It gives me great pleasure to note the excellent display made by Canada at the universal exposition in Paris. The fine quality and varied character of Canadian natural and industrial products is evidenced by the number of awards won in nearly every class of the competitions.

The Tourist Question

From a New Brunswick Standpoint.

Every little while we see reference to the matter of ways and means to induce the tide of tourist travel to sweep its way to N. B.

The St. John and Fredericton Associations have done good work but we regret to say they are not supported by the citizens, business men and other factors in the way they should be—and more funds are required to do the work justly.

The display of the Province in addition to the tourists' efforts at the Spargman's show in Boston some two or three years ago was productive of great good, and the only thing the public wonders at is why the efforts were not repeated—not only at Boston but at the Spargman's Fair in Madison Square Gardens in New York, which is one of the most important events of the kind in the United States, and one that would direct attention to New Brunswick in a marked degree.

We understand that a few private individuals, possibly aided in a half-hearted way some manner by the government, purport to have an exhibit of some kind at Madison Square Gardens in March next.

Finced For Selling Alum Baking Powder.

At Bradford, on Thursday, Walter E. Sugden, grocer, Wakefield road, Bradford, was summoned for selling adulterated baking powder.

AN ARDENT SPORTSMAN.

The Turf, Field and Farm Tells us Something About Mr. Wm. Crawford and his Beautiful Residence at Glen Lea.

Mr. William Crawford, the absolute director of the great dry-goods house of Simpson, Crawford & Simpson, finds recreation from the cares of business in shooting and fishing and in growing fruit, flowers and live stock.

The most aristocratic fishing club in the world controls the principal ponds of the Restigouche, and this fact prompted Charles Halloe to write: "Once we were woe to associate fish with billingsgate and bad smells."

The growth of the salmon is thus tersely described by Genie C. Scott: "The fingerling scales to cover the parr, the parr develops becomes to cover the bars on its side and becomes a smolt; goes to sea and comes back a grilse, then returns to sea and comes back a salmon."

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Met Formally Yesterday and Transacted Its First Business. Speech From the Throne. New Conservative Leader Given a Splendid Reception.

Ottawa, Feb. 7.—Parliament met formally this afternoon and transacted its first business. The attendance of spectators was very large and the galleries were crowded, the ladies taking a particular interest in the proceedings. Nearly all the fair sex were attired in black, and the few bright colors which appeared were objects of comment.

The appearance of R. L. Borden, the new conservative leader, was the signal for the first outburst of applause from the opposite benches, in which those occupying government seats joined heartily. "Good again for Nova Scotia," was heard from several quarters, and amid flattering demonstrations Mr. Borden took his seat.

The formal communication from Secretary Harris Graham, announcing that his excellency Lord Minto desired to convey to them the speech from the throne, was followed by the appearance of the gentleman usher of the black rod, who requested the presence of the members in the senate. His excellency's speech was as follows: Hon. Gentlemen of the Senate: Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

Since our last meeting the empire has been called on to lament the demise of her late majesty Queen Victoria. The universal regret and sympathy with which the tidings of her decease have been received throughout the entire civilized world afford the best testimony to the manner in which she has at all times discharged her duties both as a woman and a sovereign throughout her unprecedented long and glorious reign, and I will venture to add that in no portion of her vast territory did there exist a more profound and loyal affection for her than in the Dominion of Canada. You will, I am sure, take early action to express your sympathy with the royal family in their bereavement and your loyalty to the new sovereign.

The Canadian contingents to South Africa have nearly all returned, and it affords me a very great gratification to be able to assure you that the valor and the good conduct of our Canadian soldiers have called forth the highest encomiums from the several commanders under whom they served during the arduous contest.

The accounts of the past year will be laid before you. The estimates for the succeeding year will likewise be placed upon the table at an early date. Honorable Gentlemen of the Senate: Gentlemen of the House of Commons: I commend to your earnest consideration the measures to be submitted to you, invoking the divine blessing upon the important labors on which you are again entering.

After the return to the commons Premier Laurier announced that the debate on the speech would be taken up on Monday. The bill to name the regular standing committees was passed as usual. To-morrow an address to the King will be considered. Premier Laurier took advantage in making the last announcement to congratulate Mr. Borden on assuming the leadership of the opposition. He said he would offer his own congratulations and those of the government side of his house to his honorable friend, the senior member for Halifax, Mr. Borden, on the high office of leader of His Majesty's loyal opposition. It would not be fitting for him to offer any suggestion whatever, or any observations as to what should be the internal policy of the conservative party. But, speaking personally as leader of the house, he (Laurier) felt much pleasure to think in advance that relations between Mr. Borden and himself (Laurier) would always be cordial and pleasant. Amid great laughter Laurier expressed the hope that Mr. Borden might continue to exercise for a long, long period the functions of leader of the opposition.

Mr. Borden, replying thanked the premier for the kindness and courtesy so well expressed. He (Borden) wished to say in passing that if he should remain leader of the opposition for as long a period as Laurier's job was old and it would be wholly beyond his own expectations and beyond the expectations of the members of the opposition. (Great laughter.) Mr. Borden expressed himself as living in expectation of opposing on some occasions the right honorable leader and those who support him, but support was promised for all former and future interests of the country, and any differences would be adjusted, in so far as they might be, in a kindly and courteous manner. In saying that, the speaker felt he voiced the sentiments of the opposition. He had accepted the leadership with diffidence and hesitation, not as the result of any fear of loyalty or fidelity of the opposition, but rather on account of his own comparative inexperience in public life, and by the fact that he doubted his own capacity to follow in the footsteps of those great men who in times past had filled the position of leader, on one side or the other of the house, of the party which he now had the honor to lead.

In closing he felt quite sure that the opposition would accord most cordial support to an address to the King. After receiving the report of the joint librarians, the session was closed tomorrow. SENATE. In the senate the galleries were crowded, and the same speaker's presence was to be seen as in the commons. The day were were seated La. Minto, Lady Astor, and members of the families of cabinet ministers. After the usual resolutions, Sir Mackenzie Bowell brought to the notice of the senate the grave charges and affidavits made by H. R. Cook, and said that on Thursday next he would move for the appointment of the following committee to investigate the allegations: Senators Barker, Ferguson, Pelletier, Ellis, Landry, Cox, Kirkcaldy, Young, King, Longhead, Wood and Bowell. Sir Mackenzie dwelt on the serious nature of the charges, which he thought should be carefully probed.

NOTES. Mr. Hale, M. P., and Senator Ellis, are traveling today, after being snow-bound for hours. It was announced today that the government contemplates a substantial grant to assist the movement for a Canadian Lloyd's. During the past few weeks the position of Canadian shipping, owing to the action of the British Lloyd's, has been brought forcibly to the notice of the government. F. P. Clergue, who interests in Canadian shipping are heavy, is the leading agitator. With the government backing it, the movement promises to be crowned with success. On Tuesday next Mr. Stollack will introduce "An Act to amend the Pacific Cable Act of 1897." Mr. Borden's speech on Monday caused the leader of the opposition, Mr. Laurier, to say that he would support the bill.

Illegal Caribou-Killing.

Game Warden Robinson Catches Three Old Violators.

Notwithstanding the general sympathy with game law violation in certain quarters where better might be expected, Warden John Robinson has again detected and secured the punishment of some illegal work in caribou killing in Northumberland. It was known that caribou were killed out of season last winter in the vicinity of Mill Stream and Beaver Brook station, and that the guilty parties were endeavoring to repeat the operation this winter. Game Warden Robinson's efficiency has been such as to make him a terror to the poaching fraternity and realizing that his chances for detecting the law-breakers would be improved by his doing it by deputy, he sent Mr. Carl Bering, who has been his assistant for some time, to the locality named, with directions as to the parties and their probable scene of operation. Bering made his way across the country from Chaplin Island road and on "the cold Sunday," 20th Jan. he came upon Victor and John Fournier and John Pettit (or Pett) in the woods between Beaver Brook and Mill Stream, having in their possession, on a toboggan, which they were having hauled behind a bob-sled, the carcasses of two caribou—8 quarters and the skins. These men live at Beaver Brook Station, Victor Fournier being a section man, and his brothers, John and Pettit, "hands" who are occasionally employed on the railway.

When Bering came upon them they had no idea of his identity and Victor charged him to say nothing about this as they were afraid "he'll be caught," to which Bering replied that Mr. Robinson had sent him to look after this business. "And," said he, "you couldn't be caught worse than you are now." The men, seeing the bad case they were in made the best of it and Fournier assured Bering that the meat and skins would be all right if left in his barn. Bering thus left the seized meat and started out with Pettit, meeting Warden Robinson on the way. The latter brought Pettit before police Magistrate Connor in Halifax on 21st Jan. when he pleaded guilty, claiming that the Fourniers were only helping him to get meat out. Warden Robinson sent Bering in to get the meat and skins, but they were not there when he left them. After considerable searching he found one quarter at Pettit's and two others in the Victor Fournier's garden, but could not recover the skins of the remainder of the meat, while the Fourniers declared they knew nothing of the missing property.

The case was finally disposed of on Tuesday, 6th, by Police Magistrate Connor, before whom all three of the offenders appeared by summons, pleaded guilty, and were each fined $50 and costs, R. A. Lawlor, Esq. appearing for the crown. T. W. Butler, Esq., who appeared for the defendants, signified his intention of appealing the matter to the Surveyor-General. The case was recovered was sold at auction on Tuesday, by Mr. Wynn, front of Chatham post office and brought $5.45.

A PECULIAR INCIDENT.

Canadian Soldier Meets His Brother For The First Time In His Life Under Very Peculiar Circumstances.

A soldier in the R. C. R. (First Contingent) was wounded in the ankle on the morning of Cong's surrender at Passburg in that memorable charge made by the Canadians and in which they lost heavily, and was accordingly on back to one of the hospitals on the line of communication where he would receive proper treatment for the injured member. He had been in the hospital several days when the nurse, being that he resembled a fellow, in a cot next to him, who was sick with enteric fever, asked him if he had any brothers. The wounded man replied that he had but that as he was the eldest of the family and left home when quite young he had never seen his younger brother. The nurse became interested and asked him his father's and mother's name, then place of residence (which was in England) and many questions about his family. Several days passed and the man who resembled the wounded Canadian became convalescent. The nurse then questioned him about his family and place of birth.

Their names were the same, they were born in the same place, their father's and mother's names were alike and the nurse came to the conclusion that they were brothers and introduced them as such. Imagine such a meeting under such circumstances. The younger brother belonged to an Imperial regiment and had been sent to the hospital about three weeks before with a severe attack of enteric fever. Canadian Soldier's Death. There never was such intense sympathy over the death of a Canadian soldier as that which was shown in the case of the late Private Robert W. Taylor. The funeral was held at the residence of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, on Monday, 12th inst., at 10 o'clock. The deceased was 21 years of age and had been in the army for about two years. He was a member of the 1st Battalion, 1st Regiment, and was killed in action at the battle of the Somme on September 26th, 1900. He was a very brave and gallant soldier and was highly respected by his comrades. His death was a great loss to his family and to the army.

The Tourist Question

From a Nova Brunswick Standpoint.

Every little while we see reference to the matter of ways and means to induce the tide of tourist travel to wind its way to N. B. and slowly but surely are getting our share of the same, but it is New Brunswick who should visit certain sections of Nova Scotia and see the immense number of tourists who come there and spend weeks and months in that favored Province they would think they knew little of the tourist question. The St. John and Fredericton Associations have done good work but we regret to say they are not supported by the citizens, business men and other factors in the way they should be—and more funds are required to do the work justice.

The display of the Province in addition to the tourist's efforts at the Sportsmen's show in Boston some two or three years ago, was productive of great good, and the only thing the public wonders at is why the efforts were not repeated—not only at Boston but at the Sportsman's Fair in Madison Square Gardens in New York, which is one of the most important events of the kind in the United States, and one that would direct attention to New Brunswick in a marked degree. We understand that a few private individuals, possibly aided in a half-hearted way some by the government purpose to have an exhibit of some kind at Madison Square Gardens in March next. There seems to be no particular harm, such less a tail to the matter, but we hope, nevertheless the province may reap some benefit. The key note to the matter is really the requirements of some bright, brainy native of New Brunswick in both Boston and New York who in either connection with the press of those cities or can approach the same and have him write up the Province in good shape. It would not cost a very heavy sum to have this accomplished particularly if a New Brunswick could be found who thought as much of his native province as does F. J. Anderson, a Halifax boy of the Boston Globe, thinks of Nova Scotia. In season and out of season he has sung the praises of N. S. and today that province owes a debt of gratitude to him for efforts that has sent thousands of tourists to Nova Scotia. Would that New Brunswick had a friend in Boston or New York like him.

However we believe it would pay our tourist association, our business men, our hotel keepers or S. S. owners and our railway people to put forth renewed efforts this spring and more fully write up and advertise New Brunswick. It can be done if matters are gone at right and in earnest and we should have a fair share of the money that comes east every year spent by tourists, who are only too glad to get away from the great heat in the principal cities of the U. S. in Summer.—Railway News.

The Poor Voter on Election Day.

The proudest now is but my peer The highest not more high; Today, of all the weary year, A King of men am I. Today, alike are great and small, The nameless and the known; My palace is the people's hall! The ballot-box my throne! Who serves today upon the list Beside the served shall stand; Alike the brown and wrinkled fist, The gloved and dainty hand! The rich is level with the poor, The weak is strong today, And sleekest broadcloth counts no more Than homespun frock of gray. Today let pomp and vain pretence My stubborn right abide: I set a plain man's common sense Against the pedlar's pride. Today shall simple manhood try The strength of gold and land The wide world has no wealth to buy The power in my right hand; While there's a grief to seek redress Or balance to adjust, Where weighs our living manhood less Than Mammon's vilest dust. While there's a right that needs my vote, Up! clouted knee and ragged coat! A man's a man today.

Fined For Selling Alum Baking Powder.

At Bradford, on Thursday, Walter E. Sugden, grocer, Wakefield road, Bradford, was summoned for selling adulterated baking powder. Mr. Herbert Hankinson, deputy town clerk, who prosecuted, said the inspector called at the defendant's shop and purchased samples of baking powder. There were two kinds on sale. The article described as the best was sold at 21 for four cents, and the other at 21 for four cents. The adulterated powder was found to contain alum. The defendant was fined $5 and costs.

AN ARDENT SPORTSMAN.

The Turf, Field and Farm Tells us Something About Mr. Wm. Crawford and his Beautiful Residence at Glen Lea.

Mr. William Crawford, the absolute director of the great dry-goods house of Simpson, Crawford & Simpson, finds recreation in the career of business in shooting and fishing and in growing fruit, flowers and live stock. Glen Lea, his farm of 300 acres, is near Monroe, 50 miles from New York, and is the Erie national. The orchards and buildings are sheltered from chilling winds by a range of hills mountain-like proportions, and the view from the broad piazza is far-reaching and full of beauty. The valleys are deeper and the hills bolder than at Glen or Stony Ford, but it is the same rich grazing belt that has made Orange County famous. The brooks which sing all day and night over gray and brown stones are fed by springs which burst from lofty, rock-ribbed slopes, and they are as clear as distilled water. The jersey cows and the brood mares and colts drink this water with much relish and soon freewill on some of the famous vineyards of France, Germany and Spain, and they do not complain of thrubbing temples or lice in the big top. Pure water is essential to healthy live stock, growing, and it runs to waste at Glen Lea. The brooks tumble into a land-locked pond and form a small lake, which affords boating for Summer and skating for Winter. The greenhouses are extensive, and between two and three thousand carnations are cut every week, in addition to great clusters of roses and violets. Wild cease, with wings clipped so as to prevent flying, are in the poultry yards with domestic fowls, and they are better fed, with shooting, over to found excursions to Carriacou and other places along the Atlantic Coast. The homing pigeons are thrifty, and the flight from New York to Monroe is made in two hours or less. The house has been greatly enlarged since it passed under the control of its present owner, the homes of the State. People come from long distances to inspect the billiard room, but all do not obtain admission to it. It is a noble hall, richly decorated, with heavy rugs for the feet and couches and arm chairs for the indolent. The canvases reflect shooting and fishing scenes, and the floor is inlaid with the brightly days of the world, and the heads of moose, caribou, elk, deer, black bear and mountain lions and sheep speak of battles fought in the wilderness and won by aid of rifle and knife. The rear windows look upon the orchard, and when the trees are in bloom a fair share of the money that comes east every year spent by tourists, who are only too glad to get away from the great heat in the principal cities of the U. The growth of the salmon is thus tersely described by Genie C. Scott: "The fingerling becomes the parr, the parr develops scales to cover the bars on its sides and becomes a smolt; goes to sea, and returns a grise, then returns to sea and comes back a salmon." The pleasure of capturing a salmon is not confined to the moment of capture. The impression made upon the mind is vivid and the joy lasts until memory is a blank. How often in quiet moments are the lines of Stoddard recalled: A whirr, a whirr, the salmon's out Far on the rushing river; He storms the stream with sword of might And, like a brandished edge of light, Rolls plashing o'er the surges white! A desperate endeavour! Hark to the music of the reel. The fish and the grating; It parts along the trackless wheel, Now hurried, now abating.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Met Formally Yesterday and Transacted Its First Business. Speech From the Throne.—New Conservative Leader Given a Splendid Reception.

Ottawa, Feb. 7.—Parliament met formally this afternoon and transacted its first business. The attendance of spectators was very large and the galleries were crowded, the ladies taking a particular interest in the proceedings. Nearly all the fair sex were attired in black, and the few bright colors which appeared were objects of comment.

The appearance of R. L. Borden, the new conservative leader, was the signal for the first outburst of applause from the opposite benches, in which those occupying government seats joined heartily. "Good again for Nova Scotia," was heard from several quarters, and amid flattering demonstrations Mr. Borden took his seat.

The formal communication from Secretary Harris Graham, announcing that his excellency Lord Minto desired to convey to them the speech from the throne, was followed by the appearance of the gentleman under the black rod, who requested the presence of the members in the senate. His excellency's speech was as follows: Hon. Gentlemen of the Senate: Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

Since our last meeting the empire has been called on to lament the demise of her late majesty Queen Victoria. The universal regret and sympathy with which tidings of her decease have been received throughout the entire civilized world afford the best testimony to the manner in which she has at all times discharged her duties both as a woman and a sovereign throughout her unprecedentedly long and glorious reign, and I will venture to add that in no portion of her vast territories were these sentiments more profoundly felt than in the dominion of Canada. You will, I am sure, take early action to express your sympathy with the royal family in these bereavement and your loyalty to the new sovereign.

The Canadian contingents to South Africa have nearly all returned, and it affords me a very great gratification to be able to assure you that the valor and the good conduct of our Canadian soldiers have called forth the highest encomiums from the several commanders under whom they served during the arduous contest.

The union of the several provinces of Australia into one confederation, upon lines closely resembling those on which our own dominion has been established, marks another important step towards the consolidation of the outlying portions of the empire, and I am well assured will forth your most sincere congratulations to the new commonwealth.

Acting on the advice of my ministers, I had previously to the great grief which has fallen upon the nation tendered an invitation on your behalf to His Royal Highness the Duke of Cornwall and York, to conclude his intended visit to Australia by one to the Dominion of Canada, and I am glad to be able to inform you that His Royal Highness has been pleased to signify his acceptance of the same. I still hope that that visit may not be considered impossible. I have no doubt of the warmth of the welcome with which he will be received.

My government has learned with great satisfaction of the progress being made with the Pacific cable scheme, and I trust that nothing may occur to delay its early completion.

Last summer I made a tour through Canada as far as Dawson City, and was everywhere received with unqualified proofs of the immigrants are a subject of much congratulation and afford ample proof of their usefulness as citizens of the Dominion.

It gives me great pleasure to note the excellent display made by Canada at the universal exposition in Paris. The fine quality and varied character of Canadian natural and industrial products is evidenced by the number of awards won in nearly every class of the competitions. It is a remarkable testimony of the effectiveness of our cold storage transportation facilities that fresh fruit grown in Canada secured a large number of the highest awards. It is exceedingly gratifying to observe that as a result of the display of Canadian resources considerable foreign capital has found its way to Canada for investment, and large numbers from foreign countries have been received for Canadian goods.

The improvement of the St. Lawrence route continues to engage the very careful attention of my government. During the past year ship channels have been widened and deepened, additional lights and buoys have been provided, and in a short time there will be no longer any doubt as to the promptness with which the St. Lawrence route will be kept open, so that the great commercial effort may be made to the advantage of the Dominion.

An important step towards the consolidation of the Dominion will be the completion of the trans-Canada railway, and I am well assured that the government will be able to complete this great work in the shortest possible time.

The government will be able to complete this great work in the shortest possible time.

The accounts of the past year will be laid before you. The estimates for the succeeding year will likewise be placed upon the table at an early date.

Honorable Gentlemen of the Senate: Gentlemen of the House of Commons: I commend to your earnest consideration the measures to be submitted to you, invoking the divine blessing upon the important labors on which you are again entering.

After the return to the commons Premier Laurier announced that the debate on the speech would be taken up on Monday.

The bill to name the regular standing committee was passed as usual. To-morrow an address to the King will be considered. Premier Laurier took advantage in making the last announcement to congratulate Mr. Borden on assuming the leadership of the opposition. He said he would offer his own congratulations and those of the government side of his house to his honorable friend, the senior member for Halifax, Mr. Borden, on the elevation to the high office of leader of His Majesty's loyal opposition. It would not be fitting for him to offer any suggestion whatever, or any observations as to what should be the internal policy of the conservative party. But, speaking personally as leader of the house, he (Laurier) felt much pleasure to think in advance that relations between Mr. Borden and himself (Laurier) would always be cordial and pleasant. Amid great laughter Laurier expressed the hope that Mr. Borden might continue to exercise for a long, long period the functions of leader of the opposition.

Mr. Borden, replying thanked the premier for the kindness and courtesy so well expressed. He (Borden) wished to say in passing that if he should remain leader of the opposition for so long a period as Laurier's life was old and he would be wholly beyond his own expectations and beyond the expectations of the members of the opposition. (Great laughter.) Mr. Borden expressed himself as living in expectation of opposing on some occasions the right honorable leader and those who support him, but support was promised for all members of the opposition of the country, and any differences would be adjusted, in so far as they might be, in a kind and courteous manner. In saying that, the speaker felt he voiced the sentiments of the opposition. He had accepted the leadership with diffidence and hesitation, not as the result of any loyalty or fidelity of the opposition, but rather on account of his own comparative inexperience in public life, and by the fact that he doubted his own capacity to follow in the footsteps of those great men who in times past had filled the position of leader, on one side or the other of the house of the party which he now had the honor to lead.

In closing he felt quite sure that the opposition would accord most cordial support to an address to the King.

After receiving the report of the joint librarians, the House rose to meet tomorrow.

SENATE.

In the senate the galleries were crowded, and the same number of members was to be seen as in the house. The House rose was seated Laurier, Minto, Laurier, and members of the cabinet ministers.

After the usual preliminaries, Sir Mackenzie Bowell brought to the notice of the senate the grave charges and affidavits made by H. R. Cook, and said that on Thursday next he would move for the appointment of the following committee to investigate the allegations: Senators Barker, Ferguson, Pelletier, Ellis, Landry, Cox, Kirckcoffer, Young, King, Loughheed, Wood and Bowell. Sir Mackenzie dwelt on the serious nature of the charges, which he thought should be carefully probed.

NOTES.

Mr. Hale, M. P., and Senator Ellis, arrived today, after being snow-bound for hours.

It was announced today the government contemplates a substantial grant to assist the movement for a Canadian Lloyd's. During the past few weeks the position of Canadian shipping, owing to the action of the British Lloyd's, has been brought forcibly to the notice of the government. F. P. Clarke, who interests in Canadian shipping are heavy, is the leading agitator. With the government backing it, the movement promises to be crowned with success.

On Tuesday next Mr. Mullock will introduce "An Act to amend the Pacific Cable Act, 1893."

Mr. Borden will be in the House on Thursday.

The government will be able to complete this great work in the shortest possible time.

Illegal Caribou-Killing.

Game Warden Robinson Catches Three Old Violators.

Notwithstanding the sympathy with game law violation in certain quarters where better might be expected, Warden John Robinson has again detected and secured the punishment of some illegal work in caribou killing in Northumberland. It was known that caribou were killed out of season last winter in the vicinity of Mill Stream and Beaver Brook Station, and that the guilty parties were endeavoring to repeat the operation this year. Great Warden Robinson's efficiency has been such as to make him a terror to the poaching fraternity, and realizing that his chances for detecting the law-breakers would be improved by his doing it by deputy, he sent Mr. Carl Bering, who has been his assistant for some time, to the locality named, with directions as to the parties and their probable scene of operation. Bering made his way across the country from Chaplin Island road and on "the cold Sunday," 20th Jan. he came upon Victor and John Fournier and John Pettit (or Pett) in the woods between Beaver Brook and Mill Stream. The three were having a hog, and Bering, who had no rifle, hauled behind a bobbed, the carcasses of two caribou—8 quarters and the skins. These men live at Beaver Brook Station, Victor Fournier being a section man, and his brothers, John and Pettit, "hands" who are occasionally employed on the railway.

When Bering came upon them they had no idea of his identity and Victor charged him to say nothing about this as he was afraid he'd be caught, to which Bering replied that Mr. Robinson had sent him to look after this business, "and," said he, "you couldn't be caught worse than you are."

The men, seeing the bad case they were in made the best of it and Fournier assured Bering that the meat and skins would be all right if left in his barn. Bering thus left the seized meat and started out with Pettit, meeting Warden Robinson on the way. The latter, after a short conference with Magistrate Connors in Chatham on 21st Jan. when he pleaded guilty, claiming that the Fourniers were only helping him to get meat out. Warden Robinson sent Bering in to get the meat and skins, but they were not where he found them. After considerable searching he found one quarter at Pettit's and two others at the Fourniers' place, but could not recover the skins or the remainder of the meat, while the Fourniers declared they knew nothing of the missing property.

The case was finally disposed of on Tuesday, 5th, by Police Magistrate Connors, before whom all three of the offenders appeared, each fined $30 and costs, R. A. Lawlor, Esq. appearing for the crown.

T. W. Butler, Esq., who appeared for the defendants, signified his intention of appealing the matter to the Surrogate-General.

The meat that was recovered was sold at auction on Tuesday, by Mr. Wyse in front of Chatham post office and brought $5.45.

A PECULIAR INCIDENT.

Canadian Soldier Meets His Brother in the First Contingent.

A soldier in the R. C. R. (First Contingent) was wounded in the ankle on the morning of Monday, 12th, at Paerleberg in that memorable charge made by the Canadians and in which they took heavily, and was accordingly taken to one of the hospitals on the line of communication where he would receive proper treatment for the injured member. He had been in the hospital several days when the nurse, perceiving that he resembled a fellow, in a not too far away, who was sick with enteric fever, asked him if he had any brothers. The wounded man replied that he had but that as he was the eldest of the family and left home when quite young he had never seen his younger brother. The nurse became interested and asked him his father's and mother's name, then place of residence (which was in England) and many questions about his family. Several days passed and the man who resembled the wounded Canadian became convalescent. The nurse then questioned him about his family and place of birth.

Their names were the same, their fathers were born in the same place, their fathers and mother's names were alike and the nurse came to the conclusion that they were brothers and introduced them as such.

Imagine such a meeting under such circumstances. The younger brother belonged to an Imperial regiment and had been sent to the hospital about three weeks before with a severe attack of enteric fever.

Queen Victoria's Death.

There never was an individual so loved and so revered as the late Queen Victoria. Her death was a national calamity, and her passing was mourned by millions of people throughout the world.

The Queen's death was a great loss to the world, and her memory will be long and dearly remembered.

The Tourist Question

From a New Brunswick Standpoint.

Every little while we see reference to the matter of ways and means to induce the tourist travel to visit us in N. B. and slowly but surely are getting our share of the same, but it New Brunswickers could visit certain sections of Nova Scotia and see the immense number of tourists who come there and spend weeks and months in that favored Province they would think they knew little of the tourist question.

The St. John and Fredericton Associations have done good work but we regret to say they are not supported by the citizens, business men and other factors in the way they should be—and more funds are required to do the work justice.

The display of the Province in addition to the tourist's efforts at the Sportsman's show in Boston some two or three years ago, was productive of great good, and the only thing the public wonders at is why the efforts were not repeated—not only at Boston but at the Sportsman's Fair in Madison Square Gardens in New York, which is one of the most important events of the kind in the United States, and one that would direct attention to New Brunswick in a marked degree.

We understand that a few private individuals, possibly aided in a half hearted way some manner by the government purpose to have an exhibit of some kind at Madison Square Gardens in March next. These seem to be no particular head, much less a tail to the matter, but we hope, nevertheless the province may reap some benefit. The key note to the matter is really the requirements of some bright, brainy native of New Brunswick in both Boston and New York who is in a position to get the attention of those cities or can approach the same and have him write up the Province in good shape. It would not cost a very heavy sum to have this accomplished particularly if a New Brunswicker could be found who thought as much of his native province as the E. Anderson, a Halifax boy of the Boston Globe, thinks of Nova Scotia. In season and out of season he has sung the praises of N. S. and today that province owes a debt of gratitude to him for efforts that has sent thousands of tourists to Nova Scotia. Would that New Brunswick had a fellow in Boston or New York like him.

However we believe it would pay our tourist association, our business men, our hotel keepers out S. S. owners and our railway people to put forth renewed efforts to New Brunswick. It can be done if matters are gone at right and in earnest and we should have a fair share of the money that comes east every year spent by tourists, who are only too glad to get away from the great heat in the principal cities of the U. S. in Summer.—Railway News.

The Poor Voter On Election Day.

The proudest now is but my peer The highest not more high; Today, of all the weary year To King of men am I. Today, silk are great and small, The nameless and the known; My palace is the people's hall The ballot-box my throne!

Who serves today upon the list Beside the sacred shall stand; Alike the brown and wrinkled fist, The glove and dainty hand!

The rich is level with the poor, The weak is strong today And sleekest broadcloth counts no more Than homespun frock of gray. Today let pomp and vain pretence My stubborn right abide:

I set a plain man's common sense Against the party's pride. Today shall simple manhood try The strength of gold and land The wide world has no wealth to buy The power in my right hand; While there's a grief to seek redress Or balance to adjust. Where weighs our living manhood less Than Mammon's vilest dust.— While there's a right that needs my vote, A wrong to sweep away, Up! clout knee and ragged coat! A man's a man today.

Finced For Selling Alum Baking Powder.

At Bradford, on Thursday, Walter E. Sugden, grocer, Wakfield road, Bradford, was summoned for selling adulterated baking powder. Mr. Herbert Hankinson, deputy town clerk, who prosecuted, said the inspector called at the defendant's shop and purchased samples of baking powder. There were two kinds on sale. The article described as the best was sold at 21 for four cents and the other at 21 for three cents. The defendant was fined 10 shillings and costs for selling adulterated baking powder.

AN ARDENT SPORTSMAN.

The Turf, Field and Farm Tells us Something About Mr. Wm. Crawford and his Beautiful Residence at Glen Lea.

Mr. William Crawford, the absolute director of the great dry-goods house of Simpson, Crawford & Simpson, finds recreation from the cares of business in shooting and fishing and in growing fruit, flowers and lawns. Glen Lea, his farm of 200 acres, is near Monroe, 50 miles from New York on the Erie railroad. The orchards and buildings are sheltered from chilling winds by a range of hills mountain-like proportions, and yet the view from the broad piazza is far-reaching and full of beauty. The valleys are deeper and the hills bolder than at Glen Lea or Stuyvesant, but it is the same rich grazing belt that has made Orange County famous. The brooks which sing all day and night over gray and brown stones are fed by springs which burst from lofty, rock-ribbed slopes, and they are as clear as distilled water. The Jersey cows and the home-bred horses and colts drink this water with as much relish and more freedom, in some cases do the famous vineyards of France, Germany and Spain, and they do not complain of throbbing temples or rheum in the big toe. Pure water is essential to healthy live stock, growing, and it runs to waste at Glen Lea. The brooks tumble into a landlocked basin and form a small lake, which affords boating for Summer and skating for Winter. The greenhouses are extensive, and between two and three thousand carnations are cut every week, in addition to great clusters of roses and violets. Wild geese, with wings clipped so as to prevent flying, are in the poultry yards with domestic fowls, and they are the owner, and it is none one of the impressive country homes of the State. People come from long distances to inspect the billiard room, but all do not obtain admission to it. It is a noble hall, richly decorated, with heavy rugs for the feet and couches and arm-chairs for the indolent. The canvases reflect shooting and fishing scenes, the armor, carried in fancy back to the knightly days of the world, and the heads of moose, caribou, elk, deer, black bear and mountain lions and sheep speak of battles fought in the wilderness and won by aid of rifle and knife. The rear windows look upon the orchard, and when the trees are in bloom, and it is none one of the impressive country homes of the State. 75,000 BARRELS OF OIL

A DAY RUNNING WASTE IN THE GIANT OIL FIELD IN TEXAS.

Beaumont, Tex., Jan. 10.—The most active oil well in the world ever recorded has broken out here.

The oil burst out unexpectedly in a mighty stream, and a geyser of boiling oil was seen to issue from a great lake was formed.

The present depth of the well is 1,300 feet. The derrick built for it is sixty-four feet high.

The height of the oil flow is over two hundred feet and the estimated output is 25,000 barrels a day.

The strike was made on Thursday morning, Jan. 10, a short distance west of the Neches River and just two and a half miles southwest from Beaumont.

When the news reached Beaumont hundreds of people went out to the well, but were not permitted to approach within less than one hundred yards of it.

Those who could not go to the well climbed on the houses, from where they could see the oil spouting up two and a half miles away, and property in the city and neighborhood 100 per cent. in a few hours.

An enormous stream of the crude petroleum spouted to the height of 200 feet, being shot upward by a pressure of from 400 to 500 pounds to the square inch.

This pressure was so strong that it blew 1000 feet of 6-inch iron casing out of the well, twisting it completely out of shape.

The flow was estimated to be 25,000 barrels a day, and there was no way to stop it.

Since that time the oil has dug out a larger hole to escape from and proper machinery is being erected to gather it.

So great is the output of the precious fluid that the Standard Oil "octopus," which does not control the well, is reported to be seriously alarmed.

Colonel J. M. Guffey, of Pittsburg is one of the leading owners of the new well.

Corsicans, in this State, is almost as much excited as Beaumont. Corsicana has oil wells of her own, and they are good ones.

44th Regiment Supplied With Crossing a River.

Manila, Feb. 2.—Lieutenant Hicken and a detachment of thirty of Company M, Forty-fourth Regiment, while crossing a river on Tuesday night, were surprised by insurgents gathered at Fiesta, San Lucia, Island of Cebu.

They were attacked in front and on both flanks by a hundred rifles and more bolo men. Five Americans were killed, four were wounded and two are missing.

The insurgent loss is believed to have been heavy.

Captain Malley, with a detachment, reinforced Lieutenant Hicken. They recovered several bodies which were mutilated. Additional detachments were sent and are endeavoring to surround the insurgents.

HARD HACKING COUGHS.

Barring accidents, the person who gets along with the least amount of cough will live the longest.

As a general thing, however, people spend so much time experimenting that the cough is well under way before they know it.

Then comes the long siege. You feel the hard racking, all through your system, and get relief from nothing.

You fill your stomach with nauseating mixtures to no purpose. Then you use compounds containing narcotics, which deceive temporarily, and leave you slightly worse.

Some coughs of this kind hang on for weeks or even months, and, of course, they frequently develop into serious lung troubles.

A true specific for all coughs is Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam, and it should be kept in the home against any emergency.

With a cough that has become chronic the first of this effect-remedy is a balsam of the full sensation of pain which usually is felt with such a cough.

Then you are conscious that the soreness is leaving you, and presently the desire to get pretty Buge are sending for this book. Send in your address at once to The Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, 200 Mountain Street, Montreal, Que.

Mr. Eugene Weaver left here on Thursday morning for Boston.

DERBY.

At the last meeting of Nelson Division No. 99 it was decided that the forty sixth anniversary of its birthday which is near at hand be celebrated in some public manner. It was not definitely decided what would be done but was left over till next meeting when everything will be arranged in detail.

Although we may send creators to Ottawa and the Municipal Council, still we have enough left at home to discuss debates in division chambers till the light-burn out as they did on the 24th, inst. in our shiretown.

Wesley Welly keeps on the good side of "Satan" by singing "I'm a Canning".

On account of the favorable winter some concerns are about through with their lumber operations and several have returned or soon will return home.

On account of the illness of the pastor of the Presbyterian church no service will be held on the evening of the 26th inst.

The road snowplows are kept in use more by the frequent snowfalls which drift the road till it is almost impassible. On Saturday one started from the Miller's Co. back yard and went down to the point. It resumed the aspect of some parade rather than a snowplowing crowd, our parish senators and M. P. Peat at the head.

SHIPS WARNED OF DANGER BY ETHER

Waves Transmitted Over a Zone Whose Radius Is Seven Miles

ENTIRELY AUTOMATIC.

Similar to Marconi's Telegraphic Method, but Different in Detail

Shipping statistics show that the recent storms along the western coast of British Columbia have surpassed in general destructiveness any previous visitations.

It will interest those whose calling takes them into these waters to learn that an invention is now being investigated by the marine authorities and navigators at South-end-on-Sea, Vancouver, which if it may not go a long way toward making lighthouses obsolete and unnecessary, is expected to be of much value in the prevention of shipwreck from any one of 90 per cent of the usual causes.

This is an automatic system of signalling, which will warn ships of their approach to dangerous rocks and coasts in all weathers, when even a flashing light might not be seen and the booming of a foghorn be unheard.

A metallic conductor is fixed on elevation ashore or a lightship or reef or lighthouse. From this etheric waves are transmitted over a zone which has a radius of seven miles. All vessels within that area which are fitted with receivers are warned of their proximity to danger, the distance and the point of the compass being registered. At the same time a bell rings and the receiving instrument records the name of the place that is being approached.

The automatic part of the invention consists of steel bearings with a number of teeth which pass over a Morse transmitter.

No operations are needed. The instrument or machine works absolutely automatically. In its elementary principle the system resembles Marconi's method of wireless telegraphy, but in detail the system is essentially different.

The committee of investigation at South-end-on-Sea has enthusiastically endorsed the invention after submitting it to a variety of tests in both fair and foul weather, and a synchro-act is now being formed to engage in its manufacture on a large scale, the inventor stipulating that the price shall be maintained at a moderate one, he himself preferring to be remembered as a philanthropist rather than as a millionaire inventor.

MAXIMS FOR THE MARRIED MAN

If, at the beginning of his married life, a man cannot have enough control over himself to see that his wife does not get her own way in everything, and that he does not make himself her abject slave he will never be able to recover his liberty, and he is doomed for, condemned to subjection for the rest of his natural life.

No government has ever been known to successfully suppress or even reduce any liberty or privilege previously granted to the people. If a man capitulates on the threshold of matrimony, he will never be able to recover one inch of the ground he has surrendered. In fact a man has to be as careful to avoid spoiling a wife as he would a child, and for her sake as well as for his own.

To be happy for, instance, a woman does not require the constant presence of her husband. On the contrary she will enjoy his company very much more if he and she were not always thrown together.

I know men who, from the beginning of their married lives, visited their clubs, enjoyed mens company, while remaining very devoted to their wives and them very happy.

But if a man waits ten years to decide on belonging to a club, he will soon discover the terrible mistake he has made.

His visits to that club will be treated like perfect acts of unfaithfulness, reproaches will begin, followed by sulking, and the famous sentence will be uttered: "You love me no more."

To be happy matrimonial life must be uniform. Every change must be discreet, gradual and for the better. You have to keep a fire alive for the rest of your natural life: see that your cellar is well-stocked, and the fuel used discriminately and economically.

Control your love and your ardour. If at the beginning you are too attentive, and to such things that you cannot do forever, look out. The slightest inattention will take the most gigantic proportions.

Some men, good diplomats, carry their principal length of objecting to being their wives' lovers, simply because they know they cannot always be lovers, and that the day they cease to be lovers they will be considered perfect criminals.

Therefore my friend, control yourself sufficiently to restrain your ebullishments so cleverly that your wife may be led to believe that you love her more and more every day. Remember that you enter the holy estate of matrimony with a certain capital of love. The whole happiness of your married life will depend on the way you use that capital.

Live on the interest. If you touch the capital, you are bound to become bankrupt sooner or later.

Married life is a comedy (sometimes, alas, a tragedy) in several acts. Like in a play, avoid putting in the first act of your married life all your strongest situations and all your smartest dialogues, for fear the interest should go on flagging steadily to the end.

The clever dramatist invariably satisfies with writing a quiet and safe first act. No situations of

TWO OPINIONS.

Here are the opinions of two writers on the same subject, (viz.) the editor of the Chatham World versus a contributor to the St. John Globe...

LEGISLATING FOR THE SLIMS.

It is not at all likely that the minority resolution of the Town Council, asking that the Chatham dead-beat brigade be allowed to vote in town elections...

THE POSSIBILITIES OF CANADA.

All of Great Britain's possessions in America, like ancient Gaul, are divided into three parts. The greatest of these is Canada and the millions and billions of dollars that are to come from its mines, its forests and its waterways...

must have his vote paid at a certain rate, and that because one must be endowed with the same cunning...

One physical fact that checks her is the closing of navigation. Most of the navigation now ends about the first of November and is not resumed until the breaking up of the ice in the spring...

THE UNITED STATES SENT TO CANADA many of its leaders in transportation work and development. Sir William Van Horne was born in Ohio, and Mr. Hays the new President of the Southern Pacific, who did so much to develop Canadian railways...

That does not include all of the new development. Already the construction of a railroad has begun which is well on the way to Hudson Bay itself, and the announcement is made that in a few years people may be able to spend their summer with all the comforts of civilization on the shores of this great inland sea...

BRITAIN'S FUTURE GREATNESS. In Asia, Great Britain has domains aggregating nearly two million square miles. In Africa, she has possessions which cover over two million square miles.

country, which for a long time figured upon the maps as wilderness, have now their settlements, their industries and their interests in shipping and trade...

Its industries reach nearly thirty millions of square miles, and yet only fractions of its mineral resources are being developed.

One physical fact that checks her is the closing of navigation. Most of the navigation now ends about the first of November and is not resumed until the breaking up of the ice in the spring.

Time of Launching of the Herreshoff Defender.

Comparison With the Columbia on Corresponding Date.

BRISTOL, R. I., Feb. 2.—The closing of the Herreshoff's shops this evening found about half the side timbers in their specified positions, with the stem not carried out the whole length and the stern board not yet placed at the after end.

It is not because the Bristol man lacks the top section of the stem casting for the defender, because, with the other section, it was turned out a month ago. It is found expedient to not set up the pieces on the extreme ends of cup defenders here until the boats are half-plated. A good mechanic could, if this were done, make a very close estimate to the length over all. Comparisons with the distances between the uprights on the interior of the boat shed would tell too much of the story.

From the large amount of bracing, diagonal deck strappings and other extras which are being put into the construction of this yacht, it is very evident that the Herreshoffs do not intend to have a structurally weak boat. A man familiar with the doings at the shops said today that yacht was the strongest-built yacht yet seen at Herreshoff's shops. He also said he believed that the yacht would carry the largest spread of sail ever seen on a 90-footer, and it would be so large that it would exceed all expectations.

The step for the steel mast of the new yacht was put in position today, and is located between frames 30 and 31. It is of steel triangular in shape, and has some new features not seen in the other cup defenders' mast steps built here. The work on the steel mast is progressing as fast as possible, and is being made in sections.

The construction on the Belmont craft is fully a month ahead of that on the Columbia two years ago and a month hence it will be found that the work will be five

A Goddess of Africa.

The chiefs, whose names were Sombulana, Muzulu, Secombo, Dhlisen, Gunn, Manyta, Maleve, Sikhota, Nyandini and Didi, together with Lobengula's brothers, Many and Kavula, held absolute sway in the Matopos. Consequently the news of their surrender, which Mr. Rhodes insisted must be unconditional, a stipulation to which, moreover, the chiefs agreed caused great rejoicing in Bulawayo and over the whole border.

On the way back they visited the lone grave in the bush and dropped a tear in memory of the gallant fellow who had fallen as he had ever lived, with his face to the foe nor will Jim Bulawayo ever be forgotten while life remains to them.

Long ere this Rex had told Lord Bruno the strange story of how he learned about the contents of the buried temple from a sea captain whom he was enabled to assist when in dire distress and dying of the plague in Bombay.

Although there were some reasons to believe the man might have been suffering under an hallucination, he seemed so positive, and the adventure promised such amazing results if it resulted the right way, that in the end Rex decided to kill two birds with one stone, having long intended to make a journey through the heart of Darkest Africa.

weeks ahead of Columbia's time. The Columbia was complete, sheathed outside on May 10, 1899. The new craft will probably be sheathed all over six weeks ahead of that time and be launched the latter part of April.

It cannot be said that the work other than timbering the hull is hurried. In smoothing and polishing metal pieces that are going into the construction the workmen go about the work deliberately. Quality and not quantity is desired. A large quantity of fittings for the new craft recently cast here in the hands of the machinists undergoing a finishing. So also with the bulkheads to go forward and aft in the interior.

MINARD'S LINIMENT

The best proof that MINARD'S LINIMENT has extraordinary merits, and is in good repute with the public, is that it is EXTENSIVELY Imitated. These imitations resemble the genuine article in appearance only they lack the general excellence of the Genuine. This notice is necessary, as injurious and dangerous imitations, liable to produce chronic inflammation of the skin, are often substituted for MINARD'S LINIMENT by Dealers, because they pay a larger profit. They all sell on the Merit and Advertising of MINARD'S. One in particular claiming to be made by a former proprietor of MINARD'S LINIMENT, which simply is a lie. INSIST UPON HAVING MINARD'S LINIMENT. In Memoriam Of Our Late Sovereign Lady Queen Victoria.

The glad new year came with good cheer which quickly brought us sorrow.

Although the sun did shine to-day The clouds did rule to-morrow.

The wires went the news was sent Around this whole creation.

The word it said the Queen is dead The ruler of the nation.

When death's cold dart struck that kin heart,

It caused much grief and pain. The loss of one who ruled so long With such a glorious reign.

We shall deplore from shore to shore The one of noble deed,

For well we know the tears will flow From every class and creed.

Her praises great we can't relate, Beyond pen or tongue,

O'Connell said of that virtuous maid Was such when she was young.

Let telegraphic wires roll, Let bells not cease to ring.

Let sage and poets compare their notes Her praises for to sing.

Like a turtle dove as full of love, To rule so good and tender;

That every prayer so good and fair Went up for to defend her.

Her brilliant way shone out like rays, As the sun that shone above her,

And won the hearts of every one So dearly for to love her.

This earthly crown she did lay down, Without a blot or stain,

To that great repose that life long chose A brighter crown to gain.

At eighty two she bade adieu To this vast world of story.

With a just record to meet the Lord In the higher realm of glory.

The reign is begun by her own son, Who may be such another;

How'er he could be ought as good In having such a mother.

Now we sing "God save the King" And aid him in his sorrow;

Although the clouds give rain to-day The sun may shine to-morrow.

A Great Book.

From the Guelph Herald, Jan. 25th, 1901. The death of our illustrious Sovereign will naturally be followed by the publication of many "Lives of the Queen." A well written and artistically produced book on Her Majesty's life and reign, will unquestionably command an immense sale.

The Herald predicts a sale of this LIFE OF THE QUEEN greater than has ever been reached by any other book in Canada, as it seems to be, on every level subject, will be eagerly read by all classes of the population.
