ASSIST NATURE.

You have been told to "hitch your wagon to a star"—that Nature will assist you. That's all right. There are times, however, when you should assist Nature, and the spring is one of these times.

Nature is now undertaking to cleanse your system—if you take Hood's Sarsaparilla the undertaking will be successful, and your complexion bright and clear.

WATER COMS. IN SESSION

Regular Meeting of the Board Held last Evening—Matters Dealt with.

The Water Commissioners met last evening. Chairman Dr. J. L. Bray, W. D. Sheldon, Secretary W. E. and Supt. Jones were present.

The following accounts were ordered paid: W. L. Baxter $6, Morrison Bros. Mfg. Co. $309.27, Banner-News $8, Pennsylvania Salt Mfg. Co. $43.76, McColl Bros. & Co. $19.30, Park Bros. $113.60, Geo. Stephens & Co. $22.71, Hugh Malcolmson & Co. $4.75, Lake Erie R.R. $380.06.

The following accounts were disposed of, thus: fire department $5, referred to Supt. Jones; Thomson Meter Co. $54.44, laid over.

The Supt. furnished an estimate of the cost of extending the mains to ex-Ald. Liddy's residence. The cost would be $37.43 and the revenue $9.

The matter was left in abeyance.

John Glassford complained of rust in the pipe laid on McKee's avenue. The trouble has been fixed.

Mr. Jones suggested the need of a main on Emma street to furnish service to the property owners and afford better fire service. The matter was referred to the Supt., he to consult the Property Committee.

The Secretary presented his cash statement for May. It showed a balance in the bank of $738.66 after all expenses of operating had been paid. On June 1st, 1900, the Waterworks Department owed the bank $901.77. On June 1st, 1901, they had over seven dollars in the bank.

PREMEDITATED MURDER.

Flint, Mich., June 6.—Mrs. Jennie Parish, a widow, aged 34, was shot and also instantly killed by Lewis Weeks last night in her home here. Weeks came to Mrs. Parish's home and demanded admittance, but was refused. He broke in the door, and then told Mrs. Parish he had come to kill her, at the same time firing two shots into her right side. Weeks escaped. He has a wife and three children. Mrs. Parish named Weeks as her slayer before she died. Her daughter Carrie, aged 12, witnessed the shooting.

ASSYRIAN ON THE ROCKS.

St. Johns, Nfld., June 6.—The Leyland Line steamer Assyrian, 1,841 tons, from Antwerp to Montreal, with 2,000 tons of cargo, went ashore off Cape Race at midnight. She has 11 feet of water in her forehold, and is likely to prove a total wreck. Her crew had great difficulty in escaping and reaching the shore. No further details are obtainable at present. The steamer Algerine is being despatched to the scene of the wreck, by Lloyd's agents.

ROBBED STUDENTS.

Northampton, Mass., June 6.—Miss Mabel Lawrence Burt of Bridgeton, N. J., daughter of a prominent lawyer of that place, was arraigned in the district court to-day, on the charge of larceny of a diamond and ruby ring, the property of a student at Smith College, valued at $1,000, and sums of money aggregating $1,500 additional, from various students at the institution. She pleaded guilty, and was held in $1,500 bonds for the grand jury. In default she was taken to jail. Her parents are expected here to-day.

MADE THE VICTIMS OF SOUTH SEA CANNIBALS

Story of the Terrible Fate of German Expedition Members—Were Attacked by Stealth.

Berlin, June 6.—The Tageblatt prints special correspondence from New Guinea, giving a full account of the first German South Sea expedition on the cannibal islands of St. Matthias. They were all killed and eaten save a Dr. Heinrich.

The Colonial Zeitung, the official organ of the German colonial society, furnishes details of the massacre. It seems that the vessel which carried the expedition to the island of St. Matthias, left, after a few days, for Herbertshoh, New Britain, to get coal and fresh supplies. During its absence, the savages, who had hitherto appeared friendly, although known to be cannibals, planned to kill and rob the diminished party.

The plan was carried out one morning while the members of the expedition, who had a body guard of forty drilled Papuans, were cleaning their rifles which they had taken apart, suddenly eight of the islanders broke from the bushes, raising fierce war cries and brandishing spears with which they stabbed to death the leader of the party, Dr. Mencken, his secretary, Herr Caro, and a white sailor, who was asleep under a tent. Dr. Heinrich emptied his revolver his assailants while the bodyguard, in the meantime, retired to the boats with the wounded, and Dr. Heinrich, leaving twelve dead. The boats put off to an island not far distant where the expeditionary vessel rescued them. Subsequently the survivors returned to the island of St. Matthias, where they found the bodies had been devoured and the camp absolutely looted.

BOERS BADLY ROUTED WHEN SURPRISED BY SCOUTS

Burgers Broke and Fled After Stubborn Resistance Leaving Many Dead and Wounded—No More Canadians Needed for South Africa.

London, June 6.—After a long and somewhat embittered discussion of the policy of the War Office in buying horses for use in South Africa, the House of Commons to-night, by a vote of 159 to 60, voted the sum of £15,779,000 for transports and remounts.

Sir Blundell Maple (Conservative) asserted that British officials who had been sent to Hungary and Austria had purchased broken-down animals at extravagant prices and divided with the sellers the price charged the British Government above the actual cost. He demanded the appointment of a committee of inquiry. Lord Stanley, Financial Secretary of the War Office, said an inquiry would be made into the matter.

SERIOUS CHARGES.

It is understood that the charges made by Sir Blundell Maple are of a very serious character. It is asserted that in one case an officer netted £50,000 in the purchase of horses in Hungary. Dissatisfaction is said to have existed in the colonies because the Government has been buying horses on the continent when colonial animals were available.

THE ARBITRATION COURT.

The Hamburger Correspondent publishes a despatch from The Hague asserting that the arbitration court yesterday held a secret session regarding the war in South Africa.

BROKE AND FLED.

Pretoria, Wednesday, June 5.—Colonel W. J. Buller, with 2,000 of Kitchener's Scouts, has surprised and routed 400 Boers belonging to Beyers's command, 34 miles west of Warm Baths. The Boers resisted stubbornly, but finally broke and fled, leaving 37 dead, a hundred prisoners and all their wagons and supplies, including 8,000 cattle, in the hands of the British. The loss of the latter was three men killed and 15 wounded.

ALLEGED TRAITORS.

London, Thursday, June 6.—The Chronicle reiterates that five ex-officers and one hundred men are in English gaols for traitorous dealing with the Boers. Most of them were convicted of allowing arms and ammunition to reach the burghers. The officers belonged to the auxiliary forces. They were at first ordered to be shot, but Earl Roberts commuted the sentence to penal servitude for life, and the men's offence was altered to being asleep on post. There have been such cases since, according to the Chronicle, and Gen. Kitchener has had the delinquents shot, returning them as having died from enteric fever.

NO MORE NEEDED.

London, June 6.—Much surprise is expressed among Anglo-Canadians at an announcement of which the War Office to-day gives official confirmation, viz. that the Imperial Government declined with thanks an offer from the Dominion Government to furnish another cavalry corps for service in South Africa, holding that, at the present stage of the war, and with the large number of troops now in the field, it was not necessary for Canada to furnish another contingent.

Only last night, Hon. Mr. Broderick, Secretary for War, said that Lord Kitchener had asked last January that if possible the colonies should be induced to supply more contingents, because the colonies had done such excellent service.

The general feeling is that there is a want of new troops to replace those which have become stale, owing to the length of the conflict. It is considered that this is the chief cause of the prolongation of the war.

*Regarding Hamilton Merritt's offer of a corps, the War Office refused this also, unless the campaign should take an undecided turn.

SECOND GUNBOAT LOCATED.

Wednesday evening W. D. Sheldon, J. S. Black and Supt. Jones drove up the river about four miles in company with Jos. McGarvin. After prospecting for a while, by the merest chance, they located the second of the sunken gunboats. It had been run on shore and time and floods have covered the boat with earth. There is as much as 14 feet of earth on top of the boat. With steel rods the party traced the position of the boat under the massive piles of earth. It is probable that the boat will be taken out although the work will require a lot of excavating.

COUNTY COUNCIL

Further Proceedings at the Present Session of Kent's Parliament.

Much Business is Before the Commissioners of County Committee De. liberating—Other Matters.

The County Council resumed yesterday afternoon with the Warden in the chair and all the members present. Chairman J. N. McCoy, of the Roads and Bridges committee reported as follows:—

Your committee met with the representatives of Harwich and Howard on Feb. 5, and examined the south approach to Kent bridge. It was decided that the county assume 130 feet of the aforesaid approach and that Harwich and Howard build and maintain the balance on receiving a grant of $200 from the county. Tenders were asked for the construction of the county's portion of the south approach to Kent bridge, and the contract was let for $3,498.

On account of the unsafe condition of Bothwell bridge your committee appointed the Warden and Commissioners Sifton and Johns to attend to the matter, which they did. The result was the replanking of the bridge satisfactorily. The work has been approved by the two counties. The report was adopted.

Mr. Sturgis presented a by-law to confirm and legalize grants or payments on money made by the council at this session.

The by-law to raise money for the current expenses was given its first reading.

It was moved by Mr. Robinson, seconded by Mr. Sifton, that a grant of $100 be made for the purpose of improving the Romney and Tilbury East Townships, from Sycamore siding on the Lake Erie to the 30th and 31st sidings east, providing the townships of Romney and Tilbury East meet the grant with a like amount, $100 each, making a total of $200; and that the mover is hereby appointed to oversee the expending of the county grant in connection with the township commissioners. Referred to Roads and Bridges. It was moved by Mr. Sturgis, seconded by Mr. French, that a committee composed of the following members of the Council—Mr. Morrison, Mr. Sifton, Mr. McCoy, Mr. Robinson and the mover—to meet a committee from the City Council to take consideration of the adoption of the Torrens system of registration of land transfer. Carried.

THIS MORNING.

The County Council resumed Friday morning, Warden Yonge in the chair and all the members being present.

W. C. Sifton for the Education committee reported as follows:—

That a sub-committee composed of the Warden and Messrs. McCoy, Rycraft, and Sifton, met committees from Chatham and Ridgeway Collegiate Institutes and after examining their respective reports, we adopted the same. The cost per pupil at Chatham is $40.33 and at the Ridgeway Collegiate Institute $36.25, and at the same.

A QUIET VISIT.

The announcement that no balls or public banquets can be attended by the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall in the course of their progress through Canada will probably be a disappointment to a number of the more ambitious of the loyal subjects of the Duke's father in Canada, says the Hamilton Morning Post. But for many reasons we do not think the course taken will have any detrimental effect upon the success and popularity of the Duke's tour through Canada. There will be an ample list of public meetings, receptions, presentation of medals, and so forth to enable all the Duke's admirers in this country to have the opportunity of an introduction. The public banquet is next perhaps to the public ball the most unsatisfactory possible form of entertainment for any except those in the immediate vicinity of the social leaders who get them up, and they are a decidedly expensive form of amusement. A succession of them at the rate of five or six a week would certainly be enough to impair the most active royal tourists' impressions of the beauty of our country, if not of the hospitality of our people. The Duke will be in this country, or at least we hope so, at the very prime of the Canadian autumn, and it would be a pity if his visit were made less pleasurable by a series of formal crushes and restricted entertainments. Let the entire population have an opportunity to greet the sovereign's heir, but at the same time let that individual experience a little freedom and have a little time in which to acquaint himself with the ways and the business of our Dominion.

SMASHING GREAT BRITAIN.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie, who has a knack of achieving notoriety whatever he does, has been giving an interview to a London journalist in which he stated that "The time is coming when the continental powers will combine to smash up this island of Great Britain. When that happens she will have to turn to the United States for help. I feel certain it will not be refused." It is, of course, very satisfactory to learn from Mr. Carnegie that the United States will not be weighed in the balance and found wanting when that critical occasion arises. One would rather, however, that he were not quite so sure that it will arise. Great Britain is admittedly not particularly popular with the people of a majority of the European States at the present time, but there is no more reason to suppose that she will be the subject of a concentrated attack of European powers than there is for expecting the same combination to turn against the United States. In the first place, such a development of unity among the ever-squabbling nations of the old world is almost inconceivable. In the second place wars are now carried on mainly for the sake of commercial advantage. The markets of Great Britain are open to the world, and there could be no advantage secured by their conquest. Indeed, since whatever power got hold of them would undoubtedly erect a protective barrier against the rest of the world, its allies would find themselves worse off than ever. The United States, on the contrary, while theoretically popular with the masses, is bitterly hated by the dynasties and aristocracies of the whole of Europe. It's fiscal policy is continually bringing it into conflict with France, Germany and Russia, and its new imperial developments are bound to land it in international complications, of which it has no experience. On the whole, we think that the chances of the United States being smashed up by the continental powers are quite as good as those of Great Britain. In either case we hope that the blood and the instincts of the Anglo-Saxon race would tell.

DESPERATE CRIMINALS.

In the records of crime in this country few instances can be found of such reckless audacity and desperate daring as the attempted escape of the three Aurora bank burglars in Toronto Tuesday. There can be no doubt that the plan of escape was premeditated, and that murder was to be one of the means employed if murder were necessary to success. It may seem strange that such cool, intelligent and experienced criminals as these three burglars undoubtedly are, could have hoped to succeed in effecting their escape. They were handcuffed together; two of them had the use of only one hand each, and the middle man was practically helpless. They were crowded into a closed back, with two armed officers sitting in front of them and a third the box outside. The plan was to have a confederate throw into the back three revolvers for the burglars to use either in intimidating or shooting their guards. But how could the desperadoes hope to make good their escape even if they succeeded in disposing of their guards? They would have to make their way, handcuffed, through a crowded street in broad daylight to some place of refuge, and trust to luck to get out of the city and then out of the country.

The men took desperate chances. But, after all, their attempt was not so insane as it appears. It might have succeeded by reason of its audacity. A bold, sudden stroke such as was planned has sometimes the effect of momentarily paralyzing opposition; onlookers are stupefied with amazement, and in the precious moments that elapse before they regain their wits the daring criminal escapes. In this case, however, the three criminals had to deal with a man who was as alert, as bold and as self-possessed as they were themselves. It was chiefly due to Constable Stewart that they were recaptured so soon. If he had struggled with the desperadoes in the back after the shooting of Constable Boyd, no doubt he would have shared Boyd's fate and the men might have got away. But he had his wits, allowed them to get out into the street and then followed them up. For his coolness, quick wit and bravery the officer deserves reward.

As for the killing of Constable Boyd, it was a cold-blooded murder. There is no doubt about that. The man who shot him didn't first make the attempt to intimidate him with the revolver. He gave Boyd no chance for his life. Whatever may become of the other, it is hard to see how the burglar who killed poor Boyd can escape the gallows.

Chatham expects every citizen to do his duty on the first.

Push along the Maple City's big Dominion Day celebration.

Dowie, the Chicago healer, says he is Elijah, the prophet. A good many people would like to see him attempt the fiery chariot act, not caring much where he landed.

The significance of the Boer invasion of Cape Colony is shown, not so much by the capture of Jamestown, as by the appointment of General French to the command of the Cape forces. General French was recruiting his health and taking a well-earned rest, and it may be presumed that it was for no trivial matter he was called to active service again.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed, you have a rumbling sound, or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Know All Their Tricks.

"Gentlemen," said Frederick the Great, "I am entirely dissatisfied with the cavalry. The regiments are completely out of hand; there is no accuracy, no order; the men ride like cullions. I beg to say that each of you will pay more attention to his duty, but I know how things go on. You think I am not up to your dodges, but I know them all and will recapitulate them."

"When the season for riding drill comes on, the captain sends for the sergeant major and says: 'I have an appointment this morning at 10 o'clock. The first lieutenant is to take the ride.' The sergeant major goes to the senior subaltern and gives him the message, and the latter says: 'What! The captain will be away? Then I am off hunting. Tell the second lieutenant to take the men.' And the second lieutenant, who is probably still in bed, says: 'What, both of them away? Then I will stay where I am. I was up till 3 this morning at a dance. Tell the cornet I am ill and he must take the ride.' Finally the cornet remarks: 'Look here, sergeant major, what is the good of my standing out there in the cold? You know all about it much better than I do. You go and take them, and so it goes, and what must be the end of it all? What can I hope to do with such cavalry before the campaign?'—History of Frederick the Great."

By Main Strength.

Mr. Jowders looked gloomily at the letter to which he had just painfully affixed his signature and then cast a dubious glance at his wife.

"Do you want to just run this over before I send it to son James?" he inquired, and when Mrs. Jowders shook her head he hastily folded the sheet, which bore the marks of hours of toil, and thrust it into an envelope, which he sealed with trembling expedition and then leaned back in his chair with an air of relief.

"I was afraid you'd want to read it, and then most likely 'twould be all to do over again, mother, like the last one," he said, "but I'm glad James wrote he didn't mind a word misspelled here and there. There's some things I can do, but I never could seem to get a good purchase on the system of spelling, some way."

"As I view it," continued Mr. Jowders, "there's some words you can spell by the looks and some you can spell by the sound. Them I can most generally manage, but when you come to spelling by judgment and main strength my chances are about as slim as they make 'em."

Dear Sir,—In answer to your query as to my experience with the Gas Range, I am pleased to state that, from a number of years' experience I find it the cheapest and best fuel I can get.

As for convenience; it is always ready in an instant. In summer the kitchen is practically as cool as any other part of the house, which is one of the few blessings we are able to get without extra cost. It has practically no objectionable features. I would be pleased if you are able to use this in rescuing some good wife from roasting her life away in a hot kitchen, where wood is used during summer. I remain, Yours truly,

KING AND RELIGION

STRICT OBSERVER OF THE CUSTOMS OF THE ESTABLISHED CHURCH.

TIS DUE TO LOYALTY TO HIS OWN

Never Attended Any Service on Sunday in His Entire Life Unless It Was Conducted by a Clergyman of the Religion by Law Established—Reads Service Himself.

A member of the royal household is authority for the statement that never in his entire life has King Edward attended divine service on the Sabbath, except when conducted by a clergyman of the Established Church. This may be said of many Englishmen, and is not due to prejudice against other religions, but to loyalty to their own. King Edward as a tourist has visited all the great cathedrals, Mohammedan mosques and Hindu temples in the world, and is familiar with all the famous churches of Europe. He has witnessed weddings, funerals and other religious ceremonies in Catholic and dissenting churches many times, but never on the Sabbath. Not even in Rome, where he once spent Easter Sunday, was he tempted to witness the impressive ceremony conducted by the Pope at St. Peter's, but went quietly to the little English Church, where he was one of a very few worshippers, explaining that he did so because he thought when members of the Church of England were in Rome and other foreign cities they should be more than usually particular to recognize and encourage their own form of faith.

No matter where he happens to be on Sunday—at sea, or at a German watering place or camping on the plains or in the country—he has always observed the Sabbath in the strictest manner; and when there is no Church of England convenient or chaplain present he reads prayer himself at the appointed hour to as many of his companions as are willing to join him in the service. Nor does he ever travel on Sunday, except at sea. This has been the rule of his life, as it was that of his mother, the late Queen, and his father, the Prince Consort.

At Marlborough House in London and at Sandringham, his country palace, prayers are read daily in the morning, the members of the household, the servants and the guests being expected to attend, although not required to do so. The attendance is voluntary, but general. The King is not always present in London, but seldom fails to appear at morning prayers while at Sandringham. On Sunday he invariably attends morning services; in London at the Chapel Royal, or at the Church of St. Anne, Soho, and at Sandringham at the beautiful Chapel of St. Mary Magdalene, a quaint and venerable structure said to be more than 400 years old, which was restored at his expense for the benefit of his household and tenants and is filled with beautiful memorial windows and tablets. The humblest laborer on the estate kneels beside the King and gives the responses with him, the only difference being that the Royal family have a separate entrance and a section of pews reserved for themselves and their guests. Pews are also reserved for the servants of the household. The remainder of the sittings belong to tenants of the King's estate and their laborers. The Princesses teach in the Sunday School and Queen Alexandra has charge of the music, drills the choir and on occasions presides at the organ.

Rev. Mr. Onglow has been the curate of St. Mary Magdalene's for many years. He was a classmate of King Edward at the University, and as boys they were in many a scrape together. He attends to the spiritual wants of the tenantry as well as the Royal household, but when the King is at Sandringham the list of visitors usually includes the name of some noted divine, who is expected to preach on Sunday. The late Dean Stanley, who was the religious preceptor of the King, and the late Charles Kingsley were his favorite preachers and frequent guests, and Rev. John Russell, who is commonly alluded to by unfriendly newspaper writers as "the Sporting Parson," is one of the King's most intimate friends. Mr. Russell, who is a keen sportsman and an ardent supporter of the game, is a close friend to the bounds with any gentleman in England, once started the congregation at St. Mary Magdalene by announcing that he had chosen for his text the words of the Saviour in the first clause of the fifty-eighth verse of the ninth chapter of St. Luke.

Tapestries for Mrs. Langtry.

The Royal School of Art Needlework, in South Kensington, has been visited recently by numbers of fashionable people to see the wonderfully worked hangings for Mrs. Langtry's new theatre. Mrs. Langtry has discovered that the school gives real embroideries for the same price as that at which the upholsterers offer imitations.

The hangings are all of the empire period, with the fleur-de-lis and eagle of the first empire playing an important part in a scheme of decorations. The royal boxes are hung with mauve, embroidered with fleur-de-lis. The drop curtain is of rich green velvet, embroidered with dragons, also the work of the school.

A Slight Misprint.

"Well, that's enough to try the patience of Job," exclaimed the village minister as he threw aside the local paper.

"Why, what's the matter, dear?" asked his wife.

"Last Sunday I preached from the text, 'Be ye therefore steadfast,'" answered the good man, "but the printer makes it read, 'Be ye there for breakfast.'"—Glasgow Times.

NO SHADOW

Of outward misfortune can darken the smile of the loyal wife and loving mother. But when disease comes the smile slowly fades, and in its place comes the drawn face and tight closed lips which tell of the constant struggle with pain.

When the delicate womanly organism is diseased the whole body suffers; the form grows thin, and the complexion dull. The first step to sound health is to cure the diseases which undermine the womanly strength.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription establishes regularity, dries disagreeable drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. The wonderful cures of womanly diseases effected by the use of "Favorite Prescription" place it at the front of all put-up medicines specially prepared for the use of women.

"I was troubled with female weakness for eight years, and suffered more than I can tell," writes Mrs. G. M. Moser, of Oswego, Deerpole Co., Montana. "My disposition was affected to such an extent that to say a pleasant word to anyone was almost an impossibility."

"I had two operations performed by one of the most skilled surgeons of the West, but did not get relief. Then, against my doctor's advice, I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and Golden Medical Discovery, and also followed the advice given in the Common Sense Medical Adviser. I continued this treatment for three months, and today am as healthy and well as a woman can be. I cannot thank Dr. Pierce enough for his kind letters to me."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness and sick headache.

The Slav and Woman.

"Abhorrent even to the strongest 'slavophile' is the position occupied by woman in the family and in social life. To escape the charge of prejudice I shall quote a few proverbs current among the southern Slavs—a few out of many hundreds:

The man is the head; the woman is the gram.
One man is worth more than a woman.
A man of straw is worth more than a woman of gold.

Let the dog bark, but let the woman keep silent.
He who does not heat his wife is no man.

"What shall I get when I marry?" asks a boy of his father. "For your wife a stick; for your children a switch."

Twice in his life is a man happy—once when he marries and once when he buries his wife.

And the woman sings, in the Russian folksong which I have freely translated.

Love me true and love me quick.
Pull my hair and use the stick.

Although there are love songs of another kind, in which woman is praised for her charms, she becomes virtually a slave as soon as she marries, and the little poetry of the folksongs does not accompany her even to the marriage altar. She is valued only for the work she can do in a household and for the children she can bear, and should this latter blessing be denied her lot becomes doubly pitiable, and she often seeks release by suicide.

LOYALTY IN THE BAHAMAS.

Effect on Natives of News of Lady Smith's Relief and Queen's Death.

"I don't know that I ever saw a greater contrast in a small corner of the world," said a regular winter visitor to the Bahamas, "than I witnessed in Nassau when the news was received there a year ago that Lady Smith had fallen, and when last January the report came that Queen Victoria was dead. London's riot of joy over Lady Smith was duplicated in a small way at Nassau. Shops were closed and the entire town took on a gala appearance. All the flags were flying, big and little ones, on every house front, and even in Grantstown every hut had its flag. Shortly after the news came, a crowd started up the street with drums beating, flags waving, and children arrayed in holiday dress. Walking up Bay street I met an old negro woman. She had no shoes on her feet, her gown was tattered, and for a coarse coffee sack apron was about her waist, on her head was a yellow turban, and between her lips was an old clay pipe. Across her bosom was pinned an English flag, for which she probably paid a half-penny. I stopped her and said—

"Aunt, everybody seems to be happy to-day."

"Yes, child," she said, "I don't know what day's happy about, but they tell me de Queen's happy and so is I."

"In this speech the loyalty and devotion to England's Queen was shown. That very loyalty and regard for the Sovereign was shown when the news came that Victoria was dead. It was personal mourning that was seen on all sides. No matter how poor these subjects were, each managed to secure a piece of black crepe or silk or woolen or cotton cloth, and men, women and children displayed the emblem tied about the left arm. Even the babies had bows of black on the left shoulder. As I stood in the cathedral listening to the 'Dead March' and saw the wreaths of violets and lilies laid upon the altar, I felt that each of the mourners who crowded the edifice was grief-stricken, not because of the death of the Queen, but because of the death of his or her Queen.

"Strangely enough, many of the negroes, fearing return to slavery upon the accession of Edward VII. When the official proclamation was read they were very down-hearted. They are a simple-minded folk, and any change is disheartening to them. A proclamation always frightens them. It is full of big words of which they are not comprehensible. It conveys an idea of change, of something new, something different, and they dread it. Before I left Nassau, however, I heard many of the negroes singing 'God Save the King,' lustily enough."

COSTLY LONDON FOG.

Eight Hours of It Often Causes Half a Million Dollars' Damage.

A London fog is an expensive visitation. A day of it, counting the days at eight hours, is estimated to cost anything from £100,000 in hard cash. No small proportion of this goes to the gas and electric light companies, which have to supply about a third more power than usual. But there are also the railways. Fog-signalling is expensive. At Chapman Junction alone £50 has been spent by a single railway company during a day's fog in extra pay to the plate layers. When the red light cannot be seen at a distance of a hundred yards the plate layers become fog signallers and for this they are paid a shilling a day in addition to their regular wages and 4d. per hour over time, provided the over time does not run into a second shilling.

Fog signals, like a cuckoo, are more frequently heard than seen, and like a number of things such as babies, cats and crickets, make an amount of noise altogether out of proportion to their size. The largest of these in use is scarcely bigger than a crow's beak, and is a quarter of an inch in depth. The little tin box contains a teaspoonful of gunpowder and three percussion caps and is fitted on to the rail by a red ribbon. It comes from Birmingham, costs exactly a penny apiece. A hundred and fifty thousand or so are purchased by a big railway company in a year, and there are not many left over at the end of it.—London Chronicle.

A Story of Disraeli.

An English paper is responsible for the following delicious story: Soon after Lord Galloway entered the British House of Lords, he presumed so far upon his relationship to the Marquis of Salisbury as to write to Disraeli to ask for the office of Master of the Buckhounds, and he was favored with a reply which read somewhat as follows: "I am sorry that I cannot recommend you for the office of Master of the Buckhounds, as Her Majesty dislikes having anybody connected with the Royal Household who uses bad language. But I will recommend you for the Lord High Commissionership to the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland." And, sure enough, Lord Galloway held the Lord High Commissionership to the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, both in 1876 and 1877. How Disraeli must have chuckled over that note, and over the appointment.

Cost of a Coronation.

It is interesting to see how the cost of William IV's coronation—which amounted to just over £40,000—was built up. Here are the official items in the bill:

Their Majesties' household £22,234
Sovereign's banquet 1,478
Office of works, fitting up Westminster Abbey 12,068
Royal mint, coronation medals 4,524
Fireworks, keeping open public the streets on the night of the coronation 8,004
King Edward's expenses, of course, are expected to exceed these amounts.—Westminster Gazette.

Presented With Address Embodying their Esteem and Accompanied

Yesterday the publisher and employees of The Planet presented E. A. Hutchinson, late editor of this journal, who resigned his position owing to ill health and who leaves shortly for the West, with the following address, expressive of their sentiments and esteem. The address was accompanied by a purse of gold.

E. A. Hutchinson, Esq.,

Editor of The Planet:

We, your fellow workers at The Planet, desire to take this opportunity to express to you our regret that failing health has occasioned you to resign your position as managing editor here and to assure you of our appreciation and esteem of yourself and your services.

The five years during which you have directed the Editorial Department of this journal have been years of continued prosperity and development and many warm personal associations will ever be connected with them.

We earnestly trust that your removal to the great West will result in a speedy restoration to health and that, in your new sphere of labor, you will ever cherish—as will we—pleasant memories of the years spent together here.

We ask you to accept the accompanying purse as a small token of the high esteem in which you are held by all your comrades on The Planet Staff.

Signed on behalf of the whole staff,

SURVEYED THE ROUTE.

George Stephens, M. P., and Mayor Sulman, of this city, drove Mr. Plummer, of Toronto, and Mr. Bostwick, of Detroit, through a portion of Southern Kent yesterday. These are the two gentlemen who are interested in building of an electric railroad in Kent County.

The party drove to Charing Cross and Cedar Springs. They then went to Blenheim where they had dinner at the Sheldon House. From Blenheim they drove back to Charing Cross. The party then drove down the Middle road through South Buxton to Merlin, where Mr. Hickey took the men as his guests and he will drive them as far as Comber to-day.

Mr. Plummer thought the country excellent and that it had great possibilities in the event of the building of an electric road. Mr. Bostwick had never been through this section of Canada before and he thought it the finest country he had ever seen in his life before and better by far than any section of the United States that he had ever been in.

TILBURY

June 7.—C. C. Kippen, of Windsor, is on a two weeks' visit with friends here.

Mrs. Douglas left yesterday for Owen Sound, where she will spend the summer.

Our junior baseball team played a game in Leamington yesterday, which resulted in a victory for the Leamington team by a score of 41 to 21.

Messrs. Munro, Sharp and Scarff were in Walkerville yesterday engaged in the chess tournament with a team there.

A number of the members of the Christian Endeavor Society here are attending the convention in Fletcher today.

Frank Robert, of Joplin, Mo., is visiting his cousin here, V. Campbell.

Miss McClarty is the guest of Mrs. Johnston.

The junior football club expect to play in Essex tomorrow.

Arthur Cowan has been appointed foreman of a new section, formed between here and Comber, commencing 11-2 miles west of here, and running within a mile of Comber. He entered upon his new duties this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Mathers leave next week on a few days' visit to Ottawa. The Daily Planet is on sale at Johnston's Drug Store.

THAMESVILLE

June 6.—Squire Howat investigated a charge of perjury this morning. The charge was laid by W. J. Robinson against Percy Will, and the alleged perjury is said to have been committed in connection with an action recently tried in the division court before Judge Woods, in which Will was successful in obtaining judgment against Robinson for wages and money lent. Several witnesses were examined, but no incriminating evidence was disclosed, and the charge as far as investigated, was dismissed. There is a further charge, however, which, owing to the absence of a material witness for the prosecution, could not be proceeded with, and this portion of the investigation was postponed until Saturday next. It is said that there were some lively passages between O. L. Lewis, counsel for the defendant and the principal witness for the Crown, in which the latter took an unenviable part.

The Thamesville Bowlers, who visited Chatham yesterday report having had an enjoyable experience in every respect, apart from the bowling. In that respect matters turned out rather unsatisfactory. One of the Thamesville lunks won, however, which is something to be grateful for.

Mrs. N. Cornwall and Mrs. Murphy spent the day in Chatham yesterday.

On Friday, June 14th, a lawn social will be held at the residence of Mrs. P. Minshall, under the auspices of the public library.

Geo. McKay left yesterday, to accept a position in Detroit.

BLENHEIM.

June 6.—W. J. R. McGregor disposed of thirty-six fine horses yesterday in one sale to J. O. Scott, of Chatham. Chas. Chaplen, a former resident and grocer merchant of this place, and who for the past eight years has made his home in Manitoba, returned home yesterday. He is now in the egg business.

Miss Nellie, the eldest daughter of Councillor Morrison, of Harwich township, was quietly married at the home of her parents on Talbot street, about three miles east of town, yesterday, to Mr. Robert Warwick, of Guilds. The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. J. M. McLaren, B. A., after which the happy couple retired to their home near Guilds. We regret to report the very serious illness of Miss Viola Clark, eldest daughter of Mr. John Clark, of the Fourth line. She was stricken on Monday evening of this week with that dreaded disease appendicitis and has been gradually sinking ever since. No hope is held out for her recovery.

The tailor shop of Mr. W. F. Robertson was entered during the night and some clothes taken. No clue as to the robbers. The goods taken were a light brown coat and vest, one dark pair worsted pants, one striped pair of pants, one black prince Albert coat, 2 1-2 yards striped tweed. Every effort is being made by the police to secure the guilty parties.

June 7.—A meeting of the fire department was held last night and the usual monthly practice was held. Water was thrown in four minutes through No. 2 hose, and the ladder company placed their ladders on the wall block and No. 1 branch was on building in 3 1-2 minutes, ready for use. All the members were present except Firemen Holland and Furie. Fireman Geo. Myland was elected as treasurer in place of W. D. Thompson, who resigned.

L. M. Appleford was in town yesterday.

DRESDEN.

June 7.—Miss May Miller is visiting friends in Florence.

Chas. Carscallen, who has been attending Victoria College, Toronto, has, we are pleased to say, passed his exams with honors.

Michael Bonn, of North Dresden, who was badly hurt this week at Hinzman's flax building, is improving.

F. S. Jamieson, of the Bank of Commerce, leaves this morning for Barrie.

The Dresden Tennis Club has invited the Bothwell Club to play a match here on Monday, the 10th of June.

PRaise for Mr. Park.

The following resolution was passed at the recent meeting of the West Huron Teachers' Association:

Resolved, that in view of the prominent part taken by Mr. Robert Park, formerly principal of Goderich Model school, in fashioning the personnel of the profession in Huron, and in view of his recent promotion to the inspectorship of the Chatham city schools in addition to his former charge in West Kent, we, the teachers of West Huron, assembled in Essex, desire to congratulate most heartily Mr. Park in his wider sphere of usefulness, and that our secretary be instructed to forward a copy of this resolution to Mr. Park.

A FREE SPECTACLE.

Ringling Bros. Parade a Revelation of Processional Splendor.

Those who witness the superb free street carnival given by Ringling Brothers' Circus, last season, might naturally have supposed that the limit of expansion and processional display had been reached. Certainly nothing to equal it in magnificence had ever before been seen in the Western Hemisphere. It is doubly interesting, therefore, to learn that Ringling Brothers' parade has been practically doubled in size this year, and that the display is richer, grander and more elaborate than ever before.

The ring that impresses the public most forcibly is the lack of conventionalism in the parade. It is not merely a collection of horses, cages and tableaus wagons, jumbled together without design or order, such as the public has learned to expect from other circuses, but it is an elaborately planned processional display, divided into sections or divisions, each of which is representative of some central idea or theme, and constitutes in effect a complete parade in itself. There are thirty of these divisions, and in union they form the most original, the most complete and the most splendidly planned and executed that human ingenuity and artistic taste has ever organized.

Among the most striking sections is the military division, which serves to illustrate the stirring features of the world's famous military organizations. The handsome uniforms, the bright accoutrements and the magnificent caparisoned horses render this picture of military warfare and brilliant in the extreme. The section devoted to the Punjab, with its red-coated British soldiers and its huge war elephants harnessed to great, rumbling siege guns, is also particularly impressive. An Egyptian caravan, crossing the desert, with its camels, dromedaries, wiry Arabian horses, Bedouins of the desert, Southerners and other strange people, vies in interest with the Boer section, which illustrates a Burgher Commando trekking across the plains of South Africa, with its long train of ox-teams and its hardy native ponies. There is a special children's section, with tiny cages and miniature Mother Goose tableaux drawn by dwarf ponies, and an entire division devoted to the sports and martial glories of old Rome, with its gladiators, its fearless standing riders, its charioteers and its gorgeous racing chariots, so thrillingly described in "Ben Hur" and "Quo Vadis." The wild animal section contains scores of cages of rare wild beasts, many of which are displayed in open dens, and a great double herd of thirty big and little elephants. The continuing throughout is superb, and the display of fine stock unequalled. There are five hundred horses, splendidly groomed and gorgeously caparisoned, and the constellated night never to be forgotten. This grand display of processional wealth takes place at 10 o'clock in the morning, and serves to introduce what is comparatively the largest and most complete circus in the world. The big show exhibits in Chatham Wednesday, June 26th.

COUNTY COUNCIL.

An agreement was entered into on the same basis for the term of one year. That G. A. Miller, of Dresden, be appointed on the County Board of examiners to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the Rev. A. McColl.

That no action be taken in reference to the request of the Chatham Collegiate Institute asking for an advance of $200 on account of county pupils attending the C. C. I. in 1901.

That the request of Robert Park asking the sanction of the Council to his appointment to the inspectorship of the Chatham schools be granted.

The reports of the inspectors for East and West Kent were received and we recommend their publication in the minutes.

The report was adopted. The reports of J. A. Morton, $5.69, and of A. P. Stephens, $14, were referred to Finance committee.

The motion of Mr. Robinson to a hundred dollar grant towards improving the Romney and Tilbury East townline, was referred to Finance committee.

Francis Rankin presented a petition from a number of ratepayers of Dover asking a grant of $500 to aid in building a bridge over Little Bear Creek where it crosses the Bear Line at the 15th concession. The petition was signed by Alex. Gordon, Peter Cravard, George King, Louis Sterling, Wm. Payne, W. H. Stacey, E. J. Payne, P. Cartier, F. V. Cartier, A. Richie, T. D. Rankin, Alex. Brown, John Bishop, Will Cartwright, Bruce Bishop, John Garner, W. H. Winter, Will Newkirk, John Dunlop, Alex. McFarlane, F. McNairnie, Isaac Siddall, T. O'Neill, D. H. Winter, John Jackson, W. O'Mara, Alex. Gordon, J. Albert Trotter. The petition was referred to Roads and Bridges committee.

J. N. McCoy, chairman of the special committee appointed to investigate and enquire into the necessity for a bridge across the river Sydenham at Tupperville, reported that they had carefully investigated the matter and were unanimous in reference to the necessity of an iron swing bridge at Tupperville, for the benefit of the ratepayers and the public travel of the county of Kent.

The report was adopted. Mr. Morrison gave notice that he would move this afternoon that a new bridge be erected over the river Thames at the Raleigh and Tilbury East town line and Dover East and West.

Mr. Veater gave notice that he would to-morrow move the council into committee of the whole to consider the erection of a bridge at Louisville.

Inspector Colles' report was presented. It noted great progress, material prosperity and educational advancement for the schools of East Kent. The public school building at Blenheim had been burned, but had been replaced by a splendid modern structure.

There are 18 schools in Camden, 19 in Harwich, 14 in Howard, 10 in Orford and five in Zone. Education in East Kent had cost $46,491.69 in 1900 as against $46,093.28 in 1899. There were 4803 pupils enrolled in 1900 with an average yearly attendance of 296.6. The report was adopted.

A LOVE STORY

Love and the summer both were young
And so were man and maid.
When under leafy boughs I swung
Her hammock in the shade;
The birds in happiness above
With lyrics filled the air,
And here was Eden, here was love,
And here my sweetheart fair.

Thought I, no need of winning words
To set her heart at ease;
Silent, I'll let the poet birds
Sing of my love to her.
Dumb for an hour I sat, and this
Is just what happened then—
I turned and stole a timid kiss,
Another, and again.

What did she do? Oh, nothing much
Except to laugh and say
"Twas strange that men make love in such A way."

A very frightened way:
And think what kisses I had lost
In one hour, more or less;
But when I counted up her cost
She paid it with her eyes.
—The Delineator.

A GAME OF CHAFF.

The great house loomed darkly before the young man who paused for a moment at the iron gates. Then he stepped forward briskly and passing round the mansion rang the bell at the side door. It was almost immediately answered by a young woman who put her finger to her lips as she ushered him in.

"Please be very careful," she said. "The family is so fussy. Come this way."

She took him into an apartment that might have been the breakfast room and motioned him towards a chair.

"Can't I shake hands with you?" he asked. "It seems like quite an age since we parted."

"Thank you," she said and gave him her hand. "It was just two weeks ago to-day—if that can be considered an age."

"I will admit," said the girl with a little blush, "that it was quite an episode in my life. I'd never had such an opportunity before."

"No," he said with a slightly rising intonation. He looked at her with a curious expression. She was a pretty girl, a very pretty girl, and though her hair was smoothed into plainness and surrounded by a simple little white cap its beauty and luster seemed brightened by this attempt at concealing them. Her gown was plain, too, and over it she wore a fresh white apron.

"Yes," she said and her intonation took the opposite direction. And she in turn looked at him. He was a man worth looking at. Well knit, well featured and well spoken. "So men," she shortly added, "are easily deceived."

"Some deceptions are preferable to the truth," he said. "But pray go on—You have something to tell me."

"Yes," said the girl. "No doubt you have guessed it. You saw me at the seaside resort for those few days. The glamour of the place dazzled you. You took appearances for realities."

"They were such charming appearances," he softly said.

"Please don't interrupt," she cried with another little blush. "You saw me with Miss Ainslie's aunt. You took me for Miss Ainslie—and I let you deceive yourself. I was only Miss Ainslie's companion. One moment Miss Ainslie showed me your note asking the privilege of calling. She suspected that I knew what it meant. I confessed. I told her the whole story—how I let you think me a great heiress and how I led you on. She advised me to write and tell you to call—"

"Of course at the side door," said the man. "Of course at the side door," exclaimed the girl. "I couldn't ask you here on the footing of the family guests. I wouldn't have asked you here at all, but Miss Ainslie counseled it. She said it was my duty to deceive you. That is all, I think. Good night."

She stood up as she spoke the last words and moved toward the door. But the man did not stir. "You saw," and short calls disagree with me. Pray, sit down. I, too, came here this evening to make confession. I was not the only one deceived."

"What do you mean?" she asked as she resumed her chair.

"I mean," he replied, "that I represented myself to you in what you must have regarded as a rather favorable light."

"I think," she said, "that you gave me the impression that you were a person of some prominence."

"I fancy there must be something in the air of the average resort that encourages these fanciful deceptions," he said. "It's so long to be something other than what we really are. And yet I am very glad tonight to know the truth."

"May I ask why?" said the girl. "I was about to tell you," he replied. "You see, that as the petted heiress, Grace Ainslie, you seemed as far above me as a star. I was mad to write to you to-day. But now it's different. You are nearer my social level. I do not have to stomp the bastion of wealth to reach you."

"That's rather pretty," said the girl. "And you are not disappointed?"

"No," said the man. "I am glad. Glad that I am a dependent instead of an heiress."

"Glad for my own sake, yes. And now may I ask your name?"

"M-my name?" stammered the girl. "Why should I tell you?"

"Do as you please about it," said the man. "It will be easy to give you another."

"And may I ask what yours is?" queried the girl demurely.

"A true name," he said. "They count for nothing to-night."

"And yet I'm foolishly particular regarding them," she said with a smile. "You are thinking of the possible change," he thoughtfully remarked. "I don't blame you for being a little fastidious. It does you credit. You wouldn't fancy a name like Hoopend-looper, would you?"

"No," she gravely answered. "I wouldn't like any name that ran over the edge of a calling card."

"But, after all," he cried, "it is the name, not the name."

"Then," she said, "you leave me to enter that your name is an atrocious one."

"My name is well enough," he said. "But let it go. There are other things to hold our attention. In the first place, how do we stand socially—and financially? Wait, please. I am about to tell you something concerning my self."

"Not the story of your life?"

"Not exactly. But pray do not interrupt. I am thirty-one, in good health, no serious habits, fairly good-looking, measurably ambitious and something of a favorite where I am best known. I have a comfortable situation in connection with a downtown office, and there is a neat little sum lying to my credit in a certain bank. I think I might even compass the cost of a modern cottage."

"That's nice," she said. "I have a little balance on a bank book myself."

"That's nice, too," said the man. "Do you think it would cover the cost of the furniture?"

"If carefully invested," said the girl, "I think it would."

"I'm glad of that," the man commented. "I never believe in adopting the installment plan where you can raise the cash. And now be equally frank and tell me about yourself."

"No," said the girl, "I'm too much prejudiced in favor of the subject. Let's hear your opinion."

"All right," said the man; "but, of course, I'm prejudiced, too. At the same time it is a good thing to air one's prejudices occasionally. If our prejudices do not agree pray correct me from time to time. To begin with you are beautiful. Then you are fairly intelligent. You have a nimble wit, but you have been somewhat spoiled. Eh, you don't like that? Nevertheless, it is quite evident that your employers have been too indulgent. Oh, yes, they have. And yet one who really—admired you, could overlook this—shall say painful defect—in time."

"Is that all?"

"All I could dilate on your attractions until the gray fingers of the dawn beckoned me away!"

"How can I express myself. I had only to shut my eyes to hear the surf beat on the shore and the band softly thrumming on the hotel piazza."

"What a lovely time it had while it lasted. How those golden moments scuttled through pleasure's hour-glass!"

"There you go again. But we did have a lovely time deceiving each other, didn't we?"

"It was our foolish vanity that did the deceiving—our hearts were as true as steel."

"Good is very hard, Mr. Thingamy. Mine is ductile steel, Miss Whatsojourname. 'Tis a heart of wax when thou art near. And your face is the only impression it bears."

"But, ah, if your heart warmed up and that impression would soon be obliterated."

"No, no, it is indelible. Ah, if I only knew your name how delightful it would be to make love to you."

The girl made a quick gesture of dissent.

"You would take altogether too much time," she said. "I shudder to think of your verbosity if you had a three syllable name to encourage your efforts. Besides, you must remember that this is my night in."

"You might have said so before."

"Yes, it's my night to have company and to receive it—or him—in this particular apartment. All the other help go out in order to leave the lucky one a clear field. My chance doesn't come again for ten days. But that will not excuse me for overdoing the present opportunity. You really must go. I fancy I hear footsteps now. Hush!"

The footsteps came down the hall. They paused and the door opened. An elderly man with a heavy white mustache looked in.

"Oh, there you are, Grace," he cried. "I didn't know you had company. Bless my soul if it isn't Warren Hayes! How are you, my boy?"

"I didn't know Grace knew you," he said. "I fancy you're half suspect. The fact is, Miss Grace Ainslie, alias Thingamy, that when a young woman admits her devoted admirer through the side door it is about time for papa's consent to be asked."

"You are a rude and hasty man," said the girl. "And I suppose you are just concocted enough to think that I mean that you hope to succeed with the daughter as well as you think you'll succeed with the father."

"Exactly," said Warren Hayes. The girl looked at him with a little scowl.

"Well," she said, "you'll not get in the side door again."

"Oh, the front door will do," said Warren Hayes. And then the girl softly laughed.

THE DOUKHOBOR FAITH.

"God Does Not Exist in Himself, But Is Inseparable From Man."

It is a mistake to suppose that the Doukhobors are either ignorant "heretics" or of low moral standard. writes Lally Bernard in The Toronto Globe. The constant war between flesh and spirit, which has earned them the name of "spirit wrestlers," has not been earned without a struggle, and that struggle has left its imprint upon their faces and sharpened their intelligence to an extraordinary degree. Their working out of life's deep problems would astonish many a man who has followed out the same line of thought with the aid of many books.

The practice of such a religion has never attracted many followers, and the people are content to exhort, and constantly urge to higher forms of practice among themselves without trying to preach their gospel to the world at large. The religion is in itself obscure, but its practice is most simple. In the "Empire of the Tsars" Leroy-Benulieu sums up the essence of their religion in a few simple words. "The prophet Pohlrokhin, he remarks, 'one of their spiritual leaders in the eighteenth century, is said to have explicitly taught that God does not exist by Himself, but is inseparable from man. It is for the righteous, in a way, to give Him life.' A curious doctrine, but one which seems to be the mainspring of their innate dignity and wondrous patience, one that conduces to sobriety and all the virtues that make these people a desirable element in any community. Their faith in regard to a future state reminds the writer of the famous 'mot' of one of the most brilliant women in France, who, when questioned as to her belief in a future state of bliss, replied: 'Ah, who can say? To insure certainty, I make my Paradise here below.' The reverence that these people pay to the rites belonging to burial has remained to those observed by the primitive Christians.

Cost of the British Navy.

An English writer, with a love of figures, has been computing the aggregate money value of that colossal institution, the British navy. Going back to the beginning of the century, he finds that the fleet was then worth barely £10,000,000 or $50,000,000—very little more than the sum that is to be spent this year on entirely new war vessels.

Since the passing of the Naval Defence Act in 1889 the amount expended on the building of British warships is close on $300,000,000; if other expenditure connected with the navy is taken into account the total would be nearer $800,000,000. Keeping, however, strictly to the cost of the vessels at present on the effective strength of the navy the total is £108,000,000, or more than $500,000,000.

Of this huge total the sixty-four battleships, costing $260,000,000, make up nearly half, the next in order being the 119 protected cruisers, with a total cost of $145,185,000. The only other eight-figure cost is that of the twenty-two armored cruisers, on which the Government expense is $56,635,000. It will thus be seen that the armored cruisers cost more than a third as much as five times as many protected cruisers. These totals do not include the vessels now in progress.

Making Koumiss at Home.

To make homemade koumiss, cow's milk should be diluted with one-third its volume of water and two teaspoonfuls of white sugar added per quart of liquid. A small portion of this is rubbed into a paste, which is then placed in strong bottles and allowed to ferment. After a few days, during which the bottles should be repeatedly shaken, a beverage of great value in cases of digestive disturbance, as well as of excellent palatability for a healthy person, is produced. Especial care must be taken in corking the bottles tightly, and it is safer, owing to the great pressures produced by the fermentation, to wrap the bottles in a heavy cloth before shaking them.—Dairy and Creamery.

British Tea Drinking.

The tea drinking capacity of the British people is alluded to in "Tea," the new monthly paper of the trade. "Tea" states that in the United Kingdom nearly six pounds a head of the population is consumed. Sixteen years ago the per capita consumption amounted approximately to five pounds. There is no other European country where such a per capita consumption is approached. There is no other European country, except Holland, where the consumption of tea exceeds one pound a head. In Russia and the United States also, which are the two larger tea consuming countries, the consumption amounts to under one pound a head. These are interesting facts.

A Dose for an Elephant.

A difficult operation was performed the other day at the Zoological Gardens, London. An elephant was suffering great pain from a growth on the lower part of one of its hind feet, and it was deemed necessary to cut this malformation away. In order to render the animal insensible a dose of 600 grains of morphia in six bottles of rum was administered. This dose took about an hour before any visible effect was produced. The elephant then fell over in a kind of a sleep, and the operation was successfully carried out without any further ado. The operation lasted in all three days.

For Enriching the Soil.

Soils lacking in humus may be greatly benefited by plowing under stable manure or green crops. Rye, buckwheat, cowpeas and crimson clover are all good, the two latter being more valuable because of the nitrogen which they add.

SITHOMAS Business COLLEGE

The growth of this institution during the last two years has been wonderful. The attendance has been doubled on account of the thorough course of training which we give. One of our young men is now drawing a salary of $1,800 a year; another $800; others from $400 to $800. Within the last month two of our students have gone direct from a College to positions paying $500 a year. WE QUALIFY OUR STUDENTS TO FILL THE BEST POSITIONS.

Young people are foolish to spend the best part of their lives learning Latin, French and the dead languages, when a few months spent in our Commercial or Shorthand Department will fit them to earn salaries like the above.

Eighty-seven per cent. of all our students who have written on the examinations of the Business Educators' Association of Canada this year have been successful.

"IT IS NOBLE TO FORGIVE."

Lenchen and Gretchen lived quite near to each other in the valley of the Catskill Mountains. They were the best of friends, often visited each other, and whenever they could they went walking together in the fields and woods. On one of these walks they found a little flower such as they had never before seen, it being striped red and blue. They began to contend about the color of the blossom; Lenchen said it was red, but Gretchen said it was blue. At first they were not angry at all, and talked in fun, but soon they talked in earnest and quarreled. From this day their friendship seemed to be at an end. They did not visit each other any more, and when they chanced to meet they passed each other without greeting. But both of these little girls were very unhappy indeed.

One evening—it was the evening before Gretchen's birthday—Lenchen seemed to be bothering her little head about something. Always before she had enjoyed a good time on Gretchen's birthday. As she thought about this, how pleasant it always had been, she could no longer keep back her tears. She ran to her mother, sobbing aloud, and buried her face in mother's lap, who very well knew what troubled her little girl. She brought a book in which were a great many beautiful stories and sayings, and gave it to Lenchen to win her from her grief. Lenchen took the book and began to read and to try to forget her trouble. She had not read very long when her little heart grew sad as she thought of her playmate, and she wished that she and Gretchen could be friends again, and tomorrow, Gretchen's birthday, would be just the time to show her that love and friendship are better than anger and quarrelling. To think of being friends again made her glad and happy, and long after she had gone to bed, she could not sleep for joy, her heart was so full of happy thoughts.

Early next morning she arose at the break of day, plucked the prettiest flowers in the garden and made of them a beautiful bouquet. Then she wrote a loving little note of good wishes, and down in one corner she added: "Dear Gretchen, and the tiny flower I think is blue and red." She placed the letter among the flowers and then went to Gretchen's house. How joyously the little birds sang upon the way! How lovely the perfume of the flowers, and how happily she greeted the first rays of the morning sun! Everything about her was beautiful because of the sunshine in her heart.

Quietly she tiptoed to the window of the little bedroom in which Gretchen slept, laid the bunch of flowers on the window ledge, and then ran as fast as her little feet would carry her back home.

When Gretchen arose she went, as she always did the very first thing in the morning, to the window to water her plants. How happy she was surprised when she saw the bouquet. She glanced at the letter and her heart leaped for joy. Over and over again she said to herself, "Yes, the flower is red and blue." She laughed so loudly that she brought the whole house in an uproar, and without stopping to explain to father and mother the cause of her strange conduct she ran, nay, she flew through the woods to her friend Lenchen, who waited for her at the corner of the house. The letter had told it all, so the two children clasped each other around the neck and sealed their friendship anew amid tears of joy with many kisses.

Often older people become estranged from each other, just as did Gretchen and Lenchen, through trifles; and how many a headache would be spared if they were as ready and willing to forgive as were these children. Translated from the German, by S. J. M.

A Monkey Fireman.
A Louisiana planter, who owns a pet monkey which answers to the name of Jocko, tells an anecdote about him which proves that such animals can read and reason.

The children of the house and Jocko are boon companions, and of a warm afternoon enjoy a frolic together upon the lawn. One day some one threw a match down, and the grass ignited, making a little blaze.

Jocko saw it and stopped and looked, then glanced all around, and, seeing a piece of plank not far off, ran for it, crept cautiously to the fire, all the time holding the plank as a shield between himself and the flame, then threw the plank on the fire and pressed it down and extinguished it. What child could have reasoned better and done more?

Although, perhaps, no danger could have come from the fire, still no one knows what the result might have been; and the monkey evidently believed that that prudence is the better part of valor.

The Work of Sparrows.
The town clerk in Sarnia, Ontario, topped one morning not long ago, and, on investigation, the hands were found securely tied down by strands of twine and grass. The mischief had been done by a pair of sparrows. Desiring to build a nest in the angle of the hands, the movement of which in the hands, the movement of which in the hands, in such a manner that it took considerable time and labor to remove the obstructions. The engineering skill displayed, and the amount of industry and perseverance exhibited, makes the feat quite phenomenal in bird annals.

MALT BREAKFAST FOOD HOLDS FIRST PLACE AS A SUMMER MEAL (IN FOOD)

Such celebrated physicians and dietetic experts as Prof. W. M. Williams, M. D., Sir Hector Thompson, M. D., Sir William Roberts, M. D., and Dr. J. —The Union Signal.

The popular view of the relation of the blood to human character and conduct is marked in many a familiar expression. We speak of their being "bad blood" between people, of "blue blood" as indicating enmity, of "black blood" as describing a treacherous nature, and in many another phrase mark our belief that in the mental, moral and physical man, "the blood is the life." The old basis of a healthy, happy and useful life is pure blood. With the blood pure, disease has no permanent lodging place in the system. For this reason the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which is the body of diseases which have their origin in impurity of blood. It absolutely purifies the blood, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter, increasing the action of the blood making glands, and building up the body by supplying the blood in quantity and quality such as is essential to a condition of health. It cures ninety-eight people out of every hundred who give it a fair trial.

ABRAHAM WILFRED GOGGINS.

Abijah Wilfred Goggins has (to simply state the truth.) A record which is spotless as a walrus' snowy tooth: He's never been to societies, to parties, nor to balls; He's never been to theatres, nor dined at concert halls; He's never nursed his vanity before a looking-glass; He's never ogled charming girls, nor stood to see them pass; He's never read Boccaccio's tales, nor such forbidden fruit; He's never read the evidence in a breach of promise suit; He's never spoken an angry word, nor been beguiled; He's never drank a glass of beer, nor ardent spirits wild; He's never seen a horse race, nor a prize fight's brutal strife; He's never bet a dollar on a contest in his life; He's never yearned for riches, nor begrudged with envious eye; He's never stolen a penny, and he's never told a lie; He's never spoken an angry word, nor evil utterance swore; He's never done a single thing his conscience might deplore; In short, his moral record (to reiterate the truth.) Is beautiful and spotless as a walrus' snowy tooth; And I who promulgate the fact impart the same with joy. For Abijah Wilfred Goggins is my darling baby boy!—Harlem Life

A Strange Thing.
"There was one word the little girl heard many times a day and could not imagine what it was. The word was Musementtucht. Baby wondered who Musementtucht could be. The strange thing lived in the bureau drawers; it lived in the sewing machine; it lived in the tall jar that stood on the little round table; it certainly lived in the glass globe where the gold fishes swam. This was her chance. Up went the chubby legs into the chair that stood near the gold-fish globe. Pooled on the rounding cushion, baby reached far over to touch the gold-fish. In reaching the globe to the floor. There was a crash, a scream, a rush, and mamma was on the spot. Baby was picked up, kissed and scolded.

"I guess I tilled old Musementtucht in time," she said, shaking herself and walking off.

How to Save Money.

For one thing we must resolutely resolve that we will not spend money in trifles. "Trifles make up the sum of human life," they certainly do. Considerably to the sum of household expenses. Yet the peculiarity about them is that the people who most indulge in them are the most unconsciously of the fact. Avoid spending money in trifles, of course, says the embarrassed householder, "that is what every one says; yet why repeat the advice to me? I never buy trifles; I have something else to do with my money." Yet more like this individual goes to a small purchase will be made which benefits no one, and which runs away with one of those pennies that must be put together before the necessities of ordinary people that they readily yield to the temptation to buy trifles. The unthrifty, the unmethodical and the weak let money dribble between their fingers; the capable, manly, energetic persons do not part with money unless they get money's worth in exchange.

A Snake in a Baseball Game.

Two Pond Eddy (N. Y.) clubs were playing a game of baseball early when a batter struck a ball over into the field, and the fielder ran to get it. The ball rolled along through the grass, and when the player who was after it got to where he had seen it stop, he was almost paralyzed to see lying there, instead of the ball, a big rattlesnake, coiled to strike. The player jumped back in time to escape the fangs of the snake, for it struck savagely at him. The player smashed the snake's head with a stone. The ball lay in the snake's coils. It is supposed that the snake was lying asleep in the grass, when the ball rolled along and ran against him. The reptile had instantly coiled around the object and prepared for suspected danger.

A Cold Wave.

A cold wave, as defined by Prof. T. Russell, is a fall of temperature in twenty-four hours of 20 degrees over an area of 50,000 square miles, the temperature in some parts of this area falling to 35 degrees. Between 1880 and 1890 no less than 691 cold waves were recorded in the United States.

But a Momentary Triumph.

It is a momentary triumph, of which the satisfaction dies at once, and is succeeded by remorse; whereas forgiveness, which is the noblest of all virtues, entails a perpetual pleasure. It was well said by a Roman emperor that he wished to put an end to all his enemies by converting them into friends.

Grand Trunk Railway time table changed Sunday, June 2nd. Chatham passengers going east for Toronto and points east of that will now leave at 10.32 instead of 9.02 as formerly, and the Eastern Flyer which formerly left here at 3.30 will for the future leave at 5.30, arriving in Toronto at 10 o'clock and Montreal early the following morning. This latter is the popular train which has revolutionized travel in Canada since being put on by the popular Grand Trunk Railway.

DOVER WEDDING.

A very happy wedding took place in Dover Wednesday evening, when Mary Jane, daughter of Thos. J. Rankin, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to H. P. Montgomery at the residence of the bride's father, 12th concession.

The ceremony took place on the lawn under an arch of foliage, surrounded by friends and relatives. The bride was dressed in white and the bridesmaid was Miss Trotter, the groomsmen were Alex. McKay, of Ingersoll.

After the ceremony a sumptuous repast was partaken of and amidst a shower of wheat and rice the couple started on their honeymoon to Buffalo.

They will take up their residence on the 9th concession, Dover.

The ceremony was conducted by Rev. Messrs. Clark and McClintock.

HOME FROM THE WEST.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Atwell, of Brandon, Man., are visiting at the residence of John Hendershott, this city. Mr. Atwell says that he likes the West far better than he expected that he would.

Western Canada is doing well and looking well. When Mr. Atwell left Brandon rain was needed. The crops were not suffering for the want of water but a little rain would have been beneficial.

The spring crops all the way through look just as well as they do here. The fall wheat and hay are the only products of the farm in which this country is ahead of the West.

The climate is fine and healthy and the people pleasant and good neighbors.

COUNTY COURT CASES.

At the County Court yesterday, Miss Hubbell sought to collect her wages from her employer Frank Wilson. Judge Houston gave his decision in favor of the servant girl for $2.51 and costs.

Building Sale Thomas Stone & Son Building Sale

Stock Must be Reduced $25,000 Before July 1st

We have only a short time in which to accomplish this, but we are determined to make the prices so low that the goods will go out on the double quick. Many lines do not receive mention in this price list. You will have to come to the store in order to appreciate the great money saving opportunity.

Tailor-made Suits

Bear in mind that these suits are not old tag ends of last year's styles, but the very latest creations made by the best men tailors. You'll be pleased with them; they fit to perfection.

REG. $7.50 SUITS FOR $4.67

In size 34 only, made of fawn, home spun, Eton jacket, and flaring skirt, lined throughout.

REG. $19 SUITS FOR $11.

In sizes 34 and 36, made of fawn and grey vicuña, very pretty shades, Eton jacket without lapels, new stitched collar, lined throughout with silk, skirt with graduated flounce, trimmed with taffeta.

THREE SUITS WORTH $18.00 FOR $7.90

Made of fawn, light and dark, grey, home spun, sizes 32, 34 and 36, a fine suit at a very small price.

And many other lines all at reduced prices.

Black Dress Goods

In black dress goods you have a great opportunity now of saving money. Many lines have been very much reduced to clear them out, in order to make room for our new line of down, wools, and shawls. Goods must be got out of the way and that is the reason we make such offerings as these:—

Ten pieces Black figured dress goods including fine broches, grenadine stripes and neat floral designs, worth regular 75c and 90c, a yard, on sale next Saturday for 48c.

Four pieces fine figured black dress goods, handsome, stylish designs, regular $1.00 a yard, on sale next Saturday for 67c.

A black dress or a black skirt is never amiss in any lady's wardrobe, and it would pay you to buy at the present prices.

Shirtings

We want to impress on you two very special lines we are offering during our Building Sale—

Eight pieces extra heavy indigo shirtings in stripes only, very special value at the regular price of 10c a yard, we are offering them now at 8c.

Eight pieces neat blue Oxford shirting, checks, our regular price is 8c a yard. We are offering them during the sale at the very low price of 6 1/4c.

White Piques

White Piques are again correct for skirts and shirt waists. We have the light weights for waists and the heavier weights for skirts. For our great building sale specials next Saturday we offer white piques at extraordinary prices:—

12 1/2 white piques for 8c.

15c white piques for 10c.

20c white piques for 12 1/2c.

25c white piques for 15c.

40c white piques for 25c.

30c white piques for 20c.

If you have any idea of wearing a white skirt this summer this is your great opportunity.

Colored Dress Goods

Never in the history of June selling has this store turned out so many dress goods as during the past week. The prices are so attractive that if you are in need of a spring dress you cannot afford to pass us.

39 pieces of colored dress goods, including fawns, greys, blues, greens, etc., in fancy self-color weaves and silk mixtures, worth from 75c to $1.25 a yard, on sale at 47c.

10 pieces of silk mixed plaids in very pretty color combinations, made to retail at 50c. a yard, on sale next Saturday for 19c.

4 pieces twilled camel's hair wale serges in grey, brown and fawn, just the correct thing for separate skirts, regular $1 value, on sale at 67c.

Millinery

Our eagerness is to have you well pleased and a constant customer. An honest quality bears proclamation from the house-tops—such and only such we sell—and when you consider that you can buy millinery at almost half regular value it is certainly to your interest to buy your summer hat here.

20 Hats at $1.00

15 Hats at $2.00

19 Hats at $2.25

25 Hats at $3.00

10 Hats at $3.50

12 Hats at $4.00

All made up in our workroom this week for Saturday's selling. They're worth twice as much.

Skirts

There were more skirts went out of this store on Saturday last than ever were sold in one day in this city before. The people saw the saving and bought at first sight. We have received a Fresh Supply for Saturday next.

Underskirts at reduced prices.

Ready to Wear Skirts at Building Sale prices.

Carpets

The sale prices are creating a great stirring in our carpet department. Last Saturday we could not wait on all the customers; we will do better next Saturday and be ready to serve you when you come in.
