

PRESIDENT OF THE CANADIAN WOOLEN MANUFACTURERS' ASSN. GAVE EVIDENCE ON SATURDAY

Richard Thomson Before Cost of Living Committee of the Commons Talks on Quality and Prices of War Stockings.

NO LARGE PROFITS FOR MANUFACTURERS

Estimated in 1918 Raw Material Used Might be Valued at $50,000,000; Payroll Represented $12,000,000, While Output Was $75,000,000.

Ottawa, June 28.—Prior to the war stockings for which the manufacturers were paid 7 1/2 cents per pair cost the consumer 75 cents per pair; for the same quality of stockings now the manufacturer receives 83 1/2 cents per pair and the consumer pays $1.50. This was one of the statements made today to the cost of living committee of the commons by Richard Thomson, of Carleton Place, president of the Canadian Woolen Manufacturers' Association.

He said that woolen manufacturers of Canada generally had not made large profits. Until the war the mills had largely confined themselves to woolen cloths and knitted goods, and had a very precarious existence. Mr. Pringle injected that one concern had given evidence of very large profits.

Mr. Thomson said that only the fittest had survived. If a company made from eight to ten per cent. on its turnover it had done reasonably well, but they had rarely done that.

Mr. Thomson estimated that in Canada in 1918 the raw material used might be valued at $50,000,000, the payroll represented $12,000,000 while the output was $75,000,000.

Prior to the war the great variety of goods manufactured mitigated against efficiency, for when war came there was very little demand for a class of goods and fair profits were made. A large portion of last year's business had been obtained from the United States, which in twelve months amounted to $20,000,000. He himself brought from Washington an order for $5,000,000 worth of blankets. If it was profitable he did not see why they should be censured, because they did not fix the price. They made a profit out of the United States and were not ashamed of it. Up to the war slightly per cent. of the clothing made in Canada came from abroad so the strain on the mills during the last few years had been tremendous.

PEACE SIGNED AND SEALED IN HISTORIC HALL OF MIRRORS AT VERSAILLES ON SATURDAY

German Signatories Affixed Their Names Shortly After Three O'clock — President Wilson First Allied Delegate to Sign—China's Delegates Did Not Attend the Session—M. Clemenceau, Lloyd George and President Wilson Carried by Crowds Thru Chateau Grounds to Watch Playing of Fountains.

Versailles, June 28.—(By The A. P.)—World peace was signed and sealed in the historic Hall of Mirrors at Versailles this afternoon, but under circumstances which somewhat dimmed the expectancies of those who had worked and fought during long years of war and months of negotiations for its achievement.

The absence of the Chinese delegates, who at the last moment were unable to reconcile themselves to the Shantung settlement, and left the eastern empire outside the formal purview of peace, struck the first discordant note in the assembly. A written protest which General Jan Christian Smuts lodged with his signature was another disappointment to the makers of the treaty.

But, balking larger, was the attitude of Germany and the German plenipotentiaries which left them, as evident from the official program of the day and from the expression of M. Clemenceau, still outside any formal reconciliation would be expected, and held to observe the treaty provisions loyally and completely, the German delegates, through Dr. Hansel von Hainhausen, replied after returning to the hotel that had they known they would be treated on a different status after signing than the Allied representatives as shown by their separate exit before the ceremony, they would have refused to do so.

Under the circumstances the general tone of sentiment in the historic sitting was one rather of relief at the uncontrovertible end of hostilities than of complete and unalloyed satisfaction.

The ceremony came to dramatic close in the highest dramatic pitch—with the wild enthusiastic reception of M. Clemenceau, Mr. Lloyd George and President Wilson by the crowds outside.

ST. JOHN, N. B., MONDAY, JUNE 30, 1919.

GERMANY.

The rise and fall of Germany, all within the memory of many who are not yet old, forms a dramatic chapter in the history of nations. From 1806, when the German people, crushed by Napoleon, sought to regain their nationality, until 1870, when William I, then King of Prussia, was crowned at Versailles, Emperor of Germany, the struggle was slow and tedious. But from the termination of the Franco-German war until February, 1918, when, with the signing of the Brest-Litovsk Treaty, the crushing of Russia, and the defeat of the Allied armies, Germany apparently stood supreme, her rise had been spectacular. In this position of supremacy the German Empire remained for little more than a month, for in March, 1918, there began her armies under Ludendorff the final offensive by which enemies were to have been crushed and the might of Germany extended over all Europe. The beginning of that drive to victory was the beginning of the end, for although during the early weeks success seemed to be within grasp, the count, offensive of the Allied armies undertaken in July, 1918, resulted in less than four months in the utter collapse of the greatest acrecy the world has ever known.

In 1914 Germany was regarded, and rightly so, as the greatest military power on earth, with a navy second only to that of Britain. Today her army is reduced to a mere police force, many of its leaders are in disgrace, her imperial government is overthrown, and her navy lies at the bottom of the ocean, sunk through the rebreath of her own people after most abrupt surrender. Never has a nation enjoyed such wonderful progress, never a power such opportunities for peaceful development, and never was a great nation brought so low.

Three factors contributed to the early upbuilding of what became the German Empire. One of these was the dissolution of the Holy Roman Empire under which Central Europe, consisting of hundreds of small principalities loosely held together, had been slumbering for centuries. Secondly, the defeat of the German people by Bonaparte more than a century ago, was followed by a national awakening, a determination on the part of those people to recreate their nation. And, third, the introduction of compulsory military training, which enacted most eventually proved to be the foundation upon which Prussian supremacy was built, for by the results obtained therefor the Kingdom of Prussia was in later years able to overcome the various German states and to persuade them—forcibly, to a certain extent to participate in the organization of what became the German Empire.

The war with France, culminating in 1870 in the acquisition of Alsace-Lorraine, the crowning of the German Emperor at Versailles and the glorification of Prussian military in the face of an unhappy and defeated nation, marked the organization of the modern German Empire, which, under the guidance of Bismarck, soon became a mighty power in European affairs. Had the policy of the great Chancellor been continued, a different page might have been written in the history, but ex-Minister William, chief, under the constraint of Germany's foremost statesman, placed himself in control of his nation's destinies, and has followed a course to which there could be but one end. That end is now at hand. With the signing of the treaty of peace Germany returns the possessions formerly taken from France, is stripped of her entire colonial empire, surrenders much of her European territory, is deprived of her army and her navy and practically all of her military equipment, finds her autocratic government deposed, her country torn by political strife, and is burdened for generations to come with the repayment of the cost of the destruction wrought by her own soldiery. While no country since the beginning of history has enjoyed a more spectacular rise, certainly no great nation has ever submitted to more ignominious defeat, a defeat which carries with it only the realization of physical inability to win, but the knowledge that by the course adopted it has earned and will suffer from the contempt of all honorable peoples.

DOMINION DAY.

Canada's birthday of 1919 will be observed in a spirit very different from that which marked the 1918 celebration. At this time last year the great German drive which was to have crushed the Allied armies and brought the war to end with Germany supreme had reached its highest moment. After having been in process for several months, it had met with resistance, but rolled steadily westward until a comparatively narrow strip of territory remained between the Prussian millions and the sea and in that strip the Allies, literally with their backs against the wall, were striving to beat off incessant attacks until such time as, through the accumulation of resources, they might be enabled to same the offensive. We felt that we were facing not merely defeat but possible disaster, and while no one lost faith in the ultimate outcome, all experienced anxiety and depression. The outlook was dark indeed and although by the launching of Foch's counter-drive a few weeks later our gloom was dispelled, yet at this particular time one short year ago the prospect was by no means bright.

THE MIND OF THE SHOPPER.

Evidence heard before the cost of living commission provides an insight into the peculiar working of the human mind and reveals a weakness on the part of the shopper, which, while possibly recognized by the retailer, is not generally discussed. A shoe dealer explained to the commission that ladies' boots which cost nine dollars per pair were sold by him at thirteen dollars and fifty cents, and looked the value. He contended that had he priced these shoes at eighteen dollars the demand for them would have been greater, but had he marked them down to nine dollars they would have remained on his shelves. His justification to the commission was that the majority of shoppers are attracted by high-priced goods. If an article looks well the desire of the customer is governed only by his or her ability to pay, and many are willing to exceed their reasonable limit of expenditure to secure the high priced article even in the absence of accurate knowledge of its true value. On the other hand goods seemingly expensive but low priced are pushed aside for the reasons that distrust is created by the contrast between the price and the apparent value and the prospective purchaser is usually inclined to look for the best. While the general application of this interesting theory may be disputed, many will admit from personal experience that it contains a certain element of truth, yet it is scarcely fair to infer that such a mental condition, where it exists, is due to individual habits of thought. Of late years money has been plentiful, the purchasing power of a dollar has dwindled to such an extent that twenty-five cents represents the former value of a dime, and in mercantile lines quantities have deteriorated that now unless one buys in the best obtainable the investment, no matter how economical it may appear at the time, is liable to prove unfortunate. These conditions coupled with the prevailing impression that high wages will last forever have no doubt tended to an increasing disregard of the value of money, a state of mind which will undoubtedly result in much hardship when incomes begin dropping to their former level.

THE STRAWBERRY BOX.

The strawberry season has come round again and we are still without any regulation respecting the size of the box in which this similar fruit should be sold. The present year has brought the most marked reduction yet noted in the size of the box. Berries are on sale today in three or four different styles of containers, one at least of which will not quite hold two ordinary cups—a little less than a pint. Other boxes are slightly larger, but the small one referred to contains less than half the quantity of fruit sold in the box at one time used here in the United States. Adopting something is due to the imagination, but it really does seem that this year the bottom of the box is nearer to the top, the top of the fruit nearer to the bottom, and the circumference sadly shrunken. Not only has the quantity dwindled, but the price has gone up.

WHAT THEY SAY

The Difference in Training.

Cleveland Plain Dealer—Germany, a year ago: "Gott strafe England!" England, today: "I say, let's not be too hard on the Fritzies!"

Not the First.

Kansas City Journal—An Eastern minister says that he will deliver a sermon from an airplane 2,000 feet up. But that will not be the first instance of preaching over the people's heads.

A Worth-While Anniversary.

New York Sun—Irishmen, and particularly those of Galway, used to boast that they were born "the night of the big wind." On the centennial of that celebrated event some young men of Galway will be saying that their natal day was "the Sunday Alcock flew in."

Hot Weather Manners.

Detroit News—"Manners Maketh Man," is a very good old proverb. But manners, implying restraint, also make for coolness. There is something closely akin between temper and temperature. The heated street and the busy crossing are good places to experiment with mental refrigeration. Keep the tongue cool, and the mouth won't get hot.

Summer Reading.

Cincinnati Times—The story or novel that takes the reader out of his ordinary way of living and thinking is the ideal book for reading in recreation time. The mastery kind of book in its field the book of high interest in its peculiar sphere, furnishes the best reading at any season, summer as truly as winter.

A Good Riddance.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat—There is no element of victory or defeat involved in the scuttling. The German Navy was lost when the armistice terms were carried into effect. The German dream of sea power was shattered then. None of the first-class powers wanted the vessels. They probably feel like extending a vote of thanks to the disgusted German sailors who removed a possible source of discontent among the smaller nations aligned with the Entente.

A BIT OF VERSE

THE TWO MYSTERIES.

We know not what it is, dear, this sleep so deep and still; The folded hands, the vital calm, the cheek so pale and chill; The lids that will not lift again, though we may call and call; The strange, white solitude of peace that settles over all.

We know not what it means, dear, this desolate heart-pain; This dread to take our daily way, and walk in it again; We know not what, with other spheres the loved who leave us so, Nor why we're left to wonder still, nor why we do not know.

But this we know: Our loved and dear, if they should come this day, Should come and ask us, "What is life? not one of us could say. Life is a mystery as deep as ever death can be; Yet how we love it is to us, this life we live and see!"

Then might they say—those vanished, those and blessed is the thought! "So death is sweet to us, beloved! though we may tell ye naught; We may not tell it to the quick—this mystery of death— Ye may not tell us, if ye would, the mystery of life."

The child who enters life comes not with knowledge or intent, So those who enter death must go as little children sent, Nothing is known. But I believe that God is overhead; And as life is to the living, so death is to the dead.

A BIT OF FUN

Gambling has taught many a young man how he can't make money.

Obedient the Order.

Mrs. N. was giving instructions to her new servant: "Before removing the soupplate, Mary, always ask such person if he or she would like any more."

Next day Mary, respectfully bowing to Mrs. N., inquired: "Would the gentleman like some more soup?"

Just in Time.

A gossiping old rustic the other day entered the local parveyer's and in the course of a lengthy discussion on the usual village topics inquired what had become of the butcher's pony, as he hadn't seen it lately.

"E died yesterday," observed the man of chops and steaks, "leaving me with a suspicious glance at the long hanging strings of the bags of mystery exposed for sale. 'I think O'll take summat else this mornin'!"

The Wrong End.

The young boy was home on leave and the old man was admiring his uniform.

"But tell me, my boy, why do they make the pants so wide at the bottom?"

"So we can roll them up quickly," explained the lad.

"You're no son of mine," warned the old man, "if yer gait ter fight wid yer feet! 'Tis yer jacket sleeves that ought to be wide at the bottom."

No Need for Haste.

The minister of a parish in Scotland was walking one misty night through a street in the village when he fell into a deep hole. After vainly trying to make his escape from the uncomfortable position, he began to shout for help. A laborer, passing, heard his cries and, looking down, asked who he was. The minister told him and at the same time evinced the Duke's respectfulness of "The Manchester Guardian." He says: "The effect in Ireland has been to limit even Sinn Fein's liberty of choice and action. There is no doubt that the party contains revolutionists as well

Peace Adjusters Despair.

"It is this result that has made the friends of a peaceful adjustment in the near future, fall into despair. Whether the result was wholly intended by the Irish-Americans need not be discussed, an intimate acquaintance with the opinion that a second best might have been accepted. But the American visit has, as one of the speakers said, called the flag of the republic to the mast and solemnly strengthened the hands of the men who insist upon the policy of all or nothing.

Effect on U. S. Politics.

"For Irish America was never before so seriously interested in the question of the status of the motherland. The Irish-American's own sense of self-respect has been wounded by the differential treatment accorded to Ireland as compared with the home-land of the other nationalities with whom he has been in contact and competition in the American Republic. The question, therefore makes a more important appeal to him than it ever did in the past and it will influence the course of American politics to a degree previously unknown. The Irish-American politician will be able to argue that in his appeals for Irreconcilable peace, something that the world should receive with American officers and soldiers have already entered upon that campaign."

IN FRANCE IS HAILED AS PEACE TIME NEED

Beaune, France, May 25. (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—The American Expeditionary Force University here has shown that it is "feasible to make the United States army a great school by America," as expressed by Dr. John Erskine, professor of English in Columbia University. Dr. Erskine is one of the three members of the recent created educational corps of the American expeditionary force.

The great university is having its close for the troops soon may be re-located in America, but Dr. Erskine regards it as a laboratory which has demonstrated the possibility of universal training in America, which has the United States army as the main.

"The A. E. F. University seems to me a significant experiment in the point of view of education in the United States," says Dr. Erskine.

"I have been fascinated by the idea that we might introduce our national life a system of universal training, which should be compulsory for all men whether or not they are physically fit to be soldiers, which should serve as an annual inventory of our national resources, physically, morally, and mentally. The university might serve as a model for the training system, a student would be military discipline and would on all advantages of the well administered military camp, but he would be whatever subjects his tastes and this situation in life might cause it to

Amendments By Senate Opposed

Protestant Churches Yesterday Passed Resolution Requesting New Brunswick Senators to Oppose Amendment Conflicting With Temperance Measures. Resolutions opposing amendments by the Senate, to the temperance measures as adopted by the House of Commons were passed in practically all the Protestant churches yesterday. Each church considered the matter of sending resolutions to the provincial senators and by unanimous vote decided that the country was demanding total prohibition and the churches will do all in their power to have the resolutions continued. The resolution adopted in the churches was about as follows: "To the New Brunswick Senators: This church by standing vote requests you to oppose all future amendments proposed by the Senate of Canada, which conflict with the temperance measures passed by the House of Commons. Total prohibition is what our country is demanding."

WARRIOR SERVICE BADGES. Commenting on several complaints regarding war service badges, they have lately appeared in the public press, the officer in charge of that branch of the department said that every effort is being made to protect the significance of War Service Badges. Should anyone have any complaints that men are wearing badges who are not entitled to do so, if that person would communicate with the officer in charge of War Service Badges at Military Headquarters, the matter would be taken up through the proper channels and the necessary action taken. The name of the man who is violating the regulations regarding badges, and his address should be forwarded to the officer. There are severe penalties for the wearing of badges by those who are not entitled to do so.

FAREWELL OF ZION'S PASTOR

Rev. F. E. Boothroyd Last Evening Preached Farewell Sermon—Now Field Secretary of N. B. Temperance Alliance. Rev. F. E. Boothroyd last evening closed his work as pastor of Zion Methodist church and enters this week upon his new duties as field secretary of the New Brunswick Temperance Alliance. As the happiest relations have existed between church and pastor a large congregation greeted Rev. Mr. Boothroyd, who discoursed from the words, "an among you as one that serves." He clearly set forth the threefold value of service, viz., its Christlikeness, its dignity and its naturalness. Turning from the personal viewpoint the preacher claimed that the church in its collective form must engage in the ministry of service. No church can live unto itself. Besides seeking the individual well-being of its members the true church lives to make its interests on its own community and on the life of the nation. The third point showed the reward of service, which springs from the appreciation of those benefited, from the inner consciousness of having done well and from the approval and blessing of the Master, himself. In closing, Rev. Mr. Boothroyd made an appeal for a continuance of loyal support to be given to the new pastor, Rev. M. Conron, who takes up his work here this week. The service closed with the singing of the hymn, "God be with you till we meet again."

PROMINENT NEW YORK LAWYER HAS BEEN FISHING UP NORTH

Thinks There Will be Fight in States Over the League of Nations and Peace Treaty—Believes Majority of Americans in Favor of Principle of a League Though it Clashes With Their Historic Policy of Isolation from Affairs of Europe. "What is the United States going to do about the League of Nations and the Peace Treaty?" "That is a big question. It is provided that we should have a mandatory over the game fishing of New Brunswick it would be fine," said Henry Ingalls, a prominent barrister of New York, who has been on a fishing trip to the North shore. "Will the League and the Treaty be ratified by Congress without trouble?" "That depends on what you call trouble," said Mr. Ingalls. "If things had been brought to a head a short time after the armistice I dare say Congress would have ratified anything the President Wilson did, with of course a few spread-eagle speeches by our freighting senators. Now I think there is a big fight over the League of Nations and the Peace Treaty as well. Mind, I believe the great majority of Americans are in favor of the principle of a League of Nations, though it clashes with our historic policy of isolation from the affairs of Europe. But we are not so sure now that the covenant drawn up in Paris is the kind of a League of Nations we want. There is certainly a growing feeling that President Wilson has had the wool pulled over his eyes, and that the League of Nations is too much saturated with that imperialism which is said to have caused the war, and which we were supposed to have fought to destroy. Necessarily, I suppose, it has been drawn up with a view to making it an instrument to enforce the peace terms upon Germany, and the danger is that nations would feel insulted if injury if proper provision was not made for the punishment of Germany. Nevertheless, it is difficult to see how

Germany can be treated as a pariah nation without running serious risks of another war. "When the concert of Europe tried to reconstruct the world after the downfall of Napoleon, they showed a more tolerant attitude to France. Lord Castlereagh, the British Minister, insisted on the inclusion in the concert of France, and a strong France. What the diplomats are doing now is to divide the world into two camps, which, whether the people are pacifically inclined or not, will make it necessary to continue defensive preparations. There is the danger that Germany will be the rallying point of all the nations which are not in the League or have no influence in it. Japan is certainly recognized as all, Japan is certainly not pleased with the League, or China either. And what if Germany becomes the head of these dissatisfied peoples; the spear point of a new attack, with possibly the bulk of the people of Asia as the haft. "Then the League of Nations as at present constituted is not a democratic instrument. All power is centered in an inner council, whose members may decide matters in secret and are not directly responsible to any people. "One thing the League does that causes satisfaction; it deals adroitly with the question of the freedom of the seas, which was the cause of one war between England and America, and nearly brought us in armed conflict at the beginning of the great war. If what the League recognizes as a public war breaks out, the League must take sides, in so far as the enforcement of a blockade is concerned. The provisions of the covenant, and the question of the freedom is automatically settled."

Official Opening Held on Saturday

Large Crowd Witnessed Ball Game at Fair Vale Outing Association Grounds When Married and Single Teams Tied. The official opening of the athletic season of the Fair Vale Outing Association took place on their new grounds on Saturday evening. While the weather was somewhat cool, a strong northwest wind blowing yet it did not prevent a large crowd of men and women from attending the ball game, which was played between the married and single men of the association. About 750 the captains of each team were ordered to get their men together for the fray. Great rivalry having sprung up between the two factions it did not take very long to get the men placed. There a toss of a cent was made to see who would open the game at the bat, which was won by the married men, they choosing to take the field. Now the game was started by the umpire, Mr. Stack, calling out to play ball. Mr. Quinlan, the star pitcher for the married men, did not take long to retire the side, the single men getting but two runs in this inning. Then the excitement waxed warm when the first married man grabbed the bat and straightened himself up to face the Jack Johnston about to be put over by William McQuaid, pitcher for the single men. It did not take long to retire the married men in this inning for they went down in the order of one, two, three. In the second inning of the single men they were unable to find the ball and retired in one, two, three order. The second inning of the married men brought the score tie—two to two. In the third inning of the single men they were again blanked, but in the fourth they got three runs, in the sixth five, and sixth and last, inning, one run, making a total of 11 runs. In the third inning of the married men no score was made, but in the fourth they got two runs, in the fifth one, and in the sixth inning batting the ball to the tune of six runs tying the score, and on account of darkness ending the game. On Thursday evening another game will be played, this time between picked teams from the upper and lower ends of the road, and on Saturday evening another game will be played.

W. F. Brown Could Have Saved Over a Thousand Dollars

Is Sorry He Didn't Know About Tanlac Sooner—Has Gained Seventeen Pounds.

"If I had had Tanlac five years ago I could have saved not only a world of suffering, but more than a thousand dollars besides," said W. F. Brown, who lives at 132 Yorkville avenue, Toronto, some time ago.

Mr. Brown is a well known traveling salesman, a prominent Mason, and a popular member of the Commercial Travelers' Association.

"I had a terrible case of stomach trouble," he continued, "and would blot up with gas something awful. I would suffer with agonizing pains in my stomach, and was never free from headaches. For nine months I was on a light diet, and became so weak that I could hardly dress myself. I lost ten pounds in weight, and was more than skin and bones, and was so nervous I could hardly sleep. I took every kind of treatment and spent months in the hospitals, but only got worse, and was so bad that I was given up to die."

"One day my brother-in-law suggested that I try Tanlac, and I did so. I had already gained seven pounds, and I am feeling a little more better. I have already gained seven pounds, and I can eat most anything without suffering afterwards."

Here is another instance of the wonderful reconstructive powers of Tanlac. Mr. Brown is only one of many hundreds who have taken it with the same remarkable results.

Tanlac proved of great benefit to Mr. Brown because it contained certain medicinal properties which enrich the blood and promote a healthy appetite for nourishing food.

Tanlac has been very successful in overcoming nervousness and sleeplessness, not from a soothing effect of the nerves, but from strengthening the nerves and body, and bringing the normal state of health through its effect on the appetite and nutrition of the body.

Mr. Brown's case, while remarkable, is only one of the many hundreds of such cases that have taken the wonderful reconstructive powers of Tanlac.

Tanlac is sold in St. John by Ross Drug Co., and F. W. Munro, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative—Advt.

Cases Before Divorce Court

Court Opens in Fredericton Next Wednesday—Seven New Ones on the Docket, and Three from Preceding Terms.

Fredericton, N. B., June 29.—The New Brunswick divorce court when it meets next Wednesday for the July term, His Honor Judge Crockett presiding, will have a formidable docket, no fewer than ten cases, three of them from preceding terms and seven new ones.

Of the new cases three are plaintiffs in three. In these cruelly summoned and tried before Judge Crockett in the first case in which a jury has been summoned to try a divorce action in New Brunswick. The case of Charles Pitt-Randolph vs. Elizabeth Pitt-Randolph will be tried before a jury, the first case in which a jury has been summoned to try a divorce action in New Brunswick.

When the case first was tried before Judge Crockett the plaintiff was granted a divorce. The judgment was appealed and the Supreme Court of New Brunswick sustained the appeal and ordered a new trial. Counsel for defendant then appealed for a jury. Judge Crockett refused, but the higher courts again decided in favor of the defendant.

A jury of seven is required and a panel of twenty-one has been summoned. It is reported that several things without suffering afterwards.

Here is another instance of the wonderful reconstructive powers of Tanlac. Mr. Brown is only one of many hundreds who have taken it with the same remarkable results.

Tanlac proved of great benefit to Mr. Brown because it contained certain medicinal properties which enrich the blood and promote a healthy appetite for nourishing food.

Tanlac has been very successful in overcoming nervousness and sleeplessness, not from a soothing effect of the nerves, but from strengthening the nerves and body, and bringing the normal state of health through its effect on the appetite and nutrition of the body.

Mr. Brown's case, while remarkable, is only one of the many hundreds of such cases that have taken the wonderful reconstructive powers of Tanlac.

Tanlac is sold in St. John by Ross Drug Co., and F. W. Munro, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative—Advt.

IN THE FIGHT WITH ECZEMA

You Can Depend on Dr. Chase's Ointment to Bring Relief and Cure.

The obstinacy of eczema is well known. The fact that Dr. Chase's Ointment has been able to cure in even the most severe cases is the best proof of the extraordinary healing powers of this standard ointment.

Cures such as are described in these letters give you some idea of what you may expect from this treatment.

Mrs. Frank Wadge, Midland, Ont., writes: "One of my boys had an attack of eczema, and although I tried every preparation for this trouble as well as medicines from four doctors, we could not get satisfaction. Finally, I tried Dr. Chase's Ointment, and from the first I found it gave good results. We used a good treatment of this ointment, and in a short time eczema was cured. I have also used the ointment with great success for a roughness and rash on my face, which caused me a great deal of trouble. After applying Dr. Chase's Ointment, I found instant relief."

"I might also mention that Dr. Chase's Catarrh Powder has proven of great benefit to me. I had difficulty with a stoppage in my nose and head, but the Catarrh Powder relieved it, and I have not been bothered in this way since."

Mrs. P. H. Vale, 19 William street, Hamilton, Ont., writes: "I can highly recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment, having used it with splendid results where all others failed. My little girl, aged 3-1/2 years broke out in small yellow blisters, which turned into scabs. They came out in different places on her face, and although I tried a great many salves and ointments none of them did her any good. I got a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and after a few applications, I could see the effects of it. Whenever I saw a new spot appearing I would apply the ointment, and before the box was finished she was entirely cured of these horrid sores."

If you would like to try Dr. Chase's Ointment at our expense, send a two cent stamp to pay the postage and we shall mail you a sample box free. Full size box 60 cents, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Agnes A. McKim vs. James H. McKim—Parties of Paterfamilias, Queens county. The plaintiff formerly Forbes. Married in St. John in 1883 by Rev. G. A. Hartley. Nine children born. The wife charges violent treatment and asks for alimony and costs of suit.

Ralph Sherman Holmes vs. May Jacobina Holmes—Parties of Daubtown, Northumberland county, defendant formerly Moorehouse, married in 1911 in Fredericton by Rev. W. H. Smith, Presbyterians. Four children born. Plaintiff was a soldier and was asked on the grounds of infidelity.

There are also three defended cases from last term as romances—Elizabeth Randolph vs. Pitt-Randolph, Mignault vs. Mignault, and Piers vs. Piers.

Liberal Party
Split in Three

Indications Are That There Will Not be Another Local Convention—Liberal Unionists Not Contemplating Taking Any Action.

Last week it was said that the local Liberal party had been split in two; now it begins to look as if it were split in three. The plaintive assertion of the Telegraph and Times that another convention of Liberals would be held to select another group of delegates to the Ottawa convention appears to have been a naive assumption which did not reckon with the fact that the Liberal Unionists are no more anxious to recognize Hon. Mr. Foster as their leader than the Simon pure are. If there is to be another convention Mr. Foster will have to take the responsibility of calling it himself, and if Mr. Foster assumes responsibility for action in this matter without first referring it to a Royal Commission or the Supreme Court he will overthrow all expectations based upon his political career so far. The situation calls for speedy action, and he appears to judge in his characteristic state of indecision. At any rate inquiries among prominent Liberal Unionists last evening failed to develop any information of a move on his part to secure their assent or co-operation in the calling of another convention. Nor has the general Daniel DuCan, who fills temporarily the shoes of Laurier in his move to assist to re-instate Mr. Foster in the position which he was appointed, and in which he exercised such brief authority. "Mr. MacKenzie," said a prominent Simon pure Liberal, "attended the Toronto convention, and probably got a line on Liberal sentiment. He is not the boss of the party just yet, and probably knows if he tried to pluck Mr. Foster off the fence and place him in the head, he would only stir up a hornet's nest. We are going to run our own affairs."

The indications are that there will not be another convention, for if held it is certain it would only be attended by a handful of the men who follow the personal fortunes of Mr. Foster. Liberal Unionists are sufficiently annoyed at the unseemly haste displayed in calling the convention last week; but they are not worrying over the way Mr. Foster was treated or ready to make the question of his leadership a cause of quarrel with the old line Liberals. Several prominent Liberal Unionists interviewed yesterday said they were not interested in the question at issue between Mr. Foster and the Laurierites, and did not contemplate taking any action to secure representation at the Ottawa convention. Nor had they heard of any move being made in that direction, and they felt they would have been consulted if any action was in prospect. Some of the men who before the appearance of Union government were recognized Liberal leaders say the disposition of the Liberal Unionists is to let matters rest until the Union government is disbanded, or until they have good reason to think it should be disbanded. And it is not considered quite the proper thing to withdraw their support until at any rate peace has been formally proclaimed or the Peace Treaty ratified. And there are quite a number of prominent Liberal Unionists who think the Union government should be given a chance to lead effectively with the problems of reconstruction, believing that conditions are not sufficiently settled to enable the people to make an intelligent decision between the respective policies of the Conservative and Liberal parties as such. One Liberal Unionist remarked that much would depend on the result of the world depend on the result of the convention at Ottawa, though he considered it premature, and not likely to give the country the lead it desires. On his choice of a leader and platform much, however, would depend; it might possibly reconstruct itself in such a manner as to draw the allegiance of many Liberal Unionists who now consider it advisable to continue their support to the Union government.

"If Mr. Foster calls a convention and elects delegates he is going to have a hard fight to get them seated at the Ottawa convention," said one of the leaders of the Liberals who are Bolshevik towards Mr. Foster's proposition to lead the party locally. "We have learned since the convention that the great bulk of the party approve our action in ignoring Mr. Foster, and we have also learned that the Liberal Unionists are not supporting him. So if he wants to lead a party it will have to be a third party, and I don't think it will be very numerous. As for the condemnation of the Telegraph and Times, we should worry. Their support has not usually done us much good, and anyway we are going to run our own affairs. Mr. MacKenzie has not communicated with the defeated candidates, so I reckon he has come to the conclusion that it would not be wise to try again to impose a leader on us whom we won't stand for."

PRESENTATION OF DIPLOMAS

Yesterday the annual presentation of diplomas was held in the Knox Church Sunday school, twenty-eight people being awarded a diploma for perfect attendance at church and a Bible, the gift of the session. A special diploma was awarded Miss Olive McNeil who successfully performed the comparatively difficult feat of committing to memory the Shorter Catechism. The Misses Agar and Cameron were elected life members in the mission, and the pupils who had graduated to other classes were presented with their certificates. Patriotic songs, recitations and exercises were features of the session yesterday, the services being conducted under the title of "Comradeship." All offerings received were donated to the Indian Famine Fund.

Dependent on
Wells and Springs

Hawthorne Avenue Residents Out for Water and Sewerage Services for Their Homes—Twenty-six Families Inconvenienced.

The residents of Hawthorne Avenue are out for water and sewerage services for their homes and the matter of supplying these conveniences is being strongly urged on the city commissioners. The people of this section of the city have been dependent upon wells and springs for their water supply but several days ago officials of the Board of Health condemned some of the sources of supply and filled in several water holes. As a result of this action water of the drinkable kind has been more or less of a minus quantity. In Hawthorne Avenue there are at present fourteen houses in which are twenty-six families. These people at present have neither water or sewerage accommodations. Just before the war several enterprising citizens erected substantial dwellings in the neighborhood, with the understanding that water and sewerage would be provided. The war set the matter back but now the property owners feel that the necessary extension should be made. It was pointed out to The Standard yesterday that the new services necessary would be about 1,500 feet in extent and that the cost estimate for the job would be in the vicinity of $10,000. With the increased demand for housing accommodations it was considered that the laying down of the proposed services would induce other citizens to erect houses along Hawthorne Avenue and that the influx of population would make the venture by the city a paying one. At the present time the district is without water or sewerage and there is no fire protection. Besides the private houses there is the plant of the ice company at the end of the road and, as one citizen put it, there is a head, he would only stir up a hornet's nest. We are going to run our own affairs."

Small Girl Was Victim of Fire

Clothing of Marjory Beryl Gibbons Caught from Dump Fire Saturday—Resulted in Death Early Yesterday Morning.

Marjory Beryl Gibbons, aged four years and six months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gibbons, was on Saturday the victim of an accident, which resulted in her death early yesterday morning. The little girl with other children had been playing about a fire in the dump at the rear of St. Luke's church on Saturday afternoon, when her clothing became ignited. She immediately ran to her home at 199 Metcalf street, but then her clothing was all ablaze and her father had great difficulty in smothering the flames. Doctors Robert Frait and Kelly were immediately summoned. It was found that the child was frightfully burned about the body and head, and there was no hope of her recovery. All that was possible was done to ease her suffering. She passed away about four o'clock yesterday morning. She is survived by her parents and one young sister. The bereaved family will have the sympathy of the community. It is understood that the fire in this dump has been burning at times during the last few weeks, and that the fire department had put it out on several occasions, but someone had re-kindled it. The accident on Saturday the fire department again visited the dump and drenched the flames.

The seventy-second annual meeting of the Congregational Union of Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island will be held this week at Noel, N. S. Among the prominent speakers will be Rev. Matthew Kelly of London, Ont., chairman of the Congregational Union of Canada; Rev. J. T. Tucker, principal of Currie Institute, Dond, Africa; Rev. Dr. Frank Day of Toronto, Rev. Carey Walters of London, Eng., delegate from the Colonial Missionary Society of Great Britain, the missionary organization of the British Congregationalists. The convention will open on Thursday and will continue until Sunday evening. Friday will be devoted chiefly to the maritime branch of the Canada Congregational Women's Board of Missions.

THE PRICE OF MAY.

Reports from Halifax state that good horse hay from New Brunswick is being offered there at $18.50 on the truck. There has been a decline in the jobbing price, but this has not yet affected the retail price in Halifax, which is $20 a ton, or two and one-half cents a pound. Two weeks ago the jobbing price was $46. A good hay crop is expected this year. On Tuesday, July 1st, St. John, Champlain will leave St. John at nine-thirty a. m. daylight time.

American Vessels
Loading Lumber

Making Local Business Men Regret They Did Not Take Steps Years Ago to Encourage Revival of Shipbuilding Industry.

The number of American vessels now loading lumber here at high prices for the United Kingdom is making local business men regret that they did not take steps years ago to encourage a revival of the shipbuilding industry. "Times have changed," remarked one old timer yesterday, as he strolled along the water front. "I can remember when the harbor was so full of ships loading lumber that you could almost walk across to Carleton, and nearly all the ships were owned in St. John. They would carry lumber across the Western Ocean, and then usually take a cargo from England to the East, and bring tea from China to New York, or wool from Australia to Boston, and then come to St. John to load lumber again. Those were great days and a lot of longshoremen were able to make enough money to buy homes for themselves, which they can't do today with all the steamers coming here." Shipping is likely to be in big demand for some time to come, as countries which have been getting along with a minimum supply of various commodities are now giving foreign orders far ahead of the capacity of shipping to transport them. And as everybody is anxious to have the first chance of moving goods there is little likelihood of a speedy reduction of freight rates. Where government control has been relinquished, charterers have in many cases offered freight rates higher than prevailed during the war, and in some cases the government has been asked to resume control again, shipowners feeling that a certain stabilizing of rates will be in the long run better for commerce. Some of the freight rates prevailing now would have been inconceivable a few years ago. Lumber to the United Kingdom is about 340 shillings per standard, whereas it was 40 shillings in 1915. Coal from New York is about $4, while before the war it was under $1.50. Molasses from Barbadoes is now $7 per puncheon, whereas it used to be $2.25. Lumber to the River Plate is about $50; it used to be under $10. A kind of Annapolis four-masted schooner made a trip from St. John to the River Plate and back and only cleared $500; today schooners on such a trip nearly pay for themselves. Shipbuilding yards in Nova Scotia continue to be pretty busy, though there is not much doing in New Brunswick yards. Almost any kind of a craft can get lumber for across the ocean, though there is some uncertainty regarding the market there. This arises from the fact that the British government owns about 250 million feet of lumber, much of which is still in the yards of Canada, and nobody seems to know how the government will dispose of its stocks. If it throws it on the market, it may have the effect of making lumber dealers shy of shipping to that market till the situation clarifies itself. There has also been some hesitancy on account of the fear that Scandinavia and Russia might have stocks to throw on the British market. But English advisers are to the effect that little lumber is likely to arrive from the Baltic this year, and that there is no certainty that much lumber will come from there next year owing to the unsettled political conditions. The feeling seems to be that Canadian lumber operators will be justified in taking a chance on making a big market in not up to expectations, the French and Belgian markets will require considerable lumber for rebuilding, and that there will be a good demand in the United States, where it is expected there will be a boom in house construction owing to the fact that little was done during the war.
