The "Nordheimer" Permanency of Tone

As a rule when a person buys a piano it is not with the intention of replacing it with a new one next month, next year or within five years. It is regarded as a permanent fixture in the home—and the most important feature next to the owners themselves.

It is evident that great care should be taken to select a piano which will retain its original brilliancy, power and quality of tone for years and years and years. And such a piano is the "Nordheimer."

It has a lasting, permanent tone, as you can prove for yourself if you play on one which has been in the home of a friend for ten, fifteen, twenty years or more.

The "Nordheimer" is perfectly constructed by experts from the finest grades of materials procurable. It is built with the idea of not only satisfying the most critical ear for tone-quality when new, but for retaining its original superb tone, so that it will still satisfy the critical ear in years to come.

Those who own a "Nordheimer" are the only ones who can really appreciate to the fullest sense the wonderfully pure, sweet, brilliant, yet powerful tone of the peerless "Nordheimer" piano. May we not have the pleasure of a talk with you, with the object in view of placing a "Nordheimer" in your home?

THAT MUTINY IN BRITISH NAVY

Brought About Revocation of the 200-Year-Old-Knee-Order.

London, Nov. 26. — No longer will Lieut. Collard, R. N., or any other officer of the British navy, be able to order seamen or stokers to kneel before him. The 200-year-old order of the knee is to be abolished. This is the result of the recent mutiny of stokers at the naval barracks at Portsmouth.

It was the second mutiny in the history of the British navy, the first being the mutiny at the Nore over a century ago. Then the mutineers' leaders were hanged at the yardarm. Now they are sentenced to five years' hard labor in the penitentiary.

The details of the mutiny, of course, are familiar to readers in Canada. But the secret history of the outbreak shows that the stokers mutinied in order to attract public attention to the brutal German manner of treating the men in vogue among several of the officers and notably Lieut. Collard.

At the new year the officers at the barracks were changed. Commodore W. G. Stopford, son of the admiral, was placed in command. With him were a commander and a lieutenant. The latter, a gunner, officer, came into closer touch on his duties with the men than the other officers.

Lieut. Collard is very unpopular with the men. Four years ago he was court-martialed for brutality to a stoker and lost six months' seniority as punishment.

Six months ago, he again got into trouble. One of the stokers on parade was slightly deaf. In consequence he did not obey a trivial order quickly enough. Lieut. Collard ordered the man as a punishment to kneel before him on both knees. The lieutenant shouted, "Down on your knees, you dirty dog," and compelled the man to kneel. Next day the stoker, not being a sworn man as are seamen, employed Lawyer King of Portsmouth, to bring a civil action against Lieut. Collard for damages, charging assault, insult and degradation. The stoker won and secured damages of $1,000 and costs.

Soon afterward the man was dismissed from the service, ostensibly on account of his deafness. This man was in Portsmouth at the time of the rioting.

A rigorous court of inquiry has been held on the insubordination at Portsmouth. It was secret. Many of the stokers complained of brutality of other officers, but not to such an extent as they complained of Lieut. Collard. The newspapers generally have been bitter in their attacks on this officer. As a result, perhaps, of the lieutenant's naval authorities, Lieut. Collard will send in his papers, but action may be withheld until the mutinous clouds have blown away, when his resignation may be accepted or he may be sent to sea duty off the Gold Coast, or in the Red Sea, the most unpleasant and profitless appointments in the navy.

Yet he has been instrumental in having a two-centuries-old obnoxious order abolished and brutal German methods of treating men by officers, forever tabooed.

OLAF WINS BRITONS

Tiny Heir to Norwegian Throne Makes a Hit in England.

London, Nov. 26.—Little Prince Olaf is the hero of the hour.

The gravity with which the blue-eyed little fellow takes himself is exceedingly amusing. Before leaving the Windsor station for London he recognized that the right thing to do was to get away to shake hands with those he left behind, so with perfect seriousness he walked up to the majestic colonel of the First Life Guards and manfully held out a tiny hand. He then turned to the colonel of the Coldstream Guards and shook hands with him.

He next selected the mayor of Windsor for a handshake, and was steadily working his way down the line of railroad officials when Princess Victoria ran up and said it was time to go. Accordingly Prince Olaf trotted off to the royal saloon.

As the train steamed away he got someone to hold him up so that he could wave his hand through the window.

Large crowds assembled to witness the arrival of the royal party in London. The little prince, who was in a carriage with his grandmother, his mother, and Princess Victoria, frequently acknowledged the cheers of the people by gravely raising his hand to his cap.

Prince Olaf's babyishness developed at Buckingham Palace on Thursday, when he was photographed. It had been arranged that he should be taken sitting on Queen Alexandra's knee. But the prince thought the picture would not be complete unless he had some of his toys. He insisted on dragging a greasy wooden elephant in front of the camera. He also provided himself with a toy gun, which he held in true military style, while a photograph was being taken.

To please his little nephew Princess Victoria, at the last moment, consented to make one of the group.

Mrs. H. M. King has bought the Laurels ranch in Texas, embracing 170,000 acres, the consideration being $1,000,000. The purchase of this ranch makes Mrs. King the owner of 1,280,000 acres, practically in one body. This cattle queen's domain is now nearly twice the area of Rhode Island, and nearly as large as Delaware.

Cheap traveling men who can pick up orders in a brisk and breezy fashion in the west and southwest of the United States, are not the men who may be expected to do business in Mexico, says Consul J. A. LeRoy, of Durango. The professional "hustler" is quite apt to be of no use down there. Men of education and culture, with gentlemanly manners, and knowledge of the language, its people and their customs, are the sort of traveling men American firms need for all Spanish America.

POLISH SCHOOLS PUZZLE GERMANS

Effort to Make Children Learn German Not Pleasing to the Vatican.

Berlin, Nov. 27.—History tells us that in the middle ages a shepherd boy of Southern France, claiming to have received a message from heaven that the holy sepulchre in Jerusalem could only be liberated by the immaculate hands of innocent children, led an enthusiastic band of girls and boys, who had fled from home to the holy land, where they perished miserably or were sold into slavery. One is strongly reminded of this historical reminiscence when reading of the fanaticism of the Polish school children who are engaged in a wild crusade against religious instruction in the German language.

What dangerous direction the strike of the Polish children has taken can be seen from the following affairs, which have happened in various parts of the Posen Province. At a place called Kosten Poles attacked a teacher named Kuban and maltreated him in such a manner that he required the need of a physician. At Kamienie three Polish masons, passing a Catholic school, hearing that the teacher gave religious instruction in German, entered the classroom and demanded of him that he should continue in Polish. When the instructor ordered them to leave, they did not do so, but ridiculed the teacher with the indecent language. What is more, they personally insulted the teacher and threatened to kill him. Only after the police had been called out did they leave, but later were arrested.

At Schroda, as the children decline to answer in German, the Prussian Government has ordered the employment of four additional teachers. At Hohen-salza, in many schools, German children are compelled to participate in Polish instruction, and in the village of Schabokowitz and in the city of Gnesen school children have been whipped because they declined to participate in the Polish classes. There are, of course, places where religious instruction is still given in Polish.

The Polish school strike is not only disagreeable, but also most inconvenient to the Prussian Government. It is hardly a diplomatic secret that, owing to the trouble between France and the Vatican, Germany is doing everything possible to curry favor with Rome. Besides, another factor must be considered, the centrum, the party which has the largest representation in the Imperial Parliament, and the Government simply cannot get along without its support. On the other hand, it must be said that the centrum is equally not pleased with the Polish uprising, for already, in Silesia and other provinces with large Polish populations, its representatives have been defeated by democratic Polish leaders like Korynt and others. The Poles, of course, are delighted with the results of their work, and believe it excellent food for their Polish national movement. As the Dziennik Kujawski of Hohen-salza declares:

"The school strike will be continued. Let the children not fear their teachers or their parents resolve punishment. Behind the Polish children are 20,000,000 of the Polish nation, the Slavonic people and the civilized world." Some of the leading liberal newspapers, like, for example, the Vossische Zeitung, maintain that the Prussian Government can get out of the Polish mess by abolishing religious instruction entirely in the public schools. It is hardly necessary to say that, in a country where church and state are so intimately connected, this proposition will not be considered seriously.

THE GOSPEL OF WORK

Booker Washington Says It Is Revolutionizing the Black Race.

New York, Nov. 26.—Andrew Carnegie, according to Booker T. Washington, who spoke last night at the Universalist Church of the Divine Paternity, buys his shoes at Tuskegee, Ala., where they are made by colored students.

The speaker said the students in the past year made 2,000,000 bricks. There are, he said, more than 1,500 students, representing 36 states and 12 foreign countries. The value of the institute property, he said, is now $800,000. It has an endowment of $1,500,000 for the material increase of which there is an active campaign on hand.

"We are changing the ideal of the black race," declared Dr. Washington. "We are teaching them that labor is honorable, and that idleness is not, and they are recognizing it, too. We have graduated 6,000 students, and they are for the most part sober, industrious, useful men and women."

Maple Leaf Rubbers

"If I were to return to earth again I would provide my entire family with 'Maple Leaf' Rubbers."—Wireless from "the old woman who lived in a shoe."

You see the "old woman" is somewhat of a philosopher. She knows it would take a pile of money to keep her big family supplied with ordinary, go-to-pieces rubbers.

But "Maple Leaf" Rubbers are different. They're long wearers—money savers.

Only the finest Para gum, which makes the toughest, longest-wearing, most waterproof rubber, is used in the manufacture of "Maple Leaf" Rubbers.

They are not loaded with any cheap, stiff, tarry substance which makes ordinary rubbers split, crack, wrinkle and become prematurely old and worn-out before "Maple Leaf" Rubbers show a sign of wear.

Styles and sizes to fit all shapes and sizes of men's, women's, children's shoes.

The United States bureau of labor statistics has compiled figures regarding the organized labor movement. From them it appears that there are now upward of 8,000,000 wage workers in the world who are active members of unions. More than 2,000,000 reside in the United States.

NIP DISEASE IN THE BUD.—It is difficult to eradicate a disease after it has become seated, therefore it is wise to take any ailment in its initial stages and by such remedies as are sufficient stop it in its course. Cold is the commonest complaint of man, and when neglected leads to serious results. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil will cure the severest cold or most violent cough.

Well-made bricks are most durable building materials. In the British Museum are bricks taken from the ruins of Nineveh and Babylon, which show no sign of decay or disintegration, although they were neither burned nor baked, but simply left to dry in the sun.

A COUGH is often the forerunner of serious pulmonary afflictions, yet there is a simple cure within the reach of all in Hickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, an old-time and wisely recognized remedy, which, if resorted to at the inception of a cold, will invariably give relief, and by overcoming the trouble, guard the system against any serious consequences. LONDON, TUESDAY, NOV. 27.

A YEAR OF DESTRUCTION.

A notable characteristic of the present year is the destruction of life and property which has been caused by the forces of nature. These forces have not been so active or disastrous in their results for many years past. The record, as compiled by the Chicago Tribune, is a formidable one. In January an earthquake killed 14 persons at Gon-zano, Italy, and a tidal wave on the Colombian coast swept away 2,500. In February a hurricane visited the Societé Island, a favorite resort for hurricanes, and 1,000 perished. In March,
a cyclone swept through Mississippi,
and 21 were killed, and an earthquake
in Formosa destroyed 2,000. In April the Vesuvius eruption killed 2,000, a second earthquake at Formosa, 100, the San Francisco earthquake 448, and a cyclone in Texas 26. In July there were two smaller disasters, a cloudburst at Ocampo, Mexico, which killed 10 persons, and a waterspout at Lyons,
France, which killed 31.

The furies broke loose in August and 2,000 were victims of an earthquake at Valparaiso and 12,000 of floods at Hunan, China. In September there was a long series of disasters. A landslide and storm in the Caucasus cost 255
lives, the typhoon at Hong Kong 10,000,
a flood at Tepic, Mexico, 10, a hurricane at New Orleans and Mobile 140, and a cyclone in Southern Spain 60. In October a hurricane off the coast of Florida, which started from Venezuela,
skirting Honduras, Nicaragua, Salvador and Cuba, left 986 dead in its path.
During the present month nature has taken a little rest, the lake storm of the last few days, in which 32 sailors perished, being the principal disaster.

Including the losses of life by lesser disasters of this kind, the record shows already that more than 50,000 persons have perished this year by earthquake, hurricane, and other manifestations of nature's fury. It may be that December will swell the list, but even if it should not, it is not strange that prophecies are already at work figuring
the time when the world shall pass away as the result of some great natural cataclysm.

DEATH OF A BRITISH TRUST.

The power of active public opinion was never better illustrated than in the case of the British soap trust which has been obliged to dissolve by reason of the disfavor with which it was received and the unrelenting war which has been waged against it by the trade,
by the British public and press.

This concern was organized Oct. 5 with a capitalization of $60,000,000. As soon as the project was launched and its purport comprehended a large section of the London and provincial press took up the fight against it. It turned over their columns gratuitously to the advertisements of soap makers outside of the trust.

Those engaged in the retail trade engaged in the fight, filling their shop windows with the advertisements of non-trust soap manufacturers, and doing everything in their power to persuade the purchaser to buy the soap
manufactured by the independent
makers instead of the trust made article.

The public took up the fight and refused to buy the trust made soaps, with the result that the sales of the combined companies fell off to such a degree as to carry consternation to the directors.

On Nov. 22 the directors met at Liverpool and dissolved the trust, announcing that the plan had been resolved with such disfavor by the trade
and by the public it had been decided to terminate the combination.

Americans will be disposed to wonder why their British cousins were so exercised over this matter. In the United States trusts are common every-day affairs and are accepted as normal and inevitable. It may be almost said of a trust, that it is:
"A monster of such frightful men
As to be hated needs but to be seen;
But seen too oft, familiar with its face,
We first endure, then pity, then embrace."
Britishers are still comparatively unfamiliar with the monster, but the Americans seeing it too oft, have learned to endure, if not to pity or embrace. Ambitious politicians and prosecuting attorneys across the line
make a brave show of slaying the dragons, but their assaults are merely pin-pricks in an elephant's hide, so far as the great majority of the trusts are concerned, if no profane hands are laid on the sacred schedule of the Dingley tariff. The only trust which the British people need fear is an international

one. A domestic trust can have no terrors for the British public, as it can exist only by underbidding competitors
the world over.

A REMARKABLE PROPHECY.

The chapters of the autobiography of the famous German-American, Carl Schurz, published in the current Mc-Clure's, contain striking passages upon Russia. Considering that it was penned by Mr. Schurz in 1900, it has the appearance of prescience, in the light of recent events. In 1855 Schurz, while visiting England dined with Alexander Herzen, a Russian patriot of noble birth, and at his home met a company of typical Russian revolutionists. Then follows this wonderfully graphic analysis of Russian national characteristics:

"Other impressions I gathered through my contact with some of Herzen's Russian friends who from time to time met in his hospitable house and at his table. At dinner the conversation would sparkle with dramatic tales of Russian life, descriptions of weird social conditions
and commotions, which opened mysterious prospects of great upheavings
and transformations, and which were interspersed with witty sallies
against the Government and droll satures on the ruling classes. But when after dinner the bowl of strong punch was put on the table, the same persons who so far had conducted themselves like gentlemen of culture and refinement, becoming gradually heated, would presently break out in exclamations of a sort of savage wildness, the like of which I had never witnessed among Germans, or French, or English, or Americans.
They strongly reminded me of the proverb: 'You scratch a Russian, and you find a Tartar.'"

"Herzen himself always remained
self-contained; but as an indulgent
host he did not restrain his guests.
Probably he knew that he could not.
Once or twice he would say to me in an undertone, witnessing my amazement: 'So they are! So they are! But they are splendid fellows for all that.'"

"And so, I suppose, they are indeed, not only as individuals but as a nation—a huge, unshapely mass,
with a glossy polish on the outer surface, but fierce forces within,
kept in control by a tremendous pressure of power, or superstition, or stolid faith, but really untamed and full of savage vigor, the full breaking loose of which must result in awful cataclysms producing in their turn—what? It is difficult to imagine how the Russian Empire as it now is,
from Poland to eastern-most Siberia,
could be kept together and governed
by anything else than an autocratic
centralization of power, a constantly self-asserting and directing central authority with a tremendous organization of force behind it. This rigid central despotism cannot fail to create oppressive abuses in the government of the various territories and diverse populations composing the empire. When this burden of oppression becomes too galling, efforts, raw,
rude, more or less inarticulate and confused, will be made in quest of relief, with a slim chance of success.
Discontent with the inexorable
autocracy will spread and seize upon the superior intelligence of the country, which will be inspired with a restless ambition to have a share in the government."

"At the moment when the autocrat
yields to the demands of that popular intelligence and assents to constitutional limitations of his power, or to anything that will give an authoritative, official voice to the people, the real revolutionary crisis will begin.
The popular discontent will not be appeased, but will be sharpened by the concession. All the social forces will then be thrown into spasmodic
commotion; and, when those forces
in their native wildness break through their traditional restraint, the world may have to witness a spectacle of revolutionary chaos without example in history. The chaos may ultimately bring forth new conceptions of freedom, right, and justice,
new forms of organized society, new developments of civilization. But what the sweep of those volcanic disturbances will be and what their final outcome, is a mystery baffling the imagination—a mystery that can be approached only with awe and dread."

How events have corroborated this!

British Liberal lawyers, after years
of exclusion from the bench, are now obtaining a share of the judicial appointments. Several have recently received county court judgeships, among the number being two Welsh M. P.'s, whose legal ability is thus recognized by the lord chancellor. Mr. Shires Will, Right Hon. John Morley's predecessor in the Montrose boroughs, has also been elevated to the bench, along with Mr. Cyril Dodd, a former English
M. P., who is known to many Canadian visitors in London as an influential member of the National Liberal Club. There is no objection in Great Britain to members of Parliament who have the needed qualifications, being appointed judges. In Canada, probably the same views are held, but it is sometimes embarrassing
for a political leader to open a constituency through the appointment of an M. P. to the bench, and in the past something like scandal has attached to delays of this nature. The present Ottawa Government has, it is satisfactory to note, avoided this mistake.

THE "FEMME DE LUXE."

[London Truth.]

There are in these days the train de luxe, edition de luxe and hotel de luxe,
but it seems to have entirely escaped attention that there is also the femme de luxe.

The femme de luxe associates only with the rich and prominent, lives but for amusement, spends money recklessly, and has no respect for either the Ten Commandments or the Upper-Ten Commandments.

The ordinary woman, who still obeys
the laws and bylaws of good conduct,
sees the femme de luxe discard them all
with impunity, and naturally considers that she has as much right to do this as has the former. "I would be as attractive as she is had I but her clothes and jewels," she says to herself. "It is only a matter of courage and opportunity. I, too, must rebel against restrictions, and I shall soon then be as much admired as she is."

This femme de luxe is the disease which,
spreading with enormous rapidity, threatens to remove good conduct from the civilized world. A handful of men break every law, divine or human, swindle with impunity, and behave like hoodlums, and with them are a handful of women who have abandoned all restraint. These are held up to the rest of the community as
of such social importance that their misconduct is to be admired.

CLINGING TO A GOOD THING.

[Chicago Record.]

"Well, say, if you and your wife have so little in common, why don't you get a divorce?"
"Oh, pshaw! I can't afford to do that.
She's willing to look after the furnace."

WELCOME ASSURED.

[Louisville Courier-Journal.]

"My oldest son has eloped."
"Going to forgive him and welcome him back home?"
"Of course. He ran off and married our cook."

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

[Milwaukee Sentinel.]

I've wandered to the village, Tom, and tried to find the truth.
On which we carved our names one day
when we were happy, free;
But there was nothing doing, Tom; the
tree'd been stricken low
By the village lumber company—since
twenty years ago.

The little old red schoolhouse, Tom, that stood upon the hill,
Is gone, and in its place a sign reads:
"Try a Purple Pill."

Where once stood gnarled old apple trees,
with fruit a-bending low,
They've built a modern brewery, Tom—
since twenty years ago.

Do you remember Geraldine—she of the sunny hair?
None in all the village, Tom, was half so sweet or fair.

I lost my heart completely, Tom, and tried to be her beau—
She's fat, red-faced, six children, Tom—
since twenty years ago.

I wandered to the village green, where
we, when heedless boys, Played one-old-cat and pull-away, and
knew so many joys.
And, Tom, that green is on the bum; it really grieved me so
To find potatoes growing there—since
twenty years ago.

'Tis sweet to dream of all those things
that we in boyhood knew—
The school, the green, the meadows where the fragrant blossoms grew.
And, Tom, I'm not a knook but don't pay out hard-earned dough
For railroad fare to visit scenes of
twenty years ago.

TWO KINDS.

[Washington Star.]

"I have perfected a new kind of airship," said the enthusiastic inventor.
"Which kind," asked the sardonic friend.
"Something to fly or something to write about?"

DEATH OF THE SMALLEST MAN.

[Wilkesbarre (Pa.) Dispatch.]

Reese Wiggins, who declared that he was the smallest man in the world, died
at a retreat near here today, aged 53 years. He was but 37 inches tall, four inches shorter than Gen. Tom Thumb.
Wiggins was born in Wales, and in his youth exhibited a great deal. He had stood on the same platform with Gen.
Tom Thumb in Wales, and was exhibited alone in this country. His last appearance was at the Bloomsbury fair, a short time ago. He had been looked after for the last 25 years by William H. Thomas, of Plymouth, his parents having died
when he was quite young.

LONELINESS OF PERFECTION.

[London Globe.]

It was the day of a grand parade of a certain section of the Boys' Brigade. The company was marching proudly through the streets. Suddenly one of the boys happened to look down at the instructor's feet.
"Will you excuse me for mentioning it,
sir," he remarked, "but you are the only one in step."

'NUF SAID.

[Chicago Record.]

Carnegie now writes it "enuf." Why doesn't Andrew display the courage of his convictions and write it "nuf"?

SEMPER MUTABILE.

[Manchester Guardian.]

It might be supposed that poets and others have done more than justice to feminine human nature. But the Maolesfield board of guardians has just decided that a "temporary woman" be engaged for certain duties.

DEFINING A CHEMIST.

[London Express.]

A good story comes from a Swede correspondent. It seems that Berzelius, the great Swedish chemist, made most of his experiments in the kitchen, with his cook
as his only assistant.

"What is your master?" asked one of his neighbors.
"Oh, he is only a chemist."

"What is that? What does he do?"
"Oh, he has something in a big bottle,
then he pours it into a smaller one, and
then again into quite a tiny bottle."

"And then what happens?"
"Then I throw it away."

IF I KNEW YOU.

[Elbert Hubbard.]

If I knew you, and you knew me,
If both of us could clearly see,
And with an inner sight divine
The meaning of your heart and mine,
I'm sure that we would differ less
And clasp our hands in friendliness;
Our thoughts would pleasantly agree
If I knew you and you knew me.

Estimated Deposit Near Port
Arthur Is 200,000,000
Tons.

Toronto, Nov. 27.—The discovery of one of the most remarkable hematite
deposits in the Northwest, containing,
according to conservative estimate,
some 200,000,000 tons of high-grade
iron ore, is announced from Port Arthur. This deposit lies about 20 miles to the eastward of Port Arthur,
the area averaging about three miles
in width and six miles in length, and comes within 1,000 feet of the lake. It lies in sheet formations; much of it is without covering, and all of it can be quarried, no underground work being required. Nearly 100 test pits have been sunk over the property, which amounts to nearly 10,000,000 acres, and tests have shown a thickness of stratified vein running from 8 to 25 feet, and some of the deeper pits do not even penetrate through the ore.

There are many places on the property,
it is said, where a high-grade Bessemer
blue hematite is exposed for acres, and with the exception of trap dikes, which penetrate through the ore, in places, there seems to be no place where the ore does not show up within a few feet of the surface.

This discovery is believed to be the largest body of accessible high-grade ore outside of the holdings of the United States Steel Corporation, and is the only large body of high-grade Bessemer hematite in Canada.

Development work is now in progress, and plans are being laid for the building of an ore dock at Port Arthur, to be ready for operation on May 1, 1907. The ore will be quarried out of the face and carried to a crusher by aerial cable. From the crusher
a light railway will convey the ore
to the chutes on the dock, whence it will be delivered directly to the vessel alongside. The plant is being designed with a tonnage capacity of 3,000 tons a day of 10 hours, and with loading capacity of 6,000 tons every 24
hours, which will mean that a vessel
will remain at the dock only one day.

A thinking machine at popular prices
might cause a revolution in society.

The Woman in the Alcove

By ANNA KATHARINE GREEN

Author of "The Millionaire Baby," "The Filligree Ball," "The Leavenworth Case," Etc., Etc.

(Copyright, 1906, The Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

Yet my comfort was small and the effort it took to face Mr. Grey and my young patient was much greater than I had anticipated. I blushed as I approached to take my place at Miss Grey's bedside, and had her father been as suspicious of me at that moment as I was of him, I am sure that I should have fared badly in his thoughts.

But he was not on the watch for my emotions. He was simply relieved to see me back. I noticed this immediately, also that something had occurred during my absence which absorbed his thought and filled him with anxiety.

A Western Union envelope lay at his feet—proof that he had just received a telegram. This, under ordinary circumstances, would have been a welcome news to him, but he was a man being naturally the recipient of all sorts of communications from all parts of the world; but at this crisis, with the worm of half-stifled doubt still gnawing at my heart, everything that occurred to him took on importance and roused questions.

When he had left the room, Miss

Grey nestled up to me with the seemingly ingenuous remark:

"Poor papa! Something disturbs him. He will not tell me what. I suppose he thinks I am not strong enough to share his troubles. But I shall be soon. Don't you see I am gaining every day?"

"Indeed I do," was my hearty response. In face of such a sweet confidence and open affection doubt vanished and I was able to give my thoughts to her.

"I wish papa felt as sure of this as you do," she said. "For some reason he does not seem to take any comfort from my improvement. When Dr. Freligh says, 'Well, well! we are getting on finely today,' I notice that he does not look less anxious, nor does he smile. Haven't you noticed it? He looks as careworn and troubled about me now as he did the first day I was taken sick. Why should he? Is it because he has lost so many children he cannot believe in his good fortune at having the most insignificant of all left to him?"

"I do not know your father very well," I protested; "and cannot judge what is going on in his mind. But he must see that you are quite a different girl from what you were a week ago, and that if nothing unforeseen happens, your recovery will only be a matter of a week or two longer."

"Oh, how I love to hear you say that! To be well again! To read letters!" she murmured, "and to write them!" And I saw the delicate hand falter up to pinch the precious packet awaiting that happy hour. I did not like to discuss her father with her, so took this opportunity to turn the conversation aside into safer channels. But we had not proceeded far before Mr. Grey returned, and, taking his stand at the foot of the bed, remarked, after a moment's gloomy contemplation of his daughter's face:

"You are better today, the doctor says—I have just been telephoning to him. But do you feel well enough for me to leave you for a few days? There is a man I must see—must go to, if you have no read being left alone with your good nurse and the doctor's constant attendance."

Miss Grey looked startled. Doubtless she found it difficult to understand what man in this strange country could interest her father enough to induce him to leave her while he was yet laboring under such solicitude. But a smile speedily took the place of her look of surprised inquiry and she affectionately exclaimed:

"Oh, I haven't the least dread in the world, not now. See, I can hold up my arms. Go, papa, go; it will give me a chance to surprise you with my good looks when you come back."

He turned abruptly away. He was suffering from an emotion deeper than he cared to acknowledge. But he gained control over himself speedily and, coming back, announced with forced decision:

"I shall have to go tonight. I have no choice. Promise me that you will not go back in my absence; that you will strive to get well; that you will put your mind into striving to get well."

"Indeed, will," she answered, little frightened by the feeling he showed. "Don't worry so much. I have more than one reason for living, papa."

He shook his head and went immediately to make his preparations for departure. His daughter gave one sob, then caught me by the hand.

"You look dumfounded," she said. "But never mind, we shall get on very well together. I have the most perfect confidence in you."

Was it my duty to let the Inspector know that Mr. Grey anticipated acknowledging himself from the city for a few days? I decided that I would only be impressing my own doubts upon him after a rebuke which should have allayed them.

Yet, when Mr. Grey came to take his departure I wished that the Inspector might have been a witness to his emotion, if only to give me one of his very excellent explanations. The parting was more like that of one who sees no immediate promise of return than of a traveler who intends to limit his stay to a few days. He looked her in the eyes and kissed her a dozen times, each time with an air of heart-break which was good neither for her nor for himself, and when he finally tore himself away it was to look back at her from the door with an expression I was glad she did not see, or it would certainly have interfered with the promise she had made to concentrate all her energies on getting well.

What was at the root of his extreme grief at leaving her? Did he fear the person he was going to meet, or were his plans such as involved a much longer stay than he had mentioned? Did he even mean to return at all?

Ah, that was the question! Did he mean to return, or had I been the unconscious witness of a fight?

CHAPTER XVII.

Sweetwater in a New Role.

A few days later three men were closeted in the district attorney's office. Two of them were officials—the district attorney himself, and our old friend, the inspector. The third was the detective, Sweetwater, chosen by them to keep watch on Mr. Grey.

Sweetwater had just come to town—this was evident from the gripack he had set down in a corner on entering, also from a certain tumbled appearance which bespoke hasty rising and but few facilities for proper attention to his person. These details counted little, however, in the astonishment created by his manner. For a hardy chap he looked strangely nervous and indisposed, so much so that, after the first short greeting, the inspector asked him what was up, and if he had had another Fairbrother-house experience.

He replied with a decided no; that it was not his adventure which had upset him, but the news he had to bring.

Here he glanced at every door and window; and then, leaning forward over the table at which the two officials sat, he brought his head as nearly to them as possible and whispered five words.

They produced a most unhappy sensation. Both the men, hardened as they were by duties which soon sap the sensibilities, started and turned as pale as the speaker himself. Then the district attorney, with one glance at the inspector, rose and locked the door.

It was a prelude to the tale which I give, not as it came from his mouth, but as it was afterward related to me. The language, I fear, is mostly my own.

The detective had just been with Mr. Grey to the coast of Maine. Why there, will presently appear. His task had been to follow this gentleman, and follow him he did.

Mr. Grey was a very stately man, difficult of approach, and was absorbed, besides, by some over-riding care. But this fellow was one in a thousand and somehow, during the trip, he managed to do him some little service, which drew the attention of the great man to himself. This done, he so improved his opportunity that the two were soon on the best of terms, and he learned that the Englishman was without a valet and, being unaccustomed to move about without one, felt the awkwardness of his position very much.

This gave Sweetwater his cue, and when he found that the services of such a man were wanted only during the present trip and for the handling of affairs quite apart from personal attendance upon the gentleman himself, he showed such an honest desire to fill the place, and made out to give such a good account of himself, that he found himself engaged for the work before reaching C.

This was a great stroke of luck, he thought, but he little knew how big a stroke or into what a series of adventures it was going to lead him.

Once on the platform of the small station at which Mr. Grey had bidden him to stop, he noticed two things: the utter helplessness of the man in all practical matters, and his extreme anxiety to see all that was going on about him without being himself seen. There was method in this curiosity, too much method, in fact, for Sweetwater to him in the least. They could pass and repass without arousing his attention, but the moment a man stepped his way, he shrank from him only to betray the greatest curiosity concerning him the moment he felt it safe to turn and observe him. All of which convinced Sweetwater that the Englishman's errand was in connection with a man whom he equally dreaded and desired to meet.

Of this he was made absolutely certain a little later. As they were leaving the depot with the rest of the arrivals, Mr. Grey said:

"I want you to get me a room at a very quiet hotel. This done, you are to hunt up the man whose name you will find written in this paper, and when you have found him, make up your mind to tell him that I wish to see him. I will be waiting for him at the hotel. I shall get a good look at him without his getting any sort of a look at me. Do this and you will earn a week's salary in one day."

Sweetwater, with his head in the air and his heart on fire—for matters were looking very promising indeed—told the paper and put it in his pocket; then he began to hunt for a hotel. Not till he had found what he wished, and installed the Englishman in his room, did he venture to open the precious memorandum and read the name he had been speculating over for an hour.

It was not the one he had anticipated, but it came near to it. It was that of James Wellgood.

Satisfied now that he had a ticklish matter to handle, he prepared for it, with his usual enthusiasm and circumspection.

Stammering out into the street, he stroled first toward the postoffice. The train on which he had just come had been a mail-train, and he calculated that he would find half the town there.

His calculation was a correct one. The store was crowded with people. Taking his place in the line drawn up before the postoffice window, he awaited his turn, and when it came shouted the name which was his one talisman—James Wellgood.

The man behind the boxes was used to the name and reached out a hand to the name usually well stacked, but stopped halfway there and gave Sweetwater a sharp look.

"Who are you?" he asked. [To be Continued.]

TO MAINTAIN GOOD HEALTH

Mr. John L. Hickey, now caretaker of the public and high schools, Trenton, Ont., states: "I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and have found them the greatest medicine I ever tried. I used them when in the lumber camps and believe by keeping the kidneys and bowels regular and the general health good that they protect a person from catching contagious diseases, which are so common in the camp. I have seen hundreds of men using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the lumber camps. They buy them by the dozen when going in, and to show how much faith they have in them they buy them when they could get the same medicine for nothing by going to the hospital camp. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills keep my liver, kidneys and bowels regular and my health good. I would not think of being without them."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills positively cure biliousness, constipation and diseases of the kidneys. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edman, Bates & Co., Toronto.

4079, 4080—A COAT AND CAP FOR THE BOY.

Short top coats are just the kind a boy likes, for they are warm enough for all ordinary purposes, and who likes a long ulster flapping about his feet like a skirt when he walks? It's the same old story of youthful manhood and a desire for all that fosters self-reliance and sturdiness. The coat shown is double-breasted and has an abundance of pockets. The cap is of the Tam O'Shanter order and of good style for boys from 2 to 8 years. It may be made of the same material as the coat if this is not too heavy. Cheviot, tweed homespun and other materials may serve for the coat, 1 1/4 yards 54 inches wide being needed for the medium size, while the cap calls for 3/4 yard of 20-inch goods.

Two patterns—4079, sizes, 2 to 8 years; 4080, same sizes. The price of these patterns is 20 cents, but they will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents.

THE THAW TRIAL TO BE DRAMATIC

Evelyn Nesbit Must Go On the Witness Rack to Save Harry.

New York, Nov. 26.—The curtain is almost ready to lift on the Thaw trial—a real life tragedy, and as it draws near there is predicted for it one scene of an extraordinary sensational character—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw placed on the witness stand to give evidence against her own husband, while he is desperately fighting for his life.

There is a law of evidence which declares that in criminal proceedings a wife may not be forced to testify against her husband. But District Attorney Jerome says that this law applies only to confidential conversations. He says it has nothing to do with what the wife may have said and done independently of her husband.

Thaw's valet is dead. But Jerome had from this man's dying lips an affidavit declaring, it is said, that Evelyn Thaw left her husband and the supper party at Martin's and went to the Lorraine Hotel and got for Harry Thaw the revolver with which he killed White. Jerome's office declares that evidence exists that Evelyn Thaw, hearing the three shots, cried out: "God—he's shot him. I did not think he would do it here."

Jerome intends to call young Mrs. Thaw on the witness-stand and ask her:

"Did you leave your husband at Martin's and go to the Lorraine Hotel?"

"Did you get a revolver at the Lorraine, and did you take it to your husband?"

"Why did you cry out at the sounds of shots that you did not think he was going to do it here? Did you know that he meant to kill White—that he had planned to kill White?"

A big legal fight will be started at this point, and Thaw's lawyers will argue with all the force at their command against young Mrs. Thaw's being forced to reply to these questions. But if the judge rules that the questions are proper and she does not wish to answer them she has still a refuge. She can refuse to answer the questions. But in doing this she would have to admit that she feared that the answers she would have to give would be prejudicial to her. If she were compelled to do this the prosecution would consider that it had won a big victory.

In the beginning of the trial more time will probably be taken in securing the jury than in the presentation of the state's case against Thaw. Two weeks may be taken up before the jurors are seated in the box, because the jurors will have to stand searching tests as to unquestioned probity and character before the prosecution, with Thaw's vast wealth in mind, will allow them to serve.

The state's case should not take more than three days. The proof of the shooting will come fast. It will quickly be established by the police on Thaw's own admissions and by the affidavits of the Madison Square Roof Garden. Then the force of the evidence will be to prove that Thaw had premeditated the killing of White for weeks. The mere fact that he walked almost a hundred feet to reach White's side could be argued as proving premeditation, presuming that no other evidence that he had resolved to kill the famous architect were forthcoming.

Insanity alone becomes Thaw's practical defense. His experts will swear that he suffered fits of emotional insanity. They will be asked long hypothetical questions, which in effect will be that, presuming that a man who had suffered from fits of emotional insanity were suddenly presented with revelations of frightful wrongs having been perpetrated upon the persons that he loved the best in the world—would this be sufficient to plunge him into a spell of insanity in which he would not be responsible for his actions?

There may be auxiliary witnesses, but in the end it is Evelyn Nesbit

GIRLS OF TODAY ARE WEAKLINGS

FEW POSSESS THE VITALITY AND GIRLISH BEAUTY OF THE OLDEN TIMES.

Never before was physical health and vigor so highly esteemed and so eagerly sought for as today.

No man finds happiness in a sickly wife, and the woman who wishes to enjoy the pleasures of life should spare no effort to maintain perfect health.

Is your daughter growing up strong and ruddy? Has she strength to drink in greedily all the pleasures that youth so zealously seeks—or is she compelled to use the street car instead of enjoying the delightful exercise of walking—does she after the ball arise refreshed and vigorous, or is she exhausted, indifferent, and perhaps irritable?

When strength and vigor can be so easily maintained by Ferrozone, when the glow of health is so quickly brought to the cheeks and elasticity to the step, it is plainly a mother's duty to see that Ferrozone is on hand to assist her daughter back to health.

Upon the wake of Ferrozone quickly follows a stream of rich, nourishing blood which imparts that power and surplus energy so earnestly desired by those in ill-health.

Stop and think what this means for your daughter—what a great deal, and it can be accomplished by Ferrozone.

Every growing girl and young woman derives enormous benefit in many ways from this nutritive, vitalizing tonic. It is especially suited for young women and is a guarantee of health and regularity as long as it is used.

Ferrozone is free from alcohol and perfectly safe to use. Prepared in the form of a chocolate-coated tablet and sold in 50-cent boxes or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers.

Thaw who will save her husband's life if it is to be saved.

She will tell the jury, in seeking to prove her husband's insanity at the time, the same terrible revelations that she made to him of the past of Stanford White and herself. The same story that sent the man out with a revolver in his hand to take human life, will be recited to the twelve men in whose keeping will be Thaw's own life.

And then Thaw can tell his own story—tell what he had come to know of White, what he believed of him and tell of the mental condition into which he was thrown as far as he remembered it, when his wife confessed everything to him.

Here will be the tremendously crucial moment of the trial.

How terrible is this story of Stanford White and Evelyn Nesbit Thaw? How frightfully was she wronged? White is in his grave and only Evelyn Nesbit Thaw can reveal the truth. It will be for the jury to watch her keenly to be sure that she is telling the truth and is not falsifying for the sake of saving her husband from the electric chair.

And if the story of wrongs is such that horrifies and stirs the indignation of the jury against the dead architect to high heat, it may be that they will give the insanity experts a ready credence.

On the other hand, those who think Thaw doomed to conviction point out that if this were the case of some worthy young husband and wife, such a story might be expected to free Thaw. But Thaw, they declare, does not come into contact with clean hands. His life does not contrast strongly with the life of White in the matter of virtue, and White was a citizen of great achievements and Thaw only a waster. And Evelyn Thaw may not be spared.

With the story of Thaw and his wife and the testimony of the experts in his favor before the jury, the prosecution gets another chance to fight against his escape from punishment for the slaying. They can put on experts to contradict Thaw's experts, and they may spread the past of Thaw before the jury and attack the past of his wife ruthlessly.

Of central interest stands the legal champions of the state and Thaw—Jerome and Delmas. It is a fight of little men. Both are short of stature.

Here the similarity stops. A lawyer, Delmas is dignified, courtly—a lawyer in the black frock coat of tradition and of eloquence that flows and is ornamented with metaphors and graceful similes.

Jerome is a lawyer in a business suit with a raspy voice and brusque in his talk. He is picturesque enough, but is without dignity or grace.

It remains to be seen whether Delmas' scholarly eloquence will find as sympathetic an audience from a New York jury as it does on the Pacific Coast, where sentimentalism holds more general sway.

New Yorkers generally are a little cynical of fine oratory. But if it's very fine they can be brought under its influence.

Delmas has the reputation of having secured an acquittal for every murderer that he ever defended. The only big murder case in which Jerome figured was the Carley Harris case. Harris was electrocuted, but Jerome's fight to save the young poisoner's life was accounted a notable one in legal circles and with the public at the time.

YOUNG ALLEN PROMISING

Son of the Novelist Leases a Famous English Theater.

London, Nov. 26.—London's newest dramatic manager is likewise its youngest, and also bears a famous name. Gerard Grant Allen, who has leased the Criterion Theater from Sir Charles Wyndham, and started off with a successful comedy by Kingsley Tapscott, is the son of the late Grant Allen, novelist, scientist and writer of many books in other lines.

The younger Grant Allen has not yet seen his 30th birthday. It is safe to say, yet he has had wide experience in the publishing world as well as in the theater world. He was educated at the famous old Charterhouse school, "or, rather," as he himself observes, "I went to school there—for my father used to say, 'I never let your schooling interfere with your education.'" From school he went straight into the publishing business, first with Simpkin & Marshall, then with Grant Richards, and afterward on the staff of the Windward Magazine.

James Welch, the comedian, finally started him off in theatrical management with one minor position in Terry's theater, and subsequently he went on tour with Welch as stage manager. He was with Beerbohm Tree for the production of "The Darling of the Gods," and then went to Lena Ashwell as literary adviser. When Welch leased Terry's theater he chose Grant Allen as assistant manager.

Many stories of Herbert Spencer could be told by Grant Allen, for that philosopher was a great friend of the family, and used to stay with them for months at a time. "I remember as a small boy being devoted to him," said Allen to the writer; "of course, his theory about children was that they should do exactly as they liked in order that their individual natures might be developed. Consequently, when he was stopping with us, I used to run wild. It is a fact that he used to have ear-clips, and when the conversation became too exciting at the dinner table he would put up these so as to keep all sound from his ears."

Although practically every theater in London is partly underground, the balcony being as a rule about on the street level, the Criterion, which the management has taken over, has gone so far down that you have to go down stairs to get to the top gallery. Part of the theater is actually under the cellars of the Criterion restaurant.

The world has only 10,000,000 tons of iron ore available. Of these Germany has twice as many tons as the United States. Russia and France each have 400,000,000 tons more than the United States. Consumption in the United States is placed at 35,000,000, which is more than a third of the world's total consumption.

The city of New York maintains on its pay rolls nearly 61,000 workers at an annual expenditure of $57,000,000.

TILLMAN SEES AWFUL RACE WAR

Predicts a Great Conflict in the U. S. Within the Next Twenty Years.

South Haven, Mich., Nov. 26.—Senator Benjamin Tillman, of South Carolina, spoke here Saturday night on the race problem, and incidentally predicted that within twenty years the United States will have the bloodiest of race wars the world has ever known.

"The younger element of negroes are being taught that they are equal to the white man," said the senator, "and are at this time endeavoring to get these rights, led by Booker T. Washington, a half-breed, who is seeking a political position."

"The black man's heel will never be on the white man's neck in South Carolina. That state will continue forever, as she did in '76 and later in the face of Grant and the Union army, to rise up and fight for her own rights."

"The farmer wives of the South are prisoners, for it is not possible for them to leave their homes alone for fear of negro intrusion. We have in South Carolina exhausted all remedies to control the negro; we have gone the limit; and if we could we would have gone further and forbidden any man voting except the white."

"I expect a struggle. Never will the negro be equalized in the South. However, I hope the North will heed the warning and realize the danger, and by abolishing the ancient hatred, help us, and at the same time help the North. I realize it is a confession of guilt, but we of South Carolina will not be the shotgun to keep the negro within bounds. The situation is a grave one, and calls for wisdom and all manner of statesmanship. The negro never should vote."

"I believe that God made the white man out of better clay than that out of which he made the negro. After the whites have made the progress they have in thousands of years they do not need another race to help them."

SIBERIAN HORRORS

Thirty-Five Thousand Political Exiles Sent to a Living Death.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 26.—Siberian journals are full of the horrible suffering which the political exiles undergo in Tobolsk, Irkutsk and other sections of that desolate land. During the last eleven months as many as 35,000 persons have been sent thither. About 2,000 have escaped, but the rest remain to endure a living death. They are sent to the marshes where nothing grows but a rank grass, and where no trade or craft can enable them to learn enough to prolong their miserable existence.

The Russian Government allows them exactly 24 cents per day. The money sent by their friends rarely reaches them, being intercepted by the czar's officials. In summer, they keep body and soul together with fish caught in the rivers, and coarse rye bread. In winter fish is worth its weight in gold, and bread unheard of. Then they eat the grass from the frozen marsh. Little wonder that scurvy, cholera and typhus rage among them. This is not the worst, for they are obliged to live in the mud huts of the native Ostiaks, infected with that Siberian scourge, leprosy. It is not surprising that these exiles, most of them of delicate refinement, men and women, envy their more fortunate comrades who have perished on the stocks of Russian fortresses for their political opinions and have thus escaped this certain, but slow, death, known as perished exile. They have no hope for anything better and can not even find a solace for their sufferings in work—for there is none to be done in this frozen wilderness.

In spite of the heavy death rate, their numbers are steadily increasing, for every weak brings out fresh victims. In fact, the numbers of political exiles have increased to such an extent that the Russian Government has decided to run special exile trains daily from St. Petersburg to Siberia. These trains carry only political prisoners, who are herded together like cattle in unwarmed wagons. They run at the speed of the so-called postal or courier trains.

And yet, in spite of these terrible sufferings men and women in Russia are bent upon fighting for freedom. Within the last few weeks 5,000 pounds of dynamite, 400,000 bullets and 4,000 rifles have been found by the police, secreted in private homes in Moscow, St. Petersburg and other large towns. Never before have Russian prisons and Siberian marshes been so crowded with political prisoners as at the present time.

Barely Lived Through It.

A terrible experience had Edw. J. O'Connor, of St. Louis, Mo. "From boyhood," he writes, "I have been a constant sufferer from asthma and catarrh. My nose and throat were always stopped up, and I had droppings in the throat. When attacks came on I thought I couldn't live through the night. I would sit up and gasp for breath and endure great distress. Catarrh once made me entirely well. No stronger proof is required. Asthma is curable. So is catarrh. Catarrh, ozone and your recovery is guaranteed. Two sizes, 25 cents and $1.00, at all dealers."

AGONISING PILES

Only those who suffer from piles can imagine the agony which this ailment causes, and only those who have tested Zam-Buk know the relief it brings. Piles are caused by congestion of the hemorrhoid veins. Zam-Buk cools the burning surfaces, stops the bleeding, softens the walls of the congested veins, and gives prompt relief. Even in chronic cases Zam-Buk will not be found to fail. It cures when all else fails. The following case was of 12 years standing, yet Zam-Buk proved equal! Read the details!

Mrs. A. E. Gardiner, of Catolonia, Trinity Bay, Newfoundland, says:—"In my case Zam-Buk has effected a wonderful cure. For 12 years I had been troubled with blind, bleeding, and protruding piles. I have tried various kinds of ointments, etc., but never came across anything to equal what you will with these remarks. And that they may be the means of helping some who are suffering from piles to try Zam-Buk is the wish of one who has found great relief."

Mrs. Barnes, of London, says:—"For seven years I suffered from piles, and the pain was at times almost unbearable. Last autumn I had a very bad turn, and was told of Zam-Buk. I tried it, and the first few applications gave relief. A little perseverance with its use brought about a complete cure. It is a splendid balm."

Zam-Buk cures cuts, burns, bruises, eczema, ulcers, abscesses, chafing sores, eruptions, chapped hands, cold sores, chilblains, blood poison, etc. It also cures rheumatism and scalds. All drugs as to a box, or postpaid from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, on receipt of price. (8 boxes for $2.50).

SNAP-SHOTS AT VARIOUS SPORTS

Toronto Telegram: Yes, Toronto will support "pro" hockey—if it's good. But, unlike had butter in the boarding house, it won't last long if it ain't good. Toronto has plenty of material for a professional hockey team right now. But how will it be when the frost is off the pumpkin and the ice is on the rink. With the present rink accommodation it is admitted there is no money in professional hockey in Toronto. But there is a big outside demand for hockey material. What will the result be? Simply that the professional leagues which have the gates will pick over the Toronto bunch and what is left won't be good enough to make a visiting team warm up. Can't you see the finish from where you sit?

In reply to all inquiries as to the class of hockey that the Forest City will have this winter we can only say: "We do not."

Poor old Blufftown! She only captured two O. R. F. U. championships, and can only possibly win two Dominion titles. Verily she is to be sympathized with.

There appears to be some question as to whether the Tigers will have an opportunity of winning a clear title to the Canadian championship or not. The victory of McGill over Varsity rather complicates matters intercollegiate. McGill at present has won the greatest number of games in the college series, but there are a few kicks registered at headquarters which must needs be disposed of before there can be a championship battle played. If the protests against Varsity are allowed, and the disputed games won from Queen's are awarded to the latter team, McGill and Queen's will be tied for honors. McGill won't play off with the Tigers in the event of being awarded the leadership, because the students of that school claim that it is too close to the holidays to bother with Rugby. Virtually, the Striped Ones are the 1936 champions of the Dominion, and must be recognized as such, even if McGill does get an attack of lead tribby.

The local branch of the Y. M. C. A. is going in for basketball this season with a vengeance. At present there are about eighteen teams playing in the gym in turn.

The Toronto Telegram must have been "scooped" recently. Pipe this from its dope-sheet:

The sporting page of the Mail and Empire of yesterday read something like this:

Special cable to the Mail and Empire over our own leased wires: "McGill will Not play Hamilton for the championship." Special cable to the Mail and Empire over our own leased wires: "McGill Will play Hamilton for the championship." Special cable to the Mail and Empire over our own leased wires, from the editorial floor: "It's up to you; we don't know where we're at."

The Burns-O'Brien bout, which is slated for Thursday at Los Angeles, Cal., is arousing a great deal of interest in all parts of the country. Jim Jeffries, king-bee of the heavy-weight hive, says that it is an even money proposition. That statement must be taken with a grain of salt, for the big fellow is to be the man behind the decision on Thanksgiving night. While Burns is of the proper build to make trouble for the elongated Jack, it is a pretty safe betting proposition that the Philadelphian will be handed the long end of the money when the final gong rings. Of course, there is always the possibility that Tommy might slip over a sleep-producing jolt, but—but, what's the use? One thing, the bout will make certain, and that is just who shall be recognized as the heavy-weight champion—always barring Jeffries.

Five favorites won yesterday at New Orleans, La. Queer how they have to take some of those skates as far south as the Gulf to get them to win.

Kid Herman, the little Chicago boxer, who is matched to meet Gans for the light-weight champ-bonnet, has left for the scene of the battle—Tonopah, Nevada—and will train diligently for the fray. The kid is pretty clever, he is ambitious, and he can fight, but from here it looks like another dinner for the dusky one.

FAMILIES FAMOUS IN BASEBALL GAME

Delehanys, the Clarksons and the Gansels were the Best of Them.

An exchange says: Baseball runs in families, sometimes. There were the Madden brothers, famous in Massachusetts thirty years ago. There were just nine of them and they were a fine team. Mike Madden was the only one of the family who became a professional. He was a third baseman and played with the old Syracuse Stars, which was the first semi-professional team to defeat a National League nine. They beat the Boston 2 to 0 in 1876.

The Mansell brothers—Mike, Tom, and Joe—were well known professional players in their day. They came from New York State, near Syracuse. Mike was third baseman for the old Mets in 1892. Tom was with the Kansas City team for several years.

Mike and Jerry Dorgan were two brothers, who became famous as professional ball players. Both played with the New York team. Mike as change catcher and right fielder of the Giants in 1893-94, and Jerry as a catcher for the Mets at one time.

The Delehanys family of Cleveland has turned out ball players, five of whom are on the major league today. The Yankees' left fielder is the most prominent member of the family now. "Big Ed" was the most noted of the brothers. He was one of the heaviest batters who ever swung a bat and met his death only a few years ago.

The Gansels of Kalamazoo, Mich., have also produced three well-known players in Charley, John and Joe. The latter, like John, being a third baseman. John is to captain the Cincinnati Reds next season. Charley formed the receiving end of the famous Detroit "Pretzel battery" of Getzels and Gansel. The Gansel boys' parents will celebrate their golden wedding at their home in Kalamazoo, Mich., on Thanksgiving Day, and all their children and grandchildren to the number of fifty-two, expect to be present. Mr. and Mrs. Gansel, now have been singularly free from affliction. Of all their descendants only one has died, and they will be surrounded at the coming festivities by an almost unbroken family circle. They have had ten children in all—five boys and five girls.

The Clarkson family has contributed three pitchers to the diamond—John, the most famous pitcher in his day, and the first $10,000 beauty the game ever knew; Arthur, who was a National League ten years ago, and Walter, who is now a member of the Highlanders.

The Bannon family is also one of ball players. They are really the only rivals of the famous Delehanys family. Bill Bannon, now goal tender for the Canton polo team, and his three brothers, Jimmy, Tom and George, are all knights of the diamond. They all shine on the greensward and rank among the best players in the minor leagues. One of the quartet of brothers has been "up." Jimmy playing left field for Boston a few years back. He was in Columbus during the seasons of 1903-04. Last season he was manager-captain of the Montreal team in the Eastern League. He also played left field. He held the double berth of responsibility until a month before the close of the season. Old Malachi Kittredge, the former Washington catcher, succeeded him.

George Bannon started the season under the guiding wing of his brother Jim at Montreal. He finished the season with Toronto.

Tom Bannon was captain and played left field for the Lynn (Mass.) team in the New England League. Lynn finished second in the league race.

Bill Bannon is a giant in stature. He is considered the best goal tender in the polo world today. He has several rivals, but Bill is really in a class by himself. Bill can also play the national game of baseball. During the season just closed he played first base and was captain of the Hallowell (Me.) team, in the Maine Trolley League.

ELEVEN PLAYERS KILLED ON GRIDIRON THIS YEAR

Chicago, Nov. 25.—Eleven players were killed and 104 were injured in the United States during the football season of 1936, according to the Chicago Tribune today.

These figures are compared with the casualties of 1935, when 18 players were killed, and 139 were severely injured, and, according to the Tribune, show that "debrutalized" football has accomplished in a large degree the object aimed at in rendering the game less dangerous to life and limb.

The decrease in casualties is especially marked among high school players.

In the season of 1935, 11 high school players were killed and 47 injured, while in the season just closed 7 were killed and 25 were hurt.

All college and high school games this year were played under the new rules drawn up after the close of last season to satisfy the agitation for less dangerous football.

This year not one fatality has occurred in the game played by the larger American colleges.

LIVELY SEASON FOR SIMCOE.

Simcoe, Nov. 26.—At the annual meeting of the Simcoe Curling Club held at the Melbourne House it was resolved to make the rink lively the coming winter if the ice king is kind. The following officers were elected: President, Frank Reid; vice-president, A. T. Shier; secretary-treasurer, W. Y. representatives, W. C. J. King, G. H. Luscombe; committee of management, G. S. Curtis, W. P. Price, G. Williams, J. C. West, G. N. Counter.

There Appears To Be a Slight Divergence of Opinion in Local Hockey Circles.

CITY LEAGUE! O.H.A.! E.E. LEAGUE!

HUNTING PLAYERS FOR PRO LEAGUE

Pittsburg Secretary Scouring Province—Glencoe Organized.

Toronto, Nov. 26.—Secretary Frank Danahay, of the Pittsburg hockey club, in the professional league, was in town yesterday on his way through the provinces on the lookout for players. Of last year's team they have Winchester in goal, Billy Baird at point, Hod Stuart (manager) at cover, and Lorne Campbell at center. Archer Sexsmith, last year's manager, has retired, and will likely be the local referee.

The scout from the south is after Johnson of the Montreal Wanderers, Horace Gaul of Ottawa, and Jack Marks, formerly of Belleville, now with New Glasgow, the Stanley cup champions, from the Maritime Provinces. He also wants Rolly Young of last year's Marlboros, but will scarcely draw the McMaster man from his studies. Danahay also wanted Chaucer Elliott to take up his quarters at Pittsburg as the local referee, but the expert will likely go to the Eastern League this year.

Ed Wettlaufer, of the O. H. A. executive, is in town today. He says the Berlin senior and intermediate hockey teams start training work for the season tonight at basketball. There are at least 50 hockey teams of all sorts in Berlin—shop teams, city and church leagues—and there will be no difficulty in rigging out strong sevens for the O. H. A.

He expects the western district will have senior teams in Berlin, Call, Stratford, Guelph, and possibly Preston, with one of the Toronto teams to fill out.

GLENCOE ORGANIZED. Glencoe, Ont., Nov. 25.—At a well-attended meeting held in the McAlpine House the Glencoe Hockey Club organized for 1936 and 1937. The prospects for a good season were never better. The following officers were elected: Honorary president, W. S. Calvert; honorary vice-president, W. K. Poucar; president, B. Kaufman; vice-president, Frank McRae; secretary-treasurer, T. B. McLean; manager, G. Parrot; captain, T. Harris; executive committee, S. R. Finlayson, H. Callahan, O. P. Howard. The secretary was instructed to write Dutton, West Lorne, Bothwell and Thamesville for the purpose of forming a hockey league.

BELLEVILLE IN FEDERAL. Belleville, Nov. 25.—Belleville has been offered a franchise in the Federal Hockey League and will likely accept. A meeting will be held in the Hotel Quinte Monday night. Several of the old-time stars are now here and a good team could be gotten together. The citizens are eager for good hockey and there will be no lack of financial support.

THE RING. LAVIGNE HAD BEST OF IT.

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 26.—In a well-fought bout here, Kid Lavigne, of Windsor, drove Kid Brindle, of Detroit, to the ropes in the seventh round. The match was scheduled to be ten rounds. During the first three rounds Brindle had decidedly the better of the fight, scoring points on Lavigne almost at will. But Lavigne in the fourth round took a decided brace, and from then on the battle was his. He led throughout the remaining four rounds, and in the seventh very neatly pounded Brindle into the ropes. It was a fairly won decision and everyone was satisfied.

MATCHED AGAIN.

New York, Nov. 26.—Following a meeting of their managers here today it was announced that "Terry" McGovern and Young Corbett had been matched for a bout not less than 15 rounds, to take place during the week ending Jan. 31. Each side posted a forfeit of $1,000. Tim Hurst will referee the fight, for which bids will be accepted Dec. 3.

MATCHES FOR JOHNSON.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 26.—Big Jack Johnson, the colored heavyweight champion, is to sail for Australia shortly. Alec McLean, of Chelsea, who has been negotiating for matches in antipodes for the big fellow, has received a cablegram from the National Athletic Club, of Sydney, N. S. W., telling him his proposition for Johnson's services had been accepted by them and they would cable expenses for fighter and manager as soon as they are ready to start.

JEFFRIES SAYS CHANCES EVEN

Champion Has No Choice After a Visit to the Quarters of Burns and O'Brien.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 26.—James J. Jeffries, who will referee the bout between Tommy Burns and Jack O'Brien on Wednesday night, after having visited both men at their training camps, where he saw them work and examined them closely, was today asked for his opinion as to the probable winner. "There's no choice," replied the champion, "they have equal chances to win."

Jeffries visits to the fighters were made on Sunday. He and Manager McCarey visited Tommy Burns at his Long Beach camp for the purpose of having a final talk as regards articles governing the heavyweights' battle. It has been agreed to fight straight Marquis of Queensberry rules, and Burns was anxious to know just how much roughing would be allowed. Jeffries visited O'Brien at Venice yesterday and the Philadelphian said the trusted implicitly in Jeffries' ability to referee. Burns appears in magnificent condition, and Jeffries expressed himself as confident that he could not have attained better form. O'Brien is fit for the battle of his life, and a strong contender prevails here that the Philadelphian will need every ounce of strength which he possesses when he meets the husky Canadian.

O'Brien is confident of winning. He believes that his cleverness, generalship and punch will enable him to score a decisive victory over Burns, and, as the Canadian is the only one who has a better claim upon the premier honors of the heavyweight division, he is training with a view of wiping out that claim.

Burns will have a little more weight than O'Brien, but this will be made up by O'Brien in the advantage of reach and height.

THE TURF. YESTERDAY'S WINNERS.

At Benning—Pretension 11 to 5, Calvorahatche 20 to 1, Firebrand 11 to 5, Berkeley 7 to 1, Bellefroume 6 to 1, Dolly Sparker.

At New Orleans—Buren Arnold 3 to 2, Whipperwill 4 to 5, Gladiator 3 1/2 to 1, St. Valentine 2 to 1, Glamor 7 to 5, Col. Bartlett 4 to 5.

GEORGE CALLS ON POPE.

Rome, Nov. 26.—King George of Greece, accompanied by his daughter, the Grand Duchess Michaelovitch of Russia, visited the Pope today, and were most cordially received.

After leaving the Quirinal Palace King George drove to the British embassy, where his daughter was stopping, and with her went to the Greek legation. There they entered a private carriage and were driven to the Vatican, where they were received with royal honors by the members of the papal court.

The Pope welcomed the visitors in the throne-room, Monsignor Delenda, Archbishop of Athens, acting as interpreter.

King George will leave Italy tomorrow, embarking for Greece at Brindisi.

WOULDN'T DISCUSS ENGLISH JOCKEYS

Maher Had Been Misquoted Several Times, and Refused to Say Anything More.

New York, Jan. 26.—Danny Maher, the American jockey, has arrived from England, where he spent the past racing season.

"I rode this season," he said, when asked to talk about his experiences abroad, "for Lord Derby. Yes, I was successful, finishing first 103 times out of 500 mounts, and second and third so often that I lost the count."

"The chief event in which I took part was the Derby, in which I piloted Spearmint to victory. There were twelve entries and I will say it was the most exciting race in which I ever took part and go from the start to almost the finish of the mile-and-a-half course."

"I thought the race was in doubt up to the last quarter, when I gave Spearmint his head, and he finished two lengths ahead of his field. It was a far more exciting race in every way than that of the previous year, when my mount came in second."

"Are the English jockeys adopting any of the American methods?" he was asked.

"I do not wish to comment upon the English jockeys at all," answered Maher. "I have been misquoted often in a manner which did me no good with an English turfman and I must decline to answer that question."

Maher had not been on the other side many weeks before many stories concerning him were cabled to this country. One was to the effect that he had won the heart of a daughter of the aristocracy and would marry and settle down in England.

It was further said that he contemplated renouncing his citizenship and becoming a naturalized subject of the King.

These stories he contradicted in a cable message, and since his contradiction they have not been repeated.

1,100 TO BE SOLD.

New York, Nov. 26.—Over 1,100 horses are to be sold at the Old Glory horse auction, which opened in Madison Square Garden today, and will continue until Dec. 5. An uncommonly high-class lot of animals are listed for sale, the star of them all probably being the champion trotting mare, Sweet Marie, now ten years old, with a record of 2:02. She comes in the consignment from William Garland, of Los Angeles, Cal.

WHAT IS RUPTURE?

Perhaps this may fall into the hands of someone who may be so afflicted, and not knowing their condition, or a mother having a child suffering from an unaware of the cause—it may be ruptured. Examine yourself, examine your child, and if ruptured remember it is a constant menace to your child's life. Rupture is a tumorlike swelling, which appears in the side and near the lower part of the middle of the abdomen, also in the groin and upper part of thigh. It varies in size from a marble to an egg. "increases if not kept back or cured," to size of an ostrich egg, "and sometimes causes no pain for a year or more." Many are troubled with kidney, urinary weakness, rheumatism, lowness of spirits, constipation, want of confidence, courage, energy, etc., etc., fail to recover until their rupture (which they had noticed, but thought was only a harmless swelling), was secured. No man ever accomplished what I have for ruptured people. I have actually cured what all others could not even hold. I can produce evidence, appalling in its awfulness, which cannot be disputed. Prominent physicians will testify to the correctness of my assertions. I can immediately retain any rupture which is reducible. That is, that can be completely put back. It frequently grows so that it (or part of it) cannot be replaced, thus causing a shocking deformity, and rendering at any time liable to a dreadful death an otherwise healthy person who should enjoy long life. How many lives through this are blasted? How many in homes for incurables? How many deaths from strangulated hernia read "Died from natural causes?"

THE FEAR OF HUMBLED CAUSES many ruptured persons to delay in placing their case under the care of a legitimate specialist, because they are afraid of being cheated and defrauded again, owing to past failures elsewhere. Your attention is directed to this fact owing to the great number of complaints made to me by patients who have tried American and other so-called cures and special inventions of trusses. The trials of these small order miracle workers have not only been the loss of money and time, but have resulted in more complicated conditions of a great many ruptured persons whom I have personally examined. Let this be a warning to the newly ruptured as well as the afflicted of some years, who may be at the present considering the idea of sending by mail for some foreign truss or cure all. Is it not safer and wiser to consult your own family physician or a specialist of your own country, with a national reputation—one who has been exclusively attending the Canadian ruptured for the past forty years, and one whose establishment is governed by an upright and honorable policy. I am very conservative in stating what I can do, but I always try to do what I say at any cost. My success lies in the failure of others—so-called hopeless cases my specialty. Do not despond, but consult me free during this visit.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

New patients living 25 miles or more from London desirous of consulting me personally will for this December visit be allowed their railroad fare. This offer is made in the interests of the afflicted, as I prefer to personally attend to each case. This is the only sure way to success, instead of doubtful and unsatisfactory methods of attending patients by mail orders. I thus insure the best of attention, as my facilities are the same at London as in my Toronto home office.

BE WARNED IN TIME! Should your rupture be hidden from view by some large clumsy truss you are lulled into a sense of false security. The Hernia is not held, and you are in a more dangerous condition than you imagine. Now heed this caution, "ere it be too late!" Unless the Hernia is completely reduced within the internal ring (where nature placed it) and constantly held there, adhesion might ensue, resulting in strangulation of the parts, rendering you liable at any moment to a frightful death.

Varicocele False Rupture | Varicocele False Rupture

If you are a subject to Varicocele and determined that because you are not suffering agonizing pain from the disease you will be satisfied with a suspensory, electric belt or bottle of medicine, and not seek a radical cure—worse calamity than pain may overtake you. In the train of Varicocele follow Neurasthenia, Nerve Exhaustion, Nervous Decline, Stricture, Impotency, Hernia, and Paralytic Tendencies, which may be averted if a man sensibly seeks early cure of an existing varicocele, and the perfect manhood which is obtained when the physiology is not obstructed. I do not care how many other remedies you have tried, for my "Electro-Biotone" cures after all others fail, when you are sick at heart and have almost lost faith in everything and everybody. Adopt my system to be cured and stay cured. I honestly believe that I have the only reliable and sure cure for Rupture—true or false—and in recommending you to adopt same I feel I am not misguiding you. You will never be in better condition to be cured than now. Why not consult me at once? Free.

Canadian men who are afflicted, do not be led astray by the thought that you must go to Buffalo, Detroit, Boston, Chicago or New York to be successfully treated—Do not waste your time or money and perhaps endanger your life with these foreign miracle workers. To those who have tried many of these advertised foreign "cures," and have been duped, let me say to you, do not despond, nor be prejudiced on account of past failures, for remember the value of my Electro-Biotone system is not to be measured by imperfections and failures of others.

SPECIALIST WILL VISIT GRIGG HOUSE, SATURDAY, Dec. 1

Call day & eve, one day only. Cut this "ad" out for future reference.

Thomas A. Edison is about to start on an automobile trip of 3,000 miles. One of the few bells cast by Paul Revere now in existence is to be taken Accompanying him will be his wife, daughter, Miss Madeline Edison, and his son Charles. Three automobiles will carry the party. One will be loaded with cooking utensils, camping equipments and provisions. The Edison family will tour through Northern New York and New England and then up through Canada, where Mr. Edison will continue his researches into the cobalt deposits of the country.

ITS POWER GROWS WITH AGE—How many medicines loudly blazoned as panaceas for all human ills have come and gone since Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil was first put upon the market? Yet it remains, doing more good to humanity than any other preparation more highly valued and extending its virtues wider and in a larger circle every year. It is the medicine for the masses.

GRACE BROWN KILLED BY BLOWS

Experts Say Physical Injuries Caused Death.

SUSTAINED WHILE IN THE BOAT

One Doctor Makes Dramatic Scene in Showing How Crime Could Have Been Committed.

Herkimer, N. Y., Nov. 26. — Two physicians, who were present at the autopsy held on Grace Brown's body, went on the stand at the Gillette murder trial today and testified that the girl received blows before entering the water that were sufficient to cause death, and which, in their opinion, did cause death in this case.

These physicians, Dr. A. O. Douglas and Dr. E. H. Douglas, both of Little Falls, but not related, declared unanimously that Grace Brown was not drowned. It was their opinion that she died from blows, which killed her, or rendered her unconscious before her body was dropped into Big Moose Lake. They declared that there was not enough water in the lungs of the body to warrant a theory of drowning.

The substance of their testimony, which occupied the entire day, was that Grace Brown received one blow that cut her upper lip and loosened a tooth, that another blow discolored her cheek and ruptured a blood vessel, and that a third and more severe blow on the scalp caused a blood clot on the brain. The blood clot on the brain, the physicians swore, was sufficient of itself to have caused death.

Former Senator Mills, Gillette's senior counsel, conducted the cross-examination. He spent several hours in an effort to shake the testimony of these witnesses, and while he succeeded in confusing Dr. A. C. Douglas, somewhat, neither of the physicians with drew their opinion that Grace Brown was killed or rendered unconscious before she was immersed in the waters of Big Moose Lake.

The theory advanced by the defense was that the blows could have been administered after death, and the line of questioning indicated a contention that the girl in drowning rose to the surface of the water three times and each time struck the overturned skiff and received the injuries in question.

Dr. E. H. Douglas proved a strong witness and his testimony was unshaken. When he first took the stand he was asked to describe the injuries he found on Grace Brown's body at the autopsy.

"There was a contusion on the left cheek, the left eye was discolored, the nose was swollen on the right side of the head, there was a contusion such as could not have been caused after death," he said.

"Is it possible to distinguish marks on a body as to whether they are inflicted by mechanical force before or after death?" asked the district attorney.

"It is," was the reply.

"The witness swore that an echymotic condition such as was found in Grace Brown's skull could not result from a blow received after death."

"When I find a swelling at the place where a blood vessel is ruptured I would say that the injury occurred before death," said the witness.

"Is it easy to tell?"

"It is."

"Could you swear that these injuries were inflicted before the death of the subject?"

"I could."

"By mechanical force?"

"They were."

Here Dr. Douglas was handed Gillette's tennis racket and asked if the injuries he found could have been produced by that.

A dramatic moment ensued as he swung the racket in the air experimentally.

"The injuries could have been produced by this weapon, using either end," he said.

Dr. Douglas said the blood clot on the brain was as large as a ten-cent piece, and that it was caused by external violence before death. Dr. Douglas further said that, in his opinion, a blood clot would cause death, although there were cases where persons recovered from severe contusions.

On cross-examination the doctor insisted that the girl did not meet death by drowning, except as a contributory cause.

HAMILTON QUIET AFTER RIOTING

shooting, but it was announced today that if they were called again, and the crowd refused to disperse when ordered, they would not be considered.

Fearing trouble tonight, the mayor issued another proclamation, in which he warned the citizens that if it again became necessary to read the riot act the city hall bell would be rung, and that they must get off the streets when they heard the sound.

The Fay Case

The Fay case, in which the strike leader was ordered deported for an alleged breach of the Canadian alien labor laws is not likely to have sensational developments expected. United States Vice-Consul Butler says Fay has not appealed to him for protection, as at first reported, and a Washington dispatch declares that in any case the United States Government would not interfere.

Since Sheriff Middleton has denied that his remarks were intended as a definite order, there does not seem to be any definite ground upon which Washington could take action if it so desired. The sheriff says his words were: "You can go or you can stay, but if you stay, your stay may be long."

He declines to divulge who gave the instructions upon which he acted, but intimates that after the riot act was read, Col. Denison was in command.

Any action that may be taken would likely have to be taken under the alien labor law.

It is held that Fay is here doing work for which he is paid, and therefore has just as much right to be deported as the Canadian who has been deported from Buffalo some time ago. But the alien labor law would also apply to the men here working for the company, and if it is enforced on one it would have to be enforced on all.

OTTER AT HAMILTON

Toronto, Nov. 26.—General Otter arrived home from Ottawa today and went on to Hamilton this afternoon to have a conference with Mayor Biggar and the civic authorities regarding the situation. Lieut.-Col. Ogilvie, who was in command of the troops there on Saturday night, returned to the city last night. Lieut.-Col. Hemming, of Stanley Barracks, having taken over the command.

Adj. J. G. Langton, of the army service corps, who had charge of the troops at Hamilton, had considerable trouble getting supplies, as there was a general boycott on the supplying of goods for the troops.

Traders were afraid of incurring the displeasure of the strike sympathizers.

A Policy of Progress

The widespread belief that if any article in the drug line is to be had it will be found here; that whatever we offer is the best, and that whatever the price is it cannot be beaten, is founded on actual facts. STOCK MARKETS.

New York, Nov. 27.—Noon.—Superiorly the Union Pacific Railway report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1930, made a disappointing showing, it having been estimated that the net earnings of the railroad, plus the income from investments, would show about 20 per cent upon the common stock. The showing is about 14.20 per cent. However, an examination of the statement shows an extraordinarily strong financial position. The stocks and bonds owned by the company are pledged are carried in the report at par, whereas conspicuously in the case of the Great Northern, preferred, Northern Pacific and Northern Securities, the value is far above par. The capabilities of the company for raising fresh capital for acquiring new properties or extending existing properties probably exceeds that of any other railroad in the United States. Union Pacific was obviously supported at the opening and the steady advance of the stock, the whole market showed strength, and in no instance was there any pressure to sell. Money was again in good supply, the highest rate paid being 6 per cent, from which level a decline took place to 5 1/4 per cent. Money brokers predict that tomorrow offerings of all securities, and therefore rates will be higher. Sales to noon, 425,000.

WILL DISCUSS WATER QUESTION

word of the assessor that there are 44,000 or 45,000 people in London; they accept the word of their grocer that the bag labeled 25 pounds of sugar contains that amount; they take the word of the geographers that the world is about 8,000 miles in diameter, and every day they are taking somebody's word for something which they haven't time or opportunity to verify.

Why then, do they take the word of the engineers for this flow of water? It is not the word of the commissioners—all we know is that there is a large quantity of water there, which looks as though it should be what the engineers say.

When our waterworks were constructed the citizens took the engineer's word for the quantity of water there, and we have been getting it ever since.

Our next letter will be devoted to a comparison of the Komoka and Lake Huron systems.

LOCAL MARKET.
London, Tuesday, Nov. 27.
Very little can be done in favor of today's market, as the supply of farm produce was small, and the offerings were generally of an inferior quality. Prices
as a rule were steady.

Grain.—The supply of oats was small;
prices were steady, at $1.06 to $1.10 per cwt. One load of barley sold at $1.03 per cwt. A mixed load of barley and wheat sold at $1.07 per cwt.

Hay and Straw.—The supply of hay today was not sufficient for the demand,
there being only 15 loads offered; although
the quality was not first-class, the demand was brisk; prices were firm, at $13 to $14 per ton. One load of straw sold at $6.50 per ton.

Butter and Eggs.—There was not much butter offered; prices were steady, at 25c to 26c for choice cream, and 24c to 25c for pound rolls. Eggs were firm, at 25c to 26c wholesale, and 26c to 27c retail.

Poultry.—Saturday's prices were repeated today; there was not a great deal offered.

Vegetables and Roots.—Potatoes were dull
at 70c to 80c per bag by the load; cabbages sold at 40c to 50c per dozen; not a great deal of other vegetables offered.

Apples.—There were not many offered and sales were slow; there was no change
in prices.

Dressed Hogs.—There were quite a number offered today; sales were brisk, at $8.50 and $8.75 per cwt for most of the offerings; one choice lot of nice lean pork sold at $9 per cwt.

There was not much butchers' meat
on sale, and prices were unchanged.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

DAIRY MARKETS.
LIVERPOOL DAILY REPORT, WEEK
ENDING NOV. 25.
(Hodgson Bros' List.)
Cheese.—The demand has been but moderate, and there has been some further disposition to lower prices. The general trade is very disappointing and unprofitable. We quote today: Fines Canadian,
late makes, white and cheddar, 6½c to 6½c; 6½c per cwt; finest States, white and cheddar, 6½c to 6½c; earlier makes, States and Canadian, according to quality, 5½c
to 6½c; lower grades, in light supply, nominally 5½c to 5½c.

Butter.—There is a fair inquiry for the cheapest qualities, and more attention is now paid to new season's arrivals of colonial. Canadian creamery is entirely neglected, although quotations are 20c to 22c. Medium grades of butter, for confectionery purposes, are a slow sale.
The Copenhagen brand, in light supply, has changed for next week. We report today's values as follows: Cheapest Canadian creamery, in light supply, 11c to 11½c per cwt; choicest continental butter, in light supply, 11c to 11½c; choicest Russian and Danish, 11c to 11½c; second grades, 10c to 10½c; New Zealand, 10c to 10½c; choicest Argentine, none offered; choicest Irish creamery, scarce, 11c to 11½c; States ladies, imitation creameries and Canadian dairies, 9c to 10c.

ELGIN.
Elgin, Ill., Nov. 27.—Butter—Firm today,
at 30c per lb; output for the week, 642, 300 lbs.

CHICAGO.

dairy, common to fancy, 20c to 23c; western factory, common to extra, 20c to 22c;
western imitation creamery, 21c to 22c;
renovated, common to extra, 16c to 22c.

Cheese.—Firm; receipts, 2,224 boxes; state dairy, large September, fancy, 14c;
do, October, 13c; do, late made, 12½c to 12½c; do, inferior, 10c to 11½c; skins, 3c
to 3½c.

FOLLOWED GIRL TO U. S.

An English Father Has a Sad Experience at New York.

London, Nov. 26.—"Dear Father,—I have gone to America. Goodbye."

A Manchester operative named Williamson, on returning home from work about three weeks ago, found this message, hastily scrawled on a piece of paper, left for him by his 15-year-old daughter, an attractive-looking mill girl.

Naturally he was thunderstruck. Taking the train to Liverpool, he found, after inquiries, that his daughter had sailed for the United States. The father followed the girl by the next steamer to endeavor to overtake his daughter, as to whose ultimate fate he had the gravest fears.

At New York, however, the officers of the immigration depot discovered that he had a weak heart, aggravated no doubt by his anxieties, and in spite of his appeals he was refused permission to land. After being detained for several days in the depot at Ellis Island he learned with dismay that he was to be sent back as physically unfit.

In a state of despair the unhappy man returned to Manchester and laid his case before the British Women's Emigration Association, and that society, of which the Queen is the patroness, is now doing its best to assist him in his search.

It is known that American agents have visited the cotton districts and secretly persuaded girls to emigrate, holding out promises of highly-paid work.

The Wellington Street Epworth League entertained about 150 students of the Normal School last evening. A programme of literary numbers and music was rendered, after which an excellent supper was served by the ladies of the church. Rev. James Livestone occupied the chair, and gave one of his humorous impromptu talks. A most entertaining reading was given by Rev. E. B. Lanceley, of the Dundas Center Church. Among those who assisted in the musical part of the programme were Master Webb, Miss Deacon, Messrs. Moul, Harry Boyce and Walter Nixon. Miss Short rendered a piano solo which was also very pleasing. Principal Merchant and Rev. D. S. Hamilton delivered short addresses, and Miss Short gave a reading.

—At the residence of Mr. John Young in this city, a pretty wedding was recently celebrated, when Miss Mary Young, of Owen Sound, was united in marriage to Mr. Fred C. Hessel, of this city. The wedding was of a very quiet nature, only near relatives of the bride and groom being present. The bride was dressed in a gown of white silk with valentines trimmings, and carried a bouquet of white roses. Her traveling costume was of reseda green with Dresden and white silk trimmings. The young couple were recipients of many beautiful and costly presents. After a short honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Hessel will take up their residence at 209 Talbot street.

—The 21st annual oyster supper of Court Welcome, No. 12, I. O. F., was held in the Foresters' Hall, East London, last evening. The supper was served from 7 to 9 o'clock, and afterwards a programme of music and speeches was run off.

The following were among the distinguished guests present: High Chief Ranger of the High Court of Ontario A. K. Goodman, of Cayuga; High Auditor H. Hamblin, H. C. Beadle, Wm. Hunter, Past High Chief Ranger C. H. Merryfield.

Mr. A. K. Goodman delivered a short and instructive address on the "Advantages of Forestry." Several of the other gentlemen present also spoke briefly, among the number being Mr. Thomas Ball.

Among those who took part in the musical part of the programme were: Miss Bissett, who rendered a piano solo; Miss Edith Bissett and Mr. Luther Bissett, who contributed a duet, piano and bones; Miss Jacobs, recitation; Miss Stinson, recitation; Mr. W. Saunders, song; Mr. Curtis, a recitation; and Miss Nixon, who gave a piano solo. Mr. F. J. Darch occupied the chair.

All the numbers on the programme were encored, and the event was a grand success.

"THE STOLEN STORY"
IS A GREAT PLAY

Made Tremendous Hit With Londoners at the Grand Last Night.

Londoners last night allowed a delightful attraction to slip past them, when "The Stolen Story," Jessie Lynch Williams' famous newspaper play, was produced at the Grand before what was a rather small audience.

The play is well known to Americans and enjoyed a tremendous run across the line, but Canadians are apparently not so well acquainted with it. London is the only city in Canada in which it plays, and it should certainly have packed the house.

"The Stolen Story" reveals to the public the inner workings of a newspaper office, with all the excitement and jealous watching which a gigantic "scoop" can inspire, and Mr. Lynch has succeeded in weaving a thread of heart interest and loveliness into the fabric of newspaper work, which forms an absorbing stage story full of life and action.

"The Stolen Story" is a play in four acts. It opens in the Berkshires, at General Cunningham's country home, and is then carried into a newspaper office to recollect when Mr. York, which is an exact reproduction of the city editor's room of the New York Sun. Next the story finds its way into a theater in New York, and here one of the finest effects ever witnessed on a local stage is produced. A charity concert is being given in the theater, and as the dialogue proceeds in a room off the foyer, with each opening of the doors a burst of music floats out, mingled occasionally with the voices of the singers and the applause of the audience. The scene in the Berkshires is also one of surpassing stage magnificence.

The newspaper work revealed to the public was not overdone or burlesqued. It was intensely real. The cast, headed by the brilliant young actor, Mr. Harry Stone, was well "balanced and clever. Indeed, it is a somewhat difficult matter to select a cast of such an all-round, capable set of players have graced the stage of the Grand, for there were 23 professionals in the cast, besides a number of local supernumeraries.

Mr. Stone's work displayed an art which at once established him in the good graces of Londoners. Being an old newspaperman, he knew what he was doing and was satisfied to let natural, Edward Holt, as the city editor; Joseph M. Sparks, as Jerry McCarter; James Seelye, as General Cunningham; Frank Kerby, as Gilbert Townsend; Joseph Dalley, as Harry Llewellyn; and Miss Minnie Phillips as Miss Darro, the society reporter, were satisfying in their roles.

If it were possible for Manager Stewart to book "The Stolen Story" in later, there is every reason to believe Londoners would accord it the treatment to which it is entitled.

The play is one of the best that ever came to London. The small audience at the Grand last night made up in enthusiasm what they lacked in numbers, and the applause was loud and frequent. Mr. Stone was given nine curtain calls.

AMALGAMATION SECURED

Erie Cobalt Gets Control of Valuable Beaver Properties.

New Equipment for Pushing Work Will Be Installed at Once.

Since the very recent announcement that the Erie Cobalt Silver Mining Company, Limited, had secured the controlling interest in the valuable Beaver Cobalt properties, and that 200,000 shares of stock were for sale at par value of $1 per share, subscriptions have been fast coming in to the Erie Company's transfer agents, the Trusts and Guarantee Company, 14 King street west, Toronto. This was naturally expected for several reasons. By the new deal the Erie Company has a capital of $1,000,000 with new title clear to 60 acres in Coleman Township, and 40 acres in Lorraine Township. And these properties, as it appears, have been shown to contain decidedly remarkable deposits of silver and cobalt. The new directors, who are acknowledged businessmen of first-rate standing, and who have had the direction of important mining concerns, have begun operations already toward active mining. The properties, as it happens, are well developed. And the directors have on the way a complete up-to-date equipment of mining machinery. This will be installed within the next few days. Thus the mines will be actively shipping before January—in fact, a quantity of ore is already bagged and ready for shipment. Subscription lists for stock absolutely close at 12 o'clock on Saturday, Dec. 1. All applications must be accompanied by postoffice or express order, or marked check in full, payable to J. H. Jewell & Co., and mailed or delivered to Trusts and Guarantee Company, 14 King street west, Toronto, Ont.

Magazines make the choicest gifts. Send to the Red Star News Company, 8 Market Lane, for catalogue, listing 5,000 subscription bargains.

NOT DULL MOMENT AT VAUDEVILLE

Bill This Week Is Bright From Beginning to End—Mary Hampton Headliner.

There are no dull moments connected with Bennett's vaudeville offering this week. Of the seven turns (exclusive of the Bennettograph, with its laugh-producing films), there are at least four which could correctly be termed headliners.

One of the brightest things on the programme is a skit called "The Melodrama," presented by Mary Hampton and company. The skit is in the nature of a satire on the "10-20-30" melodrama, and has to do with an amateur playwright whose wife is opposed to having him waste his time in trying to do work for which he is not fitted. Her advice is lost upon him, however, and he is only cured of his desire to write bloodthirsty drama after having a dream, caused by smoking a cigar "like wifey used to give." The various parts are well taken by Miss Hampton, Charles Swickard and Frank Whitman.

"The Great Richards," the clever impersonator, is among the best of his class. His act is one of the cleverest that has been seen in a local playhouse in a long time, the spectacular colored light effects being little short of marvelous.

Charles Cartmell and Laura Harris offer up one of the neatest terephorian turns on the vaudeville stage today, their act being entertaining, artistic and refined.

Miss Nellie Turnwall is a splendid vocalist, and sang her way into the hearts of London theatergoers with her very first song.

Lynn and Faye, two dainty sou-brettes, do a singing and dancing turn that makes the old people feel young, and young folks feel younger.

The Victors, exponents of physical culture, entertain nicely, and Klein, Ott brothers and Nicholson precede the Bennettograph with an excellent musical turn.

Nearly every person in London was interested in the great baseball series between the Chicago Nationals and the White Sox, which took place recently, and the films on the moving picture machine showing "How the Office Boy Attended the Ball Game" present the team in full action, as they battled for the world's baseball championship on the Chicago diamond.

CORNERSTONE OF NEW CHURCH LAID

An Interesting Ceremony at All Saints—Stone Contains Olive Leaf From Gethsemane.

The laying of the cornerstone of the new All Saints' Church on the Hamilton road took place yesterday afternoon. Hon. Adam Beck performed the ceremony, and the following clergy were present and took part: Very Rev. Dean Davis, Rev. Canon Dann, Ven. Archdeacon Richardson, Rev. G. B. Sage, Rev. W. T. Hill, Rev. Dyson Hague, Rev. W. Lowe, Rev. H. T. Boyle, of Chatham; Rev. Arthur Carlisle, and Rev. T. B. Clark, rector of the church.

Early in the afternoon the congregation assembled in the old church for a preparatory service, during which Rev. Dean Davis led in prayer, and Rev. Canon Dann read Psalm 32. At the close of the service, the rector, Rev. T. B. Clark, read the bishop's mandate, desiring Hon. Adam Beck to lay the cornerstone.

Then the clergy followed by the congregation, proceeded to the new church, where, after the stone had been consecrated by Ven. Archdeacon Richardson, founder of All Saints' Church, it was lowered in position, and Hon. Adam Beck declared the stone well and truly laid in the following words: "In the faith of Jesus Christ we place this cornerstone; in the name of the Father—and of the Son—and of the Holy Ghost—that here true faith with the fear of God and brotherly love may ever flourish and abound."

The rector offered up a short prayer, and the clergy and people returned to the church, where short addresses were given by Hon. Adam Beck, Ven. Archdeacon Richardson, Very Rev. Dean Davis, Rev. G. B. Sage, Rev. D. E. Martin, pastor of the Hamilton Road Methodist Church, and several others.

Mr. Sage offered up the closing prayer; Very Rev. Dean Davis pronounced the benediction, and the congregation was dismissed.

Into the cornerstone were put copies of the papers of the city, a list of the clergy of the diocese and of the different organizations of All Saints' Church, with the names of the rectors and wardens. An olive leaf from the garden of Gethsemane was also placed in the stone. This leaf had been presented to Mr. Thomas Hoggs, a member of the congregation, by Rev. Anthony Bath, of Hull, England, who had plucked it from one of the olive trees in the garden while on a visit to the Holy Land.

The new All Saints' Church when finished will be capable of seating about 500 people, being feet by 54 feet. Besides a large auditorium, the church will have a large meeting-room in the basement. The congregation hopes to be able to commence worship in the building about Easter.

Rev. T. B. Clark, the pastor, has been the recipient of several very acceptable presents, which will help greatly in the furnishing of the church.

ROSE TO BE KING

Romantic History of the Operator Who Became Ruler of Dominions.

Paris, Nov. 26.—There is at present in the city a monarch who at one period of his career was a telegraphist. The story of his advancement reads like romance. Mademba is the name of this sovereign. He is of dusky hue, and hails from the vicinity of the Niger. He owes his royal rank of King of Sousouling to Gen. Archinard. When he arrived at man's estate he entered the postal service.

With his rifle in hand he constructed the telegraph line during a period of revolt in 1880-1881. In 1887, when Gen. Gallieni was appointed governor of the forces of the French Sudan, Mademba was made a diplomatic agent, and commanded the auxiliary cavalry troops in the expedition organized against a rebel chief. In 1890-91, the French Sudan was still in revolt, the rebels pillaging and burning everywhere. The district of Sousouling was particularly devastated.

When the rebellion came to an end Gen. Archinard remembered the exertions of the telegraphist. He considered that his conception of morality and authority ought to be applied to the natives. And so it came about that Mademba was made king of Sousouling, the name of the town that had been burned by the rebels. He was given as subjects 500 prisoners of war, bandits all, who were not worth the cord necessary for hanging them.

Once invested with royalty, Mademba set to work to make these black ruffians industrious cultivators. Soon prosperity returned to the district. The rebels and thieves speedily became thrifty workers in cultivating cotton and fathers of families. For the rest, Mademba is a loyal friend of France. In 1896, on the proposition of Gen. Trentinian, he was made a chevalier of the Legion of Honor, and thanked for the services he had rendered to the country of his adoption.
