TEACHERS WILL NOT DICTATE HER'S POLITICS

Teachers of London Schools Begin Annual Convention

SAY TEACHERS' DUTY IS TO MEN OF FUTURE

Rev. A. A. Bice Urges Institute Members To Maintain High Ideals.

ELECT PRESIDENT

Miss S. Lawrence Becomes Head of London Body For Coming Year.

Miss S. Lawrence, Wharncliffe road, was this afternoon elected president of the London Teachers' Institute for the coming year, in succession to J. F. Calvert, M.A. The election was held at the Central Collegiate auditorium, where the institute is holding its annual meeting.

The other officers elected were: John R. Littleproud, vice-president; Miss E. A. Knott, secretary-treasurer; Chief Inspector V. K. Greer, inspector; G. A. Wheable, Separate Schools Inspector; Miss L. Dunn, Miss Alice Kelso and Miss L. Dunn, executive; Miss McDowell, librarian; G. N. Edwards and H. B. Galpin, auditors.

Following the election of officers an address on physical training was given by Lieut.-Col. George H. Gillespie, district cadet officer. Col. Gillespie emphasized the need of proper physical training in the schools in order that students might retain good health, conducive to study, and that they might be properly developed when the time came for them to take their place in the world.

"The Wonderful Heavens" was the subject of a most interesting address given by Prof. H. R. Kingston of Western University. He made the story of the universe actually live, and held the attention of his large audience riveted on him until he had finished.

Attendance Large.
Nearly every teacher in the city of both public and separate schools was present, and the large room was practically filled.

Rev. A. A. Bice, former member of the board of education, opened the evening with prayer, followed by a scripture reading. He then spoke briefly on "The Privilege of Teaching and Guiding the Young." He mentioned the difference between past and present methods, and stated that teaching was more than a privilege—it was an honor. The teaching of the younger generations was of paramount importance. He urged all the teachers to always give their best to their duty and the future citizens would reflect credit on them.

After reminiscing for a short time, Mr. Calvert turned to the characteristics of the successful teacher. "The teacher is engaged in a noble task," he continued, "but it is also a difficult one, and it seems to be growing increasingly so. Three institutions—home, school and church—are engaged in taking the precious ore in Canada and beating it into shape in the form of good citizens."

Asks Home Co-operation.
"If the home did its work perfectly teaching would be heaven, but too often the school is expected to do what should be done at home. There must be co-operation between these two spheres between teacher and parent. There are four marks of a successful teacher. First, he must be able to get down to the level of the pupil. He or she must be filled with patience and consideration for those who find the path of knowledge hard to climb. Sometimes brilliant students make poor teachers, and vice versa.

"Secondly, the successful teacher must be thoroughly saturated with his subject. He must have confidence in it. He would inspire confidence in it. He must have clearly before him the ideas which he wishes to impart, and besides his own subject, must know the related subjects. Observation, reading, talking, attending educational meetings, summer school, all tend to impart in the world to get into a rut.

"Then the successful teacher must be enthusiastic. Enthusiasm must be spread. To keep enthusiastic the teacher must keep working, studying. Turn to page 10, col. 2.

Use Airplane To Get Permits

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, Nov. 8.—The respect which some sportsmen have for the provisions of the Ontario game and fisheries act was very well illustrated recently when two of a party of sportsmen which had gone out hunting in Algonquin Park district found themselves without licenses, and flew to Ottawa in an aeroplane to get the necessary permits. The names of the two sportsmen who made the air trip were not announced.

HOME BANK MONEY NOW TO CLIENTS IN STRAITS

Depositors in Financial Need Can Secure 25 Per Cent Dividend at Once.

OTHERS WILL WAIT

General 25 Per Cent Dividend Payable Before Christmas, Welcome Announcement.

Hard pressed depositors of the Home Bank in London can secure a dividend of 25 per cent immediately, it was announced today.

This offer is not made to all saving holders. Only those who can demonstrate that they are suffering from financial hardship will be given the 25 per cent payment. Others will have to wait until December.

The London Home Bank Depositors' Association made arrangements this morning to pay all members likely to suffer from financial hardship through the delay in making the 25 per cent dividend general. They will make out papers certifying to the amounts they hold in the Home Bank and these will be forwarded to Toronto. The accounts will then be transferred to a local bank and the first installment paid the beginning of next week.

Definite information received from the local executive this morning was to the effect that all depositors would get a 25 per cent dividend before the second week of December. Negotiations through which this was accomplished are being continued. Turn to page 10, col. 1.

Two of the Lovely Children

LOVELY CHILDREN FROM SARNIA AND LONDON.

Is one of these the Loveliest Child in the Western Counties for whom The Advertiser is searching? They are among the photographs of the last few days, and both are lovely. The little girl on the left is Vivian Mae Crim, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Crim, Vidal street, Sarnia. She is five years old. On the right is George Linton Harris, four-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Harris, 421 Dundas street, London.

IS $1,425,000 BONA FIDE L.S.R. OFFER?

Civic Official Asks If Sir Adam Jumped to Conclusions.

ATTACKS REVERSAL

Ald. Drake Raps Changed Attitude Among Former Proponents of Purchase.

Did Sir Adam Beck have assurance from the street railway authorities that the citizens could have the road for $1,425,000?

This is the question asked today by one civic legislator who has given it very close consideration, both before and after the negotiations between the company and the member for London. He prefers to remain in cognito for the present, but will enlarge his views at the appointed time.

Did the company deliver a bona fide offer to Sir Adam—"you can have the road for $1,425,000—or did the member for London jump to conclusions?"

Here is what actually happened at Toronto, in effect, according to a report to The Advertiser today: Sir Adam and his engineers had placed a value of about $1,100,000 upon the lines. The company recalled that upon a previous occasion Sir Adam's engineers had valued the road at about $1,237,000.

How Company Reached Price.
It must be acknowledged, the company added, that certain improvements have been made since, to the extent of say $300,000. This would bring the value to about $1,537,000. But the city's representative then pointed out, according to the report, that the depreciation of rolling stock Turn to page 2, column 7.

LONDON ARTIST PAINTS THE "LOVELIEST CHILD"

J. P. Hunt Accepts Portrait Commission From The Advertiser.

PAINTED LAURIER

Search For Loveliest Child Will End On December 12.

A portrait of the Loveliest Child in the western counties will be painted by J. P. Hunt, distinguished London artist.

Mr. Hunt has accepted this commission from The Advertiser and sittings will be arranged to suit the convenience of artist and child immediately after the judges have made their selections in December.

The Advertiser's search for the Loveliest Child in the twelve counties will end on December 12. On that date all photographs will be submitted to the judges and the four loveliest children will be chosen. All the lovely children will be personally invited to The Advertiser's mysterious Christmas party a few days later, when proper honors will be rendered and when, it is hoped, a portrait of the Loveliest Child will be formally presented to the city of London, at the request of Mayor Wenige.

J. P. Hunt is an artist whose ability is known across the continent. Mr. Hunt is one of the old school of artists who worked in the studio of W. L. Judson during the time of the famous Paul Peel. He was commissioned to paint a portrait of the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and a number of his portraits of mayors of London now hang in the city hall. Dr. F. G. Bantling, discoverer of insulin, recently purchased Mr. Hunt's "Sugar-Making."

Mr. Hunt for years has been a regular exhibitor at the Montreal Arts Society, the Royal Canadian Academy and the Buffalo Arts Society. The portrait which he will paint for The Advertiser will be a creditable and appropriate record of the loveliness of Western Ontario's children.

TAX STREET RAILWAY ON VALUATION OF $345,850

Company's Appeal For Total Exemption Will Be Heard in Court Saturday.

CARS TAX FREE

Rails, Taxed at $10,000 Per Mile by Civic Assessor, Cut to $7,500 by Court.

The city assessment department has a taxable valuation upon the London Street Railway of $345,850, roughly, according to Commissioner Bennett.

The commissioner points out that this assessment does not include the company's rolling stock or rails, poles and wires upon its own property.

This sum, including business tax, represents the value placed upon rails, switches, sub-structures, buildings and land within the city limits only, and does not include tracks and property in Broughdale, north of Huron street, or on the Springbank line west of the city.

The assessment does not permit the taxation of rails, poles, wires, etc., on the street railway's property or its rolling stock.

The company's assessed value is divided as follows:
Property in Ward One valued by the city at$ 3,220
Property in Ward Two..... 300
Property in Ward Three, of- fices and land 14,000
Property in Ward Three car barns 27,000
Rails, poles, wires, etc., in city 278,000
Business assessment, roughly 13,000
Other property 300

Total$345,850
The company seeks total exemption from taxes, and its appeal in county court has been postponed until Saturday morning.

For many years past the city has assessed the company for poles, rails, etc., at $5,000 per car mile, straight track and switches. Commissioner Bennett promptly elevated this to $10,000 per mile. This was reduced to $7,500 by the court of revision. Mr. Bennett also ruled that curves and special track work should be assessed $15,000 per mile. This was reduced by the court of revision to $10,000 per mile. Now the company seeks total exemption, the commissioner explains.

The city today pays those architects who won the prizes for submitting the best plans for a new city hall, as well as the judges. This expenditure, more than $5,000, will be charged against the city hall account. The money is, of course, available. The checks are ready this afternoon.

The proposed form of elective police commission has been incorporated in the mayor's pre-election platform, he stated today. He Teetered His Way Into Restaurant Kitchen With Remains From Party Bun Waiter, Objecting, Calls the Police, Who Answered On the Run.

JUDGE SAYS "NO"

"You Can't Do So," and Makes Him Pay For His Fun.

A young man made the mistake of choosing the well-lighted downtown streets to make his way home from a party at 2:30 this morning, and his progress was of such a zig-zag nature that he attracted first the attention of Constable Knight and later of Constable Spell of the local force when the latter was called by the waiter of an all-night restaurant of take charge of the teetering individual, who was staging a rumpus in the kitchen. Ten dollars and cost was the penalty meted out by the magistrate.

"I'd been to a party and was on my way home. I had a drink. I'll admit, but I wasn't drunk. I went into a cafe, and two constables followed me in and arrested me," declared the party guest.
Constable Spell told of being called to the restaurant by a waiter and finding the young man in the kitchen, who was a prominent figure at the convention of the Western Ontario Women's Institutes, which concludes its session today.

CAN'T MAKE HEIR VOTE TORY RULES HIGH COURT

Peculiar Case Tried by Hon. Mr. Justice Wright at Court House.

WON'T CUT OFF BOY

Grandfather Willled Conveyance Be Blocked Until Boy Joined His Party.

Just because a man does not become affiliated with a political party mentioned by his ancestors in a will he is not disinherited, even if such provision is made in the will. Hon. Mr. Justice Wright has ruled in a supreme court case heard in Middlesex County.

The late John Landers of Stanley Township, Huron County, in his last will and testament, inserted this clause:

"I further direct that my said executors and trustees shall not make conveyance of my lands mentioned to my grandson, John Osborne, unless and until he shall pronounce himself to be and shall be (as is my desire) an adherent of the Liberal-Conservative party."

In his judgment on a motion for construction of the will, Mr. Justice Wright rules in regard to this clause: "It is to be noted there is no declaration in the will that the grandson failing to comply with this direction, I am of the opinion that this condition is void as being against public policy, and as repugnant to the estate in fee, which has already been devised to the grandson. The doctrine as to conditions in testamentary wills apply to render this condition void." The case came up in the weekly high court at London Saturday, Oct. 20.

Move for Construction.
On that date the motion for the construction of the will was heard. T. J. Murphy, K.C., acted for the executors, R. J. Gladman for John Osborne, R. Vanston of Wingham for Eliza J. Osborne, and R. C. Hays of Goderich for realty legatees.

In his judgment, received today at the courthouse, the trial judge declares the grandson gets the farm, subject to the charge in favor of the mother; the grandson gets the accumulated rents, and the residue is to be divided according to clause 4 of the will.

The will provided Eliza Jane Osborne, daughter of deceased and widow of John Osborne, was to be paid $1,000 absolutely and $50 annually (or such sum as the executors believed she required) out of the rents of the farm.

Bars Nephew's Heirs.
Clause 4 of the will states: "To pay to my said daughter, Eliza Jane Osborne, the income from the renting of my said farm lands during her lifetime should my said grandson die before reaching 21 years of age, and upon the death of my said daughter or my said grandson, whichever shall last happen, to sell my farm aforesaid and the proceeds from said sale, together with all the rest and residue of my estate to divide equally among my grandchildren and descendants of such, or, in the event of failure of grandchildren or their heirs, to divide such residue equally among my brothers and sisters and their heirs, except heirs of my nephew, George Langstaff."

The conveyance to the grandson was not to be made if he was of loose and improvident habits. If he was loose and improvident, it was not to be made until he reformed. As the trustees and executors found his habits good, the conveyance was ordered by the judge.

MAX LERNER ENTERS RACE IN WARD THREE

Was Member of Council in 1915 and Now Will Attempt To Stage a Comeback.

Max Lerner, Ward Three, notified The Advertiser today that he will be an aldermanic nominee in that district. He was member of the council in 1915. "I have definitely decided to enter the race," Mr. Lerner stated. "My friends have been urging me for several days past to make this decision."

Ex-Alderman Lerner advocates changes in connection with the undertaking of public works, urging a return to the former system of paying for local improvements out of the general tax rate.

The card bears the date 1896, and Mr. Rowe stated that he well remembered the year, as he was then a student.

Cronyn Memorial Church
Scene of Pretty Wedding

Miss Lorna Dean, Daughter of Col. and Mrs. E. C. Dean, Marries James R. Curry of St. John, N. B.

Cronyn Memorial Church was the scene of a charming wedding this afternoon when Lorna, daughter of Col. E. C. Dean and Mrs. Dean, was married to James R. Curry of St. John, N. B., son of Dr. and Mrs. M. A. Curry of Halifax. Rev. Quintin Warner performed the ceremony.

The church was decorated with white chrysanthemums, palms and ferns, with clusters of mums marking the guest pews. Promptly at 3 o'clock the pretty young bride entered the church with her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore an exquisite gown of ivory brocade satin, with long side panels caught at the girle with orange blossoms. The court train of silver cloth, lined with pink, fell from the shoulders. Here it was held with pearl ornaments. Her veil of tulle was becomingly arranged with orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of Sweetheart roses. Silver shoes completed her cost.

Miss Helen Holmes of Toronto, a cousin of the groom, acted as bridesmaid, and wore a graceful frock of turquoise blue georgette, with touches of silver, and a wide-brimmed hat of the same shade, faced with silver. She wore silver shoes and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses. Mr. Herbert Dean, brother of the bride, was best man, and Mr. Tom Murphy acted as usher. The wedding music was played by Mr. Clarence Gilmore.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents, on Wellington street north, followed the ceremony. The rooms were arranged with white mums, ferns and palms, and a buffet supper was served from a table adorned with white roses.

Mrs. Dean, who received with the bride and groom, wore a gown of black crepe with touches of red, and a corsage of Richmond roses. Her hat was of gray, and she wore gray shoes. Dr. and Mrs. Curry of Halifax also received with Col. and Mrs. Dean. Mrs. Curry wore a gray georgette gown with Egyptian brocade trimmings, and a smart black hat with gold hat.

Mr. and Mrs. Curry left early in the evening on a honeymoon which will be spent in the United States, before going on to their home in St. John. The bride traveled in a dark brown velvet suit, with a sable fur, and brown shoes and a becoming brown and gold hat.

Among the guests from out of town were: Dr. and Mrs. M. A. Curry, of St. John, N. B.; Mrs. H. R. Puddington, of St. John; Miss Lora Reynier, of Boston; Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Holmes, Toronto; Miss Florence Puddington, Toronto; Mrs. John H. Thomson, Toronto; Jack Nash, Toronto; Miss Winifred Tobin, Toronto; Miss Marjorie Tobin, Woodstock, and Mrs. A. P. Lomas, Montreal.

THE REAL SITUATION
REGARDING CHURCH UNION

To All Presbyterians:

Do not be deceived by misleading statements to the effect that Church Union is settled—for it is not finally and rightly settled and cannot be, until settled by the people who constitute the Church.

The general assembly is not the Presbyterian Church. It is a court of the Church, constituted for the continuance and maintenance of the Church only.

The Church has been refused the right to consider the question, or to vote upon the proposed legislation. The last vote was taken in 1915 and showed an increase of 23,000 against Union and an increase of only 600 for Union. The bills have never been submitted to the people for their judgment. Union leaders are afraid to submit the whole question to the people today. These bills are coercive and unjust. They ignore the votes of 73,735 members of the Church and the votes of hundreds of congregations recorded against Union. They violate the pledges given by the General Assembly in 1905 regarding the necessity of practical unanimity and in 1916 regarding the rights of those opposed.

These bills must be opposed in the interest of justice and liberty. Do not be lulled into inaction by statements that the consummation of Union will make no change in your congregation.

DO YOU KNOW?

that under Church Union congregations are deprived of the right of calling their ministers as under the Presbyterian system. The right of appointment rests with the Settlement Committee, which has full power in the matter. This is one of a number of important changes which would be put into effect under present plans for Church Union. Do you want to retain the right to call your minister?

Members of the Presbyterian Church: It is necessary for you to act at once if you want the present Church to continue. Organize and demand the right to consider and decide your own church relations.

WOMEN and THE HOME

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

Shall She Follow the Style and Be a Flapper, or Please Her Best Beau and Be Old-Fashioned?—The Neglected Wife. The Husband With the Grouch Habit.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a college girl of nineteen. My set indulges in painting, rolled stockings, sleeveless dresses and bobbed hair. Mother being very up-to-date herself, approves of such things, but even though I dress that way my disposition and ways are quite different from the rest of the girls. Now for my difficulty:

I am in love with a young man who simply adores me. He is refined, intelligent and old-fashioned. He scorns drinking and smoking, and disapproves very much of present fashions, and of my painting and rolled stockings. Do you think he is right, and should I do as he says, or try to convince him that I must follow the example of mother and the girls?

A DESPONDENT JUNIOR.

Answer:

Why not compromise and strike a happy medium between the flapper and the old-fashioned girl? To be in the fashion one need not be extreme, and there is a wide difference in using a little make-up, thereby giving nature a helping hand and being painted like a jester. Also, there are plenty of girls who keep up with the cent covering over their arms.

If you are, as you say, a thoughtful, dignified girl, you will be much improved in appearance by exchanging your mother's style of dress for your sweetheart's, because the giddy style of glad rags and conduct do not belong to you. They do not express you.

A clever woman studies her character quite as much as she does her complexion and figure, and dresses to her type. The rolled stockings and the pot of paint are for little Miss Flippety. So are the fluffy ruffles. So is the jumping around, and the giggling, and the screaming. The dignified girl needs dignified clothes, just as she needs a quiet, dignified conduct. Nature intended her to look like a goddess, not like a French doll.

Don't do things because other girls do them. Don't dress like other girls. Try to be as different as possible if you want to attract attention, and stick to your type. Don't be a copy cat.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I have been married three years, and if it were not for my adorable sixteen-months-old baby I would say I had had enough of it, and quit. My husband thinks I am merely a household article, and only need airing semi-annually. His excuse for never taking me anywhere is the baby. However, it does not keep him in.

I was always accustomed to good times before I was married. Now I cease to be interesting. My husband tells me to go once in a while and he will mind the baby, but where? I would like to go out with him occasionally. My first years were very weepy, for this is not my home town, and therefore I don't know many people. My second year I tried the care-free, laughing remedy in vain. And now I am getting back to that awful blue time again. I just have to bite my lips till they hurt to keep the tears back. What am I to do?

DESPERATION.

Answer:

Back your husband into a corner, poor little wife, and make him listen to you while you tell him that a sixteen-months-old baby is no more real society for you than it is for him, and that you will go crazy unless you can have a reasonable amount of diversion. Find some reliable person who will stay with the baby at night while you and your husband go to the theatre, or out to dinner, or do some other amusing thing.

Perhaps the reason that he doesn't take you out is just because he does not realize that the woman who stays at home all day, and goes through the grinding monotony of housework, needs a change, and something to chirp her up and take her out of herself more than any other human being on earth.

There are lots of men who think that just being married to them is picnic enough for any woman, and that she need not want anything more exciting than just to sit up and watch for their return. Disabuse your husband's mind of this, and if he won't take you out, go out alone. Get some fun.

But for heaven's sake, quit crying. There is no quicker way to kill a man's love than to drown it in tears. Before marriage, when a woman weeps, a man puts his arms around her, and invites her to cry on his breast. After marriage he tells her not to be a fool, and beats it away from her. So turn off the water works, and cheer up, and make yourself so attractive that your husband will want to be seen out with you.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Will you please tell me what can be done with a man who gets a grouch over almost nothing? When he gets angry he goes around for days without speaking, and often stays out late at night, and he tells me if I don't like it he will leave. What is the wife of such a man to do?

Answer:

The only way to deal with a grouch is to beat him at his own game. Be groucher than he is. Don't try to pacify him, or to get him in a good humor, but ignore the fact that he is a prize gloom around the house.

There is nothing in grouchiness if nobody pays any attention to you, or if you are regarded as a human joke. When your grouchy husband goes out at night, go out yourself, and stay later than he does, and when he threatens to leave, offer to pack his bag.

A grouch is nothing but a big, cowardly bluff. Call it, and he will collapse like a bubble.

Danny Feasts Again Upon the Food
Of the Great Man-Bird

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Danny Meadow Mouse crouched in the farthest corner of a little cupboard in the great man-bird, which, as you and I know, was an aeroplane. His ears were filled with a terrible noise, a noise more terrible than any he had ever heard in all his life. It was worse than the worst thunder he had ever heard, because there was no end to it. So Danny crouched in the corner of that little cupboard and was sure that the Great World was coming to an end.

But nothing happened and after a while Danny began to get used to that terrible noise. "Noise can't hurt me," he decided at last. "Noise can't hurt me. I'll peep out and see if that man is in my way. If he isn't I'll get out of here and back home as fast as my legs can take me." So Danny peeped out around the edge of the little door, which was

Eats Like He Plays

The jolly old gentleman eats like he works and plays—with an appetite and gusto that are the envy of many a man in the early forties. Always ready for the next meal, he comes to the table with "that Kruschen feeling." Turkey, pea-soup or rice pudding, it's all the same, for Grandpa's never known a day of indigestion.

Don't envy the old boy his appetite, his health or untiring vigor—but get his daily habit—the daily dimful of Kruschen Salts. Grandpa acquired it years ago and has always kept it up. Every morning into his breakfast cup of coffee or tea, he tips a little pinch of Kruschen Salts—only as much as will lie on a dime. He never tastes it, but he surely tastes all of his other foods the better for his little habit, and tastes too of other joys of life that are lost to many men at half his age.

Grandpa knows nothing of biliousness, headaches, depression, constipation or any of the scores of little ills that make life a burden to so many people. Nor need you. The little daily dimful of Kruschen removes the cause of them all—the cause that is to be found in an impure blood stream and a sluggish internal system. Get the Kruschen habit of cleanliness and health—eat what you like and like what you eat.

WHY YOUR DOCTOR ADVISES
YOU TO TAKE A GOOD TONIC
AT THIS TIME OF THE YEAR!

There are lots of people who seldom really feel their best at this time of the year. Consequently they cannot do their best or feel their best.

FACE THESE FACTS! Build yourself up! Let Dr. Thacher's do for you what his vegetable tonic has done for countless numbers of men and women. Increase your appetite and improve your liver, get rid of constipation and send purer, healthier blood coursing through your veins. This will nourish your body and give you greater strength, energy and vigor to keep you feeling fine this winter.

TRY THIS TONIC! Take a whole-some tablespoonful after the next few meals. Notice the quick difference in the way you eat, sleep and feel! The cost is small and your druggist will refund your money without question unless you are completely satisfied. Buy this and get Dr. Thacher's from B. A. Associated Press Despatch. Jersey, Nov. 7.—Jersey Islanders have rejected a recommendation made by a special committee which has under consideration the question of the Channel Islands contributing to the British exchequer. The committee recommended a total contribution to the imperial exchequer of £250,000.

The recommendation has been discussed at parish meetings in Jersey, and in every instance it has been rejected.

SQUIREL WHISKEY MADE MEN TELL STRANGE TALE

Canadian Press Despatch. Hamilton, Nov. 7.—"I've been shot by Ryan," cried an elderly man who rushed into the police station shortly after 11 o'clock tonight. His face was streaming from a wound in the side of his head, and he was hurriedly questioned by detectives. He said Ryan had been at his homestead on Wilson street, a fight started, and added that the bandit flashed his revolver and shot him, but the bullet only grazed the skin. The police automobile rushed three detectives to the house, and the man accompanied them. Investigation showed that it was only a drunken brawl. The name of the man was not divulged by the police, nor could the address be learned. The detectives attributed the strange story to "squirrel" whiskey. The injuries sustained in the fight are not serious.

Nucleus of Fast O.B.A. Team Could Be Put On Floor With Few Days of Round-Up Work Believed Some of Old Vets Would Turn Out If Needed During Season.

There is plenty of material for an O. B. A. senior or intermediate team in the city, providing the basketball committee gets down to work, and gets the players out under a competent coach. A month of hard training and a few exhibition games would send even average material into the season with an even chance to arrive somewhere. A work-out will likely be called for the first of next week.

Jerry Goodman, Art Gillies, Frank Shaw, Harold Gillies, Jackson, Balkwell and other of the former Elk players, and the latter of the former team, are a nucleus for a start at training. There are a number of other players who could be induced to get back into the game if their help were needed.

The L. and D. basketball program is beginning to clear up. There were two entries in the intermediate and junior divisions, and there threatens to be plenty of competition in the juvenile, "C" and "B" divisions.

Teams to be entered are: Asklin Motors, Central C. I. and C. A. Arrows are juvenile certainties.

The out-of-town groups have not shown much activity so far, but it is expected that the L. and D. will show expansion this year.

CITY NET CLUB PLANS 6 MORE COURTS IN 1924

Meet Saturday To Elect Officers and Will Discuss Outdoor Rink.

A meeting of the directors of the London Tennis Club is to be held next Wednesday evening, when the question of raising sufficient funds for the building of an additional four courts and two cement courts will be discussed. The suggestion from many of the members of the club that a skating rink be made on the club property for the use of club members during the winter time will be gone into at the meeting. It has been pointed out to the directors that a skating rink in the north end of the city is needed. The president, said this morning that it was likely the directors would do something to keep the junior members together during the winter months, and the idea of making a rink on the club property at Sydenham street seemed to him to be quite reasonable.

It is expected a shareholders' meeting will be held at the first of the new year, when officers and directors for the year 1924 will be elected.

MISKE K. O.'S BRENNAN TO START FOURTH ROUND

Dempsey's Ex-Punching Bag Was in Poor Shape For Bout.

Associated Press Despatch. Omaha, Neb., Nov. 7.—Billy Miske of St. Paul knocked out Dempsey's ex-punching bag in the fourth round of their ten-round bout here tonight. It was the first fight either man had participated in for several months.

Brennan did not appear to be in condition. The fighting was all at close range, and both Brennan and Miske hooked with rights to the head.

After being warned by Referee Shaw at the end of the second round, to display more action, Brennan rushed his opponent, and fell into a clinch. Miske hooked him with a right jab to the jaw, and Brennan went down as the going sounded.

The fourth round was brief. Brennan, still dazed, walked to the center of the ring, where he was met with a right to the jaw, and was counted out.

The weights were announced as: Brennan 206, Miske 185.

Brain Muddled He Helps Foe

Students of Wooster College, Ohio, had a good story of Willie Flattery, star tackle of the Wooster football squad, who during a scrimmage in an Ohio Conference game at Cincinnati last Saturday landed on his head, receiving an injury which temporarily muddled his mind.

When the teams lined up for the next play Quarterback Swigart, of Wooster, called the signals and Flattery announced loud enough for all players on both teams to hear, "That play goes through here—and so it did. As they lined up again the signals were given. Flattery called out, 'That goes around the other end!'" Swigart, hearing him, checked and called another play.

"I know that one, too," the big tackle announced; "it goes around the other end."

Time was called and Flattery was led to the side lines until the effects of the bump wore off, when he went back into the line-up and played a great game.

HAMILTON PLAYS HERE TOMORROW

London Collegians Ready For Coach Cornelius' Squad's Invasion.

Hamilton C. I. team will be here tomorrow to meet London Central's squad in the first of what is being established as annual clashes between the two rivals. Last year they played home-and-home games, the twin providing in their tilt here one of the best games of the season. Young McKelvey's run in the dark over the London touch line was one of the best bits of rugby pulled off here last season and gave a big bunch of fans a real thrill as well as a eyestrain trying to follow the play in the gloom.

London Collegiate primed themselves up for the tilt by making the trip to Ingersoll Wednesday. The long lay-off since they were put out by St. Thomas, it was shown, hadn't done the squad any great harm. Good. Fortunately the Ingersoll game brought that point out, and the Collegians put lots of determination into a final drill before they tackle Coach Cornelius' crew.

The latter is a firm believer in these annual rugby clashes, regardless of the showing either of the teams make in their respective groups. However, rivalry engendered between the Hamilton C. I. and London on the club path does not need much force behind it to be carried over into rugby.

Officials have not yet been named for the game.

BRANTFORD RESENT O.B.A.A. SUSPENSION, MAY REBEL

Special to The Advertiser.

Brantford, Nov. 7.—The fate of senior baseball in Brantford is still under the action of the O. B. A. A. in suspending the Brantford club from the Lake Shore League after the season was over will not tend to add to the prestige of the O. B. A. A. here. The charge laid by the Burlington team and some of the officials of the Lake Shore League over the non-attendance of the Brantford representatives at a meeting of the league has all the appearance of being laid for revenge.

The O. B. A. A. in their attitude hesitate to lift the suspension for fear of losing the Burlington team to the T. B. A. A., but Brantford is not too far away to join the Toronto association, and unless the O. B. A. A. change their attitude, Brantford will be missing next year.

A public meeting in the interest of baseball will be held here when it is hoped the matter can be settled amicably.

6,000 SEATS SOLD FOR ARGO-TIGER STRUGGLE

Canadian Press Despatch.

Hamilton, Nov. 7.—The Tigers are making strenuous efforts to provide seats for all those who want to see the Argos-Tigers clash for the Big Four championship next Saturday. Up until last night they had sold 5,000 seats. Today 1,200 more were put on sale, and the club will be able to open on Saturday.

The club will erect more seats, which will go on sale tomorrow.

They have not been notified officially of the appointment of Tex Rickard as referee for the fight between McCann, Ottawa, and J. B. O'Brien, Montreal, as officials, but will be well satisfied if they are named.

Almost the same lineup seemed in the games with Ottawa and Montreal will be used next Saturday.

Husky Reid, a former wing man, is practicing this week, and will be given a chance on the back division, but there will be few changes.

WOODSTOCK TEAM LOSES ANOTHER STAR ATHLETE

Special to The Advertiser.

Woodstock, Nov. 7.—The local Southern Ontario League Club has lost another of its star performers with the departure today for Indianapolis of Jack Ray who, for the past three seasons has been a tower of strength on the local team.

Ray was one of the best outfielders in the S. O. B. L. and besides he was a very handy man in the box. He had the distinction of being the only slapper in the league to administer a defeat to the champion St. Thomas team on their own lot in a league game the past season. He was also a handy man on the infield and a fair batter, and with Harold Lynch, who left recently for St. Thomas, will be missed when the Pirates line up for next spring. It was whispered around today that Ray might return to St. Thomas and line up with Nethercott's crew next season.

JOHNNY TO START BUSY PROGRAM

Eleven bouts in ten weeks is the busy program outlined for Johnny Dundee, world's featherweight champion, by his manager, James J. Johnston.

The series, which begins at Frontenac, Kas., Nov. 14, when Dundee meets Jimmy Benning, will take the champion through the middle west and south Atlantic states, and will end in Portland, Oregon, Jan. 27.

In addition to Benning, Dundee's list of opponents includes Joey Fox, Harry Mendelsohn, Joey Sanger, Joe Gorman, Bobby Harper, and other less formidable boxers.

Down the Line In All Sports

A general meeting of girl basketballers of all leagues in the city will likely be held next week. So many different leagues with so many different aims are not developing the game as it may be and will be developed in London. Such a meeting would produce not only harmony from a clearer understanding of each others aims, but should provide something in the way of a united effort.

If British soccer enthusiasts wish to see what progress their beloved dribbling code is making among the Canadian-born, they should turn out at Thames Park Saturday at 2:30 to see London South Collegiate and Windsor C. I. battle in a soccer play-off. It would be a good way for said enthusiasts to give the Collegiate soccer men some encouragement.

The Garrison A. A. will make a bid for the Ontario indoor track championships in the spring. If the Garrison lands this prize, it will be a real achievement and will bring London into the spotlight in the indoor track meets this year, and the Ontario championships would top off the bill most fittingly. The armories may be displaced by the London arena as the scene of these meets.

The market for heavyweight cauliflowerers has been boomed to some extent by the victory of Private Jack Renault, ex-member of the Canadian Northwest Mounted, over Floyd Johnson. After watching many of his battles subsiding into a horizontal position, the Hon. Leo Polonius Renault at last finds himself managing what would pass in some circles for a "logical contender." A "logical contender" is a pugilist who is about to be hit on the chin by the champion for a consideration, and the consideration is now fairly substantial.

The career of the Hon. Leo Polonius Renault is a demonstration of the axiom that patience eventually gathers the moss or something of the sort. Certainly Mr. Renault has been patient. He has sat at the ringside for years watching his fighters drop the resin from their thighs. Mr. Renault never flinched, no matter how hard his fighters were slugged.

Mr. Renault, in fact, was the first manager to say: "Go on in. He can't hurt us." He used the saying so frequently that this hair-ruff has become one of the epigrams of the cauliflower industry. "As far as I am concerned," said Mr. Renault frequently, "not one of those punches even ruffled my hair. I never felt one of them."

FORM NET CLUB TO BUY JOLUNG TENNIS COURTS

The Jolung tennis courts, East London, owned by Messrs. Jolliffe and Young, will be the nucleus for the formation of a new East London tennis club, which will be under way during the next few weeks.

An enthusiastic meeting of tennis players was held at the Y. M. C. A. last evening, when a proposal was made to the present holders, and a committee appointed to confer with them regarding the purchase. A meeting will be held at a later date, when a definite offer will be presented.

ROCHESTER BUYS TWO.

High Point, N. C., Nov. 7.—W. C. "Red" Irby, center fielder on the High Point Club of the Piedmont League, and Gus Thompson, catcher, have been sold to the Rochester International League Club, conditional upon their not being included in the major league draft.

Outside the description of the Garden of Eden, nothing was to compare with the Elysian Fields of Hoboken, N. J., the scene of the first real baseball games. The few old timers who remember the Knickerbockers will recall when twenty-one runs constituted a game; whether they were made in three, four or nine innings didn't matter. They used to go to the Elysian Fields, with its undulating greens to see the Washingtons of Yorkville, fresh from their own camping ground near the old Red House.

There was also the Fashion Race Course on Long Island where, in 1868, the "exorbitant admission of 50 cents" was charged, and where there assembled "nearly 2,000 people to watch picked players from the New York and Brooklyn clubs."

It was a healthy venture for the Flushing Railroad, and it helped to advertise baseball considerably.

As a general rule, baseball grounds have been sold to the Rochester International League Club, conditional upon their not being included in the major league draft.

The Murray Hill grounds in New York, north of Thirty-fourth street and Fourth avenue, was the meeting place for the boys of the 40's, who were busy with one-two-and-three-old-rod. They had won Madison Garden is located, by the oncoming of railroad interests, but they were happy in their new location and their game.

There were many other places in those days for the playing of baseball, but as professionalism crept in the game lost some of its rustic freedom. We present a print of a game on the diamond, showing the catcher at a safe distance from the batsman, had to catch them "raw," remember, and ease off in every way. This old drawing was made at the Elysian Fields.

De La Salle Team Play Saturday

Take On Fast St. Thomas C. I. Seconds in Return.

De La Salle rugby squad which was beaten 11-1 at St. Thomas some time ago play a return game with the Railroad City Collegiate Seconds at Sunshine Park Saturday afternoon, which will probably draw a big crowd.

The De La Salle squad is fast, and under able coaching plays a brand of football far beyond what the individual ages and weight of the players would seem to warrant.

Associated Press Despatch. St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 7.—Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, announced today arrangements were made for a bout between Mickey Walker, welterweight champion, and himself. SPORT SNAPSHOTS

The defeat of Jack Thompson, the Boston Senegambian, at the hands of Harry Wills, the pseudo-stevedore, will be a sad blow to the manager of Thompson, Mr. Solly Harris, of Shelby, Chicago, Havana and Mexico City. The cronies connected with the management of Thompson were a mere nothing, consequently, no matter how little he earned, all was velvet.

While Mr. Harris was sojourning at Shelby, Mont., occupying the only room on the road, having worked his way as far as Chicago as an extra porter, then taking to the basement of a baggage car for the remainder of the journey.

Immediately upon Thompson's arrival it was discovered that there would be no lucrative employment for him, owing to a failure of the promoter's bankroll. Mr. Thompson received the sad tidings with considerable philosophy.

"All right, boss," said Thompson cheerfully, "I start back to Boston tonight. No, I don't think I'll wait around the Dempsey-Gibbons fight. From the looks of things the odds out of this place will be crowded the night after the fight, and when I am riding underneath I don't crave mixed company."

For the benefit of those who are not familiar with traveling conditions, the rods are brake-beam connections which accommodate persons touring the country informally.

ETROLIANS OUT TO BEAT LOCALS IN MONDAY GAME

Are in Good Shape—But Poor Weather Hampers Work-Outs.

C. I. TEAM IS STRONG

Special to The Advertiser.

Petrolia, Nov. 7.—A steady down-pour of rain made rugby practice impossible here this afternoon, and both intermediate and high school teams were idle.

The local high squad were disappointed by the weather conditions, as they were counting on having a good workout today. However, they are all ready for the Woodstock College game on Friday. The team has no casualties, and appears to be in excellent condition.

The final series is creating a great deal of interest amongst the local fans, and all are pulling for the high to cop off the championship.

The intermediates, under the coaching of C. A. Hale, are expected to trounce the London intermediates here Thanksgiving Day. The local fans are looking forward to a Thanksgiving rugby feast, and a record crowd will likely attend the game, if weather conditions are favorable.

No word has yet been received regarding the protest of the local club against the Sarnia team. It is certainly clear that the locals have fine grounds for a protest, and it's the feeling of the fans that they will win it. If it turns out as such, the play-off will have to be staged in London, and the Hard-Ols are confident that they can beat the Sarnia squad. This will yet give London a chance at the district title.

The London intermediates have a strong aggregation, and on their showing in Sarnia, they appear to be the strongest team of the district.

The high school rugby team will leave here on Friday morning at 10 a.m., and will arrive in Woodstock at 1:10 p.m. It is understood that a neutral referee will handle the game, with the visiting team furnishing the umpire.

SUE MIKE M'TIGUE FOR $50,000 SLANDER CLAIM

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, Nov. 7.—Counsel for Joe Jacobs, former manager of Mottig, announced today that papers would be served tomorrow on the light-heavyweight champion in a suit by Jacobs to recover $50,000 for slander. The action, it was said, grew out of a statement Mottig gave to a local paper, in which the champion asserted he had never put his signature to a contract, but had signed a blank piece of paper, which Jacobs filed in. The fighter's former manager is bringing the suit to clear the attack on his character, the attorney stated, as he contends Mottig has charged him with fraud and deceit.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1923.

Get Some Action.

The much-talked-of moving picture scene has been made, or attempted, in the National Park at Wainwright, Alberta.

If the performance was only half as bad as the reports make it appear, it was a disgraceful episode of blundering stupidity and cruel incompetence.

Buffaloes that were quite tame were chased past rifle pits, where crack shots were prepared to mow them down. When it was all over thirty were dead, and they included calves and cows.

Public feeling was all against any such exhibition right from the start. It was expressed by newspapers and organizations all over the Dominion. The idea of killing off buffalo to make a show to the liking of Hollywood producers did not appeal to Canadians at all, and they said so.

Unfortunately there still remain those who have no regard for public feeling, sense or reason, and so these persons have allowed the staging of the slaughter in order that it might be made into moving picture reels, and the possibility is that the world will see it as part of "Life in the Canadian West."

The government should take quick steps now to "round up" the officials responsible for the whole business. They should then fire them as quickly as the word can be spoken. If there are too many buffalo in that park, and there is no other place for them, let the weeding out process be done as humanely as possible.

Turning the park into a glorified and roaring slaughter house for the camera men is an open insult to the good sense of the country.

Just One Treasurer.

The board of education considered the matter of having the secretary-treasurer position for the board, in place of the secretary as at present with the treasury work done by the city treasurer.

The trustees very wisely took no action, but will probably consider the matter again.

The trend of municipal practice is toward centralizing control of finances as much as possible, and London is well abreast of the times in this.

The Britain report took occasion to remark on the extent to which civic finances were centralized in the treasurer's department.

To depart from that would be a mistake. It is better that some departments suffer a little inconvenience than that we should start a system that would put the financing of the city in three or four places.

Must Dig Deeper.

The investigation into affairs at Kingston penitentiary is tapering off toward small stuff, and it might be well to pull down the blinds and pay off the hands.

Much of the evidence now has to do with what some person heard some person else say.

Others told that word was sent to them that officials were out to "get" them.

The whole trend of the evidence is such as to show that something more severe than a trifling, gossipy inquiry in the police court is necessary.

Where Compassion Starts.

Premier King was waited on in London by a deputation of Grand Trunk shareholders, who asked for a compassionate allowance from the government because they had received no interest on their investment.

The premier pointed out that the company in which they had placed their money had been saved from going under the auctioneer's hammer by the action of the government in taking it over. It was a bankrupt concern in every sense of the word.

He also stated that the Canadian people had put up millions to pay deficits, and were more entitled to compassion than any others. When the road pays, British stockholders will get their due, but not before.

Premier King has done much to straighten out a situation that had been deliberately misrepresented, and to correctly and fearlessly place before London exactly what the government had done and is now doing.

Co-operation is Needed.

Those who were certain Britain and United States were going to have trouble over rum shipments are probably mistaken, for these matters have been agreed upon to the mutual satisfaction of the countries concerned.

Washington will now have a deputation at Ottawa to discuss ways and means for dealing with smugglers along the boundary. It is not an easy matter, for there is a long boundary, and people have become accustomed to crossing it with little ceremony.

It is good business for these two governments to come together to match wits with the rum runners, for they certainly work hand in glove on both sides of the line.

Paying the Bills.

Why is it so easy for councils in cities to take to the debtors' plan of paying their larger bills, while many of the county councils try to adhere to the plan of paying cash at once and wiping the transaction off?

County or township councils have not yet to any great extent developed the idea—or the disease—of packing the payment of their bills on to the people of generations to come. It is to be hoped that they will always be able to retain such a firm grip on the situation that they will not be stampeded into any such action.

It is better to be regarded as being a little slow and old-fashioned in the matter of expenditure than to mortgage the future too heavily for a present desire.

The county of Middlesex gives its "debentures outstanding" as $408,360. That is not a large issue. The city of London gives as its total debenture issue $9,222,222. A portion of this is assessed against private property, leaving the general debenture issue at $5,919,127, but citizens will have to pay the whole nine million, even if a portion is charged to certain properties.

County taxes are not nearly as high as city taxes, nor should they be. Taxes represent, or are supposed to, the service the ratepayer gets through the community. In the city much is required, and much must be paid for.

The figures for road building show that the people in the county are in for a larger levy. Last year the county's road expense was $120,214. A few days ago a bill was sent for $97,000 as the county of Middlesex share of provincial roads. A neighboring county not long ago undertook to pay its road bill in one year and by so doing had a tax of about $3 per acre, which was almost ruinous. A mill on the tax rate in Middlesex is about $40,000. The $97,000 would add almost another 2½ mills to the present rate, which could not be handled in one year with farm receipts at their present standard.

As showing the way in which some of the councils have kept away from debentures, it is interesting to take the case of London Township, which, by the way, will have to bear one-seventh of that $97,000 road bill. London Township cut its expense a half-mill, but the county called for a two-mill increase, so the rate went to 15 mills instead of 13½ the year before. Nine mills of the 15 goes to the county. The only general debenture issued in years in London Township was $4,000 for its share of the purchase price of the Proof Line road. The only other debentures issued are for certain school areas and drains, and these are local issues of small amounts. London Township may have to depart from its strict pay-as-you-go plan in order to readily absorb the provincial highway bill. It will be about $14,000. A mill in London Township yields $6,000, so it is not likely that 2½ mills extra would be clapped on in one year.

These added road bills coming in large amounts will have the tendency of forcing county and township councils to resort to debenture issues. It is not necessary to add that they will be cleaned off as soon as possible for rural financing still retains a dislike for debt, and it is a very safe and desirable feeling. Cities would be better off if they had more of the same feeling.

Note and Comment.

"Where is the world going?" asks one alarmist. Hereabouts quite a bit of it is rushing to the cities.

A neighboring city has named a new street King boulevard. Tories who do not like the name can detour.

We'll have a good time yet this year, with Thanksgiving, a civic election and Christmas before 1923 is brought to a close.

A Windsor jury, sitting on a murder trial, took two hours to go and visit the scene of the crime. That looks like a common sense way to proceed. It clarifies the situation much more than the mere production of maps and charts.

To the Editor

NEW CITY HALL IDEA.

Why Not Buy the Dominion Loan and Savings Building, Use Necessary Space for City Offices and Rent the Rest?

Editor of The Advertiser:
Sir—I have watched the growth of the city of London for a good many years, and right now it seems to me there is a chance for the municipality to do a good stroke of business.

We need a new city building. There is no question about that, because the present place is not suitable for any such purpose. There is a block for sale right now that would make a great site, and that is the Dominion Loan and Savings Building, at the corner of Richmond and King street.

There is not a better location in London, and there are several places in it that would require very little fixing up to make a good council chamber.

Then, too, there are a number of offices in the place, all of them rented, and in this way the city would have a building that would bring in enough revenue to carry the place, and perhaps a little more, too.

What is there against such a move? We have enough money in sight now to go ahead and take possession, but we must move quickly, as I understand the building is to be sold in a short time. It looks to me like a real good chance for the city of London to get a fine office building and one that would pay its way, or even more.

WHY CLOSE THE SCHOOLS?

Mother Thinks There Should Be Plenty of Time in Summer For the Holding of All Needed Conventions. Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir—Why should it be necessary to have the schools closed now for two days in order that the teachers should have a convention? I understand that the local regulations have nothing to do with it, but that it is part of the program handed down by the department at Toronto.

Teachers have several months off in the summer time, and if they find it necessary to hold a convention it should be done then when there is time. I know for a fact that many of the teachers themselves do not believe there is value in the annual convention idea, and that they dislike having this break in the school term.

EVERGREENS.
And the boughs thereof were like cedars of God.—Psalms lxxxv, 10.
Most of the trees of Palestine, the oak, the terebinth and the syca-more, the fig, the mulberry and the almond tree, are deciduous. But one, and that the noblest of them all, is an evergreen. The cedar of Lebanon stands loftily upon the mountain, fearing neither height of precipice nor depth of snow, stretching out broad boughs as if to welcome all beneath its layers of unflinching shade.

When you have seen one of these trees upon its royal throne, you know that the baobab must when he said of the prospering vine of Israel that its boughs were like the cedars of God.

There is something divinely majestic about the great evergreens. A forest filled with their pillared trunks has the air of a temple. I know a grove of silver pines at the Sidney Lanier camp in Maine the lightest murmur of whose whispering leaves invites to worship.

Amid the brighter foliage of summer the evergreens look sombre and monotonous, but their cool aisles are a shelter from the burning heat. And in the bare winter they offer an unchanging retreat.

Not of the cedars of Lebanon only would I chant the praise. Knowing the lofty forests of the west, I would sing psalms of the Douglas fir trees and the yellow pines of God.

war, made use of the following translation of the immortal words of Pericles, spoken in praise of the fallen heroes of Athens in their great war for liberty:

"But each one man, man has, man's imperishable praise, can be gained at a grave—not that sepulchre of earth wherein they lie, but the living tomb of everlasting remembrance wherein the glorious deeds of heroes, monuments may rise and tablets be set up to them in their own land, but on far-off shores there is an abiding memorial that no power of time can efface, not on stone or brass, but on the living heart of humanity."

Take these men for your examples. Like them, remember that property can be only for the free, that freedom is the sure possession of these alone who have courage to defend it.

It will interest all Canadians who believe in the power for good which springs from a unity of thoughts and ideals of the English-speaking people to know that at the Armistice celebration on the 11th of November, both his excellency the governor of Virginia and Dr. Charles, the distinguished president of the College of William and Mary at Williamsburg, Va., with which Canada has many associations, will read from the Canadian publication thereof, this excerpt from the oration of Pericles in honor of the fallen heroes of the great war, and it will further interest your readers to know that these words have been further immortalized as a tribute to our heroes by being published twice in Virginia—the Virginia Law Register and in Tyler's Quarterly, the leading historical journal of the Southern States.

The "United Empire," the organ of the Royal Colonial Institute says that this tribute should be read on the 11th of November in every part of the empire. I trust that we may go further, and that everywhere the English language is spoken this tribute may be read annually on the 11th of November as a permanent memorial to our glorious comrades who fell that we might be free. Yours faithfully, A. E. KIRKPATRICK.

THE RUHR SITUATION.
Sapping the Energy of Two Great Nations and Neither One is Benefiting—Both Have Received Surprises. Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir—I read with some interest your reference to the address of Mr. N. W. Rowell while in this city. I agree with the stand he takes, and think the British ideals followed in the Ruhr have been well up to the best traditions of the world.

I have read an interesting letter from Prof. Lichtenberger of the University of Paris, in which he says that the Ruhr situation is a situation of the kind that strikes me as being worth while passing on to you. In one part he says: "The only way out, and a very thorny one, is through mutual conciliation, for victory on either side can only make matters worse. The French see in the French only ferocious creditors, animated by rage for senseless destruction; the French hold the Germans to be morally bad debtors who, rather than pay up, have exposed both nations to total bankruptcy. The Germans perceive themselves that the opponents try to ruin them; the French that their antagonists hope to deceive them. The French are surprised with the severity and confidence shown in the French attack on the Ruhr. The French are surprised at the efficiency and permanence of the passive resistance; they had counted that the Ruhr was the 'juggler's' hand, and that it would be as simple as that. The French Government has behind it an immense majority. But a powerful minority, made up of Democrats, 'Christian Socialists' and other Socialists, are thoroughly hostile to this line of action."

"The German valuation of their national property and that of the French are very far apart. The Germans felt their own total governmental exhaustion. The French continued to think of the supposed total wealth of Germany and of the future prosperity which it would attain through defrauding its creditors."

"The war of the Ruhr was a calamity. If one computes what it has cost Europe it is difficult not to be revolted at the absurd waste of wealth, of force, of energy which it has involved."

It strikes me that in a few words Prof. Lichtenberger has summed up the whole situation. It is disastrous to all of Europe, and through Europe to all the world that the present situation should continue to exist. It would be a wonderful thing if France and Germany could be brought together rather than driven apart.

DENNY BROOKS A STORY OF COURAGE By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER XII.
The purest and sweetest fibers of our nature are often those that make the noose to hang our spirit.

Had Violet Borley been created coarse grained, destitute of fancy as her sister Lizzie, she would have gone doggedly from the dingy, ill-smelling kitchen of her father to an equally stale abode of her husband. Her days would have been stirred by yearning, untroubled by remorse; lacking the imagination to step either up or down—a contented clod.

But into the fabric of her being were woven fine sensitive threads. She glimpsed her vision of beauty, became one of those impelled to seek to strive.

What if some must fail? What if they must see these holy strands defiled? There is a magnificence, a tragedy, a hope for the race, though a tragic one, in all these "might have beens."

Clyde Dunstan symbolized for Violet the noble—the men, gentle and strong, of romance. What she missed was poignantly felt in her father, the butcher and the bricklayer, she thought to find in him.

There was something reckless in her nature, or perhaps only the young impulse to seize the little happiness that came her way. Despite her father's rough warning, she went soon returned to the street kitchen. The fated happened.

Denny, coming home sometimes in the afternoon, would see her, flushed, high spirited, wearing some pretty lace collar, some gay pink bow, talking intimately to this clerk, dark fellow with his insolent charm, his soft, almost feminine brown eyes.

Sometimes he listened to Violet's talk, laughing inwardly at her, but outwardly he was kind. For she brought out all her fictions for Clyde Dunstan's consumption. For him she was the Violet of her dreams.

"Oh, yes, mother's people were quite wealthy," this was one of them, "but, of course, when she married father, they went out without a cent. It made it hard for her."

Even Matt came in for a glowing sketch or two. "I think I'm a child. Mother says it's because he's really so fond of me that he gives me no liberty. I suppose he does love me, but it made the shocking disillusion all the more piercing in its gross brutality."

As Denny came home one noon, a scuffling, a fury of angry voices reached him. He saw Violet, a great dish of mashed potatoes heaped in a snowy tureen, recoll, laughter, freezing in her throat. Matt Borley hunched over her, his fist shaking.

"What did I tell you? Damn chippy! Thought I was gone, eh? Beat it you cheap devil!" Violet's face blazed in an agony of shame, but she tried valiantly to save her dignity before Clyde Dunstan.

"Don't father me! Get in! I'll fix you!" He was cuffed right and left; the triumphant dish of mashed potatoes went flying to the street. Dunstan stepped back.

Violet ran into the house, crying, rocking her arms. Denny followed. "Aw, sweet Vee!" he said, "what a listless she was inensate with grief, talked wildly."

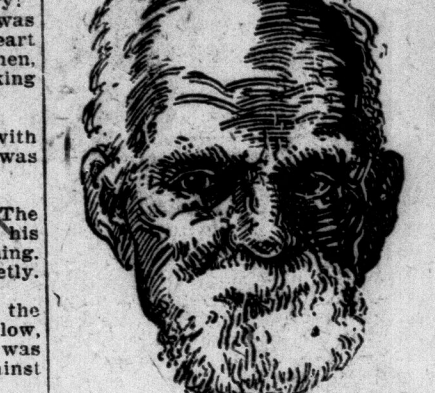

"God—don't this frightful! I could kiss myself. Oh, God!" "Gee, Violet, don't feel like this!" All the pity in Denny's nature rose to her need. "Aw, listen—she's drunk. Clyde, won't care. If all blow over, say, Vee—don't cry."

She was past comfort. The peak of injury and humiliation was reached. That night Violet was not home for dinner. At midnight she had not come in. Hours later Denny woke up, frightened, imagining he heard sobbing outside his window. The kitchen clock was striking three. He got up, shaking, and again that muffled sound. Then he felt the cord tied to his wrist. Three o'clock. Violet had not returned.

He listened, sickness turning him. It was a sob—then a voice—Violet's. "Clyde, oh, Clyde!"

DR. THOMAS' ECLECTIC OIL

"Matt! For Gawd's sake stop! You'll have the neighbors in! Gawd, save us from noise!" He flung her against the wall. Lizzie was in the room. "Papal! Oh, mamma!" she cried in terror. Matt started for the hall, but Denny had already reached and barricaded Violet's door.

The light was burning, clothes strewn over the floor, the table littered, all the bureau drawers emptied.

"Vee! Vee!" Then he saw Katy sitting on the edge of the bed, wild-eyed with fear. "Gone, Denny! She's gone! Violet's gone!"

"Where, Katy? Where is she?" Katy buried her head in her arms and cried.

STILLMAN FILES ETTER OF WIFE AS 'CONFESSION'

Torrid Epistle, Which Mrs. Stillman Denies, Offered in Divorce Appeal.

WAS UNHAPPY

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, Nov. 8.—Mrs. Anne U. Stillman denies the whole contents of the so-called "confession letter" which James A. Stillman submitted to the appellate division of the supreme court in Brooklyn yesterday as the basis of an appeal from Justice Morschauser's recent decision refusing him a divorce.

The letter which is full of mistakes in punctuation and spelling, is not signed. It was barred as "illegible evidence" by the referee in the case during the hearings last year. Its introduction by Mr. Stillman's lawyers in his appeal now makes it a court exhibit and its contents public property.

The letter purports to be from Mrs. Stillman shortly before the birth of her baby Guy. It is dated from the Hotel Inglewood at Buffalo and is addressed "Dear Jimmie." It begins:

"You have had such a bad time in your life, have stood through so like a gentleman, that I hate to hurt you. First, you and I are not the same in our make-ups. Dr. Russell says to me: 'You don't stand fretting well. You are like a high-mettled horse. You could endure till you dropped—carry double the weight.' That's it. There are some things that break us and they don't break you. And now the good news.

"His Dear Blind Eyes." "It does not matter what life did to us, or whether you were to me just what I hoped you would be, or that you could make me fit in, I loved you; not what you did or didn't do made much difference except in the pain of beautiful days lost, of things I saw that you could not see with your very dear blind eyes. But I loved you."

The documents then recount what purports to be Mrs. Stillman's unhappiness in her married life, saying: "I saw I must go alone as best I could and give and make the children what I thought they should be. But lack of money, petty cares, the little discomforts were me thinner year by year, not outside but inside, beat down my courage and took away from me." It declares the writer wanted to be just to everyone and could not put the blame for her unhappiness upon anyone.

"I am not smashed, but if you loved all your family and were going to have an Indian baby that you tried not to hate; that there was not a spot for you with honor or peace; that you were ill and tired; that a dear little man with whiskers tells you that the world is a good place, and that the hard, blind people are to be pitied, for they know nothing of what they miss."

Her "Indian," "I have tried to understand even the servants and forgive if the right spirit was there. I won't write you of what the cold and Canada were to me. Fred meant to be kind, but he had won me and I was his, and no one else wanted me, and he is much Indian."

"No captive was won by fight long ago but did feel the whip upon their ears. He begged me to marry him, but you see I love you, and I wanted to get away. I wanted peace and rest, and when I told him I was sick he was worried, and now he is heart-broken."

After several paragraphs dealing with the philosophy of life of "Dr. Russell," and telling of alleged conversations with the doctor as to being "an outcast," the document continues:

"I didn't tell you last winter what I suffered. I was too proud. I didn't care for you to come out and read your papers. I didn't want you to see me suffer. I was too proud to break, but I broke just the same in the arms of my Indian."

"I was so cold, so lonely, and that broke him; he was honorable, but I broke him, and all his dreams, and that is so cruel that when you break all those that love you tumble with me."

"Dr. Russell is broken. He loves me, and he knew Fred to be honest. I have been through a lot more than I think some could stand, for I have learned all the terrible things, looked into them."

The letter then concludes: "Lots of love. Just remember that—don't be hard on anyone. Lots of people will want to do you, but out of them all may be some whom you can help—some poor devil. Please remember—don't be hard on all the others. You have so much, you and Anne. Don't get hard and forget the others who haven't your luck."

arrangement was made were not divulged, the local executive apparently being obligated to secrecy for the time being. The Advertiser was informed, however, it could announce that a dividend would be forthcoming before Christmas.

"Plans have been made to pay the first dividend in December," a member of the association said. "We are not allowed to say more than that."

He added that citizens desiring immediate payment should make out papers and get in touch with Joseph Dambra, president of the Home Bank Depositors' Association; Frank Thompson, treasurer; or Dr. Macdon, secretary.

WINDSOR TORIES ASK EARLY VOTE ON REFERENDUM

Windsor Member Favors Early Vote On the Liquor Question.

'WETS' GETTING BUSY

Special to The Advertiser.
Windsor, Nov. 7.—A referendum on the question of government control of liquor will be taken in June of next year, members of the local Conservative committee said tonight.

Frank W. Wilson, member of the Legislature for Windsor, favors an early vote. The success of the "wets" in Alberta may hasten government action, the local Tories asserted. The statement of Attorney-General Nickle that the government is willing to heed the demands of "a substantial group for reconsideration of the liquor question" is taken here as an announcement that the largely signed petition which will be presented by the league for moderation will be given favorable consideration by the cabinet.

The local branch of the league has been active for some time. Lists recently gotten out for the municipal elections are being checked by the "wet" advocates and ward organizations have been perfected, indicating that some inside information has been forthcoming regarding the government's attitude with respect to a referendum.

SAYS TEACHERS' DUTY IS TO MEN OF FUTURE

become as a running brook and not a stagnant pool. "Lastly the teacher must be willing to keep himself in the background. He must not seek popularity and he must not expect too much gratitude or appreciation from the pupils. This is a discouraging aspect of the profession. We work hard and get little thanks. We get our reward in seeing the results of having done our work well."

Challenge to Teacher.
"The teaching profession is a challenge to the teacher," he concluded, "a challenge to be true at all times, for then only can we do work which, after the consuming fires of time have done their part, will stand out as pure gold."

After Mr. Calvert's address, a nominating committee composed of F. W. Althouse, H. B. Beal, T. S. H. Graham, Miss Branton and Miss Morgan was appointed to bring in a slate of officers for next year.

The meeting then divided into sections. In the elementary school department, Inspector V. K. Greer gave an outline of the teaching of geography. He was followed by Inspector G. A. Wheable, with a general talk on teaching.

"How to Overcome Lateness" was the subject of a brief address by T. A. Willis, assistant principal of Wortley Road School. Mr. Willis recalled his own experiences as a teacher dealing with the question of tardiness. He made many suggestions as to how it was possible to inculcate the idea of punctuality in the children.

F. J. Newhouse followed with a talk on the activities of the teachers' council.

The secondary school department met in the library, with H. B. Beal, principal of the Technical School in the chair.

Urges Reading.
The opening address was given by J. G. McEachern, B.A., his subject being "The Teaching of History." He dealt with the difficulties experienced in making history interesting to the pupils. He also emphasized the necessity of the teachers keeping abreast of the subject with extensive reading, etc.

A general discussion on the subject followed, opened by Principal O'Neill, of the London East Collegiate. Several teachers took part, each expressing his ideas and arguments. Mr. O'Neill stated that a history examination should rather be a test of knowledge and understanding than a search for facts. An effort must be made to put life into the dry bones of history, he said.

"The Atmosphere for Teaching Latin" was the subject of an address by Dean Glenwood Fox, of Western University. Stating that Latin was a dry subject, very few people caring for it, he compared Latin with "Bringing Up Father," in a sarcastic manner. Latin, however, can be made to appear a subject of surprising interest. Latin literature has all the qualities, divisions and characteristics of modern literature.

Real Knowledge Needed.
"The proper atmosphere is the sum total of the influences of the subject surrounding the class," he said. "The teacher must be able to convince the student that he knows Latin; must have real knowledge of it. He should read a little new Latin every day. Many other suggestions were made, after which the meeting adjourned till the afternoon."

Dr. E. T. White, Normal School, addressed the primary and kindergarten section on "Primary Arithmetic," stating that in the primary department the mechanical side of the subject was studied, rather than the application which followed in other years. The subject must be treated so as to suit the mind of the child.

The address was followed by a general discussion by the teachers, each expressing her own views. Two discussions featured the meeting of the senior grades section. One on the value of supervised sports was led by Dr. J. F. Bryant and Mr. M. Garrett. Many valuable ideas were introduced, while all taking part in the discussion laid stress on the value of proper supervision of all sports.

The second discussion, led by T. A. Willis, concerned history text books. This also was entered into by a large number of the teachers.

SUPPORT ALLIANCE ASKING PROPER USE OF CANADIAN FLAG

Local Veterans and R. C. R.
Officers Urge Respect For National Emblem.

ISSUES PAMPHLETS

Officers of the Royal Canadian Regiment, stationed at Wolseley Barracks, and members of the local branch of the G. W. V. A. have concurred with the Dominion Veterans' Alliance in its effort to make generally known throughout Canada the proper use of the British flag. At a session of the Dominion council of the alliance yesterday in Ottawa, delegates cited various instances of the misuse of the flag, one of the delegates saying it was a common thing for people to use the flag as a tablecloth. Another reported that it was frequently flown upside down.

A flag for which men have lost their lives should not be used as a tablecloth, said Colonel Lawless this morning. "The Union Jack should be treated with the greatest respect, and I feel sure few Canadian people would misuse our ensign in such a manner."

Col. Coles, formerly president of the local branch of the G. W. V. A., could not understand people professing to be Canadians displaying such ignorance as using the flag for a table cover.

It is pretty well known to the educated so-called Canadians to the proper use of our ensign," said the colonel. "If it is true that there are such people, I agree that the Veterans' Alliance should do everything possible to place before the public the correct use of the Union Jack."

Col. George H. Gillespie, district cadet officer, M. D. No. 1, has been carrying on a campaign for some time among cadets and boy scouts as to what the flag stands for and the proper way to fly it.

"I have sent out to all cadet corps a few rules regarding the flag," Col. Gillespie said this morning. "I would venture to say that 75 per cent of the people have the idea that the red ensign is the official Canadian flag. It really has no status at all."

According to an official communication received recently from Downing street, the Union Jack is the national flag of Canada as of all other parts of his majesty's dominions. The red ensign, with the arms of the Dominion of Canada in the fly, is intended to be used only by Canadian merchant vessels. Due to recent discussions such as that at the Veterans' Alliance yesterday, I have taken it upon myself to send out to all cadet corps in my district a pamphlet telling of the history of the flag, the proper way to fly it, and the way to honor it. The Union Jack should not be used to cover anything. It should not be used for decorative purposes and should not hang below a person sitting."

"My experience in London has been that generally citizens understand the correct use of the flag, and I have seen few mistakes made when London streets are decorated."

"Here is two flags that no foe can subdue. The old Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes, too. Let these emblems of liberty never miscarry. And their flags intertwine and their folks intermarry."

"As to John and to Samuel, true friendship is vital. The consultation took place at the earnest request of John, who loves and Samuel loves a title. What we have we'll hold on, John, you be sure to spread his cloth on we'll have to get."

"Why the lion gave birth to the eagle is a mystery. To puzzle the students of national history. But, granting that both from the same root have sprung. Let each get their getting and the rest of the world holds its tongue."

"What was the outcome of your meeting?" he was asked.

"The secretary of the school board says that he did not utter any criticism of my department, as has been reported in the papers," explained the treasurer. "He blames everything on the papers."

Mr. Bell and members of his department were inclined this morning, however, to adopt the attitude that "where there is smoke there is sure to be fire," and he has no doubt that they have been directed at their work, as reported.

Secretary Tanner was credited with the statement that he has come to wait a day or two for information from the treasurer's department. City Treasurer Bell brands this as untrue. "Mr. Tanner receives any information that he seeks just as quickly as he makes his request."

Mr. Bell was thoroughly aroused by the report that Mr. Tanner had said or even inferred that but little of the work was accomplished in his office.

COMPLAINTS OF "ABUSE" HURLED AT COUNCILLORS

Men in public office, as elected representatives of the people are the handy targets for too much unfair criticism, asserts Ald. P. J. Watt, Ward One, who has no doubt whether he will be a candidate for re-election.

The ratepayers do not appreciate, or in fact realize, just how much good has been accomplished by the council since the first of the year, Ald. Watt submits. All they receive for their time and effort is abuse, and plenty of that, he complains.

WOMEN URGE E. B. SMITH TO RUN FOR BOARD MEMBER

Wortley road retired wholesale grocer, E. B. Smith, was visited last night by a delegation of women, who requested that he enter his name as a candidate for the 1924 board of education.

Mr. Smith has not yet decided whether he will make a bid for office or not. It is likely, however, that if he considers he will be able to devote sufficient time to the work that he will be a candidate.

PRaise EFFORTS MADE BY LITTLE THEATRE GUILD

Local Women Commend the Literary and Dramatic Work of Company.

RECOGNIZE WORTH

Thorough commendation of the Little Theatre Guild Company and hope that every enthusiast of drama would make a point of seeing the company when it plays at the Grand Theatre next week, is expressed by local women interested in the development of high literary taste in dramatic art.

Mrs. Arthur Brickenden, who has been associated with the local Drama League, believes the Little Theatre movement is deserving of patronage. It brings to the public a better quality of dramatic productions than do companies whose sole motive in the presentation of drama is commercial gain.

"The work of the Little Theatre Guild is of great value," Mrs. Brickenden said. Their repertoire is varied and their attempts to interpret life on the stage are all splendid. I believe every conscientious amateur or professional actor has a high opinion of the guild.

"What the Little Theatre people are doing the Drama League is doing on a much smaller scale in London. The latter are called professionals. They are more or less community players and the literary and dramatic merit of their work is obvious."

High Literary Quality.

Mrs. Brickenden added that the company coming to the Grand next week afforded citizens opportunity to see productions drawn from gems of world literature. The literary quality of the plays was the most desirable feature although the dramatic quality, too, called for praise.

Mrs. H. H. Arnott, who also is connected with amateur theatricals in the city, stated that the guild had achieved a reputation second to none. The plays were put on as an educational rather than a commercial enterprise. Mrs. Arnott thought every person wishing to see splendid staging, lighting and scenic effects, as well as to hear something of excellent literary calibre, should attend the plays.

Mrs. W. H. R. Smith, 4 Empress avenue, believes the Drama League members should give the guild encouragement by turning out en masse for each play.

Indorses Movement.

"I heartily indorse the movement," she said. "It is eminently worthy of support and I am particularly gratified to note the fine type of plays they are putting on."

Mrs. Smith thought it possible that the Little Theatre Company might give local amateurs an opportunity to take minor parts in the plays. It depends, she said, on whether they have a full cast. In Boston local amateurs were given one or two lines in such productions and Robert Mantell frequently offered them chances to show what histrionic talent they possessed.

The Drama League has not as yet definitely decided on a form of entertainment to be given the visiting players, but it is probable that some such recognition will be made. They all look forward to the Little Theatre plays, however, with keen anticipation.

W. A. TANNER DENIES CRITICIZING TREASURER

School Board Secretary Declares He Made No Comment on Department.

City Treasurer James Bell and W. A. Tanner, secretary of the board of education, held a brief conference this morning, at which no press representatives attended. The consultation took place at the earnest request of the city treasurer, who telephoned Mr. Tanner this morning, asking him to meet him in his office.

"I wanted to thank him for the nice things he had to say about my office during yesterday's session of the board of education."

"What was the outcome of your meeting?" he was asked.

"The secretary of the school board says that he did not utter any criticism of my department, as has been reported in the papers," explained the treasurer. "He blames everything on the papers."

Mr. Bell and members of his department were inclined this morning, however, to adopt the attitude that "where there is smoke there is sure to be fire," and he has no doubt that they have been directed at their work, as reported.

Secretary Tanner was credited with the statement that he has come to wait a day or two for information from the treasurer's department. City Treasurer Bell brands this as untrue. "Mr. Tanner receives any information that he seeks just as quickly as he makes his request."

Mr. Bell was thoroughly aroused by the report that Mr. Tanner had said or even inferred that but little of the work was accomplished in his office.

TORY COHORTS PUSHING ALD. GREER TO BATTLE?

Mayor Wenig's Supporters
Suspect Conservatives Behind
Ward One Alderman.

Mayor Wenig's supporters see the "handwriting on the wall." And they suspect who is behind the move to launch Ald. John Greer into the mayoralty arena at the last minute.

Ald. Greer's proposed candidature evidently meets with the approval of the members of the "ways and means" committee in the Tory camp; those aggressive gentlemen, who, several weeks ago separated themselves from the main body, to stage an "all blue" contest during the coming municipal campaign.

This much at least can be said today, that Ald. Greer's proposed nomination wins the unstinted commendation of Dixon Glass, chairman of the committee in question.

"And Dixon Glass was Sir Adam Beck's campaign manager during the last provincial campaign," adds Mayor Wenig's supporters, who are beginning to wonder if this means anything or is merely a coincidence.

TENDERS BEING RECEIVED FOR ST. PETER'S SEMINARY

Bishop Fallon is receiving tenders for the erection of the new St. Peter's Seminary, to be built on Sunshine Park, in the north end of the city. The building will cost in the neighborhood of $500,000, and work will commence shortly in some measures, depending on weather conditions.

MILDMAY RESIDENT DIES SUDDENLY ON SIDEWALK

Special to The Advertiser.
Mildmay, Nov. 7.—A very sudden death occurred here, about 1:30 this afternoon, when Mrs. Rose Stumpf expired very suddenly on the sidewalk in front of the public school. She was returning from shopping. Miss Kennedy, school teacher, found her unconscious. Dr. Carpenter was summoned, but death took place before his arrival. County Coroner McCue of Walkerton was called and deemed an inquest unnecessary.

Everything That One Needs Right Here in This Block

One of the Busiest Sections in City Is Located On Dundas Street Between Wellington and Clarence.

"My foot is on my native heath, My name's MacGregor," and that historic old outlaw whose long life was crowded with incident to give any modern author the themes of half a dozen best sellers, maintained his stand on the hills of his own country by the virtue of his tartan-clad followers and by the swing of his ever ready claymore.

In the mouths of the merchants whose stores line the Wellington to Clarence street block on Dundas street the old slogan might quite well be echoed, with this difference, that unlike the wild red-headed Rob they maintain their position as a center of attraction and interest by the virtue of the goods they sell and the quality of their products, instead of the somewhat vigorous method pursued by the old "Greggara." The native heath has become the individual store and the personally conducted business, and there is just the same well-founded pride in the ownership of the brick and stone buildings as in the heather hills.

Did you ever stop to think just what this block represents in the shopping center of London? Just what you can get from the stores in this section of the shopping district, and just what variety and quality of goods apart altogether from services you are offered by the men and women who are the power behind these windows? Maybe you've never stopped to get what you want or what you couldn't get somewhere else in this block. Well, what is it you want, dear lady? Jewelry? Here it is. Linens? Here they are. Flowers? Here they are. Furs and outdoor clothing or boots and shoes? Here you will find them in a wide variety of styles and prices. Or what else is there? Housefurnishings, hardware, sporting goods, musical instruments, gramophones, pianos, optical goods, manicuring parlors or what?

There now, though these are only a very few of the things sold on this "Home Town Block," did you notice how many of them were things that women especially buy? No? Well, lots of them are. When you come to think of it what is there that the housewife does not buy. A mere handful of small more or less petty things that men use for themselves in a personal way, and the men can get

CANADA'S PREMIER IS GUEST OF HONOR AT LONDON DINNER

Sir Campbell Stuart, As Host, Announces Formation of New Society.

GREAT MEN ATTEND

Associated Press Despatch.
London, Nov. 7.—The Duke of York was present at a dinner given to-night by Sir Campbell Stuart at Claridge's Hotel in honor of Premier W. L. Mackenzie King. The distinguished company included the Archbishop of Canterbury, Viscount Cave, Lord Chancellor, the speaker of the House of Commons, the Duke of Devonshire, the Duke of Athol, Sir Joseph Flavelle, Lord Grey, Lord Minto, Viscount Lascelles, Lord Riddell, Lord Hewart, Hon. George P. Graham, Hon. P. C. Larkin, Canadian high commissioner; the agents-general of British Columbia, Ontario, Quebec and Nova Scotia, Sir Hamer Greenwood, Right Hon. Austen Chamberlain, Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, and Thomas Mulvey, under secretary of state for Canada.

Sir Campbell Stuart announced the definite formation of the Canadian History Society. King George V. accepted the office of patron, the Duke of Connaught, of president, Dowager Countess Minto of Vice-president, and the Duke of Devonshire of president of the council of families. John Buchan agreed to act as editor-in-chief of the proposed biographies. An executive committee was formed, consisting of Sir Campbell Stuart, Sir Robert Kindersley, Sir William Schoaling and John Buchan, Dr. A. G. Doughty, with H. P. Bazar as secretary.

A similar society was formed in France in which Marquis de Montcalme accepted the office of president of the council of families. It is hoped shortly to organize a third society in Canada which will consist primarily of descendants of historical families resident in Canada.

Rules of the Contest

Everyone is eligible to submit a "suggested slogan" for the business section on Dundas street between Clarence and Wellington streets. The slogan must not exceed ten words, and answers must be mailed to "The Slogan Editor" of The Advertiser before 6 p.m. of Saturday, November 17, 1923. A committee will be appointed consisting of five prominent residents to act as judges and award the prize, $25.00, for the winning slogan.

ALL-CANADIAN SPIRIT MUST BE DEVELOPED

Dr. Cody Tells Canadian Club, in Simcoe, Need Is Great.

Special to The Advertiser.
Simcoe, Nov. 7.—Dr. H. J. Cody addressed the Canadian Club in Simcoe last night. He described the trip he had made, along with Lieutenant-Governor Cockshutt of Ontario, Premier Ferguson, and others, to Moose Factory on James Bay. The return journey of 240 miles, from Moose to Lake Ramey, 55 miles from Cochrane, was done in an aeroplane in 2½ hours. They had breakfasted at Moose Factory one morning and in Toronto the following morning.

Dr. Cody then went on in a vivid and impressive manner to portray the vast potential wealth and possibilities of the north country. "Sixty per cent of Canada is covered by the shield of Laurentian rock," he said, "but this is not worthless. Its mineral resources have only been scratched, and there is no shadow of doubt but that Canada is destined to become the greatest mineral producing country in the world. The timber resources, the mineral wealth, the water power and the clay belt contained staggering possibilities of untold wealth."

"Don't despair of Canada or of Ontario, don't give up faith in the land or in the people of the land. Our day will come. In the north, too, you meet the pioneer spirit of faith and courage and hope. They are boosters there."

"Ontario presents a wonderful combination of rich old Ontario and new Ontario, with magnificent resources of undeveloped raw material. Ontario is the center of Canadian life and thought. We must endeavor to foster an all-Canadian spirit."

He sketched briefly Canadian history to show the growth of the Canadian national spirit, and concluded by dwelling on the two problems, one intellectual, the problem of preparing the intellect of young men to utilize material resources, and the other moral, to make the rising generation worthy, fit to be trusted with this great inheritance.

"We have the brains, we have the character. We must see to it that both are developed," he declared.

LOMBARDO'S ORCHESTRA TO PLAY AT CHARITY BALL

Everything is in readiness for the big Charity Ball to be held at the Winter Gardens on Friday night, and promises to be one of the outstanding events of the season. Lombardo's Orchestra, who have just returned from Cleveland with the latest in popular dance music, will play at the Gardens on that occasion, and patrons of the ball are assured of nothing but the best.

A report was circulated some time ago that Lombardo would be unable to play owing to this famous orchestra of London boys accepting a position in the States. However, the officials of the ball, to make it known that they had secured this talented group of musicians to play at the ball on Friday night.

Telegraphers Will Vote On Increase In Wage Rate

Special to The Advertiser.
Montreal, Nov. 7.—A referendum vote of Canadian Pacific telegraphers may be the next step in the telegraphers' effort to obtain an aggregate increase in wages working out to approximately 6 cents an hour more for all grades, it is understood in union circles this morning.

The telegraphers recently notified the department of labor of their non-acceptance of the findings of the board of conciliation, which sat recently in connection with the dispute.

Schedule negotiations between individual Canadian railways and the Big Four brotherhoods, comprising the running trades—the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors—are expected to open in the near future.

The men's proposals are for a return to the 1920 rates, wiping out the 12½ per cent cut put into force in July, 1921. It is stated that the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers will join forces to negotiate with the individual railways, while the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors may also combine in negotiation for their respective schedules.

CANADA OFFERS INDUCEMENTS TO NEW SETTLERS

Will Advance Full Fare To Approved Persons Who Settle On Land.

RAISE AGE LIMIT

By GEORGE HAMBLETON, Canadian Press Cable.
London, Nov. 7.—A committee report on overseas settlement adopted by the economic conference today in Ottawa, recommended that Canada in its outline of the Dominion government's plans in regard to immigration, it intimates that in respect to nominated passengers, the Canadian government is willing, when possible, to relieve the nominator of his liability for repayment of the passage money advanced to settlers and agrees to advance up to one hundred per cent of the fare to approved nominated persons settling on the land. In regard to collective nominations, that is nominated by churches, groups and societies, the British and Canadian governments are jointly sending two representatives of the Y. M. C. A. to Canada to organize the system through various organizations.

Age Limit Raised.
The scheme entitling children to free passage to Canada which hitherto only applied to children proceeding under the auspices of societies is to be extended to cover children up to sixteen years of age proceeding as members of their families with their parents, provided the parents are proceeding under the assisted passage scheme.

Women proceeding to Canada for household work will still be eligible for the advance of the whole of their passage money, but in future will be allowed a rebate of six pounds from the money repayable provided they complete one year's residence in household service on farms in Canada. Other intentions of the Canadian government, as indicated in the report, are:

(1) Re-establishment in the rural districts of the immigration employment service which ceased to function at the outbreak of the war.

(2) Careful consideration of the possibilities of introducing experimental maintenance allowances for a limited number of immigrant families.

(3) With a view to stimulating the settlement of public school boys, the British government will consider the possibility of arranging with agricultural colleges to offer free courses annually to a certain number of students from Great Britain.

(4) Offer to ex-service men from other parts of the Empire of the facilities afforded Canadian ex-service men for land settlement under the auspices of the soldier settlement board, but the Canadian government will not be in a position to accept the offer of the soldier settlement board to men who have not served with the forces.

(5) Will discuss the inauguration of group settlement with the provincial governments.

(6) Offer of free instructors familiar with Canadian conditions for would-be land settlers.

BRITAIN WILL EXTEND TARIFF PREFERENCES

Fresh Apples, Canned Salmon, Honey and Fruit Juices Added To List.

WILL HELP CANADA

Hon. George P. Graham Expresses Thanks On Behalf of Dominion.

By GEORGE HAMBLETON, Canadian Press Cable.

London, Nov. 7.—The British government is prepared to widen the scope of its offer of imperial tariff preferences. At the economic conference today, Sir Philip Graeme, president of the board of trade, intimated that in addition to the list already submitted, the British government proposed to give tariff preference on fresh apples, canned salmon, fruit juices and honey. In each case the British government proposed to impose a new duty when these products are imported from foreign countries and admit them free when imported from countries within the empire. The proposals are:

Fresh Apples—Dutiable at five shillings per hundredweight when imported from foreign countries. Empire apples free.

Canned Salmon—Foreign imports to be dutiable ten shillings per hundredweight when imported from foreign countries. Empire imports free.

Fruit Juices—Foreign imports to be dutiable at sixpence per gallon. Empire imports free.

Honey—Foreign imports to be dutiable at 10 shillings per cwt. Empire imports free.

Today's offer also touches unmanufactured tobacco. The original British proposals on unmanufactured tobacco offered as alternatives either the stabilization of the existing preference or an increase in preference from one-sixth to one-fourth. The various dominions affected, however, prefer the increase instead of the stabilization, and the British government today intimated to bring down legislation accordingly. Legislation is to be introduced also to give effect to the remainder of the British offer.

Graham Expresses Thanks.
The preference (to be given) to the British Empire was warmly welcomed by the Canadian delegates. They feel that it will be a great stimulus to apple growers throughout the Dominion. It is also a great encouragement to the salmon canneries on the Pacific coast, whose products are to enter the British market free, while the foreign competitor is taxed.

Hon. Geo. P. Graham, in expressing thanks on behalf of Canada, observed that if Great Britain decided to make far-reaching changes in her fiscal policy "Canada will naturally expect that in the establishment of a tariff full and adequate consideration would be given to her special duties to the interests of Canada's producers and to the substantial preferences for her goods. If a general tariff were to be established by British and reciprocal trade arrangements negotiated with foreign countries, it was plain, Mr. Graham said, that bargaining on a business basis would tend to become the rule instead of the exception. The words "business" and "bargaining" outside the empire, though it was to be hoped it would not involve any lessening of the forces of sentiment and imperialism which animated the proposals of the British government.

The elimination of wheat from the preferential scheme as indicated in Premier Baldwin's speeches would restrict the value of the preference to Canadian producers, Mr. Graham added, but Canada freely recognized it was for Great Britain to decide what was best for her own people. Referring to four, he said the effect of a duty would depend very largely on the extent to which the Canadian miller would be put in a less advantageous position than the British miller.

A duty that was protectionist, rather than preferential, would not be as advantageous to the Canadian miller as the existing situation. This would be the case also with other commodities. Mr. Graham further mentioned a large number of Canadian products, such as fresh fruits, lumber, newsprint, iron and steel products and dairy produce for consideration in Great Britain's proposed preferential duties. He challenged the view current that Canadian manufactured goods were merely assembled in Canada. They were, therefore, entitled to preference.

"This conception," declared Mr. Graham, "is wholly erroneous. It could not survive a visit to Canada's manufacturing centers."

Hon. H. Burton, minister of finance, South Africa, asked if canned salmon would include canned crayfish. Sir Philip promised to see what could be done in the matter.

Passes Resolution.
The discussion concluded by passing a resolution that the conference, holding that "especially under present circumstances, all possible means should be taken to develop the resources of the Empire, the trade between Empire countries, desires to reaffirm the resolution on the subject of imperial preference passed by the imperial war conference in 1917."

A resolution was also passed favoring preference to Empire products in carrying out public contracts, unless special circumstances rendered it undesirable or unnecessary.

The conference further concurred in a report of a special committee, which found impracticable three suggestions submitted by Premier Bruce of Australia for investigation, namely: subsidies to the Empire for British agriculture, dominion producer import licensing system to discriminate against foreign imports and the stabilization of prices. At the same time the committee strongly recommends the closest co-operation between the empire governments and between producers' organizations both here and in the dominions, in concerting in the carrying out of any action possible for improving the marketing of empire agricultural products.

DISALLOWS APPEAL FOR REPLEVIN ORDER

Mr. Justice Mowat Refuses Application, Claiming It Improper Procedure.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Nov. 7.—Mr. Justice Mowat at Osceola Hall this afternoon disallowed the application made on behalf of the Detroit Silver Fox Farms against C. H. Tisdale, Thorah Township, county of Ontario, for a replevin order whereby the plaintiffs would get possession of 13 silver black foxes valued at $7,000.

The application was refused on the ground that it was not the proper procedure. A. J. Anderson and Fred W. Craft of Detroit, Michigan, owners of the fox farm, claimed that they had purchased the foxes from George S. Clarke and W. S. Clarke, the owners, but that Tisdale, in whose hands the foxes had been placed for safe keeping, had refused to turn them over to their new owners. The foxes were apparently being held to enforce payment of a debt.

"If you suffer damage, sue," advised his lordship in giving judgment. "He seems to have a claim against you. Replevin is not the right thing now."

MANY CLUBS NAME CANDIDATES FOR BOYS' PARLIAMENT

Several Hundred Attend Tuxis and Trail Ranger Meeting At Knox.

SHIELDS PRESENTED

At a banquet for members of the Trail Rangers and Tuxis Boys' group held last night in the gymnasium of Knox Presbyterian Church, several hundred enthusiastic boys, ranging in age from 12 to 21, nominated six members of their groups as candidates for the third boys' parliament to be held in the Ontario Parliament Buildings, Toronto, on December 28, 27, 28. The boys nominated were: Ronald Hunt, Frank Adams, Hartley Upshall, Ben Foulkes, Stanley Gimball and Robert Ferguson. The three boys to represent this district at the Ontario Parliament will be selected on November 22, 23 and 24.

Following a hearty repast, Millard Grant, Tuxis boy, moved a vote of thanks to the ladies who have so graciously helped in preparing the banquet.

A. R. Kennedy delivered an address to the boys which was received with tremendous applause. Mr. Kennedy pointed out to the young men that the day was not far distant when they would have to tackle the problem of citizenship.

"It is only a little while before you boys will be the prominent citizens of London upon whom rests either the making or breaking of our country," said the speaker. "It is not long ago that our forefathers toiled in this locality and laid the foundation of our present prosperous country. They made Canada what it is today, and its future rests in your hands."

"It was not many years ago that it was thought the bridging of the St. Lawrence river was thought an impossibility. The feat was accomplished. Such triumphs as the building of the Welland and Chippawa canals, entailing all the skill and workmanship of our foremost engineers, are outstanding Canadian achievements, done by men who were once such boys as you."

"When we consider of what stock you are sprung and the greatness of Britain during the years when more than one million of her finest men were killed, and now, when, in spite of other countries refusing her their war debt, she sends financial emissaries to the United States to make an honorable deal for the discharge of her debt of $4,000,000,000, we can look the world in the face. This is the stock of Canadians. You boys cannot look back on what has gone before and feel that you can shirk your responsibility. Acquire cleanliness, courage and respect for your Maker and Master. Look forward to the future not only with courage, but with cheer and confidence. When you reach manhood give to your country every last ounce of manhood and consecrated energy you have."

Rev. Mr. Sykes of Knox Church gave a short talk to the boys. He lauded the splendid work they had done.

"A fine spirit of brotherhood which is characteristic of this organization speaks well for both church and Y. M. C. A. work," said Mr. Sykes. "Three shields for the baseball championships of the C. S. E. T. groups were presented by S. R. White, the Amheeks, of Knox Church, who the senior championship; intermediate honors went to the Comets, of St. James Church, and the junior championship was won by the Wingfoots of Knox Church."

A shield was presented to Darryl McLean and Howard Newell, of St. Andrew's, for the tennis doubles championship.

WARD TWO TO BE CENTER OF WARM CIVIC FIGHT

More Candidates Likely There Than For Many Years in the Past.

The aldermanic fight warms up in Ward Two, and several prospects have shown on the horizon. The latest appeared today in the person of M. P. Walsh, of the firm of Dambra & Walsh, who has practically decided to enter the field at the solicitation of friends and business acquaintances.

It is reported also that Frank Jones, Richmond street north, will be another entry, while Robert Burke of West London has already thrown his hat in the ring.

Ald. Leonard Douglass, chairman of the board of works, and Ald. W. A. Wilson, ex-chairman of the same committee, will seek re-election. Ald. Judd must, of course, retire having accepted appointment as crown attorney for Middlesex County.

While Ward Two has the smallest population in the city, the ratepayers are preparing to stage the liveliest campaign in years. Some of the West Londoners are particularly aroused because certain members consistently opposed Mayor Wenige from the moment he assumed office. Many of the North London voters urge the election of aldermen from their feel will fight consistently for improved street railway service, more particularly in view of the fact that the company's franchise must now extend to 1930.

OPERATION IS NECESSARY AFTER ELEVATOR ACCIDENT

Alexander Thompson, who with Fred Zoeler met with a serious accident in an elevator shaft at the Sea-Mount factory in West London several weeks ago, this morning underwent an operation in St. Joseph's Hospital. Thompson had his knee cap badly broken in the accident, and Zoeler received a crushed leg. Both men had x-ray photographs taken last Friday, and Zoeler's leg was at once set. It was at first thought Thompson's knee would heal without an operation, but upon examination last night it was decided he must be operated upon this morning.

COLIN LEITCH REPORTED IMPROVING IN HOSPITAL

Colin Leitch, Thorndale man who met with a serious accident on the Governor's road Sunday night, when he was hit by an auto, was reported this morning by officials at Victoria Hospital to be greatly improved. He was rushed to Victoria Hospital Sunday evening suffering a fractured shoulder and skull. It was at first thought he would not recover, but Tuesday his condition showed decided improvement, and it is now thought he will be able to leave the hospital in a week or ten days.

TRAIN WRECK BLOCKS

Nineteen C.N.R. Cars Loaded

Piled in Heap.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Nov. 7.—Nineteen freight cars loaded with merchandise are piled in a heap on the C. N. R. tracks at Gifford, just south of Allandale, Lake Simcoe, as the result of the middle of a northbound freight train jumping the tracks this morning.
The line has been blocked since, although being diverted via Allandale.
The long train of 35 cars was rounding a curve at a fair rate of speed, and the theory is that the six rear cars, which were loaded with gravel, forced the middle of the train out, the nineteen cars being in the budge.
The engine and leading cars, with the rear of the train, remained on the tracks.

B. McKay of Embury, Mrs. MacBeth of Milverton, Mrs. (Dr.) Sparks of St. Marys, Mrs. W. F. Turner of Drew Station.

Aims of W. I. Work.
The aims and ideals which are the foundation of W. I. work were thoroughly expounded in an inspirational fashion by the two addresses which in addition to several delightful musical numbers formed the evening's program.

Dealing with her subject, "The Essentials in Women's Institutes Work," Miss Emily J. Guest, of the department of agriculture of Toronto, pointed to the significant fact that the W. I. was the only organization of its kind which existed by act of parliament.

"The word 'Institute' really conveys the idea of a 'settling' or 'settling' down," said, "and it may encourage you to remember that the act of parliament which brought W. I. into being was passed by men before women sat in the House or even had a vote."
"It has a very definite part to play in our national life, bearing the same relation to the department of agriculture, which the school bears to the department of education."

"I have been particularly impressed with the reports which have been given, but what strikes me most is the fact that you have completely neglected to mention the two biggest things you are doing. You are improving yourselves, and you are creating a sound public opinion. For instance, it has not been difficult to introduce the idea of church union, because you women have been talking it for the past 27 years. It has been easy for men to bring about effective grain-growers' associations and things like this, because women have brought their sons up to believe in co-operation and unity."

The address of Dr. Madge Macklin, of this city, dealt lucidly with the part which education may play in the domestic life of a woman. She emphasized the fact that education of a broad and general sort may play an important part in the life of the housewife, as it does in the case of the business or professional woman.
Out of the routine, labor of housekeeping, she fashioned a definite place for those things which are usually considered a waste of time and detracting only to the higher forms of education.

Education Not Accumulation.
"Through education," Dr. Macklin said, "we may enjoy not only the beauty of the past, but the beauty of the present. It is a common fallacy that education consists in a mere gathering and accumulation of facts."
"It is the assimilation of facts and the faculty of arriving at deductions by means of them which really counts. Education counts if it aids us in the daily struggle for existence."

Solos during the evening were contributed by Miss Peole, Mrs. Dr. Alwill of Shaden and Mrs. Hugh Mc-Killop of West Lorne. Mrs. Atwell was accompanied by Miss Leda Ferguson of St. Thomas, and Mrs. Mc-Killop by Mrs. Wm. Merritt.

BAD BLOOD
PIMPLES AND BOILS
Banished by Burdock Blood Bitters

Miss Irene A. Matthews, Stayner, Ont., writes: "I thought I would write and tell you of the experience and benefit I have derived from Burdock Blood Bitters.

"Some few months ago I was troubled with bad blood, which broke out on my face in the nature of pimples, boils and ringworm, and I got so bad I really did not know what to do.

"I was ashamed to go anywhere, and the itching and burning caused such a terrible sensation I could get no relief day or night.

can Church. Adverse weather reduced the attendance considerably, about 50 ladies answering the roll-call. Mrs. Frank Anderson of London, president of the organization, was in the chair. The afternoon session was mainly occupied by the presentation of reports of various branches, these generally indicating satisfactory achievement and progress during the past period.

Mrs. David Williams of London this afternoon gave a detailed and interesting account of her visit to the Indian school near Macleod, Alberta, which receives its support from the women's auxiliaries in Western Ontario. A new school to accommodate 100 children is being built. Mrs. Williams described the nature of equipment and comforts required for the children in the new building.

This evening the Right Rev. David Williams, bishop of Huron, presided at a public missionary meeting in the church, at which a very interesting address was given by Miss F.
Jones, who is on furlough from Hain, China.

The meeting will close at 4 o'clock
Thursday afternoon with the election of officers.

Score Police Chief.
Chief of Police Lamm, who has jected to criticism by the local press for withholding particulars of a recent robbery at the store of Harry P.

Rose on Napier street. The chief declared to the press that his policy was to give out such information as he thought fit, and that all the information the public required could be obtained in the court-room.
