

Poster
Printing

Superior Work
Prompt Service
Satisfaction

The Reporter Office
Athens, Ont.

The Athens Reporter

—AND—

COUNTY OF LEEDS ADVERTISER.

Vol. XXIX. No. 33

Athens, Leeds County, Ontario, Wednesday, Aug 20, 1913

G. F. Donnelly, Publisher

THE ROBERT WRIGHT COMPANY LIMITED
Closed Wednesday Afternoons

Ireland's Best Linens

Semi-Annual Sale of Seconds

From Messrs. John Brown & Sons, Belfast, Ireland, we have received the largest and finest assortment of Table Linen ever, consisting of Double Damask Table Cloths in all sizes; Tray Cloths; Double Damask Table Linen, by the yard in bleached and unbleached. Mark this Linen consists only of seconds, the damaged places are slight and can be easily mended. Don't miss this Linen Sale. The prices will be 50 per cent less than what you will pay for regular goods.

Wash Dresses and Blouses at a Great Sacrifice

$11.00 White Dresses for $5.55—White, one piece dresses, trimmed with fine val. lace and all over embroidery, with low neck and short sleeves; regular prices $6.75 to $11.00, your choice for $5.55

Misses' Print Dresses—In plain colors and stripes blue, fawn, and navy; very prettily trimmed, sizes 16 to 20 years; regular prices $2.25 to $3.50, your choice for $1.98

Girls Colored Percale Dresses—9 only, nice assortment of styles, in light and dark colors. Nicely trimmed, sizes 2 to 6 years, regular price $1.90 each, Sale Price .98c

Note our windows. See the display of Fall and Winter Dress Goods and Ladies' Coats.

The ROBERT WRIGHT CO. Limited
BROCKVILLE CANADA

$4 and $5 Ladies' and Men's Low Shoes and Pumps for $1.95

These prices will clear out every pair in a few days. You must buy at once—the saving is big and the profit all on your side

KELLY'S

The Shoe Store of Quality
Next Door West of Robert Wright's. BROCKVILLE

.. SPECIALS ..

It will pay you to come here for your Suit or Toggery. Special Bargains all over the store. Just the final clean up of our great Mid-Summer Sale. Just note a few of the many snaps we offer you.

Ties—10 dozen narrow Doby Ties and Strings, all 25c lines. Your choice 3 for 25c

Fancy Vests—Some 30 odd, Light Fancy Vests some of these are worth $3.00, all at one price and nearly all sizes $1.00

English Shirts—English Shirts; some flannels, some wool Taffetas, not a complete range of any pattern, but quality is there, and regular $2.50 and $3.00 lines. $1.50

Odd Pants—Odd Pants in good dark Worsteds and Tweeds, made with 5 pockets and sold for $2.50 and $2.00; some 25 pairs of them for $1.35

Blue Serge Suits—Blue Serge Suits—Pure wool, hand tailored garments, cut on this fall models and color guaranteed, our regular $22.00 Suits. $18.50

SEE WINDOW

COLCOCK'S

Brockville — Ontario

Local Items

Note advertisement of Hay Floral and Seed Co. this week.

Mr and Mrs J. H. Ackland are holidaying at Charleston this week.

Mrs W. H. Merrick returned to her home in Athens last week from Toronto.

Mrs Hugh Latimer, Glen Buell, is visiting her son, R. C. Latimer, Athens.

H. W. Coleman and E. C. H. Moore, spent the week-end at Charleston Lake.

Mrs (Dr) W. Steacy of New York is visiting friends in Athens, a guest of Mrs E. Fair.

The Lend-a-Hand Club will meet on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Sunday school room.

Mr and Mrs R. L. Cliff and son of New Westminster, B. C. are guests of Mr and Mrs H. H. Arnold.

Mr Burt Livingston, with Mr Riley Cross as 1st Lieut., started out with his threshing outfit on Monday

Repairing of Watches, Clocks and Jewellery will receive prompt attention. Prices moderate.—R. J. Campo.

Miss Florence Boyd, Lyn and Miss Flo Boyd from Spring Valley, who spent a week visiting Mr and Mrs K. C. Latimer, have returned home.

Mr R. J. Campo, who has had many years experience in the jewelry business, has opened an agency at his home here and is displaying a line of up-to-date goods. See adv't on this page.

Harry K. Thaw, who gave a brain storm demonstration in the slaying of Stanford White, and who for the last five years has been in the Matteawan (N. Y.) asylum, escaped on Sunday morning. He is reported as having been arrested at Coaticook, Que.

The picnic in aid of St. Philip Neri's church, Toledo, will be held next Saturday, Aug. 23. This popular event is always sure to draw a large crowd. It will be a great day, with music by Toledo Brass Band and orchestral music for dancing. Both dinner and supper will be served.

On Thursday, August 28th, a picnic will be held in Kelsey grove at Elgin in aid of the Catholic church of that place. A splendid program including a baseball match, boat races, rifle shooting and other sports will be called off. The Toledo brass band will furnish music. There is a commodious platform on the grounds. Dinner and supper will be served.

Though deprived of our Model School, Athens students still regard with favor the taining to be had in such an institution, and this week nine winners of Normal Entrance certificates left for the Kingston school, among whom were: Stanley Livingston of Frankville, Pearl Stevens, Ola Derbyshire, C. H. and W. Booth, Annetta Myers and Sanford Bolton of Newboro.

Brockville Times: Engineer Buck and a party of assistants, who are surveying a line for the proposed hydro-electric railway between Kingston and Cornwall, have reached Brockville, working east. Through Brockville, as at present staked out, the line would pass via Pearl street. The Government plans to serve a section of the rural country with transportation facilities which are not now enjoyed for the marketing of produce of the farm.

Westport Mirror: A quiet wedding took place on the twenty second of July, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. G. F. Ackland when their only daughter Edna Blanche was united in marriage to Mr Theodore McMillan, of the Union Bank, Newboro, formerly of Erin, Ont. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. Humphrey. We understand it is the intention of Mr and Mrs McMillan to make their home, at present in Newboro.

The present is the time to make preparations for next year's contest with the caterpillars, and certain far-seeing people in Perth are enlisting forces of young people for the fight that is coming on. Perth town was riddled of much of its ornamentation in spring and early summer this year. Now that the new generation of insects is passing through the egg stage of existence it would be a good time to get the prizes ready for next April and May for the greatest collections of "ringlets on branches" to furnish gummy bonfires and thus prevent millions of destroyers from doing work in 1914.

Shortly after being driven here from Plum Hollow on Sunday last, Mr. Alf Kilborn's horse was attacked with acute indigestion and died in a few hours.

Mr and Mrs Peterson (nee Miss Belle Earle) of Smith's Falls, who were married on Tuesday evening, are this week occupying a cottage at Charleston Lake, in company with Mr and Mrs Clayton Wiltsie.

TOWNSHIP COUNCIL

The Council of Rear Yonge and Escomb met on Monday, 18th inst., at 1 o'clock. Members all present.

A By-law to levy rates for present year was passed, requiring the following amounts to be raised:—

County purposes	$1,578 07
Township purposes	8,000 00
Grants to Public Schools	2,724 00
Tax on Dogs	189 00
Maintenance of High School	1,980 00
High School Debenture No. 1	248 11
P. S. No. 6 Debenture Debt	29 80
P. S. Section No. 2	100 00
P. S. Section No. 5	24 00
P. S. Section No. 6	310 05
P. S. Section No. 7	100 00
P. S. Section No. 8	50 00
P. S. Section No. 10	45 00
P. S. Section No. 11	77 00

Tender of Bismarck Green to pile 50 cords of stone for road purposes was accepted.

Reeve Ferguson and Councillor Caghan were appointed to act with the committee from Elizabethtown to divide the town line between Yonge Rear and Elizabethtown.

Orders given on Treasurer: A. Tav- & Son, for tile used in road division 7, $18; Chas. Howard, for repairing road last spring in road div. 22, $10.

Council adjourned to meet at call of the Reeve.

R. E. CORNELL, Clerk.

TWO SCHOLARSHIPS FOR B. C. I. PUPILS

(BROCKVILLE TIMES)

In the results of the Queen's University matriculation Scholarship examinations, announced Thursday, the names of two B. C. I. pupils appear. Miss Mina B. Donnelly of Athens, wins the Governor-General's scholarship and R. Herbert Sheridan of Brockville, the Forbes McHarady scholarship.

Miss Donnelly, who is a daughter of G. F. Donnelly, editor of the Athens Reporter, has been attending the Brockville Collegiate for two years, having taken her Junior matriculation from the Athens High school. Miss Donnelly took I Class honors in every subject with the exception of French, in which she had II class. Her standing is phenomenal and she is to be congratulated on it.

R. Herbert Sheridan, son of Robert Sheridan, King street, east, is a well known and very popular Brockville boy and his friends will be very much pleased to hear of his signal success at Queen's.

Principal Husband and his staff are to be congratulated on the success of these two pupils.

Card of Thanks

I desire through the medium of the Reporter to return thanks to friends and neighbors for their many thoughtful acts of kindness during the illness and following the death of my wife.

John Chassels

CHARLESTON

Mrs Beale, has returned to Toronto after visiting friends in this vicinity.

Miss Fanny Hudson went to Brockville on Saturday to see her brother Robert, of W-tertown, who is ill of pleura-pneumonia at St Vincent de Paul Hospital.

Among the guests at the Charleston Lake hotel are the following: E. Mark, Toronto; E. M. Langer and Mr and Mrs W. H. Parry, Somerville, N.J.; W. H. Vannerman and wife, Geo. Randolph and C. W. Lewis, Philadelphia, Pa.; H. W. Beecher, wife and family, Inglewood, N. J.; G. M. Clark, New York City.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Wm. D. Gifford

Advance Shipment of New Fall Coats and Suits

Exceedingly smart and stylish are the new Fall Coats and Suits, just received. Designed by the best manufacturers in styles that are up to the minute and most becoming. Handsome materials in the latest weaves, smart cutaway effects, for those who desire them, also three-quarter and long lengths. We carry all sizes in misses, women's, over-size and between sizes.

New fall models American Lady Corsets just placed in stock

C. H. POST

Phone 54

BROCKVILLE

ONTARIO

The Big Sale is Now On

Extraordinary Suit Sale

Could you use another Suit at a price? We believe you can and will after you learn the low price that will buy it.

One lot of Men's Suits, all wool Canadian tweed, nice patterns in light and dark shades, just the suit you want for the coming fall; suits that are worth $9 and $10, on sale now for $5.95

One lot of Men's Suits, imported tweed and worsted, extra well made, in all the latest patterns, suits that are always sold at $15, on sale now for $9.45

One lot of Men's Suits, high class garments, the very best and latest English tweed and worsteds, suits that are good values at $20.00 and $22.00, on sale now for $13.95

Special Reduced Prices on All Boys' Suits

All other Summer Goods to be Cleared at Any Price

GLOBE CLOTHING HOUSE

The Store of Quality

BROCKVILLE — ONTARIO

Store closes every Wednesday at 12.30 during July and August.

Suits That Stand Out

From the ordinary in the crowd are the regular products of our work rooms. You get none but fashionable clothes here, because that is the only kind we produce. Try us on your new suit and see how perfectly we fit you, and how well the clothes are made.

M. J. KEHOE

Clerical Suits a Specialty.

The Housekeeper

Stale bread is always useful for bread sticks and croutons to serve with soup. Cut into slices half inch thick. For the croutons cut into cubes, and for the bread sticks cut three-inch lengths. Spread before cutting with butter and toast a golden brown.

To take the scorch of linen or silk, dip the article into quite cold water and hang dripping with water in the air. When dry, if not quite clear, repeat the process.

When dropping dumplings in a kettle, first dip the spoon into the broth, then dip it into the batter, and the soft mass will slip off without sticking to the spoon.

Parasols may be kept from splitting through the winter if stuffed with tissue paper. This paper the panels from creasing in the centre.

Bananas pulped and mixed with lemon juice make a nice filling for brown bread sandwiches. The bread should be buttered.

When next cooking cold corn mush dip each slice in salted, beaten eggs, roll in cracker crumbs and fry in deep fat and it will be delicious.

A bit of camphor in a small iron cup, placed over an alcohol lamp with flame turned low, will put flies and mosquitoes to flight.

To embroider initials easily draw them neatly with a pencil and carefully go over your letters with closely-placed French knots.

You can clean your little brass teakettle with salt and vinegar.

One pint of salt, and three gallons of water will keep eggs for winter use.

A teaspoonful of ammonia and one of turpentine in one pint of warm water is fine for cleaning black silk.

A nice cologne water may be made with sixty drops of oil of lavender, sixty of bergamot, sixty of oil of lemon, sixty of orange, and one pint of alcohol. Cork well and shake well.

To remove the ordinary grease spot, take equal parts of ether, ammonia and alcohol.

Silver that has been stained with egg is quickly cleaned by rubbing with damp salt or with a cloth dampened with ammonia.

A splendid way of washing Chinese crepe is to make a strong lather of boiling water and white soap. When it is nearly cold wash the crepe quickly and rinse in a strong solution of salt and water. Hang to dry in the open air.

To make fly paper, take equal parts of boiled linseed oil and resin, melt them and add some honey. Soak the paper in a strong solution of alum, then dry before applying the above.

Minard's Liniment Cures Diphtheria.

SOME FARM, THIS.

Toronto Star Man's Dream of the Future.

Every right-feeling city man looks forward to spending his old age on a farm in the country. This is a true statement, but subject to modifications.

In the first place, the farm will be in the country, but not too far in. The idea is to have it near enough to the city to run in for a night at the theatre and get home again by twelve-thirty. It must not be too far away for the five o'clock edition of the paper, which there say by half-past eight. The distance by rail may be an hour, but our city farmer, having his own car, will probably do it in thirty minutes.

The farmhouse will be a little more complicated than farmhouses usually are. It will be hot-water heated and vacuum-cleaned. It will have tiled bathrooms, perhaps three, and a bath, a tiled fireplace, a library, a billiard room, a den, a smoking-room, a Louis Quatorze drawing-room, and a parlour with period furniture. Farmers whose tastes are not so simple will doubtless add a pergola and a sun-room to this plan, but serviceable equipment. The house will generally be full of visitors, mostly farmers and their wives, who will spend their week-ends drinking milk, playing bridge, and picking Carolina Peaches from the trees.

The farm, whether it is ten, fifteen or a hundred acres, must have a cow, chickens, and a pig. The man who raises eggs and broilers and the garden will lay vegetables and fruit in which there will be an orchard that will lay apples, mostly Northern apples. Since the farm is to be self-contained, it will raise its own violets, mushrooms, and American Beauty roses, and will, of course, have a garage well at which the automobile can be watered. While the owner of the farm will not engage in the actual manual work of tilling the soil, he expects greatly to assist in it by exercising an intelligent supervision over the growing crops. The man who really had the efficient co-operation of the brick business methods the city farmer will bring to the task. With him blossoms the job and half a dozen farm hands doing the chores agriculture may well apprehend a great uplift.

Outside of being able to really work the hired man is going to have an easy time of his new master. He will have a special trough in which to wash his feet. He will be supplied with smoking tobacco and the popular magazines to attach him to home, and will have a bedroom over the kitchen papered in green with red butterflies. It is hoped that the display of kindness to him, but that he will not presume on good nature to be extent of picking out Old Hundred with one finger on the grand piano.

How to Cut a Glass Bottle.

It is sometimes necessary to cut a heavy glass bottle or cylinder. Four methods are in use. A carbundum disc having a thin edge, if kept wet and rotated at a high speed, will cut heavy glass, but the cylinder must be fed against the wheel very gently.

A better way is to make a file mark clean, but not very deep—around the cylinder and heat it with a long slender flame while slowly rotating the cylinder all the time. It is very important that the gas flame should not spread over the surface of the glass, for it is only the file mark that should be heated. A mere glancing touch is sufficient. Usually the glass will crack off in a very clean cut.

Sometimes a fine platinum wire is wound around in the file mark and heated by an electric current. Less common is the trick of wrapping a strand of yarn soaked in turpentine around the mark and burning it. The principle is the same in each case. The unequal heating of the glass causes it to break.—New York Press.

It never surprises a woman to be admired, and a man cannot understand why anyone dislikes him.

SANOL

An effective remedy for the removal of Gall, kidney and bladder stones, Gravel and kidney troubles arising from uric acid. Endorsed by physicians and surgeons. Price $1.50.

THE SANOL MFG. CO., LTD. Winnipeg, Man. Leading Druggists

Hot Dry Meatless Dishes.

Four eggs, spinach, white sauce, butter cream. Cut in halves four hard-boiled eggs and rub the yolks through a sieve. Season some cooked spinach with a little butter and cream and fill the whites of the eggs with the mixture. Place in a buttered baking dish and pour over the whole a good white sauce. Use the yolks for a garnish over the top and brown in a quick oven.

Two cups of tomatoes, two cups of bread crumbs, one-fourth cup of butter, salt and pepper. Cook the tomatoes with the seasoning until tender. Into the melted butter stir the crumbs, but do not let them brown. Place in a buttered casserole or pudding dish alternate layers of the tomatoes and crumbs until all are used. Let the last layer be crumbs and bake to a light golden brown.

One pound of marrow beans, mushroom or tomato catsup, one tablespoonful of butter, vinegar, pepper and salt, one cup of milk or cream, minced parsley. Boil the beans until tender and drain. Brown the butter in a frying pan and add the beans, stirring until thoroughly seasoned with the butter. Dry and add a little minced parsley, salt and pepper. Stir in the milk or cream and let it stew for a few minutes; then season with mushroom or tomato catsup and a little vinegar.

Two cups of sweet corn, two tablespoonfuls of butter, four cups of milk, one onion, four cups of diced potatoes, eight soda crackers, salt and pepper, two cups of boiling water. Put half of the butter into a saucepan.

Minard's Liniment Cures Distemper.

Prayer.

When the last sea is sailed, when the last shallow is charted, when the last field is reaped, and the last harvest stored. When the last fire is out and the last guest departed. Grant the last prayer that I shall pray—be good to me, O Lord.

And let me pass in a night at sea, a night of storm and thunder, in the loud crying of the wind through sail and rope and spar; Send me a ninth great peaceful wave to drown and me under. To the cold tunny-fish's home where the drowned galleons are.

And in the dim green quiet place far out To sea I'd like to hear; Grant I may hear at whiles the wash and thrush of the sea foam About the fine bow of the stately clipper steering Toward the lone northern star and the faint light of home. —John Massey, "The Story of a Round House."

MISSOURI COURT YARD REPAIR-TEE.

Repatee of a high order and responsible quality flips back and forth between our citizens, who sometimes seat themselves on the benches of the maples in the courthouse yard. It is of such a pungent nature that it might have called for pistols and duels if it had been hurled 75 or 100 years ago. For instance, one fellow the other day was speaking of a hypocrite he had in mind who could unfeelingly shed tears as big as his peaches. "They wouldn't be very big if they were no bigger than those peaches you sold me last summer," the other fellow said. "I sold the peaches to fit the man," was the response. And there was no fight. Everybody just laughed.—De Kalb County Herald.

The Mountain to the Pine.

Thou tall, majestic monarch of the wood, That standest where no wild vines dare creep. Men call thee old, and say thou has stood A century upon thy rugged steep; Yet unto me thy life is but a day. When I recall the things that I have seen— The forest monarchs that have passed away Upon the spot where first I saw thee green; For I am older than the age of man, Or all the living things that crawl or creep; Or birds of air, or creatures of the deep; I was first dim outline of God's plan; Only the waters of the restless sea And the infinite stars in heaven are old to me. —Clarence Hawkes.

TIP FOR OVERLY RICH.

The opulent dames who have been driven by robberies at Narragansett Pier to put their jewels in safe-deposit boxes are accomplishing most of the purposes for which jewelry is worn without taking the sparklers out of places of safety. The simplest thing would be for them to wear on their corsages certificates of their husband's or their own fortune. But it seems a little gross and somewhat more artistic if they would wear on their hair a certificate from a safe-deposit company that they had deposited one tiara, apparently worth $25,000, or around their necks a certificate representing a diamond necklace valued at $150,000, and so on. These certificates would excite almost as much admiration as the jewels they represented.

It has been discovered that the slaves of ancient Pompeii were forced to dance the turkey trot for their masters. How fearful the fate of the conquered in those days!—Washington Post.

WORLD FORESTRY

International Congress in Paris Did Good Work.

This congress, to which representatives came from every continent on the globe, and which was probably the largest forestry congress ever held, met for the expressed purpose of studying economic and technical forestry problems, and of promoting legislative and administrative reforms in order to secure the conservation of the forests, the prevention of soil erosion and the reforestation of waste lands.

Such subjects as the right of the state to regulate private forest property, or to expropriate misused and denuded forest lands to insure public safety from floods, were discussed from an international viewpoint. This state has long been recognized in Europe, where lands on watersheds can be expropriated unless managed by the owner according to strict Government regulations and an adequate forest cover maintained. The Federal Government of the United States has also recently given expression to this right by the Weeks bill, passed in 1911, for the acquisition of lands necessary to protect the watersheds and navigability of navigable rivers. By exerting promptness and foresight, the Dominion Government has been able to forestall private occupation of the forest areas now reserved on the east slope of the Rockies and on other important watersheds, but should the necessity arise, its legal right to expropriate private land for the public benefit seems to be borne out by the policy followed by other countries.

A feature of striking significance in this forestry congress at Paris, international representation and international interest in its scope, was that this congress was conceived, organized and brought to a successful fruition by the Touring Club of France, a body having no direct interest in the promotion of forestry. This club, composed of some of the most influential men in France, realized the aesthetic value of the forest to the nation—a point which is almost entirely overlooked in Canada at present. If in Canada, as in Europe, our railways and national highways were bordered by beautiful tracts of forest-land, instead of the bare, barren, fire-swept wastes so prevalent at present, the money value of such an influence on the mind of the tourists would not be the least advantage to be derived from such forests.

Too Much Political Graft.

Many say it can't be prevented, neither can warts or corns; but they are cured by Putnam's Corn Extract; it cures corns and warts without pain in twenty-four hours. Use only Putnam's, 25c at all dealers.

LORD BALLYROT IN SLANGLAND.

One evening, while paying a social call, I happened to observe a handsome photograph in a corner of my host's drawing room. Well, old chap, I'm a bit of a music lover, and I requested the young master of the household to start it in operation, you know. Forthwith he bowed to his sister:

"Hey, Sis, our roast-beef friend here with the one-cylinder eye-glass wants to hear the sawing of the harmony mill. Slip a platter of Caruso warbles into the melody trap and give him a bit of canned tenor stuff. Come on, kiddo, start the grand wopra riot!"

ROME IN MAY.

Rome has mops of glory which meet and challenge the most exultant heart. Take her in midspring, when the roses are blooming everywhere, rioting over the walls and gateways, climbing the stems of the tall stone pines, lunging amid the ruins, dancing from window to window down the length of a sober street; when the fountains flash in the open squares and dream among the bird-haunted shadows of the flex groves; when the Form and Palatine are soft with vines and gay with poppies; when the marbles in the museums glow and the mosaics in the churches sparkle like jewels; when the Cambragna grass is so thick with flowers that one can hardly walk, and the larks singing over it are "unbodied joys." Rome is a sheer intoxication then. There is nothing to do but give one's self over to her in her present aspect, not remembering her past or speculating upon her future. But glorifying utterly with her in her immediate day. One sits by the hour in the Porphosa or Medici gardens, dreaming with the fountains; one occupies an intense, narrow shadow on the edge of the Colosseum arena, and looks up at the great sweep of the sun-taked walls, with little care for their significance, but with a dazzling appreciation of their mountain-range effect against the vivid sky; one even kneels in the cool churches, and forgets that they were not made yesterday. Color and fragrance, warmth and song—that is Rome in May.—Atlantic.

NO; CAN YOU?

(Guelph Herald) Many people go to church, but few are those who remember the text. Hence now, can you remember one your pastor preached from on Sunday?

WOMEN NEED

A SAFE TONIC

And There is Nothing Better Than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Toning up the Blood.

It is said that woman's work is never done, and it is a fact that whether in society or in the home her life is filled with more cares and more worries than falls to the lot of man. For this reason women are compelled regretfully to watch the growing pallor of their cheeks, the coming of wrinkles and the thinness that becomes more distressing every day. Every woman knows that ill-health and worry is a fatal enemy to beauty, and that good health gives the plainest face an enduring attractiveness.

What women fail to realize is the fact that if the blood supply is kept rich and pure, the day of the coming of wrinkles and pallor, dull eyes and sharp headaches is immeasurably postponed. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are literally worth their weight in gold to growing girls and women of mature years. They fill the veins with the rich, red blood that brings brightness to the eye, the glow of health to sallow cheeks, and charms away the headaches and backaches that render the lives of so many women constantly miserable.

Mrs. William Jones, Crow Lake, Ont., says: "I feel that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved my life. I was so badly run down that I could hardly drag myself around. I was so bloodless that I was as pale as a sheet, and you could almost see through my hands. In fact the doctor told me my blood had all turned to water. I was taking medicine constantly, but without benefit. My mother or had so much faith in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that she bought me two boxes and urged me to take them. How thankful I am that I followed her advice. Before these were gone I began to feel better, and I continued using the Pills until I had taken five more boxes, when I was again enjoying the blessing of perfect health, with a good color in my face, a good appetite, and I feel sure a new lease of life. I will always, you may be sure, be a warm friend of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

GIRL'S COMPLETE EDUCATION.

An Australian journal says a girl's education is most incomplete unless she has learned: To cook. To mend. To be gentle. To value time. To dress neatly. To be self-reliant. To respect old age. To make good bread. To keep a house tidy. To be above gossiping. To make home happy. To be light-hearted and free-footed. To take care of the sick. To take care of the baby. To cover down cobwebs. To marry a man for his worth. To read the very best of books. To be industrious and active. To be a helpmate to her husband. To keep clear of trashy literature. To have clean and neat feet. To be a womanly woman under all circumstances. We think so, too.

Minard's Liniment Cures Gargat In Cows.

This is My Friend.

Let me tell you how I made His acquaintance. I had heard much of Him but took no heed. He sent daily gifts and presents, but I never thanked Him. He often seemed to want by friendship, but I remained cold. I was homeless and wretched and starving and in peril every hour, and He offered me shelter and comfort and food and safety; but I was ungrateful still.

At last He crossed my path, and with tears in His eyes He besought me, saying, "Come and abide with me." Let me tell you how He treats me now. He supplies all my wants. He gives me more than I dare ask. He anticipates my every need. He begs me to ask for more. He never reminds me of my past ingratitude. He never rebukes me for my past follies.

Let me tell you further what I think of Him. He is as good as He is great. His love is as ardent as it is true. He is as lavish of His promises as He is faithful in keeping them. He is as jealous of my love as He is deservingly of it. I am in all things His debtor but He bids me call Him friend.—From an old English manuscript.

"POPULAR" SONGS.

(Toronto Telegram) "I should worry, I should care, 't should marry a millionaire." "He should die, he should cry, 'I should marry another guy." The above-quoted words are a caricature of the songs that musical and literary genius has placed on the lips of the trans-Atlantic daughters of Anglo-Saxondom. There is truth in the caricature. The words are not more sordid, ignoble and vulgar than the verbiage of the typical song of to-day. How is Idealism to keep its place in the lives of a nation's men and women if Idealism is to have no place in the Songs of the Nation's Youth.

ITS ANNUAL REPORT

Agriculture Department's Yearly Review Just Out.

The report of the Minister of Agriculture for the year ending March 31, 1913, has been printed. It contains in concise and readable form a review of the work carried on by the Department of Agriculture through its several branches and divisions during the year. It includes also the orders-in-council that were passed affecting agriculture.

The report is presented under five general heads, as follows: 1. General Remarks. 2. Arts and Agriculture. 3. Patents of Invention. 4. Copyrights, Trade Marks, Industrial Designs and Timber Marks. 5. Public Health.

There is also included an appendix having reference to public health, exhibition and the seventh International Congress held at Rome against tuberculosis. Referring to the trade in dairy products, it is pointed out that for the first time in sixty years no butter was exported to the United Kingdom, but on the other hand more than six and one-half million pounds were imported into Canada during the year.

In the seed branch, among other work almost nineteen thousand samples of farm seeds were tested for farmers and seed merchants.

The Live Stock Commissioner by means of public sales distributed upwards of 1,300 breeding sheep, about one-third of which were pure-bred rams. In the record of performance about one thousand cows have been entered for test. These represent stock of about 150 farms.

Through the Experimental farms system, which includes the Central Farm and fifteen branch farms and stations, an enormous amount of work has been done during the coming winter. Many other general knowledge of its extent, but brings to light many accomplishments for agriculture. In Saskatchewan, it is pointed out that the new sowing wheat, "Marquis," yielded at the rate of 81 bushels per acre. The still newer "Prelude" wheat, which ripens much earlier than other good sorts, was sent out for quantity in promised for distribution during the coming winter. Many other useful points are recorded in the Minister's report, copies of which are available to those who apply for it to the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa.

For Women's Ailments

Dr. Mariel's Female Pills have been the Standard for 20 years and for 40 years prescribed and recommended by Physicians. Accept no other. At all druggists.

Pigeons and Chickens Can See What is Invisible to Man.

It has been slowly brought to our understanding that the world is not the same to all creatures, and probably no experiments have tended more to make this clear than those on the color sense of chickens, pigeons, owls and kestrels.

Hungry chickens and pigeons were first kept in a bright room for them to become accustomed to the light. The floor was then spread with a smooth black cloth, evenly covered with grains of wheat, a strong spectrum was thrown on it from the ceiling and the hungry animals were turned loose. They picked the wheat first from the bright red, then the ultra red, next the yellow and finally the green. They touched nothing in the blue and violet because they saw nothing; but, on the other hand, they saw the grains in the ultra red that were invisible to the men.

This proved that for chickens and pigeons the spectrum is shortened at the violet end of short wave length and extended at the red end of long wave length. This is the effect one might expect from wearing orange colored glasses and demonstrated that fowls see through such spectacles in the form of yellow and orange oil globules embedded in the light sensitive layer.

To kestrels and buzzards the brightest zone was the green instead of the red, the blue being visible. To owls the colors were as men see them.—London Mail.

I bought a horse with a supposedly incurable ringbone for $30. Cured him with $1.00 worth of MINARD'S LINIMENT and sold him for $85.00. Profit on Liniment, $54.00.

MOISE DEROSCE, Hotel Keeper, St. Philippe, Que.

An Old-school Doctor.

Oh, a wee man is my doctor, And he knows no wise old saws; He has balm for all my troubles, But he never nems and naws. All uncrinkled is his forehead, And he wears his one hair curled. His eyes are blue and anning, And he smiles on all the world. His gown is quaint in fashion, Short, to reach a dimpled knee. He has a wee foot that patters, Patter almost ceaselessly. When the shadowy dusk is falling, And my home again I see, Through the lowest pane he's peering, And his healing waits for me. All my wounds he binds up deftly, And he pours in oil and wine; Binds them with his arms so tender, As about my neck they twine. He gives hope of bright to-morrows, As his cheek on mine he lays, Weariness is all forgotten, Cheery grow the darkest days. Ah, the magic of his healing, Can't be learned by book or rule! He has taught this byline young doctor Of a very old, old school. "Time is money," quoted he Wise Guy, "Yes, but the trouble is it is so seldom an even trade," added the Simple Mug.

ISSUE NO. 34. 1913

HELP WANTED.

WANTED—EXPERIENCED WEAVERS; also apprentices to learn weaving; good wages paid while learning, and experienced weavers make the highest wages. For full particulars, apply to The Slingsby Mfg. Co., Ltd., Brantford, Ontario.

FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—STANDARD MAKE automobile; late model; roadster and touring; 25 and 40 horse power; new tires; first-class running order. Write, Don E. Morton, 236 London street, Windsor, Ont.

JAP CORONATION.

Elaborate Preparations Already Being Made.

After the observance of the first anniversary of the death of Emperor Mutsubito at the end of July, the court will begin active preparations for coronation of the new Emperor, who is now quite well again after his recent attack of pneumonia. The coronation will take place in the fall of 1914 and will be attended by great splendor and magnificence. An Imperial Coronation Commissioner will soon be appointed. It is likely that this office will be bestowed upon H. H. Genera, Prince Fushimi.

The date for coronation will be fixed and published with the signature of the Minister of the Imperial Household and the Ministers of State. At the same time the Emperor will announce the date at the Imperial Sanctuary and will send messengers to the Emperor Shrin at Ise, to the mausoleum of the Emperor Jimmu, and the mausolea of Emperors Mutsubito and Komei, to proclaim the forthcoming coronation.

One of the early preparations for the coronation will be the planting next spring of sacred rice to be used during the ceremonies. Already the rearrangement and repairs of temples and old palaces at Kyoto, where the coronation will take place, have been commenced for the suitable reception of the foreign envoys and special missions.

Minard's Liniment Cures Colds, Etc.

A SUMMER IDYLL.

The Friends of an Ottawa "White Wings."

The story is of an Indian white wing, some birds and some bread crumbs, and might be called a summer idyll.

The scene is laid in the heart of Ottawa, in a spot not without interesting local history and sentiment. Within its boundaries was old Ottawa's cemetery, in which in later years the school boys of Ottawa's early days played hide and seek among the tombstones during recess.

The Sparks street end of the old street site is now occupied by business houses. The Queen street end is kept by its owners in a grassy lawn, above which an old elm stands shade to workmen of various callings who, unforbidden, enter from the street and enjoy their noon hour in this little private park.

The Italian "white wing" follows the prosaic daily work of his profession in Queen street between Elgin and Metcalfe. At noon each working day he throws down his tools; leaves the glare of the pavement; passes through the open gate; takes his seat beneath the elm, and opens his dinner pail. His coming is eagerly watched for by the birds. Other workmen may come a few minutes before noon, the "white wing" may come a few minutes after noon, but until his white uniform appears in the gateway the birds are silent and invisible.

His appearance is the signal that brings the down in a whirling rush to the lawn, where they surround him and impatiently chatter to each other while he leisurely pries the cover off his dinner pail. And what a remarkable pail it is—so different from the pails of the other men on the other side of the lawn, and, unlike their apparatus, always has something in it. What it really contains in its depths only the "white wing" knows, but the birds know that just under its cover, and therefore, the first to come out, is delicious bread, which "the man in white," as they call him when they talk about him to one another privately, breaks off and scatters before them on their table of grass. He does this before he pushes his hand down below the bread to bring up for himself meat and other foolish things which the birds wonder how he can eat.

Although the "white wing's" little feathered guests are served first and bountifully they continue to hop around the grass, less noisy now than when they arrived, while the man in white is having his nap. By much diligence they find a crumb or two after he has gone. Then they fly away and wait for the coming of to-morrow—that is for every to-morrow except Sundays. Sunday is a day they cannot understand, and has senseless customs which they disapprove of. For one thing—on Sundays the gate leading from the street to the little park is closed, and while they can easily fly over the fence, they are sure the man in white cannot, and that he must know the gate is closed, for he never comes on that day. It comes again on Monday, and they have noticed, and have talked about it, that that is the day on which they are just twice as hungry and twice as noisy as they are on any other day.—Ottawa Citizen.

Home Training Counts.

It was down at Coney. A dozen boys were throwing balls at a cheap crockery and not doing an awful lot of damage. An elderly man with half a load blew along and bought a quarter's worth of ammunition. Smash! Smash! Smash! He shattered something with every shot. "Ah, boys," he said, as he proudly turned to the watching lads, "it's the home training that counts!"

"Much energy is not utilized. There ought to be some way of conserving the rays of the sun." "Yes, and look at all the energy that goes to waste in chewing gum. I we could only harness the gum chewers, eh?"

NEWS OF THE DAY IN BRIEF

Provincial Highways Commission Getting to Business

RECORD AEROPLANE

Investigating Poisoning of Valuable Stallions.

Dr. Mayhew testified that Mrs. Annie Bracken, the last of a family of six to die within twelve months in Toronto, succumbed to poison.

The Geological Congress in Toronto will cost $7,500.

Ald. George McMurrich, of Toronto, is very seriously ill.

The new Provincial Commission for the Improvement of Highways will organize for work at once.

Premier Whitney announced the resignation of Mr. Alex. McRae, to take the York County Shire.

Forty-one tractors, each hauling five binders, started work in a 17,000-acre wheat field in Manitoba.

Rev. Dr. A. J. Irwin, of Oakville, has been appointed professor of New Testament language and literature in Wesley College, Windsor.

The Canadian Northern new issue of $7,500,000 secured notes was oversubscribed.

The Australian Government will expedite the plans for the building of warships locally.

Henry K. Witzel, a prominent manufacturer, died in Berlin, Ont., after an extended illness.

John Galbraith was arrested at St. Thomas on a charge of bigamy.

Hon. Robert Rogers, Minister of Public Works, left on a tour of the West.

The appointment has been made of James Stewart, an insurance man and chairman of the North Perth License Commission, as Deputy Collector of Customs for Stratford port.

The steamer Seward, on her way over from Oswego with coal for Rockwood Hospital, Kingston, picked up two men and saved them from drowning.

The "Curry Block" in Frankford, Sidney Township, was burned. In the block were the post-office and William McMahon's grocery and furniture store.

Oswego Wright has finished the construction of a hydroaeroplane, which he claims will exceed the speed of an express train. He expects to use it to transport mails over inaccessible inland waterways.

Pine which broke out in the premises lately occupied by the "Pedlar People" of Oswego, at 217-221 Craig street, Montreal, destroyed a block valued at $100,000, covered by insurance.

Governor O'Neill, popular Representative Henry D. Clayton to succeed the late Senator Johnston, without express authority from the Ontario Legislature.

H. Iwata, rated as the wealthiest Japanese of Fresno County, Cal., was arrested by U. S. Immigration Inspector Brazier, and faces deportation on the ground of being in California illegally.

In a fire at Orillia the sheds behind the Grand Central Hotel, the residence of William G. Smith, and some of the buildings in the rear of J. J. Hall's butcher shop, were burned to the ground.

An investigation was held at Sibley, Ont., by Joseph Rogers, Superintendent of the Provincial Police, into the death of a prominent stationer owned by Richard Woods, a farmer of Melancton township.

AUSTRALIAN PLANS

New Commonwealth Government Big Program.

London, Aug. 18.—The eagerly-awaited announcement of the new Australian Government's programme was made yesterday, says the Sydney correspondent of the Times. The programme provides among other things for an alteration in the electoral law, restoring the postal vote, and removing the restrictions on press alterations in the arbitration act to prohibit the granting of preference to unions with political connections.

Reference was made to the Canadian reciprocity proposals for the development of overseas, and especially British markets. Those will be discussed with the High Commission.

A naval conference is being urged on the British Government. Meanwhile Rear-Admiral Henderson's proposals will be "generally adhered to." The provisions for the building of warships locally will be expedited, and high professional advice will be obtained immediately regarding the site and plans and the cost of works for naval bases. Rifle clubs will receive increased assistance. There will be a scheme for national insurance on a contributory basis. Among other proposals are one that the Postal Department should be controlled by Commissioners, and co-operation with the various states regarding immigration, on the basis of Deakin's scheme.

KEEP A RECORD

It's the Only Way to Make Dairying Pay.

Because a farmer keeps 2 herd of dairy cows, it does not necessarily follow that each one in the herd is especially adapted for dairying. The type and general appearance may be good, the temperament and disposition may promise fair results, but the real value of each one is to be measured actually and practically by just her individual yield, not the average of the herd as a whole, at the end of a full season's work.

Over and over again when dairy farmers have checked up the production separately of each cow there have been found wonderful surprises and serious disappointments. Those "good-looking" cows have turned out to be poor producers; the despised cow of insignificant appearance has often proved a splendid money-maker when her average cost of feed has been deducted from the large total yield of milk and fat. Some cow-testing figures recorded by the dairy division, Ottawa, show great contrasts. For instance, two cows yielding the same weight of milk may differ in production of fat by 175 pounds of fat. Two cows the same age may differ in profit by $25. The aged cow may do far better than the five-year-old. Two mature cows in the same herd have been known to differ in production by eight thousand pounds of milk. One herd of twelve cows last year gave thirty-six tons of milk more than another herd of twelve. How are these vital points to be definitely ascertained by the practical dairyman? Such facts are brought to light when figures are used. It is just as simple as A B C. Keep records of individual production; it takes scarcely ten minutes per cow per month, and abundantly pays every dairyman.—Dominion Department of Agriculture, branch of the Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner.

CAUSED BY MATCHES

Fire Sweeps Country North of Moira.

Belleville despatch: The country to the north of Moira is in the grip of the fire fiend. A couple of children were this morning playing with matches in a barn on the Carr homestead, on the 4th Concession, now the property of David Thompson. In a few minutes the building was reduced to ashes.

Fanned by a brisk breeze, the blaze took to the fences and fields, where everything was as dry as tinder. Aid was hurriedly summoned by telephone from all directions, and soon many neighbors were on the scene to do what they could to fight the progress of the fire. The Carr property was soon overrun, and the flames swept on to the farm of Councillor Charles Holden.

There is no water in the immediate vicinity except an inadequate supply provided by wells, and those were soon pumped dry. Milk wagons were then despatched to Moira Cheese factory, more than a mile away, where there is running water. At 2 o'clock the flames were raging uncontrolled in every direction.

WESTERN DEALERS

Who Would Buy Our Surplus Apple Stock.

The success of apple growing as an industry depends to a great extent on the securing of a good market. It is no uncommon occurrence every fall for great quantities of apples to lie about under the trees to rot or to be fed to hogs because no good market is accessible. While the fruit is thus going to waste there are thousands of householders, more especially in the Prairie Provinces, that are longing for fresh fruit of a sort that can be stored and drawn upon during the winter months. The difficulty of the one class is to reach buyers for the fruit, and of the other to find a supply at a moderate price. To bridge the gap that separates these two classes, and thereby do both an invaluable service, the Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner has issued a list of the wholesale and retail apple dealers in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and sections of New Ontario, whose addresses were available. These, which number about 275 dealers and firms, with few exceptions, are said to be in a position to buy at least one carload of fruit. This information is given in Circular No. 8 of the Dairy and Cold Storage Branch, copies of which may be secured free from the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture, at Ottawa.

I. C. R. RATE CASE

Trouble With Shippers Said to be Settled.

Ottawa despatch: The peaceful settlement of all questions with regard to freight rates on the Intercolonial Railway is now within sight. The Minister of Railways and Canals and the officials of the Government railway service have had numerous conferences with the shippers who use the Intercolonial, and an agreement is to be expected on all points.

A number of concessions have been made by the railway authorities; one particularly in which the railway has shown itself accommodating has been in taking cognizance of contracts made by Maritime Province shippers on the basis of the earlier rates. When ever this has occurred the new rates are modified. There also have been corrections in cases where the old rate underwent too drastic an increase. The general principle followed is to be that of a ten per cent. increase.

The Intercolonial rates will remain lower than those of the other railways of Canada.

BARCELONA STRIKE UNSETTLED.

Barcelona, Spain, Aug. 18.—This strike in the textile industry continues, despite the general belief that it would end yesterday. Two thousand operatives refused to reappear at the mills after the 11-hour day. It is stated officially that 2,000 men are out, and that 28 factories are closed as a result of the strike.

While there have been no serious outbreaks, the authorities are increasing their precautionary measures. In view of the fact that the transport workers are taking a referendum on the question whether they shall seize the occasion of the textile strike for a walkout.

LONDENDERRY RIOTS.

Londonderry, Aug. 18.—A typical Orange Nationalist riot resulted here today from the celebration of the "siege of Derry," the historic stand of the Protestants of the north against James II. in 1689.

Many persons on both sides were injured by stones and other missiles. One policeman is shot and is believed to be dying. Mayor Sir William McLean was struck on the head by a stone and severely hurt while trying to rescue an English visitor from a mob engaged in beating him.

SULZER IMPEACHED

Legislature Took Action This Morning.

The Self-Sacrifice of Wife Failed.

Gov. Sulzer, of New York.

Albany, N. Y., despatch: Governor Wm. Sulzer was impeached at 5.12 o'clock this morning by the Democratic majority in the Assembly of the New York Legislature, after an all-night session, and after his wife had made an eleventh-hour effort to save him at the risk of sacrificing her own reputation.

Organization leaders, who had sparred for time all night in the fear that their programme of impeachment would be wrecked by lack of votes, welcomed new comers to the Assembly chamber, summoned from New York, during the early hours, and assured of victory by their presence, started a rapid fire of legislation with the adoption of the impeachment resolution by a vote of 79 to 45.

Long articles of impeachment, embracing the findings of the Frawley Investigating Committee in substance, lay ready for presentation in the desk of Majority Leader Levy hours before the organization trusted its impeachment resolution to a roll call. With the adoption of this resolution, and the election of a committee, headed by Mr. Levy, to prepare the articles, a recess was taken. Mr. Levy and his associates went through the formality of retiring, to reappear within an hour and send the articles to the Speaker's desk, with a resolution that they be adopted.

A roll call showed the adoption of the resolution by a vote of 79 to 32. A committee was appointed to acquaint the Senate and the Assembly of the findings at the meeting of the Senate's scheduled for 11 o'clock this morning. Majority leaders assured their belief that with the presentation to the Senate of the articles of impeachment William Sulzer would automatically cease to be Governor, and Martin H. Glynn, lieutenant, would assume his office and functions as acting Governor. Mr. Sulzer's lawyers entertained a different view.

With the adoption of the articles and the appointment of the two committees, the Assembly settled down to further work. A resolution calling for the appointment of nine managers to conduct, on behalf of the Lower House, the impeachment proceedings, was adopted, and Speaker Smith announced its membership.

In the light of the revelations contained in Mrs. Sulzer's narration to Senator Palmer yesterday afternoon, Governor Sulzer's friends are inclined today to view the ordeal which confronts him with less apprehension than before his impeachment. By her assertion that she diverted part of the campaign contributions sent her husband to private purposes without his knowledge, and used them to purchase stocks in Wall street, she has shown the articles of impeachment of many of their terrors, his friends declare.

Mrs. Sulzer must take the witness stand in her husband's behalf before the court of impeachment, tell her story in detail and submit to examination by hostile lawyers, or take the hazard that the impeachers will prove their case, the Governor's friends believe. Either her reputation or her husband's, these friends fear, must suffer.

A TORONTO VICTIM

Canadian Storekeeper Murdered in New York.

New York despatch: Bound and gagged, the body of William G. Martin, who ran a millinery store at 75 1/2 Carlton street, Toronto, was found at 10 o'clock this evening in a furnished room on the second floor of 435 West 57th street. His head and face had been battered by a blunt instrument, and there seemed no doubt that he had been murdered. His pockets were rifled, and everything of value that he possessed was gone.

The body was identified by a Mrs. Barrett, of 355 West Fifty-Eighth street, who, only a few minutes before, had gone to Patrolman Riddell, on post at Columbus avenue and Fifty-Eighth street, and asked him how she might get trace of a friend who had disappeared on Monday. Judging from the information which the police gathered, it seems clear that the man was murdered between six o'clock and eight o'clock Monday evening.

After coroner Winterbottom had viewed the body early to-night, he announced that the man had been black-jacked and had been dead between 24 and 30 hours at least.

While the police had no definite clue as to the murderer or murderers, they started out to search for a Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, who have occupied the room where the man was found until Monday evening, having been there more than a week. They also were hunting for a man who was referred to by the couple as a brother of Mrs. Johnson. All three have disappeared apparently.

The body was discovered by Thomas Jones, who runs the furnished room house at that address. He found the body lying on the bed, and without making any further investigations, rushed for the police.

MILAN STRIKE OVER

Workers Pass Resolution Calling For Cessation.

Milan, Aug. 17.—At a meeting of strikers today a resolution calling for the cessation of the general strike tomorrow was passed. Ten thousand workmen attended the meeting.

The decision to cease the movement was reached as a result of promises made by the employers that they would resume the discussions with the strikers, which were broken off some time ago, and endeavor to reach an agreement on the demands of the men. Only the street car and railroad employees will continue on strike.

Some persons are of the opinion that today's action means an end of the general strike, arguing that the funds of the workmen are exhausted and that they will be forced to return to work. Others, however, express the belief that the employers will be unable to grant all the concessions demanded by the men, and that therefore the strike will be resumed shortly on a larger and fiercer scale.

Rome, Aug. 18.—Serious disorders broke out this afternoon when strikers smashed lamp-posts, broke shop windows and attacked street cars in the city. Several persons were injured in the fighting, and 500 were arrested. No serious trouble occurred in any of the other towns affected by the strike except Genoa, where a disturbance necessitated the landing of sailors to maintain order.

NEW MEAT POISON

Is Puzzling the Doctors in Montreal.

Montreal, Aug. 18.—Some new mysterious meat poison, which defies analysis, but which has already almost resulted in the wiping out of an entire family, consisting of a father, mother and three children, has just come to the notice of the city pure food authorities.

The meat, samples of which have been analyzed by Dr. Milton Hersey, the city's Chief Analyst, is apparently in good condition, but a small portion fed to a dog nearly killed the animal. Another mystifying feature of the case is that the sale of the meat was traced to a store which for cleanliness of methods has always stood high in the books of the pure food department.

A piece of the sample taken was sent to Dr. Hersey, and it was only this morning that Dr. Hood received the report of the analyst, stating that while the sample of meat submitted to him for analysis undoubtedly contained some strong poison, not poisonous, it was impossible to determine from chemical analysis exactly what kind of poison it was.

TORRID KANSAS

Nine Consecutive Days of Tropic Weather.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 18.—Reports from the various Government weather stations showed that the average temperatures in Kansas yesterday were higher than on any previous day of the year. In Missouri and Oklahoma the maximum temperature of the season was equalled. For nine consecutive days temperature in Kansas has averaged higher than 100 degrees. This has been the most severe hot weather period in Kansas in 27 years, and at Topeka yesterday marked the highest August temperature during that time, when the mercury climbed to 105.

Extreme humidity and hot winds added to the discomfort in Kansas. Clay Centre, with 112 degrees, again was the hottest point. At Manhattan, where 110 was registered, the season's record was broken. At Abilene, Ottawa, Junction City and Emporia 108 was reported. Prayers for rain were offered in the churches at Emporia last night. Showers at Atchison and Wichita yesterday afternoon held the maximum temperature down to 102. The water situation grows worse daily and stock are suffering.

CUNARDS QUIT QUEENSTOWN.

London, Aug. 18.—The British Government has agreed with the view expressed by officials of the Cunard Line that it would be dangerous for the Mauritania, the Lusitania and the Aquitania the latter to which, in course of construction, to call at Queenstown, and as the embarkation of the mails outside the harbor is uncertain on account of the weather, it is agreed that the only practicable alternative is to put all the mails aboard in Liverpool. The Government stimulates a reduction of about $150,000 a year in the mail carrying contract and the postponement of sailings until 10 p. m., Saturdays.

BALKAN ROYAL MARRIAGES.

London, Aug. 18.—The Daily Mail's Bucharest correspondent telegraphs that it is stated in diplomatic circles there that a future alliance of the Balkan peoples will be cemented by the following marriages:

Crown Prince George of Greece and Princess Elizabeth of Roumania; Crown Prince Alexander of Serbia and Grand Duchess Olga, daughter of the Czar; and Crown Prince Charles of Roumania and Grand Duchess Titianna, second daughter of the Czar.

THANKS TO M.D'S.

John Burns to the Medical Congress.

Says They've Lowered Britain's Death Rate.

London, Aug. 18.—The International Medical Congress, which the delegates from all parts of the world attending it regard as the most successful and most comprehensive ever held in the history of medicine, was brought to an end this afternoon by a speech by John Burns, president of the local Government Board, who addressed the full convolve of physicians in the Albert Hall on the subject of the relationship of medicine to the public health.

Mr. Burns, after paying a tribute to the doctors for the improvements they had effected in the science of the cure and prevention of diseases, emphasized his point by showing that as the result of the combined application of medical and sanitary science of the problem of healthy living there had been 772,811 fewer deaths in England and Wales in the years from 1909 to 1911 than there would have been had the death rate of two decades earlier continued.

Mr. Burns thought the ideal of the future work of physicians lay in advising the world as to the best means of preventing disease, dissuading people from habits inimical to their health and discovering early symptoms which, if neglected, would produce serious disease.

The speaker considered the prospect of gaining complete control over tuberculosis quite promising and intimated that general medical research was about to receive assistance from the state on a scale not heretofore contemplated.

The chief impediment in the way of the government making this expenditure had been wastefulness and one source of waste expenditure—armaments—stood head and shoulders above all others. If that was to be prevented, he continued, gigantic sums would be released for reforms which were waiting to be financed.

In the course of Mr. Burns' speech several suffragette interrupters, including a Frenchwoman, were thrown out of the Albert Hall. High up near the roof a huge banner was unfurled bearing the words "Women are being done to death under the cat and mouse act."

Mr. Burns prevented any harsh retort of the women, appealing to the audience to listen to him. He said: "We will get over this difficulty. Thanks to a good mother and a sensible doctor my voice is good enough to overcome them."

The permanent commission of the medical congress decided today that the next congress is to be held in Munich in 1917.

FALL FAIRS

To Be Held Throughout Province This Year.

Aberfoyle, Oct. 7

Abingdon, Oct. 19 and 11

Alexandria, Sept. 10 and 11

Albion, Sept. 16 and 17

Alliston, Oct. 2 and 3

Alvinston, Oct. 2 and 3

Ameliasburg, Oct. 3 and 4

Bachman, Sept. 25 and 26

Bancaster, Sept. 25 and 26

Barrie, Sept. 25 and 26

Bayville, Oct. 2 and 3

Beeton, Sept. 23 and 24

Bellefleur, Oct. 2 and 3

Belleville, Sept. 9 and 10

Berwick, Sept. 23 and 24

Blenheim, Oct. 2 and 3

Blyth, Sept. 30 and Oct. 1

Bolton, Sept. 23 and 24

Bonfield, Sept. 23 and 24

Bowmanville, Sept. 16 and 17

Bracebridge, Sept. 25 and 26

Bradford, Oct. 2 and 3

Brantford, Sept. 16 and 17

Bridges, Sept. 23 and 24

Brimley, Oct. 2 and 3

Brookville, Aug. 30 and Sept. 3

Burlington, Sept. 23 and 24

Burford, Sept. 30 and Oct. 1

Burlington, Sept. 23 and 24

Burlington, Sept. 23 and 24

Goderich, Sept. 17-19

Gordon Lake, Sept. 15 and 16

Gore Bay, Sept. 30 and Oct. 1

Goreville, Sept. 16 and 17

Grand Valley, Sept. 23 and 24

Gravenhurst, Sept. 18 and 19

Guelph, Sept. 16-18

Hamilton, Sept. 15-18

Hanover, Sept. 18 and 19

Harrow, Sept. 16 and 17

Harrowfield, Sept. 11 and 12

Hepworth, Sept. 17 and 18

Highton, Oct. 10 and 11

Holstein, Oct. 1

Huntsville, Sept. 23 and 24

Hymersville, Sept. 15 and 16

Ilderton, Sept. 23 and 24

Ingersoll, Sept. 16 and 17

Keno, Sept. 16 and 17

Jarvis, Oct. 7 and 8

Kagawong, Oct. 1 and 2

Kensington, Oct. 2 and 3

Kemble, Oct. 7 and 8

Kempville, Sept. 25 and 26

Kenora, Aug. 17 and 18

Kilbuck, Oct. 2 and 3

Kincardine, Sept. 18 and 19

Kingston, Sept. 15 and 16

Kingston, Sept. 15 and 16

Lakefield, Sept. 16 and 17

Lambeth, Sept. 16 and 17

Lanark, Sept. 12

Langton, Oct. 11

Lansdowne, Oct. 10 and 11

Leamington, Oct. 1-3

Lindsay, Sept. 18-20

Lion's Head, Sept. 16 and 17

Listowel, Sept. 16 and 17

Loring, Oct. 3

Lyndhurst, Sept. 16 and 17

Maberly, Oct. 2

Madoc, Oct. 7 and 8

Magnetawan, Sept. 23 and 24

Manitowaning, Sept. 25 and 26

Markdale, Oct. 14 and 15

Markham, Oct. 1-3

Marmora, Sept. 23 and 24

Markham, Sept. 25 and 26

Marquette, Sept. 25 and 26

Massy, Sept. 25 and 26

Matheson, Sept. 25 and 26

Maynooth, Sept. 17 and 18

Maxville, Sept. 16 and 17

McDowall, Sept. 23 and 24

Merrill, Sept. 25 and 26

McKellar, Sept. 25 and 26

Midland, Sept. 25 and 26

Milford, Sept. 25 and 26

Milbrook, Oct. 2 and 3

Milton, Oct. 7 and 8

900 DROPS

CASTORIA

Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of

INFANTS CHILDREN

Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC.

Recipe of Old Dr. J. C. HITCHCOCK

Pumpkin Seed -
Aloe Sassa -
Sulphur Sassa -
Sassa Seed -
Sassa Root -
Sassa Bark -
Sassa Wood -
Sassa Sugar -
Sassa Syrup -

Perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.

Fac Simile Signature of
Dr. J. C. Hitchcock
NEW YORK.

At all Druggists 610
35 DROPS 35 CENTS

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought Bears the Signature of

Dr. J. C. Hitchcock

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

SOWING HIS WILD OATS
REAPING A HARVEST OF SORROW

How many young men can look back on their early life and regret their misdeeds. "Sowing their wild oats" in various ways. Excesses, violation of nature's laws, "wine, women and song"—all have their victims. You have reformed but what about the seed you have sown—what about the harvest? Don't trust to luck. If you are at present within the clutches of any secret habit which is sapping your life by degrees; if you are suffering from the results of past indiscretions; if your blood has been tainted from any private disease and you dare not marry; if you are married and live in dread of symptoms breaking out and exposing your past; if you are suffering as the result of a mispent life—DRS. K. & K. ARE YOUR REFUGE. Lay your case before them confidentially and they will tell you honestly if you are curable.

YOU CAN PAY WHEN CURED

We Treat and Cure VARICOSE VEINS, NERVOUS DEBILITY, BLOOD and URINARY COMPLAINTS, KIDNEY and BLADDER Diseases and all Diseases Peculiar to Men.

CONSULTATION FREE. Books Free on Diseases of Men. If unable to call, write for a Question Blank for HOME TREATMENT.

DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY
Cor. Michigan Ave. and Griswold St., Detroit, Mich.

NOTICE All letters from Canada must be addressed to our Canadian Correspondence Department in Windsor, Ont. If you desire to see us personally call at our Medical Institute in Detroit as we see and treat no patients in our Windsor offices which are used for correspondence and Laboratory for Canadian business only. Address all letters as follows:

DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY, Windsor, Ont.
Write for our private address.

A 'CROSS COUNTER TALK

Customer: "What constitutes good paint?"
Dealer: "Good paint depends on the materials used, the processes of manufacture, and the skill of the paint maker—no more, no less."
"Showin-Williams Paint, Prepared, is good paint—the best paint, in fact, that can be made. No care or detail is lacking in its manufacture. The materials employed are of the highest quality and are properly put together by experienced paint makers. The linseed oil—the vital part of paint—used in S.W.P. is made especially by The S.W. Co. in their own mill. The pigments are selected with greatest care and scrupulously tested. The tinting colors are products of the Company's own dry color works. And the mills used for grinding and mixing are designed and made in the machine shops of the Company. They embody the most advanced ideas in paint making. With such high quality materials, such care and attention, S.W.P. must be and is good paint all the way through."

Everything in Shelf and Heavy Hardware
Paints, Oils, Glass, Putty, Etc.

E. J. PURCELL, Athens

Women's Institute Meeting

The August meeting of the Women's Institute will be held in the town hall on Aug. 30th at 2.30. Will every member feel it her duty to be present, as business of a very important nature interesting to all is to be discussed.

Any lady who has any particular subject she would like taken up by the winter work will kindly have the name of her subject written and will drop it into a box which will be found at the door.

Scores Napanee School Board

The school board is losing the services of U. J. Flach who has been principal of the school for thirteen years, and has been uniformly successful. Under Mr. Flach's guidance the school maintained a high standing and the action of the school board in according Mr. Flach so graciously treatment is to be regretted.

CAINTOWN

Aug. 12
The men in this section are all busy with their harvesting.

The Sunday school picnic which was held last Thursday was a grand success. Mr. Teddy Hewitt, of Gananogue, spent a few days last week a guest of Fred Tennant.

Mrs. Peter Coby is spending a few days visiting friends in the States.

Mrs. Hogaboom and children, of Mallorytown, were guests last week of Mrs. James Eligh.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kelly went to Brockville on Saturday.

BROCKVILLE FAIR AND HORSE SHOW

A Bigger and Better Exhibition than Ever Before

Arrangements for the forthcoming Brockville Fair and Horse Show, to be held Aug. 30th and Sept. 1st, 2nd and 3rd are now about completed, and everything points to the most successful Fair Brockville has ever held. As was the case last year, the directors have got away from the old idea of having a bigger program on one of the days, and at a much increased expense are making every day worth a visit.

A big program for every day is their motto. The directors have been particularly fortunate in being able to make arrangements with Captain Thomas Baldwin for two flights each afternoon in his famous "Red Devil" passengers carrying aeroplane. Capt. Baldwin is one of the most noted aeronauts in America. He is also the inventor of the parachute, and on Jan. 20, 1887, made the first leap with the parachute at San Francisco, Cal. At a great expense the directors have also secured the Brooker troupe of Arabs, who will give two exhibitions in front of the grand stand each afternoon. These Arabs were brought to America by the management of the New York Hippodrome to take part in "Around the World" production. For months they held New York spell-bound at every performance with their marvelous feats of tumbling, balancing and general gymnastics.

The big purses being offered for trials of speed are sure to bring together many of the most noted Canadian and American horses, and all lovers of this kingly sport have a great treat in store.

It will be noted that the Fair opens on Saturday, Aug. 30, but this day will be occupied entirely in placing exhibits in the various buildings. The Fair really opens to the public on Labor Day, Sept. 1, and every moment of that and the two succeeding days will be crowded with events, accompanied with a feast of music by the best bands.

THE BRITISH PRECEDENT

The Pioneer: "British precedent" was the answer given by the Ontario Government to the demand for some defence of the manifestly unjust three-fifths requirement that was carried through the Legislature seven years ago, in spite of strong and emphatic public protest. The Hon. Mr. Hanna cited the fact that in a Bill which was before the English House of Commons in 1893, intended to give the electors some Local Option power over the liquor traffic, it was proposed that a three-fifths vote should be necessary for the exercise of that power. Over and over again the changes were rung upon this so-called "precedent," regardless of the fact that the Bill referred to had never been passed.

Up till the present time Great Britain has never had a Local Option Law. The question of Local Option for Scotland has been before Parliament for many years. A so-called Scottish Temperance Bill has been one of the measures over which the Lords and Commons have quarrelled. The Government had practically undertaken to put it through under the Parliament Act over the Lord's opposition. Now comes the news that the quarrel is over. A compromise has been arrived at between the Secretary for Scotland and representatives of the Conservative Peers. The Bill will be passed and IT WILL NOT CONTAIN A THREE-FIFTHS CLAUSE.

PHILIPSVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Vanantwerp, of Detroit, Mich., are guests of the latter's brother, Mr. and Mrs. Arvin Brown, for a few weeks.

Miss A. Aguire was the guest of friends at Garrett's Rest, on the Rideau, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitmore and daughter were week-end visitors at Dr. Lillie's cottage on the Rideau.

Mr. Floyd Denny, wife and child, of Portland, are visitors at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Arvin Brown.

George Watt has to go to the hospital again.

Mr. W. W. Topping, station agent, has been transferred to Athens and his family moved there last week.

DEATH BY ACCIDENT

Harlem, Aug. 15—William Irwin, aged 82, fell from his milk-wagon this morning half way home from taking his milk to the Harlem factory, and was found dead shortly afterward by F. Bedard. Medical aid being summoned it was found that the neck of the deceased was dislocated, and the supposition is that he either had a faint spell and fell off or that he was accidentally jolted off. Death was instantaneous. The deceased, a life-long and highly respected resident of the locality, lives on his farm about two miles north-east of Harlem. He leaves a widow and seven children—four girls and three boys, all living at home—to mourn his loss.

LOST VITALITY

Caused by Kidney, Stomach and Bowel Disorders

St. John, N.B., September 18th, 1911
—My brother was a great sufferer from kidney, stomach and bowel troubles and was given up by two doctors. He was advised to try your Fig Pills, which he did, and after taking five boxes was completely restored to health and is better to-day than he has been for years. You can't recommend Fig Pills too highly.

J. W. MANVERS
At all dealers, 25 and 50 cents or the Fig Pill Co., St. Thomas, Ont.

VOTERS' LIST POSTING

Rear Yonge & Escott 1913

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that I have transmitted or delivered to the persons mentioned in Sections 8 and 9 of the Ontario Voters' List Act, the copies required by said sections to be so transmitted or delivered of the list, made pursuant to said Act, of all persons appearing by the said Revised Assessment Roll of the last Municipal Council to be entitled to vote in the said Municipality at Elections for members of the Legislative Assembly and at Municipal Elections; and that the said list was first posted up in my office at Athens on the 19th day of August, and remains there for inspection.

Electors are called upon to examine the said list, and if any omissions or other errors are found therein to take immediate proceedings to have the said errors corrected according to law.

R. E. CORNELL,
Clerk of the said Municipality.
Dated the 19th day of August, 1913

SEASONABLE FASHIONS

The latest fashion plates now here. Call and select the style of Suit you want for Winter wear.

LATEST FABRICS

We have in stock a line of new goods of extra value. Leave your order at "The Old Reliable" and you will get garments that will fit well look well and wear well.

A. M. CHASSELS

WANTED Good Local Agent

at once to represent the OLD & RELIABLE FORTHILL NURSERY. Splendid list of fruit and ornamental stock for Fall delivery 1913 and Spring delivery 1914.

Start at once and secure exclusive territory. We supply handsome free outfit and pay highest commissions.

Write for full particulars.
STONE and WELLINGTON
The Fonthill Nurseries
Toronto — Ontario

PHILIPSVILLE

DATES OF FAIR. AUG. 30, SEPT. 1, 2 and 3. DATE OF FALL TERM, SEPT. 2. DATE OF NEW YEAR TERM JAN. 5, 1914.

No Entry Fee Required No Entry Fee Required

Another Interesting and Instructive Contest

$61.00 SIXTY DOLLARS IN PRIZES $60.00

1st Prize—A full three month course of tuition, value . . . $30.00
2nd Prize—One half of above, value $15.00
3rd Prize—One third of above, value $10.00
4th Prize—One sixth of above, value $ 5.00

What To Do

Find out how many names of Canadian cities, towns, villages, counties and townships you can make out of the letters which form the words:

BROCKVILLE BUSINESS COLLEGE

Each correct name will count as one point and ten points will be added for penmanship and neatness.

Send your completed list to G. C. McLEAN, Sec'y, Brockville Fair, or to W. T. ROGERS, Principal Brockville Business College.

N.B.—Every person is eligible no matter where residence may be. Successful competitors not wishing to use tuition may transfer same.

The above contest is in connection with the Brockville Fair. The awards will be announced in due time in the press.

Brockville Business College
BROCKVILLE — ONTARIO
W. T. ROGERS,—PRINCIPAL

YOU HAVE ALREADY MADE YOUR PLANS TO ATTEND THE

BROCKVILLE FAIR
Sept. 1st, 2nd, and 3rd

And while there do not fail seeing the Great Exhibit in the main building, of rare and beautiful Plants and Flowers, shown by Brockville's Leading and well known florists

THE HAY FLORAL & SEED CO.

And be sure and spend an hour or so at their Greenhouses before leaving the City; where you will see something new and attractive—Greenhouses are directly on the way to the fair grounds, Corner of King Bethune Sts. Open Day and Night—

Hay's Exhibit is a Show in Itself

OTTAWA
Sept. 5-13, 1913
Central Canada
EXHIBITION

Freight paid on All Live Stock Exhibits from Ontario and Quebec Points.

Two Daily Aeroplane Flights starting from front of Grand Stand.

Great Spectacular Show, "Siege of Delhi" and Latest Creations in Fireworks.

Full Programme Six Days and Six Nights
New $100,000 Implement Hall Completed

$20,000 in Premiums
Industrial Displays
Free Band Concerts
Big Improved Midway

Exciting Horse Races
8 Vaudeville Troupes
Lowest Railway Rates
Entries Close Aug. 29

Prize List, Programme, Etc., sent on application.

E. McMahan, Manager,
26 Sparks St. Ottawa.

Harvesters' Excursions

BY CANADIAN PACIFIC RY.
Monday, August 18th.
Wednesday, September 3rd.

TO WINNIPEG AND THE WEST

$10.00 to Winnipeg
1 2c per mile beyond including Edmonton, Calgary and MacLeod

Return ticket good until November 30th, 1913, at $18.00 from Winnipeg

Homeseekers' 60 Day

Return Excursions to the Canadian West
Every Tuesday. Very low fares

A. GRAHAM, CITY AGENT
Brockville City Ticket and Telegraph Office, east corner King St. and Court House Ave.
Agency for all Steamship Lines

LUMBERING

and
SAW-MILLING

I am installing a
New Mill

near Athens
and am now in a position to guarantee the best of good work.

Custom sawing will be given prompt attention.

I am in the market for the purchase of all kinds of logs. Arrangements for sale and delivery may be made now.

WOOD—Orders will be taken for 1,000 cords of wood. Will begin delivering with first sleighing.

SHINGLES—When you want shingles, learn what we have to offer.

F. BLANCHER, Athens

Electric Restorer for Men

Phosphonal restores every nerve in the body to its proper tension, restores vim and vitality, premature decay and all sexual weakness averted at once. Phosphonal will make you a new man. Price $2 a box, or two for $5. Mailed to any address. The Scobell Drug Co., St. Catharines, Ont.

Dr. de Van's Female Pills

A reliable French regulator; never fails. These pills are exceedingly powerful in regulating the generative portion of the female system. Relieve all cheap imitations. Dr. de Van's are sold in a box, or three for $10. Mailed to any address. The Scobell Drug Co., St. Catharines, Ont.

A REQUEST

(By Crawford Slack)

As I read obituaries in the papers day by day,
And note the floral tributes which the friends and mourners pay,
I kind of get to thinking, that a lot of coin is spent,
To advertise a sympathy that's only half way meant.
I notice too, the papers all, will say the nicest things,
Branding some old skin-flint sinner, a saint with golden wings,
So for those who view me kindly I will say for them instead,
Send your bouquets while I'm living, you may knock me when I'm dead.

No matter how we've spent our lives, no matter what we've been,
There's not much consolation, to wait for death to win,
There's not much consolation, to think that when you're gone,
They'll wreath your mound with flowers, or carve your name in stone.
So do not hoard your eulogies and kindly things to say,
About me till I slumber in my overcoat of clay,
When I'm gone it will not matter, what concerning me is said
If you've anything to offer, send it on before I'm dead.

What would it benefit me if the Slabtown Weekly Times
Would print a page when I cash in, of melancholy rhymes,
Of course, 'tis nice for relatives to have the press speak so,
And to receive a wagon load of flowers from those you leave behind,
But just as far as I'm concerned, I really do not mind,
For those who feel the saddest, I note that yesterday
About the one departed had the meanest things to say.
So, I'll say for my admirers, that while I linger here
Send your wreaths and sprays and pillows and with them a word of cheer
They won't make me vain nor giddy, neither will they swell my head,
While I'm living send your greeting, Keep the thorns until I'm dead.

Sale of Remedies for Headache!

There are more ZUTOO tablets for headache sold in this country than all other remedies combined. Think how good these tablets must be to have such an immense sale.
Dealers could not sell them nor would people buy ZUTOO tablets in such large quantities, were they not what all users say they are, that is, a perfectly harmless and reliable cure for headache.
Do YOU use these tablets which so many people have chosen as best? If you don't, it is your next move. 25c at dealers

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

DR. C. M. B. CORNELL.
COR. GARDEN AND PINE ST
BROCKVILLE
PHYSICIAN SURGEON & ACCOUCHEUR

DR. T. F. ROBERTSON
COR. VICTORIA AVE AND PINE ST.
BROCKVILLE ONT.
EYE, EAR, THROAT AND NOSE.

J. A. McBROOM
Physician and Surgeon
X-Rays and Electricity employed in treatment of cancer and chronic diseases
COURT HOUSE SQUARE - BROCKVILLE

DR. G. H. R. HAMILTON
PHYSICIAN, SURGEON, ACCOUCHEUR
OFFICE HOURS—12.30-2.30 p.m.
6.30-8.00 p.m.
ATHENS

DR. H. C. PRICHARD
DENTIST
PIERCE BLOCK, ATHENS
Open Evenings

DR. G. J. STEPHENS, V. S.
Experienced Veterinary
Main Street - Athens
Next Karley & Purcell's Hardware Store
ell Phone Rural Phone

Fire Insurance

E. J. PURCELL
AGENT for the Royal, Monarch, Waterloo Mutual Fire Insurance Companies. Risks promptly effected.
Office and residence, Henry Street, Athens

Scobell's Liquor, Tobacco and Drug Cure Permanently dispels the need for Alcohol, Tobacco and Drugs. It counteracts the effects almost instantly—removes all cravings. After taking the treatment there will never be any need to drink intoxicating liquors or use any other habit-forming substance. Price—$10.00. The

LADIES' AID AT CHARLESTON

What proved to be a most delightful outing was held at Charleston on Thursday last, where the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church held a basket picnic and their monthly meeting at the summer home of Mr and Mrs W. F. Earl, where they were most cordially entertained for the day.
Early in the forenoon rigs and autos conveyed a good number and at the noon hour nearly forty sat down to a sumptuous repast. At 2 p. m. the meeting was held on the verandah and the business transacted for the month. We were pleased to have with us Miss Marguerite Hughes of Renfrew, who favored us with two vocal solos which were much enjoyed.
Those who wished to go were given a sail up the lake in a motor boat. On the return the camera was put to use and several snapshots were taken of the entire company, both young and old. Even one of the oldest was made to realize she was once more young, and was taken for a ride in the best turn-out we could find.
Once more we were reminded that tea was ready, after which a vote of thanks was tendered the host and hostess, which was carried unanimously. The party started for home singing "He's a jolly good fellow."

OLIVER—OWEN

Toronto News (Aug. 7)
Grace Church was the scene of a pretty wedding at high noon to-day when the marriage was solemnized of Miss Ella Esther Owen, niece of Mr and Mrs W. T. Merrick, of 110 Admiral road, to Mr Franklin Oliver. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. James Bronghall, Mr Holly presiding at the organ. During the signing of the register Miss Marjorie Hutchins sang "All Mine Alone." The bride was given away by her uncle, Mr Merrick, and wore a graceful gown of white crepe charmeuse trimmed with Chantilly lace and sprays of orange blossom. Her tulle veil was arranged as a Juliet cap with wreath of orange blossoms and she carried a shower of roses and lily of the valley, and also wore the groom's gift, a pearl and diamond necklace. Miss Lillian Oliver, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid and wore white satin veiled with white marquisette embroidered in forget-me-nots. She wore a white picture hat faced with blue and trimmed with pink rosebuds and forget-me-nots and carried pink roses. Her gift from the groom, was a bar pin of pearls and peridots, and to the best man, Mr A. Cummings, he gave a pearl tie pin, the soloist receiving a pair of cameo earrings. The ushers were Mr Rex Merrick, Mr Stanley Bennett, Mr P. Bennett, of Ottawa, and Mr Fred Hipwell. To each the groom gave a pearl tie pin. After the ceremony Mrs Merrick, the bride's aunt, held a reception and was wearing a nice blue silk poplin, and white hat trimmed with pink roses veiled in black tulle. The groom's mother was in peacock blue satin veiled with black and gold lace. The bride and groom left later for the Maritime Provinces and New York, the former traveling in a smart black coat and skirt of shepherd's plaid. On return they will reside in the Beaufort Apartments, 359 Davenport road.

THE WORLD'S PEACE RECORD

The preliminary celebration of the hundred years of peace between the United States and Canada at Fort Erie last week, the forerunner of the bigger celebration in 1914, is something that should interest every citizen of this Dominion. These two countries, with a boundary line of three thousand miles without fort or armament of any kind, have, in the language of the dairyman, made a world's record, a record that should make some of the nations of the earth who are in constant preparation for war, sit up and think. We talk about European civilization and all that, but it would seem as if the real civilization, the only civilization that counts for anything, has been transferred to this side of the Atlantic. Neither country has suffered socially, commercially or in any other way because of it. In fact United States and Canada have made a world's record in commercial expansion and agricultural development during these one hundred years of peace and prosperity. There is something in all this for the advocate of militarism and naval expansion, whether he live in this or any other country, to think about. There is a way to settle all difficulties between nations, and the two big countries of this North American Continent have shown what it is. The peoples of both lands stand for peace and not war, for progress and prosperity, two conditions that cannot be secured by war. Both countries are largely agricultural, and this may have considerable to do with their peace loving proclivities. Agriculture makes for peace. It is as separate from war and conquest as day is from night. Where a state of war exists, agriculture is the backbone of a nation, militarism cannot prosper.—Canadian Farm.

HARDWARE

The attention of Farmers - and - Builders
Is directed to my stock
Shelf and Heavy Hardware
Paints and Oils
Glass and Putty
Gardening Tools
Spades, Shovels, Forks etc.
All my goods are of the latest design the product of reliable manufacturers and will give good satisfaction.
Choice line of cutlery and many articles for the household.
We ask only a fair price and invite inspection of the values offered.
Open every even ng.
W. G. JOHNSON

B.W. & N. W

RAILWAY TIME-TABLE

GOING WEST

	No. 1	No. 3
Brookville (leave)	9.45 a.m.	4.10 p.m.
Lyn	10.10	4.25
Seeleys	*10.20	4.32
Forthton	*10.33	4.43
Elbe	*10.39	4.48
Athens	10.53	4.55
Soperton	*11.13	5.12
Lyndhurst	*11.20	5.19
Delta	11.28	5.25
Elgin	11.47	5.39
Forfar	*11.55	5.45
Crosby	*12.03	5.50
Newboro	12.13	6.00
Westport (arrive)	12.30 p.m.	6.15

GOING EAST

	No. 2	No. 4
Westport (leave)	7.00 a.m.	2.45 p.m.
Newboro	7.15	3.05
Crosby	*7.25	3.18
Forfar	*7.30	3.24
Elgin	7.36	3.37
Delta	7.50	4.00
Lyndhurst	*7.56	4.10
Soperton	*8.03	4.19
Athens	8.20	4.55
Elbe	*8.27	5.02
Forthton	*8.32	5.08
Seeleys	*8.43	5.20
Lyn	8.50	5.31
Brookville (arrive)	9.05	6.00

*Stop on signal
W. J. CURLE, Sup t

Write for a free copy of this book

For a farmer's silo, a county road, or a railroad bridge,

CANADA Portland CEMENT

can be depended upon to make concrete that will last for generations.—There is only one grade—the best that science and skill can make.

The label on every bag is your guarantee of satisfaction.

Canada Cement Company Limited, Montreal

There is a Canada Cement dealer in your neighborhood—if you do not know him, ask us for his name.

EXCURSIONS TO OTTAWA EXHIBITION

The round trip to the Ottawa Exhibition will cost only two-thirds of the lowest one-way first class fare and 25 cents. The zone of these low rates extends beyond Quebec in the east, and Toronto, Sudbury and the Sault in the west, stretching southward into New York and Vermont states.
On Monday, Wednesday and Friday, September 8th, 10th and 12th excursion tickets will be sold at all stations in Ontario and Quebec, east of Ottawa, Kemptville Junction and Prescott, to and including Quebec city, Levis and Megantic; Ottawa to Prescott, inclusive; Swanton and stations. Richford to Newport, Vermont and Rouse's Point, Fort Covington, Bombay, Helena, and Massena Spring, New York.

On Tuesday, Thursday and Friday of the same week, the excursion tickets will be sold west of the territory described, in Canada, to and including Toronto and Sudbury and all intermediate branches and stations.

Those not taking advantage of excursion days will be able to purchase round trip tickets for Ottawa at the lowest one-way first-class fare. All tickets are good to up to September 15th.

The Exhibition City

The new Livestock Department at the Canadian National Exhibition will give splendid accommodation for the fine animals for which the Big Fair is noted. It also adds a finish to the appearance of the grounds more than anything else has done. The Exhibition City with its $2,500,000 worth of buildings, its paved streets and its lighting plant of 40,000 lamps has no rival on the American continent.

The County Road Commissioners have informed Major Donegan that work will be commenced in Gananoque by September 1st.

Brockville Fair and Horse Show
BROCKVILLE, ONT.

Aug. 29th and Sept. 1st, 2nd and 3rd, 1913

Bigger and better than ever

$3,000 in Prizes

$3,500 for trials of Speed

Two Aeroplane Flights every Afternoon

The Famous Booker Arabs

Direct from the New York Hippodrome in their Marvellous and Thrilling Performance Every Afternoon

Mirth and Music on the Midway

No Best Day--Every Day

Worth a Visit

An Abundance of the Best Music

Reduced Rates on all Railways and Boats

This will be the Greatest Show in the History of the Brockville Fair

Prize List or any information on application to

G. C. McCLEAN, Secretary

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON VIII.

(August 24, 1913.)

The Bread from Heaven.—Exod. 15: 27-16: 36.

Commentary.—I. Israel in want. (15: 27, 16: 3.) It is probable that the journey from Marah to Elim was short, yet the location of Marah is not certainly known. The abundant water supply at Elim and the refreshing shade of the palm trees brought encouragement to the travelers after the days of weariness and want in the desert. Palm trees grow only where there is water. It is natural to suppose that Israel encamped here two or three weeks, for it was a month from their departure from Rameses to their breaking camp at Elim, along the coast of the Gulf of Suez, and is a rather barren region, yet furnishing some pasture for flocks and some supply of water.

II. The promise of food (vs. 4, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36). The Lord said to Moses, 'I will rain bread from heaven for thee; and thou shalt say unto the people, This is the bread which the Lord hath given you to eat that day.' The supply of food brought from Egypt was exhausted, and the desert did not furnish sufficient for the immense host, therefore the supply must come from some other source. God promised to provide food miraculously. A certain rate of supply was given for each day would be provided as the days came, and the people would realize their constant dependence upon God. That I may prove them—This would be a test of their obedience and faith. The sixth day—Here is an emphatic setting forth of the law of the Sabbath in a practical way. Twice as much—the morning seems to be that, as the supply will be more abundant on the sixth day, so every one will naturally gather more; and when they come to prepare it, they will find that it is just twice as much as they gathered usually.—Gen. 2: 2, 3. The Lord said, 'I will rain bread from heaven for thee; and thou shalt say unto the people, This is the bread which the Lord hath given you to eat that day.' The supply of food brought from Egypt was exhausted, and the desert did not furnish sufficient for the immense host, therefore the supply must come from some other source. God promised to provide food miraculously. A certain rate of supply was given for each day would be provided as the days came, and the people would realize their constant dependence upon God. That I may prove them—This would be a test of their obedience and faith. The sixth day—Here is an emphatic setting forth of the law of the Sabbath in a practical way. Twice as much—the morning seems to be that, as the supply will be more abundant on the sixth day, so every one will naturally gather more; and when they come to prepare it, they will find that it is just twice as much as they gathered usually.—Gen. 2: 2, 3.

III. The manna given (vs. 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36). The manna given was a sign of God's presence and care for his people. It was a daily reminder of their dependence upon God. The manna was a white, crystalline substance that appeared on the ground in the morning and disappeared by noon. It was a miracle of God's power and a sign of His love for His people.

IV. The manna given (vs. 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36). The manna given was a sign of God's presence and care for his people. It was a daily reminder of their dependence upon God. The manna was a white, crystalline substance that appeared on the ground in the morning and disappeared by noon. It was a miracle of God's power and a sign of His love for His people.

Questions.—What occurred at Marah? Where was Elim? What rendered this a favorable camping place for Israel?

Why did the people murmur against Moses and Aaron? What was there in Egypt that the people desired? What promise did the Lord make to Israel regarding supplies of food? Where did the people see the glory of the Lord? What tests were brought upon the children of Israel? How was food provided? Describe the manna. What amount was to be gathered? How long would it keep? Tell about the Sabbath's supply.

Practical Survey. Topic—Israel under training. I. Were selfish and distrustful. II. Were sustained and instructed. I. Were selfish and distrustful. The Red Sea victory had made Israel glad. They sang their first national song; they breathed the air of liberty; but soon the days of their first great exuberant joy were over, to be followed by bitter disappointment at Marah. As usual, the people murmured, and Moses prayed. God was endeavoring to teach his people to have faith in him for support, as well as deliverance. Being free from the bondage of Egypt, Israel must learn that their defects of character were their greatest hindrances and dangers. Because of this it required a prolonged course of training to prepare them for their promised inheritance. Israel murmured instead of praying. Their efforts to make their present situation look as dark as possible led them to magnify the advantage of their former life. They labored to make out of a case of ill treatment in expressions of accusation and reproach and evil suggestion. Fearing starvation, they recalled the delights of the flesh-pots of Egypt, omitting to reflect on their severe toils day after day, their misery as slaves and the loss of their children. They omitted equally to consider what they had gained by quitting Egypt, the consciousness of freedom, the full liberty of worshipping God, the constant society of their families, the practical evidence of God's presence and providential care.

II. Were sustained and instructed. Out of Israel's bitter disappointment and fear God made gladness to arise. He transformed trial into blessing, teaching that every evil and every disappointment has its compensation. The healing of the bitter waters was a proof of God's willingness to heal them of all natural and spiritual diseases. In the preliminary stages of the wilderness education, God made merciful allowances for Israel, and gave them time to improve by his teaching. Moses summoned the people to draw near the Lord and the glory of the Lord appeared in the cloud, as a check to their murmuring, as an introduction to the miracle which was to follow, as a warning of the danger of further rebellion and to prompt them to obedience. Manna was given in consideration of a great and urgent necessity. It was peculiarly the gift of God. Faith had to be exercised in the providence of God that each day would bring its appointed supply. The manna taught a daily lesson of dependence on God and so formed an important part in the spiritual education of Israel. God wanted Israel, who felt the pang of hunger to be equally sensitive to the perils of impiety. He would have them form habits of obedience and trust. God's first step, even before giving the law from Sinai, was to put on a proper path. During two thousand weeks God gave them this aid to Sabbath observance. The responsibilities and opportunities of the family relation which had been touched upon in the institution of the Passover are repeated upon here. Each head of a household was directed to see that the daily supply was gathered for his family. This standing miracle of forty years' duration is a proof of all the Bible assumes concerning the personality, love and power of God. The plan of God guarded the Sabbath and cared for soul and body to meet Israel's needs for temporal and spiritual life. The only condition on their part to becoming a prosperous nation was obedience to God's commands. The institution of the Sabbath was more than a law. It was an expression of mercy. Rest from labor and devotion to religion began at the creation and Israel had proved how desolate they had become by the neglect of the Sabbath. The reinstatement of the Sabbath connected the present with the present in Israel and provided for a prosperous future.

III. The manna given (vs. 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36). The manna given was a sign of God's presence and care for his people. It was a daily reminder of their dependence upon God. The manna was a white, crystalline substance that appeared on the ground in the morning and disappeared by noon. It was a miracle of God's power and a sign of His love for His people.

IV. The manna given (vs. 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36). The manna given was a sign of God's presence and care for his people. It was a daily reminder of their dependence upon God. The manna was a white, crystalline substance that appeared on the ground in the morning and disappeared by noon. It was a miracle of God's power and a sign of His love for His people.

Questions.—What occurred at Marah? Where was Elim? What rendered this a favorable camping place for Israel?

A DRAMATIC SCENE AT SEA WHERE THE BONES OF THE TITANIC LAY

This photograph was taken aboard the liner Franconia during the memorial services on board at the spot where the "Titanic" went down. It shows the passengers assembled on deck while they sang "Nearer My God to Thee." A wreath made of leaves from the English garden of William T. Stead, the editor who went down with the "Titanic" was cast into the sea at the request of his children, who commissioned Miss Kate Stevens, long associated with their father in his reform work, to perform this tribute to their beloved dead.

July 1, being the record of ten hens or pullets for the previous seven months and a half, are as follows: England, No. 2, s. c. white Leghorns, 1,529 eggs; Pen No. 19, silver Wyandottes, 1,270 eggs; Pen No. 57, black Langshans, Missouri, 1,248 eggs; Pen No. 20, white Wyandottes, 1,222 eggs; Pen No. 30, buff Wyandottes, 1,212 eggs; Pen No. 33, barred Rocks, Ill., 1,192 eggs; Pen No. 11, black Minorcas, 1,190 eggs; Pen No. 26, buff Wyandottes, 1,192 eggs; Pen No. 8, s. c. white Leghorns, California, 1,185 eggs; Pen No. 23, silver Wyandottes, 1,182 eggs; Pen No. 50, black Minorcas, 1,117 eggs; Pen No. 9, s. c. brown Leghorns, Missouri, 1,180 eggs.

A thing which is worthy of consideration is the fact that pen No. 11, black Minorcas, from Iowa, is a pen which was entered in the last year's contest and made a very poor record. The owner was not discouraged and entered the same hens again this year. More than half of them are two-year-old hens and they were among the leading pens last month, and tied a pen of Anconas from Missouri for the silver cup for June, each pen laying 212 eggs. A pen of white Leghorns from California also went in to the ranks of the first twelve pens and others moved up the list, as will be seen by comparing last month's report and this. The hens and pens which continue to lay a reasonable number of eggs during the hot weather are going to be the hens and pens which win.

NOTES. There is no sense and often much harm in dragging a whole flock to cure a few sick individuals. Free range, plenty of shade and loose soil, good food and clean water are essentials in the growth of young chicks. Such treatment means large, early matured and vigorous cockerels and causes pullets to lay early and continuously. Don't think that pure bred chickens need to be crossed in any way to make better. The able fowl man everywhere in fowls are not cholera at all, but simply lack of attention, of the right kind of food and of a good grit. It does not pay to visit the shows and tell people you have much better ones at home and that you could easily beat the prize winners. It is the feed and not the breed which makes the able fowl man everywhere. Lime in the form of whitewash on the walls should be applied at least twice a year. One advantage possessed by bran is that it contains a fair proportion of the phosphates and fat that may be used with the ration in order to render it complete. Charcoal is one of the best disinfectants and purifiers of the animal system. The Leghorns will lay fewer eggs when moulting than the Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes or Langshans. Whatever the Leghorns do they do with a will. When they lay they shell out the eggs as though they were paid for the job, and when they moult they simply moult. Most of the diseases which our fowls contract are caused by carelessness on the one hand or by too much care on the other. The time to prepare for the poultry season of 1914 is now. Build the houses required, so that there will be no chance for not obtaining the right start. Waiting until the last moment to order the hatching eggs, day-old chicks, stock, incubators or brooders does not pay. Poultry is always profitable when properly managed on a small scale, and the outlay of money not large, but when entering it to make a living it is altogether a different proposition. The expenditure must be considerably larger to make it pay. Proper equipment must be obtained, as in any other line of business, and the larger one goes into it the more capital is required. Cotton—the snowy fleece of southern

FARM GARDEN. U. S. CROP PROSPECTS. The following is a summary of the "Annual Crop Report" of the Continental and Commercial National Bank, of Chicago: Less prodigal on the whole than last year, the important crops of the country are above the average, ample for domestic use, and an abundance of breadstuffs for export. The enormous yields of the previous season have left an unusually large surplus of crops consumed on the farm, so that with lighter yields in corn and oats the amount available is not far from that of a year ago. The gradual and almost constant rise in the yield per acre in this country is indicative of better farming methods. Ten and twenty years ago the climate conditions such as were prevailing over a large part of the country this year, would have resulted in almost a crop failure, but the restoration to the soil of the fertility of which it is in need to assure a better return for the labor is showing its results in average yields in a year of uncertain climate. The world's greatest wheat—the chief breadstuff of the civilized world and of most of the people of this nation, has not only been a good crop, but an exceptional one. The aggregate yield of 739,000,000 bushels last year's record of 730,000,000, and with 30,000,000 more bushels in store in elevators, mills and on farms at the beginning of the crop season, there is available a larger supply per capita than at any time in recent years. The wheat yield this year was unusually large in the winter seeded region, that is of the kind of wheat which is sown in the fall, and getting a good start, springs up with the early months of the year and goes to harvest in June and early July. The second of the ripening crops of the country that figure in the domestic use, and which is among the three big grain crops is that of oats. Last year this crop reached the unprecedented figure of 1,145,000,000 bushels, exceeding all previous records by 225,000,000 bushels. This year conditions were unfavorable to the fullest possible yield, a cold late spring and early high temperatures in the central states affecting the yield, so that the total crop does not exceed 1,000,000,000 bushels. Topping all our domestic crops is the native grain, corn. Four-fifths of the corn of the world is raised in the United States. It is the one great crop of the country; its use as a food for man and beast is not equalled by any other of nature's grains. The huge volume of production for ten years has averaged 2,670,000,000, and worth on the farm an average of $1,500,000,000 a year. This year's corn crop will not be a record one. Our correspondents early in the month, before the burning temperatures swept through the Southwest and Ohio valley figured on a repetition of last year's crop, but we cannot ignore the heavy damage that has occurred in Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and portions of Missouri and Illinois since that time, which has cut off at least 300,000,000 bushels from the prospect, and reduced the estimate to 2,800,000,000. The consolation of the western farmer is the large crop of last year, and the enormous carry over on the farm. The corn crop, more than any other, is consumed on the farm—eighty-five per cent, never leaves the farms of the country, except in the form of food animals. The great rival of corn in weight and value is that of hay, and to a large extent it can take the place of corn when there is a shortage of that grain. The hay crop has been above an average—there have been some losses in the yield in the dry area, but in the main the crop is the second largest on record, with a total of 66,610,000 tons as against last year's magnificent yield of 72,691,000 tons, and this large crop, with at least one-third of last year's crop still on the farm, will repair all the branches that will be made by a lessened corn yield. The hay crop this year is valued on the farm at a billion dollars. The more important of the minor grains—barley—is 2 per cent, under last year. The rye crop is small in this country, but one of the most certain of all products of the soil, is up to the previous year's record. Cotton—the snowy fleece of southern fields—promises at this period of the year to be a great crop, much in excess of last year, and ranking next to the prodigious yield of two years ago. The indications are for 14,700,000 bales, compared with 13,700,000 last year. FARM NEWS AND VIEWS. Regularity in feeding and milking is an important point in keeping up the milk flow. One cannot milk and feed in the morning at any time between half-past 5 and half-past 9, and in the evening between half-past 4 and 7, and expect the cow to do her best. Experiment shows that there is a difference of at least 10 per cent, between regularity and irregularity. Having a regular hour in the morning to milk, it will not answer to lie abed until all hours on Sunday morning. If more sleep is wanted, milk the cows at the usual time and creep back to bed again. Dairymen properly conducted is an exacting employment. There are many chores about the farm that two or three hours earlier or later in doing them make no particular difference, but milking and feeding the milk cows is not one of them. Large seeds germinate more slowly than small ones, but the percentage of germination is greater in the case of large than small. As a general rule, however, the depth of seeding, the variation of the composition of the soil and the like exert a much greater influence on the germination than the size of the seed. If you must feed corn to the work horses give them something else in the grain ration. Corn alone is not a good feed, as it is to fattening. A combination of corn, bran and a little oil meal makes an ideal summer ration for horses if you are short on oats. A 1,000-pound horse would require about 10 pounds of corn and 3 pounds of bran, with a little oil meal, per day. This will be equivalent to 14 pounds of oats. There is little danger in feeding the pigs too much if you are feeding a balanced ration. If skim milk is available it is comparatively easy to make up a ration that will promote the growth and vigor of the pigs. The dairy cows, when properly taken care of, will conserve the fertility of the farm and pay the manager a profit while he is building up the soil. Dairying is a safe method of soil conservation. If all horses had plenty of fresh air, were kept free from drafts and were regularly fed and exercised in a proper manner, the veterinarian would never grow rich. Cribbing, or wind sucking, is a habit that cannot be cured in the horse after it is once thoroughly established. Horses addicted to the habit are not desirable, and sooner or later are usually affected with disorders of the digestive organs. Colts and young horses should not stand near a cribber in the stable, as they are liable to learn the habit from their cribbers. Illness or lack of exercise are the predisposing causes to the formation of the habit. If the young animal shows any signs of cribbing remove all feed-boxes, racks and mangers from the stall, leaving nothing but smooth walls, which will leave no handy place for the youngsters to bite on. Feed hay on the ground, remove feed box as soon as done eating and permit plenty of exercise. Overfeeding and irregular feeding are the cause of more sickness among horses than any other known cause. The stomach of a horse is so exceedingly small compared to his size that he should be fed and watered at least three times per day, the capacity of the horse's stomach being 18 pints. The capacity of a cow's stomach is 32 gallons. Milk when drawn from the cow is generally in good condition to make butter, the exception being where the animal has been fed on highly-flavored grasses or weeds, and overfed on potatoes, cabbage, turnips or the like, or where the water she drinks is impure. Nearly all the bad milk becomes bad after the milking is done. ONLY BRITISH CATTLE FREE. Ottawa, despatch.—An amendment to the regulations regarding importation of live stock to Canada states that no animal imported for improvement of stock shall come in duty free unless the owner or owners be British subjects, resident with the Empire. The animal must be recorded in a Canadian National record, or in the vent of there being no record for that particular breed, in a foreign record of recognized standing in Canada.

MARKET REPORTS

TORONTO MARKETS

Table with columns for market items and prices. Items include Dressed hogs, Butter, Eggs, Spring chickens, etc. Prices are listed in dollars and cents.

Table for SUGAR MARKET. Items include Extra granulated, Do. Do. Redpath's, Do. Do. Aecalia, etc. Prices are listed in dollars and cents.

Table for LIVE STOCK. Items include Export cattle, Do. do. medium, Do. bulle, Butcher cattle, etc. Prices are listed in dollars and cents.

Table for OTHER MARKETS. Items include Wheat, Oats, Corn, etc. Prices are listed in dollars and cents.

Table for MINNEAPOLIS GRAIN MARKET. Items include Minneapolis—Wheat, Corn, Oats, etc. Prices are listed in dollars and cents.

Table for DULUTH GRAIN MARKET. Items include Duluth—Wheat, Corn, Oats, etc. Prices are listed in dollars and cents.

Table for CHICAGO LIVE STOCK. Items include Beef, Hogs, Sheep, etc. Prices are listed in dollars and cents.

Table for BUFFALO LIVE STOCK. Items include Buffalo—Wheat, Corn, Oats, etc. Prices are listed in dollars and cents.

British Remnant Rescued by Reinforcements. Aden, Arabia, Aug. 18.—Suec was brought on Aug. 10 to the small remnant of the camel corps of British marines, which had lost many officers and men killed or wounded in the battle in the British Somaliland protectorate with followers of the Mad Mullah. The reinforcements found all that was left of the camel corps entrenched 18 miles to the southeast of the town of Barao, in the centre of the protectorate. The camel men had been annihilated by over 2,000 Dervishes, who had killed one other, as well as killing or wounding fifty or sixty of the native troops. Heavy losses had been inflicted on the Dervishes. The commissioner has advised the colonial office in London that many thousands of tribesmen are on the warpath, and that the town of Barao is likely to be attacked.

PLOTS THAT FAILED

"Because a thing must be probable, or at least possible, before I can give credit for it," he replied, harshly, adding: "I ought not to have one regret after a girl who can throw a man over as heartlessly as you would do. Heartless you have proven yourself to be—heartless and faithless. Even were you to take back the words you have uttered, I should still have lost my confidence in you. And a faith once broken can never be mended up again. I would not go through life with, because a woman who has deceived a man once, for one object, may deceive him a second time for another. Apply for your divorce, if you will," he went on bitterly. "I will not put a straw in your way to oppose it. Why should I seek to have and to hold an unwilling bride? By God's help, I will never see you again after to-day. Go—and good-by!"

"Will you not part as friends?" she faltered. "Say you forgive me!"

"Falselyhood do not pass my lips as glibly as they do yours," he answered, bitterly, forgetting, in his intense agitation, the rudeness of the words he uttered—he who was always so kind, gentle and chivalrous to the lowliest of womankind as well as to the highest-born. "If I should say that I forgive you a thousand times, I should be no nearer the doing it. Good-by!" he said again, putting out his hand and winking, feeling that the strain was getting too much for him to bear calmly much longer.

"You will put in an answer when the papers are served upon you?" she queried anxiously.

"None!" he responded, briefly. "A woman should have her way in such matters; if she persists, and cannot be persuaded to love the husband whom she has wedded, she should be allowed to go, even though in going from him she tramples over his heart roughshod!"

"Good-by and thank you!" she replied, in evident embarrassment, not knowing just what words she ought to use in this instance in leaving his presence.

"She had gained her object, and now all she had to do was to leave him. There was nothing more to be said, and she turned away and left him, with his face turned from her."

"This was the story as told by India Haven to Rupert Downing. What the fair impostor did not know was that ere she had passed out of the hospital ward, Clarence Neville had fallen back upon his pillow like one dead."

"She wrote a long letter to India Haven, when she went back to her hotel, acquainting her with the great success thus far in her scheme; that she had passed for Barbara without the slightest suspicion being aroused in the mind of the young husband that she was other than his bride. She told of his pleadings most graphically, and of her reluctant consent at last, to let her have her will concerning the divorce, adding:

"This is the first stage of the game," she wrote. "I await here for further orders from you, my benefactress, who saved me from starvation, that memorable day on the Boston common."

India answered by return mail, giving her the instructions she asked for, which were to go into an adjoining State and select an obscure lawyer, and apply for a divorce in the name of Barbara Neville, remaining there until it was secured.

"This plan, Clarence, the actress, faithfully carried out to the letter. The papers were duly served upon Clarence Neville, in the hospital where he lay. True to his promise, he made no opposition, put in no defense. He did his best to battle with his sorrow. He tried to harden himself to it; only Heaven knew what he suffered. He would say to himself, over and over again, and there, in his inner truth, love nor faith in the world.

He did not complain; his was an inward grief, a thousand times harder to bear. He did not want to live; he prayed silently for death during all the long watches of the night, while the nurses thought him sleeping. He was an altered man from the day his lovely young wife had visited him, they noticed. The expression as though he was in mortal pain never left his face.

Why did she never come again? they wondered: the young wife for whom he used to call night and day, waking or sleeping.

One thing Clarence Neville never tired of being thankful for, and that was that his father was abroad, and knew nothing of his illness or his troubles. There was no one in the hospital who knew him, to trouble him with questions.

On an adjoining cot lay a young man who was slowly dying. He was the only one with whom Clarence exchanged a word.

"This young man's constant companion was a book of poems, with which some kind friend had presented him, and from which he often begged to be allowed to read selections to his fellow-sufferer."

One day he said to Clarence: "Here is a poem of Adelaide Proctor's, which had always seemed to me most pathetic. Shall I read it to you?"

Neville said to himself that it was easier to consent to listen, since it evidently gave him pleasure to read it—than to refuse, and he replied, rather listlessly:

"Please yourself, my friend, in regard to reading it aloud to me, and you will be sure to please me."

"The title is a pathetic one," remarked the invalid, "and tells its own story. I will tell you why I care for it, Mr. Neville," he whispered bitterly. "It touches my own case; the girl I loved jilted me and wedded another. I have never known a well hour since. Clarence Neville started violently. The fecklessness of woman was proverbial, then, it seemed. This poor fellow's sorrow was quite the same as his own. From that hour he took more interest in him.

"The poem is entitled 'Parting,' said the young man, and in a clear, rich, melodious voice he read the beautiful lines when the young man turned toward when the young man turned toward Neville, he saw that his face was buried in his hands, and that he was weeping as men seldom weep in a lifetime.

"His sorrow is the same as mine," he thought. "The beautiful, young wife who visited him here once, and who never came again, has deserted him. I say God pity him, from the bottom of my heart. I can understand now why he is falling so rapidly. I repeat, Heaven pity him, and all other good, true men who have been fooled by a woman!"

CHAPTER XXXVII.

Not one word did Clarence Neville utter when he was notified that the decree of divorce had been granted which separated him forever from the lovely little bride whom he had loved so madly, so passionately.

"If she wishes it so, then so be it," he said to himself.

He arose from that sickbed so altered that when he first glanced into the glass he did not know the face reflected there. It was handsome still, though sadly careworn and traced with lines, which should not have been engraven there for years to come.

Should he go back to Boston to his father's banking house, or go elsewhere—where no one knew him? True, they did not know his story, his friends of other days, and they would attribute his changed appearance to the illness he had just passed through.

But this was not why he hesitated; he knew that Boston held Bab, the idol of his heart. He might meet her at any turn in the road, on any street.

It was the old story of the moth and the flame—although it singed his wings he could not keep away. He had read in the newspapers of his father's arrival from abroad. He had refrained from writing to him from the hospital, knowing what a fright it would be to him.

He reached Boston without apprising any one of his arrival, and went directly to his home. The old butler looked in astonishment at the white, drawn face, as he answered the bell and recognized his young master.

"The good Lord deliver us, Marse Clarence! have you been ill?" he exclaimed, in great fright.

"I have been travelling more than was good for me," returned the young man, with a ghost of a smile flickering over his pallid face. "How is my father?" he asked, in the next breath.

The old butler's face grew solemn.

"Like you, sir, his trip abroad did not benefit him; and then, I think he worried a little about not hearing from you. He does not take his wine, as he used to, with his dinner at night, and he cannot sleep well when he omits that. And then, he does not go out of an evening as in other days, and I often hear him pace the floor of his room for hours after he has retired to his apartment. The old house has been very dull and gloomy since you went away, Marse Clarence; things will be sure to brighten and look up now that you are back."

Clarence passed him hurriedly, stopping on the first landing of the grand staircase to inquire whether his father was still in his room, it being late in the evening.

"You will find him there, sir," returned the butler.

Clarence wanted to hear no more, but with all possible haste gained his father's apartment. The door was open, and the son passed on the threshold, held speechless by the sight which presented itself from within.

Banker Neville sat in his great, Turkish armchair, by a large marble table, which occupied the centre of the apartment; a shaded lamp was on the table, its rays falling upon his white, wrinkled, old face; the thin hands, with the shadowy veins showing through them, and upon a portrait he held tightly clutched in one of them—the portrait of a beautiful young woman's face.

Even across the space which divided them, Clarence Neville recognized the portrait at the first glance as that of the beautiful India Haven, Bab's cousin.

For a moment Clarence stood quite spellbound. How came Miss Haven's picture here—why was his father gazing at it so intently?

"Clarence, he does not go out of an evening as in other days, and I often hear him pace the floor of his room for hours after he has retired to his apartment. The old house has been very dull and gloomy since you went away, Marse Clarence; things will be sure to brighten and look up now that you are back."

Clarence passed him hurriedly, stopping on the first landing of the grand staircase to inquire whether his father was still in his room, it being late in the evening.

"You will find him there, sir," returned the butler.

Clarence wanted to hear no more, but with all possible haste gained his father's apartment. The door was open, and the son passed on the threshold, held speechless by the sight which presented itself from within.

Banker Neville sat in his great, Turkish armchair, by a large marble table, which occupied the centre of the apartment; a shaded lamp was on the table, its rays falling upon his white, wrinkled, old face; the thin hands, with the shadowy veins showing through them, and upon a portrait he held tightly clutched in one of them—the portrait of a beautiful young woman's face.

Even across the space which divided them, Clarence Neville recognized the portrait at the first glance as that of the beautiful India Haven, Bab's cousin.

For a moment Clarence stood quite spellbound. How came Miss Haven's picture here—why was his father gazing at it so intently?

"Clarence, he does not go out of an evening as in other days, and I often hear him pace the floor of his room for hours after he has retired to his apartment. The old house has been very dull and gloomy since you went away, Marse Clarence; things will be sure to brighten and look up now that you are back."

SCALES, DANDRUFF AND ITCHING

Head so Itchy Could Hardly Stand It. Dandruff Showed on Coat Collar. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in One Month.

223 Elizabeth St., Montreal, Que.—"Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured me permanently from dandruff and scalp itch that I was suffering with since over a year. I had an inflammation of the lungs and a very strong fever. When I recovered, my head was covered with scales and dandruff, and it was so itchy I could hardly stand it. The dandruff showed on my coat collar. I had used various medicines without relief. I heard of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and decided to try them, and I am very glad of it, because I am perfectly cured. I used two boxes of Cuticura Ointment with the Cuticura Soap. It took one month to cure me. I take pleasure in recommending Cuticura Soap and Ointment to anyone who is suffering with scalp or skin diseases." (Signed) Hector Perras, Dec. 30, 1911.

TO REMOVE DANDRUFF

Prevent falling hair, remove crusts and scales, and allay itching and irritation of the scalp, frequent washings with Cuticura Soap, assisted by occasional dressings with Cuticura Ointment, afford the most effectual and most economical treatment. They assist in promoting the growth and beauty of the hair by removing those conditions which tend to make it dry, thin, and lifeless, often leading to premature grayness and loss of hair. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post card Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 461, Boston, U. S. A.

As he spoke the old gentleman stooped and recovered the mirror and the portrait. Clarence noticed that he pushed the latter face downward under a convenient pile of papers near his elbow.

"Sit down, sit down, my boy," he exclaimed. "Have you just returned from your dinner? I have so much to ask of you—where have you been, and why have you not written me—that I scarcely know where to begin."

He had talked on so volubly, and in such excited embarrassment, that he had not had time to scarcely raise his eyes to his son's face. Even when he did so, he did not discern how pale and haggard he was, because he was sitting half in the shadow.

Clarence gave him a little running description of his travels, but made no mention of the hospital affair.

For some moments after he ceased speaking the old gentleman plucked nervously at the sleeve cuff of his dressing-gown.

"I, too, have something to tell you, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all the time that I was abroad, and I plucked up the courage to do by letter that which I feel sure I could never have accomplished in person—I asked her to be my bride, my boy," he said, straightening himself up, sitting back in his great armchair, and twirling his white moustache nervously in his still, white fingers.

Clarence waited patiently for him to proceed.

"Ever since you went away, a strange loneliness seized me," began the old banker, "and I cast about for amusement as a man naturally will, young or old."

Still, Clarence made no answer, and his father went on, desperately:

"And I found it in the shape of—do not be exceedingly surprised, my son—I found it in the person of a beautiful young woman, whom I met at the home of a friend upon whom I called one evening. It was a fatal infatuation, at first sight, with me. Once more I felt the fire of youth coursing through my veins. We corresponded all

Athens Lumber Yard

Building Lumber
Sash and Doors
Cedar Shingles
Asbestos Plaster
Portland Cement
Land Fertilizers

Athens Grain Warehouse

Hay, Straw and Oats
Horse Feeds
Cow and Calf Feeds
Hog and Pig Feeds
Hen and Chicken Feeds
Best kinds of Bread Flour

VERY LOWEST PRICES

A. M. EATON

FUNERAL DIRECTOR

MAIN STREET - ATHENS

Rural Phone. Day or night calls responded to promptly.

A. TAYLOR & SON

Agents for

BELL AND DOMINION Pianos and Organs

Main Street Athens

Plants:

Azaleas
Tulips
Daffodils
Hyacinths, etc.

Cut Flowers:

Roses
Carnations
Violets, etc.

R. B. Heather

Tel. 223; G. H. 56

BROCKVILLE, ONTARIO

Kingston Business College Limited

KINGSTON - ONTARIO

Canada's Highest Grade Business School

offers superior courses in Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Civil Service, General Improvement and all Commercial Subjects.

Our graduates secure best positions.

Particulars free.

H. F. METCALFE, Principal

FURNITURE

CALL AND SEE

our stock of

High-Class Furniture

For the trade of this season we have a stock of furniture well worthy of your attention.

Whether you require a complete suite for the Parlor, Dining Room, Bedroom, or simply an individual piece, we can meet your requirements.

Our long experience enables us to buy only reliable goods, and we offer them at very attractive prices.

Your inspection invited.

T. G. Stevens

PICTURE-FRAMING

The Merchants Bank of Canada

NOTE THE FOLLOWING

Paid Up Capital .. $6,747,680
Reserve .. 6,559,478
Total Assets (30th Nov. 1912) over .. 84,000,000

Your DEPOSITS are SAFE in the MERCHANTS BANK OF CANADA.

MONEY LOANED on favorable terms.

Seven Branches and Agencies in the district. CHEESE FACTORY cheques cashed as par on all local branches, and at BROCKVILLE if desired. Number of branches in Canada 186. Sub-Agencies at Frankville and Addison—open every Wednesday.

ATHENS BRANCH: JOHN WATSON, Manager.

Local and General

—See my new line of Wrist Watches.—R. J. Campo.

Mrs M Grundy is visiting friends in Gananoque.

R. C. Latimer left to day as a delegate to the I. O. F. Convention at Ottawa.

Miss Selina Pritchard returned home last week from Brockville Hospital.

Mr D E. Locke of Toronto is visiting at the home of Mr and Mrs Eugene Howard.

Mr and Mrs J. C. Stewart of Dalmeny last week visited friends in this district.

Miss Clemmie Woods is visiting her sisters at Clifton Springs and Saranac Lake, N. Y.

Hazel Latimer has been spending a pleasant week with Irene Earl at Charleston Lake.

Mrs H. Wing of Boston is visiting old friends in Athens, a guest of Mr and Mrs Alex Taylor.

Mrs W. M. Foley and little daughter are visiting friends in Newboro and Chaffey's Locks.

Mr and Mrs Robt. Willey of Lyn were week end visitors at the home of Mr and Mrs Frank Foley.

Mr Jasper C. Eaton of New York is visiting friends in Athens, a guest of his sister, Mrs L. Kelly.

† Died—At Kenora, August 14th, the infant son of Harry Brooker, aged four months and eighteen days.

The annual camp-meeting of the Holiness Movement opens at Lake Elvida on Sunday next.

—Live poultry bought every Wednesday afternoon; must be fasted 24 hrs. —Willson's Meat Market.

Miss Zella Topping is spending her holidays with Mr and Mrs G. N. Foley at Breezy Point, Newboro.

Miss Sophia Bellamy and Miss Marguerite Walton of Toronto were last week guests of Mrs A. R. Brown.

The property known as "The Hermitage" has been purchased by Messrs D. L. Johnston and A. R. Brown.

Robert T. Gilmour of Ottawa has been fined $500 for selling liquor at Alexandria, a local option centre.

Miss Edna Berry of Gananoque is this week visiting at the home of her grandmother, Mrs Henry Johnston.

Mr and Mrs Clayton Wiltsie went to Smith's Falls on Monday to attend the wedding of their niece, Miss Belle Earle.

Mr Will Chaffer of Rochester, N. Y., is visiting his cousins at Welcome Lodge, Mrs E. A. Thornhill and J. K. Wiltsie.

Rev F. A. Read and daughter, who had been visiting friends in Athens, left on Tuesday for a trip up the Saguenay.

Mrs E. A. Thornhill received the sad news on Monday of the death of her aunt, Mrs M. B. Crouch of Rochester, N. Y.

By three socials held in the Parish of Elizabethtown, of which Rev J. de P. Wright is rector, the sum of $600 was realized.

Mr and Mrs David Thompson returned last week from a visit to their daughters at Carthage, N. Y., and Brockville.

Rev W. H. Montgomery expects to be in Athens for only two Sundays before leaving for his new charge at La Prairie, Que.

Mr Wesley Brooker and Lin Brooker have returned from Kenora, where they have spent five years and are looking hale and hearty.

Mr and Mrs John Barry of New Dublin, in company with Mr and Mrs L. Glenn Earl, are occupying the Addison cottage at Charleston Lake.

—If you want what you have not or if you have what you want not, tell the people in the People's Column of the Reporter. Cost—one week, 25c.; each subsequent week, 10c.

On invitation of Mr and Mrs W. H. Jacob, the choir of the Methodist church and a number of their friends will spend Thursday at Charleston Lake. Conveyances will leave the church at 9 a. m.

Judge Doyle has decided on an appeal of three Clinton hotel keepers that hotels in local option communities are not liable to business tax.

Mr and Mrs John Lillie and daughter, of Orillia, and Miss Clare Lillie (formerly of Athens) are guests of Dr C. B. Lillie at Charleston Lake.

The post offices at Bowell, Row's Corner and Whitehurst, in Leeds county, have been closed on the inauguration of the rural mail delivery.

Rev Wm. Westell has resigned his pastorate of the Baptist churches of Athens, Plum Hollow and Toledo, and expects to leave in about a month.

There are between 800 and 900 cheese factories in Eastern Ontario and Prof. Fullewaker estimates that the shrinkage due to the dry weather will amount to at least one box per day for each factory.

On Sunday last Mr A. M. Eaton conducted the morning service in the Methodist church and in the evening Rev F. A. Read of Arnprior was heard with pleasure by many of his former parishioners.

In the list of successful candidates who wrote at the Departmental examinations in Alberta we notice in Grade X, the name of Miss Margaret L. Hanna, late of Athens High School.—Congratulations.

The Renfrew Mercury says "Charleston Lake is famous for its beauty and for its salmon trout." That's right—and it's also true that black bass, Oswego bass, rock bass, pike, moonfish, shiners, etc., are also found there.

On Brockville market on Saturday last harvest apples were to be had at from 80c to $1.00 a bushel. Potatoes brought 64c to 80c per bushel; chickens, 76c to $1.00 per pair; eggs 28c to 30c, and butter 28c-30c.

Papers showing the standing of students who wrote on the entrance to Normal and Junior Matriculation examinations are now at the office of the secretary of the A. H. S. Board, Mr. H. H. Arnold, and may be had on application.

The Reporter has pleasure in congratulating Mr R. G. Brown of Caintown, a student at the Athens High School, on his success in winning the Nichol's Foundation Scholarship No. 2 at the recent Junior Matriculation examinations.

Rev. S. J. Hughes of Renfrew, Rev B. B. Brown of Montreal and Rev E. W. Crane of Mallorytown are at Charleston Lake this week and it is expected that one of these ministers will conduct the services in the Methodist church on Sunday next.

Mr Harry Smith of Rochester, N. Y., a graduate of the Athens Reporter Office, with his wife and a party of friends, visited his former home in Greenbush last week and also made excursions to Athens, Charleston Lake, etc.

Last Sunday the weather was unusually hot, the mercury registering 93 in the shade. Towards evening a thunder-storm passed to the north, but only a few drops of water fell here and none at Charleston. At Frankville there was a heavy shower.

Miss Mina Donnelly of Athens, a graduate of the A. H. S., and for the last two years a student at Brockville Collegiate Institute, passed with honors the examination for Entrance to Faculty of Education and also won the Governor General Scholarship in Classics for Queen's University.

Sister Mary Austin has been appointed Sister Superior of St. Francis General Hospital, Smith's Falls. Sister M. Austin is pleasantly remembered by many in this district who were patients a few years ago in St. Vincent de Paul Hospital, Brockville, where her skill and uniform courtesy and kindness won the esteem of both staff and patrons.

The Robert Wright Company, Limited, Brockville, are building a handsome new entrance to their store on King street. The work, which is being done by Fred Clow, will consist in a handsome triple doorway finished in mahogany, over which will be built a glass marquee extending three quarters of the width of the sidewalk in front of the door. The addition will give a very improved appearance to the property. The doors are being made to open outwards to conform with the fire regulations required by the underwriters.

The People's Column

Boat for Sale

Sell cheap—"Cat Boat," in good condition at Charleston Lake. Apply to REPORTER OFFICE 32-t.f.

House for Sale

In the village of Athens, good two-story frame house on Isaac St., half acre of land, fruit trees, barn and stable. Apply to 32-4 W. M. G. TOWRISS.

Teacher Wanted

Teacher wanted for S. S. No. 3, Bastard Duties to commence Sept. 2. Boarding accommodation good. Apply, stating salary and qualification, to W. O. NICHOLS, Secy-Treas., Toledo, Ont.

Rooms to Let

I have comfortable accommodation for lady roomers or boarders. Prices reasonable. Apply to MRS. H. A. PEARCE, Corner of Sarah and Main St.

For Sale

A mikado carriage, canopy top used but little, very comfortable and easy riding.—Sell cheap. Also a McLaughlin piano-box road wagon, nearly new. 29-t.f. H. H. ARNOLD

Board for Students

First-class accommodation with board for students. Apply to MRS. R. J. CAMPO, Reid St., Athens. 33

Teacher Wanted

Qualified teacher wanted for S. S. No. 5 Bastard. Duties to begin at commencement of fall term. Apply to W. NEWSOM, Plum Hollow. 33-t.f.

TEACHER WANTED

Qualified teacher wanted for S. S. No. 10, Bastard. Please state salary and experience. Apply to J. E. BARKLOW, Delta, Ont. 32-3

Cattle and Horses

For Holstein cattle any age, pure bred or grades; also horses, any style for any purpose—Apply to 29-t.f. S. HOLLINGSWORTH, Athens

Watches, Clocks, Jewelry

Cut Glass, Silverware and Kindred Lines..

Strictly High-Grade Goods and the prices surprisingly low.

Repairing of Watches and Clocks given prompt attention.

ATHENS AGENCY

R. J. Campo - Reid St.

Let us sell you one of our

Dreadnaught Kay Harness

with blue ribbon flexible saddle, genuine rubber trimmed throughout. All details perfect. The best leather and the best workmanship. Our special price $22.00.

We are headquarters for all kinds of Trunks, Bags and Suit Cases. Our prices make for us sales and permanent customers.

For approaching fall season, we have a large stock of Men's Waterproof long coats, Short Coats, Trousers, Caps, etc.

Rubber covers for Horses, Dash Aprons, Sponges, Chamois, Dressings Oils, etc.

Make our store your headquarters during the Brockville Fair. Leave your parcels at

CEAS. R. RUDD & CO. BROCKVILLE

NEWCOMBE PIANO is the Best PIANO MADE IN CANADA

If you are open to conviction and can be reached by a logical argument, we can convince you that it is the best, if you will call at our Warerooms and examine its merits. Equipped with Howard Straining Rods which aid in creating the tonal and constructional superiority of the "Newcombe."

KNABE PIANO

The World's Best Piano, Patronized by Royalty. H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught having purchased three for Rideau Hall.

Blundall Pianos

Is a High-Grade Piano of Distinctive Tone Quality, Exquisite Design and Finish.

Also a few carriages to sell at greatly reduced prices rather than carry them over.

W. B. Percival

"The House of Hats"

A BEAUTIFUL PIANO

Value $350 Free to Someone

Come to our store see and try this splendid instrument. We will tell you all about our plan of giving this piano away. This is a present worth having. This Piano is of the celebrated Eunis make. It carries the manufacturers' Ten Year Guarantee. We cordially invite your inspection.

With every dollar's worth of goods purchased, we give 1000 Votes. We also give the same number for every dollar paid on account.

R. CRAIG & CO.

MANUFACTURING FURRIERS

KING STREET

BROCKVILLE

Get Next to a Good Thing

Use

RE-NU-ALL

for Dusting. Ask for a Free Sample.

The Earl Construction Company

ATHENS - ONTARIO

Domestic Model B

Easy to Operate

To the Ladies of Athens and vicinity:

I have taken the exclusive sales agency for the

Domestic Vacuum Cleaner

acknowledged in the United States as well as Canada to be the superior of all vacuum cleaners.

The Domestic has ball-bearings throughout and runs so easy that a child can operate it.

It has three powerful bellows with more suction power than any other hand-cleaner made.

Its many points of superiority can best be appreciated when seen, and you are invited to inspect it at our store, or, if interested, we will demonstrate in your home.

The Domestic is operated like the ordinary carpet sweeper and is made in three sizes. It can be supplied with brush attachment for taking up hairs, threads, lint and heavy surface dirt; also with a hose and nozzle attachment for cleaning upholstered furniture, mattresses, draperies, etc.

No home should be without a Domestic Vacuum Cleaner.

H. H. ARNOLD

General Merchant

Athens, Ont.