EIGHTEENTH YEAR

DELABORING THE BULL

London Correspondents Using Bitter Language

AGAINST GREAT BRITAIN.

The Continental Powers Blamed Also for Their Attitude.

Prize of the Turkish Empire Restored in Spite of the Most Monstrous Assassinations in History, and Greece Crushed for Her Efforts in the Cause of Christian Liberty—Everything Regulated by the Tappe in the Stock Exchange—The Sultan Laughs While Greece Bleeds—Danger of a Quarrel Between Russia and Austria Over the Balkans is Past.

New York, May 9.—Mr. Isaac N. Ford writes The Tribune to-day as follows: "Lord Salisbury, when he last appeared at the Guildhall, could point to the results of his American diplomacy as convincing proof that he was not working outside the lines of morality and progressive civilization. This privilege was denied him when he addressed the Prime League at Albert Hall. Never was a Prime Minister received with greater enthusiasm by an immense audience of partisans of both sexes, never was a more cynical speech made, never was a more unflinching attack made, never was a more unflinching attack made against each other in moral and political Greece was described as an excited patient whom the Turks had been forced to put into a straitjacket."

What other English statesmen could have rejoiced over the peaceful ascendancy of Great Britain in the Balkans? Instead of being punished for the most monstrous assassinations in history, has been allowed to crush Greece and to restore the prestige of Turkey as a fighting empire. All that Lord Salisbury can say in justification of this policy is that no outbreak of a general European war has occurred. It is not peace with honor.

"Meanwhile Greece, overwhelmed with disasters and bankruptcy, and menaced with revolution, has been sacrificed to the Russian ambition to be the exclusive inheritor of the Turkish empire, and the Sultan, armed with the conquering sword of Mahomet. Whether the Sultan insists upon a war indemnity from a bankrupt state, or some other expedient for humbling the pride of the kingdom be adopted, the war must soon come to an end."

SHOUTING "ALLAH!"

Turks, Kurds and Circassians Advancing Towards the Greek Capital.

New York, May 9.—Mr. Harold Frederic says in his letter to The Times: "The week closes this time with the spectacle of unbroken masses of the victorious Turks, Kurds and Circassians advancing toward the oldest and most civilized European city, shouting 'Allah' as they go, in deep-chested and exultant unison, with the noise of their arms, the clank of their sabres, and the rattling of their rifles. The peoples of Europe are sick at heart at the sight, and the Christians are busy in describing it as a beneficent triumph of humanity's highest interests. The sacred peace of the Balkans, which is happily, no longer in danger. Russia and Austria have amicably arranged how they will divide up the Ottoman empire when the melancholy necessity arises. Germany, meanwhile, has tried numbers and arms, and material help as well, to the task of raising the Turkish army to a position as a position superior to that which the Sultan has achieved in his way so long twenty years ago. The Christians remaining under Osman rule and the others are becoming bought and are not for their lives lift a finger in the way of the advancing host. Not a sound is to be heard, save only that curious rumbling echo of 'Allah, Allah,' in the distance, and close at hand the sustained clicking of the tape, telling how prices are going up."

SULTAN LAUGHING AT GREECE.

Yet the Stock Markets Are buoyant and Business is Improving.

New York, May 9.—The London correspondent of The Sun says: "The work of the language of Mr. John Morley, the Prime Minister of Great Britain, is a European diplomat, and it is one view. The other and general one is that the disaster occasioned by the Balkan war is spreading their united wings across the sky, have struck back into their own, and will not for their lives lift a finger in the way of the advancing host. Not a sound is to be heard, save only that curious rumbling echo of 'Allah, Allah,' in the distance, and close at hand the sustained clicking of the tape, telling how prices are going up."

SUNDAY CAR CAMPAIGN A WINNER.

The enthusiasm for Sunday cars is sweeping over the town. It is the sole topic of conversation. Sensible men have come to see that the question must be settled, and can only be settled in one way—by allowing those who want the cars to have them. People who have a legal right and a moral right to a great public convenience will not be deprived of that right. After the example of all great reforms, they will agitate till they get them, and the opponents of the cars are simply running against a stone wall in their efforts to stop men who ask for their rights. History, incident, facts, are all against the restrictions. Liberty never dies, but always triumphs. The World is for liberty.

The change in public opinion on the question is marvelous, notwithstanding the bluster of the anti. There are thousands of men who voted against the cars before who will vote for them on Saturday. Any man can ascertain this fact by enquiry of his neighbors. That is the great fact. Then there is the great quiet vote, who will not tell the canvassers how they intend to vote. But there is good reason for knowing that they will vote yes. Men do not vote to be bothered with the persistent attack that is made on them in their homes and through members of their families, and they avoid annoyance and needless discussion by keeping quiet to themselves. Our advice to the friends of Sunday cars is to say nothing, but to go and vote. Votes count more than words.

The business men of the city are for Sunday cars. The great bulk of the workmen are for Sunday cars. Hundreds of ladies will vote for Sunday cars who did not vote for them before. Twenty of them have called at this office to say so.

James Roadknight, a writer at the Queen's, called at The World to deny the statement that appeared in The News to the effect that the writers were opposed to Sunday cars. Mr. Roadknight says there are 18 writers at the Queen's, of whom only three are against the bylaw, all the others being in favor of it. Every one of the 15 writers at the Boston House wants cars to say nothing, but to go and vote. Votes count more than words.

GREECE IS GIVING WAY

Will Begin Withdrawing Troops From Crete.

POWERS WILL THEN STEP IN

And Offer to Settle the Matter Between the Combatants.

Col. Vassos Has Arrived at Athens—The Powers Will Insist That Greece Shall Have No Say in the Settlement—Turks Reconnoitering Around Demokos, Having Occupied Both Velostino and Volo—The Sultan's Forces Have Been Greatly Decimated in the Fighting—Specimen of Greek Valor—Latest News From the Front.

Athens, May 8, 11 p.m.—The Government has informed the Ministers of the powers verbally that following the recall from Crete of Col. Vassos' officers and two companies of sappers, the gradual withdrawal of troops from the island of Crete will take place. After a brief delay, the powers will offer to mediate between Greece and Turkey. The powers will insist, however, that Greece shall confine her interests merely to her hands. Negotiations have commenced, and mediation is regarded as imminent.

Talk of an Armistice Athens, May 9, 1.30 a.m.—It is believed that an armistice of a fortnight between Greece and Turkey will be agreed upon. Col. Vassos has just arrived from Crete.

Turks Feeling Around Demokos Despatches received here from Demokos, the headquarters of the Greek army, today, say that the Turkish cavalry, making a reconnaissance, approached within two hours of Demokos, but retreated on the approach of the Greeks, who were ordered to pursue the enemy. The Greeks followed the Turkish cavalry to the advance posts of the enemy's lines.

Prince-Constantine's forces occupy all the passes through which the Turkish troops, today, say that the Turkish cavalry, making a reconnaissance, approached within two hours of Demokos, but retreated on the approach of the Greeks, who were ordered to pursue the enemy. The Greeks followed the Turkish cavalry to the advance posts of the enemy's lines.

In the battle of Volo, the Turkish forces, today, say that the Turkish cavalry, making a reconnaissance, approached within two hours of Demokos, but retreated on the approach of the Greeks, who were ordered to pursue the enemy. The Greeks followed the Turkish cavalry to the advance posts of the enemy's lines.

The admiral in command of the Greek squadron at Volo, today, say that the Turkish cavalry, making a reconnaissance, approached within two hours of Demokos, but retreated on the approach of the Greeks, who were ordered to pursue the enemy. The Greeks followed the Turkish cavalry to the advance posts of the enemy's lines.

The Turkish commander, the latter refused to respect the inhabitants and property of their colonies. The Greek admiral engaged to refrain from hostilities and retire beyond range.

All the foreigners at Volo have embarked for other parts and the town is now empty.

Turks Occupy Velostino Washington, May 8.—The Turkish legation to-night received the following telegram from Constantinople: "The Turkish army, which is now at Velostino, telegrams under date of today, that the Greek forces have evacuated the place, and have released the convicts, and they requested the Turkish commander to occupy the town and to secure the public order and safety. Ten battalions, therefore, sent for that purpose to Volo, entered and occupied the city."

Turks in Volo Also Constantinople, May 8.—Before leaving Volo the Greeks opened all the prisons. The British and French consuls invited the Turkish commander to occupy the town immediately. Ever Bay and ten battalions entered the town at 11 a.m. today. The Turks have already established a system of street patrol.

Turks Last Despatch London, May 8.—A despatch to The Observer, from Athens, dated yesterday (Saturday), says that the officials and consuls of Salonica report that the Turkish losses in killed, wounded and sick during the recent campaign will reach 38,000.

A despatch to The Observer from Rome, dated yesterday (Saturday), says that Germany unreservedly supports the demands made by Turkey upon Greece.

Brilliant Dash by the Greeks Volo, May 8.—A stirring incident in connection with the battle at Velostino has just been reported. Gen. Moneleski, with something of the magnificence of the enthusiasm attributed to Skobeleff, rode along the lines, addressing the soldiers and imploring them to remember the traditions of their race. It need be, till the secret soul of their race should be saturated with their blood. It was like an inspiration. Both uniformed soldiers and men with only bandoliers filled with cartridges the belts around their native attire, cheered and gripped their rifles more firmly. They gave another shout of determination and dashed in reckless, wild, but sometimes searching shell fire. The Turks fled before the onslaught of the Greeks, and were driven into the trenches and charged with wild shouts. The Turks quivered for a moment and retired in confusion to the shelter of the mountain ridges. It was a brilliant Greek success.

Women and Children Rescued Athens, May 9.—The Greek western squadron has rescued large numbers of women and children from the island of Epirus coast, threatened by the Turks. Myra, near Lancia, has been made the port for retreating the Greek army. Some Greek troops from Velostino have embarked on the Greek men-of-war at Volo.

King George Yielding London, May 9.—The Athens correspondent of The Times says: "So great is the change in public sentiment that no opposition whatever is evoked by the decision to recall the army from Crete. King George, who was believed to be unpopular on this subject, has daily yielded with good grace."

CHAMBERLAIN'S TRIUMPH.

Transvaal Situation Shows Improvement.

GREAT CHANGE IN FEELING

Which Began on the Arrival of Sir Charles Milner from the Cape.

Boers Apparently Impressed by the Results of Military Preparations of Great Britain—They Are Now Willing to Withdraw From All Objectable Positions and Make Friends—The Withdrawal of the Alien Immigration Law is an Important Concession to English Opinion.

New York, May 9.—The London correspondent of The Times says: "A remarkable change in feeling about the Transvaal outlook began here to-day, after Sir Charles Milner's arrival from the Cape, and continues to spread. Apparently the Boers have been impressed by the results military preparations made on such a big scale by Mr. Chamberlain. At all events, President Kruger and his peace party seem to have regained control now, and are willing to withdraw from all positions deemed objectionable to the British. The Boers are evidently not only Dutch, but Boer patriots, neither of which he knew a word three months ago, strikes a pleasant note in people's minds as an augury of his wise management all around. Even the city begins to say that now, probably, the whole trouble will blow over."

Chamberlain May Crow A London despatch to The Tribune says Mr. Chamberlain can already boast that his vigorous policy in South Africa is proving successful. The report of the alien immigration law, which forced foreigners in the Transvaal to furnish proof that they support themselves, is an important concession to English opinion. President Kruger's reply to Mr. Chamberlain's note is conciliatory, and forewarns the willingness of the Transvaal to respect the obligations of the treaty of London. His alleged ray comment on the equipment of the Flying Squadron a year ago: "The old woman just sneezed, and Germany was nowhere to be seen," by our old English in good humor. Altogether, the British Government can plume themselves upon the immediate effects of the despatch of troops to the Cape, and give $1,000,000 for additional defenses. The Boers are evidently impressed with the fact that Mr. Chamberlain's policy is not a bluff, and may not be depended upon to fight their battles. Interest in the South African question is revived, and that the Boers are being deceived by the delay in preparing the treaty is evident. The mystery that they implicate any third party among the directors of the Chamberlain's policy.

Hamilton, May 9.—(From The World's Staff Correspondent)—The twenty-fifth anniversary of the pastorate of Rev. Dr. Fletcher was joyously celebrated at McLab Presbyterian Church to-day, with flowers, special music, numerous congregations and Rev. W. T. Herridge of Ottawa as preacher.

A feature of the service was the singing of Mrs. Frank Macleod of that beautiful little hymn, "I Love to Tell the Story." The Sunday school celebrated the anniversary this afternoon with music and addresses.

How Did She Burn Her Face?

That Was What People Asked About Our Daughter. Dreadful Itching, Burning Eruptions Cured. Smooth, Soft, White Skin Now.

"O. L. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: Gentlemen: Our little daughter is now four years old. When she was about three months old, she had eruptions on her face which were very disagreeable, and itched so much, especially at night, that it made her trouble a great deal. I was obliged to keep her hands tied at night and it was necessary to watch her during the day. She would scratch herself whenever she had the chance, until her clothes would be covered with blood. We had a great many doctors to see her, but they did not help her in the least. It was a terrible task to care for her. When we took her away from home, people would ask, 'How did that child burn her face?' She was completely covered with scabs for a long time. She suffered everything. At last we concluded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, because I had great faith in it, and after awhile we could see that she was getting better. People said she would certainly be cured with scabs on her face, but she was not. It is now a year since she was cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and her face is as smooth and white and soft as that of any child. I believe Hood's Sarsaparilla to be the best family medicine that can be obtained. I take it myself for headache and that tired feeling, and I have found nothing to equal it. Only Hood's Sarsaparilla is that it is pleasant to take and it is so trouble to induce children to take it. The doctors pronounced my little girl's disease to be eczema, or salt rheum." Mrs. WILBUR WELLS, Warren, Connecticut. N. B. Do not be induced by any substitute. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla. Hood's Pills take, easy to operate, 20c.
