BARBARIANS SINK CANADIAN HOSPITAL SHIP OFF IRELAND; 24 SAVED OF 258 ABOARD, 14 NURSES AMONGST MISSING

Llandovery Castle, Bound From Canada to England, Torpedoed Without Warning—Medical Staff and the Crew Suffer Heavy Losses —No Wounded Aboard.

London, July 2.—One of the boats of the hospital ship Llandovery Castle, containing twelve nursing sisters, was seen to capsize, according to latest information. The sisters were drowned.

London, July 1.—A German submarine, 70 miles from the Irish coast, on the night of June 27, torpedoed the 11,000-ton hospital ship Llandovery Castle, which had been chartered by the Canadian Government and had been in the service of carrying wounded and sick from England to Canada for many months past. The ship was then on her way to England. She had on board 258 persons, including 80 men of the Canadian Army Medical Corps and 14 female nurses.

Up to the latest reports, only 24 of those on board, including the captain, have survived the treacherous attack, which came without warning.

Carried No Wounded.

The text of the admiralty report follows:

"About 10:30 o'clock on June 27, 70 miles southwest of Fastnet, the hospital ship Llandovery Castle was torpedoed by an enemy submarine and sunk in about ten minutes. She was homeward bound from Canada and therefore there were no sick or wounded on board, but her crew consisted of 164 officers and men, and she carried 80 Canadian Army Medicals and 14 female nurses.

Only 28 Survivors?

"Of this total of 250 only one boat containing 24 survivors has so far reached port. Search still is being made and there is a bare possibility that others may yet be found.

"It is to be noted that in this, as indeed in all other instances, the German submarine had a perfect right to stop and search the hospital ship under the Hague convention, but she preferred to torpedo the Llandovery Castle."

Subsequently the admiralty issued the following comment on the sinking:

Awful Tale of Crime.

"Germany's awful debt to the world continues to grow. Another hospital ship has been torpedoed, this time 70 miles from the nearest land, and her people turned adrift in their boats to sink or swim as they best might. And though, as it happened, she was a Canadian hospital ship returning from Halifax with no wounded on board, the tale of crime reveals a wanton deliberation on the part of the submarine commander, and almost suggests the hope on his part that he would find her full of injured and helpless men."

The Llandovery Castle was 11,423 tons, and was built at Glasgow in 1914, for the Union-Castle Mail Steamship service. The ship was 500 feet long, 63 feet beam and 37 feet deep.

The Pirate's Reasons.

The submarine commander, who ordered the captain of the Llelandovery Castle, several of his officers, and Major T. Lyon of the Medical Corps aboard, declared that he had sunk the ship because she was carrying Canadian aviation officers and others in the fighting service of the Allies. He added to this later by asserting that the vessel was carrying munitions, because of an explosion which had occurred aft.

All lights were burning when the Llelandovery Castle was torpedoed. These included a huge electric cross over the bridge and strings of white and green lights on either side. The Red Cross on the sides of the vessel also was illuminated by electric lights.

It is assumed that the fourteen

LOST SHIP WAS STAFFED FROM THE OTHER SIDE

Ottawa, July 2.—The list of names of those Canadians who were on board the hospital ship Llandovery Castle, which was torpedoed by a German submarine on the night of June 27, will probably have to be obtained from the military authorities overseas. Inquiries at the militia department here elicited the information that the ship was staffed from the other side and that, as far as known, there is no list of those who were on board in Canada. At the naval department it was said that the crew of the vessel would be furnished by the owners, and therefore the Canadian naval authorities would have no list of the names of the men comprising it.

MOST OF MEDICAL AND NURSING STAFF ARE FROM CANADA.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, July 2.—Ottawa has no information whatever regarding the personnel of the crew and medical and nursing staff of the ill-fated hospital ship, Llandovery Castle, which was torpedoed off the Irish coast by a German submarine. Gen. Ashton, A.G., declared this morning that while the names of all patients traveling to Canada on hospital ships are cabled to Canada, the staffs are appointed by the overseas ministry and the names are not necessarily communicated to the Canadian department.

It is believed that the crew is largely British, but that most of the medical and nursing staff are Canadians The names, however, are not known, since the personnel of hospital ships change from time to time

"I have cabled for a full list of crew and staff of the Llandovery Castle," said Gen Ashton this morning, "also for a list of the survivors"

PARTIAL LIST OF MED. STAFF

Halifax, July 2.—No official list of the officers, nurses, N. C. O.'s and men of the Camadian Army Medical Corps who were on board the torpedoed hospital ship Llandovery Castle is available here. All the appointments were made by the C. A. M. C. administration in England. Capt. Sheffield, a member of the steamer's hospital staff, who did not sail on this trip on account of illness, today furnished the Canadian Press with the following partial list of the officers and nurses on board:

Major MacDonald, New Glasgow, senior medical officer; Major Davis, Welland, Ont.; Major Lyons, Edinburgh, Scotland; Capt. Leonard, graduate of Toronto Medical College; Capt. Gills, Queen's University, Kingston; Nursing Sister Stamer, St. John, N. B.; Nursing Sister Gallagher, Ottawa.

All the officers mentioned had served in France, with the exception of Major Lyons, who had been previously in Saloniki.

STRIKES PROHIBITED FOR PERIOD OF WAR BY MARINE ENGINEERS

Washington, D. C., July 2.—Strikes are prohibited for the period of the war, under an agreement reached between the Marine Engineers' Benefit Association, the American Steamship Association, and the shipping board, announcement today said. Members of the union failing to submit grievances to the board for settlement will be subjected to discipline.

AMERICAN STEAMSHIP SUNK BY SUBMARINE

New York, July 1.—The American steamship George L. Eaton, of 2,000 tons gross, has been sunk, presumably by a German submarine in European waters, according to information received in shipping circles here today. She left an American port for France about two weeks ago. The fate of the crew, numbering 30, is unknown.

FORMER PASTOR OF CAYUGA ON THE LLANDOVERY

Rev. D. G. McPhail, Presbyterian Chaplain, On Torpedoed Hospital Ship.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, July 2. Capt. (Rev.) Donald G. McPhail of Cayuga, Ont., who was on board the torpedoed hospital ship, is a son-in-law of Mr. Justice Britton of Toronto. No word has been received regarding his safety, but his wife and two daughters, now residing in Kingston, retain every hope until definite word has been given to the contrary.

His First Return Trip.

Capt. McPhail was a Presbyterian chaplain on the Llandovery Castle. It was his first return trip. His wife received word from him before he left England on the hospital ship on which he said that he was making his first trip as chaplain of the ship to Canada. The next word that came had been written in Halifax, saying that he had arrived there on June 17 and was taking the return trip on the 19th or 20th.

Was Chaplain of 72nd.

Capt. McPhail was pastor for seven or eight years of the Presbyterian Church in Cayuga before he went overseas in April, 1916. He left Canada as chaplain of the 72nd Seaforth Highlanders. He remained in England for four or five months when he was attached as chaplain to the 27th Canadian Battalion in France. He remained there for a year, returning to London again in the autumn of 1917, where he acted as visiting chaplain to five Canadian hospitals. He was occupied with this work when he was transferred to the Llandovery Castle. Upon hearing the news of the sinking of the hospital ship this morning, Mr. Justice Britton telephoned to his daughter in Kingston.

Victoria Nurse Aboard.

Angus Campbell of Victoria, B. C., today a guest at the King Edward Hotel, fears for the safety of his daughter, Miss Christina Campbell, who for the last two trips has been a passenger in the Llandovery Castle. She was last heard from at Halifax on her last trip about a month ago. Miss Campbell left Victoria in 1915 for overseas with No. 5 Canadian General Hospital. She served in Saloniki and later in England, after which she was transferred to the hospital ship.

TORONTO MINISTERS DEMAND INQUIRY OF NOVITIATE RAID

Toronto, July 2.—After hearing the remarks of Rev. W. D. Spence, Rev. Dr. Gordon and Rev. Kennedy Palmer of Guelph, Ont., a private meeting of the ministerial representatives of all the Protestant denominations of this city today passed a resolution supporting the Guelph Ministerial Association "in their demand from the proper authorities for a full and thorough investigation of all points involved in the controversy."

HUNS' MODEST DEMAND

Terrible Conditions Allies Must Meet According to Count von Roon.

Paris, July 1.—Great Britain must turn over its war fleet to Germany, return Gibraltar to Spain and restore Egypt and the Suez Canal to Turkey. Great Britain, France and the United States must pay Germany an indemnity of at least $45,000,000,000. Belgium and French territory must be surrendered.

These are among the conditions included in the German peace program published in the Nachrichten of Goerlitz, Prussia, by Count Roon, a member of the Prussian House of Lords, according to a Havas dispatch from Basel, Switzerland.

Other conditions are that Greece must be re-established under Constantine, Germany receive back all her colonies and Serbia and Montenegro be divided between Austria and Bulgaria.

WASHINGTON GLADDEN DEAD.

Columbus, Ohio, July 2.—Rev. Washington Gladden, nationally-known Congregational minister and author, of this city died this morning, following a second stroke of paralysis suffered last Sunday. Dr. Gladden was 82 years old.

DYNAMITERS WRECK HOUSES IN VILLAGE OF BEAUCE, QUEBEC

Quebec, July 2.—A terrific dynamite explosion shook the entire village of St. Joseph, Beauce, Saturday afternoon. A number of houses were damaged, but no one was injured. The explosion occurred close to the house of Valere Casselin, registrar for Beauce County. In this house alone there were twelve persons, some of them week-end visitors from Quebec City. The houses of Notary Casselin and Notary Taschereau were badly damaged, barely one pane of glass standing the shock of the explosion. A pile of firewood was shot up in the air by the force of the shock, and fence posts were picked up over 200 feet away.

SINKING OF HOSPITAL SHIPS SHOWN AS DELIBERATE POLICY OF ENEMY

London, June 2, via Reuter's, Limited. —That the sinking of hospital ships is a deliberate policy on the part of the Germans now is placed beyond all doubt by the torpedoing of the Canadian steamship Llandovery Castle, the newspapers say in their editorial comment today.

"In the presence of such unspeakable infamy deliberately repeated," says the Daily Chronicle, "it is a waste of breath to reiterate the abhorrence which everybody with a spark of civilized sense must feel. But we would invite the German people to ask themselves what is the use of their statesmen appealing, like Foreign Secretary von Kuehlmann, to be credited with 'probity and honor,' while crimes so odious, dishonorable and unashamed continue to be carried out by the orders of their Government."

The excuse for the attack on the Llandovery Castle, says the Daily Mail, was a lie, and the German officer who told it did not believe it himself when he said to the captain: "You are carrying eight American flight officers."

If there had been a particle of truth in the charge, the newspaper adds, the submarine captain had only to stop the Llandovery Castle, seize the eight officers and take them to Germany as proof of Allied guilt in using hospital ships for transports.

A Horrible Incident.

The Daily News declares the sinking of the hospital ship stands out "as one of the most horrible incidents in the hideous story of submarine warfare."

In no circumstance of the tragedy, however, it points out, there is an added element of horror in the repeated attempt of the submarine commander to justify himself by accusations against the victims and his wild fury of gunfire and destructive rushing to and fro amongst the wreckage. If those were not attempts to sink all the survivors and blot out all trace of the crime, what was their motive?" asks this newspaper. "It is unforgettable, without the fact that the news of the tragedy to Canadian Red Cross men and women came to the knowledge of the Canadians on their national festival. The other British peoples will not forget it, nor yet, we may be sure, will the American people."

LITTLE V. A. D. A HEROINE OF ETAPLES RAID

Returned Officer Tells How the Canadian Nurses Carried On.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Montreal, July 2.—Just returned from France on ten weeks' sick leave, Lieut. H. T. Leslie of Toronto, was able to tell a personal story of his experiences in the great Hun air raid upon the hospitals in the Etapies area recently.

"The attack, which was made in the middle of the night, was about the worst thing in the way of bombing hospitals that I ever saw," declared Lieut. Leslie. "The detonation of bombs and Archies made a horrible din, which made it impossible to hear anything else. This sort of thing lasted for over two hours. The most wonderful thing of all was the manner in which the nurses and the V. A. D.'s carried on just as usual, giving out the medicine and cocoa juice as if bombing were nothing extraordinary.

Brave Little V. A. D.

"One little V. A. D. had to take care of two wards that night. She would come into the ward, flash a light—for otherwise we were kept all in darkness —and ask in the most cheery tone if everybody was all right, and the boys would just call out: 'All right, sister.' Then she would pass on to the other ward and do the same.

"One bomb fell just beside our hut," continued Lieut. Leslie, "but fortunately it did not go off. Had it done so, we would simply have been wiped out, but, all the same, the tension of waiting for it as we heard it hurtling through the air, was almost worse than the explosion would have been."

In denouncing the act of the Germans in attacking these hospitals, Lieut. Leslie said, as an airman, that he knew that it must be intentional, as the enemy knew that area well.

REGISTRATION RETURNS ARE STILL COMING IN

Ottawa, July 2.—The first statement relative to the registration of the man power of Canada on Saturday, June 22, will be made by the Dominion Registration Board in the course of a day or so. The returns are still coming in, but they will not be complete for some time yet.

SCORES MEET DEATH BY EXPLOSION IN AN ENGLISH PLANT

London, July 2.—An explosion occurred in the National shell filling factory in the Midlands Monday night, it was officially announced today. Between 60 and 70 persons lost their lives.

The reports state that the women workers behaved splendidly, pressing to be allowed to return to work The reserve capacity held available in this class of supply is sufficient to prevent appreciable diminution in the output.

McADOO CUTS RAILWAY OPERATING EXPENSES

Washington, July 2.—Reduction of $108,196,836 in the operation income of 123 of the largest railroads during the first five months under government control, compared with the same period a year ago, was announced today by the Interstate Commerce Commission. In May last, of the five months the railroads were beginning to recover from the paralyzing effects of blizzard and embargoes, and the operating income rose to a point nearer last year's figures. For the five months the total was $186,-987,144, as compared with $295,183,970 during the same period last year, and for May it was $64,276,805 against $76,290,630 last May.

In spite of the reduced operating income, revenue of the roads actually was larger for the five months this year than last. They were $1,390,282,-620, compared with $1,274,970,498, giving margin which was more than eaten up by increased expenses.

BELGIAN VESSEL SUNK OFF AMERICAN COAST

Washington, D. C., July 2.—The Belgian steamer Chilier was sunk 1,400 miles off the Atlantic coast June 21, the navy department today announced. Twenty-five survivors were picked up by a sailing vessel on June 22.

The announcement follows:

"The navy department is informed that the Belgian steamship Chilier was sunk by shell fire from a German submarine about 1,400 miles at sea from the Atlantic coast on June 21. Twenty-five survivors were rescued on June 27 by a passing vessel. The Chilier was a vessel of 2,966 tons gross."

$15,000 LIVERY BLAZE.

Cardston, Alta., July 2.—Fire last night destroyed Ernest Lowe's livery barns and Oxley & Low's garage. Loss $15,000.

VAUX AND HEIGHTS WERE SWEPT CLEAR OF GERMANS BY BRILLIANT OPERATION

Dash By Pershing's Men With French Aid Carries Strong Position of the Enemy West of Chateau-Thierry—British Repulse Raids North of Somme and Near Lens.

Paris, July 2.—The village of Vaux, west of Chateau Thierry, and the heights to the west of Vaux, were captured last night by American troops in an operation on the Marne front, carried out in conjunction with the French, the war office announced today. More than three hundred prisoners, including five officers, were captured in this action.

The success has resulted in an improvement in the Allied line between Hill 204 and the vicinity of Vaux.

The French carried out raids on the front between Montdidier and Noyon and eastward of Rheims, in which prisoners were taken.

German raiders were driven off by the French fire near Belloy and in Upper Alsace.

RAIDERS REPULSED.

London, July 2.—German troops last night attempted to raid the British lines at points north of the Somme, near Lens, and on the Flanders front, but were repulsed, the war office announced today. British troops took prisoners in patrol encounters.

London, July 2.—In an operation on the Marne front, carried out last night west of Chateau Thierry by French and American troops in co-operation, the Allied line was improved, the war office announced today.

HARD FIGHTING.

With the American Forces on the Marne, July 2.—In a brilliant operation, after hard fighting, American troops on this front last night captured the village of Vaux, together with a large slice of the Paris highway west of Chateau Thierry, and two patches of wooded land.

The Americans took 275 German prisoners, including 5 officers, and captured a quantity of machine guns and other equipment.

In the Vaux region the Americans took the Germans completely by surprise. Most of the prisoners were taken out of cellars and dugouts. How many of the Germans were killed is, of course, unknown, but from the number of German dead in plain view at various places their total casualties must have been very heavy.

FOE ASSAULTS BRITISH LINE NEAR ALBERT

Germans Generally Repulsed In Attempt to Regain Lost Ground.

London, July 2.—German troops last night, after a strong bombardment, attacked to the northwest of Albert, north of the Somme, in an attempt to regain the positions lost to the British on Sunday night. The enemy succeeded in gaining a footing in one of the British trenches, the war office announced, but elsewhere were repulsed with loss.

BADLY PUNISHED.

With the British Army in France, July 2.—(By the Associated Press).—After an intense bombardment, the Germans at 10 o'clock last night began an attack on the positions the British had gained Sunday night when they drove the enemy from important ground scutheast of Bouzincourt to the north of Albert On the northern end of the line involved the enemy succeeded in reclaiming a few of his old positions, in which he was maintaining himself at the latest reports At all other points the Germans were repulsed and badly punished.

Three separate assaults were driven forward by the grey-coats on the British right, but each time they were hurled back.

FRENCH IMPROVE POSITION.

PARIS, July 1.—French troops last night carried out an operation on the Marne front, south of the Ourcq, which resulted in the improvement of the French positions in the vicinity of Passy-en-Valois.

The Germans counter-attacked in an effort to recover the ground gained by the French Saturday night in the vicinity of Mosloy, on this front. The enemy was repulsed, the French retaining their new positions in their entirety.

Taking the aggressive south of the Aisne, the French captured a German strong point near Cutry, southwest of Soissons, adding to their recent gains in this sector.

GAIN ON AISNE FRONT.

LONDON, July 1.—British troops last night in a minor operation in the region northwest of Albert effected an improvement in the British positions there and captured nine machine guns and over 50 prisoners, the war office announced today.

Activity by the German artillery in the region between Albert and Arras and in sectors of the Flanders front is also reported.

The British raided a German position in Aveluy wood, north of Albert, and the enemy's trenches to west of Dernancourt, on the River Ancre, taking a few prisoners. During the night a party of British troops rushed a hostile post south of Morlancourt.

Prince of Wales May Visit United States

Would Carry a Message of Brotherly Appreciation to Americans.

London, July 2.—A visit to the United States by the Prince of Wales has been suggested recently in the British press.

"The suggestion is admirably well timed," says the Daily Express. "The Prince would cross the Atlantic, not as prince would cross the Atlantic, not as a representative of the British Government, but as a simple young Englishman, the type of tens of thousands of similar young men gallantly fighting at the front. He would carry to the American people a direct personal message of brotherly appreciation."

HUGE CROP OF COTTON FORECASTED FOR STATES

Washington, July 2.—A huge cotton crop is in prospect this year, the department of agriculture today forecasting the production of 15,325,000, equivalent 500-pound bales. A crop that size would be the third largest ever grown.

The condition of the crop on June 25 was 85.8 per cent of a normal, or 3.5 per cent better than on May 25, and 6 per cent higher than the ten-year average.

The acreage this year comes close to the record, being exceeded only by that of 1913.

NO BUSINESS WITH FOE TEN YEARS AFTER WAR

Liverpool, July 2.—At a meeting of the directors of the Liverpool Cotton Exchange today it was unanimously resolved that "no member or members of a firm shall trade directly or indirectly with the present enemies of Great Britain for a period of ten years after the war."

ALLIED PRISONERS CHEER AIRMEN WHO BOMBARD MANNHEIM

British Fliers Subject German City to Terrible Shelling.

Geneva, Switzerland, July 1.—South German newspapers, in order to reassure the nervous and angered populations of the towns along the Rhine, attempt to explain in a way as unimportant the aerial bombardment of Mannheim on Saturday morning. It was really the most terrible raid on a German town during the war. The Germans officially announce that five were killed and fourteen wounded, but the figures could be quadrupled. Several victims, were unfortunately, Allied officers, who, disdaining the shelters, cheered the Allied aviators.

The raid on Karlsruhe, according to German reports, caused only material damage.

In the meantime the exodus from Rhine towns continues and house rents have depreciated 35 per cent.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMS AT WOODSTOCK JULY 30

Ottawa, July 2.—In accordance with the provision of the new civil service act, that competitive examinations will be held in connection with appointments to the outside service whenever possible, the civil service commission will hold examinations at Woodstock, Ont., on July 30, for the purpose of filling seven positions for letter carriers in the Woodstock postoffice. Candidates must be between the ages of 16 and 35 years, excepting returned soldiers, who will be given the preference, if eligible.

CANADIAN CASUALTIES

Ottawa, July 2.—Today's list of 46 casualties reports six Canadian soldiers killed in action, one died of wounds, five died, three prisoners of war, 23 wounded, and seven ill, and one gassed. The list for Western Ontario:

Infantry.

Wounded—454200 F. J. Lair, 31 Teresa street, London: 757354 W. A. Cristensen, 421 Victoria street, North Hamilton.

POLES VANISH INTO HUN MAW

Nation Completely Enslaved by the Prussian War Lords.

London, July 2.—The principal features of the German solution of the Polish question which are approved by all the central powers are published in the Abend Zeitung of Augsburg, says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Zurich. The conditions are:

The frontiers will be fixed by the German high command according to military necessities.

The Polish army will be restricted to 90,000.

For fifty years Poland must make most of the valuable economic concessions to the central powers on the principle of the most favored nation.

Publication of German, Austrian, Hungarian, Bulgarian and Turkish papers must be allowed.

In any locality where there are ten German children a school will be opened.

Provisions, the newspaper adds, is also made for an elective monarchy. The German conditions will be incorporated in the constitution which cannot be modified without the approval of the central powers.

50,000 TONS OF DUTCH POTATOES FOR GERMANY

Washington, July 2.—Official announcement from The Hague that the Netherlands Government has agreed to export potatoes from the new crop in equal quantities to the belligerent nations, brought the disclosure today of the fact that the United States Government has information of Holland's intention to export 50,000 tons of potatoes to Germany.

Officials here believe that in expressing a willingness to export potatoes to each of the belligerents, Holland is undertaking to disguise her intention of supplying large quantities of much-needed food to Germany alone. Shipments to Germany already are under way, according to cable advices, the movement following closely upon the announcement in Germany of the reduction of the potato ration from seven to three pounds weekly.

ALL ENGLISHMEN WILL BE DRIVEN FROM FINLAND

Stockholm, July 2.—The correspondent at Helsingfors of the Swedish News Agency says he has learned from a high military authority that it was decided on Monday to expel all Englishmen from Finland.

SUMMER SESSION OPEN

Special "U" Course Opened at Western Today.

The summer session of Western University opened today, and will continue for six weeks. The course prescribed consists of botany, physics, mathematics, Greek, French, German and history of the first two years of the general course in arts. Seven of the regular professors will compose the summer school staff, and in addition to these, Professor Vassedt of Mercersburg Academy, in the United States, will lecture in French.

The lectures will be given from 8 a.m. to noon each school day, and the afternoons will be devoted to laboratory work. The fees are $10 per course, or $20 for three or more courses, and any three of the subjects compose a course. Today is registration day, and, according to Dr. K. P. R. Neville, registrar of the university, the advance correspondence indicated that a large class will be in attendance, many coming in from out of town.

Accommodation will be found for students whose homes are not in London, and if necessary quarters will be opened in Huron College. Successful students in this course will receive university credit in their work corresponding to one-third of a year at university. The examination will be held at the completion of the course, which concludes on August 9.

MEETS HERE THURSDAY

Western Counties Telephone Association Convention Starts July 4.

The eighth annual meeting of the Western Counties Telephone Association will be held in the county council chamber here on Thursday, July 4. A large number of representatives of rural phone concerns of the district are expected to attend. H. Sneath of Woodstock, president of the Association, will preside at the convention.

Addresses will be delivered by prominent members of the association, and in addition to this, F. Dagger, an Ontario Railway and Municipal Board expert, will speak at the convention. An important matter for discussion at this gathering will be the problem of meeting the present high cost of operating, and it is likely that the meeting will decide to increase the revenue on rural phones.

THREE ACCEPTED

Volunteers for R. A. F. and Engineers Taken On.

Three volunteers were accepted at the local mobilization centre over the week-end and holiday. Two volunteers were accepted in this city and were attached to the Royal Air Force. The other volunteer was sent from Kansas City by the British-Canadian Recruiting Mission.

Two volunteers were placed in category A2 and one in D2.

Two defaulters and one man apprehended under the military service act were boarded and sent to the W. O. R.

The following were the volunteers:
W. R. Riddle, R. A. F., London.
A. F. Hallett, R. A. F., London.
R. F. Barker, Canadian Engineers, Kansas City.

ST. MARYS PICNIC

East End Parish Children Enjoying Annual Outing.

Accompanied by their parents, the children of St. Mary's Parish, East London, enjoyed their annual picnic at Springbank Park today.

The children met at the church grounds, Lyle street, and were taken in two special cars at 1:30 to the park. Baseball and sports occupied the afternoon, and the kiddies enjoyed a pleasant time. The return trip will be made about 8 o'clock to the city.

GET COMMISSIONS

MAY BE FORCED TO GET REINFORCEMENTS FOR BERRY BRIGADE

London Girls Not Volunteering in Sufficient Numbers.

Unless a sufficient number of girls in the London district volunteer within the next few days for berry-picking, it will be necessary to send to Toronto for reinforcements, according to a statement made today to The Advertiser by Miss Ethel MacRoberts, superintendent of the Women Government Employment Bureau.

"Apparently the girls do not realize the great improvement in wage conditions this year, notwithstanding the publicity given in the paper," she continued, adding, "However, today will tell the story about the way girls are feeling about berry-picking this year. Probably a number have been waiting until after the Dominion Day holiday before coming to register."

Forty-five pickers are required for the Springbank fruit belt, and those who are to live in the camp at Springbank are expected to report by Thursday night. A number of girls have applied from outside points, but the response to the call has not yet been large in London.

Only girls over 16 years old, who will sign up for four or five weeks are being accepted. Miss MacRoberts, superintendent of the Women's Government Bureau, states that in making application the prospective pickers will be expected to give their age, height and weight.

"Why the weight, and why the height. Berry bushes aren't so very tall. Are you afraid if the girls are too heavy they will break down the cherry trees?" was asked of Miss MacRoberts by The Advertiser.

"If we know the weight and height of an applicant who writes to us," she replied, "we can get an idea of her physique, and if she is likely to be in good physical condition to do the work."

One camp of girls adjacent to the city, is already comfortably settled, and the members are liking it immensely. Probably no employer in the district made the fruit pickers more comfortable and happy last year than did W. H. Mundy, whose fruit farm is located north of the Hospital for the Insane. Six girls have already arrived at his farm for the strawberry and gooseberry picking. They have a house all to themselves, thoroughly equipped, near enough to the main house to give them a feeling of protection. The fruit grower has further made arrangements that each girl in turn shall have half a day off a week to do the housekeeping.

Miss MacRoberts is sending within the next few days ten pickers to Winona, Ont., who are required from the beginning of the red currants to the end of the grape gathering.

"Only girls who mean business, and who will be able to stay for the whole time will be considered for this camp. This is one of the places where relays of workers are not regarded as satisfactory.

WESTERN ONTARIO BRIEFS

Piper Donald Ellis, young son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ellis of St. Thomas, has returned home from Kansas City, where he went with several other members of the London Juvenile Pipe Band accompanying the London Rotarians.

Falling while painting his veranda, Councillor D. Walker of Brussels broke his arm and injured his shoulder.

Despite the bad weather, Dominion Day sports at Blyth were very successful. The calithumpian parade was one of the best ever held there. Westfield defeated Wingham in a game of baseball with a score of 19 to 5.

Search is being made for Emerson Smith, aged 19, of Brownsville, who has been missing for nearly two weeks. As he had a sum of money with him when last seen, it is feared that he may have met with foul play. His father, George Smith, is anxious.

The strike which tied up the boats of the Detroit and Cleveland Navigation Company has been settled and the boats are running again.

The first metal was poured at the new large smelter of the International Nickel Company of Canada, Limited, at Port Colborne yesterday morning. The plant, which has been 20 months in building, will produce annually 24,000,000 pounds of refined nickel and 12,000,000 pounds of copper.

Many lurid films are being shown in the movies, said Magistrate Miers of Windsor, when James Harkas, proprietor of a theatre, was fined $50 by him for permitting children under 12 years of age in his theatre. These objectionable pictures attract others than children, says the judge.

Miss Mabel Doherty of the Stratford Collegiate commercial department staff has accepted a position in the Windsor Collegiate.

The Bank of Nova Scotia at Brussels is remodeling the store which it purchased from James Ballantyne for an office building.

Hugh Harley, uncle of W H. Kerr of the Brussels Post, is dead at Manitoba in his 72nd year. Mr. Harley was postmaster at Swan River, Man.

Pte. A. B. Woodley of Brussels is a prisoner of war in Germany.

A union school picnic will be held at Brussels on Thursday.

A six per cent dividend on capital stock has been declared by the Brant Farmers' Co-operative Society. U. O. Kendrick and W. C. Wood were re-elected to the directorate.

A wrist watch and an address was presented to Pte. Russel McIntyre of Ivan, who has been on furlough and is rejoining his company early this month.

Duncan McPherson, aged 86, one of the most highly-respected residents of Delaware, is dead. The funeral will be held on Wednesday to McArthur's Cemetery.

The three soldiers, Ptes. Harris, Fox and Doherty, who were charged with breaking the O. T. A. in Port Stanley, and were to have appeared in St. Thomas for a hearing, cannot be located. It is thought two of them may have gone overseas.

H. P. McMahon has been appointed publicity commissioner of St. Thomas. A big campaign for boosting the Railroad City and securing new industries will be carried out.

R. B. BENNETT'S CASE WORRYING OTTAWA MOGULS

What Will Result If Alberta Court's Decision Is Upheld?

40,000 SUCH INSTANCES

By Time Final Adjudication Is Secured, Men Will Be Overseas.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

OTTAWA, July 1.—The majority finding of the Alberta appeal court in the application for habeas corpus made by R. B. Bennett, K.C., ex-M.P., on behalf of Norman Earl Lewis, a young farmer who was at first exempted under the military service act and who later had his exemption withdrawn by virtue of the provisions of the order-in-council of last April, has created something of a sensation at Ottawa. The finding of the judges was in effect that as the exemption had been granted under the terms of the military service act, 1917, which is an enactment of parliament, it could not be taken away through the order-in-council which cannot supersede a statute.

When it is considered that some 40,000 men between the ages of 20 and 22 respectively have been affected by the order-in-council providing for peremptory drafting without consideration of exemption some idea of the interest created here by the finding may be gained.

Government Feels Queerly.

When it is further considered that nearly all of the business of the country has been carried on by order-in-council for the past six months or more, some appreciation of the concern which the Government feels may be obtained.

The finding is to be appealed to the supreme court of Canada, and probably thence to the privy council of England. Should it be upheld, the confusion which will be created by the Government's failure to secure an enactment from parliament while parliament was in session is incalculable. By the time a final adjudication is secured nearly every man affected will have been taken overseas. In fact many of them may be casualties. Just who will be held responsible in that event it is hard to say.

Overriding Parliament.

Mr. Bennnett who is a former Conservative M. P. and who at the last election supported "Union," did not occupy altogether the position of a solicitor in the case, but rather as a private citizen who had gone to court to dispute the right of the military authorities to follow a certain line of action that he considered means virtually an overriding of civil rights and an act of parliament. He had gone to test the legality of an order-in-council of a government which overrides the act of parliament which is acknowledged generally to be the supreme authority. He contended that four simple words of English in an order-in-council to supercede what it has taken forty days for parliament to enact was ridiculous and contrary to law or the constitution. That the action should be taken by Mr. Bennett, a former member on the government, ranks as highly significant.

A Plea For Farmers.

It is further significant that in presenting the case Mr. Bennett laid great stress on the urgent need of men for the farms if production were to be kept level. In the contention of Government counsel that the order-in-council was passed under the war measures act, Mr. Bennett declared that the war measure act was merely on an equality with the military service act, both being statues, and that nothing emanating from the former could affect the latter. Cabinet members here are not inclined to voice any opinion on the findings of the court for the present.

21 German Planes Dropped by French Last Day of June

Six Captive Balloons Also Set on Fire — Heavy Bombing.

PARIS, July 1.—The French airmen have played their part in the increased aerial activity which has been displayed along the front in the last few days. Yesterday they brought down or put out of action 21 German planes and set on fire six captive balloons, according to the war office announcement tonight. The statement says:

"On June 30, twenty-one German airplanes were brought down or put out of action and six captive balloons were set on fire. The following night our bombing machines dropped 22 tons of projectiles on aviation grounds in Picardy, the Roye railway station, and munitions depots at Villers-Carbonnel, where a violent explosion occurred."

Caucasus Capital in Germany's Hands

LONDON, July 1.—German troops have occupied Tiflis, the capital of the Caucasus Government and the largest city in the Caucasus district, says a delayed Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Moscow.

Organization of Austro-German war prisoners in that region has been begun by the Germans.

MORE ITALIANS IN WEST THAN ALLIES WITH DIAZ

New York, July 2.—Italy has sent more troops to France than her Allies have sent to the Italian front, declared Felice Farrero, director of the Italian Bureau of Information, in an address here last night.

James M. Gerard, former United States ambassador to Germany, said the United States should establish the Russ battle line in order to keep Germans busy there.

M. Lauzanne, Paris editor, declared that was what France desired, and hoped to see Japan shortly in battle line.

GERMANS HAVE TAKEN 191,454 PRISONERS SINCE DRIVE OPENED

BERLIN, via London, July 1.—Since the beginning of the German offensive on March 21, 191,454 Allied prisoners have been captured by the Germans, according to an official statement from the German war office. Of these, the statement says, 94,939 were British, 89,099 were French, and the remainder were divided among the Portuguese, Belgian and American forces along the front.

THE FORMIDABLE COL DEL ROSSO IS CAPTURED BY ITALIAN TROOPS

Great Strategic Mountain Position Is Reclaimed in Swift Attack.

Italian Army Headquarters, July 1.—The local actions resulting in the reconquest of Monte di val Bella, Col del Rosso and Col di Chelo had for their objects the widening of the Italian front west of the Brenta and the driving of the enemy from the positions he captured last Christmas, lost to the Italians in January and regained on June 15.

The Italian losses were slight compared to those sustained by the Austrians. This was due almost entirely to the violence and accuracy of the Italian and allied artillery fire. Under cover of this fire the infantry was able to take enemy positions without much opposition and to dig in at once. The Austrian artillery fire was violent, some shells reaching the plains behind and destroying houses centuries old.

The attack on Del Rosso began shortly before noon. Italian airplanes showered the Austrians with bombs, while the Bersaglieri exacted a heavy toll in hand-to-hand fighting. Many of the Bersaglieri wore their red fatigue caps during the battle.

ROME, July 1. — Heavy attacks launched against Monte Di Val Belia by the Austrians were repulsed by the Italians, "The enemy masses being mown down by artillery fire," according to the official communication from Italian headquarters. More than 2,000 prisoners were taken by the Italians. The statement says:

"Sub" Which Sunk U.S. Transport Caught

PORTSMOUTH, Va., July 1.—Capture of the German submarine which sank the American transport President Lincoln, was announced in a telegram received her today from Lieut. Eduard Victor Isaacs, U. S. N., who was taken prisoner by the Germans when the transport was sunk. Isaacs telegraphed that he was safe in England.

TOMMY CHURCH HAS ANOTHER PIPE DREAM

[Special to The Advertiser.]

WINNIPEG, July 1.—"The removal of the Canadian Northern Railway headquarters from Toronto to Winnipeg is a pipe dream started by Tommy Church." This is the manner in which Mayor Davidson, who returned from Toronto, where he looked into the rumor, says Hon. J. D. Reid, minister of railways, characterized the recent agitation.

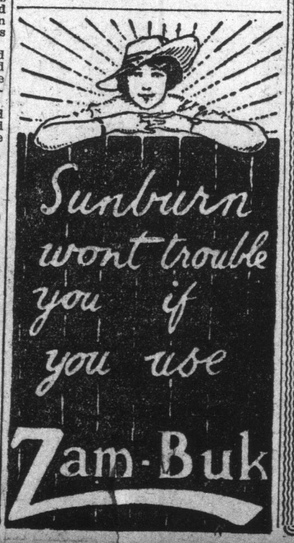

"I spoke to Mr. Reid on this subject," said the mayor, "and he treated the whole matter very lightly. He furthermore pointed out that the railway commission which is to administer this railway had not yet been appointed, and that when it was it would have sole jurisdiction as to where the headquarters would be located."

Important Air Raids On German Centres

LONDON, July 1.—Air raids against railway stations and military establishments in Germany are being continued, according to an official statement issued by the air ministry tonight. The statement reads:

"On the night of June 30-July 1 further attacks were made on the enemy airdrome at Boulacy and on railway works and stations at Thionville, Remilly, Landau, Zweibrucken and Saarbrucken. The chemical works at Mannheim were again attacked.

"On July 1 the railway and workshops at Karthaus, the station at Treves and the railway triangle of Metz-Sablons were bombed with good effect. One hostile machine was shot down and two of ours are missing. One of the machines reported as missing on June 30 has returned."

CLOSE TO 1,100 MORE WARD 3 POPULATION, SAYS 1919 REPORT

Actual Compilation, However, Difficult Now.

ASSESSMENT JUMPING

The population of Ward 3 is 18,177, according to figures compiled by Assessment Commissioner Stephen Grant is preparing his 1919 assessment report. This included the annex. The population of the ward proper increased 991, to 14,710, as compared with 1917 and the annex by 99 to 3,467.

In compiling his population statistics Mr. Grant points out that at present it is difficult to determine the actual population of the city. Conditions are upset, he says. "A number are away who are not calculated, and a number reckoned at the exhibition grounds who have gone overseas, while hundreds of other soldiers at present in the municipality and who do not belong here, are not counted, says the report.

The dog population of the ward is a fairly substantial one, there being in all 478 recorded.

The assessment figures give the total value of the land, buildings, business and buildings at $7,251,569. This is an increase of $232,787 over last year. The income assessment showed an increase of $36,980 over the 1917 assessment.

The present values are itemized as follows: Land, $2,941,890; buildings, $3,056,690; business, $497,364; income, $155,616.

The annexed district assessment shows an increase of $44,780 over the 1917 figures, the present assessed value being placed at $1,040,191. This is in accardance with the agreement made at the time of amalgamation.

The department figuresc for record and patriotic purposes show an increase of $180,689. The total value of land, buildings and business is placed at $1,696,404. The agreement assessment of $1,040,191 is used when charging the general taxes at 15 mills.

JAIL COSTS SHOW CONTINUED ADVANCE FOR PAST QUARTER

Daily Menus at Hotel Carter Mount to 14.9 Cents.

The quarterly report of Governor Carter of the county jail, shows a decided increase in the cost of feeding the inmates of that institution. The average cost per day of feeding each prisoner is 14.19 cents, and with medical attention the cost mounted to 14.9 cents perday. During the quarter there were 136 prisoners committed to the jail, and the total number of days served amounts to 2,709.

There were 3,408 pounds of bread, 930 pounds of oatmeal, 17 bushels of potatoes, 27 pounds of barley, 1,252 pounds of meat, and one-quarter barrel of salt consumed during the quarter. The above provisions, with the addition of pepper, onions, and syrup brought the total cost for food to $384.45.

In addition to this were tobacco, tea, butter, sugar and milk prescribed by the doctor for Higgins Hughes, a colored prisoner, suffering from tuberculosis. The men who work daily are allowed tea, and Governor Carter informed The Advertiser that there are no complaints regarding the food, which is good and wholesome. He stated that the Hotel Carter, although not widely advertised, is at present almost filled to its capacity with tourists, ranging from conscientious objectors to vagrants.

FUNERAL OF MRS. SMITHSON.

The funeral of Mrs. Rosina Smithson, who died on Friday, was held from the residence of her son, 619 Waterloo street, the services being conducted by Rev. James Kennedy.

Mrs. Smithson, who was 90 years of age, was one of the pioneers of London Township, being married to the late William Smithson in 1849.

She leaves one daughter, Mrs. Richard Arscott of Teeswater, and four sons, James of Cincinnati, Joseph of London Township and Thomas and Wesley of this city.

PICNICS FOR SPRINGBANK.—The annual picnic of St. Luke's (Broughdale) Anglican Sunday School is being held to Springbank on Wednesday. On Thursday the congregations of Masonville and St. Johns, London Township, will picnic at the same park. Good programs of sports have been arranged for each day, and it is anticipated that large crowds from each church and Sunday school will attend.

FURTHER DONATIONS.—The reception committee of the local branch of the Soldiers' Aid Commission has received several donations for the fund to supply dishes to be used at the receptions held at Princess avenue barracks. The following donations have been acknowledged: Mrs. S. F. Lawrason $2, Mrs. Dunne $2, Mrs. R. MacKay $1, Miss Jones $1, Mrs. George Brown $1, Miss Leonard $1, Mrs. J. Nash 50c.

RESCUED FROM WELL.—Thomas Simpson, aged 11 years, of Elizabeth street, while playing in the yard of Edgar Saunders, corner of Lorne avenue and Elizabeth street, fell in a well near where a number of boys were playing. Bruce Whaley, aged 11 years, of Toronto, discovered the lad's peril and made an heroic rescue by crawling down the well and pulling the boy to safety. A doctor had to be called to attend the boy.

SERIOUSLY ILL.—Mrs. Jennie Tagg of 571 Maitland street, has been officially notified from Ottawa that her husband, Pte. Charles Tagg, of the Canadian Engineers, has been admitted to No. 72 General Hospital at Trouville, seriously ill with trench fever. The date of admission is given as June 26. Pte. Tagg enlisted in Sarnia with the 149th Battalion, but was transferred to the Engineers in England, and went to France with that branch of the service.

ORGANIZATION EXPLAINED. — A meeting of farmers for the purpose of organizing was held in Crathie schoolhouse Monday evening. R. A. Finn, district representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, addressed the meeting and told of the basis on which successful farmers' clubs were formed and conducted. He also spoke on the serious situation of farm help and of the emergency help which is being secured in the cities to help the farmers save the crops of 1918.

TAKEN TO TORONTO.—Arthur Tait of Toronto, who was injured while in the 25-mile road race yesterday, is being taken to his home today by the Nursing sisters of St. John Ambulance Corps. While on the first lap of the race on Dundas street east he turned aside and struck a pole. His wrist was sprained and he was rendered unconscious. He was given first aid by the nursing sisters before being taken to Victoria Hospital by them. Several other minor injuries were attended by the sisters yesterday.

PERSONALITIES IN FIRE DEPT. PROBE CREEP INTO CASE

Question Will Be Aired at Council Tonight.

The city council will face a large grist of business tonight. This will inclued the application of the firemen for a conciliation board to deal with their grievances. It is possible that the discussion will be interesting.

In the meantime the controversy waxes warm. Personalities are beginning to creep in.

Engineer George Bolton has made the following reply to charges made in connection with his efforts in connection with the Johnston-Murray fire:

"The night of Beck's fire I was on station duty. I had one more man with me. When Johnson & Murray's alarm came in, the man with me took a hand chemical and went over to investigate. While he was gone, I got in touch with the chief at Beck's, notifying him where fire was. When my man came back, he told me we would have lay line of hose. We tried to get the spare wagon out, but as doors were blocked with dirt from a hole in preparation for a gas tank, it was necessary for us to take aerial truck out first. We did this, and then returned for wagon, which I drove myself, and laid a line from it, and immediately started working on fire. At this time men arrived from Beck's and as George Aitken was on the scene, he was dispatched to central for more hose. He did not drive wagon out in the first place; I did that. These statements can be verified by man with me. Had things been left as they should have been my mate and I could have handled the fire ourselves. As for George Aitken's and Tozer's challenge, I might merely say I go little on grandstand and hot air for efficiency of fire departments. I might also mention that George Aitken was the means of Capt. D. McDonald having his hand cut that night. Aitken was always considered a hindrance to the men at a fire, and on more than one occasion complained about.

LONDONERS WON IT

Wortley Road B. Y. B. U. Carried Off Championship at Woodstock.

About 100 members of the Baptist Young People's Unions of the city motored to Woodstock yesterday, where they were joined by 400 others from Stratford, Ingersoll, Norwich and Woodstock, and a picnic was held on the grounds of Woodstock College. A program of sports was presided over by Dr. T. Wearing of Woodstock, while the judging was under the direction of Rev. James H. Boyd of London.

The trophy was won by the B. Y. P. U. of Wortley Road Church, London. Woodstock put up a hard struggle for it, but was beaten by a small margin. The games were held in the college gymnasium on account of the weather. Supper was served in the dining-room.

During the evening Joseph Wearing of Peterboro gave an address appropriate for the occasion. A picture of a larger Canada after the war was presented to the audience. Songs were given by the different unions.

Charles Geer, president of the London B. Y. P. U., presided.

DID NOT REGISTER ON JUNE 22ND, SO APPEARS IN COURT

First Local Police Action Under National Registration.

Mike Christoff, a Bulgarian, arrested in Kitchener, appeared in police court today charged with failing to register with the police as an alien enemy. There being some doubts as to his nationality, the prisoner was remanded for one week. In the meantime, he stated to the court, he will obtain his passport from Kitchener to prove that he is not eligible under the Military service act.

Alphonse Pelletier also appeared in court charged with failing to register under the national registration order-in-council. It was stated that when arrested the prisoner said he would not register. He denied this in court, and stated that he was not in town until June 22, ad could not find time to register on that day. He was remanded for one week by Magistrate Graydon.

Reta Loree appeared, charged with having no lawful occupation and with being a vagrant acting in a disorderly manner. She stated in court that she was working in a local cafe, but the evidence introduced stated that she was not engaged in a lawful occupation when arrested. Magistrate Graydon was reluctant to send this girl to a reformatory, and remanded her for one week. In the meantime if she can go to her brother's home, she will likely be released on suspended sentence.

"EMERGENCY HELP" REPRESENTATIVES OF TOWNSHIPS NAMED

Six Middlesex Municipalities Organized for Special Call.

The superintendent of the local Government Employment Bureau has received the names of the representatives from six Middlesex townships who have consented to act as representatives, in their wards, to find out where emergency help will be needed to save the crops of 1918.

The following are the names of the representatives:

Township of Biddulph.

SIX MONTHS IN JAIL FOR ATTEMPTED THEFT, GIVEN ST. THOMAS MAN

Magistrate Declares Auto Thieving Must End.

Thomas G. Dalton of St. Thomas, who was last week found guilty of attempting to steal an automobile on King street, was today sentenced by Magistrate Graydon to serve six months in the common jail. Dalton appeared in police court last week charged with having liquor on premises other than a private dwelling, and on this charge was fined $200 and costs, or three months in jail. The sentence of six months on the charge of theft is to run concurrently with the three months' sentence imposed last week.

Dalton, in company with an unknown friend, pushed the auto down from the lawn of a King street residence on the evening of June 3, and was about to drive away with the car when captured by the owner. He was intoxicated at the time, and his companion escaped. Dalton stated that his friend had told him that he owned the car, but owing to the prisoner's previous criminal record, Magistrate Graydon gave his story little credence.

Crown Attorney J. B. McKillop stated to the court that Dalton had served a sentence in Kingston Penitentiary, and was now wanted on a charge of theft from freight cars in St. Thomas. In sentencing the prisoner, Magistrate Graydon said: "This thing must stop. The use of a motor car for business and pleasure will be hampered very much by such cases as this one. I am satisfied that this man knew he was stealing, and the sentence imposed is six months in the common jail to run concurrent with the previous sentence."

One drunk contributed $10 and costs for a Dominion Day celebration nipped in the bud by a local policeman.

TAX-PAYING RUSH ROLLING UP CITY'S BALANCE AT BANK

The rush on the tax collector's office closely resembles the famous Calgary rush to purchase oil stocks. People with bills and checks in their hands are lined up several deep before the various wickets.

Inside the wickets, there is a veritable flood of checks and money. There are boxes and boxes of checks ready to be hustled off to the bank when there is a breathing spell.

Today is the last day on which the first installment may be paid without the addition of interest. The first installment totals $482,000. Up to Friday night about $200,000 had been taken in. This morning City Treasurer James S. Bell sent $215,000 to the bank to be added to the city's roll. It was the result of Saturday's effort. Mr. Bell says that the payments are equal to any in his experience. The ratepayers are paying up remarkably well.

Though the estimate of the amount received would leave but $65,000 of the first installment to come in, the rush today is as heavy, if not more so, than on Saturday. This would indicate that when the total figures are compiled it will be found that a great many citizens have paid their three installments and taken advantage of the 3 per cent discount allowed.

DRIVER PINNED UNDER DERAILED LOCOMOTIVE

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Niagara Falls, July 2.—A Grand Trunk switch engine, while backing from Niagara Falls to Welland, was derailed three miles west of Stamford, this morning at 7:30 o'clock, and Engineer P. Warren of this city was probably fatally injured. The engine turned over on its side, pinning down Engineer Warren under the firebox.

The Hamilton and Niagara Falls auxiliaries are working on the wreck, and at noon today had not succeeded in extricating the engineer from beneath the locomotive. The fireman on the derailed engine jumped, and escaped with slight injuries. The cause of the accident is unknown.

WOMEN ENGINE WIPERS CLEANING LOCOMOTIVES IN C. P. R. ROUNDHOUSE

Pioneers in This Branch of Feminine Endeavor For London Already at Work.

The woman engine-wiper has arrived in London. Five pioneers in this new war-time occupation for women have started working at the C. P. R. roundhouse within the past few days, secured through the women's department of the Government Employment Bureau.

The local superintendent of the C. P. R., Andrew Williams, hasn't a doubt that the women will make good at this job in London. For one thing, women are the natural-born housecleaners and polishers of the universe, and fifteen or twenty of them have been giving the best of satisfaction in Toronto for the past year.

"What do the women wear to do the cleaning?" was asked of Mr. Williams today by The Advertiser.

"I don't know what they will wear here," he said, "but in Toronto they have been wearing overalls."

They have also been wearing overalls in England, and a uniform like that seems the only rational wear.

Engine-wiping isn't any lily-fingered task, such as dusting bric-a-brac. It's earning one's bread by the salt of one's brow, and getting one's aforementioned brow pretty well Ethiopianed up at that. It's taking a big bunch of lint and proceeding to cleanse the engine under consideration from soot and grime and oil until it can once more breathe freely through its pores. It means climbing as well to reach parts of the boiler not accessible from the ground or the running-board, and as everybody knows, skirts have their disadvantages for treading the rungs of a ladder. Overalls acquire about all they can carry away of dirt and oil from close association with an engine, but possess at that a vast advantage over skirts.

Engine-wiping, though a novelty for women here, does not constitute the debut of the fair sex into railroading in Ontario. Ever since the shortage of men became acute, owing to war conditions, women have been exclusively used by the C. P. R. in Toronto for car-cleaning, and glowing praise has been given for the efficiency of their service.

Prejudices which have existed up to the present time against women for mixed farming work are evidently being removed very quickly by the women themselves. The farmerettes are so far exceeding expectations that at present the women's department of the Government Employment Bureau is receiving a number of applications for "farmerettes" to work on farms in this district. A few within a short distance from the city have given an excellent account of themselves, having the advantage over a number of men volunteers for farm work that they can handle horses.

FIGHTING SPIRIT IS AROUSED STILL FURTHER BY BOMBING OF HOSPITALS, WRITES O. C.

Lieut.-Col. Reason Declares Raids Hit No. 3 Very Hard —Bishop Fallon at Victims' Funeral.

The manner in which the fighting men have been aroused by the deaths of the nursing sisters through the recent air raids on Canadian hospitals in France is told in a letter written on June 5 by Lieut.-Col. Clifford H. Reason, D.S.O., officer commanding No. 3 Stationary Hospital. Telling of the raids and their aftermath, he mentions the fact that Bishop Fallon took part in the funeral service for the victims. He says:

"The army is very bitter about the deaths of the nursing sisters here, as well as in other hospitals, and reprisals are in order. One Canadian battalion was very successful the other night, and all others are awaiting their opportunity. Everybody was extremely kind and we received many messages of sympathy, and a great many officials came and extended theirs in person.

"The raid hit us very hard, as the members of the unit had been friends of each other for so long a time. Calling the muster roll the next morning was indeed a task that was very unpleasant, as one was apprehensive of still further casualties.

At the time of writing, Sergt. Kellar is still with us. I am inclosing a letter from Sergt. Winters, which will tell you about the others. The funeral was very impressive and was well attended, not only by our unit, but by representatives from Canadian and British headquarters. Canadian headquarters were very kind, and not only sent representatives, but sent a bugle band to play last post for us. Bishop Fallon visited us the day of the funeral, and as one of the victims was a member of his diocese, I asked him to take part in the service.

"He spoke very well, and everybody was very pleased to have heard him.

"We are carrying on as usual, and have a new operating-room, X-ray-room and others, to take the place of those destroyed. I am in the very best of health myself. My operation has been successful, and I feel in better condition than I have at any time since coming to France."

A letter from Gen. Turner is inclosed, which evidences the fact that No. 3 Stationary Hospital honorably discharged its duty in the air raid and subsequently, to the satisfaction and admiration of high officials.

Praise From Gen. Turner.

Gen. Turner has written to Col. Reason as follows:

"It was with great satisfaction that I learnt of the splendid work carried out by you and your staff during the recent operations in France.

"The number of wounded cases evacuated by your hospital goes to show that you worked with unceasing energy and displayed a splendid efficiency and devotion to duty.

"I would like you to accept, and at the same time convey to your medical officers, chaplains and your nursing sisters, my appreciation of the work carried out by your hospital during last month, and I wish you all every success in the future. Believe me, yours sincerely,

"R. E. W. TURNER,
"Lieutenant-General."

The letter referred to by Col. Reason, written by Sergt. Winters, contains information which doubtless will be of interest to those who have friends on the staff of No. 3 Hospital. It says:

"No. 22 General Hospital is the present location of myself, Orr, Page, Smith and Ashenden, Osborne and Tozer did not get this far with us. Miller, Smith and Orr are pretty bad. Miller and Smith have severe head wounds, and Smith has had an operation, and I believe Miller is to have one in a day or so. Orr has apparently been severely shell shocked or was struck on his head. He seems to have difficulty in realizing what has occurred, and it keeps me busy telling him what became of the others. He is badly burned. Page has several cuts and bruises about the body. Ashenden is cut about the head and legs. I have only a bruised shoulder and ear. They keep me in bed all the time, in spite of requests to be allowed to get up. I hope to get out of hospital in a few days."

Letter to Sergeant's Father.

Lieut.-Col. Reason in writing to R. W. Ward, 279 Wortley road, father of the late Sergt.-Major Chas. Ward, says:

Dear Sir,—I trust that you received the cable which I dispatched informing you of the death of your son, Sergt.-Major Ward. He lost his life in company with his comrades as the result of an air raid on this hospital. In losing him you have lost a son of whom you have every right to be pround. We were fond of him, and at all times, as commanding officer, I found him most attention to his duties. Some time ago I forwarded a recommendation for recognition for some special work, and I trust that it will be forthcoming. You will be glad to know that his death was instantaneous, and that he did not suffer in any way.

He was buried with full military honors with his comrades, nursing sisters and officers who were victims of the air raid, and were buried on 31st May. The funeral was most impressive. The coffins were covered by the Union Jacks, with the exception of an American medical officer, whose coffin was covered with the Stars and Stripes. Bishop Fallon chanced to visit us on the day of the funeral, and very kindly took part in the service. I have asked him to call on you on his return to Canada and give you future details which I am not permitted to state in my letter. His grave will be properly marked and kept. I hope to have a photograph taken, and will send you one, although it may not be until after the war. In spite of it all we are carrying on the same as usual.

With renewed sympathies of myself and staff. Yours sincerely,

CLIFFORD H. REASON.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Mitchell have returned from a two weeks' honeymoon trip to New York, Philadelphia, Washington and other American cities.

AGED CLERGYMAN BADLY SHAKEN UP WHEN HIT BY AUTO

Suffers From Injuries at First Considered Serious.

Rev. J. Edmonds, 237 Wortley road, was struck by an auto driven by Francis England of Brick street at noon today, and received a severe shaking up. The accident occurred on King street, opposite the Dominion Savings Building. Mr. Edmonds, who is 91 years of age, was crossing the road when struck by the car, which was proceeding west.

Fire Chief J. Aiken was passing at the time, and the injured man was conveyed to Victoria Hospital in the chief's auto. Upon examination there it was found that Mr. Edmonds was suffering from bruises on the head and back, and was severely shaken up. It was thought at first that owing to the advanced age of the victim, the injuries sustained were severe, if not fatal, but Mr. Edmonds was able to leave Victoria Hospital for his home this afternoon.

FAREWELL PRESENTATION

Askin Street Brotherhood Gives Purse to Retiring Pastor.

Rev. Dr. Dougall, who preached for the last time on Sunday as pastor of Askin Street Methodist Church, was invited to meet the Men's Brotherhood in the lecture room at 10 o'clock in the morning, the regular hour for the weekly gathering.

This opportunity was taken on the part of the Brotherhood to bid farewell to their pastor for the past three years and make him a presentation of a fine seal purse, filled with several bills of large denomination.

R. R. Smith, president of the Brotherhood, was in the chair. The address was read by F. C. Waniess, secretary, after which the president presented Dr. Dougall with the purse.

Deeply touched by the expression of affection and appreciation. Dr. Dougall found difficulty in mastering his voice to thank the men for their unbroken kindness and co-operation during the years of his pastorate. Leaving Wednesday afternoon for Hamilton, where he becomes pastor of Wesley Church, he bespoke for his successor in Askin Street Church, Rev. Mr. Morris, the same support and consideration that have been accorded him.

Notwithstanding the storm at the hour of service on Sunday evening, Askin Street Church was well filled for Dr. Dougall's farewell service, the congregation pressing round to say good-bye to him at the close.

ONE A. M. C. MEMBER OF DISTRICT KNOWN TO BE ON VESSEL

Drafts From Here Not On the Llandovery Castle.

LONDONERS USED BOAT

Last Party of Returned Men Crossed From England On the Ill-Fated Liner.

So far as can be learned at district headquarters here, there were no London medical officers or nursing sisters on the torpedoed hospital ship, Llandovery Castle.

Corp. W. Dawson, 467 Hamilton road, a former member of the 142nd, was an orderly on the boat. His relatives here are anxiously waiting news from the other side.

Corp. Dawson had made more than a score of trips on the boat.

The last draft of five medical officers left here on Monday, June 24, and they could not possibly have been aboard a ship off the Irish coast on June 27, when the tragedy took place.

The previous draft, which included Major H. A. Kingsmill and a number of nurses, has already landed safely. Cables to that effect have been received in this city, and this removes any possibility of their being on the ill-fated ship.

The personnel of the conducting staff on the hospital ship is not known here, and it is possible that some doctors or nurses from this district might have been engaged on the staff of the ship, though this will not be known for some time.

Gunner Gordon Munnoch of this city, who returned from England recently, having been gassed in France, was a patient on the Llandovery Castle, probably on her last trip from England to Canada. There were many Londoners in the same party which arrived in this city about two weeks ago.

Gunner Munnoch stated to The Advertiser today that he knew of no Londoners on the staff of this hospital ship.

The Llandovery Castle was beautifully equipped for hospital work, and apart from the outrage committed, the loss of this ship will prove a serious problem for those in charge of returning invalided soldiers to Canada.

WOMEN TEACHERS' REPEATED CHARGES COMING UP AGAIN

The board of education meets this afternoon. It is expected that the action of the Woman Teachers' Guild in reiterating its charges against the board of discrimination against woman teachers in favor of men, will be aired. There are members of the board who are viewing the tempest which is arising over this case with a certain amount of alarm. The impression is that there are a number of teachers dissatisfied with the action of the board. The board sought to clean up the case by demanding that the teachers' guild retract their statements to the National Council of Women. It is needless to say that the teachers' reiteration of the charges in reply to the board's demand came to many of the members as somewhat of a setback.

The board's demand for a retraction was couched in no uncertain terms. It not only demanded a retraction, but ordered that a committee of the board be first allowed to pass upon the retraction before it was presented to the National Council of Women. Now the teachers in reply have gone farther than they went before. They say that the minutes of the board of education will substantiate their charges.

If the board was bluffing the guild, its bluff has been quickly called. This afternoon's discussion should be interesting.

ONTARIO HOUSE CAN EXTEND ITS TERM

Department Justice Decides It Is Not Unconstitutional.

Ottawa, July 2.—The extension by the Ontario Legislature of its own term has been under consideration by the department of justice and the view is expressed that the enactment was within the powers of the legislature. The point was raised in a communication to the minister of justice inquiring what steps should be taken to have the act disallowed.

CADETS GAZETTED

Salvation Army Workers of This District Commissioned.

Lieut.-Col. Rawling, divisional commander of the Salvation Army for London division, was in Toronto Monday evening for ceremonies in connection with the work of the Salvation Army in the Sherbourne Street Training College. Thirty-eight cadets who have been in training, were granted their commissions at the public meeting, which was held in the Salvation Army Temple, and certificates for first aid study in the St. John Ambulance presented to 20 women cadets and leaders of the life-saving guards.

Those receiving their commissions in the London division are: Dresden, Lieut. Lyla Wagner; London 3, Lieut. Doris Lightowler; Thedford, Lieut. Myrtle Tate; Forest, Lieut. Ruby Gregory.

CASUALTIES IN GERMAN CITY FROM ALLIED BOMBS

PARIS, July 1.—Five persons were killed and fourteen injured at Mannheim, Germany, Saturday morning by the bombs dropped by Allied aviators, says a Havas dispatch from Basel. Severe property damage also resulted.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

DEATH OF MRS. MINHINNICK.

The death of Mary Olivia Minhinnick, widow of the late John Rowe Minhinnick, occurred on Sunday at Parkwood, this city, the family residence. She was the fourth daughter of the late Samuel Dynes of Grimsby, Ont., and was married at Wellington Square, and later with her husband came to London, where she had since resided. She is survived by one daughter Gertrude and her sister Amelia Dynes at home, and four grandchildren, Paul Minhinnick of Cleveland, Ohio; Flora Minhinnick at home, Mrs. Clyde McGurer of Willoughby, Ohio, and Edwin Minhinnick of Norwalk, Ohio.

LEG BROKEN IN SMASH.—John Henderson, a local taxi driver, is in Victoria Hospital suffering from a broken leg and bruises as a result of an auto accident which occurred on Monday night near Exeter. The machine in which he was riding struck some new gravel, and was thrown off the road. He was brought to the city on the London, Huron and Bruce today ,and taken to Victoria Hospital.

AUTO ROLLED DOWN 35-FOOT BANK, BUT SOLDIERS ESCAPE

Four in Hospital, But Injuries Are Not Serious.

Four soldiers from Carling Heights, who spent the holiday at their homes near Exeter, had a close call from being killed in London Township at 8:30 last night, when an auto in which they were returning went over the side of the road, and after overturning three times came to rest a complete wreck at the bottom of a 35-foot bank.

The four men, members of the 1st Depot Battalion, W. O. R., were Ptes. Joseph Kernick, who is suffering from cuts in the face; Gordon Oke, contusion in the back; Harry Schwartz, contusion in the chest, and Stewart McFalls, contusion in the scalp.

They were reported to be progressing favorably at the military hospital, Carling Heights Camp, today.

The car was driven by Henry Maull of Ottaway avenue, and the accident, it is stated, was due to a washout in the road. A man was walking ahead of the auto, and when Mr. Maull turned out to avoid striking him the car struck the washout and went over the side of the bank. The man at once rushed to the assistance of those who were under the car.

An auto containing Lieut.-Col. Harry Milligan, Dr. Frank Bryant and John Cottam was passing and its occupants attended the soldiers. They were taken into the home of Miss Shaw-Wood close by and later brought to the city in Bluebonnet taxis and taken to the Wolseley Barracks Hospital. Today they were all reported as doing nicely and it is not believed they are seriously hurt.

A horse and buggy, driven by F. McMillan of Dorchester, was struck by an auto on the Hamilton road yesterday morning, and badly damaged. Miss Finch of Dorchester, who was also riding in the buggy, was severely shaken and was carried into a nearby house. She was later conveyed to her home. The parties driving the car which struck the buggy did not stop after the accident, but P. C. J. Oakley reported the license number on the auto as 866. The police are investigating.

Ellen Ingram, 97 Cavendish street, was yesterday afternoon struck by an automobile driven by George Mills of this city. The accident occurred on Dundas street in front of The Advertiser building. The victim of the accident was not seriously injured, and was conveyed to her home by the driver of the car, who reported the accident to the local police.

WOULD RECKON BREACH OF O. T. A. AS POLITICAL MISDEMEANOR ONLY

Irish "Barrister" Springs More New Ones, But Gets $200 Fine.

Robert Ovington of Stratford, described as an Irish barrister, appeared in police court today charged with a breach of the Ontario Temperance Act, and was fined $200 and costs, or three months in jail. Ovington obtained a prescription from a Stratford doctor, and after obtaining liquor here, and duly interning it, he was arrested by a local policeman. He has been remanded several times by Magistrate Graydon owing to his peculiar statements made in court.

In defence of his violation of the act, Ovington today delivered an oration in court. "I have been a prominent politician since I came to Canada from Ireland, and that is a big honor. As a Liberal I am opposed to the Conservative liquor laws, and break them at every opportunity. I do not wish to be tried under the act, as I should be charged with a political misdemeanor, and Irishmen always go free on this charge."

Strange to say, Magistrate Graydon did not fall in with Ovington's ideas, and imposed sentence. While being removed from the court the prisoner exclaimed, "As I was responsible for the election of President Wilson, I will take the option of joining the United States army." Ovington will be the guest of Governor Carter for three months, after which he may be allowed the option requested in court.

The case of H. Brownlee, charged with pointing a revolver, was adjourned until Friday, to enable witnesses for the defence to be subpoenaed.

HAMILTON RD. CHURCH MEMBERS GO TO PORT FOR ENJOYABLE PICNIC

Young People's Guild and Choir Have Lakeside Outing.

The Young People's Guild, and the choir of the Hamilton Road Presbyterian Church enjoyed an outing at Port Stanley on Monday. About 100 members of the congregation attended, and all report having a good time. While the weather was cold, some of the more hardy ones enjoyed a swim in the lake.

A baseball match between the Y. P. G. and the choir resulted in victory for the guild, with a score og 26 to 11. Capt. M. Collar for the guild and Capt. J. M. Stein of the choir did good work for their respective teams. Sergt. Kenyon umpired the game to the satisfaction of all.

The following are the prize-winners in the various races:

Boys, 50 yards—Harry Keats, James Hendrie, Dougall Pepper.

Children, 25 yards—Margaret Stein, Mirian Stock, Nancy Hendrie.

Men, 50-yard dash—James Sandford, Marvin Kenyon.

Girls, 50 yards—Hilda Stannard, Mary Molloy.

Necktie race—Miss L. Smith and James Sandford, Miss Keats and J. Hendrie.

Married ladies—Mrs. Hendrie, Mrs. Butterworth.

Blindfold race—Miss L. Smith and J. Sandford, Miss Carroll and M. Collar.

Chums—Miss Stannard and M. Kenyon, Miss Carroll and M. Collar.

Throwing baseball, girls—Miss Smith, Miss Carroll.

Married couples—Mrs. Caldwell and J. Stein, Mrs. Butterworth and J. McFarlane.

Three-legged race—Miss Mallory and M. Wideman, Miss Keats and M. Collar, Miss Johnson and J. Hendrie, Miss Stannard and M. Kenyon.

Rev. J. R. Laverie, J. A. McFarlane and Mrs. Holdon acted as judges.

A RECORD DAY

Saturday Was One of Biggest Days in History of Store.

"It was one of the busiest days in the history of our business," said Mr. Roy Cairncross of Cairncross & Lawrence while discussing last Saturday's business with an Advertiser representative. Mr. Cairncross is a firm believer in advertising and last Friday carried an advertisement in The Advertiser only, announcing a "Two For One" sale for Saturday. The result of the advertisement and likewise the wonderful pulling power of The Advertiser were demonstrated in the hundreds of people who thronged the store all day Saturday.

Two weeks previously Mr. Cairncross introduced a similar sale through The Advertiser only, and the following Saturday's business was the largest in the history of the firm. Many people, owing to the crowds, were unable to get attention on that day, and because of that and numerous requests for a repeat sale, it was produced again last Saturday. b

"MISSING" STIRS PATRONS OF MAJESTIC THEATRE

Mrs. Humphrey Ward's Wonderful Story One of Most Gripping Ever Seen in City.

J. Stuart Blackton's dramatization of Mrs. Humphrey Ward's wonderful story, "Missing," is regarded as one of the finest productions London has seen in many seasons. It is a war story with an entirely different method of production than all of the other films based on the great European tragedy. The crowds which saw this picture at the Majestic yesterday came away impressed with its real merit.

At the Majestic Theatre, Detroit, "Missing" is being held over for two weeks on account of the demand for its continuance. Manager Logan of the Majestic in this city regrets that he is unable to hold the film for his patrons, but all who are able should make an effort to attend the last performance today.

NO CARS RUNNING AT VANCOUVER, VICTORIA

Vancouver, B. C., July 2.—Street cars in Vancouver and Victoria are not running today, owing to a strike of employees which started at midnight. In Vancouver the jitneys, which were to have ceased operations yesterday, are being permitted to continue during the strike.

THE KICKER.

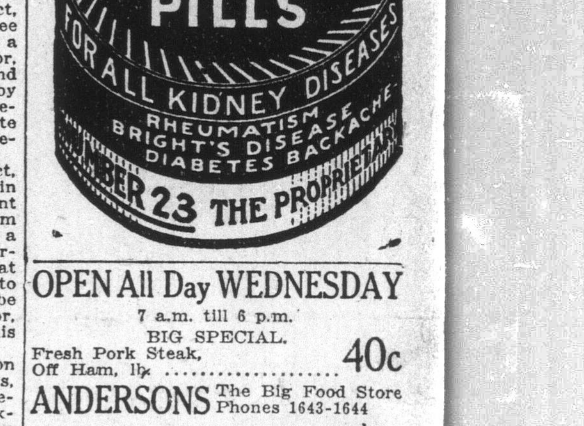

For the land's sake, quit your kicking;
do you really think it pays
To irritate your comrades with your melancholy ways?
You may just as well be cheerful and accept fate's cruel jest
With the courage of a Briton, and then leave to God the rest.

You are making life unpleasant with that fixed frown on your face,
Just because you feel that others have outstripped you in the race.
Did they reach their goal by whining?
Was that how they made their pile?
No,, siree; no kicker ever yet has won
Dame Fortune's smile.

Although hard luck may have hit you,
brace up, stiffen your backbone,
And don't tell your friends your troubles—they have troubles of their own;
You are missing golden chances while you're grieving o'er the past;
Don't be one of nature's failures, nail your colors to the mast.

Now, Old Satan was a kicker, when he dwelt amongst the blest,
Had a kick 'gainst God Almighty, and —I guess you know the rest;
So if you continue kicking, making earth a vale of woe,
You may some day die a-kicking, and —you know where kickers go.

OVERCOATS INSTEAD OF FANS NEEDED ON DOMINION DAY

Cool Weather Kept Many at Home on the Holiday.

Exceptionally cool and windy weather Monday kept Londoners in their homes to a greater extent than is usual on Dominion Day.

A slight coolness became noticeable the night and before Monday was over the way it was decidedly cool.

In spite of the weather many who had planned to visit Springbank and Port did so, but the trolley lines running to both places reported that, though they carried heavy crowds, the traffic was only about half the usual Dominion Day load.

The usual large number of Londoners left the city on the railroads, and as most of these left Saturday and Sunday the adverse weather did not interfere with their plans to any great extent.

Veterans' Field Day.

The big attraction of the day in the city was the big field day of the Great War Veterans' Association in Queen's Park Camp, and this attracted a good crowd. Commencing with a monster parade in the morning, the veterans held the centre of the stage practically all day.

Other attractions that drew their share of the crowds were the bowling tournament put on at the Elmwood Bowling Club greens, in which 36 rinks contested for the C. H. Ward trophy; the patriotic golf match at the London Hunt Club; the quoting championship games; bowling at the Thistle Club, and the military cricket game between the A. M. C. and the W. O. R. at Springbank Park.

In the evening the parks were fairly well deserted, and the amusement-seekers sought the theatres, where exceptionally good holiday programs were billed.

The soldiers at Carling Heights Camp spent the day quietly.

Saw the Sports.

Most of them took advantage of the holiday and its freedom from duties to attend the sports at Queen's Park or at Springbank. Others left on leave to spend the week-end at their homes.

Large numbers of relatives of the lads in khaki came in motor cars from outside points, and spent the week-end visiting with their boys here. Victoria Park, with its inviting stretches of grass and trees, was as usual the rendezvous for most of the soldiers who had friends and relatives to entertain.

Only one accident occurred during the athletic events at Queen's Park, when Arthur Tait, a cyclist from Toronto, suffered injuries to his hand, which were dressed at Victoria Hospital.

Loss Will Be $200.

The fire department had one run, being called to 349 Cheapside street about 5:30 in the afternoon. Damage amounting to about $200 was done to the cigar factory owned by John Sherlock in the rear of that address, in addition to the loss of tobacco stock.

Quite a large number of trees were entered in the casualty list late in the afternoon, when the wind began to increase in velocity, causing broken limbs and trunks in several parts of the city.

LIEUT. SAM ZOCCANO WOUNDED AFTER 33 MONTHS OF SERVICE

TONY ZOCCANO, the well-known pugilist, has received word that his brother, Lieut. Sam Zoccano, for five years a resident of this city, was seriously wounded in the recent heavy fighting. Mr. Zoccano had had no word from his brother for many months, and was somewhat worried as to what had happened to him.

Lieut. Sam Zoccano started home to visit relatives in Italy a couple of months before the war started. He had only been home a short time when hostilities commenced, and as a lieutenant in the Italian cavalry he was called to report for service. Although he took part in the fierce fighting throughout the war and in the battles to check the Germans in the big drive, he came through untouched until recently. He had completed 33 months of continuous service before being wounded. While in this city Lieut. Sam Zoccano was employed at the Cook-Fitzgerald shoe factory.

WEDDING BELLS

McKENZIE—SIMPSON.

Friday afternoon, at the Askin Street parsonage, Robert J. McKenzie and Mrs. Edith Simpson of 1 Bruce street, London, were united in matrimony by the Rev. Dr. Dougall. They came unattended. Their future home will be in Chatham.

McKAY—BAKER.

A pretty June wedding took place on Saturday at the residence of T. A. Baker, 59 Elmwood avenue, when his eldest daughter, Florence Marie, was united in marriage by Rev. Williamson to Harold Roy McKay, who is connected with the Royal Air Force, now stationed at Toronto.

The bride's dress was of sunset silk taffeta, and she carried a bridal bouquet of roses and sweet peas.

Miss Jean Baker, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and Archibald McKay, brother of the groom, as groomsman. Miss Alice Andrews, cousin of the bride, played the Wedding March as the bride entered the drawing-room on the arm of her father. Miss Hazel Gibson sang at the signing of the register, and after the ceremony the guests, who were only the immediate relatives, were served with a dainty buffet luncheon.

The drawing-room was tastefully decorated with flags and flowers. The groom's gift to the bridesmain and pianist was each a pearl brooch, and to the groomsman a pair of gold cuff links. The happy couple left on the 7 o'clock evening train for Toronto, where they will for the present reside.

SHARP-EYED LONDONER FINDS STOLEN WHEEL

ST. THOMAS, July 1.—Fred Westover of London, who was recently sentenced at Sarnia to a term in Kingston for bicycle and auto stealing, may be implicated in another theft that was discovered here today by accident. A young London man who was on his way down to Port Stanley on a trolley saw a small boy riding down the road on a bicycle that struck him as resembling very strongly one which was stolen from him some time ago. He got off the car, and on taking the matter up with the lad soon identified the wheel positively as one that was stolen from him. The boy said he bought it from a man for $25. The description, it is stated, corresponds with that of Westover. The case was reported to the police, and the lad will come for a hearing in connection with the theft on Tuesday. An investigation showed that the number had been filed off the bicycle.

RAIN WAS SCARCE IN MONTH OF JUNE

Scarcity of rain is the outstanding feature in the weather statistics for the month of June. Only 1.70 inches fell last month, as compared with 6.01 inches a year ago. The highest temperature was 88, on June 1, and the lowest, 36, on June 8. A year ago the highest temperature was 85, on June 13, and the lowest, 38, on June 15.

HEAVY WINDS DID CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE

Considerable damage was reported all through the district, as a result of the heavy windstorm which swept Western Ontario last night. Many fields of peas and grain were blown flat, especially in the northern townships.

BARN BLOWN DOWN.

WINGHAM, July 1.—A heavy windstorm, followed by a downpour of rain, swept over this vicinity last evening. Many fruit trees were destroyed, also a large barn on the premises of H. Wardsman was blown down and completely wrecked. The gale was one of the heaviest in this district for some time.

Kink in the Back

You bend over and can scarcely get straightened up again. This comes on you so suddenly you can't understand it.

This is lumbago. Like backache and rheumatism, it is the result of poisons in the blood. The kidneys are deranged, but the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will soon set them right. The pains and aches will disappear with the poisons when the kidneys do their work properly.

Polarine

FRICTION REDUCING MOTOR OIL

"Makes a good car better"

For Cylinder Walls

KEEP your cylinder walls like new—unscored and as smooth as glass with a film of oil that withstands heat and cold and maintains effective lubrication.

Scored cylinders cause poor compression, wasted power, lost efficiency that impairs both the performance and the actual value of your car.

DELIVERY OF FULL POWER

depends on a gas-tight piston-to-cylinder contact. Correct lubrication is therefore most essential. It reduces friction to a minimum, prevents overheating, protects the cylinder walls against scoring and so keeps power from leaking past the pistons.

Polarine FRICTION REDUCING MOTOR OIL

has the right body to lubricate every moving part of the motor with a protective film that minimizes wear and friction. It lessens carbon troubles—does not gum in summer nor congeal in winter. It keeps cars in smooth running order the year round.

Polarine is made in two grades—Polarine and Polarine Heavy. It is supplied in one-half, one and four gallon sealed cans, also in 12½ gallon steel kegs, barrels and half-barrels.

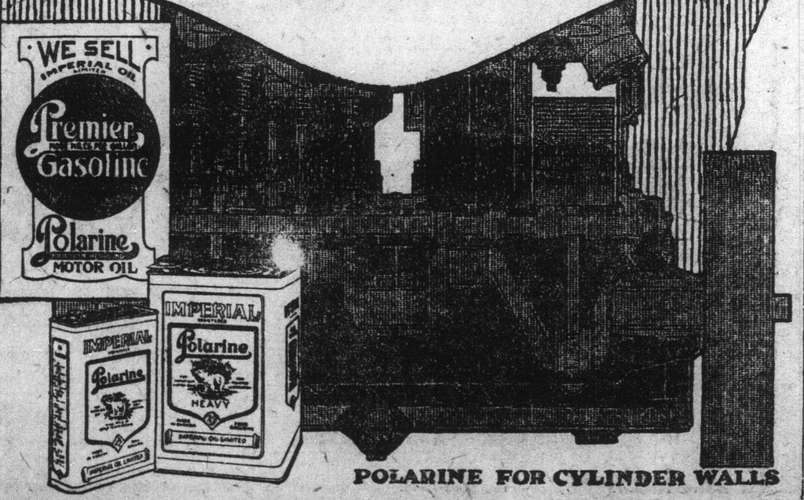

There are also Polarine oils and greases for effective transmission and differential lubrication.

Buy Polarine where you get Premier Gasoline—at the sign of the "Red Ball."

Simple Paraffin Combinations Used to Heal Burns

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG,
A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University.)

DR. HIRSHBERG

According to researches made by Prof. G. I. Walters, Doctor of Philosohpy, of Detroit, one of the best ways to dress burns is to apply one of the paraffin combinations available since the discovery of ambrine by a French army surgeon.

Oils, chemicals and emollients, plastic applications, thermic air baths, underwater treatments and wax have all been experimentally tried, adopted for a moment, so to speak, and as quickly laid aside because of the unsatisfactory and inconsistent results obtained. While many good results are to be found among cases which have been treated by almost any of these methods, none have shown the consistently satisfactory results which the application of paraffin has produced, though even in this treatment the final effect varies with certain factors.

A Mechanical Aid.

It appears that the action of most of these substances is based upon the purely mechanical properties of the paraffin base. It would seem, therefore, that if such is the case, and the results heretofore obtained are really as good as reports credit them with being, A substance having certain active therapeutic properties would be even more brilliantly successful.

The action of the better known paraffin preparations is mechanical, consisting of splint-like control of local nervous reactions. It protects the wound from air and external influences; is apparently therapeutic and encourages new granulations. Cicatrization is greatly eliminated, and grafting of skin often unnecessary.

Points to Remember.

The value of paraffin as a dressing has only recently received merited attention, and a study of cases in which it has been tried reveals several well established cures, which assume to a remarkable degree the appearance of fiction-like exaggerations. It is due to this that some highly colored and very impossible reports have been given widespread and undesirable credence by those ignorant of the real conditions involved in surgical therapeutics.

It should be remembered that a natural course of normal tissue must be brought about by encouraging growth metabolism under desirable and protective influence. This is the action of the various paraffins in greater or less degree, and these preparations have been tested severely for their mechanical and therapeutic values.

Answers to Health Questions

C. R. B. Q.—Please give me a diet to reduce.

A.—Food laxatives, such as uncooked bran, help in the reducing process, as do green vegetables and exercise. Drink plenty of water, only between meals, to flush the kidneys. You must observe simple rules. Don't sleep too much. Don't overeat even of lean dishes. Don't eat unless you are hungry. Don't drink alcoholic beverages. Don't eat bread, except gluten bread, toasted, and this in moderation.

J. A. P. Q.—Please give a good tonic for the hair.

A.—Apply a little of the following to your scalp about three times a week:

Quinine	1 dram
Pilocarpine	2½ grains
Salicylic acid	15 grains
Lanolin	½ ounce
Petrolatum	½ ounce

C. M. H. Q.—I am troubled with eczema. Please suggest a remedy. Also please advise something for water blisters.

A.—Apply a little of the following to the affected parts:

Salicylic acid	15 grains
Balsam peru	1 dram
Phenol	15 drops
Sulphur	1 dram
Petrolatum	½ ounce
Wool fat	½ ounce

For the water blisters use a little of the following:

Pink calamine	2½ dram
Zinc oxide	2 drams
Glycerine	2 drams
Phenol	30 drops
Lime water	2 ounces
Rosewater	2 ounces

T. R. Q.—Kindly give me a remedy for blotches on the arms.

A.—Try a little of the following lotion:

Pink calamine	2 drams
Zinc oxide	2 drams
Glycerine	2 drams
Phenol	30 drops
Lime water	2 ounces
Rosewater	2 ounces

A WORRIED MOTHER. Q.—Please tell me what to do for dry, flaky dandruff and falling hair.

A.—Sulphur is an avowed remedy for dandruff. A little of 1 dram of it with 10 grains each or resorcin, salicylic acid and sulphate of quinine to an ounce of petrolatum, used three times a week, does much good.

You might also try a little of the following tonic for the hair:

Quinine	1 dram
Pilocarpine	2½ grains
Salicylic acid	15 grains
Lanolin	½ ounce
Petrolatum	½ ounce

J. M. D.—Q.—My throat seems to be inflamed, and discharges pus or mucus. Please advise me.

A.—You should have an examination made of your throat and nose. In the meantime spray the nose and throat with alkaline antiseptic solution.

HULL WOMAN HAS GAINED 28 POUNDS BY TAKING TANLAC

Improvement of Mrs. McCann Is Talk of the Entire Neighborhood.

"My wife has actually gained twenty-eight pounds by taking Tanlac, and her wonderful improvement is the talk of all the neighborhood," was the remarkable statement made by John McCann of 197 Laval street, Hull, recently. Mr. McCann has lived in Hull all his life, and is well known.

"Yes, sir, I can say for a fact," he continued, "my wife hasn't been in such good health before in seven years. She had been in a badly rundown condition for about that long and gradually got worse in spite of all she could do. She had no appetite, seldom ate any breakfast, and very little at any time. She was so nervous she couldn't sleep well, and so weak she could hardly get about the house, much less do any of her work. It seemed like she would almost die at times with sick headache. She often had dizzy spells, and would get so sick and weak she would just have to give up and go to bed. She looked pale and sallow and had fallen off in weight from one hundred and twenty-eight pounds to one hundred and ten.

"I had seen Tanlac so highly recommended that I finally got a bottle for her, and I have never seen such a wonderful improvement in anyone. Soon after she commenced taking it she began to pick up and look better. She has taken five bottles now, and she has not only gotten back to her old weight of one hundred and twenty-eight pounds, but she has actually gone ten pounds above that, as she now weighs one hundred and thirty-eight. Her appetite is splendid and she's never bothered with nervous headaches or dizziness any more. She does all her housework besides taking care of five children, and never complains of feeling tired. We are both simply delighted over the way Tanlac has built her up, and we never miss a chance to boost it. Our neighbors have been astonished over the results, and they all tell her she looks like a different person."

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug, Limited, and by an established agency in every town.

To-morrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

WEDNESDAY, JULY 3.

The astral testimonies for this day point to much in the way of pleasure, popularity and social activity, with romantic affairs largely in the ascendant. Celebrations and festivities of all characters will flourish under the dominating and benignant reign of Venus trine Mars, though even under this benefic ray women must be particularly circumspect, and all should avoid excessive hilarity. Other aspects warn of deceit, trickery and self-undoing, and some small disappointments may manifest under an adverse but weak Saturn. Financial success is not favored, and money risks should be avoided, either in speculation or in investments. Those in employment who expect increase may be promoted, but they are warranted in urging their cause under the luminaries in sextile.

Those whose birthday it is will find the year one notable for pleasure rather than for profit, though those in employment may, if notably deserving, expect promotion. A child born on this day will be popular, affectionate, fond of pleasure and society, but not well favored in business unless it remains in the employment of others.

ADELE GARRISON'S NEW

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

Where Has Madge eHard This Name Before?

As the wounded officer finished his story such enthusiastic admiration welled up from my heart that I had hard work to keep an expression of it from my lips.

Here was a man! One worthy of all the homage that could be paid him. And yet so simple, so modest, that I knew an expression of admiration of his conduct would make him supremely uncomfortable.

The feeling had been strong upon me that he carried his dislike of approbation so far as to be annoyed if anyone looked at him while he was reciting one of his own exploits. I had, therefore, kept my eyes carefully averted while he was talking.

When he had finished, however, I stole a shy glance at him. He was lying back upon his pillows, his eyes closed, and there was such a tragic look of weariness and suffering upon his face that a poignant feeling of sympathy filled my heart.

Who was he anyway? I asked myself, and where were his people? Was there no woman, mother, sister, wife or sweetheart whose right it was to watch by his bedside, to smooth away by her loving tenderness the tragic lines suffering had graven upon his face?

Surely any woman ought to be proud and happy to have the love of such a man among men as this wounded young officer had proved himself to be.

"Please Don't Misunderstand."

I pulled myself up short—from some hidden depth in my heart there crept an unaccountable reluctance to dwell further upon this phase.

"The traditional penny wouldn't be enough, would it?" came a voice from the bed.

I started violently, looked up to meet the eyes of the sick men fixed sombrely upon me. His quizzical words were evidently only the merest camouflage for his real feelings. For a panic-stricken second I wondered if he possibly could have guessed the trend of my thoughts, then sanity returned to me, and I was able to answer him coherently.

"They aren't worth even a ha'penny," I said lightly.

"I'm not so sure of that," he returned soberly, then gave a little impatient shake of the head as if freeing himself from some unpleasant thought.

"I'm ready for your part of the bargain now," he said. "Remember, I want to know everything that happened from the time you left my car at the corner until you popped out of the door with that absurd little pistol in your hand."

I flushed a bit resentfully. He saw and understood it in a flash.

"Please don't misunderstand me," he said, "I am not minimizing the importance of the pistol. And you ought to know that you saved the situation by your opportune appearance. But, pardon me, you're so utterly entirely one's idea of the purely feminine woman that a revolver seemed the most incongruous thing possible in your hand."

"At Your Service."

The flush was a blush now, burning my whole face with its heat. There was no mistaking the personal significance of his words. I knew he had not meant to embarrass me, but both his tone and look pointed his meaning. I struck wildly into the story he had asked of me in a mad attempt to hide my embarrassment.

"I noticed something queer about that windmill, the first thing," I began.

"You had visited the inn before, then, I infer," he said quietly.

His tone relieved me by its matter-of-factness. I realized that he had seen my confusion, and was doing his unobtrusive best to put me at my ease. I accepted the cue gratefully, and beginning at the beginning related the whole story of my adventures at the inn, keeping no single fact back.

He listened attentively, making no comment, asking no questions until I had finished. Then he said quietly:

"So you are a member of the secret service."

"How did you know?" I asked, startled.

"Oh, you haven't been indiscreet," he smiled, "but I happened to have two or three detached pieces of information which dove-tail exactly with your story. I couldn't escape the inference."

I looked the inquiry I did not quite dare utter.

"No," he smiled in answer. "I'm not a fellow-sleuth, only a common or garden variety of army officer. Capt. Hugh Grantland, at your service."

So I knew his name at last, knew something else, that somewhere — I could not remember just where—I had heard the name before.

SUMMER IDYLS :·: :·: By Winner

When he stops paddling to clasp her hand and ask THE question she longs to hear—perhaps she most specially wants the opportunity to ask just WHEN he's going to don his khaki after she says "Yes"—it's strange that her eyes should be fascinated by the pond-lily which, stationary on the river's brim, tells her the canoe still is moving—not floating with, but AGAINST the current! Somehow she can't understand, and then—surging up in her heart, flooding her mind with comprehension and her cheeks with roses red—she realizes that they are in the power of Cupid, who gently drives all things HIS love way, even canoes and lilies, and love and understanding.

HE it is who makes summer idyls—and IDOLS of those who TRULY love.

DIARY OF A FASHION MODEL

BY GRACE THORNCLIFFE.

She Learns How Dress iLnes May Camouflage Large Hips.

One of the peculiarities I notice most frequently is that many women seem to have hips larger than appear in proportion to their figures. We usually take it for granted that every one whose waist is 36 will quite naturally have a 42 hip measurement, but this isn't the case. Some women whose figures we regard as perfectly stunning, nevertheless have a larger hip measurement than a perfect figure demands.

This fact came home to me very definitely yesterday when we were trying on a frock for Mrs. Ball. She is tall and stately, though quite young. Yet when we studied her figure from various angles it was apparent that unusually large hips were the one flaw in her otherwise good figure.

The afternoon dress that she finally decided on was a clever concealment of just this point. It is of grey satin, and its one note of color is in the sash ends, which are embroidered in dull blue, violet and green.

The skirt consists of two parts, a plainly hanging lower skirt and a double skirt which was a work of art in its perfect hanging folds. Squarish folds depend from the waistline, and the skirt ends in front and back with a long point. The grey satin sash is fastened in front with a flat bow and long streamers ending in points that repeat the lines of the double skirt.

Naturally there is a flattening effect around the hips, emphasized by the pointed front. The matter of draping a gown so that the points hang at exactly the right place is an art by itself. Madame illustrated this to us as she explained the advantage of the gown to Mrs. Ball.

"You see," she said, "the eye is always attracted to the unusual line. In a dress the diamond-shaped point is striking, and your eye fastens on it instantly. If we were to have these points near the hips the eye would be directed to the hipline and would immediately become aware of its defects By having all points in front only the graceful hanging folds of the frock command attention."

Grey Satin Afternoon Dress.

The shawl collar of this frock is of self-colored chiffon, and as this gives an additional breadth to the shoulders it helps to decrease the size of the hip-line.

The sleeves are long and loose and are finished with soft chiffon ruffles that fall a little below the wrist.

Mrs. Ball was delighted with what she called the "droopy effect" of the entire costume, and it certainly solved the problem her large hips presented in selecting for her a most becoming costume.

Good Night Stories

DOTTY BECOMES ACQUAINTED WITH MR. TOAD.

"I wonder!" exclaimed Dotty, as she spied a tiny open streak in the grasses at her feet, "I wonder if that isn't a path the meadow folks have made."

Then Dotty sat down on a stone and drew her feet under her apron, saying to herself:

"I'll just be real quiet and see for myself."

It didn't seem very long to her before she heard a croak, and into the tiny path hopped old Mr. Toad. He stopped right under Dotty to watch a fly sitting on the ground about two inches in front of him.

Dotty wondered what he was going to do—when there was a flash of something pink from Mr. Toad's mouth and the fly was gone.

"Fine!" exclaimed Dotty, forgetting herself and speaking out loud.

To Dotty's surprise Mr. Toad made no attempt to run away. Instead, he turned and blinked at Dotty.

"Easy enough," croaked Mr. Toad. "You could, too, if your tongue was fastened at the front end like mine is."

"But why did the fly stick on?" asked Dotty. "Why didn't he fly away?"

"He didn't have time, for one reason," laughed Mr. Toad. "But there's another reason—my tongue is covered with a sticky substance which holds him fast once my tongue touches him. I can see that there's a great deal you don't know about toads, but I can't stop to tell you. I must be on my way."

Mr. Toad started to hop away, but Dotty called him back and begged him to take her with him.

"Surely I'll take you along!" he croaked.

Away they went down the tiny path to the shining pool.

Out of the water popped several green heads to greet Mr. Toad. He perched himself on the bank, and the little pouch in his throat filled with air until it swelled like a little balloon; then Mr. Toad began to sing.

"Why don't you open your mouth?" cried Dotty.

"Don't have to," replied Mr. Toad, between songs. "I just draw the air through my nostrils and force it through two little slits in the floor of my mouth near the forward end of my tongue—that's the way I sing. The little balloons are for increasing the sound."

"How funny!" laughed Dotty.

"Funny nothing!" exclaimed Mr. Toad indignantly. "It's better than trying to swallow all the world when you sing. I can sing under water as well as out of it by pushing the air back and forth between my lungs and my throat pouch."

Then, right before Dotty's eyes, Mr. Toad began to wiggle and turn in the most alarming manner.

"Be careful or you're going to split your green coat!" cried Dotty, as she heard a tiny rip.

"That's what I'm trying to do," replied Mr. Toad, wiggling harder. "It's too tight for me!"

There was another rip and Mr. Toad kicked his hind feet from his green, warty suit, and with his hands pulled it over his head. As fast as he worked the old suit loose he swallowed it.

"What! Eating your clothes!" exclaimed Dotty in amazement.

Mr. Toad Sings for Dotty.

"Certainly!" replied Mr. Toad. "Best way to get rid of them," and with a disgusted croak he hopped away, saying something about the "wise children who knew nothing," leaving Dotty staring after him. And then Dotty awoke, for she'd fallen asleep in the meadow. But the strangest part is that when she told her teacher about her dream, teacher declared that everything she had said about Mr. Toad was true.

Words of Wise Men

Regretting the mistakes of yesterday is a poor substitute for preventing the mistakes of the morrow. Even though the heart be sore for what is over and done, it is folly to sit down and bewail it. The future is before us, and needs clear vision, not eyes dimmed.

Reform is the work of reason slowly awakening from the lethargy of ignorance, gradually acquiring confidence in her own strength, and ultimately triumphing over the dominion of prejudice and custom.

Experience has shown that the royal road to popular success is to show courage and independence and to stand up for one's convictions. The man who does not know where he is going is not at all likely to win many followers.

The "Do's" and "Dont's" of the Shiny-Face Problem

BY LUCREZIA BORI
The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

LUCREZIA BORI

Some women object to using soap and water as a face wash on the ground that it tends to make their skin too shiny. Now it isn't necessarily an application of soap that produces this effect, although some especially alkaline soaps may do this. The "shiny" skin that is a trial to so many women is more in the nature of the skin than in the cleansing agents used.

It may be caused by some organic condition of the body, in which case a physician should be consulted. But if it is not an extreme case then a little special attention may help to remedy and eventually remove the cause.

Don't rely on the excessive use of powder to obviate it. Some women have the habit of daubing their faces dozens of times a day with powder in an effort to tone down a shiny skin. You see them whisking powder puffs everywhere.

If you think about it a moment you can readily see that putting powder on top of the skin when it is dusty or perspiring may temporarily remove its shininess, but it is by no means a wholesome or a sanitary habit. The hastily applied layer of powder simply helps to shove the dust or oiliness further into the pores, and eventually causes them to enlarge.

Powder should be applied to the face only after it has been thoroughly cleansed and the pores closed by lightly spraying or dabbing the face with cold water. Then the powder acts as a film of protection between the delicate skin and the grime and dust of outdoors. If the skin is carefully rubbed with cold cream afterward the powder and the dust that adhere to it will be removed simultaneously, and the skin thus cleansed perfectly.

If your face seems to get moist or shiny too frequently during the day try the plan of applying a special lotion to it for a few days. Here is one that is easily made:

Benzoin Lotion for Shiny Skin.

5 drops of tincture of benzoin.
½ dram of zinc oxide.
1½ drams of glycerine.
1 ounce of lime water.

Mix together well, dab on the face and allow to remain from half an hour to an hour.

Here is another recipe for the same purpose, but the mixture is a little thicker and leaves a flesh-tinted powder on the face:

Zinc Lotion for Shiny Skin.

2 drams of zinc oxide.
2 drams of glycerine.
2 drams of rosewater.
1 dram of orange flower water.
1 dram of elderflower water.

Sometimes a shiny skin is induced by too much rubbing. It isn't a good plan under any circumstances to rub the skin hard either with soap or water, a face towel or even with a cream. Excessive friction of the skin will not only produce a shine, but eventually will roughen and so ruin even the most hardy skin.

INCIDENTS IN THE LIVES OF FAMOUS WOMEN

BY ELOISE FARRINGTON.

How Did Queen Emma Pass the Ordeal of Fire Unharmed?

Among the many feminine rulers of England who went to extremes of suffering and daring in order to maintain their regency, one figure remains uniquely clothed in tradition and mystery as having received—those of the day believed—supernatural aid. She was Emma, joint ruler with her son, Edward the Confessor.

Emma shared the English throne on three different occasions, and her career seems to have been an unusually eventful one, even for those stirring times. She was the daughter of the Duke of Normandy, and was married to Ethelred, King of England. Their reign was short-lived, however, for on the invasion of the Danes they fled the throne. Later, however, Emma married Canute, and on his demise she reigned conjointly with her son, Edward the Confessor.

As a ruler Emma seems not to have achieved much popularity, for we find her opposed by a powerful faction, headed by the Earl of Kent. All sorts of slanderous rumors were gradually spread about her, but how much truth there was in any of them history seems not to have determined. She was finally caught in a network of intrigue and was accused of high treason.

Without the formality of a logical trial she was condemned to walk barefoot over red-hot plowshares. This was to be her test of innocence or of guilt, for her persecutors maintained if she were innocent she could walk over the scorching irons unhurt.

If this seems amazing reasoning possible only in the Middle Ages, we need but turn to the history of the American colonies in the days of the witchcraft scares, for we will find that the Puritan Fathers subjected the suspected witches to such ordeals. Burnings and drownings were not uncommon, the pious accusers affirming that the guilty perished, while those who were innocent would survive even when put to the fatal test of flame or water.

Emma, however, seems to have avoided the fate prepared in some way—those of the time declared miraculous. The night before her torturous trial she spent in prayer before the tomb of St. Swithin, gathering strength for the ordeal.

Her fiery trial took place in the Cathedral Church at Winchester, in the presence of her son the king, all the nobility, the clergy and many of the "common people." She appeared plainly garbed instead of in the rich robes befitting her royal station. With bare feet and legs bared to the knees she walked with dignified bearing and her eyes piously raised heavenward. She seemed not even to see the glare the fiery irons threw upward, but calm and composed she walked aver the scorching hot metal.

So unaffected was she, and apparently so untouched that chroniclers say she appeared not to know she had finished the test, for after having walked over all of the hot plowshares she turned to ask her inquisitors when they were going to bring her to her test.

"A miracle! A miracle!" cried the king, awe-struck, while Emma's persecutors trembled in fear. Quickly the king threw himself on his knees before his mother, imploring her forgiveness, which she freely granted.

Then as a sign of remorse the king did public penance.

GERMAN MORALE INFERIOR.

EVIDENTLY morale among prisoners of war is just as essential as among those soldiers in the trenches and in reserve who form the fighting armies.

This intangible quality long has been recognized as essential in the fighting forces, those possessing it in the highest degree being most steadfast, courageous and optimistic. Now it appears that those whose morale vanishes when they are captured by the enemy are as dangerous to their nation, if not more dangerous, than those who falter when on the battlefield. Gen. von Ludendorff, Germany's real military leader, bitterly reproaches some of his men who have been taken by the Allies for betraying his plans and thus helping materially to defeat them. In an order to the German army, containing these reproaches, he says that the men who divulged the plans for the German attack between Soissons and Rheims in May and those for the assault between Montdidier and Noyon on June 9 cost their country thousands of lives and endangered the Teuton cause. He warns all ranks to maintain silence when taken prisoner, and adds that failure to do so may "cause gravest prejudices to the whole nation."

The fact, then, is established that Germans taken prisoner either have not the courage to conduct themselves as soldiers or have not the desire. It may be that they take a delight in assisting in the destruction of the army leaders under whom they have been slaves and believe that they will be given special treatment by their captors if they talk. At any rate, talk they do, and, apparently, to good purpose.

On the other hand there is no hint that Allied soldiers have given the enemy any information. In spite of the brutal treatment given them, they refuse to bid for anything better by betraying their comrades, and defy the German authorities. They keep up their morale under the worst possible conditions.

The difference lies in the race and in the cause. The British and French naturally are more intelligent and more patriotic, and will suffer gladly for their country. Added to this, they have the greatest cause of all time to fight for and this is an incentive to keep up the struggle even when unarmed. Ludendorff confesses his men the inferiors of the Allies.

PROPERTY OWNERS HARD HIT.

PROPERTY OWNERS who complain about high taxes and other expenses might take some consolation from the fact that 75 per cent of tenants in Paris have paid no rent since the outbreak of war. Many women, owners of blocks of valuable buildings, have been working as scrub women for 7 cents an hour in order to keep themselves in food. High taxes would seem a joke to these people.

CHAMPAGNE WON OUT.

THERE ARE TIMES and occasions when water will not take the place of champagne, although as a thirst-quencher it undoubtedly is superior. One such occasion arose in Toronto on Saturday when the wooden steamer "War Ontario" was launched. The officials of the Imperial munitions board had suggested that the bottle of champagne used, according to time-honored custom, to christen a vessel, be dispensed with and a bottle of aqua pura be used in its place, and this idea had been accepted with good grace by the builders, but there was another voice to be heard.

Sailors and vesselmen united in protesting loudly against this tempting of fate. They argued that such a prohibition christening would bring a streak of bad luck to the vessel and intimated, further, that there would be great difficulty in obtaining a crew to work the new ship if the bottle of fizz were omitted from the christening ceremony. This put a different complexion on the matter altogether, and the sailors won the day, Lady Hearst, who performed the ceremony, not being averse to handling the dangerous stuff.

Superstition dies hard and cannot be ignored with impunity. Sailors are no cowards; either on the seas or the Great Lakes there is no room for any but brave men. Nevertheless they have their traditions and they object to departing from them. The superstition may be all nonsense, but, they ask, why take chances? Perhaps they are right in avoiding even the suspicion of unnecessary danger.

Reports do not announce who provided the bottle of champagne, but there does not seem to have been any difficulty in obtaining it.

DIED IN HIS ENEMY'S HOUSE.

WHAT A SENSE of the fitness of things was possessed by that old horse which, knowing instinctively that its days on earth were ended, wandered into a city garage, backed apologetically down the basement stairs and fell in the coal bin, to arise no more! Symbolic and prophetic!

When motor cars and tractors had forced their way to popularity the cry arose: "The day of the horse is ended; soon it will be as extinct as the dodo." The cry was premature and the horse has continued to hold a certain place in the affections of humanity and in industrial utility, but there was basis for the belief expressed, and year by year man's best friend is being ousted from his old positions to be replaced by the gasoline-driven machine.

Perhaps the horse has even more intelligence than is credited to it. If it has and can trace back from results to causes, one can imagine this venerable specimen of the race, which chose such a dramatic setting for its final gasps, meditating on the changes and deciding on its last act.

"I am one of those animals on whom man has depended largely for his livelihood since early ages. By my labors his fields have been tilled, his harvests gathered, his produce taken to market, his own foods drawn from the towns and cities and his family transported from place to place. Whatever there has been to do, I have done loyally, faithfully and cheerfully. All I have asked in payment is my board and lodging; a good warm stable, with a small portion of the hay and oats I have helped to produce for my meals. I have been honored, fondled and petted and have grown old and grey in the service. At least I expected a protected and comfortable old age and deathbed.

"What have I had for my loyalty? Used to the limit of my strength and endurance while I could work, I am now turned out, thin and hungry to forage for food and die on the roadside. The stable that once was mine now houses a motor car; a thing of metal, without feeling, which has taken my place. I and my brothers are cast aside, past services forgotton, in favor of these man-made machines whose only virtue lies in their speed. My death lies at their door; as a protest I will die in one of their palatial homes and thus show humanity that we realize our finish and are able to place the blame where it belongs."

Would it comfort the old fellow if he could know that his usefulness does not end with death? That his body as fertilizer will continue to help the production of foods? Would he be glad to know that his hide is more valuable today than his whole living, breathing being was a week ago? Perhaps it is better he is spared this knowledge.

WANTON MURDER.

FRUSTRATION of the German submarine has caused the enemy to commit one more of his devilish outrages upon humanity. A hospital ship carrying medical officers, men and nurses was ruthlessly sunk, with a brutal intention evident of drowning helpless human beings.

All has been said of these acts of filthy frightfulness that can be said. The world will never treat with a nation of super-savages whose acts make those who must fight against them take a firmer grip upon the sword with which the brutes must be laid low.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The first of July was an ideal fall day.

Fanatics spoil reform work, says Toronto's M. O. H., and he has Russia to point out as an example.

The late Cecil Rhodes is being given great credit for outwitting the kaiser, but surely that was not one of his greatest achievements.

During the last few summers it has seemed impossible to get rain unaccompanied by thunderstorms, and this summer is following the same path.

How could those Quebec men speak of "Unionist liars"? What grounds can they have found for doubting the absolute truthfulness of the Union Government?

Iron discipline is reported to be failing in the German army, proving that the blood and iron policy has its weak link.

An American citizen is said to have produced a fuelless energy producer which will supply all the energy the world needs. Just at this time almost everyone could do with an injection.

Wonder how Hon. Messrs. Borden, Rowell and Co. will be able to sit at the same table as the non-conscriptionist South African and Australian imperial delegates without thinking that German gold is at the bottom of the whole thing?

When Germany drops pamphlets in the American trenches telling of air raids on United States cities, she is wasting money and effort. If they were believed they would act as special incentives to the soldiers to batter down the kaiser's forces.

Testimony to the good behavior of Canadian troops overseas continues to pour in, but the best proof after all is the magnificent work they have accomplished. Could this have been done by men weakened by excessive drinking of liquor or other debauchery?

HOW CANADA VIEWS TITLES.

[Farmer's Advocate.]

The announcement which the prime minister had intended to make to the imperial council concerning titles does not give voice to the opinions held generally in Canada, nor does it express the views of the members of the House of Commons. Ignoring the incident in the House on May 21, when Unionist members felt obliged to vote for the Government's amendment in order not to embarass the cabinet after Sir Robert Borden declared that he would consider it a vote of confidence, we can truthfully say that Canada is fed up on titles and desires no more of them. The plain and common names such as Gladstone, Asquith, Lloyd George and even those of lesser lights carry with them a refreshing atmosphere which suggests brilliant intellect and noble achievement. Lloyd George's elevation from the environments of a cobbler's shop to the highest position in the nation which can be occupied by any man outside of a certain lineage, and his great world influence can never be made more illustrious by any honor the throne can confer. This is not written in any spirit of disloyalty, but recognition on the part of one's fellowman is what really does lasting honor to the name of those who prove themselves great. If one does not distinguish himself in any work which benefits his country a title will no longer delude the people, and the camouflage must be altered. For some reason or other a title suggests wealth and influence to the simple and democratic Canadian mind. Perhaps this is unfortunate, but titles are becoming common here, and reports come from across the seas, where knighthood has long been in flower, that distinction does not constitute the only claim to such preferment. Riches in themselves no longer bring glory to him who has accumulated them, and a title added does not increase one's popularity.

It is reported that the list of birthday honors, which will be announced before this is read, will not contain the names of any Canadians who are recipients of hereditary titles, and those conferred will probably be in recognition of valiant service on the battlefield. However, the feeling is that all should be abolished, and surely at the next session of parliament an opportunity will be given for a free expression of opinion without linking the matter up with any vote of confidence or something else as unimportant to the citizens of this country who elected a Government to carry out the wishes of the Canadian people.

MORE FOR M. AND M.?

[Toronto Telegram.]

The Government announces that two million dollars will be spent on building branches for the Canadian Northern in the west.

Is the Camadian Northern still under control of Mackenzie & Mann?

Canada should pay off her nation builders. The price fixed by the board of arbitration may appear exorbitant, but it is not growing any smaller as the summer advances.

Canada wants to be assured that Mackenzie & Mann have handed over the C. N. R. to the people, and that the present arrangements is not merely another method of handing over more of the public's cash to Mackenzie & Mann.

A HORSE IS A HORSE.

By Archey Cameron New.

A mighty crowd of men, all ages, colors and of various states of servitude, seethed, surged and jostled each other in the bed of Pelham street, their faces all turned towards Marks' auction stables, and their eyes impatiently fixed on a large, red stand to the left of the open concourse. There were those bent on grim bargaining, and many of these were now turning into the street from the large concourse, to swell the larger throng of those gathered from mere curiosity, to see and not to buy.

And now the stellar attraction, a stalwart athlete, whose muscles of iron were almost visible through the blue suit that he wore, emerged from the stable offices, accompanied by a purplish, rotund individual, whom many recognized as Marks. But everyone present, doctors, lawyers, merchants and chiefs, soldiers in uniform, and bums without them, knew the other and proclaimed the fact as they surged again towards the red stand.

"Jack Bedford," "Yea, you Jack," "Oh, you big boy," and the like rang out, as the former well-known lightweight champion of the fistic ring bowed his smiling acknowledgment to the crowd. But Marks knew what he was there for, and stepped promptly to the front of the stand, while Bedford lightly vaulted over the side and was immediately swallowed up in a circle of admiring fans.

"Gents, y' know what yer 'ere for," he announced, cryptically. "Jack Bedford, former champeen lightweight, and late of Bothron's circus, has brought his entire string of horses here t' be sold. Not t' be given away, y' understand! Loosen up yer purse-strings, gents. Tear th' string off yer rolls, an' let yer biddin' be fas' and furious. Jed, bring out No. 1." Marks gave the command over his left shoulder, and soon a hostler paraded before the stand, leading the first of Bedford's magnificent stock of horses.

"One hundred," sang out a short, fat man, with a whip in his hand, as the big bay mare again passed in front of the stand, and Marks glared at the bidder scornfully.

"We're not sellin' th' hoofs," he barked out. "This 'ere animal goes in one piece. Gents, do I 'ere any more? Hunnerd'n twenty-five? Thankee, sir. Now fifty! Fifty, ataboy! Now seventy-five! R'member, these are prime stock, not platers."

Bedford, at the side of the stand, disengaged himself for a moment from the recital of a wrinkled old fan, "who'd seen every lick between Sullivan and Sharkey, yes, sir," and stepped up to a large, red-faced man close by.

"Do bid 'em up now, Jim," Bedford whispered hastily in the other's ear. "But watch your step! Get out from under if you see the bidders weakenin'. You know the rest."

The man nodded grimly and went to the front of the stand, where he was soon engaged in "boosting the bidding."

Meanwhile, one of the hostlers, standing at the entrance to the stables, felt a timid touch on his sleeve, turned with a gruff exclamation, which died on his lips as his mouth opened slowly. For facing him was a dainty little miss, whose brown curls dangled becomingly under a smart little hat, and whose saucy, bright eyes shone on him appealingly.

"Beg pardon, miss," he said, doffing his cap, "What'd y' say?"

"May I go in there?" she asked, in a low tone, at marked variance with the shouts in the street. She pointed to the stables, packed with Bedford's horses.

"Sorry, miss," was the apologetic answer. "It's 'gainst th' rules. Buyers wuz allowed in before the sale, but not now. You'd get hurt. Th' boss won't 'low it."

"Oh, no," she spoke up, brightly. "I wouldn't get hurt. I'm used to horses. Besides, I know 'em all—every last one in there."

Then, as he wavered, she pressed a "clincher" into his palm.

"I'll bet you I won't get hurt," she told him, with a twinkle in her eyes. "And I'm paying my bet in advance."

"I can't go in there, June," said a slightly older girl at her side. "I'm afraid."

"Never mind," June replied, promptly. "You wait here." And then, holding her smiling "spell" over the hostler, she entered the stable.

She went among the horses, patting them as she moved among them, and then, apparently finding the object of her search, she flew to the side of a big white horse, with a black splotch right over his right eye.

"Freckles!" she exclaimed, delightedly. "You dear old fellow!"

The animal addressed looked toward her, and then, with a loud "neigh," started toward her.

"Look out, miss," cried the hostler, warningly. "He'll——"

And then as Freckles stopped in his tracks, and rubbed his head against her shoulder, the hostler looked on in amazement.

"Why, miss, he knows you!"

"Certainly he does!" came her happy answer. "We were chums for a whole year, weren't we, Freckles?" Then she turned to the hostler. "Are you going to—sell—him—too?"

"A horse is a horse," was the grim answer. "Sure he gets sold. If you want, I'll bring him out for you next."

"What!" she cried, taken aback. "Out—there—in that mob?"

"Have to," he snapped. "No hoss sold private t'day, miss. Y' kin bid on 'im, though."

And then, treating the matter as settled, the hostler moved away, while June stood for a moment in indecision, then, setting her lips firmly, she moved out among the men.

According to promise, Freckles was led out before the stand and Marks called loudly for a bid.

"One hundred," answered an old stable-man almost at June's elbow, and unseen by him she darted a resentful glance at his back, then turned to her companion.

"A hundred dollars—for Freckles!" she repeated, scornfully.

"Why not?" was the calm retort. "He's only a horse."

"Only a horse—Freckles? Why——"

"Fifty," sang out another voice, and June turned her face back to the stand.

"That's it, gents!" interposed Marks, raucously. "He's th' prize of th' lot. Not a pimple on 'im. Solid gold, as he stands. Any more?"

"Two hundred!"

Marks looked, and then grinned broadly.

"Good," he commended, beaming on June. "Th' wimmin are mixin' in. Two twenty-five! Now fifty, missy? Fifty, 'at's it. Don't let 'im beat y'. Now seventy-five! Right! Now, miss, three hundred."

June trembled violently, then looked into a small reticule, while her companion tugged anxiously at her sleeve.

"June, are you crazy?" she demanded.

"Come a——"

"Two seventy-five once, two seventy-five twice—are you all done—two——"

"Three hundred." June's voice now sounded louder, as a hush fell on the crowd.

"Three twenty-five," sang out Bedford's man, gruffly.

Another urge from Marks, and then "Three thirty" came her bid, in a choked gasp.

"Any more?" demanded Marks, but Bedford's man weakened, and a moment later Marks sang out: "Sold—to the little charmer—what's the name, miss?"

"June Bonner," she answered, and then Bedford dropped an admirer's hand and rushed into view.

"June!" he exclaimed happily, then noting the curious glances of the crowd, he took her arm and led her into the offices, and shut the door. "June, what brings you here?"

"I—I wanted—to save Freckles!" she told him, with a little sob, and then related the rest about the sale.

"And you were—bidding—against Jim Madden?" he echoed, in horror. "The sale's off! The idea—he bidding against—you!"

"Oh, Jack, please——"

"The sale's off," Bedford repeated, then he grasped her hands in his. "But Freckles is yours—a present from me. I'm making enough out of the rest. I'm going to take the money and go into business—drygoods, or something like that."

"And you're—not going—to fight—any more?" she whispered, gazing into his eyes.

"No. I'm through!" he announced, then he grasped her hands eagerly. "But, June, will that make any difference? Tell me, will it?"

"It might," she whispered, glancing at him shyly, then lowered her eyes, as he reached out his arms.

"And you'll take me—with Freckles?" he demanded hoarsely. "And give up circus-riding? Will you make the same sacrifice for me — as you were about to make for Freckles?"

"A horse is a horse," she answered, whimsically. "But—but—you're Jack Bedford."

And then two warm arms stole up around his neck.

DAILY BIBLE QUESTION CLUB

4. Verses 38-42.—Based upon this story, what sort of reception does Jesus give to those who seek him?

5. What do men always get when they come to Jesus?

6. When men find Jesus, what is their attitude to other men and Jesus?

Golden Text—He that will let him take the water of life freely.—Rev., 22:17.

ALL WHO WILL MAY DRINK AND THIRST FOR MORE.

Sinners are represented as dying for thirst. They thirst for happiness, for satisfaction, for freedom from suffering, and the more they cry for water, the greater their anguish. It is at this stage that Jesus comes and offers them the water of life to drink. He said to the woman before referred to, "Whosoever drinketh of this water shall thirst again; but whosoever drinketh of the water I shall give him shall never thirst; but . . . shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life." This is a beautiful, pictorial presentation of the salvation of Jesus Christ. All who slake their thirst from human fountains but increase their thirst, but those who come to Jesus, the inexhaustible reservoir of water, and drink, will thirst no more.

JIMMY COON STORIES

By Dr. Warren O. Partridge.
Copyright 1917 by George Matthew Adams.

JIMMY SEES MR. CATCHER IN TROUBLE.

Jimmy Coon and Peter Rabbit almost laughed their heads off to see Mr. Oyster-Catcher with his mouth shut. Mr. Catcher was like some people you often see, who have their mouths open too much. Mr. Catcher talked too much; and now he had a clamp on his mouth, so he couldn't say a word. That was awfully hard on the talkative Mr. Catcher, for you know how it would be yourself. It was an immense joke on Mr. Catcher when he jabbed his long and sharp red-handled blade into the front door of Mr. Clam's house, that Mr. Clam suddenly slammed the door in his face, and held on for dear life.

It certainly was comical to see Mr. Clam hang on to the end of Mr. Catcher's long red bill. And Mr. Catcher tried to get Mr. Clam off his bill, but it was no use, for Mr. Clam held on tight, with all his powerful muscles in his strong back.

And, Mrs. Catcher couldn't say a word, although he was as mad as a March Hare. But Mr. Catcher swung Mr. Clam around on the end of his long bill, and Mr. Clam had a ride through the air, but he wouldn't let go. Mr. Clam hung onto the end of Mr. Catcher's bill like grim death. Then Mr. Catcher tried to tear off Mr. Clam with his feet, but Mr. Clam held on like a vise. And poor Mr. Catcher was in an awful box, for he couldn't say a word, and he couldn't get his mouth open, to get a bite to eat, or to get a drop of water to drink.

And to make matters worse, there were Jimmy Coon and Peter Rabbit

Mr. Catcher swung Mr. Clam around on the end of his long bill.

dancing around and laughing at all the funny antics. And Jimmy Coon called out, "Say, Mr. Catcher, why don't you talk? Why don't you say, 'Wheep, wheep, wheo!' as you did yesterday?"

Now, this was awfully mean for Jimmy to tease Mr. Catcher, when he was in such a tight box, and all he could whisper was, "Weep, weep, weep!" I suppose he wanted Jimmy and Peter to shed some tears over all his trouble.

And Jimmy Coon tore around and found some nice fiddler crabs, and some choice worms, and some lovely clams and mussels which Mr. Catcher had dug up out of the sand, but had no time to eat.

But Jimmy had the time, and an open mouth, too, so he ate all the nice dinner of Mr. Catcher. This made Mr. Oyster-Catcher hopping mad, and he hopped about like a chicken on a hot stove to get that big clam off the end of his long red bill. And suddenly Mr. Catcher had a clever idea. He walked over to a big rock, and he just slapped that clam which was on the end of his bill onto a sharp rock. And that shell broke into many pieces, and that lovely clam-meat lay on the sand.

And Jimmy Coon did the meanest trick in his rascally life, for he slipped up behind, and gobbled down that nice clam-meat.

Tomorrow: Jimmy Coon Wants Honey, Too.

DELEGATE'S IMPRESSIONS OF NATIONAL COUNCIL WOMEN

Mrs. John Rose, delegate to the National Council meeting at Brantford, submitted the following report at the local council meeting held here last week:

"Canadian women from coast to coast, an aggregation representative of Canada's organized womanhood, were in attendance at the annual meeting of the National Council of Women in Brantford.

"Here, indeed, was the clearing-house for manifold questions that had been deliberated upon in various councils and affiliated societies of the far-reaching organization. Here, indeed, the many activities were represented by various types of women, some from far away and others from nearer home, all intent upon questions concerning the more serious side of life.

"The reports of the standing committees alone evidenced as nothing else might the enormous scope of the work accomplished by the National Council. Reports were read on finance, equal moral standard, laws for women and children, objectionable printed matter, custodial care of feeble-minded women, care of aged and infirm, poor, immigration, press, agriculture for women, citizenship, vacation, school and supervised playgrounds, suppression of the white slave traffic, public health, education, fine and applied arts, household economics, nursing profession, employment for women and national resources.

"This being the writer's first visit to an annual meeting, do you wonder that her head was in a whirl? But as she frequently heard the slogan, "Now we are citizens," in many of the discussions, she succeeded in recovering her equilibrium, and at last began to realize that the vote, a small weapon of great power, had been bestowed upon her sex.

"The retiring president, Mrs. Torrington, in her presidential address, proved her familiarity with her work, the work of a good citizen, as she herself defined it, to care for the well-being of the public body, the public mind and the public soul, a knowledge of conditions as they are, and an unselfish effort to better them wherever betterment is possible.

"That a gulf, imaginary or real, exists between the west and the east, or that in time one will develop, seemed to be the opinion of at least some of the westerners. Appearances certainly indicate the necessity for the women in the older provinces to be on the alert, or their more assertive and aggressive western sisters will take the lead, a position that has been deferred to the latter as being the older members of the family.

"The resolutions brought before the assembly were opportune, delving and pioneer. All were carefully prepared and ably spoken for by their supporters, but the writer could not help but deplore the fact that the very apparent need for conservation of time rendered it necessary to "railroad" more than one of them through with little discussion.

"At the same time the ability to differ, to keenly debate disputed points and to give vent to strong feeling was well shown when the need came. Neither was there any hesitation to approve or censure those who sit in the "seats of the mighty."

"At one time when the discussion was more than usually heated, Mrs. Torrington sized up the situation beautifully when she called the meeting to order and remarked: 'In this great aggregation of women, we always have differences of opinion, but over all there is the mantle of charity.'

"Mrs. Laing spoke admirably and convincingly for reform in the criminal code, and the wave of indignation that swept over the assembly on hearing her remarks gave ample proof that under woman's influence, morality and not physical well-being will be the basis of the law, irrespective of sex.

"The deliberations on Friday, when the session lasted almost continuously from early forenoon until late at night, proved conclusively women's ability to give sustained, continued and concentrated attention to affairs of serious moment, some of which, as Mrs. Laing so aptly remarked, had not been of their ken before. Now with the power of the vote behind them the women realize that intelligent understanding must be their attitude upon all matters of legislation if they are to be desirable public citizens.

"That women are prepared to give exhaustive and sustained effort towards getting the knowledge required to discuss intelligently public affairs was strongly evidenced by the amount of time and work Mrs. Secord of Brantford gave, in preparing to speak for her motion before the house, and probably much more strongly in the preparation of Mrs. Edwards' legal status, a publication of laws affecting women and children that speaks for itself.

"The writer has no desire to be critical, but still she feels that it behooves her to speak of one observation she frequently made. At least a number of our women did not consider the subject under discussion with open minds. They were not open to conviction. They had their point of view and refused to give careful attention to other considerations advanced. However, women's public life is only in the embryonic stage and as it develops this condition that now obtains will be remedied.

"The new president, Mrs. Sanford of Hamilton, is a woman who will make no hasty judgments, a woman who will follow along the more conservative line of action, a woman strong and true, whose smile will make for her many friends and who will be a noble leader for the pioneers of a new regime in Canada, a new era when the graves of the dead will be the symbols of a happier dawn for mankind."

Fry's Iced Cocoa

RECIPE: Keep on hand a syrup made up of one half cup of FRY'S Cocoa, one cup of sugar, one cup of warm water. Stir until smooth. Then boil for 5 minutes—chill and add one half teaspoonful of Vanilla Extract. To serve, allow two tablespoonfuls of this syrup to a glass with a little chopped ice and fill with cold milk. Stir well.

Try this cooling, delightful FRY drink. You'll want it often.

DORCHESTER.—The Red Cross shipped to Hyman Hall for June 28 grey flannel shirts, 11 suits, pyjamas, and 93 pairs of socks.

CAYUGA.—A meeting of the Women's Institute took place at the home of Mrs. J. E. Fissette. The chief business of the day was the taking over by the society of the work of sending boxes to the Cayuga boys in England and France. This work was formerly done by the local Red Cross Society, but since it has become a part of the British Red Cross all supplies must be sent to headquarters, not to individuals. Mesdames Barrey, Fissette and Green were appointed a committee to press forward the work.

THE "WRENS"

Because the "Waacs," or Women's Auxiliary Army Corps, have succeeded beyond all possibility of adverse criticism and have more than justified their experiment which authorized their organization, the British Government has created a similar branch of service in the navy. Officially this body, which is in process of organization, is known as the Women's Royal Naval Service, but, "for short," it is called the "Wrens."

Dame Katherine Furse, G.B.E., is director of this new branch of women's work, and she brings to the undertaking all the wisdom resulting from her three years' experience in organizing the V.A.D.'s. No one need be told of the efficiency and value of that body, for the V.A.D.'s have gone from service to service and each has proved more valuable than the last.

Support and substitution are the reasons for the existence of the "Wrens," as they are for that of the "Waacs," and through them men are released for naval duty. They work under the direct supervision of the second sea lord of the Board of admiralty. It is, indeed, thrilling to know that in its hour of need England's navy not only needs England's daughters, but invites their aid; even more thrilling is the fact that England's daughters are both willing and able to answer that call—able because ever since the war began they have voluntarily trained themselves for this very service which their broad vision showed would be needed.

The work to which the "Wrens" are called is both difficult and dangerous, but none the less welcome because of that. It means that today women are actually in the firing line.

In the case of officers and those in the ranks, the greatest care is used in selection. Fitness is the great thing kept in mind. Personality is all-important. Birth and education are indispensable qualifications of those highest in rank, and a knowledge of the work-a-day world is of decided advantage. Application for enrollment must be made at the professional registry, minister of labor, Queen Anne's Chambers, S.W. Personal application is preferred to that by letter. The age limit is from 25 to 45.

When accepted, the applicants referred to become "section leaders," and may rise to the rank of "principal." A short period of special training will follow (probably given by a "Waac" who has mastered details of service and discipline), and this will be followed by training in the strictly naval service.

The main body of the "Wrens" are known as "naval ratings." Included in these are cooks, stewards, telephone and wireless operators, writers (clerks), and aeroplane workers. When promoted the "naval ratings" become "assistant section leaders." Application for admission to any of these groups must be made through an employment agency in the usual way, and Crystal Palace is to be the training station.

Women and girls living at home will be employed as "Wrens" whenever possible, and when off duty will become private citizens. For all classes the uniform is dark blue—the color that belongs to the navy. The lower grades wear a frockcoat; higher ranks wear a natty skirt and coat, but Dame Furse and her four assistants wear skirts and coats of fine-faced cloth and three-cornered hats with the royal navy crown and badge on a piece of St. Patrick's blue.

GIRLS! MOISTEN A CLOTH AND DRAW IT THROUGH HAIR

It becomes beautifully soft, wavy, abundant and glossy at once.

Save your hair! All dandruff goes and hair stops coming out.

Surely try a "Danderine Hair Cleanse" if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair. Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—in a few minutes you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; invigorates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will spend a few cents for a bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

Save your hair! Keep it looking charming and beautiful. You will say this was the best money you ever spent.

G.W.V.A. FIELD SPORTS GREAT SUCCESS DESPITE UNFAVORABLE WEATHER; TORONTO MEN WINNERS

Large Crowd Attends the First Annual Sports Day of Local Veterans—Five Mile Marathon Called Off—Bicycle Races Feature, With Toronto Men Victors.

In spite of the most unfavorable weather that has attended any sport event held in London this season, the monster Dominion Day G. W. V. A. field sports program was run off without a hitch, and the expectations as to the success of the affair were fully realized. Dreary, cold weather may have deterred a portion of Londoners from attending, but the crowd was nevertheless as large as could be desired.

Headed by the G. W. V. A. Band the comic bicycle procession paraded from the Market Square to Queen's Park at 10 o'clock. The funeral of Kaiser Bill delighted the crowd, and his imperial majesty was given the roughest ride it has yet fallen the lot of any deceased monarch to experience. His pall-bearers, John Bull, Uncle Sam and other well-known international figures, took great delight in riding Wilhelm over all the rocky places to be found on Dundas street.

One hundred bicycles, decorated with flags and original designs, and ridden by cyclists gowned in all manner and kind of peculiar costumes, rode with the parade to the park. H. Jones of Toronto secured first prize for the best decorated machine, while H. Walker of Ingersoll grabbed second honors.

Thirty-Seven Starters.

The 25-mile bicycle race attracted 37 starters, and 25 finished. The majority of the prizes for the cycle events went to Toronto men, who registered some fast records in several of the races. J. Lawrey of the Queen City was placed at scratch and came in eighteenth on the list. His time was the fastest, however, being 56 minutes and 30 seconds. The winner of the 25-mile bicycle race was H. W. Vick of this city, who did the grind in 1 hour and 4 minutes. Vich was given a large handicap over Lawrey, and although his time was more than eight minutes longer than that of the Toronto man, he finished many laps in the lead.

Only three men entered for the five-mile Marathon, which was to be one of the first attractions on the program. At the last minute the race was called off and the prizes mixed in for other events

Auctions Wheel.

Henry Alexander, one of the best-known cycling champs in the Dominion, auctioned off his prize-winning wheel for $160. The British tank was awarded the trophy for the finest-looking float.

In the two-mile handicap cycle race A. Meharg of Toronto captured first prize from scratch. N. P. Gerrold, also of Toronto, got second, while W. H. Bingley came in third with a handicap of 275 yards. The only London man to have a look-in was W. A. Godfrey, who came sixth.

The 100 yards race, open to all members of the garrison, was won by Fred Hampton, with R. H. G. Willis second. The time was 11 seconds flat.

LACROSSE CHAMPIONSHIP GOES TO VANCOUVER

Vancouver, B. C., July 2.—In the world's championship lacrosse game yesterday, Vancouver overcame a substantial lead and by clever stickhandling and efficient checking won over New Westminster, the Minto cup holders, by 8 to 7. The latter team was both outplayed and outstayed. The series now stands 3 to 1 in favor of Vancouver. Attendance was nearly 5,000.

OSCAR FELSCH IS FIFTH TO LEAVE WHITE SOX

Chicago, July 2.—Oscar ("Happy") Felsch, centre fielder of the Chicago Americans, is the latest player to desert the world's champions. After receiving his monthly pay check yesterday, Felsch notified Manager Rowland that he had accepted a position in Milwaukee, his home, and planned to play semi-professional ball.

Felsch led the league last season in fielding and ranked as a .300 hitter. He is the fifth player to quit the club. Pitcher Faber enlisted in the navy and Jackson, Lynn, and Williams went to work in ship yards. Felsch will be employed by the gas company at Milwaukee, playing ball Saturdays and Sundays.

CUBS GAIN ON GIANTS WHEN CARDS BEATEN

ST. LOUIS, July 1. — Wild throws by Gonzales and Paulette and timely hitting by Hollocher and Paskert, and Deal's sacrifice fly in the sixth, enabled Chicago to win the first of a seven-game series from St. Louis today, 4 to 2. Score: R. H. E.

REMARKABLE RIDING EXHIBITION BY LYKE AT AQUEDUCT RACES

New York, July 2.—Seven races, for the first time this season, and large fields, made a busy time for owners, trainers and jockeys at Aqueduct yesterday, with Jockey Lyke the particular busybody.

"Play Lyke" is getting to be a slogan these days, and those who followed the trend had a profitable afternoon. Lyke rode in six races, won three and was second in the other three, thus making the best showing of any rider on the local tracks this season. There were liberal prices against all his mounts, Crystal Ford taking the first at 8 to 1, Cadillac the fifth at 11 to 5, and Home Sweet Home the sixth, at 7 to 1.

Lyke was unlucky that he did not pilot his fourth winner in the seventh race, as he had the mount on Commander Ross' Wigstone, an 8 to 5 favorite, in the a field of twenty. His defeat was brought about in a curious manner, which only serves to illustrate the uncertainty of the sport. Wigstone and Debadou had outdistanced the rest of the field and fought a stiff duel in the last eighth. Fifteen yards from the finish Wigstone had drawn clear and Taplin on Debadou had given up the struggle. Lyke made a move to ease his mount, but the motion caused Wigstone to buck and jump up in the air. Before he came down Debadou had swept by and gained the victory by a length. The stewards called both Lyke and Taplin into the stand and apparently were satisfied that the peculiar action of Wigstone was due to accident, and that the jockey was not to blame.

In the Woodhaven selling stakes for 2-year-olds, Lyke rode the favorite, Lion d'Or, but could not keep pace with Wager's Osgood, which won by three lengths. Lion d'Or saved the place by half a length from Carman's The Boy.

PHILADELPHIA, July 1.—New York routed Gregg in the first inning today, and won as they pleased, making thirteen hits and being favored with eight errors by Philadelphia. The score was 9 to 2. Davidson, the Athletics second baseman, resigned today, notifying Manager Mack that he could see no future for him in baseball. Dugan, who resigned last week, will return to the game within a few days. Score: R.H.E.

BROWNS TAKE BOTH ENDS OF TWIN BILL FROM SOX

CHICAGO, July 1.—Chicago lacked the punch today, and St. Louis won both games of a double-header by 2-0, and 4-3, respectively. In the opening game Danforth held the visitors to four scattered hits, but erratic playing on the part of Schalk cost him the game. In the second game heavy hitting by Tobin and Maisel, coupled with some sensational fielding behind Davenport, and errors by Eddie Collins, were accountable for the St. Louis' victory. Score:

ROSSITER MAKES THE BEST NET SCORE AT HUNT CLUB TOURNEY

Dr. "Andy" Scott secured the best gross score in a field of 50 golfers at the Dominion Day tournament held at the London Hunt and Country Club, taking 88 shots to clear the eighteen holes. His handicap was the lowest on the card, which made his net score 80, and gave him only fifth honors. F. S. Rossiter, with a handicap of 14, made the lowest net score, his number of strokes being 76. Rossiter came in with a gross of 90, and consequently secured first prize, a dozen golf balls.

The playing of Ross Somerville, son of Mayor C. R. Somerville, came as a surprise to the competitors. With a handicap of 18, young Somerville obtained second honors, making a gross score of 95 and a net of 77.

A strong, chilly wind interfered with good golf, and the showing made by the first five is very creditable. Although there is little long grass to impede the players, the elements put contestants at a great disadvantage. Despite this, however, the number of competitors was the largest of the season.

A special feature of the game was prizes given to the two contestants to approach nearest a number drawn by one of the sports committee before the match. J. S. Labatt and Lieut. A. A. Brown were the lucky winners.

CHATHAM BASEBALL NINE DEFEATS MANHATTANS

CHATHAM, July 1.—Dominion Day passed quietly here. A cold wind blew most of the day and rain seemed threatening. The annual Scotch picnic was held at Erie Beach, and a couple of thousand people attended. There was a long program of sports and lots of music and dancing.

In the city two ball games were played between a local nine and the Manhattan team from London. The morning score was 8 to 4 in favor of Chatham and the afternoon score 3 to 2 in favor of London. A large crowd witnessed both games.

The Manhattan players were: C. Pirie, MacFee, Doherty, Clarke, G. Pirie, Arnott, McCormick, Stinson and Johnson. Johnson pitched in the morning and Down in the afternoon.

TAYLOR'S LONDON THISTLE RINK CAPTURES C. H. WARD SILVERWARE

Takes Trophy From Barr's Harrietsville Combination by 12 to 8 in Finals—Poor Weather Makes Play Uncomfortable.

The annual one-day bowling tournament of the London Elmwood Bowling Club was a success, so far as the play was concerned, although weather conditions made bowling rather uncomfortable. Israel Taylor's London Thistles won the C. H. Ward trophy in the final game with Barr's Harrietsville rink by 12 to 8, while R. G. Seldon's Exeter combination grabbed third prize by their victory over T. A. Loveless' London All Saints' rink by 11 to 5.

Competition was good in the majority of games, and but for the weather one of the most successful tournaments in years would have been recorded. As it was, the bowlers took the frown of the weatherman with good heart, and a fine day's sport was enjoyed.

M'CALLUM'S RINK WINS FIRST PRIZE IN THISTLE TOURNEY

H. J. McCallum's rink got the cut glass pitchers at the Dominion Day Tournament of the Thistle Bowling Club, winning three games and piling up a majority of 24. Fourteen rinks entered the tourney, and more would have come out but for the [illegible] weather. A. E. Turner skipped the runners-up, his rink being short one point in their plus, having three wins and a surplus of 23. W. T. Murray, Leslie Edwards, F. S. Onn and H. J. McCallum comprised the victorious aggregation. Scores:

GAS POWER CO. NINE WALLOP BEATTIE BROS.

The Gas Power Company of the local Manufacturers' Baseball League trimmed a nine representing Beattie Bros. at Queen's Park Monday morning. It was a seven-inning affair and featured by many hard clouts. The Gas Company secured 27 tallies and hit the pill so often that all track of the number of bingles was lost. The Beatties got 4 runs off Bradshaw and Redmond of the winners, the former pitching for two innings, while Redmond was in the box for five spasms.

A feature of the game was the heavy hitting of H. Heard, who got two home runs and several base hits.

M. D. Smith, formerly star player for the local police team, played centre field for the winners. His hitting was also a feature.

The Gas Power Company boys are open to play any baseball aggregation in the city. They have rounded up into a first-class amateur team, and expect to engage some out-of-town nines before the end of the season.

ONLY FOUR RINKS ARE LEFT IN THE OXFORD BOWLING TOURNEY

Finals for Wilson Trophy Will Conclude Today.

WOODSTOCK, July 1.—Twenty-nine of the thirty rinks entered took part in the Oxford County bowling tournament today. When play was concluded for the day four rinks remained in the running for the Wilson trophy, emblematic of the championship. The rinks left were the W. S. McDonald quartet from Tillsonburg, the Wilson rink from Woodstock, the Dr. English four from Plattsville, and the Novice Zimmerman rink from Tavistock. The latter beat Adam McKay's local combination, which won the championship last year. Today's results:

WORTHY PETER FIRST IN FEATURE RACE OF YOUNGSTOWN PROGRAM

Hank Stout Comes Back Strong After Poor Start.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, July 1. — Large fields and fast miles featured the opening card at South Park trotting track today.

Hank Stout came back in the 2:25 trot after drawing a lecture from the judges for finishing fourth in the first heat. Worthy Peter had matters his own way in the 2:18 trot, winning in straight heats.

A field of twelve started in the 2:13 pace, which went five heats before Powell's William Patch was declared the winner. Agnes Kirkby fell at the first turn, but Driver Brennan and his horse escaped without injury. Trojan also fell over the wreck, but recovered, minus driver and sulky. Lady Wreath forced the winner to a race mark of 2:11¼ in the second heat, while the favorite, Don. G., never looked dangerous.

NEW HAMBURG RACES POSTPONED.

NEW HAMBURG, July 1.—The New Hamburg trotting races drew a large attendance and well-filled cards, but the rain early in the day made the track heavy, and as the threatening weather did not show prospects of clearing, the management decided to postpone the full card until next Wednesday afternoon. The Dominion Tire Company band and a baseball match between Kitchener and New Hamburg entertained the crowd.

Land in Alberta Pays For Itself in One Year's Crop!

HERE'S AN EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY FOR A PROGRESSIVE FARMER.

160 ACRES Good Fertile LAND FOR $1,600

ONLY $10 PER ACRE. WORTH $25 PER ACRE.

Why farm old worn-out land when with no more work you may have the growth of a splendidly paying crop from the virgin soil? Here's an opportunity for a good thrifty farmer to get a farm of 160 acres near the Canadian Pacific Railway and the town of Dunmore, Alberta, for $1,600. Only $500 cash payment. Why not go where the crops grow something worth while harvesting, where they cut 40 bushels to the acre instead of our crop of 15 to 20? The cost of putting in an acre of wheat is no more in Alberta than in Ontario, but what a difference in the crop!

This quarter section being the N. E. ¼ of 24-11-4, W. of 4th Mer., has been placed in our hands for immediate sale to close. The price, $10 per acre, is ridiculously low for land anywhere in the three great wheat-producing provinces. If you are interested don't delay making up your mind to have it at this price.

Who Will You Appoint As Your Executor?

The man with the small or moderate-sized estate often finds it impossible to choose an individual executor and trustee with experience and standing, and he is very apt to impose the difficult tasks involved on his widow, who is not fitted by experience or inclination for the work. To such this company particularly offers its services. Consultations invited.

THE AWAKENING OF CANADA.

The people of Canada have found themselves.

Their extraordinary resourcefulness and achievements in supporting the cause of the Allies has astounded the world. The courage and spirit of sacrifice of the Canadians and the valor of their troops can only be characterized as glorious. But this was to be expected. The surprise came in the economic field.

The population of Canada is about seven millions and the people are thinly scattered over a vast territory.

While there had been but little development in manufacturing, the people were jogging along happy and prosperous, chiefly engaged in agriculture.

Suddenly they were called upon to raise not only a large number of soldiers but large sums of money to equip them and to loan to the mother country.

The suggestion of the first loan of fifty million dollars almost staggered them, but their total loans to the Government now aggregate more than 760 million dollars.

Thus an idea may be gained of the extent of their awakening and of the magnificent effort which they have put forth and also of the unshaken confidence they have in their economic future.

High prices for necessities, constantly increasing taxes, the diversion of labor from farms and commercial activities to war service, have no terrors for them. The fact that they have developed shipbuilding and manufacturing to an extent that has enabled them to take close on to two billion dollars in war orders, and to increase to an extraordinary extent their foreign trade indicates their remarkable advance.

The record of the achievements in production and finance as well as in their marvelous military accomplishments indicates clearly that every Canadian must be working to his full capacity—a lesson which Americans may well profit by.

They have shown a noble and inspiring devotion to principle demonstrated by extraordinary personal sacrifice and physical effort.

And every one of them may be assured that their resourcefulness, their war endurance and the glorious efficiency of their soldiers are matters of sincere pride to their brothers across the border.—Agency Items, published by the Equitable Life Assurance Society of United States.

MILLIONAIRES WHO BEGAN POOR.

There is a veritable palace on Riverside Drive, New York City, the residence of Charles M. Schwab, former president of the United States Steel Corporation. Over on Fifth avenue there is an even more magnificent one for Henry C. Frick, costing millions of dollars, while near-by on the same famous thoroughfare is the New York residence of the canny "Laird of Skibo," Mr. Carnegie, who has been the making of his neighbors just mentioned, to say nothing of about twenty other millionaires whose early industry and thrift were rewarded by this famous steel magnate—a very poor boy himself in the beginning, starting his gainful work as a bobbin-boy in a cotton factory.

The late Frederick Weyerhaeuser, the multi-millionaire lumberman; H. L. Doherty, the Columbus, Ohio, newsboy, who became a New York banker; Edwin Hawley, who died in control of several railroads, although his first job paid him only four dollars a week; F. W. Woolworth, the Jefferson County, New York, farmer's boy, who got married on fifty dollars, and now owns 600 stores and the highest building in the world; Frank A. Vanderlip, the Illinois farm boy, who is now president of the biggest bank in the country; E. H. Harriman, A. E. Wiggin and C. D. Norton, three sons of poor clergymen, who became, respectively, the greatest railroad magnate and presidents of two of New York's largest financial institutions—these are only a few of the great cloud of witnesses to the wisdom of thrift and saving from income for future needs and opportunities.

But after all it is not the testimony of the millionaires that counts so much as it is the consensus of opinion of the great number of modestly successful people in every community who owe their success to steady saving.

Every man, woman, and child ought to save. That is the earnest and repeated exhortation of practically all the good and wise men who have ever lived. To learn to save is really one of the most important lessons of life. Have you learned it yet?

The foregoing "short and simple annals of the poor" who became richer are set down here not because many of them are such examples as the average person of ambition can hope to emulate successfully. We cannot all become enormously rich, but it is possible for most of us to acquire a competence if we go about it in the right way.—Wall Street Magazine.

HOW DO BONDS COME INTO EXISTENCE?

G. C. SELDEN.

The fundamental reason for the existence of bonds is to enable the man who wants to engage in business to use not only his own money, but also the money of others who do not want to engage in business.

A great many persons come into the possession of money who do not know how to use it—and money will not earn interest unless it is used. A savings bank, for example, could not pay interest on the money deposited in it if the money was merely allowed to lie there idle. The money must be loaned to somebody who can make profitable use of it, and, therefore, can afford to pay interest for the use of it. It may be loaned to a farmer who wants to increase the stock on his farm, to a grocer who has more orders than he can handle with his own money, to a railroad whose president sees a chance to build a branch line which will be profitable, and so on.

On the other hand, there are many businessmen who can see opportunities for good profits but lack the money to take advantage of those opportunities. A lumber operator may know of a tract of timber which can be bought at a reasonable price, and of a good market for the lumber; he may have the necessary experience and ability to establish a sawmill and manufacture the lumber and sell it, but he may not have the money to handle such an enterprise. And the same in any other line of business.

How are the money and the man to be brought together? Evidently by some sort of borrowing. Any new enterprise will involve the use and ownership of tangible property, in greater or less amount. The promotor of the enterprise can, therefore, arrange to borrow some money by giving the lender a direct mortgage claim on this tangible property. Perhaps he can get an additional amount of money on the general credit of the company he forms, that is, on its note or debenture. For this he would usually have to pay a higher rate of interest than on money which was secured by tangible property.

He will then need still more money, and to get that he admits a number of other people into partnership in the business, and the stock which is issued is merely the evidence of this partnership, showing the proportional share of the business which each shareholder owns.

WEEKLY SAVINGS.

Form a Club and Save Systematically.

If you would be a consistent saver and are able to deposit something from your earnings every week there is no better plan than to organize a Weekly Savings Club in your community.

You will find it most interesting for yourself and everyone who cooperates with you. This movement has already reached marked success in some parts of the United States, with the result that in some places every man and woman has a Liberty Bond, and every child a savings certificate. The pledge or convenant should read something like the following:

"I will become a 'weekly saver' and will deposit $..... every week for at least 52 weeks to my credit in a savings-account at the bank.

"Signed....."

The object of the plan is threefold:

1. To demonstrate to depositors that in a year they can make 52 regular weekly deposits or at least a certain sum—no matter how small.

2. To show them that by adhering to their resolution for 52 weeks they form a habit through which it will be easier for them to keep on saving than to stop.

3. To acquire a cash capital, with which to grasp opportunity, realize an ambition, or be ready for sudden and unusual necessity. If you can once get into the habit of saving and depositing something every week, no matter how moderate the sum, you are fairly started on the road to financial success, because you are developing the habit of thrift.

4. You are simply buying future income when you use part of your regular income now to build up a fund whose earnings will reward you later. The more you pay—that is, the larger your deposits—the greater your future income will be, either from the compound interest paid on savings, or as interest or dividends from securities when you graduate into the investing class. Profit.

WALL STREET CONDITIONS.

"Bache" says: "Favorable military developments are beginning to have a broadening effect upon the market. The importance of the Italian victory, its retroactive effect upon the unrest which is seething through Austria, the meaning to the whole military and economic position of the Teutonic powers should a great Austrian upheaval occur, are beginning to impress themselves not only upon the general public, but also upon that general staff behind the lines which does the initial thinking for the holders of securities and whose conclusions, generally correct, mark out action for the whole security market.

"At the present time it seems to be impressed that the force of evil is beginning to crumble, and that while the final decision may be far off and while desperate enemy drives will probably still have to be met, sanguinary and critical in the passing, they will, therefore, be met successfully.

"The demand for stocks has broadened somewhat to the extent, anyway, that there are few stocks really for sale. There is apparently no large public buying; possibly because recovery from tax payments has not fully taken place and because time and money are so fully occupied in caring for regular business. Investment interests are optimistic, the postion is sound, with prices low, and there is good prospect of further ultimate advance."

Editor's Note: The market met with some important reactions yesterday more particularly in steels and equipments, but such occurrences are to be expected, while the tax program is in progress. On the whole stocks are reflecting increased confidence every week. Recent events at the war fronts make it plainer every week that while we may not hope for an early peace victory for the Allies is not so far distant, and the market is already, as is its usual custom, beginning to discount an assured condition. As we stated in this column last week, good crops, large earnings, progressive spirit with plenty of money in the country for operation and expansion, must and will develop higher prices for tested securities.

WHAT POSITION WILL YOU BE IN?

Experience shows that of 100 average healthy men 25 years of age the following facts will be true at 65 years of age:

1 only will be wealthy.
4 will be well-to-do.
5 will still be working for a living.
36 will be dead.
54 will be dependent upon friends, relatives or charity.

A Word to Financial Advertisers

The prosperity of the district covered by The London Advertiser since the war began is reflected in the statistics for London, compiled by the London Board of Trade, as follows: Postal revenue in 1913, $181,185; in 1916, $298,917. Custom receipts, 1914, $1,088,078.13; in 1916, $1,569,311.49. Bank clearings, 1914, $86,024,236; 1917, $100,900,560. Since August, 1914, over $3,000,000 has been put into new buildings. London has also contributed more than $1,750,000 to various patriotic funds, and invested more than $6,000,000 in Victory Bonds.

If you want to reach the eye of 200,000 intelligent readers every day, advertise in The London Advertiser. Daily average circulation over 46,000.

The Less Waste The Better The Service

"SLOW" telephone accounts -- the accounts on which repeated efforts to collect must be made -- result in waste of time and labor.

¶ Most telephone users pay their bills promptly and the labor and time of collecting them are reasonable.

¶ But some subscribers overlook their bills or neglect to pay them promptly, and the work of collecting such accounts is laborious and time-wasting.

¶ The elimination of waste in the telephone business means better telephone service. When we can do away with any waste time or labor that may be involved in furnishing service, we can put an equal amount of time and labor into the service itself to the benefit of all telephone users.

¶ Help us, by the prompt payment of accounts, to avoid waste time and labor and to concentrate on the enormous amount of necessary work that war-time conditions demand.

BARBARIANS SINK

nursing sisters reached a lifeboat, but so far as known there was no trace of them after the ship sank.

Engine Men All Killed.

According to Red Cross information, many were killed in the engine room. There is hardly any doubt of this, as there was no response to Capt. Sylvester's signals from the bridge after the torpedo struck. As the engine-men were either killed or left their posts, there was no one to shut off the power, and the ship kept on her way, despite the great holes torn by the torpedo, not beginning to slow down until the water rushed into the boiler-room, extinguishing the fires.

This added to the confusion in launching the lifeboats. There was no panic, however, and by the time the Llelandovery Castle lost her momentum most of the boats were over the side. Those above decks began climbing into them in good order, but many were unable to reach the boats, and the ship was sinking rapidly. They jumped into the sea, and a few of them were picked up.

Brutal With Major.

According to information received by the Canadian Red Cross here, Major Lyon, from the Llelandovery Castle, was forced to stand in the conning tower, despite an injured foot, while the German submarine officers questioned him. The Germans insisted that Major Lyon was an aviation officer, despite the officer's strenuous denials. The Germans even threatened to shoot Major Lyon, contending that he was an officer of the fighting unit, and not a medical officer.

The admiralty report on the sinking describes the cruel treatment of Major Lyon, and declares that the submarine, after sinking the vessel, shelled an unknown target, which, it intimates, might have been the missing boats.

The captain's boat containing the survivors was picked up by the destroyer Lysander, the commander of which has reported that he had found no trace of the remaining five boats.

Germany's Awful Debt.

The admiralty statement in full on the sinking of the hospital ship follows:

"Germany's awful debt to the world continues to grow. Another hospital ship has been torpedoed, this time 70 miles from the nearest land, and her people turned adrift in their boats to sink or swim as best they might.

"And though as it happened, she was a Canadian hospital ship returning from Halifax with no wounded aboard, the tale of crime reveals wanton deliberation on the part of the submarine commander, and almost suggests the hope on his part that he would find her full of injured and helpless men.

"The Llenadovery Castle was chartered by the Canadian Government to convey their sick and wounded from England to Halifax. The Llelandovery Castle had on board a total of 258 persons, including 80 Canadian Army Medical Corps men and 14 female nurses. One boat containing 24 survivors has reached port so far.

10:30 o'Clock at Night.

"It was during the night of June 27, towards 10:30, that the crime occurred. The Llelandovery Castle, steaming on her course at some fourteen knots, showed the usual navigation and regulation hospital ship lights. Under the overcast sky she was plain to see and could not be mistaken for anything but what she was—a ship immune by every law of war and peace from attack or molestation.

"No one on board saw the wake of the torpedo. The first intimation of the presence of a submarine was a jar and the roar of an explosion from aft. Then the lights went out.

"All that followed, save when a dim light was obtained from an emergency dynamo, just before the ship foundered, took place in the darkness. The engines were rung to stop, then full speed astern, but from the engine-room came no answer.

"The rehearsed routine of the ship, however, held good. With the German enemy, one must be prepared for every emergency like this, and along the darkened decks the crew groped to the boat stations and stood by for orders to leave her.

Wireless "Plugged."

"From the bridge the captain's megaphone, loud in the night, bade them to hold till everyone was off the ship. The carpenter was aft making an examination of the damage. In his wireless cabin the Marconi operator was trying in vain to transmit the ship's position. His key gave no response. The spark was gone.

"The carpenter's report was that No. 4 hold aft was blown in and that the ship could not remain afloat. The order was given to lower away the boats on both sides and abandon the ship.

"The officer commanding the Canadian Army Medical Corps on board reported that his people were out. This is important, in view of the fact that no boat but the captain's has been picked up.

"Save for any of the ship's company or the engine-room crew who may have been killed by the explosion of the torpedo, it is clear that everyone got away. One of the small boats (called accident boats) was held back for those last to leave the ship, but when all the others were away the captain went to his cabin for an electric torch, and on returning to deck found that this also had gone.

Hailed in English.

"The submarine hailed the boat in English:

"'Come alongside,' it ordered.

"The boat was pulling down to pick up a drowning man. The second officer stood up and shouted back:

"'We are picking up a man from the water.'

"'Come alongside,'" repeated the brusque voice from the submarine. The boat held on its way and forthwith two revolver shots were fired at or over it.

"'Come alongside. I will shoot with my big gun,' shouted the submarine commander. The boat lay alongside the submarine and the captain (probably the man picked up) was ordered on board. In case he should be made prisoner and kept on board, he gave the second officer, who remained in the boat, the course to steer. He was then taken to the conning tower of the submarine, where two officers awaited him.

"The commander asked him sharply:

"'What ship is that?'

A False Accusation.

"'It is the Llelandovery Castle,' answered the captain.

"'Yes'—the commander did not attempt to be surprised—'but you are carrying eight American light officers.'

"'We are not,' replied the captain.

"'We have seven Canadian medical officers on board. The ship was chartered by the Canadian Government to carry sick and wounded Canadians from England to Canada.'

"To the submarine commander's reiterated statement, 'You have been carrying American flight officers' he added: 'I have been running to Canada for six months with wounded. I give you my word of honor that we have carried none except patients, medical staff, crew and sisters.'

"The commander then demanded if there were any Canadian medical officers in the boat, and he was told there was one. He ordered him to come aboard.

Roughly Dragged Aboard.

"'Where are our other boats?' asked the captain.

"The submarine commander did not answer. He was watching the Canadian medical officer being roughly hauled on board and thrust along the deck. This was done so violently and with such plain intention to injure the Canadian, Major Lyon, of the Canadian Medical Corps, that he actually had a small bone in his foot broken by the handling he received.

"There was another German officer in the conning tower, the second in command, who had not yet spoken. In reply to the captain's question he motioned over his shoulder with his field glasses, northwards.

"The following survivors from the captain's boat are the only ones accounted for up to the present. Eleven of them were picked up from the water:

Those Who Survive.

"R. A. Sylvester, captain; L. Chapman, second officer; D. C. Barton, fourth officer; H. M. Evans, purser; Lamp Trimmer Davies; Painter Scott; Trimmer Heather; Deck Steward Savage; Assistant Steward Abraham; Ward, attendant of the Canadian Army Medical Corps. The boat also contained the following:

"Major T. Lyon, Sergt. Knight and Orderlies Taylor, Hickman, Piloyt and Cooper.

"Major Lyon was interrogated, after protesting as a medical officer, and ordered back into the boat. The captain also was allowed to go. The boat was cast off, and pulled away from the submarine.

"The submarine began to circle around the wreckage at full speed. Several times it shaved the lifeboat narrowly, once swirling past within two feet of it; once it stopped, and again took the second and fourth officers aboard and questioned them.

Invents New Excuse.

"By this time the submarine commander invented a new excuse. He stated that there was a big explosion aft as the vessel sunk, and that therefore, he must have been carrying ammunition. The second officer explained patiently that this was the explosion of the boiler, and the falling of the funnel. They were allowed to return to the boat, which then made sail and proceeded.

"Again for a while the submarine circled and threatened her by swooping close to her; then moved off and seemed to come to a stop. From this position, says the captain's official statement, she opened fire at an unseen target, firing about twelve shells.

"It is perhaps too early yet to guess what the unseen target may have been. Possibly the other boats when they are picked up can furnish evidence on this point.

"The captain's boat had been towed for some distance while alongside the submarine. Nothing was to be seen of the others. Since no wireless was sent out there was no hope of assistance arriving from the north. The captain, therefore, decided to make for the Irish coast, to send help. After sailing and pulling for about twenty miles they were picked up by the destroyer Lysander, which immediately sent a wireless that search should be made for the other survivors, and carried the occupants of the captain's boat into Queenstown."

Nova Scotians On Submarined Hospital Ship

HALIFAX, N. S., July 1.—The hospital ship Llelandovery Castle, torpodoed off the Irish coast, was well known at this port, she having made many trips here, and brought back thousands of Canadian soldiers, who were wounded at the front.

Among the medical staff on board were several Nova Scotians. Major MacDonald, the officer commanding, is a brother of Dr. H. C. MacDonald, dentist, of this city. The matron was Nursing Sister Margaret Frazier, youngest daughter of the late Hon. D. C. Frazier, formerly lieutenant-governor of Nova Scotia.

TWO GERMAN AIR RAIDS ON PARIS SAME NIGHT

PARIS, July 1.—German airplanes made two attempts to raid Paris between 11:50 o'clock Sunday night and 2:20 o'clock this morning. The first attempt was unsuccessful. On the second attempt the raiders dropped several bombs on the outer suburbs.

An alarm was sounded at 11:50 o'clock Sunday night, and forty minutes later the "all clear" signal was given. The second alarm came at 12:48 o'clock this morning. The French artillery posts opened fire, and other defensive measures were taken. The "all clear" was sounded for the second time at 2:20 a.m.

THE LOCAL MARKET

Hay advanced to $11 50 a ton on the local market this morning. The demand is good.

Cherries and raspberries were offered for the first time this season, cherries selling at 15c a box and rasperries at 35c a box.

Green peas were plentiful, selling from 35@40c a quart.

Home-grown potatoes are up in price, selling at $2 50 a bag retail and $2 25 wholesale.

Beets are lower, selling at 40c per bushel.

Strawberries continue to sell from 24 @25c a box retail, and from 21@23c wholesale.

Live hogs are steady; a shipment will be made on Wednesday, $17 25 being paid. Dressed hogs remain at $24 per cwt.

Butter is firm, and eggs remain at 45c a dozen retail.

There is no change in the prices of hides and wool.

LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, July 2.—At the Montreal stockyards, west end market, receipts of live stock for the week ending June 29 were 500 cattle, 300 sheep and lambs, 1,500 hogs and 2,500 calves.

The supply on the market yesterday for sale amounted to 2,400 cattle, 6,400 sheep and lambs, 500 hogs and 1,100 calves. On account of the heavy run of cattle last week, which was in excess of the requirements of the trade, a number were carried over. The offerings of cattle on the market yesterday were small. A further reduction in prices had to be made, which ranged from 50c to $1 per cwt, and even at this level the trade was rather slow. Quotations:

Choice heavy steers, $13 50@14; choice butchers, $13@13 25; fair, $11 50@11 75; common, $9@10; choice butcher bulls, $11 50@11 75; medium, $10 50@10 75; light weights, $10@10 25; choice butcher cows, $11@11 25; medium, $10@10 25. Ontario sheep, $13@13 50; Quebec sheep, $12@12 50; lambs, $18@20.

Hogs—Selected stock, $19@ good, $18 @18 50; sows, $16.

Calves—Choice milk-fed stock, $14@15; good, $12@13; fair, $10 50@11 50; common, $8@10.

Toronto, July 2.—The trade at the Union stockyards this morning was very slow and prices were firmer. Hogs were steady, sheep and calves weaker. Receipts, 174 cattle, 165 calves, 454 hogs and 51 sheep. Quotations:

Cattle—Exporters, choice, per cwt, $12 75@15; do, medium, $12 75@14; do, bulls, $10 25@11 50; butchers, choice, $13@13 75; do, medium, $11 75@12 50; do, common, $8 50@9; do, cows, choice, $10 50@11 25; do, medium, $8 75@9 50; do, canners, $5 50@5 75; do, bulls, $9 50 @10 25; feeding steers, $9@10 50; stockers, choice, $9@10; do, light, $7 75@8 75; milkers, choice, each, $80@150; springers, choice, each, $90@160; calves, $16 @17.

Sheep—Ewes, cwt, $14 50@16; bucks and culls, $6@12; lambs, $20@23.

Hogs—Fed and watered, cwt, $18 25@18 50; f. o. b., $17@17 25.

East Buffalo, N.Y., July 2.—Cattle—Receipts, 350; steady.

Calves—Receipts, 150 head; easier, at $7@18.

Hogs—Receipts, 3,400; slow and easier; heavy, $17 50@17 60; mixed, $17 60, a few at $17 75; yorkers, $17 60; light yorkers and pigs, $17 60@17 75; roughs, $15@15 25; stags, $10@12.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts light; steady and unchanged.

GRAIN.

Chicago, July 2.—Opening: Corn—July, $1 47⅝@1 47; August, $1 49⅝@1 49.

Oats—July, 71⅛@71½s; August, 67¾ @67⅝c.

Chicago, July 2.—Liberal receipts and favorable weather gave an advantage today to bears in corn. On the resulting decline in value there was increased buying, and prices rallied. July corn ranged from $1 47@1 47⅜, and September at $1 50½, followed by moderate setbacks and then by a decided upturn.

Oats reflected the action of corn. Selling, though, was of only a scattered sort. After opening ¼c to ⅜c down, with August at 67⅝@67¾c, the market ascended to slightly above yesterday's finish.

Winnipeg, July 2.—Oats opened ¼c lower for July, at 85c; October ⅝c lower, at 72⅞c.

WALL STREET.

New York, July 2.—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Stocks were hesitant at the opening of today's trading, as a result of yesterday's heavy close, but soon developed a firmer tendency under the lead of the usual speculative favorites. Mexican Petroleum, Distillers and Atlantic-Gulf averaged 1-point advances, and United States Steel rose a large fraction on its initial offering of 1,500 shares. Baldwin Locomotive, Crucible Steel, American Smelting, Anaconda, Sumatra Tobacco and Republic Iron strengthened substantially, but Lackawanna and Bethlehem Steels and General Motors were slightly reactionary. Liberty bonds were steady.

Noon.—Trading became more contracted on the further advance, which carried United States Steel a point over yesterday's close and lifted the prominent issues 1 to 1½ points. Oils also registered additional gains with Baldwin Locomotive, Republic Iron and Tobacco Products, but American Tobacco yielded 2 points and Western Union 1½. Rails were completely neglected, except for Reading's occasional activity, at a gain of almost a point.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE.

London, July 2.—Apart from the execution of a moderate accumulation of investment orders, which kept gilt-edged securities firm, the stock market was generally dull today. Money was easier with the turn of the half year, but the public and dealers alike appear to be waiting for a clearing of the war and political situation in various directions. Grand Trunk, home rails and oil shares advanced slightly, and Mexican issues finished easy.

PROMOTIONS MADE IN DEPARTMENT BEFORE NOT ON SENIORITY

Interesting Figures in Fire Brigade Records Shown.

CASES ARE PARALLELED

Speedy Elevation in Rank After Reinstatement Has Occurred Several Times.

In view of the charges which have been made in connection with the fire department over the promotions of Chauffeur George Aitken to lieutenant, and Lieut. Thomas Tozer to captain, some interesting statements have been made. The charge has been aired that there were men senior to both, in point of service, but at the time the promotions were announced it was stated that they were being made on merit and not on length of service. Both the promoted officers, it is claimed, have offered to undergo any examination or series of examinations which may be suggested to show their qualifications for the positions they fill, and both have expressed a willingness to compete with any two men in the department, irrespective of their rank, in any branch of the work of the firemen—ladder drill, pompier work, hose work, driving, salvage work or any other firemen's duties. It is further claimed that if there are any two firemen on the department now who can equal their performances they will be willing to resign.

Whether such a proposal would be entertained by those who are criticizing the promotions is another question.

The record of the appointments of the fire department officers shows some interesting sidelights on the question of promotions on grounds other than seniority. For instance, Assistant Chief Charles Scott was appointed to the department on December 28, 1903. Little more than three years afterwards he was made a lieutenant—February 4, 1907—and two years later, January 15, 1909, he was made deputy chief.

Capt. Thomas Aitken, the senior captain of the department, joined the fire brigade in 1887. He was made a captain in February, 1903.

The late Capt. John Case was promoted to captain April 4, 1904, after having been on the department from September 2, 1889.

Capt. Dan McDonald, retired, was a recruit on the department on June 1, 1890. He was made a lieutenant in October 1, 1904, and exactly one year later was given the second bugle—the insignia of a captain.

Capt. R. A. Haylock was appointed to the department February 16, 1903; promoted to a lieutenant in February, 1907 and to captain two years afterwards, in 1909.

Parallels Tozer Record.

Capt. J. Mitchell, senior captain at No. 1 station—headquarters—whose name has been more or less prominently mentioned in connection with the charges which have been levelled against the department, and who has taken a prominent part in the Firemen's Union, has a record which friends of Capt. Tozer claim as a parallel for the latter's promotions, following his reinstatement on the department. Capt. Mitchell first joined the department in December, 1903. He served as a fireman until February 4, 1907, when he was made a lieutenant, but only served in that capacity for a few months, leaving the brigade in July, 1907. In January, 1909, he was reinstated with rank of a lieutenant, and on June 1st of that year was given command of a hall as a captain, having served only eight months in all as a lieutenant, and only four months, after his reinstatement, before being given a captain's rank.

Capt. F. Taylor is another officer who was promoted after reinstatement. He served from October 18, 1904, until 1906, when he resigned. In March, 1909, he was reinstated, and in October of the same year was made a lieutenant. In 1911 he got his promotion to a captaincy.

Capt. C. Ferguson was appointed May 1, 1905; promoted to lieutenant December 16, 1914, and to captain August 1, 1916.

Capt. Tozer's Record.

Capt. Thomas Tozer joined the department in January, 1909. He was made a lieutenant in July of last year, and was appointed a captain in April of the present year.

Lieut. S. Scruby came on the department March 20, 1905, and was made a lieutenant December 1, 1909.

Lieut. Jack Scott joined June 16, 1906, and was made a lieutenant December 1, 1909.

Lieut. Thomas Mason joined May 24, 1905, and was promoted to lieutenant in December, 1916.

Lieut. George Aitken was promoted from chauffeur's rank to lieutenant on April 1 of the present year. His appointment to the department dates back to April 24, 1914.

Although "officially" on the department only for the past three years Lieut. Aitken, according to his friends, has been connected with the London department for a considerably longer time than any other present officer of the department, with the exception of his father, Fire Chief John Aitken, and his uncle, Capt. Thomas Aitken of No. 3 fire station.

Grew Up With It.

"George Aitken has grown up with the department," is the way one exfireman puts the lieutenant's record. "From the time he was able to walk he has been around fire halls and going to fires, and he knew how to work there, too, long before some of the men who are now criticizing his promotion ever thought of joining the department.

"I see where reports are made that President George Bolton of the Firemen's Union is complaining that he was passed up in promotions, and Fireman Aitken jumped over his head. There is just one instance I can mention which should show a little light on this end of it. If you remember several years ago when there was a big fire at the Beck manufacturing plant, and at Johnston & Murray shoe store on Dundas street at the same time, you may remember who it was who first got to the scene of the Johnston-Murray fire when the whole department was working at Beck's with the exception of one man. That one man, who wasn't at Beck's, was Engineer George Bolton. He was left on duty at the central hall. George Aitken wasn't on the department at the time, but he left the Beck fire with No. 3 station apparatus, went down to central hall, where Bolton was sitting at the telephone, loaded it with hose and went back to the Johnston-Murray fire, where with the assistance of men who had gathered there, and his brother, the late Sergt. Herman Aitken, who was killed in France, he started to work on the blaze. The man who complains now that he was passed over remained at the central fire hall and the man who he claims has been shown favoritism jumped in to do the work. If that one instance isn't answer enough for the ones who are trying to make trouble in the department, I would like to know what will satisfy them."

MAJESTIC

"Missing," Big J. Stuart Blackton Picture, at the Majestic Today.

Simple, though dramatic in construction, J. Stuart Blackton's great photoplay, "Missing," presenting an all-star cast, was displayed with great success at the Majestic Theatre yesterday, and will be shown again today. The picture, which is based upon the famous novel of Mrs. Humphrey Ward, the scenario having been written by J. Stuart Blackton and James Young, made an instantaneous hit.

The opinion was heard expressed on all sides after Monday's performance that it was, without doubt, one of the greatest pictures ever shown here. In this picture J. Stuart Blackton has produced nothing short of a marvel, and in many of the tense moments he plays on the heartstrings of the audience to such an extent that tears well up into the eyes of those present in spite of themselves.

The story of "Missing" is a remarkable study in contrasts between two English sisters, Nell and Hester. Hester, the elder, craves wealth and social position. Nell is beautiful and unworldly, and she falls in love with a poor young Englishman, who is about to receive a lieutenant's commission and leave for the front. She marries him, and when he is reported missing the elder sister attempts to instill in Nell's mind the belief that he is dead, and thus marry a rich man. In the end Nell's soldier-husband returns to her.

At the Majestic today. "Missing" is presented by an all-star cast, and is an exceptionally strong picture. An added feature is a Billy Rhodes Comedy.

Sylvia Breamer, the beautiful Australian girl, who gives such a sympathetic interpretation of Nell in "Missing," had a difficult time when she decided to become an actress. As soon as her parents in Sydney, Australia, learned of her ambition they packed her off to the back-country of Australia where she stayed at her uncle's sheep ranch, and had as playmates the aborigines, crocodiles and iguanos of the neighborhood. But Miss Breamer grew tired of these attractions, so she ran away and was given a small part in an Australian stock company. After that her rise was rapid.

PATRICIA

"The Mysterious Client" Makes Hit at Patricia, Showing Today and Wednesday.

CAST.

Jeanne Darcy .....Irene Castle
Harry Nelson .....Milton Sills
Boris Norjunov.....Warner Oland
Tony Cavallo.....Caesar Gravina

Mrs. Vernon Castle, Milton Sills and Warner Oland, who played the three big parts in the famous serial, "Patria," again are to be seen here as stars in the new Pathe play, "The Mysterious Client," which will be shown at the Patricia Theatre today and Wednesday.

Harry Nelson, a young attorney-at-law, sits in his tiny office in a towering skyscraper of New York, waiting for clients. Instead, he receives his conge from his sweetheart, and a dispossess notice from his landlord.

Then the tempter comes. Boris Norjunov offers him sorely needed cash to perform an unethical legal service for him. But Harry indignantly orders the tempter from his office.

Suddenly beautiful Jeanne Darcy dashes mysteriously into the office, and asking for a revolver, begs Harry to protect her from everyone until she can get an envelope, which she carries, to a safe deposit box.

The appeal of the "mysterious client" moves Harry to accept. He goes with her to the street, where he is attacked. His assailant is knocked down, and Harry jumps into a taxi with Jeanne, only to discover that the envelope has been stolen from him.

Harry is eager to return to the scene in an effort to recover the precious envelope, but is dissuaded by Jeanne. They go to a little Italian restaurant, presided over by Tony Cavallo, who has a weakness for "penny dreadfuls," and aspires to become a detective.

There Jeanne tells Harry to come to her tonight at a given address, if he is brave enough to go through hell for an unprotected girl." Tony overhears. He copies the address.

Harry keeps the appointment. Tony also lurks outside the apartment house, where Jeanne meets Harry. With Jeanne, Harry rides to a handsome residence in the fashionable district, leaving Tony gaping in the street before the apartment house.

Harry and Jeanne enter the house with a pass key, and are burglarizing a secret safe when caught red-handed by Boris, who compels Harry to sign a confession. Then Boris threatens to send Harry to prison unless he performs the shady legal work for him.

Harry refuses, and a fight ensues, in which he is knocked out. He regains consciousness in a secret room, hidden by a sliding panel.

Later Jeanne sends Harry away without any explanation of the strange occurrences. But after several weeks he receives a summons from her through a maid to come to her in a house in the underworld. Tony overhears the maid give the address. He hurries to the police, but is escorted to an examination room in an insane asylum as a result of his wild story.

Harry enters the mysterious house and hears Boris threatening to harm Jeanne unless she agrees to murder Miss Lonsdale, a kidnapped heiress confined in the house.

Tony is freed by the alienists and persuades detectives from a private agency to accompany him to the house in the underworld.

They arrive just as Harry is battling with Boris and his followers, who are trying to compel Jeanne to kill the heiress. Jeanne's pistol is discharged. The heiress falls, apparently dead. Then—a most unexpected climax develops. Don't miss it.

In their vaudeville turn, Ned Norton and his Joyland Girls proved to be fully up-to-the-minute, both in comedy and dainty costumes. The act is an unusual one, and the special stage settings required for it are carried in a special car. Ned Norton, with his bright comedy, swept everything before him at all performances at the Patricia Monday.

A big V Comedy and Canadian scenic are added attractions at the Patricia this week.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

A SPURIOUS OATH.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Mr. Snell says that he was "astonished to read the shocking pledge" circulated in the city, and alleged to be the oath of initiation of the Knights of Columbus. I have seen this alleged oath and I am surprised that any man of ordinary intelligence could be at all misled by such a rank and clumsy forgery. Obviously the only foundation for the document was the malignancy and ignorance of the writers. The charges against the knights are outrageous and the illiterate language in which they are made plainly shows the spurious character of the document. For it is clear that the oath of the knights, if not actually written by the Roman Catholic clergy, would at least have to meet with their approval, and, apart from the moral issues involved, it is not conceivable that any well-educated body of men would write or would give their approval to a document written in such inferior style of composition.

The men who were the authors of this forgery, while moved by bitter enmity to Roman Catholics, are certainly no friends of Protestantism. No cause gains by infamous slanders of its opponents. The proper reward for writing and circulating such matter is a penitentiary sentence.

If Mr. Snell and other inquiring Protestants wish to know what the Jesuit teaching is in regard to the possibility of lying in various forms and degrees, without moral culpability they may satisfy themselves by consulting various standard works, notably Gury's "Moral Theology," an official textbook of the Jesuits. Inquirers will learn there that, while the Rev. Mr. Spence has stated the matter somewhat bluntly, he is not without justification for his charge against the Jesuits, at least as they are shown not only by history, but by their own writings.

That would be a much safer course than attaching any credibility to a clumsy, ill-written malignant, anonymous forgery, such as the sheet referred to by Mr. Snell. Yours, PROTESTANT.

THE CLEANER'S POSITION.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Seeing a news item in your Saturday edition headed "War Imminent Between Tailors and Cleaners," I would appreciate very much a publication of a few facts, as an explanation on behalf of the master cleaners and dyers of the city.

There are in this city between 20 and 25 places with signs out marked cleaning and pressing, whose whole lock, stock and barrel consists of a pressing iron, a few brushes, and a dish of gasoline. Now, these so-called cleaners, not tailors, inform their customers how much better their work is than that of the cleaner, who has a properly equipped plant.

The result is in many cases the legitimate cleaning industry gets a black eye.

The unsuspecting customer drops a suit in to one of these places to have thoroughly cleaned. What happens? Exactly this: If it is at all possible this so-called cleaner smothers up the dirt by sponging over the surface with a brush and some gasoline, but if it is so badly soiled that this cannot be done, why he then sends it out to a legitimate cleaner, who cleans it properly.

Now, in many cases garments that actually require a thorough cleansing are only sponged by this so-called cleaner.

The customer, on complaining of the soil and spots showing up shortly, is told that such and such a legitimate cleaner does all this so-called cleaner's work.

The law protects a doctor in so much that no one can practice medicine unless he has attended college and received his diploma.

Not so, however, with the cleaning industry. Any Tom, Dick or Harry can bloom forth over night from a ditch-digger to a full-fledged cleaner, by simply hanging out a sign cleaning and pressing. For these reasons one legitimate cleaner in the city has discontinued doing wholesale cleaning for these places.
JACKSON, THE CLEANER AND DYER.

MERCHANDISING LECTURE FOR MERCHANTS AND CLERKS

Free Lecture and Slides and Movies to Tell Causes Tomorrow Evening.

Extreme interest is being manifested in the retail merchandising lecture, which is being brought to this city by the Advertising Club and the Board of Trade, and which will be shown free of charge to all merchants and clerks on Wednesday night of this week, at 8 o'clock, in the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium. The lecture, which has been prepared by the National Cash Register Company, contains the result of 33 years spent in collecting retail merchandising ideas from merchants in all parts of the world, and is by far the best lecture of its character on the road today.

The lecture will, by means of stereopticon slides and motion pictures, tell the causes of failure, and explain some of the latest methods of storekeeping. An interesting feature of the lecture will be the part devoted to newspaper advertising. Writing of newspaper advertisements, selection of mediums, and the necessity for a policy of continuous advertising by the retailer, will be taken up in detail. By the same method the question of proper window display, delivery problems, perfection of a store organization, and other interesting matters will be discussed.

In addition, the three-reel Essanay feature film, "Troubles of a Merchant, and How to Stop Them," will be shown for the first time in this city. This film, which was prepared for the National Cash Register Company at a cost of $30,000, has been exhibited before commercial bodies, conventions and other organizations from coast to coast, and has everywhere been declared to be the best exposition of the troubles of the retail merchant ever given.

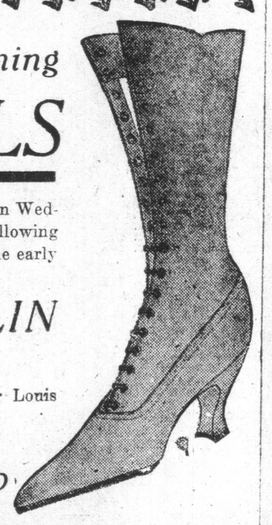

The film tells in an interesting manner the story of Mr. White a grocer, who, through lax business methods and poor system, had been brought to the verge of bankruptcy. As the film progresses, the causes for his failure are vividly portrayed. His clerks are indifferent, his goods badly arranged, his system thoroughly disorganized. When his hopes were at the lowest ebb a change came in his career, and by the installation of modern business methods and a rearrangement of his store he rose to prosperity.

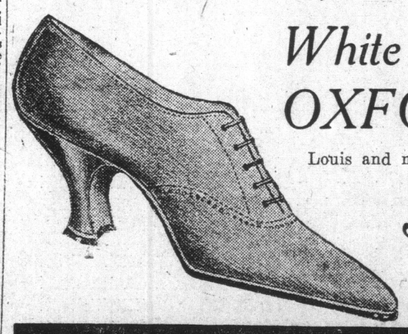

Because of the enthusiasm created in other cities where the film has been shown, it is expected that a capacity audience will greet the lecture in this city. Every scene is said to contain a lesson. All merchants and salespeople in the city are invited to attend.

THIEVES TOOK AUTO OF STRATHROY MAN

Automobile thieves are at work, in this city, a Ford car, the property of A. Rowe of Strathroy, having been stolen Sunday. The owner motored to London from his home Sunday to see some friends in training at Carling Heights, and left his car on the market square for a short time. Upon returning he found his auto missing, and reported the matter to the police, who are working on the case.

The stolen car is a five-passenger Ford, carrying license number 49777. Overcoats and other wearing apparel in the automobile at the time of the theft were also taken, and in addition to this there was a large hamper of good things to eat for Mr. Howe's soldier friends in camp here, and this was also taken.
