Mme. Clovis-Hugues Acquitted. Paris, Jan. 8.—The trial of Madame Clovis-Hugues for the murder of her traducer opened this morning. The court was crowded, Many diplomats and other distinguished persons were present. During the reading of the indictment Madame Clovis-Hugues seemed to be affected, but she replied in a firm tone to the questions-She admitted that the shooting was pre neditated, and declared that since May 25 she had been resolved to kill the nothing new. Madame Clovis-Hugues de- the contract. They cannot be clared she had offered Morin to apply for remission of his sentence if he would retract the calumnies he had circulated about her. Morin returned an insulting Teply. In concluding Madame said, "If you believe me guilty condemn me; if you can understand the moral tortures I ave endured acquit me." These 'words were uttered in a firm and energetic tene. she appeared to make a favourable imression on the jury. In reply to a remark by the judges that murder was unustifiable, especially after fifteen months premeditation, she said, "You would not ason so coolly if you had suffered as I have," and the prisoner proceeded to un-fold the unremitting and atrocious character of the prosecution to which she had been subjected. During the narrative she became very much excited. THE SCENE IN COURT. The Court room during the trial was so the feet of the Judge. Anxious attend- to women. ants even seated themselves beneath the tables of the lawyers. The toilets of the ladies present were brilliant, and the contributions from gardens and hot houses from scrofula gave the Court room the appearance of a conservatory. Madame Hugues admitted in testimony she would have killed indigestion, and in fact almost all diseases Madame Le Normand er her private agent, Clerget, but for the fact both said

The judge said Morin did not write the objectionable cards. The prisoner insisted they were dictated by Morin, and challenged any one to find the person who did write them. Forge, Member of the Chamber of Deputies, addressing the Court, was emphatic in his praise of the action of Madame Hugues, and so vehethat the judge imposed a severe rebuke upon him. The addresses to the jury were offconsiderable length, and a verdict was returned at 2 a. m. & The verdict acquitted her of the murder of Morin, but she was condemned to pay $400 damages and the cost of the trial. The announcement "not guilty" was the signal for tremendous applause. Popular sympathy for Madame Hugnes was demonstrated by vociferous shouts and cheering. GENERAL NOTES AND NEWS Rev. F. X. Cormier, at one time station. ed in St. John, now resident priest at

PATTERSON LOGGIE & CO

My name is Anthony Hunt. I am a drover and live miles and miles away upon the Western prairie. There wasn't a house in sight when I first moved there, my wife and I, and now we have not many neighbors, though those we have are good ones.

One day, about ten years ago, I went away from home to sell some fifty head of cattle—fine creatures as I ever saw, I NEW GOODS OPENING AT LOGGIE & BURR'S I was to buy some groceries and dry goods before I came back; and above all a doll for our youngest, Dolly. She had never had a store doll of her own Dolly could talk nothing else, and went down to the very gate to call after me to get a big one. Nobody but a parent can understand how full my mind was of that toy, and how, when the cattle were sold, the first thing I found a large c ith eyes that would tucked it under my arm while I had tea and sugar put up. Then, late as it s, I started for home. It might have been more prudent to stay until morning, but I felt anxious to get back and eager to hear Dolly's praises about her doll. I was mounted on a steady going FURSI old horse and pretty well loaded. Night set in before I was a mile from town, and settled down as dark as pitch while I was in the middle of the darkest bit of the road I know of. I could have felt my way through, I remembered it so well : and when the storm that had been brewing broke, and pelted the rain in torrents I was five miles or maybe six from home.

I rode as fast as I could, but all of a I rode as fast as I could, but all of a sudden I heard a little cry like a child's voice. I stopped short and listened. I heard it again. I called and it answered me. I couldn't see a thing; all was around in the grass, called again, and known to be a drover and to have money about me. It might be a trap to catch me unawares, and rob and murder me. I am not superstitious not very, but how could a real child b out on the prairie in such a night, at such an hour? it might be more than human. The bit of a coward that hides itself in most men showed itself to me then, but once more I heard the cry, and said:

"If any man's child is hereabouts Anthony Hunt is not the man to let it

I searched again. At last I bethought me of a low under the hill and groped that ay. Sure enough, I found a little dripping thing that mouned and sobbed as I took it in my arms. I called my thing under my coat as well as I could, promising to take it home to mamma. It seemed so tired, and pretty soon cried itself to sleep on my bosom. It had slept there over an hour when I saw my own windows. There were lights in them, and I supposed my wife had lit them for my sake; but when I got into the doorway I saw something was fear at heart five minutes before I could lift the latch. At last I did it and say

It was my own darling, and none other, that I had picked up on the drenched road. My little child had wandered out to meet papa and the doll, while the mother was at work, and they were lamenting her as one dead. I

I had not stopped when I heard the cry of help upon the road, hardly louder than a squirrel's chirp.
