

Hard Times scared to Death!

"We cannot tell a lie, we did it with our little hands," when we knocked the covers off our immense, low priced

SPRING & SUMMER GOODS.

SPRING STOCK

English, Scotch, French, German, Canadian, and Domestic Cloths.

"Simon pure" Goods.

Ready made clothing

which will equal any lot in the Province

Men's and Youths'

Boots and Shoes,

positively in price a surprise to all

Gents' Furnishing Goods,

in all the latest styles.

HATS AND CAPS.

Zinc, Leather & Wood

TRUNKS.

Latest Fashion Plates,

Just received—away up

We astonish the sight-seer with an unrivalled collection of Elegant Styles and Beautiful Fabrics.

We delight the purchaser with prices, which were never so low. We afford all the opportunity to secure the

NEWEST AND BEST

Spring Garments

at prices within their means.

These plain facts demand your attention; and we respectfully advise an early examination and invite it.

T. W. Smith & Son

CLOTHIERS,

AND

Low priced Boot and Shoe Men.

Fredericton, May 11

June 7th, 1882

TO THE

Ladies of York County.

While the public mind is agitated over the coming elections, and candidates have called upon the electors for their support, I take the present opportunity of calling upon you, who are really the power behind the scenes. It has been well said that "Woman's influence moulds the character of the future statesman." This is true, and I do not say it to secure your political influence, but only desire to call your attention to the beautiful stock of

Staple and Fancy

DRY GOODS,

now showing at my establishment, comprising:

DRESS GOODS

in the very newest shades and materials, and at surprisingly low prices.

Colored Sateens,

BROCADES,

French, English and American

PRINTS & CAMBRICS,

LORREN SUITINGS,

ELEGANT BLACK

—AND—

COLORED SILKS.

SUNSHADES AND PARASOLS,

in SILK and SATIN—a beautiful stock, and cheaper than ever before.

Hats,

Flowers,

Feathers,

Ribbons,

Gloves and

Hosiery,

AND A FULL ASSORTMENT OF

MILLINERY GOODS

GENERALLY.

Jet Gimps, Fringes, Laces, &c.

FANS, FAN GIRDLES, and other FAN NOTIONS, so pleasing to the Ladies.

Household Furnishing Goods,

Parks Wares and Knitting Cottons, in all colors, at Factory Prices.

Wholesale and Retail.

ALBION HOUSE,

Queen St., Fredericton,

—AND—

Branch Store: St. Mary's Ferry

F. B. EDGEcombe.

Fredericton, June 8

Maritime Farmer.

FREDERICTON, N. B., June 8, 1882.

The Issue.

The Electors are called on the 30th of June to choose between two parties. They should bear some prominent facts in mind. The Liberal-Conservative party of which Sir J. A. McDonald is the head, is the party which has been in power eleven out of the fifteen years since confederation. The Liberal or Grit party of which Alexander McKenzie is the head, until he was thrust down to make way for Mr. Blake, can only claim four years of administration. The eleven years of Liberal-Conservative rule have been years of action, development and progress. The four years of Liberal rule were years of depression, financial difficulty and industrial inaction. What the Dominion is to-day, (and all true Canadians must be proud of the position it holds) is greatly due to the policy pursued by Sir John A. and his eminent coadjutors, Sir Charles Tupper and Sir Leonard Tilley. Since 1867, the Dominion has been pacified, extended and consolidated. British Columbia and P. E. Island have been brought into the Union; the vast Northwest Territories have been organized, and the new Provinces, Manitoba and Keewatin out of their fertile domains, leaving ample space and verge enough for many more. To those who remember how little known, how little thought of was the Northwest wilderness in 1867, its present importance, as a component part of the Dominion, is little less than marvellous. Now, thanks to the policy of the McDonald government, it is part and parcel of the Dominion, as familiarly known to the world as the "Great West" of the United States, and more in men's minds; surveying and exploring parties have disclosed the boundless extent of its fertile prairies, and the engineer and the railway navy are busy railing over its vast distances, and bringing many fast growing settlements into communication with the older Provinces of the Dominion. Every step taken by the McDonald government to acquire the Northwest, to bring in British Columbia, to build the Pacific Railway, was opposed, criticised, and denounced by the Liberal Opposition. If Grit action or inaction had prevailed, what would the Dominion have been now? Only a limited strip of land, little known or cared for by the world outside, falling lamentably short of the grand vision of a "young nation," born in a day, and extending from ocean to ocean. The Grit leaders are deficient in imagination comprehensiveness of vision, in energy and daring, instead of starting and carrying out policies, as the Liberal Conservatives have, they have related to extension, and the system of protection, which has made Canada, the great bulk of its people, more worth living in, by fostering and creating industries, which have given employment and better living to thousands of families, and which has greatly increased the internal trade between the Provinces to the benefit of the great interprovincial lines of railway, and been the means of keeping millions of dollars in the Dominion, to enrich the farmers, and manufacturers that would have otherwise have gone abroad into the pockets of foreign importers.

The Grit leaders and organs denounce the McDonald government for their extravagance. They say that it has gone far to ruin the country. No one in their cool senses believes anything of the kind. Certainly the public debt has more than doubled in fifteen years. In 1867 it was $75,238,841, in 1881 it was $148,585,790. The Grits it must be remembered are responsible for $48,111,302 of that increase. The work of building up and extending the Dominion could not have been carried on without increasing the debt. But who, that looks upon the position which the Dominion holds now, and thinks of the position it would have been in if there had been no government to pull the pluck of the McDonald to press on the work, will grudge the price? When Sir Richard (then Mr) Cartwright, went to London to negotiate the disastrous loan of 1871, (which knowing financiers as to the cost of the country the prodigious sum of $2,688,353,) he did not pretend or dare to say that the public debt of Canada had been rolled up through extravagance. In his circular to the London Capitalists, he set forth that "the whole debt has been incurred for legitimate objects of public utility. The indirect advantages from these public works have already been found in the remarkable rapidity with which the commerce and material prosperity of the Dominion have been developed, while a substantial increase in the direct returns may fairly be expected from the improvements now in progress and to follow the steady progress of population and trade."

It is all very well for Liberal leaders and organs in opposition to fulminate and hurl charges of fraud, extravagance and greed across the floors of the house, and spread them abroad over the country; it is a part of their little opposition game, and it is perfectly understood that they do not mean a quarter what they say; but when these Liberal leaders find themselves in the seat of responsibility and are called on to speak in the interest of the country, they are constrained to speak the truth, and the truth from their lips acquiesces the Liberal-Conservative government of anything like culpable extravagance.

It is clear to every one who can look on the Dominion with an unbiased mind, that there is a vast improvement in the position of the country under the McDonald regime compared to what it was under McKenzie. There is a feeling of confidence now, which was absent then. The policy of protection has been justified by its success; it has worked, and will work better, after the electors have cast their votes again in its favor, and determined that it is the fixed policy of Canada. Besides its good influence in stimulating old industries, the N. P. has been the means of establishing 95 new factories in fifteen different lines of manufactures, and employing 7,000 hands; the number of workmen it has been the means of employing, is double, that is, 24,000, representing from 80,000 to 100,000 persons. Where, and in what condition would these persons have been, if the McKenzie regime had continued? It is not the fact that the N. P. has enriched blighted monopolist manufacturers, at the expense of the people at large, that it has taxed the poor man's "woollen goods," higher in proportion than the rich man's costlier fabrics. Owing to their largely increased output, manufacturers are able to supply cotton and woolen goods as cheap and of better quality than before the tariff. Tweeds and fabrics used by farmers, labourers, and mechanics in country districts are as low in price now as at any time during ten years previous to 1878. There is a bulk of testimony to that effect. The N. P. has not increased to the farmer the price of agricultural machines, and a number of articles in use and consumption, which it has given him a better price for his wheat, and an extended home market, which is now to a great extent, closed against American produce, for all agricultural products. He now can drink his tea and coffee, sweetened by Canadian refined sugar, as cheaply as he ever does.

One of the heaviest charges against the McDonald government is the Pacific Railway contract. Yet, it is a fact, on record, that the McKenzie Government offered any company who would undertake the work, a subsidy in cash and land of $65,410,000, or seventeen millions more than that granted the Syndicate, which can not be justly computed at more than $78,000,000. The Grit P. R. calculations are very accurate.

Why should the electors vote to bring in a Liberal government again, and unsettle the present prosperous state of affairs? During the four years of McKenzie's administration, the Government's expenditures exceeded revenues, deficits amounting to $7,088,860 occurred, nothing was attempted to lift the country out of the slough of despond, and the government waited supinely for the coming of better times.

Let the electors support the Liberal-Conservative, the active and progressive government, whom Providence, which helps those who help themselves, smiles upon.

Hon. John J. Fraser.

Hon. John J. Fraser is in the city in the beginning of the week, having returned from Stanley-roads. He said that he had every reason to be pleased with the reception he had met at the several meetings he had held. He might have spoken much more enthusiastically if he could have overcome his natural disinclination to boast of his doings and successes. But his friends everywhere in the country, and most encouraging intelligence of the favor with which his candidature is received by the electors. Their confidence in his success is rising day by day. Mr. Fraser is able to give a good account of the political faith that is in him, and answer all questions inquiring electors may ask him. The chief question that the electors of York want answered, is, "has the county prospered under the policy inaugurated in 1878, when Sir John A. McDonald, was by an immense majority returned to power?" To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes." To that he can give an unequivocal "yes."

Reasonable Counsel and Warning.

The leading Liberal-Conservative organ, the Mail of Toronto, gives words of cheer and also of counsel and warning suitable to this stirring time. The party is certain of a sweeping victory, and it is certain that it is a danger that the working members will relax their efforts through overconfidence. The Grit committee are working "like beavers" in the face of certain defeat. By careless remission the Liberal-Conservative may lose half a dozen constituencies. It says—

"The Liberal-Conservative are too apt to take things easy, on the last day that there is no need for exertion. Their plain duty lies in the opposite direction. They must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the plea that all is going well everywhere. The Liberal-Conservative must be vigilant; they must outvie their opponents in the work of canvassing; take a leaf out of their enemy's book and wrestle stoutly until the last vote is polled on the evening of the 30th. There is no room for idlers who excuse themselves on the

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Hon. JOHN J. FRASER.

Liberal Conservative Candidate FOR YORK.

Nomination, Tuesday, June 13th.

Polling, - " - " 17th.

LIBERAL-CONSERVATIVE COMMITTEE ROOMS.

The COMMITTEE ROOMS in the Stone Barracks, Queen Street, will be open Every Day and Evening until after the Election. Friends of the Hon. JOHN J. FRASER, the Liberal-Conservative Candidate for York County, are cordially invited to call at the above Rooms at any hour of the day or evening.

BENJAMIN CLOSE, Chairman.

JOHN BLACK, Secretary.

Fredericton, June 1, 1882.

PUBLIC MEETINGS.

Hon. JOHN J. FRASER, the Liberal Conservative Candidate for York, will address Public Meetings in the constituency as follows:-

THURSDAY, 9th inst., 8 p. m., Canterbury Station.

FRIDAY, 10th inst., 8 p. m., Hall near Foster's Corner, North Lake.

SATURDAY, 11th inst., 8 p. m., Hall near Hatch's Corner, Main Street.

MONDAY, 12th inst., 8 p. m., School House, Mouth of Keswick.

TUESDAY, 13th inst., 8 p. m., Hall, Smith's Corner, Parish of Birch.

TUESDAY, 13th inst., 8 p. m., School House, Bear Island, Queensbury.

WEDNESDAY, 14th inst., 8 p. m., Mouth of Macquack.

WEDNESDAY, 14th inst., 8 p. m., School House, Temperance Vale.

THURSDAY, 15th inst., 1 p. m., School House, near Macfarlane's, Campbell Settlement.

THURSDAY, 15th inst., 8 p. m., School House near Cranberry's Southampton.

FRIDAY, 16th inst., 8 p. m., School House, near Sullivan Creek, Canterbury.

FRIDAY, 16th inst., 8 p. m., near Grosvenor's, Edgewater.

FRIDAY, 16th inst., 8 p. m., near Grosvenor's, Edgewater.

MONDAY, 19th inst., 8 p. m., near the Forks, New Maryland.

A Grit Slander Naïed.

To the Editor of the Maritime Farmer:

Fredericton, June 6, 1882.

Sir:—An attempt has been made to give an article in to-day's Maritime Farmer, the name of the Liberal-Conservative Candidate for York County, and that "liar" was given away to every elector who wished it.

This no doubt, was done as an electioneering device. We therefore feel it our duty to emphatically deny it, and to state that it is untrue.

BENJAMIN CLOSE, Chairman Liberal-Conservative Com.

JOHN BLACK, Secretary.

POLITICAL NEWS AND GOSSIP.

The Approaching Dominion and Local Elections.

Sir Chas. Tupper has been making a triumphal tour of Cumberland Co. He will be returned unopposed.

The Grits intend the certain defeat of Mr. Irving, in Carleton Place, Hon. Mr. Landman will have a big majority.

Mr. Girouard, the Conservative Candidate in Kent, is opposed by Mr. J. H. Landman, a Liberal-Conservative, but he will be elected by a rousing majority.

Success seems certain for the whole Local Government ticket in Westmorland. Hon. Messrs. Landry and Hannington, Mr. Humphrey and Dr. Black.

Hon. Mr. Fraser has met with a most successful reception in every Parish he has visited. The indications are that he will poll a magnificent vote, and be triumphantly elected.

In the Dominion election in Sunbury, in 1878, Mr. Chas. Bruce held Mr. W. D. Farley, the Conservative, by only four votes. The order will be reversed this time.

The opponents of Hon. Mr. Fraser, have failed to bring forward a single charge against him during his long and honorable political career, and now even in the heat and excitement of an election they are unable to do so.

Hon. Mr. Fraser will have a splendid majority in the city—his opponents admit that it will not be less than two hundred, but our country friends will beat that. We confidently expect he will poll more votes than Pickard and Fraser combined.

Hon. Peter Mitchell, in Northumberland, and Hon. John Costigan in Victoria, both Conservatives, and the latter gentleman a Cabinet Minister, will be opposed. This is rather rough on the Banner Liberal Province, as Grits delight in terming New Brunswick.

Mr. Pickard has represented York in the Commons for fourteen years, resulting in a net loss of $14,000 for himself, besides a large sum for travelling and incidental expenses, amounting in all to nearly $20,000. The electors want to know what return he has made for this.

When the respective Editor of the Reporter gets through with his canvass of York County and returns to his editorial chair, he will be prepared to defend any position he has taken in the mean time, we decline pointing the half-witted man shift, that is now doing duty for the sheet editor.

The personal canvass is the only one Mr. Pickard's friends use to secure his election. That it will not succeed, is a foregone conclusion. Mr. Pickard is a worthy man, but he has been run on that issue too long. The electors of York want a representative of recognized ability, and such as one they will have in Hon. Mr. Fraser.

Mr. O. H. Tupper, son of Sir Chas. Tupper, and junior partner in the firm of Thompson, Graham & Tupper, Barristers, Halifax, of which the head is Hon. J. S. D. Thompson and Mr. John McLaughlin, have been chosen Liberal-Conservative standard bearers in Pictou County. They are opposed by Messrs. Carmichael and Dawson, ex-M.P.'s.

Mr. Geo. McLeod, Sir Leonard Tilley's opponent in Kent, is a candidate in Pictou in 1878, and polled only 610 out of over 2,000 votes cast, and yet it is in Kent that Mr. McLeod received an immense lumber business. It is folly to suppose that he stands the slightest chance of defeating Sir Leonard in St. John, where he is merely a resident.

Mr. Geo. F. Gregory, an ambitious local barometer, is stumping the country in Mr. Pickard's interest, ostensibly, but really in his own. Mr. Pickard's friends do not forget Mr. Gregory's attempt to shove Mr. Pickard aside when Mr. Pickard was elected. It will be enough for Mr. Gregory to face defeat when Mr. Pickard is disposed of by the electors.

Hon. B. R. Stevenson and Hon. A. H. Gillmor are facing each other in the Dominion election in Charlotte. Sir Leonard Tilley paid the County a visit on Monday, and was most enthusiastically received. Our advice are that Mr. Lyndal and Hon. John Macdonald will be returned to the local. There are twelve candidates in the field, with the 14,000 votes to be heard from.

Mr. Pickard's organ hopes to secure that gentleman's election by manufacturing sympathy for him. It is a poor canvass in York. Mr. Pickard's opponents have never accused him of any crime; they do not conduct their canvass by the propagation of vile slanders, but rely on the justice of their cause to win. Mr. Pickard himself must get tired of the continual slandering he receives from his organ. He pays dear enough for the article, however.

Every vote cast for Mr. Fisher will be thrown away, as he acknowledges certain defeat. It means more. Every vote thrown for him helps Mr. Pickard on to victory. Will true Liberal-Conservatives aid and abet an enemy?

The honey that would stoop to such contemptible courtesies as are being used by Mr. Pickard's friends in a bad way, indeed. Their attempt to prejudice the temperance people by the citation of the report so summarily contradicted elsewhere by Warden Closs and Mr. John Black, President and Secretary of the Liberal-Conservative committee is certainly beneath contempt, and must result on their own heads.

The friends of Messrs. Closs and Watmore met Monday evening and organized. They are working most harmoniously, and expect their men to lead the poll by hundreds. Mr. Blair's planter will not be so plentiful as in 78, and Mr. Thompson is nowhere in the contest. The Reporter says Mr. G. Fred. Fisher is met with every encouragement in the country. It does not take much to encourage the Fishers. The electors will not be deceived by the Reporter's blarney, and the public know that Mr. Fred. Fisher has just about as much chance of being elected to the Local House as Mr. O'Dell's seat in the Senate.

Mr. Fraser makes a great show of his so-called honesty and uprightness, and would he brought forward as a special canvasser that he was the "immaculate John J.", in reference to the fact that he has been in his political record, whereas his course during the last few weeks has been such as to show that he is not so immaculate as he would have us believe. He has been in the same line as that self-interest has been the inspiring of his action—Reporter.

The intentions of the Reporter are so contemptible that they will receive no attention whatever. There is not a respectable person in this county who knows Hon. John J. Fraser, that will deign to cast a slur on his personal and political honesty and uprightness. The success he has achieved, is a result of his industry and integrity, which more than the Reporter can claim for either of its proprietors.

Not a happy to know just what is the meaning of Mr. O. H. B. Fisher's action, and we propose letting his friends into the secret. He will tell us that he is not in the personal and political honesty and uprightness. The success he has achieved, is a result of his industry and integrity, which more than the Reporter can claim for either of its proprietors.

The University prize winners, so far as announced, are: H. D. Fritz, St. John, Classical Scholarship; F. St. J. Bliss, Fredericton, English Scholarship; W. D. Brodie, Fredericton, Mathematical Scholarship; W. Brodie, Fredericton, Latin Scholarship; W. Duff, Portland, Latin Scholarship; F. St. J. Bliss, Fredericton, French Prize; F. St. J. Bliss, Fredericton, and H. Barker, Sheffield, tied for the microscope.

Times must be prosperous, for we observe our friend Mr. F. B. Edgewood, has just received a further instalment of carpets. The showing of curtains, carpets, and house furnishings goods generally, at the Albion House was very large this season, but still was found wanting in order to meet the demand to send repeat orders for these goods. Mr. Edgewood's customers can always rely upon having the newest goods at the lowest prices.

The Baptist congregation, open their Bazaar, in the Exhibition Building, next Tuesday, continuing Wednesday. The Maritime Farmer writes in fact, against every body who is opposed to Messrs. Pickard, Gregory & Blair, who in Messrs. Pickard's eyes are the only responsible politicians in the country. We are also informed that a few days ago he delivered a lecture on the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to his official duties, and when one of the Student-Teachers wrote on a Park wall, the "Harmful for Tilly" the Principal grew furious, and is described as having turned livid with rage. Now, if Mr. Pickard is not guilty of these things, we believe he can give his denial in the paper under his control, and he has the credit of doing so. But we will tell him in advance that his political attitude has become so public already, that a denial will have no effect whatever. We do not doubt that he will make the matter drop, but if Mr. Pickard has any regard for the permanency of his position, he will take our advice and attend to

