KEEPING STREETS CLEAN AND TIDY

The town of Kentville has adopted a plan for keeping its streets clean and tidy which was operated with success in Wolfville for one season several years ago. A man is employed to make a daily tour of the streets and gather up all the litter which if allowed to accumulate for a week presents anything but a creditable appearance. This, we believe, is the only method which will give complete satisfaction and THE ACADIAN would like to see it again the rule in Wolfville. No matter how carefully the cleaning is done on Saturday morning, with the present neglect in the matter of preventing waste material from being thrown or swept upon the streets, it is impossible to secure a tidy appearance for more than a few hours. A little effort expended each morning in clearing up the debris of the night before would ensure a far more creditable condition at a slight expense.

ACADIA ANNIVERSARY EXERCISES

The commencement exercises of Acadia University, which have taken place during the present week, have been of the usual interesting character and well attended. Owing to the tardiness of the season and the fact that the exercises this year were held a week earlier than is usual, Wolfville and surroundings lacked somewhat their customary attractiveness at anniversary time, but the weather conditions were generally good and some of those who attended Acadia's closing for the first time were loud in their praise of the environment of the Baptist educational institutions. Many old friends attended the exercises this year and were gladly welcomed back by citizens. The Acadia spirit was everywhere manifest and the whole atmosphere during the week was pervaded by an optimism which indicates that the best days for the institutions are yet to come. Very general confidence was expressed that the selection of President Patterson was a wise one and that under his administration Acadia will continue to occupy a large place in the development of higher education in these provinces by the sea.

IN MEMORIAM

The memorial service for the deceased presidents, professors and benefactors of Acadia who rest in the cemeteries of Wolfville, which was introduced into the program of the closing exercises last year and continued this week, is an innovation much appreciated by the friends of the institution. Affording as it does an opportunity for getting at first hand a glimpse of the outstanding characteristics of those who in the long ago laid so well the foundations upon which their successors have wisely builded, those of the present generation who come to attend the anniversary exercises cannot fail to be instructed and inspired. As time goes on, if this service is continued, future addresses will necessarily be given by those who know only by reputation of those to whom they refer. Those who were among the company which on Sunday afternoon participated in the exercise were fortunate in being able to hear addresses in every case delivered by those who had intimate and personal knowledge of the honored dead. Wolfville people revere the memory of those who were fellow citizens in the days that are gone.

AMERICAN TOURISTS BRING NEW MONEY TO VANCOUVER

Vancouver is preparing for a very busy summer and improvements are being made to handle the increased tourist traffic. Before the end of the season, pavement will be completed so that there will be a hard-surfaced road all the way to Seattle, 165 miles, and most of the road is paved to Portland, 368 miles.

An announcement just made shows how the tourist traffic puts money into every line of business. There will be a new hotel of 300 rooms—started at once in order to take care of the increasing number of travellers and this hotel will require an investment of considerably over $1,000,000.

New boats, summer camps, etc., are also being added to the equipment for entertaining visitors.

The present moment is a corner where many roads start into the future—right ones and wrong ones. So it is always a moment of choices, and can never be unimportant.

THE HOOVER

IT BEATS—AS IT SWEEPS—AS IT CLEANS

In Hoover homes, the old-fashioned semi-annual house cleaning is a thing of the past. Week in and week out the Hoover keeps the house clean—carpets and rugs may stay down, they don't need to be taken out and beaten when the housekeeper has the Hoover.

When the Hoover comes into the home, the backache from house cleaning disappears—the home is cleaner for the germ laden dust that used to settle on the furniture and walls is carried away in the Hoover bag. You just glide your Hoover over the rug or carpet and it beats and sweeps and cleans. From curtains and upholstered furniture, the Hoover attachments extract the dust, without scattering it and without injury to your furnishings.

Ask to see the Hoover or better still have one sent to your home where it will be demonstrated free.

AN IMPORTANT RESOLUTION

The following resolution was passed at Philadelphia: "The Eleventh Convention of the World's W. C. T. U., assembled in Philadelphia, earnestly appeal to the Government and the great Shipping Companies of the world to take such action as is necessary to suppress the traffic of alcoholic liquors on the high seas, as they are a danger to the safety of those who travel on ships, and a menace to the peace of the World." On behalf of the World's officers, Miss Slack has sent a copy to all the chief governments and shipping companies of the world.

LADY ASTOR MOVES TO PROTECT YOUTHS

London, March 9—Lady Astor, moving in the House of Commons today the second reading of her bill prohibiting the sale of intoxicants to youths under eighteen for consumption on the premises, delivered an address replete with witticisms to an attentive and frequently amused house. The bill, Lady Astor declared, was designed to protect adolescents—their health, self control and powers of resistance—and remove boys and girls from the environments of the public house. It was already illegal, she pointed out, to sell liquor to those under fourteen, and her bill merely changed the age limit, because it was generally recognized that people were still youths at eighteen. "I am the only godmother this bill has," she declared. "It's not a subtle move toward making you all 'bone dry'." Lady Astor referred to Canada and the other dominions as an example to the old country in the matter of liquor restrictions. If the dominions could do this, Great Britain "ought not to lag behind."

"A boy is a child up to eighteen," Lady Astor continued. "You men are children, and we women love you because you are children." Regarding the suggestion that the act should apply to only one sex, Lady Astor declared sex discrimination in this subject should not be tolerated. She wanted "to give the spirit and not the spirits a chance."

INSPIRING ADDRESSES

Given at Baptist Church on Sunday—Baccalaureate Sermon Delivered by Rev. J. Austin Huntley, D. D.

The eighty-fifth convocation exercises of Acadia University began Sunday with the Baccalaureate Sermon to the 45 members of the graduating class delivered in the Baptist Church by the Rev. J. Austin Huntley, D. D., Pastor of the First Baptist church, Moncton, N. B. President Patterson presided, while on the platform with him were Dr. J. H. MacDonald, pastor of the Wolfville church, and others. The weather was fine and the attendance large. The Scripture was read by Dr. MacDonald while Dr. Keirstead, of Toronto, offered prayer. Miss Ruth B. MacDonald rendered very beautifully "In My Father's House Are Many Mansions", by Lucina Jewell.

Dr. Huntley held the closest attention of his large congregation, speaking with force and eloquence, his strong message of truth. He took as his subject "The Pull of the Impossible", from the text Philippians 3:12, 13, 14: "Not that I have already obtained or am already made perfect; but... stretching forward to the things which are before I press on toward the goal." In that wonderful portrayal of a perfect artist, Andrea del Sarto, in Browning's "Men and Women", occur these significant words: "Ah, but a man's reach should exceed his grasp. Or what's a heaven for?"

It was simply a poet's way of saying that in order to achieve a man must be beckoned forward by high ideals; must feel the urge of an impossible task, and be able to lay hold upon invisible resources. This was a wholesome and promising view for men to take in regard to life's attainments. There would be no struggle to better one's condition until there was first a profound conviction that one's condition may and ought to be bettered. Paul was a great hero of faith. Boasting of blue blood, splendid in worldly success, with all that culture position and adherence to conventional religion could bring to him, he became conscious of the constraining power of great spiritual forces within and without, and like every follower of the gleam, he made the great renunciation and turned his face toward the shining heights. Other men may be satisfied with earth's emoluments, he seeks heavenly treasure; other men may grasp earth's power, he would lay hold of the power of God. "Forgetting the things behind, I stretch forward"—it is the urge of necessity. "I have not attained, I press on"—it is the compelling power of a divine discontent; "I press toward the mark for the high calling of God in Christ Jesus," it is the pull of the impossible. "I have kept the faith," it is victory at last through alliance with the invisible forces of God. At all cost of present luxury, life must be kept heroic. If men would be victors, we must decline those abatements that weaken and emasculate the soul. A few years ago William James said solemnly that if war should be abolished, we must find some substitute for the development of those heroic qualities which war always brings into play. And may it not be that because we failed to exercise ourselves in the spiritual conflicts of the Kingdom, which require a finer quality of courage and endurance than war, that there had to come to the world that plague of fire and steel that erstwhile devastated a continent? At any rate, history was savagely blunt on this score. It showed the tragedy of ease. It declared that the only enemy which can ultimately destroy a people is the silent, insidious, smiling enemy of ease and selfish contentment.

The call to war transformed clerks, artisans, farmers and shopkeepers into military officers, statesmen and heroes. "I heard Dr. W. L. Watkinson, of London, tell of his visit to a flower show", said Dr. Huntley. "He found himself in the midst of a wonderful display of orchids. Gorgeous plants they were, grown in the depths of safety, in balmy air and brilliant light. But in another place he came upon the Alpine plants. He was not prepared to find much, but they did not suffer in comparison with their favored tropical relatives. Nurslings, they were, of blizzards, cataracts, glaciers by whose stern discipline their beauty was perfected. Thus it is that the sanctified sternness of common life blossoms into great, pure, heroic souls."

Paul, himself, knew the urge of necessity. Prisons and beatings; stoning and shipwreck; perils from all sides and all kinds of people; hunger and cold and nakedness were some of his physical afflictions. And these were nothing as compared with his deep spiritual distress for the cause to which he had given his life. But his ambitious spirit could not be broken. The rose tints never faded from his sky. He felt the compelling power of necessity and strengthened his soul in God for the conflict. Along this pathway all life's victors have gone. Inventors and explorers and scientists; pioneers in the crusade for the liberties which men hold dearer than life have all felt the compulsion of a stern necessity. The pathway of every great reformer of the world has ever been bridged by the bodies of men who have been willing to die for a worthy cause.

During the afternoon a memorial service was held in Willow Bank Cemetery under the auspices of the associated alumni. A large number gathered around the graves of departed presidents, professors and benefactors of Acadia. A sprig of cedar was cast on each grave. Among the graves visited were those of John W. Barrass, Dr. J. W. Cramp, Dr. T. A. Higgins, Dr. DeBlois, Prof. A. E. Caldwell, Miss Blanche Bishop, Dr. Sawyer, Dr. Tufts, Dr. Jones, Prof.

Sunday evening Dr. Melbourne S. Read addressed the Y. M. C. A. in the presence of a large congregation. Dr. Read is a distinguished alumnus of Acadia of the class of 1891, and is Vice-President of Colgate University and Professor of Psychology in that university. He was heard with deep interest in his scholarly well conceived address on "Finding One's Place". Dr. Read said in part:

"Coming back to this college so many years after my graduation, and taking note of the many changes that have taken place, I am impressed anew with the fact that there is no remaining in the present for any of us. The yesterdays of our lives are gone, the present is a fleeting moment the future alone evolving from the present is our great concern. It is not for any of us to linger, however pleasant the present place may be. From our temporary resting places we arise to renew our march or to be swept onward with the flux of life.

It is this striking feature of change in the lives of individuals, in the institutions, and in the customs of men and of the world that I beg first to bring to your attention. On every side we hear it said that the old order is changing and

HANTS COUNTY NEWS

On Friday afternoon and evening, May 18th, a large number of friends, conspicuous among them being the clergymen of the town, assembled at the home of Rev. H. G. and Mrs. Mellick to extend congratulations, the auspicious occasion being the thirty-sixth anniversary of their wedding, also the first reception in their own home. The guests were pleasantly entertained with both vocal and instrumental music. Short addresses suitable for the occasion, were made by the different clergymen present, which were eloquently responded to by Mr. Mellick. Rev. and Mrs. Mellick were assisted in receiving by their relatives, Mrs. (Rev.) L. Wallace, Lawrence town and Mrs. I. B. Wallace, Mt. Denson. Miss E. Hume received the guests at the door. Tea and cocoa were poured by Mrs. (Capt.) A. Houghton and Mrs. J. E. Borden. The decorative scheme was artistically carried out in white and yellow, the flowers being Daffodils. Dainty refreshments were served.

The annual meeting of the W. M. S. of the Presbyterian church, Hantsport, was held at the home of Mrs. B. Davison on Wednesday afternoon, May 16th. Reports given by the different officers were very satisfactory. The treasurer, Mrs. R. A. Beckwith, reported a total $169.02 raised for all purposes during the year. Officers elected for the ensuing year were as follows:

The Evangelistic Campaign conducted by the Rev. Dr. Sidey in the Odd Fellows Hall for two weeks terminated on Sunday evening with good results considering the campaign was not completed. The interest was so intense that endeavours were made to secure the hall for another week, but this was impossible owing to the fact that the hall had been previously engaged for the week. Dr. Sidey, whose addresses were most inspiring, is apparently overflowing with spiritual enthusiasm and anxiety for those with whom he comes in contact. There are many regrets that the meetings could not be continued during the week. The Rev. H. G. Mellick had the honor of D. D. conferred on him at the closing of Acadia.

ACADIA DEFEATS KENTVILLE

In Exciting Baseball Game of Fifteen Innings

The first baseball game of the season was played on the College campus on Saturday afternoon, between the Acadia team and Kentville. In their previous game at Kentville on Wednesday Acadia lost by the score of 8 to 2 and the visitors were confident of repeating the trick. The weather was ideal and there was a large number of spectators present.

In the first five innings the locals played a loose game and the Kentville aggregation soon piled up seven runs. However in the sixth frame, the Acadia boys hit Dingham hard and tied the score. Dingham was then replaced by Kolosky. For the next nine innings neither side scored, both Kolosky and Howitt pitching a wonderful game. Kolosky weakened in the last half of the fifteenth and the winning run was scored by the Acadia boys.

The teams were as follows: Kentville—Wigmore c, Dingham p, Leach lb, Lightie 2b, Smith 3b, Kolosky ss, Cox, lf, Nickerson, cf, Walsh rf, Acadia—Brown c, Howitt p, Grimmer lb, Lewis 2b, Clark 3b, Bartheaux ss, Woodworth lf, Lighten rf, Murray cf.

TURN O' THE YEAR

This is the time when bit by bit
The days begin to lengthen sweet
And every minute gained is joy—
And love stirs in the heart of a boy.

This is the time the sun, of late
Content to lie abed till eight,
Lifts up betimes his sleepy head—
And love stirs in the heart of a maid.

This is the time we dock the night
Of a whole hour of candlelight;
When the song of linnet and thrush is heard—
And love stirs in the heart of a bird.

This is the time when sword blades green
With gold and purple damascene,
Pierce the brown crocus bed a-row—
And love stirs in a heart I know.

world of Europe and America is in these early years of the 20th century, and especially since the war, changing with such bewildering rapidity that we are unable to observe or predict the general directions of its currents. We cannot, I think, doubt the correctness of these general impressions, and thoughtful people alternate between hope and despair in the midst of such uncertainties. Is it mere unrest and change? Is the world going backward in terms of what the human spirit desires or is there real progress in the making?

"Looking backward along the ways by which our civilization has come, we must, I think conclude that all generations and centuries have been transition times. From the earliest primitive conditions of man's life upon the earth, through the beginnings of our early western civilisation, in the glory of Greece and the grandeur of Rome, through the so-called dark ages of more than a thousand years ago, and the often times under-valued life of the Middle Ages, up through the wonderful stirring events of the 16th to the 19th centuries, an ever-changing scene of conditions and institutions, beliefs and customs, spreads before our eyes. Periods of comparative calm intervene between periods when the stream of life surges in rapid flow. The past by comparison seems a solid and secure background from which we have somehow become separated, and it seems as if we were aboard a ship that had slipped its moorings and gone adrift upon the uncertain currents and the tempest tossed waves of an unknown sea.

But when we realise that the voyages of men in other times have also been like this, our courage returns, realising that our times are after all no unlike the times of old: for what characterises our own day has been characteristic of all the other days of our history reveals. We are the heirs of all the ages and there has been conserved for us the major portion of life's values as these have emerged in the lives of men; while those conditions which produced the ills of life have gradually in great measure been overcome. Change has meant progress in the main, and we feel justified in our attitude that, while we do not clearly see the way, the life of man in the world is still heading toward better things.

"The reflective student of human affairs naturally inquires why is human life of this changing and restless sort? The individual, feeling his own personal insignificance, is likely to find mental refuge and an answer to these perplexities in some great abstraction which represents in general the nature of the world. He uses such terms as human history, the course of events, the evolution of life, and even blind fate.

"But to many people today and indeed to many people in all ages to ascribe the world's events to any such abstraction has not seemed a satisfactory solution. Still realising their own insignificance, the majestic sweep of human history, and the progress of civilization is understood or accepted by them as the working out of God's plan and purpose in the world. He may move indeed in mysterious ways his wonders to perform, but our trust is in Him and confidence in life's outcome, in spite of apparent chaos, takes the place of resignation or even despair."

"The musical part of the service included a duet; "The Day is Ended", by J. C. Bartlett, beautifully sung by Misses Evelyn Duncanson and Marie Wilson;

A TALE WITH A MORAL

The advertising solicitor had a dream the other night. He dreamed that he went into the business place of a local business man and found him lying on the floor with his feet under the table unconscious. A physician was called in and the case was diagnosed as one of starvation; the poor man had cut out his advertising and business had fallen to such an extent that he could not afford the bare necessities of life. Moral: Don't let our dream come true!

Six Reasons Why You Should Buy a Studebaker Light-Six

- Sturdiness—The sturdy construction of the Studebaker Light-Six has been positively proved by more than 500,000,000 miles of service in the hands of 100,000 owners.
- Economy—The fuel economy of the Light-Six has been conclusively demonstrated by 27 world-wide tests, which established an average of 26.9 miles to the gallon of gasoline. Economy of maintenance is further emphasized by Studebaker's repair parts sales, which in 1922 averaged only $13 per car in operation.
- Performance—In its six-cylinder engine, there is an abundance of smooth, overlapping power—instantly responsive to the touch of the throttle. Vibration is practically eliminated at all speeds through machining the crankshaft and connecting rods on all surfaces.
- Comfort—Light-Six springs are long and flexible. Seat cushions are 10 inches deep and upholstered in genuine leather. The Light-Six touring car is as comfortable as that favorite chair in your sitting room.
- Refinements—The beautiful body is all steel, even to its framework. There is a one-piece rainproof windshield, with cowl lights set in the base; quick action cowl ventilator, thief-proof transmission lock and a number of other unusual refinements.
- Reputation—For seventy-one years, the Studebaker name has signified sterling craftsmanship and honest value. The Studebaker reputation is your assurance of absolute satisfaction.

EIGHTY-FIFTH CONVOCATION OF ACADIA UNIVERSITY

succeed through self-seeking, yet he himself prove a failure".
 Dr. Patterson in his farewell words reminded the class that the University today lived by the generosity of its friends, and as no student ever paid a tithe of the cost of his educational course, he would ask them to remember their Alma Mater according to their capacity in the years to come. He gladly acknowledged the splendid gift of the Class of 1923 of the grandstand on the athletic field. That was the spirit in which the Faculty believed the students were going forth, and that "as you have ministered to the needs you saw while here, so will you minister to the needs of the University as you see them in the future".
 In a splendid oration Dr. Patterson reminded them that courage and hardihood developed out of facing dangers and hardships as Christian men and women.
 Addresses of much interest were then made by Dr. Farris, Dr. Milner, Dr. Read, Dr. Corey and Dr. Mellick.

PEREAUX NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Lyons were at Wolfville on Sunday and attended the Baptist Church to worship and hear the Baccalaureate sermon.

The Baptist Church Sunday School will have special services (D. V.) on June the 10th. In the morning the Pastor will preach a special sermon on work among the young. In the afternoon, the Scholars will sing and recite, and addresses will be given by S. S. workers.

On Sunday, May 13th, nine candidates were baptised in the sea. A large congregation was present and the service was most impressive.

The people are now very very busy. Success to their labours, spiritual and temporal. Soon we hope to sing:

The green grass springs,
 The wild bird sings,
 The summer time is here—

MRS. ELIZABETH WEST

This highly esteemed lady passed to her everlasting rest at Parrsboro, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Laura Davidson. Mrs. West was the widow of Elijah West, a deacon of the Baptist Church at Pereaux. She was a charter member of the church. They were beautiful in their lives, and now in death they are not divided. The body of the departed lady was interred in Pereaux Cemetery on May 17, after a memorial service in the church by the Rev. C. Riceborough, B. D., Pastor of Pereaux. A large congregation assembled to pay their respects. Mrs. West leaves one son Rufus, of Winter Hill, Mass., and two daughters, Georgette, wife of John Starr, Waltham, Mass., and Laura, with whom she resided.

MRS. DAVID LANGILL

Mrs. David Langill, who died at her home, River John, Pictou Co., May 10th, was formerly Inez Davidson, of Gaspereau. The deceased was of a loving kind disposition and was loved by all who knew her. One hour before her death she called her family to her bed-side and bid them good-bye sweetly and calmly as one retiring for the night. The funeral service was very largely attended. The hymns sung were favorites of the deceased "Peace Perfect Peace". "We shall Meet on That Beautiful Shore". "The Lord is my Shepherd".

She leaves to mourn their loss a husband and seven children. The oldest son is married and lives near home. One daughter teaching school at Bow Island, Alberta, receiving a telegram of the sudden illness of her mother started for home only to arrive a few hours after the burial. Another daughter is teaching near Truro and the other children are at home. Mrs. Leander Cold-well, of Gaspereau, is a sister, also Mrs. Arthur Harris, of Greenfield. Mr. Watson Davidson, of Greenfield, is a brother. There is also one sister and two brothers in Massachusetts.

"Thy God that lifts our hopes on high

Or sinks them in the grave
 He gave and blessed be his name
 He takes but what he gave.

A Girl's Face Is Her Fortune

Palm and olive oils—nothing else—give nature's green color to Palmolive Soap.

Because it is the greatest of all womanly charms, a skin which is fresh, smooth, and alluring with the radiance of health, predicts a happy future.

Don't be content to have a lifeless, sallow and blemished complexion—begin at once to remedy these defects.

Every girl can have a beautiful attractive skin if she will only learn to give it proper care.

Thorough cleansing with a fine mild soap once a day, is the secret. Cold cream is beneficial when applied to a clean skin, and rouge and powder are harmless beautifiers—but start fresh every day on a clean foundation. Keep your skin active and it will be clear, fresh, youthful and attractive.

Soap to be thorough need not be harsh. The mildest toilet soap is the most thorough of cleansers, as you will know after you try Palmolive.

Its mildness and thoroughness are due to the same source—the scientific blending of Palm and Olive oils, the natural cleansers discovered thousands of years ago in ancient Egypt and made use of by Cleopatra.

Palmolive freshens, livens and stimulates the skin, leaving it delightfully fresh and rosy.

You can buy Palmolive Soap at all first-class dealers.
