LET every agriculturist bring something to the fall fair this year, and begin now to make the exhibition worthy of this splendid agricultural community.

A COLT belonging to Jos. McManus while being harnessed Tuesday evening got impatient and took the route usually driven for exercise without a driver. No damage done.

EPWORTH League services in the Methodist church on Tuesday evening at eight o'clock. Leader—Mr. W. Marsh. Topic—"Charlemagne, the Empire Builder and Pope Maker."

In Indiana a horse was cured of lockjaw by a diet of beer. There are a few people around here who no doubt would welcome an attack of that disease if they could take the same cure.

ON LABOR DAY the weather was rather too cool for an enjoyable holiday but quite a number of our citizens went away to the lakeside and nearby places to spend the day. The visitors in town were few.

WATFORD sent only one rink to the Bowling Tournament at Petrolia Labor Day but the players gave a good account of themselves. The rink embraced J. H. Hume, J. McKercher, S. Stapleford, with Rev. S. P. Irwin as skip.

Is it not about time that the town council brought pressure to bear on the Grand Trunk Railway Co. to have the sidewalk approaches to the bridge put in repair? The west walk is in a dangerous state for pedestrians and a person is lucky to get over it without injury.

A QUEBEC chief justice was forced to live for three days on beer and sandwiches while in the war zone. We know some people who would not think it a hardship to live that way provided there was an unlimited quantity of the beer.

PRESIDENT FARRELL of the East Lambton Fall Fair is here this week canvassing for special prizes and cash subscriptions and is meeting with good success. A meeting of the attraction committee was held Wednesday evening and arrangements made for a number of special platform features.

LIEUT.-COL. KELLY has received a communication from Militia Headquarters urging him to recruit the 27th regt. up to full peace establishment and to urge Canadian born citizens to enlist. Young men wishing to avail themselves of the opportunity to become members of Lambton's crack regiment should present themselves at the Armory.

J. WILLISE, President of the East Lambton Farmers' Institute, has received a circular from G. A. Putnam, superintendent of Farmers' Institutes, announcing that owing to the financial condition resulting from the war that series of meetings will not be held this winter. A few special meetings with short courses in judging will be held. There will be no convention of Institute officers and representatives from Farmers' Clubs, either.

COL. KELLY has received instructions from the militia department that all Austrians and Germans in this district must sign a statement that they will remain neutral during the present war, or they are liable to be arrested and placed under guard until the end of the war. Each person who signs the agreement is given an identification card which he can show in case he is molested by the military authorities or the police.

DEPOSITORS at local banks were apprised last Friday that hereafter and until further notice a discount of two per cent. would be charged on all United States money and cheques. THE interdenominational service held in the Armory on Wednesday evening was fairly attended, each church being well represented.

THERE is one thing it has not been hard to do without lately during these "high-price" times—ice. Most mornings a scuttle of coal would be more acceptable than the congealed stuff.

MISS AGNES WILLIAMS has returned from the Toronto Millinery Openings with the latest fashions for the fall trade, and has now opened out some specially priced hats for early wear. Opening announcement later.

MR. DE CEX, in changing his address, writes that he is in good shape to supply anyone wanting good ram lambs as he has about 75 at prices that defy competition, and remember he will buy back or exchange at one or two years of age. Sheep were never better money makers than at the present time and those few extra pounds of wool and mutton mean profit. His imported sheep luckily arrived before the war assumed such serious proportions.

WHEN you pay real money you are entitled to get what you really want—not merely what the dealer wants to sell you. Public opinion is being aroused against the dealer who offers "something just as good." The advertised article is usually an article of merit, for the manufacturer depends for his profits on repeat sales. The "just as good" is nine times out of ten inferior quality trading on the other chap's reputation. Get what you ask for—it means satisfaction.

A VERY quiet wedding was solemnized on Saturday evening, Sept. 5th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Restorick, when their only daughter, Pearl, became the wife of Mr. Harold Cares, of the staff of the Imperial Oil Company, of Sarnia. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. S. P. Irwin, B. A., rector of Trinity Church, and the young couple were unattended. Mr. and Mrs. Cares left for Sarnia on Sunday where they will reside. The bride's many friends in this vicinity wish the newly wedded pair a long and happy married life.

The cross petition asks that the claim of Mr. McCormick to be declared elected for the Electoral District of East Lambton be disallowed, that the respondent be found guilty of corrupt practices alleged in the cross petition and that respondent be disqualified, and that the petitioner in said cross petition be confirmed in his seat for East Lambton.

Date of Leaving Will Be Kept Secret

Valcartier, Sept. 9.—Everything possible will be done by the authorities to keep the date of the departure of the Canadian expeditionary troops a secret. When the troops will leave the mobilization camp is not known officially, and when it is known nothing will be said about it. The Canadian force will be conveyed across the Atlantic in the same manner as was the British force to France. The Lambton men are all in fine shape and are enjoying the strenuous drill. A very small percentage of the 27th failed to pass the Medical examination. The Watford boys are all well.

A phone has been placed in the Forest high school.

Deceased who was an expert carriage builder, first located at Hillsboro, but when Forest first began to show signs of growth he moved there and has been a continuous resident ever since.

The Women's Institute of Ailsa Craig, were approached a short time ago by the representative of an aluminum manufacturer requesting permission to make a demonstration before a meeting of the W. I. and promising a donation of their work if a certain amount of aluminum were purchased by the ladies. It was decided, in view of the present general outlook, that it was the duty of every member to patronize home merchants in all their purchases rather than spend their money with large and wealthy outside firms and therefore they refused the agent's request.

Irwin Reid, 7th con. Mersea, met a sudden and tragic death on Saturday evening last. He had spent the afternoon in Leamington in comparatively good health, and left about 6 o'clock for home in a buggy with his adopted son. On the way he engaged in a friendly race in which he was leading, with Mr. Wm. McLendon, and was enjoying the sport. On reaching the corner of the 4th concession he stopped racing and while laughing fell against his boy companion. They lifted him from the buggy and laid him on a rug, after which the unfortunate man only gasped three times and expired.

Will Fight to the Last Man

In a letter to a relative here, an English business man writes: "You can imagine the topic of conversation now is the war and among the most pleasing episodes of it are the splendid contributions of help and food from Canada. The action of the Dominion has caused the greatest admiration here and I may tell you that although we anticipate having to pass through a severe trial there is not the slightest doubt as to our success in the end. There is one thought prevailing in the whole people which is that without hatred or revenge, we are bound to resist Germany to the last breath of man and horse. Let it be known throughout the world that on the part of England and her allies this is a righteous war and that our only crime has been to refuse to go into partnership in a thieves' kitchen where the spoils of a murdered France are to be divided up. The war is a defence of honor and we have no fear of the ultimate result. It will of course be a serious thing for all of us, and my own outlook from a business point of view is naturally a dark one as even those people who had work done are not in a position to pay for it, but we are all determined to suffer what trials come upon us and to help each other to the full extent of our means."

SUFFERED EVERYTHING

For Years, Restored To Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Canadian women are continually writing us such letters as the two following, which are heartfelt expressions of gratitude for restored health:

Glanford Station, Ont.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and never found any medicine to compare with it. I had ulcers and falling of womb and doctors did me no good. I suffered dreadfully for years until I began taking your medicine. I also recommend it for nervousness and indigestion." — Mrs. HENRY CLARK, Glanford Station, Ont.

Chesterville, Ont.—"I heard your medicines highly praised, and a year ago I began taking them for falling of womb and ovarian trouble. My left side pained me all the time and just before my periods which were irregular and painful it would be worse. To sit down caused me pain and suffering and I would be so nervous sometimes that I could not bear to see any one or hear any one speak. Little specks would float before my eyes and I was always constipated. I cannot say too much for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, for there are no medicines like them. I have taken them and I recommend them to all women. You may publish this testimonial." — Mrs. STEPHEN J. MARTIN, Chesterville, Ontario, Canada.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

"Steady" is the word. There is absolutely no reason for panic in Canada. Our business should go pretty much as usual even if profits are not earned for a season.—Globe.

While a few years ago Canada had a large outgoing butter trade it has practically disappeared. Cheese is on the decline as well. Reasons are said to be that the American and Western Canada are buying up our good cattle. We cater more for the local market and the Northwest trade. Australia and New Zealand have out Canada out of the butter trade of Great Britain.

Michigan has adopted an automobile regulation which requires the headlights of automobiles to be frosted at the edges so that the light is thrown only on the road in front of the machine. The ordinary disk light casts a glare which illuminates the whole road from fence to fence, and many feet in the air. The new type of illumination is said to be much less alarming to horses, and less annoying to pedestrians on the sidewalks.

It is only a few years ago that the German Emperor declared that "Our future lies on the sea." Since that day the German navy has drunk confidently to the toast, "That Day." In their vision "the day" was that on which they should meet the British fleet upon the high seas. To-day the whole world is listening anxiously for the whispers, rumors, rumblings coming from the North Sea that seem to portend a speedy decision.

A movement is on foot in Western Ontario to get small towns which wish to contribute to the cost of participation by Canada in the European war and don't know how to do so best, to contribute horses. This movement was started last week by Hon. Adam Beck and already has been largely successful. Many of these towns are in an excellent position to secure horses which would be suitable for artillery or general military purposes. In the Militia Department it is stated that there is no more suitable gift and the people seem to favor this plan.

HOME HINTS

Be natural and be proper, but not too proper. Happy is the man who conserves his God-given power until wisdom and not passion shall direct it.

Leather knee pads are suggested to make it easier for the young man to propose. We fail to see the need of them, however. Seeing that no woman nowadays is ever known to refuse, prayers are somewhat of a superfluity.

If a child has any sensibility, scolding either kills it or makes it vicious. Children have rights which ought to be respected as much as their elders. They are as quick to see an injustice, and know as well as anyone else when parents are making fools of themselves.

Six cents a year is about all one may safely expect one dollar to earn. And it must work day and night to do that. When you try to compel it or coax it to earn twenty cents a year it is very likely to balk, and just as like as not you will never see your dollar again, let alone the twenty cents. Most of the failures in big business and in small are due to the fact that many men are unwilling to put the dollar to work, and be satisfied with a legitimate and reasonable profit.

To say that you do not care what people think of you, usually means that you prefer that they think you rude, proud and uncivil; and that you are so morally diseased that you enjoy the pain that this gives you, as a chronic dyspeptic enjoys the pain in his stomach. Sane and healthy souls want to be loved and admired. And this end is attained only by politeness and agreeableness.

Beware of Ointments For Catarrh That Contains Mercury

Mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists. Price 75c per bottle. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Immigration officials have instructions to hand all Austrians and German recruits over to Capt. Robinson, of the 27th regiment, who is instructed from headquarters to provide escorts for the guard for transmission of those taken in charge to Kingston. The 7th of London, prior to this, furnished the escorts. This duty is undoubtedly an honor to our local soldiers.—Sarnia Observer.

Table Manners

Canadian men are good workers. They see their wives and children but little except at the table. That seems to be about the only family gathering. What a spectacle is the common management of these family meetings!

The father sits in glum silence, and shovels in as fast as he can swallow. The children follow the parental example. The food is passed only when asked for, and is then passed in silence.

There is nothing human about it. We cannot see in what essential particular it differs from a group of pigs gathered about a trough.

If these gatherings are rightly managed; if the experiences of the children in their schools were lovingly called out by parental interest; if such news as the parents had picked up since the last meeting were told—if this were the scene at the table three times a day if would grow by what it feeds. The table meeting would be more attractive to the small people. The parents would grow into a loving oneness with their children. It would in truth prove the greatest blessing to every member of the group, and in the long run would contribute more to the physical, intellectual, social and moral development of the young people than any other agency can name.

Safety First on the Farm

In the Province of Ontario, during the year 1912, there were 1,831 deaths due to external violence. Many of these occurred on the farms. No less than 25 were caused by injuries received from animals. Many others were due to carelessness around farm machinery, unsafe harness causing horses to run away, falling through open trap-doors or down feed chutes, ladders breaking, etc. In some cities, and over some railways lines, a "safety first" campaign is under way. "Stop, look, listen," is a splendid warning sign for a railway crossing, but its equivalent should be sounded in many other places. The risks to life and limb on the farm are so numerous and so plain that one would expect to see them largely removed, but they are not. Children on the farm should be taught the dangers inseparable from association with live stock, and to be careful always. The bull may be thought to be safe and gentle, but he can never be trusted. Three deaths, in one week, by going among the casualties in the press reports during June, 1914. Farmers are repeatedly taking chances by getting in front of the knife of the mower or binder, to make some adjustment or repairs, while the horses are hitched and liable to start, and thereby cause a serious accident. When threshing and silo-filling time comes, every precaution should be taken to guard against accidents. Prevention is a long, and times better than neglect and carelessness, which latter often leads to accidents and loss of life. Human life is held far too cheaply and if the parents fail to teach the children to be careful, and to avoid unnecessary risk and danger, they can scarcely escape responsibility when preventable accidents, causing disfigurement or loss of life, occur.

No man or woman should hobble painfully about because of corns when so certain a relief is at hand as Holloway's Corn Cure.

For catching small animals in high grass there has been patented a trap consisting of a board from which projects a number of barbed hooks.

Two eminent physicians are on their way from the United States to China to study native methods of combating epidemics, especially cholera.

The efforts of the women of Dunnville to raise funds for the hospital fund was a success in every way. The fund now amounts to $410, and more is still coming in.

The Academy of Medicine will care for needy dependents of absent soldiers and look after the practice of doctors on service.

The cheapness of Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator puts it within reach of all, and it can be got at any drug-gist's.

There are 239 municipalities in the Province of Ontario in which liquor licenses are at present in operation, and in all of which local option campaigns may be brought on this year, says the Pioneer, the official moral reform organ.

A Proteola boy named John Howlett was shot in the temple with a 22 calibre revolver, the bullet lodging in the brain. He was with some companions who were shooting at bottles for a target when a shot fired by Neil Racher struck the unfortunate boy. He died shortly afterwards.

At a meeting of the Indians of the Sarnia Reserve held last week the Indians passed a resolution unanimously requesting the Dominion Government to appropriate $1,000 from the funds of the Indians to help England in her war expenses. Addresses were given by Chief Meness, Chief Jacobs, and others, and all were enthusiastic in their desire to aid England.

"A member of Lloyd's," the great insurance firm of the world, writing in the London Chronicle, directly before the outbreak of war, said: "Every great Continental State is living on capital or credit and this capital and this credit will be destroyed by war. Of all the great nations now engaged in war, Russia alone is capable of producing food enough for her own people."

Stoppage of Grog

How great has been the change in the sentiment of the world towards the consumption of alcoholic liquor during the last fifteen years is shown by the change that has taken place in supplies for the soldiers. When the Canadians who volunteered for service in Africa left for the front, they were, from the day they sailed from Halifax to the day they got back, supplied with a ration of rum twice a week. The whole army fighting in Africa was given its rum as a necessity all through the campaign. To-day things are different. Among the first items of news that came from Russia after the outbreak of war, is the startling announcement that the sale of liquor throughout Russia has been prohibited. From Lord Kitchener, the Minister of War, we hear that no spirituous liquors will be forwarded to the English soldiers fighting in France. Not only will the government not send over regular rations, but it also refuses to forward consignments made by friends as gifts to individual soldiers. In Canada, Colonel Hughes has shown himself equally opposed to the use of liquor by the men, and has made the strongest regulations against its introduction to the camp at Valcartier, even threatening to dismiss from the service any man found with liquor in his possession. These are signs of the times, which indicate how strongly and universally the tide of public opinion is setting against alcoholic drinks.—Witness.

HOGS ON PASTURE MAKE BIG PROFITS

To treble the profits from a crop of corn, making the land yield a return of more than $100 per acre, is no mean achievement on a corn belt farm, yet by pasturing young hogs on a mixture of rape and corn certain Iowa farmers are doing this very thing, writes W. H. Lancelot in the Orange Judd Farmer. Among them is M. D. Crow of Audubon county, Ia., who has accomplished it two years in succession. His experience is as follows:

The Tamworth is a bacon hog and ranks high in this respect. He is an extremely rugged hog and rivals in size the large Yorkshire. The Tamworth is probably the most prolific of all breeds of swine. He is inclined to be restless, but is usually gentle in disposition, and the sows are fine mothers. Tamworths are great rustlers, and this habit no doubt accounts in large degree for their superior bacon qualities. They produce a carcass containing a large percentage of lean meat of fine grain and have been found to cross satisfactorily with the fat breeds of hogs.

until early winter, when the corn had been cleaned up and the rape killed down by freezing. During this time they received little attention other than light feeding, since they had access to running water. As Mr. Crow puts it, "I hardly knew I had any hogs around."

When winter came, however, he found that he had around a numerous bunch of thrifty, half grown hogs with nearly unappetizable appetites and a surprising capacity for further growth. He fed them corn, mill feed and tankage until March, when they were sold at $7.50 per 100 pounds, bringing $2,640.75.

Up to the time they were sold, these hogs had consumed 2,160 bushels of corn, valued at 40 cents per bushel, or $864; also mill feed and tankage costing $80.50. Thus their total feed bill, aside from the pasture, was $944.50, leaving a profit of $1,696.20.

As Mr. Crow figures it this $1,696.20 represents the returns from the ten acre field of rape and corn, since full allowance has been made for all other feeds; hence he realized $169.62 per acre from this field, whereas from the remainder of his corn land, which bore a straight crop of forty-five bushels per acre, worth 40 cents per bushel, he actually realized a return per acre of only $18.

SOME SILO ADVANTAGES.

Modern Farmers Agree as to the Benefits of Silage as a Feed.

The silo has proved itself to be highly profitable in many ways over different sections of the country. Its means for increasing the supply of feed for the stock has been fully tested, writes an Illinois farmer in the Iowa Home-stead. Silage is not only a benefit to the dairy farmer, but the general farmer as well, for all stock will eat some well kept silage, and it is much relished by them.

A silo should by all means be erected on all farms where live stock is to be kept. The silo not only saves all the crop for feeding purposes, but saves much labor in feeding.

One should never think of keeping a dairy herd through the winter without silage as a part of their ration. When cows are properly cared for in winter, more profit may be derived from them than during the summer months, as the prices for cream and butter are always better, besides the milk being easier to handle and keep fresh. When cows are fed a goodly supply of well kept silage in connection with their other feed it is almost equal to the pasturage in summer, giving the butter a rich color and good flavor.

Some do not build silos owing to the cost. It is true the first cost seems great, but the money and labor saved in utilizing every stalk of corn will pay for the cost of the silo in a few years. Farmers are waking up to the fact that they need a silo in their business and can't afford to let the cost hold them off from so profitable an investment.

Keep Flies Out of the Barn.

Flies are hard on all animals, but the colt seems to suffer most from the pests. A dark stable will make the colt bigger, says the Farm and Fireside. And if there are one or two light windows to draw the flies and plenty of fly paper to catch them the colt will do still better. Good wire screen traps and some sort of evil smelling lure for the flies will be just as good. And why stop with protecting colts? Why not the cows, the horses and the entire barn premises? Traps are not expensive. As for the house, we are addressing progressive people and they will not insult them by assuming that they are neglecting the protections of screens, traps, sticky paper and the other aids to the fly swatter.

KIDNAPING VOTERS.

Once a Regular Feature of Political Warfare in England.

In England a generation or two ago kidnaping was a regularly organized feature of political warfare. On the eve of an election especially men of influence on either side would mysteriously vanish to reappear later with strange tales of forcible seizures, mad races across country in post chaises driven by yelling postillions, followed by longer or shorter terms of gilded imprisonment in great mansions, where they were wine and dined in sumptuous style and treated right royally in every way, only their liberty being denied them.

Quite humble voters, too, were forcibly abducted, but these did not always fare quite so well. Thus one victim made complaint before a magistrate that he had been deceived from his house by a ruse and kept shut up in a coal hole for three days.

Wholesale kidnaping of voters in batches, too, was not unknown, the process being rendered easier by the custom of candidates paying the traveling expenses of their electors to and from the polling places.

For instance, at a certain Newcastle election a whole shipload of freemen of the borough, dispatched from London by sea, were taken by the captain—who had been heavily bribed—to Ostend and there left stranded.

During the same contest, too, and under similar circumstances a number of Berwick electors who happened to reside in London were dumped down in Norway, and a group of dirty Irish voters found themselves on the day of the poll cooling their heels upon the quay at Rotterdam.—Pearson's Weekly.

MARRIAGE FAILURES.

Two Crises in Wedded Life That Are Mainly Responsible.

That there should be such involved discussion and so many amazingly contradictory theories about the cause of the failure of marriage is surprising.

The plain fact is that marriage is always the end of romance and the beginning of history. This is so true that Homer tells us the women of ancient Greece reckoned their ages not from the birth date, but from the wedding day. A good many husbands in this twentieth century are a good deal more certain about the number of years their wives have lived since marriage than about the summers and winters they had numbered before they became wives.

Failure to recognize the difference between romance and history causes failure of marriage. Romance is all play; history is a serious business. Courtship is pie; marriage is potatoes. The comedown from pie to potatoes sometimes overstrains matters seriously. But if this crisis is safely passed another awaits.

Love is the spice of life, but friendship is the nourishing food without which life, except to unusual individuals, becomes a burden. The marriage which is all spice and no food soon gives one or frequently both of the parties thereto acute indigestion. When the ecstatic emotions of the honeymoon have fled, marriage must find some other subsistence or it cannot thrive. And the only satisfying food is friendship.—Mother's Magazine.

Mexico's National Pawnshop.

One of the most remarkable institutions in the City of Mexico is the Monte de Piedad, or national pawnshop. The monte is one of the oldest buildings in the capital, having been built for the private residence of Cortes in 1520, and it has been fortunate enough to escape the hands of restorers. It was acquired in 1744 by Count de Regla Terreros, who laid out $300,000 in organizing the Monte de Piedad, with the idea of saving the needy from the usury of the ordinary pawnbroker. Its success is attested by its long history, and Mexicans today can get one-third value on their goods at a rate of interest seldom exceeding 3 per cent per annum. If any one fails to keep up his payments, the deposited goods are sold, and any balance over the sum advanced is handed to the depositor.

A Monstrosity Among Newspapers.

Those who object to the widespread newspaper may see the apotheosis of their bete noire in the museum at Aix-la-Chapelle, the only existing copy of the Illuminated Quadruple Constellation, published in New York in 1859. Happily this monstrosity did not survive the first issue, for its pages measure eight and one-half feet by six feet, and each contains thirteen columns forty-eight inches long. By way of comparison it may be mentioned that the smallest newspaper in the world is the Mexican El Telegrama, with pages four inches square.—London Chronicle.

Stoats Hunt in Packs.

In some years stoats appear to be more numerous than in others, and they are seen not in ones and twos, but in dozens, hunting together in small packs. Stoats will hunt together from scent and in full cry like a pack of hounds, one always keeping the line and followed closely by the others. This sight has been recorded by different observers who have also seen weasels hunting in the same way.

Valuable Services.

"I have indeed done a service," the orator declared. "I have given the people cause to think."
"That was something at least."
"Yes, oh, yes. But I have done a further service. I have told them just how to think."

Silent Service.

"Don't you like silent service in the house?"
"Sure. That's one reason we put in a dumb waiter."

Making Connections.

Knicker—Life is hard. Bocker—Yes. By the time your mother stops forbidding you to eat jam the doctor begins.—New York Sun.

Trivial Causes of Wars.

A bucket was once the innocent cause of a terrible war. Nine centuries ago some soldiers of Modena stole a bucket as a joke from a public well at Bologna. When they refused to restore it scrimmaging commenced between the soldiers of the rival states, and a war ensued, which spread until it involved the greater part of Europe. In more recent times a debt of a few shillings of which the bey of Algiers demanded payment through the French consul led to a war which lasted twenty years, cost more than 500,000 lives and made Algeria a French possession.

Good That He Returned.

"Boy, watch my horse till I come back!" called a man to a boy lounging around the station, as he hastened to bid farewell to a departing friend.
"Sure!" said the boy, taking the reins.

Just then the locomotive whistled and the horse, rearing suddenly, started at full speed up the road.

The boy stared after the fleeing animal, and, as the owner appeared, exclaimed with relief:

"It's a good thing you came now, sir, for I couldn't have watched him much longer."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Jolting Him.

Bashful Youth—Miss Bella, does—does your mother object to my coming here so much? Fair Charmer—Oh, I think not. I heard her telling papa the other evening that you merely came to pass away the time; you didn't mean anything serious.—London Tit-Bits.

Word of Caution.

"Never propose to a girl by letter."
"Why not?"
"I did it once, and she stuck the letter in a book she was reading and lent it to my other girl."

Talking Machines.

Willie—Paw, where are all the talking machines made? Paw—They are not made, my son. They are born. Maw—You go to bed, Willie.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Learning without politeness makes a disagreeable pedant, and politeness without learning makes a superficial, frivolous quoddy.—Chesterfield.

Canadians—Be Cheerful!

There seems, just now, to be a disposition among many Canadian Business Houses, and Canadians as individuals, to become "panicky." This shouldn't be. Canada must produce—if anything on a larger scale than ever. Goods that have previously been secured in Europe—at least many of them—can and will have to be produced here. It will require increased production in a great many lines to look after the wants of the Motherland and her Allies.

The Canadian, particularly the Ontario, farmer has not fallen down—a guarantee that we will not starve. The one greatest danger lies in the "panicky," pessimistic viewpoint some of us appear to be taking, as evidenced by the hurried discharging of help and the corraling of provisions by those who have the necessary wherewithal. This "hogging" of the food supplies can only lead to greater hardships for the less fortunate—those discharged. It is extremely selfish and unfair.

We are up against the biggest thing in our history—in the world's history. We would strongly suggest that we be cool-headed, confident and humanely courageous. Let us handle it as Britons always have—and, above all, BE CHEERFUL!

WAR SUMMARY

Apart from the announcement that the German forces have fallen back before the offensive tactics of the Allies on the line from Nanteuille-Haudouin to Verdun, the most interesting report is contained in a dispatch to the London Evening News from Boulogne in which the French commander, General Pau, is given as authority for the statement that the Allies have won a victory at Precy-sur-Oise, in which the Imperial Guard under the Crown Prince of Germany, is alleged to have been annihilated by a British force.

The British official bureau says that the plans of the French Commander-in-Chief, General Joffre, are being steadily carried out and that the Allies have succeeded in forcing back in a northeast direction the German forces opposed to them.

Paris officially reports that the Allies have advanced their left wing without energetic opposition by the Germans and that several engagements on the Ourcq River have favored the French and British.

The Russian army operating in Galicia is reported still to be driven back the Austrians.

The casualty list, as a result of the blowing up of the British cruiser Pathfinder by a mine in the North Sea, comprises four men killed, thirteen wounded, and 242 missing.

Sept. 9.—The Russian troops are still engaged in fierce combats with the Austrian forces in the Rawa district, Kussian Poland. Fighting is almost continuous and the outcome in this region has not been determined.

France announces that it is sending reserves to Morocco to replace regulars now there for service with the army in France.

Christabel Parkhurst, the militant suffragette leader, has ranged herself on the side of the prime minister in the present critical condition of the country. She says that the militant women are ready to take their place in the line or serve the nation in any way deemed most advisable.

Official reports from both Paris and London indicate successful movements, at least for the time being, by the allied armies against the Germans. London reports that the British have pushed the opposing forces back 10 miles and that the allies are gaining ground along the line of the Ourcq and Pett Morin rivers.

Wounded soldiers who have reached Paris tell of the severity of the fighting in the Champagne country and report heavy losses.

With hundreds and thousands of men engaged on both sides, the battle now is in full swing to the east of Paris promises to be the most important battle of the campaign up to date.

Latest official reports from the French Government indicate that the offensive tactics undertaken in the last day or two by the allied armies had the desired effect of forcing the Germans back at various points in the battle line, which extends from a few miles east of Paris to Verdun, a distance of 200 miles.

Bordeaux reports officially that the British army has crossed the River Marne and that the Germans have fallen back 25 miles. The efforts of the Germans to break the French lines on the Ourcq River are likewise officially reported to have failed.

Seemingly the Germans are short of ammunition at the front and are having difficulties in provisioning, and the French war department officially announces that "on the whole the Germans appear to be beginning a movement of retreat."

The Russian and Austrian arms continue to oppose each other in a long-drawn-out engagement in the Lublin district, Russian Poland. An official statement, issued at Petrograd, declares that both Austrian and German troops have been dislodged from their fortified positions in that section and have retired towards the south.

The battleline in France is that over which Napoleon fought in 1814, with entrenched camps on both wings and the center. Paris covers the left wing, Chalons the center and Verdun the right, while mobile columns of troops are ready to join in the fighting wherever the line is threatened.

Vitry-le-Francois and Montmirail seem to be the points of the chief engagements and there the carnage has been the heaviest. The allies aim at preventing the German turning movement, with a mass of troops composed of many army corps.

King George has addressed a message to the British dominions and colonies, in which he protests that the war was not of Great Britain's seeking and expresses his warmest thanks for the assistance rendered by them.

Mauberge, a French fortress, has fallen into the hands of the Germans, and, according to the report, the Germans took 40,000 prisoners and 400 guns. The British official press bureau announces the wreck of the coast of Scotland of the White Star liner Oceanic. Officers and crew were saved.

Go at Discount

Only 98 cents can be got in the Lanks for an American dollar bill. This discounting of United States paper money is due, to the fact that an American dollar bill is good here only if it can be sent across and a dollar's worth of gold given in exchange. United States bankers, however, are not parting with gold at the present time, and thus there is this heavy discount. Nobody in Canada wants United States exchange if he cannot get the gold for it. American cheques are subject to the same discount.

Toronto, Sept. 8.—Following yesterday's active market trading was comparatively quiet to-day, but chiefly due to the fact that there was a very light run offering. The cattle were medium to fair in quality, but there were no choice butcher steers at yesterday's top prices available, though probably there was just as good a demand had the cattle been in the market. With the few loads on hand the market was practically cleaned up at yesterday's prices for the same grades of cattle and averaging 10c to 10c over last week's prices. There is still a good inquiry for stockers and feeders. Good veal calves were a little firmer. Lambs firmer. Sheep about steady.

There was again but a comparatively light run of hogs and while quotations were not changed by the packers from yesterday's prices one or two small lots of light hogs were sold 5c to 10c higher than the price quoted.

Receipts at the Union stockyards were 60 cars, with 943 calves, 539 hogs and 672 sheep and lambs. Monday's receipts were 99 cars, with 1,703 cattle, 316 calves, 391 hogs and 729 sheep and lambs.

A Daring Ruse

It Was Practiced by One Working For the Russian Revolution

By MARIA FOEDEROVNA Women are natural educators, especially of children, and a great many of us Russian women have been drawn into revolution through efforts to break down that ignorance which unites the large mass of our people for free government.

When I was stopped in this work I did not attempt openly to defy the government, because I knew such a course would be futile. I allied myself with one of those secret organizations whose object it was to rid Russia of our automatic form and replace it with one that would give us liberty to teach the ignorant. This took me to the fountain-head, St. Petersburg. My father endeavored to persuade me to desist, but I could not bear to remain with tied hands among a people who were more like cattle than human beings, yet endowed with a desire to better their condition.

When I began to work secretly in the cause of the revolution I entered upon a life of duplicity. The foundation of a revolution must necessarily involve organization, and that could be achieved only by secret methods, for the government was aware of what was going on and met our secret efforts by secret efforts of its own.

My work in St. Petersburg was that of messenger. Documents, sometimes printed, sometimes written, sometimes in plain language, sometimes in cipher, must be constantly conveyed from one point to another. An ordinary messenger, such as is used at telegraph or other offices, is a mere conveyance, and almost any one will suffice for such a purpose, but to carry that which the whole power of an autocratic government is used to intercept and which, if intercepted, will cause the banishment to the icy regions of Siberia of those implicated, besides doing great harm to the cause, requires coolness, courage and resource.

the duty assigned me, I looked out of my window down on to the street to see if any suspicious person loitered near. People were passing to and fro. A short distance up the street two men were standing talking together. They seemed to be discussing something which I assumed was of no importance to me, for they never once glanced in my direction.

And yet these men were spies of the government. One of them was instructing the other that the house in which I lived was under suspicion and anyone issuing from it was to be followed, and if an arrest seemed warranted the person suspected was to be taken before a police officer. But I not knowing this, went downstairs and pursued my way unconscious of the danger that threatened me.

However, I had noted the two men and, after walking a short distance, stopped at a shop window ostensibly to look at the goods displayed there, but really to glance back at the two men I have mentioned. They had separated, and one of them was coming toward me. He stopped to look up at the signs above him as though looking for some special place. Had he come right on I might not have been very fearful. As it was I inferred that, seeing me glance back from before the shop window, he had pretended to be looking for some particular address in order to divert my suspicion from him.

My heart leaped up in my throat. However, I would soon know if this man was following me, and I nerved myself to meet the issue if he were. I walked on, turning down a cross street leading away from the point I had started for, and presently, stopping again at a shop where women's hats were displayed, I glanced back. The man I feared was just passing behind a projection of a building.

I now felt assured that he was watching me, but resolved to make one more trial before acting upon the supposition that he was. I walked on and turned down another street, taking a direction toward the point from which I had started. Then, suddenly turning at a right angle so that I could see my shadow without appearing to do so, I caught him coming toward me and looking straight at me.

Owing to the dangerous work in which I was engaged I spent much of my leisure time in thinking up expedients in case I should be caught red handed. I now resolved to put in practice one of the most daring of which I had conceived. I was sure that this man was a police official and that he was following me. At any moment he was liable to have me arrested, though I fancied that unless he believed he had excited my suspicions he would permit me to go where I intended, leaving me to implicate others. As to dropping my package, I carried a knife with which I could slit my pocket and let it drop out. Could I have got far enough away from my shadower I would have done this, but after I turned so quickly as to see him coming for me he drew nearer and I was in great trepidation as to being arrested.

I therefore resolved to put in practice the plan I have referred to. I knew very well every police station in St. Petersburg and directed my steps to the nearest one. On reaching it I turned into the building, my watcher following me to the very door, and in a few minutes I was standing at a desk, behind which sat an official in uniform.

"I have found a package in the street," I said, "wrapped in such fashion as printed matter is usually wrapped to send through the mails. There is no address on it. I was about to tear off the cover when it occurred to me that it might contain something of an illegal character. It seemed to me that I would better turn it over to a representative of the government. If it is ordinary matter no harm is done; if there is anything criminal in it my action in bringing it to you is proof that I am in no way to blame for having it in my possession."

I nerved myself to say this as ingeniously as possible. The official took the package which I handed him and, breaking it open, ran his eye over it. The expression on his face changed at once from one of carelessness to one of intense interest.

"Where did you find this?" he asked. "I was looking in it at a shop window, not far from here in which hats were exhibited, and, casting my eyes down to the flagging, saw it lying at my feet."

"Did you see any one moving away who might have dropped it?" "I pretended to ransack my memory, then said: "After emerging from my home this morning to do some shopping I noticed a man going in the same direction as I. He had been standing at the milliner's window just before I reached it."

seemed that seeing me go into the station he would suppose that he had got on to the wrong track and would abandon his chase. But he would likely report it, and then I would not get off so easily.

The officer at the desk took my address and permitted me to go where I liked; but, believing that he would send some one to make sure that I had given him the right one, I left him resolving to go straight home. I was relieved not to see my shadower waiting for me outside the station. As soon as I reached my home I put on a disguise I kept concealed there—that of a decrepit old man—and left the building. At the door I passed my shadower, talking with a man I had seen at the police office.

I made my way to the home of a prominent member of our circle, to whom I told my story. Through the secret machinery by which important news was communicated he flashed it among the members, and that night, dressed as a young man, I was driven to a railway station and furnished with money, a ticket and a passport of a citizen of the United States. I crossed the border, arriving safely in Germany, and for awhile my efforts on behalf of the revolution ceased.

How my friends secured the passport I never learned, but I fancy it was stolen by some one interested in the cause of the revolution.

The Kind You Have Always Bought Bears the Signature of LIFE IN THE LONG AGO.

When Huts Were Homes and Beds Were Shakedownsof Straw. For centuries the common people of England made their home in wooden huts of one room. When a family increased in numbers or wealth another hut was built beside it, or, rather, a lean-to was added and another and another, as need required.

Sometimes they followed a straight line. At other times they were built out from the central hut at various angles. The roofs of these huts were thatched. An opening was left in the center for the smoke to escape. The fire was always built in a hollow in the center of the room. Beds were made of straw. Often they were merely shakedownsof the corner. Occasionally the straw was held in a little frame resembling the ribs of a ship.

Houses built by Saxon knights were much more pretentious. They were big halls, like the Roman atrium, with a lofty roof thatched with slate or wood shingles. The floor was of hard clay. In the middle was a great fire of dry wood. The thin, acid smoke from the fire escaped through an opening in the roof directly above the hearth. Round the fire were long benches, on which hearthsmen and visitors sat when not fighting or at work, and talked and drank the hours through. The tables were long boards on trestles. At night the floor was strewn with straw, and, like the less prosperous folk, host and visitors slept together.—Youth's Companion.

CURIOS MEXICAN TREES.

One Whose Fruit is the Counterpart of the Green Parrot. Mexico probably has a greater range of remarkable vegetation than any other country in the world. The parrot fruit tree produces an odd shaped fruit, bearing a close resemblance to green parakeets. When the parakeet is frightened it makes a dash for the parrot tree, where it assumes a position which makes it look like the fruit itself. So close is the resemblance that their enemies, the hawks, occasionally fly by a tree on which a dozen or more of these birds are sitting, apparently unaware of their presence.

Another remarkable tree is the arbol de dinamite—dynamite tree—whose fruit, if kept in a warm place, bursts with considerable force and a loud report, scattering its fat seeds to a surprising distance.

One of the most interesting fruits in Mexico is known as the melon zapote, or papaya. It contains considerable pepsin, which reacts against both acid and alkaline conditions of the stomach, and it is said that a diet which includes papaya precludes dyspepsia. Both the fruit and the leaves possess the singular property of rendering tough meat tender. When the pulp of the fruit is rubbed over a piece of tough meat the juice attacks the fiber and softens it.—National Geographic magazine.

All Around The Farm

YOUNG WOMEN ON FARMS.

Every Daughter of the Farmer's Family Can Be of Material Help.

From Bulletin of New York State College of Agriculture.

We know that there is a large amount of work to be done in the farm home, but farmers' daughters in this country are very brave and capable and ready to lend a hand. As a general thing, the young woman has it in her power to make her work all drudgery or she can transform it into a pleasure. How to do this is for her to study out.

It used to be believed and said that the business of the farm ought to be wholly in the hands of the farmer and his sons. It is now understood that the work in the house is an essential part of the farm business, and that in the remainder of the labor of the farm the wife and the daughters have just as keen an interest as have the father and the brothers. Moreover, many a woman is nowadays undertaking the operation of the farm itself and is making good too.

It is quite possible to believe that every daughter can grow to be an aid to her father in his business as a farmer, and that gradually she may enter into full responsibility for some part of the farm business, or that perhaps if it should ever be necessary for her to do so, she may become a successful manager for all the activities of a farm.

In the farm home of early New England days the labor of the women included not only all the common work that falls to the hands of women in the present day, but also the spinning and weaving, the dyeing and fulling, the dressmaking and tailoring, the candle making and soapmaking and many other industries that now, along with those mentioned, have gone out of the farmhouse and taken up their abode in the factory. In those days the hands of the women were full of wage earning labor.

Today also there are many women, and especially young women, who feel that they need some addition to their earning opportunity, and to these many doors are now opening. The revival of our ancient industries offers an alluring prospect, although this may not be the most practical field.

Is it not generally the most sensible thing to take the opportunity that stands by one's own garden gate? Why not, then, make a careful study of the farm conditions right at hand in order to find out whether there may not be some fruit or vegetable product going to waste that can be utilized by the excellent modern methods of canning and preserving, so that the family may be economically supplied with delicacies all the year round, and some extra quantities may be sold that will bring a good income? Something like this should be possible for any energetic and capable farmer's daughter.

There are now over 6,000,000 country girls in our land. Does it not look as though this body of eager, buoyant young women might add something valuable to the welfare of our rural life?

Potatoes From Maine.

The United States department of agriculture has adopted new quarantine regulations for shipment of Maine potatoes. This is to prevent the spread of powdery scab. The new rules went into effect Aug. 1. The regulations provide that no potatoes shall be moved from any quarantined area unless they are duly certified as fit for either table or seed use and are packed in accordance with certified rules. To obtain the necessary certificates for shipments growers must apply for inspection by a federal inspector, and all potatoes intended for seed use must be stored and handled according to certain prescribed methods. Lots in which any of the potatoes are found to be infected with powdery scab or any similar disease will not be certified under any circumstances for seed use. They may, however, be certified for table use after the diseased potatoes are removed and destroyed.

DO YOU USE FACE POWDER?
If You Do Be Careful to Keep It From Getting in Your Eyes.
Face powder has its dangers the same as gunpowder. For several years occasional cases have come under the observation of oculists in which the patients, invariably women, complain of vision being blurred, inability to use the eyes for any length of time and severe itching of the lids. The slightest rubbing of the lids produces a marked redness of the eyes and only aggravates the itching. In severe cases the lids are frequently swollen from constant rubbing. There is a sticky, elastic secretion which, when being removed, pulls out in long strings.

Microscopic examination of the secretion reveals masses of what appear to be crystals. Until recently no satisfactory explanation of the presence of these crystals in the eye has been given. Secretions taken from the eyes of two sisters suffering from this peculiar complaint were submitted to the professor of pathology of one of the university medical schools, who found that the crystals came from face powder. Seven other patients in which the same symptoms and microscopic conditions were found all used face powder.

When the powder is applied to the face with a puff a part of the fine dust is driven upward and lodges on the moist eyeball. The powder in the presence of the tears then becomes mucilaginous in character and is not washed from under the eyelids. The powder produces the irritation, which is aggravated by rubbing. Those who use a chamois skin in applying the powder are less liable to cause the fine dust to arise, which probably accounts for the condition not being found in every woman using face powder. The condition is quickly relieved by flushing the eye with boric acid solution. The irritation rapidly disappears when the eyes are kept washed out with a soothing eye wash.—From Journal of the American Medical Association.

TIME IN PALESTINE.

It is So Erratic That Making a Train Is Quite a Feat.

In Jerusalem town time and train time are different, forty minutes different, and both are variable. Train officials say the train leaves for Jaffa at 6:40 o'clock in the morning, but 6:40 o'clock by train time is 7:20 o'clock by town time. One morning when we were starting for Egypt we ordered our carriage for 7 o'clock. Arriving at the station at 7:15 o'clock, we found the train gone and the station empty. At last was routed out an official.

"Where's the train?" we demanded.

"Gone, messieurs."

"Gone? You've changed the hour of the train, then?"

"Non, non, messieurs. The train leaves at the same hour always, but the time has changed. Yesterday 6:40 o'clock train time was 7:20 o'clock town time. Today 6:40 o'clock train time is 7 o'clock town time. No, no"—and he smiled patronizingly—"the train always leaves at the same hour; our trains never change—it is the time that alters itself, not the train, messieurs!"

We sought the telegraph office.

"To the steamer agent to Jaffa," we dictated. "Missed train. Cancel passage on boat for Egypt. Wire date of next sailing for Port Said." This was turned into flowery Turkish and sent. A reply came soon.

"Plenty of time. Your boat will wait till tomorrow afternoon, for the water is so rough she cannot land her passengers and cargo today. Plenty of time if you take the train tomorrow."—Atlantic Monthly.

Impudent Thieves.

The lepero of Mexico is reported to be one of the smartest and most impudent thieves in the world. Brantz Meyer tells of an English traveler, who, within an hour or two, in the principal streets of Mexico, had first his hat hooked from his head by a line from an upper window, and was then accosted by three leperos who divested him of his coat. The three bade him wait, and within a few minutes one returned and handed him a pawn ticket.

"We wanted $30, not the coat," he explained. "Here is the ticket with which you can redeem it for that sum."—London Mail.

Mains—Martz

(From the Galt Reporter.)
A pretty September wedding took place today at high noon at the residence of Mr. John Martz, Queen street, when his eldest daughter, Miss Laura, was united in the holy bonds of wedlock with Mr. Gilbert Mains, a popular young man of Elora. Only relatives and immediate friends of the contracting parties were present. The ceremony was performed in the parlor, which was tastefully decorated with flowers and palms. The bride entered the room leaning on the arm of her father, to the strains of the wedding march played by Mrs. W. S. Sheppard. Rev. P. C. Wike, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, tied the nuptial knot. The bride was becomingly gowned in a costume of cream silk with shadow lace and pearl decorations and carried a beautiful bridal bouquet. Miss Eva Martz, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and Mr. Thomas Perine, of Paris, acted as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony the wedding party sat down to a dainty wedding dejeuner.
The bride, who was the soprano soloist of St. Paul's Lutheran church choir, was the recipient of many beautiful gifts which attested to her popularity.
Mr. and Mrs. Mains left on the 3.38 Grand Trunk train on a wedding trip to London and Detroit, after which they will take up their residence in Elora, where they will be followed by the best wishes of their many friends.

Seed Corn Week For Lambton County

During the next couple of weeks every farmer in Lambton County would do well to give special attention to the selection of seed corn. In Lambton County in 1912 there were 21,538 acres under corn. The average yield per acre was 70.4 bushels. It is a safe prediction that careful selection of seed would easily increase the yield to 100 bushels. This would mean an increase of 85,000 bushels per year and would add over $800,000 annually to the wealth of Lambton County.

The place to select seed corn is in the field, not in the corn crib along about spring seeding time. The selection of corn from the crib after feeding it through the winter gives call corn and the planting of call corn gives call crops. Nor is the selection from the shocks a good method, for if there has been any killing frosts before the corn was cut, ears may be selected that have matured after the usual time for killing frosts and give seed which will not ripen early enough the next fall, or if there has been a killing frost you may get ears which have suffered from the frosts and will not germinate. The place to select them is in the field of standing corn.

Select ears that are not too large to mature early. They should be selected from stalks which produced a cob about the 8th joint from the ground. Best results are obtained from the ears which carry the butt diameter well toward the tip and have straight, regular rows of uniform kernels and have kernels extending well over the butt and tip. The corn which has wide and deep furrows between the rows of kernels or the corn which shows chaffy and pointed tips should be passed by.

Twice as much seed corn should be selected as the area calls for because in going over the selection later much will be thrown out that at first seemed good. The germination test which follows will eliminate still more. After selecting the corn there are two necessary conditions to insure proper curing: a circulation of air about each ear to carry off the moisture and a temperature above freezing until the corn is thoroughly dry.

Secretary Lambton Corn Grower's Association.

PURE BLOOD

MEANS HEALTH

Pure Blood Can Best be Obtained Through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

If people would realize the importance of keeping the blood rich and pure there would be less sickness. The blood is the means through which the nourishment gained from food reaches the different parts of the body. If the blood is impure the nourishment that reaches the nerves, bone and muscle is tainted with poison and disease follows. The blood is also the medium by which the body fights off disease. If the blood is thin and watery this power of resistance to disease is weakened. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the blood. They increase the ability of the body to resist disease. They strengthen the nerves, increase the appetite, cure headache, backache, and any disease caused by thin or impure blood.

If you are suffering and your blood is thin or impure there is a large probability that your condition is caused by the condition of your blood. You should study your own case. If you lack ambition, are short of breath after slight exercise, are pale or sallow, have no appetite, are not refreshed by sleep, if you have backache or headache, rheumatic pains or stomach trouble, the treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People is worth investigating. You can get these Pills through any medicine dealer or direct by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Petrolea Men Maltreated in Mexico

Petrolea, Sept. 4.—Mathew and Fred Collins have returned unexpectedly from Mexico, where they went to drill a short time ago. They left that country rather hastily, as they had hardly started work, when one night they awakened to find about a score of armed men in the room. They demanded to know if they were Americans. The Petrolea men replied that they were not, but British. This was the only circumstance that saved them from death.

The Mexicans demanded $1,000 and seized all the jewelry, money and clothes of the Petrolea men.
The drillers stayed one night more, but learned that natives were running wild. They decided to get out and walked to a railroad. The agent of the company for which they were working made up their losses and gave them return tickets.

The onion crop in the Essex marshland will be a large one. On the ground visited by the cut worn in the early part of the season nothing has grown, but no damage was done the crop by the army worm.
