stand they took. And yet the amendment came within an ace of being carried.

Had party interests been kept out of the issue the amendment would have carried.

Three days before the vote in was understood that members on the liberal side would be allowed to vote independent of party considerations. But at the last moment the whip was cracked and five French Canadian liberals, who were supposed to rals, who were supposed to the amendment, men whose be favorable to the amendment, men whose constituents had not passed the act and and voted for Mr. Blake for what was thought would prove to be a party advantage. These men were Langelier, Casgrain, Bourrassa, Geoffrion, Bernier. Besides these Mr. Laurier had always expressed himself in favor of the amendment and knew his constituents were on the whole against the Scott act; yet he voted with Mr. Blake.

The conservatives, on the other hand, were just as anxious to make party capital and on the whole came out in a measure successful. Sir John and five of his colleagues voted for Mr. Small's amendment; two of them, Bowell and McLelan, against it. But it was Sir John's policy to defeat the amendment without appearing to do so. He succeeded, and he is able to square himself after this manner: He can say to the liquer men, "I did all I could for you and voted for you." This is proved by the speeches of Tom White and Mr. Colby and by an article in the Gazette of Wednesday which frightened off nearly a dozen members favorable to Mr. Small's motion. To the temperance men he can say, "My members favorable to Mr. Small's motion.
To the temperance men he can say, "My followers defeated the amendment, for are not Jamieson, Fisher and Foster fellowers of mine?" But Sir John's big card is that he thinks he has completely alienated the liberals from the liquor inter-est. That he has gained it for himself however, at all certain. The liquor rest say that hereafter they will for-ar both parties. They should have

Reid and O'Rourke got to the bases on fielders' errors in the Toronto second, but Quinn and Smith went out at first while McKinley, whose forte this year is not the bat, retired struck out. Miller of the Prims hit a two-bagger and Bierbauer did likewise, bringing home the man of flour, but a second piece of double play resulted in Barnfather and Bierbauer speedily retiring, the former on a fly and the latter at a base. Macklin was too reliable to drop a fly that Heath was generous enough to send him. Macklin was too reliable to drop a fly that Heath was generous enough to send him. Macklin, Wade and Spence retired without reaching a base in the Toronto third. The Prims added two more, thanks to O'Neil and Wilson, who appeared to have a good hold on Sheffler's pitching. Sheffler, Quinn and McKinley each went out at first in order, and Toronto faces looked blue. McKinley now went into the box and Smith behind the bat with excellent effect, the Prims getting a goose-egg and nary a base. The Torontos in their fifth made a better show, but failed to increase their score, O'Rourke getting to third. The change of government in England has more than a domestic meaning merely. It means alliance with Germany, and that Russia will be snubbed. Bismarck offered this alliance some time ago, but the Gladstone government, in its wisdom, saw fit stone government, in its wisdom, saw fit saved his life.

Another Life Saved.

—About two years ago a prominent citizen of Chicago was told by his physicians that he must die. They said his lystem was nothing left to build on. He made up his mind to try a "new departure," He got some of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" and took it according to directions. He began to improve at once. He kept up the treatment for some months and is today a well man. He says the "Discovery" saved his life.

This remarkable relic of the noble red man of the west is now on exhibition in the elegant show window of the noted "Hats That R Hats" (Wright & Co.), 55 King That R. Hate" (Wright & Co.), 55 King street east, opposite Toronto street. This is something very rare and the first ever brought to this city—in fact it is an exceptional case for a white man to become possessed of one. It was purchased last autumn from the Great Chief by Mr. W. S. Job, C. E., who had done many favors for the Indian and was surveying on his reserve for over two years. The fire bag with this suit, which is richly embroidered with rare tinted beads, was presented to him by Poundmaker, and we're informed that it was an old relic of fifty years.

THE BAD BOY AND HIS PA.

"On come off! said the grocus more dulously.

"Hope—I—may—die if it isn't;" said the bad boy, "this hyer Petley's a terror, betcher life. Why Ma got forty dollars from Pa,an' Ma says its his hyer money to buy street-car tickets with er what!" An' Pa said. 'You take that money an' go down to Petleys' and he'll 'ston ish you.' So Ma an' me went down to Petleys and, bought a beautiful silk mantle an' purty bonnet an' a hull lot uv things an' thei she had money left. Why it's ridicious how cheap things is.

she had money left. Why it's ridiclous how cheap things is.

"That thur show room uv Petleys' is like a scene in a spectakler dramer. Betcher life it's fine. Ma says its the purtlest show room she wuz ever in, an' the young ladies that waits onto her were so polite and attentive. Me seen me starin' hard at one uv um with a gold hair. An' she told me to go out like good boy and see if thur wuz a street car co in'. I wuz onto her little game right away why don't you take your wife down to Pleys an' spend a tew dollars on her an' hav her slouchin' off to church like an epil tio fit, with a sun bonnet on," an'—the bad' doged a cheese knife, skipped through deor and hung up a sign outside:

"By a thorough knowledge of the natura laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast table with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortinged with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—"Civil Service Gazette."
