THE LIBERAL SKIES BRIGHTEN. THE LIBERAL SKIES BRIGHTEN.
LONDON July 9.—Yesterday the Liberals felt rather blue over the county prospects, as the returns did not appear to bear out their rosecolored view of the situation. A their rosecolered view of the situation. A mild feeling of despondency prevailed over the outlook, as it was feared that Mr. Gladstone's majority would be greatly reduced by the county returns. The Liberals of course did not give up hope of having a majority, but the figures showed that they were not making the expected gains. At noon to-day, when further results of yesterday's elections were at hand, the faces of those who were gathered at the National Liberal Club showed that to a certain extent the counties were "wheeling into line." At counties were were wheeling into line." At that time returns had been received from eighteen county districts and they showed eighteen county districts and they showed that the Liberals had elected their candidates in five of them that had formerly been carried by the Unionists.

A GREAT FLOP OVER.

A GREAT FLOP OVER.

A GREAT FLOP OVER.

The result of the election in the southeast division of Durham caused the Liberals great joy. Here the LiberalUnionist majority of 1886, amounting to 939 votes, was wiped out, and the candidate of that party was snowed under by a majority of 4,070, a gain of 5,009 in this district, which was taken to augur well for the other electorates, and the augury proved a true one.

servative in the Loughborough division of Leicestershire. Here Mr. Delisic, a Tory, who represented the district in the last Parliament, had been defeated by Mr. Ferguson by a majority of 728. This was a Liberal gain of 848.

Then followed the reading of the returns from the south division of Northampton-shire. These showed that Mr. Guthre, the Liberal candidate, would vote with his party in the next Parliament. He had defeated his Conservative opponent by 43

Mr. Walter Hume-Long, Parliamentary Secretary of the Local Government secretary of the Local Government heard, stood in the Conservative interest me the Devizes division of Wiltshire, and was de-feated. The Liberal candidate who stood against him overcame a majority of 1.726, and was returned by a majority of 138, a gain of 1.864. ain of 1,864.
The next Liberal gain was in the Biggles

The next Liberal gain was in the Biggles, wade district of Bedfordshire. There the Liberal-Unionist candidate, Viscont Baring, was deteated by 344 votes, which was a Liberal gain of 1,026.

The Stroud division of Gloucestershire also underwent a radical change of sentiment, the former Conservative majority of 709 being overcome and replaced by a Liberal majority of 204.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL WEBSTER ELECTED Right Hon. Sir Richard E. Webst Attorney-General, stood in the Isle of Wight division of Hamps was opposed by F. S. Mend, Lib latter succeeded in reducing t Conservative majority by 797 vo ism is now merely another name to the mingham policy. In each case it is city vs. I country. In each case the majorities of the value of the dissenters are tremendously swelled by the absorption of a large Tory minority. For example, Timothy Harrington's majority of 3,106 in Dublin, harbor division, includes some 2,000 Tories who ran no candidate of their own, and Field's majority of 2,597 in St. Patricks division includes about 1,200 Tories, who stood up to be counted in 1885, but plumped now for the factionists. Of the county divisions in England thus far heard from Gladstone gains four, oddly enough, scattered in Cambridge, Wits, Somerset and Lancashire. The Liberal candidate in Deptor, of the majority of the Marquis of Lansdown, was defeated by C. J. Darling, Conservative, by 565 majority.

THE QUEEN VEXED.

Vanity Fair says the Queen is much vexed at the defeat of the Marquis of Lorne, who stood as a Liberal-Unionist in central division, in Bradford, where he was defeated by G. Shaw-Lefebre, the Liberal candidate. Her Majesty, the paper says, was greatly opposed to his standing for election and wished him to take his seat in the House of Lords, to which he is entitled. Lefebre had 4,710 votes, and Lord Lorne 4,425. The Liberal majority in 1880 was 459.

WORKINGMEN DISFRANCHISED. WORKINGMEN DISPRANCHISED.

The Government's disgraceful attempt to disfranchise workmen has succeeded. From nearly every constituency come reports of failure of workmen to reach the polls. It cannot be doubted that the detact of Jones, the Liberal candidate at Peckham, was primarly due to this cause.

APANNELITE SURPRISE.

A PARNELLITE SURPRISE.

The defeat of J. J. O'Kelly in the north division of Roscommon surprised the Par-nellites, whose candidate represented the livision in Parliament since 1880.

It was the church question entirely apart from home rule that reduced Farquharson's majority in Aberdeenshire and held Peebleshire for the Unionist, Noting these facts the ecclesiastical drum is being beaten with redoubled effort in Midchinan. Last night a new broadshet was issued, calling upon supporters of the church to make every effort to defeat Mr. Gladstone. This is an impossible task, but the addition of a solid phalax of votors was unopnosed in the bye-election that the parson, the publican and the privileged classes."

PLANS FOR THE FUTURE. It is learned that Mr. Gladstone is in Vaud, on Lake Geneva. The boiler of one of the lake steamers which was lying at her pier at Ouchy exploded. A number of those on board the steamer were killed outright and 40 were injured.

The name of the steamer is Mont Blanc. It is now known that nineteen of those on board were killed. The victims were chiefly English and French visitors and women and children.

THE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS. Closing Sessions-Cleveland the Next Meeting Place.

New York, July 9.—Missionary morning, as the third day's session of the Christian Endeavor is called, opened at 6,30 with a prayer meeting conducted by E. S. Miller, of Portland, Oregon, president of the Oregon Christian Endeavor Union. At 9 o'clock the large hall was again filled with delegates. The regular order of singing and prayer and Eible reading was pursued. Rev. Josiah Strong, secretary of the Evangelical Alliance, addressed meeting on "Our ewn country for Christiana."

was pursued. Kev. Josiah Strong, seerstary of the Evangelical Alliance, addressed meeting on "Our ewn country for Christiana."

The nominating committee of the convention reported the nominations of vice-psesidents of the international society for the ensuing year. It was decided to honer Cleveland is the next place of meeting in 1894. Loud cheering followed, and the whole Cleveland contingents started up their rally song "Cleveland" 94," to the tune of "Bring in the Sheaves." The Denver and San Franciso delegates joined in the chorus.

The meeting was concluded by a duet entitled "We Shall Meet Beyond the River," with echo by the choir of 500 and from different parts of the hell. Dr. Noble, of Chicago, closed with prayer.

New York, July 10, "To-day's morning session in Madison Square Garden consisted of a prayer meeting coducted by H. E. Pennell, of Boston. The rest of the morning wasspentinattending regular divineservices throughout the different parts of the garden in the afternoon. G. F. Ferguson, of Toronto, reported for the Social Committee.

Ira D. Sankey addressed the meeting on "Christian Endeavor in England." An address on "Gospel Temperance" was given by John J. Woolley, of Rost Island, Minn., followed by singing, and a paper, "Among the Northwest Indians," by E. R. Young, Toronto, Ont.

Madison Square Garden was crowded to night—the final session of the Christian Endeavorers' convention—and many persons could not get standing room. The resolutions, besides expressing words of praise for the officers and societies, were such as to show the stand taken by the organization on the subjects important to religious bodies. Tremendous cheering greeted the reading of the resolution touching the close of the World's Fafr on Sunday.

Rev. P. S. Rose, president of the Montreal Christian Endeavor Union delivered a lengthy address in closing. Treasdous cheering greeted the reading of the resolution touching the close of the World's Fafr on Sunday.

Body snatchers are severely dealt with by the new criminal code, as passed into aw in the recent session of the Dominion aw in the recent session of the Dominion Parliament. It was first intended to make the penalty one year's imprisonment; finally it was fixed that the person who steals a body from a grave shall go to prison for five years.

CANADA should have a reissue of frac CANADA should have a reisso of the tional currency. The 25-cent shin plasters were a great convenience to the public in remitting small sums. They are a big remitting smail sums. They are a big improvement on the sticky stamp that is so bothersome to people nowadays. What good reason is there for not issuing 25-cent and 50-cent paper money? It would be more useful in some respects than $1 bills.

The New York Standard truthfully re marks: "The day has come when men who work for a living can no longer be caught in the net of the monopolist. It is becoming better and better understood that trade the world over is an exchange of labor for labor, from which each party reaps a profit; and that the more of trade there is and the free it is allowed to be, the better for every one concerned, except people who live by levying tribute por traders and pro-

The House passed a bill giving naturalization to Jews, but the Irish House of Peers rejected Jews, but the Irish House of Peers rejected it. It was not until 1753 that a similar measure was introduced in the British House of Commons and rejected, and not until the present century were the Jews until the present century were the Jews recognized as entitled to full civil rights. The answer to this was given in the dispatches from Pittsburg. The Carnegie Company, strong in the knowledge that while it enjoys an enormous protective tariff there is no tax on workmen, rejected arbitration or even compromise from the first. JOHN BRIGHT's speeches have been brought orward in the British electoral campaign in support of the view that there should be he utmost friendliness between the Motherland and the people of America. Here is the peroration with which the great English tribune closed a speech during the United States civil war, when he found it necessary to stand up for the North as against the slave-holding States.

about John Bright.

A LESSON FROM THE M.P.S. Eighty Conservative members went in for the indemnity grab at Ottawa last week. But not a man of them is now willing to stand up and be counted. The chief reason for should be adjusted to this computation asking for an addition to their pay of $1,000 and mileage of 10 cents "called attention to the fact that the Franchise Act entailed a certain amount of expense on members for looking after the revisions, and that altogether it was a more land and Wales at the beginning of thi expensive matter now to be a member of force in the Ontario elections, and no one would ever think of repealing the statute. Why not insist that Ontario shall keep in the van of electoral progress,—completeness, simplicity and inexpensiveness being the chief requisites insisted on? The voters' lists need not cost the M. P. a cent if he compels Sir John Thompson to alter the system or give place to those who will, and the people will be apt to insist that this view shall prevail. view shall prevail.

A GREAT CITY'S FUTURE.

Up to the passage of the law giving the taxpayers, in a large measure, control of its affairs, the British metropolis was one of the most conservative cities in the world. It was, in fact, a cosmopolitan aggregation of municipalities, each governed by its local vestry, and in the main controlled by the owners of the ground or which the houses were, by gracious permission, placed. A practical revolution in civic management has taken place since Lord Rosebery and his associates assumed control of the greatest city in the world, and now we find the progressive element indorsed almost all along the line. The movement almost all along the line. The has even extended to imperial representa-tion, for in the contests just held the Liberal and progressive candidates, starting with only the possession of thirteen of the 60 seats in the Metropolitan district, now have 25. With a change of six seats they would be in the majority.

It is the local rather than the imperial aspect of the question, however, that we desire to traverse at this time. The Lon-don County Council, it is now evident, is determined to be as radical in its manage-ment as have been many other British cities ment as have been many other British cities—notably Birmingham and Manchester—and if it effects what it promises it will beat them all in points of efficiency and economy. At its last meeting it decided to abolish the contract system of lighting and watering roads, repairing on the embankment and bridge, and to start its own electric and bridge, and to start its own electric plant, stables, wharves, etc. This may seem a big contract, but that it can be carried out with great advantage to the community many municipalities in both England and Scotland have shown. What is needed most important project is the construction of a grand new street from Holborn to the Strand, to sweep a broad path through the ancient rookeries between Drury Lane and Lincoln's Inn Fields, creating one of the finest thoroughfares in Europe. The very fact that the chairman who wrote and pre-sented the report of the improvement comnittee is Frederick Harrison, the famous Comtist philosopher and essayist, gives one new ideas of the composition of this council and the splendor of the dreams they are dreaming as about to come in London. This 100 feet wide Broadway will enter the Strand with a terrace in the center, round which the roadways will curve down on which the toaways we the noble old church, St. Mary's le Strand, standing alone in this space. A council will control the architecture along the whole avenue, and probably build a palatial county hall for itself on the terrace, giving London for the first time a municipal building rivaling those of Paris, Vienna and Rome. Inci dentally, the council is likely to take over dentally, the council is likely to take over the task of building new homes for thousands of poor people rendered homeless by the cutting away of these slums, and, if undertaken, this will be done upon a comprehensive plan, going far beyond the present notions of model tenements.

What is puzzling the London municipal rulers more than anything class is the questions of the contraction.

rulers more than anything else is the question of a water supply to meet the wants of the metropolitan district. That territory is more extensive than the city, as controlled by the London County Council. The numper of persons now dependent upon the metropolitan water supply is 5,750,000, and it is their increase which must be estimated before the quantity of water needed half a century hence can be defined. If it be taken forgranted that the British metropo-North as against the slave-holding States:

"I cannot believe that civilization, in its journey with the sun, will sink into end."
Is night in order to gratify the ambition of the leaders of this revolt, who seek to Wade through slaughter to a throne. And shut the gates of morey on mankind. I have another and a far brighter vision before my gaze. It may be but a vision, but I will cherish it. I see one vast consecution, stretching from the frozen north in unbroken line to the glowing south, and from the wild billows of the Atlantic westward to the calmer water of the Pacific main—and I see one people and one Pacific main—and I see one people and one should simply add for each decade the metropolis hereafter will only expand by means of the natural increase of births over PUREST, STRONGEST, BEST. 9,966,687 as the population of 1941. After weighing all the considerations that might affect the calculation, the committee of the County Council determined to accept 12,500,000 as the most reasonable estimate of the population of London 50 years hence, and they accordingly recom-mended that the scale of the new works The London Spectator thinks the estimat too low, just as the estimate of 23 years of $1,000 and mileage of 10 cents ago has turned out. In 1869, a commission decided that the time was remote when London would have 4,500,000. Now it has of the Dominion Franchise Act. The delegation, a Conservative journal says, reason why the rate of increase should not continue. But assuming that it remains as between 1881 and 1891, it would in 50 years double that possessed by the whole of Eng century.

Parliament than it was twenty years ago." The confession is timely, in view of the fact that revision has been benefit of the colonies. A more reason-abandoned for this year, though many lists are known to be outrageously defective. What the Conservative M. P.s should do, if they are in earnest in their opposition to spending vast sums of money to attend to the voters' lists, is to move for the repeal of the infamous act, and join the Liberals in the effort to get a "one man one vote" residential suffrage measure passed. It may be said that all the Provinces are not ready for the change. That is no excuss for Ontario M. P.s in any case. We already have the "one man one vote" principle in force in the Ontario elections, and no one would ever think of repealing the estatute. Why not insist that Ontario shall keep in the van of electoral progress,—completeness,

Wives and Daughters

The Leading and Most Popular Ladies' Monthly in the Dominion.

CONDUCTED BY WOMEN FOR WOMEN.

The character of the circulation of "Wives and Daughters" is superior to that of most publications, and embraces the well-to-do portion of the community who are able to, and do, purchase liberally. As this publication appeals directly to those who form the purchasing sower, and who, more than men, closely study advertisements, it must follow as a natural result that advertisers will get liberal returns for their outlay. It circulates throughout the whole Dominion, and to a large extent in the United States, but more particularly in the Province of Ontario, the largest, most populous, wealthy and progressive of the provinces.

Both daily newspapers suspended operations Saturday and left the city to take care of itself. The employes of one went to Yankoeland, but those of the ADVERTISER patronized the popular home resort—Port Stanley—where the married men could take their families and everybody their friends, and all enjoy the rural delights of the lake shore. The weather was of the made-to-order variety. Sol blazed away from an' unclouded sky, but the pienickers were fanned by the gentle zephyrs wafted in from old Erie. Two well-filled trains left in the morning, the majority arriving at Port Stanley after 11 o'clock. How welcome the heights seemed after the tedious climb up the hill! Of course the first number on the day's programme was dinner. There was a hurry and a scurry after hot water, and soon many tempting lunches were spread upon the green sward and many baskets were returned to the office tent bereft of everything save dishes. The ADVERTISER employes had their photos taken, looking extremely pleasant through the ordeal, and then hustled off to participate in the games. second session of the seventh Parliament of Canada in the usual formal speech, referring to the passage of various measures, which have already been outlined in the Advertises special dispatches from Ottawa, and which (Gerrymander inclusive) are pronounced by his Excellency Incentive to competition was not wanting, as the prizes were cash, paid then and there. All the contests were spirited, and several new records were made. The jockey race, in particular, was very exciting. Waters and Chambers were doing first rate, but suddenly rolled over half way down the course and covered them selves with mud instead of glory. The following is a list of events and winners:

Constable Logan, of the G. T. R., was there. He never had a more orderly lot to attend to.

All the arrangements were excellent. Baskets were conveyed to and from the station and placed in an official tent.

New Orchard Beach and the Y. M. C. A. camps had many callers.

The Cavalry Band marched up Richmond atreet on the arrival, playing "Home, Sweet Home." Their music was good throughout.

Sweet Home.

The following composed the picnic committee: Frank Adams (chairman), J. M. Symonds, (secretary), Atwell Fleming (treasurer), Chas. H. Fewings, A. E. White, W. A. Hunter, J. F. Quinn, E. Wallace, Thos. Bland and M. W. Rossie.

We have no hesitation in saying that Dr.
J. D. Kellog's Dysentery Cordial is without doubt the best medicine ever introduced for dysentery, diarrhoa, cholera and all summer complaints, sea sickness, etc. It promptly gives relief and never fails to efiect a positive cure. Mothers should never be without a bottle when their children are teething.

applicants be required to furnish medical certificates as to their physical ability. Death of Mrs. Robt. Thomson.

Scarcely a year since the death was chronicled of Mr. Robt. Thomson, of Port Stanley, and to-day is recorded with deep regret and sympathy that of his estimable widow, whose demise occurred at the family residence on Monday, July 4. The deceased lady never fully recovered from the shock of her husband's death, and for some weeks past her tenure of life had been an exceedingly frail and slender one. Heart trouble finally occurred, and after two weeks of intense suffering she calmly and peacefully passed from her earthly to her heavenly home. Held in the very highest respect and esteem by all to whom she was known, her memory will ever be cherished as that of one who loved and honored her Maker, and one whose life was till of loving-kindness to her fellow-beings. A tenderly-loved and cherished mother, she leaves a family of one son and six daughters, who bitterly deplore their irreparable loss. They are: Capt. J. C. Thomson, Chicago; Mrs. W. Timson, London; Mrs. W. D. Magee, Toronto; Mrs. (Rev.) McRobbie, Shelburne; Mrs. (Dr.) Newton, Ridgetown, and Mary and Phyllis at home. Foureral services were held at her late residence on Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and were conducted by Revs. McDonald and Clark, after which the remains were interred in

Death of Capt. Budsen.

A resident of the city for 27 years died Sunday morning in the person of Capt. Wm. Hudson, aged 55. Deceased was a familiar figure in the city, and was popular with a wide circle of friends. He was a man of fine constitution, but was attacked by dropsy some weeks ago, and his death has not been unexpected. Capt. Hudson was born in Wexford, Ireland, in 1837. He entered the British army when a young man, and had been stationed in different parts of the globe. While sergean: major of the Hundredth Regiment at Malta and Gibraitar he lost two of his three children by his first wife. The third, Mr. George Hudson, who returned to the city to see his father lately, has a large cattle ranch at Touchwood, Man. His second wife, who survives him with two small children, was Miss Josephine Rothwell, daughter of T. W. Rothwell, of this city, formerly of Strathrey. Captain Hudson naturally took great interest in military matters since his retirement from regular service, and was quartermaster with the Seventh during the rebellion. Deceased has been connected with Carling's brewery for years. He was a Conservative in politics, and a member of the Church of England.

FITZ

Adam Graeme, of Mossgray.

There was for me after that era no more ontary watching of the sports of others. The "hall water" ere long knew Charlie Graeme as the adventurous leader of every troop of juvenile mischief makers, and I was by no means a slow or backward unpil. The complete revolution in my life which this produced gave these vigorous enjoyments a still greater rest to me, albeit I sometimes felt the pleasure of compassionate benevolence towards these strong fellows, my seniors in years, whose unthanking mirth of mood was so much younger than mine. I liked the sports for their sake, and they gave me some casual place in their regard for sake of the games in which I shared—we we were different so far—but the lingerings of my recuse spirit did by no means operate disadvantageously upon my physical activities. I had emerged into a new existence. I had entered the second stage of life.

Charlie was the son of my father's elder brother. I had never seen and scarcely ever heard of my uncle; but, at his death, which took place a short time after his son's arrival at Mossgray, Charlie, with the very slender inheritance that remained to him, had been committed to my father's care, as his only near relative and guardian. To keep us together at Mossgray was the cheapest and casiest way of getting rid of us, and accordingly we were dispatched together to the academy of Pendie.

A somewhat famous school in our district, which in its day has sent forth men into the world—men of stature and nobleness, some few, albeit it has filled up its quota with perhaps a greater than usual commodity of packmen; but a school of high standing and character withal, to the neighboring gentry, and the smaller fry of "genteel families" in Fendie, could send their sons without derogation. We made the usual progress, as I fancy, in those routine affairs which we called our studies. We learned lessons with as much painstaking industry as we could aummon up in the morning, and orget them with the most praiseworthy ease at night. We were consciontious enough to pla

On the whole we got through admirably. Never boys on the Border were blither than we.

Young Findie of the Mount was at an English boarding school. Our sturdy home academy was not good enough for the young laird of that ilk. What storms of ridicule we poured upon him—he knapped English, he had a holy horror of toru breeks, in never climbed a tree in his life; and, crowning shame of all, it was whispered among us, in the utmost scorn and derision, that his dainty cambric handkerchief was perfumed like a laiy's! We looked at the indefinite looking things in my own miscellaneous pckets, and echoed it with a storm of laughter. "He has scent on his napkin!" It was the very climax of derision: we could go no further.

How Murry, of Murrayshaugh, was our warmest friend. We met sometimes, when out-of-door amusements were impracticable, in the vaulted room in Mossgray Tower, where lay in state various remnants of ancestral mail, and which we called the armory—to compare notes as to the changes of Scotland, and we three chanced to flight at Falkirk with Wallace, or with James at Flodden. But whereas Hew Murray and I were chivalrously engressed with considerations of what we could have done for Scotland, it always happened, as I recollect, that Charlie rose in glorious anticipations of knighthoods and earldoms and broad lands to be won by his sword and by his bow. In nocent chevaliers errant were we, not with out a weakness for beautiful disconsolatorincesses, and imprisoned ladies to be set free by our valor and fidelity, but the dazzling chances of war had greater fascination for Charlie. Our here contented himself with freeing the lady, and reducing the castle—his took possession of the conquered stronghold and reigned in the stead of his enemy.

But our friends were not all of our own degree. A mile or two on the other side of Fendie lay a pretty house, which made up in its snng and comfortable proportions for its entire want of all the antiquities which clustered in hoary grace about Mossgray, pertaining to it was a small farm, which sufficed to give its proprietor the much-esteemed territoral designation. The name of the place was Greenshaw, its owners Johnstone. People said that he had driven a homely enough trade in former days; but never man on the northern side of Skiddaw had seen any vistage of the pack on the broad shoulders of Mr. Johnstone of Greenshaw. Besides, we do rather hold the "wanderers" trade in zood repute in our country, so the rumor did the comfortable man no harm.
His son Walter was one of our sworn But our friends were not all of our own "wanderer's" trade in good repute in our country, so the rumer did the comfortable man no harm.

His son Walter was one of our sworn brethren. Walter Johnstone surpassed us all in daring; but the greatest heat of boyish excitement could scarcely bring any additional glow to his cheek, or throw the slightest tremor into his hand. Walter could calculate his time to a moment; he was never hurried. Prompt and bold, cool and acute, he was the regulator and time-keeper of our obstreperous band.

Then there was Edward Maxwell, the widow's son at the Watchbrae. He was the detrimental of our joyous parties. He always became weary at uneassonable times; he continually shirked his share of the work, and evaded the perilcus parts of our excursions; but he had good looks in his favor, and a winning, ingratiating, carross and manner, which overcame our reproaches. It always happened, too, that Maxwells weakness brought him prominently forward among us. Speculations as to what he would do next, when he would fall in a fairue, how he would glide out of a danger, with what new expedients he would excuse himself, kept our conversation full of him, and he folt the distinct on, such as it was.

Othercompanion whad, greateror smaller as it chanced, for we were perfectly republican. Many kindly ties I have from that school-time with men of all classes, in all places and quarters of the world. Anstrain settlers in the bush, merchants in Loudon and Liverpool, distinguished men of literature, poor subsiters in India, humble housekeepers in Fendle, small farmer-lairds in my own country; these pleasant threads of oid connection are spun out far and near. I like it—there is a kindly universality of brotherhood in this, that seems to me as much better, as it is wider and further reaching than any mere friendships of one especial class isolated and standing upon the bare platform of their position.

CHAPTER III "The youth who daily further from the East Must travel, still is Nature's priest, And by the vision splendid Is on his way attended,"

Must travel, still is Nature's priest,
And by the vision splendid ls on his way attended,"

Yes! it is in youth, properly so called, that the true age of poetry is.
The priesthood of nature, the mood that can hold communion with her in her every place and time—these come only when the boy's material age is past, and the childish dreams come back, mightier now and clearer to clothe with their rare grace the expanding, growing soul. It is well that this radiance should by and by fade into the light of common day! let us be content—the old man is of kin to the youth—perchance if the harsher meridian time did not intervene, it would scarcely be so.
But now the vision splendid travels with him everywhere. There is a glory about the hills and on the sky; there is music, all the more dear that it is inarticulate, in every running stream; there is, highest of all, a wonderful light of truth, and love, and nobleness, over all human things. Motives grand and sublime, labor generous and great, worthy of the marvelous position held by this mortai race. The whole universe vibrates to his ear, with heroic marches and noble chimes of music, to which his soul thrills, and his step keeps time. True indeed there are falsehood and selfishness and change here, or whence these tales of sorrow, and this generous indignation that swells within him, against the wrong which is to be conquered; but these are not near him. In his own especial atmosphere there is perfect truth open at all points to the eye of day. His ideal covers and veils all meaner faults in the objects of his chivalrous affection; and he pities men who are smarting under neglect or inconsistency, or worldliness of friends, as those pity who greater by the contrast.

Among the pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity with Dr. Thomas Eclectric Oil, is ear ache. The young are especially subject to it, and the desirability of this Oil as a family remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the above aliment, but also to the hurts, disorders of the bowels, and affections of the throat, in which the young are specially subject.

-Whene ♥ r in a lonely grove, Amphion set up his pipes, The gouty oak began to move And flounder into hornpipes.

- The mounta'n stirred its bushy crown, And, as ir adition teaches, Young ashes pirouetted down, Coquetting with young becches, And briony vine and ivy wreath Ran forward to his rhyming, And from the valley underneath Came little copses climbing.
- The birch tree swung her fragrant hair,
 The bramble cast her berry,
 The gin within the juniper
 Began to make him merry.
 The poplars in long order due,
 With cypress promenaded;
 The shockhead willows, two and two,
 By rivers gallopaded.

- Came well-shod alder from the wave,
 Came yeave in dismal coterie;
 Each plucked his one foot from the grave,
 Pousetting with a sloe-tree.
 Old olne same breaking from the vine,
 The vines streamed out to follow,
 And, sweating rosin, plumped the pine
 From many a cloudy hollow.

From many a cloudy hollow.

Thus Tennyson sings in gay and whimsical mood of the fabled antics played by the god of rural music and fun, but he elsewhere speaks with reverent love of the grace and beauty of the denizens of the grace and beauty of the denizens of the grace and beauty of the denizens of the greenwood. All the poets—scriptural, classical and modern—David and Solomon, Homer, Euripides and Sophoeles, Shake speare, Dryden, Byron, Shelley, Scott and Wordsworth—have tuned their harps in noble strains to the same inspiring theme. The culture of trees, shrubs and flowers is an evidence of taste, of refinement and of civilization. In planting and rearing them the citizen not only renders his home more beautiful and contributes to the them the citizen not only renders his home more beautiful and contributes to the happiness of his family, but improves the taste of his fellow-citizens and adda loveliness to the city at large. The fine arts are, after all, something exclusive. A collection of pictures is comparatively shut up from the world in the private gallery. But the sylvan and floral collections, the stately trees and the treasures of the parks may be enjoyed by all who have sight and taste. The taste and the treasures may also be enjoyed by the poor in the pot of flowers in the window, the rose tree in the dooryard, the blooming vine which clambers over the porch, and the graceful maple or elm in front of the house.

The Doctors Permanently Here.
Services first three months free. The staff of eminent physicians and surgeons who have so long enjoyed such unparalleled success in Montreal and New York, having cured thousands of cases of male and female weakness, catarrh, catarrhal deafness, etc., where the best American doctors have failed, are now permanently established at their residence, No. 428 Park avenue.

All who visit these eminent doctors before Aug. I will receive services first three months free. The object in pursing this course is to become rapidly and personally acquainted with the sick and afflicted.

The doctors treat every variety of disease and deformity, but will not accept incurable cases. They will examine you thoroughly, free of charge, and if incurable, they will frankly, kindly tell you so; also caution you against spending money for useless treatment. Go promptly if you wish to consult them, as their offices will be rowded during the latter days of free services.

Remember it costs nothing whatever to The Doctors Permanently Here.

Tommy Esterbrook Injured. "Tommy" Esterbook, the retired first paseman of the Giants, met with a serious accident lately while playing first base or the crack semi-professional Bensonhurst for the crack semi-professional Bensouhurst nine. During a critical point in the game Esterbrook, in making a rush for the plate, collided violently with the catcher of the opposing team breaking his left arm. He suffered exeruciating agony, and the accident bids fair to disable him for some time.—[New York Advertiser.

The Seventh at Church.

The Seventh at Church.

The Seventh Battalion paraded to divine service at the First Congregational Church Sunday morning. Headed by the band, the battalion marched by main streets from the drill shed to church and return. The turnout was creditable. An appropriate sermon was preached by the pastor, Rev. R. Aylward. Col. Payne was in command and was assisted by Capts. Hayes, Moore, Dawson and Kingsmill, and Lieuts. Graham, Barker (Queen's Own, Toronto), Magee and Barr.

Local Orangemen Turn Out.

Between 300 and 400 of the Orangemen and True Blues of the city attended the First Congregational Church yesterday afternoon in a body. They met at Orange Hall, Dundas street, and formed in line, headed by the new Hackett Band, which furnished very good music. The lodges represented were: Forest City True Blues, No. 11, Dan Donaldson, W. M.; L. O. L., No. 298, H. E. Bates, W. M.; Hackett L. O. L., No. 805, H. Newell, W. M.; Ahoghill L. O. L., No. 230, with fife and drum band, W. Brett, W. M.; Victoria L. O. L., No. 2, and Lady Stanley, No. 4 (ladies' lodges), under Mrs. Mason and Mrs. Davidson. The sermon was preached by Rev. R. Aylward. On returning to the hall votes of thanks were passed to the pastor, church cfficials, choir and congregation for their kindness.

HALIFAX, N. S., July 10 .- Forty-six years ago a fire in St. Johns, the capital of Newfoundland, destroyed a great part of the city. Damage was done amounting to $5,000,000 and several lives were lost. Saturday's blaze threatens to far exceed in extent of money damage and loss of life that of the disastrous conflagration of 1846. It was about 4 o'clock Friday afterno when the fire broke out on Long's Hill. Most of the houses in that locality were very old wooden ones and they caught fire and burned with great rapidity. Large burning brands were caught up by the wind
