DEATH LIST PLACED AT 1602.

The Steamer Carpathia with the Survivors of the Titanic reached Port on Thursday Night, April 18th.

Fund Raised for Destitute Survivors Official Statement of the Surviving Passengers

The following statement issued by a committee of the surviving passengers of the Titanic was given to the press on the arrival of the Carpathia at New York:

"We, the undersigned surviving passengers from the S. S. Titanic in order to forestall any sensational or exaggerated statements, deem it our duty to give to the press a statement of facts which have come to our knowledge and which we believe to be true.

"On Sunday, April 14, 1912, at about 11.40 p. m. on a cold, starlit night, in a smooth sea, and with no moon, the ship struck an iceberg which had been reported to the bridge by lookouts, but not early enough to avoid collision. Steps were taken to ascertain the damage and save passengers and ship. Orders were given to put on lifeboats, and the boats were lowered.

"The ship sank at about 2.20 a. m., Monday, and the usual distress signals were sent out by wireless and rockets fired at intervals from the ship. Fortunately the wireless message was received by the Cunard S. S. Carpathia at about 12 o'clock midnight, and she arrived on the scene of the disaster at about 4 a. m. Monday

"The officers and crew of the Carpathia had been preparing all night for the rescue and comfort of the survivors, and the last-mentioned were received on board with the most touching care and kindness, every attention being given to all irrespective of class. The passengers, officers and crew gave up gladly their state rooms, clothing and comforts for our benefit—all honor to them.

"The English Board of Trade passengers' certificate on board the Titanic allowed for a total of approximately 3,500. The same certificate called for life-boat accommodation for approximately 950 in the following boats:—14 large life-boats, two smaller boats and four collapsible boats. Life preservers were accessible and apparently in sufficient number for all on board.

"The approximate number of passengers carried at the collision was:—First class, 330; second class, 320; third class, 750—total 1,400; officers and crew, 940—total, 2,340.

"Of the foregoing about the following were rescued by the S. S. Carpathia:—First class, 210; second class, 125; third class, 200; officers, 4; seamen, 39; stewards, 96; firemen, 71—total 210 of the crew. The total about 745, saved, was about 80 per cent. of the maximum capacity of the lifeboats.

"We feel it our duty to call the attention of the public to what we consider the inadequate supply of

No Hopes For Geo. Wright

HE WANTED MR. FRAZEE TO ACCOMPANY HIM ON THE TITANIC

(Halifax Recorder, Saturday.)

Among the passengers on the Steamer Laurentic to-day was C. W. Frazee, City Manager of the Royal Bank. He left Mrs. Frazee in England, who is to make a more extended visit. (Mrs. Frazee was Miss James Holmes, and is well-known to many in Bridgetown having visited at the home of J. W. Beckwith)

Mr. Frazee was with George Wright in London the day before the Titanic sailed from Southampton, and as both were returning to their native land Mr. Wright coaxed Mr. Frazee to go with him on the Titanic. Mr. Frazee, however, had made his arrangements to go on the Laurentic from Liverpool bound to Halifax direct, and he decided that he would not change his plans. When they separated in London, Mr. Wright went to the sailing port of the Titanic bound for New York, and Mr. Frazee came by the Laurentic to Halifax.

The only hope now seems that he might have been picked up by some other vessel, but this seems very remote and all indications are that Halifax has lost one of its best citizens. Mr. Wright was a man who will be missed by his relatives, his friends, church and charitable organizations, educational institutions, the community in general and the city itself. He amassed his wealth abroad, returning to his native city, and invested his money in his former home, erecting such handsome buildings as the Wright marble and St. Paul's on Barrington Street, as well as a number of magnificent dwellings. He contributed largely to church institutions, and to the Y. M. C. A. building fund, and before his present trip gave $2,500 to Dalhousie College. He was practically never done giving, no worthy appeal was made to him in vain. He was most generous in every respect, and took a great deal of pleasure in making others happy. He interested himself greatly in civic matters, but declined all honors. He was known not only in Halifax, but throughout Canada, the United States and Australia and other places abroad, where he had business dealings when he published his World's Directory. He was also widely known for his crusade against profanity, which was not only confined to his own city, but throughout the country.

PRESENTATION.

By Halifax Boy Scouts to Mr. Mickelwright on Leaving Halifax for Bridgetown.

(Halifax Recorder)

A meeting of the officers and members of the Church Institute Boy Scouts was held last evening to bid farewell to Scoutmaster F. W. Mickelwright, who leaves shortly for Bridgetown. Rev. C. W. Vernon presided. Those present included C. S. Stayner, President of the Local Council, H. D. Romans, President of the Church Men's Society, Scoutmasters Halladay, Davis and Stay, assistant Scoutmasters Woodhill, Tucker, Doyle and Sidney Mickelwright.

The chairman referred to the valuable services of Mr. Mickelwright to the troop, and the deep regret of all at his departure. Mr. Mickelwright then gave an address, brimful of practical advice to boys.

Rev. C. W. Vernon on behalf of the Church Institute Boy Scouts, presented Mr. Mickelwright with a handsome leather travelling bag, bearing his initials. Mr. Mickelwright feelingly replied.

At a subsequent meeting of the committee of the Church Institute Boy Scouts Mr. Mickelwright was elected an honorary scoutmaster and W. M. Halliday to succeed him as chief scoutmaster.

The P. E. Island legislature is petitioned to repeal the act against the importation of automobiles into that province, it being claimed that the tourist travel is seriously injured thereby.

Riverside Cemetery Co.

At the annual meeting of the Riverside Cemetery Co. of Bridgetown, on the 16th inst., a board of directors for the year was chosen as follows:—Capt. J. W. Salter, Mr. Harry Ruggles, Dr. J. B. Armstrong, Mr. Jas. Quirk, Mr. J. E. Lloyd, Capt. W. Longmire and Mr. C. W. Peters. These directors are preparing by-laws which are to be read and discussed at an adjourned meeting of the company, which is to be held in the Town Hall on the evening of April 20th.

Other matters concerning the management of the affairs of the company will also be considered during this meeting.

In the meantime it is well for all interested in the movement to give it some serious thought. The company are well aware that they are undertaking quite heavy responsibilities. There are a number of lots in the older part of the cemetery for which no taxation is possible. The owners have long since passed beyond reach of any message, and their descendants or relatives, if any can be traced, feel little or no interest in putting these lots in order. Yet this must be done, if ever the place is to be made attractive as the Company hope to make it. It will, therefore, be necessary for all to work together, everyone gladly doing his share, and more than merely his own share, toward keeping the whole. Many who have moved away from Bridgetown are being communicated with, and it is hoped that they will contribute an amount sufficient to place the lots, in which they are interested, under perpetual care. The sum of $100 placed in trust with the company insures this care to an ordinary sized lot forever, the interest alone being used year by year.

The directors will be grateful for any assistance in locating and corresponding with absent lot-owners. A number of our resident lot-owners intend making provision for such care, in their wills, others may pay in the necessary sum during life, thus freeing themselves from the annual tax.

Some of our citizens who have no personal interest in the cemetery, that is, who have no lots there,—are kindly giving assistance by subscribing for shares in the company. Such support is highly appreciated and is most encouraging to the promoters of the enterprise.

ONE INTERESTED.

Trespassing.

Editor Monitor-Sentinel:—A propos of your efforts to encourage the vogue of well-kept lawns and gardens in our community would it be too much to ask the public generally to try and break up the bad practice on the part of some of our makers across St. James' church yard a short cut between Granville and Church streets? Some day (funds permitting) we hope to have the church yard properly graded with a view to a well-kept lawn but there must first be a cessation of this practice which of course, is simply want of thought. May we, then, ask adults to themselves refrain and, further, to stop any children they may see making this a short cut.

On behalf of the corporation,
Truly yours,

Mysterious Poison Case.

Ten-year-old Boy Now Ill and Removed to Hospital.

Charlottetown, April 19.—The interest in the McGee alleged poisoning case at St. Mary's road where five children out of six died in one day last week in such a manner as to mystify the doctors, has been further aroused by illness of the sixth boy, Johnny, aged ten. He has exactly similar symptoms as the others, such as vomiting, etc. Johnny was staying with his uncle on the day his brothers and sisters partook of the meal at which they ate food that was at first thought to have caused their deaths. After the funeral of the five victims last Sunday he came home and was alone with his mother, his father going to work in the lobster factory.

Doctors Fraser and McIntyre reported on Johnny's illness to the Attorney General who has ordered the boy to be taken to the hospital in Charlottetown. He took ill on Tuesday last. He ate no fish since the previous Friday. He possibly may recover. Further investigation into the mysterious case will be made by the Government.

The sixth boy has since died.

Digby Captain Murdered.

Details have been received of the murder of Capt. Melville J. Starratt formerly of Digby, but who has been a lighter captain at New York in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railway for twenty-one years. Mrs. Frederick Dillon, now residing in Digby is a daughter of Capt. Starratt. He was found murdered on board his craft at the Morgan Line pier. His head had been crushed with an axe, which was lying near the body. The cabin had been rifled in an unsuccessful search for his wages, which he had received the day before. Starratt's wrists, elbows and ankles had been tied together. Although the blow with the axe had been enough to kill him, it is thought the murderer was afraid he might regain consciousness. The murder was discovered by the assistant harbor master for the Morgan Line, who went to the lighter to find Starratt and get his papers. Starratt's belongings in the cabin were scattered about in great confusion. The mattress had been slashed, and a small bag had been cut open as if in search of money. Clothes were tossed about the room, and there was a heap of them in the corner. At one side of the room was a pool of blood. Starratt's body lay on the floor on a pallet of blankets. He was in his underclothes as if he had been about to go to bed when attacked. The bed had not been slept in. There was evidence of a struggle in the cabin. On a shelf for a revolver, of which three chambers had been discharged some time ago. Evidently Starratt tried to get to the revolver to protect himself and was struck down as he did so. Captain Starratt received seventy dollars in pay, and sixty-four dollars of this money was found in the toe of an old rubber lying under the heap of clothing which had been tossed into the corner. Capt. Starratt was sixty years old, and lived in Brooklyn. He leaves a widow and six grown-up children. The family moved there from Digby some years after Captain Starratt had engaged with the Pennsylvania system.—Digby Courier.

IS YARMOUTH LINE TO BE ABSORBED?

Latest Despatches Indicate that the Yarmouth-Boston Route will Soon Become a Part of the Eastern Steamship Line.

The D. A. Ry. S. S. Line, it is reported is about to be amalgamated with the Eastern Steamship company, which now operates the coastal service between Boston and St. John. The equipment of the Eastern Steamship is superior to that of the D. A. R. lines from point of accommodation and comfort; their boats being very commodious and attractive, and better adapted to take care of the tourist travel. On the other hand the public will probably have to pay for these privileges and the additional luxury by advanced rates of travel. If the report proves correct, it is also probable that Yarmouth will lose the advantages she now has as the terminus of the D. A. R. line, and that the D. A. R. officials may be replaced by substitutes from the American company.

A Quebec man who presumes to know something about the plans, is quoted by an exchange in regard to the substitutes thus:—

"The C. P. R. is interested with the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railway in the Boston and Maine. The Quebec Central, and the latter company practically own the Eastern Steamship Company. A move is now on to concentrate the coastal service between the maritime provinces and Boston in one company. The present negotiations are with a view to hand the entire business over to the Eastern Steamship Company. Should the deal go through the business will be operated from Boston. In event of the transfer being made, Yarmouth will be a severe sufferer. All the work, labor, coal and supplies would be secured in Boston. Ships would no longer lay up for the annual repairs at Yarmouth, but in Boston." Asked as to the disposition of the present D. A. R. boats the gentleman said that "the Eastern Steamship Company would use their own boats and the 'Princes' be sold to a Newfoundland Company, or elsewhere." Further questioned, he said that "boats sailing under the American flag must be commanded by American citizens."

A Boston despatch of Wednesday says:—

"The Eastern Steamship Corporation has purchased the steamship line of the Dominion Atlantic Railway Company which is operated between this port and Yarmouth, N.S. according to announcement made tonight. The acquisition of the Yarmouth line gives the Eastern Steamship Corporation control of practically every line of importance east of here except the Plant Line, which maintains service between Boston and Halifax and Charlotte-

FORMER PRESIDENT WINS VICTORY OVER TAFT.

Col. Roosevelt had a sweeping victory in Pennsylvania in the preliminary election and his lead kept growing today as the returns continued, to come in. Incomplete returns from every district give the former president sixty-five of the state's seventy-six delegates in the republication national convention. The Roosevelt supporters are claiming sixty-seven and the later returns may carry the figures to that total. Col. Roosevelt won fifty-three of the sixty-four district national delegates and his followers elected enough delegates to the state convention to give them control of that body. The state convention will name twelve delegates at large.

Politicians look upon the triumph of Col. Roosevelt with astonishment. The supporters of the former president were without a state organization in many of the thirty-two Congressional districts. The regular Republican organization headed by United States Senator Boies Penrose, which has withstood the fury of many a political storm received a crushing defeat in the loss of control of the state convention. It is the first time in the present generation that it has lost control of that body.

Teachers' Institute

Twenty-Ninth Session Held in Middleton.

The teachers of Digby and Annapolis Counties held their twenty-ninth session in the Consolidated School building, Middleton, on April 3rd and 4th. The attendance, as indicated by enrollment, was 105, a considerable increase over that of last session.

On Tuesday evening a reception consisting of music, readings and speeches was tendered the visiting teachers and was thoroughly enjoyed. It was presided over by Mayor Goucher, a retired teacher, but one whose heart is still in touch with educational work and whose present position shows the esteem in which he is held by those who knew him best.

At 9.30 on Wednesday morning, President Morse called the meeting to order. After enrollment of those present and other preliminary business had been transacted, the program was taken up.

The first lesson was one on "Commercial Geography" by Prin. W.K. Tibert, of Bear River, to a class of Grade VIII pupils. Mr. Tibert's lesson was practical and interesting. His method was to start at home with the exports of our own country, to follow these to the country to which they were sent, and to study that country in order to know a suitable cargo for the return trip. It thus afforded an excellent opportunity for the introduction of Physical Geography. The lesson called forth favorable comments by Mayor Goucher, Prin. Ruggles and others.

A paper on "Ethics in the Teaching Profession" was then read by Principal A. McN. Martin, of Annapolis. He treated the subject under the two headings—Ethics in the Teaching Profession, and Teachers' Ethics. Points suggested were: Danger of a false conception of ethics among pupils; they should be compelled to furnish information during a school investigation as this would be a preparation for citizenship; teachers succeeding and preceding one another often erred in the ethical, by letting crop remarks detrimental to others which may hang upon them like millstones. This paper elicited considerable discussion from different view points, from Principals Ruggles, Tibert, Whitman and Editor Cox, of the Outlook.

Then followed a lesson on "Some Mathematical Formulae" by Miss Jessie Bowly, of Central Clarence. By means of a few simple figures from card-board, the pupils were led to understand and derive the formulae for the areas of rectangles, parallelograms, triangles, trapeziums, and circles. Miss Bowly's lesson was one which must have been of practical importance to all teachers doing Grade VIII work in school. Several teachers spoke on this paper after which the meeting adjourned till two o'clock p.m.

On re-assembling the program was resumed by Miss Palfrey, of Bridgetown, who gave a lesson on "The Union Jack" to a class of Grade III pupils. Miss Palfrey, in a pleasing way introduced some fundamental thoughts on government and after explaining and illustrating the separate flags of England, Scotland and Ireland showed how they were finally united and combined to form the Union Jack. She also drew some pleasing moral lessons from the various colors of the flag. Professor Connolly of the Normal College, spoke on this lesson and expressed his appreciation of it.

Miss M. A. Dexter, of Lawrence town, then gave a Nature Lesson—"Tall Tale Trucks"—to a class of Grade VI pupils. It was a grand illustration of the purposes a nature lesson can be made to serve when the teacher is a student of nature. Miss Dexter held the interest of her class of pupils throughout the entire lesson. The lesson called forth remarks from Prof. Connolly and A. D. Brown, and Principals Ruggles, Tibert, Hogg, Martin, and Banks. Miss H. M. Chute, of Weymouth, then gave a lesson on "Comparison of Adjectives" to a class of Grade VII and VIII pupils. From a number of illustrations, the pupils were led to derive the rules for the formation of the different degrees of comparison, and the simpler rules for the euphonic changes in their spelling. The lesson was taught in a practical way and the teacher was complimented by Miss Harris, of Annapolis Academy; Prin. Hogg, of Digby, and others. Mr. A. D. Brown recommended an abundant use of illustrations in the teaching of grammar. The meeting then adjourned until 8 o'clock p.m.

It was thought advisable that a portion of the evening session should be devoted to the discussion of questions presented by the teachers. On re-assembling, a number of questions, of more or less importance to the practical teacher, were read and quite thoroughly discussed.

Children's Aid Society

By an act now before the Nova Scotia Legislature cited as the Children's Protection Act, there is established a Juvenile Court under the control of the Governor-Council who may appoint the County Court Judges for each County and make such other appointments as shall be necessary.

A Superintendent of Neglected and Dependent Children is also appointed to inspect reformatories, industrial schools, shelters and foster homes for children and to encourage and assist in the organization in the various parts of the province of Children's Aid Societies. These societies are to have for their object the protection of children from cruelty and neglect, to place dependent children in institutions or foster homes and to have a general supervision of all children within the municipality.

Any number of persons, not less than ten may form themselves into a Children's Aid Society for the purposes of the act and upon filing with the Provincial Secretary the constitution and by-laws of the proposed society shall become a body corporate under the name of the Children's Aid Society of ——. Also it shall be lawful for any Municipality, city or town to assess upon the ratepayers the cost of establishing or maintaining any temporary home or shelter where neglected or dependent children may be placed for care and management.

The officers of any Children's Aid Society shall have the power to act as constables to enforce the provisions of the act. A policeman of any incorporated town or any municipal constable may also be designated to apprehend and bring before any judge stipendiary magistrate or justice of the peace any child, under fourteen years if a boy or under sixteen if a girl, who is found begging, receiving alms, frequenting places where liquor is sold or places of ill-repute or any public pool or gambling house, or guilty of any offence punishable by fine or imprisonment.

Other offences against the law for which any child may be apprehended and brought before the Juvenile Court are the use of profane or indecent language, or immoral conduct in a public place or about a school house, habitual truancy from school, incorrigible conduct, loitering about a place of entertainment after eight o'clock, or found in any moving picture house, theatre, etc. unaccompanied by parent or guardian.

Any child thus apprehended shall be brought before the judge for examination, and the room in which such an examination is held shall not be deemed a public court, the examination being conducted privately, such persons only being present as are necessary to the examination. The judge may release such juvenile offenders under a suspended sentence or may order such a child to be committed to a reformatory or other institution for the care of children for a time not exceeding the date at which the child shall attain the age of eighteen years.

If on examination the judge finds that the child is not guilty of offences punishable under the law, he may order the delivery of the child to a Children's Aid Society, and shall be the duty of the Society to see that the child is placed in a suitable home or shelter until able to provide for itself. Provision is made for certain sums to be paid annually by the parent or guardian of the child or by the town or municipality for the support of the child.

Other sections of the act deal with the above paragraphs are a brief summary, will fill a crying need in almost every community in the province. There is hardly a town or district where the establishment of a Children's Aid Society and the proper enforcement of the laws provided for juvenile restriction and protection would not be of incalculable value. It is to be hoped that every town and municipality will hasten to put the provisions of the act into practice.

There are in almost every community, and Bridgetown is no exception, a number of small children whose parents have no proper guardianship over them. As soon as they can toddle they are allowed to roam the streets at will. When the demands of hunger move them they go from door to door until compassionate householders fill their needs. Frequently an excess of charity on the part of the donor is scattered along the road by the irresponsible recipient. The shades of night often find them far from home. By the time they reach school age they have become incorrigible and later they become law-breakers and frequently spend a period in a reformatory before they settle down to earn an honest living, if that time in their career ever arrives.

Any town and community that permits such a loss of the elements and structural principles of good citizenship is culpably guilty. Every municipality should provide a home for such neglected children, a home where they should be well-nourished in both mind and body, where, if possible, they should be close in touch with nature and allowed free active lives within certain well-guarded limits. When leaving such homes they should be not only well grounded in the principles of good living but have received the elementary instruction that will fit them for becoming self-supporting, useful citizens.

Think of the incalculable good that would result to Annapolis County if it were thus cut off from the source that supplies its moral and physical degenerates and its criminal offenders.

"Fighting Bob Evans," said a naval veteran of Washington, "had like most fighters, a tender heart, and a specially tender heart toward children. I once heard him say, as he held his little grandchild's hand: 'A child is the biggest thing in the world. A ragged, emaciated, hungry child is to me bigger than a battleship.'"

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY

An eminent scientist the other day gave his opinion that the most wonderful discovery of recent years was the discovery of Zam-Buk. Just think! As soon as a single thin layer of Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or a sore, such injury is insured against blood poisoning! Not one species of microbe has been found that Zam-Buk does not kill!

Then again, as soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a sore or a cut, or to skin disease, it stops the smarting. That is why children are such friends of Zam-Buk. They care nothing for the science of the thing. All they know is that Zam-Buk stops their pain. Mothers should never forget this.

Again, as soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or to a diseased part, the cells beneath the skin's surface are so stimulated that their new healthy tissue is quickly formed. This forming of fresh healthy tissue from below is Zam-Buk's secret of healing. The tissue thus formed is worked up to the surface and literally casts off the diseased tissue above it. This is why Zam-Buk cures are permanent.

Only the other day Mr. Marsh of 161 Delorimer Ave., Montreal, called upon the Zam-Buk Co., and told them that for twenty-five years he had been a martyr to eczema. His hands were at one time so covered with sores that he had to sleep in gloves. Four years ago Zam-Buk was introduced to him, and in a few months it cured him. Today—over three years after his cure of a disease he had for twenty-five years—he is still cured, and has had no trace of any return of the eczema.

All druggists sell Zam-Buk at 50c. box, or we will send free trial box if you send this advertisement and a 1c. stamp (to pay return postage). Address Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

A STORE REFLECTS THE CHARACTER OF ITS OWNER.

Take two typical stores. The one is enterprising, has attractive displays, advertises liberally and intelligently and reaches out for new business. The other goes along in a humdrum fashion, advertises little, and that in a stereotyped way, makes no display of its wares and no effort to turn over its stock at frequent intervals. It follows the methods of twenty years ago. It does not reach after new customers and in consequence loses its old ones.

PRUDENCE.

Man of sense often learn from their chemist. Prudence is the best safeguard. This principle cannot be learned from a friend but an enemy extorts it immediately. It is from their foes, not their friends, that cities learn the lesson of building high walls and ships of war, and this lesson saves their children, their homes and their properties.—Aristophanes.

Wise Witty and Weird Remarks on Gravestones.

An eccentric and wealthy gentleman who died the other day, and was interred in the cemetery at New Mill (Eng.), wrote some time before his death the following curious epitaph for his grave:—

John Batchelar, Esq., Brewer, of Dagnall, Bucks. Lost his leg in the Battle of Barre, 1880. He used to make the barrels roll up. And when the Almighty takes his soul up. His body will go to help fill the hole up.

Twenty-three years ago the deceased had a coffin constructed of wicker to hold his remains, intending to be buried in his garden, where his lost leg lay. This, however, went to pieces, and Batchelar was buried in an ordinary wooden coffin.

This reminds us that when Jean Poinat, a Parisian, died in August, 1897, his executors found among his belongings a number of invitation cards, which he had had printed, a blank space being left for the date of the burial. The invitation ran:—

M. Jean Poinat requests you, if you have retained a pleasing reminiscence of him, to be so kind as to accompany him on his last voyage. He will leave his abode, 11, Rue de Beaumont, at 9 o'clock precisely, and proceed to the cemetery of Pere Lachaise. In begging you to accept his posthumous acknowledgements, M. Jean Poinat would be grateful if you would keep a corner in your memory for him.

A woman, on the death of her husband, had the following words placed on his tombstone:—

My sorrow is greater than I can bear. She did not, however, sorrow long, for she tried another matrimonial venture shortly afterwards, and the words on her late partner's headstone began to trouble her. Her new husband's wit came to the rescue, however, and at his suggestion she engaged a man to add the word "alone."

In a churchyard in Monmouthshire the following lines appear on a tombstone:—

Here lies William Sandy. He was very handy To catch a mole In every hole. At last a mole caught Sandy.

General Madero.

A remarkable man in many respects is General Madero, who has been elected President of Mexico, after leading the insurgents in last May's bloodless revolution, which resulted in the overthrow of President Diaz. General Madero spent a fortune in forwarding the revolution. He commenced life as a lawyer, and ultimately turned his attention to cotton-growing, and thus made half a million dollars. He is now in his thirty-eighth year, and has proved himself to be a leader of men, although he was hitherto regarded as a dreamer with impossible ideas. A strict vegetarian in his habits, General Madero neither smokes nor drinks, and during the campaign, while his men lived on fresh-killed beef or raw goats' meat, he existed on fruits, nuts, and grain. He is a confirmed spiritualist, since as a lad chance threw in his way a book on Spiritualism, which he devoured eagerly.

The Stepmother in the Classics.

The ancients were as bitter on the subject of the stepmother as any modern could be. Their metaphorical uses of these words for a stepmother are cruelly significant. Thus the Romans had an expression "to complain to a stepmother" (noverca), meaning to complain in vain and "noverca" being a synonym for "stepmother." The Greeks were as bad with their word "metrix." Hesiod spoke of "lucky and unlucky days as "mother and stepmother days," and Aeschylus brands a dangerous sea-coast as "a stepmother to ships."—London Chronicle.

What's Left.

A prominent citizen had just died. As is usual, the townsfolk were standing on the street corners wondering how much he left. Some of them put the sum as high as $40,000, but others argued stoutly that he left not more than $25,000.

A politician, notorious as a man who wouldn't pay his bills, listened to several of these discussions. Then he said: "I suppose when I die people will be standing on the street corners just like that and asking, 'I wonder what he owed?'"

Little, Left.

"What's the matter here?" asked the caller, noticing the barren appearance of the house. "Sent your goods away to be stored?" "No," replied the hostess; "not at all. My daughter was married last week, and she has merely taken away the things that she thought belonged to her."

Crows and Roosters.

"Mamma," inquired a six-year-old, "don't roosters crow?" "Yes, dear."

HIS EARS FROZEN.

Secretary MacVeagh, at a dinner in Washington, was urging the need of scientific financial laws. "But let us make these laws scientifically," he said. "We must let in the light. If we work in the dark, you know, we will go wrong, like young Cornelius Husk. "Cornelius Husk was called one winter morning before dawn, and told to go and harness the mule to the dear-born. The lad was too lazy to light a lantern, and in the dark he didn't notice that one of the oxen was in the stable with the mule. As he tried to harness the cow, his father, impatient at the long delay, shouted from the house: "Corney! Corney! What are ye doin'?" "I can't get the collar over the mule's head," the boy replied. "His ears are frozen."

A POLITE WAITER

"Here, waiter," exclaimed an irascible diner. "This beef you have given me isn't fit for a pig to eat!" "Well, sir, don't eat it then," the waiter advised pleasantly.

"I hope I'm no chronic kicker," soliloquized Adam when he woke up and missed his rib, "but if they had to remove something I don't see why they didn't take my appendix."

"Do you take this woman for better or worse?" "I do, Judge. I do. But I hope we kin kinder strike an average."

"So the bank teller has disappeared. Was he short in his cash?" "No, he was ahead. It was the bank that was short."

AMENDMENTS TO CRIMINAL CODE ARE TO BE ASKED FOR Purity Federation Commission Meeting in Toronto Suggests Five.

Toronto, April 10.—Five amendments to the criminal code of Canada were recommended by a mass meeting of citizens in the Metropolitan church last night in connection with the Toronto session of the World's Purity Federation Commission, which is touring America. The amendments desired are:—

- 1. Raising of the age of consent to eighteen years of age.
2. Making of adultery and wife desertion offences in law.
3. Putting upon those of both sexes found in any house of shame, the onus of proving that they have legitimate cause for being there.
4. Having all employers who send employees criminally guilty.
5. Making it an offence for anyone to have in his possession whether for sale or not, any immoral or obscene prints.

A resolution was passed endorsing the teaching of sex hygiene in schools and colleges. The double standard of morals was vigorously condemned.

Rev. Ernest Bell, superintendent of the midnight mission in Chicago, told of having praised Toronto all over America on the strength of Inspector Archibald's signed statement that there were only twenty houses of ill fame in Toronto. "God forgive me for a fool," exclaimed Mr. Bell, for he had discovered that this was one of many mistakes about conditions in Toronto.

Starting in Toronto, the commission will visit twenty-nine cities, including Ottawa, Moncton, Truro, Sydney and St. John.

The Wassermann-Ehrlich Cancer Researches

It may almost be said that Ehrlich's principle of chemotherapy has established a new era in medical science. By its aid substances are found which have a greater affinity and toxicity for parasitic or disease cells than they have for the host. A certain fruit thus far this principle is the drug salvarsan, which is positively curative of one of the most dreadful of human diseases.

It is this principle of chemotherapy which Wassermann has applied in experimenting upon malignant tumors in mice. One finds always in such growths (cancer or sarcoma), either in mice or in men, "tumor cells" which are abnormal and are manifestly essential of the diseased process. Wassermann has discovered that a compound of eosin and selenium, when in contact with such tumors, is taken selectively by the tumor cells. Daily injections of the substance into the blood stream of cancerous mice causes first a softening of the tumor, and then its total absorption within ten days. The tumor must not be too large in proportion to the body weight of the animal—in the mouse not beyond the size of a cherry. With larger tumors the drug gives severe, even fatal intoxication, which is apparently the result of rapid absorption of the product of disintegration of the tumor cells. In the recovered animals, after several months' observation, the tumors have totally disappeared without any recurrence; it was found, however, that when insufficient treatment had only partly disposed of the tumor cells, recurrence of the growth took place.

Hitherto such tumors have seldom, if ever, disappeared spontaneously or under the influence of any form of treatment. It seems that Wassermann and his associates are justified in their claims to have cured cancer in mice. Unquestionably their investigations justify the hope of a cure of human cancer. Yet it were cruel indeed not to add that we have here but the beginning of a long series of most arduous experiments, which must consume years and in which bacteriologists, chemists, pathologists, and clinicians must co-operate. Nor can we too much laud the essential humanity interest in this consecutive statement of Wassermann: "We wish most particularly, in order to prevent false hopes and excitement among persons with tumors, to point out emphatically that at the present time we have no evidence that this substance will act in the same way with human cancers. This question we have not investigated. It may not be impossible that an essential beginning has been made and a solid foundation established, extension of which along these lines may yield progress in human therapy."—Scientific American.

You will look a good while before you find a better medicine for coughs and colds than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only gives relief—it cures. Try it when you have a cough or cold, and you are certain to be pleased with the prompt cure which it will effect. For sale by all druggists and dealers.

HIGH IDEALS. It has been said that one cannot rise above one's ideals. How important, then, that children should have placed before them, and one cannot begin too soon, high ideals of self-reliance, helpfulness, excellence and never for an instant be satisfied with inferiority and mediocrity.

It is very certain that no man is fit for everything; but it is almost as certain, too, that there is scarce any one man who is not fit for something, which something Nature plainly points out to him by giving him a tendency and propensity to it. Look upon common sense to be the mind what conscience is to the heart—the faithful and constant monitor of what is right or wrong. And I am convinced that no man commits either a crime or a folly but against the manifest and sensible representations of the one or the other. Every man finds in himself, either from nature or education—for they are hard to distinguish—a peculiar bent and disposition to some particular character and his struggling against it is the fruitless and endless labor of Sisypheus. Let him follow and cultivate that vocation; he will succeed in it, and be considerable in one way at least; whereas, if he departs from it, he will, at best, be inconsiderable, probably ridiculous.—Lord Chesterfield.

BALD HEADS NOT WANTED

Baldness is too Generally Considered a Sign of Advanced Age.

A bald-headed person does not have an equal chance with one blessed with a healthy head of hair, because baldness is too generally accepted as an indication of age. Many large corporations have established an age limit, and refuse to take men over thirty-five years of age as new employees.

Probably sixty-five per cent of bald-headed people may regard a good head of healthy hair if they will follow our advice and accept our offer. We have a remedy that we positively guarantee to grow hair on any head, unless the roots of the hair are entirely dead, their follicles closed, and the scalp has become glazed and shiny. We want people to try this remedy at our risk, with the distinct understanding that unless it does exactly what we claim it will, and gives satisfaction in every respect, we shall make no charge for the remedy used during the trial.

We know exactly what we are talking about, and with this offer back of our statements, no one should scoff, doubt our word, or hesitate to put our remedy to an actual test.

We want every one in Bridgetown who is suffering from any scalp or hair trouble, dandruff, falling hair or baldness to try our Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. We want them to use it regularly—say until three bottles have been used—and if it does not eradicate dandruff, cleanse and refresh the scalp, tighten the hair in its roots, and grow new hair, we will return every cent paid us for the remedy for the mere asking. There is no formality expected and we exact no obligation from the user whatever.

We are established right here in Bridgetown, and make this offer with a full understanding that our business success entirely depends upon the sort of treatment we accord our customers, and we would not dare make the above offer unless we were positively certain that we could substantiate it in every particular. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—Royal Pharmacy, W. A. Warren.

The Way of Light

(By Mary Humphrey.)

A noted man was speaking to an audience consisting chiefly of young foreigners in one of Chicago's settlement houses. "And remember, friends," said he in the course of his simple earnest, inspiring talk, "it's not so much what you can do that's going to count in the long run—but it's how much can you stand up against!"

Those words often return to me, and I sometimes translate them like this: It's not the weight of your cross that makes or unmakes you, but it's how well are you carrying it? Are you hearing it travel, graciously, in the faith that conquers? Or are you dragging it through the mire of resentment and restlessness, making it heavier at every stop. He is wise who has learned to seek not to have his cross lifted, but rather for strength to carry it on to the very end.

There is an old familiar poem by Mrs. Charles Hobart. "The Changed Cross," which carries comfort to the cross-bearer. It tells of a woman who had come to believe that her life was almost unendurable; that surely no one else bore so heavy a cross as she. At last one day she was led to a place where crosses of "divers shapes and sizes," were ranged before her from which to choose. She selected one, a little one, all brilliant with jewels. It looked so easy to bear! To her surprise, however, she paused before one of much beauty, brightly twined with flowers. But soon this cross made its hidden sorrows known to her. She found one that suited her need until at last she came to a little cross of plainest form, "with only words of love prescribed thereon." "Here surely is a cross that I can bear!" she exclaimed. Thankfully she bent to lift the burden, when, lo! she recognized her own old cross again.

Quiet acceptance, with trust of the hard things of life cannot help but make them easier even under the most trying circumstances. The crosses we give up to bear are the ones best fitted to our shoulders. It is only the writhing and twisting beneath them that chafes and wears us out. For as our crosses, so shall our strength be.

A young woman recently told me of her early life. The petted daughter of wealthy parents, she was a gay butterfly, knowing only social pleasures, beautiful clothes and the extravagances that such an existence entails. In her 15th year her father died. Her family finances became deeply involved and not long afterwards she had to face the necessity of earning her own living. And now, ten years later, this once thoughtless girl developed by virtue of hearing her cross so nobly, into a rarely fine young woman, is able to say in all sincerity: "I fairly tremble when I think what I might be today if reverses had not come. Why, I wouldn't have known any of the real joy of life, because I should never have sounded the great sad depths of it. I am thankful beyond words that I've just had to fight. For if you fight, you know there's always the chance of winning!"

It is an old saying that human life is like the diamond. Just as this jewel of nature must be ground and polished to bring out its real beauty, so also that more precious jewel, life, must be ground and polished by physical and moral forces before it can radiate the glow of spiritual light. Trials and perplexities, if we adopt ourselves to conditions and work with, not against bring their own richness of spiritual growth.

No matter if our acts are misinterpreted; if our unglamourous, our perseverance, our sacrifice go unappreciated, unappreciated even. Every act of self-abnegation, of willing service, not only puts us on a higher level but somewhere, somehow, is saved and added to the credit columns in our Book of Life. Nothing of good is ever wasted. And even if enduring brought no other reward, in proportion as we bear the cross bravely, just so much are we helping to lift up another's cross which may be infinitely heavier than our own.

I consider MINARD'S LINIMENT the BEST Liniment in use. I got my foot badly jammed lately, I bathed it well with MINARD'S LINIMENT and it was as well as ever next day. Yours very truly, T. G. McMULLEN.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 24, 1912.

The interest shown in the incorporation of the Riverside Cemetery Co by the people of Bridgetown is very gratifying to the promoters of this important movement.

In very few cases has anything more than a brief statement of facts been necessary to elicit a prompt and cheerful response.

It has proved to be a cause in which all are united in interest.
Nothing is more conducive to the progress of a town than for citizens to be united in the bonds of a common interest, and it speaks well for the public spirit of Bridgetown's citizens in this instance.

There is still much to be done to carry out the plans of the promoters and it is hoped that the interest will stand the test of time and continue unabated until the full undertaking is materialized.

As the complete details of the ocean steamship disaster come to hand, a number of facts stand out prominently.

First, that, though the captain of the liner and the representative of the company, who was one of the passengers, knew of the peril of their immediate proximity to the icebergs, there was no slackening of the speed of twenty-three knots an hour, and no extra precautions taken to avoid collision.

Second, that an insufficient number of life-boats was provided to accommodate the passengers and crew, and that no emergency drill had been practised nor instructions given for practical execution in time of danger.

Third, that luxury and amusement were considered by the owners of the ship of more importance than the safety of the passengers.

Fourth, it has been demonstrated that no ship yet built is unsinkable, and in a contest with the elements of nature no work of human construction is indestructible.

Fifth, that there is a spark of nobility in humanity which rises like a star to illumine the darkness when the forces of nature assault the strong hold of the spirit, and that even the luxury-loving and pampered son of fortune is not lacking in the noble attribute of self-sacrifice.

Sixth, that wireless telegraphy is one of the greatest benefits yet bestowed on the human race, and that Marconi is the man to whom in all probability each and every one of the survivors of the wreck owes his or her rescue from death.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mrs. Israel Poole and family wish to thank the people of St. Croix and vicinity for the kindness and sympathy shown them in their late sad bereavement. Also Mrs. Elijah Risteen for a beautiful wreath of flowers.

The property on Gaspereau avenue which was purchased some time ago by Rev. E. England is undergoing extensive alterations preparatory to occupancy by the owner in the near future. Among these is the addition of a broad veranda around the east and south sides and the putting in of a large bay window. When completed the property will be much improved.—Acadian.

IN MEMORIAM

MAMIE TAYLOR

(Entered into rest April 17th, 1912, aged ten years)

Sweet little flower lent to us a while then taken to thy Heavenly Father's breast,
We, weeping, yield thee, folded in His bosom, from earthly struggle gathered, thou hast rest.

Yet, but a little while we tended thee,
and longed indeed to keep thee with us still,
Now we must give thee back to Him who gavest, bowing submissive to His Holy Will.

Sleep on, sweet flower! for His voice has called thee, far from this troubled world of sin and pain.
Till in the Paradise of Perfect Blessings, thou at His bidding shall arise again.

C. G. G.—B.
Bridgetown, April 17th 1912.

Clarence.

Clarence, April 2nd:—W. H. Woodworth, of Berwick, addressed the farmers in the Hall on Saturday evening on spraying. He was accompanied by his wife. They were the guests of Mr.
and Mrs. S. N. Jackson over Sunday.
William Snape was taken on Friday to the Victoria General Hospital, at Halifax. He was accompanied by Dr.
Armstrong.

Mr. Geo. Prat of Wolfville spent several days last week at the home
of E. K. Leonard, Esq.,
A. C. Wilson has moved his house from over the cellar and is making preparations for the erection of a new modern house.

Plans are being made for some much needed work on the church in this place.

Fifty Bodies of Titanic's

Victims Recovered

Word has been received at Halifax that the steamer MacKay-Bennett despatched with coffins and ice to the scene of ship-wreck, has recovered approximately fifty of the bodies of the victims of the wreck, and will bring them to Halifax for burial. Upon hearing from the MacKay-Bennett the steamer Minia was fitted out with a similar gravesome cargo and sent to join in the search.

Rev. H. W. Cunningham, of St.
George's church, Halifax, took passage on the Minia to perform the last rites on whatever bodies have to be consigned to the deep, and Mr. Snow, of the firm of undertakers, was also a passenger.

W. T. STEAD WAS ASLEEP
WHEN TITANIC FOUNDERED

New York, April 19:—William T.
Stead, the famous English journalist and author, editor of the Review of Reviews, calmly sauntered onto the deck of the Titanic after she struck the iceberg. Quietly he discussed with his fellow-passengers the probable size of the great berg towering only a short distance away, expressing the opinion that a few were
"unnecessarily alarmed."
"I think I will turn in," he ventured to his companions, turned on his heel, and went to his stateroom. He was never seen again on deck according to fellow-passengers. It is believed that he went to bed and to sleep, and in blissful unconsciousness, he passed with the great vessel into the spirit world, of which he was so fond of writing.

LOCAL AND SPECIAL

The Queen Hotel at Annapolis has been re-opened by Mr. Joseph McMillen, the late proprietor of the Clifton. It is reported that the Clifton will be converted into tenements.

Rev. Allan Simpson, of New Glasgow, recently a pastor of the Bridgetown Presbyterian church, has been tendered the degree of Doctor of Divinity by the Presbyterian College in Halifax.

Fitting reference was made to the appalling disaster to the Titanic in Bridgetown churches on Sunday last. All the Christian world was in sympathy with the victims and their survivors on that day.

L. W. Archibald, formerly a popular secretary of the Y.M.C.A. at Bridgetown, lately holding the same position at Yarmouth, has resigned to accept the position of physical trainer at Acadia College.

The man "Jerome," whose history is one of mystery, and has been talked and written about for the last half century, died at Methegan, Digby Co., last week. He was over seventy years of age, had not spoken since he was found, and was supported by the local government.

Mr. William Chipman, of Wolfville, has been spending a few days, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Beckwith. He also visited the maple sugar camp of Miss Essie Whitman of Tupperville, where he found a modern evaporator installed and was much interested in the process of manufacturing this wholesome sweet.

The new D.A.R. station at Wolfville is to be built of brick and stone with a freight station of the same material. They will cost approximately $21,000. Most of the towns along the lines are in need of better accommodation than they have at present and Bridgetown in particular would greatly appreciate similar attentions.

The Toronto Saturday Night says, concerning Mrs. McAvity, a daughter of J. Irvine, K.C., of Bridgetown: "A very pretty portrait of Mrs. McAvity, painted by herself, is one of the most admired pictures at the Women's Art Exhibition this month. The artist has a particular success with children's portraits, and should be able to immortalize some of the beautiful youngsters in which Toronto abounds."

H. R. Moody, who has been a resident of Newcastle, N.B., for several years as manager of Clarke & Co.'s large store, assumed control of the business the first of April, and the business will now be carried on under the name of Moody & Co. Mr. Moody's many friends in Yarmouth will be glad to hear of his success. —Yarmouth Times. —Mr. Moody was a merchant in Bridgetown a few years ago.—Ed.

The many friends of the Rev. G. P. Johnson, B.A., of Nappan, will regret to learn that, acting on medical advice, he will be obliged to retire from active circuit work, at next conference for at least one year. Mr. Johnson has done faithful and successful work on many of our important and extensive circuits. His friends will hope that a year's rest and change will enable him to resume circuit work. —Truro News.

The St. James' Adult Bible Class will hold its last session for the season, 1911-12, next Friday evening. This class has been a marked feature of the congregation's activities during the past winter and its re-opening next autumn is already being looked forward to. To mark this season's close a social gathering will be held in the schoolroom next Wednesday, the programme for which is now in course of preparation.

The season's booklet for the Colonial Arms Hotel, Capt. J. D. Spurr, proprietor, is at hand. The Colonial Arms has become remarkably popular in its past three seasons and opens its fourth season with upwards of fifty new rooms in its attempt to meet the demand for accommodation. For beauty of location, adequacy of accommodation and excellence of cuisine, combined with the charms of Nova Scotia's scenery and climate, this summer resort cannot be excelled.

Anxiety has been expressed for the safety of Miss Emily Young, who was supposed to be a passenger on the Titanic. Miss Young is a daughter of the late Rev. F. M. Young, who for a number of years was pastor of the Baptist church here. For the past four months she has been in Europe with a wealthy New York family and they were to return on the ill-fated ship. Among the list of survivors appears the name of Miss Marie Young, and some hope was felt that the name was incorrectly given, but it has been proven otherwise. We trust it has been learned she did not take passage on the fatal voyage.

FORTY YEARS IN JOURNALISM.

The Weekly Monitor of Bridgetown has had a long and most useful career in the field of journalism. Last week it entered upon its 40th year, and judging from appearances it will be the most successful year of its honorable record. Piggott, a brother-in-law of Mr. Bent. Having a large dairy business in the city of Lynn to dispose of, Mr. Bent will not immediately take possession of the property, but ultimately it is hoped he will arrive with Mrs. Bent to become residents of Bridgetown.

The death of the wife of Mayor Hawkesworth of Annapolis Royal, occurred on Thursday last, after a brief illness, at the residence of Mrs. Hawkesworth was a daughter of the late T. A. Gavaza, a merchant of Annapolis, and is survived by two brothers, Milledge of Annapolis, and John, who resides in the States, besides her husband. The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon and was attended by a large concourse of citizens to pay their last tributes of respect to one who was most highly esteemed. Interment took place in the Gavaza lot in the old historical burying ground of Fort Anne.

THE LOSS OF THE "TITANIC."

RACING AMID THE BERGS AT 25 MILES AN HOUR.

New York, April, 18th.—Major Peuchen of Toronto, told the following story of the disaster—"It was Sunday evening, a start light and calm. There was an exceptional gill of fare on the evening dinner. We were all in evening dress, and the ladies wore many a jewel. Music went on as usual, I dined with Mrs. Markland Molson, Mr and Mrs. Allison and their little girl. Everything was exceptionally bright. Then I went to the smoking room and met Mr. Beattie, a partner of Mr. Hugo Ross of Winnipeg, formerly of Toronto. I also met Mr. McCarthy of the Union Bank of Vancouver and a financial man from Toronto. Talk was unusually bright. This was about eleven o'clock. Then I said 'Good night, I am going to turn in.'

LAUGHED AT THE EXPERIENCE

"I had just reached my berth, when I heard a dull thud. It was not like a collision and I didn't think it serious. That's extraordinary I thought and went up to see. I ran upstairs and on the way met a friend who laughingly said that we had struck an iceberg and we went upon deck. There we found that we had struck aft of the bow about seventy-five feet from the point, and had scraped along the starboard side. It must either have shifted the keel or ripped her side, for we began to take in water along the whole length of the boat. The bulkheads there were of no use.

BERG SEVENTY FEET HIGH

"We went on deck and saw the ice falling on us. The berg was about 70 feet high. Our boat itself was even with the upper deck. As the berg passed the portholes it alarmed the women in the berths.

"The passengers came on deck one by one, some in pyjamas, some in evening gowns. They were not yet much alarmed. I went inside and spoke to my friend Molson. Mr Hugo Ross was sick in bed. Then I got in touch with Mr. Charles M. Hays and Mr. Thornton Davidson, a son-in-law of Mr. Hays, Mr. Molson and Mr. Davidson went up to see the ice.

SAW SHE WAS LISTING

"I then, for the first time saw she was listing. This was about fifteen minutes after the strike. 'My, she is listing,' I said. Then I noticed that all the people were putting on life belts, and for the first time it looked serious. I would not believe it, however, knowing that the Titanic was such a safe boat. Finally I realized the seriousness of the thing.

"I went inside, threw off my dress suit, put on my warmest clothes and my steward, a very nice fellow, helped me put on my life preserver. I never saw him again.

"I took three oranges and a pearl pin. There was $200,000 worth of stocks and bonds, all my jewelry and presents for my daughter Jessie and family in the berth, but I did not touch them.

"It was rather sad to turn and leave the cheery room I had occupied cosy, large and comfortable as it was. When I got outside all the people lined up with life preservers in the companionway made matters look very serious.

WARNED SICK CANADIAN.

"Prior to this I went in to warn Mr. Ross who was ill in bed. I met Mr. Beattie and he went on and warned Mr. Ross of the top deck. As I waited all the boats were swung out ready for action. Just at that moment a mob of stokers swarmed up to the decks. The first officer, a big burly fellow drove them back with a fury. Then I found they were short-handed and I assisted. I helped cut off all the cards on the first lifeboat and to take out the sail.

WOMEN WENT FIRST

"Then I assisted in putting the ladies in the boat and the officers stood nearby. We filled the first boat and lowered it. The women kissed their husbands good bye. The husbands assisted their wives to the boats and then stood back like any other men.

"I saw no evidence of cowardice, but an Italian was then discovered concealed in it with a broken arm. We then lowered the second boat. When the wife refused to go without the husband the wife had to stand by the same rule prevailed with a mother and daughter. The officer on the starboard side was lenient, and there it was many men got in. The officer on the port side was very severe and would allow none but women and children to enter the boats.

BOATS WERE NOT FILLED.

"The boats were not filled to capacity. One boat had only twenty-three in it, but its capacity was sixty. The officer replied to my query over this condition that the boat chains would not hold the heavy load of a full boat. The capacity of sixty could only be had when the lifeboats were on the water. Every woman who cared to go was taken off. There was no necessity for any woman being left behind. Finally, we came to the sixth boat. The quarter master let the boat down part way. When he said 'We have only one sea man in the boat we want three or four more seamen.' I then went forward and said 'I am a yachtman and can handle a boat with any man.' He told me to go below and get into the lifeboat from the lower deck. But I said I will jump for it. Taking hold of a half-yard I swung out into space. Luckily I caught my feet against the block and lowered myself to the boat, a distance of four and a half decks probably sixty feet. Down a rope into the darkness, I tell you it required nerve.

SAW THERE WAS NO HOPE.

"I ran forward into the boat and ordered the seaman to put the plug into the boat. They neglected to do this. He came back and said 'This boat is going to founder,' referring to the Titanic. We rowed away like good fellows. At last I saw there was no hope. The decks were disappearing tier by tier in the sea, and the lights on each deck went out. The Titanic was doomed.

HAYS' FALSE HOPE

"Just before I left the deck, Hays was the last man I saw. He came up and said 'Punch, good-bye, this boat is good for hours yet. By that time we shall have help and the boats will be able to unload and come back for more passengers. I have it from one of the best seamen of this ship that she can't sink. I am with Mr. Crosby, of Milwaukee, a boat-builder, who says she can't sink.' "Then as we left, we let off the first rockets. Elsewhere everything was quiet. The staterage was nowhere in evidence. It was rumored that they were locked in and under control, but I don't know.

A DRUNKEN SAILOR

"I know the boat was doomed. When we got down on the level I saw her serious position. She was sinking bow first. Then we began to row, without compass, without lights but a little food and water. Our sail or in charge had also got some brandy and was incapable. Some had no provisions. Number thirteen was said to have no food or water on board. After we had rowed three quarters of an hour towards a certain light which this fool of ours thought was a vessel, he wanted to know if we thought it was a buoy. Then he called it a fishing smack, but it proved to be the northern lights. He was the most stupid man I ever saw. He kept calling out this and that and making incoherent remarks. I said 'Why don't you help us row?' but he became indignant and replied 'I am in control of the boat.' With a great show of anger. Then we heard an awful sound and a loud report boomed over the icy sea like an explosion. It was said that the tremendous weight of the Titanic going down by the nose caused an air pressure in the centre amidships and she broke in two and foundered.

"Never have I heard such awful cries and shrieks. People came tumbling down like so many oranges. Chain ropes, turnbuckle and human beings were hurled in a terrible jumble into the sea as if rolling down a steep hill.

"During the whole time the orchestra continued to play rag-time, then another tune, and finally as they sank beneath the waves the strains of

"We then started to steam away. Another vessel had come up an hour or so before we left. She was the Californian, and she cruised around to seek the survivors in hope that some were still alive.

ONLY FOUR ENGLISHMEN SAVED

"There were a number of Frenchmen and Americans saved. But only four Englishmen, a number of Japanese and Europeans were stowed away in the lifeboats. They too were saved.

"In my stateroom were three men who had jumped overboard, two Englishmen and an American. They said good bye to those on deck and then jumped. They swam to the raft and got aboard very quietly. The passengers on the raft were firemen and "Nearer My God to Thee" were waiting to us till the waves closed over the heads of the gallant musicians. Only four persons were saved at the last.

"In the morning the steamer went back over the scene of the disaster, but we did not see our person nor a single corpse. There were in all sixteen lifeboats, two emergency boats and two canvas-decked rafts, making twenty. Two were filled with water and sank, and about thirteen came to our big boat the Carpathia. All alone we were on the barren sea. We yelled at intervals. Then all at once we saw the headlight of this steamer.

SANK IN TWO HOURS

"The boat sank about two hours from the time she first struck the berg. My mind is that she struck at 12.30 and went down at 2.30.

"The Carpathia was the gladdest sight our eyes ever met. The wind was coming up and it was so cold. Two of us had to row and we got another man from the boat which the sailors had tied to us. I rowed from four o'clock until eight when we made the side of that steamer. We were about the last to get alongside. The steamer was sixty-five miles away when she got the message. She immediately turned around and put on double stokers and made for us.

THE ONLY CANADIAN MAN

"We could see that she was a large steamer with ladders down ready for us to mount. I climbed up on deck and dropped there exhausted. They took off my life-preserver and put a blanket around me. I took a big black coffee and a brandy which were kindness itself. Nothing could exceed the attentions paid us by the crew and passengers. Then came the sad part of it all. I had ten personal friends, Canadians on the Titanic. I began the search for them and I saw Mrs. Hays and the Allison nurse and baby. I went to look for Hugo Ross, Mr. Hays, Mr. Davidson and Mr. Molson, but I was the only Canadian man on that boat, I kept going around the deck but could not find them.

DIED IN THE BOATS.

"One of the most ghastly things of all was to see one of those collapsible boats come in with a number of corpses. The boat over-weighted with passengers sank below the water level and one by one the victims became exhausted and sank into the water. They were drowned and their corpses floated away. It was a ghastly sight.

The boats arrived with the dead and living. Some of the boats we took aboard and some we let go with the 'dead bodies still in the mud.

"We then started to steam away. Another vessel had come up an hour or so before we left. She was the Californian, and she cruised around to seek the survivors in hope that some were still alive.

ONLY FOUR ENGLISHMEN SAVED

cured Mrs. C. C. Gokey, of a stubborn case of heart disease, such as thousands are now suffering with. Read what she says:

"Before I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy I had been suffering from heart trouble for over five years. I had grown so weak that it was impossible for me to do thirty minutes work in a whole day. I suffered intense pains in my left side and under the left shoulder blade. I could not sleep on the left side, and was so short of breath that I thought I should never be able to take a full breath again. The least excitement would bring on the most distressing palpitation. I had scarcely taken a half-bottle of the Heart Remedy before I could see a marked change in my condition. I began to sleep well, had a good appetite, and improved so rapidly that when I had taken six bottles I was completely cured."

stokers, and the Englishmen feared they would not be permitted to board her. We were early to arrive, said they, for after that they threw every one of who reached the raft. It was a case of every man for himself.

We saved two hundred of the crew which was too high a percentage."

CRITICIZED THE MANAGEMENT.

Major Peuchen ventured a criticism of the Titanic's management. He considered that the accident was inexcusable. "If ordinary caution or good seamanship had been used," he said "the accident would not have occurred. The Titanic was a good boat, luxuriously fitted up, and I have never seen anything to compare with her. When I got on at Southampton I was pleased with her. But when I heard that our captain was Captain Smith my heart rose in my mouth. 'Surely we are not going to have that man,' I said. An hour after sailing we got into a needless tangle with several other boats. We had a search crew on the Titanic who knew nothing about the business. The weather changed suddenly, 30 degrees, on Sunday, from six to half-past eleven o'clock. The officers stated that they had received wireless messages telling of icebergs.

CAPTAIN AT DINNER PARTY.

Ismay also is said to have shown to Miss Ryerson a message regarding the icebergs. "We will slow down then," said she. "No, I guess not," Ismay is reported to have said. "At seven o'clock on the night of the accident the Captain went to a dinner party in full dress and stayed until nine or half-past ten o'clock and I am at a loss to understand why a captain with 3,000 souls in his care and in a ship approaching icebergs, should dine in a restaurant in that way.

"It was a calm night and we could have seen icebergs on all hands, if we had had a searchlight, but if we had it would have averted the accident. We still ran at a rate of twenty-five miles an hour, an excessively high rate of speed. We did not even slow up, and they did not put on any additional watches. I asked the officers afterwards as to the reason for the omission, but they could not answer.

William Jones, a Titanic stoker, who married one of the lifeboats, said he was seven hundred yards away when the vessel sank, and that he saw four lifeboats filled with women drawn down. Two women in his boat died of exposure. Seven babies were thrown into lifeboats by frantic mothers, who went down with the ship. They were tenderly cared for by survivors, but their names will never be known. They are now in Infants' Homes in New York.

FIRST OFFICER SHOT HIMSELF.

Eye witnesses say that first officer Wilde, who was on the bridge when the vessel struck, shot himself dead when the consequences of his position burst upon him. Captain E. G. Smith took charge when the crash came and directed operations. He was on the bridge when the water rose to his feet. He jumped off and has not been seen since.

HUSBANDS PARTED FROM WIVES AT LIFEBOATS.

New York, April 18.—One of the most tragic elements of the terrible story of the Titanic disaster is that of the separation of husband and wife made necessary by the exigency that sent women and children to the boats first. It is expected that those who

ASTOR HEIR NOT TWENTY-ONE

New York, April 17.—William Vincent Astor, who will become American head of the Astor family, if his father, John Jacob Astor, is among those lost on the Titanic, is not yet twenty-one years. He was born on Nov. 15th, 1891, in the old William Astor mansion, Fifth avenue and Thirty-fourth street, where the Waldorf-Astoria now stands and from which his parents moved shortly after his birth to the then new Astor residence at Fifth Avenue and Sixty-sixth street.

Vincent Astor has been thrown particularly into his father's company since his mother, Mrs. Ava Willing Astor, obtained her divorce from John Jacob Astor, in November, 1909. Under the divorce decree, which was granted by Supreme Court Justice Mills, in Rockland County, the papers being sealed, John Jacob Astor was to have custody of Vincent, and Mrs. Astor of the other child, Muriel, now ten years old.

The John Jacob Astor fortune, which Vincent Astor will share with his stepmother, and perhaps with his sister Muriel, has been estimated at $100,000,000.

KEEPING THE SKIN FRESH. A WAY TO USE SILK REMNANTS.

The modern girl has a problem to solve in keeping her skin fresh. Our grandmothers may not have had a beauty parlor at every corner, but they did not have soot-laden air, and they usually managed to have soft water.

It covers a multitude of feature deficiencies to have a fine skin and coloring. Yet it is not easy to achieve by natural means, and it is rather difficult to keep when one is blessed with it by nature.

The modern girl, with her zeal for an open-air life and love of athletics, forgets all about her skin until it begins to look the worse for neglect; then she is agitated and rushes into all sorts of foolishness in complexion cure. What is needed is ordinary precaution and common sense every day.

The girl who would keep her skin in good condition first considers her digestion. With a poor stomach a small fortune may be spent on complexion cures in vain.

Exercise is another potent complexion maker. Let the circulation grow sluggish and the skin is sure to suffer. A brisk walk every day, especially well protected, on rainy days is worth a dozen lotions for foundation work.

Cleanliness is an essential factor to a good skin. The badly washed face soon shows it. A good scrubbing once a day, preferably at night, will hurt no one if properly done. Use plenty of warm water with a pure soap, then rinse freely with cold water to tone it up and keep the muscles from getting flabby. Where water is hard, as it usually is in cities where filtration plants prevail, use a softener. This may be simply little bags of oatmeal or almond meal.

Once thoroughly cleaned, do not use soap on the face and hands a dozen times a day. In dirty cities a temptation to frequent scrubbing is irresistible, but this roughens the skin and takes out too much of the natural, softening oils. At times use a cleansing lotion instead.

An excellent one is rosewater and alcohol mixed in the proportion of one-third alcohol and two-thirds rosewater. Wipe the skin off with this whenever dingy-looking and no roughness will ensue. At least, not in the majority of cases. In the use of lotions, every girl should find out what agrees with her skin and then stick to that. There is no bigger mistake than to try every skin remedy recommended. It is the same in regard to soap. Each person should get a good pure variety that suits her own skin, and then not be persuaded to change. Always rinse thoroughly. The common neglect of this rule is responsible for many bad skins.

Use a good cold cream occasionally. Rub a little in after the slightly face cleansing, if the skin feels dry. Great care should be taken in the choice of a cream, to procure one best suited to the individual need. Unless you understand muscle building and the proper massage movement it is safer to do little more than rub in the cream, always with an upward stroke to prevent sagging.

A MOTHER'S RULES.

Things which I must teach my little girl:

That if you must choose, it is better to be a beautiful home-maker than a fine housekeeper. That, for instance, ruffled pillow-cases cost too much if they mean ruffled tempers.

That the one indispensable quality in a home is happiness; every home, no matter how beautiful, which misses that, is a failure; but no home, whatever its faults, can be wholly a failure if it is happy.

That happiness is a matter of spirit, not "things."

That it is possible only when every member of the household is considered, and all work and plan together, and God is its constant Guest.

That, is to be in her own place where ever that may be, a beautiful home-maker is the loveliest ambition a woman can have.

These are things that I want to help my little girl to understand.

The utilizing of one's old silk remnants and bits of leftover ribbon by cutting them into strips, sewing them together, winding them into balls and then having them woven into rag rugs of delightful quality for table covers and other decorative uses has been found most economical. It is artistic in its results to a degree exactly corresponding with the judgment used in arranging the color sequences. But it often happens that finding a weaver is a matter of some difficulty.

But the person who can knit in the plainest "garter" stitch can produce results quite as available as those of the loom. The coarsest wooden needles should be used and care be taken to have them of the most perfect smoothness, as a slight protruding splinter otherwise not to be noticed will catch in the raw edges of the silk rags and cause trouble.

The silk can be sewed in a hit or top by a fold or piping of red, silk or solid color to be sewed and wound, according to the result desired. The hit or miss gives a soft, Oriental effect, harmonizing with almost any color scheme. The strips can be cast on as many stitches wide as the needles will accommodate or the knitter care to manage. If silk and patience be not lacking several long strips joined together will make a very handsome and artistic portiere. Smaller breadths will make a table runner for the library or serve to cover sofa pillows, or can be used for curtains to a low bookcase. In fact, once the work be taken up it will grow steadily and the number of uses to be found for it will extend.

All bits of old silk can be used for this purpose, no matter how hopeless seeming, for if soiled they can be brightened in a dye bath. And the judicious use of black, usually to be found in all piece bags, will give depth and richness to the whole fabric.

TAKE COURAGE.

There comes times to all of us when we feel that we are tried beyond our strength and when it seems that the more we strive and sacrifice the farther off is the day of victory. But we must rouse ourselves from these moments of discouragement and despair. If we yield to them we are lost. The very moment we feel ourselves giving way to weakness we must summon all our energy to resist the deadly attack and assert all the manhood and womanhood there is in us. Soon we feel ourselves fired up again and give a new lease of strength for a braver effort than we have yet made.

Of all human beings on earth the workers have the least cause to despair of their lot. If they are still in bondage it is because they will it so. No power between the skies and the seas can enslave them but themselves.

MOCK FRUIT CAKE.

One cup sugar, half cup lard or butter, one cup milk (milk will keep it moist longer), one pound currants or raisins, one cup of walnuts chopped fine; one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon soda. Put all on stove and let come to a boil; then remove; when cool add two and a half cups flour, one teaspoon soda. Bake ten minutes.

CUBAN FRAPPE.

Boil to a syrup one pound of sugar with a pint of water, and while it is hot pour over it the grated rind of half an orange and half a lemon. Add two cups of orange juice, one grated pineapple and half a cup of lemon juice. Pour one cup of boiling water on one teaspoon of good tea. Add that to the mixture when cool. Strain and freeze.

MAKING FUDGE.

In making fudge if you will put in a pinch of salt, not enough to taste, it will make it as smooth as glass when poured out.

JELLIES THAT WON'T "JELL."

When making jellies, if they will not "jell" easily, add a pinch of powdered alum. The result is fine.

The Lost "TITANIC"

The steamship Titanic of the White Star line, the largest vessel afloat, was on her maiden voyage when she met with the accident and was due in New York April 16th. The Titanic is 46,328 tons register, with a displacement of 66,000 tons. Her total length is 882 feet six inches, her breadth is 92 feet six inches, and she is 175 feet from the keel to the top of the smokestacks. She has eleven decks, which is equal to what was called a skyl scraper a few years ago. The vessel will carry 4,000 persons, including passengers and crew, and in spite of the fact that the staterooms are unusually spacious, beds taking the place of bunks in most of the apartments. Two regal suites on the Titanic cost $4,350 each for the trip, the occupants having a private promenade deck on which they have as much privacy as in the piazza of their own home. When the huge ship left Southampton on April 10th she passed near the New York of the American line, and the tremendous suction developed by the passage of the leviathan caused the seven hawsers holding the New York to snap and turn that vessel loose. She was pushed back into her dock without mishap. To show the tremendous ocean greynounds in recent years it may be said that the Titanic is nearly four times as large as the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, which ten years ago was one of the largest, finest and fastest boats in service.

REGION OF WARMTH.

Hot Springs Are Reported to the North of Porcupine.

Superintendent A. E. Snyder, commanding the Royal Northwest Mounted Police at Whitehorse, Yukon Territory, reported to the commissioner in 1900 that from north of the now famous Porcupine district in northern Ontario there had come repeated rumors of the existence of a wonderful "tropical" region which was still inhabited by mastodons, says the Success magazine. "The Indians," concludes Superintendent Snyder, "report having seen the gigantic tracks of these animals."

But little attention was paid to these stories until in November of last year Mr. C. J. McIntyre and two companions reported a most amazing discovery north of Porcupine. They were traveling by dog-sledge, with the thermometer at forty below, when to their astonishment the temperature began to rise so fast that within a space of two hours they had thrown off their garments, and the snow was soft underfoot.

"It seemed," said Mr. McIntyre, "as though we were suddenly passing from winter into spring."
Soon after they came upon the first of numberless hot springs, the snow disappeared entirely, and dense vegetation took the place of the stunted birch and spruce of the plains. Because of necessarily slow travel on foot the explorers were not able to determine the extent of this wonderful oasis in the far northern wilderness. They found several good-sized rivers flowing with warm water and teeming with fish, and the country was alive with bear, caribou, ducks, pheasants, wild geese, and other game, and gold was found in a number of creeks.

First House in Halifax.

The distinguished geographer, Sir Clements Markham, K.C.B., F.R.S., has entered upon his eighty-second year. He comes of a family famous for its antiquity and valour. A very interesting record of the Markham's history, edited by Sir Clements, was compiled by his father, the late Rev. David Markham, sometime Canon of Windsor. The house has given many gallant sons to both army and navy. Major William Markham, born 1686, who served in Spain under Peterborough and Stanhope, is said to have built the first house in Halifax, Nova Scotia. He is buried in the North Cloister of Westminster Abbey, where also lie the remains of his eldest son, who became Archbishop of York. The archbishop's second son entered the navy, rose to the rank of admiral, and twice served as a Lord of the Admiralty.

Sir Clement has been both secretary and president of the Royal Geographical Society, and recipient of one of its gold medals for research.

Kitchen Hints.

When hanging meat it is well not to put the meat back through the meat itself, but through a loop of string tied on to the joint.

To preserve lemons for a length of time bury them in a box of sawdust. In this way they will keep fresh for several months.

To remove a grease spot from wall paper hold a piece of blotting paper over the spot with a hot flatiron for a few moments.

In order to beat the white of an egg to a stiff froth quickly add a pinch of powdered sugar and fine salt and beat on a dinner plate with a broad-pointed knife.

Wood ashes are excellent for cleaning tin articles. Wring a cloth out of warm water, dip it in the ashes and with this scrub the things; then rub off and polish.

To remove unpleasant odors from the hands dash a spoonful of sugar on the hot stove and hold the hands over the flame. Ground coffee answers the same purpose.

Duke's Escort.

The Canadian Military Gazette, Ottawa, says: The escort for the Duke of Connaught will be the same as for another Governor-General, namely, 33 of all ranks under the command of a captain. It was thought that since the duke was a member of the royal family, he would be entitled to a major's escort of 87, of all ranks, but the Canadian Department that the position of Governor-General supercedes his position as member of the royal family, and he is entitled to the captain's escort instead of the major's. It is a fortunate thing for the dragons. The escorts are all drawn from A Squadron, which would not have been large enough to supply the major's escort, nor would there have been enough ceremonial uniforms to go round.

Praise for Canada.

General Sir Walter Kitchener has been in Montreal with his daughter, who is to attend McGill. The general thinks that Canadian education is so far ahead of that of Oxford or Cambridge that he is having his son and daughter educated here. He himself would have made Canada his home, but at the time that he was preparing to come, the war in Egypt broke out, and he spent years in campaigning after that. He was in command of the Strathcona Horse and the mounted rifles in South Africa, and says that the Canadians were as good soldiers as he ever saw. Sir Walter has returned to the Bermudas, of which he is governor.

A Proud Old Lady.

Jeremie Barrette of Montreal was a proud great-great-grandmother the other day, when at the age of 103 years, she held in her arms a one-day-old child, which was christened at the Church of the Immaculate Conception. Five years ago she held in her arms the youngest of a family of great-grandsons, when he was christened at a church in Point St. Charles. The eldest of that family has now been married over a year, and only a few days ago a representative of the fifth generation was born.

(Continued from page 1) life-saving apparatus provided for on modern passenger steamships, and recommend that immediate steps be taken to compel passenger steamers to carry sufficient boats to accommodate the maximum number of people carried on board.

The following facts were observed and should be considered in this connection:—The insufficiency of lifeboats, rafts, etc.; lack of trained seamen to man same (stokers, stewards, etc.); not enough officers to carry out emergency orders on the bridge and superintend the launching and control of lifeboats; absence of searchlights.

The Board of Trade rules allow for entirely too many people in each boat to permit the same to be properly handled. On the Titanic the boat-deck was about 75 feet above water and consequently the passengers were required to embark before lowering boats, thus endangering the operation and preventing the taking on the maximum number the boat would hold. Boats at all times to be properly equipped with provisions, water, lamps, compasses, lights, etc. Life-saving boat drills should be more frequent and thoroughly carried out; and officers should be armed with boat drills. Greater reduction in speed in fog and ice, as damage if collision actually occurs is liable to be less.

In conclusion, we suggest that an international conference be called to recommend the passage of identical laws, providing for the safety of all at sea, and we urge the United States Government to take the initiative as soon as possible.

The statement was signed by Samuel Goldenberg, chairman, and a committee of some twenty-five passengers.

The Titanic, the greatest ship in the world, went down with her hand playing, taking with her to their graves at the bottom of the ocean all but 745 of 2,340 souls. To this awful death six persons were added. One died in the life boats which were put off from the liner's side and subsequently succumbed on the Carpathia. The total death list is 1,602. Survivors in the life boats huddled together in the darkness at a safe distance from the ship and saw her go down. Colonel Archibald, U. S. A., the last man saved, went down with the ship but was picked up, tells a remarkable story of his rescue and that of 29 others from a raft. The Colonel denies that there was any excitement on board the liner. Captain Smith's order that women and children be looked after first, was generally obeyed. A fund of immense proportions is being raised for the destitute passengers. Customs regulations were cancelled and all on the Carpathia were permitted to land without any examination.

Titanic Was Racing for Record Though obviously ill, he answered every question succinctly. First of all he told of how he came to be on the boat, he said he always accompanied his Company's liners on their maiden voyage. Mr. Ismay then mentioned that he was in bed when the collision took place and did not see the iceberg. No explosion on board.—Mr. Ismay, describing how he left the Titanic, said he only looked around once. The boat was afloat at that time. Continuing he said: "I did not want to see her go down. I was rowing in the life boat all the time until we were picked up." Mr. Ismay said there was no explosion on board. In response to a question, the witness estimated the speed of the ship when she struck at 21 knots. He said that if the ship had struck head on she would have floated. Mr. Ismay was asked how long he remained on the injured ship. "That would be hard to estimate," he replied, "almost until she sank. Probably an hour and a quarter." Then Senator Smith asked the circumstances under which he left the boat. "The boat was being filled," began Mr. Ismay, "the officers called out to know if there were any more women to go. There were none. No passengers were on the deck, so as the boat was being lowered I got into it."

"The ship was sinking?" asked Senator Smith. "The boat was sinking," almost whispered Mr. Ismay. In discussing the strength of the Carpathia's wireless Captain Rostrom said the Carpathia was only 58 miles from the Titanic when the call for help came. "Our wireless operator was not on duty, but as he was undressing he had his apparatus to his ear. Ten minutes later, he would have been in bed and we never would have heard."

It has given the world the news of the greatest disaster that has ever occurred in the history of the merchant marine, and above all it has been the means of bringing succor to nearly nine hundred people. Without it not a soul of the Titanic's company, in all probability, would have been saved.
