Speakers declared it would be impossible to train in a short time a new army of 450,000 men and that the bill endangered Dutch neutrality. Resolutions were adopted pledging the party to oppose the bill and expressing full confidence in the international movement of Socialists in favor of peace.

GEN. HUERTA ARRESTED BY THE AMERICANS

Charges Relate to Recruiting Men for Armies on American Soil.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Washington, June 28.—Details of the arrest of General Victoriano Huerta and General Pascual Orozco, charged with conspiring to violate American neutrality laws in attempting to set afoot a new revolutionary movement in Mexico from the territory of the United States, were received to-day by the department of justice. Although the names of Huerta and Orozco were released on bond, they will be kept under surveillance by border agents of the department of justice. Just what evidence has been gathered against the former dictator and his associates has not been disclosed, but it is understood to relate mostly to alleged recruiting of Mexicans on American territory.

Officials at the state department declined to say whether the detention of Huerta arresting in effect, any contemplated counter revolutionary movement, was a part of Washington Government's plan for compelling a solution of the Carranza, Villa and Zapata factions now in the field with the Villa and Carranza agents here interpreted Huerta's detention, however, as meaning that the American Government was unwilling that he should complicate the situation by a return to Mexico.

Until President Wilson returns from his trip to Cornish, N.H., it is unlikely that there will be any new steps in the government's policy towards Mexico. In fact while there is still a delicate situation with Germany, it is said in well-informed quarters that positive action by the United States in the Mexican situation was very unlikely. The United States Government will give the warring factions more time to come to an agreement, in the meantime, it is believed, preventing General Huerta and others from complicating the situation and exerting pressure for the branches of the original constitutional party to come to an agreement on a government that may be accorded recognition.

MORE MEN FROM CANADA IS THE CRY

Representative of Minister of Militia Strongly Impressed With Urgency.

Ottawa, June 28.—Col. J. J. Carrick, M.P. for Port Arthur, who has spent the past seven months in England and France as the special representative of the Minister of Militia at British Army Headquarters, returned to the capital Saturday, and reported to Major-General Hughes. Col Carrick brings back a glowing account of the work of the Canadian troops at the front, declaring that they undoubtedly saved the day for the allied forces when they stopped, in the battle of St. Julien, the German drive towards Calais. All England, he says, is talking about the heroism of the Canadians, and both the British and French officers are greatly impressed with the efficiency of the officers and men sent from the Dominion. More men from Canada are wanted by the War Office.

EVERY RESOURCE NEEDED

Like all the other Canadians who have come back from the front, he is strongly impressed with the need of every resource of men and money within the Empire being thrown into the scale against the still confident enemy. Col. Carrick, who received a few weeks ago a special appointment on Sir John French's General Headquarters Staff as representing Canada's Minister of Militia, confirms the recent press despatches from London detailing the urgent need of greater supplies of ammunition of all kinds, and the strenuous and successful offensive from now on. The excellent administration and efficiency of every branch of the Canadian service which characterized the first contingent both in England and at the front, he says, are being amply maintained, and he pays high tribute to the work of all the commanding administrative officers.

NOT AN "EYEWITNESS"

Col. Carrick left Saturday night for Port Arthur, where he will spend a few days before returning to England. He is not acting, as has been reported, as one of the official Canadian eyewitnesses, but is serving rather in a confidential capacity, reporting to the Government here as to the needs of the Canadian troops across the Atlantic.

EVERY MAN FOR COUNTRY

Stewards of Liner in New York Tell of Change in Britain.

By Special Wire to the Courier. New York, June 28.—A Steward on the American Liner Philadelphia yesterday from Liverpool, said "there was a conference of representatives of the government, the labor unions and the dock unions. They came to an agreement by which there are to be no more strikes or threats of strikes or protests that would be detrimental to the Government. Its every man for England now, whatever the consequences and I think the government is going to act fairer toward labor."

Sunday at 3.30 am, when the Philadelphia was off the Sikerries, the wireless operator caught a general "S.O.S." from the east bound Anchor Liner Cameronia. He sent word to Captain Mills and the latter asked for the Cameronia's position. Presently the operator got the call again asking operators to "standby" until the position was sent. It came within a few minutes and proved to be fifty miles east of the Philadelphia. As the skipper was getting ready to put about another message came from the Cameronia saying "No need coming to us; warship is approaching." The master of the Cameronia had observed two periscopes and found he was being pursued by German submarines. The call brought a half dozen patrol boats and the German undersea raiders disappeared.

WAS HUGE SUCCESS

Paris, June 28.—Tag Day for the benefit of children made orphans by the war, in which all charitable, relief and religious organizations participated yesterday, was a great success. It is stated that it will probably surpass in results preceding Tag Days for the benefit of Belgian refugees and soldiers at the front.

Every pedestrian in Paris had not only one of the tags, medal or flower, but a collection forming a rosette on the lapel. There were many touching scenes on the boulevards where frequent groups of wounded soldiers gathered around the women, children and girls who were acting as collectors to contribute their mite.

The receipts were very large at Chisley-Roi, where a number of girls and women with collection boxes attended the ceremonies commemorating the sixtieth anniversary of the death of Rouget de Lisle, author of the Marseillaise.

THE SITUATION.

It is announced that the Germans have decided to make another drive towards Warsaw. This place was formerly the capital of Poland, and is situated on the left bank of the Vistula, about three hundred miles east of Berlin, one more illustration of how far ahead the troops of the Kaiser continue to operate.

The magnificent and the tenacious work of the French troops still continues. They have most assuredly borne the great brunt of the fighting in the western arena, and they are manifesting a spirit of steady confidence which is as notable as it is inspiring.

The Italians continue to make slow but satisfactory progress, and the announcement is made that the basic operations in connection with the Dardanelles will in all likelihood now be removed to Italy.

SOCIALISTS IN GERMANY GETTING RESTIVE.

In all of the war calculations one of the elements which was considered as likely to affect Germany was that the Socialists would be actively opposed to any such struggle. They are a very strong force in the Fatherland, and their members constitute the largest individual body in the Reichstag, but over that body the will of the Emperor reigns supreme.

The supreme executive is in the King of Prussia, under the title Deutscher Kaiser, or German Emperor, and he absolutely controls the combined administration and organization of all the German States. He has the aid of a Chancellor and thirteen heads of departments. In addition to these ministers, who do not constitute a responsible cabinet, there is the Bundesrath, or Federal Council, consisting of 58 members, who are appointed by the States governments.

The Socialists have always fought against the war party, but, contrary to expectation, when trouble arose they lined up with that element, evidently deluded, like the rest of the populace, with the plea of the Kaiserites that other powers, notably England, had started the war, and that their country was forced to fight for its very existence. Recently in the Reichstag there was a protest by Socialist members, and now their newspaper organ has been suspended for making an appeal for peace.

FOOD PRICES IN GREAT BRITAIN.

The full report of the speech recently delivered in the British House of Commons by Mr. Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, shows how thoroughly his department has gone into the matter of the prices of food and other necessities during this war time.

In the matter of the high price of coal, he pointed out that the number of coal-carrying ships had been diminished to an enormous extent, as many had been taken over by the Admiralty, and interned vessels which had been put in the trade were not suitable for it. In addition the entire traffic had been impeded owing to the extra care necessary in travelling routes. Then also there was the big rise in wages. However, he had been in conference with the merchants, and had arranged that their profits should be "strictly limited."

He came to the difficult question of the fluctuations in the price of food. He could only repeat what was said in the debate early in the year, so far as price was concerned. The price of wheat, so far as he could ascertain, was not in any degree the result of speculation. The American price did control the world's price. They had, fortunately, been met with a great shortage in the supply of wheat from Australia, which had to import from the Argentine. The high price of wheat was a subject of great anxiety to the Government. Not only was the high price a source of anxiety, but they had been faced with anxiety, as to a definite shortage in Great Britain.

Although it was no doubt serious that wheat should be in the region of 50s. per quarter, it would have been a still more serious matter if the margin had been cut down to two or three weeks' supply, with the risk of interruption to the supplies across the Atlantic, which would have meant absolute starvation to those who were unable to pay famine prices. They had staved off all risk. There was now no fear of supplies of wheat being cut off. He hoped that the abundant supplies of the new harvest would bring down the price, and he hoped that the opening of the Dardanelles, to which they all looked forward with great certainty—(cheers)—would lead to Russian supplies coming forward to the Western markets. What they wanted was not speculation, but a steady supply with normal profits.

The question of meat was also raised. He could not hold out any hopes that the meat supplies were to be increased during the war. The great consideration was the home supplies, as the imported meat was going to feed the British and French armies. The hunger of the British soldier was greater than the hunger of the British civilian. As the British soldier fought so well on meat, the French Government decided also to feed their men on it as well. This meant an improved demand on the frozen meat supplies of Argentina, New Zealand and Australia. Nothing could be more thorough than the action taken by the States Governments in Australia and the Dominion Government in New Zealand. The Government here were in communication with them only for a short time, when they put into operation all the legislative powers which they possessed, and in a few weeks all the meat output there that was available was in their hands. They shipped it to this country. The steps taken by them were deserving of the highest praise—(cheers)—and the Ministers concerned worked with so much energy that they surprised our Allies with the assiduity with which they filled their frozen stores. The main supplies of beef, however, were in the Argentine, and there the export supply was nearly all controlled by American companies that went by the name of the Meat Trust. There was a certain amount controlled by English companies, but they acted together. If the British and French military authorities had dealt separately with them there was no saying what price they would have been able to extract. The Board of Trade felt that the first necessity was to make a complete contract with them for the supplies of both armies. The French Government left the matter in British hands, and the French Government had expressed their satisfaction at the way the British Government had handled it. They had entered into negotiations with the shipowners concerned covering all the refrigerating space in ships running to the Argentine on excellent terms.

The Board of Trade had unfortunately had to ask consumers to check their appetites for meat during the summer, and unless they did so he feared there might be a great diminution in the amount of stock available, owing to the temptation to slaughter young animals.

No topic had given the Government more trouble than the shipment of cotton from the United States, which might find its way through neutral countries to Germany. The Government had held up a very large number of cotton vessels on terms which were satisfactory to vendors in America, and had thus avoided any friction that might have been apprehended. Their anxiety extended also to cotton yarn. The figures which had been given to the House made it clear that they could not go on allowing cotton yarn to be freely exported, even when it was ostentatiously going to neutrals.

In the past four months 400,000 vacancies had been filled by the Labor Exchanges, over 80,000 were in engineering and shipbuilding, including 46,000 in the skilled trades. Vacancies were now being filled by the Labor Exchanges at the rate of 4,000 a day. Since the outbreak of the war no fewer than 100,000 workmen had been transferred through the Labor Exchanges to engagements on national work. The total number of transfers of one kind or another had been 178,000. These were larger figures than could have been dealt with by voluntary agencies outside.

The Metric System

By Henry Dalby.

If Canada is to get its fair share of the world's trade; if Canadians are to achieve excellence in scientific development, we must familiarize ourselves with the metric system. It is not to-day a question of the respective merits of the English system of weights and measures and that of the metric system, but of the importance for us to recognize it.

This interesting document calls for a peace under certain circumstances, and the highest tribute from the general commanding their brigade. These young Londoners, mostly from city offices hung on grimly in trenches battered out of all recognition by high explosive shells. In the hottest moments of the fight they kept sending back cheery messages and came out of action a grimy shattered battalion but a few hundred strong "with their tails well up" in the words of their general.

You already know the beginning of the battle the huge 17-in. howitzer shells falling into Ypres driving the population in wild stampede along the Poperinghe road then the mysterious vapors seen over the French and Canadian trenches the writhing gas victims the enforced falling back of the French the resultant readjustment of the Canadian line. At the extreme edge of the great horsehoe—the Ypres salient—our men stood fast against a terrific bombardment which went on for seven days in a vast crescendo.

Men of the Buffs the historic regiment which earned fresh honors in the fight told me of the bombardment. They said the German shells of all calibre fell so fast that it was as though a gigantic machine gun was at work on the trenches. Six-inch guns, field guns and trench mortars rained down a perfect inferno of projectiles on our lines. The trench mortars were terrible. The big ones fire a 160-lb. bomb. There are also smaller bombs—what our men call "sausages"—that explode on impact. Then there are the so-called "whizz-bangs"—a shell fired by a small field gun that has a delay fuse and coming over quickly explodes without warning.

Never has the British infantry displayed its qualities of grit as during those terrible days, notably on April 25, when the bombardment reached its zenith of violence. The whole of the trenches and their approaches were kept under a perpetual torrent of fire which cut the telephone wires back to the brigade headquarters and the batteries. All communications had to be maintained by orderlies, who travelled the shell-swept spaces in pairs with sublime indifference to danger. One of these men was shot down as he was nearing his goal but managed to shout his message to a man in the neighborhood and then lay down to die, content that he had made his report. Though our trenches were blown to atoms our men did not vacate them, and the Germans, blundering forward to the attack almost invariably found our trenches occupied and our men among the dead and wounded waiting with machine guns to repel the attack.

At one point a sergeant-major of the Buffs, with twenty men, were driven out of his trench and took refuge in a little stronghold where a sergeant of the Royal Fusiliers, with thirty men, was holding out. It was not a trench but merely a low sandbag built up with sandbags and turf. The little party fought till nearly all were exterminated. Of the Buffs only the sergeant-major, one private and two telephone operators emerged alive.

DISCUSS STEPS NECESSARY By Special Wire to the Courier. Frankfurt, Germany, via London, June 28.—The Berlin correspondent of the Frankfurter Zeitung, who has close relations with the foreign office surmises that one purpose of the visit of Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg and Foreign Minister Von Jagow to Vienna is to discuss what steps may be taken to counteract the efforts of the entente powers to induce the Balkan states to join them in the war. A despatch from Vienna yesterday stated that Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg and Herr Von Jagow had arrived there for a conference with Emperor Francis Joseph and the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister.

Subpoena to Miss Evelyn Thaw The Question is, Will She Accept the Writ and Appear as Witness? By Special Wire to the Courier. New York, June 28.—Subpoena servers sent by Deputy Attorney General Cook, were at Chateaugay Lake, near Malone, N.Y., to-day to serve a summons upon Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw to testify here in the jury trial of the sanity of her husband Harry K. Thaw.

Agents of the attorney-general's office, who yesterday watched Culham Camp, where Mrs. Thaw has been staying for several days, were unable to determine whether she would accept service of the subpoena. Conflicting reports as to Mrs. Thaw's willingness or unwillingness to testify were received here, one of them stating that she would not, under any circumstances be a witness.

Mr. Cook wants Mrs. Thaw to repeat to a jury the evidence she gave in the habeas corpus proceedings at White Plains in 1909, when she told of visiting Thaw at Matteawan and quoted him as saying, "When I get out of this place, I suppose I shall have to kill you."

Among the witnesses ready to testify for Thaw in the hearing here to-day were General Frank C. Streeter, a lawyer of Concord, N.H., and Dr. Charles P. Bancroft, superintendent of the New Hampshire Hospital for the Insane, both members of the lunacy commission appointed by the federal court in New Hampshire to examine Thaw when he was in that state. They reported that Thaw was not then suffering from any of the forms of mental disease alleged by the prosecution at the time of his trials on a charge of murder.

BRITISH PEACE IS DISTURBING

Therefore German Socialist Organ is Suspended.

Berlin, June 28.—The Vorwaerts, organ of the German Social Democratic party, has been suspended for publishing an appeal for peace, this being the second occasion on which the paper has been suppressed since the beginning of the war. The offending article in the Vorwaerts consisted of a full-page advertisement inserted by the managing committee of the Socialist party.

CONFESION BELIEVED TO BE GENUINE.

Crown Attorney Read declared that, as the plot was hatched in Detroit, the fellow-conspirators of Lefler would come under the jurisdiction of the United States laws. "I have," he said, "made a preliminary charge against the two men mentioned by Lefler in his confession, but that can be changed at any time. There is no doubt that Lefler's confession is genuine. I shall certainly urge the Government to name him as one of the principals in the plot. I am doubtful whether Lefler's associates can be extradited for their share in the conspiracy, but I am sure the United States Government will not put any obstacles in our way in our efforts to bring them to justice."

LEFLER (Continued from Page 1) Kresge Building, Grand Circuit Park, Detroit. The part he took in the plot was to furnish me with money and smuggle the explosives over from Detroit. REMANDED FOR EIGHT DAYS. Saturday afternoon Lefler was arraigned before Magistrate Miers at Walkerville. He was charged with conspiring with others to destroy property and endanger life. Without being asked to plead he was remanded for eight days, and was sent to Sandwich jail. The police believe that Lefler's chief is the head of an organized gang of German spies, and that he engineered the attempt to destroy a railway bridge in Michigan a few months ago. Schmidt, the other man named, is not known to the police, but they say he also took an active part in a big German meeting of recent date held in Detroit. CONFESION BELIEVED TO BE GENUINE. Schmidt was introduced to Lefler as an expert on explosives and as the man who would take care of the jobs. The sum of $25 given Lefler several weeks ago for expenses had never been spent and was handed over to the police when the confession was made. The money was in American bills. PRECAUTIONS TAKEN. Five extra sentries have been placed on guard at the armories as a result of the investigation made by Lieut.-Col. McCrimmon of London of the dynamite found at the Armories. It is said that more men will be employed to protect the tunnel and remount station. Lefler told the police Saturday that he was born in Woodstock, Ont., of Dutch parents. For twenty years he resided in the United States, but never took out naturalization papers. Mrs. Lefler is of French-Canadian parentage, and was born in Quebec.

GUARD ASKED FOR JAIL. Fearing that an attempt at rescue will be made by accomplices of William Lefler, the man who confessed conspiracy to blow up buildings in Windsor and Walkerville, Governor John Harmon of Sandwich jail, has, it is said, asked for a detail of soldiers to guard the prison. "We have already asked for a military force to guard the Registrar's office, the most important place in the county," said Harmon. This office is adjacent to the jail. Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

THREE FAREWELL (Continued from Page 1) old congregation were holding up as their ideals, spirituality, generosity, cordiality, loyalty, unity and hospitality. It was felt that the church would be better than ever. AT SYDENHAM STREET. There was a good attendance at the morning service and a very large congregation at night. No doubt some were there expecting that Rev. Mr. Snyder would make reference to recent troubles in connection with the congregation, if so they were disappointed. Rev. Mr. Snyder in saying farewell at night, spoke of his three years work with the church, mentioning that during that period he had baptised 70 new members, officiated at 55 marriages and attended 40 funerals. He returned thanks for kindnesses extended him and hoped that his successor would have a big share in the reverend gentleman's thoughts and interest. He has featured uniquely each Sunday morning a five minute sermon to boys and girls (usually illustrated), and has learned that "men are only boys grown tall," from their evident enjoyment of these sermons. A Sunlight choir of Sabbath school scholars trained by the pastor, rendered good service in the morning, and Mr. Hamilton gave an inspiring illustrated talk on "Ladders." There were to be seen in miniature ladders of various kinds and colors, illustrating our ascent or descent in life, according to the characteristics we acquire. The glided ladder of wealth proved an unsafe one, as did the white and black one of good resolves, but the final ladder shown, a Jacob's ladder so called, but better named the angel's ladder, was the one commended. This represented a ladder seen in vision by the exiled Jacob, reaching from earth to heaven, whereon the angels of God were ascending and descending. The speaker showed that the Christian Mediator is our ladder, and by faith in Him all may know the Father, whom to know is life eternal. In the afternoon the Sabbath school held an open session, patriotic character in which a well-prepared programme was followed. On the platform with the capable superintendent, W. G. Ranton, were his associate superintendent, Mr. Standish, pastor, and the secretary of this school, Mr. Waterson. The features of this session were a solo, Kipling's Recessional, sung by Mr. Standish, patriotic recitation by Miss Walkerville, and an address on "Loyalty: Its Meaning, Object, Cost and Reward," given by Mr. Hamilton. This is a most vital topic in this crisis of our history, and the pastor, who then spoke a few farewell words of appreciation for the support he had received from the school and for the splendid spirit of helpful co-operation existing throughout his ministry. Mr. Ranton at this juncture happily surprised the pastor by presenting to him a handsome revised version of the Bible, the gift of the school. He said Mr. Hamilton had been a tower of strength to the school in all its workings, but particularly in his capacity as teacher of No. 2 Bible Class, the pastor expressed his appreciation and thanked him for his added token of good will. The evening service was entirely a farewell to the people, the text of which was peculiarly appropriate: "Mizpah—the Lord watch between me and another. We have to-night come to our Mizpah," said the pastor, "and the time together has been all too short to do one's best. It is sad to see you go, but you have fallen for four years on unresponsive hearts, it seems improbable that this half hour will have better result; but let none bear witness that the simple story of salvation to all who have faith is not proclaimed at every service." In closing, Mr. Hamilton bespoke for his successor, Rev. G. H. Henderson, the loyal support accorded to him and his family while in residence here. He assured his hearers that he carried away precious jewels of friendship, not lightly to be lost. A happy coincidence of this last day, was the presentation to Mr. Hamilton by the choir of a neat hymn book, containing the music to the hymns, which gift made an excellent complement to the Bible given by the Sabbath School, though neither knew of the other's intention. Mr. Hamilton, pleased her old time friends with a solo at the evening service. Altogether this was a day of happy memory at Wellington St., and Brantford as a city, will be loath to lose one who has done such true service in the things that are highest and most worth while. LEAVES FOR ENGLAND. Ottawa, June 28.—Sir Robert Borden leaves for England this week, and will be absent, it is expected about a month. He will be accompanied by Mr. R. B. Bennett, of Calgary. It is understood that the Premier will sail from New York about the middle of the week, but no official statement has been made either as to the date of his departure or with regard to the primary object of his visit. It is known, however, that his presence in England at this time is of importance in the consideration of war problems and kindred questions affecting both the Motherland and the overseas dominions.

VICTORIA HALL WAS CROWDED YESTERDAY AT COL. GASKIN'S MEETING. Salvation Army's History and Work Reviewed—Splendid Address is Given. The address on the Salvation Army drew large crowds to the Victoria Hall on Sunday afternoon and evening. Mayor Spence presided, and Col. Gaskin and Mrs. Gaskin were accompanied to the platform by Adj. and Mrs. Hargroves, the local leaders in the army movement in Brantford. The speaker then told of the great work that is being done by Salvationists at the front. He stated that they were converting many soldiers, and their work was not difficult as there was a strong faith in the living God all along the battle front. The private secretary to Sir John French had been a band master of the Salvation Army before the war. The speaker concluded with the admonition that all pray for the speedy conclusion of this terrible war. W. F. COCKSHUTT. The Army had travelled a very rough road to success, and it was a pleasing experience to hear about those early days from such a reliable and interesting speaker as Col. Gaskin. The Army, he stated, had lived down every kind of prejudice, and it had to-night everyone to look on it with favor. Mr. Cocksbutt expressed his appreciation of the splendid work done by the Army, and sincerely hoped that it would always be thus. General Booth left a splendid example for his followers. In conclusion he made a motion that the audience show its appreciation of the splendid address of Col. Gaskin. MR. J. HAM. Mr. Ham expressed himself as being only too pleased to second the motion made by Mr. Cocksbutt. He remembered the first appearance of the Salvation Army, many years ago. Now at the present day, it has shown its value, time and time again, and to it Brantford owes a great deal. The Mayor then rose and stated that a motion of appreciation had been made and seconded, and asked that the audience show its appreciation, which was done with loud applause. Brigadier Atby made a motion of appreciation to the Mayor for so kindly consenting to act as chairman. Those present on the platform besides Col. and Mrs. Gaskin, were Mayor Spence, chairman, W. F. Cocksbutt, M.P., J. Ham, M.P.P., W. S. Brewster, K.C., Rev. Mr. Kelly, Mr. T. H. Preston, Adjutant Hargrave and Brigadier Atby. The Salvation Army band was also on the platform and supplied some splendid music between the addresses. SUBMARINE IN TOW. By Special Wire to the Courier. Montreal, June 28.—A German submarine, upside down, being towed by three British trawlers, was sighted from the Allan steamer Grampian off the coast of Ireland, according to officers of the liner, which arrived here this morning. The submarine was very deep in the water, and the men on the Grampian were unable to read her number, but they are confident the undersea boat was German. No information as to how the submarine was captured was obtained from the crews of the trawlers. Obituary. HENRIETTA WILLSON. The sudden death of Mrs. Henrietta Willson, of Toronto, occurred yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mr. J. R. Coulbeck of Richmond street. The deceased lady is the wife of Wellington Willson, and while on a visit at Mrs. Coulbeck's residence, suddenly died. The services will be held at the residence of Mr. Coulbeck by Rev. J. W. Gordon. The remains will be shipped to Toronto for interment on the six o'clock train; funeral to be held on Wednesday. Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

BRANTS DIVIDE ON SUNDAY AT OTTAWA AND BEAT SAINTS

Poad Loses First, Warner Wins Second and Creswell Outpitches Hughey.

Creswell outpitched Hughey here Saturday and the Brants won, 5 to 2, making four wins out of six games with the Saints during the past week, the best record of Brants for the season.

Todd's steal home was the feature. Mullin's spear of Todd's hot liner in the sixth cut off two runs. The Brants got 2 runs in the fourth on Burrill's single, Mullin's sacrifice, Cooper's triple and a wild throw by Todd. Two more came in the fifth on singles by Fried and Creswell, a bunt which Dunn beat out, an infield out and a wild throw by Harris. The fifth came in the eighth on Forgue's miss of

First baseman McEvoy, from Ohio, joined the team Saturday, and replaced Merrill, who was released, as was Third baseman Myers. Catcher Danford was also allowed to return home. Score:—

NO SECRETS ALLOWED ON MURRAY'S CLUB

During a fanning bee "Billy Murray erstwhile Quaker manager and present scout of the Pirates, was asked for an opinion on the come back effort of Harry Covaleskie of the Tigers, who was known as the "Giant Killer" when as a Quaker he pitched the Giants out of a pennant. Murray said that Covaleskie's arm had regained its effectiveness. "Is he a heady pitcher," Murray was asked.

Without a direct answer Murray told this: "One day with the Phillies there was a man on first and no one out. Covaleskie permitted the runner to go down to second un molested, and after the inning was over I naturally sought an explanation. "Honestly, Mr. Murray I never knew he was there," said Covaleskie. "Kitty" Bransfield then went after the pitcher, but I shut him up. Calling to Otto Knabe and "Eddie" Grant, the other basemen, I said: "Harry tells me that he never knew there was a man on first. Hereafter I want you fellows to keep him posted on these affairs and if you have any one around your base let Covaleskie know about it. I'm not going to have any secrets in this club."

ONLY BONA FIDE WRITER MUST PUT ASIDE PEN

Ban Johnson has pledged his word that Eddie Collins will do no more writing for newspapers. So far so good. But in getting Collins to lay off the American League head gets the only bona fide writer in the entire mob of "writers." Collins could write as entertainingly as any newspaper writer, and though he has been stopped, he must continue to see the wearying gulf under the names of others. The biggest gink and the cheapest nuisance connected with the national pastime is the faker who plays baseball and for a cash consideration allows the use of his name over king's English that he never could command. Collins is not such a man, but even so, it is well that the only legitimate writer in the bunch has set an example for the faking crowd by giving up his side-line.

Fame's little day is sweet, but decidedly short, declares Mickey Keiber, late first baseman for Jesse Burkett's Worcester outfit. Less than a week ago his name was heralded all over the country as a negative hero. Two days ago he got the gate. Mickey's heroic stunt was playing the primary bag for an entire game without receiving putout assist or error.

TORONTO LADY WINS OHIO STATE TITLE

Mrs. Bickle Takes Permanent Possession of Cup Won Three Times.

Cleveland, O., June 28.—Defeating Miss Martha Guthrie of Pittsburg in two straight sets, 6-3 and 6-2, Mrs. Harry Bickle of Toronto won the Ohio woman's singles championship for the third successive year at the State tennis tournament Saturday. She carried home the cup for that event as her permanent possession.

Mrs. Bickle's victory in straight sets came as a surprise. She was expected to have a chance for the title, but the majority of those who have watched the play during the week believed Miss Guthrie of Pittsburg would at least take a set. Mrs. Bickle's smashing service and her sharp volleying won her the easy victory.

Junior City League

The Junior Stars and the Waterloo Apprentices played a close and exciting game of ball at Tutela Park on Saturday afternoon, the Stars winning out 8 to 7. Leonard started in the box for the Stars and pitched good ball until the eighth, when he became a trifle wild, and Walters replacing him with the score 8 to 7, two men on bases and none out, he held them safe the rest of the game. O'Connor, who pitched for the Apprentices, was hit freely. Batteries—Stars, Leonard, Walters and Williams. Waterous—O'Connor and Bunstan. This is eleven straight wins for the Stars. They play the Climbers this evening at Agricultural Park.

"CUBS" TRIM THE "ALERTS" IN ELEVEN INNINGS.

Before a large crowd, in which the fair sex were well represented, the Holmedale "Cubs" beat the Terrace Hill "Alerts" in a hard fought eleven inning game on Saturday afternoon at Holmedale Park.

Except for one or two bad innings in which the playing behind the pitcher was ragged, fast ball was played, and fine fielding was done on both sides. Both pitchers were hammered hard but the "Alert" hits were well scattered and were unable to connect with the ball in the pinches, but the "Cubs" came across with hits when his meant runs. Johnson's home run drive in the eleventh inning drove in the winning run and broke up the game. Umpire Burnett of Paris handled the game and gave general satisfaction.

Batteries—Cubs—O'Heron and Butler, Alerts—Myers and McKay.

The MASQUERADER

By Katherine Cecil Thurston,
Author of "The Circle," Etc.
Copyright, 1904, by Harper & Brothers

"There was a crash of music from the orchestra. Loder sat straggling in his seat. He was conscious that the blood had rushed into his face.
"Oh, indeed?" he said quickly. "One of them had a wife?"
"Exactly!" Again Kalne chuckled. "And the point of the joke is that the wife is the least lucky person under the sun. See?"
A second hot wave passed over Loder's face. A sense of mental disgust filled him. This, then, was the wonderful garden seen from another standpoint! He looked from Lillian, graceful, skeptical and shallow, to the young girl beside him, so frankly modern in her appreciation of life. This, then, was love as seen by the eyes of the world—the world that accepts, judges and condemns in a slang phrase or two! Very slowly the blood receded from his face.
"And the end of the story?" he asked in a strained voice.
"The end? Oh, usual end, of course. Chap makes a mess of things and the bubble bursts!"
"And the end of the wife?"
"The end of the wife?" Lillian broke in, with a little laugh. "Why, the end lenced, not by any portentous episode, not by any incident that could have lent dignity to its end, but, with the full measure of life's irony, by a trivial social commonplace. In the first sensation of blank loss his faculties had been numbed. In the quarter of an hour that followed the rise of the curtain he had sat staring at the stage, seeing nothing, hearing nothing, filled with the enormity of the void that suddenly surrounded him. Then from habit, from constitutional tendency, he had begun slowly and perseveringly to draw first one thread and then another from the tangle of his thoughts, to forge with doubt and difficulty the chain that was to draw him toward the future.

It was upon this same incomplete and yet tenacious chain that his mind worked as he traversed the familiar streets and at last gained the house he had so easily learned to call home.
As he inserted the latchkey and felt it move smoothly in the lock a momentary revolt against his own judgment, the habit of constitutional tendency, he turned toward reaction. But it is only the blind who can walk without a tremor on the edge of an abyss, and there was no longer a bandage across his eyes. The reaction flared up like a strip of lighted paper; then, like a strip of lighted paper, it dropped back to ashes. He pushed the door open and slowly crossed the hall.

The mounting of a staircase is often the index to a man's state of mind. As Loder ascended the stairs of Chilcote's house his shoulders lacked their stiffness, his head was no longer erect. He moved as though his feet were weighted. He had ceased to be the man of achievement whose smallest opinion compels consideration. In the privacy of solitude he was the mere human flotsam to which he had once compared himself—the flotsam that, dreaming it has found a harbor, wakes to find itself the prey of the incoming tide.

He paused at the head of the stairs to rally his resolutions. Then, still walking heavily, he passed down the corridor to Eve's room. It was suggestive of his character that, having made his decision, he did not dally over its performance. Without waiting to knock, he turned the handle and walked into the room.

It looked precisely as it always looked, but to Loder the rich, subdued coloring of the books and flowers—the whole air of culture and repose that the place conveyed—seemed to hold a deeper meaning than before, and it was on the instant that his eyes, crossing the inanimate objects, rested on their owner that the true force of his position, the enormity of the task before him, made itself plain. Reaction came to him with vivid, overwhelming force, and it must be accounted to his credit in the summing of his qualities that then, in that moment of trial, the thought of retreat, the thought of yielding, did not present itself.

Eve was standing by the mantelpiece. She wore a beautiful gown, a long string of diamonds was twisted about her neck, and her soft, black hair was coiled high after a foreign fashion and held in place by a large diamond comb. As he entered she turned hastily, almost nervously, and looked at him with the rapid, searching glance he had learned to expect from her. Then almost directly her expression changed to one of quick concern. With a faint exclamation of alarm she stepped forward.
"What has happened?" she said.
"You look like a ghost."

"Outline the story for him, Lenmie," she said.

of all stupid people who, instead of going through life with a lot of delightful human stumbles, come just one big cropper. She naturally ends in the divorce court!"
They all laughed boisterously. Then laughter, story and denouement were all drowned in a tumultuous crash of music. The orchestra ceased; there was a slight hum of applause, and the curtain rose on the second act.

CHAPTER XXXI.
A FEW minutes before the curtain fell on the second act of "Other Men's Shoes" Loder rose from his seat and made his apologies to Lillian.

At any other moment he might have pondered over her manner of accepting them—the easy indifference with which she let him go. But vastly keener issues were claiming his attention, issues whose results were wide and black.

He left the theater and, refusing the overtures of cabmen, set himself to walk to Chilcote's house. His face was hard and emotionless as he hurried forward, but the chaos in his mind found expression in the unevenness of his pace. To a strong man the confronting of difficulties is never alarming and is often fraught with inspiration, but this applies essentially to the difficulties evolved through the weakness, the folly or the force of another; when they arise from within the matter is of another character. It is in presence of his own soul, and in that presence alone, that a man may truly measure himself.

As Loder walked onward, treading the whole familiar length of traffic-filled street, he realized for the first time that he was standing before that solemn tribunal—that the hour had come when he must answer to himself for himself. The longer and deeper an oblivion the more painful the awakening. For months the song of self had beaten about his ears, deadening all other sounds; now abruptly that song had ceased, not considerably, not lingeringly, but with a suddenness that made the succeeding silence very terrible.

He walked onward, keeping his direction unswerving. He was passing through the fire as surely as though actual flames rose about his feet, and whatever the result, whatever the fates of the man who emerged from the ordeal, the John Loder who had hewed his way through the past weeks would exist no more. The triumphant egotist, the strong man who by his own strength had kept his eyes upon one point, refusing to see in other directions, had ceased to be.

Keen though it was, his realization of this crisis in his life had come with characteristic slowness. When Lillian Astrupp had given her dictum, when the music of the orchestra had ceased and the curtain risen on the second act of the play, nothing but a sense of stupor had filled his mind. In that moment the great song was silenced, not by any portentous episode, not by any incident that could have lent dignity to its end, but, with the full measure of life's irony, by a trivial social commonplace. In the first sensation of blank loss his faculties had been numbed. In the quarter of an hour that followed the rise of the curtain he had sat staring at the stage, seeing nothing, hearing nothing, filled with the enormity of the void that suddenly surrounded him. Then from habit, from constitutional tendency, he had begun slowly and perseveringly to draw first one thread and then another from the tangle of his thoughts, to forge with doubt and difficulty the chain that was to draw him toward the future.

Airman's Thrilling Exploit

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, June 28—A dramatic air duel in which a British aeroplane reconnoitering over the Belgian town of Poelcappelle at a height of 4,000 feet, met and engaged a large German biplane which had double engines and propellers, is described by the eye-witness at the British army headquarters in a narrative made public to-day by the official press bureau. He writes: "The German machine circled around us at the same time as a machine gun, but so far as I knew, no inflicting any damage.

Then our observer fired fifty rounds in return at a range of less than 200 yards. It had some effect for the hostile biplane was seen to waver and after more shots its engine stopped.

The enemy air plane then dived to a level of 2,000 feet where it again flattened its course flying slowly and erratically. "Under heavy anti-air craft fire from below our pilot turned steadily on a downward course. Before it had reached the ground a large part of the frame work had been destroyed. Even the hardwood blades of the propeller were so burned that the propeller ceased to rotate. When the machine finally landed back of our lines both officers had been severely burned and the pilot climbing out of the blazing wreck tripped over a wire stay and sprained his ankle. The few serviceable portions of the aeroplane were then collected and removed under the shrapnel of the German guns."

This is the lesson that faces the Canadian people to-day. "What will we do with the immigrant?" is the question that must be answered unless we are prepared to follow in the footsteps of our neighbor. It is useless to say that this cannot happen in Canada. It has happened in the United States already. It is happening in Toronto to-day. It is happening in the West.

In 1901 the population of Canada was 94 per cent. British and 6 per cent foreign. In 1921 it was 89 British and 11 per cent foreign. The foreign percentage of the population had almost doubled in ten years. The increase has stopped now, but after the war it will go forward by leaps and bounds. It is more than likely that by 1930 the population of Canada will be over

The Immigrant in Canada

"If I had known as much then as I do now," is the constant lament of the old man and the old nation. Once only in history has a nation been endowed with the experience of age and the strength of youth. That nation is Canada. The border line, which separates us from the United States, is a nation 100 years older than we, which has passed through in a remarkably close degree the development which we must experience in the next 100 years. We can learn from the United States: from its failures perhaps even more than from its successes.

The outstanding failure of the United States, in the opinion of the late British minister at Washington, is to be found in its city government. The chief factor in that failure is the treatment which America has accorded to the immigrant. It is in the treatment of the immigrant that Canada can learn most from the failure of our neighbor. It is from the proper treatment of the immigrant that Canada can gain most in the next quarter of a century.

The United States industry has dominated politics since the decline of the influence of the South in 1850. All through this period the cry of industry for cheap labor determined the policy of the government toward immigration. The open door to the land of freedom and opportunity sounded well on the floor of Congress. But in secret councils it was the open shop of cheap foreign workers that counted.

The immigration policy of the United States, like that of Canada, has consisted simply in the invitation to come. After the immigrant had arrived and passed the insignificant requirements which they brought for entry, he was left to his own devices to go where he pleased. Of course he went to the cities, the mines, the factories, the railroads. He seldom went to the land. Not only did he go to these places, but he will be found there in great congested districts, and segregated from the life of the land. He formed a little Russia, a Jewry, and a little Greece in every city on the continent.

The race of the poor and too often a slum population. This population had the inalienable right guaranteed by the constitution to vote for presi-
