Again the Standard-Bearer of the London Liberals.

He Will Lead Them to Victory in the Coming Battle.

The Unanimous Choice of an Enthusiastic Convention.

The Popular Member Given a Great Ovation.

Rousing Speeches by a Number of Prominent Citizens.

A Sweeping Triumph for the Candidate Assured.

Mr. Hyman's Able Address On Public Questions-A Large Gathering-Col. Lewis Elected Temporary President.

The crowd of Liberals in the Oddfellows' block last night was only limited by the size of the club rooms, but the enthusiasm knew no such bounds. It oozed through the windows, flew out of the doors, permeated the atmosphere, and nearly raised the roof. It was a call to arms for the coming battle, and right royally the hosts of Reform answered the bugle blast and rallied to select the standard-bearer who should lead them to victory. Before 8 o'clock the delegates filled every seat, and still they came. Standing room was soon covered with solid Lib-eral feet, while others were compelled to find a resting-place outside the doors in the corridor. Many retraced their steps for lack of space. Never has a livelier or more united band gathered within the same walls, and that is saying a good deal. The convention was animated by one idea—to nominate a candidate and to make him a winner; and there was but one man thought of -Charles Smith Hyman, M.P., the first mention of whose name was the signal for a cyclone of cheers that was an ill wind indeed for his opponent.

THE PRESIDENT PRO TEM. Mr. C. F. Colwell opened proceedings by suggesting that Col. Lewis take the chair and act as president of the Liberal Association during the absence of Mr. V. Cronyn in Europe. This was heart-ly approved. Col. Lewis expressed his thanks and urged those present to work hard to give their candidate a rousing majority. He then called for nomina-

The following were proposed: Dr. Geo. C. Davis, J. B. McKillop, Geo. C. Gibbons, Q.C., Thos. H. Purdom, John bons, Q.C., Thos. H. Purdom, John Cameron, M. Masuret, J. D. Clarke, F. E. Leonard, Geo. M. Reid, Talbot Mac-beth, Mayor J. W. Little, John Campbell, R. K. Cowan, Dr. Gardiner, A. O. Teffrey, D. Cl. T. Campbell and Chas. 3. Hyman, M.P.

MR. HYMAN NOMINATED. Mr. Gibbons was received with cheers on rising to nominate Mr. Hyman. "It is some years," he said, " since I had the pleasure of presenting a name now famed from one end of the Dominion to the other—the name of Charles Smith Hyman. (Cheers.) I have never regretted the choice; neither have you. We commenced the fight in London with Mr. Hyman as our leader, against great odds. No man ever went into the campaign more pluckily. No man has ever been more loyal to the rank and file of the party than has Mr. Hyman. (Cheers.) We have had no knives to bury-no knives for each other. (Laughter and cheers.) The Liberal party of London stand tonight united to a man. (Cheers.) Although we have had a lot of complimentary nominaions there is but one real name before this convention—that of the man who has been kept out of his seat for some years. (Cheers.) The Liberals of London have tried to do their duty by Mr. Hyman and the party, and I hope they have done it. We have obtained the glory of being held up all over the Dominion as the best band of political fighters in the country. This is largely due to our leader, Mr. Hyman. You cannot have a successful army without a plucky leader." (Cheers.) Mr. Gibbons referred gratefully to Mr. Hyman's unselfish and untiring labors in connection with the abominable system of voters' list revision that they were compelled to put up with. The Liberals had got London won. The feeling of their opponents was one of defeat. Mr. Hyman would be the next member for London, and they knew it. (Cheers.) The speaker asked that the campaign be made as light as possible for Mr. Hyman, owing to illness in his family, which was worrying to a man. He hoped they would make the majority so large that there would be no cavilling, no protest, no after-clap.
"There have been things said which ake me anxious to get at our opponents, and make me anxious to show what we will do when the time comes. Some of them have been indulging in warfare that is unmanly, and such as should not exist in any country. (Hear, hear.) When the Liberals of ondon next enter into this campaign It wil be shoulder to shoulder, and man to man, and the victory will be one that will finish Toryism in London for a hundred years to come." (Cheers.) Mr. John Smith said: "For the third time I have the honor of seconding the nomination of Mr. Hyman, and I hope we will give him a majority as large as Mr. Hobbs'." (Cheers.)

J. B. McKILLOP. Mr. J. B. McKillop retired in favor of Mr. Hyman. The Reform party had done their duty toward Mr. Hyman. They placed him at the head of the poll and he was deprived of the seat which was his rightful due. "On this occasion we will put him so far ahead that there will be no after-claps. It will be so large that as in the case of Mr. Hobbs nothing will be said about marks, and hoped that no one present had a razor in his boot, as was the custom at some political conventions. (Laughter.) There was nothing but unanimity in the Liberal ranks. They could rely on the support of many who were opposed to them at last election; he had discovered many such. They had been winners for five or six years, and at the coming contest should have such a majority that they could keep it for many elections to come. In Mr. Hyman they had a good candidate, and there were many reasons why they should support him and resent the manner in which he had been treated publicly and privately. (Cheers.) He had been treated in an unfair, under-handed manner, such as no honorable man would deal with a fellow-citizen. THOMAS H. PURDOM.

"There is only one man upon whom the citizens of London can unite," said Mr. Purdom, "and that man happens to be the Reform candidate, Charles S. Hyman. (Cheers.) We know by experience that he is a manly man and a splendid candidate. Our opponents feel that we have already won.

Mr. Purdom related a conversation he had with a leading Conservative, who thought the strongest man for his party would be Dr. Moorhouse, now that Sir John Carling had been shelved. He confessed, however, that Mr. Hy-man would beat any candidate they (the Conservatives) could bring out, because he had the best political organization in Canada behind him. (Cheers.)

"There is no doubt that the fight made by Mr. Hobbs will have its effect on the next Hyman election. The Hobbs election was a clean sweep, but any of the gentlemen mentioned as Mr. Hyman's opponents will find themselves in a large minority. He is a strongar man than ever and he will not have so strong an opponent as before.' Mr. Purdom predicted not only a Reform victory in London but throughout the country. JOHN CAMERON. Mr. Cameron pointed out four significant events of recent date—the pleasure of seeing in the mayor's chair a man who most worthily filled it, and was none the less worthy of being a Liberal; the election of Mr. Hobbs to the Legislature and retirement of the ablest Conservative in the Provincial ranks, Chief Justice Meredith, and the exit of Sir John Carling. All these happened in the one direction of strengthening the Liberal party in London. The Liberals had always fought pluckily in the past, but they had been striving against the current; now they had the current with them. "So that we have great reason to be satisfied," added Mr. Cameron, "with the condition at home and throughout the country too. It is a grand thing to have as our leader a man of unblemished character, a good speaker, an able man-one who will carry himself rather than expect to be carried. I have great pleasure and sincerity in retiring with the best wishes and utmost good will in favor of Charles S. Hyman as our candidate on this occasion." (Cheers.)

FRANK E. LEONARD.

"The old war horse that we have run since 1887 is still in the best of shape," said Mr. Leonard, "and the scars that he has received in the last three battles have only endeared him to us the more. (Cheers.) I have much pleasure in withdrawing in his favor. I have watched his career in Parliament, and I don't think we can get a better man to represent us than Charles S. Hyman. (Cheers.) These of us who followed his actions in Parliament are more than ever convinced that he is fit to represent us at Ottawa. There is no better proof of it than his untiring efforts in holding up the searchlight of investigation at the capital. Charles Hyman was one of the right hand men in that investigation. When we return him will be in the right place again."

Mr. Leonard urged all to beware of overconfidence and not to allow their energies

GEORGE M. REID.

Mr. Reid said he was the adjutant in the fight, and he liked to serve good colonel like Mr. under Hyman. He had once served under a different kind. (Laughter.) They would start organizing next week. No. 1 ward would meet on Monday, No. 2 ward on Tuesday, No. 3 ward on Wednesday and No. 4 ward on Thursday. Although confident of victory they should leave no stone unturned to make the majority one more than they expected.

TALBOT MACBETH. Mr. Macbeth was well received. He thanked his proposer and seconder, "but," said he, "ever since a certain famous judicial decision three years ago this spring, and ever since poor old Sir John Carling was foolish and feeble enough to accept a seat which was thus obtained for him by a most injudicious judge, it has been a matter of absolute certainty that Mr. Hyman would have the unanimous support not only of the Liberal party, but of a very large number of those who up to that time had not been members. (Cheers.) It was also a certainty that he would carry the city by a very large

Of Mayor Little, who was nominated, he stated that the mayor was absent in Montreal on a very sad errand. "But before he left," said Mr. Macbeth, "he told me that there was no possible candidate for the city of London but Mr. Hyman—(cheers) that he was in accord with Mr. Hyman's candidature, and that he would do everything in his power to elect him." (Cheers.)

R. K. COWAN. Mr. Cowan was extremely obliged to the person who nominated him, but he assured them that what proved a good run for the petty office of water commissioner might not be a very strong run for parliamentary honors. He took great pleasure in declining in favor of their tried, true and trusty candidate, Charles S. Hyman. (Cheers.) He would devote himself to Mr. Hyman's interest. His time, talents and fortune were at his disposal-(laughter)-to aid in getting for him that which he deserved— the representation of the city of London —(cheers)—in the House of Commons. He had earned it two or three times, and should have had it even before that. Mr. Cowan sounded a warning note against the evil of over-confidence, and urged ward committees to organize and get to work.

DR. CL. T. CAMPBELL. Dr. Campbell was given a grand reception as he proceeded at once to decline the nomination, saying that he was proud of their candidate, whom he knew they were going to select. "I am proud of him for his ability," said Dr. Campbell. "I admire him for the work that he has done for his party; I admire i." (Cheers.)

him for his talents, and admire him for the persecutions he has borne. I admire him for what he has suffered as well as what he has done." The doctor assured the convention that victory was in the air, and when the night of election came there would be another celebration similar to that which they had a few months ago. (Cheers.)

A. O. JEFFREY. "Mark me down as resigning in favor of Mr. C. S. Hyman, M.P.," said Mr. A. O. Jeffrey. "He is the very best candidate I ever worked under, and we know that out of all the names we have had presented to us tonight we could not have selected a better one." (Cheers.)

CHAS. S. HYMAN, M.P. It was with old-time enthusiasm and fervor that the delegates greeted their candidate, Charles S. Hyman, M.P., as he appeared on the scene. Everyone rose to his feet, and cheered and cheered again. He began by alluding to the complimentary references that had been made about him by the previous speakers as good-natured stretches of imagination. "I understand," he continued, "that I have again been nominated as the candidate of the Liberal party. I can assure you, sir, that I look upon this as a very important occasion. You have met together tonight for the purpose of nominating a man to represent you in Parliament, the chief council of the nation, the gathering at Ottawa which has most important duties to fulfill. They have the duty to fulfill of making first of all for this country the fiscal policy, on which the success of the nation deon which the success of the nation depends to a very large degree, and also the happiness and welfare of almost every man in the Dominion of Canada. To them is given also the right of taxation, and I am just Liberal enough to believe that as that right is not lightly believe that as that right is not lightly given neither should it be lightly regarded. I am proud to know that one of the chief planks in the Liberal party platform is that plank which says that there shall be taken from the pockets of the people only a sum sufficient to of the people only a sum sufficient to run the Government honestly, economically and well. (Cheers.) To them also you give the right to make the moral laws, and as we advance in civilization, so I think we should advance in our moral legislation. It is no small honor for any man to have the small honor for any man to have the nomination of the Liberals of the city of London, and I trust that on election day it will be a proud moment when we have gained the victory which has been spoken of tonight—(cheers)—and which with hard work is fully within our grasp. I have had the honor of representing the Liberal party on more than one oc-casion. In 1887 for the first time I was nominated as the Liberal standardbearer in the city of London. Most of you here tonight went through that fight with me. You know how well we fought, and though after the fight was over it was found that we were 35 in the minority, we had

LEARNED A LESSON which has stood us in good stead since —to take our beating like men. (Cheers.) And when the Conservative party learn to take their beating when they get one—(and they will get one in the near future)—until they learn, I say, to take their beating like men, and not with the whining bitterness they have shown lately, they will never be successful in carrying this city. (Cheers and applause.)

When is this election to take place? We know the situation in the country at the present time. Today the Parliament at Ottawa ought to have been called together. That ought to have been their duty—their duty in our interests. And if they are not called together the people of this country should have some knowledge of when a dissolution shall take place. I noticed that one of the Ministers the other evening speak-ing in the northern part of Ontario said that when it did take place we would not need our overcoats. If the Conservative party expect to win this election by taking off their overcoats they will be very much mistaken indeed. (Applause.) They will need to divest themselves of more garments than that. (Cheers.) I care not when the election takes place, whether they have removed their overcoats or not, whether it be 'When the Robins Nest Again,' or 'When the Corn is Waving, Annie,' from one end of the country to the other I honestly believe that the Liberal party is going to be successful." (Great cheering.)

Mr. Hyman said it had been his privliege and pleasure to visit every Province in Canada during the past year, and he pointed significantly to the fact that at Victoria, B. C., in a Province which has not at present a single Liberal representative in the Dominion House, and where when four years ago only 460 persons voted for the Liberal candidate, and over 1,100 for his opponent, a few days ago 898 persons turned out to nominate a Liberal. (Cheers.) And this with no very great increase in the population. So it was in the Northwest Territories. There again the people were aroused, and in Manitoba the Government was content to retain a Lieutenant-Governor two years long-er than his term called for rather than run the risk of allowing the people to PRONOUNCE UPON THEIR POLICY by throwing open a constituency to appoint a successor. In Quebec Mr. Laurier had succeeded in bringing out from private life Mr. Joly, a man who stands as high in Quebec as Mr. Laurier does in Ontrio. He had likewise induced such le men as Messrs. Geoffrion and Gr enshields to enter the lists. Were it not for the enormous influence of the Intercolonial Railway in the Province of New Brunswick the Liberal party would be triumphant there. But even there they hoped to divide the representation. They had splendid reports of the prospects of the party in Nova Scotia. They were working in almost every constituency in advance of the Conservatives. I the banner Prov-ince of Ontario they had in some constituencies two candidates-Liberal and Patron-who were agreed upon the one policy, arrayed against one candidate who is pronounced upon another policy. They knew the feeling well in Middlesex and Elgin-that the Liberal policy there is more popular than it ever has been in past years.

Mr. Hyman proceeded to deal with the charges made in certain Conservative papers that there was money being sent into Canada by so-called annexationists in the United States. They put the matter very glibly, but the speaker went on to show that the only money that ever came into Canada from the United States for election purposes was that secured by Mr. Dancereau, postmaster of Montreal,

York to purchase passes for men now in power at Ottawa. The press manufacturers made the donation, and strangely enough the presses were bought.

"We are Liberal first, Liberals always, Liberals ever," said Mr. Hyman, "but so far as annexationists are concerned, it is indeed A STRANGE THING that in the political history of Canada every single man who has as yet publicly announced himself an annexationist has not been a Liberal, but a Conservative. (Cheers and applause.)

They say that we have no policy clear and defined. I think, sir, that the Liberal party today has as clear and definite a policy as it is possible for any political party to have. We have a policy which was not made in any back room, or by any member of the Government, or by any leader, but by a con-vention of the whole Liberal party called together from every single Province except British Columbia, which unfortunately had no representative in the House-men who sat down carefully and studied what was in the best interests of the people of this country. They, sir, did not consult the interests of the classes. They consulted in every instance the interests of the masses. They there made and gave forth to the people of Canada a policy, and it lies in no man's mouth, no matter his standing in the party, to add one single iota to that platform, or to take one single iota from it. It has been distributed throughout the length and breadth of this country, and yet the Conservatives are continually making the assertion that the Liberal party have no plat-form. I have yet to hear the Conser-vative who dare enter into the details of the Conservative platform. There is their trade policy, which they may be called upon at any time by the manufacturer to alter when the Government get a quid pre quo for it. They have no policy like the Liberal party which cannot be added to, which cannot be taken away from. We have our trade policy, and we made no bones about it when we say that we do not believe in protection as applied to the industries of Canada. Nor do we believe in protection in principle. We do not believe in the Gerrymander and in the Franchise Act. We say, sir, that we do not believe in them, and our POLICY IS CLEAR and definite. In regard to the present constitution of the Senate, we say that it is unfair and unjust to the people of Canada that the Senate should be composed of those members whom the people have defeated at the polls only to be raised over the head of others and placed in the Senate. We have our policy in regard to the public lands. We say that the public lands of this Dominion belong to the people; that they should be conserved and preserved and not sold to the speculators; that wooded land should be put up to the highest bidder and not sold privately to the Government favorite. We say that they should be put up to the highest bidder, and though they be public land they should be opened to the settler-(applause and cheers)-and not sold to the speculator.

"Upon another great moral question the Liberal party in convention have made an announcement. They have discussed and most seriously taken into consideration question of prohibition. They say that this question is a great moral question and that it should be separate from a political issue. It is not fair that the question of a man's temperance should be mixed up and should be the sole reason for his being elected to the Dominion Parliament. They say that the question divested of all other questions should be put before the people as to whether there should be a prohibition law in Canada or not. These, sir, are the principal planks in the platform of the Liberal party." (Cheers.)

"I have no need to defend my Liberalism before any Liberal audience in the city of London. ('No, no,' and renewed cheering.) I am a Liberal, sir, because I believe that the aims and objects of the Liberal party are in the best interests of the citizens of Canada. I am a Liberal because I believe in the trade policy of the Liberal party.

I AM A LIBERAL

because I am opposed to the supposed divine right which seems to exist in the minds of most of our Conservative friends that for all time to come they should be the governing power in this country. (Hear, hear.) I am a Liberal, sir, because I believe in provincial autonomy. I believe that the people in other provinces should have the right to make their own laws as given them by the act of 1866, so long as they affect only the people of that province and in accordance with the act; that they should have the right to make their own laws without any interference from the Dominion Government. I am a Liberal because the aims and objects of Liberalism tend to raise up the people, to make them better and to materially increase their wealth. (Cheers.)

"What more do the Liberals want? We have a splendid policy, and we have a leader in Mr. Laurier, a leader whom I am proud to serve. I tell you, sir, that in the whole Province of Ontario, though we are not members of his faith, though we are not members of his race, I don't believe that in the Province of Ontario, in any constituency, is there one local man who stands as high, or who would make a better candidate than Mr. Laurier. (Tremendous cheering.) I venture to say, sir, that notwithstanding the enthusiasm that there is in this meeting to-night, were Mr. Laurier's name given to you as a candidate for the city of London, he would find the Liberals of London just as strong, just as loyal as I know and feel that they will be behind me. They say that he is not of my faith. Strong Protestant as I am, I say here before my fellow-citizens, that I would rather trust my Protestantism to him than I would to many of those men who pose at the present time as self-appointed defenders of the Protestent faith. In Mr. Laurier there is one man that Canada has to lock forward to if she is going to have that prosperity which Providence, with all the

She Strongly Urges the Use of Paine's Celery Compound.

"In April of 1893 my whole system was run down, I was weak, nervous, sleepless and despondent, and at times suffered agonies from headaches. As my doctor was doing little for my relief, I was urged by a friend to try your Paine's Celery Compound. Your wonderful medicine in less than five weeks made me a new woman. I am stronger, sleep better and enjoy life better than ever before. Your medicine is worthy of all the praise it receives, and I strongly advise all sufferers to use it.'

Mr. Ewart, Q.C., of Winnipeg, Presents the Case for the Roman Catholics.

OTTAWA, March 4 .- The Manitoba school case was heard this morning in the railway committee of the House of Commons. The Ministers present were: Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Sir Adolphe Caron, Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper and Messrs. Quimet, Angers, Costigan, Haggart, Ives, Dickey, Daly, Foster and Dr. Montague. There ware also in attendance Soliciter-General Curran, Mr. Girouard, M.P., Robillard, M.P., Boyd, Sutherland, ex-

M.P., and others. Mr. Ewart, Q.C., Winnipeg, appeared for the Roman Catholics, and Rev. Mr. Cheniere and Senator Bernier. Mr. D'Alton McCarthy appeared for the Manitoba Government, and beside him sat John O'Donoghue, a member of the Mani-toba School Board, and Dr. Blackeley, of the Education Department, Manitoba. Mr. Ewart gave a long history of the case, starting out at the time of negotiations for union between Manitoba and the Dominion down to the present time, showing that in every movement made there was a distinct promise to the Roman Catholics that separate schools should not e interfered with. He contended the Manitoba Act guaranteed separate schools.

If the clause in the act admitting an appeal to the governor-in-council was not be acted upon why was it there? He held that there was an appeal and that there By his bedside stood a man of benevoshould be relief. Mr. Ewart had not con- lent mien, a doctor of renown, Henry cluded his argument when the Cabinet rose at lo'clock. Mr. Ewart, in continuing his argument, said that pledges had been g ven at different times by Premier Greenway that the separate schools should not be abolished. But, he said, if no such promises had been made, he would argue that relief should nevertheless be given the Roman Catholies. The clause providing for remedial legislation was a constitutional guarantee like many others which Canadians enjoyed under the constitution, and therefore the Governor-General-in-Council was not only bound to hear this appeal, but to act upon and extend relief. Proceeding, he said that his Excellency could not decline to hear the appeal, and when it was heard he was bound to adjudicate

SKATING.

AN ENGLISH CHAMPION'S FEAT. Albert E. Tebbet, the short-distance London, March 5, 1895. skating champion of England, continues to assert his superiority. At the meeting promoted by the Cambridge University branch on Feb. 19 he skated his heat in the quarter of a mile straightaway race in 38 3 5 seconds. He won the final from S. Markham, the London crack, in 37 4-5 seconds. A variable wind behind the competitors qualified to some extent the very fast times accomplished.

ATHLETICS. CLUB SWINGING RECORD. London Sporting Life says that Sergt. Batterby, Second Norfolk Regiment, broke the club-swinging record by swinging a couple of two-pound clubs for twelve consecutive hours without stopping.

DEATH OF AN ATHLETE. Cross-country details from England chronicle the lamentable death of a runner in the northern championship race and the narrow escape of another. The accident took place at Blackpool on Feb. 16. In the course of the race Whelan, of Birkenhead, a member of the West Cheshire team, was picked up unconscious and died at 7 o'clock next morning. Alfred Lee, of the Stockport team, was also brought in unconscious, but he revived after seven hours' treatment. The afternoon was bitterly cold. A strong east wind prevailed, and portions of the route were covered with snow and ice. Twenty clubs competed, each being represented by nine men. J. Harrington, Northwich Harriers, romped home several hundred yards in front, covering the approximate ten miles in 56 minutes 532 seconds; R. J. Moran, Salford Harriers, was second, and F. Vickers, of Crewe, third. The team competition was won for the second successive year by the Salford Harriers, with the Airedale Harriers second and the Liverpool Harriers third.

AQUATIC. THE WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP. English oarsmen are now anxious to see Harding made an extraordinary impression on the talent by his recent defeat of Tom Sullivan on the Tyne. Harding won under trying conditions in the grand time of 21 minutes 15 seconds, which is only surpassed by Ed Hanlan's performance of 21 minutes I record, made over the same course in 1878 against W. Elliott. Sullivan is not satisfied with the result of the race and wants another "go" with Harding about the end of April.

The Budget Debate Starts Again Today.

(Special to the "Advertiser.") PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS,

TORONTO, March 4. The members of the House assembled in good force today, the ranks being fuller than they generally are on Monday after the weekly holiday, but the usual Monday's work, light as it ordinarily is, was not done. It is a day peculiarly sacred to private members and their wants and bills. But the committees have not got to work, so that the private bills are not ready for the House, while the Opposition is not as yet prepared to go on with the resolutions with which it is gradually loading up the order papers. Consequently solemn silence reigned today when the petitions had all been put in, and Mr. Gibson had laid the report of the Minister of Education and some other matter upon the table, and Sir Oliver Mowat broke it by suggesting that the budget debate, which starts again tomorrow, be continued on Wednesday too, though it also is private

Mr. Marter agreed, and the House adjourned after a ten minutes' session. Tomorrow Mr. Howland goes on with the budget debate, and will be answered by Mr. Thomas Gibson, of Huron. Either Mr. St. John or Mr. Whitney will in all probability then speak for the Opposition and Mr. Davis will follow for the Liberals. The Patrons are still quiet, and do not at present intend speaking tomorrow. Mr. Haycock has taken the first step, however, by bringing in a bill to amend the Ontario Medical Act, in accordance with the Patron platform, by depriving the Medial Council of its power of annulling physicians' certificates granted by regularly chester. cates granted by regularly chartered medical colleges, and providing that charges against physicians shall be tried in ordinary courts like ordinary Ald Parnell and Ald. Carrothers Have a Disagreement.

Charges Made Against the Secretary of the L. and P. S. R. Board,

But Not Proven-No Street Cars on Sun day-Large Deputation Waits on the Council-The Street Watering Question-Bylaws, Etc.

The regular meeting of the city fathers last night was not as peaceful as the other sessions which have been hold since Mayor Little's entry to office. About 10:45 a storm broke over the chamber and it lasted nearly half an hour. Ald. Parnell was the by Aid. Carrothers and it came about in this way: Ald. Parnell is secretary of the a report which he read reference was made to the "grab" by which some of last year's directors voted themselves various sums of money. The report also stated the sums which had been paid as directors' fees, etc., for years past. When the statement was presented, Ald. Carrothers thing that he had been served with a notice to attend a meeting of the board at 7:30, when it was held at 3:30 p.m. Ald. Carrothers made other accusations, but they appeared to fall flat, as Ald. Parnell disproved them then and there.

Then a large and influential deputation of clergymen and others paid a visit to the chamber in reference to prohibiting the running of Sunday street cars should an electric franchise be given. No cars will

When the council opened and Ald. Armstrong had been voted to preside in the absence of Mayor Little, Ald. Powell rose to a question of privilege and asked whether or not he was entitled to sit on the board. He had seen the report in last night's "Advertiser" stating that he had therefore trust you will prevent any been unseated.

City Clerk Kingston had received no official notice to that effect, and Ald. Powell was entitled to take his seat. The judgment had been given in Toronto yesterday, and sufficient time had not elapsed to forward mail to this city.

The members present were Ald. John Heaman, Brener, Jones, Powell, Carrothers, Armstrong, Callahan, Garratt, Ardill, Nutkins, O'Meara, Wm. Heaman, Pritchard, Weld, McCallum, Parnell, Dreaney. Ald, Skinner was absent

Ald. Parnell, secretary of the Port Stanley board, presented a report, in which was given an account of the proceedings taken against certain of last year's directors for their famous "grab." The correspondence (as already published) was also read. Ald. Parnell stated that the grab was not valid until objection to any information that can be secured from the minutes—it does not alter the fact one whit as regards these particular payments. The whole thing was shown up by the auditors.

Ald. Garratt—I mean to infer that if there was an irregularity last year there

Ald. Parnell said the object of the report was to see whether the council would carry out the resolution of the Port Stanley board to collect the Ald. Garratt—Why should we pick out the board of last year? Let us go back over past years.

"How far," asked Ald. Armstrong.
"To 1869," answered Ald. Garratt.
ALD. CARROTHERS GOT MAD. Ald. Carrothers, who participated in the grab to the tune of $50, took the floor and made a bitter attack on Ald. Par-nell on the grounds that the latter did not bring in a report of the moneys paid out in past years. Ald. Carrothers also complained that he had been notified to attend the meeting (when the resolution was passed) at 7:30 p.m., when it was really held at 3:30 p.m. "There is no honor in him," said Ald. Carrothers, in referring to Ald. "There is no honor in him," said

Ald. Parnell—I defy Ald. Carrothers to produce it. The figures were altered.
Ald. Carrothers—I can produce it

"I think Ald. Carrothers should produce the notice when he makes a direct charge," said Ald. Armstrong.

Ald. Parnell—If Ald. Carrothers produce the notice he will find that the hour was 3:30. I say it is a crying disgrace when an alderman gets up and makes such statements when the report is given as honestly as anything can be. I claim a little common sense. I spent three days going over the books to get these facts, and comply with the resolution to the best of my knowledge.

CHARGES ARE FALSE in the extreme. I have no axe to grind, and then to be practically called a blackleg is unfair and unmanly. If Ald. Carrothers wants to do me justice he will retract his statements.

Ald. Jones said the charges were most unjust. Ald. Carrothers-You have no right to say so.
Ald. Jones said he was making the assertion from the language used by Ald. Carrothers. "I am sure," said Ald. Jones, "that Ald. Parnell had no thought of Ald. Carrothers or any other man when he brought in the report." Ald. Jones said that if there was any possibility of doing so, the men who worked on the road last summer should be paid.

This end the debate.
Ald. Carrothers and Garratt moved that all payments made to any officer or director of the road since 1872 be collected by order of the council, and that the books and documents of the company be placed at the disposal of the solicitor for that purpose.

NO SUNDAY STREET CARS. A large deputation representing the ministerial and other local associations, waited upon the council in reference to running cars on Sunday in case an electric franchise should be given to the street railway company. The deputation comprised: The Bishop of waxed very warm and asserted among other Huron, Revs. W. J. Clark, Thomas Cullen, B. Clement, J. R. Gundy, Messrs. Wm. Bowman, Dr. Arnott, Jas. H. Bowman, W. H. Wortman, C. R. Sayer, J. G. Shuff, Mrs. May R. Thornley, Mrs. Dixon and others.

The Bishop of Huron said: "We wish most respectfully, but very earnestly, to request the council to refuse any permission for the running of cars on Sunday. We are not here to plead for some institution which is novel, but for the sanctity of the Lord's Day, which is the oldest institution we have in the world. We trust that in our good city the sanctity of and holiness of this day will be maintained. We consider your body as the guardian in a municipal light of the keeping of the Sabbath, and we also consider that no interests of commerce or business can be para-mount to the sanctity of this one day of seven in which we have to rest. We infraction, as a corporation, of the sanctities of the day of rest." With regard to the utility of such steps, the bishop stated it was often regarded as in the interests of church-going people to run the cars; but he was sure the people of London would prefer being left as they were today. The city was not so large that the people required street cars to reach the churches, and if the prosperity of the city was desired, and if they wished to see it advance in everything good, and honorable and true, it would not be done by advancing the interests of commerce before those of religion.

Rev. W. J. Clark also spoke. The aim the deputation was for the good of the city as a whole. There were several reasons why it was thought wise to make the presentation of the case. Mr. Clark referred to the attempt made in Hamilton to run cars on Sunday, and it was merely the wish of the deputation to prevent any such state of affairs in London.

Rev. R. J. Gundy, on behalf of the Methodist Ministerial Association, spoke briefly and presented a resolution passed by that body opposing Sunday cars. The request of the deputation was granted and referred to No. 1 committee for insertion in the agreement between the council and the street railway company. ASKING FOR ASSISTANCE.

Col. Lewis and Wm. Harvey appeared as a deputation from the Mechanics' Institute. Col. Lewis was chief spokesman, and he referred to the petition from the institute board asking that the regular sum of $250 be granted for the past quarter. The matter had come before the council and it was decided not to make the usual grant. The institute was not now self-sustaining, and the board was not intending to ask for further help. A communication was read from Secretary Harvey asking for the grant.

Ald. Dreaney moved that it be sent to "Excuse me," said Ald. J. W. Jones, but the matter was before No. 1 already. I move that the sum be granted. We should keep faith with the Mechanics' Institute, as they have kept their rooms open to the public. This is the last grant that they will ask for."

Ald. Carrothers and Ald. Powell signified that they were going to vote for the grant-there and then. The question was referred to No. 1 committee. R. D. A. Hillyer, on behalf of Loyal Orange County Lodge, asked for the use of the fair grounds on July 12, as an Orange demonstration was to be held there. Granted. Dr. Balfour recommended that Mrs.

Lambert and Elizabeth Edwards be removed from the City Hospital to the Aged People's Home. Referred to the THE STREET WATERING TROUBLE

No. 3 committee's report recommended that Engineer Graydon's suggestion to water all the streets within a certain area be adopted. "I would like to know on what plan of payment?" asked Ald. Dreaney.

"The frontage plan," replied Ald. "Well, I will have to fight against that," was Ald. Nutkins' rejoinder. "I do not believe in making people pay for what they do not want. Ald. Jones agreed with Ald. Nutkins, while Ald. Parnell expressed his opposition to any street watering being paid for out of the general fund.

Ald. Powell here presented a petition from Geo. T. Hiscox, W. T. Edge, W. F. Bullen and others, objecting against the watering of William street from Dundas street to Dufferin avenue. The signers of the petition thought that as a matter of courtesy the engineer should have consulted them before including the street in the area. Ald. Powell read the new area which it was proposed to water.

Ald. Jones moved that the area of last year be adopted for this year, and that any further watering be petitioned for by ratepayers. The clause was adopted.

Another clause recommended that Gavin Park be allowed to build an addition to his stall in the market house. dition to his stall in the market house. Ald. Jones and Ald. Carrothers stated that at the first opportunity they would vote to wipe the place out. Ald. Carrothers wanted to increase the rent of tenants in the market house 100 per cent. Ald. "RINGING IN" POLITICS.

Ald. Wm. Heaman read No. 2 committee's report. It recommended on Mayor Little's message re vaults and changes in the City Hall, that tenders be called for the work.

Ald. Pritchard opposed the clause.

Sunday in Toronto, and the heavy loss sustained through the loss of the herd books alone.
"That was Mowat's fault," was Ald.

Pritchard's interruption. Ald. Parnell—Now, Mr. Chairman, I think this is improper. It is unfair to ring politics into this matter, is it not?" "I think it is," said Ald. Armstrong. Ald. O'Meara and Jones supported the clause.

Ald. Powell asked the city clerk where his papers were kept.
"All over the office," replied Mr.

Kingston. "I have an old iron safe there, but if I lock it I cannot open it again. It was filled to overflowing long ago. Bylaws are kept in a tin box." Ald. Carrothers was opposed to laying out any more money on the hall. Ald. O'Meara said Ald. Carrothers had complained about heavy taxation this year, but still in a few years he wanted to heap a tremendous expenditure on the city.

Ald. Garratt wanted the plans referred back to No. 2, to allow of en-larging the proposed vaults. He moved accordingly.

The motion was lost, and it was decided to call for tenders on the following division: Yeas-Ald. John Heaman, Brener, O'Meara, Jones, Powell, Wm. Heaman, Callahan, Nutkins, Parnell, McCallum-10. MOUNET-SULLY.

The features of Mounet-Sully are familiar o Canadians, as the great actor, during his American tour, played to delighted audiences in this country. Mounet-Sully mimics the passions to the life, and there is a subtlety, an intellectuality in his delineations which places him in the front rank of great players. Mounet-Sully is a patron of the famous "Vin Mariani," and it is thus that great actor speaks of it:—"When we drink it, we sing, are gay, we love, we dream of the future, of glory, of the infinite. In fact, nothing can be better for strengthening than 'Vin Mariani.'" And this is the universal testimony, that this famous tonic coca wine nourishes and strengthens when all else fails, building up the nervous and debilitated system, driving away the blues and all despondency, and giving a new lease of life to those who were disposed to cultivate a morbid pessimism. If you desire to know something about the celebrated persons who have spoken admiringly of "Vin Mariani," send your name to Lawrence A. Wilson & Co., Montreal, and they will send you an album containing their portraits, free.

Hyman was nominated by the Liberals of London with a unanimity which foreshadows that his majority of 183, at the last General Election, will be at least doubled. No more united body of representative citizens has ever assembled in the city of London than that which placed Mr. Hyman in nomination for the ensuing contest. There was no bitterness of spirit exhibited, no evidences of internecine strife such as characterized the gathering of their opponents, a few evenings since, when the leading spirit in the convention carried his point by threatening to knife anyone who might be nominated if he did not meet his approval. The reason is not far to seek. The friends of trade freedom, of honest government, of fair treatment to all classes in the community, do not have one policy in November and another in March. Their policy, as Liberals, is characterized by consistency, whether it relates to Provincial or to Dominion campaigns. This is the reason why the majority for Mr. Hobbs was 803. This is the reason for the unanimity with which they have again nominated the victor of 1891 and 1892. They know that in Mr. Hyman they have an able and an upright representative citizen, who, like his father before him, has a warm affection for the welfare of his native city, to the development of the manufacturing and commercial interests of which he has devoted, and is now devoting, his time and talents. Under all the circumstances, one does not wonder at the good spirit, the absence of all rancor, that charaterized the convention which placed Mr. Hyman in the This is an admirable inauguration of the campaign. Mr. Sharpe, who was nominated by the Conservatives of Bothwell to oppose Hon. David Mills, M.P., at the ensuing general election, has published a letter withdrawing from the contest. In declining to face Mr. Mills, the old and tried representative of the constituency, gerrymandered and ungerrymandered, Mr. Sharpe displays shrewdness and good sense. It would save the Conservatives of Bothwell needless trouble and expense, as well as be a graceful acknowledgment of the services of Mr. Mills to the State, if they were to consent to the election of the veteran statesman without opposition.

MRS. DICK'S DEATH

She Carried $19,000 Insurance and Her Husband $27,000

TORONTO, March 5.-An inquest was opened Tuesday afternoon on the body of Mrs. Dick, the woman who was burned to death on Saturday morning by the burning of her house. It was shown that the deceased carried $19,000 insurance. There was a theory in the minds of some that the husband had not exerted himself to save his wife. It transpired, however, that the husband also carried an insurance of $27,000 and that he is not a beneficiary by the will of his wife, the money going to one of the children, who is also insured.

The premiums on the combined policies amount to $900 a year, and the family lived in a house rented at $6 per month. The family, however, were possessed of some means. The policies had all been taken out within the last eighteen months. The inquest was adjourned.

Going to Marry a Foreigner-A British

M. P.

CHICAGO, March 5 .- Miss Mary Leiter, whose engagement to George W. Curzon, M.P., eldest son of Lord Scarsdale, is announced, will be married in the Letter Washington residence in April. She has been absent from Chicago so long that the news of her engagement created little gossip here. She is 28 years of age, an heiress to millions, and has spent nearly ten years abroad. Her father said: "We have known Mr. Curzon for some years. He has traveled everywhere and so had my daughter. Being a literary man and having written several books of travel, a congenial comradeship sprang up between the two. The wedding will be celebrated at our Washington residence early in the spring. It will be a quiet wedding."

Local tuft hunters have already traced the Curzon family to France prior to the time of Charlemagne. MCKEE RANKIN MADE A HIT.

He Assumed the Role of Lawyer and Won His Case. KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 5 .-- Mc-Kee Rankin, the actor, yesterday entered a new role, that of lawyer, and made a hit. It was in the case of Proprietor Criley, of the Centropolis Hotel, who on Wednesday night had Rankin and four members of his company arrested, charged with evading the pay-ment of a board bill.

In Justice Krueger's court yesterday Rankin appeared as his own lawyer, and successfully combatted Prosecutor Attorney Lathy on every point presented. His argument was short, but convincing, and when he concluded no evidence of intended fraud having been shown, the case was promptly dismissed and the costs ordered assessed against the complainant. Later in the day he commenced suit for $10,000 for defamation of character.

DEADLY NATURAL GAS

Causes Great Destruction in Indiana-Fatalities Feared.

ANDERSON, Ind., March 5 .- The most destructive natural gas explosion in this territory of the Indiana gas belt occurred here this morning. A $75,000 business block on the Court House Square was blown over all the central part of the city. In the building were the "When" clothing stores, Prather's shoe store, Hadley's shoe store and others. Fire followed the explosion which was like an earthquake and the remains of the debris began burning fiercely. The entire fire department was called out and prevented the fire from reaching the new court house.

Attorney Ballard and County Commissioner Metcalf lived in the rooms above the "When" store, and it is feared they have perished. The loss on the building and contents is total, and will reach $400,000. The fronts of all the business houses in the neighborhood of the explosion were demolished, paved streets ripped open, and telephone cables torn down.

AT WESTMINSTER RINK. The attraction at the Westminster Rink last night was the three-mile skating race between Charles Griffith and Bert Thomas, both of this city. At 8:15 they lined up and started, Thomas leading all the way through the race, closely followed by Griffith, but in the 40th lap the latter had the misfortune to strike the side of the rink, but quickly regained his place. Thomas, however, won, with Griffith second. The ice was in good condition and a large crowd were present. The Italian harpers, under the leadership of Mr. Tony Cortesi, furnished enjoyable music. The time for the race was 10:43. THE TURF.

SALT RHEUM CURED.

A Lady Who Has Suffered Much Tells

How She Found a Cure. Among the numerous ills that afflict mankind there is none more annoying or more difficult to eradicate from the system than salt rheum. Those who suffer from it really endure tortures and frequently present the appearance of a mass of sores about the head and hands. Mrs. John Mosher, of Mosher's Corners, N. S., suffered for two years in this way, and almost despaired of geting rid of the trouble. She says that for over a year she was under the care of a physician, but beyond letions that somewhat allayed the irritation, found no relief. The trouble affected her in the head, which would at times be covered with little sores, the appearance of which not only caused intense annovance, but great discomfort as well. as the irritation was sometimes unbearable. Finding that the treatment she was receiving from her physician was not having any beneficial results she determined to discontinue it and give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. By the time two boxes were used there was a great improvement in her condition. The irritation was allayed and the sores began to heal and disappear. She continued the use of Pink Pills until she had used two more boxes, when the trouble had completely disappeared, and although months have now elapsed since she discontinued the use of Pink Pills there has not been the faintest trace of a return of the trouble. Mrs. Mosher is naturally very much elated over the great benefit she has derived from the use of Pink Pills, and is loud in her praises of this greatest of all modern diseases. The experience of years has proved that there is absolutely no disease due to a vitiated condition of the blood that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will not promptly cure, and those who are suffering from such troubles would avoid much misery and save money by promptly resorting to this treatment. Get the genuine Pink Pills every time and do not be persuaded to take an imitation or some other remedy a dealer, for the sake of extra profit to him-self, may say is "just as good." Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure when other medicines fail.

Queen Victoria has received from the Chinese ambassador a beautiful satin scroll worked with gold and silver and bearing Chinese characters. This scroll was sent to her Majesty by the Dowager Empress of China in acknowlegment of Queen Victoria's gifts to the Dow-ager Empress on the occasion of the latter's birthday. Tuesday the Queen and the court were present at a performance of Deliber's "Le Roi la Dit" by the students of the Royal College of Music in the Waterloo chamber of Windsor Castle.

DEARLY BOUGHT EXPERIENCE. LONDON, March 4.-Mr. Astor, it is reported, intends winding up all three of his newspaper properties-The Pall Mall Gazette, Magazine and Budget—selling Cliveden and his London leases, and returning to America. He paid a quarter of a million dollars for the Gazette alone. He has recently offered it for sale, with the other two thrown in, for $200,000, but failing to find purchasers, or even bidders at their own price, decided to put an end to them. Two million dollars is mentioned as the round sum that his experience as a publisher cost him.

THE BALTIC CANAL.

LONDON, March 4.—Unparalleled preparations are making for naval and other ceremonies with which the Baltic Ship Canal is to be opened in June. All the other great powers have notified their intention to send squadrons, but the reply of France to the invitation is still delayed, as a small and noisy section of the Parisian press is clamoring for its rejection. The fact of this begins to attract notice, but it can hardly be possible that France will take a step which would so completely put celebration after the election which her outside of the conventions of international amity.

IRISH MUSIC.

It is proposed to hold in Dublin at an early date a national musical festival to be called by the appropriate Irish name of "feis." The objects of the "feis" are ambitious to give the public a chance of hearing Irish music and particularly the old tunes interpreted in accordance with the traditional manner of performance; to encourage the publication of old Irish airs now in music or not yet scored; to perform songs in the Gaelic tongue and to stimulate the formation of a new Irish school of composers, as national in their art as Dvorak or Greig. A committee of Irish musicians with Dr. Villiers Standford at its head and composed of members of the National Liteary Society and the Gaelic League has been formed and is vigorously pushing the enterprise.

THEY KNOW HOW TO SHIRK. LONDON, March 4.-The Opposition shirked a division on the first reading of the Welsh Church Disestablishment Bill for much the same reasons, and will not take a vote on the similar stage of the Irish Land Bill. There is no reason now why anything out of the ordinary should happen in politics till after the Easter holidays. There is some private talk of raising a question about the appointment of Sir Hercules Robinson to the Governorship of Cape Colony again. He retired from the same post six years ago on the ground of advancing years. He had been a good friend te Cecil Rhodes while in office, and since his return has been one of the principal directors of the associated Rhode enterprises here. His appointment now means nothing more than complete surrender to Rhodes. There is much indignation expressed, but the is much indignation expressed, but the Rhodesian interests are too strong on both sides of the House of Commons to make Parliamentary intervention likely. Moreover, although officials are very reticent on this point, it is an open secret that Cecil Rhodes in his last two visits to England said in substance that the moment the Govern stance that the moment the Government seriously incommoded him or obstructed his work united South Africa would throw British suzerainty to the Right Hon. John Morley, Chief Secretary for Ireland, introduced the Irish Land Bill. In his remarks Mr. Morley said he believed that the purchase of heldings was the ultimate solution of holdings was the ultimate solution of the land question in Ireland, but universal compulsory purchase would take more than one generation to effect. In the meantime a modus vivendi must be found. Mr. Morley, continuing, said that the foundation of the bill was the principle of protecting the tenant in the ciple of protecting the tenant in the ownership of improvements. Henceforth only the tenant would receive the benefit of the improvement he had made upon his holding, as the landlord would not be allowed to charge rent for improvements. Fair rents would be fixed every ten years, instead of every fifteen as at present. Within the next two years all arrears due, he said, might be recovered, but after the expiration of that time the landlord could not requestions in regard to evicted tenants, Mr. Morley said, would be met by reenacting the 13th section of the act of 1891, giving voluntary reinstatement enacting the 1stn section of the act of 1891, giving voluntary reinstatement—not compulsory—in cases where the present occupants are unwilling to terminate their tenancies. He concluded norther by saying that the Government had land ar Ontario, the passion of the act of land ar Ontario, the passion of the act of land ar Ontario, the passion of the act of land ar Ontario, the passion of the act of land ar Ontario, the passion of the act of land ar Ontario, the passion of the act of land ar Ontario, the passion of the act of land are land

"I will accept the Liberal nomination, but only upon two conditions. The one has already been complied with, and that is that it be unanimous. Surely, sir, no more unanimous a nomination could be made. The other is, and I think that this has probably practically also been complied with, that in the well considered opinion of the majority of the Liberals of this city your humble servant is the man best calculated to carry your standard, and most likely to bring victory to the flag. Remember, wir, that atter all this fight is a fight that is higher than any personal being; it is a fight that is of more importance than the person of any candidate. And I care not who the candidate may be upon the Conservative side, or who the candidate may be upon the Liberal side, I say there are questions materially affecting the wellfare of the people of Lendon, and this country, that make them of vastly more importance than the elevation of any particular individual to the honorable position to which any man might aspire. I hope and trust and know that you have considered well notwithstanding the fact that we read in the Free Press of late that Mr. Hyman was not a "possible" candidate. They did not say why he was not a possible candi-They say he is not a possible candidate, but sir, netwithstanding that fact I have to thank the Liberals of London for their unanimity, for the generous and kind treatment which they have accorded me- Anr I trust and hope that now nor at any future time will I prove that I am not

WORTHY OF TRUST: I shall labor hard from this day until the day of election to bring victory. But, as other speakers have reminded you, after all the labors of a candidate are but puny. There must be behind him the labor and support of every man in the party. I well know what that means in London. Upon several occasions heretofore I have been so supported and I know from the feeling that exists tonight that I have behind me the committees ready, willing and desirous to work in their old hearty way; to make sacrifices if necessary so long as they are called upon to make them for the Liberal cause of London. (Cheers.) "I might remind you," said Mr. Hyman. in conclusion, "that you have to contend with men who are well posted in all kinds of political artifice. You will have to be careful of them. I have no doubt that they will use weapons that are fair and I know that if the opportunity occurs at least they will use weapons that are unfair. You will have to be watchful, and if you are and fight manfully, we will have a that has taken place heretefore. You should be 'wise as serpents and harmless as doves.' But I might even translate it more literally, as did the old Highlander, and leave it with you, namely: that you be 'as innecent like birds, as cute like snakes.' " (Great cheering.)

THE NOMINATION UNANIMOUS. The chairman then put the question of Mr. Hyman's nomination, and every man

rose and cheered. Mr. Hyman, upon being tendered the unanimous nomination of the convention. expressed his heartfelt gratitude to the party. Words, he said, were inadequate to voice his feelings. He trusted the contest would not be a personal one, but would be fought upon principle and with-out bitterness. After the election he hoped both parties would settle down and unite in advancing the material interests of the city.

Rousing cheers for Hyman, Hobbs, Laurier and Mowat closed the meeting.

ORANGE FAMINE IN FLORIDA. Not a Box of Prime Fruit Can be Had in the State.

POMONA, Cal., March 4.—"This is a literal illustration of sending coals to Newcastle," said Manager Collins, of the San Antonio fruit exchange of Pomona, in referring to the first of a series of carloads of oranges that was started for St. Augustine, Fla. Ald. Frank Hewson arrived from Windsor today to be present at the inquest to-night. Mr. Wm. Hewson is also expected from Jarvis. There are no new developments in the case today although it is hinted that the point as to whether or not Hewson had money on deposit will be cleared up tonight. Hewson will be represented by counsel. Men at the barracks who have seen the picture shown by deceased to Mrs. Weston as his wife claim that it is a photograph of Hewson's eldest sister. It has been stated that the freight train on which two tramps are supposed to have arrived reached the East End yards just fifteen minutez before the tragedy. It is learned on good authority that the train arrived at 10:40, over an the main line and not on a side track where he met his death. Strangers would most

Chief Justice Armour was the presiding judge at the weekly sitting of the High Court this morning. The case against Ald. O. E. Brener, of No. 1 ward, was set for argument, but was adjourned for a week to allow the relator to serve an amended notice, the first one being quashed. Tuke vs. Crawford, was an application to compel the police magistrate to give certificate of dismissal of the first three cases laid against Drivers Tuke, Rockett and Stevenson, of the street railway for cruelty to animals and also for a further order prohibiting the magistrate and Sergt. Crawford from proceeding with the last three informations laid against the same men for a similar offense. The ground taken was that having been once before the magistrate the officers had no right to deal with the second batch. Hellmuth for the street railway company drivers; Meredith for Crawford, and J. B. McKillop for the police magistrate. Judgment reserved. In Shea vs. Mitchell, Mr. H. Cronyn received an order for the construction of the will of a man named Shea. Proposed Market Changes. No. 3 committee (Ald. Powell chairman) paid a visit to the market and fire hall yesterday afternoon, and as a re-sult of their tour of inspection they will recommend some changes. They propose that the space between the Covent Garden and the market bazar shall be put to better use than a mere tethering ground for the delivery wagons of butchers and many city grocers. Onehalf of the space at the east side of the meat market only will be allowed for delivery wagons, the committeemen claiming that little enough rent is paid for the stalls, and it does not entitle the tenants to so much valuable outside space as so many of them claim. The east verandah will be fitted up for the use of basket women, as the west is at present, and one-half of the space under the east veranda will be allowed the market gardeners. It is also proposed to place a sidewalk along the outside of the stalls now occupied by green grocers at the west side of the bazar. This space will be subserved to the use of either the florists or the market gardeners, as the committee that fit. At the Central Fire Hall an effort will be made to have closets erected so that the firemen can take care of their clothes. An effort will also be made to make the beds more comfortable. At present 6 feet 2 inch men have to rest on 5 feet 10 inch cots, which is not at all pleasant. The committee will make definite plans at a future meeting. SHILOH'S VITALIZER. Mrs. T. S. Hawkins, Chattanoga. Tenn., says: "Shiloh's Vitalizer "SAVED MY LIFE."

For That Tired Feeling:

(CEYLON TEA)

Morning, Noon and Night.

Lead packets-All grocers.

Yes, I know that; but-you are not

'No, I am afraid of nothing-neither life nor death—now. And I would have died, if I might have chosen—died gladly! to have been for this one year—this one happy year—my Roderick's wife, and—his child's

There was such a rapture in her face, that whatever dread her words might have aroused in him sunk down. It was one of those supreme moments when two who are wholly united, as these were, feel that no real parting is possible, that 'whatever happens'—as people say — they are one through all eternity.

"Hush!" Roderick said at last, in a broken voice. "God knows best. Let us leave it all." And then taking her in-doors, he declared that the first of January was no time for moonlight rambies, and that he should abolish them altogether till the summer Which seemed a long way off now; for not unusual in the north,

"As the days lengthened," So the cold strengthened."

and a long frost and snow shut up Silence entirely within her own peaceful home. A dull time to most people; but nothing ever seemed to make her dull. Not even when, for some weeks after Bella's departure, her husband was restless and troubled, evidently expecting some news which never came. One formal letter of thanks, announcing her safe arrival, a month after date, but ex-plaining nothing further, was all Mrs. Alexander Thomson vouchsafed to her brother and sister. She never mentioned her mother at all.

"Evidently Blackhall is tabooed," said he with a bitter laugh. "Never mind, my darling. Let us give it up, and not vex our-selves about the inevitable."

And by that she knew how, until this moment, he had not given it up; had never ceased to hope and crave for something the one blessing which no man gets twice in a life-time. He may have as many wives and children as fate allows; he never can have two mothers.

But-and some mothers would do well to remember this-when a man has a wife and his home, his interests and his work, he does not mourn eternally; as Roderick said he 'accepts the inevitable,' and turns his mind to other things. Though the young Jardines had a shut-up and rather lonely life, it was anything but an idle one. The novel came back once more-alas! his torical novels always do come back nowadays-but the 'solid' article did not, until it had become transmuted into a bundle of those delightful proof-sheets which raise into the seventh heaven of happiness young authors, and even old authors can hardly see, without a certain thrill of pleasure, a faint reflection of the time when, as now

"The world was all before them, which to Reason their guard and Providence their guide."

And both reason and Providence seemed to have taken in charge this young author. Roderick had 'no nonsense about him.' He did not start in literature with a picturesque and imaginative view of his own deservings, and how they were to be appreciated; he worked heartily at whatever came to his hand to do, and consequently he did good work. It might not have been the highest work, or the utmost he was capable of doing -Silence often thought so. She copied his MSS., taught herself to criticise them fairly to see all the faults she could, "in order to prevent the world from seeing them," as she one day said.

"You see, dear, if you had been killed, I would much rather kill you myself than let another person do it."

At which he laughed heartily and sub-mitted to all fault-finding and subsequent correction with the best grace in the world.
"Who knows! Such a severe domestic critic ought to make me a celebrated author in no time. Ithink I will begin another magnum opus-not a novel, though; and by working at all my leisure moments I may finish it before the year is out."

"Before the year is out," repeated Silence softly. "Yes, yes; but will you not begin it now?"

And she not only got him to begin it, but she kept him steadily at it, copying in the mornings what he wrote over night, and arranging all that he had to 'read up,' according to his literary friend's orders, so as to give him the least trouble possible. It was hard work, but the mill-work happened to be slack just then, and Mr. Black was very kind and friendly—touchingly so. And thus, from day to day, Roderick's time was kept full, and his mind also. He never spoke of his mother at all now, yet he was neither dull nor melancholy. It is a remarkable fact, which people who desire to punish other people, deservedly or undeservedly, would do well to remember that the sharpest pain can not last forever, and that a young couple, thoroughly happy in each other, will remain happy in spite of all their affectionate relatives, who think they ought to be miserably. Ay, and in spite of many outside things that might have been hard in later years; but youth is the time to fight with fate—youth with its infinite courage, its eternal hope.

Working at the mill all day, writing his book at night, with little society, for the Symingtons had gone into Edinburg, with no relaxation except the daily walk "between the lights," which his wife insisted upon, Roderick had yet, he declared, never a happier three months. And he spent a happier three months. And he looked so well, too, for it is not work that kills, but worry; foolish ambitions, unsatisfied cravings, jarred tempers, stinging remorse or unrepented sin. Not mere sorrow; that can be borne. Both of these had known orrow-she especially-but there was a holy serenity now, even when one day she spoke of that grave at Neuchatel.

"Sophie Reynier sent me these violets from it. She says they are having such a lovely spring. And so are we. Just look in buds already. And only listen, Roderick, how that mavis is singing?"

They were walking up and down the sheltered kitchen garden—lovely, though it was a kitchen garden, with its walks bordered by flowers. sweet-fashioned perennials by flowers, sweet-fashioned perennials which sprung up year by year, not disdaining the neighborhood of the vegetables, but growing together, each after its kind, in happy union. "Like yer and your poor folk," Roderick once said, noticing how everybody loved her and did her honor-maid-servants, milk-girls, all the people of the place. "They are so kind. I have such a happy life," was all the young mistress answered. And her fair, pale face bent down over her flowers, and up again to her budding apple blossoms and her tail forest trees, now growing full of nest building birds.

"That mavis, I have watched him this week past. I am sure he has a young family somewhere near. And he sings—how he does sing!-in the top of that sycamore. He began the very day after they planted out the hyacinths in my garden under my

This too, was a labor of love, arranged surreptitiously between Mr. Black and his old gardener-a little mathematical diagram of beds, with grass lawn between, in which had sprung up, as if by magic, successions of spring flowers, snowdrops, crocuses, hepaticas. Now, April being come, even in the dear Scotch climate, the sunshine was strengthening and the garden brightening every week.

"I shall have a beautiful nosegay present-" she said; "just in time for my wedding-

He had almost forgotten it-the villain. He could hardly believe he had been mar-ried a year. And yet it felt sometimes as if they had been married all their lives, so completely had they grown into one another. It was only by an effort that either could recall their old selves, in the days when they were apart.

"That sunset"—they were watching it from a favorite seat she had—a summerhouse, warm and dry, facing the soughwest, and looking down the winding glen toward the collection builden by trees, only present the summer of the collection of the soughwest. the mill, waich, hidden by trees, only presented a few chimney-tops, and that fairy-like column of whitesmoke, unobjectionable to even the most aesthetic eyes—"that sun-set," she said, "it makes the whole sky 'colorize,' as we used to say in Switzerland. Do you remember the Jungfrau and the Alpes Bernoises from Lausanne? Oh, my land! it is a heavenly land! I can never forget it. But this is my home.

She had been speaking French for a wonder; they had dropped almost entirely into English now, even when together, but she said 'home'—that one dear word which we Britons specially have-with an intenation inexpressible but unmistakable. All her heart had settled into her husband's country. "Thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God."

Never, though Roderick Jardine may live to see thousands of sunsets, will he forget this one, nor his wife's face as she looked at it, watching it till the very last glow had died away. Then she arose.

"Now let us go in, dear." "Are you tired?"
"I think so." Leaning heavily on his arm she went indoors; but she sat up sewing till her usual time, and rose as usual when, at a specially early hour-for he happened to have a long and busy day before him—he went off to the mill.
