Correspondence.

Chronicles of the Dominion.

CHAP. I.

I. It came to pass in the sixth year of the reign of the Chief Governor of the Dominion, that he called together his Councilors who were privy to his doings, and said unto them,—

Summon me now my Senators and wise men, and bring them here unto our chief City; and prepare ye now the estimates to lay before them, and counsel them to grant unto us those supplies which we need.

II. Now behold there lived in Sanjour, the chief city of the Province over which Samuel was Governor, a man who was called Timan Gilin, who was one of these wise men, and who was also their chief speaker.

Now Timan Gilin was a printer in this city, and he did contract with Macken Zee and others of the chief Councilors to print for them certain of the public records, and he did receive money for the same, yet, many thousands of dollars. And this thing was an evil in the eyes of the people, for it was contrary to the laws which allow not a Senator or wise man to receive money from the chief Councilors.

III. Now when Timan Gilin found that he was a transgressor of the law, and was guilty in that he had contracted with the Councilors of the Chief Governor, and had received money which it was not lawful for him to receive, he, being a just man, did resign his place among the wise men, and behold, he was no longer their chief speaker. So he went from Sanjour unto certain friends who dwelt at a place called the North Shore, and did confess his fault unto them, saying, Behold now, I did this thing ignorantly, I pray you now choose me again for your wise man, and I shall serve you faithfully. And this thing pleased the people; and they did again choose Timan Gilin for their wise man, and sent him unto the chief city where were the senators and other wise men.

IV. And it came to pass when Macken Zee and his fellows who counsel the Chief Governor heard that Timan Gilin was again chosen to be a wise man, they said one to another:—Come now, and let us persuade the other wise men over whom we have power, that they again appoint Timan Gilin for their chief speaker, and we shall gain much credit thereby; for, if we do not this thing, our adversary Surjon will say of us,—Behold, they are afraid,—and so our premier will be esteemed but as an old woman.

V. It came to pass when the wise men were assembled together in the chief City, that behold, this counsel was given unto them; and they did again choose Timan Gilin for their chief speaker, for he was a cunning man, and skilled in all that pertained unto his office. Now when Timan Gilin found that he was again the chief speaker of the wise men, but that his hands were not soaped as before, and that nothing did cleave unto him, he became wiser and more cunning than heretofore. When therefore he proclaimed his decision on the one day as Macken Zee did desire, behold, he hid him forth to his chamber, and groined there, and said unto himself,—Lo these four years nearly, have I done as Macken Zee and his fellows have desired, and behold they no longer give unto me soap for my hands, therefore shall I not be bounden unto them any more, but on the morrow will I reverse my decision. And even as he had said, so did he; for, on the morrow he reversed his decision, and gave great offence unto Macken Zee and his fellows.

VI. Now there were among the wise men, others who also had made contracts with the Councilors of the Chief Governor, and had obtained much money thereby; yet they all, save one, did give over from being the wise men, and did go back to their own people and say,—Behold we have done wrong, now are we sorry thereat; we pray you therefore choose us again to be your wise men, and we will seek favors from Macken Zee, and his fellows, and the chief overseer of the fishermen, and their fellows, for you and your children. So the people did as they had been asked, and when they beheld the grief and sorrow which filled the hearts of these wise men, for the evil thing which they had done.

VII. Now behold, there lived also in Sanjour, the chief city of the Province over which Samuel was Governor, a man who was called George the Prince. Now this man was one who dealt largely in the wood of his Province, which he did send unto foreign lands in great ships which he had builded; and he became rich in all manner of goods, and he builded him large houses and barns, and worshipped his creator, for he said,—I did not make mine own self? Moreover he was a fair man to look upon, and of a ruddy countenance within.

VIII. Now George the Prince went also unto the North Shore where he owned house, and where also he builded ships, and said unto the people:—Come now, I pray you, choose me for your wise man, and it shall be well with you and your children after you. So the people who were about him strove to do as he had desired them. And it came to pass, that as the votes were being counted for the choice of a wise man, lo! there were not enough for George the Prince, so said unto the people who dwelt at a place called the Corner,—We lack yet so many, and so many votes,—send us now therefore the number which we lack, over and above that which ye already have, so that George the Prince may be our wise man, and he will pay you the charges thereof, and it shall be well with you and with your children. And they did this thing even as they were commanded, and the people at the Corner have become a by word and a reproach among all the nations.

IX. Now when George the Prince became one of the wise men, behold he was greater than before; and he did feast with Macken Zee and his fellows, and did say unto them,—Give me now, I pray you a small contract whereby I may obtain a return of the money I have paid for being one of the wise men, and lo, I will vote for you and your people; but if not, behold I, even I, will go over unto Surjon and vote with him. So they gave also unto him a contract, and he did furnish flour, and molasses, and swine's flesh salted, unto the men whom Macken Zee sent unto him, and thereupon repaid he no small advantage.

X. It came to pass that when Timan Gilin and others who had obtained money from Macken Zee, gave over from being wise men, and went back to their own people, and acknowledged their fault, behold George the Prince also went back unto his people at the North Shore. And when he had gone thither, he took counsel with himself, saying,—Lo, for these four years nearly, have I been as one of the wise men for this people, and if I do as Timan Gilin and others have done, behold they will not again choose me as their wise man, and I shall become even as a phoe.

Behold I cannot sit with the other wise men, for Surjon will cause me to pay much money into the Treasury; lo, this will I do, I even I, will go unto the chief city with the other wise men, and will suppose there for a day, and when I make as though I were about to take my seat among the wise men, I shall cause to be brought unto me a message from foreign lands, and I will obtain leave to visit my father's Mother's sister, and will hide me away, whereby I shall still be called a wise man, and shall obtain money thereby. And as he had counselled so it came to pass; for George the Prince did as he had said; and no man kneweth of his whereabouts, so that he is called "THE MISSING MAN," and "THE LOST PRINCE," even unto this day.

Now these and other things which George the Prince hath done, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles; as are also many other things, which the next chapter doth relate.

Newcastle, April 12th 1878.

To the Editors of the Advocate:—

DEAR SIR:—Knowing your temperance principles I crave a space in your valuable paper for the following:

By section four of chapter one hundred and five of the Consolidated Statutes, entitled "Licenses for the Sale of Spirituous Liquors," it is enacted that "No license shall be granted to any person to sell liquors by retail in stores &c., where groceries &c., are sold or exposed for sale, or in any store &c. connected by any internal communication with such first mentioned store &c.; and if any person holding such license shall expose for sale in the store, shop, or premises for which such license was issued any of the goods aforesaid, then such license shall ipso facto become void and revoked. Now Messrs. Editors, what is clearer or plainer than the above? How many licensed taverns in the town of Newcastle are selling liquor? If the Reformers would set to work and fine every liquor dealer who violates the above section of the law every day how many liquor dealers would be able to sell liquor until they got a new license in July next? Every temperance man is railing against the selling of liquor in our midst, and some are petitioning Parliament for Prohibitory laws &c., would it not be more consistent to try and strictly enforce our own present liquor law.

Let the Officers and different Committees of the Newcastle D. T. R. set the example and institute proceedings against all violating the present liquor law, and thereby showing the Country at large that they are in earnest and intend to rid the land of the arch fiend Rum. One word to our Police men and then Ayezoo. "By section nine of the above act it is his duty to search out and prosecute all offenders under the law &c., and if he neglects to do so he is liable to a fine of eight dollars."—If my memory serves me aright he was in just such a scrape some time ago. And I can safely assure him that unless he does his duty at once he will be in the same fix again, as some members of the D. T. R. of Newcastle have taken his case in hand and they intend to follow it up.

Yours &c.,

REFORMER.

Miscellaneous.

British American Book and Tract Society.

REVIEW OF TEN YEARS' WORK.

Principles and Facts.—This Society exists that it may publish the glad tidings of Salvation. It is Catholic in spirit and organization, Christians of our evangelical churches uniting in disseminating the great practical doctrines of the Cross. It is benevolent in aim and object—love to Christ and the souls of men being the moving principle. It is missionary and aggressive in its character, carrying the Gospel to those living in neglect of it. The means used are printed truth, accompanied with prayerful Christian effort. It co-operates with the regularly ordained ministry in preaching the great salvation, it aids every good cause, while it hinders none.

Resources.—There have been received in donations towards Publications or Capital Funds for providing a stock of Books, $8,831.48; for the current annual expenses of Colportage and gratuitous distribution among the needy, $23,807.55. The average capital at the Society's disposal has been less than $4,000. The average annual circulation has been upwards of $22,500, or more than five times the amount of capital. Hence, $100 contributed towards this fund enables the Society in one year to put in circulation $500 worth of publications,—in ten years, $5,000 worth, and so on.

Circulation.—Many hundreds of Libraries have been supplied to Sabbath Schools from the Depository. Over two and a half millions of the best periodicals have been sent out among schools and families. About seven millions pages of tracts have been distributed. More than 150,000 copies of the Word of God have been issued. Hundreds of thousands of such books as "Come to Jesus," "Sinner's Friend," "God's Way of Peace," "Pilgrim's Progress," &c., have been installed as Household Pastors in the homes of the people.

The sales from the Depository

NEOLON.

The meeting of the D. T. R. Club was held last week in the Temperance Hall, Nelson. The programme consisted of musical selections by the choir and other members of the Club, readings, recitations, &c. Mr. Wm. Cushman, a member of the U. T. A. of Nelson gave a very interesting address. Short speeches were made by Messrs. Wm. McKay, Jas. H. Vye, and Everett Balesman, aged respectively 13, 5 and 8 years. At the close, the President tendered the thanks of the Club to Mr. John Burdell, as one of the leading members of the Division, for the trouble taken in fitting up the hall for the occasion. Mr. B. responded in fitting terms. There is a strong feeling of Union between the sister Temperance organizations in Nelson, which we hope shall long continue.

CLIFTON.

The meeting of the Reform Club on the 4th was quite an interesting one notwithstanding the disagreeable weather and bad roads, the building was crowded to its utmost extent. Mr. W. A. Andrew, President in the Chair. After prayer, Wm. Cushman, the choir sang "Where are the Reapers," and gave several other selections during the evening. Recitation by Miss M. Hodson. "The White Rose" the music will play," was acted by the Misses M. Hodson, S. Bateman, Messrs. R. Dempsey, E. Hodson, Geo. Hodson, N. D. Hodson, and N. B. Richey. Miss Richey sang "Marriage," as celebrated in latest style," was acted by Mr. E. Hodson. Miss M. Hodson, Mr. Richey, Mr. Richey and Mr. R. Dempsey. Reading by Mr. N. Richey, and address by President, when considerable building was had with reference to building a new hall, which is really a necessity, the building now being too small, the stage at times being so crowded that performers cannot do themselves justice. The National anthem was sung, which brought the meeting to a close.

ARMSTRONG'S BOOK.

A correspondent informs us that R. M. Cord, Esq., the gentlemanly Manager for the Montreal Telegraph Co., in the Northern district, gave a temperance lecture in the lodge room of the British Templars at River Louisbourg, giving a thorough knowledge of the subject, and handling it in a manner which, while it was a hearty approval of all present, showed him to be a speaker of more than ordinary ability. Mr. Cord will meet with a most hearty welcome when he again visits River Louisbourg. After the lecture, the Rev. Mr. Tippet gave a short address, interspersed with amusing anecdotes, which caused hearty laughter.

Sudden Death.

A friend sends the following sad intelligence.

Rochester, April 15. The community was shocked on Saturday evening at the announcement of the sudden death of John Wheten, Esq., for many years known as the proprietor of the Kent Hotel. He had for the past two years been visibly failing in health, and had passed through one or two severe attacks of illness, from which it was scarcely expected he would recover. He had seemed in tolerable good health. On Saturday he was apparently as active as he had been for a long time past, attending to his business duties, and a few minutes before his death was playing with his grandchildren. While conversing with some people who were about him, he suddenly fell, and his wife who was near by, and stretched his hand out to clasp hers. She caught him in her arms, and saved him from a fall. He was immediately carried to his bed, and Dr. Moody was promptly summoned, but within four minutes he breathed his last. The immediate cause of his death was heart disease, from which he had been suffering for many years. He was in his 65th year, and had spent his life in this, his native town.

Mr. Wheten was a man of warm and generous impulses, and although, like all others, he had his peculiarities, yet they were not such as to be a cause of offence or of evil influence to his neighbor. Kind, generous, and cheerful in his manner, he won many friends among those with whom he was brought in daily contact. He was foremost in all charitable enterprises, and always gave liberally when he deemed the object worthy. For many years he had been one of the Wardens of the Episcopal Church, and will be much missed by the members of that congregation. The funeral is to take place to-morrow (Tuesday) at 2 p. m. at the Parish Church.

The accounts given in the British Trade Circulars of the prospects for the Wood Trade during the coming season are not very encouraging. A Liverpool circular, dated March 30, states that notwithstanding the present low stocks, prices are declining. A St. John circular is quoted as saying that prices are declining, and that the market is overstocked. The London Timber Trades Journal says that low prices will rule for quantities below first class, while for good brands and favorite dimensions fair prices may be relied upon.

THE CHATHAM MAY SCANDAL.—The evidence in this matter has appeared, from which we are pleased to learn that the charges against the Hon. R. Young, altogether groundless, and were abandoned at the outset by Mr. O'Leary, who preferred them against that gentleman. Three of the committee, Gov. supporters, have exonerated the Hon. Mr. Kelly, stating that the charges made against him are without foundation, while on the other hand, two members of the committee are not so thoroughly convinced on this point, or they would not have considered it necessary to bring in a minority report. It seems to us that the ruling with respect to questions put to witnesses who did not lean to the Gov.'s side, was very strict, much more so than the one required, and not at all tending to elicit such an examination as should be the character of such grave importance. If, as stated by the Chief Commissioner, the charges preferred against him were, to use his elegant language, "as false as hell," he had nothing to fear from the most searching inquiry. We are of opinion that his hands are thoroughly clean in this matter. It is not our credit abroad that the public men, or any of them, should be found guilty of malfeasance in the administration of our public affairs, and we therefore trust that the Chief Commissioner will be in a position to appear before his constituents at the approaching election, free from any act which shall lower him in the estimation of the electors.

Persons who are about purchasing either a piano or organ, can do so to their advantage by consulting J. J. Anslow, Esq. personally or by letter, as he has made excellent arrangements with two of the leading makers in the United States. Satisfaction guaranteed at thirty per cent. less than catalogue price. Don't fail to get particulars before making arrangements elsewhere. Piano Stools, sheet music and music books promptly supplied. See advertisement for list of cheap sheet music and music books just received.

AUCTION AT CHATHAM.—Mr. Wyse will sell on Saturday, at 11 a. m., a consignment of Molasses, Sugar, &c. See advertisement.

OUR NEXT GOVERNOR.—The rumor is

current that Charles Burpee, Esq. M. P. for Brunswick, is to be the next Governor of New Brunswick. It is stated that Governor Tully has been offered a second term, but he has declined. The facts would look upon his acceptance of a second term as quite a victory, for it is known that our popular and talented Governor will be a candidate for the St. John constituency at the next General election for the Commons, with no prospect of success being defeated. We should not be surprised to hear of him as Premier Tully before long. He is one of the few politicians in the record who stand up for even one solitary respectable action—a gentleman to whom the people can look up with feelings of respect and pride.

The news of the death of Mrs. Snowball, (mother of J. B. Snowball, Esq.) which occurred at her residence at Truro, N. S., on Thursday last will evoke feelings of the deepest regret among the many friends of the deceased lady in Miramichi. Mrs. S. resided in this section nearly a quarter of a century ago, her husband being at the time stationed at the Miramichi Circuit as a Minister in connection with the Methodist Conference. The kind old Minister and his much respected partner have passed peacefully away, leaving behind them a record which tells of work well done, and of innumerable acts of charity, a benevolence which will not soon be forgotten by those who knew them only to respect and love them.

OTTAWA, April 16.

The Debate on Quebec Resolution was continued without interruption from Friday at 8 o'clock until Saturday evening, at 11 o'clock.

The Gov.'s side of the House declined to speak on Monday night at ten. This was done in this way to settle debate and wear out the Opposition.

Gov't refused to adjourn. The scene for the night was a most extraordinary one, and all kinds of noises indulged in, and the confusion was indescribable. It all the Opposition members took the floor and endeavored to state their views, and finally at 6 on Saturday morning the session was adjourned.

Mr. Mitchell had left on Friday night, but on hearing of the difficulty returned from Montreal on Saturday. He refused to be bound by the arrangement, and on Monday night addressed the House for one hour and a half upon the subject. It was known he was to speak, and the galleries were filled, not less than from three to four thousand persons being present.

His speech is said to be one of the ablest efforts he has ever made in Parliament. He handled the Gov't without gloves for thirty

A WRECKED SEALER.—Capt. Pierce and 14 seamen of the sealing schooner John Nelson, 40 tons register, of Carboneau, Nfld., arrived here yesterday by train from Bathurst, N. B. Her crew report that they left Carboneau on the 6th of March, for the ice. They saw plenty of seals, but the weather was so boisterous that they did not secure many. The vessel encountered a succession of Easterly gales, which drove her up in the Gulf, and on Saturday night, the 6th, she was driven ashore in the ice at Misou, Bay Chaleur, and became a total wreck. The crew, after a hard struggle of two hours, reached the shore by crawling on the broken ice, saving nothing but what they stood in. They will be sent home in the steamer Newfoundland on Tuesday. The crew state that the rest of the sailing fleet of sealers have likely fared badly. —Hfc. Chronicle, April 13.
