LOST HER MONEY

A Michigan Woman Taken In by a Hindoo Healer.

> Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 21.-In the Superior Court Prof. Leon, an alleged Hindoo healer, was convicted of grand larceny and sentenced to Jackson for five years.

Leon has had a spectacular career in this city. Several months ago he appeared here, opened up headquarters in the Lincoln Club rooms and soon did an immense business of alleged healing. He claimed to come direct from India, and to have an occult power. He attracted women of all classes, and not a few society people paid him well for treatment. It was the rawest kind of a fake, but he continued in clover until arrested on complaint of Mrs. Jeannette Tandler for robbing her of $400 in cash. She said that she had been troubled with an ailment and went to Leon for treatment. He learned that she had the money saved and went to her house He induced her to allow him to place the money in a book, which he wrap-ped up, deposited it in a box, locked it, and after making a few mysterious passes over it, told her not to open it for 90 days. In about a month she became suspicious, opened the box and found her money gone. The trial was short, and a verdict of guilty was rendered in half an hour after the jury retired. Leon was taken to Jackson at once.

A CALAMITY

Nearly Half the Manitoba Wheat Crop Damaged or Destroyed-Prices Going Up.

Winnipeg. Oct. 21.-Under the heading, "A Calamity," a city paper says: The long continuance of the awful weather this country has been experiencing for weeks is nothing short of an absolute calamity. Millions of dollars' worth of actual damage has already been done, and the destruction is still going on.

Various estimates of the percentage of crop that has either been completely ruined or badly damaged have been made, and it would seem to be safe to place it at one-half; many conservative people place it higher.

The difficulty has been that before the harvest was well under way the rain set in and caused delay. threw the harvest late, and before any considerable quantity could be stacked the real rainy season began, and has continued intermittently for six weeks or more, so that many farmers have neither been able to complete their stacking nor have their threshing done.

A bulge in wheat at Liverpool sent up the price at Fort William. Transactions on the local exchange were made yesterday at 77 cents for No. 1 hard and 73 cents for No. 1 northern.

MARCHAND'S

Has Reached Cairo From

Fashoda.

And Will Telegraph His Dispatches to France.

Warlike in Tone.

Plague Panic in Vienna-Emperor William Sight-Seeing in Turkey.

London, Oct. 21.-Capt. Baratier, the special messenger conveying dispatches from Major Marchand, the leader of the French expedition at Fashoda, has arrived at Cairo, from which place he will telegraph a summary of his dispatches to the French Government. Capt. Baratier, on his arrival at Cairo with the report for the French Government, said the mission had not lost an officer or a soldier. He added that the health of all the members of the party was very good, and that revic-tualing on the march was easy.

M. Delcasse, French minister of foreign affairs, has ordered that the report of Major Marchand as to the condition at Fashoda be telegraphed textually. Owing to its probable length, it is expected that at least 48 hours will be required to reduce it to the French cipher code at Cairo, and to translate it in Paris.

DRIFT OF OPINION. The drift of opinion on the Fashoda question among commercial men in Paris was shown by a resolution by the municipal council of that city, urging French Government, without sacrificing the material interests of the country, to use its utmost efforts to avert a conflict with Great Britain over this dispute.

LESS FIERY.

The London morning papers have cooled down to an exceedingly cautious and conservative tone in dealing with the Fashoda question, apparently realizing that public opinion on both sides of the channel is heated to danger point. There is a marked effort to avoid an offensive tone. The Times says: Sir Michael Hicks-Beach has gone some way to persuade our neighbors that we really mean what we say. The time has come when it is absolutely necessary to dismel French dreams on this subject, unoperation more dexterously.

CALMNESS COUNSELED. The Daily News, which voices the general feeling, says: The country Little children copied their parents, is determined to maintain its rights, but there is no occasion to provoke our opponents or to add fuel to the controversy. The Trafalgar celebration, falling is a peculiarly unfortunate coincidence, and may have just the effect of adding the fuel which the Daily News deprecates, if any warmblooded patriots take advantage of the occasion to get up a Fashoda de-which he was secretly brought. A LIBEL CASE. Major Comte Ferdinand Walsin Esterhazy, who had hitherto not denied the London Observer's assertion that he had claimed to be the author of the Dreyfus Bordereau, will sue the Observer for libel because of that statement. CRISIS IN COREA

A leading political organization recently presented a memorial to the cabinet, requesting the formation of a parliament for Corea. The cabinet, in reply, characterized the proposal as premature, and the reply has caused so much dissatisfaction that all the ministers have resigned.

LI HUNG CHANG SHUT OUT. Li Hung Chang is desirous of resuming office, but is prevented from doing so by the opposition of the British Government. Britain is strengthening her position. Four new gun boats will shortly be sent out to Hong Kong, in pieces, on freight steamers, to be fitted up in the dock yards. The names of the gunboats are: The Woodlark, the Woodcock, the Sandpiper and the Snipe.

CABLE NOTES

Sir William Lockhart, commander-inchief of the British forces in India, has started for Calcutta to resume his duties there.

New fire engines, constructed on the American plan, are being experimented with in London, and horses are being attached to the ladder wagons. Great havoc has been caused by floods in the low-lying quarters of Fiume, Hungary, which have been submerged.

The flooded parts of the city include a large portion of the business section of Fiume. Damage estimated at 2,000,000 florins. The Eastern Telegraph Company says there is no foundation for the report that the cable between Manila and Hong Kong has been cut by Admiral Britain Strengthening Her Position in China.

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 21.-Disastrous typhoons, sand storms and floods have caused a fearful loss of life and property in the Orient. In the district watered by the River Feng, in Japan, hundreds of villages have been swept away, and 2,000 people have been drowned. Another report says 250 towns are under water. The Ishikari River has also overflowed, drowning over 1,000 people. Seven prefectures were destroyed.

GREAT NUMBER OF WRECKS. In a terrible typhoon off Formosa, happening the same time as the floods, general damage to shipping was done. At Temani eight junks were wrecked and 100 lives lost. Twelve junks were driven to sea and lost.

Among the ships wrecked was the American bark Comet. The ship was abandoned and the crew saved. steamer Cowrie is partly wrecked. The French steamer Hoikow is wrecked on the beach near Amoy. The German Steamer Trinidad, formerly of the Cleveland, bound here with a load of Cunard Line, was abandoned in the coal.

Home-ward bound passengers state they passed through twenty miles of abandoned wrecks, chiefly Chinese junks. The loss of life must have been enormous.

Serious Accident Happens Mr. D. Cobbledick, of Clandeboye-Progressing Favorably.

A serious accident befell Mr. D. Cobbledick, a well-known farmer living near Clandeboye, on Tuesday morning, that will lay him up for some time, and it is almost a miracle he escaped with his life. Mr. Cobbledick was driving a team into the barn hitched to a wagon loaded with apples. The horses, objecting to the rather steep incline, he went to their heads to lead them, when, mustering their powers, the load went up with a rush, rendering it impossible for Mr. Cobbledick to get out of the way. The room was limited, and he was struck heavily by the neck-yoke, breaking three ribs, the pole crashing through the side of the barn, just escaping him by a trifle. Dr. Browning, of Exeter, attended the injured man, who is progressing favorably, his many friends will be pleased to learn. Wednesday he spent a good night. Had the tongue struck him he would have been instantly killed. It only missed him by a

P. Fuller, of Watford, said he was one of those who went to Mr. Campbeil's after the peg-leg. Gillies went in first, and they remained outside. I want to warn you to keep back. I have a better revolver than you have." Fuller saw a man coming (Dempsey, by name), and said to him, "Give me that rifle."
Witness fired it in the direction of the peg-leg; but said it was more to scare him than to hurt him. The pegleg kept on going. The prisoner put up his revolver, and Dempsy asked for the rifle, saying it would shoot anything it was sighted for. Dempsey fired a shot, and the tramp said, "Now, you — — , you can't fire any more—you haven't any more cart-

Asked to describe the tramp's dress. witness said he wore a dark serge suit. It was neither black nor blue, but gray, made so by dirt. He believed the man wore a plaid shirt, but had a vest on. The tramp had mustache considerably longer than his beard. His hat was one with a hard rim, and once the prisoner took it off and waved it in the air. Witness corroborated the statement as to what had passed between Shaw and the pegleg. Fuller fired at the peg-leg, witness said, as he was retreating, and then the man turned and fired at Fuller walking along the side of a freight that had just come in from the west. The tramp refused to go when ordered off, and struck witness in the face, and knocked him senseless. When asked his age, Mr. Ross said "Past 60 years." Q.—Is there any possibility of your being mistaken as to the identity of this man? A.—There might, but I do Q.—Have you any doubt obout his being the man? A.—No, sir, I have

Cross-examined by Mr. McPhillips, witness said the man who struck him was dressed in a light-colored suit, which was very dirty. Q.—Is there a possibility of your being mistaken about this man? A.—

Q.—No question about it? A.—No. No mistake at all. The witness was asked this question Q .- You would still keep to that if in many ways, but his statement could not be shaken. L. W. STOKES. L. W. Stokes, of 12 Pearl street, was going along Adelaide street on the night of June 24, about 8:50, and saw the prisoner coming along the track. When ordered off he knocked Mr. Ross stiff on the track. He assisted Mr. Ross to the shanty, after securing help. The prisoner then went down track and disappeared between the cars, about 150 feet away. The clothes he wore that night were much the man. darker in color than those he had on

This witness was put through a very vigorous cross-examination, in which he swore positively that the black hat produced (the one that was found near ence if the murdered policeman) was the one the prisoner wore on the night in question; and that he would know the coat again prisoner wore. Questioned regarding the man's wooden leg, witness said that it had been altered from the way it was on the 24th of June. The peg-leg was a solid piece then, and now it was in two pieces. There were no bolts in the peg-leg then. Witness said the man who assaulted Mr. Ross had no mustache, and of this he was also positive.

Friday Morning.

The scene at the police court this morning was similar to that of yesterday. All through the proceedings on Thursday the prisoner smiled at many things the witnesses said, and sometimes looked a little downcast. On the whole the air of Marion Brown for the past two days has been that of a man confident that no ill would befall him.

T. J. O'SULLIVAN. Mr. T. J. O'Sullivan, of 732 York street, was the first witness called this morning. He remembered the 24th of June last. On that day he saw a onelegged man standing in front of his place between 7 and 9 o'clock in the evening. He described the man as having a dark complexion, dark mustache and dark clothes; wore a light shirt, and a soft felt hat like the one produced in court, and wore it inclined toward his forehead. The tramp carried in his hand a short stick. Witness had only seen the peg-leg for a few mo-witness said he had asked to be allowed to see the prisoner at the jail, and had been allowed to do so. He thought the prisoner was the same man, but would not be positive. After leaving witness' place on the evening of June 24, the man was going east, and did not walk as though he had committed an assault. Witness could not recognize the hat as the one which the tramp wore; was positive he wore a vest, and his clothes were pretty well worn; the man had a mustache longer than his beard.

Q.-Will you look at the prisoner and see if he is not a good-looking colored man, with an exceptionally pleasing countenance-nothing vicious about

Witness said he was pleasing enough looking in his present condition, but his wife thought the tramp she saw opposite his place was a hard-looking citizen. Witness could not say whether the man his wife had called his attention to had a pleasing countenance.

MRS. THOMAS SHORT.

Mrs. Short, 739 York street, was called. In answer to Mr. Magee, she said on June 24 she had seen a peg-leg man. He was dressed in dark clothes with a wooden stump on the left leg. Q.-Will you look at the prisoner and see whether or not he is the man? A. -He is the man.

MARCUS SMITH.

Marcus Smith, of 791 York street, said that while standing in the door of his house, on the night of June 24, a one-legged man passed his place. He described the man as short and stout, wearing dark clothes, with a black, soft felt hat. The prisoner resembled the man very much.

Q.—What called your attention to him particularly? A.—As he passed the house I heard him say to my little girl, who was playing outside, "— you, what are you doing here—get out Q .- Have you heard him speak since?

Mr. McPhillips cross-examined the witness at length, regarding the expression that the tramp used to he witness' little daughter, and the witness became excited. Then the counsel got a little excited.

Mr. Magee objected to the proceedings, and the discussion dropped, without the witness taking back any-Witness would not say posithing. tively that the prisoner was the man, although he looked very much like him.

Sandwiched in the midst of the most C. R. Crowe, Guelph46 disagreeable weather, an ideal day favored the Western Ontario District Association for their annual matches at the cove ranges. The shooting was kept up all day without a stop, and about six o'clock the annual meeting was informally neld. The officers and council of last year were re-elected—Captain T. Robson as president Lieut.-Col. Dawson as treasurer, and Major Hayes as secretary.

In the matches smokeless powder was used, and some of the biggest scores ever made at the range were attained. Towards the wind-up darkness and a puffy wind proved an inconvenience, but as an instance of the good shooting done, five possibles were made at the long distance, which is smaller than heretofore, having been reduced 5 feet 10 inches, and the bullseye to 22 inches. London was a close second in the team competition, Guelph being only 5 points ahead. Messrs. C. R. Crowe, J. Ogg and J. H. Simpson represented Guelph, and Messrs. J. C. Ross, W. Great Britain's Latest Acquisition.

A cablegram announced the other day that Liwanika, the king of the Barotseland, in South Africa, had given the Chartered Company the administrative control of his great country, which means that Barotseland becomes absolutely a British possession. Truly the Chartered Company is a great imperial agency. It gained King Liwanika's gratitude in 1890, when it undertook to defend his territory against outside attack. In return, he granted Mr. Rhodes and his colleagues mining privileges, but Liwanika became dissatisfied when he learned that he was dealing with the Chartered Company instead of directly with "the great white queen"-Queen Victoria-whom he holds in awe and admiration. The company set about to mollify the dusky monarch, and appointed Mr. R. T. Coryndon as their representative at his majesty's capital. The successful result is seen in the agreement just announced. Thus the mighty expansion of the empire continues in the Dark Continent, north and south. In Barotseland, Great Britain, silently and peaceably, annexes a territory as large as the German Empire. It lies between latitudes 12 and 18 south, and embraces the whole basin of the Upper Yambesi west of and including the Kafire River. It stretches from the outskirts of the Kalabari desert on the south to the watershed between the Congo and Yambesi systems on the north. It is one of those native empires, now very rare, which have hitherto maintained their independence. Liwanika has authority over 25 tribes. In character he is much superior to the average African chief. M. Coillard, the French missionary, who knows him well, describes him as very intelligent and nobly ambitious of seeing education, industry and civilization, as far as he understands them, develop among his people. Capt. Gibbons, the English explorer, took a particular fancy to the Marotse-as the people of Barotseland are called-and says they are for the most part a tall, well set-up race, very black in skin, courteous in manner and dignified in bearing. The Barotse Valley affords in winter excellent pasture for cattle, but in the summer time the river overflows and converts the plain into a vast swamp. The villages are built on mounds, which stand high and dry above the flood. But the valley is only a small part of the Barotse kingdom. Capt. Gibbons has traversed the whole country and speaks enthusiastically of the portions occupied by the ward system and the arguments the Matoka and Mashikolumbwe. He for its abolition, as follows: says: "High above the swamps of the Lower Umgwezi and the Kafukwe Lower Umgwezi and the Kafukwe with the ward system in towns and huge plateaux rise to a height of 4,000 cities, and reducing the number of feet and upwards. These are broken, well-watered and picturesque. In the open valleys of the numerous rivulets which intersect the forest, the soil is rich and productive, the air is bracing, and the temperature is comparatively low, seldom exceeding 95 degrees Fahr, affairs to a higher level. in summer or 85 degrees in winter, while the nights are cool throughout the year." So far as soil, altitude, and He is being constantly reminded climate are concerned, the country, he the electors of his ward that he is the asserts, is capable of producing wheat, council board and his value as a repoats, coffee, indiarubber,, many kinds resentative is measured largely by the of fruit, rice, and other agricultural amount of money he can have products. Unfortunately, locusts frequently eat up the crops, though in stituents. This influence constantly 1896, when disease broke out among operating upon the alderman, it is conthe locusts, there was an abundant harvest. The mineral resources of the tem is to create parties in the councountry are practically unknown, cil. though both iron and copper are worked by the natives. In course of time, no doubt, steps will be taken to ascertain more definitely the resources of the country, but enough is already known to make it clear that the new region of which the Chartered Company has just obtained administrative control is an interesting addition to the British Empire.

A Striking Contrast.

Canada is taking her place among the nations of the earth as a great trading country. In a recent address, Mayor Prefontaine, of Montreal, conclusively proved this. He submitted the follow-Ing striking statistics, which, he very properly argued, go to show that our country occupies a very enviable position in the world as regards its foreign trade, taken in proportion to its population:

Great Britain, in 1896-Population, 40,000,000; imports, $2,209,044,000; exports, $1,481,896,000; total foreign trade, $3,690,-940,000, or $92 per head.

United States, in 1898-Population, 70,000,000; imports, $616,005,000; exports, $1.231,330,000; total foreign trade, $1,847,-335,000, or $26 40 per head. German Empire, in 1896—Population, 62 250,000: imports, $1,139,500,000; exports, $938,450,000; total foreign trade, $2,077,-950,000, or $40 per head. France—Population, 38,500,000; imports, $759,720,000; exports, $680,180,000; total foreign trade, $1,439,900,000, or Canada, in 1898-Population, 5,500,000; imports, $144,605,950; exports, $159,485,-770; total foreign trade, $304,091,720, or $55 30 per head. That is a showing of which any country might well be proud. And yet the development of the Dominion is but beginning. Those of us who live through the next ten years will see with what strides this young giant will forge to the front in all that goes to make a people truly great and happy.

Toronto has been not a little excited over incidents connected with the "translation" of Rev. W. J. McCaughan, of St. Andrew's Church, Toronto, to Chicago. The first rift in the lute was a financial scolding of his congregation in public, without previous intimation of impending storm. Among other things, he stated that the usual experience of a minister was to be idolized the first year, criticised the second, and crucified the third. Such a remark could hardly apply to a congregation that had given support of an unusually loyal kind for a quarter of a century to his predecessor, the late Rev. D. J. Macdonnell. As to the financial imputation, the managers clearly show by splendid facts and figures that neither Mr.McCaughan's assertions nor his inferences were in accordance with the truth. To enter upon pastoral relationship with an important congregation, and then lightly to break it up after only an eighteen months' tenure, thus leaving St. Andrew's so soon again "to face a vacant pulpit," seems to have struck the membership as treatment of an unexpected kind; but to have unfounded statements ruthlessly published in the pulpit, to be repeated in the press, appears to have been regarded as adding raucus rhodomontade to inexactness of statement. In accordance with the feeling thus aroused, a resolution was on Wednesday night unanimously adopted by the congregation, that, at the oncoming meeting of presbytery, the representatives of the congregation be instructed to "offer no objections to the translation of the Rev. Mr. McCaughan." At the presbytery meeting, next day, also, no objection to his removal was offered by the presbytery.

The incident suggests many lessons; among others the necessity for caution on the part of important churches in their choice of spiritual overseers. No Canadian-trained minister seemed to be thought good enough for St. Andrew's-though Mr. McCaughan's brilliant predecessor had been a Canadian from the crown of his head to the sole of his foot. We do not say that if the best available man happens to be from across the sea, or across the lake, he should not be chosen; but the superiority in each case should be manifest. In this particular instance, we make bold to say there are fifty men in connection with the Presbyterian Church in Canada, either native or adopted Canadians, who are no whit inferior in any desirable respect, to the departing clergyman, whose transplantation from across several thousand miles of sea was thought necessary to the proper filling of a vacancy in St. Andrew's congregation.

The Toronto Mail and Empire volunteers the statement that the world's destiny is at present in the hands of seven women. The declaration is not well founded. But the Bund stands with Dutch obstinacy in the way of South African federation, and Rhodes will never be happy until he gets that. No doubt he will some day.

The English coroner who refused to take the testimony of passengers on the steamer Mohegan until the following week should have been more sensitive of English justice and honor. Most of the passengers cannot remain there a week at their own expense, and the coroner's action will be in terpreted as showing a desire to exclude their evidence for fear it might reflect upon the conduct of the crew. in view of the attack made upon the latter by one Kelly. Already some foreign newspapers are eneering at British seamanship. No obstacles should be thrown in the way of a full investigation, which we are sure will prove to the world the falsity of these attacks.

An American contemporary, in noting the fact that a woolen mill is being erected at Tien-Tsin, China, and will be fitted up with American machinery, adds the inquiry: "When the rice and rat-fed labor of the middle kingdom is awakened and equipped with the best industrial appliances known, what is to become of the awakeners, whose statute books are already loaded with alarmist enactments against the competition of Chinese labor?" However much we may oppose Chinese immigration, it seems unnatural to suppose that the awakening of China, which is increasing her commerce by leaps and bounds, is to be an evil for other countries. If China, when aroused, is so much to be feared. why do not other countries combine to keep her in sloth and ignorance instead of hastening her development with almost feverish energy?

Lloyd's shipbuilding returns, which have just been issued for the quarter ended September 30, 1898, show that, excluding warships, there were 598 vessels of 1,364,250 tons gross under construction in the United Kingdom at the close of the quarter. This compares with 455 vessels of 884,336 gross tonnage at the corresponding period of last year. Since December, 1896, the returns have shown a steady increase. By the end of 1897, the work in hand reached a total of 1,013,000 tons. These figuresthemselves almost certainly without precedent in the history of the shipbuilding industry-are now exceeded by no fewer than 351,000 tons. The warships under construction are given as fourteen vessels of 110,140 tons displacement under construction at royal dockyards, and 78 vessels of 266,295 tons displacement building at private yards. Of those building at private yards. 44 vessels of 155,660 tons are of British nationality, while the remaining 34 vessels of 110,635 tons are of foreign or unspecified nationality.

A rew days ago there appeared in a number of the Canadian Opposition newspapers a severe attack on the Galician settlers in the Northwest, and on the Dominion Government for permitting them to settle there, because a mand and his four children had been murdered in the settlement. It was alleged that the murderer was the wife of the murdered man. It turns out that the terribly bereaved woman has been done a great injustice to by the circulation of these reports, and that so far there is no evidence to connect either her or any of the Galician settlers with the dreadful deed. A coroner's jury have entirely exonerated the woman, and they have been unable to discover the perpetrator of the crime, though there is a strong suspicion that the object was robbery, as a considerable sum of money which the of the inquiry shows on what slim tween the Episcopal Church and many and of the Dominion Government are

A Pointer for Uncle Sam. [Hamilton Times.]

The fact that many Spanish officia in Porto Rico are moving to secure naturalization as United States citizens is a hopetful sign for the future of the island. Now if the United States would make commerce with Porto Rico as free as Britain makes commerce with her acquisitions, the little island would enjoy to the full the benefits of the newer and better Anglo-Saxon civilization. But if Dingleyism is to apply to it, then it will enter the race hobbled.

Kipling's Mistake. [Boston Herald.]

Rudyard Kipling, who was so splendily sane as regards England's public affairs in his "Recessional," has printed another poem, which has been elicited by the czar's proposed disarmament of the nations. It is deplorably in con-trast with his earlier effort, being brutally savage attack upon Russia and her ruler, and more like ravings of insanity than the fruit of a well ordered mind. Mr. Kipling is unquestionably a poet, and with a large number of people he is the most popular author of the day in his prose, but those who hoped he was something more are in a way to be disillusioned by his latest effusion. It is a heavy setback to his reputation for good sense in the minds of thinking people.

CARRYING A PAIL OF WATER OR OTHER HOUSEHOLD WORK MADE HER HEART BEAT VIOLENTLY.

She's been Restored to Perfect Health by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

There are many women in this land who find household duties a drag and a burden. The least exertion tires them gives them a pain in the back and side, makes their heart palpitate and their head ache. To such we would commend for consideration the following statement made by Mrs. James Ranken, Baldoon Street, Chatham, Ont .:

"I saw by the advertisement of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, that they were a specific for weakness of the heart and nerves, general debility, dizziness, fluttering, palpitation, etc. I was so weak that I could not go to the Central Drug Store to get them myself, so I sent my son for a box.
"When I commenced taking these pills I was dreadfully nervous, suffered a great deal with weak heart action, sometimes my heart almost stopped beating. Carrying a pail of water or other similar exertion, while performing my household duties would make my heart beat violently. I did not obtain restful sleep, and was easily startled and frightened.

THE AMERICAN WIFE

Very Much in Evidence in Great Britain-They Get the Spoils of the Empire.

The American wife is certainly very much in evidence at present. The seat vacated by the husband of Mary Leiter at Southport was immediately captured by his political opponent, Sir H. Naylor Leyland, who, differing from Mr. Curzon in every other respect, resembled him in having contracted an American alliance by marrying a famous American beauty. The spoils of the Empire are falling to the husbands of American wives almost as thickly as police captaincies in New York are distributed to the partisans of Tammany. An American girl queens it in the great palace at Blenheim, and another American girl who married a scion of the same house came within an ace of being wife to a prime minister. leader of the opposition in the House of Commons married an American. So did Mr. Bryce, one of his most influential colleagues. Mr. Chamberlain, who reigns and rules over an empire from which a population so numerous as that of the Philippines could disappear without being noticed, also went to the States for a wife. He is this month directing our colonial policy from the other side of the Atlantic. Mr. Balfour is not married-probably because he has never been to America. But wherever we turn, whether in the peerage or in parliament or in the high places of our colonial and imperial administration, there we find ensconced as the better-half of the British officeholder, the American wife.— Review of Reviews.

MRS. STINSON. Mrs. Stinson, of No. 350 Rectory street, testified that while walking along Rectory street, on the night of June 24, with her daughter, she met a peg-legged man at the corner of York and Rectory, going east. He was dressed in dark clothes, was of dark complexion. He appeared to be tired, and after standing a minute or so he went east.

Cross-examined by Mr. McPhillips, witness said the man she met was carrying his coat on his arm. She could not say just what the color of his clothes were; but he wore his hat a little over the forenead. Q.-Will you swear positively that he is the man? A.—To the best of my knowledge he is the man.

Q.-Perhaps you may be mistaken. A .- I said this was the man to the best of my knowledge, and I don't think I am mistaken. Q.-Positive! womanlike? No an-

ED HAYMAN.

Ed Hayman, who lives on the corner of Dundas and Ontario streets, remembered the night of June 24. Saw a peg-legged tramp going across to Ontario street, where he turned north. Witness saw the policeman go up Ontario street, followed by some boys. Witness went up towards the north end of Ontario street, in company with other boys, and arrived near the bush in time to hear the two shots; heard no noise; the shots were fired in quick succession; witness and the boys came back towards Elias street, where they met two soldiers, and the whole party went north to where the body of the policeman was found. The nearest witness got to the place where the pofeet. Witness described the finding of the body, and what followed after the arrival of Dr. Seaborne. The shots appeared to come from the north. While standing at the corner of Ontario street witness thought he saw something white beyond the tree, which appeared at the time of the firing of the shots. to come towards the bush; the form then appeared to be that of a man in south. Q .- Is the prisoner anything like the man? A .- The prisoner resembles him very much. Q .- In what respect does he differ?

A .- Nothing more than his moustache is off. Witness said the hat produced resembled the one the peg-leg wore. He said at the time the tramp passed him on the car, witness thought to himself that he (the tramp) was a man who had done a great deal of traveling, and looked tired. Cross-examined by prisoner's counsel, witness said he would not be positive whether the tramp was a white man or a colored man. His face was very dark, however.

Q .- You could not identify this man as the man who was on the train? A .-I would not like to take my oath that he was the man.

Witness'said that he could not idencolor of the tramp's clothes was, There was a deficiency in one leg, but wit-

THE TEACHERS

Pleasant Evening Spent at the Residence of Superintendent D. A. McDermid

By the Officers and Teachers of Dundas Center Sunday School-Helpful Suggestions by the Pastor, Rev. Dr. Saunders.

The officers and teachers of Dundas Center Methodist Sunday school to the number of about 75 were entertained | well deserves it. The events, which same color. Witness took particular last evening by Mr. and Mrs. D. A. follows: McDermid.

Mr. Wm. Bowman officiated as chairman, and after the opening exercises called upon the pastor, Rev. Dr. Saunders, to introduce the subject of "The Normal Study of the Bible." Dr. Saunders laid great stress on the necessity of Sunday school teachers receiving normal training, and considered subject even of greater importance than the training of public school teachers. for "there is no work," he, "that should be better done than the work we do for God." He suggested that a class be organized, and that sixteen lectures be given, eight of which should be on Bible subjects, and eight on teaching methods, the following to be the subjects: "The World of the Bible," "The Land of the Bible from a Geographical and Historical Standpoint," "History of the Bible." How, When, Where, and by Whom the Various Books Were Written," Canon of Scripture," "The E "The English ares," "The In-Version of the Scriptures," "The Inspiration and Authenticity," "The Institutions of the Bible." The lessons on teaching to be. "The Teacher's Qualifications." "The Teacher's Preparation." "Principles of Instruction," "Methods of Instruction,"the last mentioned topic to be divided under four heads, as follows: "Approach to the Scholars," "Attention," "Illustration," "Interrogation." The series to conclude with a lesson on review.

The teachers were much in favor of starting the class along the lines suggested, and the matter will come up at the regular meeting, when definite action will be taken.

Mr. C. E. German then briefly outlined the work of the home departwhich is being organized unment. der his able superintendence. He confidently expected a membership for this department of at least 200 by Nov. 1. Mr. Roselle Pococke, accompanied by Mrs. McDermid, delighted the audience with a violin solo.

Mr. George Martindale followed with a very interesting address on "The Story of the Northland Sunday School." During the course of the evening, Superintendent McDermid very warmly and feelingly thanked the friends for their recent gift of $100.

At the conclusion of the programme refreshments were served, and an hour spent in social intercourse.

Three Boys Killed While Running Away from Home.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 21.-Fred Berner, William Berner and Charles Coats-worth, three young boys, were in-stantly killed by a Lehigh Valley passenger train near Cheektowaga crossing at 12:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Their remains were horribly mutilated. The boys had planned to run away from home, come to Buffalo, and seek their fortune. When they left their homes in Cheektowaga they said they were going to school. Instead they hid their books, and were waiting to board a freight train when they were killed.

Lake Shore, Bosanquet, Oct. 21.— Masters Hugh and Hamilton Johnson have a pair of lively goats, purchased from a Mr. Lucas on the London road, near Wyoming. Goats are seldom seen in this locality, though Mr. Carriger has three or four on his place, near the lake.

There is a pleasant addition to society on the Lake Shore, Bosanquet, in the person of Mrs. Dan McIntyre (nee Miss Eva Moscript), who comes from St. Marys. Let one and all heartily congratulate Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre.

HAVERLY'S AMERICAN - EURO-PEAN MINSTRELS.

The date for the positive appearance of J. H. Haverly's American-European Minstrels has been finally agreed upon, Tuesday evening, 25th. The great Haverly show is coming to town in its entirety, an opportunity of witnessing what is promised to be not only the grandest company ever organized, but the most varied programme yet presented, embracing everything in the minstrel line that is entertaining and in pace with the times. Haverly presents the best minstrel show of the season, and will no doubt reap a harvest here.

The police court contained a big crowd this morning before the examination of the sig-leg was begun. Yesterday Mrs. Paul, of 276 Talbot street. notified the police that a watch had been stolen from her house. She gave Detective Rider a description of a man whom she had seen loitering about, and a short time afterwards Detective Rider arrested Michael Maloney. The watch was found in Maloney's possession. The accused is a Torontonian, 60 years of age. He has a habit of enter-ing houses where his knock is not answered, and taking the most convenient articles. He has served several terms here for the same offense, and is known to the police in other places. Maloney pleaded guilty, and was remanded for a week.

The London Organ Grinder.

When I went into my present house some years ago, the street in which it is situated enjoyed a constant procession of organ grinders. I have not infrequently had to leave my work three times within an hour to send away these pests, one of them sometimes appearing on the scene only a few minutes after I had got rid of another.

At one time some of them found out that I was always out on a particular day of the week and selected that day to give us their attentions. One of them one morning "ground" before the house for half an hour out of sheer spite, and on catching sight of the lady of the house at the window shook his fist at her.

This is the kind of thing to which residents in London are subject under the present law. By dint, however, of perseverance in rigorously and immediately ordering off every organ man the moment he began at whatever time of day or night when I happened to be in the way to do it I have succeeded in diminishing their number very materially, but it is at the cost of an infinity of annoyance and worry, which to a certain extent is always recurring.-National Review.

The Blessing of One Newspaper.

As to the newspaper, it is obvious that in the country you appreciate it much more when you have to wait for it &d when it comes at unexpected moments. I never properly enjoyed a newspaper till I settled in the country. The reason is that in town you have too many journals and get perfectly natisated with them. You cannot walk d-n a street without some bawling urchin thrusting the "latest edition" under your nose. Here, on the other hand, we have only one or, at most, two papers each day, and we read and digest them thoroughly, with a satisfaction to which you, with your scrambling, scrappy method of perusal, are entire strangers.-

FROM FASHODA

Major Marchand's Report Received by Wire.

It is an Incomplete Document After

AII.

Paris, Oct. 21.-Major Marchand's report, ttelegraphed from Cairo, was received during the course of the night. It does not mention the arrival at Fashoda of General Kitchener, and only gives an account of the incidents of the expedition, with an elaborate description of the events following, the manner of occupation, the raising of the flag, the force left at each point, and the treaty of submission concluded with the natives, in addition to referring to an encounter with the der-

The report only goes as far as the beginning of September, and says that on Aug. 20 the supplies of the party were abundant.

The reason for the omission of any mention of the arrival of Gen. Kitchener at Fashoda is said to be that the report of Major Marchand was not ready when Capt. Baratier left Fashoda. When the captain started from that place he did not think he would go beyond Khartoum.

Major Marchand, however, deemed it advisable to send the finished portion of the report, intending to dispatch the remainder of it as soon as Capt. Harriet Williams made her 29th appearance as a drunk. She was given on arriving at Omdurman, found the instructions telling him to go on to Cairo, from which place he will proceed to France. It is believed in certain quarters that Capt. Baratier is the bearer of a verbal report which the French authorities were not willing to trust upon the British telegraph lines.

NOTABLE DAY

Anniversary of the Battle of Trafalgar.

The Old-Time Warships Decorated.

London, Oct. 21.-Exceptional interest was taken today in the celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Trafalgar, fought Oct. 21, 1805, when the British boats under Admiral Nelson gained a brilliant victory over the fleets of France and Spain, commanded by Admiral Villenue. The cause of this increased burst of patriotism here is the dispute with France over the Fashoda question, which in some quarters is looked upon as a matter which may possibly bring about war between these two countries.

Wash Your Hands.

It has recently been claimed that cases of infection that could be accounted for in no other way have been explained by the fingers as a vehicle. In handling money, especially of paper, doorknobs, banisters, car straps and a hundred things that every one must frequently touch, there are chances innumerable of picking up germs of typhoid, scarlatina, diphtheria, smallpox, etc. Yet some persons actually put such things in their mouths, if not too

Before eating or touching that which is eaten the hands should be immediately and scrupulously washed. We hear much about general cleanliness as "next to godliness." It may be added that here in particular it is also ahead of health and safety. The Jews made no mistake in that "except they washed they ate not." It is a sanitary ordinance as well as an ordinance of decency.-New York Ledger.

True Hospitality.

In a New Hampshire village many stories are told of a former resident who had a warm heart, but a tongue that did not always utter his real meaning.

One cold winter day he opened his door to see the minister, looking chill and tired, wading home through the snow after an hour spent with a needy but unpleasant "Come in, parson, come right in!" he called cheerily, waving his arms with hospitable intent. "My wife will make a rousing fire to warm you up. It's well started already, parson. She'll make it so hot you can't stay in the house 15 minutes!"-Youth's Companion.

A Tribute to Women.

Admiral Bunce in speaking of women in times of war said the other day: "A few bright, cheery, good women will do more to keep civilization and chivalry alive in a camp than any number of rules or regulations. Their ministerings will make victory brighter, defeat easier and death less horrible.

CARING FOR TOMMY ATKINS

How He Is Preserved in the Tropics-The Cholera Band.

An American exchange says: Among the lists of supplies for our army in the field that are published an item of 300 abdominal bandages raises a smile on some faces, which becomes incredulous when it is explained that these bandages are made of flannel. 'What, flannel for that roasting climate?" asks a person who has never heard of them before. "Yes, flannel; and because it is a roasting climate." In providing these our people are profiting by the garnered experience of the English people, who have a century's knowledge of how to maintain an Anglo-Saxon army in a tropical climate. When they commenced the practice of requiring the soldiers to wear what they call a "cholera-band" is hardly to be learned now; but it certainly is thirty years since they have been used, the object being to maintain a uniform temperature in the abdominal region, as a sudden check of perspiration there is almost certain to bring on an attack of that enteric disturbance to which living in a hot climate predisposes people. When the British soldier has been enlisted, uniformed, drilled and transported, he is a costly article; and it is manifest.

The Englishman's Sports. English officers carry their tools for tennis, polo and golf with them to war as religiously as they carry their swords and pistols. But that is not to be wondered at, since they carry these toys everywhere that they go except to bed. If they go to lapsheen at a country house or start on a flabing or shooting trip or for a vun on the continent, wherever they go, even upon purely business trips, they are sure to carty their tennis rackets at least, for every Englishman plays tennis, whether he be an samural on the China station or a generel in India, a shopkeeper in a village or a clerk in the city. No man ever here in the exalted or important to play tennis once a day as a means of indulging in the open air and exercise, the getting of which is a madness with these people. - Landen Plants That Hate One Another. Fancy two plants being so unfriendly that the mere neighborhood of one is death to the other. Yet this is the case with two well known English plants. These are the thistle and the rape. If a feld is infested with thistles which come up year after year and ruin the crops, all you have to do is to sow it with rape. The thistle will be absolutely annihilated.

The common impression that all persons in English upper classes are entitled to coats of arms is erroneous, for there are instances of noble and ancient families who have no right to use hereditary coats of arms and scorn to take a grant at this late day.

THE BRIDE OF

The Darran stood on the side of the Grayling, a mountain in a land of mountains. Peak rose behind peak; hill was folded behind hill. Rather a barren district. Nature here showed herself in a wild, fantastic mood. It was her pleasure, ofttimes, to wrap herself in mist, and the great hills loomed through-melancholy in their grandeur on sunless November or drear December days. The valleys between were wooded with trees of the hardier kinds; oak, larch, pine.

There were meadows where cattle fed, but no orchards, and but few gar-

The village of Pontivor consisted mainly of square stone cottages, with strong, unpicturesque, slated roofs. There was a church, of gray stone, built near the river, which ran through the valley. The parsonage house stood near. In the main street were two general shops, a large schoolroom, a chemist's shop, and three or four public houses.

Many of the mountain sides that shut in this valley were pierced here and there, and yawned black and ugly at the passers-by, for Pontivor village lies in a mining district; levels and pits of coal abound. What the land lacks in fertility it makes up in mineral treasures.

We begin this story by saying that the Darran stood on the side of the Grayling.

The Darran was a large and elegant mansion, surrounded by exquisite gardens, which again were fringed with rich plantations. The Darran woods were the glory of the bare and bleak village; and the gardens, with their hot-houses, graperies, orangeries, pineries, were the pride of their owner's heart. The house was furnished in exquisite taste and in the costliest manner. Nothing was too expensive or too rare for the rich man who dwelt there.

Mr. Crosby owned the chief mines in the neighborhood. His wealth was enormous. He was counted a just but a hard man; one who would neither rob you of a farthing or give you one. His wife was a cold and haughty dame; her family was superior to her husband's, but she had brought him no fortune; this he had never cared for, for his wife was fair and accomplished. But as year followed year, and no last he told his wife that he intended to adopt a boy.

Mrs. Crosby was not willing. We will give her reasons in her own words: Boys are so tiresome, so noisy, wear such thick shoes. A boy will be no comfort whatever to me." "You can make him wear elippers in the house, Anna."

But Mrs. Crosby shook her head. "No," she said. "If you adopt a child let it be a girl. I should take pride in a pretty, elegant girl, but she must be well-born and very pretty. Surely we might easily find a child of genteel, poor parents, who would be thankful to us for adopting her." Mr. Crosby submitted to his wife. They advertised, and received many answers to the advertisements. At last, from a long, low, parsonage house. in beautiful North Devon, the Crosbys brought home a little treasure.

Catherine Hilliard was just 2 years old; her mother had died a few days after this, the youngest of seven children, was born.

The Rev. Mr. Hilliard was a poor parson; the Norman blood in his veins did not warm him on wintry days, when his overcoat was thin. He found it hard lines with his seven young and motherless children; and he married a brisk, bustling second wife, with mo-

Just a month after her marriage, the new Mrs. Hilliard saw the Crosby's advertisement. Believing that the infant Catherine answered in every respect to the demands of the advertisers-for she was well-born and a marvel of beauty-the vicar's wife answered the advertisement. The Crosbys came, were delighted with Cather-ine, and at once took her away from her motherless home to the luxurious Darran, where she was immediately

Installed as their daughter and heiress. The child soon won her adopted fa-ther's love. With her adopted mother she was less fortunate. Mrs. Crosby was a woman with a marble heart, to use an old figure of speech. This lady loved nothing—never thad loved any-thing in her life. She was a blonde, and had been a brilliant belle-flaxenhaired and blue-eyed. Mrs. Crosby was proud of Catherine's beauty, elegance, and spirit; also she admired the child's cleverness and capacity for learning, and accomplishments; but it was out of her power to give her what would not grow in her marble heart-"love."

Catherine went to a London school to "finish," after having had a governess, foreign and English, for years in the house. She returned at 18 an accomplished young lady, and then commenced such a round of visiting as the neighborhood of the Darran afforded.

There were county families who did not disdain to visit at the Darran, notwithstanding that Mr. Crosby owned collieries; and the ambitious heart of Mrs. Crosby heat high with hope when a certain Mr. Oliver Leslie, the son of a Sir James Leslie, and heir to the baronetcy, called with his two sisters they smoke."

Alternative of the thing in the Old Red Sandstone. Texts: Isalah xxxv., stone Park. My two visits there made upon me an impression that will last forever. Go in by the Moneida route, as we did this summer, and save 250 one morning, and went through the conservatories after Catherine, listening to her gay remarks, and joining in her merry laughter, as if he had never heard or seen a fairer enchantress in his life.

Oliver had been abroad. He spoke two or three languages; he had seen foreign cities, and mixed freely with men. He was clever, accomplished, handsome-so handsome, and noble, and striking, that people turned in the street to look after him and admire him. He was tall, and dark, and slender, with piercing, loving eyes and a winning smile.

Catherine thought him the ideal of a hero. Within a month he had proposed, and was accepted. Oliver Leslie and Catherine Hilliard were affianced, to the delight of all their friends.

Eighteen happy months rolled away. and then came clouds over the sunny landscape—clouds followed by storm and sorrows. It is a universally re-ceived axiom that blessings and misfortunes never come singly. Misfortunes gathered thickly over the handsome head of Oliver.

In the first place, a half-brother of his, whom he did not remember, and who was supposed to have perished by shipwreck fifteen years before, return-er than Oliver. He was unpolished, practical, ugly, so Catherine said, in her girlish anger; for her passionate, pure love was given to Oliver, and would not be given to another as long as she lived.

Oliver would still have a small fortune-a thousand a year or so; but he was ambitious. He did not wish to owe so much to his wife, and he began to read hard for the bar. Then came a terrible crash. Sir James Leslie had been secretly speculating for years.
One after another of these speculations failed. He then incurred fresh risks in lost; and the result was complete, overwhelming ruin.

So far our story has dwelt with the retrospect. We now introduce to the reader Catherine and her adopted parents at the Darran, and they shall speak and act for themselves.

An exquisite breakfast-room, paneled in dark, polished wood, with here heir to the Darran was born, Mr. Cros-by began to feel disappointed, and at ter, or a genre painting by some living artist, lighting up the wall. All the furniture was oak, and dark green velvet. The table was laid sumptuously: it glittered with crystal and silver and it there over the heart of this conporcelain, as if it had been prepared for a royal visitor.

I am glad you present moment she was smiling brightly, talking to a little pet dog at her side, and giving him morsels of Pacific coasts a hundred miles of land bread-and-butter, which he caught not reclaimed, either by farmers' plow with avidity.

Catherine wore black; her white colbrooche; she usually wore sober colors and few ornaments; her beauty was so brilliant that it needed a foil rather than extra adornment. The footman brought Catherine a plate of muffins and some coffee, and then she began her breakfast. Scarcely a word was spoken by anybody during the meal. As soon as it was over, Catherine crossed the room and went and stood in the bay window. She looked straight across the park to where it sloped towards the woods. The woods were not visible from that wing of the house, but Catherine could see the face of the opposite mountain, huge and grim, mountain was a deep coal-pit. [To be Continued.]

Footsteps of God

As Seen in Creation-Characteristic Discourse by Rev. Dr. Talmage.

Washington, Oct. 16.—Dr. Talmage, in this discourse, takes us with him on a journey to the Pacific, and finds "the footsteps of the Creator" everywhere, as Hugh Miller found them in the Old Pad Sandaton Tartet I said to the stone Park My two visits there made the Pyrenees, or the Sierra Nevadas, poured through canals and aqueducts for the fertilization of the valleys. It means the process by which the last mile of American barrenness will be made an apple arches of the states of the states of the states and the Morans and Bierstadts, and the other enchanting artists have completed their canyas. mile of American barrenness will be made an apple orchard, or an orange grove, or a wheat field, or a cotton plantation, or a vineyard—"streams in the desert." My second text means a volcano like Vesuvius or Cotopaxi, or it means the geysers of Yellowstone Park or of California. You see a hill calm and still, and for ages immovable, but the Lord out of the heavens puts his finger on the top of it, and puts his finger on the top of it, and from it rise thick and impressive va-pors: "He toucheth the hills and they smoke!"

Although my journey across the continent this summer was for the eighth time, more and more am I impressed with the divine hand in its construction, and with its greatness and grandeur, and more and more am I thrilled with fact that it is all to be irrigated glorified and Edenized. What a change from the time when Daniel Webster on yonder Capitoline Hill said to the American senate in regard to the center of this continent, and to the regions on the Pacific coast: "What do you want with this vast, worthless area, ed from his long, forced captivity in this region of savages and wild beasts, Central Africa, and was at once ac- of deserts and cactus, of shifting sands knowledged by Sir James Leslie as and prairie dogs? To what use could his eldest son and heir. He had always, we ever put these great deserts or Indeed, been the favorite son, Oliver, then, to begin with, was no longer heir to the baronetcy; and Mrs. these great mountains, impenetrable and covered with eternal snow? What can we ever hope to do with the west-Crosby was actually overheard by Ca- ern coast, rock-bound, cheerless, and therine regretting to her husband that uninviting, and not a harbor on it? the young girl had not waited till James Leslie returned! Now, James was a robust man, nearly 20 years oldis now." What a mistake the great statesman made when he said that! All who have crossed the continent realize that the states on the Pacific Ocean will have quite as grand opportunities as the states on the Atlantic, and all this realm from sea to sea to be the Lord cultivated possessions.

Do you know what in some respects is the most remarkable thing between the Atlantic and Pacific? It is the figure of a cross on a mountain in Colorado. It is called the Mount of the Holy Cross. A horizontal crevice filled with perpetual snow, and a perthe hope of regaining what he had pendicular crevice filled with snow, but both the horizontal line and the perpendicular line so marked, so bold, so significant, that all who pass in the daytime within many miles are com-pelled to see it. That cross on the Colorado mountain is not a human device, or an accident of nature, or the freak of an earthquake. The hand of God cut it there, and set it up for the nation to look at. Whether set up in rock before the cross of wood was set up on the bluff back of Jerusalem, or set up at some time before that assassination, I believe the Creator meant it to suggest the most notable event in all the history of this planet, and he hung tinent to indicate that the only hope for this nation is in the cross on which

First, consider the immensity of this centinental possession. If it were only a small tract of land, capable of nothing better than sage-brush, and with ability only to support prairie dogs. I should not have much enthusiasm in wanting Christ to have it added to his dominion. But its immensity and afdescribe her?-was not very tall, but fluence no one can imagine, unless he has traversed it. "But," says some one, "in calculatmentioned that. Within 25 years there or miner's crowbar. By irrigation, the waters of the river and the showlar was fastened by a plain gold ers of heaven will be gathered into great reservoirs, and through aqueducts let down where and when the people want them.

We have our freshets and our droughts, but in those lands which are to be scientifically irrigated there will be neither freshtes nor droughts. As you take a pitcher and get it full of water and then set it on a table and take a drink out of it when you are thirsty, and never think of drinking a pitcherful at once, so Montana and Wyoming and Idaho will catch the rains of their rainy season, and take up all the waters of thir rivers in great pitchers of reservoirs and refresh the land whenever they will. The work and snow-crowned. At the foot of that has already been grandly begun by the United States Government. Over 400 lakes have already been officially taken possession of by the nation for the great enterprise of irrigation. Rivers that have been rolling idly through these regions, doing nothing on their way to the sea, will be lassooed, and corraled and penned up until such time as the farmers need them.

But this continent is not more remarkable for its magnitude than for mite and the adjoining California regions! Who that has seen them can think of them without having blood tingle? Trees now standing there that were old when Christ lived! These monarchs of foliage reigned before Caesar or Alexander, and the next thousand years will not shatter their scepter! There are the masts of the continent, their canvas spread on the winds, while the old ship bears on its way through the ages!

That valley of the Yosemite is eight miles long, a half-mile wide, and three thousand feet deep. It seems as if it had been the meaning of Omnipotence to crowd into as small a place as possible some of the most stupendous scenery of the world. Standing down in this great chasm of the valley you look up, and yonder is Cathedral Rock, vast, gloomy minster, built for the silent worship of the mountains! Yonder, is Sentinel Rock, 3,270 feet high, bold, solitary, standing guard among the ages, its top seldom touched, until a bride one Fourth of July, mounted it and planted the national standards, and the people down in the valley looked up and saw the head of the mountain, turbaned with stars and stripes!

No pause for the eye, no stopping place for the mind. Mountains hurled on mountains. Yonder is Yosemite on mountains. Yonder is Yosemite Falls, dropping 2,634 feet, sixteen times

My first text means irrigation. It miles of railroading, your stage coach means the waters of the Himalaya, or taking you through a day of scenery as and water, and the vapor born of that marriage, terrific. Geyser cones or hills of crystal that have been over five thousand years growing! In places the earth, throbbing, sobbing, groaning, quaking with aqueous paroxsym. At the expiration of every sixty-five minutes one of the geysers tossing its boiling water 185 feet in the air, and then descending into swinging rainbows. "He touches the hills and they smoke."

But after you have wandered along the geyserite enchantment for days, and begin to feel that there can be nothing more of interest to see, you suddenly come upon the peroration of all majesty and grandness, the Grand Canyon. It is here that it seems to me—and I speak it with reverence— Jehovah seems to have surpassed himself. It seems a great gulch let down into the eternities. Here, hung up and let down, and spread abroad, are all the colors of land and sea and sky. Upholstering of the Lord God Almighty. Best work of the Architect of worlds. Sculpturing by the Infinite. Masonry by an omnipotent trowel.

Standing there in the Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone Park for the most part we held our peace, but after a while it flashed across me with such power I could not help but say to my comrades: "What a hall this would be for the last judgment?" See that mighty cascade with the rainbow at the foot of it! Those waters congealed and transfixed with the agitations of that day, what a place they would make for the shining feet of the Judge of the quick and dead! And those rainbows look now like the crowns to be cast at his feet. At the bottom of this great canyon is a floor on which the nations of earth might stand, and all up and down those galleries of rock the nations of heaven might sit. And what reverberation of archangels' trumpets there would be trough all these gorges and from these caverns and all over these heights. Why should not the greatest of all the days the world shall ever see close amid the grandest scenery Omnipotence ever

I have said these things about the magnitude of the continent, and given you a few specimens of some of its wonders, to let you know the compre hensiveness of Christ's dominion when he takes possession of this continent. Besides that, the salvation of this continent means the salvation of Asia. for we are only 36 miles from Asia at the northwest. Only Bering Straits separates us from Asia, and these will spanned by a great bridge.

The American-Asiatic bridge which will yet span those straits will make America, Asia, Europe and Africa one continent. So, you see, America evan-gelized. Asia will be evangelized. Europe taking Asia from one side and Your children will cross that bridge. America and Asia and Europe all one, what substruction from the pangs of seasickness! and the prophecies in Revelation will be fulfilled, "there shall be no more sea." But do I mean literally that this American continent is going to be all gospelized? I do. Christopher Columbus, when he went ashore from the Santa Maria, and his second brother, Alonzo, when he went ashore from the Pinta, and his third brother, Vincent, when he went ashore from the Nina, took possession of the country in the name of the Father and the Son and the Holy Ghost. Satan has no more right to this country than I have to your pocketbook. But how is this continent to be gospelized? The pulpit and a Christian printing-press harnessed together will be the mightiest team for the first plow. Not by the power of esidence of Joseph Johnston, Rebecca, Wednesday evening, Oct. 19, when his daughter, Charlotte Louisa, was married to Thomas James Piper, on enterprising farmer of West Nissouri. The bride was assisted by Miss Maggie Judd, of Rebecca, and the groom by Mr. John Stevenson, of Wyton. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. The R. Thompson, of Thorndale. The presents were numerous and handsome.

THOMPSON-ROSSER.

Yesterday afternoon the marriage of Miss Angie, eldest daughter of Squire John W. Rosser, of London township, was celebrated at the residence of the bride's parents by Rev. Mr. Coutts, Baptist pastor. The groom is William Thompson, a farmer, of McGillivray. The bridesmaid was Miss Cicely Patterson, cousin of the groom, and Arthur Rosser, brother of the bride, acted as best man. The wedding guests, about 50 in number, came from London, Strathroy, Ailsa Craig, Parkhill, and other places. After a superb repast Mr. and Mrs. Thompson left for their new home in McGillivray.

McTAGGART-CARMICHAEL, An elegant, though quiet, wedding came off on Wednesday afternoon, at the palatial homestead of Mr. John Carmichael, near Coldstream, Lobo township. It was the marriage of Miss Maggie A. Carmichael, to Mr. Donald McTaggart, of Appin. Mr. Wm. Mc-Taggart assisted the groom, and Miss Mary Carmichael the bride, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. G. B. Davis, B.D., in the presence of a select company of near relatives of the families. A tempting wedding supper was partaken of, the wedding gifts enviously viewed, and the young couple riced away, soon to return to their new home in Ekford.

STARK-McKAY.

Another young couple were made happy Wednesday afternoon at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McKay, 484 Colborne street, it being the marriage of their daughter, Annie May, and Mr. Harry Lorimer Stark, son of Mr. John Stark, Toronto. The interesting ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles A. of Toronto, assisted by Rev. Eaton. Wm. J. McKay, of Stratford, and Rev. R. R. McKay, of Woodstock, brothers of the bride. The bride was assisted by Miss Edith Stark, of Toronto, and Miss Mary Hislop, of this city, acted as flower girl. Mr. Alex. Stewart, of Guelph, assisted the groom.

The bride was handsomely gowned in lvory duchesse satin. The bridesmaid wore pale blue and white silk, and the flower girl white organdie. At the conclusion of the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served, and congratulations were showered on the newly wedded couple. Mr. and Mrs. Stark left on the 4:55 express for Washington, and other places, where they will spend their honeymoon. Returning they will reside in Southdrive, Rosedale.

Among the guests present from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. John Stark, Miss Stark, Miss Edith Stark, Stark, Miss Stark, Miss Edith Stark, Mr. Thomas Harris, Mrs. Evans, Miss Topscott, Prof. A. C. PENNILESS TREASURY

The Poverty-Stricken Board of Works in Hard Straits.

Crying Needs in Every Ward-But No Funds-Citizens Complain-Alder men Reminded of Their Promises.

The members of the board of works are confronted these days with many promises made long ago, which in the present day of adversity they are not able to fulfill. Although there are no funds, the meetings are regularly held, and the complaints of the ratepayers are listened to with commendable fortitude. At the meeting last night all the members were present.

Several interested merchants com-plained of the "almost impassable and disgraceful state" of Carling street west of Talbot.

Mr. William Ellis, one of the petitioners, said it was impossible for them to enter their places of business without getting ankle-deep in mud.

After an all-round wail about the crying needs of the several wards and the lack of funds to meet them with, it was decided to comply with the request and abate the nulsance.

Petitions for sewers on Wortley road, between Tecumseh and Duchess avenues, and on Waterloo street, between Princess avenue and Pall Mall street, were referred to the assessment commissioner to report.

The opinion of the city solicitor on Mr. M. T. O'Mara's claim for damages, caused by raising a sidewalk on Dundas street, West London, was read. Solicitor Murphy represented Mr. O'Mara. On motion of Ald. Carrothers, the committee decided to visit the walk this morning.

Henry Payne and others asked permission to tap the Duchess avenue drain. A motion that the several requests be granted was carried, on the understanding that petitioners agree to pay the usual sewer rates for their frontage on Wortley road, and that if a sewer is petitioned for on Wortley road abutting their properties that they will sign it.

A fence will be put on Carfrae street, at the cost of about $20. Mr.Geoghan impressed the board with the necessity of a sidewalk on the north side of St. James street, between Adelaide and William streets. The residents, he said, had to take to the road. Ald. Cooper was scored for not keeping his promise, and Mr. Geoghan said the residents could get nothing done in that end of the ward. The south end got it all.

Ald. Cooper retorted that the council had given him only $4,000 or $5,000 to spend in 24½ miles of streets. He had asked for $12,000. The chairman said no more plank walks should be laid. Nothing but permanent improveents should be their motto. Ten thousand dollars had been spent on plank walks this year, and the city got little return.

As the board has no funds, the coun-A pleasant event took place at the St. James street walk laid. When this action was decided upon several of the aldermen, talking at once, began to draw vivid word-pictures of the disgraceful condition of this or that sidewalk or road, and Ald. Cooper could hardly talk fast enough he had so many things to urge; but he managed to keep demands for one or two sidewalks and for twenty loads of gravel on Princess avenue, going at the same time fairly; while Ald. Dreaney called attention to some holes on York street, and Ald. Belton said 110 feet of walk had to be put on York street west of the Tecumseh House. Ald. Carrothers was just as emphatic about the need of a walk on the south side of South street, between Maitland and Adelaide. The last two were recommended to the council. Ald. Cooper moved that the council be asked for $4,000 to make the necessary repairs. The Engineer-Your account is now overdrawn $5,000. "I hold that we are not overdrawn at all," said the chairman. The pay sheet, amounting to $212 05, was passed.

CANADIAN CHARITIES

A Conference of Workers Will Be Held in Toronto Next Month.

An important meeting will be held in the Normal School building, Toronto, on Nov. 10 and 11 to consider the advisability of organizing a Canadian Conference of Charities. Mr. Kelso, who is at present in the city, is greatly interested in this conference, and hopes to see a good attendance from London. 'The whole object of this conference,' he said, "is to have a free discussion of all matters connected with charitable work, and to bring about the application of business principles in the solution of these problems. Instead of going at charitable work in a haphazard way, it should be studied carefully and the best methods adopted."

will be child-saving, charity organization, scientific treatment of inebriates, prison reform, and the care of the feeble-minded. The inaugural meeting will be on Thursday, Nov. 10, at 2 o'clock, when a number of prominent men will give addresses.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver, of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetitegradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters'; and to my great joy surprise the first bottle made decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now well man. I know they saved my life and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents a bottle, every battle guaranteed, at any drug store.

Good Work Accomplished by the Children's Aid Society.

Pleasant "At Home"-Provincial Secretary Kelso on the Work-Secretary Saunders' Interesting Report-Other Speakers Indorse the Cause.

The Children's Aid Society held a pleasant "At Home" in the Woman's Art Club room over the Free Library John Hunt, was also received. It showed receipts of $768 55, which inattendance of prominent citizens, interested in the good work being accomplished. The chair was occupied $24 23. The proceeds from Kermiss, by the president of the society, Sheriff Cameron, and devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. Ira Smith.

The impression had got abroad that children brought from the counties had to be maintained by this city. This was not the case, as the county penses of the society. "We can't parade ourselves as great reformance." The restaurance of the society ourselves as great reformance." ourselves as great reformers," he said, "but we will do our little, and will surely have a share of success, as we have had in the past." Mr. J. J. Kelso, provincial secretary for the society, was the next speaker. This was the first time he had had the opportunity of speaking to a representative London audience. The work was for a great cause, and engaged some of the best people of this country. Homes and orphanages had always existed, but they were doing but half the work. Before the Children's Aid Society started all incorrigible children were sent to jails or reformatories, with all their degrading influences. The reason the legislature took up the matter was that the evil might be remedied. The society had been charged with wanting to break up homes and separate families. The act was never designed to do this, but, on the other hand, was to elevate and make homes happier. Parents chould realize more the value of training their children. It was their sacred duty, and should be well carried out. Prevention work should be the great object. Keep the little ones from going astray. The work had been going on for nine years, but there still was a large supply of homes awaiting children. The act also provided for careful administration. There are over 700 children in foster-homes throughout the province, and every child is kept track of in Toronto, and every home visited. The act was intended to bring about reformation in home-life. One of its provisions was that a shelter should be provided and equipped by the municipality. It was a terrible Among the subjects to be considered thing to send a child to a reformatory, and should be avoided. This would be remedied in all cases if there was a shelter at hand. The speaker was glad to be able to say that the London branch was doing as well, comparatively, as any society in the province. It was a grand work that the citizens of London should be proud of.

Brief remarks were also made by Rev. Canon Dann, Rev. Richard Hobbs, Rev. Mr. Clark, Rev. Mr. Fallis, Mayor Wilson, Mr. F. E. Leonard, Mr. V. Cronyn, Mr. Somerville and Mr. Parker. All the speakers were unanimous in agreeing that no worthier society existed in London, and that a great work was being carried on

The report of Secretary Sanders was very encouraging. It stated that in the last year sixteen lads of 15 years and under were confined in London jail, and asked if this was not the preparing of criminals for the next generation to hunt down. A few days' confinement in the Children's Shelter would have been a sufficient corrective. An increasing number of parents had asked his assistance within the year to restrain the waywardness of their girls. Praise is given to the police magistrate, chief of police, and officers of the force for services rendered. The foster home branch of the society's work was maintained with steady perseverence, and with the following result: Children made over by the court, Temple. 19; by parents of guardians, 20; by SOENERY AND SPEED.

Sewer Committee and Mr. J. A. Thomas Strike Terms to Suit.

Recommendation to Fix the London Foundry Company's Assessment for Ten Years.

At the meeting of the sewer committee last night it was finally agreed to settle with Mr. J. A. Thomas for his property appropriated and damaged in the construction of the King street bridge by giving him $1,000 for a deed subject to the Rowing Club's right of way. For nearly two years Mr. Thomas has been kept waiting and the settlement has been discussed time and again. The difficulty was the Rowing Club's right of way. To meet the London Foundry's claim for damages, Ald. Cooper suggested that the sidewalk be raised. This the engineer opposed. Ald. Douglass moved to recommend the fixing of the firm's assessment at $6,700 for ten years if they would waive their claim to damages. Carried.
