

WITH A RUSH AND BOAR.

THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE POUR INTO THE EXHIBITION.

They Are In Search of a Concert. But Some of Them Fall to Find It—The Biggest Day and Night Since the Opening of the Show—How They Enjoyed It.

Some of the best judges of music say there was a good concert Tuesday night. Probably all of them who were present would say so, if they were in a position to express an opinion. That they are not is due to the fact that they could not hear the music.

It was loud enough, but the noise around the building was louder. There was a big crush, and anything like order was out of the question. Only those favored with eligible positions could distinguish Rossini's "Prayer" from "The Last Rose of Summer," and thus it was that the remote portions of the crowd grew weary of standing and kept moving around, adding more and more to the already superabundant noise.

No less than 10,500 people passed through the turnstile yesterday. Up to 6 o'clock the number was 5,600, but a good many of these remained in the building afternoon and evening, so that there may have been 7,000 around the floors when the concert was in full blast.

Some ladies came as early as 3 in the afternoon, and others at 4 and 5, in order "to be early and get a good seat." At 9 o'clock they were walking around looking as though they wanted to sing "Put Me in My Little Bed." The show made them very tired, though they had to admit that it was a very good show indeed.

The rush began before 7 o'clock, and at that hour a vast and surging crowd besieged the ticket offices. There was no forming in line and waiting for turns; everybody scrambled for himself. The men with the most energetic elbows stood the best chance. The weak or deferential man was nowhere.

The ticket sellers grew hot with their exertions, and still hundreds were clamoring to get at the wicket, while long arms of tall men reached over the heads of short men in the effort to hand in money and get tickets in return.

Secretary Cornwall had a happy thought. Calling on some of the committee to help him he rushed into the street and, with the others, began to supply tickets to the crowd. By that time, however, hundreds had grown tired of waiting, and were on their way up town. The figures at the turnstile would have been a great deal larger had there but been enough tickets.

The gate keepers thought there were more than enough. Every drawer was full, and then the guardians began to fill the pockets of their coats. They were oaded down when they reported at the Secretary's office, and had not George Robertson been an expert in doing up parcels, the committee would have been bothered in taking care of the accumulation of pasteboard which lay in a pile on the table.

Regarding the concert the general verdict seemed to be that notwithstanding all the drawbacks the game was worth the powder, for despite the heat, which was suffocating as the building filled, and the crush and the noise, the remark was frequently heard— "Well it is worth it."

Considering that there were 250 voices it would naturally follow there should have been some noise, but the acoustic properties of the building are very bad, and much of the said noise went up amongst the rafters and failed to come down again. One thing the stranger could not fail to notice was the fact that at St. John audience does not lay itself out to any great extent in the matter of applause, particularly when the singer does not happen to come from their city.

If given in a hall where the singers could have been heard to advantage, the concert would have been pronounced a decided success. Visitors from abroad expressed themselves in terms of rapturous enthusiasm, and it ought to be repeated at the Institute during the autumn.

There would be a better chance of hearing the music, and less chance for the human hog to display himself. There were a good many of the species at large last night.

Sent Free to the Ladies.

Ladies sending their address, with a two cent stamp to pay postage, to Alfred Morrissey, bookseller, 104 King street, St. John, N. B., will be sent free, as soon as published, a new cook book of 100 pages, handsomely bound, containing a carefully compiled selection of tried and economical recipes, in all branches of the culinary art. Names should be sent at once as the edition is limited.

Will Look Twice the Next Time.

A lady who enjoys a joke was walking along the main floor, Friday night, when she felt herself clasped around the waist, from behind, by a pair of masculine arms. Supposing it was her husband, she turned with a loving smile, and was confronted by the horror stricken visage of a St. John merchant who had mistaken her for his wife. Profuse apologies were in order and were gracefully accepted.

BEAUTY AS SEEN IN PORCELAIN.

The Display of China Painting Which All Should See.

The exhibits in China painting are worthy of a larger city than St. John, although the work of but two artists is displayed. The largest exhibit is, of course, that of Miss Whitney, which occupies the bow-shaped space at the end of A. O. Skinner's stall. Shelves have been arranged to hold the specimens, and the collection is well worth a visit to the exhibition, even if one did not see much else.

The eye and hand of an artist are visible in the arrangement and grouping of the specimens, all of which were painted, gilded and fired by Miss Whitney.

If Canadians had less confidence in the ability of Canada to hold her own among all nations, we might well feel surprised to see work done in our own city which would reflect credit on any of the European potteries. In delicacy of tinting, accuracy of every detail, and artistic conception of every subject she handles, Miss Whitney excels.

Conspicuous among all the other work is an oblong panel shaped disk of royal Worcester, and next an Etruscan base in pitcher shape, decorated with peacock feathers. A fruit plate bearing a painting of a cluster of red apples on the stem, was another striking piece of work, and a set of fruit plates, each plate a painting of a different kind of fruit. There were many dainty cups and saucers, plaques and vases. In addition to the finished work, a white ribbon divided the space, and to the right was shown the work of Miss Whitney's pupils, and the different stages through which the china passes, from the first tinting to the final gilding and glazing.

Upstairs in the art department is another exhibit of China painting by Miss Hopper, of St. Martins, which though smaller than that of Miss Whitney's is equally deserving of mention.

One original most design is a narrow oblong dish, probably intended for fish, representing a golden fish net, stretched across the surface, through the meshes, of which a fish peeks. The background represents the ocean bottom, with seaweed and marine plants growing. Another very striking piece of Miss Hopper's work is a jelly dish decorated with a spray of hops, and still another a fruit dish with a branch of peaches on the stem, apparently thrown hurriedly down upon it, so perfectly natural is the painting. There are many other pieces of this young artist's work, well worthy of notice did space permit, but there are the most striking.

ENTERPRISE OF A PRESS MAKER

In Sending a Press to the Exhibition as Well as His Representative.

The Cranston press is doing great work on PROGRESS' daily, and Mr. Welsh is happy. Mr. Welsh, who represents the manufacturer, Mr. Cranston, and when at home has charge of the Boston office.

It speaks well for the press and the people connected with it to know that in Boston alone there are more than 60 of the Cranston book and news presses. The people of New England, the South and the West, as well as Canada, are not slow in finding out that the Cranston press suits them perfectly. St. John has two of them in active operation, one in the Globe job office and one—a four roller book and news—in PROGRESS office on Germain street. The character of the work sent out by both offices speaks volumes for the excellence of the machine. In Yarmouth, the veteran Mr. Lawson boasts of an improved Cranston, and the new and bright Light, Mr. Carey's and Mr. Seely's—a printer well known in St. John—venture, has completed its outfit with a Cranston book and news press.

The machine that prints the paper was sent to the exhibition by Mr. Cranston at the suggestion of PROGRESS. It is new, being just completed a few days before shipment. Mr. Cranston does nothing by halves. He sent one of his most competent employes, Mr. Seth Enos, to set up the machine and see that it worked properly. Saturday morning before the exhibition saw the press half in and half out of the car, but Monday evening saw it in position on the floor and Tuesday morning it was ready for the forms. This speaks volumes for Enos' rapid and good work as much as the perfect character of the work turned out has done since.

Mr. Welsh has been kept busy showing visitors the press and he never gets tired of greeting the printers and listening to their candid opinions. This is pleasant work for he listens to nothing but praise of the machine.

A good many people are under the impression that the new press belongs to PROGRESS. No so. PROGRESS' new press is in its office on Germain street and this machine can be secured by the first printer who can close a bargain with Mr. Cranston's representative.

She Beats the Record.

As predicted, the heavy woman record of 209 pounds was easily beaten Friday night, when a lady came along who tipped the beam at 232. That can be distanced, too, if the right folks will come to the front.

DOUGLAS McARTHUR, THE HUSBANDLY NEWSDEALER.

He Sold More Copies of "Progress" in a Given Time Than Any One Man in the Business—Something About the Methods by Which He Has Achieved Success.

To be known as a hustler is something of which any man should feel proud.

Douglas McArthur, the King street newsdealer, who captured the $30 prize offered by PROGRESS to the dealer selling the largest number of copies of the paper in three months, is numbered among the best of them. He is one of the most prosperous booksellers in the city, and a good business man. Ever since he started business on his own account, in 1881, he has been most successful, in working up a trade that takes all his time. The bookstore on King street was started in 1850 by Mr. W. K. Crawford and carried on by him until the present proprietor bought out the business, and has run it since until everybody goes there when in search of cheap reading.

Some years ago Mr. McArthur started a Portland branch of his store on Main street, and after making it a good paying business sold out to his brother, Mr. O. McArthur. The King street business had grown so that it required all his attention.

Mr. McArthur's great line is periodical literature and cheap fiction. By the latter is not meant the "cheap nasty," but the works of the best authors in paper covers. Sometimes they are in cheap but sufficient binding. For instance, long before Henrik Ibsen had become a Boston fad, McArthur had his Pillars of Society and other plays in a 30 cent English edition, bound. Later, when Boston discovered Ibsen, an order came to St. John from the Hub which exhausted the stock of that particular work. And so, in other lines, "Dug" keeps up with the times, and is sometimes ahead of them.

The sales of local and foreign papers, of magazines, etc., is of itself a big feature in what looks to be a little store. Some people ask why a larger store is not secured, but the proprietor knows his business and remembers the story of the crustacean which moved into a big shell and came to grief. He prefers to have his narrow quarters crowded from front to rear, and from floor to ceiling, rather than seek a big establishment where those who have been accustomed to chat cheerily with him would feel lonesome and out of place. The King street stand has a reputation and is one of the landmarks.

IN MUSICAL CIRCLES.

As a consequence of the exhibition, the musical circles are once more bestirring themselves a little, although nothing very interesting has taken place so far with the exception of the mammoth concert under the leadership of Mr. Thos. Hall, which took place Friday night. Why all the musical leaders who are competent to conduct a concert were ignored by the committee of management? is a puzzle to me; perhaps, they asked too much for their services. Anyhow, it has certainly served to give visiting musicians a rather poor opinion of St. John talent. This is a pity, for among our organists especially, we have some very fine musicians and leaders; and in justice to them, I think, a protest ought to be made against giving the charge of a large concert like this should have been given to one outside of the profession.

It is rather late to refer to visitors we have had this summer, but I would like to speak of Mr. Daniels, a tenor from Boston whom I had the good fortune to hear sing once or twice. Mr. Daniels sings in a quartette choir in one of the Unitarian churches in Boston, and he certainly has a fine voice. I am sorry that there was not an opportunity for the public to hear him. Mr. Daniels was very much pleased with his stay in St. John, and if possible, intends making us another visit in the winter.

The Old Musical Club met, for the first time since closing for the summer months, at the residence of the Secretary, Miss M. Clinch, the other night. A very excellent miscellaneous programme was carried out. Among the visitors were Mr. Daniels who sang several numbers, and Mr. Akery, another tenor, who is a member of "The Old Homestead Company" New York. Mr. Akery was good enough to sing some selections, which were very much enjoyed. The next of the club will be at Mrs.

or money refunded, send to K. D. C. Co., New spoor, N. B.

Thos. Walker's, where the programme will consist of works by Schubert.

I am looking forward to hearing the new organ which is being built for St. James' Church by Hook & Hastings, of Boston. I don't think the St. James folks could have put it in better hands, and they are sure of having a thoroughly good instrument were it they do have to give a high price for it.

At a recent meeting of the board of management of the Oratorio Society it was decided not to commence rehearsals until the 5th of October, when they will resume work on Handel's Septa. Mr. Strand will shortly begin practising Gaul's Ruth, which will be given some time in the autumn. I believe, from all I hear, our choirs will all be pretty busy from this out for Harvest Sunday is near and that means a good deal of practising. In St. John's church choir two practices a week have been asked for through the winter. This choir has two new members, Miss Carrie Fairweather and Miss Elsie Mathews.

The organist of Centenary church has, I believe, resigned. And although both choir and congregation are very sorry to lose her, still I hear congratulations, in which many of her friends join, are the order of the day.

Among the real musical attractions at the exhibition are the organ and piano recitals given by Mr. Thomas Morley, organist of the Mission church, and Miss May Bowden, who is, I understand, playing on the pianos sent by Messrs. Flood & Sons. The different bands also are there in full force at least. Apropos of bands, I am so glad that we are having a visit from the Salem Cadet band. Every one enjoyed their last visit so much that I think there is no doubt but that they will fill a successful engagement.

I have not heard of anything very new in the way of songs lately, but I have been told that there are some very pretty airs etc., in Plankquette's new opera, Captain Therese, which is being played in London now.

High Play Amongst Women.

There was a lady at Baden-Baden whose luck at the gaming tables was extraordinary and attracted general comment. She explained the secret of her success one day to a friend by telling her that she invariably followed the lead of some person who seemed to be playing in good luck. When doctors adopt a thing for their own wives and families, you may be sure it is a good one. This is the case with the underwear just introduced for ladies and children, and registered under the name of the Health Brand. Every vest of this make is stamped plainly with the word "Health." Ask your grocer what they are. He will know, and will probably tell you that his own people wear them. They are for sale by every first-class dry goods house.

The Queen's last "Free Trip to Europe" having excited such universal interest, the publishers of that popular magazine offer another and $200.00 extra for expenses, to the person sending them the largest list of English words constructed from letters contained in the three words "British North America." Additional prizes, consisting of Silver Tea Sets, China Dinner Sets, Gold Watches, French Music Boxes, Portiere Curtains, Silk Dresses, Plaid Cloaks and many other useful and valuable articles will also be awarded in point of merit. A special prize of a Seal Skin Jacket to the lady, and the handsome Shetland Pony to the girl or boy (delivered free in Canada or United States), sending the largest list. Everyone sending a list of not less than twenty words will receive a present. Send four 3c. stamps for complete rules, illustrated catalogue of prizes, and sample number of the Queen. Address, The Canadian Queen, Toronto, Canada.

DONE BY PUPILS' HANDS.

THE EXCELLENT WORK SHOWN IN THE SCHOOL EXHIBIT.

What the Board of Education Has to Display—St. John is the Front, and Moncton is Proud of the Work Done by Its Sons and Daughters.

The visitor to the school exhibit in the upper gallery will find it one of the most interesting spots in the building. The first stall in charge of Mr. W. S. Carter, one of the inspectors of schools, and is perhaps the most attractive to the average visitor, from the fact that it contains the provincial exhibit, the four other stalls being devoted to the St. John schools.

The Board of Education's exhibit is arranged with great neatness and good taste, the object aimed at being economy of space combined with effective display.

There is no crowding together or confusion, either on walls or tables. The books containing specimens of the pupils' work are handsomely bound, and many of the drawings neatly framed.

Especially noticeable is this feature in the drawing of the pupils of the St. George High school, where mural designs predominate the red granite monument industry for which St. George is noted having evidently given a pensive turn to the taste of the young artists, whose minds turn as naturally towards red granite tombstones as an Italian's will turn towards a hand organ and monkey.

Moncton has come out in the van in all school work, and amongst the drawings which have attracted most attention in the bound volumes, is a pen and ink sketch of trumpet flowers and foliage by Miss Gertie Fifield, of the Central school.

Next in the order of merit comes another pen and ink sketch, a view of fish and seaweed under water, by Miss Edith Evans, also of the Central school.

St. Bernard's school, taught by the Sisters of Charity, in Moncton, bears the palm for fine map drawing, the entire volume being filled with superior work.

For penmanship and composition, the Central school is perhaps first. Several of the volumes devoted to specimens of the pupils' work, modelling in clay, and object drawing seem to receive special attention.

Mechanical drawing is not overlooked, and judging by much of the work, there are some clever embryo mechanics amongst the pupils.

A drawing of an engine and tender "I. C. R. 52" by J. Mellich, of Moncton, is worthy of note.

Mantle Department.

We have recently opened a very large assortment of LADIES' MANTLES, CLOAKS, JACKETS AND REEFERS, in Plain and Fancy Colors, and in Black. Many so-called fashionable garments are neither becoming nor useful.

We have taken great care to select, out of hundreds of styles shown, only those which, besides being fashionable, have the merit of being well modelled, and so feel confident that among our very large variety of cloaks and jackets ladies will not find one ugly or ill-fitting garment.

NEW MANTLE CLOTHS. Our assortment of Cloths is EVEN MORE VARIED than that of last season, which is saying much.

We have all leading colors and designs, and the pieces cover a range wide enough to suit all purchasers.

We cannot here particularize but will instead ask those in need of cloaks, jackets, cloths, etc., to visit our mantle room and inspect the new goods there displayed.

SWEETS TO THE SWEET. The Artistic Display Which Comes from the Border. For those who possess a sweet tooth, the exhibit of Ganong Bros., St. Stephen, will have a special attraction, and while the downstairs workshop will appeal to the sense of taste and touch, the upstairs display will attract the artistic eye, and arouse an inclination in the unregenerate heart to break not only the tenth clause of the decalogue, but also the protecting screen of glass which encloses the tempting array in the upper gallery.

Downstairs, near the main entrance, the spectators can have the satisfaction of watching the process of candy making from the very start. He can begin by looking at the outside of the sugar barrels, and mount with the busy confectioners through all the various stages of manufacture.

The boiling of the syrup, the candying, rolling on well buttered marble table, pulling and finally the still more important office of sampling, which the courteous proprietors will probably confer upon him. Upstairs the large glassed in space, with its shelves loaded with sweets, looks more like a mosaic garden than anything else, so admirably are the pinks, reds, yellows and browns blended. The exhibit is in the form of a sort of terrace, surmounted by a cone of rock candy which sparkles in the electric light.

How Ships Will Cross the Isthmus. One of the drawing cards on the main floor is decidedly the working model of the Chignecto marine railway, in charge of the projector and engineer, Mr. H. G. C. Ketchum.

NO PITY FOR BIRCHALL.

WHAT THE ENGLISH PAPERS SAY OF THE VERDICT.

It Was a Righteous One—How the Man Got in Evil Ways—The Self-Sacrifice of Relatives who Must Suffer Because of the Crime He Committed.

[Special to Progress by C. P. R. wire.] NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The World's London cable says: "The most popular topic of talk in all England tonight is Birchall's conviction. The news arrived too late to admit of much comment in the London evening papers, but all that do comment reflect the general opinion that the verdict is a just one."

Birchall, they say, has simply sacrificed himself to his greed for gain. He squandered his patrimony and came to London, where he fell in with a gang of swindlers which for the last ten years has been playing on the gullible British public by sending worthless sons of impoverished families to America under the promise that they could con fortunes in cattle ranches.

These men swam in London and in the large provincial towns of England, like crows in a corn field. They are shrewd enough to keep within the law, so that the police cannot touch them. English newspapers dare not expose them by name, because this would involve heavy damages for libel.

"Last spring," says the correspondent, "when I went to see Ford and Rathburn, through whom Birchall operated, the head of their firm said: 'I do not care what you publish in America, because it cannot hurt us, but if any part of what you say in the World is republished in any English paper, we shall sue the paper for libel. Our business is as legitimate as stock gambling. We sell information to Englishmen who do not know as much about America as we do, and gamble on the prospects of succeeding when we send them there. If they fail we lose little or nothing. If they succeed, we share their success.'"

"Of course these emigration sharks could not exist without their pals in Canada and the United States, who write letters about bogus farms, receive so called pupils when they arrive and divide the profits of their plunder with the London swindlers.

Burchall has not been without a few friends during his trial. Some pecuniary assistance has been sent him by old college chums who believe in him, and by his own and his wife's relatives in England.

"Birchall has one brother, a clergyman of a small parish in a suburb of Liverpool, who is almost heartbroken at the family disgrace. He has also a sister, living with friends near Oxford, who has impoverished herself so that her brother might have every chance to clear himself and escape the gallows. Some of the money has come from Mrs. Birchall's relatives. I went to Herne Hill tonight and tried to see Mr. Stephenson, but he was too much crushed by the news of the verdict and his daughter's disgrace to see me. He talks of sailing again in a few days to America, and will try to induce his daughter to come home."

The Attraction of Machinery Hall. The attraction of the western end of Machinery hall is a newspaper office in full blast, issuing two editions daily. This remarkable feature of the exhibition is an enterprise of the St. John Progress. A Cranston press with folder attached is used.—Yarmouth Light.

NO LOSS WHERE THIS IS.

THE TAYLOR SAFE VERSUS BURGLARS AND FIRES.

Their Exhibit in the Building one of the Sights—Beautiful Workmanship—Where Bankers get Their Safes when They Want Security.

There are few exhibits in the building more attractive than that of Messrs. J. & J. Taylor, safe makers, Toronto. Their space at the end of the main hall of the new building is neatly enclosed and well presented to the throngs that gather and watch with eager curiosity, the enemies of burglars and fire.

A lady of sharp features and rustic simplicity mistook the polished decorations of the interior of the burglar proof safe, and inquired innocently of the jovial Mr. Robbins: "Are them freezers. I want to buy a freezer. How much are they?"

"About $400, madam."

"Oh, dear! And will they keep things safe, and nice and cool?"

"Oh, yes; they will keep anything cool very cool—that is put into them."

"Well, well. I must bring my husband to look at them."

An open catalogue on one of the safes showed Progress a list of all the important banks or Canada in which Messrs. Taylor have their safes. Bankers have come to realize that theirs is the only reliable Canadian safe. Merchants and others can refer to them for its general excellence.

The exhibit is handsome throughout but the wide open door of the jewelers, fire and burglar proof safe with its highly polished fittings attracts the attention of everybody who passes and they listen to Mr. Robbins lucid explanation with much attention. Burglars have found out that some safes are easily opened by the very simple device of closing the entire crack about the door with putty, and then by using an air pump insert some liquid explosive which will blow the door off. To overcome this simple trick, the Messrs. Taylor have made the door of this safe press against a number of layers of rubber, which make it impossible for any substance to be injected. The door is pressed tightly against this rubber packing by means of an eccentric lever pressure, and a peculiar hinge, which, instead of being at the side of the door, extends to the centre. When the eccentric lever pressure is applied the door is pressed firmly against the rubber packing, and the safe is burglarproof. In addition this safe has the patent enlarged lock spindle door handle, which prevents it from being driven in or pulled out.

Besides the burglar proof safe the exhibit includes three other fire proof safes. In fact the exhibit is so large that the directors hesitated before placing it all in one place in the building. They have consequently located it in two places both of them prominent—but not too prominent for such an exhibit which would do credit to any place in the buildings.

The peculiarity of the Taylor fire proof safe is that the outside is made entirely in one piece securely riveted and bound in angle iron, the peculiar shape of which admits of tongueing and grooving. The new tongue and groove door with non-conducting flange is the latest of the improvements. It was adopted by Taylors after severe practical test and adopted to meet such fires as those in Chicago and St. John. The weakest part of all safes is the door, the difficulty being to prevent the heat from passing through between the door frame and the jambs.

The door is constructed with two tongues and two grooves within the walls of which is inserted a non-conducting material which completely breaks the metallic connection between the outside and the inside of the safe, and so effectually shuts out the heat, no matter how intense or prolonged. The perfect exclusion of the air is another strong point in favor of this safe, the door of which can be closed strongly at all times without injury, the air acting as a sure buffer.

The phrase "ornamental as well as useful," can aptly be applied to the Taylor safe. It would be an ornament to any office. The front is hand painted and any scene the buyer fancies will be reproduced if he forwards the photograph.

Among those in this city who have recently placed their orders with Mr. Robbins for the Taylor safe are Mr. Smalley, the jeweller; Mr. A. L. Law and B. G. Taylor, the well-known insurance agent. Mr. Taylor's safe is being exhibited, and is well worth looking up. The painting upon it is exquisite, and the finish and polish to the inside doors, which are made of Canada ash, is something wonderful.

Taken in all, Messrs. Taylor do great credit to themselves, to the exhibition, and to Canadian manufacturers by their exhibit.

"We've heard of a woman who said she'd walk five miles to get a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Remedy if she couldn't get it without. That woman had tried it. And it's a medicine which makes itself felt in toning up the system and correcting irregularities as soon as its use is begun. Go to your drug store, pay a dollar, get a bottle and try it—try a second, a third if necessary. Before the third one's been taken, you'll know that there's a remedy to help you. Then you'll keep on and a cure'll come. But if you shouldn't feel the help, should be disappointed in the results—you'll find a guarantee printed on the bottle-wrappers that'll get your money back for you."

How many women are there who'd rather have their money than health? And "Favorite Prescriptions" produce health. Wonder is that there's a woman willing to suffer when there's a guarantee remedy in the nearest drug store.

WHAT THEY WEIGH.

The Averdupois of Some of the Prominent Visitors to the Exhibition.

A Howe scale on the main floor in charge of that Knight of the rod, T. E. Perkins is kept at work pretty steadily, especially as there is no nickel in the slot or other charge for learning one's weight. The heaviest man to come, so far, has been Dr. Smith, of North End, who tips the beam at 266 pounds.

Chief Clark has called on W. H. Thorne's exhibit, and seems to think that the Howe scale, with its standard for measuring heights, is just what is needed in every well regulated police office. It is very important that there should be a description of the leading physical characteristics of men suspected of indictable offences. The chief stepped on the scale himself, and the balance trembled at 201½ pounds. His correct weight is probably an even 200, but he was in full uniform, and with his boots on, and the revolver and handcuffs in his pockets, made up the difference. Then the standard was adjusted and his height was registered at 5 ft. 10½ inches.

Detective Ring is short, but he is a good deal stouter than some people would think, to look at him. He weighs 174½ pounds. Sergeant Covey (accent on the last syllable) tips the beam at 177 pounds, a weight sufficient to enable him to move with dignity, if not celerity.

Sergeant Watson has been a good many years on the police force, but has not lost much flesh on the strength of it. His weight now is 233.

Richard Dinn has the very respectable weight of 253 pounds. J. R. Woodburn has been an alderman and is a confectioner who is not afraid to eat his own candy. These facts may account for his very respectable weight of 240½ pounds.

About as heavy a man for his height as has yet come to the front is William M. McLaughlin, who has the record of 204 pounds.

When Albert C. Smith, M. P. P., was hustling around in the local election campaign, last January, one would have supposed that he moved about 180 pounds at every step. The figure is just 179½.

When the exhibition is over, Treasurer James Reynolds, freed from carrying care, will probably weigh more than 200, but at present 195 is the figure. He did not have the cash receipts in his pockets at the time. J. B. Barnaby beat all records on Monday, by showing a clear 280½.

Some of the other records are:

Table listing names and weights: Rev. J. M. Davenport, 181; James F. Robertson, 212½; A. L. Slipp, 221½; C. T. White, Apple River, 231½; Keith Barber, 200; Thomas Millar, North End, 221½; Policema G. R. Baxter, 258½; G. S. Turner, M. P. P., 181½; James Kennedy, base-ballist, 157; James Brown, Newcastle, 218; W. C. McRobbie, 160½; Yardmaster Irvine, 181; Conductor Sproule, 245; Hugh Andrews, electrician, 161; R. C. Thorne, 161; Con. Geo. McCully, Truro, 166; J. J. McGaffigan, 175; George Murray, 166½; Rev. Mr. Pickles, 184; Geo. C. Needham, 180; Conductor Millican, 213½; N. J. Cluff, Woodstock, 205½; Hiram White, 201½; Conductor Geo. Trueman, 190; Rev. Mr. Daniel, 136; C. T. Hillson, 248; Policeman Ross, 178½.

The heaviest lady weighed 209½, but it would be very easy to beat this record. Connected with the scale is a standard which gives one's height to the fraction of an inch, and is strongly suggestive of a similar apparatus used in United States police stations. Mr. Perkins has been kept pretty busy by people who are anxious to know just how big they are.

In the list given above, 25 pounds has been deducted from the weight of one St. John man who secreted a can of white lead of that weight under his coat.

Why They Chased the Cat. Two boys were overheard in conversation on Elliott Row the other morning, discussing the question of ways and means. "Have you got a cat, Johnny?" said one. "No, I haven't, Jimmy," replied the other. "Let's get one then."

That Dog Had An Experience. A large and enterprising black dog, owned by "Hughey" Andrews, of the Calkin Electric Light Company, tried to jump through the big fly wheel while it was spinning around under full steam, Friday afternoon. He did not get through, but was caught and carried around held against the rim by centrifugal force. Mr. Andrews loves his dog, and hastened to have the engine slowed, when the canine jumped out and put his tail between his legs and started for home, much disgusted but little injured by his experience.

The most generally useful medicine is Ayer's Pills. As a remedy for the various diseases of the stomach, liver, and bowels, these Pills have no equal. Their sugar-coating causes them not only to be easy and pleasant to take, but preserves their medicinal integrity in all climates and for any reasonable length of time. The best family medicine, Ayer's Pills are, also, unsurpassed for the use of travellers, soldiers, sailors, campers, and pioneers. In some of the most critical cases, when all other remedies have failed, prove effective. "In the summer of 1864 I was sent to the Annapolis hospital, suffering with chronic diarrhoea. While there, I became so restless in strength that I could not speak and was compelled to write everything I wanted to say. I was then having some 25 or 30 stools per day. The doctors ordered a mustard bath, but I did not take it, but persuaded my nurse to get me some of Dr. Ayer's Pills. About two o'clock in the afternoon I took one pill a day for a week. At the end of that time, I considered myself cured and that Ayer's Pills had saved my life. I was then weak, but had no return of the disease, and gained in strength as fast as could be expected."—P. C. Luce, Late Lieut. 60th Regt. Mass. Vol. Infantry.

The Best

I have ever used for headaches, and they act like a charm in relieving any disagreeable sensation in the stomach after eating."—Mrs. M. J. Ferguson, Fullers, Va. "I was a sufferer for years from dyspepsia and liver troubles, and found no permanent relief until I commenced taking Ayer's Pills. They have effected a complete cure."—George W. Mooney, Walla Walla, W. T.

FLORENCE KNITTING SILK. This is now much used for fringe and for tassels, as its "soft finish" renders it superior to other silk for the purpose. It will not unravel and become frayed in wear. These elegant costumes seen in the show rooms of our leading merchants are often beautifully "feather-stitched" by hand. Examination shows that the work is done with No. 300 Florence Knitting Silk, thus securing beauty, durability and economy. FREDERICTON.

[Progress is for sale in Fredericton at the bookstore of W. T. H. Fenety and by James H. Hawthorne.]

Oct. 1.—Yesterday morning a very quiet wedding took place in St. Ann's church at 10 o'clock, when Mr. Stanley Clowes, of Oranoceto, became the husband of Miss Lucy Jaffrey, of St. Mary's, eldest daughter of the Rev. Mr. Jaffrey. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Canon Roberts, assisted by Rev. Mr. Dibble, rector at Oranoceto. The bride looked very pretty in a handsome travelling suit of brown with hat to match, and instead of the conventional bouquet of roses, she carried an elegant white ivory covered church service with gold clasp, a gift from her father. Her bridesmaid was Miss Maggie Jaffrey, her sister, who looked very attractive in a pretty costume of grey, trimmed with navy blue velvet, hat to match; she also carried a church service. Mr. Allen Wilnot, of Belmont, supported Mr. Clowes. There were no guests outside of the families of the bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Clowes took the train en route for Prince Edward Island. Mr. Clowes will take his young wife to grace his home in Oranoceto. I understand Mrs. Clowes has received a large number of very handsome presents.

This afternoon at half past one St. Ann's was again the scene of an exceedingly pretty wedding. The little church was filled to its utmost capacity, all eager to catch a glimpse of the young and lovely bride, and she did indeed look lovely as she came in leaning on her father's arm dressed in her beautiful bridal robes, which consisted of an elegant court train of white morie over a satin petticoat richly trimmed with lace and flowers, long lustral veil fastened with a spray of orange blossoms; she carried an exquisite bouquet of cream rose buds. This bride is the only daughter of Dr. T. Clowes Brown of this city, and the groom is Mr. Robert Barker of the Crown Land office.

Mr. Barker was accompanied by Mr. William Robinson, of St. John. The bridesmaid, Miss Bessie Jack, wore a very delicate shade of lavender cashmere, trimmed with a rich shade of purple velvet, short white veil, white gloves, and carried a bouquet of pink rose buds, and looked very pretty. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Canon Roberts. The invitations were extended to a very few of their most intimate friends. After the ceremony the bridal party went to Dr. Brown's residence, where they partook of luncheon. Mr. and Mrs. Baskin left in the 4 o'clock train for St. John, en route for New York. Mrs. Baskin's travelling suit was all black, she being still in mourning for her mother, who died last autumn.

were Miss Parlee, former teacher in the Central school, and Mr. Arthur Robinson, barrister, eldest son of Mr. W. J. Robinson, of Moncton. The ceremony was very quiet, and many of the bride's friends, who were unaware of the young couple's plans, were utterly taken by surprise when they heard that the wedding had taken place. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson left for Boston by the Friday morning boat, taking in the St. John exhibition on their way. Their friends wish them all possible happiness in their pathway through life.
