DIE. LONDON, Jan. 27.-A dispatch from Vienna to the Globe says dispatches have been received from Constantinople stating that the court of cassation has confirmed the sentences imposed in November last by the tribunal at Erzinghain upon 58 Armenians, which con-demns 24 of them to death. The confirmation of the sentence has greatly exasperated the Armenians in the vicinity of Erzinghain.

THE FRENCH CABINET CRISIS. Jacques St. Cere cables from Paris to Cabinet crisis appears to be closed by the Ribot Cabinet will last until Easter, and that then the crisis will begin again, which will force President Faure to dissolve the Chamber. But M. Ribot is not a popular man, and the new Chamber will be as much divided as is the present one, and will contain more Socialist members. Then the trouble will recommence and serious incidents will take place. HORRORS OF WAR.

Fred Villiers, the war artist, in a lecture on the Oriental war last night, declared that he witnessed shocking atrocities at Port Arthur. People were shot down, he said, until every street and alley of the wretched town was cumbered with corpses and muddy with blood. They came to the doors of their stores in answer to Marshal Oyama's proclamation proclaiming protection to all non-combatants, and they were shot down on their thresholds while Oyama and his officers listened to the music of their band not two miles from the scene of slaughter. Of the Chinese citizens only 35 were left alive.

WILLIAM'S BIRTHDAY. BERLIN, Jan. 27.—Emperor William has made his birthday celebration a great spectacle. Apparently his object has been to dazzle the people and dispel their suspicions of strife between him and the other allied monarchs in Germany. Only on supreme occasions has the city seen such a gathering of crowned heads. The Kings of Saxony and Wurtemburg, the Grand Dukes of Baden, Hesse and Oldenburg, and the Dukes of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha and Mecklenburg-Schwerin are here. In fact, every noteworthy German prince except the Regent of Bavaria has come to lend pomp to the fetes. The police did not enforce the Sunday closing law, and many shops did an enormous business. The Emperor was cheered loudly whenever he appeared in public. FLOWERS FOR CHURCHILL'S COFFIN.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—The Queen, Prince of Wales and the Emperor of Germany have sent wreaths to be placed upon the coffin of Lord Randolph Churchill.

The wreaths sent for the funeral of Lord Randolph Churchill are almost countless. They have come from half a dozen cities on the continent, and scores of cities and towns in Great Britain. Lady Churchill's wreath, which will lie on his coffin, is of laurel, and bears the inscription: "To Randolph, from his ever admiring and loving wife." Another wreath has this inscription: "To a beloved son, from his heartbroken mother." Mrs. Jerome, Lord Randolph's mother-in-law, her two daughters, Mrs. Frewen and Mrs. Jack Leslie, have sent magnificent designs in TERRIBLE SCENES IN PERSIA. LONDON, Jan. 26.-The Times' correspondent in Teheran reports the mortality in the recent earthquake as far beyond the former estimates. He says the mortality in Kuchan was very great. Some 600 persons were entombed in a mosque and 600 perished in various baths. Many were burned to death. The survivors have suffered terribly from cold and want, as .neither food nor water was obtainable for three days. Not a single building in the city is standing. There is simply a mass of bricks and earth. The shocks have come frequently since Jan. 17, Jan. 22 being equal in violence first one. The Notorious "Betsy" Baker Again in the Toils.

Caught in the Act-James Quinn Found in a SI lowdrift-Was Outs ide Sentinel.

The police m ade an important capture in the north ead of the city at 1 o'clock on Sunday morning. As a result notorious "Betsy" B aker is in the toils again, caught red-handed in the act of burglary, and Jam es Quinn, a young man with a local police reputation, was arrested as an accessory. Another man made his escap e when the constables appeared. The night was probably the coldest and stormiest of the year, and one admirably adapted for such work as the men were engaged in. The man was in the snow drift and he was speedily dragged forth. He proved to be James Quinn.

The man's suspicious movements around the store caused the officers to turn their attention again in that direction. P. C. Ralph came up at this juncture, and leaving the prisoner with P. C. Egle ton, Ralph and Weir began to onnoitr e around the back of the building.

Here they found two men hard at work on the fastenings at the rear of Loveless' s tore. In the scramble James Baker, alias Betsy, was arrested. His companion got over the fence and away. The men were then conveyed to the station and locked up. Investigation showed that the men had burst open the back do or of Twohey's butcher shop in the same block. Then they had broken a pane of glass and opened another door. They ate three pounds of head cheese and then piled up about a dozen chickens need the door, evidently intending to return and take them. Then they appare ntly turned their attention to Loveless' grocery store, and had the broken in just as the police ar-

Big Gathering of East Middlesex Liberals.

Nominations for the House of Commons.

Two Candidates Named-The Ballot to be Taken Next Saturday.

Interesting Addresses by Hon. David Mills, Geo. C. Gibbons, Q.C., Dr. Gardiner, John Gilson and Ex-Mayor Taylor.

A convention of East Middlesex tarifffor-revenue men was held in the Liberal rooms, Oddfellows' Hall, on Saturday afternoon to consider the propriety of nominating a candidate to contest the riding in the coming election. Though the weather was very stormy and the roads in many sections almost impassable the hall was crowded with delegates. Many city Liberals showed their interest by their presence, including Hon. David Mills, M. P. for Bothwell; Ald. Parnell, L. W. Burke, John Cameron, Geo. C. Gibbons, Q.C., J. D. Clarke and several others. The meeting was an enthusiastic one, and was marked by an able address from Hon. David Mills and short speeches by the nominees. Among those in attendance

HON. D. MILLS SPEAKS. Before opening for the nomination of candidates, the president, Mr. E. Ironside, of Ilderton, called upon Hon.
David Mills for an address. The tried representative of the Bothwell riding was greeted with loud applause. He "I did not come for the purpose of speaking to you, but more for the purpose being with you. I always deem it my duty to aid in promoting the principles in which I believe wherever opportunity is offered. We are very likely to have an election at no distant date—it may be before another session, but on that point we are upon grounds of uncertainty. Therefore, it is absolutely necessary for us to be on the alert and ever ready at the first call of duty. (Applause.) I know the difficulty East Middlesex has. I know how it has been gerrymandered. I know the obstacles that have been put in the way of success to the Liberal party. We are in a peculiar position at the present, but I do not despair of success in any constituency at the coming election. (Cheers.) The country is in a most unsatisfactory condition. The brains of the Government are gone. When you look at the Government as now constituted, there is not a man in the whole Administration who can command the full confidence even of his own party. If they are supported it is simply because of fealty to the party and not be-cause of confidence in their ability to carry on the affairs of the country. (Applause.) Let me call your attention to certain important facts. Fifteen years ago the Liberal party was defeated because there was a general de-pression throughout the globe. Since then you have had fifteen years' experience with a high tariff. You are aware that the country is $100,000,000 more in debt than it was in 1878. You have enormous debt, high taxes, and low prices as a result of what has been I think that the agricultural population of Canada is prepared for a change, and I know that we could carry on the Government of Canada with an expenditure of $4,000,000 less a year than it is at present. You have had these burdens put upon you for needless works and outlays of moneys. Now, you will have an opportunity, such as has not occurred for many years in the past, because you have had a very wide experience presented before you on matters of a perfectly simple character, every person can understand, and which, if considered at all, will present Administration and in returning men who will make good representa-tives in Parliament." (Cheers.) Mr. Mills said it was of great importance that the Liberals should be thoroughly organized and ready for the contest when it comes, and also ready to send men to Parliament who will undo the acts of the men who have been doing wrong during the last fifteen years. The Liberals were undertaking to fight abuses created in that time. There was the case of the returning officers. Under Liberal rule both parties were on an equal footing in this respect, but when the Conservatives went in they repealed the law and appointed the grossest of partisans to the positions. "In 1882," said Mr. Mills, "I was elected by the people, but the returning officer returned my opponent. The same thing happened with Dr. King in New Brunswick. These are men who cannot be reached by the law as it now stands, and their acts are intended to prevent an honest and fair expression of public opinion. I would like to know what the family compact of Canada has created that can equal the abuses of the Conservative party today. "I trust East Middlesex will do its duty. (Applause.) I know it may be redeemed, and instead of being represented by a supporter of the present Administration, you will be represented by a man ready to do everything in the public interest." (Cheers.)

called for by the president, and the following were made:

John Gilson, of London township—By Robert Scott and James Bell. George Taylor, city-By Charles Trebilcock and C. Anderson.

George C. Gibbons—By Squire Kennedy, Ilderton, and Geo. Heaman. Dr. Gardiner-By John Laidlaw and

THE NOMINEES SPEAK. Speeches were then made by the four nominees. Mr. Gilson was the first called upon. He is a young and vigorous man, and in a very short address showed great ability to discuss public affairs. He stated that he had been urgently requested to allow himself to be moved as a candidate in the east riding, and had at last consented. "You know my principles with regard to political matters," said Mr. Gilson. "I am pronounced. I have no hesitation in saying what I believe to be right and proper. We have heard Hon. Mr. Mills in his able discussion of affairs. We know everything claimed for the National Policy has been a decided failure, and I think we should contest this riding. We would be negligent if we didn't. No one should be afraid of being called a Liberal. I have confidence in the intelligence of the people; I have confidence in the force of right and truth, and I am sure the candidate of this convention will be successful at the polls. I see no reason (in the face of all we have seen and know) why we cannot win. We must be united, however, and go unitedly to the work, and with a good organization."

Continuing, Mr. Gilson showed that all great questions which have had a tendency to bless mankind were the direct outcome of Liberal agitation. He was a Liberal pure and simple, yet he did not believe in being a tool or ma-chine. The speaker showed the fallacy of the National Policy. It had placed heavy taxes on the country; it had added enormously to the public debt, habbs and had not given employment to Canada's artisans or given the farmers a home market for their produce. Mr. Gilson was certain the Liberals would be victorious if they joined in the contest with a will. (Applause.)

EX-MAYOR TAYLOR. Mr. Taylor was well received. The large gathering, he said, went to show that East Middlesex Liberals were deeply interested in the welfare of the country. He thought every person present was convinced that it would be de-sirable to place a candidate in the field. He thanked the Liberals for the hearty support they accorded him at the last election, and he had no difficulty in falling in line with his Liberal friends. Mr. Taylor was thoroughly convinced that the principles of the Liberal party were the best for the country's interests. A tariff for revenue only was all should be maintained, and the freest trade relations (which would be consistent with the position Canada held as a portion of Great Britain) should exist between the States and this country. A simple and less expenlist should be put in force. Mr, Taylor concluded by prophesying success for the Liberals in the coming elections.

DR. GARDINER WITHDRAWS. Dr. Gardiner had heard a great deal about politics in the last few years, but there was one policy he had always recommended as the best for Canada. It was true loyalty to the country, true loyalty to ourselves. He taunted Dr. Montague for a statement he had recently made, that Canadians should go back to the thirteenth or fourteenth century for their rule of life. Trade restriction and impaired freedom may have done in those days, but it will not do now. Canadians will be loyal enough to wear Canadian products without being forced into it, unless it is to their injury to do so. Liberals believed in doing right because it was a pleasure. Be Canadians—let people do or wear what they please, but always remember that by wearing the products of our own manufacturers you are encouraging them. Canada is a glorious country, and one of which we all may be proud. The doctor promised to stand loyally by the choice of the convention. In speaking of the National Policy, he ridiculed the claims which had been made for it. Neither farmer nor mechanic is receiving protection—millions of dollars have been spent to bring more mechanics in to compete with Canadians. True protection should be for the farmer, mechanic, manufacturer, and every class of people, and just enough of it to run and not wreck the ship of state.

GEORGE C. GIBBONS, Q.C. Mr. George C. Gibbons, Q.C., was given hearty reception. He thanked the candidate. He would have been pleased if circumstances permitted him to accept. He could hardly conceive that in East Middlesex ("hived," as it was attempted to make it) there were not enough of proofs of the N. P. fallacy to enable the Liberals to convince the people that they would best be served by electing a genuine tariff reformer at this time. (Hear, hear.) People were seeing the fruits of the policy into which they were led in 1878. No man in East Middlesex could tell of an industry in the riding which had been benefited by the N. P. No Conservative farmer could have the hardihood to say how he was benefited by the high tariff in what he buys. The farmer gets no higher price for what he sells. A Government that failed to increase the prices of wheat, barley or horses, as was promised, surely was not benefiting the farming community in making them pay higher prices than is neces-sary for what they buy. Mr. Gibbons loved his country, which was the best part of the continent. The Government howls about running down the country when the Liberals ask for freer trade but if Canada had not the finest forests, timber, agricultural land and agriculturists, they could not induce people to remain at all, handicapped as they are. Canada had enjoyed a little prosperity, but Mr. Gibbons prophesied that if its resources were properly opened up the country would not be known in a year. (Cheers.) The true kind of loyalty was that which would build up Canada. With it there would be ships upon the waterways, traffic through the Soo, and nothing in a moss-backed or second-rate condition. Providence intended that Canada should have first place, as it was given everything necessary to bring it to the front. Mr. Gibbons promised his hearty support in the cam-paign, and in concluding showed how all the privileges of the Dominion Government were granted to the monopol ists and not to the persons who really needed them the most-the farmers and workers. (Cheers.) As the storm prevented a number of delegates from attending, it was unanimously agreed to postpone the balloting for a candidate until Saturday next

In respect to trade, the present time is curious. It is full of ferment and froth. All sorts and conditions of goods, worthy and unworthy, old and new, are pressed for sale Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Saturday night and Bargain Days, with a sort of despairing vigor. Nothing will move this store from the even tenor of its way. The best for least money is our motto. Test it. When we tell you through these columns of our Surplus Stock Sale it is merely surplus stock we are sacrificing, and that every day in the week. Your money or our goods do not change values every day. If we have too much of a thing we sell it cheap, you get the benefit. It is our great distributing power and financial strength, which gives us the opportunity and you the benefit. Do you understand? A SOLDIERS' FESTIVAL.

Non-Coms of No. 1 Company, R. C. R. I., Entertain Their Friends - A Merry Time.

Royal Regiment of Canadian Infantry made merry on Friday evening by a smok-ing concert, to which their civilian friends were duly invited. Amongst those who accepted the invitation were: Ex-Ald. Thos. Jones, Messrs. John Jones, J. W. Metherall, Robt. Bonney, Edward Cushing, Len Hannah, Bone Steele, Fred Tuliet, Robt. Hewson, Jerry McDoneld, James Childs, George Childs, Wm. Bulier, Jas. Beardon, W. Emery, Quartermaster Sergt. Irwin (L. F. B.), Corp. Howard Erskins, Seventh Battalion, and Sergt. Stein, Seventh Battalion. The chair was taken at 8 p.m. by Sergr.-Major Munro, R. R. C. I., who, after a few introductory remarks, proposed the health of the Queen, which was duly honored. Mr. Emery favored the company with "Britannia." Next followed a selection by the newly organized band under the able leadership of Sergt. Bugler Walsh, who by the way is also conductor of St. Peter's Cathedral choir, and who ranks as Friends," which was reponded to by Messrs. Jones, Metherall, Buller and Emery.

Another interlude followed, during which the company partook of an oyster supper. Corp. Millie proposed the toast of "Our Sister Corps," which was drunk with great honors, the following non-commissioned officers, representing the sister corps, responding: Quartermaster-Sergt. Irwin, London Field Battery; Sergt. Stein and Corp. Erskine, Seventh Battalion; Sergt. Howard, Governor-General's Foot Guards, Ottawa: Sergt. Imsley, Sixteenth Battalion, Picton, Ont.; Sergt. Hobson, Twenty-Second Battalion, Embro; Sergi. S owden, Twenty-Sixth Battalion, Park hill; Sergt. Hastings, Twenty-Eighth Battalion, Stratford; Corp. Wallace, Thirtieth Battalion, Guelph; Sergt. Jack-son, Thirty-Third Battalion, Seaforth; Sergt. Spence, Thirty-Eighth Battalion, Brantford; Sergt. Wismer, Thirty-Ninth, Battalion, Simcbe.

A sociable hour in song followed. Mr. Emery's rendition of "Tom Bowling" was heartily applauded, and in response to an encore he favored the audience to a Scotch comic song. Mr. Edward Cushing's render ing of "Paddy and His Musket" was inimitable, and Mr. Sidney Webb's (special by request) "After the Ball" fairly brought down the house and he was duly honored by being presented with a bouquet. Owing to the severe storm many friends were unable to attend, but another meeting is looked for the second week in February. when a real royal time may be expected with the non-coms. of No. 1 company, R. C. R. I.

Still a Mystery.

The Strange Sounds Continue | in the The non-com. officers of No. 1 Company, Ann Street House.

> The Little Girl's Connection With 1 Them Stilli Unexplained-Bothered. by Curious Visitors.

The family of Mr. John Arscol t, Ann street, are probably the most be thered people in London just now-be thered with strange noises in the house, and bothered by curious visitors. They could put up with the strange s cratching, because it can generally b e stopped-except when it gets stubb orn, as it sometimes does. Then the c hildren get out of bed and sit around the stove until the sound goes away. 1 3ut the morbidly curious crowd of visit ors apparently cannot be checked, and Mr. and Mrs. Arscott beg that frie ids will kindly desist from coming unless specially invited. The little girl, who is one of the best musicians in Canada. After a short interval spen in social conversation, Quartermaster Sergeant Kennedy proposed the toast of "Our Civilian proposed the toast of "Our Civilian Friends," which was repended to by action when they have depart ed. The strain on the child, and with a . view of sparing the little one the par ents ask that visitors will not flock to the house. The mystery has not yet bee n cleared up. The affair has been fi eely dis-cussed and a great many have expressed the opinion that the little girl is humbugging the fami ly. But whether it is a humbug of a stray spirit (?) the family would be only too glad to have it definitely set tled. The members of the family—and they probably have had the best opportunity of examining the pheno mena—are convinced that there is some thing unnatural about the sound. They do not call it a spirit. They have no leanings towards spiritualism. The f amily is a material one. Mrs. Arscott calls the "thing" an animal, and un consciously bates her breath as she sp eaks of it. Everybody admits that if the little girl is by any strange man ner fooling her parents, and brothers, and sisters, she is the cleverist little "fooler," as well as the most precocious little trickster, that Londoners have ever dealt Mr. Arscott wishes all po ssible light thrown on the matter, and invited an "Advertiser" reporter to the house on Saturday night. The place was uncomfortably crowded, but the little girl produced some very strange answers She was flushed and naturally excited. She freely complained of being tired. Yet she produced some wo nderful answers. The only unsatisfac tory part of the affair to the investiga tor was the fact that the little girl on Saturday night could not produce the sounds while in sight of the au lience. The rapping was confined to the bedroom, and when the girl would as k a question and step into view of the visitors the sounds could not be heard. However, there are a dozen persons tvho will take oath that they have heard the noises and seen the child at the same time. They have observed the little girl lying on the bed and heard the strange sounds emanating from the wall. Yet, when a stranger would take two steps into the room they would cease, and would not commence again until the stranger had stepped out of the room, but still in sight of the child.

As mentioned in these columns Sat-urday night, the child on Saturday discovered that she could communicate PUBLIC SYMPATHY WITH THE MEN with the strange sound in any room in the house. She found that she could carry "it" apparently from room to room, and if from room to room, why not to a neighbor's house? The little girl asked the "invisible" if it would accompany her to a neighbor's, and received an affirmative answer. So tonight the experiment will be tred. "And I hope that she can coax it to Stay away," added Mrs. Arscott.

The "scratcher" tells the page on which a Bible is opened, the book and the initial letter of the first verse. It tells the number of keys on a bunch, scratches out tunes on the wall, fells the age of visitors and the number of coins in a person's hand. His ghostship is not infallible, and sometimes makes mistakes. Sometimes it cannot answer, and after walting the child will ask it it can give the answer, and the reply is A young student of divinity was present on Saturday night, and the "spirit" drummed out a great many answers about his father's family in the old country. The answers were all satisfactory. Then he asked how many years it would be before he was ordained. "One," was the reply. He thought that was rather too soon, but admitted that he expected to be preaching, anyway, by that time. Then another visitor wanted to know if any questions had been asked and an-"Oh, you must not do that," expostu-lated the divinity student, "that's wicked." And he had just the moment before asked how long it would be before he would be ordained! "Ask it to play a tune," asked a

"What tune?" asked the little girl. "'We won't Go Home Till, Morning "No; something serious," added the woman reprovingly. "Let It be 'Blest be the Tie That Binds." "Blest be the Tie That Binds" it ac-cordingly was. Then the sound of an-other piece of music was heard to be drummed on the wall. It was recognized by someone as "There is a Foun-tain Filled with Blood."

A visitor held some coins in his hand and the number was told correctly. He passed some over to the divinity student and they were told correctly. The litle girl was very much annoyed during the evening by the confluct of boys, who congregate at the side of the house. They had to be chased away several times. Petrolea Oil Development.

During the year just past the total output of crude oil from F'etrolea amounted to 1.078.826 barrels. The Topic says: "The production of the greater part of the wells in the Northwest Territory has suffered during the past three years owing to the difficulty in procur-ing crude benzine from the refiners, and everything has been resorted to to keep up the production without it, but nothing has been found equal to it for cleansing the veins of accumulated paraffine. We have been informed that one enterprising operator has been ex-perimenting with heated salt water. He had one well which appeared to be of little use or profit, so he gave "It a good dose or two of hot salt water some time ago, and has made the well good for two barrels or more a day. It has kept this pumping up every day since first "flooding" it in that way. He purposes, if the well continues to do so good, to put an old portable boiler alongside of it, and, whenever he wants to "flood" it. fill the boiler with salt water and heat it with the gas from the well."

Hood's Sarsaparilla, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system and in this way cures catarrh. The new catalogue of the British Museum will contain 1,400,000 distinct Church yesterday two strong and interesting sermons were delivered by Rev. J. W. H. Milne, M.A., of Scarboro, near Toronto. The subject in the morning was on "The future of the children of God-I. John, iii., 2-and in the evening "The nobleman's son"--John, iv., 46-53. Mr. Milne has had but one charge since leaving college, in which he has ministered with great acceptance for some seven years. Mr. Milne is one of the talented and rising ministers of the denomination, and is sure to be heard from in future. He is a nephew of Principal Dickson of Upper Canada College.

The anniversary of the King Street Presbyterian Sunday school was celebrated yesterday by three special services. In the morning the pastor, Rev. D. Robertson, occupied the pulpit, and directed his remarks particularly to the children.
Open school was held in the afternoon, and the pupils with their parents attended in large number. Principal Merchant of the Collegiate Institute brifly addressed the pupils and gave them some timely advice. At the evening service the pastor dwelt on the duties of parents to children. A choir of about 50 children, under the guidance of Mr. D. L. Hardey, furnished music at all services.

And Against the Brooklyn Street Railway Companies - The Latter Apparently Winning. BROOKLYN, N. Y., Jan. 28 .- The situation this morning was much improved. Three new lines were opened this morning, The companies apparently gain steadily in the number of new men, and it is but a question of a few days when normal traffic will be resumed. There was less wire-cutting during the night and less stoning of cars this forenoon. The strikers still refuse to admit that they are beaten. They hold together well and less than 100 men out of 6,000 have returned to work. There is no certainty that the withdrawal of troops will not be followed by increased disturbances. The police are either incapable or do not desire to prevent interferance with the wires and cars of the companies, and a large portion of public sentiment is wi h the men and against the companies. How the latter expect to resume their former condition of lucrative patronage and operate their cars in violence of the State laws regulating speed and hours of labor is not

At the Police Court. "Betsy" Baker and James Quinn, an account of whose arrest for burglary appears elsewhere, were remanded for a week by the police magistrate today. Another charge was entered against them by Mr. T. Twohy, who claims that they broke into his store and stole several pounds of head-cheese. The till contained a small amount of money, but was not touched. Albert Austin Beares, charged with non-support of his wife and family, elected summary trial and pleaded guilty. He was remanded for a week for sentence and the matter may be settled satisfactorily in the meantime. made about the cold condition of the rooms. So bad was it at times that the pupils would work with their overcoats on, while some pursues refused to let their children are not. The council room board opened. was crowded war Among the viages present were Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Cooper, of 26 Ann street. They complained of the improper heating, and Mrs. Cooper made some personal charges against Janitor Pudney. It was also asserted that the school was kept in a filthy condition. On these charges Trustees Crockett, Paul and Jones were appointed to make an investigation, but so far have failed to discover any foundation for them. Inspector Dearness informed the board that the three furnaces were capable of heating the building, and expressed the opinion that there was a defect in the ventilation. He complimented the janitor on the cleanliness of the schools. Mrs. Cooper states that if the board does not take some action she will appeal to the inspector. To-day in the streets of Montreal you meet on every hand men with very long faces. I do not know whether their anxiety is absolutely genuine, or whether it is put on. Perhaps it is genuine, and perhaps it is put on also. These people say to you, "If the Liberals get into power, and very probably they will next time, they are going to abolish pro-tection, and by abolishing protection they are going to create a panic, a certain disturbance of values that will bring on a financial crisis." Now, sir, if that reasoning means anything it would simply mean this: That reform would be forever impossible, and that if it be the misfortune of a country to be saddled with a vicious system-I do not care of what kind, economic, political or any other-then nobody should dare to touch that system, because the process of reform would cause some displacement of interests. (Cheers.) But, gentlemen. there is a way, and a way of reform. There is, I say, a way, and a way of reforming, and as I told you a moment ago, I am here speaking on behalf of the Liberal party. I told you that I and all my friends were Liberals of the English school, and we are willing to go for precedence to the old land, which has pas through that ordeal before us. In 1846 Sir Robert Peel carried England over from protection to free trade, and he did it by a gradual process which avoided all disturbances of values and which voided all financial crises. That is a ecedent which, good for England, is od for Canada, and which ought to be I more sensible for Canada to adopt n it was for England, because the ined are not so great in Canada to-day bey were in England then. The Founder of the Salvation Army Arrives in a Blinding Storm-The Story of the Army-Sly Thrusts at American Ways-What the Consecration of a Boy Led To-Enthusiastic Reception-An Official Welcome to London.

General Booth arrived in London on Saturday night. He came in the teeth of a biting gale that did its best apparently to compel the illustrious leader of the Salvation Army to forego his visit to the Forest City. It was originally intended that the general and party should arrive at 5:40 p.m. on the train from St. Marys. The train arrived sharp on time, and a large and very much disappointed crowd learned that the line between St. Marys and Stratford was snowed up and that the general would have to go around by way of Woodstock, and would arrive on the Pacific express at 6:50, schedule time, or later, if the storm continued to increase. The storm did continue to increase until at 6:50 the swirling snow was so dense that wayfarers could hardly see across the street. About this time the army, headed by a full band, the members carrying flaring torches and flags, emerged from the citadel on Clarence street, and headed south. The band played its liveliest, and the soldiers sang their heartiest although the night was one calculated to make the strongest hold their breath.

WAITING FOR THE TRAIN. Arrived at the station, the army found a crowd of several hundred in waiting. They stood around on the snow-covered platform, the children playing tag around the little mountains of snow that had been reared there, and pushing one another into them. The waiting-rooms were crowded, and every time an engine bell was heard his gold eyeglasses that dangle from a gold a stampede was made for the doct. chain. He is a man of great nervous This continued until 7:30, the band at energy and force. He has a long, fleshy short intervals playing selections as nearly in tune as the frosty atmosphere and the drifting snow would permit. The bandsmen one by one brought their instruments in to the fire to thaw them out, and the blue-bonneted lassies made their way to the ladies' waiting room to get warm. Meanwhile the crowd on the platform continued to increase, and apparently so did the storm. It did its best to provide a cool reception for the general, but Salvation arder was apparently impervious to a January storm. At 7:45 it became known that the train that the general was to arrive by had met with a slight accident at Ingersoll through the bursting of a pipe, and would not arrive for probably half an hour. At last one of the numerous lookouts shouted

"HERE SHE COMES!" and the headlight of the engine emerged from the vista of yard lights and loomed up dimly through the snow. The band played its loudest and the soldiers fired several vocal volleys, the civilians cheered, is concluding a series of 570 meetings the children waved their flags, the torches which have been held all over the contihobbed hither and thither in the crowd, and all made a rush to the general's coach to get a glimpse of the visitor. The wind played gleefully with the general's God had done for them or what they were patriarchal heard, as he stepped from the carriage, and whistled shrilly as it tossed and snapped and whipped the army flag around the staff. One of the first to grasp the general's hand was Mayor Little, who, with City Clerk Kingston and Alderman Geo. W. Armstrong, was present to wel-Then there was Mr. Thomas Mc-Cormick, whose guest the general will be during his stay. Mr. Mo-Cormick had a carriage in waiting, and aft er a few brief greetings with the army offi cers, the general entered the carriage and drove off amid more music, more cheers and more volleys.

THE VISITING PARTY. M ajor Malan, the general's private secre stary; Col. Lawlie, A.D.C.; Capt. Tayl or, of the War Cry staff, London, England, and Brigadier Margetts, of this city, comp sed the party that arrived with the gener al. Commandant Booth and his A. D. (., Brigadier Holland, returned to l'oronto on Friday to attend to be isiness which had accumulated during ; their absence, and did wot arrive until sarly Sunday morning. Mr. Samuel Grigg and Mr. C. R. Sayer, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., were at the station. The various members of the visiting party are the gue sts of the regular army officers of this city y and with private friends.

A ser vice of welcome was held at the Citadel on Saturday night, at which Col. Lawlie 1 vas the presiding spirit. Owing to the fati gue of travel and the strain of speaking, the general did not take part. At 10:30 on Sunday morning the general led a pub lic holiness meeting at the Citadel. The place was crowded to the doors.

meet ing at the Opera House. Every galle ry, every box, and the stage itself, was i illed to overflowing. While walting for the general Miss O'Keefe sang "Ave Marie" very sweetly. The orchestra, under Mr. Fred L. Evans, accompanied. At 3 c 'clock the soldiers of the army arrived, and were given seats that had been held f or them on the platform. The general, a companied by his son, Commandant Ballin zton Booth, Col. Lawlie, Major Malan Capt. Taylor, Brigadier Margetts, Brigad ier Holland, Mr. W. R. Hobbs, Wm. Bowms n and C. R. Sayer emerged from the west wings. They were greeted by a very vigorou s "volley" as they took their seats. I had that did not call me a fool, that did A great many ladies, beside army lassies, not condemn me; and not a friend with the were or the platform. Mrs. (Hon.) David Mills or cupied one of the seats. Mr. T. R. Parker, Mr. John Cameron and Mr.

Samuel Grigg were also present. To th a chairman, Mr. Wm. Bowman, fell rhe tas k of intoducing the general. He teferred among other things to the timesome 40 odd years ago-when he was William the elder, and the general was William the younger, in the ranks of the local pre achers of the same church.

GENERAL BOOTH. The ge neral was very favorably received, and as he proceeded to speak it was noticed that his voice was low and apparently wo rn with talking. Evidently with an uncer scious desire not to increase the strain a ny more than necessary the became calm and hushed. audience The quiet remained throughout the whole I ength of his address except when the listeners became so worked up that th e Salvationists felt constrained to fire a volle y, and the sympathizers to applaud. Theere was a touch of irony in some of the gen eral's velvet-like thrusts at ways that are American. The church-going populace a ume in for a sly drive, which the general half apologized for, and then with church usage or whether it was not.

For the second time during his busy life | general's life, and necessarily the life of the army. It was told with an earnestness that carried conviction, and without any self-boasting. It was touching at times to hear the gray-headed and gray-bearded man refer in loving terms to his glorified wife, and the part she took in the work of his life. He told of an uphill struggle against sin, and of his fight against the prejudices of his fellow mortals who could not see as he did. He explained the devices of the army and their origin; how they were meant to reach the unchurched masses for whom the orthodox mode of conversion had no attraction. Then he told of the army's magnificent work all the world over, and lastly he followed the career of each of his eight children, who are now at the heads of all the prominent army branches throughout the world. Then he drew the moral and drove it home with forceful eloquence as he leaned over the pulpit, and, with one hand raised to heaven, said:

"There is the cutcome of my life of consecration. Has it been thrown away?" A PEN PICTURE.

The general is of striking personality. He is tall and wiry, and his favorite posture in speaking is apparently that of placing his hands behind his back and emphasizing each word with a nod of his massive leonine head. Then he will raise both hands and run them nervously through his long hair. Perhaps he is a trifle bent at the shoulders. Tall men often are, especially when they get to be 65 years old. His hair was once black. Now it is gray and projects in a long foretop brushed to the right. He fiddles occasionally with and prominent nose. It droops. With his long gray patriarchal beard it gives him the look of some scriptural patriarch. He wears a military coat with gold epaulets, frogged and richly braided with black silk. On the collar are the gold "S" and the device of the Salvation Army: "Blood and Fire," with the crown at the top. These are embroidered on red velvet lozenges. The general wore a red cassock waistcoat of smooth military cloth, buttoned under the arm, as priests' waistcoats are. It is embroidered in yellow silk, with the Salvation Army insignia very handsomely

THE ARMY'S HISTORY. While casting about for a subject the general said that his audience generally liked to hear something about the army, supposing very naturally that he was very familiar with the theme. The general admitted that he was well used to it, and also somewhat tired of it. This will not be wondered at when it is known that the general of the army and what God had done for him might lead those present to ask what doing for God. It was 29 years ago since the army was commenced in the East End of London. But he could not help but think that the work commenced 50 years ago, when he first sought forgiveness of his sins. That was when he was a wayward boy of 15, driven to church and going through an empty form of religion. With the assurance of his own salvation came the deep desire to help others. A sickness followed his conversion, and he was brought to the brink of the river. On that sick bed he formulated plans for spending the balance of his life in the service of his Master. He labored among the sick and the dying and in the darkest spots of his native town. Then the general spoke of the awful consequences of sin, and more especially directed his remarks to the young men. He told of what a wonderful teacher the Holy Ghost of the difficulties that oppressed his father's family; how his father had spent the fore part of his life in making a fortune and the latter part in losing it. Then he the support of the family fell upon the on earth, and of joy in heaven. general. Despite the difficulties in his way he ultimately became a minister. He longed to be set free from all other interests except that of saving souls. He longed to have no other business but the lily in singing: business of winning a rebel world back to its Maker. A LITTLE IRONY.

Naturally he became a minister, and then he feared that there were two worlds -a church world and a worldly world, and the church world seemed to be very ignorant of the worldly world and the worldly

But nevertheless it was true. (Renewed laughter.)

"My heart went strangely out to the outside world," continued the general," and to the poor wretches that were outside. was driven out after a long struggle. broke out almost against my will, and went out into the world with a delicate wife and four little children. Before I had gone out into what seemed to me to be utter lank darkness-for there was not a friend exception perhaps of the members of my own family who did not forsake me for so doing-and yet before I was outside three or four weeks I was on the crest of one of the mightiest waves of salvation that ever was known in that part of the country.'

"As I went about the world in the bush of Australia, in India, in the States and in Canada-wherever Englishmen have wandered -some one will put out his hands and say, 'General, in such and such a town , my wife and my children were brought to God by the army, and we are going to next." The passage he thought was heaven. Reverting once again to the period 29 years ago when he started the army in the East End of London, he pictured the dark side of great London town. "These people," said he, "shall be may clients, and this shall be my parish, and I shall give my life to thee. Within a mile of where I sat there were a million of people who never crossed the threshold of any church."

WHY THEY BEAT DRUMS. Then he told of the origin of the queer ways of the army. "Whatever seemed likely," said he, "to attract the masses 1 would use it, whether it was in harmony languingly said it was so anyway. The And out of this determination has sprung It was chastisement. those for whom the simple story of religion has no charm, and for whom the orthodox organizations have no attraction." The Salvation Army grew out of long dreary toil. It was not an instant success. Some of our people have laid down their lives and have been slain for the testimony that they have borne their Saviour. Every sort of misrepresentation and slander has been used against us freely, and yet nevertheless we have fought our way through. Today what marvelous work do we see before us-acknowledged so on every hand by legislators, clergymen, politicians and humanitarians. GEN. BOOTH AND THE CHURCHES.

For fourteen long years there was no very remarkable movement in the army. They didn't know what to do, and for that matter the general said that he did not know what he was going to do tomorrow.
"People asked me what I was going to do with my converts," said Gen. Booth, "and I said I would send them to the churches. But I found three difficulties in my way. "First, they would not go when I sent

"Secondly, they were not wanted when they went. "And thirdly, I wanted them myself."

(Laughter.) Then his followers forsook him and left him almost to a man. They proved to be thin-skinned and could not stand ridicule. But by that time he had converted two men, his own sons. One kept the door, another took the collection and the general himself held forth on the platform. Touching on the question of organization the general said that the army would soon go to pieces if run with the organization that some ministers advocated.

"Then," said the general, "people say General Booth is a Pope. 'Well,' I say, 'very well, you know what Pope means. Pope is only an abbreviation of papa. That means father.' General Booth is the father. (Applause.) Then they cry, 'What a tyrant! What a tyranny!' and ask us where we get the model of our government. The father and his children is the form of our government. The children do not rule (except in some parts of the United States and Canada, London of course excepted.) (Laughter.) But the father rules the children. If you want a model go to the patriarchs of old and their "What has been done? Twenty-nine years is not a very long time in the history of religious organizations. Look at the bodies around about us; how far with our people when they make mistakes and go wrong, and don't come out perfect all at once. Have patience with us and we shall, perhaps be as clever as you are when we are as old as you." (Laughter and applause.) TO CONQUER JAPAN.

Our flag today is flying in 42 different countries and colonies. And since that calculation we have entered Java and Spain. Our soldiers and officers have just landed on Gibraltar, and they are on their way to Malta and Iceland. Canada has furnished one of the first officers for the latter place. And we are on our way to Japan, and shall soon, I hope, be there. And when that terrible war with China is finished we shall take up the cudgels there, and though China gives in we shall never give in. (Applause.) Four thousand societies have been formed, led by nearly 11,000 separate officers. We have 27 newspapers in fifteen different languages, and with a circulation of 1,000, 000 copies a week, placing us at the head of the combined circulation of all the religious papers of the world. What does it mean? It means an organization combined together for the purpose of dealing with the poor, and the neglected, and the outcast classes of society. And then we have the recent social outcome which is going to enable us, I have no doubt, to be the protectors of men and women who are in the depths of temporal distress."

"There is the outcome of my life, of my consecration. There it is. That is what I have done with my life. What do you think of it? Has it been thrown away? Look at me. Think of my beginning. want to bring it to bear upon yourself."

Then the general referred in loving terms of his deceased wife. "My beloved, my beautiful, my glorified wife," was the way he spoke of her. He followed the career of each of his eight children, who are was. Coming closer to himself he spoke directing the movements of the army, scattered all o'er the world. That was his life's work, commenced when a boy of 15. He asked them to place their life on the altar of consecration, to eachew selfishness. died just after accepting salvation, and and they would be a source of gratification

Major Malan, a native of Italy, and the general's private secretary, sang a very pretty solo in French. The chorus was interpreted and the audience joined heart-

"Jesus, I come to thee,
I am seeking salvation;
All else I will forsake, Thou only can save me."

After an earnest prayer by Ballington Booth the great gathering dispersed. The Evening Meeting.

The meeting in the Opera House at night was supposed to start at 7 o'clock. Almost an hour before that the soldiers and citizens were making their way to the building, and when the doors were thrown open there was a big rush for seats. It lasted until the seating capacity was ex-haused and long after. People sat in the aisles, on the arm-rests of seats, while hundreds were compelled to stand. The band and the soldiers were seated on the stage, and the arrival of Gen. Booth and his staff was patiently awaited. When they did appear a volley was fired, and the characteristic shots made the walls ring. Then Commandant Herbert Booth called upon the army and audience to sing hymn No. 33, which runs thus:

Oh, turn ye! Oh turn ye! for why will ye When God, in his mercy, is drawing so nigh Capt. Malan, in sweet voice, followed with a verse of "Life's morn will soon be waning," and Brigadier Holland and Col. Lawlie offered fervent prayers. The singing was accompanied by Commandant Booth on his concertina. THE GENERAL'S ADDRESS.

The general, before announcing his subject, stated that he was going to forget he was a Salvationist while speaking. want you for Christ and for God and for truth and righteousness," he said, "and I want your souls for this world and the peculiarly appropriate was, "How long halt ye between two opinions?" found in I. Kings, xviii., 21. The general first told of how the people of Israel had abandoned God. They were a backslidden nation and had given God up to revert to the practices of the basest kind of idolatry. Elijah appeared to Israel's king and made so startling revelations. Israel suffered

A TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE as a result of the actions of its people. They were visited with famine, fever, disease, and the men, women and cattle died away. "Some people would call that punishment," said the general, "but it isn't. Punishment is saved for the world to come.

Army—our drums, our banners and our peculiar uniforms, and other paraphernalia of the Salvation Army—simply to attract opinion, was going to be damned. They are want to be troubled. "But, young men and young oman! You may see no signs of this woman! struggle that is coming. It may be going gaily with you now and perhaps many others. You see no signs. Things continue well. The sea of life may be clear and glassy, but far away yonder, if you only listen, you will hear the distant rumblings of thunder, and if you do not fly away to Jesus' side, that storm will burst upon your poor unprotected brow and sweep you away to hopeless despair. How long will you TRIFLE WITH MERCY ?

How long will you play with omnipotence? If Christ came down and asked how many souls you had led to Christ you would not be able to make out a catalogue. If the Lord be God, that settles it! If this Christ be Christ and he died for us, and heaven is heaven, and hell is hell, then follow him.

If money is God, if fashion is God, if amusement is God, then throw him overboard." General Booth then likened the little oird hopping in a tree to some men. "You don't know where they are," he said. One day they are warm in religion, another day they are very cold. They keep hopping and hopping until they finally never to hop out again. Everybody get saved tonight. If you do not settle the controversy now do so before the clock strikes 12. Do not sleep in uncertainty. Oh, the indefiniteness of religion of the present day. How few there are who when asked if they are saved can say, 'Thank God, I am. I am no indefinite person; I am no milk and water person; I want to be all for God.' "

The general remembered how when s boy with others he used to go to the River Thames in London, Eng. Some of them would walk down and put their toes in, then withdraw and complain about the water being cold. Others would go and plunge right in, and, on rising above the surface, remark how delicious it was. With religion and some people it was just the same,

THE DIVIDING LINE. "There is a line," continued Gen. Booth. "On one side is heaven, happiness, honor; on the other hell, misery and shame. Have you crossed it? Now for three closing thoughte:

"1. You may be so near that you can almost hear the music. You can come very near and never get across it. "2. The nearer you come to that line the deeper will be your despair in the world to

of the Imperial Parliament, which begins on Tuesday, Feb. 5, and naturally the cable correspondents have a good deal to say regarding the event. Sir William Harcourt's speech at Derby this week has settled the question of Cabinet dissensions for the time being. He expressed himself as highly diverted by recent rumors, and said the anxiety of the Tory press to get rid of him was a decided compliment. Indeed the efforts to misrepresent both his action and his inaction, his words and his silence, were all part of a natural but not altogether dignified and most transparent attempt to create trouble and suspicion among the Ministers. The Chancellor of the Exchequer left no doubt in the minds of his hearers that the coming session is to be a working one. He also expressed pleas-ure over the fine results of his now historic budget. Hints of relief for certain classes of taxpayers were thrown out, but, in his usual wily manner, Sir William left a great deal to the imagination of his auditors in dealing with this delicate subject. MISSIONS GIVEN A SETBACK.

Much interest is taken in the United Kingdom in a recent report of the general council of missions in Japan, which is the administrative body of seven co-operating Presbyterian missions, created to facilitate unity of action and to counsel the self-governing native churches. The tone of the re-port is hopeful, but it points out certain difficulties in the present situation. First of all, the spirit of the Japanese army, especially of its military leaders, is anti-Christian. In many cases the intellectual leaders have adopted one of the skeptical systems of the west. The outcome of this has been the Imperial rescript on morals, which is taken to mean a restoration of the old national Shintoism. Confucianists, however, appeal to the same document. The delay of Great Britain and other Christian powers in conceding treaty revision is used as an argument that Christianity is hostile to the national aspirations of Japan. The moral rethe brink, unable to decide what course to forms which it promotes are caricatured or dreaded as equivalent to a social revolution, while the mild and pleasure-promoting toleration practiced by the native faiths is lauded in contrast. Such words as treason and sedition are freely used against the converts to Christianity. Japanese Christians are said to feel keenly the attacks on their patriotism, and fight in their country's army with a zeal like that of the Christian Legion of Constantine to disprove the charges. The pastors and teachers show a robust and vigorous faith in repelling the assaults of the priests and in carrying the spiritual war into their territory. Still, a decided setback to the cause of the missions. Pride of conquest has awakened dormant instincts. The revolting scenes at Port Arthur show the Jap to be a thinly-veneered savage, notwithstanding his ostentatious claim of civilization on Christian methods.

AGAINST HIGH TARIFFS. A Melbourne, Victoria, dispatch says: lian federation was held here on Friday A crowded meeting in favor of Austraday. The chief justice of Victoria, Mr. Madden, presided, and among those present were the Premiers of New South Wales, South Australia and Vic-R. H. Reed, Premier of New Wales, made a speech, during which he advocated the abolition of nostile tariffs and urged the Australian colonies to federate now before they are compelled to do so in a hurry. enthusiasm was displayed throughout the meeting." Victoria was until recently apparently hopelessly given over to the idea that high tariffs wrought prosperity. Now the eyes of the people are open.

GAINS OF THE LIBERALS. It is a singular fact, says the London Daily News, that while Conservatives are predicting the speedy break-up of the Liberal party, the most recent "secessions" have all been in favor of that party. The decision of the Earl of Buckhamshire, for instance, means the transference of a vote in the Lords from the Conservative to the Liberal side, for the earl has always been classed as a Conservative, and is a member of the Carlton Club. Again, only last month Sir Thomas Bazley wrote that he would not be "dragged by Mr. Chamberlain into the Conservative party," and that he should withdraw his support from the Dissentient Liberals. In the same month, too, it was announced from Cambridge that two well-known gentlemen there—Mr. A. W. W. Dale and Mr. Charles Adeane—withdrew from the Liberal "Unionist" Association, the latter saying that he was not prepared permanently to dissociate himself from the Liberal party. WHY? There is a world of significance which is fully appreciated in this country in the fact that the Queen sent a warm message of condolence to the Dowager Duchess of Marlborough on the death of her son, but no word to the bereaved widow, Lady Randolph Churchill. The omission carries with it peculiar bitterness, because Lady Randolph has been most faithfully devoted during her husband's long illness, and whatever gossip may have been said in the past there has been no question in recent years of her rank and prominence in the best social circles.

NO OATH REQUIRED. The Duke of Cobourg's name no longers appears on the list of members of the Queen's Privy Council. The German papers raised a clamor because Duke Alfred, one of their sovereign princes, had taken the oath, which is administered to the Privy Councilors of Queen Victoria. As a matter of fact, the duke never took the oath. The sons of the sovereign of this country hold a curious position in respect of the Privy Council. They are born Privy Councilors, and are merely introduced when they reach the suitable age, no oath being required. DIPHTHERIA BEING MASTERED. Returns have been made in Paris as to the application of the anti-toxine treatment. In 2,700 cases of diphtheria previous to Jan. 1 there were 433 deaths, or 16 per cent. This reduction in the mortality is about one-half.

MAD FREAK OF A SOCIETY WOMAN.

The London police recently received conclusive information that the perpetrator of a sensational series of outrages on women in Kensington last month is a woman of title and the daughter of a peer of historical family. duties upon them. With Great daughter of a peer of historical family. world-read it is goods for goods every time.

Everybody is interested in the session | cases has enabled malefactors of rank to escape justice prevailed with the authorities in this case also, and she has been permitted to go to the centinent under promise of the careful surveillance of the family. It will be remembered that a small, slightly-built woman of ladylike appearance, dressed in black and thickly veiled, stabbed several women in the face, having first accosted them under pretext of requiring a direction, The outrages extended over a fortnight, until local vigilance committees were formed and several arrests were made, but no one was brought to trial, The police have since, however, secured evidence from the servants of the titled woman referred to, who resides in Kensington, as well as from others to prove her the guilty person. She is young, good-looking and has been married only few years, but she has lately become a prey to frantic jealousy concerning her husband, which impelled her to make these savage attacks on members of her own sex. There is said to be hereditary insanity in her family.

TROUBLE IN EGYPT. In English diplomatic circles there is still some uneasiness in regard to the state of affairs in Egypt. Rumor has it that the Khedive is moving again, and that he has recently summoned to him from France a friend who has previously acted as confidential adviser to his Highness. So long as he is Khedive, he is reported to have said, he will rule Egypt. If he is not allowed to do this he will put upon Great Britain the odium of deposing him, for he will emancipate himself from the tutelage of Lord Cromer. The Khedive had talked in this fashion before, and the moment he got restive, notwithstanding "moral" support from France, he was glad of an opportunity to bow to the wishes of the British Government. This is not a very good time for him to kick the traces again, since England is more determined than ever to maintain her hold upon Egypt.

TELLS OF NEEDLES AND PINS. The sad troubles of a married man were laid bare before an unsympathizing audience at Bow street. He was young, but lantern-jawed and heavy eyed, and he spoke in a hoarse whisper. He entered the court early on Wednesday morning and gazed wistfully at the magistrate.

What's the trouble, my man?" asked Mr. Vaughan. The young man sighed, looked timerously around and then whispered: "Ay, that's the rub, your honor. I'm in a peck of trouble. I look in vain for happiness in this world. I want peace and quietness-in short, I want a separation from my wife." "Indeed!" said the magistrate; "what has she done?"

"Your honor," replied the sad-eyed man with a spurt of energy, "it would be much easier to tell you what she has not done. But here is one of her doings." He whipped off his coat and revealed two bare, shirtless arms. "That is what she ha shirt whole, and how can a man happy without sleeves She's dreadful creature, sir. When I speak she throws cups and saucers at me, and (in a pitiful tone) she sometimes hits me. And (still more tearfully) her mother-oh, your honor, lives with her!" The roar of laughter that followed this rueful revelation caused the man to look around and shudder. He evidently was afraid of his mother-in-law's presence in the court room. All the magistrate did was to ejaculate, "Ah!" and to regard him with wondering eyes. "It's true, your honor," continued the poor fellow, "absolutely true, I do assure you. And what is more, your honor, she shut me out on Christmas night. She did, your honor, and her mother put her up to it. Now, it's hard, it is, to be shut out of one's own house on Christmas night."

"It is, indeed," remarked the magis-

"Yes, indeed, your worship. And, what is more, a man goes to the house, and he stays there. When I asks what he is adoing, and me shut out on Christmas night. I am told that he comes to lend my mother-in-law two shillings. What I want is my own fireside and peace and quietness, and I will allow no man in my house, not even my own brother, even if he does want to lend my motherin-law two shillings."

"Have you done nothing for her?" asks Mr. Vaughan. "No, your honor, nothing in the world. And to be locked out on Christmas night, too! It aggravates me, it does: it most sets me wild. Besides, I forgot to tell your worship, she scratches my face. See here!" And the grief-stricken man pointed to his nose, which had red, sore-looking furrows on either side. But the magistrate could not aid the sufferer, not-withstanding the further complaint that the cruel wife called him out of his name. All Mr. Vaughan could promise was to send an officer to caution the woman that her behavior was unwifely, if not unseemly, and the man left the box in a miserable frame of mind, muttering that he might be driven to take the law into his own hands.

A COUNTESS IN COMEDY. The Countess of Clancarty-better known as Belle Bilton-has determined to return to the stage, but not, it appears, to the stage of the music halls, where she made her reputation and the acquaintance of the Earl of Clancarty. She will appear in comedy, and her variegated experiences of life should stand her in good stead in her new field

THE ARMENIAN ATROCITIES. It is said that Mr. Gladstone, whose birthday speech caused such a sensation throughout Europe, deprecates the interpretation put upon it by prominent members of the Armenian community in London. Friends of the Grand Old Man are explaining that he qualified his remarks with an "if." and that he is now dipping deeper into the reports with a view to determining whether the conduct and attitude of the Armenians toward the Turks were of a nature to invite reprisals. The prospects of an impartial inquiry into the alleged atrocities have, at any rate, allayed popular feeling, and there is a disposition evident this week to afford the Sultan fair play and to put more faith in his statement that he is as much concerned in the good govern-ment of all divisions of his subjects as any of the European powers who are showing a desire to interfere with his

Mr. Harvey Morris, the Well-Known

(Chatham Banner.) The community will be surprised to hear that Mr. Harvey Morris, manufacturer of cooperage stock, of Wallace-burg, this morning made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors. This failure will also necessitate the closing up of the business of Grosbeck & Son, Wanstead, Lambton county, which Mr. Morris was carrying.

It is understood that the liabilities of Mr. Morris are about $40,000, the principal civeditor being the Bank of Montreal, to whom he owes $30,000, fully secured. The assets are considerably over the liabilities, and it is believed that the creditors will not lose a dollar. A meet-ing of creditors will be held next week. For son le years past Mr. Morris had given em ployment to about 40 or 50 men the year round, and the failure has been broug ht about entirely through the existing de pression. A representative of the Banner called upon Mr. S. J. Sutherland, president of the Sutherland-Innes Company, in reference to the same. That gentleman spoke highly of Mr. Morris, stating that although he has been in business since 1876 this was the first misfortune he had met with: that he had always been prompt in payments and honorable in his business dealings. If in the future they were able to do anything to assist Mr. Morris they would feel disposed to Fully 7,000 people were present. The citizens organized against the mayor's wishes. Mr. Pingree, for an hour and a half, begged and pleaded to be heard, but to no effect. STRATFORD DOWNS LONDON.

(By the ADVERTISER'S Own Reporter.) The Stratford Hockey Club, backed by a hundred ardent and noisy admirers, Saturday and literally mopped the ice with the London team. It was a fight for the championship of Western Ontario, and the result was highly satisfactory-to Stratford. Each team had won a game from the other-London by 7 goals to 4, and Strat-ford by 2 to 1. The winner of the third would secure the western pennant and a place in the final competition for the senior championship of Ontario, and therefore Saturday's match was an event of great interest to the sporting circles of both cities.

Sarnia was chosen as a neutral battle ground. Its rink (St. Andrew's) was said to be the only proper one in the west outside of London and Stratford. The players found a magnificent sheet of ice, but a place more adapted to skating than hockey. The promenade platform is almost on a level with the field and the puck was continually flying among the spectators, causing fouls and delays incumerable. The attendance was splendid. Sarnia people turned out in large numbers, and on Saturday in the Westminster Rink bethe Petrolea hockey boy body, and made everybody aware of it by shouting P-e-t-r-o-l-e-a whenever the Stratford delegation gave anybody a chance. The presence of so many Stratforditesno doubt due to a combination of local patriotism and cheap fares-must have been very encouraging to their team. They came with their white ribbons and their tin horns, and lining up on one side of the rink rooted and tooted at a terrific rate, swarming over the ice whenever a oal was scored, with shouts of cordant joy. Such enthusiasm was amendable, however, and it is too London hadn't the same stimulus. The nce was too great and the expense too y to permit of a crowd from home, but the cheers, when they scored the first goal, showed they were not without

Half time was called and play resumed at 9:35, with the score 3 to 1 against London. The latter failed to reap advantage from a foul in front of the Stratford posts, and the active forwards of their oppon forced the puck through again in about six minutes. Things looked hopeless for London, and the Stratford rooters were in one long and loud delirium of happiness. Success was a spur to the leaders, and the puck now seldom approached the Stratford goal. The Classics continued to score with monotonous regularity. In less than eight minutes they had added three more by a series of heavy and well combined rushes, which kept London on the defensive ex-clusively. The Forest City boys determined to die hard, and by stubborn resistance prevented their opponents from scoring for the last sixteen minutes of the game. They took their whipping good-naturedly and congratulated the victors. Both teams cheered each other in conclusion. The Stratford spectators tried to cheer, but they had lost their voices long before. The scorer and time of each

AN ATTRACTIVE TYPE.

WOMEN OF ITALY WHO BEAR HEAVY BURDENS ON THEIR HEADS.

Some Statistics of the Weights Borne by Them in This Manner—The Effect It Has Upon Them Physically-A Type Rarely

The only women who have a truly regal pose are the Italian women whom financial stringency forces to carry great loads of wood from buildings in the process of erection or enormous heaps of clothing from the sweaters. As the human arm is not long enough to clasp the bundles they have to carry they have learned to utilize their heads for the work, and have thus acquired a carriage which no other class of women possesses. For one cannot balance twelve pounds of unsewed waistcoats upon the apex of the body unless the body is in absolute equilibrium, the neck and shoulders, the waist, hips and legs all in their correct positions.

It is an art not to be acquired in a day, this of balancing weights upon the

THE ATTRACTIVE TYPE -RARELY SEEN. head. Consequently the tenement-house mothers begin early to train their children in the way they will have to go. The six-year-old child is sent to the building for such sticks as she can collect. She does not carry them back in her arms, but piled upon her head. It may be a very light load-so light, in fact, that one wonders why it is not blown off-but the little maid scorns to bear it other than as her mother would do. The sticks are laid upon her head, her arms held akimbo and her hands are placed jauntily on her hips. She feels like a blot on the family 'scutcheon if an unsteady walk causes one of the lightly poised sticks to fall. That is her first lesson. After she has once acquired the principle her only advance consists in the increased weight of the load she carries, until finally she graduates with ail the honors and at sixteen or so is able to lift as heavy a load as her mother.

According to a doctor the weight of the load increases from three or four pounds in early childhood to about sixty in vigorous youth and middle age. On gala occasions, when kind hearted builders allow the carrying away of old lumber in large quantities, the women frequently stagger along under eighty or ninety pounds of firewood. Of course the heavy weights are not health-giving. The top of the head, though it may be hard and tough, is not adapted to bearing the burdens of a camel. The intense heat generated by heavy loads of woolen goods to be made up for the tailors is extremely unhealthy. The shape of the head is noticeably altered if the load-bearing begins early enough in life. The top of the head is distinctly flatter than the normal type. For the benefit of those young women who would like to obtain the good results of such exercise, without its evil year. ones, the doctor recommends wang with about two pounds resting upon the head. The weight should be in such a shape that it will fall off unless the head is held correctly.

How Portugal Will Get a Navy.

Portugal proposes to obtain a modern navy in a novel manner. First class shipbuilders are to be asked how many vessels of specified types they will supply a year, for twenty years or less, in consideration of $550,000 a year and certain monopolies. The award will go to the firm that will offer the most in the least time and for the shortest period of monoply. The government shipyards will be closed and one yard established at Lisbon, to which all the existing machinery and operatives will be sent. The plant, material, and fuel will be free from duty; all repairing work for the government, both in Europe and the colonies, will go to the new establishment. The cruisers are to be of wood, copper sheathed, and of the pattern of the Japanese Yoshino, of 4,200 tons and twenty-three knots. There are to be. ten destroyers of the Havoc type, but with twenty-eight knots and a radius of 4,000 miles at ten knots, and a large number of torpedo boats and gunboats.

The Stratford Beacon says that the arrest and commitment of George Calvert, of Thedford, on a charge of seduction is the second part of a love story, the first part of which was told last fall. The young woman in question went to Tavistock to meet her lover and e married to him. The lover came not, and while the unfortunate girl was enduring the agony of suspense she be-came a mother. Her brothers found her and took her home, and Calvert, whom she accuses of being a faithless lover, was subsequently arrested. John Heppler, of Listowel, who drives the stage between Mitchell and Atwood, appeared before Judge Woods at Stratford on Friday to answer to the charge of assaulting a little girl named Maud Merryfield, of Palmerston. Young Heppler is married and has one child. He is a son of one of the most respectable citizens of Listowel. The prisoner was found guilty of common assault, but as no violence had been used, and as the prisoner has a family to support the sentence was not heavy. He will be confined in the county jail for three days, and a fine of $50 was imposed to cover the costs.

HE DISTURBED THE MEETING.

A Young Blacksmith Overpowered by Salvation Army Woman.

LOCKPORT, Jan. 27 .- A party of boys and young men have been attending the army's meeting at its hall on Main street for the purpose, it is said, partly of attempting a flirtation with a pretty Salvationist and partly to create a disturbance "for fun." Last evening Lieut. Puby Butts took the law in her own hands. She saw that Chas. White, of Minard street, about 20 years of age, over to him said:

'You will have to keep quiet." "I guess not," he is said to have re-"Very well, then, you will have to get

THE FRESH YOUNG EMPEROR.

It is not easy to get at the facts, but there is growing evidence of greater difficulties between Prussia and the other Federal States which compose the German Empire. The Prussian has never been popular in South Germany. He is arrogant, dictatorial and military to the last degree. The South Germans, like the Saxons, are more genial, exwas one of the disturbers, and walking pansive and devoted to artistic and scholarly pursuits. They have always been sensitive towards Prussian predominance in the councils of Germany; but, during the reign of the Emperor William, their regard for his age, his geniality and the immense prestige of his later years, bound them fast to the ick had made him a favorite outside of ago, according to the London Timber Prussia long before the King of Prussia Trades Journal, this moor was a bleak, ed to strike her, but she pinned him to a became the Emperor of Germany; and wind-swept track Bismarck. notwithstanding his arbi- and useless as could well be conceived. trary ways, was so great a figure in German history that it was possible for him to do many things which a younger man, like the present Emperor, cannot do with safety. The South German press has been very free in its comment of late, and has brought forward many grievances against Prussia, but it ap-pears to be the general belief that the growing feeling of antagonism is due mainly to the unguarded and irritating speeches and actions of the Emperor William. Readers have not forgotten that it was in the visitors' book in the Munich town hall that he wrote the words, "The royal will is the supreme -words which, to the sensitive Southern Germans, seemed to intimate a disposition to disregard the integrity of the Federal States, and to treat all Germany as a part of Prussia. On New Year's Day some of the manifestations of this feeling which had been anticipated were not made, although the abrupt departure of one of the South German princes was noted as signifi-cant. The military ideals of Prussia, which naturally carry with them pressive and reactionary legislation, are not likely to be accepted by Germany without a struggle, notwithstanding the immense influence which Prussia naturally has in the affairs of the Empire. The ruler of that great nation will do well to remember that he is first and foremost the Emperor of Germany, and only secondarily the King of Prussia. AT DEATH'S DOOR .- DYSPEPSIA

CONQUERED.—A GREAT MEDICAL TRIUMPH.—Gentlemen,—My medical adviser and others told me that I could not possibly live when I commenced the use of Northrup & Lyman's VEGE-TABLE DISCOVERY for Dyspepsia. My case was one of the worst of its kind. For three years I could not eat meat, and my weight decreased from 219 to 119 pounds. All the food I took for three months previous to taking the VEGETABLE DISCOVERY consisted of milk. I am now entirely cured and have regained my usual weight, can eat anything with a keen relish and feel like a new man. I have sold over 30 dozen VEGETABLE DISCOVERY since it cured me, as I am well-known, and people in this section know how low was, and thought I could not possibly be cured. They are eager to try this grand medicine. It certainly saved my life, as I never expected to recover when I first commenced using it. I am not exaggerating anything, but feel glad to contribute this testimony, and trust it may be the means of convincing others of its merit as a certain cure for Dyspepsia. IN PRAISE OF APPLES.

Dr. Stotzer Buetzer, in a medical review, has these words to say as to the medical and hygienic properties of ap-"Apples eaten immediately before bedtime promote the health generally. It (sic) is (1) good brain food; (2) excites the functions of the liver; promotes a sound and quiet sleep; disinfects the mouth; (5) agglutinates the sulphus acids of the stomach;
(6) paralyzes hemorrhoidal disturbances; (7) helps the secretions of the kidneys and prevents calculus concre-tion; (8) obviates indigestion, and (9) as a good preventive against the diseases of the throat." The doctor might as well have gone on, as he easily could, and have given us round dozen reasons why we should all eat apples, but when he reached tenthly he doubtless reflected on his own experience as a boy and felt the utter futility of adding further to reasons why we should do what he knew we all would do, with or without medical reasons. Betty, bring in the apples!

HOW CAN THEY FARM?

The Grand Jury's proposal that farm colonies be provided for the "poor and helpless," "old and worn-out" prisoners, who are guiltless of no offence save that of poverty, sounds alluring and may be possible of realization, but the prospects of practicability are somewhat marred by the statement that the prisoners are helples and worn-out. The Moon a Piece of the Earth.

When the earth was young, according to the testimony of our most noted astronomers, it turned with such amazing rapidity that the day was only about three hours long. The entire globe was a liquid then, and as it spun around at that fearful rate of speed the sun, cansing ever-increasing tides upon its surface, at last pulled it asunder! The smaller portion became the planet which we now call the moon. The distance of this moon from the earth has been gradually increasing ever since and the time will surely come when it will not look larger than a tenth-magnitude star to the people of the earth. -St. Louis Republic.

American Markets. UHICAGO, Jan. 26. Wheat was weak today. There is no new ground for the belief that a change for the better is probable. Corn was dull and weak in sympathy with wheat. A fair buying of oats near steadied that grain about the time it was feeling the effects of weaker wheat and corn prices.

Estimated receipts for Monday: Wheat 27 cars, corn 135 cars, oats 60 cars, hogs 29,000 Freights were unchanged. Very little grain is being taken for New York by east bound roads at less than 15c per cwt, although 12 1-2c is sometimes heard.

In the evening he went to the residence of his brother-inlaw, Mr. Joseph Garner, 600 Colborne street, where he was being cared for. Hood is alleged to have lost his reason through the death of his first wife in Detroit about two years ago. He appeared very rational when arrested. Hood was at one time in the picture-framing business on Dundas street, and is a son of ex-Tyler Hood of the Masonic Temple. He was remanded for a week.

General Booth's Movements.

General Booth spent this morning in visiting and inspecting the Rescue Home, Workingmen's Hotel, wood yard and other branches of the Army in this city. He held a private meeting for the soldiers and efficers only at the citadel at 3 o'clock this afternoon. There will probably be a big rush at the Queen's Avenue Church tonight by the way the tickets are being bought up. The general is said to be a tireless worker and one whose nervous force seeks to expend itself in more ways than one at a time. For instance, a visitor to the international headquarters in London, recently, found him dictating to two stenographers, eating his lunch and sitting for a picture all at the same time. The general is a vegetarian, but finding that he was to be the guest of so many private families during his trip he gave his con-

A CRITICAL SITUATION.

Uncle Sam's Gold Box Being Drained-A Remedy Proposed.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 28 .- The President sent to both Houses of Conexpect to be of still greater service to the advertising and business public during the year 1895.

President sent to both Houses of Collagress today a message on the financial situation, substantially withdrawing his support from the plan outlined in the Carlisle Bill, and outlining the only policy which seems to be now possible to maintain the gold reserve. The president sent to both Houses of Collagrams to a president sent to both Houses of Collagrams. to maintain the gold reserve. The present situation, he said, was critical.

Mr. Springer (Dem., Illinois), introduced the bill designed to carry out the recommendations of the President. The bill provides for the issue of 5 per cent bonds, payable in gold 50 years after date, for the redemption and cancella-tion of legal tender and treasury notes, allowing national banks to issue circulation to the amount equal to the par value of bonds deposited, for the retirement of silver certificates of less lenomination than $10, and for the issue of small notes in their place, and for requiring payment of all import duties in gold.

AURORA, Ont., Jan. 28.—Fire broke out in the English Church yesterday. The fire brigade succeeded in puting out the fire before much damage was done.

Heavy Toronto Failure. TORONTO, Jan. 28 .- One of the heaviest failures reported in Toronto for some time was announced Saturday, when Messrs. T. G. Foster and David A. Pender, trading under the name of T. G. Foster & Co., wholesale upholsterers' supplies and carpets, and Foster & Pender, retail upholsterers, made an assignment to E. R. C. Clarkson, for the benefit of their creditors. The liabilities will exceed $100,000, the principal creditors other than the Dominion Bank being English houses. The assets are understood to almost equal the liabilities.

THE WHEEL.

LONDON IN LINE. "One in the Swim," writing to the Do-minion Wheelman on the next C. W. A. meet, for which London is an aspirant, says: London will also, it is stated, be right in line and ready to repeat their efforts of the association's initial meet in 1883. The boys of the Forest City aver that they will have their new track in readiness for the event, and as their city possesses ample hotel accommodation, has Port Stanley and other pretty nooks for side trips, their candidature at the meeting is not to be despised. However, let the meet go where it will, be it even down to the bottomless pit, the royal fraternity of wheelmen will be found gathered at the spot prepared to embark into the full round of festivities

Dr. Balfour, London, is a candidate for the vice-presidency of the C. W. A. He is also mentioned as a member of the board.

DENTON & DEEKS 384 Richmond Street.

A few minutes after Roderick followed Bilence down the hill, which she descended as she mounted, with a boy on either hand, and all went back to tea—that simple Swiss tea which he had long since began to prefer to the grandest of Richerden dinners.

Dull, to a certain extent, was the journey home, for Silence had neither eyes, ears or thoughts for any creature except her mother: and Roderick, in the reaction after strong suppressed feeling, half fancied himself de trop. Shrinking into a corner, he scarcely spoke to either, but soothed himself by taking the tenderest silent care of both mother and daughter hill he deposited them at their own door. stair-head—the sweet soul who was now beyond the sun. Roderick's heart gave way, with a great sob, like a child's, And then he chocked it down and turned them at their own door.

That kindly "Bon soir!"—"Au revoir!"— iust the ordinary adieu which had taken place at the door so many times; this time it was almost briefer than usual, for he saw Silence was glad to get her mother saw Silence was giad to get her mother home; and he, too, was not sorry to rush away, afraid lest the strong self-repression of the last few hours might give way and betray him by some unguarded look or tone. So he hurried down the stairs, having seen them safe, but scarcely looked at either, scarcely even answered Mme. Jardine's gentle 'Au revoir!"

"Au revoir!" How strange it all felt through the already empty streets of the little town. "Au revoir!" How strange it all felt afterward.

CHAPTER V.

He scarcely slept all night—a new ex-perience to his young, healthy nature; or, sleeping, woke fancying he was fallingdown precipices, or Silence was falling, and he was leaping in after her—all those vague troubles in which dreams carry out the prominent idea of the day. He rose gladly, but only rose to vexation; no letter from his mother, but one from the family lawyer, saying Mrs. Jardine had been conulting with him, and that she altogether objected to her son's denuding himself of his patrimony, the only absolute property he possessed, and giving it to unknown foreign cousins, who might make ducks and drakes of it in no time.

Spite of his annoyance, Roderick could not help laughing. The idea of Silence and her mother as extravagant spendthrifts, bringing to ruin the Jardine inheritance, was too comical. He had not been lucid enough, and must write again and explain—what? If he told his mother the whole truth, that he had deliberately made up his mind, and meant, if by God's blessing he was fortunate in his love, to bring her home as a daughter-in-law this portionless Swiss girl-probably the very last daughter-in-law she would have expected or desiredhow would she take it? What would

In this serious business light he had never before regarded the question; and though it perplexed him, it gave him also a delicious sense of reality. His nebulous passion was resolving itself into the clear, steady glow of a fixed love, a love meant to end in those solemn duties of married life, which all good men are born for, and good woman, too, and which neither sex can women, too; and which neither sex can shirk or set aside, or by any sad fate lose, shirk or set aside, or by any sad fate lose, without involving a certain incompleteness in character and destiny.

"Yes; I must write again to my mother," he said to himself, and even took up pen and paper. But how to write? That tender confidence—from babyhood to manhood—which sometimes exists between mother and son had never existed here. "She mould son, had never existed here. "She would not understand."

Nevertheless, in writing to his mother, as he at last did write, determining to pay her the just filial respect of telling her his intentions before he made the offer of marriage, he explained that he had no idea what Mlie. Jardine's answer would be; and he begged her to keep his secret entirely to herself until he could tell her the result.

"So the deed is done—thus far," said Roderick to himself, as he posted the letter, and then braced his courage for the next step. For he judged rightly—no English wooding trusting to sweet chance and the wooing, trusting to sweet chance and the impulse of the moment, would do here. He must speak to the mother first. Until he won her approval he could never be to Silence more, ostensibly, than a common acquaintance.

Trying, but inevitable. So that very evening—giving the gentle invalid a whole day to recover from her fatigue—he determined to present himself, and ask formally of Mme. Jardine permission to woo her daughter. Perhaps he might then be allowed to tell Silence himself all she was to him. And when she understood it all—the first look, eye to eye; the first kiss, mouth to mouth; the open, mutual recognition of a love that was to last them through life, and go with them, please God through life, and go with them, please God, into the life eternal—at the bare thought of such bliss the young man felt almost

He half staggered as he walked, 'and at last stood quite still at the solitary street corner—the street he knew so well—to command himself before he attempted to mount the stair. Though it was still early all was dark—the quiet darkness of a mild November night, with the stars shining overhead. Roderick looked up at them, trying to gain a little quietness too.

So standing, he scarcely noticed a gentleman, almost as self-absorbed as himself, "Pardon, monsieur, "said the kindly voice of M. le Professeur Reynier, "What, Monsieur Jardine—can it be you? How

> The Middlesex County Council concluded the business of its January session at 12 o'clock on Saturday morning. At Friday morning's session the educational committee presented a report in which it was recommended that Dr. Mc-Cabe be reappointed trustee on the Strathroy collegiate institute board. In amendment Reeve Owens (Strathroy) moved that Mr. James Bowley be appointed. The discussion following the amendment was very warm, and Dr. McCabe was eulogized as a trustworthy and good representative, and his two years' record was referred to with pride by his friends on the council, Dr. Mc-Cabe is a graduate of the Strathroy in-stitute, and succeeded Sheriff Cameron on the board. The effort to oust him from the position was unsuccessful.

The special committee appointed to confer with a committee from the City Council re changing the hay market from the market square to the court house square, reported that a confer-ence was held in December. No satisfactory conclusion had been arrived at, however. The committee suggested as a basis of agreement that the city should pave or gravel the proposed site; that all produce brought to the market should be weighed on the square, and that the city should furnish all the means for the improvements, the lease to continue for ten years. The committee also recommended that if the proposition is not accepted by the city before April 1, that the ground be fitted for gardening pur-

They recommended that the floor of the interim sessions room in the court house be covered with lino-leum, and also that the engineer devise some means for the better ventilation of the room. The only protection the floor has had for years was an inch coat of sawdust, which, with very poor ventilating arrangements, created a very disagreeable odor. The removal of the law library to more convenient quarters was left to a committee of Messrs. J. P. Grigg, S. McLeod, J. H. Hodgins, D. C. Macdonald, John Morgan and the county engineer. A WILD ONE!

Fierce Character of the Recent Storm-Worst Seen in Ten Years.

GEORGETOWN, Jan. 27 .- One of the wildest snow storms experienced for years has been raging here for the past 48 hours. Snow is piled up to a great height, completely blocking the roads running north and south. The main line of the Grand Trunk Railway was blocked for eight hours last night.

AT TORONTO. TORONTO, Jan. 26. - The snow storm which set in at 10 o'clock on Friday evening, and raged all night, was the most severe experienced in Toronto in almost a decade. Even the snow plows were unable to move on the street railways, and the drifts in places were six feet high.

FAR-REACHING. CHICAGO, Jan. 27 .- Reports from all over the west and northwest indicate that last night's snowstorm was the severest of snow fell and business and traffic were everywhere impeded. Most INDEPENDENT VIEW OF MR. LAURIER'S SPEECH.

Never was a hall so densely filled as was the Windsor Hall last evening, and the crowd did not lose the opportunity of showing that it is anxious for a change in the administration of public change in the administration of public affairs. Le Monde is independent of political parties. It can afford to grant justice to whom it is due. There is a change in public opinion. No platform orator received a greater ovation than Mr. Laurier did. With his silver-tongued oratory he was able to charm and carry his hearers with him. What a great opportunity is now afforded him!
—the deficit of the past year, the greater deficit of the present year, and more-over, the great suffering now existing in the large cities. The programme is a varied one, and with his great eloquence Mr. Laurier was enabled last evening to show that he could repair the harm that the Federal Administration have done and that he would be a saviour. He may become one.-Le Monde,

The scenery is very fine, but this is merely the setting or frame in which is displayed a full three-score of talented ladies and gentlemen-all artists in their respective lines-and comprising the best known collection of vocalists, dancers, comedians, etc., ever brought together in one organization. Of the merits of "The Gaiety Girl" as a laugh-producer and blues-disperser, there is no doubt, and all who attend will be highly rewarded.

Very Sudden Death. Mrs. Fanny Scott, wife of Mr. H. H. Scott, blacksmith, died very unexpectedly on Saturday evening at the family residence, Oxford street, opposite Wolseley Barracks. Mrs. Scott was about the house in apparently good health on Friday, but on Saturday she was suddenly stricken with heart disease, and expired almost instantly. The deceased was an estimable woman of 45 years, and was very highly respected by the entire community in which she lived. Born in Scotland, she came to London when 5 years of age, and has been a continuous resident ever since. Besides her husband, Mrs. Scott leaves a son, Ernieand five daughters, who will receive sympathy in their terrible affliction. Deceased was a member of the Colborne Street Methodist Church. The Dairymen-Important Notice.

The new board of directors of the Dairymen's Association of Western Ontario met on Saturday in the secretary's office, Richmond street, London. There were present:
President Pattullo, Woodstock; J. S.
Pearce, London; Harold Eagle, Atterelifie;
J. V. Paget, Cobourg; J. F. Williams,
Ingersoll; H. White, Hawksville. Andrew Pattullo (president), Hon. T. Ballantyne, A. F. McLaren and J. S. Pearce were appointed as the executive committee for 1895. Communications were received from number of places in Western Ontario asking the association to hold local conventions in their respective localities. These requests indicate a strong desire on the part of townspeople as well as farmers to stimulate and develop more fully the dairy industry of this part of the Province. To meet the needs of the trade in this regard, and to give practical information on the best dairy practices, the association will hold a series of local conventions during the month of February as follows: Strathroy, Feb. 19; St. Thomas, Feb. 20; Simcoe, Feb. 21; Kincardine, Feb. 26; Harriston, Feb. 27; Flesherton, Feb. 28; Newmarket, March l. A number of practical and competent men who are thoroughly conversant with dairy-ing and allied branches of farming will address these gatherings. An afternoon and evening session will be held in each place. It is desired to make these gatherings as beneficial as possible, and the association desires the hearty co-operation of the townspeople and dairymen in the districts named in its efforts to advance the interests of dairying in Western Ontario. At other places where it is not possible to hold local conventions the secretary will arrange for local meetings. The setting of the time for helding the next annual convention was deterred until a subsequent meeting. In the meantime some of the prominent dairymen and agriculturists in the United States will be communicated with with the view of ascertaining what would be the most suitable time for them to come to Canada, The association will forward copies of the resolution passed at Stratford recommend-ing the branding of cheese to the other dairymen's association in Canada, and to the cheese section of the Montreal Board of Trade, with the view of getting the opinion of these organizations on the question. The board confirmed the appointment of T. B. Miliar as instructor and inspector for the coming year made by the retiring directors. His duties will begin on April 1.

THE LION AND THE LAMB

Sit Down Together at the Festive Board -A Unique Newspaper Banquet, Toronto, Jan. 26.—A unique newspaper banquet took place last evening at the Walker House, when the staffs of the Globe and Empire dined together, The Globe has been printed in the Empire office ever since the destruction of its premises by fire on Jan. 6, and this banquet was, in the words of the menu card, intended to mark the hospitality extended by the Empire to the Globe after that disaster.

Mr. Robt. Jaffray presided, and 150 guests were present, including Sir Frank Smith, W. R. Brock, Hon. Geo. W. Ross, Jos. Tait, W. B. McMurrich, Barlow Cumberland, D. Creighton, J. S. Willison and others. A feature of the evening was the presen-

Empire, of a handsome marble clock from ness during their stay in his office. THE Y. M. C. A. CONVENTION.

Closing Up-Series of Highly Interesting BELLEVILLE, Jan. 27. - Despite the snow storm Saturday afternoon five sectional meetings of the Y. M. C. A. Convention were held, at which the exercises were highly interesting. The evening session was devoted to brief address on the "Needs of the hour." Physically, J. E. Badger, physical director, Toronto; educationally, Geo. B. Hodge, of the international committee, New York; spiritually, Fred S. Goodman, of New York.

Today there was a very full programme, which commenced at 9:30 a.m. with a consecration service in the association

At 4 p.m. the following meetings were held: Men's meeting, Belleville Business College; boys' meeting, association rooms; women's meeting, John Street Presbyterian Church, addressed by prominent members of the association. Many of the city pulpits were occupied at both morning and evening services by delegates to the convention, and at 8:30 p.m. a great farewell meeting was held in the Bridge Street Methodist Church which was addressed by M. W. Tees, Montreal, D. Bentley, Montreal, Rev. R. Marshall, Rev. J. L. George, Rev. E. Roberts, Rev. J. Trotter, Rev. M. Doxsee, Mesers. T. S. Cole, T. S. Wilkie, D. Budge, W. W. Chown, F. S. Goodman, W. W. Hodge, and others. The meeting was of an interesting character, and also very impressive.

DEATH OF CHIEF ARDAGH

From Injuries Sustained at the Globe

Fire in Toronto. TORONTO, Jan. 27.—Richard Ardagh, chief of the fire department, died this morning at 10 o'clock from the effects of injuries received at the fire of Jan. 6, when the Globe building and other establishments were destroyed. The chief was actively at work early in the course of the fire, and was on the third flat of a high building immediately south of the Globe, with a view to fighting the fire effectively from that point. He unexpectedly found his means of exit cut off, and to escape with his life had to jump

40 feet to the ground. He was 63 years of age, and weighed 220 pounds. His injuries were very serious, but were not expected to prove fatal. A day or two ago the chief became worse and his condition appeared to be critical. This morning, however, he appeared better, and about 9:30 even undertook to smoke a pipe. Suddenly he called his wife and complained of a feeling of suffocation. The doctor was summoned, but within five or ten minutes the chief had died from heart failure. He had been chief of the fire brigade since 1876, and joined the force originally in 1847.
