

Three Day Vigil Over Dead Sister

Woman Crazy and Starving In Expensive Apartment

Had $63,000 In Banks

Books Show That Mary and Kate Phelan Saved For 25 Years—House Entered By Means of Fire Escape

Peter Madsen, superintendent of the Francis Apartments, Central Park West and Eighty-third street, New York, having heard nothing for three days from the Misses Mary and Kate Phelan, sisters 40 and 48 years old respectively, decided to go to their seven-room apartment on the fifth floor and investigate. After repeated knocks and calls had brought nothing save what Madsen thought was a low moaning, the superintendent hurried to the street where he met Policeman Dunn.

Together the men gained entrance to the flat by the fire escapes. They found Mary Phelan dead in bed, where Dr. Jacques of Knickerbocker Hospital afterwards said she had lain for three days. By the bedside sat the younger sister alternately laughing and crying—crazed by her three-day vigil and malnutrition, for the police said that she had eaten only a box of sardines in that time. She was removed to Bellevue Hospital for treatment.

Coroner Hellenstein and Detective Boyle, who investigated the death, said that it had resulted from natural causes. Though there was nothing to eat in the expensive furnished apartment, a book disclosed that between them the sisters had accumulated nearly $63,000 which was deposited in twenty-five savings banks. The method of entry showed that the women had saved a little more than $2,000 annually for the last quarter-century. There was nothing to indicate deposits made later than April, 1915.

Among the many letters found by Detective Boyle in the apartment was one from Stern Brothers' store congratulating Mary Phelan on having completed twenty-five years in their employ. There was also much correspondence between the sisters and the late Sylvester O'Sullivan and a newspaper clipping giving an account of his death on Nov. 26, 1911. O'Sullivan at his death was vice-president and general manager of the United States Fidelity and Guarantee Company of Baltimore.

From the fact that O'Sullivan was born in Prescott, Ontario, the birthplace of the Phelans, the police believe that they were either related or friends. The sisters had lived in the Francis Apartments for the last five years, paying $70 a month rent.

Three Winning Points

Why the Hoosier Kitchen Cabinets Should be in Your Home

Learn why so many folks you know have paid us $1.00 in the past two days and ordered the Hoosier delivered to their homes. These neighbors will have many hours to spare when most women still are plodding round their kitchens preparing meals or putting away supplies and tidying up.

Hoosier has places for 400 articles, all handily arranged at your fingers' ends. But don't think it is merely a "shelf-room" cabinet. The Hoosier is really an "automatic servant." It has forty features that aid you in cooking and save you time and labor.

Hoosier's legless sanitary base gives you 21 per cent. more usable space because it is built close to the floor. No legs to loosen or split when you push aside the cabinet to sweep. Hoosier rolls about easily on ball-bearing castors, and the metal castor sockets can't break.

Hoosier's "No-Cubby-Hole Cupboard, just above the table, is wide and uncluttered by partitions such as cut down your usable table space and hamper your work in ordinary cabinets.

If you think that you can't spare the time to come, then you confess that you need a Hoosier badly, because it will give you so many spare hours for a lifetime. Come in tomorrow and please bring some friend with you.

UNJUST TO CHILDREN

Not Fair to Ridicule Their Answers to Test Questions

(Providence Journal.)

If one happens to know the answer to any proposition the wrong answer usually appears to be a mark of appalling ignorance. The wisest man may be shown up as a first-class ignoramus by facing him with a series of questions on matters that are entirely strange to him, and yet superior adults continue to extract a fictitious amusement from the blundering answers given by school children in the course of more or less stupid examinations.

One of the latest examples of this sort is based on a test in a Cleveland public school, which included these four questions: "Define the first person. Explain the composition of the blood. What is meant by capital punishment? What is a 'job's comforter'?"

One pupil gave these answers: "The first person was Adam. Blood is composed of red corkscrews and white corkers. A 'job's comforter' is what you put in a baby's mouth to keep it quiet. Capital punishment is killing people. In some of our states people are hung and in others they are put to death by electrocution."

This may be erratic information from the pedagogical viewpoint, and yet the pupil revealed an intelligence that is worthy of respect. The young idea in learning how to shoot is easily confused by new words and verbal similarities.

What this pupil had learned about the composition of the blood was probably wholly from the instructive discourse of the teacher, and very likely the teacher mumbled her words. When he is a little older the boy will undoubtedly be able to tell the fundamental difference between a corkscrew and a corker, but at present it is a matter of minor importance.

Likewise, he may have had a very good reason for his definition of a "job's comforter," and although he may have exaggerated the effects of electrocution he undoubtedly had the right idea of most of it. In one point he was absolutely right, and that was in his definition of the "first person" as Adam. If this was not the definition desired by the teacher, it was her own fault for not making the question specific.

It does not seem a very square deal to poke fun at children for their ingenious answers. The mental processes of a child are deserving of greater respect. As a rule they are marvelous, working far more rapidly and with a much greater tenacity than those of an older development. The average brain really becomes duller as it grows older. The extraordinary feats in the acquisition of knowledge are to be found in extreme youth, and the mental progress of an intelligent infant shows a spread that is far more wonderful than that of a college professor.

Early mental progress is concerned wholly with gaining physical and mental experiences and building up a foundation of knowledge out of an absolute ignorance. The later stages consist merely of developing what is already possessed and proceeding by an application of rules and methods which are already well understood. The really awe-inspiring stages of mental development are between the age of six months and twelve years. What happens after the latter age is largely a mechanical continuation and may be taken for granted. It is the arduous business of childhood to acquire first principles. Enlightenment that comes later is concerned mostly with technical specialties and "general information." In the latter field we do not expect a child to know very much. But we do expect more from intelligent adults and those on the threshold of maturity.

For revelations of abysmal ignorance the latest prize ought to go to a group of students in the University of Chicago. Answers in a recent general information "quiz" held by one of the professors exposed these strange beliefs: Disraeli was an Irish patriot. Gerard is a German statesman, the name of a cigar, an English statesman very active in the present war, and the hero of "Cloister in the Hearts." Lloyd George is the King of England. Zimmerman is a ball player, a prize fighter, and a restaurant keeper in Dearborn street. Joffre is a prominent Russian soldier.

Not a single student could identify the "Wildard of Menlo Park"; but several of them did show their acquaintance with the historic places of Europe by describing the Alhambra as "a theatre in London." A quiz on general information might be devised that would baffle almost any well-informed person, but certainly there is no shadow of excuse for any college student going wrong on the questions of contemporary personality here given.

LIGHT-HEARTED WOMEN

A cheerful, light-hearted woman is the joy of a man's life. Beauty will fade, a good figure will change, but the charm of health and cheerfulness will endure to the end. But how can a woman be cheerful and happy when dragged down by some female derangement, with a headache, and often on the verge of a nervous breakdown?

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for such ailments. During the last 40 years thousands of homes have been made happy by this woman's great remedy for women's ills.

JAMES COLLINS DIES

AS RESULT OF INJURIES

James Collins, a former St. John boy, and a checker with the C. P. R. at Montreal, is dead. This was the import of a message received by his grandmother, Mrs. John Campbell, of St. James street, West St. John, yesterday. Collins was run over in the C. P. R. freight yards on Friday last, suffering the loss of his left leg and a fracture of the spine and right leg. For some time he hovered between life and death, while every effort was made to save his life. The battle was nevertheless lost and he died yesterday morning in Notre Dame Hospital, Montreal.

The young man was twenty-two years of age and was born in this city. His uncle, John J. Campbell, resides here. He had been employed for some time with the C. P. R. as a checker, working in this city in the winter and in Montreal during the summer months. He is also survived by another uncle, James Collins of this city, and his grandmother, Mrs. John Campbell, of West St. John. The body will be brought to this city for interment. Young Collins was well known in St. John and a large circle of friends will learn with deepest regret of his untimely death.

If you are obliged to do rough work or have your hands much in cold water, rub them with vinegar and cornmeal. It will prevent chapping and also make the hands white.

Americans Provide Building Rent Free For American Headquarters

Paris, June 23.—The American Red Cross officials who recently arrived here, Maj. Gen. Pershing, have received notable gift on one of the main buildings on the Place de la Concorde, along the ministry of marine, as the American commission's headquarters, rent free. The commission will be established in the new headquarters as soon as equipment is installed. The gift was made by American friends of the Red Cross. One of the officials of the commission said today:

It has been our good fortune to find all our expenses of administration through the generosity of American friends, so that everything realized during Red Cross week in America will go to the actual work pertaining to the American army and navy, and not a penny will be used for administration charges. This includes the funds going to

Poles To Create Separate Army

Vindicate Rights to Nationhood on Battlefield

Likely Side With Allies

Congress at Petrograd is Enthusiastically in Favor of the Idea—Number Half Million

Petrograd, June 23.—The proposal to create a separate Polish army out of the 500,000 Poles at present serving in the Russian ranks recently assumed practical form. Since the advent of the new regime made it possible for Russia and her allies to boldly proclaim the independence of united Poland, the idea of creating a separate Polish army became imperative and the action of France and the United States in prompting the formation of Polish legions has given the parallel movement in Russia irresistible force.

A congress of delegates of Polish troops assembled in Petrograd to express their views. Discussion is still in progress, but it may be stated that an enormous majority are enthusiastically in favor of raising a separate Polish army.

The Polish nation is fully alive to the vanity of all hopes of reuniting union and independence with an outlet to the sea from the Central Powers. The first Polish legions created in Galicia proved a failure because the movement there afforded no guarantee of the reunion of the nation later. When the Germans attempted to raise a Polish army first against Russia the plan also failed. For some reason the legions raised could not be trusted on the Russian front. The first of the Polish military congress was to elect an honorary president, Joseph Pilsudski, organizer of the Galician legions, who resigned membership in the council of state of Warsaw on finding his effort to secure from the Germans independent Polish forces was futile. Pilsudski, by this election, was proclaimed commander-in-chief of the united Polish armies. All allied embassies and legations were represented at the meeting and came forward to express their cordial greetings and hopes of success of the Polish army, and that speeches and from ten or more leading articles in the Dziennik Polski in May it is gathered that the Poles fully realize the necessity of vindicating their rights to nationhood on the battlefield, side by side with the armies which are fighting for the cause of freedom and the democracies of Europe, and that of the fact of co-operation in the great struggle against their traditional oppressors will enable them to realize their voice heard in the peace conference.

FAINTS IN SUBWAY, TRAIN KILLS HIM

Lyman C. Butler, Seized With Vertigo, Falls to Track in Front of Express

New York, June 25.—Lyman C. Butler, an associate in the law firm of Butler, Wyckoff & Campbell, and a sergeant in Company K of the Seventh Regiment, was fatally injured in the subway station at Grand Central when he was seized with vertigo and fell in front of an express train. He died in the New York Hospital.

He was on the way to his law office with his father, William A. Butler, president of the Lawyers' Club, and was standing near the edge of the platform. As the train came into the station he swayed and staggered. His father tried to hold him, but the illness had made him so limp that the elder man could not support his weight and he fell directly to the tracks.

The motorman saw the man on the track and threw on his airbrakes, but the speed of the train was so great that he was unable to stop it in time. Mr. Butler leaped from the platform as soon as the train stopped and tried to extricate the body of his son from the truck of the car. Policemen and ambulance surgeons came to his assistance, and the injured man was taken to the New York Hospital, where he died while being prepared for an operation.

Mr. Butler, who was twenty-eight years old, was graduated from the Princeton University in 1911, and from the Columbia Law School in 1913. He had been an associate in his father's law firm since 1913. For several years he had been a member of Company K of the Seventh Regiment, and during the service on the border at McAllen, Texas, he was a sergeant and was about to receive a commission in the regiment.

In a letter to a representative of congress who had challenged William A. Butler to tell how many of his family were in the army or ready to join it, Mr. Butler wrote of the record of his son in the Seventh Regiment and of the other members of his family. Thirteen members of the family were in the army or preparing to enter it.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 25.—William Baldwin, prominent in this city, Pittsburgh, and Washington, and son-in-law of Colonel William Reeves Russell of the U. S. Baldwin is alleged to have declared on registration day that he was just five days over the limit of thirty-one years, and it is charged, asserted that he would not have registered for the draft any way. The authorities investigated and it is alleged that his marriage certificate obtained in Philadelphia showed him to be twenty-nine years old. Baldwin is of a wealthy Pittsburgh family. He married Miss Bessie Sessions, daughter of a late member of the Italian Embassy at Washington.

CHINESE PHYSICIAN ARRESTED IN TORONTO

Upwards of $1,000 Worth of Opium Found in His Office—Loose Board the Clue

Toronto, June 23.—Dr. Leong Sam, the only Chinese medical practitioner in Toronto, was arrested by plainclothesmen Scott and Neil after making a raid on his offices at No. 9 Chestnut street. According to the police, the raid resulted in one of the largest seizures of opium that has been made for some time, the officers of No. 2 police division estimating the monetary value of the drug seized at about $1,000.

A little before midnight the plainclothesmen, assisted by Constable White, of the uniformed service, raided the doctor's premises. The plainclothesmen, armed with a search warrant, entered the offices while the policemen stood guard at the door. A thorough search of the various rooms of the house were made, but resulted in nothing being found. Then one of the officers noticed a board loose at the top of the cellar steps. This was pried off, and in an area beneath the stairs were found stowed away two five pound tins of opium and seven three pound tins of the drug, while seven packages of opium ash were also taken out. In another hiding-place beneath the cellar window a further search of the plainclothesmen was rewarded by the locating of a complete opium outfit. The total value of the opium, which has increased in price almost sixfold since the commencement of the present world-war, is estimated in the neighborhood of $1,000.

Dr. Leong Sam is said to have an exceptionally large practise among the members of the Chinese colony and for some time he has been suspected by the police of having noxious drugs in his possession. Some time ago his offices were visited by the police, but at that time, notwithstanding a thorough search being made, no drugs were found. He is now held in the cells of Agnes street station charged with having a quantity of opium in his possession and he will appear in the police court to answer the charge.

Wylie's Slayer Was Remanded

Woodstock, June 26.—William Glenn, the alleged slayer of Harry Wylie of Glassville, was arraigned this afternoon before Police Magistrate Holyoke. Sheriff Foster, before taking the prisoner from his cell told him that if he would come quietly that he would not handcuff him. Glenn replied that he had had this far been "used light" by the authorities and would accord them the same treatment.

Glenn kept his promise but when he arrived in the court room, confronted by scores of curious eyes, he was perceptibly nervous and continually shifted in his seat. Owing to the fact that the relatives of the victim were absent at the funeral, the prisoner was remanded until Thursday. Glenn was not represented by counsel. Hon. W. F. Jones attended to the case for the crown. It is understood that relatives of the prisoner will have counsel present at the preliminary hearing.

THE HARDWARE MARKET

"Hardware and Metal," June 28, said:
Higher prices were recorded in important hardware lines during the week.
The commodities in which there was an easier tendency being in line with iron and turpentine. Steel and iron products of all kinds at the producing points registered now high selling at even higher prices than last week. The government requirements of iron and steel has far exceeded the expectations of the mills and in their effort to meet it have been obliged to sacrifice much business to private consumers. Black sheets and galvanized sheets are becoming a scarce article in the Canadian market, due to the inability of dealers to get deliveries in the near future. There is a disposition in the United States to look for much higher prices in the line of iron and steel, and if this occurs prices of hardware will inevitably be affected in a similar manner.

Higher prices were recorded on black sheets in certain quarters during the week and corrugated galvanized sheets were also moved to higher levels. Lines in which advances have been taken place include wrenches, cotton twine, shoe threads, ice cream freezers, blasting and stumping powder, masons' hammers, hatchets, screen doors and windows, buck-saws, oil storage systems, conductor pipe and cave-trough. One of the cordage companies that has been out of the market on kinder twine for some time returned again and announced higher prices. Mixed paints are in firm market. Business in hardware lines has been good during the week.

THE GROCERY MARKET

The following comment on the market situation as regards food stuffs appeared in the Canadian Grocer last week:
With a sagging tendency in the wheat market during the week flour was in a weaker position. Demand for this commodity is light in the face of the fluctuating market. Some Ontario mills are shipping flour into the United States and this is keeping them fairly busy.
Demand for millfeeds is lighter on account of the excellent grass pasture for stock at present. Sugar declined 15c a hundred. Local demand is still very light. Reports of the sinking of 40,000 tons of sugar in ten days by submarines has put a measure of firmness in the market by reason of the fact that supplies have been decreased by that. The rainy season has now set in on the Island of Cuba and production of raw sugar will diminish from this time forward.
Butter and eggs were in easier market, in the latter commodity considerable declines being recorded, due to the unexpected increase in production.
Cheese held steady at recent prices, but there was a disposition on the part of dealers to pay slightly more to the fac-

THE LORD MAYOR'S MOTTO

Sir Wm. Thelvor when Lord Mayor of London, said: "My motto for womankind is, 'The better the cook, the happier the husband.'"

There is no earthly reason why wives should not, nowadays, perfect themselves in the gentle art of cooking. Instruction of the very best is open to them, and have never been available before, are brought within the reach of the narrowest purse.

Take, for instance, the delicious H. P.
Sauces, introduced only a short time ago from England. The different choice flavours of Oriental fruits and spices are perfectly blended in this new and delicious relish, and the young housewife, with a bottle of H. P. Sauce at her elbow, will make a certain success of the little stew, ragout, and hashes, which are so much of a puzzle and trial to the inexperienced cook.

bing it with a potato dipped in baking soda.

C. H. McKay SELLS HIS SUGAR HOLDINGS

Claus A. Spreckels Buys $25,000 Shares of Federal Refining Co.
for $2,250,000

(New York Times)
Clarence H. Mackay has settled his differences with the management of the Federal Sugar Refining Company by selling his entire stock holdings, approximately 25,000 shares, to Claus A. Spreckels, president of the concern, for $2,250,- 000. The arrangement announced yesterday provides that W. W. Cook, Mr.
Mackay's attorney and a former officer of the company, shall receive from Mr.
Spreckels the same price paid Mr. Mackay, which was $90 a share, for his block of 16,000 shares, while the other stockholders who supported the Mackay faction in the effort to force changes in the management are to receive a similar offer.

If all the stock is turned in, Mr.
Spreckels will purchase nearly 50,000 shares of Federal stock, half of the company's outstanding capital. Payment is to be made in installments covering a period of several months. J. Horace Harding, who acted with Mr. Mackay on the proxy committee, said yesterday that a letter had been sent to those stockholders who gave their proxies saying that the opportunity to sell their stock would be held open until June 25, by which date the shares are to be delivered to C. D. Barney & Co.

The deal contained an unusual feature, it was learned yesterday. The day before the annual meeting, scheduled for last Monday, both the Mackay and the Spreckels factions believed they had enough proxies to control the company.
Mr. Harding compared notes with Mr.
Spreckels, and when neither could convince the other that he would lose, it is understood, Mr. Mackay was notified of the situation. So close was the vote indicated by the proxy holdings that it was believed certain shareholders had sent proxies to both sides.

Mr. Mackay thereupon offered either to sell his holdings or buy out the stock owned by Mr. Spreckels and his associates, but gave Mr. Spreckels first choice. Mr. Spreckels elected to buy the stock of Mr. Mackay and his party, and next day the annual meeting was postponed until June 26.

When differences between Messrs.
Mackay and Spreckels in respect to the Federal Sugar management became public a month ago the directors sent a letter to stockholders saying that the stock was ready for dividends, and that a request would be made at the annual meeting to allow full publicity of the corporate affairs. The shares have since been put on a 6 per cent. annual basis.

Government To Blame For Failure of Voluntary System

Liberal Members Urge More Faith in Principles of Democracy — Hon. Dr.
Pugsley Will Support the Referendum Proposal

Ottawa, June 25.—Parliament, today, heard four different viewpoints on the conscription issue. The minister of militia, Sir Edward Kemp, led off with a defence of the argument of the measure which added little new to the arguments or information already before the house. He noted that of the 6,400 recruits during May only 1,208 had gone to the Quebec situation, he said that the recruiting campaign of Colonel Blouin and General Lessard had netted only 221 soldiers and only 92 of these enlisted from the province of Quebec.

William German, Welland, declared his approval of the conscription principle and his disapproval of the "Prussianism" which would not trust the people. To refuse the people the right to pronounce upon conscription because it was feared they would not pronounce right was, he declared, a new doctrine for a free country.

"It may be torism but it is not Liberalism and it is not democracy," exclaimed Mr. German.

In a trenchant, clearcut address, the member for Welland hit out hard at the administrative failures of the government since the war began. The taint of politics, he said, had run through everything and consequently the government had fallen down on everything. The present bill he characterized as a bill not to gain recruits but to gain an election. While declaring that if a referendum were refused he would have to vote for the bill and do what he could to make it a success, Mr. German made a strong appeal to the government to adopt the honest course of submitting the question to the people after an adequate educational campaign, thus avoiding "discontent, discord, destruction, disunion and disaster."

"I fear that back of this bill is more of a desire to win an election than to win the war," said Mr. German in summing up. "You had a minister of militia who was striving to win the war and you have a minister of public works striving to win elections. You put out the minister striving to win the war and you kept the minister who strives to win elections. That is why this looks to me more like winning an election than winning the war."

Hon. Albert Seigney, minister of inland revenue, announced that he would support the bill. He declared that feeling was running so high in his province that his life had been threatened. However, he intended to stand by the government. His declaration in 1911 that Canada owes nothing to England, and his got around by saying that Canada was not fighting now for England but was fighting for her own existence. His attack on Sir Wilfrid Laurier as "an old man of seventy-six years of age who is ending his career by siding the two races further apart," drew vigorous protests from the Liberal members by whom Mr. Seigney's somewhat labored recantation of the Nationalist doctrine he preached in 1911 was cynically received.

HON. DR. PUGSLEY'S STAND.

The fourth and last speaker of the day was Hon. Dr. Pugsley. The failure of the voluntary system, he attributed not to the people, but to the government. He recounted some of the sins of omission and commission. He pertinently asked for some statistical demonstration of the truth of the government's claim that conscription must be resorted to forthwith lest the gaps at the front be left unfilled.

The figures given the house, he said, needed a lot of explanation, and the prime minister had made out no case for the sudden breaking of every pledge in regard to conscription, given to parliament and to the people.

He believed that the best interests of the war would be served, and harmony and unity among the Canadian people maintained if the referendum were granted. If it were not granted, he declared, he would have to vote against the bill in the belief that the whole situation would be properly cleared up by a new parliament and a new administration.

Air Robert moved that on and after parliament had been extended after repeated assurances to the country by the prime minister that conscription was not thought of.

Apparently, said the member for St. John, all the government thought of was "political expediency, patronage and sending men to the trenches."

As to the immediate necessity for conscription Dr. Pugsley pointed out that the government had not attempted to demonstrate by actual figures what the real needs of the case were. The figures which had been given showed 600,000 men enlisted and only 880,000 sent overseas or left in Canada. The disappearance of 90,000 men had not been explained. With 145,000 men still in England or Canada, according to the government's own figures and with recruiting still proceeding at the rate of 7,000 per month under the voluntary system, Dr. Pugsley thought, parliament was entitled to some further explanation as to why the voluntary system should be dropped and conscription with all its difficulties and dangers resorted to.

Referring to the United States he said that if that country did its part as nobly as Canada had done the American army would be between 6,000,000 and 7,000,000 men. It was their war as much as Canada's. Canada had been fighting the battle of the United States. If the war lasted three years longer, were we to go on draining our country, he asked. It must not be expected of us, he said, that we should do more than human.

He said there was no reason for this extraordinary measure and it should not be passed except by a parliament having the mandate of the people. The conscription bill was a breach of faith with parliament and a breach of faith with the country. The life of

"I want to say," he said, "that in view of what is now taking place, the unreasonable automatic effort to pass this bill through parliament, I say I was guilty at the last session of parliament."

He added that he would never again rely on the pledges of the treasury. They would have to take the vote of the soldiers of course. No vote would be worthy of being considered unless the votes of the soldiers were taken. He concluded by declaring that the people were the court of last resort and the conscription bill was simply an autocratic attempt to disregard their wishes. He was utterly and unalterably opposed to the bill going to a second reading. If a referendum was beaten on the second reading and also the third reading. He was doing what he was doing to preserve the harmony of the people.

The adjournment of the debate was moved by Colonel James Arthur.

RIVERDALE LIBERALS FOR CONSCRIPTION

It Must Be Wholesome in Character and Include Wealth, Too

Riverdale, Ont., June 26.—"Resolved that in order to consolidate the various classes to win the war, a wholesome conscription bill be adopted which will include the manpower of the nation without exemption or premium to any kind of man in the various vocations of life who is physically fit, irrespective of wealth, nationality, age, race or creed, together with all excessive profits in trade relations since the war began and on unequal increment by way of exploiting idle lands, mines, fisheries and timber limits."

Such was the uncompromising, straightforward resolution passed by the North Riverdale Liberal Association in Playter's Hall, with a good attendance, presided over by Dr. Pugsley.

"Win the war first, chastise the government afterwards." That was the tenor of a strong address delivered by night by Wm. Proudfoot, member for Centre Huron, at a meeting of North Riverdale Liberal Association in Playter's Hall. It was a strong plea for unity, tolerance and efficiency in the present national crisis; for the prompt adoption of a law that would conscript, without discrimination, the manpower and the wealth of the country; and for the stern and impartial enforcement of the law.

"There has undoubtedly been gross mismanagement at Ottawa," said Mr. Proudfoot. "Neither one party nor the other has much to brag about in this respect. And both alike are reaping the consequences of the mismanagement of the war to his home in 1911. But we can afford to be charitable and make full allowances, because the matters to be faced were entirely new to Liberals and Conservatives alike."

"In Quebec the Borden government sowed the seeds of combativeness by sending a Methodist minister as a representative to the Roman Catholic priest here on such a mission."

Had Quebec sent a Roman Catholic priest here on such a mission? That was the question asked by a strong speaker who took to the stage with a strong plea for the proper nationality in the lower province, Quebec would undoubtedly have accepted and responded in a different spirit."

The remedy for the present situation, urged the speaker, was national conscription promptly and equitably enforced. In that way only, he declared, could Canada redeem her proper place among the nations. Like many other good Liberals he hesitated to criticize the honorable leader of the Liberal party, "but," he said, amid applause, "I would have been much better pleased had Sir Wilfrid Laurier seen his way clear to come out boldly for conscription. As a means of supplying the much needed reinforcements at the front, the government should put through the conscription bill without delay, and by the same post they should extend the life of parliament and see that the law is enforced. I do not believe in parliaments extending their own lives, but this is a case of emergency, an exceptional situation. The government should take every possible means to enforce the conscription law and enforce it with an iron hand."

Amid loud acclamations he declared that, in the present seeming chaos, the people were divided more on the ways and means of doing things than on those things themselves. "We are not following party, we are following principles," he said, "and out of the present upheaval will come great reforms."

Another Passive Resister

Another French member told The Star that Quebec would merely "sit tight" under conscription. "We would not even apply for exemptions," he said. "We would simply go about our ordinary business in our ordinary way, and if they wanted to put us all in jail for three years, well, then, all right. But there are a lot of us."

It is easily seen how Mr. Gauthier's speech came to be interpreted. He professed his disingenuous remarks by saying that this was one of the most solemn hours of his life, and his whole manner reflected his respect for some radical

He was readily accepted. He is a Quebec lawyer of standing, is not of the French type, and he had been talking in French his meaning would have been beyond doubt.

The supposition that a threat had been made resulted in converting several additional English-speaking Liberals to vote against the amendment. What the effect of the explanation will be in these remains to be seen.

oppose 'all-round national service' whereas the opposition to the proposed one-sided conscription of life will undoubtedly be both widespread and bitter. Some concessions must, therefore, be made to the demand for a more equitable application of the principle of conscription.

The refusal of the government to meet the demand for the conscription of wealth, simultaneously with its proposals for the conscription of man-power, would create the impression in the minds of the farmer and the workman that pressure is being brought to bear on the premier and his colleagues to exempt, or only lightly touch, wealth amassed out of the necessities of war.

"I spoke of suffering and pains and going to the limit. My reference was entirely to the direct consequences which the proposed conscription of wealth would involve, namely, imprisonment. What I promised on behalf of my constituents was passive resistance."

"I may say," added Mr. Gauthier, "that some of my people did talk of fighting. But I told them, 'Don't be foolish. The government could come with machine guns and sweep you away for you have not a revolver.' That has been my attitude, and I cannot understand how Ontario has misunderstood my words, unless the wish was father to the thought, and they actually desired to see my province offer armed resistance."

the front line here in France. My idea is that all war workers, whether they be in France or elsewhere, whether they are running a lathe or shooting a gun, should have the same wages or equivalent wages, that is a wage plus a ration allowance, or living allowance. I cannot see why extremely high wages should be paid anybody for any kind of war work, for in the end we have to pay for it, and when I say we, I mean the man on active service, after the conflict is over, will have to pay back into the treasury, his share of these bloated wages, in addition to that which he has already subscribed, by offering himself as a target for the Hun."

MILL EMPLOYS WOMEN IN PLACE OF MEN

Hamburg, Ark., June 26.—Five Cross-sett women went to work in the novelty department of the Crossett Lumber Co. planing mills Tuesday morning to take the places of men who have enlisted in the army and navy. The departure of many young men to join the colors has caused a labor shortage, officials of the company say, and resulted in a decision to give some of the lighter work to women. It is believed that the company is the first in Arkansas to employ women in this sort of work.

Striking Plumbers Followed And Threatened Robt. Harris

"You'll be Without Your Supper Some Night," Everett Carlyn is Said to Have Told Him—Evidence of Sister of Murdered Man—Inquest Adjourns to Hear Mother's Testimony

That two men were seen in an alley close to the spot where Robert Harris was assaulted and fatally wounded on the night of June 14; that these men were there just a short while before Harris was found lying at the side of the street; that on several occasions Harris was followed and jeered at; that on two occasions Everett Carlyn, now under arrest charged with intimidating Francis McManus, was among the group of scoffers; that on one night about a month ago Carlyn shouted after him, "Never you mind, scab, you'll be without your supper some night." These were features of the coroner's inquest, continued last night, which shed the first gleam of light on the tragedy of a week ago.

The court room was thronged with spectators. The session, however, was brief, adjournment being made at 9:15 o'clock. The jurors were instructed to meet this afternoon at 5 o'clock at the corner of Rockland road and Cranston avenue, to view the scene of the tragedy. On next Tuesday evening Mrs. Harris, mother of the victim, will testify. She was unable to appear last night. Followed by Carlyn.

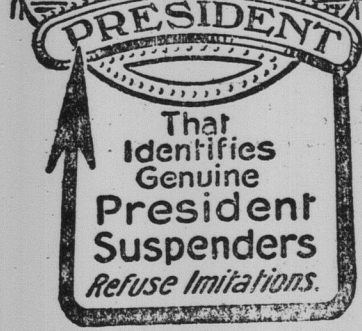

The first witness called to the stand by Dr. P. L. Kenney, coroner, was Harry T. Lunn. He had been Harris' helper for some time. On the night of the tragedy he worked with Harris at the home of Mrs. Clarke, West St. John. He left him at the corner of Rockland road, where Harris got off the car. On one occasion, the witness testified, while they were working at the armory, Harris was followed by Carlyn and two others. Some one of the three shouted: "Why won't you be a man?" and the children around cried out "Rat."

Miss Carrie Harris, sister of the unfortunate victim, told of one occasion, about a month ago, when Harris was followed. It was just at the short cut on Wright street. There were three men, one of whom she recognized as Carlyn. She heard him shout: "Never mind, scab, you'll be without your supper some night." Her little brother, Wilfred, eight years old, was also with her at the time. Her brother answered back: "It's a fine night."

Margaret Coleman, who resides in Somerset street, was returning home by way of Rockland road on the evening Harris was struck. It was about 10:45 o'clock when she passed, in company with Mr. Wood, opposite Cranston avenue. There she saw two men, only a few feet from the street, hugging "the few feet from the street, hugging" the Haley building very closely. One of the men had his arm up on the wall and had his head buried in it, as though to conceal his face. The other, the taller of the two, wore a dark overcoat. She couldn't tell what kind of a hat he had. She could not see if either had anything in his hand. She was frightened when she came so suddenly upon them and did not pay much attention as to their appearance. She remarked, however, to her escort: "Look at the two meaks."

On a photograph which was made by the police the witness marked with a cross the place where she saw the two men. The witness did not think she could identify the men. Asked if a certain man in court were one of them she replied in the negative. John Wilson, recalled to the stand, marked on the photograph the spot where he picked up Harris. It was in never given me an hour's worry in his life." Later on Mr. Harris stated he could not say that he had enemies among the plumbers.

At this point court adjourned. The coroner remarked that it was the old custom to hold a coroner's court at a street corner and that today the custom would be revived.

F. R. Taylor, K.C., appeared for the master plumbers and J. A. Sinclair appeared for the journeymen with Edward Henneberry assisting. Commissioner H. R. McEllan and the chief of police were in court.

Bail Refused.

No developments have taken place in police circles. There are at present in custody four of the striking plumbers on charges of arson and two on charges of intimidating a so-called scab. Application was made last Saturday for bail at $100 each but the police magistrate refused to take it. He pointed out that as the men were out of work they would suffer very little by remaining in jail and he was anxious to await developments in the Harris case.

At the first session of the inquest on Saturday evening the theory of foul play was fully established by the medical testimony which told of other bruises on the face and head, besides the blow at the base of the skull which caused death.

W. T. Bell, of 195% Union street, last evening told The Telegraph that he wished to offer a reward of $50 for information leading to the arrest of the parties implicated in the attack on Harris.

WANTED HOME RULE IN INDIA

Protest Meetings Organized After Mrs. Besant Was Cured.

(New York Times)

London, June 25.—Telegrams from Bombay say that the restrictions placed by the government on Mrs. Annie Besant and her colleagues are the sequel to a violent home rule agitation, which was distinguished by a vilification of everything British and western. The restrictive measures evoked a storm of adverse comment in the native press, and protest meetings were organized. The local British press welcomes the restrictions silencing the dangerous movement.

Mrs. Besant has been forbidden by the Indian government to participate in any meetings, deliver lectures, or publish her writings. She and her associates are also prohibited from residing in Madras City, and ordered to remain within certain areas. Their correspondence has been censored. Mrs. Besant is head of the Theosophical Society, and was expelled from the presidency of Bombay last year for preaching revolt in India.

LITTLE MARY IN HER GREATEST SUCCESS

Imperial Audiences Delighted With Popular Actress in "A Poor Little Rich Girl"

Mary Pickford scored the triumph of her young life on the Imperial screen yesterday in A Poor Little Rich Girl. It proved to be the sweetest and most humanly delightful story the tiny star has graced with her childish characteristics. In fact most discerning people who know little Mary's capabilities concurred in the idea that juvenile interpretations is really her forte. Since appearing before the public Miss Pickford has played all sorts of roles, one director casting her for such an outrageously inappropriate part as Nell Gwynne, the mistress of Charles II. In the picture now running, however, she is entirely in her element. It is her most charming effort and one cannot see how she can eclipse it.

Gwendolyn, the "poor little rich girl," is so called for her wealth and material comforts and her poverty in the heart, pines and affection she craves. She is a full-blooded little girl, but as is often the case in real life, is denied the actual pleasures of childhood through her fish parents who are too busy with their own ambitions to realize that their child is unhappy. A tragic incident brings realization to the parents and the doctor's prescription of plenty of play, to tor, prescription of plenty of play, to loving hearts over the hill of shadow into the valley of sunshine.

In addition to its other merits A Poor Little Rich Girl offers rare opportunities for artistic effects. The limitations of visualizing the story, which were placed on the stage production and which are readily evident to the many thousands who have read the novel or seen the play, have been removed through the possibilities of the screen, and it is generally felt that although the success of both the book and the play has been great, the subject as presented on the screen with Mary Pickford in the title role will only now actually come into its own.

In spite of the fine weather and although many are in their bathing costumes this the picture is too good a home to let slip past. For children particularly it is a six reels of unalloyed joy and with its merry plumber, organ grinder, and mud-splashed fair fantasy and human der, touches little ones who flocked to the Imperial yesterday were regaled as seldom before. World Tour pictures of Gibraltar, Martinique after the volcano eruption, Cadix in Spain and rivers in France, also the British Gazette, completed the bill.

Today and tomorrow afternoon the Mary Pickford picture will be repeated. Wednesday it will be used the second part of the afternoon. The first part, from 2 to 3:30, will be occupied with the Triangle Fine Arts society drama, The Dark Road, with Dorothy Dalton as the prime star. It will be a double show. Wednesday night the Triangle picture and Fatty Arbuckle in his first Paramount scream-farce, The Butcher's Boy.

END WAR WITH AIR FLEETS

Hawley Says America Could Do It by Spending a Billion

Washington, June 25.—The House committee on military affairs, considering a bill to create a new department of aeronautics, with a cabinet officer at its head, was told by Alan R. Hawley, president of the Aero Club of America, that the government should appropriate $1,000,000,000 for aviation and end the European war.

"It is a foregone conclusion," said Mr. Hawley, whose statement was supported by Henry Woodhouse, member of the board of governors of the Aero Club, "that the war is going to be decided in the air. It has been estimated that had the Allies 20,000 more well-equipped aviators today they could practically smother Germany and win decisive victory, achieving what a million additional soldiers could not achieve."

"Our allies are doing everything they can to turn out aviators and aircraft in large numbers. Great Britain is believed to be producing 4,000 airplanes a month and France as many, but they are used as fast as they are manufactured, enough to enable our allies to strike a decisive blow, there will probably be needed 100,000 airplanes and 10,000 to 25,000 aviators, the airplanes to be manufactured and the aviators to be trained in America."

"To train this number of aviators and arrange for the manufacture of the aircraft needed will require a large administrative personnel and an expenditure of about $1,000,000,000. The war and navy department are already overwhelmed with work and have neither the facilities nor the personnel required for the administration of an adequate air service. Efficiency and economy demand that we take advantage of the experiences of our allies and create a department of aeronautics to undertake this very important work."

July Records

HERE is a record of "Old Black Joe," by Louis Graveure, the world-famed baritone, that is nothing less than a perfect gem of inspired song-interpretation. The very soul of the whole dying darkey speaks in moving tenderness in each phrase, and as the soft, scarce-breathed last words die away, the hearer is left with tears in his eyes. And "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia" voices the longing expressed in the words with such rare, touching and true expressiveness, and the ending is so wholly beautiful, that the listener finds himself silent—enthralled!

Of the same class is Lucy Gates' rendering of "Aloha Oe," the Hawaiian farewell-song, with the sweet sound of guitars and four fine male voices bringing out the tender beauty of her voice; Francis Macmillan's first recording (exclusively for the Columbia Company) of two of his own violin compositions; and the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra's recording of the "Barcarole" from "The Tales of Hoffmann." These are indeed unusual.

Added to these are patriotic selections, bugle calls, band music; songs by Vernon Selles from Victor Herbert's "Lilac"; two beautiful ballads sung by Charles Harrison; croon, quartettes, humorous dialogues; drum-and-piano and bell novelities; saxophone selections and story-telling records, making a list that's a notable addition to the fine list of records with the "music-note" trademark. Willard Releases Managers

Buffalo, N.Y., June 23.—Tom Jones and Jack Curley have been discharged by Jess Willard as his managers. They announced this here on Saturday. Jones says that Willard notified him at Onondaga on Thursday that he had dispensed with his services. They both say Willard wanted to get rid of them before he signs up for any fights for next fall or winter. His contract, Jones says, will not expire until September, and in the meantime he will accept an offer of $50,000 from Matt Henkel of Cleveland for Willard to fight the winner of the Fulton-Weinert bout, and also will accept $50,000 for the champion to box Carl Morris for an eastern syndicate.

Dundee Gets His Chance

A ten-round bout between Johnny Dundee, a New York Italian lightweight, and Willie Jackson, a Bronx boxer, which will be held at the St. Nicholas A. C., New York, on next Friday night, is attracting more than the usual amount of attention among boxing enthusiasts there. To Dundee, this contest means more than any other he has participated in since he started his career as a boxer. He will have a chance to prove to boxing followers what he has contended since that night in Philadelphia several weeks ago when Jackson knocked him out for the first time in his career—that the knockout blow delivered by the Bronx boxer was more or less an accident.

Prior to his meeting in Philadelphia with Dundee, Jackson was generally looked upon as a fair second-rater among the lightweights, but his decisive win over the Italian lightweight gained him first-rank prominence overnight. Since that time the Italian and his manager have been making efforts to consummate a return engagement. However, Jackson has been holding out for his price, and it was only recently that Jimmy Johnston, manager of the St. Nicholas Club, stepped into the breach and closed the match.

The bout was scheduled for a week ago, but was delayed on a plea from Jackson that he was having considerable trouble with his eyes. Both boxers are reported in fine fettle. It is expected that the winner will get a match with the lightweight champion, Benny Leonard.

NEW YORK, June 23.—The Brooklyn handicap at nine furlongs over the Queen's County Jockey Club's course at Aqueduct, Long Island, today was won by Harry Payne Whitney's aged gelding Borwick, 117 pounds, but his stable mate, the chestnut mare, Regret, winner of the Kentucky Derby of 1915, was the heroine of the race. From flag fall to within fifty yards of the finish this five-year-old daughter of Bromstick-Jersey Lightning, led the field of eleven of the best horses in America, setting such a dizzy pace that the winner's time, 1:45.5, was a new world's record. The old record of 1:48.5 was made over the Laurel, Md., track by Roamer, then a three-year-old, carrying 124 pounds, on October 10, 1914.

Yankees Get Players

Charlotte, S.C., June 23.—Players Ward, shortstop, and Camp, centre fielder of the Charlotte club have been sold to the New York American league team, delivery to be made after the South Atlantic league season closes.

Shower Spoiled Game

New York, June 23.—It was announced here on Saturday that Lavern Fabrique, shortstop of the Brooklyn National League Baseball Club, has been unconditionally released to the Toledo club of the American Association.

Goat Wins One-Mile Title

Newark, June 24.—Alfred Goulet won the one-mile national cycling championship at the Velodrome this afternoon before 9,000 fans, beating out Bob Spears, Frank Kramer was third and Francisco Merri fourth.

GIANTS AND WHITE SOX
NEARLY ALL-STAR TEAMS

The Giants are being criticized all over their circuit as a team representing the strength of the National Exhibition Company's bankroll more than McGraw's constructive genius. Comiskey last season was roasted unmercifully for trying to buy a pennant-winner. Comiskey paid close to $100,000 for his two big stars, Eddie Collins and Joe Jackson. Collins cost him $50,000, and he had to give Eddie a five-year contract at $15,000 a year. The Old Roman also bought Outfielders Eddie Murray and Nemo Lohm, from the Athletics and Indians, respectively, for neat little sums, and would have outbid the Yankees for Frank Baker but not Ben Johnson exerted enough influence to swing the player to New York.

Both Giants and White Sox are the nearest to all-star teams in their respective leagues. In fact both clubs are supposed to have too much stellar material. It is supposed to make them unwieldy and poorly balanced. But we may know more about that a few months from now.

DOGGERS DESTINED TO CLIMB FROM BOTTOM

It seems unwise to consign the Brooklyn to a permanent place in the second division. The trouble with the team is weak pitching, yet it is unreasonable to expect such hurlers as Cheney and Marquard to remain backward the rest of the campaign. When the Brooklyn returns to Ebbets' Field on June 28, therefore, they ought to turn over a new leaf. As soon as the pitching shows the necessary improvement, it is hard to figure how the team can be kept out of the first row. Uncle Robbie has endured trials and tribulations this year that would drive an ordinary person mad. But the Robbins' good natured leader is patient personified. He never gives up the ship, and he still is hoping that his champions suddenly will begin to mow down the enemy.

Form cuts as much of a figure in baseball as in horse racing and other sports. The Brooklyn have the same team that won the National League pennant last season, and that is why it is believed that they are bound to assert themselves before they reach the halfway mark in the schedule.

DELEGATES FOR SUMMER SCHOOL

Over 140 have registered for attendance at the summer school for Sunday school and missionary workers of the Anglican church in the maritime provinces being held at Windsor (N.S.) from June 25 to June 30. The young men will stay at King's College and the young ladies at Edgemoor.

About nineteen delegates left St. John yesterday for Windsor, among whom were included Rev. W. P. Dunham, of Fairville; Mrs. George F. Matthews, Miss Mabel Gilbert, of Rothesay; Miss Halls, of Hoyt Station; Miss Smith, of Hoyt Station; Miss Bayard and Miss Dorothy Bayard, Mrs. G. F. Scovill, Miss V. Smith, Miss Ethel Mawhinney, of West St. John; Miss Reid, of Fairville; and Dr. Catherine Travis, of Hampton, who has been to the Sermon at night and will take part in the programme.

LOCAL NEWS

Two hundred people went up the river last evening on the steamer May Queen on a moonlight excursion.

Rev. Gilbert Earle, who is soon to leave for Trinidad, was made the recipient of a handsome autographic camera last evening by the Young People's Society of Fairville Methodist church.

James Logan of Hampton, who was severely injured Sunday when he was thrown from his wagon, now regained consciousness and is believed to be out of danger. He is still in a rather drowsy condition as a result of his injuries.

In reply to a letter from the local Board of Trade, Sir George E. Foster said that he had heard no criticism to the effect that the eastern ports could not handle the grain shipments and that the only solution would be to shift the business to Vancouver.

Three hundred and twenty shells were lifted in the first day's activities of the divers in the employ of E. O. Leahy at No. 5 shed, West St. John. It is expected that the divers will average from 500 to 800 shells a day. Some of the pilings on which the shed rested have been broken off.

A very pleasant surprise was given Mrs. W. C. Matthews last evening when the mothers of the children of the free kindergarten of Portland street made her the recipient of a week-end traveling bag in recognition of her services in the kindergarten.

In the police court yesterday afternoon the case of arson was resumed against John Hughes and Joseph O'Brien. Police-men Saunders recalled said that the shoes on the horse defendants had not been changed. The job, he said, did not look like that of a blacksmith. Some discussion arose over the removing of the shoes.

Paris Gabbree, a Syrian, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon while working at laying the 24-inch main in Manawagonish road. A tripod from which a length of pipe was suspended on the chain, was being lowered into the trench, collapsed and one end of the heavy tube struck the workman. He was rushed to the General Public Hospital. His injuries are serious but his condition is not critical.

The investigation into the fire at the St. John County Hospital on the night of January 21, which was attributed to faulty erection of the kitchen stove, was continued yesterday afternoon in the county secretary's office. The company who made the hospital range said they were not responsible for the fire and said that the base on which the range rests should be part of the building. It is understood a report of investigation will be drafted and submitted about the second week in July to the municipal council.

TORY PATRIOT REWARDED.

Fredericton Mail.—It is reported from Gloucester that Martin Robichaud, ex-M. P., who got in wrong while handling road moneys for the old government, has been rewarded by the federal government with an appointment as fishery overseer. This is in keeping with the policy followed with respect to Col. Sheridan, ex-M. P. for Kent, who was appointed Indian agent.

THREE HUNTON BOYS IN KHAKI

Sackville Tribune.—The Hunton family is certainly doing its part towards winning the war. Professor and Mrs. S. W. Hunton have three sons, all of whom are now wearing the King's uniform. Sydney, has been in France since last September. James O., who has been waiting some time for an appointment as lieutenant, recently joined the New Brunswick Machine Gun draft, which is soon to go overseas. Not receiving his appointment as an officer he took the only course open to him if he wished to get to the front, and the fact that he gave up hope of officer's rank and reverted to a private is greatly to his credit and will be heard with pleasure by many friends. Today the last son of the family, Thomas Hunton, leaves for St. John, later proceeding to Ottawa with the Signallers. "Tom" goes along with five other Sackville boys, Edgar Copp, R. V. Sharp, Ronald Raimie, Geo. McKenzie and Gordon Ayard, all of whom are prepared to do well their part in the great world war.

FAVOR NATIONAL GOVERNMENT

Sackville Tribune.—The Sackville Methodist church yesterday morning, Rev. H. E. Thomas read the pastoral sermon submitted to the N. B. and P. E. I. Conference at Moncton last week, making comments thereon. Speaking of the present situation at Ottawa, Mr. Thomas expressed himself as being strongly in favor of a national government. He was of the opinion that no government in the hands of a political party, would measure out even handed justice when it came to enforcing conscription. Patronage, which had so defiled the body politic, would make it possible for a man with a pull to get his son released from the necessity of shouldering his rifle. Mr. Thomas said that he did not believe that all legislative ability was to be found at Ottawa among men who happened to be elected to parliament. It was quite possible that men now on farms, in machine shops, or elsewhere would be better equipped to occupy the prominent positions than those now in authority. Once a national government was formed and a programme outlined, Mr. Thomas favored a general election in order to get the approval of the people.

A SOLDIER'S CANDIDATE.

A Regina paper says: "E. C. Kirk, a returned soldier, has been asked to accept the nomination as soldiers' candidate in the provincial elections on June 26, and it is understood that he will accept and stand as a non-partisan. Since his return from the front he has taken great part in the activities of the returned men, and has travelled the province in the interests of the patriotic society and returned soldiers without remuneration. He has represented the soldiers at several conferences, and is a recognized leader among the men." E. C. Kirk is a son of the late John Kirk, formerly of Dorchester.
