Lord Somerton's Ally.

CHAPTER XIX.

"There, my dear," she went on, a little inflection of triumph in her tones. "Of course, it is only a temporary affair, if Sir John returns quickly—a matter, say, of four or five months; but if anything should happen to him you are absolutely under the control of your guardians for years to come, so I strongly advise you to fall in with their wishes."

She waited for Elsie to speak, but as the girl remained silent, her ladyship continued:

"The authority in the household has been invested in me, my dear."

"I will not submit to it," Elsie interrupted, haughtily. "I will see Lawyer Grant at once. I will appeal to the courts and have this conspiracy set aside."

Lady Helena shrugged her shoulders.

"It would be useless; but of course you are free to do as you please in that direction. However, I do not think that you will ever attempt it."

There was something so significant in her tones that Elsie looked up sharply.

"No, I don't think that you will attempt that," proceeded Lady Helena. "Another word, my dear. These interviews—these private interviews—with the men-servants must come to an end. Now, do not blame me, because I am but giving expression to the desires of your guardians, a most unpleasant task, I assure you. It is known that Stretton has been to the house again, and you surely do not wish to cause the young man's dismissal?"

"You dare say this to my face!" cried Elsie, springing to her feet. "False friend! false woman! You who have lived for years upon my father's bounty, dare to conspire against his daughter! Do you think that I cannot see through it all, you miserable hypocrite? The fine hand of my lord of Somerton is seen in every word. It is a plot by which it is hoped that I shall fall into his power—shall become subservient to his hateful presence. He professes to love me, and I loathe him!"

Lady Helena, your schemes will fail! I am mistress of Blairwood Park, and mistress I will remain. I defy you all! My servants shall not be interfered with by you or by Lord Somerton. I will visit the rector at once, and to-morrow my case shall be placed before Mr. Grant."

Lady Freeman became deathly white, and trembled before the girl words had passed between them.

Now she understood why he and Mr. Grant had approved of Lord Somerton taking the rector's place in the business affairs of Blairwood Park; she understood it, and shuddered with a nameless dread.

By some subtle means his lordship had ingratiated himself with the lawyer, and the rest was easy with the feeble-minded rector. No doubt he had spoken of the friendship—the warm friendship existing between himself and Sir John Sterna, and his financial position was unassailable, for my Lord of Somerton was reputed to be among the wealthiest peers of all England.

And then, there was no doubt that if Lady Helena Freeman's influence was worth anything, his lordship was known to enjoy the complete confidence of Sir John—a confidence which had been established for many years. She had been his only daughter's guide, counselor, and friend. Was it likely then, that she would advocate one single thing which would be detrimental to her young mistress's interest? This was the way in which this case had been presented to Mr. Grant, Elsie felt sure, and he was too busy a man to wish to be bothered by attempting to negotiate a proposal which was probably prompted by a feeling of disinterested kindness on the part of Lord George Somerton. How could it be otherwise?

A rustic stared curiously at her, and she moved toward the garden gate, hardly knowing which way to turn or what to do. Then the rector's door was opened again, and Mrs. Groff appeared, an envelope in her hand.

"Miss Sterne," she said, "excuse me for being so upset, but I can't help it. Nobody cared for him but me." She wiped her eyes. "At the very last he gave me this to send to you. He wanted to see you before he died, but Lord Somerton objected to it, so he wrote this letter."

Elsie held out her hand mechanically, and took the envelope, clutching it tightly.

"Thank you," she said, and turned away, almost running against Dr. Denver, as he passed through the gate.

"You have come too late, Miss Sterne," he said, sadly. "One poor friend has gone. He wished to see you when he knew that his hours were numbered, and I sent a messenger to the Park for you last night."

"I heard nothing of it," Elsie replied. "I did not even know that the rector was dangerously ill. His housekeeper has informed me that Lord Somerton objected to my being sent for."

"Indeed!" Dr. Denver exclaimed. "I did not know that, but suppose that his lordship was influenced by motives which could not be otherwise than good."

Elsie shuddered.

"I do not like Lord Somerton," she said, adding, as she held up the envelope which Mrs. Groff had given to her: "Mr. Vallance has written something to me. I have not read the letter yet."

"A message from the dead," the doctor replied, solemnly. "Whatever it may be, Miss Sterne, pay heed to it, for there will be nothing but words of wisdom."

Elsie looked at him sharply. How much did he know? or how much did he think that he knew? Had his advice gone against her also?

Dr. Denver walked beside her through the village, and went on talking:

"This illness of the poor rector had been going on for years. He was never strong, and the church factions are responsible for a great deal. Several anonymous letters were sent to the bishop months ago—cruel letters they were. Vallance tried to ponder to both parties, his one aim being for the common good. Then came your father's trouble—his mad hallucination, as I shall term it, hounded on by that scoundrel cousin of yours, Noel Campbell. When the rector became aware of the enormity of the guilt with which Sir John charged himself, the undermining of his nervous system was complete. He mentioned it to me, and I was not sent for until too late, until he was seized with locomotor ataxia. Nothing could save him then even had he desired to live."

The doctor's words sounded far away in Elsie's ears, and she did not think of them seriously until many hours later.

"Good-morning, my dear," Dr. Denver said, presently. "I want to have a little quiet chat with you, but have an unusual number of calls to make today, and it will perhaps be better for you to digest poor Vallance's last message first."

COULD HARDLY DO ANY WORK

Since Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound This Woman Feels So Well

Roseville, N. Y.—"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly for the good it has done me. I was so much troubled with female weakness I could hardly do any work. I saw your advertisement in the paper, and read it to my husband. He said, 'You had better try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound,' so I bought six bottles, and by taking it I am not troubled as I was. I am gaining strength and getting fresh. My female troubles have vanished and I have never felt so well. The Liver Pills are the best I ever took. If you think my letter will encourage other sufferers you have my permission to use it as an advertisement."—Mrs. SARAH BLAIR, Box 177, Roseville, N. Y.

Doing the housework for the average American family is some task, and many women lose their health in so doing. If you, as a housewife, are troubled with backache, irregularities, are easily tired out or irritable, or have other disagreeable ailments caused by some weakness, give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. Let it help you.

The Making of Maps

Pages of Outlines and Daubs.

One of the queerest of all the books that circulate in Government Departments is to be found at the Ordnance Survey Office at Southampton, where maps are made.

At this moment the Ordnance Survey Office is engaged in printing a wonderful array of new maps covering the whole of the country in scales ranging from one-sixteenth of an inch to the mile to twenty-five inches to the square mile.

The book contains "successive proofs" of the different maps, showing the stages through which a map goes before it finally reaches the public.

Roads and Rivers.

The first stage shows the map printed in black ink in skeleton form, giving nothing but the names of the different places. The next page is devoted to perhaps only two thick red lines—the main roads winding their way through the particular section of the country.

The third page will show the skeleton map with the main roads printed on it, while the fourth will give four or five minor and proposed roads. The fifth will show those roads on the skeleton. The sixth page is a veritable Chinese puzzle in green—the parks and woods. The next page contains the rivers and streams of the country.

Then comes a page of blue daubs representing lakes. More daubs, this time in light and dark brown finely tinted, appear in another page—these are the low mountains and hills; while the last page but one looks like a picture of the moon printed in a deep sepia colour—the highest points of the country.

Each of the series of outlines and daubs is in turn printed on the top of the skeleton map, and the finished plate gives the map as it is issued to the public.

Home-made, but Has No Equal for Coughs

Makes a family supply of really refreshing, healthy, and easily prepared, and gives about 25¢.

If you have a severe cough or chest, cold accompanied with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up during the night with croup and you want quick help, try this reliable old home-made cough remedy. Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Elixer. Pour this into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. If desired, this recipe makes 16 ounces of Elixer. It can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief. You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and heals the irritated membrane that lines the throat and bronchial tubes with such promptness, ease and certainty that it is really astonishing. Phlox is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is probably the best-known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds. There are many serious complications of this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for 25¢ ounces of Phlox with full directions. Don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give complete satisfaction. No money promptly refunded. The Phlox Co., Toronto, Ont.

lies will Co-operate in the Reparations Problem.

Light of Search 12 Miles off U.S.A Coasts Conceded by Britain—Bonar Law Seriously ill—Drs. Banting and MacLeod are Awarded Noble Prize for Medicine—The Earl of Athlone Appointed Governor General of South Africa.

LOW TO BOOTLEGGERS.

LONDON, Oct. 26. The British Government has accepted the principle proposal of the United States Government that vessels in United States waters be searched for contraband liquor within twelve miles of the United States coast.

KELLOGG SUCCEEDS HARVEY.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26. Frank B. Kellogg, former United States Senator from Minnesota, has been appointed United States Ambassador at London to replace George Harvey who recently resigned the position. He is expected to become effective in the near future.

FRANCE IS AGREABLE.

PARIS, Oct. 26. The French Government is willing that an international conference of experts, to be named by the Reparations Commission, be called to consider the question of reparations in conformity with the Treaty of Versailles, and added it would be happy if the United States would name an expert to participate in such.

CONFERENCE OF EXPERTS ON REPARATIONS.

LONDON, Oct. 26. Willingness of the United States to lend her services and co-operation for settlement of the German Reparations problem, seems to have lifted Europe out of the slough of depression. The British invitation and the reply of the United States stressing the imperative need of finding a suitable financial plan to prevent economic disaster in Europe, found prompt echoes in Paris, Brussels, and Rome, for it became known late this afternoon at the British Foreign Office that France, Belgium and Italy had all accepted the principles of an advisory conference of experts. While the British would have preferred a full conference of Ministers to liquidate the Reparation troubles, they hope the preliminary conference of experts will lead to a larger council of Allied statesmen. British officials seem to favor Berlin as the principal seat of the Conference, and this would make Germany's officials themselves more accessible to the experts who are to appraise Germany's assets and her capacity to redeem her indemnity obligations.

BONAR LAW SERIOUSLY ILL.

LONDON, Oct. 26. Andrew Bonar Law is still abed with serious throat affection and his condition to-day became so aggravated as to justify his physicians issuing a bulletin, the first since the former Premier's breakdown last summer. The bulletin signed by Sir Thomas Horder, famous cancer specialist, and Dr. Gould May, said the patient was suffering from an exacerbation of his recent feverish chill, necessitating confinement in bed.

HOME BANK DIRECTORS COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 26. True bills were brought in by the Assizes Grand Jury to-day in the cases against President H. J. Daly, and nine other Directors and officials of the Home Bank. The procedure will obviate the necessity for further police court proceedings.

RIOTING IN HAMBURG.

BERLIN, Oct. 26. One hundred rioters were killed in street fighting in Hamburg on Tuesday and Wednesday. Full reports of disorders show an equal number wounded.

DEATH OF DISTINGUISHED SCIENTIST.

SCHENECTADY, Oct. 26. Dr. Charles Proteus Steinmetz, electrical wizard, died at his home here to-day. The cause was given as a physical breakdown due to a trip to the Pacific Coast from which he recently returned. The illustrious scientist was at breakfast when he collapsed.

INTERNATIONAL ELECTRIC MEETING.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26. Directors of the General Electric Company to-day approved a proposal to purchase control of the Canadian General Electric Company. Directors of the Canadian company had already approved the plan. Announcement of the terms of purchase, it was said, would be made by the Canadian security.

NO HUNGER STRIKERS RELEASED.

DUBLIN, Oct. 26. The Free State Government declares that no prisoners have been released because of their hunger strike, but admits that some hunger strikers have been released for other reasons. The Government adds that none will be released on account of conditions brought on by hunger strike.

DISTRESSED FISHERMEN.

OTTAWA, Oct. 26. The sum of $100, public contributions, which was sent to the Ministry of Marine and Fisheries in aid of distressed fishermen of the Canadian Labrador Coast, has been forwarded to the Director of the Quebec Provincial Bureau of Public Charities at Quebec, who has the matter of relief in hand. It was stated by the Department last night that supplies of food have already been sent to a number of families at Old Port Bay, St. Paul's River, Bradore Bay and Blanc Sablon.

LOYD GEORGE AT WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26. David Lloyd George came to Washington yesterday to find a friendly hand clasping him at the official thresholds he crossed. There was no ceremony about the first visit of the little Welshman to the United States capital. He spent the day making new acquaintances and re-visiting old ones. Lloyd George met President Coolidge, all the Cabinet Ministers and other high officials of the Washington Government during the day. Later he renewed acquaintanceship with Woodrow Wilson.

ANCIENT CITY DISCOVERED.

FERRERA, Italy, Oct. 26. Ruins of an entire city, believed to antedate the Romans by perhaps a thousand years, have been discovered near here. More than a hundred tombs were uncovered, together with the remains of a number of persons buried in them. There are traces of an immense temple. Numerous jewels and vases with elaborate artistic designs resembling Greek forms, were found in the tombs. Some experts point out that it may be an extraordinary city the language of which is still unknown, while others believe it the ancient city of Spina.

LOYD GEORGE MEETS HUGHES.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26. While Lloyd George devoted to-day, his second day in Washington, chiefly to pilgrimages to Arlington National Cemetery and Mount Vernon, public questions did not escape his attention. The reparations situation attracted his interest and to-night he conferred with Secretary Hughes at the latter's home for an hour. Invited to Mr. Hughes' residence an hour in advance of others, who attended a dinner in honour of the distinguished visitor, the two had an opportunity to discuss questions in which they are mutually interested. In conference with newspaper correspondents the former British Premier spoke hopefully of the situation and indicated that on the basis of the latest advices from Europe he believed a distinct advance had been made toward the solution of the problem. Once an investigation is begun into Germany's capacity to pay he would be hopeful of a successful outcome.

A PREJUDICED VIEW.

PARIS, Oct. 26. Reappraisal of Germany's capacity to pay reparations strikes the afternoon papers as futile and objectionable, because they see in it an effort to reduce the amount of reparations. They find it futile because they say the question is political rather than financial. Germany, they agree, is hopelessly bankrupt, but if by some means she could be inspired with a desire to pay she could "clean house and pay." Germany's trouble is caused by German fraud and by British errors for which British industry is paying, says Le Temps. The newspaper asserts the latter is due to the fact that British broke the Allied Entente, and co-operation had it been maintained would have avoided German resistance and present chaos. Le Temps says British policy dating back to the first Duke of Marlborough and still surviving in Lord Curzon's mind, "is to prevent creation on the Rhine of a political situation that would guarantee France's security."

TO STAMP OUT DRUG SMUGGLING.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Oct. 26. Closer co-operation between the United States and Canada for the purpose of suppressing the illicit traffic in narcotic drugs across the border was agreed upon yesterday at the first international conference of representatives of the two countries. Although no details of the plans adopted at the meeting were given out, it is understood the combined narcotic forces of the two countries will take immediate steps to stamp out drug smuggling.

Just Folks.

By EDGAR A. GIBERT.

CLEVER.
Sometimes I think it were better if I never heard of or uttered the little word "clever."
Though clever means skill of a certain degree, there are so many things it is better to be.
How clever's a word that is sweet to the ear; it flatters our pride and misleads us. I fear.
It tells the young fellow who's tempted to shirk that if he is clever he won't have to work.
It tells the young fellow unwilling to wait.
That if he is clever he needn't go straight;
Full many a wrong deed it tempts him to do.
By saying if clever he needn't be true.
But better it were to have patience to wait.
And little by little to grow to be great.
And loyalty harvests more friendship and joy.
Than just being clever can gather, my boy.
Be honest, be cheerful, be kindly, be brave,
Be willing to work and be willing to save.
It is fine to be clever, but take this from me,
There are numberless things it is better to be.

Where Peppermint Comes From

Revival of an Ancient Industry.
The peppermint harvest is just over, and for a few weeks the distillation of the leaves and flowers of the aromatic plant will be carried on night and day in Surrey, which is said to produce the finest peppermint in the world.
This year the output will be greater than usual, because a short time ago many additional acres of land were put under cultivation with a view to resurrecting the peppermint industry, which had fallen into decay. But the quantity of oil produced is always small relative to that of the "herb."

To charge a still requires about one ton and a half of peppermint. When it is full, steam is passed through it, and then oil and water flow from a condenser into a tank. Here the water, being the heavier, sinks to the bottom, leaving the oil on top, and ultimately this is drained off into large bottles.

The Children's Favorite.
Each charge takes about seven hours to distill, and the yield of oil from it is usually only from six to 10 lb. On an average, indeed, some 15 tons of "herb" is needed to make 100 lb. of oil, and even then care must be taken not to waste the precious product.

What becomes of the oil? Much of it is exported to France, where one of the principal ingredients of certain liqueurs—alcohol de menthe—is made from it. Considerable quantities of such liqueurs are sent to London, and not one person in a thousand who drinks them here knows that much of their seductiveness is due to a plant grown within a few miles of Charing Cross.

The oil is also used in pharmacy, and confectioners must have it, else how would they give "bull's-eyes" and similar delicacies that distinctive flavour which has endeared them to many generations of youngsters?

The Lighter Side.

"Tell me a tale about an elephant," demanded the young man of his favourite aunt.
"What, on Sunday? I'm surprised at you. Little boys ought not to want to hear tales about animals on a Sunday."
"The point seemed to be worth considering, and Bobby was silent for a while. Then he asked, "Is it Sunday now in Australia?"
"Auntie thought it was not."
"Well, then, tell me a story about a kangaroo."
"Joan was to have a birthday party. She was anxious to conduct herself correctly, and was playing her mother with questions."
"Well, dear," said her mother in answer to one concerning the saying of grace before the meal, "for such an informal little party, I hardly think you need."

Accordingly, when all the guests were seated, Joan, from the head of the table, announced solemnly, "Mother says this is such an informal little party, we need not say grace."

Conference to Talk on Liquor

U.S. Coast Bootlegging and 12-Mile Limit Problem.

London, Oct. 26.—(Canadian Press.)—The question of bootlegging in the American coast will shortly come before a committee of the Imperial Conference on which Premier Mackenzie-King will represent Canada. The problem arises from the United States Government's request that it shall be permitted to have the right to search British vessels within a 12-mile limit instead of the present three-mile limit along the shores of the United States.

Great Britain so far has declined to accede to the request, but has promised to submit the question to the Imperial Conference for consideration. At present there seems little likelihood that the British Government has departed from its attitude of refusal, but the whole matter, however, will be threshed out in committee before a final decision is reached.

"CHICK" BANKRUPT BUT COMING BACK.

Famous Golfer to Fyfe Voluntary Petition—Due to Speculation.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—Charles (Chick) Evans, one of the greatest golfers in the United States, is bankrupt. A voluntary petition in bankruptcy showing liabilities of $200,000 and assets of $50,000 is about to be filed, he said. Less than three years ago Evans had a fortune of about $1,000,000 he said. That was lost and now another loss of $150,000 brings his total financial failure to $310,000. He declared his losses were due to speculation.
"Guess I'll have to play another 18 holes," he said, "I'm taking a long stand anyhow," and he spoke through a ghost of the old confident smile for which he is famous. He admitted defeat and said he would face it as he occasionally had to face it on the links.
"All I have left are my friends and my golf clubs and with the help of both I'm coming back," Chick said.

The Explanation of the 12-Mile Limit Concession

U.S. PROPOSAL TO BE ACCEPTED—AMERICAN CONCESSION TO FOREIGN SHIPPING.

(News of the World, Oct. 14.)

The American Government wants Great Britain and other countries to permit U.S. Customs Officers to board and search ships within 12 miles of the coast in order that the importation of liquor may be stopped or checked. Hitherto, this right to search has been limited to a 3-mile belt. The changes are the British Government will agree to this request, although with some reticence. Canada has its own mercantile marine, flying its own flag, and the Canadians have no objection to the extension of the three-mile limit to 12 miles for the specific purpose of checking smuggling. It is to the interest of British and Canadian shipping, other than that small fraction engaged in smuggling liquor, to agree to this change. Here is the reason. The American Government intends to pass a law in the coming session of Congress permitting foreign vessels to bring liquor under seal into American ports. This law will, therefore, revoke the decision of the Supreme Court of the U.S., which recently decided that the prohibition law included the prohibition of bringing liquor into American ports even under seal and for use on board ships only. At the moment most of the liquor smuggled into the U.S. comes in British or Canadian ships that lie at anchor outside the three-mile limit and unload their cargoes into motor launches under the very noses of the customs officers. The American Congress presumably will never pass the amending law above referred to, unless the search limit is extended to 12 miles. As the greater part of the shipping that enters the Republic is either British or Canadian, it is to the interest of that shipping to have the right to carry liquor. This is especially true, as Congress will certainly not allow American ships to carry liquor under any conditions. The Navy and the mercantile marine of the U.S.A. are bone dry already, and will remain dry.

The Call

By GEO. ALLAN ENGLAND.
Clipped from the Tonopah Times which says:

(Mr. England, one of the foremost magazine writers in the United States and author of the sailing stories appearing in the Saturday Evening Post of recent dates, wrote the following poem expressly for the Tonopah Daily Times. Mr. England has made a life study of the habits of seals in northern waters and is a recognized authority on seal life.)
(Thus rejoiceth the Newfoundland Sealer.)

'Tis a long road, an' a' cruel,
Yes, I know,
I'm a wonderful stunner fool,
Even so,
But the storms of spring in snowin',
All the sales of March-month blowin',
Look ye how the sealers goin',
Let me go!

Hey for skin-boots, fensin'-knits,
Best an' best!
Goodness-trap-line kids an' wife,
Cove an' tilt!
Harp's an' hoods is all a-whelpin',
Hark them whiter-jackets yelpin',
O, my yeas for scalpin'!
Let me peit!
Blue sea-chest an' sallow jacket,
Blood-hot eyes!
Off again, the hard ole racket

With the 'X's!
In the white jam's groanin' jumble,
Where the bergs an' growlers grumble
Black ship, how ye crash an' tumble!
Seals, the price!
Money! Nerr bit I'll be gainin', Bless ye, nay!
'Twill be snowin', freasin', rainin',
Night-an' day,
Fish-an'-birds will be me eatin',
Scouse an' duff, an' I'll be greetin',
Death, mayhaps, a-northward beatin',
Sull, away.

Soon I'll use on frozen pan,
Rope an' snaf,
With them other men, a man,
Haul me draf.
See them belamers a-fallin',
Hear them hoods an' harps a-callin',
Don't ye mist them whitecoats dawlin'!
Let me laugh!

Mack an' gurry, stinkin' dungoon,
All aboard!
Cold an' hunger, an' a skungeon,
To the Nord!
Hey, me heart is hot-an' willin',
No, what seals is mine, for killin',
Blood! What blood-I'll soon be spill-in'!
—Comin', Lord!

(Notes:—Tilt, a Newfoundland hut; harps and hoods, two principal species of Newfoundland seals; whiter-jackets or whitecoats, seals, young seals; scalpin', skinning; fish-and-brawie, food with boiled hard-lack; draft, load; belamers, old seal; dungoon, hold; skungeon, unclean tub.)

"Main Street" Monday's Greatest Attraction

WILL BE SHOWN AT THE NICKEL THEATRE.

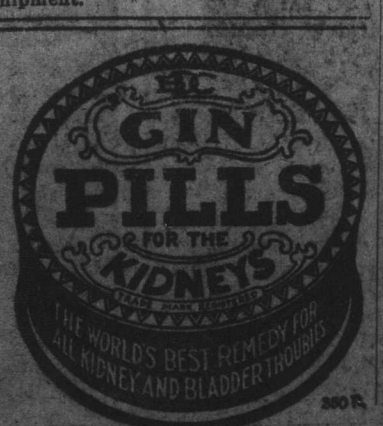

The above is a scene from the greatest picture shown for some time, "Main Street," which is to be seen at the Nickel commencing Monday. This is the picture "New York" paid $200 a seat to see, and we can see it at this theatre on Monday for the small admission of 30 cents. Everybody in St. John's will take in this attraction.

Extraordinary added attraction at the Nickel, the Prince's Orchestra and Sinclair Lewis' Main Street, Monday and Tuesday—A Great Show.—oct27,21

14-Year-Old Boy Saves LIVES OF THREE CHILDREN IN FIRE AT STELLARTON.

NEW GLASGOW, N.S., Oct. 26.—Last night at Stellarton three young children had a narrow escape from being trapped in a burning building when one of the double houses belonging to the Coal Company caught fire. The house on Bridge Street caught fire from papers behind the stove the flames spread so rapidly that it was with the greatest difficulty that the three young children, asleep upstairs, were rescued, but not before they were slightly burned.

14-year-old brother pluckily went upstairs through the flames and carried the youngsters down, being quite badly burned as a result. The fire was a difficult one to fight, and one of the Stellarton firemen, named E. C. MacDonald, was overcome by the smoke and it was only with difficulty that he was revived at the office of Dr. Wainman. The house was occupied by Angus Martin, his married son living in one section of the building. The furniture and contents were a total loss.

Rosalind's Sailing

The sailing of S.S. Rosalind has been delayed for several hours to the inclement weather and the discharge and loading of cargo. The ship is taking a large ward freight of herring, codfish and berries and sails about 9 p.m.

As Others See Us

And as we see Ourselves.

(BY OBSERVER.)
Somebody or other, whatever he has tried, with the theory's first-rate, the facts won't coincide.

As we step across the narrow line that divides politics from religion, we observe that the Church Congress has revealed churches of widely divergent searching with a commendable earnestness for the moral and spiritual, and, indeed, attends upon some very strange doctors in quest of them: In many walks of life the standards of Christian stirring are more diffused than they have ever been.

The other evening an esteemed friend of barely 70 summers called to see me and, when leaving, remarked that he felt the weight of his years and dreaded the approach of another long and stormy winter. "How unreasonable," I replied, "for a well-preserved man like you to talk in that way. Judging from your appearance, you are only in your prime." Some of the most useful men in the world today are as old as you are, and still look forward to years of active service.

There are already signs that, even in the Old Country, parties have lost their original outlines, that they are degenerating into factions, and forget
the interest of the Empire in the mutual amosities and personal interests. In the colonies or dominions there are no natural parties at all; they have to be created artificially; and it is likely that, if left to themselves, some of the larger dominions would have preferred a government on the model of the Lancashire, where a president is chosen directly by the people for a period of years. In the president rests the supreme executive authority. He chooses his own ministers; he is responsible
to the nation, and not to congress;
his cabinet is not liable to be displaced by factious combinations; and for his term of office he is able to follow some consistent and rational policy.

In the dominions governments have hitherto been chosen with inconsiderate rapidity. It is possible that weary of intrigues and jobs and other phenomena of the colonial system, this or that dominion may conclude that the American plan is preferable, that its affairs would be more wisely and more economically conducted if, too, might elect its own chief,
deliver him from the hands of the legislative Philistines, and give him power independent of them. Such a power as this, of course, could never be given to a governor appointed by the Imperial government. A chief minister elected directly by the people would be as the people's minister and not the governor's, as in fiction he is still supposed to be, and the governor would in that case become a superfluous
people would be as much a representative of the sovereign as a governor appointed by an English minister.
There would be no change of nationality unless the people demanded a change, and if they did demand it an official nominee from Downing Street would not long remain an obstacle.
You do not alienate men by allow-

"Beyond the poet's sweet dream lives
The eternal spirit of the man.
He wakes in who only lives.
True to himself, the best he can;
Who, drifting in the winds of chance,
The inward monitor obeys;
And when the holdfasts that contain
His conscience sever."

"This is a democratic age," said the leader of the Opposition (Mr. Higgins) in the course of one of his stirring speeches at the House of Assembly last session. Ex-President Wilson tells us we must "make the world safe for democracy." Now, how does this question of all seems to be now no more thought of in the United States, the cradle of modern democracy, than it is thought of here. Americans and "Britishers" alike talk of their and our "greatness." Do we clearly know in what a country's greatness consists?
Most of us know from experience that whether it be great or little depends entirely on the sort of man and we mean that it is producing. A sound nation is a nation that is composed of sound human beings, healthy in body, strong in limb, true in word and deed — brave, sober, temperate, to whom political morality is of more importance than wealth or knowledge—where duty is first and the rights of man are second—where in short men grow up and live and work, having in them what our ancestors called "the fear of God."

It is to form a character like the foregoing kind that human beings are sent into this world, and those countries who succeed in doing it are those who have made their mark in history.

They are Nature's real freemen, and give to man's existence on this planet its real interest and value. Therefore all wise statesmen look first, in the ordering of their public affairs, to the effect which is being produced on character, and institutions, callings, occupations, habits and methods of political and social life are measured and estimated first, and beyond every other consideration, by this test. The commonwealth is the common health, the common wellness. No country, not even a little colony like our own, can prosper long which attaches to its wealth any other meaning; yet, as Aristotle observed long ago, in democracies this is always forgotten. They do not deny it in words, but they assume that political liberty, once secured, all else that is good will follow of itself. Virtue is a matter of course.

Make men politically equal, says James Anthony Froude, and they cannot fail to be virtuous. "Virtue is obligation; obligation is binding; and men who choose to be free in the modern sense do not like to be bound.
They are emancipated from human authority. They do not re-impose the chains upon their own limbs. Each of them henceforth attends to his own interests. That is, he gets as much pleasure as the money will buy for him; and when he has lost the habits which he has inherited from an older and severer training and is brought to the moral level which corresponds to his new state of liberty, the soul dies out of him; he forgets that he ever had a soul! Nevertheless, outside his politics and his political administration, when his personal interests are not affected, he is the kindest of all animals."

However, the Imperial authorities have bestowed on us parliamentary institutions formed after their own model. But it does not follow that this particular form of government is the best for all times and all countries.
The British constitution, with its two parties, alternately taking the helm, has grown out of national circumstances. It has been a contrivance for conducting peacefully the transition from the feudal England of the Plantagenets to the England of liberty and equality. For better and worse it has answered that purpose, and may for a time continue to answer it. But beyond the English of equality there may be further changes. Nothing in this world reaches its final shape till it dies; and England is not dead.

There are already signs that, even
in the Old Country, parties have lost their original outlines, that they are degenerating into factions, and forget
the interest of the Empire in the mutual amosities and personal interests. In the colonies
or dominions there are no natural
parties at all; they have to be created artificially; and it is likely that, if
dominions would have preferred a government on the model of the Lancashire, where a president is chosen directly by the people for a period of

supreme executive authority. He chooses
his own ministers; he is responsible
to the nation, and not to congress;

G. KNOWLING, Limited

My Aunt Matilda lately died, and went to regions sunny, and in her will she specified that I should have her money. It was a hum ble little roll of bills and precious metal, some kopecks hidden in a bowl some rubles in a kettle. The agents gathered at my door before my aunt was planted, and of the goods they had in store they hammered and they ranted. Oh, there were men with patent banks, and men with nutmeg graters, and eloquence in solid chunks came booming from their crackers. And there were salesmen boasting 'land' from which the oil was gushing, and gents with subdivisions grand across my lawn came rushing. Solicitors, with eager paws for every graft invented, boosters? Would I not help to build, Would I not send the Eskimos some modern ice cream freezers? 'Alas,' I sighed, 'twas sorrow's cup I got from Aunt Matilda! I wish she'd burned her savings up, and not left me a guilder.'

THE EMPIRE

EXTENDS AN INVITATION TO THE UNITED STATES.

When five hundred millions of people express a wish with one voice, its meaning cannot be mistaken, and it is significant of the urgency of the request. In such a way was the invitation sent to America to take her place at the Council Table to consider with the other Powers a way out of the difficulty that is delaying the peaceful settlement of Europe, and America was not tardy in recognizing that no refusal was possible.

The entry of the United States into the war came at a moment when the situation was critical in the extreme, and the moral effect upon the enemy of her siding with the Allies helped as much to bring about the final collapse, as did her unlimited supply of men and money. Her decision now to sit at the Conference with her Allies will go far to make Germany realize that the time has come to put all her cards on the table, and to reveal fully her ability to meet her obligations.

The warning issued to France by the British Prime Minister in his speech on Thursday last, when he addressed the delegates of the Conservative Party has had its effect, and that country has agreed to the proposal that an International conference of experts shall be called by the Reparations Commission to consider the problem. It is impossible to imagine what other attitude she could have adopted in view of the unanimity of the other nations, unless she wished to place herself outside the pale altogether.

There is hope at last of a solution of the vexed question which has for so long kept Europe in a state of turmoil, and which has prevented the countries of the world from resuming their normal activities. The presence at the Conference of representatives from the United States, which is unaffected to a great extent by the political aspects of the situation, should result in the arrival by the Conference at a fair and reasonable decision at an early date.

Fined for Failing to File Income Tax Returns

The proprietor of a well known garage was fined $10 by Judge Morris to-day for failing to file his income returns to the collector. The garage man failed to answer a summons to appear in court to-day at 10.30 and the Judge ordered that a warrant for his arrest be issued. After the proceedings of court were over he turned up with a solicitor and the above fine was imposed.

Three other cases about the tax returns were called on and were settled on paying costs and the others were postponed. Mr. R. Cramm appeared for the Attorney General.

Hurried Visit to Port Union

Hon. Dr. Barnes, Minister of Education and Hon. W. W. Hallyard, Colonial Secretary, left by the S.S. Meigle this morning for Port Union. Many conflicting rumors were heard on the street to-day as to their sudden departure.

National Biscuit Company

HOLDING BIG DEMONSTRATION AT THE STAR MOVIE. Mr. George Bayerle, export agent of the N.B.C. exhibited in town by Rosalind on Thursday in conjunction with the film that is to be screened at the Star Theatre on Monday next, and we understand that during the show some 2000 or more samples will be distributed absolutely free with the compliments of the "Uneeda Bakers."

Next week Mr. Bayerle, the representative of the Company, and Mr. Leo A. Duffy will cover the city and that the report of the Newfoundland Agency will be satisfactory, goes without saying.

We wish the Company and their Agents the best of luck, and congratulate them on the remarkable sales with which the "Uneeda products" are meeting in this dominion.

Lloyd George's Means

The Ottawa Journal says that Mr. Lloyd George is not penniless. He receives the Carnegie pension of $10,000 a year. From his literary contracts he has, it is carefully estimated, made $180,000 already and his future output under contract assures him $6.50 a word, with a share in the excess profits. As a solicitor he has a small income, estimated at $1,800 a year. His son, Major Lloyd George, married a daughter of Sir Robert McAlpine, an enormously wealthy general contractor. All things considered, Mr. Lloyd George is a man of comfortable means.—Morning Chronicle.

Personal

Mr. A. S. Butler and Capt. V. S. Bennett are taking passage by the Digby to-day for England.

Miss Eileen Squires left by the Rosalind to-day for Boston.

Mr. W. C. Job, who has been here on a short business trip, returns to England by the Digby, sailing Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Maher left by the Rosalind to-day en route to Philadelphia, where they will remain during the winter months.

Amongst the passengers who left by the Rosalind to-day, was Mr. James Kieley, late of the Anglo Telegraph Co., who is en route to California, where he intends to reside in future. Mr. Kieley will be missed from the athletic arena. He figured prominently in high jumping, having won 20' cent's, including the use of the galleries.

Mr. H. J. Russell, General Manager Railway, is at present making a brief visit along the Placentia line, and is expected to arrive in the city to-night.

Magistrate's Court

Const. John Walsh summoned a resident of Georgetown into court this morning for being drunk and acting in a disorderly manner on the public street in the early hours of the morning of the 1st, inst. The Constable found accused in an intoxicated condition trying to beat-down a neighbor's door in the residence adjoining. The officer ordered the accused away and left him in the care of a companion. The accused denied all knowledge of the charge and a fine of $2 or 7 days was imposed. A second charge was laid against the accused by a woman who declared she had been forcibly dragged from her house by the prisoner who injured her and used most abusive language. The woman managed to beat off her man and was attacked by a second ruffian who was also summoned by the complainant. The Judge administered a sound lecture to both scamps before passing sentence. The prisoner accused of assault was fined $50 or 30 days, while the second abusive language was fined $10 or 20 days.

Appeal Hearing on Thursday

Mr. Joseph Burnstein's appeal from the judgement of Judge Morris will come up for hearing in the Supreme Court on Thursday next. Burnstein was fined $300 for a breach of the Prohibition Act.

The sympathy of the whole world has gone out to afflicted Japan, and it is expected that the response to the appeal for funds the contribution here, as elsewhere, will be generous.

British Empire Exhibition

AWARDS. The British Empire Exhibition 1924 will offer a unique opportunity to manufacturers to sell their products in other parts of the world than Newfoundland, and to show how these products compare to those of other countries.

Although the primary object of the Exhibition is to encourage trade within the Empire, it is certain that prospective buyers from practically every country outside the Empire will be there. Such an opportunity for the display of what Newfoundland has to offer has never before occurred.

In connection with the Exhibition there will be the following awards:—Grand Prize Gold Medal Silver Medal Bronze Medal Honourable Mention.

These diplomas will be given by juries of experts, on which the whole Empire will be represented according to the extent of the share taken by each part in the Exhibition.

The Secretary of the local Committee has a catalogue of exhibits and is able to answer any enquiry of those interested concerning the classification of exhibits. No one can fail to appreciate the value to his business that an award would be. It would place the Hall Mark of Quality on the product for which the diploma is awarded, and this Hall Mark which would be known to prospective buyers throughout the world, would give additional selling power to that product. It is understood that several of our local manufacturers intend to display their goods at Wembley next year, and there is every reason to believe that Newfoundland will share in the distribution of awards.

Imperial Fisheries

Since the Great National Exhibition in 1883 no attempt has been made to demonstrate the important part which the Fishing Industry plays in regard to our food supplies. The Imperial Fisheries section of the British Empire Exhibition will show the nutrient value of Fish as food, the cheapness of Fish compared with meat, and the resources which the Empire possesses, the development of which would tend to lower prices and to decrease unemployment.

Models of the principal types of Fishing Vessels will be shown in their various methods of propulsion—Steam, Internal Combustion or Sailing—together with the different kinds of gear used in deep-sea and shore fishing. There will be records of Scientific Research in fishing matters, and exhibits devoted to industrial processes in connection with Fish, such as the Pickling, Kippering, and Smoking of Herring, the canning of Herrings, Salmon, Lobsters, etc., and the manufacture of by-products, such as Fish-meal, Fish-oil, and Fish-leather.

New Pastor at St. Joseph's Church

Antigonish, N.S., Oct. 19.—Rev. Fr. MacNeil, who has been lately appointed to take charge of the parish of St. Joseph's, Antigonish County, leaves behind him at Georgetownville a congregation which will long remember him as a kind, gentle pastor of souls, ever with a tender sympathy for the sorrowing and suffering. Father MacNeil is one of those good leaders of men, who go about thinking and doing rather than saying.

Rev. Roderick MacNeil is the son of Hon. John MacNeil and Catherine Beaton. He was born in Mabou in 1865, educated at the common school there, and at St. F. X. College, and finished his studies at the Grand Seminary, Montreal. After his dedication, about thirty years ago, he was appointed to the parish of Iona, C.B. From there he was sent to Grand Mira, and in the year 1896 his cousin the present Archbishop of Toronto, being consecrated Vicar Apostolic of St. George's, Newfoundland, he went with him as assistant, during which he has often attended sick calls which required so much exertion that it has become a well known fact throughout the whole of the American continent.

When Bishop MacNeil was appointed to Vancouver diocese Father MacNeil remained as assistant to Dr. Ronald Macdonald, then pastor of St. Michael's, East Margaree. Six years ago he was appointed pastor of Georgetownville, where the same gentle zeal for souls and energy in attending to difficult parochial duties have been exercised by him.—Morning Chronicle.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES

BERNIER TO LEAD ANOTHER POLAR EXPEDITION. QUEBEC, Oct. 27. A new expedition to the polar regions will be undertaken in the course of next summer by Capt. J. E. Bernier who has already made more than ten voyages in those regions. The ships Franklin and Arctic will be used on the expedition. It is stated he will attempt to go through the northwest passage.

LEAGUE WELCOMES THE HOLDING OF A CONFERENCE. GENEVA, Oct. 27. The proposal to hold the conference on reparations is heartily favoured in the League of Nations circles. Indirectly but warmly the proposal was strongly supported at yesterday's session of the International Labor Conference where emphasis was laid on the urgency of remedial economic measures for Europe if mankind is to be saved from annihilation.

PRINCE OF WALES WELCOMED AT DUNDEE. LONDON, Oct. 27. The Prince of Wales received a remarkable welcome at Dundee yesterday and was charmed by the spectacle of 36,000 children cheering and waving flags. The Prince recognized a local resident who had repaired his car in France and told him the same car was afterwards smashed by a shell and the driver killed, when the Prince was only two or three hundred yards away.

KRUPP WORKS SEIZED BY MOB. LONDON, Oct. 27. Mobs of unemployed seized the Krupp Works at Essen yesterday, and barricaded themselves in the main building, says a despatch to the Daily Express from Essen. At least seven persons were killed and a hundred wounded in the desperate fight with the Blue Police.

STEINMETZ TO BE INTERRED IN VALE CEMETERY. SCHENECTADY, Oct. 27. The body of Dr. Charles Proteus Steinmetz, inventor, scientist, and electrical wizard, who died in his hospital yesterday morning, of heart failure, will be in state to-day for public view. Monday afternoon after the private funeral services the body will be interred in Vale Cemetery in the heart of the city.

COLUMBIA REACHES HALIFAX IN LESS THAN 41 HOURS. HALIFAX, Oct. 27. Less than forty-one hours from the red buoy in Gloucester harbor to the outer reaches of Halifax Harbour where she dropped anchor at 2.45 this morning, the Gloucester fishing schooner Columbia sailed by Capt. Ben Pine arrived without a mishap at the scene of her struggle to wrest the fleet championship of all fishing vessels from the Canadian champion Bluenose, twice winner of the International Cup. Light winds waited the fleet Gloucesterman down from her home port, but according to her crew the Columbia behaved beautifully and added strength to their loyal belief that their craft will carry home the silver trophy. At twelve minutes past three Thursday morning the Columbia passed out by the red buoy in Gloucester Harbor, according to Mate Langworth, and at two forty-five this morning she had dropped anchor in the outer basin of Halifax. Fr. She previously carried a crew of 20 men, composed of Gloucestermen, Nova Scotians and Newfoundlanders principally, but all Gloucestermen on this occasion.

Correspondence

Between GOVERNMENT AND UNITED FISHERMEN.

...to inform you that the resolution dealing with a bounty on codfish and the price of labor, submitted by you as a chairman of the delegation which interviewed the Honorable Government yesterday, have been given the most serious consideration.

The desire expressed in the said resolutions, that the Government grant to those engaged in the present year's fishery operations a bounty sufficient to keep them from being a charge on the Colony during the coming winter, as well as being a means of encouragement for them to remain in the industry.

Yours faithfully,
W. W. HALFYARD,
Colonial Secretary.

CAPT. WINSON'S REPLY.

...have acknowledged yours of the 1st inst.
In reply I am asked to say that we are very disappointed at the attitude taken by the Government, particularly with reference to our demand for bounty on fish. Whilst agreeing that this is a matter of "outstanding economic and financial importance," we have to respectfully submit that matters of equal importance in these sections have been dealt with by Executive Government without delaying the opening of the Legislature. We are of the opinion that a decision on this matter should be reached by the Government in sufficient time to enable those who ordinarily engage in the fishery to decide whether they will continue at the work, judging by the history of the past few years the opening of the session will be too late for our purpose.

Yours respectfully,
(Sgd.) JESSE WINSON,
Colonial Secretary,
St. John's, N.F.

Queer Finds in Fish

...that Old Swallowd a Love-Letter.
...that old wedding ring has been found
...a scallop dredged up off Weymouth. How it got there is beyond
...but there it was, badly dis-
...with no mark or sign to ...whose finger it had ever adorn-

...There is scarcely a fisherman who ...does not tell of some strange find made
...while cleaning his catch. A worthless
...right caught a codling two and a half
...pounds in weight, and found inside it
...a ring in which was set an ex-
...remely good diamond.

...They are greedy, and will swallow ...anything bright. A woman living at ...St. John's, in Berwickshire, bought
...one of these fish from an Eyemouth
...dealer and discovered inside it a ...small enamel brooch with lettering and ...number. She advertised it, and it ...was found to belong to an Edinburgh
...woman whose daughter had lost it at
...St. John's, in Pife.

...A Taste for Sovereigns.
...Whenever a shark is caught it is ...always cut open to see what is inside.
...A shark caught in March, 1922, off the ...strand of Mauritius had inside it a
...gold, a goat, and a regular museum
...of bones.

...Another small shark taken off the ...North American coast was found to ...contain a hand-bag in which were four ...British sovereigns, six shillings, four
...United States dollars, a diamond ring,
...and a love-letter.

...The most amazing of all such finds
...was made in October, 1915. It was be...lieved that Germans in the United ...States had chartered vessels to sup...ply the German submarines; but "it
...was some time before proof could be ...obtained."

...When some Brazilians caught a shark
...off Pernambuco and, opening it, found
...inside a bag containing the papers of a ...steamer named Maria Quezada,
...which had sailed from the American
...port of Newport News. These papers
...proved beyond doubt that this vessel
...had been chartered for the purpose of ...supplying German submarines.

Our Dumb Animals.

REPORT OF THE CHIEF AGENT FOR WEEK ENDING OCT. 26th.

I attended to the landing of 23 head of cattle from the Sabie I., and all the beasts were in excellent condition. Also I saw to the landing of 83 head cattle which came in during the week by train. Everything was handled in a very satisfactory way. I attended to the shipping of a horse which was going to Bermuda, and called to humanely put to death two dogs; one on Forest Road, a very valuable setter, had received some injury about the shoulder; another one for a resident of Mundy Pond Road who paid a yearly subscription to the Society. I have also received several complaints from different people about lame horses being driven on Water Street. Some have a shell-bone, others have splints, and others have spavins, for which there does not seem to be a remedy. One will find a horse limp on Water St. which will not limp on Duckworth St. Many of these horses are owned by big firms and are in the hands of Veterinary Surgeons, but some 5 or 6 horses are not laid aside. I would now like to call the attention of shippers of cattle to the Act which says that after Oct. 31st to May 1st, inclusive no animal shall be carried on the deck of any ship or vessel out of this colony. Persons not complying with this rule are liable to a fine of fifty dollars for every animal so carried. All owners of horses are requested to keep them in a stable at night time. Many cow owners have already started keeping cows stabled at night as the weather is cold and pasture exhausted. As the water trough has been removed from the Beach it will be necessary to have it erected again on Water Street, at the foot of the hill. Water for working horses is badly needed in this vicinity on account of all the trucking from steamers at the East End wharves. Will the City Councilors kindly see that this is carried out and receive the thanks of horse owners and the silent appreciation of the animals.

"I will try to be kind to all living creatures and try to protect them from cruel usage," is the pledge of the Band of Mercy.

Cats Should be Kept in the House at Night.

They not only need shelter, but they should not be allowed to annoy the neighbors. In the country, at the time when birds are rearing their young it is especially important to keep cats in at night, as it is in the early morning hours that the birds are caught by them. Some watchfulness is needed in the day, also, at this time, if we would preserve the lives of our useful friends, the birds.

To prevent too much increase it is well to have all but one of the kittens of every litter put to death humanely before their eyes are open. Complete immersion in warm, not hot water for a half hour will end their lives without suffering. Place a weight in bag with kittens. Grown persons, not children, should do this. Kindness to animals is capital, well invested and pays the farmer, indolent and cents. If possible always have the same person milk a cow, and let it be one who is naturally kind and who inspires the cow with confidence, so that if she moves or butts the milker to any inconvenience she will not expect punishment. It is better to feed before milking, than the cow will stand quietly and give her whole attention to the operation. Horses and cows will enjoy better health and do better work if they are well groomed every day. To run a cow to pasture is cruel. The milk of a frightened or abused cow is poisonous. Discourage the use of blinders as they cause much suffering to animals forced to wear them. Weakness of vision and blindness are often caused by the use of blinders. Ornaments on the head-harness near the eyes are also harmful.

Observe "Be Kind to Animals Week," April 9-14, and "Rugby Sunday," April 15.

JONAS BARTER, Chief Agent.

Promenade Concert

Upwards of five hundred people attended the Promenade Band Concert under the auspices of the C.C.C. Band in the Prince's Rink last night. The musical programme consisted of dance numbers, which were joined in by the entire gathering and thoroughly enjoyed themselves. The decorations left up by the Mt. Cashel Silver Jubilee Committee presented a pretty appearance.

The Royal Stores, Ltd.

Have you noticed the specks of dust which show when the sun shines in through your window?

These specks or motes ARE DISEASE BEARERS, many of them are living germs, which come from the cesspools and drains.

IF THERE ARE SO MANY IN YOUR HOME, HOW MANY ARE THERE IN A BUSY, MUCH FREQUENTED SHOP?

These motes get into open sugar barrels, but they cannot get into a package of LANTIC SUGAR.

Consequently LANTIC SUGAR in full weight packages is CLEAN and free from disease bearing dust.

This is why people who are particular prefer to buy LANTIC SUGAR in dustproof, flyproof, full weight packages.

LANTIC SUGAR in packages costs only ONE HALF CENT per pound more than sugar out of a barrel.

The extra cost for 12 months may amount to 2 or 3 dollars, but what does a week's illness cost?

LANTIC SUGAR is sold in the better class shops in 2 pound packages for 23 cents and in 5 pound packages for 57 cents.

A Night With the Lions

Major A. Radcliffe Dugmore, F. R. G. S., who has been after big game with a camera in Africa, relates the following adventure in World Wide: It was after a long spell of disappointment that I set out, one glorious May morning, for the hills river, in which neighborhood lions, I had heard, were fairly numerous. On our way we happened to spot some vultures in a tree—a sign of the presence, more often than not, of meat, most likely a lion's kill. Hastening ahead, I searched for the kill, but for an hour could find nothing of the kind.

Finally one of the "boys" came up and, aided by a keen sense of smell, located "blood" in some grass not far away. The trail led us to a bank at the foot of which was the dry bed of a stream. Here we found the remains of a partly eaten harebeest, which had undoubtedly been killed by a lion.

From the point of view of getting flashlight pictures, which were what I was after, no position could have been more suitable. The background provided by the bank was excellent, while some overhanging trees made a splendid place for the erection of a "hide-up." This was accordingly built, three cameras being placed in different positions, so that photographs could be got from three totally different angles.

At six o'clock that night I had a hurried meal, after which I crawled into the "hide-up," carefully closing the opening through which we entered with the lopped branches of a tree. Half an hour later, dusk having fallen, a slight sound came to our ears from outside the "hide-up," and presently we were able to distinguish a shadowy form making its way cautiously through the grass.

Eyes Glimed Like Diamonds. By way of making sure that the kill had not been dragged away without our knowledge, I presently switched on my little electric pocket lamp. Three lions there were, sure enough, but only one was close enough to photograph satisfactorily. In the light of the lamp the animal's eyes glimmed like diamonds—a really striking revelation, which for the moment gripped me intensely and left me unwilling to disturb the magnificent creature. However, it was evident that the lion was on the qui vive, so I pressed the button, and with a blinding flash the pictures were taken.

Our next task was to re-set the cameras and the flashlight. Both—and myself went out, crawling back to the shelter with feelings of relief when the job had been done. An hour later a fine lioness appeared on the bank, and slowly made her way towards the kill. When she was within a dozen yards of us I pressed the button again.

Going out to re-set the cameras was more unnerving this time than before. For one thing, the night now seemed pitch dark, while for another the roaring of several lions came from the bush; evidently our flashlight did no more than frighten them momentarily. Hardly had we got settled in the "hide-up" again than growls came from quite near, while the sound of crunching reached our ears. There is something more than mere uncertainty in hearing these sounds on a dark night and not knowing exactly whence they come. Both of us, after a while, found the continuous growling quite unnerving.

Uncommon Sense

(By JOHN BLAKE.)

WANTED: ABILITY.

During a coal shortage fuel prices go up. The man who is lucky enough to own a coal mine makes money. In a crop shortage the farmer gets bigger prices for his wheat if he has the wheat.

A shortage of any necessity means a sure rising market for it. Luckily for the man of ability, there is always a shortage of ability. A newspaper editor said to me a few days ago:

"I have ten good paying positions I could fill to-morrow if I could find the men who could do the work. I can get plenty of men for the ordinary jobs. But I can't get the right men for those ten places."

Any employer of large numbers of men will tell you the same thing. More than twenty-five years ago Edward Bok, retired editor of a great magazine, pointed out that there were more empty general managers' chairs than subordinate places in industry. Business has grown mightily since that time. Every effort has been made to train men for big jobs. But the same condition still exists.

During the wheat shortage caused by the war the highly intelligent farmer who had studied and introduced modern methods reaped the biggest profits.

Unlike wheat, ability cannot be grown in a season.

Yet in the ever-continuing ability shortage, it is the man of ability who gets the rewards.

This crop is of slow growth. It must be started when a person is seventeen or eighteen year old. It will not be ready for full harvest till he is forty or fifty.

Ability does not mean genius or even very great talent. These are so unusual as not to be worth considering by every-day people such as ourselves.

Ability does mean unflagging purpose and endless industry.

The self-discipline and eagerness to get out of a job all that there is in it, which constitutes ability, are not native to anybody. They must be cultivated, and cultivated intensively.

There will be many shortages in the next few years which will bring profit to those who happen to have a big supply of the commodity that is short. But what that commodity may be cannot be foretold.

We know, however, that the ability shortage will always continue.

And if we begin now, and keep trying, we may be reasonably sure to have a supply of it on hand at the time when it is bringing the very highest price in money and comfort and all that the world has to bestow.

reflect that perhaps after all wild animals' photograph was rather a foolish sort of game.

Once more I pressed the button, and again the flash went off, this time so loudly that both of us, our nerves on edge, jumped perceptibly. The lion, however, did not rush out of sight, but merely slunk away, obviously enraged at being cheated of their meal.

With fear and trembling we ventured out into the open again to re-set the cameras, the roaring of many lions seeming almost to shake the ground as we walked. Never do I remember a more awe-inspiring or eerie night than this, and there were no more thankful men in all Africa than we when at last dawn began to streak the sky and we made our way back to camp.

Report of Motor Association Secretary

PER CAPITA GRANT FOR CITY.

The Newfoundland Motor Association wound up its season's business yesterday afternoon, when the final general meeting was held in the Board of Trade Rooms. President E. R. Watson presided, and there was a very large attendance of members. After the usual routine matters had been disposed of it was decided that the Government be written, stating the Association is amazed at the disparity between the amount received for the repairs of the city streets which amounts to $6,800 and that which should be received under a per capita grant which is $70,000. This matter will also be brought before the members for St. John's East and West. The master of an insurance scheme for cars is to be gone into. The proposed annual dinner has been dropped owing to lack of interest and support from members.

The Association decided to approach the members for Ferryland, and Placentia and St. Mary's re the opening of fifteen miles of road from Ferryland Cove South, to Cappahayden, thereby making a good run to Trepanner.

A letter was read from the Imperial Oil Company stating the matter of supplying better gasoline was being taken up with the head office. The Association is now taking up the matter of price with the Company.

Mr. T. Soper of the Road Commission made the following report in connection with the activities of that body:

MR. SOPER'S REPORT. Mr. President: Having given a detailed report of the activities of the Road Commission at the regular weekly meetings, it is not my purpose to delay this meeting with any lengthy report, contenting myself with giving an outline of the work as undertaken by your Committee in active co-operation with the Road Commission.

Members are already aware that the functions of the Road Commission extend over all main roads on the Peninsula of Avalon. Our activities, however, have been confined more or less to the roads in the immediate vicinity of St. John's, with the one exception of the work being carried on on the main line from St. John's to Carbonear.

The big effort of the Commission during the present season was to complete the work started on Seal Cove line last year, and I have to report that this work has been finished as far as Holyrood.

As the season advanced, it became evident to the Commission that if our work was to continue, it would be advisable to secure the active co-operation of the members of the various Districts; in this, we were particularly successful, so that the Road Commission immediately took on a larger view of the road repairing and rebuilding possibilities, and in this connection some considerable progress was made on the main line to Placentia; this drive is now possible. While considerable work remains to be done to make it pleasurable.

We also have to report that through the co-operation of the members in Ferryland, considerable progress has been made up on the Bay Bulls Road and a programme mapped out for next season's operations.

It will also interest members of the Association to know that our general foreman has made a survey of the roads through the Districts of Bay de Verde and South Side of Trinity Bay, and having secured the hearty co-operation of the representatives of these Districts, we look for very considerable improvement in road matters when next season's work starts.

While we are taking this further view of road repairing, we are not forgetting recommendation of this Association that combined effort be placed on the work which is necessary on the roads in the immediate vicinity of St. John's, namely: Pouch Cove, Broad Cove, Portuguese Cove, and we trust when next season's operations have been finalized to be able to report thorough rebuilding of all roads within a radius of twelve to fifteen miles of the city.

Waterford, Bridge Road, we are persuaded that some definite campaign carried on by both the Motor Association and Road Commission in co-operation with the Government through the Board of Works Departments will have to be undertaken so that this drive will be put in first class condition, and would strongly recommend that this Association begin now, so that this work can be started immediately spring opens.

Before closing, permit me to go on record in appreciation of the assistance given by the various members of the Road Committee, District Road Inspectors, as well as the representatives of the several districts through which our programme has been carried out.

On behalf of the Road Committee, THOMAS SOPER.

The Motor Association, as in previous years, has rendered excellent service this season, and many matters pertaining to road affairs, and spheres of interest to motorists in general were cleared up. President Watson and his energetic Secretary, Coun-

Mr. Tesori Makes a Wonderful Hit

AT THE STAR MOVIE LAST NIGHT Without any disparagement to any singer who has yet appeared before our footlights, the applause that greeted Mr. Tesori in his rendition of On the Road to Mandalay was such as has never been heard in this city. It was deafening for fully five minutes, and goes to show the appreciation that St. John's audience can pay to such an accomplished artist as this gentleman is. In the double number Ritzi and Ritzi—well Favonette was there and in the language of the street gang.

As will be seen from the ad, the Management of this theatre has secured in newspaper parlance a scoop. Some time ago this paper exclusively stated that the Manufacturers of Urethra biscuits had entered after a close study of the moving picture business in Newfoundland—into an agreement with the Star Movie to exhibit a picture showing the manufacturing of their "high class product, but to-day the Star goes another step, and states that absolutely free, every patron on Monday will receive a package of these delicious biscuits. This in itself is an innovation in the movies, and goes to show how the Management are prepared at any cost to give their patrons all that can be obtained, and needless to say all roads, lanes, byways, and pathways lead to the Star Movie Monday.

And to our readers we would suggest be early and get yours.

For this Evening will dance Tarantula and Agnes Ayres will be seen in a super special Paramount production—Borderland, produced in eight parts. A story of love, romance and mystery.

Masonic Orchestra Entertained

Last night the Masonic Entertainment Committee showed their appreciation of the excellent work which had been done by the Orchestra by giving them an outing at Donovan's, where a "bird man" supper had been prepared by the management of that hotel in their usual intimate style. Needless to say full justice was done by all to the repast. "The King" having been proposed by the chairman, Mr. D. MacFarlane, a musical programme followed, consisting of songs and selections rendered by Messrs. A. Williams, F. Hughes, W. Tucker, Mr. D. MacFarlane, A. Ledingham, W. Horder, and E. Fox. The speeches were all in a happy vein, and the members of the Orchestra, under the baton of Mr. Ernest Fox, were the recipients of many flattering comments which fully indicated how much their great services were appreciated by the fraternity. The singing of Auld Lang Syne and the National Anthem brought a very pleasant evening to an end, and the party returned to town by motor.

What's the Use of Kicking When there's Nobody Within Reach Of Your Local Number Nines?

A GROUCH nourished within the breast at last biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder. Shake such a feeling, Friend, and shake it right early. Seek the cause of the irritation and have it removed promptly, or sooner.

But 'spose you have purchased a pair of cheap and pretty foreign boots that sulk on the job long before decent foot-wear would think of raising a squeak of protest? What if, early in the journey of life, they let out your toes into the light of day and expose your feet to the cold, cold ground? You get your mad up. Of course, of course. But, Cui Bono, or, in plain English, What's the use? You didn't get a return ticket with these boots. The retailer has your cash and is rather inclined to hang onto it. Anyway, he told you he was giving you a bargain and you mustn't look a gift horse in the mouth. The manufacturer chap is thousands of miles away and you can't even radio your wrath out on his head.

Besides, he sold his trashy stuff to the retailers at the price of trash and plainly stated that it was not and could not be guaranteed. So, there you are.

But, when you purchase local made boots and shoes, you pay your good money for good products backed by the guarantee of local manufacturers whom you can always locate very readily in the unlikely event of having a complaint to air. THE BOOT AND SHOE PRODUCTS OF NEWFOUNDLAND FACTORIES AND NEWFOUNDLAND WORKMEN ARE A SOURCE OF PRIDE TO THE LOCAL MANUFACTURER AND SHOULD BE BOOSTED BY THE LOCAL RETAIL TRADE AND PURCHASERS, FOR THEY STAND ON THEIR OWN MERITS.

The retail trade have been importing, at a total landed cost of $2.91, a boot which they sell at $4.50 per pair.

Local Manufacturers produce a boot which they sell at $4.10 per pair, and every pair of which they guarantee to outwear three pairs of the foreign article which is imported at a total landed cost of $2.91 per pair and is retailed at $4.50 per pair.

The retailer may not make so much profit off these local boots but the purchaser will find it far more profitable to wear them.

One fishing slipper unfolds a striking tale of rubber boots, which have been sold in competition with leather boots of local manufacture and which have been encouraged in that competition by low tariff rates.

A member of his crew purchased and wore out in one season three pairs of Rubber Fishing Boots which cost him a total of $20.00. One pair of local fishing boots, made of good, high-quality and dependable leather, would have cost him $8.00 and lasted him at least two seasons. He could have saved himself the tidy sum of $32.00 and at the same time would have had the satisfaction of helping along fellow workmen in another line of local industry.

Moral: Buy local boots and shoes, so that when the time for kicking comes you won't have to kick yourself. You won't have cause to kick, anyway.

The Herring Fishery

With the arrival of the herring packing season comes a little extra stir upon the waters. The movement of barrels, etc., entail considerable labour. Several packing firms are opening their stations this week. The North American Packing Company will operate three stations, as follows: Fernside Arm, Middle Arm, and Curling. This is a new company to operate here. It is reported that the Boat Company did not pack last year. One or two firms which packed last year will not engage in the industry this season, and some others of the old packers will operate on reduced scale. Prospects, however, for the industry are somewhat brighter than they were last season. The Scotch catch of fish the past summer were very small and not satisfactory for the American market. The Pacific fishery, according to latest advices, has been practically a failure, and the fish, according to authorities, altogether unsuited for the requirement of the Scotch pack herring. Consequently it appears that the American trade has to fall back upon Newfoundland for good, fat, large herrings, as pointed out by E. S. Williamson, Chairman of the Smoked Fish Trade Committee of the United States Fisheries Association's annual convention last August, and published in our issue of 8th ult. Mr. Williamson states that there are no large, fat herring caught in the United States and the fish caught are unsuitable also for the smoked fish trade, and as a result there has been a big falling off in that business. There was a time when Gloucester and other New England ports had and maintained a large fleet of salt-bulk fishing schooners, and many of them came to Bay of Islands and Bonne Bay at this season of the year for cargoes of salt-bulk herring. The United States salt fleet has had to give place to that of the fresh fish trade and the new fishing vessels are unsuitable for the salt-bulk herring fishery. A few of the old-timers are still in existence, however, and we understand some of these will likely come here this fall.

Last Tuesday was about the first sign of herring here when about half a barrel was taken in a net off Green Island. A few have since been caught at Middle Arm, and one report stated that some fish were taken at North Arm. Schools of herring have been seen at the outer part of the bay, according to reports reaching us, and no doubt these fish will strike in with the approach of colder weather.

At Bonne Bay herring have made their appearance and some packers have commenced operations.—Western Star.

Poisoned Her Husband

Put gopher poison in his home brew.

Saskatoon, Oct. 19.—"For the love of Theodore Cleskiwa, Mrs. Katriyna Trachz poisoned her husband by putting strychnine in his home brew," was the verdict of a coroner's jury at Reeburn this afternoon at the close of the inquest into the death of Trachz. The preliminary hearing of the woman, and of Cleskiwa, as an accomplice, commenced immediately after the inquest. Both were charged with murder.

When Cleskiwa kissed Katriyna and whispered that he would marry her if her husband was out of the way, Katriyna says she put gopher poison in the family home brew. The husband died last week, and yesterday the woman declared that Cleskiwa also supplied the poison. Both were sent up for trial. Katriyna has eight children and Cleskiwa nine.

The Philippines Reveal Their Early History

ANN AR., Mich., Oct. 26.—The veil has been lifted from the prehistoric past of the Philippine Islands and discoveries have been made rivalling those in the tomb of Tutankhamu, according to a report which has just been received at the University of Michigan from Dr. Carl E. Guthe, heading an archaeological expedition now in the islands.

Dr. Guthe's report hints strongly for the first time that Chinese formerly inhabited the island, a conclusion which he says is substantiated by the deposits unearthed by him during the last year. Material he discovered, Dr. Guthe's report says, includes hundreds of pieces of pottery, broken and unbroken, much of it of the Ming period, some Tang, some Sung and much yet to be identified. There also have been found human bones, chip-stone and iron implements and weapons, copper and bronze articles, gold inlaid teeth and gold, shell, coral, glass and stone ornaments.

Outport customers will receive prompt attention at the CENTRAL BAKERY, Central Street.—oct 4, 21

Folly of Love at First Sight

Dorothy Dix on Affection That Falls to Stand the Test.

The love-at-first-sight theory is a pretty and romantic one. It intrigues our fancy to believe that, as our eyes roam idly over a crowd, we shall single out the face of some man or woman, and know that out of all the world we have found our own. But in real life these sudden love attacks do not work. It may be that the man who jostled us in the tram-car, or the girl in the blue hat whom we passed in the street, is the mate Nature intended for us, but no palpitation of the heart apprised us of it. Occasionally a couple of foolhardy young creatures, who pin their faith to the love-at-first-sight fallacy, do meet, like the colour of each other's eyes, and rush off to the church, scarcely getting well enough acquainted to find out each other's first name.

But these sudden weddings usually end in disaster, and add one more proof to the assertion that those who marry in haste repent at leisure. For in nothing are we so easily deceived as in affinites. It is almost impossible to recognize them at sight. Of course, there are hysterical people who are always violently emotional. Such a man falls in love with a woman, and is mad about her until he gets her, and then he drops her with a dull, cold thud.

Such a woman falls in love with a man, and dies of a broken heart if he doesn't return her love, but if he does she wearies of him and finds some other soul mate.

Practical, sane, well-balanced people rarely feel these storms of affection that sway the hearts of the neurotic. They do not consider committing outside because of a big-eyed love. They do not believe that the world will have nothing left of joy in it if some man or woman fails to return their affections. They do not have hectic flushes at the sound of a foot-step, or perish with longing if they are separated from the beloved one for twenty-four hours.

This is nonsense. With them love is a power of slow growth, but it strikes its roots down into the solid earth, and is a hardy perennial that blooms year after year, instead of perishing within the hour.

The man who waits to marry until he falls in love at first sight had as well wait to make any other move until he is struck by lightning, for the one is just as likely to happen to him as the other.

Looks Before It Leaps.
Just as few men are great lovers as are great singers, which is a good thing for women, because great lovers seldom make good husbands. Emotional men are not only the hardest to live with, but they require fresh objects upon which to expend their sentiment.

The kind of love that endures—the strain of matrimony best is a glorified friendship that is based not on thrills but on common sense. It does not see a man as a romantic hero nor a woman as a full-fledged angel, but as human beings, and, recognizing them as such, loves them, faults and all. It does not ask the impossible, but it sees that it is getting companionship and sympathy and understanding.

This love looks before it leaps. It takes suitability into consideration, for it knows that the slogan, "All for love, and the world will last," is misleading. It loves with its head as well as its heart, and that sort of love stands the test of time and the wear and tear of life.

A New Process For Hardening Steel

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 25.—A new process for hardening steel is claimed in the invention of John East, a Milwaukeean, who claims to have discovered a process whereby steel will retain its hardness under heat. The actual life of the new product will reach twelve times the life of high speed steel, he says. He has spent 15 years in perfecting his discovery. Chocolate rolls are quite delicious filled with whipped cream and served with hot chocolate or fudge sauce.

 RANDOM AND DOWN THE

...at Ryder's Hr. for dinner. Running through the narrow of entrance we found ourselves in a good, well-protected harbor, and as it was my first visit to it I was deeply interested. There is not a dwelling house in the Hr.; but two or three shacks where some fishermen live for a few weeks during the year. Whilst Mr. Somerton and the Captain were preparing for dinner, and the engineer was arranging for the fire, I made friends with three boys in a boat from Ireland's Eye, who were there looking up some sheep. In response to my enquiries re a headstone that I had heard of, they said, "Yes, Sir, we know where it is," and they rowed me across to the other side. We found the stone, or rather all that is left of it in sight. The stone has been broken for some time past, and the lower half could not be found. Probably it is covered with earth somewhere near by.

The upper half of the stone is standing. On it is carved a figure of a boat-shaped lamp, with a flame issuing from the middle of it, indicative of life; and underneath the lamp is the symbol of the Christian Faith—the Cross of Christ. I hoped to be able to copy the inscription, but I had not the time at my disposal to search for the missing part. I then thanked the boy for taking me to the spot, and asked him if he knew of any other headstone in the harbor. He said, "No Sir, but we saw two skulls yesterday over at Sullivan's island." The boys were only too glad to take me to the place, and there, partly covered with some turf that the boys had put on them, were the two skulls—bleached and washed by the sun and rain of years of exposure. Upon examination I found that one of the skulls was that of a child; and the other was that of a man or a woman I placed them side by side, covered them with earth; built a cairn of stones upon them; marked the mound with a cross of wood; took off my hat and said a prayer; and then sat down on a boulder close by, and thought, and thought and thought.

I tried to visualize the scene of a hundred and fifty years ago, when some twenty families lived there, and when it was an active fishing village. Here Jeremiah Quinn (known as Darby Quinn) married, and lived for years; from 1780. Here Patrick Malone carried on a small business in 1788. Of the place, the following articles of joy and sorrow appear in the old Church of England Registers at Trinity:

"1790—Interred, John Green of Kilkenny, in Ireland, servant to Mr. Malone. He was murdered by his fellow servant."
 "1802—Married, James Sullivan, of Yonghall, Ireland, and Eleanor, the daughter of Darby and Sarah Quinn."
 "1807—Baptized, a son to James and Eleanor Sullivan, named John. (The father of the late Inspector General of Police)."
 "1774—Interred, Patrick Malone, Planter of Ryder's Harbor, of Kilkenny, Ireland."
 "1792—Interred, Peter Welsh, Planter of Ryder's Harbor."
 "1804—Interred, Honour Dawley of Ryder's Harbor."
 "1817—Baptized, Catherine, child of James and Mary Connel, Ryder's Hr. In addition to these names in the history of Ryder's Harbor, I find that of Cooper; and a widow of that name, (whose husband died in Ryder's Hr.) is living at St. John's to-day.

"1807—Baptized, a daughter of Moses and Sweet Sevier, named Mildred."
 "1807—Married, John Foster of Ryder's Harbor, and Sarah Baker, of Heart's Ease."
 Here about 1844, John Sullivan (in after life became Inspector General of the Police Force in Newfoundland) was born. Here in 1857 lived Thos. and Mary Langar, probably one of the last family names in the history of Ryder's Harbor. There, in the distance, was the lonely grave, marked by the broken headstone. There, at my feet were the two skulls under the mound. They represent the unknown dead of Ryder's Harbor. May they rest in peace.

will resume her duties. We were glad to have her with us and she has our best wishes for the future.

A little girl, Violet Stone, of Bonaventure, who is a deaf mute, has gone to St. John's this week, en route for Halifax, where she will be a pupil at the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb. This little girl is an orphan and friends have supplied her with the necessary financial requirements for her passage to Halifax. It is a crime for parents to keep a child, who is deaf and dumb (especially a boy) from getting the benefits of the Institution. The Nfld. Government makes a yearly per capita grant for a definite number of children from Newfoundland, sufficient to cover the cost of education at the Institution. There are several children in Trinity Right to-day, who should be taking advantage of this privilege; and thus prepare to earn their living as men and women.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Grant of Trinity are at St. John's.

A STRANGER IN OUR MIDST.
 An American from Chicago, who has spent the summer at Northern Labrador, and as far as Hudson Bay, taking moving pictures and views of people and places by the hundred, for the use of one of the big publishing concerns of the United States, was on board the Senec on Wednesday afternoon the 17th. During the few hours delay of the steamer in Trinity, he was shown around town, and saw Trinity from several vantage points; from each of which he took several views with his wonderful camera. He was greatly surprised and delighted with Trinity as a beauty spot; and his views of it will be included in his fine collection for publication. He was privileged to attend the funeral service at the burial of our townsmen Mr. Joseph Morris; and as a Churchman and a Mason he was deeply impressed with the reverence respect shown by us on such an occasion. He secured a moving picture film of the different societies in the funeral procession, as they passed into the mortuary chapel, and some day we shall be a source of interest to people who know us not, and possibly to some of our own people in the moving picture exhibitions in some of the great American cities.

Secret Diplomacy
 London Daily News: Conservative tactics are no affairs of ours, except in so far as they affect the welfare of this country and of the world. If the leaders of the party at present in power think that peace and prosperity are to be secured by little private conferences between eminent public men, that the affairs of great nations consisting not now of thousands of sorts or illiterates, but of men as capable of reading and thinking as themselves, are to be settled over their heads in secret conferences, and that the business of government is an esoteric mystery properly confined to experts, with the vulgar public acting only as a stage crowd—that is their business. We believe no such thing. We do not believe that peace is to be found by this mystery mongering, or that any peace so constructed can possibly last: it is precisely because politicians have so conceived their function—because these sons of Levi have insisted ever since the Armistice in taking so much too much upon themselves—that the world is the horrible chaos that it is to-day. There will be no peace except as the expression, not of the private bargaining of eminent individuals, but of the will of the mass of plain men and women, acting through their representatives, in all civilized countries.

DRAGGED FROM THE BRINK
 OF A HORRIBLE GRAVE AFTER BEING TWO HOURS IN THE OOZE OF A DESOLATE SWAMP WHILE DUCK HUNTING.

BELLEVILLE, Ont. Oct. 26.—Dragged from the brink of a horrible grave after being engulfed in the shoulders in the ooze of a desolate swamp, Inspector Russell Coburn, of this city, has lived to tell the story of the longest two hours of his life.

Coburn, with License Inspector W. H. Nugent, of North Hastings, and Fred Brandt, was hunting duck in North Hastings, when Coburn upset his canoe 125 feet from the shore and his friends answering his call found him hip deep in a muddy bog. Nugent and Brandt gathered poles and wired them end to end and pushed them out toward their comrade in a futile attempt to rescue. Coburn had sunk to his waist. Working frantically, the pair extended the improvised bridge.

After the fifteen poles had been tied together with belts, suspenders and shoe laces, the snake-like contrivance was long enough but not rigid enough to be manageable from the shore.

More odds and ends of clothing went to strengthen the joints. After two hours and a half of desperate manoeuvring the rescuers managed to shove their bridge within reach of Coburn, who by this time was immersed to the shoulders. Then began the tedious haul to shore, with the men at one end, fearful every moment their frail structure would break.

Finally a dripping black figure set foot on terra firma.

"He just shook hands with us, with tears in his eyes. His strength was almost gone," said Inspector Nugent.

The New Kind of Prison

(By H. L. ADAM, Author of "The Story of Crime.")

I have just been through Pentonville, the senior prison of the metropolis, where I have seen something of the new method of treating prisoners.

Just inside the inner gates are plants in full bloom, and in the main hall there are two large tubs of flowering plants, and one or two vases of cut flowers—things I have never seen before in a prison. Indeed, in the past I have seen a female prisoner at Aylesbury severely admonished for taking a sprig of lavender into her cell.

The walls of Pentonville are being painted a delicate shade of green, which has, says the governor, an enthusiastic humanitarian, a most beneficial effect on the minds of the inmates. Commissioner Enright, of New York, was so favourably impressed on a recent visit that he said he would have the same thing done in the New York prisons.

Here are further reforms which have recently been introduced at Pentonville:

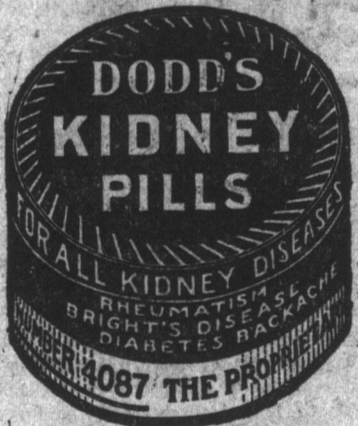

No descriptions of prisoners and their offences appear on the outside of their cell doors, as heretofore—legends which used to seem to shout their iniquity—but merely a number.

Visits by relatives to prisoners may be paid at almost any time by grace of the governor, and the interviews take place in a comfortable sitting-room, and not in a "cage," as of old. Prisoners work eight hours a day, exclusive of meal times, which means less confinement.

The wardens are of a better class, and behave more tolerantly and less aggressively towards their charges than was the custom in the past; they are not allowed to shout at them; there is more individual treatment, and the governor boasts that he knows most of the inmates by their Christian names.

There is an increased number of baths, and cleanliness (which has a beneficial effect on the mind) is more strenuously insisted upon; there is an "honour party," the members of which work entirely without supervision, and are denoted by a letter "H" on the above.

This is evidence that the Camp Hill system is gradually spreading to other prisons. The governor also wants to develop the "parole" system, whereby a prisoner may be temporarily released in order to visit a sick mother, wife, or other relation, which is likewise an extension of a Camp Hill feature.

Private visiting is encouraged, and persons interested in prison reform attend and lecture to or converse with prisoners, visit their relations, convey messages, and give advice. The two principal causes of crime, says the governor, are bad home influences (he declares that if girls were taught to cook better there would be less crime) and our wretched system of elementary education. He blames not only the system, but also the teachers, many of whom, he says, are incapable. On this he is most emphatic.

Household Notes.

If you wish your cucumber pickles to be very firm, before pickling soak them first in brine for twenty-four hours, then wash, drain and soak for two hours in lime-water.

Delicious tea muffins are made with cooked pumpkin pulp, using half cupful of pulp to one cupful of flour. Sweeten, and give a fruity taste by adding a few chopped raisins.

Chestnuts, boiled, blanched, and sliced, and sliced pineapple and oranges make a delightful salad. Garnish with mayonnaise dressing and sprinkle with grated orange rind.

Delicious filling for tea tarts is made by mixing half cupful sugar with one cupful chopped, dried figs, one-half cupful water, two tablespoonfuls chopped citron and a little grated orange rind. Cook for a few minutes, cool and add a few chopped nut meats.

Signing of Bonds Made Easy for Busy Magnates

New York. (AP)—America boasts at least one labor-saving device against which no complaint ever has been directed. It is a signature machine by the use of which high salaried corporation officials and national, state and municipal government officials are enabled to sign their names to checks, stocks, bonds and other documents from five to 20 times at once.

So far as is known only one company controls or has such machines, and its small office in the financial district is almost continuously filled with men of national or international importance. Just now the Consul General of Argentina is spending an hour or so a day at this office, signing with one stroke 20 of the Argentine government's new short term notes recently offered on the New York market.

The machine is a ball bearing frictionless arrangement with a maximum of 20 fountain pens attached, in addition to the master pen which the individual operating it grasps. Practically all negotiable or other securities must be countersigned by a high official to make them legal.

With the exception of the five or six machines in the New York office of the company, and one in Chicago, none of the machines is known to be in use anywhere in the world. Numerous smaller machines handling five to ten pens, however, have been manufactured for the use of officials who are required to sign almost countless checks to meet weekly or monthly pay rolls.

Men with short names have found it possible, with these machines, to sign their name 12,000 to 15,000 times an hour, but longer names are signed at slower speed.

Only once in the history of the company has one of the signature machines been transported from New York for the convenience of the company's signing official. That was several years ago when the Chinese minister at Washington was too sick to leave his residence at the capital at the moment some Chinese securities were ready for public offering. One of the machines was taken to Washington, set up beside the sick official's bed, and several thousand bonds were signed in that way.

Doctors are informing us that the average man is much more active than his ancestors. That's what comes of inventing motor-cars.

THIS COLORFUL WORLD.

What a colorful world this is coming to be! And I don't mean figurative but literally. How much more freely we use colors than we used to. A little bowl of fall flowers on the table of the Inn where I was lunching one day this fall started that train of thought. There was a time in my memory, I reflected, when those flowers would have been all of one color or at the most two colors carefully chosen because they "went together." But in the bowl before me were flowers of blue and purple and pink and orange and yellow. And yet one was not sensible of any clash of colors but merely of a flash of gay and courageous color that uplifted the spirit, as nature meant it to be uplifted.

A Rainbow of Candles.
On the table were candles in glass candlesticks. Once upon a time those candles could not have been any color but white. To-day they might have been any color of the rainbow, and actually were a beautiful burnt orange—just the same shade as the sininus in the bowl.

The curtains were white muslin. The room needed them and I was glad they were, I love white muslin curtains. But the time when all curtains were white just because no one could imagine anything different has passed. Any color, or any pretty combination of colors that will make a room more cheerful is possible.

Even Table Linen.
Unless you are of flapper age you can doubtless remember the day when no one thought of using any color of table linen but white (except the red cloth for the kitchen table). Of course white linen is still beautiful and appropriate, but the decorative possibilities of ecrú and tan with bits of colorful embroidery are also recognized. And how I do love the informal but very charming table coverings of old cloth decorated in colors to suit my taste in the room. How practical they are, how sensible, what savers of time for better purposes than the wash tub and ironing board, and yet how gay and pretty they make the table in the summer cottage or even in the winter home for breakfast and lunch.

Everyone old enough to remember when the bulk of aprons were blue checked will rejoice in the gay colors they have taken to themselves to-day. And morning dresses have come to rival evening gowns in their smartness of cut and in their range of lovely color.

Rainbow Colored Lingerie.
And then there's lingerie. It isn't more than ten years ago is it, that pink underthings began to creep into the chest of drawers where nothing but white had ever, hitherto, been. And now the lingerie department has its counters heaped with pink and blue and orchid and violet and yellow as well as with the white things. True, there are many who still cling to the sheer simplicity of white, but while I love the soft, snowy things I must confess that I think the delicate colors are lovely, too.

Once upon a time, when sweaters first became popular, they were white or dark blue or dark red or any of the solid, obvious colors. I don't think there is any garment or article of household use which has blossomed forth in such infinite variety of color as the sweater. Every color that ever was on land or sea, you can find in a sweater—and some that never were. On the golf course, on the beach, on the country road, in the school yard you can see these clusters of human covers.

What a colorful world this is coming to be! Perhaps we shall get too much of it. But I am not surprised yet, are you?

At the Casino

THE SHEPHERD OF SHANTY RUN.

The Mac Edwards Company presented "The Shepherd of Shanty Run" at the Casino last evening to a large audience. The show, which was a strong one, had lots of comedy running through it and a little love. The play opens in the house of Father Denis Broderick, parish priest of Shanty Run, where Dr. Howard, an intimate Protestant friend of his, presents a gift of ten thousand dollars to the funds of the parish church at Shanty Run. This money is stolen by Jimmie Clancy, son of Fr. Broderick's housekeeper, a young man-of-do-well, who gambles with the money and loses all to Tom Sullivan, a noted cheat at cards. Going home Sullivan is stabbed to death by Clancy, with a penknife which has the name of Fr. Broderick engraved on the blade. The priest sends "his man-of-all-work" to find Clancy which he does. Fr. Broderick accuses Clancy of stealing the Church money and also draws a confession of the murder of Sullivan. The inhabitants of Shanty Run suspect the priest of the murder owing to his knife having been found near the body, and the Sheriff comes to arrest him but is interrupted by the arrival of a hooded man who demands and forces the release of the priest. The Sheriff again appears on the scene but in the meantime Father Broderick has explained to Clancy what will be the consequences if the true murderer is not found, with the result that a clean breast is made. Because the Sheriff receives a telegram that Sullivan has been wanted for three years on a charge of murder, and that a reward of one thousand dollars had been offered for his body dead or alive. The Sheriff returns to Fr. Broderick the stolen money, Jimmie Clancy goes to receive his reward and everyone is happy.

The different players were up to their usual high standard, while the musical numbers and specialties made everything go with a swing. To-night the same play will be put on when, no doubt, another large audience will attend this excellent performance.
