adjoining Counties are expected to take part.

DOUGLAS RUSSELL, the evangelist, whose preaching in Galt three years ago raised such a fuss, preached again in Knox's church in that town on Sunday night last, and in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening.

The Galt and Guelph Railway is being put in thorough repair for the summer's business. New timbers are being placed in all the cuttings and culverts, and other measures taken to ensure the safety of the travelling public.

The whole of the Volunteers of this District, it is said, are to be assembled somewhere near Windsor in the month of June, and we hope that the 34th Battalion will retain the proud position which it has always previously held on such occasions.

Fergus offers $5,000 bonus, without use of any building, to any person or company who will start a manufactory.
Messrs. McKinnon and Hirsch offered to start one for $6,000 and the use of a building, or they would accept a cash bonus of $5,000, and a debenture for $2,000, making in all $8,000. No action was taken on their offer.

At an adjourned meeting, held in Elora the other evening, it was decided to ask the Council to advertise a bonus of four, five or ten thousand dollars, to any party or parties establishing a manufactory in Elora, according to the number of hands employed, and the Council should be a Committee, with power to add to their number, and secure any property that can be obtained.

THE BLOOMINGDALE POST OFFICE ROB-BERY.—The unfortunate lad, William H.
Boggs, recently arrested by Mr. Sweet-man, P. O. Inspector, for stealing the contents of certain letters, at Bloomdale, in the County of Waterloo, in the post office of which village he was an assistant was on Wednesday tried before His Honor the County Judge.

The prisoner confessed his guilt, and was sentenced to four years' imprisonment in the Provincial Penitentiary. It is to be hoped that this will prove a salutary lesson to all in charge of postal matters.

THE POTATO BUG.—The Waterloo Chronicle says: From various sources we learn that the potato bug is likely to be troublesome during the coming summer. A gentleman near Eriville informed us that in digging up his potato patch of last year, he turned up a large number of the bugs, some in propria persona and others in the chrysalis form.
The Stratford Beacon says that a gentleman there also turned up a number, and being curious to know whether they still had life, placed them on a single in the sun, when they quickly gave signs of vitality.

THE TORONTO POLICE.—A mass meeting of the Toronto policemen was held on Thursday to express their disapproval of the present police regulations, and consider what action they should take.

A memorial to the Police Commissioners, setting forth the grievances of the men, was prepared and handed to the Mayor, who is to submit it to the Commissioners.
A resolution was also passed to meet again in the St. Lawrence Hall on Saturday at one o'clock, and then, if their requests have not been complied with, to refuse to return to duty.

Y. M. C. A.—The regular meeting of this Association was held in their rooms last evening. President Dr. McGuire in the chair. Mr. D. Savage, Jeweller, gave the Association a present of two volumes of Paley's Evidences of Christianity, for which the thanks of the Association were tendered. Rev. W. S. Ball gave a very full and interesting account of the New York Association and its working, beginning with a description of the building, which cost half a million dollars and is complete in every department from the library and reception room to its gymnasium and bath-room. The amount of good they are doing among all classes is not to be calculated. All present enjoyed Mr. Ball's address.

THE FIRE BRIGADE.—At the regular meeting of the fire company on Wednesday evening, in the fireman's hall, the following resolution was unanimously passed: "That unless the demands of this company are complied with by the Council before the next regular meeting of that body, the members of the company do resign." The men are not at all pleased with the way the Council has acted towards them. Some four months ago a petition was presented to the Committee asking an increase of pay from $12 to $20 for each member per annum, and that a new uniform be procured for the firemen, 21 in number. No action was taken by the Council on the matter, and the recent disheartening failures with their hose have urged the company to press their demands for a little consideration from the Council. The company very generously offered $10 to Mr. Robert Boyd one of their men who was injured at Raymond's Factory fire.

THE VOLUNTEERS.—The consultation of Deputy Adjutant General with the heads of the Militia staff at Ottawa has terminated, and we may expect shortly to see the result in the issue of General Orders calling the Volunteers to assemble at the camp of instruction in the several districts for their annual drill. It is almost certain that the camp for this district will be held in the vicinity of Windsor, and that all the Volunteers in the district—comprising 11 battalions of infantry, two field batteries and two garrison batteries of artillery, and six troops of cavalry, will be brought together, forming a force of about 5,000 men and 400 horses. The camp will be formed about the middle of June, and continue for sixteen days; officers and men receiving the same rates of pay as allowed at the Guelph camp last year. We observe that the 2nd District, including the Toronto and Hamilton Volunteers, will assemble in the neighborhood of Niagara on the 12th of June.

Mr. Blake on the Washington Treaty

We give below the following synopsis of Mr. Blake's great speech on the Washington Treaty Bill on Wednesday night, which we copy from the Hamilton Times.
The difference between Sir John's speech and that of Mr. Blake's is, that the former was an elaborate and forced apology, to excuse the blunders, inconsistencies and deceits of an individual, while the latter was, in both language and sentiment, a broad, masterly and statesmanlike review of the whole situation. Mr. Blake proved, among other things, the following—

1.—After tracing the history of the fishery question from 1836 to the time of the High Joint Commission being appointed, he proved that the United States Government had never put forward any claim to the inshore fisheries, but, on the contrary, had solemnly warned its citizens not to trespass on our rights; yet Sir John, in his speech of Friday last, had attempted to show that the United States had some sort of a legal claim to share in them. This false assumption was put forward by Sir John solely that he might magnify the merits of the Treaty by contending that it put an end to this claim—a claim only existing in Sir John's fertile imagination, and that of some equally imaginative Yankee lawyer. The Premier first set up a man of straw, and then called in the Treaty to knock it down, for the encouragement of his supporters.

2.—That there were important departmental reports on the Fisheries that the Canadian Government had read, and the British Government were told that they could not be permitted to see. It was necessary that England should have this information, so as to be able the better to sacrifice our fisheries, but our own Parliament must not be allowed to fully understand the value of its own property, but must legislate on it in ignorance and darkness. Mr. Blake suggested, and most people will accept it as the most probable one, that the real reason of withholding these reports was, that the production would almost conclusively prove the enormity of the sacrifice that had been made and the craven-hearted backing down of the Dominion Government from their original stand-point.

3.—He proved, from the published correspondence, that Sir John was specially appointed on the Fisheries by the British representatives of the interests of Canada, and that therefore he is directly responsible to the Canadian Parliament for his action in the matter, and cannot be permitted to claim immunity on the ground of being British Commissioner, acting under the direct orders of the British Government, and therefore irresponsible.

4.—He showed that in February of last year Sir John had stated to the Commons that the Imperial Government had given repeated assurances that none of the rights of Canada would be surrendered without her consent, and that the action of the Commission would not be final and conclusive, but would go before the Lords and Common. The effect of that statement was to induce the House to let Sir John go to Washington without being pledged; the result of the Commission's action was that the Imperial Government right to the St. Lawrence was surrendered, and the right of appeal to the Lords or Commons. Mr. Blake therefore demanded that those "assurances" which had been made use of to influence the existence at all?

7.—He showed that the admission of our fish and fish oil free of duty into the United States was killed as an act of recipi-ency by a Bill now before Congress, giving a bounty to United States fishermen on all the fish they catch. This would still leave our fishermen at a disadvantage, and enable the Americans to under-cut them.

8.—He proved Sir John's inconsistency on the subject by showing that, at one time, he told them that the exclusion of the Americans from our fisheries was productive of irritation, dispute and contention. Shortly afterwards the same Sir John said that the Americans did not, as a matter of fact, care for our fisheries at all.

9.—Other weak points in the Washington Treaty and Government policy, together with grave inconsistencies on the part of Sir John, were also pointed out. After recess, Mr. Blake concluded his speech as follows:

10.—He showed that the Premier's claim that the Treaty was in principle a recipi-ency one, inasmuch as it gave us access to United States fisheries and their fish markets, was an untruthful one. The United States fisheries are useless, because they are worn out, and the fact that they are worn out would have convinced the Americans to buy our fish and fish oil without the surrender made by the Washington Treaty.

11.—He showed that the common right to the fisheries for twelve years was granted, it was not stipulated that the United States should acknowledge Canada's right at once and forever. The result will be that if, at the end of the twelve years, we seek to reclaim the fisheries, the irritation will be worse than ever. Practically, the twelve years' purchase money is likely to be all we shall get for our fisheries from now till the end of time.

12.—With regard to the Fenian claims he maintained that the language of the Government, which he had quoted, expressed in terms not at all too strong, what was the position of the Empire towards the United States in this matter; but the conduct of the Imperial Government had been very strange, and it was painful to contract their course with that which had adopted in the case of the Englishmen murdered by Greek brigands, and towards Abyssinia. At the very time the United States were refusing redress for our wrongs, they were claiming redress for gentlemen's deceptions. But the hon. the Alabama deceptions were now ready to put this case as a case of minor importance, and were ready to deal with it as a mere matter of money. In his opinion they lowered the question altogether, when they talked of it as a question of principle.

13.—The point that there had been a disregard of the duty of a neighboring State, and the settlement for the future of the question, whether it was right or wrong, in accordance with the principles of international law or not, that the Government of the United States should allow its citizens to be subjected to drill and organization for the purpose of invading a friendly power. That question entirely covered the simple question of money lost. He referred to the despatches sent to our Government to England on this subject, which breathed the right spirit. Yet after all this fine writing ould be returned to him; he returned of $200,000 in money to me, remarking me that it was the same money which he had received from Mr. Gould and some of the securities; he promised to return the balance, and gave an order for them on persons whom he said had them; he has since countermanded said order.

After some discussion, the Court gave Mr. Gordon a week to put in affidavits in rebuttal, both Mr. Gould and Mr.
Gordon to be then present to submit to examination.

this rule in order to prevent the is sometimes the case now, and which we cannot do in future on account of our crowded space.

EDITORIAL NEWS.

TORY NOMINATIONS.—Mr. William Wallace, of Ottawa, late editor of the Ottawa Times has been nominated for South Norfolk. Mr. Samuel Price has been nominated for East Elgin.

A WASHINGTON despatch states that the House of Representatives, by a vote of 73 to 65, rejected Gen. Butler's proposition to admit free of duty salt actually used in curing and preserving fish.

GLADSTONE'S grand majorities in the House of Commons have shrunk to a shadow. The other day the Government was defeated in a motion on an amendment to the Scotch Education bill by a vote of 216 to 209. If this sort of thing goes on much longer, the fabric of the present Ministry will soon fall irrecoverably.

The Herald's Washington special says despatches between Minister Schenck and the State Department, have been constantly passing during the past two days, owing to the pressure of the English Cabinet upon the Minister to bring about accompaniment on terms less embarrassing to the British Government than the firm stand of the President would necessitate.

INGERSOLL AFTER THE FIRE.—The people of Ingersoll have held a meeting to devise ways for the immediate rebuilding of their town. They are men of energy and determination and are bound to have the burnt district rebuilt before the snow falls.
In this connection the Hamilton Spectator is pleased to be able to chronicle a most generous promise made by Mr. Muir on behalf of the Great Western Railway Company, which is that all building material needed in Ingersoll shall be carried by the Great Western at half rates.
With such enterprise on the one hand and such liberality on the other no fears need be entertained for the future of Ingersoll.

THE FRUITS OF THE WASHINGTON TREATY.—American fishermen are already asking that the privileges, to which they will be entitled under the Washington Treaty, of fishing within the three mile limits, upon the sea coast, shall be extended to the shores of our noble lakes! As the Belleville Intelligencer says: "Give them an inch and they will take twenty," and, as he pertinently asks, "Hadh't they better come and gather our grain harvest next autumn, and claim a share of our cattle, and sheep, and pigs, and horses?" The Volunteer Recorder, in noticing this matter says, that this new demand is the natural action of the Treaty of Washington, and adds: "It is very evident that we are at the commencement of a series of troubles, and encroachments for which the conditions of that Treaty will furnish a pretext, and that in the end we will be obliged to resist, the result being an appeal to arms to rectify the blunders of diplomacy."

Plain Speaking.

The Fergus Express deserves credit for its manly and outspoken sentiments on public questions. In its last issue it says:

The Hamilton Express is a Liberal-Conservative sheet, and cannot, therefore, give a hearty support to the present Dominion Government, but it has not opposed it "in all things," being that it has not ventured an opinion upon any other question than that of the Treaty. And in doing that, it endorsed the honest and outspoken views of "an Old Conservative" who felt disgust at the anti-Canadian Policy of the Ottawa be-titled lick-spittles of Imperialism who are ready to sacrifice the best interests of the Dominion at the bidding of a brooding street wire puller.
It has defended such acts of the Ontario Ministry, "down even to that Isolated Risk Insurance affair" as it deemed commendable, and has not waited its cue from Toronto organists upon either side. It is as ready to condemn as approve when it sees condemnation deserved, but it is not so bound to this body of men or that—this little clique or that huge ring—as some bigger brethren of the Press whom it could name without travelling outside of Toronto to find them, and can afford to say what it thinks. Happily, a good many more newspapers in this Province are in a similar position, and the result of the outspoken utterances of a free country press will lessen ere long. Conservatives can stand much for the sake of party, but when the leaders of that party forsake their principles, and in payment for mushroom baronies or expected Governorships, trade off the best interests of the country, the time has arrived when the line must be drawn, and the foot put down.

BY TELEGRAPH

THIS MORNING'S DESPATCHES

Greeley and Brown's Nomina- tion Endorsed.

Warlike Preparations.

The Washington Treaty.

Nashville, Tenn., May 9.
The Democratic State Convention here endorses the Greeley and Brown ticket.

Charleston, S.C., May 9.
A large public meeting of whites and blacks was held at Greenwood on Monday last to ratify the Cincinnati nominations. Speeches were made and resolutions adopted strongly endorsing Greeley.

New York, May 10th.
A Washington special says: At a session of the Cabinet on Tuesday the President said he had for months past deplored the inefficiency of our coast defences and regretted he could not do anything to strengthen them. After interchange of opinion it was finally decided that every ironclad in the navy should be put in a condition for immediate service. The Secretary of War was also instructed to make the coast defences, particularly on the Southern seaboard, as impregnable as possible. The orders to fit out so many monitors at this time excites the suspicion that trouble is imminent with Spain. Information has reached the Navy Department that Morro Castle, guarding the entrance to Havana harbor, is being rapidly strengthened, and that fifteen inch guns pointing seaward are now being put in position.

The State Department is anxiously expecting a despatch from Schenck in continuation of those exchanged since Monday, which with the answer to be made to it by this Government will possibly determine whether there will be any occasion for the meeting of the Tribunal of Arbitration next month. Should the next exchange of despatches end unfavorably for the arbitration, it is in contemplation to issue immediate orders of recall to the agent and counsel appointed to conduct the case at Geneva, and bring them back to the United States in time to prepare for the next session of Congress an exhaustive statement and vindication of the action of our Government prior to, and under the Treaty, for the double purpose of setting the country and administration right before the world, and conservating our interests against such future measures and opportunities as may arise for the satisfactory settlement of the differences between ourselves and England.

GOVERNOR HARBOUR.—During the winter and spring the water in the great lakes and the St. Lawrence River has been unusually low, and is therefore satisfactory to know that in consequence of the improvements made on the harbor, there is plenty of water for the largest vessels navigating the lakes to enter with perfect safety. At present there is fourteen feet of water, while at Kincardine there is only eight, at Chatham eight, at Port Stanley ten and a half, at Toronto and Port Colborne eleven, and at Collingwood twelve, while at Southampton and Bayfield vessels have to load off the shore.— Signal.

We should not hesitate to recommend to any friend of ours, Parson's Purgative Pills; they are scientifically prepared, and are adapted to all the purposes of a good purgative medicine.

DETROIT is building four iron propellers of enormous dimensions, each to carry sixty-three thousand bushels of wheat at a cost of $170,000 each.—These are to ply between Buffalo and Chicago.

The Danish Government is dealing sharply with the Internationalists. They have been forbidden to hold their mass meeting in Copenhagen, and the President and Treasurer of the society were also arrested.

LOVE AND HONOUR.

A TALE OF THE CLYDE. CHAPTER XXX.

GROOMING BY THE RIVER—THE BATTLE OF SPEICHERN.

A hand laid gently on Hermann's shoulder, made him start and look quickly up, only to encounter the smiling eyes of Edwin...

"What!" cried Edwin, "were you not expecting us?"

"I hardly knew when you might come or where we might meet. But right glad I am to know that you have come in time to behold our first battle on the morrow."

"Ah! do you expect a battle then?"

"No, but at Saarbruck, where the French are posted in strength. They expelled a handful of our men from that place four days ago with some slaughter and we are advancing to retake it."

"Then war has fairly begun?" said Edwin.

"It has," returned Hermann, "and it must now go on till the French are beaten and defeated."

"Spoken like a true German," laughed Edwin. "But perhaps you will permit a neutral to mention the other contingency—the success of the French—as the result which shall terminate the war."

"Oh, of course not," returned Edwin, still laughing. "As a German soldier, you cannot allow such a thing to be possible."

"I speak from a full knowledge of the French and German natures. It is quite possible, may I say, that at the first we shall lose a battle or two, for the French always dash impetuously at the outset. But German persistence must in the end prevail. We have made up our minds to do this long deferred work, and to do it thoroughly, so as not to have it on our hands again for a long while to come. But then we are not going to plunge into these matters at the first moment of meeting. What news do you bring me?"

"I could have guessed that," said Edwin, "by the manner in which your whole soul was absorbed in the task. But don't finish your epistle to night my dear fellow; wait till the battle is over so that you may give her an account of it."

"I specially wished to write her before the battle," rejoined Hermann. "You can, I dare say, guess my reason?"

"Let you should be wounded, and so be unable to do it after, eh?"

"Or killed," added Hermann, with calm gravity.

"Nonsense. You must not suppose anything like that it is not like a soldier."

"I am not supposing it," said Hermann, very calmly. "I am only considering it possible; and I hope such a thought is not incompatible with the courage which a soldier should show. But come, you have not told me the news. How left you all our friends at Ardenham?"

"Well, and as cheerful as circumstances permit. Of course, I have heard nothing of them since we came away, and we were a few days in London."

"With what result?" asked Hermann, eagerly.

"With the best result," replied Edwin. "My uncle is as innocent of the forgery as either you or I. Our suspicions have been fully confirmed: it was Jerdan who wrote the name."

"Ha!" cried Hermann, and his face flushed and his eye sparkled with speechless excitement. "And Helen," he gasped, "does she know this?"

HEATHER'S Stove and Plough Depo.

The subscriber would call the attention of the public to Kinney's Patent Improvement in Stove Furniture, by which pots, kettles, frying pans, &c., are so constructed that the smoke, smell and steam from frying meat or other cooking are conducted up the chimney as perfectly as in the old fashioned fire-place. Ladies, give them a trial.

the Saar, but they must leave him now for the attack was to be made at once. Hermann was pale as he grasped the hands of his friends to wish them good-bye.

After some cheering words from Edwin and Hilda, Hermann waved his hand, placed himself at the head of his company, and sternly set his face to duty.

The Credit System.

The attention of the business community has recently been called to the present iniquitous system of credit, and the hollow and unsatisfactory results growing out of it. Credit to a limited extent is undoubtedly an absolute necessity, but the extensive manner in which it is now employed is harmful to a degree. The long credits, which were abolished by the war, are slowly creeping back to us, and if competition is as strong during the next few years as it has been in the past, credits of one or two years may again become common. It may be said that such an extensive credit system is of great convenience to business men of small capital; but if the matter is considered in the right light it will be found that the evils resulting from it will more than counterbalance any advantage it may possess. The small capitalist who starts forth under such auspices has a most difficult path to tread, as all know who have attempted it. Every penny he earns belongs to his creditors, and must be put aside to meet the obligations as they fall due. The business is really not his, and in all the management of it there is distinctly shown a certain lack of energy, to be discovered in every case where one person works to the entire profit of another. This lack of energy and ambition does not exist, designedly, but it is there nevertheless, for the exertion is not made for individual profit, but simply to meet the demands of another. Such a business, though successful for a time, must fail in the end, and yet the victim of credit keeps on adding year by year to his obligations without any corresponding increase of profits. He acts wholly as another's agent, with all the responsibility of an individual business. To the troubles of those engaged in such a career may be added the dread of approaching liabilities, which they may not be able to meet, and the anticipation of the consequences that must ensue. These consequences are liable to be precipitated by the first unfavorable breeze, for the slightest interruption in the usual course of trade, which would not be felt by a well-founded business, will be enough to prick the bubble and it bursts. Then comes failure and bankruptcy. This has been the experience of many, but year by year, the number is increasing. It is a sad and unenviable condition when it is too late, that extensive credit is a fallacy.

Less goods on shorter time would have answered many of them, but the mere ability to obtain long credit makes them load up and go into debt as if a day's settlement would never come. Judging from the present prospects, the money market is going to be stringent for some time to come, and when these borrowers come upon the market to get the wherewithal to meet the rates will not decline. There is, therefore, but a poor prospect of borrowing money, and what the result will be to many time only can tell. If only such goods were bought as we want, and cash paid for them within a reasonable time, the outlook at present would be much more favorable; but as it is, we see the entire business of the country done upon a false foundation, which is liable to be swept away at any moment. The opening of navigation will undoubtedly make all kinds of business brisk, but if the great financial and commercial panic that has been so long spoken of ever comes, it will be mainly brought about by the present extending long credit.—T. S. Economist.

Decidedly the best remedy that has been discovered for rheumatism, swollen or stiff joints, flesh wounds, sprains, bruises, cuts, and burns, is Johnson's Anodyne Liniment. We use it, and always recommend it to our friends.
