SENSATIONAL FIRE

Takes Place in a Montreal School--All Escaped Including the Daughters of Two Prominent Brantfordites.

(Courier Leased Wire).

MONTREAL, Jan. 23.—Some in their bare feet, all of them in nightgowns, a few covered by kimonos and dressing gowns, hastily donned, twenty pupils in the select boarding school of the Misses Edgar and Camp, made up this morning as strange a load as any Montreal authorities have ever carried.

The fire which broke out in the school building on Guy street, drove teachers and pupils out in a hurry shortly before five o'clock. All got away without personal harm, but very few saved anything but the flimmest clothing. The fire was on the top floors, and the sleepy girls followed to the last detail their usual fire drill, assembling on the ground floor where the police and firemen found them very little excited. As some of the girls have their homes in the city, the police patrol was called to distribute them.

Two More Accidents for Flying Men

(Courier Leased Wire).

RHEIMS, France, Jan. 23.—The well known French flying man, Chas. Gahard, was thrown to the ground from a height of 200 feet by the capsizing of his monoplane, while making a flight to-day around the spires of the cathedral here.

This One Killed Instantly.

BERLIN, Jan. 23.—Another aviation accident occurred to-day during the military manoeuvres. Lieut. Otto Schiedel was instantly killed through falling to earth from a considerable height when the military biplane in which he was flying collapsed. The aeroplane was taking a high curve when it crumpled up and fell. The pilot Lieut. A. Von Scheele also was dangerously injured and was taken to a hospital unconscious.

ENTERTAINING

Were the Remarks at a Meeting in the Interest of Farmers--The Middleman Said to Get Most of the Profit.

Under Farmer's Institute auspices, Prof. J. B. Reynolds, of the Ontario Agricultural College, delivered an address last evening at the Y. M. C. A. Dr. Creelman had been booked, but was too unwell to attend.

Mr. Reynolds stated that he regarded country life as better for a man, his wife and family, and that at the end of ten years he was more in pocket than the average city man. He declared that the great shortcoming of the average farmer was that he did not proceed on business methods. First rate at a bargain all the time, but with no system to show at the end of the year just where he stands and what leads needed to be secured.

Under business man failing to keep tabs in such a regard would naturally go to the wall. Why then shouldn't the farmer be equally alert to his own splendid interests. He declared that the introduction of such a system would not only do much for the farmer's profit but also add a much needed interest to agriculture.

Dr. Reed said that the out-of-doors plan was the best for the cure of tuberculosis—that and proper sanitation for the house, the stables, and everything else.

SUFFRAGETTE MOVEMENT

David Lloyd George Expresses the Hope That the Cause Will Win Out--Working Women Heckle Two of the Ministers.

(Courier Leased Wire).

LONDON, Jan. 23.—"I hope we shall win on Monday," David Lloyd George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, to-day told a deputation of suffragettes representing the working women of the British Isles, whom he and Sir Edward Grey, the foreign secretary, received at the Treasury department.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer then went on to say that the Liberal Government was ready to stand or fall by Premier Asquith's pledge that the extension of the franchise to women the Government would support.

seemed doubtful of the value to be placed on the promises of the statesmen.

"My experience during the passing of the state insurance legislation, has persuaded me that one of the most gross pieces of injustice in public life is that women have no voice in the determination of matters which affect them more closely than men.

Sir Edward Grey gave similar assurances to the deputation, but warned the women that the opposition to be overcome was very formidable, and that it could not be done by menace or personal annoyance.

"If we draw a blank this time you can't blame the women for whatever they may do. For goodness sake do give us a surprise this time," was the remark of a Scottish fish wife.

"I am convinced that we shall win and win very soon."

(Courier Leased Wire).

LONDON, Jan. 23.—The pit brow lasses from the coal fields, the fish wives and the mill girls in their bright colored shawls, kerchiefs and short skirts gave a picturesque touch to the group of women who heckled the two cabinet ministers. They

Mrs. Drummond, the "general" of the militant suffragettes challenged Sir Edward Grey and Mr. Lloyd George to tell the House of Commons to-morrow that they would resign from the cabinet if the amendment to the franchise reform bill in regard to women was defeated, but the two ministers remained unresponsive.

THE MAILS WERE TOO FAST FOR HIM. (Courier Leased Wire).

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Jan. 23.—The mails were too fast for Robert Mifflinger, 62 years old, formerly a wealthy business man of West Norristown, and to this he owes the fact that he is alive. He planned to commit suicide and wrote letters to a local banker and an undertaker.

They received the letters so promptly yesterday that they reached him when he was lying down in his bathroom and fixing a gas tube in his mouth. He lost money recently in investments, he said, and got the idea that he would go to the poor house. He preferred death to that fate.

IT COSTS MORE TO DIE NOW THAN FORMERLY. (Courier Leased Wire).

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 23.—The cost of dying and being buried is going up. The tombstone cutters here to-day are discussing the advisability of putting up the prices of tombstones. Grave diggers in all parts of the state are also planning to organize a union so that they can demand an increase in pay. Members of the State Retail Monument Association heard an address by John H. Three other sailors, the only survivors of the wreck who were picked up by a trawler and landed here to-day told the story of their sufferings.

Tuesday during a violent storm and her holds rapidly filled.

The members of the crew took to a boat which was capsized, three times. On each occasion some of the struggling sailors were swept away and sank. EXTENSION TALK

The more the agitation for the extension of Brantford City boundaries is looked into, the less desirable does such a step seem at this time.

Brantford for various enterprises will have to go to the money market this year for some $700,000.

Now the men who control such issues, are naturally very careful to look into the obligations of any applicant municipality.

They are in excellent shape to stand the best of terms as the municipality stands. Would we be in a position if it was known that the city had decided to add territory, with waterworks, electric light extensions, sewerage extensions, police extensions, and all the rest of it—and with the incomes for a few years, having the low town assessment rates continued and that for a period of fifteen years to pay 50 cents less per dollar than the rest of us?

Answer to such a question is a question for your elaboration.

We need to do is to develop our resources, and not to go gunning for expenses and responsibilities.

AM VERSUS CITY LIFE

In connection with the discussion of this old-time-worn subject, we had last night at an agricultural meeting in Brantford.

At that place the matter is one that should be approached in a logical way on both sides.

One of the things people regard the city as being; but he isn't.

Suffered Agony Until "Fruit-a-tives" Cured Him

Hundreds of people gladly testify to the wonderful curative powers of the famous fruit medicine, "Fruit-a-tives". To those now suffering with indigestion, dyspepsia or other stomach troubles, this letter of Mr. Stirling, the well known real estate operator of Western Ontario, shows the way to a speedy and certain cure.

CLAWSON, ONT., AUG. 15th, 1911
"Fruit-a-tives" were so beneficial to me when I suffered with distressing dyspepsia, that I wish to inform you of their satisfactory results.

Although I have, in past, suffered agony with dyspepsia, I am now in perfect health. "Fruit-a-tives" accomplished the desired result.

"Fruit-a-tives" will cure every trace of indigestion, dyspepsia, sour stomach, bloating, pain after eating, biliousness and constipation.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the only remedy in the world made of fruit juices and valuable tonics.

SOONER OR LATER.

T. a World Will Be Forced To Accept The Englishman's Point of View.

"The death penalty is childish, disgraceful, barbarous," declares Frank Harris, English writer of note now in this country on a lecturing tour. Mr. Harris has an opinion on all things—English and American. And his opinions are those of a writer and editor whose personality and views have impressed themselves strongly on contemporary English political and literary criticism.

"It goes even further on this line," said Mr. Harris a few days ago. "No one has a right to punish another—all punishment is immoral and idiotic. If you had a pimple on your face, would you punish it? You would say, 'the pimple is a symptom of ill-health. I must try to get my body into good condition. Meanwhile you would treat the pimple more kindly than the well part of your face. Some day or other, say about the year 2012, civilized people will have abandoned punishment. Fancy hospitals and penitentiaries. Fancy hospitals and penitentiaries. Which will you choose, you a Christian? Can any one doubt what the answer will be, must be?"

Why do not some noble American women take over a whole prison, take it into their pity, make a home of it, and reform every one in it. It only needs love enough, you smile. Folly, you say. Well this world is going to be made fit to live in by just such follies.

"I believe society has the right to restrain an individual and segregate its criminals, but not to punish them. But the question really goes far deeper than that. You don't punish a criminal or lunatic. Society is simply doesn't see that criminals are mental deformities, that's all, but it will one day."

"How comes it that A is born with a craving for drink? A drunken ancestor four generations back who was after the fashion of that day, was vain of his power of carrying four bottles like a man! Should A be punished by society for his forefather's vanity? He deserves pity, not punishment."

"The criminal is the scapegoat of society; he is punished already, poor brute, more than he deserves. He is bearing our penalties."

Reviving Whiskers.

Lord Rocksavage, who has not yet celebrated his thirtieth year, is one of the young exquisites of the day in London. He is a handsome man, well known in the polo field, with a great reputation as a shot. He is always dressed in the height of fashion, for he plays no small part in setting what the young bloods all wear.

He has lately been endeavoring to introduce the fashion of wearing side whiskers that curl in front of the ears, and some of his own set have found male faces covered with fungus.

A good story is told of him which hits him off in a characteristic manner.

He was strolling one warm and sunny winter morning on the terrace of Monte Carlo. From the cut of his grey flannels a pickpocket realized Lord Rocksavage's opulence, and attempted to steal his sovereign purse. But the young nobleman seized in his strong brown hand the pickpocket's grubby paw and, looking at him disgustfully, he said, as he flung it from him: "How dare you put your hand in a gentleman's pocket without washing it first."

It was whilst serving with the 9th Lancers at Potchefstroom that Lord Rocksavage conceived a passion for whiskers. The colonel of the regiment did not approve of this hirsute outbreak, and the young peer's brother officers heartily condemned them. But Lord Rocksavage has stuck to his guns, or rather whiskers, and "Peninsulas" are gaining in popularity.

To-day is a sleeplessness, headache, digestive trouble and irritability. Next thing you know some form of paralysis has developed. Mr. Alex. Hambroger, 10 Moore street, St. Catharines, Ont., writes: "Nerve trouble developed into paralysis of the limbs so that I became helpless. Doctors failed me but after using ten boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I resumed work, and now feel better than I did for twenty years."

Sex is a Handicap.

Mrs. Harold Gorst, whose work as a novelist has many appreciative readers, is of opinion that her sex is a business handicap. "If a woman wants to make money by writing," she says, "and has any original ideas as regards subject matter or style, it will pay her better to adopt a man's name and keep her identity concealed."

There is a good deal of truth in Mrs. Gorst's contention, which has been shared by women writers as far back as Miss Evans, universally known as George Eliot. Much later in the history of fiction Olive Schreiner's startling novel, "The Story of an African Farm," came out under the pen-name of Ralph Iron, though the writer's identity leaked out after a year or two. And time was when readers thought Lucas Malet was a man, whereas she is, of course, Mrs. St. Leger Harrison, daughter of the late Charles Kingsley.

Charles Chivalrous.

A curious case under the British Workmen's Compensation Act, 1900, came out in Ireland lately. The plaintiff was a cook in the employ of the defendant, and her case was that on April 10, 1912, while she was engaged in the process of filleting fish to be cooked for dinner, a bone entered her hand and caused serious pain and injury. She went immediately to a doctor and got her hand lanced, but, in the course of further treatment, it was found necessary to amputate two fingers. The defence that the injury did not arise out of the employment was not seriously pressed; it was sought rather to prove that the injury did not result from penetration by the bone, but from other causes. His lordship decided for the plaintiff, who, he declared, had proved her case, and awarded compensation.

Thousands of mothers are looking younger. Their gray hairs are gone. The natural color has come back, and with it a new growth of soft, glossy, luxuriant hair. Why should you look old before your time, when you can look years younger by using

Restores Gray Hair to Natural Color

If other "so-called" Restorers have failed, don't give up hope, but give WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY a trial. You run no risk. If it is not exactly as represented, your money will be refunded.

PROFIT BY OTHERS' EXPERIENCE

Gray Hair Restored
My hair was getting quite gray and falling out rapidly and I was troubled with a terrible itching of the scalp. My head was full of dandruff, which fell upon my clothes and kept me continually brushing it off. While on a visit to Rochester I heard of your Sage and Sulphur for the hair. I got a bottle and used it. A few applications relieved the itching, my hair stopped falling out and gradually came back to its natural color. It is now a nice dark brown color, soft, glossy and pliable. Several of my friends want to use it, and I want to know what you will charge me for six bottles of it.

Grew Hair on a Bald Head
For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good, and I kept using it regularly until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is fairly covered and keeps on coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

Write Ideas For Moving Picture Plays

YOU CAN WRITE PHOTO PLAYS AND EARN $25.00 OR MORE WEEKLY

WE WILL SHOW YOU HOW!

If you have ideas—if you can THINK—We will show you the secrets of this fascinating new profession. Positively no experience or literary excellence necessary. No "flowery language" is wanted.

The demand for photoplays is practically unlimited. The big film manufacturers are "moving heaven and earth" in their attempts to get enough good plots to supply the ever increasing demand. They are offering $100, and more, for single scenarios or written ideas.

Nearly all the big film companies, the buyers of photoplays, are located in or near NEW YORK CITY. Being right on the spot, and knowing at all times just what sort of plots are wanted by the producers, our SALES DEPARTMENT has a tremendous advantage over agencies situated in distant cities.

We have received many letters from the big film manufacturers, such as VITAGRAPH, EDISON, ESSANAY, LUBIN, SOLAX, IMP. REX, RELIANCE, CHAMPION, COMET, MELIES, ETC., urging us to send photoplays to them. We want more writers and we'll gladly teach you the secrets of success.

We are selling photoplays written by people who "never before wrote a line for Publication."

Perhaps we can do the same for you. If you can think of only one good idea every week, and will write it out as directed by us, and it sells for only $25, a low figure

You Will Earn $100 Monthly for Spare Time Work

Hamilton

Turned Tables on Local Juniors—Score Was 6 to 2.

The local juniors were last night ousted from the championship running when the Hamilton boys slapped on a 6 to 2 victory. It was a complete reversal of form, the Brantford seven trimming the Hamiltons in the Ambitious City by a good margin, while the game last night showed that the visitors were much the best. A couple of changes in the local line-up seemed to make a lot of difference in the Brantford team, as far as efficiency was concerned, but in fairness to all concerned, it was clear to the eye of the average fan that the red shirts had improved in all departments.

Sloan in goal for the visitors, was a marvel, his clever work in the nets preventing many a score, which Red Shelly, at point, although inclined to dirty tactics, played a fine game and was a tower of strength on the defence. On the local team, Pace at rover, was the most aggressive, although the "Gold Dust Twins" Klerly and O'Connor played their usual game. Bragg at point, was rather off color last night, and can do much better. The half time score was 3 to 0, and the final, 6 to 2. The

CLOGGED NOSTRILS AND STUFFY HEAD OPEN AT ONCE--CURES COLDS AND CATARRH

Clogged Nostrils
Instantly Clears Air Passages; You Breathe Freely; Dull Headache Goes; Nasty Catarrhal Discharge Stops.
Try "Ely's Cream Balm."
Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning! the catarrh, cold in the head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.
End such misery now. Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet fragrant balm penetrates and heals the inflamed swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty, disagreeable discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.
Don't lay awake to-night struggling for breath with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing, or a cold, with it's running nose, foamy mucus dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing, but truly needless.
Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.

Sons of England Have a Big Time

The officers elect of Salisbury Lodge, No. 42, Sons of England, were installed into their respective offices last night in their lodge room by F.P.D.D. Bro. Geo. G. Bamforth of Simcoe. The following officers will take charge of the affairs of state for the coming term: P. P., Bro. B. H. Benning; P., J. W. White; V. P., C. Uden; C., M. W. Sec., A. J. Stevens; Asst. Sec., T. Chamberlain; Treas., J. Adams; committeemen, King, Williams, Raynor, Sleeth, Goodman and Rees; I. G., Bro. Rowe; O. G., Bro. Cutmore; organist, W. Jones; physician, Dr. Henwood.
After the District Deputy had finished his work, the brothers adjourned to the Sunbeam Restaurant, where a dainty supper was in waiting which the boys from Old England thoroughly enjoyed. After the different courses had been disposed of, the P. P. D. D. Bro. Bamforth, who acted as chairman, called the gathering to order, and after the singing of the National Anthem, a lengthy toast list was the next order of affairs.
Bro. W. S. Brewster, M. P. P., responded to the toast of "Canada."
Bro. W. N. Andrews sang a song, "The King."
"The Sons of England" toast was responded to by Bro. F. C. Thomas.
Bros. J. Jones and Kery sang a couple of songs.
"Honorary Members," responded to by Bros. Dr. Robinson and John Hill.
"Salisbury Lodge," responded to by Bros. B. H. Benning and A. J. Stevens.
"Wolfe Lodge," responded to by Bros. S. Noble and W. Lewis.
"The Country we were Born In," responded to by Bros. Fielding and Thomas.
"Our Visitors," responded to by Bros. Bamforth and Lynden of Simcoe.
The affair came to a close shortly after midnight with three cheers for the King and the singing of the National Anthem.

LATER DESPACHES

DIVORCE A FAILURE
(Courier Leased Wire)

PARIS, Jan. 23.—The Paris newspapers comment severely on the acquittal by a Versailles assize jury of Mme. Lambrack of the charge of having shot and killed her husband from whom she had just obtained a divorce.

The words of Advocate General Fourrier at the trial of Mme. Bloch, who killed Mrs. Bridgeman, wife of James E. Bridgeman, an employe of the Paris branch of the New York Life Insurance Company, last July. "We would have had nothing to say if you had killed your husband," are quoted in connection with the Lambrack case, which is described by some of the journals as clearly demonstrating the failure of divorce because the verdict appears to accord a woman the right to kill when and where she wills.

HANDSHAKING AND KISSING PROHIBITED
(Courier Leased Wire)

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—Candidates who were being active in the aldermanic campaign, were warned last night by Health Commissioner Geo. B. Young against handshaking and kissing of babies on account of the prevalence in the city of scarlet fever, diphtheria and smallpox. Young attended the meeting of the aldermanic health committee. He declared that the baby kissing feature of the campaign would be strictly forbidden.

NEW ARMY BILL
(Courier Leased Wire)
BERLIN, Jan. 23.—The Frankfurter Zeitung says that the new army bill will be laid before the Reichstag at the present session. No details are given respecting the measure, but it will aim to make places for many recruits who every year are excused from service because there is no room for them.

HEADS THE LIST
(Courier Leased Wire)

BERLIN, Jan. 23.—Crown Prince Frederick William heads the list of signers of a petition which has been presented to the Reichstag asking for the enactment of a special law to extend the copyright of Richard Wagner's opera "Parsifal," which expires this year. The Crown Princess is second on the list, and the Imperial princes follow.

TWO PEOPLE BURNED TO DEATH
(Courier Leased Wire)

CANFIELD, O., Jan. 23.—Two people were burned to death, two were fatally burned and one suffered severe injuries in a farm house fire two miles from here to-day. The dead are Curtis Shafer, 35, and his daughter Effie, 14. Mrs. Shafer and another daughter are believed to be fatally injured. A son was painfully hurt, but will recover.
The boy is able to talk but cannot explain the cause of the fire. He was awakened by the flames and barely succeeded in effecting his escape.

WERE FIRED
(Courier Leased Wire)

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Waiters agitating a strike found their plans anticipated at one of the large Broadway hotels to-day when the Knickerbocker management discharged every one of the 250 waiters and bus boys in its employ. When Prop. James B. Regan called all of the men into the main diningroom, they believed he was to announce the concession of their demands, but instead he declared he had been harassed beyond all endurance by their dissatisfaction and reiterated demands. Captains and all were forced to walk out.

ACTIONS
(Courier Leased Wire)

MONTREAL, Jan. 23.—Actions totalling $400,000 are being taken by Godfrey Bird, general manager of the Banque Internationale du Canada against The Toronto Mail and Empire, The Toronto News, The Toronto Star and The Ottawa Free Press for alleged libel in connection with the recent case before Judge Leet. Mr. Bird claims $100,000 from each paper. No writs have been issued yet.

DISORDERLY
(Courier Leased Wire)

AMOY, China, Jan. 23.—The disorderly elements in the province of Fu-Kien have become so formidable that the authorities are unable to cope with them. In the neighborhood of Hing-Hwa, traffic has become unsafe except for very strong parties and these are compelled to keep to the principal roads.
Pirates are very frequent on the Dragon River, even large vessels being attacked. A junk chartered by an American Oil Company was boarded by pirates to-day and the captain was killed.

AGAINST THEM BOTH
(Courier Leased Wire)

CALGARY, Alta., Jan. 23.—The United Farmers of Alberta are for universal peace, opposed to war and very much against Canadian navy policies of both the great political parties. They would have Canada lead the world in a great disarmament movement.

WILL APPEAL
(Courier Leased Wire)

CALGARY, Alta., 23.—Attorneys or Martin Armstrong, the young son of Nanton, against whom Louise Callard was given a $5,000 verdict in her suit for breach of promise, have served notice of appeal. All the money collected on the execution issued against Armstrong will be paid into court pending the decision of the appeal.

PROSECUTED
(Courier Leased Wire)

NORTH BAY, Ont., Jan. 23.—Three leaders in the Porcupine mining strike were prosecuted under the Lemieux Act for inciting a strike at the Hollinger Mine and were found guilty yesterday before Magistrate Torrance and sentenced to a five hundred dollar fine each or three months in gaol.

A SLIGHT DELAY
(Courier Leased Wire)

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—There was another slight delay to-day in the federal grand jury investigation of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company. The foreman of the new grand jury empaneled this week, because one of the previous grand jury men was alleged to be a resident of New Jersey, reported to the court that one of its members appeared yesterday in an unfit condition to deliberate.
He failed to put in an appearance to-day and Judge Hand dismissed him from further service.
The remaining 22 grand jurors will continue the investigation. In his report to the grand jury, Judge Hand stated that the juror in question was intoxicated and his behaviour in the testimony room interrupted the testimony of F. H. Fitzhugh, president of the Central Vermont Railroad. The session was abruptly ended and Mr. Fitzhugh will complete his testimony later. Judge Hand characterized the juror's conduct as a serious offence. Counsel for the New Haven said they did not yet know what action, if any, they would take regarding the juror's delinquency. The principal witness to-day was Benjamin Campbell, traffic manager of the New Haven Railroad.

CITY NEWS

Probs.
 Fresh to strong southerly shifting to westerly and northwesterly winds, rain to-day, turning colder by Friday with light local snow falls at first, then clearing.

Temperature
 Temperature for the last 24 hours. Highest 39, lowest 24. For the same date last year, highest 25, lowest 15.

Most Remarkable.
 Mrs. Gee, 23 Edgerton St., on Saturday, Jan. 18th, picked a bunch of strawberry blossoms in her garden.

Railway Board
 A meeting of the railway board of the city council is called for on Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Permit
 A permit has been granted James Humble at the city engineer's office for the erection of a brick addition to Buck dwelling at 148 Wellington street.

Only One Hydrant
 The City Clerk has on file a letter addressed to the Chairman of the Fire and Light Committee from the Brantford Cordage Company drawing their attention to the fact that there is only one hydrant on Brant street, and on account of the fire department having to lay such a long stretch of hose, seriously handicapped them at the recent fire.

Good Year
 A meeting of the congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was held last night, there being a large turnout of members of the congregation present. Rev. J. W. Gordon occupied the chair, and reports were received from different boards, all being very satisfactory and encouraging, showing that the church had made good progress during the last year. The session report showed a membership of 347. The receipts from all sources during 1912 were $1,922.73, and after all accounts had been paid there was a balance of $729.50 on hand. Messrs J. Burbank, A. Graham, P. P. Gregory and Dr. Cuthbertson resigned from the board of management, but on motion were re-elected for 1913. Messrs D. McEwen, A. G. Montgomery, J. Bur-

Contracts Sent.
 Mr. T. J. Nelson, owner of the Brantford Canadian League team, stated this morning that he had sent out blank contracts to all the players of last year, also to shortstop Shea, of Lynn, Mass., and Catcher English of the Worcester, Mass. team. Although the season is over three months away, the local fans are beginning to talk baseball and great hopes are held that the Telephone City aggregation will capture the pennant of 1913.

Printers' Night.
 The Brantford Typographical union held their annual social evening last night in the Heyd Block. They had for their guests, the pressmen and the apprentices of the various branches of the trade. A particularly jolly time was spent by all in stag supper. Mr. Bill Reeves acted as "chef" and was ably assisted by Mr. Ernie Reynolds. There were oysters and to spare—likewise weiners.

SAGE TEA BEAUTIFULLY DARKENS THE HAIR WHEN FADED AND GRAY

Mixed With Sulphur Makes Hair Soft, Lustrous and Cures Dandruff.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grand-mother's time. She kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant. With a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product—called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy"—you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Some druggists make their own, which is usually too sticky, so insist upon getting "Wy-eth's" which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair. A well-known downtown druggist says his customers insist on Wy-eth's Sage and Sulphur, because they say, it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use too. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking a strand at a time. Do this at night and by morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.

NERVY THIEF THIS ONE.
 (Courier Leased Wire.)
 KINGSTON, Ont., Jan. 23—Bruce Ireland, aged 17, rented a room at a boarding house on Queen street and after being shown his room, went into the room of another boarder and stole a suit of clothes and entire outfit even to the tie pin and then walked out without having been noticed.

Constable Arnel nabbed him on the street wearing the stolen goods. This morning Ireland came before Magistrate Farrell, who remanded him for a week. The lad was sent to the Industrial School at Toronto, but escaped from that institution two months ago.

MAY REQUEST GUARANTEE
 (Courier Leased Wire.)
 LONDON, Jan. 23.—The Constantinople correspondent of the Times believes that the Porte, before accepting the powers' note, will request a guarantee that no further demands will be made by the allies. Public opinion, the correspondent adds, seems to be resigned to accept the inevitable without demur. The meeting of the grand council was notable for the public reconciliation of Kiamil Pasha and the ex-grand vizier Said Pasha.

TENANT FOR 600 YEARS.

Marvellous Instances of Long Continued Residence.

At the last Revision Court in North Cumberland it was proved that a cottage fifteen miles from Gilsland had been in the continuous occupation of one family generation after generation, for over 600 years!

Surely those things must constitute an actual record in their kind in England! Yet there are other similar long tenancies and continuations of various things amongst us which may well make the world stare at a time that is so prone to new and changing life and environment.

Sir Laurence Gomme, of the London County Council, mentioned at a meeting of the Folklore Society, that he knew a case where the kitchen fire was not only a perpetual one, in so far as it had been kept alight for hundreds of years, but that whenever food was cooked at it, a small part of the food was thrown back into the fire "for luck," the family said. But he was not in reality, this custom was but a relic of the fire-worshipping propensities of the older generations of this family.

What shall we say about a noted English family whose boys have attended the same school for nearly 300 years, thus making themselves the second one in England which has splendid fidelity to the old school?

The Finnes family, whose head is Lord Saye and Soale, have certainly attended Winchester since the early part of 1600. There was a Finnes at Winchester about 1620, and there was one at least a year or two back!

It is on record how, when Cromwell's savage troops pillaged Winchester Cathedral, and did untold damage there, afterwards making their way to the College gates, the schoolmaster, Colonel Finnes, who was Cromwell's friend and officer, stood with drawn sword at the College gates, and defied any soldier to attempt to desecrate the old school whilst he stood there alive to defend it!

The celebrated Chequers Inn, at Slapstones, in Yorkshire, boasts that its fire has never been lacking to warm a traveller for over 130 years, neither day nor night, and that it has been ever ready to receive the coming guest during that time.

The Churchyard family, at Stoke Gabriel, Devonshire, can boast a wonderful tenancy, which must come almost next to that of the Gombes, already mentioned. The Churchyards entered upon possession of their house at Stoke Gabriel in the fifteenth century, and have never left it since. Generation after generation of them has succeeded to the house for more than 400 years; and Mr. Frederick Churchyard, the present honored tenant, erected a stained-glass window in the church not long ago as a thank-offering on the 400th anniversary of the family's tenancy there.

Whilst speaking of these splendid tenancies, it may be worth mentioning that Florian's, the celebrated hotel at Venice, has long boasted that its doors have never been shut for all night or day for three centuries; whilst the Haison Doree, in Paris, known to be a favorite house to call in the Empire period, can proudly claim that its doors have never been shut since they were first opened, during those great days when the glorious court of Louis XIV. made France the wonder of the civilized world.

Controlling a Trust.

London traffic is now in the grip of Sir Edgar Speyer, who is the head of a newly-formed trust which controls several motor-bus companies, six railway companies, and two tramways.

This financial genius is a Frankfurt Jew, who went to London at the age of twenty-five to take charge of the business of Speyer Bros., and he has greatly prospered and made his home in the metropolis. He has recently acquired a capital of something like twenty-seven millions, figures which bear ample testimony to the scope of his financial operations. In the business world Sir Edgar is one of the big men who quietly pull the wires behind the scenes, and he is known to the general public for his munificent donations to the King Edward VII. Hospital Fund, and the founding of an Art Gallery in Whitechapel was largely due to his efforts. He is chairman of the Queen's Hall Orchestra, and has done much to popularize orchestral music.

Sir Edgar Speyer possesses a handsome town house in Grosvenor street which he has filled with precious works of art, and he also maintains a pleasant retreat on the Norfolk coast.

Tripe.

Tripe, says a London paper, is a dish for the gourmet, cooked in a pipkin, as they do it in France, with a delectable brown sauce. And yet this excellent and delicate food has fallen into disrepute with us. Where now are those "tripe and trotter" shops that used to be quite common in London twenty years ago? And we have turned the word to the purpose of scornful slang. We say that a silly book is "tripe" or that a man talks "tripe." It is a deadly condemnation. As to cheese and onions, one thinks of Shakespeare's "cheese and garlic in a windmill" and shudders. But add tripe to the cheese and onions and you have a really worthy dish. It all depends on the cook.

The Scot, He Glisters.

An Englishman who had been holidaying in the far north paid a visit to the battlefield of Culloden. His driver, a fine old Highlander, acting as guide, pointed out to him everything of interest which tradition or historical fact associated with the fight. "And there," said the guide, pointing with his whip to a field not far off, "the English 'Hail' very interesting," replied the Englishman. "Yes," retorted the Highlander, with something like passion in his voice, "and you will notice that the 'Hail' Scotch note that is growing there.

SEVERE APPRENTICESHIP.

Scottish Entertainer Had a Hard Time Getting To The Top.

Mr. Neil Kenyon, the comedian, is described as one of the greatest exponents of Scottish humor. As an exponent of Scotch humor he stands next to Mr. Lauder in popular favor, and whether he is playing in pantomime or on the music-hall his canny humor makes an immediate appeal to his audience. The hardships he had to endure at the outset of his career were of the most severe description. His parents were very bigoted against the stage, and they very clearly gave him to understand that if he took such a step he would get no assistance from home. But Mr. Kenyon showed an equally stubborn disposition, and at length became an actor with somewhat disastrous results.

"I managed all right, however, for two years and a half, when I got into a very bogus engagement on a tour with a piece called 'Satan's Slave.' As I started that tour on the south-east coast and worked right through to Galway on the west. During the first of the run, which lasted for eight or nine weeks, I never got a cent of salary.

"We tried to run a stock season at the Butter Market in Galway, but it was a terrible failure, and the town got up a benefit to enable us to get away. Another fellow and I traveled to Dublin. He wanted to get to Holy Well, and I wanted to get to Greenock. We had only five shillings between us—sufficient for one fare.

"We tossed for the lot—he won. I stood on the wharf with a bursting heart and bid in my pocket, which he left me, and watched his vessel sail down the Liffey. Then I went into the town. After the heart-breaking experience of a week of exposure and starvation, I pawned a good coat and waistcoat for 25s. When I went home my father met me. He uttered no reproaches, and the only reference which he made to the matter was to say: "Well, ye'll no go back to the stage?" "I said 'No,' and meant it. I was away exactly four months."

Leek vs. Daffodil.

The home rule question pales its ineffectual fires in presence of the soul-stirring controversy which has arisen over the abandonment of the Leek as the national emblem of Wales. By the irony of the stars, but it must be admitted that there is no present evidence of its coming to the fore. On the contrary, it seems probable that there will be an abnormal demand for ocean transport facilities for some time to come. A considerable portion of present tonnage is composed of oil steamers and other vessels of special construction which are of no use for general cargo purposes. It seems unlikely, therefore, that there will be any material drop in freight rates in the near future, and as long as ship owners can see a profit in ship-owning, even at the present increased capital cost, they will continue to raise special orders with the builders.—Daily Iron Trade.

Earns Living Sleeping.

To sleep for one's living may appeal to some as a more attractive alternative than to work for one's living. In the case of the late Lord Archer-Shee, is now making our brains reel with the proposal that on the Insurance Stamp the bluebell should be substituted for the thistle as the national emblem of Scotland. This heraldic, gastronomic, and botanic controversy is assuming such dimensions, that it can be determined by nothing short of a royal commission.

Marks Reign of Sun Dial.

Record is contained in the Bible of a sun dial set up in 771 B.C. by Ahaz to commemorate the miraculous healing of his son Hezekiah. A very ancient and recently discovered dial lying in the grounds of the ruined castle Finlary, Killin, Perthshire, Scotland, the ancient seat of the Breadalbanes. Unlike most dials, it has two dials for recording the hours and two circular planes for use in summer and winter, respectively. For many centuries the occupants of his mansion despoiled it and the dial stood reared on a tall pedestal, reflected in the waters of a fountain. The interval of nearly two thousand years between this dial and that set up by Ahaz shows how long the dial held its own as an object of utility.

The "Billycock" Hat.

In "Coke of Norfolk and His Friends," M. W. Stirling points out that the billycock hat, as the low crowned round hat is called in England, owes its name not to Coke of Norfolk, but to his ancestor, Sir William Coke. "Billy Coke" wanted a hat that would keep on in the wind and not be damaged by rain, "and, being indifferent as to whether his appearance was unlike that of other people, he decided that a hat said to have been originally designed by William Bowler, a hatter in the borough, would answer his requirements. He therefore ordered Lock in St. James' street to make him one after his pattern, and the fashion thus started was afterward universally adopted.

The Australian Aborigines.

The tribe of Central Australia are among the last of the primitive races. They are nomads who stray through the huge and deserted tracts of this great continent, hunting with spears and boomerangs. They are with few exceptions cannibals. Living in huts made of the boughs of trees, they have no household utensils. They count on their fingers only, and only to the number ten; but they decorate the rocks with rude attempts at drawing and make efforts to ornament their shields. Their art is determined and distinct, but inferior to that of the Western European epoch of the reindeer. Their most singular characteristic is their social conventionalities; they have fixed prejudices concerning marriage.

NEED SKILLED MECHANICS.

England Badly Handicapped By Scarcity of Men.

The world is at present enjoying an interchange of over-sea commodities that is unparalleled in history. The shippers throughout the whole world are busy building vessels on foreign accounts, as well as being extremely active on their own account for coastwise service. However, it is in Great Britain where the most wonderful activity exists in raw ship construction and where presents many complicated problems. The shippers of this country have on the stocks or under order 906 merchant vessels of 1,846,830 tons gross, not to mention 82 warships aggregating 494,640 tons, of which only 129,240 tons are to be constructed in the royal dockyard. Many shippers have had to refuse orders on account of inability to take early delivery, while shipowners generally complain that new tonnage is not put into the water with sufficient rapidity. They started that tour on the south-east coast and worked right through to Galway on the west. During the first of the run, which lasted for eight or nine weeks, I never got a cent of salary.

HOW FORGERS WORK.

London Banker Describes The Methods Used By Clever Rogues.

Although an elaborate system of checking and counter-checking and the alertness of the modern cashier make cheque-forging more difficult and less profitable every day, there are still some ingenious rogues who are capable of circumventing all safe-guarding. Indeed, the latest method of the expert forger reveals a remarkable degree of skill and cleverness.

The most common form of fraud is for a stranger to get hold of a cheque, forge the customer's signature and present the cheque at the counter for payment in cash. There are obvious risks and uncertainties in this method. A cheque, for instance, might be drawn for more than a customer's balance, and suspicions would thus be aroused; or a cashier might detect the forgery. If neither event occurs, of course the cheque is paid, the forger pockets the money, and retires quickly from the scene of his exploit. Against such forgers there is practically no safeguard but the alertness of the cashier.

Forgers, however, find considerable difficulty nowadays in obtaining possession in blank cheques of the books in order to carry on their operations. They have, therefore, hit upon another plan, which in the case of one gang has already proved successful. The method, as revealed in a recent criminal court case, consisted of wholesale thieving of cheques. The offices of a firm were watched and before the business delivery, when the offices were closed and the letters dropped into the box by the postman, one of the operators "doctored" the letter-box by placing something in it to prevent the letters falling to the bottom. Then, when the last delivery was completed, he crept into the building and stole the letters with some instrument, and early next morning, before the theft of the cheque could be discovered, presented it at the bank, the money being paid before the demer on the part of the cashier. The difficulty of the crossing of the cheque was got over by an expert forger, who made it an open cheque.

Another neat dodge was that of a couple of swindlers who some time ago ascertained that a gentleman was in the habit of sending two cheques for substantial amounts periodically by post to a bank. Opening a small account at some branch, about the time the victim sent the cheques, the thieves contrived to obtain possession of the cheques from the pillar-box, where it was the gentleman's custom to post his letters. "Receipts" of the previously-obtained signatures of the payees, and the crossed drafts, bearing forged endorsements, were paid through the post into the forger's own account. The cheques could thus be drawn upon almost immediately, and at the earliest possible moment the swindler withdrew the money cleared with the cash. The bank repudiated the customer's claim, but, after an action, was ordered to make good his loss.

A Gordon Relic.

One of the most interesting relics of "Chinese" Gordon, the hero of Khartoum, in the shape of his "prayer mat," which he used from 1875 to 1879, has just been recovered and taken back to Khartoum. It was given to Bishop Gwynne by one of Gen. Gordon's family. The mat has been placed in the Gordon Memorial Chapel in the cathedral there as a "knobler" in the sanctuary.

It is a piece of woollen needlework, about a yard long and 18 inches wide and is exactly similar to the prayer mats carried by devout Moslems. Gordon adopted the idea while on his expedition in the Sudan, where the floors of the houses are almost without exception formed of baked mud or rough stone.

Bishop Gwynne considered it highly desirable to place Gen. Gordon's prayer mat in the Gordon Chapel in time for the anniversary of his death, which occurred during the massacre of the inhabitants of Khartoum by the Arabs on Jan. 26, 1885.

Catamarans of Madras.

Communication between ship and shore at Madras is carried on in quite a novel way. Owing to the heavy surf, it is impossible to land boats, and the difficulty is got over by natives using catamarans. These are rude craft somewhat like rafts, many of them consisting only of three planks lashed together, the middle plank being the longest and forming a keel. The catamarans ply backwards and forwards between the ships and the shore, often being propelled by crooked poles made from limbs of trees. In some cases the men squat and paddle through the surf, and they are wonderfully expert at their dangerous work. The uninhabited the occupation bears a strong resemblance to sport, but it is one of those things which are not so easy as they look, says The Wide World Magazine.

Law and Logic.

Frank Lockwood, an English counsel of whose wit many stories are told, sometimes got his himself. He was defending a man named Turk who was accused of stealing cattle—"beasts," they call them there. "Now, my man," said Lockwood, "you say that you saw this and so how fast can you see a beast to know it?" "Just as far off as I am from you," promptly returned the witness.

In another case a thief showed that wit was some logic. He had been convicted of stealing a horse. "Yours is a very serious offence," said Lockwood sternly; "fifty years ago was a hanging matter." "Well," replied the prisoner, "and fifty years hence it may be a crime at all."

Poles Abolished.

Telegraph poles have been dispensed with entirely in one Welsh town, in which the residents have permitted the wires to be strung from house to house.

"Learn to let yesterday alone and you will have a happier life."

"The early bird catches the worm, but some of us just can't cultivate a taste for them."

LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL, GLOSSY HAIR NO DANDRUFF-25 CENT "DANDERINE"

Hair coming out?—If dry, brittle, thin or your Scalp itches and is full of dandruff—Use "Danderine."

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of Dandruff or a loose or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you will actually see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp. A little Danderine will immediately double the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health. Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store, or toilet counter, and prove to yourself to-night—now—that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that all your surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.

LIVE STOCK TORONTO, Jan. 23.—Prices of good cattle receded 10c to 15c per hundredweight yesterday at the Union Stock Yards, and fair to medium beasts brought about 25c less. The brisk inquiry that has characterized the markets of the past two weeks was lacking yesterday. The run was liberal, running over 3000 beasts, and buyers realizing that there would be more than was needed, were unwilling to pay the prices of a week ago. This made the opening of the market a little draggy, resulting in lower figures being paid, and a large proportion over till the afternoon. Milkers were in better demand than last week, as much as $80 being paid for beasts. Stockers and feeders were quieter, a few being picked up by farmers at steady rates. LAUGHTER LINES. A Vain Chase It was a very hot day and the fat drummer who wanted the 12.20 train through the gate at 12.21. The ensuing handicap was watched with absorbing interest both from the train and from the station platform. At its conclusion the breathless and perspiring knight of the road wearily took the back trail and a vacant faced "red cap" came out to relieve him of his grip.

"Mister," he enquired, "was you trying to catch that Pennsylvania train?" "No, my son," replied the patient man, "No; I was merely chasing it out of the yard."

Well Named

"Why do you call your story 'The Thieves' Romance'?"
"Because it is all about stealing."
"How?"

"Well, the story of the romance goes this way: She stole a look; then he stole a kiss. Next they had stolen meetings, they stole a march on their friends, and both stole away."
"I suppose the next thing they will be stealing back."

Business

Jimson bought a business through an agent as a going concern in first class condition. After six months he failed, but took his trouble lightly. Meeting the agent some time later, he said: "Do you remember selling me a business as a going concern?" "Yes, of course I do," replied the agent. "Well," said Jimson, "it's gone."

It is pleasant to know that he has come of good ancestry, but after all, if he does not live up to the notch itself it will do thee very little good.

Baby Superstitions

Welsh mothers put a pair of tongs or a knife in the cradle to ensure the safety of their children. The knife is also used for the same purpose in some parts of England.

England's Youngest Bride

The youngest bride who was ever led to the altar in England, so far as we can discover, was little Catherine Apsley, who had only seen four summers when she became the wife of Earl Bathurst, who was exactly double her age. The tiny ring worn by Catherine on this occasion over two centuries ago, is still preserved. Lord Bathurst survived to see the eighty-third anniversary of his wedding day, while his lady was a wife for seventy-six years.—London Chronicle.

Quite the newest material for evening frocks is a very fine net stamped with a pattern in composition which gives the impression of beading, even when one is quite close to it; but, of course, it is immeasurably lighter, and thus a very much finer net can be used than when beads or sequins require to be supported.

Oldest Lady Novelist

The oldest living lady novelist is Katharine S. Macquoid, whose home is in London, called "The Edge," on Tooting Common.
The house has a pleasant old-world air amongst its new neighbors, and tall trees and luxuriant evergreens still keep secluded the garden which has been the pride and pleasure of the novelist for many long years. A sweet peace and quietude reigns over the low-ceilinged rooms of the house, which greet the eye pleasantly with choice old-fashioned furniture, walls covered with pictures and drawings, many of them the work of the novelist's husband, Mr. Thomas Robert Macquoid, while vases of gay autumn foliage and flowers fill the rooms with warm color.

She is a silver-haired old lady of close upon 88 years of age, working without the aid of glasses. Her face is sweet and expressive, her hands very small and well formed, and she is petite and graceful though somewhat bent in figure. Her study is in keeping with the author's dainty personality.

Mrs. Macquoid did not begin writing until after she was thirty years of age, and there are now fifty novels to her credit, commencing with her first story, "A Bad Beginning: The Story of a French Marriage," which was published by Messrs. Smith, Elder and Co. in 1862.

She met Dickens at her first ball when she was a girl of sixteen, at a friend's house in Great Portland, St. London. Clarkson Stanfield, R.A. was there, and Mrs. Dickens, a plump but attractive woman, and her sister, Miss Hogarth, but with a singularly sweet and happy face. Dickens was engaged to dance with Miss Stanfield, but in a fit of absent-mindedness forgot to take his place in the set. He was intent on watching the dancers. Mrs. Macquoid recalls him as somewhat florid in style and observing everything so tensely that he seemed rather oblivious of the amenities of the occasion. He hesitated about offering his arm to any of the ladies for supper, and finally at the last moment took down the plainest girl in the room.

At the time of this meeting with Dickens, Mrs. Macquoid, whose maiden name was Katharine Thomas, was developing a taste for literature. She had, indeed, essayed some verses and sketches, and was nicknamed the authoress by her brothers and sisters. She was evidently too reticent to buttonhole the rising novelist, even during the glorious opportunity of a dance, and so there is no early encouragement of her talents by Dickens to record. Shortly afterwards her mother removed with her family to France, and during her prolonged sojourn there the future novelist acquired a fluent knowledge of French and became deeply interested in French life and literature.

These early experiences, exercised a marked influence over Mrs. Macquoid's writings. Her first novel, written at the suggestion of her husband when they were living in the midst of artistic circles in Chelsea, was entitled, as we have seen, "A Bad Beginning: The Story of a French Marriage." It proved however, to be a very good beginning for the author. Many years later Mrs. Macquoid achieved a brilliant success with another French story, "At the Red Glove," which was first published as a serial in Harper's Magazine. Her travel books on "Brittany," "Normandy," and "The Ardennes," so charmingly illustrated by her husband, all show Mrs. Macquoid's familiarity with French rural life, and hold their own as the companions of the tourist.

The publication of "Patty" in 1871 marked the turning point of Mrs. Macquoid's career as a novelist. It first appeared as a serial in Macmillan's Magazine, and attained great fame on both sides of the Atlantic.

After this Mrs. Macquoid's pen was so much in demand for novels and serial stories that for many years she wrote on an average of eight hours a day, and even now, at close upon 88, she spends some five hours a day at her typewriter.

Mrs. Macquoid is no less wonderful, for at nearly 92 he is still daily at work in his studio, and has recently had a private show of his water color sketches. It was delightful to see the serene happiness of these veteran workers after treading the path of life side by side for more than sixty years. If their faces are set to the golden west, their hearts are young as the dawn.—English paper.

FOR THE HOUSEKEEPER

A Simple Bread Pudding
Line the bottom of a large dish with some pieces of bread (stale bread will do), cut all shapes to fit it, spread first with a little butter, then thickly with either orange or lemon marmalade. Beat up three eggs, add pint of milk, pour over, add a sprinkle of sugar and bake in a moderate oven until a rich brown. This is very economical pudding as it uses up all pieces of bread, and is much liked.

Prune Pudding
Six ounces suet, six ounces bread-crumbs, half pound prunes, two ounces sugar, three eggs, quarter pint milk. Chop suet fine, stone and chop the prunes, mix suet, bread-crumbs prunes and sugar together. Beat the eggs in a little more than a quarter pint of milk. Stir in dry ingredients, and mix well. Put in a basin covered with buttered paper, and steam for three hours. Serve with any sweet sauce.

Spice Cake.
Two cups brown sugar, one-half cup butter, scant two cups sour cream, one teaspoonful soda, one teaspoonful cinnamon, one nutmeg, yolks of five eggs, two and one-half cups of flour. Bake in layers. Use boiled frosting.

NERVES OF STOMACH.

No household is healthy where the food provided is not wholesome. A family to which rich food is served continually, cannot be well. Plain, savory steaks and roasts, oysters and clams, in season, and fresh milk and eggs, light, thoroughly baked bread, carefully cooked cereals and vegetables with lots of fruit, either stewed or fresh, are the foods to employ. Warm breads, pies, cakes, pickles, fried food, puddings and confections, and strong tea and coffee can be enjoyed by most people, sometimes with impunity, but in families where they are frequently served it will be found that there is also frequent illness. "My stomach has nothing to do with my illness," they say. "Oh! no; it is my nerves." As though nerves were not dependent, alas! upon digestion, good or the reverse!

NOTES AND NOTIONS.

The Red Geranium in Her Wulf.

A few winters ago every woman who made any pretense toward modishness wore a white gardenia against the dark fur of her neck. This year the scarlet geranium is the thing, and these erstwhile inexpensive blossoms, genuine and artificial, have made a surprising leap in price. The touch of brilliant red against the dark fur neckpiece or muff is very chic—now that red is the fashion—and the bright hue is also cheerful and warm on snappy winter days. Red is extremely fashionable this midwinter season, and is seen in hat feathers, neckbows and even whole costumes, a peculiar brick red shade in broadcloth being the fad of the hour.

Even Garters Glisten Now.

Everything has a sparkle of its own this year—or rather a sparkle lent by the brightness of rhinestones or crystal beads. Milady's garters are jeweled to be in line with fashionable requirements and are made of picot-edged satin ribbon, shirred over elastic, a design in rhinestones decorating the front of the garter very effectively.

Music and Drama

A Girl of the Mountains
Manager Johnson announces that new version of the four act social drama by Lena B. Parker entitled "A Girl of the Mountains" will be seen at the Grand, Thursday, January 23rd.

This is not a Western play, but a society drama telling a strong and interesting story of a girl's love and betrayal, her sacrifices and finally her success and happiness. The story is simple and straightforward, with strong and pointed situations and the world ideas worked out are said to have gone far to make the phenomenal success which has been the good fortune of the piece since its initial performance. In addition to this We and Lambert have always taken care to give the productions an environmental effects that are bewilderingly beautiful and provides a cast of clever artists.

This year's new version shows even a larger expenditure on the scenery and costumes and the cast has never been surpassed and but rarely equalled.

The Travelling Salesman.
"Forbes" best comedy, will be the attraction at the Grand, Thursday, Jan. 23rd.

The play, which has been seen here many times, is pleasantly remembered for its many laughs, and the charming bits of pathos and sentiment in the story. The cast which includes Henry B. Harris Estate is offering, is headed by the jolly rotund comedian, Shen Camp, who possesses that rare attribute of the comedian, the laughing spirit. The play has been rejuvenated and is said to be better than ever, and the production will be presented in its entirety.

PARIS

(From our own Correspondent.)
PARIS, Jan. 23.—A box bowling alley has been opened on River street and is already receiving a liberal patronage.

Dr. and Mrs. Gould, Banfield street, attended the funeral of the latter's mother this week.

Tuesday evening will be the annual meeting of the Paris Board of Trade, when the various reports were received and officers for the ensuing year elected.

As we were saying, Paris weather is the most delightful on earth—something of a "Tankard" primaries which were to be played here on Tuesday, had to be called off for lack of ice.

A goodly number of hockey enthusiasts journeyed to Brantford on Tuesday night to witness the Telephone City bunch play hockey with London.

Extensive repairs and improvements to buildings and grounds were freely discussed at the annual meeting of the Agricultural Society on Monday. If possible, permanent coops will be placed in the poultry building, and a grand stand erected during the present year; the grounds also will receive attention. Owing to damages to the society's buildings, sporting organizations will not be permitted to use the grounds the present year.

The new officers are: President, J. P. Barker; 1st vice-pres., H. Tisdale; 2nd vice, James Miller. Directors, Messrs. Telfer, Webber, Deans, Wm. McCormick, McPherson, Folseter, Ryan and W. Howell.

Officers of Brant Chapter, R.A.M., were installed Monday evening as follows: 1st P. W. W. Patterson; 2nd P., Dr. Logie; 3rd P., W. Finlayson; scribe E. L. A. LaPierre; scribe N. W. Wylie; treasurer, J. Smiley; P.S., D. Murray; J.S., Sanderson; J. S., D. McTavish; J. Cunningham.

Mrs. John Troupe of Richmond was visiting Mrs. John Duncan, Jane street.

Miss Farquharson was a guest of her brother, Rev. Chas. Farquharson, St. George.

Serum Said to Cure Consumption is to be Made Public to the World

BERLIN, Jan. 23.—Dr. Friedmann—indignant over the fact of certain physicians declaring they are in possession of his tuberculosis serum, whereas he declares what they have is ineffective or positively harmful—will place his remedy at the disposal of the Minister of the Interior today.

One prominent Berlin physician attempted to get Friedmann bacilli from the body of a man who had been inoculated by Friedmann, and asserts he succeeded.

How they secured Serum
Others secured cultures from the bacteriologist with whom Friedmann conducted some experiments twelve years ago, and who has been claiming he preserved the original culture. Friedmann had not planned to disclose the remedy so soon, but declares he is unwilling to have his name associated with serums being employed by his rivals, many of whom, moreover, have been attacking him bitterly. Friedmann has been deluged with offers to visit America and personally introduce his serum, and has about decided to do so.

Splendid Year Reported in Connection With the First Baptist Church

The 7th annual business meeting of the First Baptist church was held Wednesday evening. At 6.30 the ladies of the church entertained the members of the church to supper, after which the business meeting was held. The pastor, Rev. Llewellyn Brown, occupied the chair, and called the meeting to order. After reading the church covenant and prayer, reports were received from all departments of the church, including the Mission Circle, Mission Band, Ladies' Aid, Bible school, ushers, choir and all the different committees of the church. Total amount collected by the church from all sources was $11,452.64. Of this amount about $5,000 was given to missions. During the evening, the church, by a standing vote, increased the pastor's salary $100, making it now $2,100 per year. Extensive alterations were discussed in connection with increasing the bible school room, as the present accommodations are taxed to the utmost limit every Sunday.

Hearty votes of thanks were given to the pastor for his untiring work, and also to the financial secretary, Mr. C. Moyle, to the choir and organist, Mr. D. L. Wright, to the clerk, G. A. Winters, also to the treasurer, F. Benedict. The reports read all showed advancement in all departments of church work, especially in the Sunday services and in the bible school. The following officers were appointed:
Clerk—Geo. A. Winters.
Treasurer—F. Benedict.
Fin. Sec'y—Chas. Moyle.
Deacons—C. Cook, J. W. Peirce, J. F. Schultz, Geo. M. Parsons.
Also the following committees:—Missionary, Finance, Musical, and Ushers.
Total membership to Dec. 31st, 1912, 534.
We, as a church, feel grateful to our Heavenly Father and to the great Head of the Church for all the numerous blessings that have been showered upon us during the year, and we go forward to do greater things for Him during 1913.

Woman is Acquitted Who Shot and Killed Her Husband

PARIS, Jan. 23.—Madame Lamberjack, the wife of the former bicycle rider and automobilist, who shot and killed her husband when he had determined to leave her, was acquitted by a jury in the Versailles Assize Court yesterday of the charge of murder. All Paris fought for admission to the court, as Lamberjack was known to everybody. The sympathy of the court was with the prisoner, who had married Lamberjack when he was a poor mechanic and helped him out by working as a dressmaker. She shot and killed him at St. Germain last June, when he decided to leave her. Lamberjack, according to the testimony, became a champion bicyclist, an automobile man, and a director of the Franco-American Automobile Company, which took him occasionally to New York. He got so that he made yearly three and four hundred thousand and often a million francs, the latter approximately $200,000. His wife, who had married him in his humble days, kept up her hand-embroidery work.

Eventually Lamberjack decided to separate from his former wife, and went to a home in St. Germain. He started to remove his effects, when his wife followed him and fired two shots inside the house. She followed him into the garden and fired a third and fatal shot. She did not realize that the last shot was fatal, because she exclaimed: "That is nothing."
At the trial she denied that she intended to kill her husband. In going through the pockets of his overcoat she found a revolver, and thinking he intended to use it against her she fired the second and third shots.
Lamberjack only sobbed when asked if she regretted her act.
Doctors testified that she was fully responsible for her act, but the jury acquitted her.

the splendid sheet of ice at the rink Tuesday evening.

Rev. Mr. Reid will lecture on "Scotland and the Scotch," in the Presbyterian church on Monday, Feb. 3rd. The lecture will be interspersed with Scotch song and a splendid entertainment is assured.

APPRECIATION.

Brantford, Jan. 22, 1913.
Brantford Courier,
Brantford, Ont.

Dear Editor,—Just a few lines to tell how I appreciate your paper in our home. The longer I take your paper the better I like it. When I subscribed for your paper nearly three years ago I was also a subscriber to one of Toronto's leading daily papers, and I took the Courier for the news of our city and the sermon published weekly by Pastor Russell.

But I saw as time progressed that your paper contained all the news that I got in the Toronto paper, and besides it contained the sermons which I greatly appreciate, as they have been a great source of comfort from time to time. The pastor's clear, logical and scriptural presentation of the doctrine of the Atonement, and other kindred subjects of the Bible, has far surpassed everything I have ever heard or read before or since. It appears to me that all truth seekers, lovers of truth and righteousness will be greatly blessed and helped to a clearer understanding of the Word of God by the reading and studying of Pastor Russell's sermons, which appear weekly in your valuable paper. We are living at a time when the truth on every subject is being brought to light, as the Scriptures declare, "the light that shineth brighter and brighter unto the perfect day." I am glad, dear editor, that you are assisting in throwing light on the different subjects from time to time. May great success be yours along that line.

I remain, yours truly,
B. W. RITCHIE.

MONK TURNS THIEF.

Charged With Selling Famous Works of Art.
FLORENCE, Jan. 22.—A monk named Bellandini has been arrested on the charge of selling from the famous convent of San Spirito two bas-reliefs of "The Madonna and the Child," by Jacopo Della Quercia and Rossellino respectively. Rossellino's Madonna, which is less valuable, was found in the possession of a well-known antiquary. Quercia's has not been recovered. It is stated that Bellandini sold it to a workman for $600.

TORTURED FOR NEARLY TWO YEARS

Mrs. Poulin Found Relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Rheumatism, Backache, and Headaches Were Her Portion But Now She is a New Woman.

McCREARY, Man., Jan. 20.—(Special)—"Four boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills made a new person of me." The speaker is Mrs. Oliver Poulin, of this place, and her numerous friends here fully verify her statement.

"For nearly two years," Mrs. Poulin continues, "rheumatism tortured me. My back and head also ached. My eyes were puffed and swollen. I am sixty-three years of age, and you can see I was a pretty sick woman. But Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me." Mrs. Poulin is only one of many who have had a similar experience. They were weak and run down, and sick all over. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured them. How? Simply by curing the kidneys. The diseased kidneys were the cause of all the trouble. They were failing to strain the impurities out of the blood, and the result was disease all over the body. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured the kidneys, the impurities were strained out of the blood. The result was pure blood and good health all over the body. The cause of the disease had been removed.

Mad as the scheme was, it found plenty of advocates, and a provisional bill had been, it was said, actually drafted, when the overthrow of the government on the franchise question was announced, and the whole business was thereupon consigned to a well merited oblivion.—Pearson's Weekly.

BRACKING IT GENTLY.

The Naval Court Was Polite With the Pushing Boston Attorney.

Courts martial are not infrequently held on battleships in the Charlestown navy yard. Sometimes a sailor will send for a Boston attorney to defend him, although this tendency is discouraged by the officers. Most attorneys know they have no absolute right to practice in a naval court and can do so only by permission of the court, but occasionally a lawyer goes aboard who does not realize this fact.

A sailor who was charged with gambling had retained an attorney to get him off. This attorney, who had never had such a case before, went briskly into the officers' wardrobe, where the court was sitting and without waiting on ceremony began to address the court in a hithering manner.

"That mislaid" interrupted the presiding officer. "Who are you?"

"I am Mr. Rudolph Smithers," the attorney replied, "and I am a member of the Massachusetts bar."

"Oh, you are Mr. Smithers, are you?" continued the officer. "Then you are the man who the orderly wants to see." He called the orderly.

"What does the orderly want of me?" asked the attorney in a superior tone.

"Nothing very much," replied the chief justice. "He merely wants to show you off the ship."—New York Herald.

THE WOMANLY TOUCH.

Adam was showing Eve through the cave.

"This is the living room," he said. "It is furnished as luxuriously as possible in this primitive world. I have spared no expense on it, and yet it lacks something or other, some final touch that I cannot name."

Eve took a swift look around. Then she pulled the magazine table out a little from the wall, gave the mirror a shake, and kicked the tiger skin rug back a foot from the door.

"Wonderful!" cried Adam and gazed open mouthed at the magical transformation.

"The cave was more than a cave now. There's no place like home."—Newark News.

NONCONFORMIST CLERGYMAN IN MANCHESTER IS CHUCKING OVER A LETTER HE RECEIVED FROM THE VICAR OF A CERTAIN PARISH CHURCH.

He had written to the vicar asking for permission to conduct a funeral in the churchyard.

"He immediately sent me a most courteous note," the nonconformist clergyman said, "and I could not help giving to his words a sinister meaning. The note ran: 'You will, both tomorrow and at any other time, be most welcome in our churchyard.'"—London Answers.

GETTING EVEN.

"Oh, George, dear," she whispered when he slipped the engagement ring on her tapering finger, "how sweet of you to remember just the sort of stone I preferred. None of the others was ever so thoughtful."

George was staggered, but for a moment. Then he came back with: "Not at all, dear. You overrate me. This is the one I've always used."—London Stray Stories.

ECCENTRIC.

"Snags is a most eccentric chap."

"Yes!"

"Sure! He has named his place Pine Terrace."

"Well, what of it?"

"Well, he has pine trees and a terrace."—Judge's Library.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Take LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. F. W. GROVER'S

BRAILLE'S BIG WELL.

It Would Have Worked Wonders Only It Was Never Dug.

Perhaps the most idiotic of all the many idiotic schemes with which Britons have been enamored in days gone by was that which was known at the time as Braille's big well. M. Braille was a Belgian engineer, residing temporarily in England, who, in 1845, approached the then prime minister (Lord John Russell) with a scheme for sinking a huge shaft, a mile in diameter and twenty miles in depth, that should tap the earth's internal heat and thereby render England independent of her coal supply when this gave out.

Lord Russell, always rather attracted by visionary projects, attentively considered the scheme and caused plans and estimates to be drawn up. The first difficulty was the rush of water, which would have been certain to occur sooner or later. This it was proposed to keep under by pumping, caissons being used for the purpose of further excavation, while the finished portion of the shaft was to be rendered watertight by a "jacket" of granite set in Portland cement.

Mad as the scheme was, it found plenty of advocates, and a provisional bill had been, it was said, actually drafted, when the overthrow of the government on the franchise question was announced, and the whole business was thereupon consigned to a well merited oblivion.—Pearson's Weekly.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Policewoman a Great Hit at Suffrage Convention.

It would seem from a study of social conditions that in this country pay little attention to their children's associates outside the home. Perhaps your plea for this neglect—for it is a neglect, a neglect of duty—is that the housework and the care of younger children will not permit you to spend any time getting acquainted with young Ethel's friends.

Ethel enjoys their company, and you would not wish to hurt her feelings by suggesting that she should not associate with them. Ethel must have her fun while she is young.

Five mornings a week ten months in the year Ethel has to get out of bed early, dress, have breakfast and hurry off to school. Perhaps she returns at noon for a hasty lunch, perhaps not, but after school hours she must practice her music, study her lessons for the next day and attend to some small duties at home.

The evenings are long in winter. As a rule, there are few amusements at home, and the young boy and girl seek pleasure at some neighbor's house or get permission to attend a moving picture show.

On the way to either place Ethel meets a boy friend or several boys and girls, who suggest a walk or a visit to some boy's or girl's home where they can "rough house" unrestrained.

Very often a dance hall claims the boys and girls of fifteen and older. Surely there has been enough written about the dangers of the public dance.

The boys Ethel knows come to your home infrequently. They are at the awkward age, when the thought of meeting you and Ethel's father is most distasteful to them.

Ethel knows how they feel and courts their favor by arranging meetings outside her home—on the corner or at some girl's friend's house where there is less supervision by parents than at her own home.

You, however, are really relieved by the thought that you do not have to meet and help entertain these young people. You say to yourself: "Oh, well, if she likes to be at Anna's home let her go. I suppose they do have a better time there, where they do not have to take care not to waken a baby." And so Ethel is allowed to go out in the evenings according to her own sweet will.

She forms the habit, and few are the evenings spent at home with mother and the other children.

If trouble comes to Ethel she is to blame. She is reprimanded, upbraided, and if she is a girl of spirit the chances are she leaves home entirely to look after the army of working girls—or comes to "water harn."

CARE OF CHILDREN'S EYES.

One of the most important organs in the human body is the eye. Yet parents constantly jeopardize their children's eyesight by allowing them to read or study in insufficient light or light that is harmful to the delicate mechanism of the eye.

Light should always fall over the left shoulder of the reader. By so doing the rays of light follow the curve of the eye, and the vision also following the line from left to right meets with no resistance in the shoulders touching the chair back; then when they do lean forward to write they will instinctively move forward on the seat and retain the erect position of back and shoulders.

This is a most important matter for many persons have had to sit through life with a distressing curvature of the spine simply because their early days have been allowed to sit with bent backs over their books.

WHEN BABY TRAVELS.

There are all sorts of fitted baskets for all sorts of purposes, but the one that most appeals to mothers is dedicated to baby on his travels.

Some of these are wonderfully elaborate affairs in a morocco case, but one within reach of the average income is of wicker, with stout straps and a firm wicker handle, light enough to be easily carried by a maid.

In the basket are a bottle for keeping liquids at an even temperature, two boxes for food, a feeding bottle with special cleansing brushes, a mixing cup, funnel, measuring spoon, napkin, bib, thermometer and a watch warranted to keep baby's meals as accurately on time as if in his own nursery.

HOMEMADE SHOES.

Soft suede makes delightful shoes for the little one, and it is quite a little matter for a mother, with a little practice, to make them herself and to decorate them with tiny flowers of leaves. The stitching should be done on the machine and the pattern quite simple, so that there will be no unnecessary seams. Slits may be cut round the top through which to run the laces.

ACCORDION PLAYED NEAT.

Accordion next is ubiquitous for girls' dresses, the more luxurious materials being, of course, more or less reserved for their elders. There are lovely little evening gowns, too, simply made of accordion or gaufered perle white chiffon, into which is slipped a panel of shadow lace, likewise applied to match. No other trimming but the lace is required unless it be the heavy silver or gold bullion fringe which so many dressmakers employ as a finish to the soft swathed satin belt.

SOMETHING WORTH KNOWING.

Sometimes white trimmings on a colored dress look dingy. Wring a white cloth out in thin starch, place on the trimming, then put a dry cloth over that and iron with a hot iron, and the dier will come off on to the starched cloth.

Points for Mothers

Your Daughter's Friends.

Here is a question that every mother of a growing girl should consider very carefully: How can I have more good times with my daughter and her friends?

Have you made friends with your daughter's friends? Do you know who her friends are and who are their friends?

It would seem from a study of social conditions that in this country pay little attention to their children's associates outside the home. Schoolgirl's Exhausted Nerves

Headaches, Dizzy Spells and Weakness Overcome by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Miss Gallop. At about the age that most girls are working hardest at school studying for examinations, there are important physiological changes taking place which are an additional strain on the nervous system.

Mrs. Gallop has had experience in the cases of her daughter and grand daughter, and for this reason her letter is particularly interesting to parents.

Mrs. J. A. Gallop, 155 Victoria street, St. John, N.B., whose husband is a carpenter, states—"We have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food in our family for nervousness, headaches, dizziness and nervous dyspepsia, and have found them satisfactory in every particular. My daughter Bessie was going to school, and became quite run down in health. By the time she had used three boxes of this remedy her nerves were steady, her general health was excellent and she was entirely free from headaches and dizzy spells. We are more than pleased with the results of this treatment."

"More recently we used the Nerve Food for my granddaughter, who was out of school for nearly a year from nervous trouble, and noticed improvement in her condition at once."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 51c a box. For $2.50, dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

HOW GIRLS MAY AVOID PERIODIC PAINS

The Experience of Two Girls Here Related For The Benefit of Others.

Rochester, N. Y.—"I have a daughter 13 years old who has always been very healthy until recently when she complained of dizziness and cramps every month, so bad that I would have to keep her home from school and put her to bed to get relief."

"After giving her only two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound she is now enjoying the best of health. I cannot praise your Compound too highly. I want every good mother to read what your medicine has done for my child."—Mrs. RICHARD N. DUNHAM, 311 Exchange St., Rochester, N. Y.

Stoutsville, Ohio.—"I suffered from headaches, backache and was very irritable. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and before I had taken the whole of two bottles I found relief. I am only sixteen years old, but I have better health than for two or three years."

"I cannot express my thanks for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I had taken other medicines but did not find relief."—Miss CORA B. FOSNAUGH, Stoutsville, Ohio, R.F.D., No. 1.

Hundreds of such letters from mothers expressing their gratitude for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished for their daughters have been received by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass.

Timekeepers Confused.
HAMILTON, Jan. 22.—To-night's O. H. A. intermediate game between the Hamilton and Niagara Falls Tecumsehs ended in a farce, with four minutes and fifteen seconds remaining to play. The timekeepers disagreed as to the actual time left to play, and referee Wagner, to settle the argument took the watch. He, too, erred in chasing the teams to the dressing room, and when he realized his mistake ordered them back. Tecumsehs refused to that it had been called, and the Hams, continued and ran in four goals, enough to win by 9 to 8. The score when the time was called gave the Kingstons the lead by 8 to 5.

STRATFORD, Jan. 22.—The local senior O. H. A. team added another to their string of defeats last night, being vanquished 8 to 3 by the Preston seven in a rather listless game.

Steadier team play and superior shooting won the game for Preston. The half time score was 4 to 0 in the visitor's favor. Rahn and Mulroy got three goals each, Bowman one and Walker one. The homesters developed dashes of speed, but lacked team play.

THE RING

(Courier Leased Wire).

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—It will be Joe Jeannette and not Al Palzer, whom Jack Johnson will box in Paris on June 24, the eve of the Grand Prix, should Johnson be permitted to leave the country, according to Dan McKettrick, a prominent boxing promoter to-day. McKettrick, who sails to-day to stage the bout between Willie Lewis and Adrian Hogan, one of the latest French middleweights, said he had signed letter from Johnson wherein he agreed to meet Jeannette in a twenty round bout in Paris on June 24. He exhibited the letter in which Johnson said the guarantee of $50,000 win, lose or draw, was satisfactory and that he would be ready to sail for Paris as soon as the final arrangements had been made. McKettrick said he had been assured by authoritative sources that Johnson would be able to make the trip to Paris.

CUSTOMS IN HONG KONG

CITY WHERE WOMEN CARRY BURDENS IN HARNESS.

Chinese-British Port Is Full of Strange Sights to the Westerner—Men and Women of Nearly Every Race in the World Are To Be Seen on Its Streets—Commerce Carried on by Barter.

Many phases in life in Hong Kong strike the visitor from the western world as curious. In Hong Kong women work just like the men; they drag huge loads harnessed like horses, carry heavy weights strapped over their shoulders as yokels carry milkcans in the country. They stagger up the Peak for about one hundred yards when they lay down their burden, go back, pick a new lot up, carry this up to the first dumping-place, then take the first load on a few yards further, and so on, under a blazing sun. All the bricklaying, road-mending, coaling, etc., is done equally by both sexes; but perhaps the most curious sight is that of a woman straining at an oar or at the steering of a sampan. If the boat be a very heavy one, two of the women will work an oar together, pushing one way and the other pushing, while a little baby is perched on the back of each in a sort of cradle or poptoe arrangement.

On the other hand, up on the Peak, which is the European settlement, one often sees a Chinese boy walking along sedately representing a pambulator, while the English nursemaid walks empty-handed by his side and superintends operations. Of course, all the housework is done by "boys," the cosmopolitan aspect of the place impresses one. Walking down a street one day with a Canadian, a visitor noted casually a Chinese on one side, just in front were a couple of Germans, a Parsee stood at the door by his shop, a Japanese girl followed by two Portuguese boys passed, and a moment later a rickshaw went by in which sat a Spanish maiden. There were, of course, Chinese scattered all over the place as usual, so that the visitor with a European and a Chinese, another at least nine nationalities represented. It would be hard to name a country which could not produce its type in Hong Kong.

There is a contingent of the Baluchistan Infantry in Hong Kong, and there are Sikh policemen; Indians of all kinds are represented officially in the civil and police courts; next to the "Chinks" the Germans predominate; there is a large sprinkling of Malays and Leacars; many Frenchmen and Swedes; Italians, Turks, Portuguese and Spaniards all have their place in the colony; the Scotsmen and the English are in large numbers, and then somewhere at the end of the list come a few straggling Englishmen. It is an interesting experience to be in the Chinese quarters in Hong Kong. The other day, writes a traveler, a friend wanted a piece of blackwood furniture for a wedding in Hong Kong, and we ransacked some of the more likely shops to find it and interviewed the proprietors. Chinese merchants in Hong Kong betray no eagerness to sell, but pull slowly and sourly at their tremendous pipes containing one small pinch of tobacco, or perhaps opium, and allow you to pull about the articles exposed for sale as much as you please—it saves them trouble. Some of them speak practically no English, but they usually have a small son who has been educated at Queen's College, Hong Kong, a large Anglo-Chinese boys' school, and he acts as interpreter.

The more you bargain, the more lethargic the shopkeeper becomes; you feel you are boring him to death, and stammer apologies, which he accepts graciously. "No, he's not got what you want." "Will he have it later?" he can't say. Perhaps, you suggest tentatively, he may have the article in his godown. He doesn't think so, anyway—the godown's locked up, and it's too much trouble to bother about opening it. Then you are afraid you must go somewhere else. He thinks it might be as well, and then he and his assistants go to sleep. The next shop you call at you find a middle-aged man in charge, who has marked you down as a "sure thing," and greets you with an oily smile. Yes, plenty of stuff he has. Yes, he has exactly what you want. "How much?" An absurdly extortionate amount is named. You suggest a third of this price, whereas he laughs pleasantly, and skilfully changes the conversation and chats of the weather, and inquires "How long you have Hong Kong been." You tell him you are 204 and begin to bargain. You are a great nuisance, but he will humor you. He slightly reduces the original price. You tell him you are 204 satisfied in the rich, flowery language of the Orient. He becomes pained, one might almost say shocked. Hours seem to have passed, and you suggest splitting the difference. The tears stand in his eyes. You are cruel and unreasonable. As you step outside there is a groan of anguish. You turn. "Maakoo," he means. "Can do." He packs it up for you, fastens it, seals it, all with a chastened air, as if of one who has been robbed of his eye lamp against his will—and all the time he is making at least 50 per cent. over the transaction.

Congratulations to Mr Ralph Courtneay and bride.

Housework Drudgery!

Housework is drudgery for the weak woman. She brushes, dusts and scrubs, or is on her feet all day attending to the many details of the household, her back aching, her temples throbbing, nerves quivering under the stress of pain, possibly dizzy feelings. Sometimes rest in bed is not refreshing, because the poor tired nerves do not permit of refreshing sleep. The real need of weak, nervous women is satisfied by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and as Mrs. Briggs and others testify: It Makes Weak Women Strong and Sick Women Well.

This "Prescription" removes the cause of women's weaknesses, secures information and absorption, it tranquilizes the nerves, encourages the appetite and induces restful sleep.

Dr. Pierce is perfectly willing to let every one know what his "Favorite Prescription" contains, a complete list of ingredients on the bottle-wrapper. Do not let any druggist persuade you that his unknown composition is "just as good" in order that he may make a bigger profit.

Mrs. BRAZIER, 2000, of 222 N. Washington St., Delphos, Ohio, writes: "Having taken your 'Favorite Prescription' for a bad case of intestinal disease and constipation with woman's ill, for which I was almost unable to do anything, I think I am safe in saying that there are no remedies in the world like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Purifying Lotion Tablets.' I am now enjoying the best of health, and thank Dr. Pierce for his wonderful medicines which have done me a world of good."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate liver and bowels.

Connection With the Uncle Sam Show

(Courier Leased Wire).

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Communication on Secretary Knox's reply to the British protest on the Panama Toll question. The Tribune says:

The fact is, however, that the forcible presentation of the administration's side of the case fails to convince to the whole American. It is probably not convincing to more than a small minority, hesitatingly conceding the transient sincerity of the President's offers and presentations, most Americans are agreed or at least think this position requires confirmation by some impartial authority before it is enacted into law and put into execution. The very strength of this note following right upon powerful arguments of Senator Knox on the other side of the question, emphasizes the desirability of some legislation until diplomacy done its work. If this country's unit in support of the policy of years' law it might still feel it to be a cause before a serious challenge. But since it is widely divided, since its foremost diplomatic legal authorities take diametrically opposite views, there seems to be course compatible with reason, honor, but to recede from the ground which more than half of our people believe we have no right to take least until our rights in the matter are indisputably ascertained.

The World says: Secretary Knox's reply to the British protest against the Panama Canal act is not only at all. It is merely a sharp rebuff to the British.

"It avoids the issue of indirect canal-toll subsidies to coast shipping as violation of the treaty asserting our undoubted right to CHRISTIANA, Norway, Jan. 24.—The Norwegian expedition sent to relief of the German scientists, reported to be stranded and suffering terrible privations in a remote spot of Spitzbergen, left Advent Bay Spitzbergen on Monday, according to a wireless despatch from the place. The expedition, however, forced to return there to-day as water was found to be open and communication over land was impossible. The relief of the German scientists will be impracticable until new help has formed.

A COMPETITION.

To the individual, man, woman, child, who is a citizen of Brantford and sends in the most popular name for the new vaudeville theatre, Dalhousie street, I will give a seat for each performance, during six months.
