

CAMPBELLTON IN DREAD OF WINTER

One Hundred Thousand Dollars Needed if People Are to Exist for Next Eight Months--Contributions Coming in Well--Spread of Contagious Disease Checked.

Special to The Standard. Campbellton, Aug. 3.—It is thought that the spread of contagious disease here was checked today for the time being. The health authorities were engaged this forenoon in fumigating the tents where measles and diphtheria had broken out. Several contributions of drugs have been received, and this makes it easier to take precautions. In the meantime, the relief committee cannot afford to wait any longer and are having application forms filled out by the homeless prior to providing buildings for them next week. They feel confident at the same time that the public will quickly increase the relief fund to the necessary figures. In two weeks at least, it should reach $100,000. If the people respond in the right way, the extra contributions from St. John city is a step in the right direction. "St. John is certainly supporting us nobly," is the general comment of the people here. With only the present fund on hand however, it would go hard with the people next winter; $50,000 is practically useless in face of the gigantic task of providing homes and food for the next eight months. By next April of course, a spring boom should settle upon the town, owing to rebuilding operations, which should give plenty of employment. It is during the winter months there is bound to be poverty and suffering. Yesterday's contributions included Mrs. P. S. Ross, Mountain street, Montreal, $5; Moses Harris, Hebron, N. S., $5; John McCallum, $4; L. R. Rawlings, Montreal, $5; Edwin Legalle, James Friel, Dorchester, $50; Rufus Curry, Windsor, N. S., $100; J. A. Guilmet, St. Flavie, $5; W. J. Hoyt, Bridgetown, $100; Killam Bros., Yarmouth, $25; citizens of Grand Caspasia, $12.75; Stewart N. Scott, St. John, $10; W. H. Tracey, Orange Lodge, Dorchester, $50; Liverpool, N. S., $126; Senator McKeen, Halifax, N. S., $50; L. J. Tweedie, governor of New Brunswick, $100. May Guarantee Campbellton Debt. Montreal, Aug. 3.—Judge McLatchy of New Brunswick, Thomas Malcolm and James Reid, M. P., were in the city today en route home from Ottawa where they have been interviewing the members of the government in reference to assistance for the distressed town of Campbellton. The members of the deputation are confident that the government will come to the assistance of Campbellton and are of the opinion that it will take the form, with the aid of the local government, of the guaranteeing for fifteen years of Campbellton's municipal debt, the federal government contributing $8,000 per year and the local $5,000, which will relieve the town of its indebtedness.

"I Had Seen or Heard Nothing Until the Cruel Blow Fell," Is Ethel Le Neve's Message

Girl Arrested with Crippen Protests Her Innocence in Cable to Her Sister.

No Evidence Yet That She Had Even Been Wedded to London Wife Slayer.

HER LATEST PICTURE.

London, Aug. 3.—"I had seen or heard nothing until the cruel blow fell. Am returning home." This message from Ethel Clara Le Neve was received by her sister in London tonight. It brought great relief to the relatives of the woman who is to be charged jointly with Dr. Crippen with murder. The mother and sister have sent numerous telegrams to Ethel Le Neve, expressing confidence in her innocence and urging her to tell all to the police. A search of the registry offices has failed to reveal evidence that Ethel Le Neve was married to Crippen, and thus far such a marriage has not been reported at Somerset House, which the clergy officials would be required to do within a month after the ceremony. Inspector Dew testified at the inquest that Ethel Le Neve did not claim to be married but said that she was Crippen's housekeeper. She told her parents, however, that she was married, but made excuses when he asked her to show her marriage certificate. The Scotland Yard officials reiterate their denial of the report that Inspector Dew has received from London a cablegram stating that the mutilated body found in the cellar of Crippen's house has been identified.

Ethel Clara Le Neve is the woman in the case in the Crippen murder. She was Dr. Crippen's stenographer. She is in the early twenties, and was born in England. Her right name is Lanesve, but in frequent visits to Paris, she became Frenchified and thereafter used her name Le Neve. Her mother was highly esteemed by her acquaintances. The girl has a complex character. She was extremely whimsical when not crossed. Her method of winning Dr. Crippen was worthy of a drama plot. When the doctor began paying attention to her Mrs. Crippen (the murdered woman) displayed signs of hatred for the girl. Immediately the girl doubled her efforts to fascinate the doctor. He began inviting her to the social affairs at his home. The more Mrs. Crippen displayed her hatred of the girl the more the girl smiled and charmed the physician. Quarrels were frequent, because the girl was a constant visitor at the Crippen home. Her constant good nature and pleasantness charmed even those who realized that the girl was crowding Mrs. Crippen out of the affections of her husband. Mrs. Crippen, it is probable, finally reached the point where she could no longer endure the situation, and her remonstrances indicated to Dr. Crippen that he would have to make a definite choice between the two women. Thus, it is believed, he was brought to the resolution to end his wife's life.

Italian Murderer Wanted in Quincy Said to be in Truro

"Charles Warwick," of Moncton Sends Wire to Boston Police--Luigi Restelli for whom Posses is Hunting Said to Have Come this Way--No One Has Seen Him.

Quincy, Mass., Aug. 3.—A report that Luigi Restelli, the much wanted Italian double murderer is on a train bound for Boston for Truro, N. S., was received by Chief of Police Burrell today. This information was telephoned to Chief Burrell by Deputy Supt. Watts, of the Boston police, who stated that he received a telegram this afternoon from a man signing his name as Charles Warwick, of Moncton, N. B. The telegram stated that Restelli was on board a train which is due in Truro at 8.15 tonight, from Boston. Receiving this information, Deputy Watts immediately informed Chief Burrell who in turn telegraphed to the authorities at Truro to board the train when it pulled in tonight and search it for the suspect. In case they failed to find the man, Chief Burrell asked them to hold the man and wire him immediately. At the same time Chief Burrell notified several other stations along the line to be on the lookout for the man said to be Restelli. Neither the Quincy police nor the Boston authorities know who Charles Warwick is, or how he received the information. The telegram received read: "Restelli on train from Boston to Newfoundland tonight. Be in Truro tonight, Destination St. George's Bay."

PORTLAND BOY IS DROWNED IN THE KENNEBEC

Portland, Me., Aug. 3.—Clifford Stephenson, 15, son of Deputy Sheriff W. J. Stephenson, of this city, was drowned in the Kennebec river near Richmond this afternoon. The body has not been recovered. His chum, Harold S. Hersey, was thrown into the river with him, but a rope was thrown to him and he was saved. The steamer City of Bangor and City of Augusta were exchanging freight and the boys fell off the latter craft.

MANY STRIKERS WILL STAY OUT

None of the Strikebreakers Will be Discharged to Take Back Union Men and Those Who Went Out on Strike Must Take Their Chances of Securing Work.

Special to The Standard. Montreal, Aug. 3.—Orders were issued this morning by Vice-President Fitzhugh, in charge of the operating department of the Grand Trunk to the officials all over the system advising them of the agreement and instructing them to take back the men who went out, except where they are known to have been guilty of acts of violence, to fill arising vacancies, etc. Officials who have been filling positions in the train service are to be returned to their former places and vacancies thus created are also to be filled from the ranks of those who went out. No new men are to be discharged for the purpose of creating vacancies. As a result of these orders about sixty men have so far been taken back at Montreal but return from other portions of the eastern division have not yet come to hand. It is however, estimated that nearly thirty per cent. of the men who went out will not be able to get back for the present at least. Vice President James Murdoch, of the trainmen received a number of telegrams today from different points of the system that officials of the road did not appear to understand the terms of settlement. To all these Mr. Murdoch replied advising the complainants to have patience, that matters could not be expected to right themselves in a few hours and that he was sure that things would come all right in the end. A meeting of the two unions and the joint committee is to be held here tomorrow for the purpose of taking stock of the situation, which has been brought about by the settlement. The company has not made any official announcement in regard to the pension rights of the men who are being taken back, but in well informed quarters the impression is that the men will lose their standing and be taken back as new men from the pension point of view. All the company's agents have been instructed to receive all classes of freight without any restrictions. St. Albans, Vt., Aug. 3.—Misunderstanding which developed during the day in connection with the settlement of the Central Vermont strike announced last night, were cleared away by tonight. Officials of the road and representatives organizations of conductors, trainmen and yardmen tonight expressed themselves as prepared to abide by the terms of the agreement.

YALE MAN GIVES HIS BOAT TO DR. GRENFELL

George Rowland Travelled 1,600 Miles To Labrador With Wedding Gift For Missionary--Rough Voyage.

Indian Harbor N. F., Aug. 3.—George Rowland of Greenwich Conn., the young Yale man, has safely arrived here in the forty-foot hospital tender Yale, which he had built along lines of his own, raised the cost of construction by personal subscription, and then, with a crew of students took the boat from Booth Bay, Me., along some of the worst coast in the world, and presented it to Dr. Grenfell the Labrador missionary, as a wedding present to be used in his Labrador work. Young Rowland, who is only 21 years old, is a son of George Rowland, a New York business man, whose country home is in this town, and a brother of Henry Rowland, the novelist. The trip was a rough one of more than 1,600 miles, bad weather being encountered most of the way, but it was accomplished without mishap. The Yale sailed on June 18 and reached Halifax on July 9. After a rather bad trip, during which all hands were almost worn out, they arrived at Battle Harbor, Labrador, where they found that Dr. Grenfell was at St. Anthony, N. F., to which they sailed, and at his request took the boat to Indian Harbor, about 200 miles north of Battle Harbor. They arrived there last night. The Yale is 44 feet 8 inches over all and 34 feet on the water line. She has a width of 12 feet and a draught of 6 feet 8 inches. She is ketch rigged, with an auxiliary engine using kerosene, as gasoline cannot be obtained in Labrador.

"CHERIO" THE PALMIST BECOMES BANKRUPT

Started Out As Broker In London--Has Liabilities $215,000 With Assets $50,000--Had Big Reputation.

London, Aug. 3.—A meeting of the creditors of Louis Hamon was held today under a receiving order made last June 10. Hamon who originally came from Chicago, has had a variegated career. Under the name of Cherio he was for years one of the most successful palmists in London. Ten years ago he purchased The American Register, a weekly paper published first in Paris and afterward in London and from 1905 to 1907 he carried on a financial business under the style of Hamon and Co. Charges were made against him by American women clients who declared that he unlawfully retained possession of certain stock that they had given him to negotiate. The Official Receiver said that no statement of the debtor's affairs had yet been lodged, but Hamon had estimated his unsecured liabilities at £43,000 ($215,000). The only assets disclosed were ten shares of £1 each in a registered company.

PLAN TO SKIN THE UNWARY MORMON MAN

Officers of United Wireless Indicted By New York Grand Jury For Using Mails With Intent To Defraud.

New York, Aug. 3.—Seven officers of the United Wireless Telegraph Company, most of whom had been previously arrested, were indicted by a federal grand jury today on two counts, one charging conspiracy to defraud by use of the United States mails, the other charging conspiracy in devising a scheme to induce investors to buy worthless stock. The seven indicted are:—President Christopher Columbus Wilson, Vice-President Samuel S. Bogar, Secretary Tompkins, Geo. H. Parker, General Manager C. C. Galbraith, Treasurer W. A. Dicon, and Francis Buller, a director of the company. All were arraigned before Judge Hough of the U. S. District Court and pleaded not guilty, except Parker, who is understood to be now on the way from Seattle to surrender himself. President Wilson was held in $25,000 bail; Tompkins and Bogar in $10,000 each, and the others in $5,000 each. On the first charge all were paroled for one week and on the second charge they were given two days in which to find bail. They have permission to withdraw their plea of not guilty on or before Sept. 20. The company has outstanding $90,000,000 worth of common and preferred stock. The indictment gives a long list of statements about this stock sent out by the management which the indictment charges are totally false, and concludes:—"It was part of the scheme of said defendants to sell their personal stock, pretending the same to be treasury stock, and the reason the stock sold was made non-transferable for two years was to keep the stock off the market."

MONCTON CHILDREN NOT FOND OF SCHOOL

School Census in Railway Town Shows 500 Children Not In Attendance--Peuliar Scott Act Case.

Moncton, N. B., Aug. 3.—The school census shows 172 children of school age in ward one not attending school and in ward three 157. It is believed ward 2 will bring the total up to nearly 500. Ralph Steeves, a constable and game warden in Elgin, Albert Co., was before Magistrate Peck at Albert today charged with killing a steer, the property of Alexander Hawke. It appears that Steeves was one of a party hunting for moose in 1907 and came upon the animal in a clearing. According to evidence Steeves, who had been drinking, threatened to shoot the animal and though his companions intervened finally succeeded in doing so. Further hearing in the case was adjourned for one week, Steeves being admitted to $2,000 bail. Extreme penalty for this offence is 14 years. A peculiar Scott Act case came before Magistrate Peck this week, the defendant being Walter S. Jones, a druggist at Riverside. The evidence went to show that an assistant of Dr. Carnworth, who is not a registered physician in this province, has been signing Carnworth's name to prescriptions for liquor. Dr. Carnworth and his assistant swore that an arrangement had been made for the issue of such prescriptions with the knowledge of Jones. The case was adjourned till next week when further evidence will be taken.

CLOAK MAKERS WILL FIGHT TO A FINISH

All Negotiations Looking To a Settlement Of Cloak Makers Strike In New York Declared Off.

New York, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Negotiations with the employees looking to a settlement of the strike of the cloak makers in this city were declared off this evening after a meeting of the cloak, suit and skirt manufacturers' association. The failure of the strikers' committee to reply to the terms submitted to it yesterday by the employers, was given as the cause of this action. Announcement was made by the association that the factories will be reopened immediately and new operators will be installed as rapidly as they can be obtained. A fight to the finish it was said, will be waged against the union. The open shop is understood to be the real cause of the failure to reach an agreement.

SAYS THE WOMAN IS INNOCENT

"I believe Ethel LeNeve is absolutely innocent of any criminal knowledge of how Belle Elmore came to her death," continued Mne. Ginnett. "I believe the doctor misled his wife after he killed her and that he turned as a lonely man will often do, to the woman who had been associated with him in business. Certainly she showed her willingness to make sacrifices for him. Few women would do off."

GIRL AS A DETECTIVE

London Girl Who Has Adopted Thief-Catching Profession Tells of Her Experiences—Pages from Life.

Kate Easton writes in M. A. P. about her work as a detective. Miss Easton was the first woman to adopt seriously the profession of detective.

Needless to say, at that time I had no idea that I should ever be a detective, but necessity, that mother of invention, forced me to earn my own living.

Naturally I went into some of the most interesting episodes in my experience when I was engaged in tracing the perpetrators of a certain big silver robbery.

Another interesting episode in my experience was when I was engaged in tracing the perpetrators of a certain big silver robbery, which necessitated my going in disguise into some very low streets adjacent to Tottenham Court road.

Danseuse Now Wears Cassie's Necklace

LA PETITE ADELAIDE.

Jewelry was among the fads of Cassie Chadwick, of frenzied finance fame. Among them was a pearl necklace worth $20,000 which for many months reposed in a safe of Chas. F. Leach, collector of customs at the port of Cleveland.

In this connection I also had a nasty experience. I had to stay for a night or two in a common lodging-house in the vicinity of Fitzroy Square. The place was crammed with foreigners of the very lowest type, men and girls.

A tragedy of the grim and sordid kind was only just averted, and having gleaned all the evidence I wanted, I was not sorry to quit, though, being nothing if not enthusiastic over my business, I counted the cost cheap, as I was the means of unearthing more than one scoundrel.

Just lately I and my staff (men) have been employed on election work and here old clothes were necessary, as we had to encounter more than one shower of election eggs.

A curious and particularly sad story is the following: A gentleman, who had a good appointment in the Far East, came to me for advice. He said he had been engaged to a girl, funnily enough, in the employ of some detective agency.

I followed the case up, and had no great difficulty in finding the lady, married and settled down with a very wealthy husband. I explained the facts as gently as I could, and the truth seemed to break the poor quondam lover up horribly.

Human nature is a curious mixture to those who have to study it. My own opinion is that most criminals are the result of lack of will or selfishness. I mean that the callous blackguards devoid of human instinct, of right and wrong are comparatively rare, though they meet them.

PRINCESS PATRICIA.

London, Aug. 3.—Princess "Pat" is going to get her "Charlie" after all. King George has said it. And all England is glad that the youngest and most beautiful daughter of King Edward's brother, the Duke of Connaught, is to marry the son of a duke.

Since Princess "Pat" has been old enough to be wooed she has at some time or other rejected all the eligible kings, princes and dukes of Europe, Alfonso of Spain, and Manuel of Portugal being among them.

Richard O'Leary, with a party of friends, went to Moncton on Saturday to marry the son of a duke. The staff of A. & R. Loggie Co., presented R. W. Darrah with a handsome stick-pin last week.

NATURAL FOR GIRLS TO FLIRT

Professor Hart Says it is Hereditary and Can't be Stopped—Woman's Place is in the Home.

London, August 2.—After a tour of the West President G. Stanley Hall of Clark University, Worcester, now comes forth with further views for the benefit of those who yearn to delve in the mysteries of love.

President Hall takes up flirting especially and explains that for girls to flirt is perfectly natural. He establishes the dictum that flirting is especially natural to girls in their teens.

"Heredity is more potent than environment," explained Prof. Hall. "I believe that by no act of Parliament or of Congress, or by any man-made law can you change human nature to any great extent.

"Flirting which may be harmless in itself if not carried too far, is woman's emotional safety valve. A girl needs to flirt if she is young and full of spirit, and generally it does her no injury."

"Woman is delightfully effervescent in her emotions, and so her ability for real deep feeling while in her teens has been often called into question."

"The American woman is to me a distinctly pleasing topic for thought," confessed President Hall smilingly. "I find her relatively a better developed specimen of her sex than her husband."

"One pronounced fault which is growing among the girls of today is that they scorn domestic science. Unlike the women of Germany they seem to think that domestic science is for servants only and that to pursue its study is beneath them."

"But it is generally true," he persists, "that when a woman takes up her work in some field outside the home it is man who has failed. It is man's business to make himself attractive to women, to woo and win her as nature intended that he should do."

"The problem is a big one and is just beginning to be realized by the world's leading educators. Too many women teachers are making the girls in American schools today overfeminize. A certain number are requisite to keep up the moral tone but that number is at present considerably exceeded."

"I oppose co-education," concluded President Hall, "because I believe it arouses in the minds of girls thoughts of wedlock before such thoughts or their consummation is at all desirable. Unhappy marriages result."

Rev. F. W. M. Bacon returned from a two weeks' trip to Bear River, N. S., on Saturday, taking charge of his services here on Sunday.

SAINT JOHN, THURSDAY MORNING, AUGUST 4, 1910

SLANDERS ON THE KING REFUTED.

Canadians and citizens of the Empire generally in the Dominion beyond the seas are happily situated if they have been beyond the sound of certain whispered slanders which have frequently been heard in England as affecting the character of the present King. Never above a whisper, never appearing in print, these slanders have for years assailed His Majesty—the only man in the whole kingdom unable to strike a blow in defence of his honor and reputation. Men over their glasses and women over their tea cups have not hesitated to say that in his younger days, when Prince George was but a youth, and his brother was heir to the throne, he married an admiral's daughter in Malta, and by her had two children. To this infamous lie was added another; that His Majesty, while Prince of Wales, was of intemperate habits. The story of the Maltese marriage would brand the King as morally a bigamist, his Queen no true queen, his children, in the eyes of the world, illegitimate. The second lie, relating to intemperance is hardly less injurious. In the current number of the Review of Reviews, in an article entitled: "The Personal Character of the New King," these slanders are examined in circumstantial detail, and in a manner to delight the heart of every loyal subject, of every honest man and woman, are nailed to the counter.

Mr. W. T. Stead, whose reputation as a writer is world wide, starts off by quoting Lord Rosebery's public testimony to His Majesty's lofty standard of conduct. Here are Lord Rosebery's words:—"He (the King) has led a pure, healthy, and abstemious life; he is a good husband and a good father. He will exhibit on the throne domestic virtues which are dear to this country."

"So far as can be ascertained," adds Mr. Stead, "so far from being given to intemperance, George V. is probably the most abstemious King who has ever ascended the English throne. I do not say that he is a good Templar or a Rechabite, or a pledged teetotaler. But I do say with confidence, on the authority of men who know him intimately, who have lived with him, dined with him, supped with him, that although he sometimes takes a glass of wine his usual beverages are distilled or mineral water and milk. Some have gone so far as to assure me that he has not allowed a drop of alcohol to cross his lips for two years. That is an exaggeration. Others profess to have seen him take a nightcap of whiskey and soda. But the evidence of those who know him best is that there is not a man more abstemious in the use of intoxicants among all the millions who own his sway. And as he is now so 'he has been all his life—sober, temperate, abstemious.'"

The King is famous as being one of the best shots in the kingdom. Once "he achieved the remarkable feat of having four dead birds in the air at once. Employing one barrel, he killed a bird 60 yards high. Changing his gun and firing the right and left barrels, he again killed, and before the first bird was ten yards from the ground he had again changed his gun, fired, and killed." Such a feat would be impossible to any man whose nerve had been shattered by strong drinks.

"Nearly everybody in any general company will tell you," continues the writer "more or less circumstantial stories of how Prince George was married to an admiral's daughter at Malta at a time when he never expected to be called to the Throne. The admiral is sometimes Admiral S—, Admiral T—, or Admiral L—. The marriage is declared to be canonically valid, as it was celebrated, so the story goes, in the English church by an Anglican chaplain in the presence of the whole ship's company, under whose crossed swords the young couple, who had just been made man and wife in contravention of the Royal Marriage Act, walked in bridal procession from the church. By this marriage, which is represented as one of passionate affection on both sides, the story-tellers declare the King has had two children, and they were all living as happily as little birds in a nest when the death of his elder brother confronted Prince George with the horrible necessity of committing bigamy, according to the law of the church, in order to provide the Empire with an heir who would be legitimate under the provisions of the Royal Marriage Act.

"The Queen Alexandra, in this elaborated romance, is said to have flung herself with tears at the feet of Queen Victoria, imploring that relentless old lady to waive the objection to a marriage with a subject. But she implored in vain. The Malta marriage was ignored. The admiral's daughter and her two children were banished to some remote fastness in the wilds of Scotland, sometimes described as a lunatic asylum, where after a time the unhappy lady died. According to some versions, her father had previously committed suicide. But twice in every year the King is allowed to visit his two first-born children, who, however, are carefully hidden from the prying search of the curious."

Mr. Stead proceeds to give an account of his investigations into the story seventeen years ago. From Sir Henry Ponsonby, Queen Victoria's private secretary, he received an unqualified denial, and a suggestion to investigate the whole story. A series of questions was accordingly submitted to the late King, then Prince of Wales.

"They were," he continues, "very precise, categorical, and covered the whole ground from A to Z. The King, then as always, was very courteous, and expressed his utmost readiness to go into the whole matter. In reply, I received a most categorical, definite, emphatic repudiation of the whole story. He denied absolutely the story of the alleged marriage, morganatic or other. He asked not unnaturally—if the Prince was married, as was alleged, where was the marriage register, and who was the clergyman that performed the 'illegal ceremony'? If the lady in question was an admiral's daughter, could it be believed that her father tolerated a clandestine marriage conducted in defiance of the law without the knowledge of the Prince's parents? He finally gave me his most positive assurance that the story was a lie from beginning to end."

Mr. Stead points out that when the betrothal of the then Duke of York to Princess May was announced the Archbishop of Canterbury "was snowed under with letters of protest," and the fullest inquiries were then made. The result of these inquiries went to show not merely that "there never had been a marriage, but that there never had been a liaison of any kind with Miss —, or anyone else, and that therefore there could not have been any of the alleged children. The net result of the inquiry was to satisfy the Primate and the other distinguished clerics who had to perform the official and public marriage, that the young man had never been married before, that he had lived an exemplary moral life, and that the whole story about the existence of any children resulting from his alleged relations with Miss S— was absolutely without foundation. There were no such relations, morganatic, illegitimate, or otherwise, and there were no children."

Thus are two lies well and truly nailed to the counter, and the King's honor vindicated to the credulous and short-sighted folk who accept as gospel every idle tale of idle and unscrupulous tongues.

SIR WILFRID HAS A BAD HALF HOUR.

Judging by the reports of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's meeting at Saskatoon, the Premier seems for once to have been unable to conjure up that sunny smile. It would appear that he even lost his temper. At previous meetings the grain growers, who had been telling him what his government ought to do, had been mild and generous in their remarks. They went so far as to acknowledge that the government had accomplished something, and only in the gentlest manner broke the news to the Premier that they had not forgotten his promises if he had.

But at Saskatoon it was different. One or two of the grain men spoke from the shoulder. As the London Free Press remarks, they landed, rhetorically, upon the Premier's solar plexus. They mixed things with him, forcing him to his corner, where his bottleholders, Graham, Macdonald and Pardee, had to use restoratives and assist in beating off the strenuous grain men.

Macdonald accused the plain-speaking growers of being "Tories," and when Sir Wilfrid had recovered his speech he declared it was "Tory politics." These replies on the part of the Premier and his henchmen seemed to serve, however, to prove that the attack had gone home. If the statements made were untrue, there was no occasion to meet them with abuse. If they were true—well, Sir Wilfrid probably had no other reply than the one he offered.

The speech which especially got on the nerves of the Premier was that of Mr. John Evans, president of the Saskatoon Grain Growers' Association. He told the head of the government that his government was the most conservative government on the face of the civilized earth. "You said you would skin the bear of protection, but we would like to know what you have done with the hide," he said.

There was the rub! What had become of the hide? Sir Wilfrid evidently could not produce it. So he accused the speaker of being a Tory, but was not allowed to get away with the statement, Mr. Evans declaring he had voted for Sir Wilfrid in 1896, and that he had been a Liberal all his life in the school of Gladstone and Lloyd-George.

THE ATTITUDE OF THE VATICAN.

It must be regarded as highly probable that the important Madrid paper "El Imparcial," expresses the sentiments of a numerous constituency in saying that while it is entirely faithful to the Roman Catholic Church, it considers the present issue between the Spanish government and the Vatican as civil rather than religious and as involving the independence of the state. Such sentiments must surely be confirmed among loyal Spaniards by the conduct of the Papal Secretary of State in openly encouraging and approving threats of rebellion among the Biscayan Clericals.

Nor will such sentiments, probably, be confined to the Spanish people. Open-minded and reflecting Catholics throughout the world must regard with surprise and regret the reactionary and inconsistent course of Cardinal Merry del Val as by no means representative of the church at large or of the best practices of its diplomacy in recent years.

It is reactionary because it denies to Mr. Canalejas that which it was not unwilling to concede to Mr. Maura, his predecessor. It is also inconsistent because it violently resists moderate proposals of liberalism in Spain at the very moment when the church's demands for even more marked reforms in its own favor in England, in the modification of the accession oath of the King, have been granted. It is an old and sound rule that he who seeks equity must do equity. The ecclesiastical authorities who sought and secured liberal relaxation in their favor in Great Britain should surely with good grace acquiesce in equal liberalism in behalf of Protestants in Spain.

That it is the general inclination of the Roman Catholic Church, if not, indeed, of the majority of the Sacred College and of the Supreme Pontiff himself, to be conciliatory can hardly be doubted. The intense ultramontanist of the Papal Secretary of State forms an unpleasant contrast to the statesmanlike policy of his predecessor and must be unwelcome to millions of loyal Catholics throughout the world. The net result of it will be to rally the Spanish people, including former opponents to the support of Mr. Canalejas.

Within the last two weeks London has been the scene of a tragedy, details of which The Standard publishes this morning, which for mystery far exceeds the murder at Hilldrop Crescent. A victim was shot down in a Battersea flat. He had removed his boots, and was wearing slippers, as though moving about in his own home, when in reality he had no other right to be in the flats save that of an ordinary visitor who might desire to call upon a tenant. He was carrying a life preserver, as though expecting that he might encounter an enemy. And an enemy he did encounter. But the unknown one carried something quicker, more deadly, than a life preserver. A report of firearms rang out, and who could hear the ominous sound but the son of the man who had fallen. For he, too, was a visitor to the same buildings on that disastrous night. An alarm was instantly raised, but the murderer had got clean away. The circumstances include every factor necessary to an ideal Sherlock Holmes story.

Already some woman in Quebec has started sending Crippen bunches of flowers; and books and magazines have been pouring into the prison so that the alleged murderer's cell is said to look like a circulating library. Misplaced sympathy such as this is all too common. Crippen is no lamb being led to the slaughter. About all he deserves is justice, and, as a matter of course, under the British flag he will get it.

Ottawa has appointed a publicity agent. In addition it has given him some ammunition with which to do battle. The Ottawa Board of Trade subscribed $5,000 and the city added twice as much more. The advertising committee of our own Board of Trade has been advocating this policy for some time. What is St. John going to do about it?

Automobiling provides good exercise—for pedestrians.

EVIL FOR THE NEO-PLATONIST IS NON-BEING.

This principle, which lies at the basis of matter, is not a positive something, but wholly negative. Matter is not a substantial substratum out of which, as material, the world is built, but mere nothing, absence of being, a negative limit to reality. Evil, therefore, is not a substantial fact, standing over against the good as a positive constituent of the world. Just in so far as a thing is, as it partakes of reality, it is good; it is evil or material only in so far as it is not, in so far as it lacks being.

Then it Happened

Sylvanus J. Fish was some swimmer. He admitted it himself. "Lads," he casually mentioned to a crowd of near-sports like himself, "over you we have a glass tank formerly used by Myrtle, the mermaid, in Juggling's circus. I wouldst wager that beneath the surface of the water in the aforesaid tank I can stay for ten minutes!" "Taken!" the merry lads cried as with one voice. Diving himself of his clothing, Sylvanus plunged into the tank, while his compatriots screwed on the cover and stood around with watches in their hands. One minute. Five minutes. Ten minutes. Forty minutes— (The End.)

FELL TO COBBLE DIRT: 'T WAS A HOBBLE SKIRT

New York, Aug. 3.—Three young women hastened to catch an Amsterdam-av. car. "Get a move on, girls. I can't stop here all night," shouted the conductor. The girls ran and one fell. Lieut. Thompson of the 152nd-st police station dashed across the street to assist her. "One moment, Miss," said the gallant lieutenant, "something has caught around your dress. I will cut it loose," and so saying he prepared for the operation by opening his jack-knife. "Don't you dare!" screamed the prostrate maiden. "Pick me up and carry me into the car, but nothings caught. That's my new hobble skirt. Guess you can't be up in style much."

JOSH WISE SAYS: "Th' reason th' truth ain't told oftener is that it gits tired o' listnin'." A great deal has been written about the "saddest words of tongue or pen," but how about the sweetest words? Most anything correspondents offer these:—"Here's that ten." "Final check enclosed." "Home team wins." "What'll you drink?"

A Japanese merchant runs this ad: "Our vinegar of extra quality is sharper than the bitterness of the most diabolical mothers-in-law."

STARTING TO BOOM
FREDERICTON FAIR

Preliminary Arrangements Will be Made Very Soon for the Provincial Exhibition at Capital in 1911.

Fredericton, N. B., Aug. 3.—Preliminary arrangements will be made very soon for the Fredericton exhibition.

That the big fair will be a seven days' show has been practically decided already and a meeting of the directors will be held within the next few days, when the dates will be officially announced.

They will in all probability be September 15th to September 23rd, the show opening and closing on Saturday.

It is the ambition of the directors to make the Fredericton 1911 exhibition the best ever held in Fredericton, and the first advertising will probably be done at St. John during the Dominion Exhibition.

If the endorsed warrant for the apprehension of the fugitive is duly authenticated, and such evidence is produced as, subject to the provisions of this act, according to the law ordinarily administered by the magistrate, raises a strong or probable presumption that the fugitive committed the offence mentioned in the warrant, and that the offence is one to which this act applies, the magistrate shall commit the fugitive to prison to await his

MANUFACTURERS DISCUSSING PLANS FOR MEETING TECHNICAL EDUCATION COMMISSION HERE

Local Men Interested in Technical Education and Industrial Training Met in Board of Trade Rooms Yesterday When Various Questions Were Discussed.

A meeting of manufacturers and others was held in the Board of Trade rooms yesterday afternoon for the purpose of making arrangements for presenting the views of St. John before the Royal Commission on Technical Education, which meets here on the 18th and 19th of the month.

Mr. Hatway presided and about 20 persons were present. Among those who have expressed their willingness to appear before the commission are the following: School Inspector Wm. McLean; Samuel Kerr, of the St. John Business College; Dr. G. U. Hay; John E. Wilson, M. P. F.; James Rankine; James Pender; W. S. Fisher; John Hannah; R. B. Emerson; Major Gordon; L. W. Simms; Thos. White; J. D. Howe; Mrs. David McLellan; and Rev. W. H. Sampson.

The commission will hold its meeting in the Board of Trade rooms, Prince William street, in the mornings and evenings. The sessions will be free to the public and anybody having suggestions to offer will be given a hearing.

After calling yesterday's meeting to order the chairman said that at the request of Prof. Robertson, chairman of the Royal Commission, a complete list of manufacturers and others likely to be interested in technical education, had been forwarded to him.

Mr. Hatway then asked for suggestions from the representatives of the various industries present. None being forthcoming, he asked Inspector McLean if he would be willing to appear before the commission and urge the establishment of a Canadian correspondence school.

Inspector McLean said that the representatives of the correspondence schools were great money making institutions. The amount of business they did in the Maritime Provinces was enormous.

Mr. Hatway asked for an expression of opinion as to whether the representatives to appear before the commission should ask that in any institution that might be established in St. John there should be a branch devoted to teaching banking and commerce.

Mr. W. S. Fisher—'I should say, by all means. The chairman said many of the members thought to much attention was given to professional education, and not enough to fitting young men for banking and commercial pursuits. Others thought the only way to train bankers was in the bank.'

As regards education for manufacturing pursuits, W. S. Fisher thought men should be chosen to represent the different departments such as brass moulding, and confectionery which require a high degree of skill.

PLEASE SYMPATHIZE WITH THE CITY EDITOR Plain Evidence That a Desk Job on a Morning Paper of Today is Not a Bed of Roses.

A Standard reporter was sent out last evening to interview Rev. R. E. Knowles, the novelist. He came back and delivered a lecture of the following effusion:—Rev. R. E. Knowles, the novelist, who came to St. John last winter to point out 'the signs of the Times' and disclose 'the secrets of Scottish Success,' was so well pleased with the premier city of the Maritime Provinces that as soon as the dour Scotchmen of Galt would allow him another holiday, he took the train for the east with his wife and family.

Mr. Knowles is a great speaker, and it is said that when he was here before as the guest of the women's Canadian club even the acting president of that famous organization was seldom able to get a word in edgewise. So when the reporter called upon him last evening, he took no chances.

'Mr. Knowles,' he asked, 'what do you think of St. John in its summer livery—the city by the sounding sea which drowns in the sunshine or sleeps beneath its blanket of fog and scarcely makes a sound through the live-long summer except when stirred to sympathy by a tempest in a teapot raised by Ald. Potts and other civic solons who are much excited over the burning topic of the day in this town and bids fair to become as famous as those other historic questions: How old is Ann, and who hit Billy Patterson, and what did sweet William promise Port William, and is not likely to be solved till the pretty girls who have joined Mayor Frink's arboreal club are in a room to courtward fall yesterday afternoon. Four of the five clotheslines which marked the periods in his fall, weren't as good as they should have been, and broke under him. If it hadn't been for the fifth—but thereby hung the tale—and Izzy.

Isidore thought he'd play fireman late yesterday afternoon, so he stepped out upon the fire escape from a window in his home on the fifth floor of the building, and started up a small ladder to the roof, to perform heroic rescues. While rescuing a non-existent damsel from a place of peril in the cornice under the roof, Izzy lost his balance and fell into some very real peril. In a manner he saw the world upside down.

Mrs. Louisa Levine of 109 Madison street, just across the airshaft, whose eleven-year-old son, Louis, had been killed in a similar fall two weeks ago, saw the boy falling, and, feeling that he would be dashed to death, fainted at her window.

But instead Isidore tested the strength of the clotheslines stretched from his fifth floor window. So in passing he grabbed it with one hand, reversed his inverted position, and hung on. Only for a moment, however, then the line sagged, stretched and broke, and Isidore continued his travels.

There was another clothesline on the fourth floor, and Isidore made it his second resting place. This line also broke. Isidore screamed and continued his fall. The clothesline on the third floor was beneath him, so he reached out for it and grabbed it. There his father, Herman Bloom, attracted to the fire escape by the boy's scream, saw him. As Father Bloom reached out of the third floor window he saw the clothesline sag, tremble and snap, and his boy vanish beneath the window.

But Izzy grabbed the clothesline on the second floor, that also broke, but Providence was steadfast, and the last rope, spanned from the first floor, proved staunch and strong.

There Julius Gessoff, who lives on the first floor of the house next door, reached out and rescued him by the nape of the neck. Gessoff lifted the boy into his flat and began to feel for bruises and broken bones.

'Aw, let me go!' cried the boy. 'I'm not hurt.' Then he broke away and ran out into the hall and down to the street. There he met his father and mother, both of whom were frantic with grief and lamenting him as one that was dead. When they saw the lively young ghost running toward them they almost made him a real ghost in the enthusiasm of their embraces.

HE FELL FROM FIFTH FLOOR New York Boy Had Awful Experience but Lives to Tell of It—Clothes Line Saved Him

New York, August 2. The conventional hero of melodrama whose life hung by a single thread was only a humdrum hero compared to 7-year-old Isidore Bloom of 25 Market street, whose life hung successfully from five clotheslines in a roof to courtyard fall yesterday afternoon.

Early yesterday J. E. Smith of Moncton was in Sussex with his automobile en route to St. John. While at the Sussex station he shook hands with the conductor of the Sussex express, and stated that he would be in St. John before the train. The auto and the train left Sussex at the same time, and the automobile was soon quite a distance ahead of the train when a short stop had to be made on the road, and as the train passed, the conductor waved his hand at Mr. Smith. The motor was started up again and was soon bowling along at a rapid speed. About nine o'clock when the train arrived at the depot here and the conductor stepped onto the floor of the trainshed he was greeted by Mr. Smith, who arrived in the city quite awhile ahead of the train and easily won the race.

It deals with the luckless Dora, daughter of Lord Earle's lodge-keeper, who marries the heir to the estate only to be ruthlessly separated and sent back to her humble home with her children three years after.

The Nickel's playlet will vary the reconciliation of the young lord and his lawful wife as he calls to demand the custody of his little ones. The stuffy little kitchen of the lodge-keeper, the handing over of the children's clothing and the sudden impulse of the young lord to re-arrange the wedding ring makes a most dramatic and touching situation. Miss Calhoun, Mr. Lund and Mr. Kenney handle the sketch most effectively. Besides the new sketch Miss Prescott will have a new picture ballad and the pictures 'A Child's Faith,' (Biograph); 'The Redman's Way' (Sells); 'Shooting an Oil Well' and 'Our German Cousins,' and the always carefully ordered extra will conclude a rich bill of fare.

New York, Aug. 3.—The stock market today disclosed its narrow limitaemerged. The sharp rebound of the forthcoming of a more positive nature.

Here and there were strong special great. Any measures of support by the larger financial interests seemed to be withdrawn for a time, after the warning administered to the bear party that they would not be permitted to

SCOUT WATCHING WOODSTOCK GAME

Malachi Kitteredge of Big Leagues Saw Woodstock Ball Tossers Administer Double Shut-Out to Presque Isle--Peaseley and Neptune the Men He Wants.

Woodstock, Aug. 3.—When the local team lined up to play the Presque Isle aggregation this afternoon they had as a spectator one gentleman who watched every good play on either team with the keen appreciation of an expert and it is said tonight that some of the fast ball players of this section may find themselves in faster company next season with a chance to blossom out into big league stars at a fat salary.

Woodstock, Aug. 3.—When the local team lined up to play the Presque Isle aggregation this afternoon they had as a spectator one gentleman who watched every good play on either team with the keen appreciation of an expert and it is said tonight that some of the fast ball players of this section may find themselves in faster company next season with a chance to blossom out into big league stars at a fat salary.

CITY RIFLE CLUB HELD ITS MATCH

The St. John City Rifle Club held their annual cash prize match on the local rifle range yesterday afternoon. The day was fine but rear fish-tail wind prevailed, which made high scoring next to impossible.

In addition to the cash prizes the Morrison Cup was put up for competition for the highest score made in the match. The following is a list of the winners:—

GOOD SPORT PROGRAMME FOR CARLETON PICNIC

Races, Jumps, Shotput and Ball Throw on the List for Saturday's Outing of West End Church.

Wider, the young cashier of the Russo-Chinese Bank in this city, whose dealings from the bank's security box resulted in a loss of upwards of $500,000 to the institution, pleaded guilty today to the indictment found against him in connection with the embezzlement. St. Johns Win Again

The Seawanhaka Winner

Here's an international cup defender, with a record as clean as a bound's tooth. She successfully defended the famed Seawanhaka cup, raced for off Manchester, Mass. Her name is Massachusetts and she was sailed by Ned Boardman, one of the crack small boat skippers of the eastern seaboard.

TWENTY-ONE HITS FOR FIFTEEN RUNS

Some Slugging in the Little Session Between the Victorias and Rockwoods Last Night.

Twenty-one smashing drives for a total of fifteen runs is some ball record. This was the performance of the Victoria sluggers last evening when they fell upon the Rockwood team and totally oblivious of the advancing price of horsehide and the economic waste involved, they pounded the sphere all over the lot.

The fertile brain of the author of Frank Merriwell never conceived of such wholesale slaughter. Kingston, known throughout junior fandom as the one armed wonder, used that lone arm effectively and allowed but six scattered singles.

DETROIT CLASSIC RACE TOO ONE-SIDED

Dudie Archdale Had an Easy Time Landing the $10,000 Stake Yesterday, Veteran Geers in the Sulky.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 3.—The Merchants and Manufacturers $10,000 stake was won easily in straight heats at the fair grounds today by the little black mare Dudie Archdale with the veteran Geers in the sulky. The race was too one-sided to be exciting, and the odds of three to one on Dudie Archdale over the entire field, minimized the interest taken in the betting.

points along the survey of the valley railway, was anchored to the mound for the 'Tilley' crew and although the Clippers fogged him at times, they threw away their chances of completing the circuit by running the bases like a lot of junior leaguers.

McGovern was the heaver for the Melbineses. He heaved up cool, unemotional ball and in the first stanza Tilley's crew pounded him with warmth and passion.

Although advertised to start at 6.30 sharp, which needless announcement caused several of the electors and suffragettes to bring along their lunches, it was exactly 6.50 when two gents, commonly called the umps, strolled out on the diamond, and after carefully noting the conditions of the pillow steams decided that the crucial moment had arrived.
