Swinging Bridge.

BY EMMA HOWARD WRIGHT. (Continued.) CHAPTER V.

Upon the following morning, John Graham came into the dining-room where his daughter was laying the cloth for dinner, looking very grave.

"Mary," he said, "Stephen Pearson was arrested by the revenue officers last night."

"The girl gave a great start and turned a very pale face toward her father. 'Stephen arrested!' she murmured.

"It is true," John Graham declared. "It was caught by the revenue officers at the old distillery on the mountain where every preparation had been made for distilling. There was no one there but Stephen. I suppose the others must have gotten wind that the officers intend making a raid."

"That is what every one thought," the girl said, mechanically. "She had turned again to her work but her hands trembled as she placed the dishes on the table."

"They have taken him to jail," John Graham added. "Later he will, of course, be tried."

"Mary shuddered. She came and stood by her father, lifting her eyes to his face."

"Father, do you believe that Stephen is guilty?" she asked. "I would not have believed it if he hadn't been caught in the act, so to speak," John Graham replied.

"But why should he be guilty of such a thing?" the girl cried, with sudden passion. "I suppose she is concerned about this on Ernest's account," her father thought as he glanced rather questioningly at her white face.

the hills of life. He knew that if he remained silent, Stephen would bear the burden of the guilt that was his. He had always taken Stephen's affection, his care, his thought for him as a matter of course, as a selfish nature like his was different, this he could not take as a matter of course, for it meant so much to Stephen, the loss of his good name before the world, imprisonment.

"I cannot tell the truth! I cannot! I must go," Mary's voice arose in a low, trembling tone. "Father is waiting for his dinner."

"The door was opened again and the dark face of the sheriff. The darky came slowly forward, his wistful, pathetic eyes fixed upon Stephen's face."

"Pete!" he said, smiling a little. "Massa, my dear young massa. Pete murmured, clinging to Stephen's hand and speaking in a voice broken and unsteady with emotion, 'what you doing in dis heah place?'

"I am keeping a promise," made to the dead, Pete, replied Stephen. "A promise made to the dead?" repeated Pete, bewilderedly.

"Yes, Pete," Stephen paused, and then continued: "I never knew a mother's love and care until my father brought home, to Swinging-bridge Farm, Ernest's mother. She gave me birth. I grew to love her almost as much as I would have loved my own mother had she been spared to me. When my stepmother lay dying, I promised her that Ernest's happiness and welfare should be my first care in life, my first thought, that I would be patient and forbearing with him, that I would stand between him and sorrow, trouble and evil. He paused a moment, then added quietly: 'Now you understand, Pete, why I am—here.'"

"Yes, as, Marse Stephen, I understand," Pete replied. "I knowed at first dat you war taking ob de blame what done belonged to Mist' Ernest, and when granny done took on powerful, howing dat disgrace done come to de good ole massa, it war jest all I could do to keep from telling her de truth. It was a dreadful thing, Marse Stephen, for folks to believe dat you done bring disgrace on de name ob Pearson."

"A quiver of pain passed over Stephen's face. He walked once or twice up and down the narrow limits of the cell, while Pete watched him with big, wistful eyes. When he passed again beside the darky, Stephen was quite calm."

"It is true, what you say, Pete," he said. "It is a dreadful thing for disgrace to come upon the name of Pearson."

"Den, young massa," Pete held out his hand with an appealing gesture, "don't let disgrace come on de good ole massa."

bridge looking toward the ford. Continued Next Week. Be Somebody.

The world is wide. If you wish to be somebody 'pitch in.' The brave always have friends. Where others have gone you can go. If the old track doesn't suit you make a new one; someone will walk in it. Don't hurry too fast, especially till you know the road or become acquainted with your team. Mind your own business and look after it yourself. Don't stop to gossip. You may grow weary, but remember this is not a world of ease and rest. Live beyond your means. Success is never obtained in a country like this without effort. If you fail once, try again. If you fall down get up. If it is dark strike a light. If in the shade, move around; if there is a shade on one side there is sure to be sunshine on the other. It takes longer to skin an elephant than a mouse, but the skin is worth something. Never be content with doing what another has done—excel him. A trade is a good thing to have—it is better than gold—brings a larger premium, but to a premium the trade must be perfect. Determine in your mind to be a good workman. Never slip your work. Every job you do in a sign. Poor signs are against success. People always speak well of a man who minds his own business, and who seems disposed to be somebody. This is a queer world; many people are watching us, and help often comes when and from whom we least expect. Confidence is the safe in which men often deposit rich treasures, and as you prove worthy so will your reward of success be.—Canadian Workman.

Words of Caution to Young Mothers. Mothers must keep guard over the health of their little ones during the summer months. Summer is an anxious time for all mothers, but especially for young mothers. It is the most fatal time of the year for babies and young children. It is then that stomach and bowel troubles come almost without warning, and often before the mother realizes there is any danger the little one may be beyond aid. The mother must take strict caution to keep her little one's stomach pure and sweet and the bowels moving regularly. No other medicine can do this so quickly and thoroughly as Baby's Own Tablets. The tablets should always be kept in the house. An occasional dose will keep baby well or if illness comes on suddenly the Tablets will quickly remove the cause and make baby well and happy. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Needless Slaughter. Thousands of skylarks are being slaughtered in the United States and in Canada every day to satisfy the demands of millions who are using them to decorate the bows of Chatterbox hats. The Audubon Society, which has entered a vigorous protest, points out that these little birds, which bring fifty cents in the millinery market, are sworn foes of the insects which destroy garden truck. These bugs, when unchecked, do millions of dollars of damage to the growing crops, as you are agent of the society, and farmers in the districts where the skylarks are being slaughtered confirm the statement.

Help for Those Who Have Stomach Trouble. After doctoring for about twelve years for a bad stomach trouble, and spending nearly five hundred dollars for medicine and doctors' fees, I purchased my wife one box of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which did her so much good that she continued to use them and they have done her more good than all of the medicine I bought before.—Samuel Boyer, Folsom, Iowa. This medicine is for sale by Rand's Drug Store. Samples free.

It is In Bad Form. To make remarks about the food at dinner. To talk about the things that only interest yourself. To contradict your friends when they are speaking. To grumble about your home and relations to outsiders. To say smart things which may hurt someone's feelings. To dress shabbily in the morning because no one will see. To be rude to those who serve you, either in shops or at home. To think first of your own pleasure when you are giving a party. To refuse ungraciously when any one wishes to do you a favor. To behave in an omnibus or train as if no one else had a right to be there. To speak disrespectfully of anyone older than yourself. Alice—He is French and she is Italian, but he hasn't learned to speak Italian and she hasn't learned to speak French. Maid—That's queer! How do they ever get along? Alice—They both speak English.

Canada's Next Census of Population.

The next census of Canada will be taken under date of June 1st, 1911, and will embrace the subjects of population, mortality, agriculture, manufactures, minerals, fisheries and dairy products.

Population will be recorded under the heads of residence and personal description, citizenship, nationality and religion; profession, occupation and trade or means of living; wage earnings and insurance; education and language spoken, and infirmities.

Every person living on 1st June will be entered on the schedule of population by name, as member of a family, institution or household, together with place of habitation, sex, relationship to head of the family or household, and whether single, married, widowed, divorced or legally separated.

Entries will be made for each person to show the country or place of birth, year of immigration to Canada if born elsewhere, year of naturalization if formerly an alien, and also racial or tribal origin, nationality and religion.

Every person having an occupation or trade will be entered for it, but if employed in the census year at some other occupation for part or whole time he will be so recorded also.

Wage-earners are entered to show the number of weeks employed in 1910 at chief occupation or trade, at other than chief occupation if any; the hours of working time per week at chief occupation, or at other occupation if any; the total earnings in 1910 at chief occupation; the total earnings at other than chief occupation; and the rate per hour when employed by the hour.

Entries are required to be made for each person showing the amount of insurance held at date of the census upon life, as well as against accident or sickness, together with the cost of such insurance in the census year.

Under the heading of education and language records will be taken for every person of five years of age and over showing the number of months at school in 1910, and if the person can read and write, and the language commonly spoken by each person. The cost of education in 1910 for persons over 16 years of age at College, Convent or University is also called for.

The last question on the schedule of population relates to infirmities. It calls for a record of each person having an infirmity. If blind, deaf and dumb, crazy or insane, idiotic or idiotic, a record thereof will be made in the proper column, and the age at which the infirmity appeared is required to be specified.

Let us remember that there is a nobler aim ahead of us than mere muscular might. We are hopelessly handicapped in that by the other brutes who still use all four of their feet for defensive and offensive purposes. There is wise sense in the statement that any brute can fight, but that only man can arbitrate. It is the acknowledgment of the basis of our superiority as being, not unfighting, but in refusing to fight, and in using those powers which have come to us as the result of upward evolution.

Imagine, if you can, any of the men who have made history, or who have played large parts in bringing mankind up to a higher level of life, taking part in such encounters. Think of Shakespeare as a prize-fighter. Imagine Goldwin Smith or Wilberforce Longley as sluggers. Think of the man in most respect stripping to a loin cloth and hitting with all his power in the attempt to disable some man a little weaker than himself. It is unthinkable!

Let us remember that there is a nobler aim ahead of us than mere muscular might. We are hopelessly handicapped in that by the other brutes who still use all four of their feet for defensive and offensive purposes. Before the city of Reno, Nevada, once more fades into obscurity as a divorce resort, having ceased to hold the eye of the continent, we may well reflect upon the recent brutal exhibition and its significance, in the general shuffle to resume a normal mental attitude and attention, rejoicing that the event has gone its way to mingle in memory with the other events of the dark ages of the past.

It is only fair to acknowledge an enormous psychological and moral good accomplished without intention by those who have promoted this pugilistic venture. Anything that will cause men to think together of a common topic and feel together a common emotion, must necessarily have a huge effect in the process of moulding many individuals into a united social organism, which latter enterprise is the most important to-day. However we may regret the cause of the common thought or thrill that caused the effect, we may at least feel glad that the unifying process has been aided even by what seems wholly evil.

Besides, the reaction against the whole practice of pugilism has been enormous. The action of the governor of California in forbidding the fight to take place in that state is wonderfully significant of the force of public sentiment, especially when one remembers what has taken place there within a few years. And back of all the interest that was displayed through every part of this continent in the contest, and which packed many of thousands in front of every great newspaper office in the country, there was a healthy and forcible repudiation of the whole pugilistic principle. It is freely prophesied, and with the best of reason, that there will never again be such an event as that when Jeffries went down to defeat in Reno, on July fourth. He carried with him the gladiator's last chance to attract the attention of the people by such barbaric brutality.

Perhaps the best way to cure an evil is to exhibit it before the public gaze. Wrong prospers only on the quiet and the side. Much that now takes place in private and is tolerated by the public would be definitely repudiated if it were shown in all its gross cruelty. And now that the public has been forced to look on while all the nauseating details have been arranged and reviewed in the press, the public will have an excellent opportunity to reflect on the amazing stupidity of it all, and of themselves.

It is a matter of congratulation that the victor belonged to the dark breed race which we are fond of calling inferior, and who, taking every fact in a lower scale of evolution than his brother of a whiter skin. It is entirely fitting that the fight should go to the representative of the lower race, if one is to be regarded as lower than the other whose sole claim to superiority lay in his physical power.

Man's distinctive advantage, given to him in the evolving process, is mental and not muscular. The fight in Reno was a survival of the primitive stage of humanity. Not men, but men-brutes, met upon the arena, and fought, with the old instinct of the tiger and the bear, to deal the brute blow of defeat. Those who gathered at the ring-side, cheering on the battling brutes, had forgotten to a man (the women present are not to be mentioned under the feminine) the characteristics which made them men, and removed them from the level of the things who fought.

THE FORMULA OF "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Is On The Outside Of Every Box For All The World To See

Every user of "Fruit-tives" knows exactly what is being taken. The formula of this famous fruit medicine is printed plainly on the outside of every box. We have stated many times—and now state clearly—that "Fruit-tives" is made of the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes, with valuable heart and nerve tonics and antiseptics.

Everyone knows that fruit juice is healthful—but perhaps some do not understand why this is true. Fruit juice consists of about 91% water, 8% of sweet principle, and 1% of a bitter substance. It is the quantity of bitter principle in fruit that gives the fruit value as a medicine. An eminent physician of Ottawa, after years of experimenting, found a method of increasing the bitter principle in fruit juice, thus increasing the medicinal or curative value.

The juices are first extracted from fresh, ripe oranges, apples, figs and prunes. By a secret process, some of the sweet atoms are replaced by the bitter principle. Then tonics and antiseptics are added, and the whole made into tablets, now known far and wide as "Fruit-tives."

"Fruit-tives" is the only medicine in the world that is made of fruit juices, and is one of the few remedies that have let their composition be known from their introduction to the public. It is the most powerful of all medicines in cases of obstinate Constipation, Liver Trouble, Indigestion, Backache, Rheumatism, Headaches and Impure Blood, this wonderful fruit medicine cures when everything else fails.

"Fruit-tives" is sold everywhere at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c., or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price by Fruit-tives Limited, Ottawa.

It has cost labor to secure such even, and it will cost money to pay the expenses connected with their coming to us, and it will cost them much to give their message to the people, and we wish as many as possible to benefit by this expenditure. When such benefit can be received amid the very enjoyable environments that the beautiful Camp Grounds at Berwick furnish, there is probably no more profitable way in which we could spend some eight days of our time during this summer, whether regarded from the stand-point of physical, mental, or spiritual improvement, than by attending the Berwick Camp Meeting.

Very truly yours, W. A. OUTERBRIDGE, Secy. Pub. Wor. Com.

Baseball. The Victorias added another to their list of victories on Monday evening, by defeating Canning in a ball game on the campus. The score was 11-1, the victors scoring in the third inning. In the first inning, Ruffee was struck by the pitcher and was unable to continue playing, so the Victorias played with two in the field.

We are hopelessly handicapped in that by the other brutes who still use all four of their feet for defensive and offensive purposes. There is wise sense in the statement that any brute can fight, but that only man can arbitrate. It is the acknowledgment of the basis of our superiority as being, not unfighting, but in refusing to fight, and in using those powers which have come to us as the result of upward evolution.

DOCTOR THE CAUSE NOT THE EFFECT

If you are afflicted with boils, pimples, scrofula, salt rheum, eczema, or any other indication of impure blood, don't waste time and money in external remedies for the treatment of these symptoms.

YOU CAN AVOID ALL THESE THINGS BY TAKING NYAL'S BLOOD PURIFIER

Sometimes there are no outward symptoms of impure blood, but instead there is a feeling of languor, a run-down listless condition, loss of appetite, showing that the organs and tissues of the body are not being nourished as they should be.

The use of Nyal's Blood Purifier is followed by the most pleasing results. The boils heal up and disappear; the skin becomes soft and smooth again, instead of harsh and scaly, or pimply. The liver is stimulated, the blood enriched, and soon the whole system feels the beneficial effect of this excellent remedy.

Pure blood means health and strength. Nyal's Blood Purifier makes pure blood.

'The Man on the Street.' The attention of 'The Man on the Street' has been directed to the custom that prevails in some quarters of making 'short cuts' across neighbors' lawns, gardens, &c., in order to get from one part of the town to another. These paths are plainly visible in a number of localities and are doubtless thought by those who use them to be very convenient. These are, however, an abomination in the eyes of some lot-owners and are regarded a decided nuisance. Put yourself in the 'other man's' place, and 'The Man on the Street' is confident you will see the custom as he sees it.

A rumor that the old American House property, which was reported some time ago to have been purchased by the government for the erection of a public building, has gone to private hands, has reached the ear of 'The man on the street.' Naturally Wolfville people will be disappointed to learn that there is any foundation for the rumor. 'The man on the street' has this consolation to offer, however. In private possession the property may be improved in appearance so as not longer to be a disgrace to the town. At present it is anything but a thing of beauty.

Presentation to Mr. Noble Crandall. Mr. Noble Crandall has for many years been doing home missionary work, first on Gasperau Mountain and more recently in Wolfville. The building of the Tabernacle was largely the result of his efforts in that direction. Since its erection he has been for the most of the time in charge of the work in that place which he has done at a considerable sacrifice of time and means. He was unexpectedly called to meet with a number of friends of the Tabernacle work last Thursday evening at the close of the prayer meeting, when a brief address and a purse were presented by Rev. M. P. Freeman, to which he responded, expressing the unexpected pleasure given him by this token of appreciation of his work.

Rev. E. D. Weather being called upon gave a brief address in commendation of the work Mr. Crandall has done in behalf of an important section of our community.

The Gadfly.

For monumental stupidity commend us to the blind advocate of a free trade policy in the midst of an ever increasing company of protective tariff countries. The ostrich, which hides its head in the sand at the approach of an enemy, is a wise old fellow in comparison—concealed in the sand, his head at least is safe from injury temporarily.

There are some of these blind advocates of free trade remaining even unto this day. That is to say, they would have Great Britain remain a free trade country but they are quite satisfied for Canada to continue to be 'cursed' with protection so long as government is in the hands of their party friends.

They are blind to the fact that British manufacturers in almost all lines of export trade have found it necessary to curtail their output and lay off thousands of their workmen or employ them in part time only? And why is it that in the matter of domestic trade purely many other British manufacturers have been forced to do the same? It is entirely because other nations have adopted protective policies while Great Britain has with stupid tenacity stuck to her jug-handled free trade.

The free trader denies that this is the correct answer, and gives us a better one, the statement that there is less pauperism in Great Britain to-day than under protection many years ago, or that some labor leader who has just returned from Germany is convinced that all Germany owes its protection is a grudge—not very conclusive arguments to say the least.

The blind free trader (for England) declares that free trade enables the Englishmen to 'get the best of the world offers at the open market price.' Splendid, but not very stomach filling to the poor Englishman who doesn't happen to possess the open market price or any other price, because the flooding of the country with the best of the world offers at the open market price has resulted in his being thrown out of employment.

But if free trade produces such lovely conditions for Great Britain, why do not these Canadian advocates seek for similar conditions here for Canada? What a waste of money and effort it was for so many big United States manufacturing concerns to move over into Canada. For instance, the Oliver Plow Company and the International Harvester Company and dozens of others. Why didn't we pull down our tariff wall and let all the goods made by these various concerns in their American plants come in freely at open market price?

The working men and business men find the presence of these big concerns of vital importance, and they are quite happy in submitting to the blindest of advocates. They are fifty years behind the times and are with increasing rapidity losing touch with modern business life and progress. If they would keep their old antiquated ideas and theories to themselves and refrain from boring others, the thing would soon be forgotten in pity.

In Memoriam.

At Newtonville, July 7th, after a few weeks' illness, death came to Mrs. Olivia Jordan, relict of the late Michael Jordan, at the advanced age of sixty years.

In the early age of fourteen she gave her heart to Jesus and was baptized into the First Horton Baptist church. Living a quiet, consistent Christian life, she endeared herself to a large circle of friends and acquaintances and will be greatly missed from the social meetings she loved so well. Out of a large family only one brother, Capt. James Eagles, of Wolfville, survives her. She leaves three sons, Henry A., of Boston; Leverett H., of Dorchester, Mass.; and Charles A., who resides at the homestead and with whom she lived; and two daughters, Mrs. Charles A. Schofield, of Medford, Mass.; and Mrs. Harmon Schofield, of Newtonville.

The funeral services were conducted by Pastor A. L. Powell at the Gasperau church Sunday afternoon. Interment in Gasperau cemetery beside her husband.

Hang Week's Wash in a Few Minutes on a Hill Clothes Dryer

Clean Compact

Capacious Convenient

Why continue to toss with uncleanly, unsightly clothes lines and poles when you can get this neat, compact, convenient Hill Dryer.

Set up a Hill Dryer in a convenient spot over the house and wash many things, how much time, work and bother it saves.

Instead of being exposed all over the yard and supported by numerous posts, every link of every line on the Hill Dryer is within easy reach—so you can hang the whole wash without moving steps, without having to drag the heavy basket up and down the yard through snow or damp grass.

Let us put one upon your yard ready for next wash-day. Or call and see it.

Quotations gladly furnished on application.
