CHAPTER XXXVIII.

"Oh," said Kelpie, breaking in upon the gentleman's orders, "you look so much like dear old daddy, sir. I can't keep my eyes off your face."

"And, pray, who is dear old daddy, my dear?" said the gentleman, greatly amused.

"He's my grandfather, sir, and head keeper at New Castle Light," replied Kelpie proudly.

"Your grandfather, did you say?" cried the gentleman, with a sudden start.

"Yes, he's my grandfather," said Kelpie, with a pretty air of defiance. "You've heard of him, no doubt. Everybody has heard of Captain Stonestreet, of New Castle Light."

"Yes, I've heard of him," said the gentleman quietly. "My pretty child," he added, "will you tell me who your father is?"

"He was daddy's son, of course," she answered, "but he was lost at sea years ago, and I don't remember him."

"But your mother, my child; she is living, of course?"

"Oh, dear no; she died when I was almost a baby. I've got nobody to care for me but daddy, and I'm going back to him to-morrow. And when I get there," she added, "I'm going to stay."

The gentleman turned his head aside for a moment, and when he looked around again there was a suspicious moisture in his eyes.

"Good night, my child," he said tenderly. "You are tired and must go to bed now and get a good night's rest. In the morning we will talk over all this. Good night, my child."

Taking Kelpie's hand, he bent down and kissed her cheek.

"Good night, sir," she said, with a blush and a girlish laugh. "I would not allow you to kiss my cheek, only you remind me so much of my dear old daddy."

Kelpie was late the next morning. She over slept herself, and nobody awoke her, so breakfast was over, and the kind friend of the previous night was sitting before the fire, with a thoughtful look on his face when she entered the sitting room.

"Good morning, my dear," he said tenderly, taking Kelpie's hand. "I hope you slept well last night?"

"Oh, I slept so well that I came near sleeping all day," she answered gaily. "Why didn't somebody rouse me out?"

"There was no necessity, and I thought it would do you good to rest," replied her friend; "you look very bright this morning."

"Oh, I never felt better in my life!"

"Catarrhose" Prevents Bad Colds Strengthens Weak Irritable Throats.

Employs Nature's own Methods and is Invariably Successful.

Few will escape a cold this winter, but alas! many colds run into Catarrh.

Neglected Catarrh is the straight gateway to consumption.

Catarrhose is a germ-killer—destroys microbes that cause Catarrh.

It heals and soothes, relieves the cough, gives throat and lungs a chance, cleanses the nostrils, clears out the phlegm.

You feel better in an hour.

In a day you're greatly relieved, and on goes the curing of Catarrhose till you're well.

No treatment so direct. Catarrhose goes right to the spot—acts quickly cures thoroughly catarrh, bronchitis and all throat affections.

"Nothing could kill a cold so fast as Catarrhose," writes Amy E. Snelling, from St. Johns. "Last month I had a frightful cold in my head, suffered from itching nose, running eyes and torturing headache. Ten minutes with 'Catarrhose' Inhaler gave relief and in one hour I was well of my cold. Catarrhose I consider a marvel."

Carry 'Catarrhose' Inhaler in your pocket or purse—take it to church—to the theatre—to work—use it in bed. It prevents and cures all manner of nose and throat troubles. Complete outfit, guaranteed $1.00; small size 50c; sample size 25c; at dealers everywhere.

good many strange things had happened.

To begin with, the notices inserted in the daily papers had not failed in their purpose.

About a week after Rutherford's death, his widow, once the beautiful Nell Brande, whose faithfulness had embittered Tim Duffy's life and broken his heart, appeared at Thatcher's Rock and was rowed over to the lighthouse by one of the men. She had spent the night with Janet Burns, and the two had sat up far into the "wee sma' hours," engaged in confidential talk, in the course of which the widow had made a most important revelation.

Not long after her marriage, which proved to be an unhappy one, her husband had deserted her, taking with him all of her jewels and a considerable amount of money in gold, which, it will be as well to explain here, he concealed in a belt which he wore on his person for safe-keeping, and which, as has already been stated, was hidden by poor, faithful Tim in a drawer of the sliding pane of the secret stairs, and left in trust for the woman he loved.

However, this is a digression, the point in question being the revelation that Rutherford's widow made.

Deserted and robbed of all she possessed in the way of valuables, the unfortunate woman was forced to work for her bread, and she went out as a nurse, and it turned out that she was in charge of Fred Stonestreet's wife and child at the time of the poor woman's death, and she also knew of the trouble between her and her husband, brought about by the interference of the former's sister. She was also cognizant of the fact that Mrs. Hilyard, afterward the wealthy and famous Mrs. van Cortlandt, of Van Cortlandt Place, being the mother of an ugly, ill-tempered child, had abandoned it and laid claim to her sister's little girl, who was a beauty.

With wise forethought, thinking that a question of identity might some day come concerning the children, the nurse determined to set a mark on Mrs. Stonestreet's child so that she might be able to recognize her in the future.

"I did so," she said, explaining the matter to Janet Burns. "I pricked a scarlet crescent into little Marion's shoulder, and if she's living, I'm sure it is still there."

"The child is living, and the scarlet crescent is still on her shoulder!" cried Janet joyously, "so that settles the question, and Kelpie is what we have always believed her to be: Captain Stonestreet's granddaughter."

The very next day Janet went over and told the old keeper the joyful news, and he sat down and cried like a child for joy.

"Shall we write and tell the little woman about it, Tom?" the old man said wistfully.

"No," replied Tom, stiffly, "we're not certain she would consider it good news."

cried Kelpie: "but I'm sorry the sky bids fair to be stormy. I want to start for New Castle Light."

"So do I," said the gentleman quietly.

"You?" cried Kelpie, amazed. "Why are you going to New Castle Light, sir?"

"Yes, I was on my way there when I met you last night," he replied.

"Why, I never heard of anything so nice in my life!" she cried. "You won't object to my going with you, I hope, sir?"

"No, my dear, I shan't object," said the gentleman quietly. "I shall be very glad to take charge of you. But you must go and get your breakfast now," he added, stroking her bright hair; "then you shall come back and tell me your story."

"How strange it seems that I should fall in with this kind gentleman at the very time when I am in such sore need of a good helpful friend!" thought Kelpie, as she nibbled a bit of dry toast. "I shall be so glad to go with him to New Castle Light."

"I couldn't help feeling a bit shaky about going alone. I promised Tom to let him know if I ever stood in need of a friend," she added, the pretty wild-rose color deepening in her cheeks, "but I've broken all the promises I ever made him, and this one may go with the rest. Besides, I wouldn't have asked him to help me if I had been dying, after he wrote me that letter. I wonder if he'll laugh at me when he sees me coming home a poor little beggar? I don't care whether he does or not, I'm going. Daddy will be glad to see me, I'm sure of that."

And with brimming eyes and a choking sensation in her throat, the foolish girl left her breakfast almost untasted, and, going back to her room indulged in a good, comfortable cry.

A little later she went down to the sitting room, and, at the request of the gentleman who had befriended her, she told her story from beginning to end.

He listened attentively, his face turned aside, and his forehead resting on his hand.

When she had finished, he arose to his feet and stood before her with bowed head.

"My dear little girl," he said, "I hoped you would guess my secret, but I see that you have not, so I must tell it myself. I am Captain Stonestreet's son!"

Kelpie looked at him for a moment with wide, wondering eyes.

"Daddy's son!" she cried out at last; "then you must be my own dear father!"

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

The healthy baby will soon learn to enjoy a bath properly given and show eagerness for it. The delicate baby should be bathed under direction of a physician. He may order a sponge bath only, or an oil rub. Children suffering with any form of skin disease should not be bathed unless the doctor orders it. Eczema and ringworm are both aggravated by soap and water bathing.

But the healthy baby should have his morning bath between his six o'clock and nine o'clock feeding. It sends him off drowsy to his morning nap. When the baby is a year old, the hour of bathing may be changed to five-thirty in preparation for his night's sleep. In this way the child's entire being demands a bath, the sensation of cleanliness, and when he is able to bathe himself he will do so mechanically and regularly as he removes his clothing to retire.

The most important habits of cleanliness are inculcated in a child by the mother's own care of the baby's diapers. If the baby is kept dry and clean from birth he will fret when he is wet and soiled. And from fretting over discomfort from uncleanliness he will grow into habits of cleanliness. He will learn regularity and self-control.

Backache Is A Sure Sign of Kidney Trouble.

If your back aches with a dull, sore pain—or if sharp, shooting pains "almost double you up"—or if you have to stop work sometimes and lie down to ease your back—then your Kidneys certainly are affected and you need GIN PILLS.

Liniments and plasters won't cure the trouble—at best they give only temporary relief because their medication never reaches way into the Kidneys. But go right to the Kidneys. A few hours after taking the first dose of GIN PILLS, you see as well as feel, that GIN PILLS have reached the Kidneys and have started in on their work of healing and curing the distress.

Lower Salem, N.S.

"I have used GIN PILLS and they have been a great blessing to me. For a long time, I suffered from a Bad Pain in My Back. I could not move without great pain. Finally I was confined to my bed. I tried several doctors but could find no relief. At last I decided to give GIN PILLS a trial. Before I had used one box, I began to feel better, and by the time I had taken two boxes, I was completely cured. I have never had any trouble with my back since. I cannot say too much in favour of these great pills and would recommend them to any one suffering from Kidney Trouble."

ARNOLD McASKELL

If you are suffering with Pain in the Back, or any other Kidney or Bladder Trouble, don't dose with this and dose with that—don't waste money and keep on suffering. Get GIN PILLS to-day—at once—and begin to get better. A short treatment with these wonderful Kidney Pills will make you feel like a new person.

Rat-Catcher Kings.

THE MEN WHO CONTROL A CURIOUS INDUSTRY.

The recent death, at the age of almsy, of John Dalton, the oldest rat-catcher in England, who for many years held contracts from most of the leading railway and dock companies, hotels and restaurants, for killing rats, calls attention to the fact that there are a number of modern Pied Pipers in this country at the present time, who are waging a war of the most vital importance to commerce and general health.

Not long ago it was stated that the damage done by rats, throughout the country was estimated at £15,000,000 a year. For the past 200 years the rat-catching industry of London, which is said to be the worst-infested of any city, the estimated number of rodents in the Metropolis being 6,000,000, has been in the hands of the Dalton family, and the business is still being carried on by the late Mr. Dalton's son. The latter has seven men working for him at rat-catching, and two whose sole business is the extermination of beetles.

Last year they accounted for 29,000 rats, their success being mainly due to a secret method of enticing the rats to destruction, which has been handed down from father to son, no poisons, or virus, or traps being used.

There is little danger of unemployment among rat-catchers, for it is estimated that one pair of rats, having five litters of twelve each per year, can, at the end of twelve months, be responsible for the existence of 20,000 others. Fortunately, rats are the greatest enemies of rats. Were it not for civil war in the rodent camps, rats would be an infinitely worse pest than they are, for although, as has been said, two rats may have 20,000 others in a year, it is reckoned by experts that only 800 survive the tribal feuds.

In spite of this, however, the rat kings of the country—Turner of Leicester, Bright of Manchester, Simmons of Birmingham, Tupper of Aldershot, Barrett of Southampton, F. Ling, official rat-catcher to the Colchester Corporation, and many other "Pied Pipers"—are kept very busy

Quebec Nun Victim In Disastrous Explosion

Eyes Literally Shot Out of Head and Skull Fractured.

Quebec, April 3.—When Sister Edward, (born Alda Pelletier of St. Cyrille, below Quebec), entered the disinfected vault at the hotel Dieu hospital yesterday, a terrible explosion wrecked the place and sent a heavy steel door crashing into the body of the nun whose eyes were literally shot out of her head, her skull fractured and parts of her brains spread all over the walls. The victim is still unconscious and is not expected to live through the day.

All the time spent in hunting for kitchen tools is wasted. There should be a piece for every article and it should be put in its place when it is not in use.

When Rheumatism Strikes the Heart It Kills—"Nerviline" the Cure.

Effect of Nerviline on Chronic Cases Is Almost Magical.

Exposure to wet or cold is apt to bring on an attack.

The muscles stiffen, the joints swell, and exertion brings on excruciating twinges.

Often the pain shifts from one part to another, and this is dangerous, as the heart is apt to be attacked. Death as a rule follows a heart attack.

The pain of rheumatism is quickly rubbed away with Nerviline.

This is a swift, lasting and safe way to cure rheumatism. You can depend on Nerviline. It has the power, the penetrating force, the control over pain that is so essential to a rheumatic remedy.

Lots of testimony to prove Nerviline's certainty to cure.

The following letter is from Mr. E. G. Sauter, 101 St. John's, Trinidad: "Last year I was severely troubled with rheumatism. I had it in my arms, shoulders and knees. The pains were at times excruciating, and I laid me up so that I couldn't work. I went to Smith Brothers' Drug Store and was advised by the manager to use 'Nerviline.' That was excellent advice. I used Nerviline as directed and was cured, completely cured of ever trace of my old enemy."

Once you use Nerviline you'll realize it's different from all the others—that it contains something that gets right "at" the pain the minute you rub it on. The large 50 cent family size is the most economical—get it today, or else the 25 cent trial size. Sold by dealers everywhere.

Burglars Kill

IN NEW YORK RESTAURANT

Thieves Use Cleavers to Kill Victims to Death in New York, April 5.—One restaurant keeper, and two employees, a porter and a kitchen early to-day in Zimran, supposedly by burglars and his wife, who slept upstairs, were awakened by down stairs and the property down to investigate. When to return his wife called who found the restaurant and his two employees dead in the cellar was found which had been moved from the floor above and thrown down stairs. It had been broken open. Beside the three bloody cleavers with which burglars had battered in the heads. The police found a revolver and a set of burglar tools. The porter and the cook had been killed when they were down to get coal. The property had been damaged. The work trying to open the safe. The two employees were Hald, porter, and Steven, cook.

Burglars Kill Three
IN NEW YORK RESTAURANT.

Thieves Use Cleavers to Batten Their Victims to Death in Cellar.

New York, April 5.—Otto Zinn, a restaurant keeper, and two of his employees, a porter and a cook, were killed early today in Zinn's restaurant, supposedly by burglars. Zinn and his wife who slept over the restaurant, were awakened by a crash down stairs and the proprietor went down to investigate. When he failed to return his wife called a policeman, who found the restaurant keeper and his two employees dead in the cellar. In the cellar was found also a safe which had been moved from a place on the floor above and evidently thrown down stairs. It had not been broken open. Beside the dead man lay three bloody cleavers with which the burglars had battered in their victims' heads. The police found also a revolver and a set of burglars' tools. The porter and the cook had been surprised and killed when they came down to get coal. The proprietor apparently had surprised the thieves at work trying to open the safe. The two employees were Roman Hald, porter, and Steven Bovorsky, cook.

Aristocrats in War.

The Prussian family of von Buelow, has announced the death of ten of its members in war. It is a striking sacrifice, but it probably can be matched in Great Britain, Austria, France or Russia. Among the most impressive records of the war are the pages of portraits published by the British warblers of officers who have died on the field. What ever sinister part kings and

At the House.

FRIDAY, April 9.

Several questions asked the Minister of Public Works had to remain over as the Minister was absent. To the questions asked by Messrs. Lloyd, Coaker and Grimes the replies were that answers were being prepared.

Mr. Kent asked the Prime Minister whether a loan or financial assistance had been received from the Imperial Government, what amount, for what purpose, what terms and conditions, also, if any expenditure or appropriation had been made therefrom and for what amount and for what purposes and to lay upon the table of the House all correspondence in relation thereto.

The Prime Minister replied that the Imperial Government had loaned One Million Dollars to the Colony for pressing emergencies at the same rate of interest they were paying themselves. The temporary loan of $250,000 from the Bank of Montreal for war purposes had been repaid out of the Imperial War Loan.

In reply to a question of the Leader of the Opposition as to whether the 1914 Railway Loan had been raised, the Prime Minister said that it had not been raised and that when he was in London in June last our financial agents advised that it was in the best interests of the Colony to issue at 4 per cent instead of 3 1/2. He had obtained a temporary loan of a million dollars.

Mr. Lloyd asked for any recent correspondence from the agents as to the markets, but the Prime Minister said there was none.

Mr. Coaker asked why mails should not be brought by couriers from Millertown to the logging camps.

The Colonial Secretary replied that he was in sympathy with what he considered a most desirable improvement. He had taken the matter up with the Postmaster General and that in the near future he hoped to get the lumbering men intercourse with civilization.

In reply to a question of Mr. Coaker, the Colonial Secretary said that F. Thistle is paid $7.50 per trip for conveying the mails twice a week from King's Point to Three Arms.

The Bills relating to the Employment of Loggers; the Sale of Fish on the Labrador Coast; the Amendment of the Customs Act; the Naturalization of Aliens; the Administration of Local Affairs; the Seal Fishery and Patent and Trade Marks were read and deferred till next sitting.

Mr. Stone rose to make a few observations on the Speech from the Throne. The speech, he said, was very remarkable, not for what it contained, but for what it did not contain. He was in sympathy with the provision being made for those who suffer on account of the war. He was made to believe at the War Session last September that the deficit up to June 30th last was $237,000 while as an actual fact we were facing a deficit of $300,000, a difference of $73,000 but of course that is considered a flea bite by the present Government. Continuing he alluded to the financial condition of the Colony as being in a deplorable state, because of the wanton and extravagant expenditures of the Government gave a scathing criticism of the incomplete branch railways, which are still incomplete, despite the millions of dollars spent on them. The speaker pointed out that destitution prevailed all over the country owing to lack of employment, and he hoped that means would be adopted to relieve such a state of affairs. He regarded the big proposed Labrador industry of the Government a bad omen.

Mr. Targett, He endorsed the sentiments of the previous speaker regarding the war. When he heard the Speech from the Throne read he thought Newfoundland would never see a poor day again. Last September he heard the Prime Minister saying that the country was in a prosperous and flourishing condition. The accounts show that the country is in financial difficulties. He is bewildered what to believe, having had the former information from a man 30 years in public life. He compared a country to an individual, who lives beyond his means must eventually get into the hole. He said that last year's codfishery was poor on the whole so that with an apparently bad codfishery this season it looked to him as if all and sundry would have to die of starvation, as the duty on goods was continuing to increase but that according to the Government the revenue was diminishing. In conclusion he hoped that in future that the House of Assembly would open in the winter instead of in the spring.

Dr. Lloyd was the next speaker. In rising he said it was not very often he had occasion to congratulate the Government and the Prime Minister, but now he was very pleased to have an opportunity of congratulating both. When he entered the House on opening day he was struck with the decorations. The flags of our Allies stimulated us with the thoughts of the solidarity of Entente; and the draping of the Speaker's Desk with the Union Jack was a fitting emblem of the fight Britons were waging for free institutions against German Militarism. Our Colony had done much and was doing much, but he detected a note of sorrow in the Speech of the Premier in his regret that Newfoundland was handicapped in doing more by the great expenditures and obligations incurred during the past five or six years. He had in mind the fact that the Government had not attempted recruiting for the Naval Reserve by evoking up the pay to that of the Newfoundland Regiment. In his big hearted way the Premier had promised that a Newfoundlanders should man Dreadnoughts, and although but a few were doing this, the bulk of our Reservists were at the post of honour in a position of the greatest danger in sea sown with mines and overrun with German submarines doing their duty bravely and some sixty had already given their lives for their country. It was a pity the efforts of Newfoundland was so handicapped with debt. True it was the Prime Minister had declared he could and would defend everything his government had done in the past, but still he had offered the apology that they could not be foreseen and that they had not been as economical as they might have been. It seemed to him, however, that the Prime Minister was preparing for some event. They had the unusual spectacle of the Chairman of Committees seconding the Address in Reply. His speech had been eloquent, hearty and patriotic. He was proud to be the son of a fisherman and had dilated at length on the honourableness of a man's calling in life. The occasion was as apt as the selection. The Prime Minister had in good time selected an undertaker to perform the obsequies of the coming dissolution of his government. The disease was financial overexpending and high living. The announcement of the deficits did not come as a surprise to the Opposition as it had been foretold by them long before the last session, and also at the last session. It will be remembered the remarkable budget that preceded the election of 1913, which was regarded by the Opposition as the herald of financial disaster. Subsequent events have proved the truth of the charges with the duties taken off, the revenue was impossible to meet the expenditure, and instead of the surplus of $50,000 foretold by the Hon. Minister of Finance, the country was faced with a deficit of some $300,000. Last Spring's addition to taxation was estimated by the Finance Minister to bring in $240,000, which was nearly $600,000 out in his 1913 Budget forecast. The estimates cannot intelligently be discussed until some full financial information is forthcoming and in this respect he would strongly express the desirability of furnishing the information as speedily as possible.

Referring to the Railway Loan, Mr. Lloyd dealt with the folly of the Government in persisting in 1914 in the matter of the Loan at 3 1/2 per cent. At the introduction of the Act he Opposition pointed out that such a loan could not be raised as no Colonial Government had effected a loan at that rate, but no attention was paid to their warning. The result was that the Loan at 3 1/2 per cent was not consulted with the agents of the colony, he was informed that the Loan Act was useless, and the loan could not be put on the market. Quite recently the Canadian rates were raised to 4 1/2 on 50, as against 4 per cent on twelve months ago. The whole showed a lack of financial foresight. He then dealt with the recuperative powers of the country, citing as instances the rebuilding of the city after the fire of 1892 and the Bank Crash of 1894, and said that therein lay the hope of the country getting out of the state of financial disaster into which it has fallen.

The Premier replied. He took a very optimistic view of the financial situation, and was inclined to think that the previous speaker was a prophet of evil, who at the same time he wished to congratulate him on the frank and open manner in which he had attacked the Government. He even ventured to say that something would be learned from the remarks of the Opposition. He then went on to say that for the past thirty years he had been listening to the same old tune with regard to the deplorable condition of the country. He referred to the improvements effected by the Government since coming into power, and referred to the present great depression as only a temporary setback caused by the war. He said the Government had a mandate from the country to build the railway. He assured the House that the Hon. Minister of Finance will bring forward a statement that will be satisfactory. He concluded with a reference to the increase of the Colony's imports and exports, and said that the outlook for Newfoundland was a bright one, that Peace will bring reaction, and surpluses will come back to the country. He reiterated what Mr. Lloyd had said regarding the country's recuperative powers and said that now it was only bending to a storm that was not of its own making.

Mr. Morice was not surprised at the attitude of the Premier regarding the finances of the Colony, as he had always looked upon the Premier as the father of optimism in Newfoundland. While the Premier thought Mr. Lloyd pessimistic and termed him a prophet of evil, he was of the opinion that Mr. Lloyd might in the future be regarded as the true prophet of the House. He then criticized the various points of the Premier's speech. With regard to the increase of the exports of the country and the proportionate increase of the imports, which was cited by the Premier as an instance of the country's prosperity, Mr. Morice said that it must be remembered that when the imports are equal to the exports the country is spending every dollar that it can earn, and so cannot be prosperous. The country has no reserve, a fact due to faults in the financing of the Colony's affairs. The Government had evidently closed their eyes to the philosophical fact that cycles of depression must come to every country, and this lack of foresight in the matters of public expenditures, is the mistake that is now around the neck of the Colony. Borrowed money sunk in unproductive works is no evidence of prosperity. He held that the purchasing power of the Colony, part from purchases on borrowed money was due mainly to increases in the value of our staple industry and not to remunerative returns from railways or other large enterprise, which had so far remained unprofitable. He disagreed with the Premier that when the war is over trade will recover rapidly. The universe cannot respond to the loss of war for a long time to come. Tens of thousands of men at the front and engaged elsewhere in the production of munitions, and now being shot away, will be thrown out of work. While the large borrowings for war will affect the money market and leave behind a great burden of interest to be borne. It was wiser to prepare for the stress of the future. Optimism was as dangerous as pessimism. The future called for economy in managing the affairs of the state. The House adjourned at 6 p.m. until 3 p.m. on Monday next.

Orangemen at Long Pond and Foxtrap

Editor Evening Telegram:

Dear Sir—I should very much like to have the pleasure of seeing my letter in print. This is my first letter, but seeing things in such a favourable stand, one can do nothing but look on and admire the energy and pluck of one's friends. The two places I shall particularly refer to are Long Pond and Foxtrap.

On December, the fourth our Loyal Orangemen started to build a hall at Foxtrap, much to the surprise of everybody, but the greater surprise followed after when on the 24th ult., a tea was held in it. The amount raised was $155.60. Since then at times the men, have been giving it the "finishing touch." Indeed they can well feel proud of their hall as it is a splendid building. But did they give up then? Oh, no! On Easter Monday about 200 Orangemen met at the hall and paraded through Long Pond as far as Mansuels. They then retraced their steps to the Methodist Church at Long Pond where a splendid address was given by Rev. Nurse. The bandsmen who came from Topsail worked had but with success as many melodious tunes echoed we are ever grateful. After leaving the Church the society marched to the hall followed by number of men, women, and children. The kind ladies said a very dainty tea was prepared, which we hope all did justice. After tea was served to all visitors, the young people indulged in a trip of the light fantastic, till the wee small hours. The amount made was $115.00.

Too much praise cannot be given to the people of Long Pond and Foxtrap, and may they long continue to work together and be crowned with success is the sincere wish of

Western Fishery
A PHENOMENAL SUCCESS.

The Bowring coaster Prospero, which arrived back from the Westward yesterday afternoon, brings word that the codfishery on the western banks continues to be a phenomenal success. All the vessels have done extremely well. Some of the high liners of the fleet have already landed at their respective home ports over two thousand qtls. each. The weather of late has been favorable to operations, but the scarcity of bait has a material effect. The bankers say they never saw fish as numerous as they when the bait is not to be had the fish is not. About a dozen schrs. visited St. Mary's Bay during the past week for bait and after getting a supply proceeded to the banks to resume the voyage. Halibut on the Rose Blanche and Burgeo grounds are reported to be scarce. By the Prospero a consignment of fresh frozen codfish and halibut came for the local market.

The Seal Fishery.

A month has now elapsed since the last of the sealing steamers cleared for the front, and to-day we have but one steamer in port. This is the Bonaventure with 25,000 prime harps. It is true that the Seal of Halifax abandoned the fishery with less than two hundred seals. The number of seals on board the fleet who are still at the ice is hardly enough to pay for oiling the engines, not to speak of paying for the bread box. The story is the same on both sides of the country. The steamers in Gulf and at the front have been jammed for the whole trip. The northern fleet took the inside out, and with heavy ice and a prevailing easterly wind have been kept for three weeks at the mouth of Green Bay under the tantalizing condition of knowing that the seals were comparatively near and yet too far away to be reached by the crews of the jammed steamers. Outside the trip of the Bonaventure there are only a few thousand seals reported on board the others. Still, however, when we remember that there were several second trips and even of third trips, there is still the hope that the steamers who can stay out and move freely may yet pick up saving trips. Unless they do the returns for the sealing voyage will be abnormally bad, and prove a blank failure. This will hit hard those who have shares in the capital invested in the steamers, and who have provided some $150,000 for outfitting the voyage, for it means no dividends, and it will be a blow to the sealers who have spent a month at sea, if they have to go home, without making enough to pay for their crops.

GERMANY COMPLAINS ABOUT THE ATTITUDE OF THE STATES

WASHINGTON, To-day. Germany has sent the States Government a note complaining that the latter has accomplished nothing in its diplomatic correspondence with the Allies to obtain for American exporters the right to ship foodstuffs to the civilian population of a belligerent country. The communication intimates also that the States has virtually acquiesced in the British order in Council prohibiting commerce with Germany. In view of these considerations the German Government calls attention to the fact that the Allies daily are obtaining large shipments of arms and ammunition from dealers in the States. It declares that the American Government while insisting on its legal right to ship arms to belligerents does not with equal energy pursue its right to ship foodstuffs and non-contraband articles to the civilian population. Germany's note urges that irrespective of the formal aspect of a question of shipping arms to belligerents, the spirit of neutrality should be observed, in support of the contention and quotation is cited from President Wilson's address to Congress "On Mexican affairs," when an embargo was placed upon the shipments of arms and ammunition to Mexico.

Baron Rothschild.

Baron Rothschild, whose death has just occurred, is head of the British branch of the great Jewish banking firm of Rothschild's. He was born in November, 1840. His father was the first Jew ever elected to the British House of Commons. Baron Rothschild had an Austrian title and also a British title; the former he gave up at the outbreak of the war, but retained his British honors. His son, a member of the House of Commons, is now at the front with his regiment, the Royal Bucks Yeomanry. The Rothschild fortune was made at the time of Waterloo, when the then head of the family secured advance information regarding the outcome of the battle and purchased British consols. Other branches of the family are located at Paris, Berlin and Vienna.

The death of Lord Rothschild calls attention to the place the Jews are making for themselves in the present war. Up to the present, no Jew was allowed to enter the Russian army or navy, but during the past few months many Jews have received commissions, and are now fighting against the Germans. Russia is said to have 250,000 Jews in the army; Austria has 52,000; France, 10,000; Germany, 6,000; Belgium, 1,000, and Servia, 700. There are also a large number in the British army. In the Italian army there is a Jewish general named Ottolighi, who formerly held the portfolio of Minister of War.

Ten Thousand French Canadians

Ottawa, March 24.—In response to questions by Hon. Charles Macell and Mr. Proulx, the Minister of Militia estimated that some ten thousand French Canadians had already volunteered for service or gone to the front. He paid a high tribute to their efficiency and bravery and stated that young Papineau was not the first to be mentioned especially for gallantry in the reports received by the militia department. "Our French Canadian citizens have done their full share and more," declared the Minister.

Mr. Carvell congratulated the Minister on his statement in view of the persistent report which was apparently being made in certain parts of the country to show the French Canadians had not done their duty. "It has been the one unpleasant aspect of the whole matter," said Mr. Carvell, "that certain Conservative newspapers, apparently for political purposes, have been making such unworthy allegations.

"They're not true," declared General Hughes.

"I'm glad the Minister is in a position to make that statement," commented Mr. Carvell, "and I am glad he has had the manhood to make it."

"They talk all sorts of little-tattle," replied General Hughes. "People should pay no attention to it. It's all rot. There's nothing whatever in such stories."

The ROYAL STORES, Limited

At the City Hall.

The Chairman, Messrs. Harris, McNamara, Ayre, Bradshaw, Mullaly, Morris and Anderson were present at last night's meeting of the Civic Commission.

Tenders for the removal of the stone crusher from the Flavin Street property to the old railway yard, were submitted by James Miller and William Hearn. Both tendered for the same amount, and the work will be divided equally.

Tessier and Co. offered to quote wharfage and storage charges for the waer pipes which are being imported by the Board. A committee was appointed to look after the matter, the said committee to negotiate with the principal wharf owners and report.

J. M. Kent for the Commercial Cable Company wrote saying that the Company was ready to lay the cable leads to the city, and described the proposed route of same. The trenching and back-filling in connection with this work is to be under the supervision of the Engineer.

A communication from P. C. O'Driscoll with reference to the water pipes for which he had tendered, was read. He questioned the accuracy of the statement recently published by the Board, and as a taxpayer asked what commission was to be paid the expert Longley for purchasing the pipes. The following is the letter:—

"Please explain statement of figures read at last meeting of the St. John's City Council, wherein the amount of $2,220.00 was claimed to be less than my price.

"The specification given me to figure on brings my price only $65.33 higher, further it is not stated 'size, quantity or class' of pipes R. D. Wood Company are supplying for $1.00 less per ton against part of their order. This is an important matter. I further respectfully request the committee in charge to state what commission the Council are paying Hazen and Whipple per Mr. Longley for purchasing pipes from the R. D. Wood Company, also the correspondence which took place, as this is a matter every citizen should know.

The Chairman stated that the firm should have been paid no matter from whom the purchase was made.

Mr. Ayre did not consider that the Board should cater to the questions of any one individual on such a matter.

Mr. O'Driscoll had been asked to quote his lowest figure, and since the price quoted did not compare favourably with the other offer, he was not awarded the order. He was of the opinion that the matter stood settled at that.

Mr. Harris thought that Mr. O'Driscoll should show where the Board's statement was wrong instead of merely expressing the difference in figures between the two calculations.

Mr. McNamara considered that as the Board had appointed a committee to look after the specifications for the pipes, which committee had reported satisfactorily, the matter needed no discussion. The order had been placed with the firm giving the lowest price.

Mr. Morris was of the opinion that when the commission is paid to Hazen and Whipple there would be little if any difference between the two prices quoted.

The Chairman explained that these charges would not in any way affect the cost as that firm were authorized by the Board to inspect the pipes, an inspection which was necessary no matter to whom the order was given.

Mr. Bradshaw offered a similar explanation and pointed out Mr. Longley's fitness for the work, brought about by his knowledge of the actual needs of the city, learned from his visit here last year.

It was decided that Mr. O'Driscoll will be written in the matter.

F. W. Angil wrote re the installation of the water service at the Parkers Withy pier, and asked permission to change the style of fountain. Permission was granted.

Mrs. Hatfield, Coronation Street, applied for water and sewerage. Will be attended to as soon as the new pipes are laid.

Joseph Fry applied for permission to make repairs to house on William Street. The matter was referred to the Engineer.

The question of enlarging Victoria Park was discussed, and the matter was referred to a committee to enquire if the land at the west of the park is available.

The Engineer reported that the new water services on Carter's Hill, Moose Street, James Street, Wickford Street, Cooktown Road and Duckworth Street were completed, and that work would start on Circular Road on Monday next.

Tenders for water pipe fittings were received from P. C. O'Driscoll, Bishop and Walter Clouston.

Tenders were not in accordance with the advertisement, and the parties will be asked to tender again.

After the passing of pay rolls and the usual routine business the meeting adjourned at 10 p.m.

THE AMERICAN FARMER.

By GEORGE FITCH.

The American farmer is a careless, unscientific, lazy individual who raises more and bigger crops than the farmer of any other country.

We get the description of the American farmer from his European critics, and his results from the grain statistics of the world. It is very peculiar that so thriftless a man should be able to feed not only himself but half a dozen foreign nations into the bargain. Perhaps if he worked harder all Europe would be enabled to abandon the farm and live entirely on war and glory.

Foreign critics tell us that if the American farmer worked as hard and as carefully as the European farmer he would raise twice as much wheat per acre. But when reproached with this the American farmer smiles a shy, sweet smile and asks that his European competitor be searched carefully for automobiles and other signs of prosperity. After a European farmer has lavished his unflagging attention for eighteen hours a day upon his wheat field, raising tremendous crops thereon for twenty-five years, he borrows enough money to pay his fare to America where he toils mornings in a cultivator seat and drives into town in his automatic horse in the afternoon to see the ball game.

And at the end of five years the government comes down on him with great seal and reproaches him for holding out on his income tax report.

There is some mystery in this. Why does the old world farmer work himself into an early and frugal tomb while the American farmer loafs himself into the presidency of the village bank? Is this a proper reward for industry?

If ten careworn European scientists would combine, buy one American corn planter and tear down the gothic stone walls between their rug sized farms, one of them could do the work while the other nine went fishing.

Any farmer could raise 50 bushels of wheat on an acre of ground in America if he wasn't so busy raising 50 bushels of corn per acre on a quarter section.

The Closed Mind.

By RUTH CAMERON.

You remember the man who, when asked why he talked to himself so much, said he had two reasons. First, he liked to talk to a sensible man; and second, he liked to hear a sensible man talk. What a lot of us there are who love to argue with ourselves for similar reasons; first, we like to argue with someone who is sure to be convinced; and second, we like to listen to the arguments of someone who can convince us that what we want to believe is so.

One Person I Can Always Convince.

I often catch myself at this process and quite frequently I am amazed at my own ingenuousness, the readiness with which I can change my arguments to suit my inclination, and the avidity with which they are swallowed.

For instance, I am meditating whether to buy a spring suit or a spring coat. I see a coat that I am attracted to and immediately I set about convincing myself that it is a coat I really need. "It would cost at least seven or eight dollars to fix over that last year's coat," I assure myself, "and then it might not be a success. Made over things are so apt to be patchy." And what one needs most in summer is a smart coat to wear with light dresses.

A little later I am enamored of a suit which, needless to say, is more expensive than the coat and at once I begin to argue again. "After all one never feels well dressed on the street except in a good looking suit. Of course I do need some kind of a top coat but I can surely get that last summer's coat fixed over for three or four dollars."

In the end I buy the thing I want and make myself happy by convincing myself that it is also the expedient thing.

The Man Who Is Never to Blame.

It is really wonderful how many convincing arguments one can easily find that the thing one wants is best. I know a man (you probably know him too for he is a very common type) who never lacks an argument to prove that someone else is to blame for any mistakes he makes, any misfortune that comes to him. He carelessly accepts short change. His fault because he didn't count it? Not a bit of it. If he hadn't had to do that errand for his wife in that miserable woman's store, he would never have made such a mistake. It's her fault for asking him to go in there. She knows he hates to.

Such are his arguments and if they sometimes fail of convincing the person onto whom the blame is shifted, there is one person who never fails to find them absolutely clinching.

Convincing Oneself One Can Afford Extravagance.

Some of the most ingenious self-convincing is that done by the person who wants to buy something he knows in the bottom of his heart he can't afford. Did you ever hear a man demonstrate that an automobile would save him money in carfare and in—oh, in lots of ways.—I know a man who can prove that it is positively extravagant for him to go without an automobile. If it were not for his wife he would have mortgaged his house long ago to buy one.

An open mind is a splendid thing to have but there are times when a closed mind has its advantages and these times are when one is trying to convince oneself of things which in the bottom of our hearts one knows are not true.

Milk Trees.

American scientists say there is nothing improbable in the claim of German chemists to manufacture milk. The cow's milk has been analyzed by these learned persons, and on this analysis they can produce its opposite—a synthesis. For some time they have been able to put together a liquid closely resembling milk—that is, having the same nutritive effect.

Still, to produce a liquid so like milk as to be indistinguishable from it by ordinary tests is a much greater work. The German synthetic milk is said to meet the case.

One of the ingredients of the milk—and an important one—is the soy bean.

The soy bean appears to be one of its important ingredients. "Soy milk" is mentioned in various text-books as a product made by boiling milk and then making a pulp or emulsion of the cooked product. "Soy cheese" is also an ancient and well-known product in Japan and China.

One great advantage the soy bean possesses over others of its kind is that its nourishing properties are double those of lean meat; and because of its low content of starch it has been much used in Oriental countries in preparing a bread for diabetics. While this bean is rich in protein material, it differs markedly from milk in composition; so that the addition of other substances was necessary in the chemists' preparation.

There are a number of vegetables yielding so-called milk. Only one of these, however, the "milk tree" of Central America, produces anything like cow's milk. This tree, when cut, exudes a thick, acid fluid, which soon coagulates. Analyzed by Bousingsault, this fluid resembled milk in its contents of fats, albumen, sugars and phosphates. It is used as a food by natives.

There are certain advantages attached to the use of synthetic milk. In the first place, it would obviate the danger of infection through milk. If prepared by boiling it can be made absolutely sterile and be kept so for an indefinite period. If retailed for threepence a quart (this seems to be the figure at which it is estimated the dealer could make a good profit), it would certainly constitute a great boon to the poor.

American Officers Recalled.

Their Places With German Army Will Not be Filled by Others.

Washington, April 4.—The five American army officers on duty as military observers with German armies have been ordered home, and their places will not be taken by other officers.

The reason given by the Secretary of War for the recall orders was that their mission had been fulfilled. This explanation was announced to be the war department's last word on the matter.

It is known, however, that other reasons, largely of a personal character, were considered by army officials in determining to withdraw the observers.

The American officers, it is said, have found their position somewhat difficult because of the high tension to which at least a few of these with whom they have come in contact have been strung by months of warfare, and press reports in Germany criticizing the United States relating to the war.

So far as is known, the withdrawal of American military observers with other European armies is not contemplated.

Your Liver is full of Bile; Bowels Clogged, Stomach Sour, Tongue Coated, Breath Bad.

Get a 10-cent box now.

You're bilious! You have a throbbing sensation in your head, a bad taste in your mouth, your eyes burn, your skin is yellow, with dark rings under your eyes; your lips are parched. No wonder you feel ugly, mean and ill-tempered. Your system is full of bile not properly passed off, and what you need is a clearing up inside. Don't continue being a bilious nuisance to yourself and those who love you, and don't resort to harsh physics that irritate and injure. Remember that most disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels are cured by morning with gentle, thorough Cascarets—they work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your drug-gist will keep your liver and bowels clean; stomach sweet, and your head clear for months. Children love to take Cascarets because they taste good and never gripe or sicken.

CRITICAL JUDGMENT.

My head ached fierce while I was reading the latest work of Oppenheim; and, weary of such mental feeding, I said, "Such fiction is a crime. His characters are merely spectres, who through the tireless run; his dukes and diplomats and rectors are sand-dust dumkies, every one. A book should mirror human, action, and show the author's studied men, if it would give me satisfaction—but this man wields a trifling pen." One day when health again found me, "I'll read that novel now," I said, for it of all the books around me, was just the one I hadn't read. I found it then a four-time whinner, a ripping yarn that hit the spot, and when they called me in to dinner, I answered, "Scarcely I want it not! That man is capable of treason who'd leave a book like this to eat—the red hot novel of the season, a book that simply can't be beat!"

OFFICIAL.
LONDON, April 9.
The Governor, Newfoundland:
The French Government summarizes the result of operations between the Meuse and the Moselle since April 4th as follows: On the northeast and east fronts at Verdun the French have gained from one to three kilometers on a front of twenty kilometers, and occupied the heights which dominate the course of the Aisne. At Eparges we have carried almost all the strong positions held by the enemy on the plateau commanding Combrès near St. Mihiel; have captured the entire southwestern portion of Boisjolly, where the Germans were strongly established, and in Southern Woëvre have won a distance of three kilometers on a front of seven to eight kilometers. At all these points the Germans suffered heavy losses.

The Russian Government reports progress in Ondava Valley, in the Carpathians, and the crossing of the principal chain of the Carpathians in the region north of the railway form Uzok to Bereszt.

Sir John French issues no communiqué, having nothing to report.

ST. PIERRE BULLETIN.

PARIS, via St. Pierre, April 8.
In Belgium the day has been marked by artillery duels. In the Valley of the Aisne and in the region east of Rheims our efforts, notwithstanding particularly bad weather, were kept up actively, and we have maintained all our gains between the Meuse and Moselle, and at the same time we have progressed anew. In Burnt Woods, as we reported yesterday, we have captured a German trench and a great number of prisoners. The heavy rain of the last few days has deeply soaked the chalky ground of Woëvre region, rendering all movements of artillery guns difficult and keeping shells from exploding. Our troops consolidated their gain of the previous day. Notwithstanding extraordinary counter-attacks, we have held on to all ground gained. At Esparges, in particular, the last German counter-attack by a regiment and a half was completely repulsed, the enemy sustaining numerous losses. Corpses of German soldiers literally covering the ground. Three hundred men who had, for a while, succeeded in coming near our lines, were mown down by our machine guns; not one of them escaped.

In spite of continuous bad weather, new successes were reported yesterday and to-day between the Meuse and the Moselle. At Eparges a night attack succeeded in our making a step forward and we have maintained our advance in spite of three fierce counter-attacks. We have already counted over a thousand German corpses strewn on the ground. Further south, near Morville, during a recent infantry engagement, we annihilated a German company and captured new trenches and repulsed

WAR PRISONERS IN GERMANY.
AMSTERDAM, April 9.
A despatch received here from Berlin, says that up to April 1st, 812,000 prisoners of war were being held by Germany, 10,175 officers and 802,825 men. The despatch gives the prisoners by nationality as follows: French 3,868 officers, 238,496 men; Russian, 5,140 officers, 504,210 men; Belgians, 641 officers, 39,620 men; British, 520 officers, 20,207 men.

HEAVY CASUALTY LISTS.

LONDON, April 9.
Another extended list of casualties totalling 1,108 names, was issued by the British War Office to-day, and it emphasizes the fierceness of the battle at Neuve Chapelle, in France, last month. The killed in this list numbers 336. The British casualty list issued to-day, when added to those issued on the previous two days, shows that a total of 4,058 men were either killed or wounded or are missing, and to a large extent these casualties are attributed to the battle of Neuve Chapelle, which resulted in the capture of that French town by the British in the second week of March. Out of a casualty list of 4,058 for three days given, 1,331 men were killed.

CONFISCATING GERMAN MAIL.

*BASEL, Switzerland, April 9.
British and French cruisers, according to advices received here, have taken from Italian mail steamers 2,300 bags of German mail, addressed abroad, containing letters, post cards, money checks, and small packages. Bags coming from abroad intended for Germany, will be treated in the same way and confiscated. This course on the part of the Allied countries, it is understood, is being made in response to Germany's submarine war against non-combatant merchant passenger ships. British warships recently captured on a Norwegian vessel, confidential letters forwarded by Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, the German Imperial Chancellor, to Count Von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador to the United States.

HOW THE OCEAN AND IRRESISTIBLE WERE SUNK.

LONDON, April 9.
Private advices have been received here telling how the battleships Irresistible and Ocean were sunk during the bombardment of the Turkish fortifications on March 18, after they had been damaged badly by fire from the Turkish forts. Information from eye-witnesses of the battle is that after the Irresistible was struck amidships by Turkish shells, "one of our craft finished her with a torpedo." The fate of the Ocean, it is said, was similar. Having struck by fire from almost wrecked her, "she was dispatched by a British torpedo." It is said that this action was taken to prevent the helpless battleships from drifting ashore, where they might have fallen into the hands of the Turks. The statement of the British Admiralty said that the Irresistible "sank, having probably struck a mine," and that the Ocean, "also having struck a mine, sank."

Hr. Grace Notes.

Mrs. Charles Ash and family left for St. John's on Thursday morning, and will reside there, Mr. Ash being employed as farm man with Mr. Reid.

Mrs. Edward French, of Courage's Beach, passed away early this morning at the advanced age of 76 years. Mrs. French has been an invalid for many years, but she was no worse than usual up to Saturday last. On that day she was suddenly stricken with illness and the end came quickly. Deceased leaves four sons and three daughters to mourn their loss.

Mr. Collis' concert held at St. Paul's Hall last night was indeed a grand success. The affair was well patronized, considering the drain on people's pockets of late. The different parts were well sustained and most favorably commented on. We congratulate Mr. Collis and his friends on the result of the concert.

The masquerade ball held in the Academy Hall on Tuesday evening was very enjoyable and fairly successful financially—the sum of $30.00 being realized.

Mr. J. St. George, local manager for the Horwood Lumber Co., has just moved into that fine house on the Beach, formerly occupied by the late Jeremiah Brien.

A large number of citizens were at the railway station yesterday morning to bid good by to the volunteers who are soon to leave for England to go in training. May success follow them, is the prayer of all.

Successful Service.

The Easter missionary meeting of the W.M.S. at Wesley Church last night was largely attended, and each item very much enjoyed; Mrs. A. W. Martin presided. The first address by Mrs. (Rev.) Fenwick, was an excellent appeal for service, and as our nation calls on our men to give their time, strength and perhaps lives for the safety of our homes, and honor of our empire, so workers for the support of our missionaries in those foreign lands where heathenism still exists, must rally to sustain the funds which support these noble men and women who have gone forth to many lands. Solos by Miss Evans and Mr. Chaplin, were heard with much acceptance, and a very choice address followed by Miss Gertrude Parsons, who wore a beautiful silk Chinese costume, and necklace of prayer beads used by the wealthy of Peking. The audience heard every word with rapt attention, for the word picturing and style were certainly those of an accomplished speaker. A splendid solo by Mr. Andrew Gooble pleased everybody. After a fine exercise by ten girls of the Pansy Mission Band "The star shines of the Missionary's Star." Mrs. (Rev.) Royle gave a very appropriate reading entitled "The Little Troublesome Mite Box." How it got its pennies for thankfulness was very interesting. Another chorus, "Little Reapers" and Benediction by Rev. H. Royle closed the service.

JUST WHY J. A. HILL RECOMMENDS DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

He Had Sore Back and Other Symptoms of Kidney Disease and Got Real Benefit from Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Sixty-Nine Corners, Ont., April 9th. (Special).—"I am recommending Dodd's Kidney Pills as the best of medicines." The speaker was Mr. J. A. Hill, a well known resident of this place, and he left no doubt in the minds of his hearers that he meant every word he said.

"Some time ago," Mr. Hill continued, "I had a very sore back. It started from a cold and I suffered for six months with it. I also had stiffness in my joints and cramps in my muscles and I felt heavy and sleepy after meals. My appetite was fitful and my limbs were heavy. Then I decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I took four boxes and received great benefit from them. That's why I recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Every one of Mr. Hill's symptoms showed that his trouble was of the Kidneys. That is why he got such benefit from Dodd's Kidney Pills. They are no cure all, but they do cure sick Kidneys, and the Kidneys are the keystone of health.

SAYS BRITISH WAR LOSSES ARE HIDDEN.

London, April 4.—England's heavy losses in killed and wounded on the western battle front were referred to tonight by the Archbishop of York in an address at Hull, in which he complained of the inadequacy of official information on the subject. The casualty list, he declared, are so compiled as to keep the people in the dark regarding the magnitude of the losses. For instance, he pointed out, it did not show what people had learned privately, that of the 400 officers of one infantry division which lately left England, only forty-four are left on active service; of 12,000 men only 2,900; of forty officers of one regiment, only one; of 10,200 men only 300. He knew, he added, that many of these men would recover, but never, even in the great medieval pestilences, had death wrought such havoc as in this present war.

Is What the Bonaventure Hails For.

At 6.20 last evening, the s.s. Bonaventure, Capt. Bob Bartlett, quietly steamed into port, having returned from the Gulf seal fishery, reporting her catch as 26,000 primo harp seals, valued at $50,000. The Bon was signalled from the Cabot Tower at 6 o'clock last evening and as soon as she hove in sight large concourses of people assembled on the wharves along the water front and other points of vantage to view her. A Telegram reporter was the first to go aboard and congratulate Capt. Bartlett on his success and to get a story of the voyage.

"I thought I would have the pleasure of leading her," said the intrepid explorer of the north, as he talked of his hazardous mission as if it was a merry picking party. All things considered, he said, he was very lucky from the outset of the voyage to the end. "We left here on Sunday, March 7th," he continued. The ship remained in the ice blockade for 20 hours off the Narrows and after freeing herself proceeded, and made a splendid run to Channel. Leaving there on the afternoon of March 10th went in the Gulf to within seven miles of Amherst. Considerable ice, though not extra heavy, was met with on the way, though the Bonaventure got through without much difficulty. After stemming about in quest of the seals for several hours, Capt. Bob got sight of his first white coat on the afternoon of the 16th, and proceeded in that direction until the next morning, March 17th when he struck the main patch. The ocean for miles around, in fact as far as the eye could see, was dotted with seals, and Capt. Bob never saw them thicker. Immediately the ship was burnt down and the men put on the ice. The Bonaventure was all by her "lonc-some" for a week, not another ship being in sight. For the first day's kill 10,000 was reported by the master watches, next day March 18th, 16,000 and so on until in the neighborhood of 50,000 had been accounted for. When 16,000 were on board, on March 26th, a strong gale from the N.W. raged, accompanied by a snow storm, causing the ice to break up and the missing of three hundred pans. The storm lasted until the 28th. About one-third of the missing pans drifted towards the land and the landsmen were seen working them. After the storm the ship got clear and followed her seals towards the shore and succeeded in finding 100 pans, the other pans, amounting to about 20,000, were never seen afterwards. Most of them drifted towards the Nova Scotian coast and were picked up by the landsmen, while what was on a few pans went under the ice. On Wednesday the ship came out of the Gulf and went towards the harbor of Sydney bay, seals having drifted that far, but only recovered very few. Capt. Bartlett says the weather and ice conditions were bad. Strong winds and tides were frequently experienced, but a peculiar feature is that there was virtually no frost and most of the sealers worked during the spring with their hands uncovered. He never saw as much ice-blindness. On one day alone 105 of his most experienced sealers were aboard with their eyes affected, but there was scarcely any sickness of any kind for the voyage amongst the crew who are all well and in the best of spirits. "The ice was very heavy this season," reported Capt. Bartlett, and he reports the other Gulf ships over a week ago off Cape St. Lawrence. Nova hailed for 3,000 when last seen over a week ago off Cape St. Lawrence. The Viking, Diana and Erik got no seals and were jammed for most of the spring. The Bonaventure was in danger of going ashore several times, owing to the running ice, but fortunately not the slightest mishap was met with. The ice was covered with deep snow all the spring, according to Capt. Bartlett, and hampered the work of the men greatly, especially handling seals, which were towed from two to six miles to the ship. A man named Edward Kenny, who was wheelman on the S.S. Terra Nova, was brought in with a broken leg. The Bonaventure's seals are expected to average 51 lbs. and are in excellent condition. To Capt. Bartlett we extend heartiest congratulations.

Four Typewriter Bargains!

YOUR FAVOURITE TYPEWRITING MACHINE AT ABOUT HALF PRICE.

We can now give you a $100.00 Remington for $50.00, a $120.00 Oliver for $60.00, a $130.00 Underwood for $60.00, and the New Model American Typewriter at $45.00; and every machine carries with it our personal guarantee.

We have already saved twenty-four purchases of Typewriters an aggregate total of $1,200. If you have an old machine whose poor work is helping to spoil the reputation of your business, lay it aside and buy one of these. You will find it more profitable to buy a Remington, an Oliver or an Underwood at our price than to have your old machine repaired.

Again, if you have hitherto felt your business could not afford $100.00 to $150.00 for a Typewriting Machine, now is your chance to get as good a machine as money can buy, for half the price usually charged.

We will be glad to give the names of those who have already purchased Machines from us; most of them are here in the city, and you can easily verify all that we claim.

We are Headquarters for Typewriters, Typewriter Ribbons, Typewriter Papers, Typewriter Carbons, Typewriter Supplies, Filing Cabinets and Adding Machines.

Grand Concert in Aid of the City Poor.

The Committee in charge of the Sacred Concert of March 24th past, which was postponed owing to Mr. Christian's illness, wish to announce that said concert will now take the form of a Grand Concert in aid of the city poor and will be advertised to be held on Monday night, April 12th in the Methodist College Hall. A perusal of the programme will no doubt attract a full house. The C.C.C. band since its organization, will play for the first time in the College Hall. Mrs. Logan, the wife of our genial manager of the Bank of Commerce, will appear for the first time, while Mrs. G. W. E. Ayre will be heard in that beautiful song "Ave Marie." Misses Johnson, Curtis and Colton will render recitations, instrumental and vocal items, while a glance at the remaining items will convince one of its success. Mr. Hutton will conduct the band and render a song, while Messrs. Courtenay, Christian and Ruggles will sing; Mr. Cornick, who is ill of bronchitis will not sing, but will regretting his absence the management have arranged a substitute. Mr. O'Neil will be heard in a recitation, selected by himself, and no doubt will be worth hearing. We bespeak a full audience as the tickets are going fast at the Atlantic Bookstore.

Supreme Court.

Court met at 11 a.m. to-day pursuant to adjournment. Present: The Full Bench. C. A. Jerrett vs. Frederick G. Gerrett, and Simon Butler, Admr. ad Item, to represent the Estate of G. C. Jerrett, deceased.

This is an action to recover the sum of $2,123.38 for debt. Furlong, K. C., for plaintiff; Kent, K.C., for Frederick G. Jerrett; and Clift, K.C., for Simon Butler, administrator. Furlong, K.C., for plaintiff, informs the Court that a settlement has been made between the parties, and moves that the case be taken off the docket. It is ordered accordingly.

IN CHAMBERS.

(Before Mr. Justice Emerson.) The case of Bishop Sons and Co. vs. Joseph Benning was continued this forenoon and was further adjourned until 11 a.m. on Monday next.

Convicted of Stealing Gold Coins.

There arrived in the city by last night's train from Conception Harbor a young woman of Harbor Main, who was arrested by police on a charge of stealing six sovereigns. Accused was tried before Judge Knight to-day and convicted, but sentence was suspended. The gold coins were recovered.

HOME INDUSTRIES

The main objection to the Bank of Nova Scotia of course, is the way in which the contractors were ignored, as prices—they are only up to the most of our local industry. There are few of us who are not made articles for several reasons. We buy them only if they are of better quality and than the imported article. The contractors here will have in touch with the man who used in their business, at work and less labour, and handle all the big jobs. It is to be cut here, where it is used in the Museum for instance, imported all ready cut. This means more labour and to go and if possible should always "John Bull" tells about a sugar refinery in England, which almost every one knows is "Made in Germany". It is times as these that we and much patriotism influences money is concerned. But at time, if we are compelled to buy English made machines and products that will cost more—certain is it that the new Government will capture our trade again more than formerly.

850 A YEAR

Now that the Council has decided that all tenants paying less or under for rent, pay that their houses be kept light, that the Council will not rent them and think that its duty is fulfilled. I hope it will not be those poor people to complain, do complain, then they next will be a notice from the landlord. And goodness knows they can find another dweller. Council should take the matter own hands—make a list of such as unfit and act on the City's against the owners, and protect much as they can, the amount the ire of the landlord.

And why, pray, should we spend fifty-dollar-a-year houses? shouldn't the man paying $80 a and $100 a year and more, have same privilege of demanding a house as his right? In many the man paying these rents has a much harder job to get and live as he would like to. THE THOUGHTS OF THEOBALD.

HOME INDUSTRIES.

The main objectionable feature of the Bank of Nova Scotia's new Bank of course, is the way our local contractors were ignored. As regards a foreign contractor beating them on prices—they are only up against it as most of our local industries are. There are few of us who ask for local made articles for sentimental reasons. We buy them only when they are of better quality and cheaper than the imported article. And the contractors here will have to get in touch with the many appliances used in their business, that shorten work and lessen labour, if they would handle all the big jobs here. I have heard that in this new Bank the stone is to be cut here, whereas the stone used in the Museum for instance was imported all ready cut. This will mean more labour and is a good idea, and if possible should always be done. "John Bull" tells about a prominent sugar refinery in England in which almost every bit of machinery is "Made in Germany"! It is such times as these that we find out how much patriotism influences us when money is concerned. But at the same time, if we are compelled to buy only English made machinery and English products that will cost more—just as certain it is that the new Germany will capture our trade again and even more than formerly.

$50 A YEAR RENT.

Now that the Council has announced that all tenants paying fifty dollars or under for rent may demand that their houses be kept tight, I hope that the Council will not rest on its oars and think that its duty is accomplished. I hope it will not be left for those poor people to complain, for if they do complain, then the next thing will be a notice from the landlord to quit. And goodness knows where they can find another shelter. The Council should take the matter in its own hands—make a list of such houses unfit and act on the City's account against the owners, and protect as much as they can, the tenant from the ire of the landlord.

And why, pray, should we stop at fifty-dollar-a-year houses? Why shouldn't the man paying $50 a year and $100 a year and more, have the same privilege of demanding a tight house as his right? In many ways the man paying these latter rents, has a much harder job to get along and live as he would like to. He is the man who is generally bearing the burden and heat of the day and who is really higher in the scale of worth than many whom we term the "aristocracy." So let him be protected too. His house may not be unfit for habi-

INCOME TAX.

While business and competition and money-making go on as they do now, the adjustment to the new conditions that must come and are coming every year, must cause irritation and worry to the money-man. The way must open to the man of worth (I don't mean in money) and as he rises to eminence he is bound to adjust matters without regard to immense material possessions. Some favour a revolution, others advocate a gradual process by which some at least of a man's surplus shall revert to the people which have contributed in some way to the upbuilding of the fortune. The income tax is one that we might profitably copy from the old land, and almost every civilized country, except Canada, uses it when emergency money is required. And when such money is required it is the rich that must be taxed first. They have the surplus and it is this that naturally should be taxed first. It is no secret that Newfoundland finances are sadly in need. The situation is not brought about by the way either, which makes it sadder still. What remedies this Session of the House will bring to our help I know not, but an Income Tax graded from say $1,000 a year, ought to be one of the remedies and is one that will bear on those who can best afford the burden. It is a long, long way to wait till a man dies to tax his possessions—let him be of service to his country while he lives. Death duties, necessary as they are, are gruesome spoils at the most.

NEW TAXES.

With rumors of a twenty per cent. surtax on duties instead of ten per cent. and with many necessities taken off the free list, our hearts are rather glum these days. And what a short-sighted policy is it this taxing of our food and clothing. It is quite in error to say that this is taxing all alike. These who are getting $800 a year and under, and they form the large majority, have all they can do now to manage their money and make it buy their needs without going into debt. If you tax these further they will have to do without and I submit that there are few things that such men can do without. But the rich man doesn't feel the extra tax at all—he has enough money to stretch to meet the increased prices and he will not do without any of his luxuries, not to speak of the ordinary necessities of life. So an extra tax now is an unjust one. Someone suggested to me the other day that the Opposition should not let the House rise this Session unless an Income Tax Bill be put through. He felt strongly about the matter but he knows how little he can afford to meet the increased prices that will come if the Govt. increases duties again. I certainly think that it is no part of the duty of the Opposition to refrain from full criticism of the Government. It should not be a short-sighted policy that is such distrust and doubt concerning the actions of the Government that the most rigid inquiry should be made of all expenditure. It is a common expression that "Morris has no regard for money than he has for the sand on the seashore," and it may well be true. It may not be his fault, but we surely cannot afford to have such a man at the head of affairs.

SWEETSTAKES.

Speaking about sweetstakes and betting the other night, someone offered a defence which seemed peculiarly logical. He said "what is the difference between my betting you $5 that the 'Beat-all' will win the boat race and my betting the Insurance Company $5 to $500 that my house will not burn down in a year?" And wherein is the difference? You pay $5. If your house burns down the following week you get $500. Surely that is something for nothing? This is a typical case of a business that has been taken for granted and most good people never think what it means and what really underlies the insurance scheme. The Companies take the risk of your house burning, and they have figured out just about how many fires are going to take place—just as you try to figure out how many races will be won by your favourite—and if things are just as they hope, they will win, but if all the buildings that they have insured happen to burn—they are going to lose and lose heavily. So it is only a gamble. And on the face of it, it is just as wrong as betting.

MUTUAL INSURANCE.

The proper insurance should be mutual. The best example I know is the insurance scheme in which most of the northern schooners are insured. The rate of insurance is not fixed till the season is over. Then if there have been any losses—each schooner bears a proportionate part. There are no profits divided among a comparatively few shareholders who, in a regular insurance Co. take big risks. This mutual insurance scheme is carrying out the present of "bearing one another's burdens," and such companies are "fulfilling the law" in a way that is foreign to most business pursuits. This world would be better if

How "Tiz" Gladdens Tired, Aching Feet

Don't stay Footsick! Don't have sore, puffed-up, sweaty, calloused feet or burning corns.

"TIZ makes my feet just dance."
 Ah! that relief. No more tired feet; no more burning feet; no more swollen, bad smelling, sweaty feet. No more pain in corns, callouses or bunions. No matter what ails your feet or what under the sun you've tried without getting relief, just use "TIZ." "TIZ" is the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up the feet; "TIZ" is magical; "TIZ" is grand; "TIZ" will cure your foot troubles so you'll never limp or draw up your face in pain. Your shoes won't seem tight and your feet will never, never hurt or get sore, swollen or tired. Think of it, no more foot misery; no more burning corns, callouses or bunions. Get a 25 cent box at any drug store or department store, and get instant relief. Get a whole year's foot relief for only 25 cents. Think of it!

churches did not regard business as something "outside" the church. The church is generally content to teach principles, but this does not help the man who is in the midst of doubt about the equity of whatever business he is in. No doubt the churches are insured—but have they sat down to think the business out? Some probably wonder if "Theobald" is insured. He is. And for his protection in the lack of a better. But he hopes that some day a Government will rise—brought forth by church or people—who will inaugurate a State Insurance that will not be a gamble, but a scheme based on a mutual plan, a scheme embracing all classes of society, rich and poor alike.

What Are You Doing for that Eczema?

"Nothing; I've about given up trying to cure it."
 "That is not wise. Do as I did and you will probably be cured in a short time. I used Zylex and Zylex Soap with it and my Eczema began to improve at once. A couple of boxes cured me. You can get Zylex at your druggist's."
 Zylex, 50c. a box; Zylex Soap, 25c. a cake.

WOMAN REFUSES OPERATION

Tells How She Was Saved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Logansport, Ind.—"My baby was over a year old and I bloated till I was a burden to myself. I suffered from female trouble so I could not stand on my feet and I felt like millions of needles were pricking me all over. At last my doctor told me that all that would save me was an operation, but this I refused. I told my husband to get me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I would try it before I would submit to any operation. He did so and I improved right along. I am now doing all my work and feeling fine.

"I hope other suffering women will try your Compound. I will recommend it to all I know."—MRS. DANIEL D. E. DAVIS, 110 Franklin St., Logansport, Ind.

Since we guarantee that all testimonials which we publish are genuine, is it not fair to suppose that if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has the virtue to help these women it will help any other woman who is suffering in a like manner?

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (Confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.
