

BARBERS STILL ON STRIKE; SITUATION REMAINS UNCHANGED

Each Side Claim There Is No Possible Chance for the Other to Win.

Certain Shops Have Signed the Agreement, But, as Said, They Don't Employ Men.

There is nothing new in the barbers' strike, both sides claiming that they are going to win. Meetings were held last night by both the bosses and the union, and the latter held a meeting this morning also. The trouble was thoroughly threshed out at all the meetings, but nothing important resulted.

The men have not gone back to work. The bosses issued an ultimatum, giving them until noon today to claim their old jobs, but none have weakened, and the men say that none of them will go back. They are holding another meeting this afternoon, when they will make preparations for a longer struggle.

Men Claim They're Winning.

Already the men claim that they are winning. Four shops are said to have dropped out of the struggle and put up the union card again.

Messrs. Slater & Atkinson signed the agreement of the bosses that they could not pay the wages demanded by the men, but this morning they put out the union card.

Mr. S. Thompson, on Clarence street, also has the union card up. Mr. J. White, of Clarence street, has also accepted the terms of the men. One more is reported to be weakening, but the employers claim that they will stick with the bosses.

The men claim that their organization is perfect, that the members will not violate their union pledge; also that they will be supported by the other unions in the city. They ridicule the idea that their places can be filled. Barbers are scarce everywhere, and they cannot be brought in in sufficient numbers to break the strike, they say. The Barbers' Union is also strong financially. Organizer H. J. Halford, of Hamilton, is still in the city, and spoke at all the meetings so far held.

Bosses Are Still Firm.

The bosses are confident also. They gave the men until noon today to return to work, but none have turned up. They say they will fill their places this afternoon.

"I gave my men until noon to come back to work," said Mr. Charles Brennan, "and if they do not turn up I will fill their places. I have two men ready to start this afternoon, and can get more. We are not worrying. The men have the best of it. Not one of my men gets less than $14 a week."

Mr. Brennan Makes Explanation.

"Some of your men are quitting," was pointed out.

"None of the bosses employing men have quit. The shops which put out the card this morning do not employ a man. They signed the agreement just as we did, and said that they could not pay the wages demanded. They are not bosses—they are union men. They have only improved in the shops working for them. The bosses employing men are together, and they are going to stay. When the union men refused the ultimatum issued last night, the bosses will fill their places and the strike will be over. Our position is reasonable."

A special meeting of the Trades and Labor Council has been called for tomorrow evening for the purpose of considering the advisability of giving active support to the strikers.

Worms Ravage Gardens; Attack Fruit and Flower

Army Cut Worm Doing Immense Damage in Western Ontario.

Horticulturists in many localities in the Province are complaining bitterly of the ravages of worms this year. In Hamilton a peculiar growth has attacked the beech and maple trees, and a considerable percentage of them are dying. From several other quarters come reports of a similar nature.

Attacks Orchards.

In the fruit belt in Western Ontario the army cut worm is causing great damage. Near Leamington whole peach orchards have been completely stripped of their foliage. Clover fields have been cut to the roots, and other vegetation has been attacked. Thousands of dollars of damage has been done, and the farmers have been considerably worried, as lately the vegetables have been attacked, and large quantities will be destroyed.

This worm has also made its appearance in London, and many gardens are being destroyed. Vegetable growers are having the most trouble with it. In the garden, as they consume large quantities of the cut worm.

MYSTERIOUS MONTREALER

Found Unconscious on Morgan's Estate, and Later at Paris.

Highland Falls, N. Y., July 30.—Maurice Robert Klein, who was found in an unconscious condition on the lawn of a village church in Versailles, France, is believed to be the same man who was found in a similar condition on the grounds of J. P. Morgan's summer home, Creighton, here, about four weeks ago.

When Klein was found in Versailles he signed in his possession a check for $125, signed by Mrs. Morgan. Klein was found unconscious on the Creighton estate, and at Mrs. Morgan's direction was removed to a local hotel, where he was cared for and given medical attention at Mrs. Morgan's expense.

When Klein regained consciousness he said he had come to Highland Falls from Montreal, and was on his way to Paris. In proof of this assertion he exhibited a steamship ticket from New York to the French capital. He left here after a week's treatment. Mrs. Morgan is now in London.

FOUND DROWNED.

Uxbridge, Ont., July 30.—Mrs. Wilkin, about 75 years of age, who resided with her son on Toronto street, was found drowned this morning with her head and shoulders in a small creek that empties into the electric light pond from Goulds Lane. No one appears to know how she got there.

FELL TWENTY FEET

Toronto Workman Fatally Injured While at Work on Tunnel.

Toronto, July 30.—While working at a tunnel under the bay for a new water main, Wellington Gallant fell 20 feet into a concrete pier this morning, and is likely to die. When taken out of the water he was removed to the hospital and his skull trepanned. His brother escaped by plunging into the water.

JOINED THE STRIKERS

Machinists in Chatham Go Out and Come to Toronto.

Toronto, July 30.—On Saturday last the machinists of the Defiance Iron Works, of Chatham, which it is understood is a branch of a Toronto firm, gave notice that if the firm in Toronto did not settle with their men at once they would go out. The Chatham firm paid no attention to the request, and the men did go out, arriving in Toronto yesterday, and reported at the strike headquarters of the machinists.

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy in London

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, accompanied by General Manager Leonard, Superintendent Osborne, Division Superintendent Smith and several other high officials of the company, arrived in this city at 3:50 this afternoon.

The party remained a short time, and then continued their journey westward to Windsor.

Sir Thomas has just completed his first inspection of the new Sudbury line.

On his return east he will make the trip to Toronto by way of the new Guelph and Goderich line, which is now completed, and the company has several important improvements in view here, and these matters were taken up with Superintendent Murphy.

All the local officials met the distinguished party, which arrived by a special train.

EVELYN THAW GOING ON STAGE

Wife of Stanford White's Slayer To Be Starred on Broadway.

New York, July 30.—According to a report circulated today, Evelyn Nesbit-Thaw intends to return to the stage this fall, despite the objections of her husband and his lawyers. At the office of Daniel O'Reilly, one of the Thaw counsel, a member of the firm said the report was not true. According to the rumors in circulation, Mrs. Thaw has been talking lessons of Carl Blennerman for some time past, and has admitted to her friends that she was preparing to take part in a Broadway production in the near future.

It has been freely prophesied along Broadway ever since the Thaw trial that Mrs. Thaw would not be able to endure the retirement from the stage, but that she would have a prominent part. She is said to have a sweet voice and ability for acting. She first attracted attention on the stage by her dancing, and she hopes to improve in this line. Daniel O'Reilly and Russell Peabody, Thaw's lawyers, and Mrs. William Thaw, mother of the young man, it is reported, have been bitterly opposed to Evelyn Thaw going on the stage, but Evelyn Thaw does not believe it will have a bad effect on her husband's next trial, if she returns to the stage. The second hearing of the famous case will probably come on at the September term of the criminal court.

SENTENCE LATER IN ASSAULT CASE

Gray and Burton Permitted to Remain Out on Bail—Minor Cases.

Joseph Gray and Charles Burton, the two men charged with having committed an assault on Mrs. Burton, of Dundas street west, and who were allowed out on bail, appeared for sentence this morning. The case, however, was adjourned until Aug. 20, and both men allowed out on bail until that date.

Joseph Graham, was convicted of buying junk from minors, and was fined $2 with $1 costs.

When sentencing Graham, Magistrate Love pointed out that the evils arising from the purchase of junk from minors were manifold. He attributed many juvenile thefts to the practice, and said that it encouraged boys to steal.

Willis Moxley, a colored man, was arrested yesterday on a charge of assaulting his wife, but when he appeared in court this morning his wife did not appear to testify against him, so the case was dropped.

William Fraser was released, after spending one week in jail on a charge of being drunk. Two first time drunks were allowed to go.

Crown Aims to Fix the Liability

The inquest into the death of the late Willie Tambling, of Oxford street, who was killed in the wreck of Brewster's store two weeks ago, will be resumed at the court house tonight.

It is understood that a very large number of witnesses have been summoned, and that tonight's evidence will only get at the fringe of the affair. Nevertheless, it is said that some very important evidence will be forthcoming, and some witnesses who are directly interested in the wreck will be placed on the stand.

"The object of the inquest," said Crown Attorney McKillop to the Advertiser today, "will be to establish criminal liability if it really exists."

"The crown is not interested in any civil cases which may follow, but it is only natural to suppose that if criminal liability is fixed upon anyone, civil liability will be likely to follow."

There are likely to be several adjournments before a verdict is reached.

STRANGLER KILLS NEW YORK WOMEN

Two More Sensational Murders in the American Metropolis.

New York, July 30.—The bodies of two women, with the marks of a strangler on their throats, have been found here within the last twelve hours, and the police today have cast a drag net over the city to catch the slayer. The police believe that one committed both crimes. Neither of the victims has been identified.

The body of one woman was found early today in East Ninetieth street. The marks of a thumb and forefinger were visible on the throat, and the face and neck were smeared with blood. The woman was about 27 years old. No clue to her identity was found. No one in the neighborhood heard sounds of a struggle.

The body of the other woman, also the victim of a stranger, was found last night in the twenty-second street boarding-house. The woman, who was about 40 years of age, came to the house Sunday with a man who gave his name as Davis. Her body was found last night in the room the couple had occupied. A necktie had been knotted tightly around her throat and she had been dead for several hours. The blood vessels in the neck had been broken and the woman's clothing was drenched in blood. No trace of the man, who has the appearance of a foreigner, has been found.

Death By Drug the Verdict In Inquest on Late Miss Russell

Jury Says There Was Criminal Complicity—Experts on Stand.

After three long sessions, and the hearing of a great deal of evidence, the coroner's jury, under Dr. MacLaren, which has been investigating the death of the late Agnes Ann Russell, returned the following verdict last night:

"That the said Agnes Ann Russell came to her death in the city of London on the 4th of July, 1907, from convulsions, caused by taking some drug in a poisonous dose for the purpose of producing an abortion. And the evidence shows that an abortion was produced. We further believe that there was criminal complicity in this matter on the part of some person or persons unknown to us."

The evidence taken last night consisted of the statements of Drs. H. A. Stevenson and Drake, who conducted the post-mortem examination, and the report on the analysis of the stomach, which was submitted by Prof. Bain, of Toronto. Mr. William Brown, proprietor of the hotel in which Miss Russell's death occurred, also made a statement.

Mr. Brown was the first witness put into the box, but before proceeding to give evidence, he claimed the protection of the Canada evidence act, through his lawyer, Mr. Scatcherd. The crown attorney first questioned the witness about Miss Russell's stay at the Brown House. He answered that she has lived at the hotel for about nine years. Witness said that his wife had not lived with him continuously since he came to the hotel, on March 8, 1905, although they lived together occasionally. He claimed that the last time he had lived with his wife was in September last.

No Wrong Relations.

In answer to questions by the crown attorney he then told of the alimony action brought against him by his wife. Mr. Brown denied emphatically that his relations with Miss Russell had ever been anything but proper, and also stated that he had no knowledge of Miss Russell's having ever given birth to a child, as was alleged at the time of the alimony charge. When questioned as to whether he had any knowledge of a nurse having been brought here from Brandon to prove that Miss Russell had given birth to a child, he emphatically denied that there was any truth in the statement. Held Crown Deed Secured in 1845

It is not very often that a man who secures a crown deed of a piece of land holds it for between 60 and 70 years, and sees it grow in value from a mere nothing to somewhere in the neighborhood of $20,000 or $25,000.

Such, however, was the case with the late Mr. George Watson, the old-time London architect, who died at his late residence on the Wellington road yesterday.

Mr. Watson, in 1845, secured from the crown the deed of a half-acre lot, known as lot 12, on the south side of King street, just west of the Bank of Toronto Chambers, and whereon now stands the Clyde Hotel.

The deed was executed at Montreal, Ontario and Quebec being united at the time, under the names of Upper and Lower Canada.

The document bears the signature of the administrator for Sir Charles Metcalfe, G. C. R., who was governor of Canada at the time.

The price paid for the property was a mere bagatelle, but today it would probably bring about $150 a foot—probably $200.

The deed is made out to "George Watson, of London Township, carpenter (afterwards architect), of the village of London, a settlement established by Col. Talbot."

The funeral takes place tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from his late residence, 90 Wellington road. Messrs. T. J. Murphy, Frank Love, B. W. Greer, Joseph Broadbent, J. W. Little and John H. Adam will act as pallbearers.

THIRD-CLASS AND PENNY-A-MILE COMMISSION ORDERS GRAND TRUNK

Must Place Service of Two Trains a Day Between Montreal and Toronto.

Ottawa, July 30.—The railway commission has given judgment in the application of W. N. Robertson, of Toronto, under section 26 of the railway act, directing the Grand Trunk to issue third-class tickets at the rate of one penny per mile and to run third-class passenger carriages attached to one train per day each way throughout the length of the line.

The order is as follows: First, that the Grand Trunk Railway Company run every day throughout the length of its line of railway between Toronto and Montreal, a third-class passenger train having third-class passenger carriages for passenger traffic, and that the fare or charge for each third-class passenger by any train on that portion of its railway do not exceed two cents for each mile traveled, and that the said company forthwith after the coming into effect of this order file with the board passenger tariffs for the aforesaid portion of its railway embodying the said rate of two cents per mile for third-class passengers.

CROWN IS SEEKING FOR MORE EVIDENCE

Investigation Into the Cause of Death of Miss Russell Not To Be Dropped.

Although the coroner's inquest into the death of the late Miss Agnes Ann Russell was brought to a close last night, when the coroner's jury brought in a verdict to the effect that the young woman's death had occurred through the use of a drug, and, also, to the effect that the jury was of the opinion that there had been a criminal complicity in the matter on the part of some person or persons unknown, it is understood that further evidence bearing on the case is being sought.

FLATTENED HIS NOSE.

Toronto, July 30.—John Fraser was standing looking up at an elevator shaft in W. H. Lailey & Co.'s warehouse on Front street this morning, when the gate guarding the shaft, which works automatically, flew up catching Fraser by the neck and holding against the wall. He was then squeezed by the descending elevator, and had his nose crushed flat on his face. He will probably recover.

Booth's Successor

London, July 30.—General William Booth, the head of the Salvation Army, who is engaged in a motor tour of Great Britain, announced on Sunday at Blackburn, Lancashire, that the same electric flash that carried the news of his death would publish the name of the new general for the army. It is learned that General Booth has left minute directions for the future administration of the army, in a sealed envelope with his solicitor. No one else knows who his successor will be, but it is believed that it will be Bramwell Booth, with Commander Howard and Commander Booth-Tucker as assistants in case of Bramwell Booth's death, and that the army will continue under the guidance of one man, and not of a commission or a board of directors.

RUNAWAY TEAM RUN OVER BLACKFRIARS

West London Man's Horses Know How To Cut Up Without Damage.

A team belonging to Thomas Hutchinson, of Argyle street, became alarmed yesterday afternoon while standing on Richmond street, and dashed away at a furious gallop. From long custom they took the turns necessary to reach the stable, but the articles which fell from the wagon in transit kept up their alarm.

Some thought that the team would come to grief at Blackfriars bridge, but the horses kept well in the middle of the roadway and got across safely, though the last of the wagonbox was deposited there.

The run came to a conclusion in 173 stable yards, when after upsetting the wagon, the frightened horses were caught.

The wagon was pretty well knocked to pieces, but the horses received no injuries, except a few scratches.

PROSPECTORS FLEE FROM THE FLIES

Larder Lake District Is Plagued With Clouds of Insects.

Toronto, Ont., July 29.—"Talking about flies and mosquitoes," said F. L. Blake, of Toronto observatory, who has just returned from a trip to Larder Lake and Raven Lake, "we had them up there with a vengeance. The atmosphere was literally alive with them. Every reed, every blade of grass seemed to be filled with an infusion of black flies and mosquitoes, which were hatched out after every rain. There was no getting away from the insects. They hung like a screen along the river marshes and about the shores of the lakes. As soon as one's canoe was within 50 yards of shore the mosquitoes surrounded it.

Never So Bad Before.

"Indians and old trappers in the district say that they have never experienced such a pest of bloodthirsty insects.

"When we camped we had to keep a smudge going all the time to keep mosquitoes and black flies out of our tent, and that didn't have any effect on the sandflies, which assailed us all night with a dreadful persistence.

"It is a great country as far as the scenery is concerned," declared Mr. Blake enthusiastically. "It has a certain wild, rugged grandeur all its own.

Fishing Is Good.

"The fishing is excellent, both in Larder Lake and Raven Lake, pickerel, pike, muskellunge and bass being found in abundance. There are also whitefish in the deeper and cooler waters. One day while we were camped on Raven Lake we went out about sunset to fish, and two hours later came back to camp with half a canoe full.

"There are also lots of moose in the bush, and bear as well; but, of course, it was the close season, and we could not bag any. There is a scarcity of small game, such as duck and geese, and there did not seem to be many partridges in the bush."

Swarms of Prospectors.

"Are there many prospectors up there?" was asked.

"The country literally swarms with them," was the reply. "Nearly every foot of rock within 20 miles of Larder Lake is staked out as a claim. Of course, 99 out of 100 of these claims will not amount to anything."

"Do the prospectors camp about the lake?"

"Some of them do, but the greater number have been driven back to the towns by the flies, and are hanging about there while their claims are being surveyed."

"There's an old Grassy Lake Indian who has a claim right up at the top of a big hill on the shore of one of the arms of Larder Lake. He's been living in the district all his life, and when discoveries of gold thereabouts were first talked about, he spotted out this hill as a likely place. There are quite a number of Indians who have staked out claims, and as most of them are acquainted with every ledge of rock within 20 or 30 miles of their homes, there is good reason to expect that their claims will prove fruitful."

"Are there any places on Larder Lake where camping parties can obtain provisions, Mr. Blake?"

Bread 25 Cents a Loaf.

"There is one village, consisting of a number of shacks and a store or two, which is labeled with the pretentious title of Larder City, probably with a view to further developments, where bread can be purchased at about 25 cents a small loaf, butter at from 50 to 75 cents a pound, and pork at a proportionately reasonable price. There are also one or two small stores on the shores of the lake, where provisions can be obtained."

"I suppose the surveyors are having a hard time of the flies?"

"It should say so. Right in the bush it must be awful. One surveyor told me that all his axmen were wearing buckskin gloves to protect their hands against the mosquitoes and black flies. It is dreadfully warm work chopping with gloves on all day long under the hot July sun. It is a penance in itself, but anything is preferable to being eaten alive. The same surveyor said that the men running the transits were obliged to light a smudge every time they set up their instruments. It is very hard to get men to work on the surveys just now. Many surveyors are forced to pay $3 a day and even more to their axmen."

Poisoned by Mosquitoes.

"We had a mosquito awning to protect ourselves from the insects. A few would get in while we crawled into bed. We used to go after these with a candle and frizzle them up with rare zest in some small revenge for the damage their kindred had inflicted upon us during the day. A French-Canadian we had with us was once bitten so badly during the night that he couldn't open his eyes in the morning. He was forced to lay around camp all day in a thick smudge with a poultice over his eyes. Two other men were so badly poisoned by insect bites that we had to take them to the hospital at Tomstown."

"It is a splendid canoe trip from Spoon Bay, the western arm of Larder Lake, to Windigo Lake, where a trail leads to Tomstown, seven miles distant. Hyslop, on the T. N. O. Railway, is about three miles west of Tomstown."

"Passing through Larder Lake, one enters Raven River. Raven River enters Raven Lake in a number of falls and rapids, some of which we shot in our canoes."

"We paddled through Windigo Lake by moonlight. The pale white light playing on the edge of the forest lent a ghastly enchantment to a scene beautiful under almost any circumstance."

"Windigo is the Indian word for either a good or bad devil, and in the folk-lore of the tribes much is told of the spirits that haunt the shores and waters of the lake.

"While we were paddling down the lake we saw a big bull moose swim across. At first only his nose and part of his velvet antlers were above water, but as he rose out of the water on gaining the shore his whole body was silhouetted in the moonlight. It was a magnificent sight to see this lord of the forest slowly emerge from the water, stand for a moment on the shore, blowing the steam from his nostrils, and then vanish into the bush disappearing as suddenly from sight."

"At the end of Windigo Lake is situated the town of Windigo (a collection of two or three shacks and a store is called a town up there), composed of two or three tumble-down shacks, a few tents, and a restaurant."

"From Windigo we walked into Tomstown, crossing the fine new bridge over the Blanche River, and thence on to Hyslop, where we took train to Latchford, and thence on to Toronto."

STORY IS DENIED BY THE FAMILY

Late James Ryan, Who Died at South Bend, Did Not Commit Suicide.

The body of the late Mr. James Ryan, son of Mr. James Ryan, of the Ridgeway, South London, has arrived in this city, and the funeral will take place tomorrow morning, at 8:30, to St. Peter's Cathedral.

The family take decided objection to the stories circulated to the effect that the deceased committed suicide, in South Bend, Indiana, where for some time he had resided with his wife.

The late Mr. Ryan, who was about 37 years of age, suffered from brain trouble, and it was found necessary to have him confined in the county jail at South Bend. While there he was taken very ill, and he died despite the efforts of his physicians to save his life. The story that he refused nourishment and deliberately starved himself to death is denied. Up till the last he took what food could be given him.

The deceased was a cigar-maker by trade, and had left London seven or eight years ago. He is survived by a widow, to whom he was married in July, 1906. Besides his parents, he is also survived by three brothers and two sisters, as follows: Mr. Thomas Ryan, of Orchard street, city; Mr. Patrick Ryan, of Dreeany avenue, city; Mr. Joseph Ryan, at home; Mrs. Wm. Murphy, Wharfedale road, and Mrs. George Roberts, Chicago.

BENNETT'S "UNIQUE" OPENED LAST NIGHT

Place Is One of the Neatest and Coziest It Is Possible to Imagine.

It's the Bennett way of doing things, and the Bennett way spells success. Last night Bennett's Unique, the moving picture theater in the Oddfellows' block, was opened to the public, and from the opening until the close it was packed to the doors. In the audience were very many ladies—regular patrons of Bennett's Vaudeville Theater—who knew that when Bennett does anything they do it right.

The entire front row of the theater was a blaze of electric lights last night, and the interior was not less attractive. The walls are covered with a green dado six feet from the floor, while all above is green. All the woodwork is Flemish oak, and the theater is over 100 feet long. The stage where the pictures are shown is very neat. On either side are figures in relief, while the proscenium opening is marked off with a stucco frame, handsomely decorated.

The seats are comfortable and very natty, and the floor is covered with cooey matting and linoleum.

There are not less than six fans in the theater, but last night it was only necessary to keep a couple of them going to maintain a proper temperature.

Uniformed ushers showed people to their seats, and a boy passed drinking water around.

Mr. Ed Efner is manager of the theater; Mr. Thomas Logan conducts the picture machine; Mr. Wm. Dyer sings the illustrated songs, and Mr. Land is the accompanist on the piano. The show runs about an hour, and last night included a very appropriate film in view of the fact that the barbers' strike is on. The other pictures were excellent.

The illustrated songs were up-to-date, and Mr. Dyer's singing was splendid. The bill will be changed twice a week. The theater is open every afternoon and every night, and in the language of one of those who saw the performance last night, "It's the greatest show on earth for a nickel."

CAFE ON LINER'S DECK

New Feature of Ocean Travel for Cunarder Lusitania.

Liverpool, July 29.—One of the features of the new Cunarder Lusitania, the biggest ship afloat, which has just finished a successful trial trip, is the veranda cafe. This is situated with a view astern of the vessel, and passengers can sit there and enjoy the sea air, while they are completely sheltered from the wind. It will be like dining on the brow of some cliff swept by ocean breezes, with an outlook of ocean and sky alone. There are also two "Regal Suites" on this ship, designed to meet the demands of travelers who want the utmost luxury. They will cost $2,000 each a trip.

Sir William White, who had much to do with creating the big liner, said that the coal consumption of the steamer would be 450 tons an hour, or about 5,500 tons for a trip.

Eccentric Editor Scores the British Peace Delegates.

London, July 29.—Wm. T. Stead, editor of the Review of Reviews, who has been conducting a publication at The Hague devoted to the peace matters, when interviewed on the progress of the peace conference, delivered a serious indictment against the British delegates.

"Until last Saturday, when, under the pressure of angry protests, the British Government instructed its delegates to make a belated declaration of adherence to the American plan of compulsory arbitration, the British delegation had done nothing for peace, nothing for arbitration in short, nothing the British people believed they had been sent to The Hague to do."

"Their action, and, still more, their inaction, has been the amazement and despair of all the friends of peace. It would have been better to have no delegates at all than the men who have shown skepticism where they ought to have shown enthusiasm; who have repelled where they ought to have attracted; who have been a wet blanket upon every aspiration of the peace crusaders, and who have succeeded in utterly destroying England's reputation as the leader of the peace-loving nations of the world."

"As members of the conference striving for peace ideals, they are about the most incompetent set of beings that have ever achieved an unmitigated failure."

Rev. D. S. Hamilton and Mr. Alexander Beck returned to the city Saturday night after spending a pleasant week at Kettle Point and Corunna. While at Corunna they were the guests of Mr. W. H. Davis, whose cottage, Point View, overlooking Sugar Island, and also commands an excellent view of the River St. Clair.

SEEK HIDDEN GENIUS

Committee of Parisians Hunting for a Poet.

Paris, July 29.—A committee of the Societe des Gens de Lettres in Paris is looking for a poet, and a poet of just the kind they want they find it very difficult to lay their hands on. When Sully Prudhomme, the veteran French singer, received the Nobel prize two years ago, he instituted a prize himself, to be awarded yearly to the best young poet in France, whose works had not been published.

Last year the prize was awarded, but it looks as if it will this year have to be withheld on account of the conditions. The committee could have found quite a number of young poets worthy of being thus honored, but they were deterred from the competition on account of their works having already been published, and French poets and poetasters rush into print all the more easily since the Minister of Fine Arts gives a traveling scholarship for this art, which is really worth much more than the Sully Prudhomme prize.

ALWAYS A GOOD FRIEND

—In health and happiness we need no friends, but when pain and prostration come we look for friendly aid from sympathetic hands. These hands can serve us no better than in rubbing in Dr. Thomas' Eucalyptic Oil, for when the Oil is in the pain is out. It has brought relief to thousands who without it would be indeed friends.

STODDART COMPANY OPENS AT SPRINGBANK

Favorite Stock People Immensely Please at the River Park.

The Stoddart Stock Company last night opened its engagement at Springbank Park with "Tom Moore, the Irish Poet." The play proved one of great interest, and it was presented by a capable cast. The company were remembered well by patrons of the park theater, and they were given a hearty welcome.

The story of the play deals with incidents in the life of the Irish bard, and especially with his efforts to win the hand and heart of Bessie Dyke. On the whole, it was by far the most satisfactory production given at Springbank in some years, and the audience showed its appreciation by frequent outbursts of applause.

Mr. W. L. Stewart appeared as Moore, while Miss Leah Stoddart took the part of Bessie. Both roles were given effective interpretations.

Mr. George Wood, as Sir Percival; Mr. Edward Dunlop, as Lord Morvia, and Miss Leland Webb, as the Princess of Wales, were all splendid in their different characters.

Between the acts some excellent vaudeville was introduced, making of the show a continuous performance.

Tonight Tom Moore will be produced and again on Wednesday night, "How He Won Her," a comedy, will hold the boards the last three nights of the week.

LONDON, TUESDAY, JULY 30.

FLAG FOOLISHNESS.

A number of flag incidents on both sides of the line calls attention again to an apparently incurable form of foolishness. A Canadian in Michigan has been fined for tramping on the Stars and Stripes, and deserved his punishment. A crowd of cheap patriots in Erie, Pa., burned a British flag displayed by an Englishman on the Fourth of July. He claimed that he hoisted it in compliment to the United States. If so, the folly of the mob was matched by his own stupidity. In Ottawa, American flags displayed at the Old Boys' reunion in honor of visitors from across the line were suppressed at the request of local cranks.
This was an occasion on which the American ensign could be properly exhibited, and its removal was a breach of courtesy and hospitality. The case was very different from that in Winnipeg a year ago, when the Stars and Stripes were hoisted on the municipal buildings on the Fourth of July.

There would be fewer of these flag incidents if people would refrain from flaunting their nation emblem in a foreign country. Our neighbors are the greatest offenders in this respect, as Canadians have reason to know.
The reason is that there are more second-class and half-educated people in the United States who have the means of traveling than in any other country on earth. In the summer resorts of Canada, especially in Muskoka, the American flag is as common as the Canadian, although Canadian flags would not be tolerated under similar circumstances across the line.
The impulse to fly one's own flag in another country, even though no disrespect is intended, is distinctly a sign of vulgarity. Canadians can afford to regard this class of visitors with a good-humored contempt, and let them fly their flags unmolested. They know that cultured Americans, who are delightful people to meet on one's travels, are not offenders in this fashion. The whole question resolves itself into one of education and good taste, and it is not one that can be settled by statutes or regulations.

GERMANY AND FRANCE.

By no means the least interesting of recent cable dispatches are those telling of the possibility of a rapprochement between Germany and France. The basis of this talk seems to be sentiments of a conciliatory tone recently given utterance to, and marks of friendship displayed toward France, by Emperor William. A month ago
M. Etienne, a member of the French Chamber of Deputies, and formerly minister of war, was at Kiel. He was not charged with any government or official mission, but had simply been invited by the Prince of Monaco on his yacht to witness the regatta. Then Emperor William invited M. Etienne to dine with him on the imperial yacht Hohenzollern, and engaged him in conversation. The day following the Kaiser breakfasted on board the Prince of Monaco's yacht, where the conversation with the French deputy was renewed. Subsequently the Emperor visited a number of the French yachts and left with the Duke de Cazes two souvenirs—one a portrait of himself, which he signed in French, "Guillaume," and the other a large photograph representing the French squadron, which met at Kiel in 1854, prior to proceeding to bombard the Russian ports in the Baltic. Subsequently at the annual banquet of the Kaiserlicher Yacht Club, the Emperor toasted "our foreign guests, and particularly those who have come from the most beautiful country of all our neighbors." This unlooked-for incident, coupled with the fact that M.
Etienne was afterwards received by Chancellor Von Buelow at Berlin, has set diplomats speculating as to the next move in the expected rapprochement.

Discussing the subject of Franco-German relations the Gazette de Frankfort endeavors to show that Germany has followed a policy of sincere goodwill and persevering desire for conciliation. The paper sees in the interview between the German Chancellor and a former French minister, "a sure proof that our present relations with France are better than when a year ago, M. Clemeneau, then minister of the interior, was in Berlin, and had nothing to say to a German official." "The Emperor," the paper concludes, "will have no trouble in going back to a policy of conciliation, for he has always shown France the most amicable intentions, and if he committed a mistake in going to Tangier and thereby pushed the question of Morocco beyond the limits, he will not hesitate to see his error and repair it."

The cause of this sudden display of friendship toward France on the part of the German Emperor is not difficult to find. The agreements affecting Britain, Russia, France, Spain, Italy and Japan have left Germany in a state of isolation not altogether splendid. No doubt the Kaiser is keenly aware that King Edward is credited with outmatching him in diplomacy.
There is one serious obstacle, however, in the way of improved relations between France and Germany. But for the question of Alsace-Lorraine there might long ago have been friendship between neighboring nations with common interests. Were Emperor William to consent to the former French province being raised to the dignity of an independent neutral state, he would be making a great advance in overcoming French antimosities. Such magnanimity, however, is less to be expected in nations than in individuals.

HEAT AND HEALTH.

When the mercury goes toward the hundred mark bear two items in mind, your stomach and your lungs. Give your stomach the food that the season requires, and not the food that you may chance to crave for the sake of your palate. Give your lungs the best possible air and avoid that which has been breathed by others. If you treat your stomach and your lungs properly you will probably get through the sizzling season without trouble. If you ignore them, or abuse them, you will probably suffer.

One of the most serious mistakes men make in summer, says a contemporary, is to imagine that thirst is a phenomenon of the upper portion of the swallowing apparatus alone, and that it is quenched when the mouth is cooled by ice water or other ice-cold drinks or by alcoholic beverages. Thirst is a lack of bodily moisture, not merely of the drying of the mouth. The system demands liquids to replace those that are evaporated through the pores. The thirst is relieved as readily by lukewarm water as by iced drinks, and more safely. Give the body the water it needs and the mouth will not be dry and there will be no temptation to imbibe large quantities of prepared drinks which upset the stomach and cause trouble.

Vitiated atmosphere is one of the grave dangers of the hot season. In Philadelphia the other day several thousand people succumbed to the heat during a parade, largely because, it is now believed, they were not giving their lungs sufficient oxygen. The close assemblage of a dense throng caused the exhaustion of the life-bearing qualities of the air. The blood became poisoned through the inhalation of air that had already passed into other lungs. This atmosphere, drained of its oxygen and laden with noxious elements, hung like a pall over the multitude. Adulterated lemonade helped in the process. Hysteria accelerated it.

Haste and intemperance are the two prime causes of hospital work in summer time. Car chasing, rapid action of any kind, in tense concentration upon physical or mental tasks, nervous focus, ill-considered diet, all these are factors for man's downfall in July and August. The man who moves leisurely, drinks and eats temperately, thinks calmly and regards life with the eye of the philosopher will survive the heat and preserve his general health far more surely than the hustlers and those who forget their physical limitations.

It will be a disgrace to the state of Idaho if Orchard is not given the full penalty of murder. There can be no doubt of his own share in the carnival of assassination.

The announcement of the fall fairs is an unpleasant reminder that this brief interlude between two winters, which we call the summer of 1907, is nearing the end.

The Conservatives are buying newspapers by the half-dozen in New Brunswick. Will the purchased influence of such papers have any influence with the public?

The latest British warship, which is even more formidable than the Dreadnought, has been named the Bellerophon. What traditions of valor and victory cluster around that name!

The interests of justice compel the discussion of delicate matters by lawyers and witnesses in certain cases, but the ends of justice do not require the publication of details. A newspaper should be careful of what it spreads on its pages for children to read.

THE SHAME OF THE COLUMBIA.

[New York World.]

The loss of the steamship Columbia of the coast of California adds another to an appalling list of disasters in these and neighboring waters within two years. The east, even with the fate of the General Slocum and the Larchmont unforgettably may not include in a list of horror and of righteous indignation at conditions of incompetent navigation in the Pacific which have costed the lives of all a ship's woman passengers along with other precious lives.

"Not a woman saved." What an indictment of selfish cowardice on the part of the male passengers and of slack discipline among the crew is contained in the word!
Was there no ship's officer to stand by revolver in hand, and compel a semblance of duty or of civility? No more painful story of inhumanity at sea, of the weak left to die by the strong, has been told since the Bourgogne went down.

DARK DAYS AHEAD.

[Sam Kiser.]

Mother's looking worried lately—
Father's getting rich;
All his risks are paying greatly.
Sister's looking rather stately.
But our woes will soon be doubled.
Mother's looking badly troubled—
Father's getting rich.

Shame and sorrow soon must follow—
Father's getting rich;
We'll have wealth in which to wallow;
Mother's cheeks are getting hollow;
Long we diligently sought it;
Now they'll ask us how we got it—
Father's getting rich.

[Washington Star.]

"I suppose," said Uncle Eben, "that it's one of those provisions of Providence that makes a man without much sense want to talk a whole lot and give himself away, so's he won't fool anybody."

[Washington Star.]

"An argument," said Uncle Eben, "is very often just a go-as-you-please hollerin' match between two men dat ain't listenin' to one another."

[Judge.]

"Is it really you? Murphy told me you were dead."
"Oh, was all right when I saw him last."

[Sam Kiser.]

When youth and strength to us belong
We have the wish to journey far;
From where we learned the first love song
And first beheld the evening star.

When manhood's fullness is achieved
We cease to care to wander on;
The glowing splendors we believed
The calling distance held are gone.

When age has borne us down at last,
And we have failed or proved our worth,
Through longing eyes our looks are cast Back on the spot that gave us birth.

IN DISTRESS.

[Louisville Courier-Journal.]

"That yacht is flying a flag of distress."
"What does she signal?"
"Wants to know if we have a corkscrew aboard."

[Philadelphia Press.]

"Is it true, doctor," asked the summer girl, "that eating cucumbers will remove freckles?"
"Of course," replied Dr. Kidder, "under certain circumstances."
"Really? What circumstances?"
"Well, provided the freckles are on the cucumbers."

[Toronto Star.]

The Township of London has bought the Proof Line toll road, and made it free to the public. One by one the relics of medievalism disappear, the robber barons taking refuge some years ago in the trusts and other large corporations.

[Punch.]

Little Girl (to complete stranger)—Please, sir, am I out an hour yet?

[Harper's Weekly.]

Timid Old Gentleman—Oh, sir, please let me go. Think of your own poor old mother.
The Highwayman—Nothin' doin', old boy; it won't go. I was brought up in an incubator.

[Bohemian.]

A Laplander bold fell in love, I am told,
With a maiden who lived near the Pole.
His engagement to hallow, he made her a tallow
Dip-candle (and went in the ho's,
For there tallows expensive, and trade not extensive;
Though some say the tallow he stole).
Said he: "Oh, be mine, and the candle is thine!"
And right here the real tale was begun.
She gave one coy look and the candle she took.
And the man thought his wooing was done.

She sat down on the ice, and she ate in a trice
His candle so greasy and yellow and nice.
When he asked for the wick she said: "No, not a lick!"
For you gave and I took. That is Love."

Oh the crumbs she rose to her feet.
"Glad I met you," she said. "Can I get you your sled?"
And she pointed the way down the street.

Back to Lapland he went—indeed, he was sent.
And he suitably said as he slid:
"Of all the bold minxes!
She's sharp as the lynxes!
The game's not worth the candle. I'll aid!"

[New York Times.]

Spendall—If I'd know you were so extraneous I would never have married you.
Mrs. Spendall—If I hadn't been, papa would never have let you.

LOOKING A GIFT HORSE IN THE WAIST.

[Punch.]

Squire (who has given his gardener a cut-off suit)—So you've got the clothes on, Biffins!
Biffins—Yes, sir. But, low! they'll cost me a deal filling out.

A SPECIALIST.

[Punch.]

Mistress—Bridget, have you cemented the handle on to the water jug which you dropped yesterday?
Bridget—I started to, mum, but most unfortunately I dropped the cement bottle.

[Tit-Bits.]

Self-made Man (to highly educated grandson)—Well, Teddy, my boy, and what do you learn at school?
Teddy—Latin and Greek and French and algebra.
Self-made Man—Ho, indeed! And what is the algebra for cabbage?

Bowel Troubles

Liver pills, cathartics, mineral waters, often make Constipation worse. They merely irritate the bowels and force them to move—stop taking purgatives and the bowels become "tight" again.

"Fruit-a-tives" are the one certain cure for Constipation because their action is upon the liver. "Fruit-a-tives" are a liver tonic. They stimulate the secretions of bile by the liver, this bile causes the bowels to move in the natural, regular way and completely cures Constipation.

"Fruit-a-tives are fruit juices with tonics and antiseptics added. In "Fruit-a-tives" one atom of bitter replaces one atom of sweet in the fruit juices, forming a new compound which is many times more active, medicinally, than the fruit juices could possibly be. 50c. a box—$2.50 for 6 boxes. At all dealers'.

LOSSES THROUGH FREAK INSURANCE

Some Old Chances That Lloyds and Other Companies Have Taken.

London, July 26. — Throughout her long career on the operatic stage, Mme. Patti has been more heavily insured against accident, cold or disease, than any other artist. When touring, $5,000 a night is the writer's check annually for Patti has been underwritten by those interested in the fulfillment of her contracts, for which a premium of $125 each twenty-four hours is paid. In addition to this the golden voice itself is permanently insured by its owner for many thousands against total loss.

Under the management of Mr.
Charles Frohman, Herr Kubelik's "bow" hand was insured for no less than $10,000 against accidents which might temporarily prevent the great violinist from fulfilling his engagements, while in the event of total disablement of his right hand the sum of $50,000 would have been paid by the insurance company who accepted the unique "risk."

Paderewski's hands are protected in like manner for somewhat similar amounts, and the brilliant pianoforte player writes a check annually for a large sum to cover the premiums in connection therewith.

It is not generally known that the late Prof. Huxley was the first individual to insure eyesight against accident or disease. The savant valued his vision at the modest figure of $25,000, and for this up to the time of his death, he paid one of the leading insurance companies $500 a year.

When Consul, the famous chimpanzee, succumbed to the vagaries of the British climate, Lloyd's was reported to have been hit to the tune of $100,- 000, probably the largest sum ever paid on the demise of an animal, although at Lloyd's several valuable racehorses are insured for even greater sums. Strange to say, while Lloyd's will accept practically any risk under the sun from an ocean greyhound to a tame lion, it draws a full bull's eye and no business of this nature is accepted by the underwriters. With regard to twins, seven guineas per cent was the premium paid recently by an expectant and probably anxious client.

The amounts for which royal personages are insured afford a revealing reading of the King's insured for about three-quarters of a million sterling, while the Prince of Wales runs his august parent comparatively close with half a million. The czar's recent troubles have earned him considerable attention from speculators who gamble in human life, and the sum of a million sterling was recently named by a prominent German banker as a probable estimate of the figure for which the harassed monarch is insured on the continent alone.

The most heavily insured monarch was the late King Humbert of Italy, who paid premiums on his own life to the extent of one and a half million pounds, so that the many insurance companies among whom the risk was divided were very hard hit by his assassination.

When the late Queen ascended the throne she seemed so fragile that the merchant princes of the day who had suffered great losses from the death of George IV., and again so soon after by the demise of William IV., availed themselves of the statute permitting insurance of the monarch; and when, later, Queen Victoria married, thousands of policies were taken out by interested traders covering the first year of her marriage.

So far as our present ruler's life is concerned there is no gambling—that is, insurance effected by persons who are merely speculating, and who have no real stake in the life of his majesty, and an "insurable interest" is nowadays a sine qua non in applying for a policy on the life of the King.

The postponement of the coronation procession owing to King Edward's illness dealt the insurance companies almost as severe a blow as did the recent San Francisco calamity, and when one remembers similar national disasters which have touched the pockets of the insurance corporations from time to time for huge sums, it would appear that the lot of an underwriter, big or little, can hardly be a happy one.

The proprietors of an Austrian carpet factory at Maffersdorf are stated to have acquired German patents which embody a method of manufacturing carpets of floor coverings from paper. The new material can be made in all colors, is washable and may prove itself a rival to linoleum.

Canadian Money and Brains To Open Up South America

Van Horne Heads Concern to Construct Railway System.

New York, July 30. — The Times today says the syndicate of New York and Canadian capitalists, including Sir William Van Horne and William Bull, which for some time has been engaged in traction and harbor improvement undertakings in Brazil, has laid plans, it was reported yesterday, to extend its operations to steam railroad undertakings. The syndicate is said to have under consideration the construction, all told, of 2,000 miles of railway in Brazil, to connect and extend existing lines. The ultimate purpose, it is said, is to connect Rio de Janeiro with Montevideo, the capital of Uruguay.
Among the railroads said to have been acquired already by the syndicate are the Sao Paulo and Rio Grande Railway and Sorocabana Railway. The latter was constructed by the State of Sao Paulo, and has been leased to the American syndicate, which is understood to have agreed to assume the $19,000,000 of 5 per cent bonds issued by the state to cover the cost of the road. Part of the contract with the state is said to be an undertaking on the part of the syndicate to share in raising a coffee valorization loan.
Under the title, Port of Para, a company was organized some months ago, under the laws of Maine, to improve the port of Para. Still more recently another Maine corporation has been organized by the same interests to improve the port of Rio Grande de Sul, for which franchises were recently granted. William T. Van Brunt, president of the St. Joseph and Grand Island Railroad, and of the Hawaiian lines, is interested, along with the other capitalists, that entered into the Rio Grande de Sul undertaking.

THE RICH JOIN ARTISTS COLONY

Members of New York's "400"
Take Studios in McDougall's Alleys.

New York, July 29.—McDougall Alley, perhaps the most picturesque place in Manhattan, is being transformed into a studio colony. It has long been famous in the annals of the city, but now it has added another distinction to its name in acquiring for a resident one of the wealthiest and most talented members of the Four Hundred.
In McDougall Alley well-known artists have their studios. Their artistic eyes seized upon the little alley that runs half a block east from Fifth avenue, a proper place for their studios. When the scheme was suggested there was nothing in the alley but a lot of shabby old-fashioned ones that belonged to wealthy people who had lived in that neighborhood before the century of fashion moved on uptown.
The exteriors of these shabby houses were unaltered, but within, every convenience a sculptor or painter needs has been added. And of course, some simple luxuries.
Back from the main traveled roads, it is a peculiarly quiet and clean place for them to devote themselves to their art.
Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney is the new member of the colony. For studio purposes Mrs. Whitney has leased what is known as the Montgomery Stable, at No.
19 in the alley, and in these quarters the former Mrs. Gertrude Vanderbilt, wife of the well-known millionaire who inherited the late William C. Whitney's vast wealth and multifarious interests in the business, sporting and club worlds, will pursue her chosen profession, sculpture and designing.
After convincing her friends that the study of sculpture was with her something more than a passing fad, Mrs. Whitney began her first work of magnitude—the designing of the pillars of the Hotel Manhattan. Another testimonial to her skill is the decorations of the dining-room of the Belmont Hotel.

Encouraged by her more than ordinary success, Mrs. Whitney has elected to turn her thoughts seriously to her chosen profession, and with this in view has become a neighbor of such artists as Mr. Deming, Mr. Friebel, and those talented portralistes, Mrs. Bullard and Miss Sarah Katherine Eweeney.

No. 19 McDougall Alley, of course, will be in no suggestion of a stable. Workmen are remodeling the interior, making living rooms, where the young sculptor may entertain her friends, sleeping rooms and a great studio with northern light. It will be a cozy little home, but, of course, it will be strikingly different from the magnificent home on the avenue uptown.

The import of Brazil for the first nine months of 1906 were $111,554,780, against $101,218,333 for the same period in 1905. The exports for this year

My Lady Cinderella

By Mrs. G. N. Williamson

Author of "My Friend the Chauffeur," "Lady Betty Across the Water," Etc., Etc.

Again the elder man interrupted: "I feel bound to introduce myself, under the unpleasant aspersions which this lady has been misguidedly enough to— But a few words will make everything plain, I bear her no malice; she is only mistaken. Until half an hour ago we were strangers. She came here believing this to be Holland Park House. I was in the act of going out when I heard her inquiring for an acquaintance of mine living almost next door. Seeing that she was bitterly disappointed when I was able to inform her that the lady was away, and fancying her tired and ill, I determined to arrange that she should, after all, spend the night at my friend Mrs. Leatherby-Smith's house."

"My right hand being lame, I suggested that she should write a proposed letter to the housekeeper for my signature. She consented, but hardly had she sat down at the desk in my study when I saw that she was on the point of fainting. I hurried into the adjoining room for some eau de Cologne, which I sprinkled over her, unfortunately without avail. I then called the janitor, and requested him to procure a four-wheeled cab, intending to drive the lady to my physician's, not far off, as I had never seen a woman faint before, and dared not take the responsibility of restoring her. Fearing to be seen in a ridiculous position by some of the other tenants of this house, I hastily carried the lady, apparently still unconscious, out of doors into the shadow of the porch, to wait until the cab should arrive."

"The rest you know, and though I fall to comprehend why the young lady I tried to benefit should accuse me—as a would-be murderer, I suppose hysterical women are not responsible for their hallucinations."

"He drugged me!" I stammered weakly, in self-defense, astounded at the plausible manner in which he had turned the story. His version sounded so probable—mine so wildly impossible. "He pressed a handkerchief wet with chloroform over my face. I kept myself from breathing the fumes as I could, but I was dazed. Even now everything seems far away and strange."

"You dreamed it all," asserted Mr. Wynnstay. "Quite natural. I have no heard feelings toward you—though it is a little disconcerting when a man tries to do a kind action to be rewarded by such accusations. What motive could a staid old fellow like me have had, my dear madam, for attempting to drug you?"

"I don't know," I faltered. "Ah, I thought so. You will presently, I am sure, admit that you have done me a further injustice. Denby, you heard and saw everything that took place between this young lady and me. Perhaps you will kindly add your testimony to mine."

"Certainly, sir," promptly responded the janitor, pleased to be called upon as a witness. "It's all true what Mr. Wynnstay says. He was most kind to the young lady, whom he'd evidently never set eyes on before tonight. When she went into his study for the letter to be written the door was open, and Mr. Wynnstay particularly ast me to stop in the hall a few minutes till she should want to be shown out. I did stop, and I could easily have seen everything that went on in the study. It wasn't much about five minutes, I should think, before Mr. Wynnstay (one of our oldest tenants, I may say) called out to me that the lady'd fainted. I was scared, though not, when I came to think of it, surprised, for she was as white as a ghost, and shaky like, when I opened the front door for her; and I thought she'd ave dropped when I told her Mrs. Leatherby-Smith didn't live here. Mr. Wynnstay followed me out, and I'd just begun to whistle the four-wheeler when your hansom drove in."

"I've often heard my friends in the flat next mine speak of Mr. Wynnstay," remarked a new voice, which I had not heard before. "It was that of the other man, who had come in the cab with Sir George Seaforth. Sir George Seaforth! What association did that name call up? I asked myself. I could not remember; my head ached blindly, and I felt too ill for further mental effort. But I knew that this was the man who, near Lady Sophie de Grettton's house, had pulled me out from among the horses and set me safe on the pavement again. Today seemed full of coincidences; I was to learn that this meeting was not a coincidence. Rather, it was a direct result of an earlier incident."

The other man, who had testified last to the immaculate Mr. Wynnstay's integrity, I had never seen before. I felt no curiosity regarding him—only a slight sense of resentment that he should defend my enemy seemingly at my expense. Sir George Seaforth looked at me, and I met his eyes appealingly, fearful lest Mr. Wynnstay and his backer had alienated him from my cause. But there was no stern incredulity visible on the brown face, though I searched the semi-darkness to find it. The hansom had driven away now, the cabman paid (I indistinctly remembered seeing) by Sir George Seaforth's companion.

"You oughtn't to be standing out here in the rain," said Sir George Seaforth to me, without answering his friend. "Curiously, even in that moment, there was room in my mind for triumph that his first thought after all he had heard, was still of my welfare."

"You look awfully ill. What would you like to do? Will you go at once to your friend's house?"

"I can't go now," I answered. "They are away, now."

"But you can still have the introduction to the housekeeper I promised," benevolently interrupted Mr. Wynnstay. "As I said, I bear you no malice, poor child, for the illusion of a temporarily disordered brain. I'm certain that by this time you are ready to see common sense, and laugh at your former suspicions. Come, now, to prove you regret your injustice, better let me escort you to Mrs. Leatherby-Smith's. We won't trouble any further about the letter; and Holland Park House is only a few steps from here."

"No—no!" I ejaculated. "What? You don't mean to say that you still believe me a—er—a villain out of melodrama?" Mr. Wynnstay laughed jovially.

He was either a marvelous actor or else—he was right, and hunger, fatigue, and excitement had combined to make me dream things unspeakable. Was it, after all, possible that I had been on the point of fainting, without being aware of it?

A CHARMING LITTLE COAT AND BONNET FOR LINGERIE. STUFFS—4206, 4207.

Misses Fashion has been evolving some wonderful apparel for little folks of late and a most fetching coat and bonnet of linen, which deserve mention because of their simple attractiveness, are shown. The bonnet is in one-piece and finished with button-holing in a scallop. The slide and crown button together, while the tie strings are slipped through eyelets in front. The front and side edges roll back from the face in a most becoming manner. The coat is in sack style, and fastens only at the neck. A pretty design is embroidered along its edges, the round, deep collar being an effective addition. The sleeves are full and finished with turnback cuffs of the embroidery. Linen, pique or pongee might serve as material, of which 1-2 a yard of 27-inch material is needed for the bonnet in the medium size, and 1 yard 54 inches wide for the coat.

Two patterns—4206, sizes 1, 3, 5 years; 4207, sizes 1-2 to 6 years.

The price of these patterns is 20 cents, but either will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents.

How could I prove my story? I had been tired. I had been almost ready to faint. Sheer hunger had made my head feel as if it were filled with the fumes of new wine. It had been so before I looked into the mirror to see Mr. Wynnstay pouring something out of a bottle on to a handkerchief.

How could I be sure, and make others sure, that it had been chloroform? Maybe I had lost consciousness at once, and, as Mr. Wynnstay said, dreamed all the rest. I saw, or thought I saw, that Sir George Seaforth and his friend both thought that it was so.

I no longer found any resemblance between this prosaic, gray-whiskered middle-aged man and the picturesque old clergyman with the white hair and the eyes that did not match. Even if such a resemblance did exist—even if by an astonishing coincidence the two were one and the same—now could I possibly prove it now? Besides, the clergyman had done us no harm. He had come and gone on that sorrowful day, and been connected with its grief only through the chance that he had been traveling for a short distance in our company.

I realized that the ground was cut away from under my feet. Tomorrow (if I had eaten and slept, meanwhile) I might once again feel as certain of what I had seen in the mirror as I had felt at the time; but now I could plan nothing, do nothing. If my eyes had seen aright, then Mr. Wynnstay was too clever for me to cope with. If they had been deceived, it would be shameful to reiterate my accusations. I was very unhappy, utterly bewildered.

"I don't know exactly what to say," I exclaimed at last. "Only I would rather go alone to Mrs. Leatherby-Smith's. If I have misjudged you, I hope you will forgive me. But—I cannot forget what I thought. I can't trust myself with you alone, feeling as I do."

The man shrugged his elderly shoulders. Sir George Seaforth had led me up on the porch out of the rain, which was increasing, and it gave me a sense of protection to be near him. I feared at first lest he should fall me, and deliver me over to the enemy; but I was sure he would not do that now.

"Far be it from me to inflict myself upon you, if you can do without me, madam," returned Mr. Wynnstay. "You intimated that you had nowhere else to go; yet you seemed to think your reception by servants you did not know in Mrs. Leatherby-Smith's house was more than doubtful. If you have other resources, so much the better."

"I have no others—for the present," I stammered. "But—"

"In a way this lady and I are old acquaintances," broke in Sir George Seaforth impulsively, after a quick glance at my distressed face. "I had the privilege of doing her a very small service only this afternoon, so that perhaps she will allow me to make a suggestion. Mr. Wynnstay seems to have said that Mrs. Leatherby-Smith, living in this street, was away."

"Much in his favor; therefore it is only fair that he should be granted a chance of vindicating himself. Suppose, then, that we all three go with her to the door of this other house?"

He had addressed no one in particular, but had spoken to all. My eyes were on Mr. Wynnstay's face, and I thought that he looked disconcerted, a dull red flush slowly mounting to his forehead. But if I were so he soon ceased to show traces of his disturbance.

"Thank you, I said quickly. "I should be glad if you would go."

I did not stop to reflect that it might look strange to Mrs. Leatherby-Smith's servants for a young woman to arrive at 11 o'clock at night with a bodyguard of three men. I only remembered that I had to go somewhere, and soon; that, above all, I would go nowhere alone with Mr. Wynnstay.

"It's settled, then," Sir George Seaforth took me up. "I've an umbrella. Pick me about 6 o'clock this morning, by shooting himself with a rifle. The bullet, 22-caliber, entered over the heart, hit a rib and glanced, coming out three inches below the left side. Dr. Brodrecht was hastily summoned. It is expected the man will recover, if no complications set in. Despondency over love affairs is supposed to be the cause of his act."

CURIOSITY IS AROUSED.

A lot of curiosity has been excited lately by the new soap that has come into such general use, superseding the old-style makes. It is a pure castle laundry soap and is called the "Olive Oil" laundry soap. It lasts longer than the old soaps, it doesn't cost any more and it is a cleaner, more healthful soap. Ask for it at your grocer's. He has it, or he can get it for you.

Just how much he had really saved me from I did not know, but at least he had relieved my mind of an agonizing burden of fear, and for the second time in the day I was grateful to him. Now that my brain was less oppressed by the weight of bewilderment and dread, I remembered well enough where and when I had heard his name before. Indeed, it seemed strange that I had not instantly recollected.

The footman at Lady Sophie de Grettton's had announced Sir George Seaforth, and gratified his mistress by showing her visitor into the boudoir instead of bringing him into the drawing-room, where Anne and I had been sitting. Sir George could have made but a short call, for not ten minutes after we had left the house he had arrived in Hamilton Place, and had extricated me from my difficulty in the street.

As I looked back, the chain of events which connected us appeared to be linked together in a curious and complicated manner.

"It must seem very strange to you that I should be here," I said lamely, as we followed Mr. Wynnstay's bulky shoulders toward Holland Park House.

"Strange?" he echoed. "Not at all. Your friend gave this address in the cab today. I thought you lived here. That's the reason."

He stopped abruptly. "The reason for what?" I questioned.

"If I finished that sentence you would be vexed. I don't want to vex you."

"But I wouldn't be. I promise. You have been so kind."

To Be Continued.

TO HELP COBALT

"The Stuff Is There" Declare the American Touring Engineers.

Halleybury, July 29.—That within the next few months millions of English and American money will be sent in for the development of the Cobalt district mines was the assurance of mining engineers representing capitalists in those countries, at a monster mass meeting at the Halleybury Club on Friday. It was a great gathering of miners from the whole district, and enthusiasm ran riot.

For the touring Association of American Engineers, Prof. W. E. Kent, of Syracuse University, spoke. He said his colleague had summed up their investigations in the optimism that the half had never been told. "Money is going to come, and come quickly," he added.

"English capital will soon be falling over itself to get in here," were the words of Prof. E. H. Hodge, of London, England.

Prof. Edwin S. Hutchinson, of Newton, Pa., said the visitors had been "surprised and overwhelmed." M. Marcel Charleto, of Paris, France, spoke in broken English. "I came here dubious," he said, "but now we know you have the stuff."

Hon. Frank Cochrane was given a great reception.

"I believe now," said the minister, "that this has been the most important trip ever made in this country. More has been done for it than anything I could ever do. What particularly pleases is that these men mean what they say. They don't intend to boom stocks nor make statements to effect stocks. Stock manipulation is the greatest injury to honest mining enterprise. We have been hurt by over-capitalization before development or any reason for putting stock on the market."

"I know there are great and rich properties in this district, but let us all take example by these men and state only what we know and have seen. This is not only right and honest, but it is the wise thing if we have the future of the field at heart."

Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, who presided, announced that he intended to arrange if possible for the touring British journalists to visit the district.

Before the meeting broke up, at an early hour this morning, the National Anthems of the United States, France, Britain and Canada were sung.

THE RIPPER AGAIN

Recurrence of Outrages Puts the Berliners in a Panic.

Berlin, July 29.—The recurrence of a "Ripper" outrage has caused another wave of nervous fear and dread to break over the city. A woman, on opening the door of a flat, surprised a man in the act of striking down an 11-year-old girl. The woman screamed, and the man succeeded in getting away. This occurred in the neighborhood of the previous outrages. The residents of this section are in such a state of nervousness that they are upon and beat fearfully a harmless man because he had offered a child a piece of candy.

DESPONDENT OVER LOVE

Young Hollander at New Hamburg Turns Rifle on Himself.

New Hamburg, July 29.—Harry Bas, a young Hollander, employed in the Haham Bros. Works, here, attempted and failed about 6 o'clock this morning, by shooting himself with a rifle. The bullet, 22-caliber, entered over the heart, hit a rib and glanced, coming out three inches below the left side. Dr. Brodrecht was hastily summoned. It is expected the man will recover, if no complications set in. Despondency over love affairs is supposed to be the cause of his act.

LONDON AND DISTRICT

—The Hamilton Times says: It is probable that Rev. E. E. Shields, formerly of Kincardine, will succeed Rev.
T. J. Bennett as pastor of the Herkimer Baptist Church. He is spoken of by several members of the congregation, and it is the general impression that he will be given an invitation to remain here. Mr. Shields resigned his charge at Kincardine about six weeks ago, and has since been supplying the pulpit of the Herkimer Church. Although a young man, he has a pleasing pulpit manner, and his sermons appear to have made a favorable impression.
He is a brother of Rev. T. T. Shields, formerly pastor of the Wentworth Baptist Church, and now of London.
Mr. Bennett expects to leave tomorrow for the west, and will immediately begin his new duties in Calgary.

The Heath Baptist Church, to which he is going, although a new building, is in a growing and prosperous section of Calgary.

Death of Mrs. Smith.

Mrs. Isabelle Smith, wife of the late place from her late residence this afternoon at 4 o'clock to Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

Exhibition Drill.

band, Uniform No. 16, of the of the men.

The Late William Glass.

The remains of Mr. William Glass, who died here on Saturday will be taken to Orwell for interment. The deceased, who was 74 years of age, had of late been living with his daughter, Mrs. John Stokes. He was born in Devonshire, and came to this country 25 years ago. His wife predeceased him 22 years. He is survived by his daughter, Mrs. John Stokes, Orwell; Mrs. Thomas Hardy, and Miss Jessie Glass, of St. Thomas, and Mr. Edwin Glass, of Mayville, New York. The interment will take place today at Orwell.

BABY SHOW WILL BE THE FEATURE

Executive of I. B. S. Met Last Night—Two Bands Engaged for the Picnic.

The executive committee of the Irish Benevolent Society held a well-attended meeting in the city hall last night to further the arrangements for the big picnic, which is to be held at Port Stanley on Thursday, Aug. 8.

Every report presented was eminently satisfactory, and a record-breaking crowd at the popular outing is now assured if the weather is at all favorable.

Irishmen like plenty of music, and it was decided to secure the services of the splendid bands of the Seventh and Twenty-sixth Regiments. There will also be a string band to provide music for dancing.

Many valuable prizes will be offered for the baby show, and already there are many entries.

No creed, color or nationality is barred at the Irishmen's picnic. Come one, come all, say the Irishmen, and the more than come, the merrier will be the outing.

The committee in charge of the baby show is composed of Dr. John D.
Wilson, chairman, Capt. T. J. Murphy, Harry Merritt, Denis Mason and Dr.
A. V. Becker.

The judges have not as yet been decided upon, but it is rumored they will be bachelors.

New Prices for Meals.

Owing to the advance in prices of produce, the following restaurants find it necessary to raise the price of meals for ladies from 15c to 20c per meal, which will go into effect on Aug.
1, 1937: Joseph McLeod, F. G. Myers, King Edward and Leader.

Civic Holiday Outing.

Civic Holiday is the popular day for short outings, and single fare for round trip will be in effect via Grand Trunk Railway System from London, good going on evening trains Saturday,
Aug. 3, 4 and 5, returning Tuesday, Aug. 6. The best holiday for pleasure outing. Tickets and full information may be had by calling on Mr. E. De la agent.

Port Stanley Charges Investigated; Hill Was Found in Excellent ShapePere Marquette and City Officials Went Over the Place Yesterday.

The complaints that have been made against the condition of the grounds on the Fraser Heights, Port Stanley, and the manner in which the privileges have been conducted, were investigated yesterday at the invitation of Acting Superintendent Gilhula, of the Pere Marquette, City Engineer Graydon, and Mr. A. W. White, of the London and Port Stanley Railway Board, taking in the trip. Everything was found to be in very good condition.

Mr. Hugh M. Douglass, of the Fraser House, it is alleged, made the complaints. It is said he sent a letter to City Engineer Graydon, in which he declared that the grounds were in a disgraceful condition, that the roadway leading up the hill was very dangerous, having caused one serious runaway, and that the dance hall was closed up, and no one allowed in unless they paid the musicians in charge, and that in case of a rainstorm there was no shelter for visitors; that the steps up the hill were in need of repair, and that the swings were also dangerous. Other complaints had been made to the engineer's department about the station platform and other minor details.

The Trip of Inspection.

On arriving in Port Stanley, the party were met by Supt. Gilhula and Mr. Ferguson, of Ferguson & Bennett, lessees of a portion of the grounds.
The station platform was first examined.
It is a cinder platform, and it was thought an improvement over the old wooden platform that was there last year. It is on a level with the tracks, and is much safer when a large crowd must be handled. The train, can be unloaded rapidly, and loaded almost as quickly. The complaints declare that the platform was filthy and ill-kept.
It was raked and in good order yesterday.
No refuse was found on it.

Cement Platform.

However, on rainy days, ladies in summer finery have grounds for complaint, as it certainly would be somewhat dirty. But it would dry out very rapidly, and this complaint would not be lasting. Mr. Gilhula said that the Pere Marquette would raise the platform a few inches with a covering of cement, thus insuring safety and cleanliness. This platform can be put down at small expense, and will greatly improve the condition of the depot.
The work will be undertaken shortly, it was said.

When the party reached the top of the hill the grounds themselves were found in good condition, much cleaner than in years gone by. The heavy rain of a few days ago left a few water holes, but nothing in the nature of refuse was visible. The grass was not very long, and it presented a good appearance.

Swings Out of Repair.

The swings were not in good repair.
Two of them were dangerous, and are being repaired. Mr. Gilhula said that they would be finished before fore Thursday, and they will then be absolutely safe.

The steps leading up the hill were also out of repair, but a gang of workmen had been employed on them for some days, and had them practically completed. There was no need to complain about them.

The dance hall was the next spot visited, and it must be said for the musicians who have looked after it, that it is in the best condition that the visitors had ever seen it. The floor was waxed, and very clean, and there was absolutely no fault to be found with it.

No Charge for Dance Hall.
Mr. Ferguson, the lessee, explained that several musicians had taken charge of it, and were bound to keep it clean. Only those who wanted to dance were allowed on the floor. Five cents a couple for dancing was charged, this money going to pay them for furnishing the music, and keeping the place in repair. So far as could be learned, he said, large picnics that had brought their own music were given the hall free of charge. The musicians were willing, however, to give the hall free of charge to everybody. This was agreed to, and henceforth there will be no charge made for it. But it was to be distinctly understood that it was to be used for dance hall only. Other years visitors used to spread their tables in the hall, and dancers were kept out. Then it was impossible to keep the hall clean. As a result the place was a disgrace, and not fit for dancing or anything else. This year it will be reserved for dancing, and will be free to all dancers. On rainy days it will be thrown open to everybody for shelter, as has always been the case.

The roadway leading to the Heights is in bad condition. It is a dangerous road at any time, but it is more so now. There are several pitch-holes, and the center is pounded into a ditch that carries the water down and wears away the roadbed.
Drains should be put in alongside, and it should be heavily graded.

City Engineer Graydon and Mr. Ferguson both agreed that the road was built in the wrong place, and that if it were constructed a little further north from entering the grounds at the gate on the hill, it would be less dangerous and more easily maintained. Mr. Gilhula was impressed with these suggestions, and they will probably be acted on. He had no interest in this hill are in good condition.

Mr. Douglass was seen, but he denied making the complaints about the dance hall and the steps. He acknowledged complaint about the roadway, as a couple of guests of his, both ladies, had been thrown out on the hill, and one of them was seriously injured. He was of the opinion that the accident was caused by a pitch-hole in the road, and that a suit for damages would result from the accident. He said he repaired the hill himself for several years, but of late had declined to do so, as the grounds had passed out of his hands.

Mr. Ferguson promises great things for next year. He and his partner, Mr. Bennett, will build a large strip of beach, and have erected many new cottages this year.
They are seized with the fact that as a business proposition Port Stanley offers unequaled opportunities. A large pavilion and shed will be erected on the beach for the accommodation of visitors, and other improvements made. This is their first year on the hill, and they have done their work very well.

Superintendent Gilhula of the Pere Marquette has a man employed about the grounds all the time, making necessary repairs, and the force will be increased if need requires it. The company, Mr.
Gilhula said, are making and will continue to make many improvements in Port Stanley.

Last night's meeting of the First line. About a hundred members enjoyed the trip, greatly appreciating the programme which had been prepared by the committee.

Great printing works are established at Nartang, in Tibet. A traveler says: "There are thousands and thousands of blocks at Nartang, comprising matter in type equivalent to numerous different volumes. Each wooden block is about 24 inches long by 12 inches wide, one face having carved upon it a complete page of lettering. The method
