French Cabinet Resigns

British Liberal Party Make a Bid For Co-operation With Labour--Rumania Acts as Mediator in Balkan Dispute--Capital Levy Dispute Ends Painleve Administration.

PAINELEVE'S CABINET RESIGNS.

PARIS, Oct. 27. Premier Painleve's Cabinet resigned today. M. Painleve called on President Doumergue shortly after two p.m. and presented the collective resignation of the Ministry.

It is stated that seven thousand lives were lost and two hundred pearl fishing vessels were missing. Later reports say a thousand lives were lost and seventy boats destroyed.

ROMANIA SUCCESSFULLY ACTS AS MEDIATOR.

PARIS, Oct. 27. Greece's representative, M. Carapanos, announced at the opening of today's meeting of the League of Nations' Council that through the friendly mediation of Rumania a direct agreement has been reached between Greece and Bulgaria for the evacuation of respective territories.

ROSALIND TAKES 66 HOURS TO REACH HALIFAX.

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 27. The Red Cross liner Rosalind which sailed from St. John's at three o'clock Saturday afternoon arrived at half-past nine this morning, taking over 66 hours, or practically double the usual time to make the run. She passed through the week-end storm in which the wind at times reached the velocity of 85 miles per hour, undamaged.

LIBERALS MAKE A BID FOR LABOR CO-OPERATION.

LONDON, Oct. 27. What is apparently an official bid from the Liberals for co-operation between Liberals and Laborites was launched last evening at a Liberal meeting under the chairmanship of the Earl of Oxford and Asquith, party leader. Professor Murray, the speaker, claimed there was a close affinity between Labor and Liberal, and said socialist tenets of Laborites troubled him very little. He declared that the expulsion of all Communists from the Labor party, as forcibly pronounced by Ramsay MacDonald at the recent Labor Congress, was carried out, the natural consequence, he believed, was a rapprochement between Labor and Liberalism. He believed that the best form of government would be Liberal with Labor wing, or Labor with Liberal wing. Asquith endorsed his statements.

LEAGUE TO SEND A COMMISSION TO THE BALKANS.

PARIS, Oct. 27. The Council of the League of Nations will send a commission to the Balkans to investigate from the scene of conflict to the cause of the Greco-Bulgarian warfare which caused the present extraordinary session. Latest reports from the scene of conflict to the League were that orders reached the border for Greeks to retire and for Bulgarians to cease firing. The twenty-four limit of ultimatum expired at eight o'clock to-night, but the report of replies will not be made public until to-morrow's session. It is believed in official circles that replies from both countries will be favorable.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT STEAMERS SOLD.

MONTREAL, Oct. 27. Eight steamers belonging to the Canadian Government Merchant Marine, formerly employed in the Great Lakes trade have been sold. It was officially learned to-day. Six were purchased by the James Playfair Co. for the new Canada-Cuba route, and the other two were bought by N. M. Patterson, Canadian grain merchant.

FISHERMEN'S PACE DEFINITELY OFF.

GLOUCESTER, Oct. 27. Officials of the United States Race Committee, after receiving letters from the Canadian Race Committee to-day, said there was every reason to believe there would be no International Fishermen's Race this year.

CAPITAL LEVY CAUSES PAINLEVE'S GOVERNMENT TO RESIGN.

PARIS, Oct. 27. M. Painleve's Ministry, which took office April 15 last, following that of M. Herriot, ended to-day when Painleve submitted the resignation of himself and Cabinet to President Doumergue. The fall of the Ministry was due to Finance Minister Caillaux's financial policy and his opposition to the capital levy, to which Painleve rallied after the radical convention in Nice had adopted a resolution favoring it. One of the most difficult situations in its political history now faces France. The President received M. Caillaux immediately the resignation had been accepted, but the latter was not asked to form a new Ministry, and the belief is that Painleve himself will be asked to form a new Cabinet with which he can administer the affairs without too much friction.

U.S. COAL STRIKE BENEFITS GREAT BRITAIN.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27. There is a distinct sign of improvement in the British coal situation according to radio reports received by the coal division of the United States Department of Commerce. Large prospective shipments of Welsh anthracite to both Canada and United States are rumored.

TWENTY KILLED IN TRAIN WRECK.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 27. Twenty dead and over thirty injured was the known toll taken when "Sunland," fast St. Louis and San Francisco passenger train left the rails today near Victoria, Miss., and tumbled in a tangled mass down a forty foot embankment.

THREE MISSING FROM DISABLED SCHOONER.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 27. A message from coast guard cutter "Red Wing" to-day, saying she had picked up the disabled three masted schooner J. O. Webster, from St. John, N.B., from Miami, about 100 miles N.N.E. of Peaked Hill Bar, Cape Cod, added that the schooner's lifeboat, with three men in it, was missing.

C.N.R. RAIL ORDER FOR SYDNEY.

SYDNEY, N.S., Oct. 27. The British Empire Steel Corporation officials announced to-night receipt of an order from Canadian National Railways for 52,213 gross tons of steel rails and rail accessories which will be sufficient to keep the Sydney steel plant in full operation until Feb. 1, 1926.

F. SMALLWOOD

The Home of Good Shoes

218 and 220 Water Street

"All ashore!" shouted Captain Butler, the nice Billygoat Captain, as soon as the old ferryboat was made fast to the dock. In a few minutes all the little bunny boys and rabbit girls were hopping over the gangplank and up the road to the Whispering Glen, far from the homes of mortal men. Deep in the Vairy Bunny Forest lay this beautiful spot, just the place for a nutting picnic.

Cousin Cottontail with her five little bunnies and Little Jack Rabbit, laughed and chatted as they hopped along clipperly clip, lipperty lip, the little rabbit pointing out to the kind lady bunny the Ragged Rabbit Giant's old castle on the Tip Top, Sky High Mountain in the distance.

"Yes, that's where he lives," went on the bunny boy. "His little yellow bird is his only friend; that is, the only friend who lives near by. Of course I'm his friend; so is Uncle Lucky. The Ragged Rabbit Giant thinks a lot of Uncle Lucky."

"I've never met any bunny giants," sighed Cousin Cottontail. "In fact, I'd rather not. I don't think I'd feel at home with such great big people." "I do," answered the bunny boy, with a smile. "He just leans over and picks me up by the ears, oh so carefully, and slips me into his waistcoat pocket. Then up the steep mountain side he climbs in his seven-league boots. When he reaches his front door, he slips a key as long as a pitchfork into the lock."

"Gracious me," interrupted Cousin Cottontail, "he must be a tremendous big giant." "He is," went on the little rabbit, while the five little cottontails pricked up their long ears and walked close to him. "He's as tall as the tallest pine tree and the tops of his boots are three times as high as my head. His hand is larger than a palm leaf fan and his eyes bigger than a blue china plate."

Just then on the top of the mountain the little rabbit spied the big giant. He was waving a flag as large as a sheet, and the next minute he put two fingers in his mouth and whistled louder than a steam engine. "There he is," shouted the bunny boy, all excited. "See him up there on the mountain top!" "Gracious me!" exclaimed Cousin Cottontail. "I'm growing dreadfully nervous. What will we do if he comes to the picnic? He might eat all the hard boiled egg in one mouthful."

As the timid lady rabbit finished speaking, they reached the Whispering Glen, through which gurgled a tiny stream of water, bordered with green ferns and flowering bushes. In the centre there were no trees and the grass was short and thick, just like a green carpet. "There's the spot where the fairy bunnies dance," explained the little rabbit. "When the moon is bright they all come out from their hiding places."

"I think it will be cooler under the trees," said Cousin Cottontail. "And as it's near lunch hour, I'll spread a cloth and unpack the basket," and at once the kind little lady rabbit set to work. And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

The Avalon Telephone Co. Contract

A GREEMENT made the second day of September A.D. 1919, pursuant to the Telephone Service Act, 1918, between His Excellency SIR CHARLES ALEXANDER HARRIS, K.C.M.G., C.B., C.V.O., Governor of the Island of Newfoundland and its Dependencies in Council, (hereinafter called "the Government"), of the one part, and the Avalon Telephone Company, Limited, a body corporate registered under the Companies' Acts, 1909 to 1908, (hereinafter called "the Company"), of the other part: Witnesseth as follows:—

streets, bridges, rivers or water-courses in any town or village and throughout the country in the Electoral Districts aforesaid by overhead, underground, or under-water wires, or cables, subject, however, to the following restrictions:—

- (a) The Company shall not interfere with the right of the public to travel on or use such roads, streets, bridges, rivers or watercourses;
(b) In the town of St. John's, the opening up of streets for the erection or laying of pole lines or conduits, and the erection or laying of such pole lines or conduits, shall be done under the direction and supervision of the St. John's Municipal Council, and without the town of St. John's such works shall be done under the direction of the Minister of Public Works, and in such reasonable manner in either case as such Council or Minister may direct, unless such Council or Minister, as the case may be, after ten days' notice to the Company, shall have omitted to make such direction. But no direction or supervision shall be necessary and no notice shall be given for the repairs, renewals and amendments of existing works of which the character and position are not materially altered. In the event of any difference arising under this section between the Company and such Council or Minister, as the case may be, the same shall be decided by the Governor in Council.
(c) The Company shall in all cases at its own expense restore to its former condition the surface of any road or street affected by the Company's operations aforesaid.
(d) The Company shall not place any works by the side of any land or building so as to hinder or interfere with ingress or egress from the same, nor along the side of or across or under any road or street so as to interfere with public traffic thereon; but otherwise the Company shall have the right, with the approval of the Government Engineer, to place any of its works under or across or over any land or building without the previous authority of the owner thereof, but subject to compensation to be determined in case of dispute by arbitration as hereinafter provided.
(e) The Company shall have the right, with the approval of the Government, to appropriate in St. John's a suitable site for the erection of a central telephone system, subject to compensation to be determined in case of dispute by arbitration as hereinafter provided.
(f) All plant, wires, cables, insulators and other apparatus and structures constructed or erected under the power by this section conferred shall be modern and first class in every respect.
4. (a) Before commencing the construction of the works prescribed by section two of these presents the Company shall deposit with the Minister of Public Works a bond satisfactory to such Minister for securing the payment of the sum of ten thousand dollars, conditional upon the commencement and completion of the said works within the period by the said section limited therefor, or within such extended period as may be allowed by the Government as hereinafter provided and upon the payment by the Company of all lawful claims against it for compensation, damages and wages incurred during the said period; but the giving of such bond shall not in any way limit the liability of the Company to answer such claims in full out of its general funds.

16. The Company shall maintain its works and operate the same in an efficient manner, so as to secure prompt and satisfactory telephonic communication between its subscribers at all times in St. John's and at all reasonable times elsewhere, and if there should be any interruption in such communication the Company shall without unnecessary delay employ all the means in its power, to remove the cause of such interruption and restore such communication. If the Company shall neglect or refuse to comply with the provisions of this section after notice of such non-compliance, specifying the particular nature thereof, and such neglect or refusal shall continue for three days, it shall for every such default be liable on conviction to a penalty not exceeding fifty dollars, and to a further penalty not exceeding five dollars for every day after such conviction during which such default continues; Provided, however, that in no case shall any penalty be inflicted in respect to any such default if the Magistrate or Justice trying the case shall be of opinion that such default was caused by inevitable accident or other causes beyond the Company's control, or that it was of so slight and unimportant a character as not materially to affect the value of the service.
17. In the construction, maintenance and operation of its works the Company shall neither by act nor by omission endanger or interfere with the property or operation of other persons, firms or corporations employing electricity, nor shall any such other person, firm or corporation by act or omission endanger or interfere with the property or operations of the Company.
18. (a) Except as otherwise agreed between the Company and the Subscriber all charges made by the Company for providing telephonic communication or service shall be payable in advance, and, in the case of telephone rental, half-yearly or quarterly in advance at the option of the Company. The Company shall furnish to each subscriber indebted to it for no prepaid long-distance or trunk-line tolls a statement of such tolls not later than the fifteenth day of the month succeeding that in which the indebtedness was incurred.
(b) The charges aforesaid shall include the use of all telephones operated by the Company in the St. John's Exchange exceeds three thousand, be more than those specified in the Schedule to these presents, unless with the approval of the Government, and thereafter any increase in such charges shall be subject to the like approval.
19. The Company shall pay to the St. John's Municipal Council one dollar for each main telephone located within the limits of the town of St. John's, such payment to be based on the number of main telephones so located on the thirty-first day of December in each and every year, and to be payable not later than the first day of the following May; and the Company shall also pay to the Council at the same time the sum of three hundred dollars in lieu of the City Tax.
20. Such payments as aforesaid to the St. John's Municipal Council shall be in lieu of all Municipal taxation, special or otherwise, and shall exempt the Company from liability for the tax of four dollars per telephone imposed under the Telegraph Companies (Taxation) Act, 1905.
21. The Government upon giving twelve months' notice shall have the right at any time after the expiration of fifteen years from the date of these presents, to purchase the plant of the Company at the fair value of the property for the purpose of its use.
(a) If such right shall be exercised, the purchase price of the plant shall, in default of agreement between the Government and the Company, be determined by arbitration as hereinafter provided.
(b) In calculating the fair value of the plant as aforesaid the arbitrators shall estimate same without enhancement on account of future earning capacity and goodwill, or on account of the franchise by these presents granted.
22. Reference to arbitration under Sections three, five, six, or twenty-one of these presents shall be to two arbitrators, one to be appointed by the Government and one by the Company; and notwithstanding anything contained in section two hundred and ten of the Judicature Act, 1904, the provision of Part VI of that Act shall apply to such arbitrators.
23. All penalties by these presents imposed may be recovered in a summary manner before a Stipendiary Magistrate or a Justice of the Peace.
24. All plant, machinery, implements, apparatus, tools, utensils and materials necessary for the original construction of the Company's works and extensions thereof shall be admitted into the Colony free of duty.

25. The Government agrees to introduce such legislation as may be necessary to give validity to any of the provisions of this agreement.
26. On or before the first day of January, A.D. 1920, the Company shall prove to the satisfaction of the Government Engineer that it is financially able to erect the telephone system mentioned in section two hereof, and unless the Government Engineer shall certify accordingly this Contract shall be and become null and void, unless on or before the said day the Governor-in-Council shall by order extend the time for so certifying, and upon the expiry of such extended time, unless the Government Engineer has so certified, the Contract shall be and become void.

Dead Sea Products to Enrich Palestine

Riches in the Dead Sea soon make of Palestine a land of plenty. Quantities of chemicals in its waters were offered for sale. The supply of potash in the water is considered inexhaustible. Common salt would be obtained in such tremendous quantities that the problem would be how to get rid of it. It might have to be dumped back into the sea after more valuable salts had been extracted by a system of evaporation and crystallization that is very rapid and difficult to foresten.

Last Night's Lecture

MR. J. L. PATON ADDRESSES LARGE AUDIENCE ON "WOMEN AND THE VOTE."

A large audience was present in the Majestic Theatre last night to listen to the address given by Mr. J. L. Paton, M.A., President of the Nfld. Memorial League on "Women and the Vote." The lecture was under the auspices of the League of Women Voters, and was presided over by Mrs. Charles Hutton who took the place of the President, Mrs. Gosling, as she was suffering from the effect of a cold. In addition to the members of the League, who were present in strength, Lady Allardyce attended, and included in the audience was a considerable number of men.

The following officers of the League occupied seats on the stage: Mrs. W. G. Gosling, Mrs. C. H. Hutton, Mrs. H. McNeil, Mrs. (Dr.) Burke, Mrs. A. Fraser, Mrs. H. Ayre, Mrs. A. H. Murray, Mrs. J. B. Mitchell, Mrs. J. A. W. McNeely, Mrs. J. Baird and Miss M. Kennedy.

Mrs. Harold Ayre opened the meeting with the following address: This is the first public meeting held by the Woman's Franchise League since that great day when our Bill was passed by both the Upper and Lower Houses of Parliament without one dissenting voice. It seems extraordinary that anyone can place any League or Organizations above that of the Franchise—all other Societies which benefit or uplift are merely salves that soothe the surface, but cannot heal the great wounds that only votes for women will cure. Women without the vote and women with the vote are two different propositions. Women are now in a position to have their reforms carried out and it is owing to the indomitable spirit of the President, Mrs. Gosling, and the Hon. Secretary of the Woman's Franchise League, Mrs. Hector McNeil, and a small band of suffragettes that 150,000 women to-day owe their freedom.

Those ladies have quietly achieved a reform that has never been approached in the history of Newfoundland. To-night we were to have had the pleasure of having both Mrs. Gosling and Mrs. McNeil address us. Unfortunately Mrs. Gosling is suffering from a severe cold and is unable to do so. We are sad because we are losing her. She is shortly leaving this country to reside elsewhere. But we hope that she will often come back and see us and we shall try and carry on her ideal. There is no woman who has done more for the country than she, and her service extends over many years. Everyone knows the splendid work she did during the war. She was one of the originators of the Child Welfare Association and is always a staunch supporter of education. She is the only woman who has been elected to serve as member of the Council of Higher Education. She has toiled for the orphans and founded a Society for the protection of poor four-footed orphans. Indeed this is not half and she has always given her time and energy to every good cause.

Mrs. Gosling was the founder and gave years of work as Secretary and President of the Old Colony Club, a charming place where women can keep in touch with current events. And when "Votes for Women" was most unpopular here and many of us were developing cold feet from all the cold water showered upon us then Mrs. Gosling never faltered but marched steadily forward to the goal. Mrs. Gosling has always been a Suffragette, she has cherished a vision of a better and nobler humanity. May the women of Newfoundland prove worthy of her ideal for them.

BOUQUETS PRESENTED TO THE PRESIDENT.
At the conclusion of Mrs. Ayre's remarks, Janet, her little daughter, appeared on the stage and presented the President with a handsome bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums, a touching incident which the audience heartily applauded.

Mrs. Hutton on behalf of Mrs. Gosling then read the following address: The last time I occupied the chair at a suffrage meeting in St. John's was just a year ago, when the members of the Women's Franchise League were planning and organizing the campaign which was to secure for them the Parliamentary vote. I do not think any of us were unduly optimistic about our success. We had gone through it all before, and we knew by sad experience what the promises of politicians were worth. But our dealings with the Prime Minister had impressed us with a firm belief in his good faith, which afterwards proved more than substantiated. He performed more than he had promised and it is to this vision, his far-sightedness, and his sense of justice, that the women of Newfoundland are no longer classed with criminals, idiots, and other understrable persons. Mr. Monroe has put through some excellent legislation during his administration, but nothing, I think, of such far-reaching consequence, as this extension of the franchise to women. I believe he will be remembered by posterity as the man who gave women the vote! And I hope he will always be proud of it!

But the mere possession of the vote is worthless if we do not use it to good effect. We are now duly accredited citizens to make our citizenship effective. The vote is a great educator. It should help us to gain a wider understanding of public affairs, and a broader outlook for our home life. Our place in national affairs will continue, chiefly, to be the care of home, husband, and children, but as all legislation has some bearing direct or indirect, on home life, our connection with the work of Government is evident. We are deeply concerned in good housing, in sanitation, road making, pure food laws, education, public health, and such matters. We have the same stake in good government as men have; it touches us and our families at every point, and we should put all our common sense and knowledge and energy into seeing that the Government gives us good laws, and enforces them. Women's public work has always been characterized by the spirit of service, and we must not fall now in our political obligations. In other countries where women are enfranchised, one frequently hears that they are apathetic about their votes. The many of them do not use it. I hope that will never be said of us here in Newfoundland.

Women are singularly selfless in their public work. I do not think a group of women ever gathered together to exploit or advance themselves but always to help on some cause, or to minister to the community.

Our chief speaker this evening is Mr. Paton. Some of us have the pleasure of knowing him personally, but all of us are familiar with his fine attainments, and his brilliant intellectual quality, and we realize how fortunate we are in having him with us this evening. We hope to learn from him how we may make the best use of this new weapon, this lever, which has been put into our hand. Paton's first public pronouncement should be on this subject, which is of such great personal interest to us.

MR. PATON'S ADDRESS.

Having expressed his appreciation of the welcome extended to him by Mrs. Gosling and Mrs. Hutton, Mr. Paton said that progress depended upon the co-operation of all, and the assumption that either sex was superior to the other meant that matters remained at a standstill. Each had the same right to contribute to give to the life of all, and it was only by working in this way that the old world could be pushed along. Dealing with the growth of the idea of extending the franchise to women, the lecturer spoke of the effect produced by John Stewart Mill whose logical arguments as to their rights in this respect could not be refuted, but so tardy were the people of Britain in accepting the new idea that the woman grew impatient and resorted to violence which only tended to injure their cause. There were those, however, in the ranks of the woman suffrage movement who were making their influence felt more effectively by the work they were performing in various directions. They were peacefully penetrating the various professions, proving their capacity, showing an intellect equal to that of the other sex and a spirit as strong as that of any man. Then came the war, which, said the speaker, could not have been without them. They displayed not only ability to manage affairs, but heroism and endurance of the highest order, and with the cessation of hostilities it was generally agreed that they had made good their claim to the full rights of citizenship.

"Women," the lecturer remarked, "are not in public life for what they can get out of it, but to help it and make it better for all concerned." A new moral reserve, he said, had been brought into the field of politics by extending the franchise to women, whose point of view in public affairs would always be the home. Some declared this or that the main industry of a country, but he contended, by far the greatest was home making, a fact which was not sufficiently realized. It was an industry which called for not one particular talent but many and it was one in which women had in a great measure to rely upon their own initiative and enterprise. The home remains the first thing and there education is needed, as it is through the child that all reform is brought about and all good begins.

Mr. Paton stated that the rate of infant mortality to-day in London was 56 per thousand births, but ten years ago it was double. This reduction had been largely brought about by child welfare work and the establishment of centres for the care of the mothers before and after birth. Much in this direction remains to be done in this city. Housing lies at the base of almost every social question and it is women who will investigate and see that conditions are made such that every child will have a chance. Child clinics are needed here and also the appointment of women on every school board and deslating the earth, he remarked whereas woman beautifies it. War destroys life, whereas women have always been associated with cherishing and saving it, as instances of which he mentioned Grace Darling, Florence Nightingale and Joan of Arc who saved France. "To-day," said the lecturer, "is the woman's task to save the world."

The whole address was most closely followed by the audience who expressed their appreciation at its close in a fitting manner.

A solo having been beautifully rendered by Mrs. W. R. Warren, Mrs. Hector McNeil briefly referred to the franchise movement which had been inaugurated by Mrs. Gosling and Mrs. Mitchell and paid a great tribute to the Prime Minister Hon. W. S. Monroe through whose influence victory had been won and the bill passed without a dissenting vote, unlike others who had promised but had not fulfilled their promises, he had lived up to his word. In conclusion, she urged the women to make their influence felt in the forthcoming Municipal election.

Mrs. Hutton said that it was a great opportunity for women to come forward as Councillors and trusted that every woman in town would make use of her right to vote.

A vote of thanks to Mr. Paton, proposed by Mrs. Mitchell and seconded by Mrs. (Dr.) Burke, was put by Mrs. Hutton and accorded by acclamation. The meeting then closed with the National Anthem.

The Avalon Agreement

For the information of those who have shown such a keen interest in the changes in rates proposed by the Avalon Telephone Company, we have obtained a copy of the contract entered into with the Government in 1919, and it appears in full in this issue. This is, we believe, the first time it has been published.

Owing to the lack of time to study it carefully were refrained from further comment for the moment, but a casual perusal makes it appear that not only has the Company no authority to adopt the course of procedure of which subscribers have been notified, but that a method of dealing with delinquent subscribers is clearly laid down.

Every sympathy is felt for the company or any other corporation which is given trouble by those who do not pay their bills, but the main objection is to the attempt of the company to enforce payments by methods for which there seems to be no authority.

One other point in connection with the schedule of tolls for the use of trunk lines seems to call for attention. The rates given in the agreement are as follows:

- For each conversation of five minutes or less, where the length of line does not exceed— 5 miles 5 cents 10 miles 10 cents 15 miles 15 cents 20 miles 20 cents 25 miles 25 cents and so on at the rate of 5 cents extra for each additional ten miles or part thereof.

From enquiries made at the Toll Station we are told that the rate to Topsail is 20 cents. Why the difference?

A Soulless Calumny

The letter which appears in another column from the Minister of Agriculture and Mines is a prompt refutation of the baseless charges made yesterday in the Globe with reference to the loss of the schooner Eliza.

Were it the case that no reference had been made to the action of the Government in instituting a search, or if the information had not been forthcoming after proper enquiry, there might have been justification for publishing a calumny that could have no other effect than to harrow the feelings of the bereaved, but under the circumstances the conduct of the writer can only be described as feelingless, and he has shown himself devoid of any feeling in his anxious desire to bring the Government into disrepute.

St. Mary's Young Peoples' Bible Class

On Sunday, October 25th, both the Young Men's and Young Women's Bible Classes of St. Mary's Parish began their meetings for another year in their respective rooms. The members in attendance at both of these classes last Sunday were very encouraging indeed to all interested, and all are optimistic enough to look forward to this year's work as a banner year.

An especially pleasing feature about both classes at the opening was the good sprinkling of new faces in these classes. The new ones were welcomed by the respective leaders, and encouraged to attend the sessions regularly. If these Bible classes increase this year, as we are earnestly hoping they will, we shall soon find ourselves faced with the question as to how to secure more spacious rooms to accommodate them.

A very enthusiastic and largely attended business meeting of the young men's class was held on Monday evening. It was without doubt the best meeting of its kind held since the class first came into being over five years ago.

The treasurer's report was a splendid showing of the earnings of the class last year. After paying for over fifty books in the library and all accounts up to date there was still a balance of nearly $50 on hand. Besides paying the running expenses of the class and leaving such a splendid balance on hand, further evidence of the giving powers of the class is seen by the contributions made to support outside funds. Two donations were made to the Permanent Marine Disasters' Fund last year, and through the medium of the class missionary box the sum of twenty dollars was collected and given to Queen's College as the first contribution to what in future is to be known as "St. Mary's Men's Bible Class Studentship." The Self Denial offering of the class presented last Easter amounted to $136.00 which went to the Diocesan Mission Fund.

The Secretary's Report showed an increase of thirty members last year. The total number on the roll last year was over seventy. The following is the result of the election of officers for the executive for the ensuing year:— President—Mr. K. Payne, re-elected. Vice-Pres.—Mr. H. Skirving. Treasurer—Mr. J. R. Badcock, re-elected. Secretary—Mr. G. Stone. Librarian—Mr. R. G. Stirling, re-elected. Mr. Max Colton was appointed organist and Mr. Ed. Cranford, assistant organist.

Members to the following committees were then appointed: Look Out, Debating, Social, and Sports committees.

The meeting decided to purchase new hymn books, A. & M. for the class, and to provide more seating accommodation to meet the immediate need. Gifts to the class of a table, a dozen bibles, three electric bulbs, were made by individual members of the class and were acknowledged with thanks. The question of purchasing a magic lantern for the class was introduced by the leader, Mr. Goodland. The majority of those present were in favour of doing this, but it was left over for awhile before making a final decision.

The meeting was brought to a close with the Benediction pronounced by Rev. J. Goodland.

A most cordial invitation is extended to all our people—and especially to people interested in the question of Church Union from any of the churches—to be present at the hours named above, so that they may have the privilege and pleasure of listening to one who knows the Union movement from the time of its inception, and is an authority on the whole question.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

Oct. 27th.—Talking this day with my wife, she would have me go to the Eastern Dance, but complains that she knows not what costume to wear. At this, I did tell her that if she would put a little more on with it, that she might be accepted in the best costume circles, which must be her motto. She throws a hair brush at me which does me by but the mere fraction of an inch. So abroad and to the office where busy all the morning save that I did take a little time to have my daily cake of yeast, which I do not excel for my liver. Patiently my wife insists that I accompany her to the meeting that the Women's Suffrage League holds this night, which I was loath to do, but little sympathy with the cause nor am I yet convinced that all the women of the country desire. Nevertheless, the discourse mainly good, and in particular, Mr. Paton gives a fine address, nor indeed, could he do otherwise. Coming home, meet with Forey, who in his mind about the elections, being that he is persuaded to come out as a councillor, yet has little taste for it. But Lord, what a knowing wretch will come in indeed time for pronouncements with the election but six evenings distant.

Magistrate's Court

Two drunks were discharged. A charge of the Gouley was charged with being drunk and disorderly in the settlement on the night of Oct. 7th, and a second charge of maliciously breaking a window in the house of Dr. Stauberman. After the facts of the case had been heard, the accused was convicted and fined $10 on the first charge and $5 on the second.

A Daring Hold-Up

A daring hold-up occurred on New Gower Street this morning when a lady that vicinity proceeding home from one of the banks had her hand bag torn from her grasp by an unknown man. The footpad tore the bag from her grasp by the handle. Fortunately there was only a small sum in coin in the bag as she had taken the precaution to put a sixty dollar cheque which she had cashed, in the pocket.

Fatal Gun Accident at Newtown

Samuel Humphries, a 50-year-old resident of Cape Freels, was shot dead at the home of Abram Rideout, Newtown, last night, through the accidental explosion of a gun which Rideout was repairing. A message from the Postal operator at Newtown, B.B., to Capt. Winsor, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, reports the accident as follows:—Samuel Humphries, Capt. Freels, aged 50, married, was accidentally shot dead at the home of Abram Rideout last night. Rideout was repairing a gun, which accidentally went off.

Sketch and Concert at Aula Maxima

The presentation will take place at the Aula Maxima on November 9th, and judging by the rehearsals which are in progress, the concert will be a most successful one. Capt. O'Grady is directing and this is sufficient guarantee of a successful performance.

Prompt Refutation of Globe's Charges

Dear Sir.—Would you be good enough to publish the enclosed copy of letter sent by me to-day to the Globe. I showed your Mr. O'Reilly all the correspondence in reference to this matter. Yours very truly, W. J. WALSH.

WHY THE NEGLECT?

Dear Sir.—In your issue of yesterday's date occurs an article in your editorial columns bearing the above caption—"Why the neglect?" I beg to ask the same question but applying it in another direction, would you say why you neglected to give proper information before committing yourself to print on a matter of such grave concern? Your ill-advised writing is well calculated to add a grievous sense of injury to hearts already sadly afflicted through loss of loved ones, for you caused them to feel that in the midst of their distress and anguish they were neglected by those whom they trusted to come to their assistance.

Your writing also in a very reprehensible manner is to do injury to the reputations of responsible public men including my humble self. You plainly insinuate, nay, not insinuate, you boldly say that the Government neglected to take measures for the rescue of those driven off to sea in the schooner "Eliza" during the gale of last week. Far from being the case, every active measure that could be taken to effect a possible rescue was at once set in motion on that information being received that the "Eliza" had been driven off or lost track of.

On receipt of message from the father of two of the men on the Eliza if immediately got in touch with Mr. Saunders of the Anglo Office, asking him to service all offices to discover if possible any trace of missing vessel. Postal Telegraphs were also requisitioned and the office of Marine and Fisheries and Colonial Secretary were communicated with. Messages were at once sent to the Captains of the Caribou and Portia asking them to make a diligent search for the vessel. This action was noted in the public Press of the time, and it is surprising you failed to take notice of this.

Copies of all correspondence between the different offices and parties involved—both telegraphic and in writing—are on my desk for your inspection should you wish to confirm my statements that everything humanly possible was done to effect a rescue. I would ask you to give this the same prominence you gave the article complained of. Yours truly, W. J. WALSH. St. John's, Oct. 28th, 1925.

Conviction by Judge Morris Sustained

IN INCOME TAX CASE. The application on the part of Sir Richard A. Squires for a Writ of Certiorari to bring up and quash a conviction for a breach of section 7 of the Income Tax Act of 1918, for which he was fined on September 16th by Judge Morris the sum of $1,000.00, was dismissed in a judgment handed down to-day by the Chief Justice and Mr. Justice Kent, which reads as follows:—

SUPREME COURT. In the matter of an application by Sir R. A. Squires for a Writ of Certiorari to be directed to the Hon. F. J. Morris, Stipendiary Magistrate.

This is an order Nisi, granted upon the application of Sir Richard A. Squires, calling upon the Hon. Frank J. Morris, K.C., one of His Majesty's Stipendiary Magistrates for Newfoundland, to show cause why a Writ of Certiorari should not issue to remove into the Supreme Court for judgment or record of conviction made by him on the 30th day of September last past, whereby the said Sir R. A. Squires was convicted and fined $1,000, imposed upon him in respect of a breach of section 7 of the Income Tax Act, 1918, and a fine of $1,000 was imposed upon him in respect of the same offence.

The ground upon which the application is made is that the Magistrate had no jurisdiction to entertain the summons issued to the said Sir R. A. Squires. Upon the argument, counsel for the applicant drew the attention of the Court to the language of the statute and contended that section 18 and section 9, and he argues that section 18 must prevail to the exclusion of section 9. Section 18 is as follows:—"Except as hereinafter expressly provided, the Court shall have exclusive jurisdiction to hear and determine all questions that may arise in connection with any proceeding taken under this Act, and may award costs in connection therewith."

It is from the earlier section, section 9, which provided for "Summary Conviction," that the Magistrate claims jurisdiction. It is argued that section 9 must be read as subject to section 18, and that the words "summary conviction" are explainable and applicable to this Court, which possesses all civil and criminal jurisdiction. Our attention is drawn to the origin of the Act. It is almost entirely a verbatim transcript of a Canadian Statute, but in section 18 differs from the corresponding section in the Canadian Act by substituting "hereinafter" for "herein". In our amending Statute of 1922, "hereinafter" does not appear, but "herein" is used as in the Canadian Statute from which it was copied. The question presented by this application arises from the use of the word "hereinafter" in this section, and is as to the meaning which should be accorded to that term. Counsel for the respondent argues that, to give it full force would not only give it force which it does not possess, but would also mean, by the use of the word "herein" in its accustomed meaning, but would take from the Minister the power expressly conferred upon him in section 18, of authorizing officers to hold inquiry, who have been given, by this Act, the powers and authority of commissioners, appointed under Chapter 30, of the Consolidated Statutes (second series), entitled "Of Inquiries Concerning Public Masters." A "summary conviction" is, as he points out, a conviction before a Court of Summary Jurisdiction, or in other words, one under the Summary Jurisdiction Act, and that there has to be read as part of this Act, section 11 of the Summary Jurisdiction Act 1879 (42 and 43 Vict. C. 49), which enacts that where in any later Act "any words are used implying that such Act or thing is to be enforced in manner provided by the S.J. Acts," the S.J. Acts shall apply accordingly.

Wesley Young Men's Literary Class

The following resolution was adopted by the Wesley Young Men's Literary Class last night: Resolved: That pleasure has become a menace to the present age. The members for the affirmative were H. W. Spikes and R. Clarke, and for the negative W. Grouchy and R. Bursay. The affirmative claimed that modern pleasure has detracted much from the pleasure of home life. Many financial and physical careers have been ruined through participation in pleasures of a dissipated nature. In fact, pleasure is a nation or individual becomes a seeker after pleasure, failure is the ultimate result. The negative claimed that when pleasure is abused it does not detract from the pleasure of life. All the good things of life are pleasures of mean value. They are necessary to the human race, and pleasure is not immoral. Pleasure is natural and useful, but its abuse of it has caused much trouble. On the vote being taken it was found that the negative had won by a fair majority. Several visitors were present, and after the debate over the Class was favored with a short address from an old member of the person of Mr. Raymond Gaudin, a graduate of Dalhousie, who has received much credit on himself and the Literary Class, by the honours which he has achieved. After the regular business had been gone through, the meeting adjourned until next Tuesday evening at 7.45 p.m.

BILLIARD DINNER TO-NIGHT.

At the Masonic Hall to-night at 8 o'clock the losers in the recent billiard tournament are treating the winners to a patridge supper. Tables will be laid in the splendid banquet room at the Temple and a jolly time is anticipated.

INTER CLUB BILLIARD TOURNAMENT ARRANGED.

A meeting of the B.I.S. and Masonic Billiard Committees took place in the former's club rooms last night, when arrangements were made for the holding of the third annual billiard tournament, between the two clubs, commencing on Monday, Nov. 9. The first round will be played in the B.I.S. rooms, followed by an interval of a week, when the games will be resumed in the Masonic rooms. It has been decided to play 400 up this year, instead of 350 up as formerly. The tournaments in the past created a splendid feeling of fellowship between the two clubs, and we are confident that the same good-fellowship will exist in the forthcoming tournament. The clubs will compete for the cup donated by the Hon. J. R. Bennett, and for the special prize for the highest break donated by Mr. C. J. Fox.

INTER COLLEGIATE FOOTBALL.

The opening game of the third round of the inter collegiate football series takes place at St. George's Field this afternoon, when the Pelidians and Collegians will once again try conclusions. Both teams are in the running for championship honors, and a lively exhibition promises to ensue.

PRESENTATION OF CUP AND MEDALS TO T.A. TEAM.

Champions Junior Football League. At the T.A. Club rooms last night a pleasing function took place when the T.A. football team, champions of the Junior League, were presented with the Higgins-Hunt Cup, besides gold medals to individual members of the team. The presentation was made by W. S. Sparkes, Vice-President of the League, in the presence of a large gathering of followers of the game. Mr. J. Cowley, captain of the team, accepted the trophy, making a pleasing reply. On behalf of the team, he passed the cup over to J. Clancy, President of the T.A. Athletic Association, promising that the team's best efforts would be put forward to again achieve victory next year. Mr. Clancy thanked the members of the team for the honor they brought to the Association, and paid a tribute to the manner in which they set themselves out to annex the honors. He also thanked those who had supported the team and gave them encouragement during the year. A dance programme was then taken up, which was very enjoyable for the many who were present. Interspersing the dances, songs were rendered by Misses C. Walsh and E. Richardson, and Messrs. F. Walsh and G. Woods, besides a recitation by Mr. W. Murphy all being pleasingly rendered and did much to make the evening one of pleasure. The music of the orchestra was a special feature.

PICTOU ACADEMY TAKES 3 TO NIL VICTORY OVER ST. F. X.

Victory Gives Winners Eastern Section of Nova Scotia High School League. NEW GLASGOW, Oct. 23—Pictou Academy seniors captured the Eastern Section of the Nova Scotia Senior Rugby League by scoring a three to nothing victory over the visiting St. Francis Xavier outfit at the New Glasgow Amateur Athletic ground this afternoon. A large crowd, including strong rooting squads from both colleges, kept the interest in the game. Although they put up a stubborn battle all the way, the visiting players were outclassed by the Pictou Academy representatives and only five tackles on the line prevented the score from soaring much higher. The Antigonish players lacked experience and fell far behind on the first points of the game. The excellent co-ordination of the forward and line backfield work gave Pictou the victory. The game was staged under ideal weather conditions, with the field in excellent condition for fast play.

In the first half Pictou forced the playing keeping the play in St. Francis Xavier territory by the forward line work and nice punting by the backfield men. Shortly after the kick-off Murdoch grabbed the ball out of the scrum, passed to Hamilton, who went several yards for the only try of the game. Kolonel failed to convert from a difficult angle, the ball falling short by inches. The game saw-sawed back and forth, with Pictou holding a slight edge in territory but meeting with a stubborn resistance. Pictou stars were again pressing near the St. F. X. goal when the period ended.

Second Half.

Antigonish started off very aggressively in the second period, carrying the play into Pictou territory and holding it there by fine forward line work. Pictou stars were hard pressed to keep the fighting visitors out, but after some long punting the Antigonish players were forced back and the ball stayed in the visitors' territory most of the time until the final whistle. Preston, Dubois and Cotter were the outstanding players for the visitors, and it was the work of this trio that kept the score down. "Dutchy" Hamilton was the Pictou Academy star. He scored the only try, made many brilliant runs and punted like a veteran. So eager was he to score in the second period that he plunged into the St. F. X. line twice with lowered head, being knocked out each time. Rutherford Murray, of the teaching staff of New Glasgow High School, refereed the game in an impartial manner. MacNeil, of Antigonish and Rhenzenier, of Pictou, were touch judges.

The line-up:
PICTOU ACADEMY—C. Chisholm, full back; C. Hamilton, A. MacPherson, T. Ferguson and I. Murdoch, three-quarters; R. Hannah, P. MacDonald, J. Kolonel, halves; A. Irving, E. McClair, A. Smith, M. MacLeod, R. Morrison, D. Murray and H. Thompson, forwards.

ST. FRANCIS XAVIER—Cotter, full back; G. Dubois, B. Burgess, H. Gillis, F. O'Brien, three-quarters; H. Sutherland, J. Preston, C. McKenna, halves; J. Nikosey, J. Campbell, D. MacDougal, H. McCann and L. Beleside, forwards.—Morning Chronicle, Oct. 23.
Note—It will be seen by the line-up two local boys played for St. F. X., Cotter and Nikosey; both being well known in athletic circles here.

U.N.B. ROLLS UP 27 TO NIL SCORE ON MT. ALLISON SQUAD.

Sackville Aggregation is Outclassed by Fast Fredericton Outfit.

FREDERICTON, Oct. 23—University of New Brunswick's Rugby team rolled up a score of 27 to 0 against Mount Allison University in the opening game of the Western Section of the Maritime Provinces Intercollegiate Rugby League here this afternoon before one of the biggest and most colorful gatherings which ever watched a Rugby match at College Field.

U. N. B. had more weight in their forward line, and more speed in all departments, while their back division laid over their opponents in handling as well as in speed in carrying the ball. U. N. B. also outkicked the visitors every time the two backfields matched punting ability and took better advantage of their opportunities. The game was played under ideal weather conditions.

U. N. B. started scoring within two minutes of the commencement of the game, Captain Paul Fraser making the first three points on a drop kick penalty goal. Five minutes later Fraser got U. N. B.'s first try and during the next ten minutes U.N.B. scored two more tries, Chip Sealey carrying the ball over after Jack Babbitt had started the half line off on spectacular long runs, each of the plays being Babbitt to Fraser to Sealey to Sealey. Fraser converted the last two tries, making the half time score 16 to 0.

U. N. B. was slow getting started in the second half and eighteen minutes had elapsed before Sealey got the first try of the period and the fourth of the game on another end run similar to those of the first period, but not so elaborate. Fraser failed to convert that try, which was from a difficult angle. He made the next try count five points, however, when "Pie" Currie planted the ball behind Mount Allison's goal posts by going through an opening around the scrum before the visitors knew what had happened. Sealey also scored the sixth and final try of the game less than ten minutes before time expired on another end run, but he couldn't carry the ball to a position from which there was any chance for Fraser to convert.

The line-ups:
U. N. B.—Forwards, McLennan, Woods, Dunsell, MacAnlay, O'Dell, McPhail and Donohue; quarters, Keene, Currie and Babbitt; halves, Sealey, Fraser (Capt.), Steep and McCaffrey; fullback, Hickson.
M. A.—Forwards, Patrey, Hesthly,

SIDE TALKS.

A MAGIC FOUR DOLLARS.

My neighbor is a lucky woman. Al- so her husband is a lucky man. For my neighbor, during the last two years has been earning some money all therefore does not need to depend en- tirely upon her husband for money, and that, of course, lifts a little of the economic burden of his shoulders. I know it does, for she told me so. She also told me in an expansive mo- ment how much she earns—$4 a week giving music lessons to four young- sters.

Of course that is nice, but I am be- ginning to think her talents are lost in that job. She ought really to give it up and find a position as purchas- ing agent for some big firm, for I never in my life heard of any $4 a week that accomplishes such wonders as hers.

Just The Things She Has Told Me About.

These are some of the things that it has bought a radio on the install- ment plan. "I felt that would be splen- did to keep the children home nights and it's only $8 a month and I couldn't think of any better way to use my money."

I paid the difference between the $35 winter street frock she would nor- mally buy and a $75 one which in- trigued her. "Of course, my dear, I shouldn't expect John to buy me such an expensive frock but now I'm earn- ing money I felt I could pay a little more than usual. And of course it's economy in the long run." A good thing keeps its lines so well, I expect to wear this three or four seasons." It pays for having the flat laundry work put out. "Of course I could do it but if I can earn a dollar an hour giving music lessons it's foolishness to use my time that way."

"Of Course With My Extra Money" It is sending little sister to dancing school, though she was not scheduled to go for another year. "But she is so graceful and cunning and she begged so hard to go when Milly went that I just couldn't resist. And of course with my extra money."

It buys her Christmas and birthday gifts for her husband and the children. "I'm going to give John a new chair this Christmas. That one he sits in is so shabby and I had a man here to see what it would cost to recover it and he said it would be $11. And for $25 I could get a wonderful chair that John would love. Of course I wouldn't naturally spend as much as that. It is such a comfort to have some money of your own to spend."

And Helps Her Husband, Too

And on top of buying all these ex- tras that would not otherwise be bought, it lightens the economic load for her husband and thus makes up to him for the cold meal she has to give him the day she comes back late from the music lesson the other side of the city.

Don't you agree that she is wasting her talents as a giver of music les- sons? She and some of the other wo- men who accomplish similar miracles with their economic contribution. You see I wrote about her not because she was an individual but because I sus- pect she is not an unusual type. Did you ever meet her?

An Admiral's Suggestion For Popular- izing Work.

"The present unsatisfactory condi- tion of British industries is largely due to the fact that wages and play are far more complementary to each other than wages and work, and that the young of both sexes when they leave school and begin life have from some reason, absorbed the idea that all work is boring and uninteresting. In fact, merely a means of killing time between the hours of sleep and recreation," says Rear-Admiral Walter Lunan, writing from Pitcairne Castle to the Times.

"Now I am going to suggest that the best way of changing this trend of ideas is to start a campaign. In which the Press might take a very leading part) to popularise work and industry, and by so doing help to re- habilitate British industries and to place Britain once more at the head of manufacturing countries without lowering wages or extending hours of work further than would meet with general acceptance by those con- cerned.

"Beef Extract" Manufactured From Fish Refuse

A way has been found to make an extract resembling that of beef out of fish refuse. At Boulogne-sur-Mer, France, tons of refuse left on shore daily by fishing fleets used to be given away to fertilizer manufacturers. In the future these manufacturers will have to compete with a canning company that wants it for the new food product. Rights to make the ex- tract have been obtained for the United States.

Say Germans Are Boiling War Bodies

New York, Oct. 20.—The sensation- al report that Germany was boiling down the bodies of her dead soldiers of the Great War to utilize the fats for fertilizer was started in China. Brig-General J. V. Charteris, war time Chief of the British Intelligence Unit, and author of the story, said in an address here last night, reveal- ing the origin of the tale for the first time.

The Will

There comes a time in the life of every man when he must leave his worldly possessions to the care of another. In anticipation of this, therefore, the first obligation resting on an individual who is possessed of property is the making of a will, and this should be done before the capacities become impaired by time or the ravages of disease.

Discomforts and Difficulties in the Rif War

By CLARKE ASHWORTH.

"It is so hot, tres bien battant!" A high-lipped lieutenant was spitting over a line that had not been in existence an hour or two before. The dull boom of field pieces, and the rattle of the mitrailleuses, which were making a noise somewhere between the sound of a busy woodpecker and the pleasant excitement of a boiler factory, rendered conversation difficult. Two wounded men sat on the ground beside us while their ambulance driver changed a bullet-wounded leg with a speed that would surprise even an automobile mechanic. I saw them smile in satisfied fashion as the lieutenant told of the progress of the battle. These were two German soldiers from the French Foreign Legion, and it was of the valor of their battalion that the officer spoke to the staff headquarters in Taza nearly twenty miles away.

It was near the French front in Morocco. A French force had been surrounded in the hills, and a column, at which the Legion was a large part, was fighting its way through to rescue them. Another column was fighting through from the other side. The same thing occurs every day in the Rif against the Rifis.

The Rif war is not a small affair, comparable to our own Boer War, and in type of fighting, although the French have more difficult country to cover than was experienced in South Africa. The area north of Taza is particularly bad. In company with two French officers I visited it on the day of the attack already mentioned. We started from staff headquarters at Taza, where telephone calls were coming in every few minutes with the story of the hotly resisted advance. More ambulances were needed in a hurry, so our automobile left the great Moorish gate of the old city with three small touring cars following us. They bore the insignia of the red cross, and were more or less fitted up for the carrying of wounded.

The cavalcade halted at a roadside depot, where scores of motor trucks, coated with grey dust, were being repaired or loaded. Our chauffeur, who had gone into a shed, returned with four or five rifles, which were put in the car ready for use at a moment's notice. Someone carelessly threw in a big wooden box of cartridges just under the seat which I occupied. "Bonnie chance," said the depot officer quietly, as he shook hands with each of our two lieutenants, and with that we were off.

Black and White All Alike.
The road soon turned into little more than a mule path. The military authorities were building bridges, but we were able to avail ourselves of no such luxury. Every few minutes we came to a little stream, usually approached by sharply sloping banks. Down we went, bumping and grunting, with the box of cartridges bouncing merrily around the floor under my seat. The car splashed through the streams, sometimes throwing up perilously in the deep mud. But always as we seemed to be hopelessly stalled, the engine gave one last terrific effort and hauled us jerkily up the steep bank on the other side. The three ambulances followed us in determined fashion. Once out of the beds of the streams we went along enveloped in great clouds of dust. It is easily to see why fighting in this impossible in the wet season, for the mud on such tracks must be inches deep.

A puff of wind momentarily blew some of the dust away from in front of us, and we saw a long line of khaki winding its way up a hill. The line resolved itself, on closer approach, into a battalion of black Senegalese, who grinned and waved their rifles at us as we swayed past. Every man was covered with dust from head to foot; until it was almost impossible to tell the blackest negro from the fair-haired officers who marched with them. The men's packs were piled in little two-wheeled carts drawn by mules, making the loads lighter in the burning sun.

We turned aside into an even worse track at a place where the concrete signpost had been chipped and scarred by bullets. Three tribesmen had sheltered themselves behind it—until they died. Piles of cartridge boxes lay nearby.

A French camp nestled at the foot of a high slope. Men were digging horizontal paths across the face of the slope, for use in defense against a possible attack. The captain in charge of the camp insisted that we have a glass of wine with him. He told me in good English, that he had played football for France against England. As we chatted with him and his lieutenant, a procession of natives passed us, the men riding on top of great bundles borne by diminutive donkeys, the women staggering under heavy packs. Men and women alike wore long garments, the men with hoods which some of them had put over their heads. These were members of the local "friendly" tribe, bringing in booty which the enemy had dropped in a hasty retreat.

The country became wilder as we proceeded. Great bare hills reared their heads above us, as we crept along a narrow river valley. Some of the peaks were two thousand feet high or more. Bleached grass or copper-colored wheat grew on the lower slopes, with occasional dust-covered trees shading low mud dwellings. The hills were not continuous, but thrown here and there over the country. If the great heaps of refuse which accumulate outside blast furnaces could be multiplied vastly in size and number, turned sandy grey in color and raised indiscriminately all over the country, it might give something the same effect.

Wounded Suffer Tortures.

The car plowed its way up a steep hill, through the dust, and swung around a curve to face a strange group. A grey camel ambled along with a young one by its side, both laden with heavy bundles. Behind the yellow animals, whose race has paddled along these Moroccan roads for a thousand years or more, came two land battleships. Their steel plates were covered with dust until they faded into the color of the road. Each bore a turret from which projected the grim snout of a mitrailleuse, pointing straight at us. Armored cars they were, or as the French call them, "auto-mitrailleuses." And sitting on the turret of the foremost car, with the gun pointing out between his knees, was a dusty but smiling Frenchman. His clothes were torn, and around one of his legs was a bandage soaked with blood. But he was smiling.

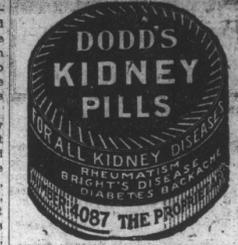

Our cavalcade and the armored cars came to a sudden stop. There was a short and excited conversation, a quick order or two, and one of the ambulances elevated around and backed up to the second auto-mitrailleuse. From the interior careful hands lifted the body of a man. At first we thought he was dead, for he was pale as death itself. But as they laid him in the ambulance a piteous groan was torn from him. We looked at each other, the same thought occurring to all of us—if this was agony for the wounded man, what of the bumpy passage over the terrible road back to Taza. One of the officers shrugged his shoulders. "Quelle horreur!" he said sadly. "Mais, c'est la guerre."

Another limp form was lifted out, his chest swathed in stained bandages. He, too, gasped as they carried him to the ambulance. Escorted by the foremost armored car, whose wounded passenger was still smiling on his lony post, the little car started back along the road.

The other car wheeled around and under orders from one of my companions preceded us at a few yards distance. The remaining two ambulances kept close behind.

"Where were the men wounded?" I asked. "A little way ahead," he said wearily. "It is necessary now to have the auto-mitrailleuse for protection."

We were soon caught in a dust cloud as effective as any smoke screen. The noise of the cars, running in low gear over the difficult road, which in more than one place had been cut by the enemy and hastily repaired, would have made it impossible to hear if any lone sniper had taken a shot at us. More than once there was a sharp crack on the mudguard or running board. Probably these were caused by stones thrown up by the wheels. In this connection, however, we noticed when we dismounted that a bullet had flattened itself out on the running board about two feet from the box of cartridges; but whether this souvenir was there before or even the chauffeur could say.

Absolute Desolation.

The car was now traversing land which had been Rif territory early in the day. Signs of a fierce struggle which had wrested its ownership from Abd-El-Krim were plentiful; empty cartridge boxes lying around, occasional shell holes, hastily constructed entrenchments. A clump of lauriers roses, with clusters of beautiful pink blossoms, were broken and bedraggled, where evidently the cavalry had ridden through them.

A cloud that was not dust rose from a group of square mud dwellings beside the road as we turned a corner. A little hamlet had been set on fire, either by French shells or by the retreating tribesmen. Now it was little more than a smoking ruin. Further on, the columns of smoke became more numerous, with tongues of flame here and there. Soon every dwelling visible, and there were many on all sides of us, was burning, the dirty white smoke mingling with dust clouds to cast a gloomy mist over the desolated country. It is almost impossible to convey the tragedy, the absolute desolation, which brooded over the scene. Most of those burning buildings had been the scenes of fierce fighting. Two or three Rifians occupied each bit of shelter snipping at the approaching Legionnaires until blown up by artillery or bayoneted by the legionnaires who climbed the slopes with grim determination. Many of the houses in sight contained the bodies of the fighters, just as they had fallen.

We passed an aeroplane which had come down for lack of gasoline. A dozen men in dust-grey khaki guarded it against the attack which might come at any minute. One of them shyly called "cigarettes," as we bumped past, and there was a concerted rush for the half-emptied packet which was thrown out.

The field telephone station, which group a great tree beside the path, to occupy a position on the height. When the artillery changed its aim we could see a squadron of cavalry charge down toward the huts which had been bombarded to ride around and past them without any apparent resistance. The shells had done their work.

Offered His Water Bottle.

Half a dozen French soldiers, two of them with wounded hands, came swinging down the road accompanied by four prisoners. The prisoners were tribesmen, not Rifians, for they wore white cloaks, instead of the black of the Rifis. They were the color of black coffee, and their white teeth showed as they grinned at us.

Two auto-mitrailleuses, the one which had conveyed us up, and another from the same company, stood beside us waiting for orders. The guns ceased their chatter for a moment, and to the general amusement the cockling of a hen was plainly audible from the nozzles of the two cars. The young sergeant who leaned against the hood laughed, and, turning to me, said in excellent English, "A couple of passengers we picked up on the road."

He was only the second man I had found in two days who spoke English. It was unusual to find an armored-car driver so accomplished, and I asked him where he learned the language. "Oh, I was brought up in the States," he said. "I went to Columbia University, and used to spend my summers in Canada."

The boy was only twenty years old. He was going his term of military service, and had just 38 days to go before it was finished. He remarked that the wounded man we had seen removed from his car an hour before had been hurt in the first attack, and had been lying on the hills since four o'clock that morning—nearly twelve hours—until their cries attracted the men in the passing armored car. No wonder they were groaning when we saw them moved.

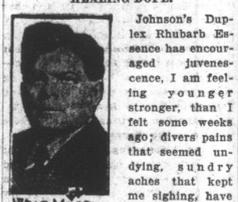

The boy introduced his lieutenant, a smiling, fair-haired Frenchman, burned red by the sun, and with a week's beard. We must have looked hot and dusty, for he offered us his water bottle, inviting us to drink. Working since four o'clock in the oven like interior of those steel cars, miles from the nearest drinking water, probably parched with thirst himself, he offered us what must have been almost the last of his bottle. A generous act. But, probably to his relief, we denied any thirst.

The lieutenant explained that his command started out every day at dawn and worked until darkness fell. They led the attacks, and were liable to be called out at any time during the 24 hours to help in defense. "But," he concluded with a smile, "our morale—it is very good!"

Just then the telephonist ran up with a message from headquarters for the lieutenant. "In a moment he was snapping out orders. 'Au revoir,' he exclaimed. "Good-bye," said the young sergeant, and a minute later the two cars were roaring along the bumpy road with the ever-present cloud of dust rising around them, bound for the fight once more.—Sunday Leader.

HEALING DOPE.

WALT MARON

Johnson's Duplex Rhubarb Essence has encouraged juvenescence, I am feeling younger, stronger than I felt some weeks ago; divers pains that seemed undying, sundry aches that kept me sighing, have departed from my bosom, from my shoulderblade and toe. In the morning, when I'm hollow, and before each meal I swallow half a pint of Johnson's Essence, and it fits me for the fray; once my step was slow and halting but to-day you see me vaulting, over hedges, trees and fences, like a chamois blithe and gay. Old Doc Doodle says, "By thunder, often I'm impelled to wonder how a man of your attainments can be fooled by dope like that; rhubarb has no healing virtue; when I say it may not hurt you, I have given praise sufficient. It's a fake, inert and flat. Take a million tons and press it; take the juice and deftly dress it in all sorts of gaudy labels, and no ailment will it heal; yet this dope you are consuming, and its merits you are booming, boasting it to all and sundry, telling men how good you feel." "You are wise and scientific," I remark in tones pertific, "and my faith in Rhubarb Essence may be purely a mistake; but if I believe it's curing all my ailments long enduring, then does it matter whether it's a blessing or a fake. If my spavins are receding, if my gunbolls cease their bleeding, if I've no ingrowing whiskers while this Essence I consume, all the doctors may denounce me, but I'll swig the helpful Essence, and its virtues I will boom."

Peking, Oct. 22.—Generals of the Chekiang forces which have wrested practically all of Kiang Su province from the troops of Marshal Chang Tso Liang; the Manchurian leader, claim that they captured 7,000 of Chang's men near Nanking, where the Manchurian forces, retreating northward, crossed the Yangtze River.

Autograph-Telegrams Popular

Belfograph, the system of sending photographs of autographed telegrams by wire, is becoming popular in Europe. The cost of sending an autographed telegram has been reduced in France to 25 cents.

Many advantages are pointed out for this new type of telegram. Messages need not be translated for transmission. One hundred words can be written easily on a form and so as a single photograph. The sender can be sure that his message will be delivered exactly as he wrote it and the receiver can identify the sender by his own signature.

Moreover, the transmission is declared to be very rapid.

An EASTERN CAP

Negotiation for Reunion OF THE CHURCHES SUSPENDED.

BIG ADVANCE TROUGH VIRTUAL AGREEMENT ON MATTERS OF FAITH, BUT DISAGREEMENT ON THE QUESTION OF THE REORDINATION OF FREE CHURCH MINISTERS.

The Committee of the Council of the Free Churches, which has been discussing the questions of re-union with the Church of England, based on the appeal made four years ago at the Lambeth Conference, has decided to suspend its sittings. Although considerable advance has been made, as both sides agree, the question of the reordination of ministers of the Free Churches, which is considered essential on the one side, cannot be accepted by the representatives of the Free Churches.

Speaking at Heaton Mersey recently by the Rev. Dr. J. D. Jones, one of the leading representatives of the Free Churches, in a speech recorded in the Manchester Guardian, said:—

Agreement on Matters of Faith.

"In matters of faith the Re-union Conference has discovered that there was little difference between them. There was, in fact, sufficient agreement to justify them in working together in many ways. There was also a considerable measure of agreement in other things. It was recognized that Free Church ministers were true ministers of the Word and of the Sacraments in the Holy Catholic Church. That was the biggest admission since the Reformation.

"The logical consequence was that they were able to minister in one another's pulpits, and during the last nine months he had preached in the cathedrals of Canterbury, Liverpool, and Hereford. He did not say that would be general yet awhile, for the bishops laid down certain other conditions, but the interchange of pulpits represented a tremendous change in the relationships of the Churches as compared with twenty years ago."

"The Free Church Council, it is worth observing, seems to accept the conclusions of the Lambeth Committee on the supposition that all three elements of Church order—Bishop, presbyter, and people—are to be given their due weight. If the acceptance of this standpoint demanded real liberality of view on the part of Free Church leaders, as it plainly did, the other burning question tested the statesmanship of the Anglican representatives," says the Times.

A Fine Liberality Of View.

"Granted that there were to be

Bishops in the reunited Church, what line was to be taken touching those in the Free Churches who are perfectly content with the credentials of the ministry they are at present so fruitfully exercising? It is to the credit of those who spoke for the Church of England that they showed themselves capable of no less liberality of view than their friends on the other side. The Free Church Council is able to point to a striking statement made by the Anglican representatives.

"Basing their opinion on the appeal of the Lambeth Conference of 1920, they lay it down that ministries which imply a sincere intention to preach Christ's Word and administer the Sacraments as Christ has ordained, and to which authority so to do has been solemnly given, are real ministries in the Universal Church. The Free Church conclusion that this statement removes any necessity for the re-ordination of such ministers, even sub conditions, seems to the ordinary observer one that is obvious and natural and indeed even irresistible.

"The point that has been reached has been the result of prolonged and intimate discussion on the part of men of outstanding ability and intelligence. It is a point for which, unfortunately, the rank and file in all the Churches are by no means as yet prepared. The arguments that have convinced those who met at Lambeth need stating and explaining and reiterating in every town and village, in every church and chapel in the country.

A Plea For A Great Campaign.

"A great campaign of enlightenment is wanted. Time presses; the days in which we live are not ordinary. The forces of disruption and destruction are active. The power of construction, of co-operation, of the ingemination of reason and of a right view of human relationships that would spring from a united Christianity within our land is enormous."

"Each side has made its advance. The Free Churchmen have agreed that in the United Church of the future there must be a constitutional episcopacy, place being given to elements of Presbyterian and Congregational order. The Anglicans on their side have admitted that the ministries of the Free Churches, where certain conditions are fulfilled, are 'real ministries of Christ's Word and Sacraments,'" comments the Sunday Times.

"Both the Free Church and the Anglican leaders have travelled bravely forward, now they look round, and to their dismay find they have not been followed. The strong Churchman, or Free Churchman, is not ready to give a blank cheque to his leaders. He talks darkly of his fear lest they sell the pass. That is why these leaders, recording the mark which they had own followers."

Blaming The Anglo-Catholics.

"How can we explain this lamentable result, this melancholy climax to so many eager hopes and earnest prayers?" asks the British Weekly. "It has come about through powerful partisan forces, working to some extent out of sight. Millions of Christian hearts thrilled in response to the Lambeth Appeal, because that Appeal was not afraid to put first things first. It laid emphasis on spiritual rather than on ecclesiastical values.

"The Church of England, however, includes a large and influential section who sincerely believe otherwise. And within that Church itself much has happened since the Lambeth Conference. As soon as they saw the possibility of home reunion the Anglo-Catholics took alarm. During these last five years they have done their utmost to prevent its accomplishment.

"They muttered threats of instant secession if any minister untouched by episcopal hands were suffered to take part in conducting an Anglican Communion service. Their claims and their practices within the Church of England have risen rapidly to a high pitch which, we venture to say, the bishops assembled at Lambeth hardly dreamed of.

"This Anglo-Catholic party—aggressive, arrogant, intolerant, contemptuous of every bishop who tries to curb its extravagances—can now take to its credit, or discredit, that it has postponed home reunion indefinitely, and at any rate for a generation."

Must Function as a Separate Unit

United Church of Manitoba Decided to Stand Alone in Religious Council

Winnipeg, Oct. 22.—Following a heated debate, the Manitoba conference of the United Church here today passed a resolution calling upon the United Church to function "as a unit" in the religious education council of Manitoba. So strong was the opposition voiced by several of the delegates that a serious cleavage was threatened.

Sir James Aikens, Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, supported by a number of other delegates, questioned the right of the conference to determine this point. It was contended by the opposition that the provincial conference would be establishing a dangerous precedent in committing itself to any programme over the policies of which it had no control.

Canada's Thirst Increases

London, Oct. 21.—Whiskey shipments to Canada are on the increase, according to the figures published recently in Harper's Wine and Spirit Gazette, but less liquor is being drunk in England as a whole. In the report trade during August there was an increase of 66,450 gallons of whiskey in shipments to Canada, although this was more than counter balanced by a sum of 74,445 gallons in shipments to Germany.

The report figures for the eight months of 1925 were 4,686,201 gallons and for the corresponding period in 1924 and 1925 were 5,455,923 and 5,012,423 gallons respectively. According to the estimate of the Gazette, the present whiskey consumption in the United Kingdom is little more than 11,000,000 proof gallons, which is less than a third of the amount consumed twenty-one years ago.

Bud Fisher Will Marry a Countess

CREATOR OF MUTT AND JEFF TO WED WEALTHY WIDOW.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Mutt and Jeff now appear in the role of match-makers. Their creator, "Bud" Fisher, is going to get married next week and he says Mutt and Jeff are partly responsible.

The future Mrs. Harry C. Fisher is not only wealthy, the winner of a Paris beauty prize in 1922, but a countess. Fellow passengers on the Leviathan, which arrived yesterday, who saw the cartoonist talking with the Countess Aedita de Beaumont, did not suspect that they were discussing matrimony and a honeymoon. On landing Fisher went to his apartment and the countess registered at a hotel with her seven-year-old son, Pierre de Beaumont.

The bride-to-be says it all came through her son's fondness for the Mutt and Jeff Cartoons. "Naturally, she says, when my boy was so interested it increased my interest."

The former Aedita Stuart of Paris married the Count de Beaumont in 1917. Her father-in-law was reputed before his death to be the wealthiest nobleman in France. The countess has lived in Paris since her husband's death and it was there that she met Fisher, three years ago.

Fisher who was married in 1912 to Pauline Welsh, a vaudeville actress, and divorced by her in 1917, returned six weeks ago from a trip to Paris, "expecting a decision." The decision came by cable and he hurried back to Paris.

Fisher says that he and his bride expect to "live on a steamer between New York and Paris. You can put us down as commuters from Paris to New York," he says.

Siam's Fighting Fish Can Don a "War Paint"

Among new arrivals in the aquarium at the Regent's Park Gardens in London are a number of fighting fish from Siam, says the London Post. These tiny warriors are extremely interesting, not only from their own warlike habits, but from the fact that the Siamese still hold properly organized contests with them, under fixed and strictly drawn up rules, in very much the same way as cock fighting was formerly conducted in England.

Years ago, before slavery was abolished in Siam, they even went further than one would think any "sport" could possibly be worth, for sometimes the liberties of warlike fish might depend upon the hazardous result of one of these fish battles. Very heavy odds were often laid on the prowess of a favorite fish, and after losing all his fortune, a gambler would not hesitate to stake his children, one after the other, until perhaps, it might happen that his unfortunate offspring were all sold into slavery before the day was out.

The fish are scarcely more than a couple of inches in length, and usually, when not in fighting trim, they are of a plain drab-grey. But when two males met to do battle for their mates, then they put on their full war paint, and their bodies glow with brilliant shades of crimson, gold, green, orange and violet. They rush at each other with fury, and when the victor has finally overcome his enemy, his Joseph's coat of many colors becomes more dazzling still as he passes up and down with the arrogant air of a conqueror. The vanquished warrior, on the other hand, even if not badly wounded, quickly loses all his war paint, and finally slinks away in the deepest garb.

In the organized games, no defeated fish is ever permitted to fight again. Sometimes the fighting fish may be kept in their paint box garb when no fighting is in contemplation; for they are somewhat chameleon-like in disposition, though they take their coloring not from their surroundings but from their mood. There is one particularly pretty member of this interesting family in the aquarium which nearly always glows with a lovely shade of deep carmine or crimson-lake. When about to rush upon a foe, one can imagine his coloring must be superb indeed.

Outbreak of Hoof and Mouth Disease

CLOSES PORT TO CATTLE. Montreal, Oct. 22.—Local cattle shippers have been advised that owing to an outbreak of foot and mouth disease in the vicinity of Manchester, England, the port of Manchester has been closed to Canadian and Irish cattle. Only cattle now at sea and those for immediate slaughter on landing will be permitted to land at this port until the disease has been cleared up.

Dr. Moore, local representative of the Federal Department of Agriculture, said to-day that this embargo did not apply to Canadian cattle in any of the other British ports and said that it was a purely local condition at Manchester.

MINARD'S KING OF PAIN LINIMENT

Dean Inge of "The Ludicrous"

"I once raised the question whether we are right in supposing that the Deity has no sense of humour. The lack of it is generally regarded as a defect in human character, and it is a defect which most of us are annoyed to be charged with," writes Dean Inge in the Morning Post in a notable article on "The Ludicrous."

"There may be some saints who have lacked it, but if the saint has a great advantage to him. Why, then, should we think it derogatory to the Deity? There is a curious (and quite isolated) sentence in Proclus, the latest of the Greek philosophers. The laughter of the gods gave substance to the contents of the world."

"Looking at the matter without prejudice, we might suppose that certain animals, such as the hippopotamus, the mandrill, and the skunk, were probably created for a joke, and we may have sometimes had the same suspicion about some of our own species."

"The question is not a frivolous one, for it affects our attitude to life generally. We are encouraged to believe that the beauty of the world affords aesthetic satisfaction to its Creator, or, as we might put it more correctly, is a reflection of one of the attributes of His nature."

"It is impossible that the fun, the harmless incongruities of life, may also be willed by, and acceptable to, our Maker? If so, the religious mind is not bound to make life more tragic and solemn than it appears to be, and laughter holding both his sides."

German Proves That Moses Lived

EGYPTOLOGIST READS SINAI TABLETS.

BERLIN, October 23.—Through the research efforts of a German Egyptologist, it is claimed that the existence of Moses the great Jewish law giver, has been established and the historic origin of the Ten Commandments apparently has been determined.

Prof. Grimme, the scientist who makes the claims, has announced that he had succeeded in deciphering the Hebrew tablets which were found on Mount Sinai in 1905 by the English archaeologist, Flinders Petri. Grimme declares the deciphered tablets convey the thanks of Moses for his rescue from the Nile by the Pharaoh's daughter. If this were true, much of the atmosphere of legend which many have believed surrounded the story of Moses would be removed.

Numerous German scientists herald Grimme's achievements as of great importance. They point out that if Grimme has discovered the key to the language of the tablets found by Petri, and has connected them with Moses, this apparently would dispel the doubts which have surrounded the historic origin of the Ten Commandments. The characters on the tablets discovered by Petri resembled closely the Hebrew of the Bible and would indicate definitely that the Commandments were the work of Moses.

Scientists agree, however, that the elimination of these doubts necessitates further study of the Sinai tablets. An expedition of Sinai has been proposed as a result of Grimme's announcement. It is not believed the British, who control this Biblical territory, will object.

AT THE FAIR

The popularity of the Mercantile and Industrial Fair continues with ever-increasing interest, and since the first night of opening upwards of eight thousand people have passed through the buildings. All the booths attracted much attention last night and those in charge were very courteous to the visitors, explaining everything that was desired. A large number of Outport visitors who arrived by Monday's express, attended the Fair yesterday, and were well pleased with the excellence of the exhibits. It is expected that some hundreds will arrive from the nearby outports within the next day or two. The dancing gallery was well patronized last night and the music by the Prince's Orchestra helped to make the time pass enjoyably for all who attended. The Methodist Guards Band supplied the music in the Prince's Rink, and it was greatly appreciated by those present.

C. A. HUBLEY & CO.
Messrs. C. A. Hublely & Company have a booth well arranged in which there are displayed plumbing utensils, heating apparatus, and other appliances, besides a display of pipes, and pipe fitting, covering, etc. Especially interesting exhibits are an Arco Furnace, a Duro Pump, and an installation of the Dunham system of heating. The display is of such a quality that many orders have been received by the firm since the booth opened.

DIRECT AGENCIES, LTD.
The booth of this company is one of the most attractive of the Fair. An especially interesting exhibit is the Vecto Pipeless Heater, manufactured by the American Rodiation Company. This heater burns either hard coal or wood and is capable of heating ten rooms or from 8 to 12,000 cubic feet. There is little or no ashes left behind and there is a saving of from 25% to 30% coal. The cold air goes in through the sides and the hot air passes out from on top, which makes a perfect radiation. The heat can be controlled by a regulator in front. A large number of these heaters have been sold in this country, and in every case have given entire satisfaction. The manufacturers are the largest of their kind in the world with a very interesting reputation. The exhibition includes a high class line of Remington rifles and accessories, as well as the Foamite Fire Extinguisher. Some very interesting views of the Foamite in action are to be seen at the booth.

One of the leading features of Mr. Kean's exhibit is a dainty assortment of Neco confectionery, manufactured by the New England Confectionery Company. Vicks Vapo Rub, a famous cold remedy, is also included in the display. There is a great demand for this cold cure in the market, and it is Mr. Kean's intention to distribute 10,000 samples packages to householders in the city next week. Zonite, a new disinfectant is also carried by this enterprising business man. Zonite is 100% stronger than Carbolic Acid and is non-poisonous. The booth is a popular one and Mr. Kean is to be complimented on the results of his efforts.

BISHOPS.
For up-to-date suitings and men's clothes at a price within reach of all pockets, it would be a wise plan for all the gentlemen who patronize the Fair to take a look at Bishops Booth. The clothes shown are all of British manufacture, and of all colours and grades of materials. The display is a very artistic and well arranged one, and on every piece of cloth, suit or overcoat the price can be seen in plain figures.

It will seal without solder, and can open, rechange and re seal containers. With it all kinds of fruits, vegetables, fish and meats may be canned without risk of spoilage. By the pressure methods shown, a "boiled" dinner can be cooked in half the time it takes in ordinary boiling.

The Company has its factory of Hamilton Street and does an extensive business in the manufacture of containers for local packers. In addition to the ordinary flats for packing lobster or salmon they make a lacquered tin for putting up acid fruits. Slip on cover cans for tea samples, powders, grease, putty, etc. are also made in any size required. It supplies hot water instantaneously to any part of the house by simply turning on the tap. It is of the automatic type and is manufactured in Loraine, Ohio. The booth has been the centre of attraction for the past week.

MOREY & CO.
This firm has a splendid showing of coals in diamond shaped heaps, arranged on an inclined platform. All sizes of Anthracite are shown. Besco coke and Sydney coal are also displayed. As well the firm's motto, "Morey's coal is good coal."

Bebe Daniels in "Dangerous Money"
CELEBRATED STAR AT THE MAJESTIC TO-DAY.

If picture titles mean anything, then fans have a treat coming in Paramount's "Dangerous Money," which is scheduled for showing at the Majestic Theatre to-night. If there was a title that smacked of action and romance, this is it!

And the cast of players lends color to the belief that the photoplay is chock-full of the aforementioned ingredients. For example, there's Bebe Daniels, the star of the production, and where Bebe is, you are sure to find romance. Tom Moore is the stalwart, handsome hero, so it's easy to see where the action comes from. Add a vampish-looking female in the person of Dolores Cassinelli and a sophisticated villain, portrayed by William Powell, and you begin to realize that there's going to be plenty of excitement.

Those who read Robert Herrick's story, "Clarke's Field," from which the picture was adapted by Julie Herne, know that it has romantic atmosphere and that rare, elusive quality—charm. It concerns a poor little boarding house starveling who leads a Cinderella-like existence until Fate transforms her into an heiress. The thought that money can buy anything, almost leads her to her destruction, but in the end, she wins out against adverse odds and finds happiness with her childhood sweetheart.

Miss Daniels has a role that allows her full scope for her unique talent. Add to that the fact that it is her first starring role, and it isn't difficult to believe the advance reports that credit her with giving one of the best performances of her notable screen career.

The picture is Frank Tuttle's first for Paramount.

Every woman should remember that the most successful remedy for such conditions is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which for fifty years has been restoring women to health, strength and happiness.

Last Showing of "Unguarded Women" To-Night

To-morrow's Feature, Edgar Selwyn's Renowned Play "Mirage," Featuring Clive Brook and Florence Vidor.

"Unguarded Women," the latest celluloid opus from the Paramount organization, which finishes its run at the Nickel Theatre to-night, successfully proves two theories. It offers conclusive evidence that there are men of honor still left in this world of storm and strife; secondly, it shows that certain members of the female of the species absolutely need the strong will and protecting arm of an honest, dependable man to guard them against their own innate frivolousness which is ever-ready to plunge them into the sea of disaster.

Alan Crosland, entertainment-maker extraordinary, directed the picture. The intelligent acting of Bebe Daniels, Richard Dix, Mary Astor and the other members of the admirable cast that includes Walter McGrall, Frank Losee, Harry Mestayer and Joe King, and the vivid charm and color of the grounds coupled with flawless photography make "Unguarded Women" an ideal screen entertainment. By all means see it!

To-morrow's attraction is Edgar Selwyn's renowned stage play, "The Mirage," featuring Florence Vidor and Clive Brook. Watch for "The Monster"—coming soon to this theatre.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Early and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it is as equal for prompt results. It has no equal for a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less. Use 3/4 ounce of Pinex from any drug store, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and add 1/2 ounce of granulated sugar syrup and 1/2 ounce of honey. If you prefer, use 1/2 ounce of molasses. Either way it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time. It is a most astonishingly low quick relief, penetrating through every air passage in the throat and lungs—dissolves the phlegm, soothes and breaks the membranes, and gradually melts the annoying throat and chest, and cough disappears. Nothing better for bronchitis, whooping cough, hoarseness or hoarse asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the respiratory tract.

Tinkling Garter Bells Destroy Husband's Peace

Chimed bells tolled out the tidings of a marriage romance of Mr. and Mrs. Alcide Guertin had begun two years ago. Garter bells tolling mysteriously wrecked the happy home last week.

Mrs. Alcide vowed he would never tolerate another cent towards the support of his spouse till she tore the garters from her raiment.

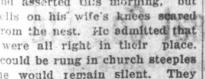

She claims she has a right to be reasonable if she wants.

By the situation remains. He was aired in the Recorder's Court when Alcide Guertin was arraigned on a charge of non-support. He pleaded not guilty and will stand trial in a week.

The accused declares that if he is to support his wife, she must first show some consideration for his peace of mind. Ever since belted garters became a part of woman's apparel he has been driven nearly mad by the constant sounding of the bells, he says. He is awakened in the morning by the music of the metal banging against his wife's knees and lull to sleep at night by the clanging of Mrs. Guertin's new garters.

With the horrible style came into vogue, the Guertin husbands were an ideal one from every standpoint, the husband asserted this morning, but the bells on his wife's knees earned more from the nest. He admitted that bells were all right in their place. They could be rung in church steeples and he would remain silent. They could be sounded from front doors and he would grin and bear it. But when the women of his family took to tinkling them about the lower extremities it was time to do something about it. He was willing to be made a martyr for the sake of husbands in general he declared to-day after he put up $100 bail to secure his release.

Wilson Blamed

WAS RESPONSIBLE FOR U.S. FAILURE TO ENTER LEAGUE, SAYS LODGE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The failure of the United States to enter the League of Nations should be charged wholly to President Wilson, according to the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge in "the Senate and the League of Nations," a volume of more than 400 pages, to be issued to-morrow. The late Senator denies that the President Wilson was idealistic.

"The key to all he did," wrote Senator Lodge, "was that he thought of everything in terms of Wilson."
