

SUBMIT BYLAW TO PEOPLE TO RAISE SUM OF $100,000 TO BRING FACTORIES HERE

City Council in Favor of the Move, and It Is Likely That the Matter Will Be Laid Before the Council at Once.

OTHER CITIES AND TOWNS ARE ALIVE TO SITUATION

Ingersoll, On Friday, Voted to Promote Free Site for an Industry—London Has Stood Idle for Years and Should Make a Move.

There is a possibility that a bylaw will be submitted to the ratepayers in January to set aside the sum of $100,000, to be used for the purchase of land for factory purposes, and in obtaining industries for London.

For years many cities and towns throughout the Province have been engaged in campaigns for industries, and the majority have provided free land for factory sites. In some places the land was given by public subscription. In others, the ratepayers authorized the council to issue debentures for the purchase of such property.

Simcoe offered a London concern $30,000 to locate there. The town of Newmarket offered another local industry the sum of $25,000 as a loan if the promoters would remove there.

Other concerns have been approached and made handsome offers to locate elsewhere.

CITY TO MAKE A MOVE.

In the meantime the city council of London have done nothing to prevent the exodus of industries or secure new ones. They have now determined to do something.

In conversation with practically every member of the council, and many businessmen, the need of immediate action was paramount in their minds, and they heartily supported the suggestion that a bylaw be submitted to the people to provide sites for industries.

It will be remembered that a couple of years ago the council went to the Legislature with a proposition to allow them to issue debentures to the amount of $100,000 for this purpose. It will also be remembered that the members for the very towns and municipalities doing the same thing as London proposed to do, opposed it too hotly and nail.

Notwithstanding the action of the Legislature in respect to this city, Windsor shortly afterwards was given the right to purchase a tract of land for factory purposes, and did purchase it. There was no howl made about it, and factories have since been established on the land purchaser at that time.

NOW IT'S INGERSOLL.

Since then other municipalities have been doing what it was wrong for the city of London to do. Only Friday Ingersoll voted in favor of purchasing a site for a screw company, and it carried. The money was voted with practically no opposition, and under the circumstances Ingersoll is to be commended for its action.

There seems to be no set rule, according to the opinion at the city hall, as to the best way of proceeding here. The bylaws appear legal elsewhere, but not in London.

However, the aldermen are convinced, or the majority of them are, that it would be a good thing to submit a bylaw to the people, and if it carried, as it would undoubtedly, by a large vote, to go to the Legislature, backed by a unanimous public sentiment, and demand justice.

Mayor Heatie thinks the idea a good one, and will support it heartily. He is convinced that something should be done, and that right early.

IN THE LEGISLATURE.

"We went to the Legislature two or three years ago," he stated. "The proposition was that the Government should allow us to issue debentures for $100,000 for factory purposes. The reason for going direct to the Legislature was to save the expense of taking a vote. However, the Government refused to grant our request. It seemed to me very strange that other municipalities did the very same thing, and there was nothing said about it. Just as soon as we made a move, they are coming right to our doors and offering inducements to our own factories, and we are prevented from doing anything to save them. It is not fair to us. Submitting a bylaw would tend to show the Legislature that the people of London wanted a square deal in this matter."

STRONGLY IN FAVOR.

Ald. Eckert came out strongly in favor of the scheme, and declared that it would do the city good.

"Why, Simcoe offered the Southam Company $30,000 with little or no string attached to it," he stated. "That sum of money for a town like Simcoe is much greater in proportion than $100,000 to the city of London. There may be some legality to prevent us from doing this, but our claims are as good as any other municipality. We have a right to do this, and I think the people will favor it."

"Two or three years ago we tried to get the Legislature to grant this money," said Ald. Stevenson. "We did not succeed. We want more industries to build up our city. We could submit a bylaw and the people would carry it. Then we would find out where we stood. It is a good idea."

"I supported the idea three years ago, and I still support it," said Ald. Saunders. "I have been thinking that perhaps we have asked for too much. The other fellows ask for smaller amounts and get them. Perhaps if we spread the amount of $100,000 over two or three years we would do better."

BOOM THE CITY.

"We want more factories, and we should go the right way about getting them," said Ald. Morgan. "Care should be exercised in handing the sites to concerns, but we should have them. Let the people give the sites, and then elect men who will see that the interests of the people are safeguarded."

"Anything that will boom the city will have my support," said Ald. Wilson. "Let us get factory sites and bring the people here. I will do anything to keep the city to the front."

"Bring in industries," said Ald. Donnelly. "Every one we bring means much to the city. I interested myself in bringing the Tuckett Cigar Company to London, and they are employing eighty hands. Get the land and bring the people."

"I am in favor of boosting the city, and this looks to me like a good scheme," said Ald. Cooper. "We will be on the same footing with other cities."

"The progress of London is my ambition," said Ald. Tancock. "Submit the bylaw to the people, and if they support it, as I think they will, then we can go after industries properly. Others do it; why cannot we do the same?"

Ald. Bennett could not be seen, but he is always in favor of bringing industries here. His friends say that he would certainly support the proposition.

GREAT VICTORY FOR GOVT. ARMY

The Chinese Rebels at Hankow Driven From City.

OTHER CITIES IN PERIL

Four Are Believed To Be in Danger of Falling to the Insurgents.

[Canadian Press.]

Shanghai, Oct. 28.—Wireless dispatches from Nankow report a sweeping victory for the imperial troops there yesterday caused a flutter in Shanghai today. The reports were received even in official circles with incredulity. Rebel sympathizers declared that the dispatches were undoubtedly sent from a Government source to bolster up a faltering cause.

They gave no details, but B. B. The wireless dispatches were caught by some of the German naval operators. They gave no details, but said that there was fighting all day yesterday at Hankow, and that the result was a sweeping Government victory, compelling the revolutionists to abandon Hankow and fall back across the Han River into Han Yang.

Whatever the situation around Hankow, matters have grown more desperate for the Government cause in the vicinity of Shanghai and along the lower part of the Yang-Tze River. There were persistent reports today that Ching Kiang, 150 miles above Shanghai, was about to fall into the hands of the rebels.

Ching-Kiang is the first of the series of lower river forts above Shanghai, and is regarded here as the key to the defense of the city. If it falls, it is conceded that all the forts below it as far as Wu Sung will quickly follow. Wu Sung, 10 miles above Shanghai, marks the city's last line of defense.

Two Engagements. Two engagements were fought. The first was begun at 6 o'clock in the morning, south of Shou, at Sao Kao bridge, towards Liuchuan. Supported by the warships the imperial troops forced the rebels from their position at Liuchuan. Temporarily captured at 11 o'clock.

The fighting was recommenced in the direction of the Tachin gate of Hankow. The rebels were strongly entrenched west of the gate. The imperialists forced their way across Saotia bridge, and seized the town of Liuchuan. Driving the enemy hands of the rebellion and York streets victoriously entered the native city of Hankow.

The imperialists lost about 40 killed, including a captain and two lieutenants, while 150 others were wounded. The rebels lost 400 men.

Field medical officers at Liuchuan and Shou are doing excellent work.

Although the Munsey Indian reservation and surrounding district has been thoroughly secured by county constables, Peter Seneca, who is accused by Samuel Deleary of stabbing him about the face and head, is still at large.

The failure of the parties to report the matter to the police until nearly 24 hours had elapsed allowed Seneca a great start, and it is possible that he is now well away from this section.

Seneca has been around quite a little, and is said to have spent quite a time in the Canadian west. The police are inclined to believe that he has again started for that country.

Recovery Expected. Deleary is still under the care of Dr. Dewar at the home of Mrs. Chas. Timotey, at Munsey Reserve, but his recovery is now expected, unless complications develop.

He is very badly slashed, one gash extending from a point under his left ear to his chin, and the other crossing it. Both are deep and would have been sufficient to cause Deleary's death had it not been for the assistance rendered in stopping the flow of blood before the arrival of the physician.

Deleary has given only a short story of the affair, as his head is so completely bandaged that he can scarcely speak, and he has been warned to keep as quiet as possible by Dr. Dewar.

PRISON FOR LIFE FOR SHAW'S SLAYER

Farquhar McRae Given Maximum Sentence For Manslaughter.

Cornwall, Oct. 28.—Farquhar McRae was sentenced to life imprisonment this morning for the shooting of Wm. Shaw. He was found guilty by jury yesterday of manslaughter.

The tragedy occurred some months ago, near Cornwall. McRae's daughter married a Dr. Magee, and following some quarrels due to religious differences she returned to her father's home, taking her child with her. Shaw, who was a friend of Magee's, was shot when Magee and a party of his friends were endeavoring to secure possession of the child.

McRae was one of the best known men around Cornwall, having at one time been a reeve.

THE ASSASSIN'S HAVE DONE GOOD WORK IN THIS CITY

Court of Revision Struck Off Only the Sum of $19,490 From an Assessment of $28,000,000.

The final revision of the assessment rolls is practically completed, and shows that from an assessment of over $28,000,000 only the sum of $19,490 was struck off by the court.

The reductions by the court of revision by wards is as follows:

Ward One—In real estate, $1,450; in business, $2,540; in income, $3,288; a total of $7,278.

Ward Two—In real estate, $850; in business, $2,438; in income, $3,836; a total of $7,124.

Ward Three—In income, $3,189. That was the only item touched.

Ward Four—In real estate, $1,000; in business, $5,589; a total of $6,589.

The grand total of reductions for the four wards was $24,580.

The court made the following additions, however: Ward 3, $2,000 in real estate and $2,540 in business; in ward 4, $550 in business, bringing the total additions for all wards to $5,090.

This amount, subtracted from the total reductions, $24,580, gives the net reduction, $19,490.

The assessment for the whole city is $28,012,169, divided as follows: Real estate $24,769,758; business $2,896,671; income $1,155,740.

"I think the showing excellent," said City Clerk Baker. "The court of revision have gone carefully over the rolls and they have taken off the very small sum mentioned. The published rolls have been read by the citizens. Hundreds of copies have been handed out over the counter here at the office, showing that the ratepayers did take an interest in them, and yet that the department has been doing very good work, as this statement shows."

FORMER LONDON MAN IS SAID TO HAVE SUICIDED IN WEST

Frederick Major, a Carpenter, Was Found Dead in a Winnipeg Hotel With a Bottle of Laudanum on the Floor Beside Him.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Winnipeg, Oct. 28.—The death occurred here presumably from laudanum poisoning, of Frederick Major in the Metropolitan Hotel. The body was found by the chambermaid lying face upward. There was a bottle of laudanum in the room. No marks of violence were visible on the body and the deceased had never complained of being ill.

He had been in the hotel since May 1, and had been drinking heavily. Major was English by birth, but lived in London, Ont., for a long time before coming to Winnipeg.

He was a carpenter by trade, but had not been employed for some time. The remains were taken to Gardner's undertakings, awaiting the coroner's instructions.

OFFICIAL RETURN OF VOTES CAST IN GENERAL ELECTIONS

With a Number of Constituencies to Hear From Popular Majority for Conservatives Is About Forty Thousand.

RETURNS BY PROVINCES.

Provinces—	Government.	Opposition.
Nova Scotia	50,303	52,234
New Brunswick	34,134	35,048
Prince Edward Island	14,528	15,988
Quebec	149,142	100,343
Ontario	245,142	190,288

Alberta	3,575	6,340
British Columbia	23,512	14,728
Totals	569,679	531,896
	Conservative majority, 37,774.

[Canadian Press.]

Ottawa, Oct. 28.—The clerk of the crown in chancery has received official returns of votes cast in the last general elections in 194 of the 221 Canadian constituencies. Four of the constituencies—Welland, Thunder Bay, Two Mountains and Quebec East—turned members by acclamation. From the other returns have not been received. In the 194 constituencies for which there have been returns received 569,679 votes were cast for Conservative candidates, while the aggregate Liberal vote totals 531,896, showing the popular majority for the Conservative Government to have been 37,774 on returns so far received.

Ten of the missing constituencies returned Conservatives and fifteen of them Liberals. So far only one Alberta constituency has sent in its returns in Toronto alone the Conservative majority amounted to over 25,000.

Toronto easily carries off the palm as the main contributory factor in the Conservative majority. The Conservative vote there is 55,000, and this will grow when the figures are received from strongholds like South York, where the majority was 5,000, Dufferin and Simcoe. The Liberals led in Quebec by about 11,000, but this will be reduced when the figures are complete. In Nova Scotia there is a Liberal plurality of 1,931, to be slightly increased by the vote in South Cape Breton, which returned a Liberal. In New Brunswick the Liberals led by 912, and this will be increased by about 600. On Prince Edward Island the Borden ministry had 500 majority. In the west the figures from Manitoba indicate a lead of 2,000 so far for the Government, and this will be swelled. The incomplete returns from Saskatchewan and Alberta will be largely Liberal.

The Largest Majority. As the Liberals had a popular majority last time of 24,000 the turnover will aggregate upwards of 60,000. The largest majority was that recorded for B. B. Oiler in West Toronto. It was slightly over 5,000. The biggest Liberal majority was Dr. Neely's in Humboldt. It exceeded 4,000.

The missing constituencies are: Cape Breton South, Northumberland, N. B., Queens, Sudbury, Nicolet, Joliette, Yamaska, Dufferin, Glengarry, West Middlesex, South York, East York, Simcoe, Macdonald, Provincetown, Winnipeg, Battleford, MacKenzie, Saskatoon, Comas-Alin, and Alberta, ex-cept Medicine Hat.

INTEREST IS BECOMING KEEN IN RURAL MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

Practically All the Members of the Present County Council Will Seek Re-Election—The Situation in a Nutshell.

Residents of the rural communities of Middlesex are beginning to take great interest in the coming municipal elections, and it appears that the contests in the different sections will be fought keenly.

Practically all members of the present county council will again go before the people, a number of the present deputy reeves seeking higher honors.

Mr. S. Frank Glass, the present reeve of London Township, is before the East Middlesex Conservative convention today seeking to represent his constituency in the Legislature, and it is said that he has decided to leave the county council.

Mr. W. A. Roberts, second deputy reeve of London Township, will go back in the field for first deputy, while the present incumbent, Mr. Chris Brooks, will compete with Mr. Robert Jackson for the reevehip. Mr. Robert Taylor, while Mr. George Clark will attempt to return as second deputy.

Mr. George Hudson, a number of years ago, has also been mentioned in connection with London Township elections.

A New System. A new system of electing the township councillors may be adopted in London Township as a proposition to make the term two years instead of one is to be submitted. It is claimed that this scheme will secure a more continuous and practically every instance councillors have been given second terms. This would result in an annual election of a hundred dollars supporters of the scheme claim.

The matter was voted on in McGillivray a couple of years ago and was defeated, but side issues were responsible for its downfall there, it is said. Another bylaw to be submitted in London Township calls for the issuing of between $50,000 and $60,000 twenty-year debentures for the purpose of building and repairing bridges.

A Happy Condition. The township thus far has no debt excepting that incurred at the time of the purchase of the Frood Line road, but the last of it will be wiped out this year.

Just who will be the next warden of Middlesex is a question, and no selections will be made until after the elections, as neither political party is certain of a majority. The present standing is 15 to 15, with one man showing a degree of independence.

TWO AUTO MEN APPEAR IN COURT

Both Were Fined by Police Magistrate Judd.

And the war against automobile owners and drivers goes on. This morning Mr. William J. Brownledge was fined $2 for driving a car without any license numbers exposed. Brownledge explained that the car was being demonstrated at the time, and he thought it was not necessary to carry numbers. He realized now that he was wrong in the matter.

Mr. William Langlois was hitting high spots when he appeared before the astonished gaze of a policeman. He was astonished this morning when he gazed upon the magistrate, who told him he was exceeding the speed limit. He did not argue the case, however, but shoved a $20 bill under the astonished gaze of Clerk Moule in payment of the $5 fine imposed upon him.

CAN'T CREATE SUSPICION

Montreal Judge's Ruling in an Unusual Suit.

[Canadian Press.] Montreal, Oct. 28.—That the creation of a suspicion in the public mind to the effect that a Catholic is an active promoter of an organization participating in the spirit of Free Masonry constitutes, for that Catholic, damage to such an extent that he may rightfully seek redress at the hands of the civil tribunal, is the ruling handed down by Justice Weir in an interesting case brought to judgment yesterday.

The action was a claim for $5,000 damages entered against Dame Henriette Brunelle et al., relict of Paul Tardivel, and publishers of Le Verite, a French Catholic organ of Quebec, the plaintiff, Rodolphe Girard, a civil servant and author, complaining on account of an article published in the issue of Nov. 21, 1908.

The article forming the subject of the libel was written on the occasion of the appearance of a new book, written by M. Girard, and entitled "Marie Calumet."

In the course of the criticism, the journal made reference to the "Alliance Francaise," which it stigmatized as a dangerous association of a neutral character, comprising amongst its members Catholics, Protestants, Free Masons and even Mussalmans.

PERTH LIBERALS HOLD NOMINATIONS

Mr. Valentine Stock for South, and Mr. John Brown for North Riding.

TWO STRONG CANDIDATES

Enthusiastic Conventions Were Held at Milverton and Mitchell.

Milverton, Oct. 27.—An inspiration to Ontario Liberalism was the convention here today that nominated Mr. John Brown, mayor of Stratford, and ex-Mr. P. E. Torrance, M. P. for North Perth. Not only was there a full delegation, but a more enthusiastic convention was never held here. Men were at the convention because they felt the call of duty. "It was the first I ever attended," said one man to a reporter. "I was so disgusted with Tory tactics in the last election that I felt it was up to the Liberals to fight, and so I am here." This was the spirit of the convention. The recent defeat was looked upon only as an incident, and a degree of confidence in the party was evinced. As will encourage Liberalism throughout the Province.

A Fine Candidate.
The candidate is a splendid type of citizen. The honor of majority was conferred upon him after a lifetime of usefulness in Stratford, and he is favorably known throughout the country. The convention was held in the morning, with President Henry Hems-worth, of Wallace, in the chair. He read a telegram from Mr. Wellington Hay of Lisow, who for business reasons declined the honor tendered him some months ago. The following names were submitted: Messrs. John Brown, Geo. McLean and Dr. Rankin, Stratford; Dr. Parker, Milverton, and Robert Armstrong, Ellice. The last three retired, and though a ballot was taken, Mr. McLean expressed the hope that their choice would fall upon Mr. Brown. The latter's nomination was therefore made unanimous.

In allowing his name to go before the convention, and afterwards in accepting the nomination, Mr. Brown referred to the large convention as a great encouragement to him. He spoke briefly but to the point in his campaign, and looked for North Perth Liberals to give a good account of themselves.

Parker Withdraws.
Dr. Parker, who is looked upon as one of the strong men of the party, made an able speech, in which he withdrew his name for reasons which prevented an acceptance at this time.

Dr. Rankin, ex-M.P., took the opportunity to thank his supporters in the late election. He took his seat with excellent grace, and said that though Sir James Whitney called an election now, in the hope of annihilating Ontario Liberalism, as it did during the election of Mr. Stock, he would find himself mistaken when he encountered the fighting spirit of his opponents. There were some awkward questions Sir James asked to avoid. There was the question of bi-

Whitney's Weakness.
The Government, Mr. Stock said, had shown no desire for economy, either in regard to their salaries or in other ways. During the seven years of his administration the expenditure of the Province had increased twelve million dollars. He criticized the action of the Government in their dealings with Northern Ontario, and of the cost of maintaining teachers under conditions which permitted so many of them to go west as soon as they received their certificates. Thus the Province received no return for the expenditure on their professional training. He condemned the inactivity of the agricultural committee of the Legislature, which was scarcely ever called together, and declared nothing of importance was submitted to it by the Minister of Agriculture. He closed by referring to his efforts to prevent careless drivers of automobiles from making the roads unsafe, by requiring each to carry a license.

Mr. G. H. McIntyre gave a short address, urging united and energetic action in securing the election of Mr. Stock. The president and Mr. L. Harstone, of St. Marys, were appointed delegates to the convention in Toronto next week.

BLUEVALE.
Bluevale, Oct. 27.—W. S. Galbraith and Rev. J. E. Cooke were visitors at the home of Mr. E. Cooper at Mayne. Rev. J. E. Cooke and Mrs. Snel were delegates to the Epworth League convention at Kincardine on Tuesday.

Mrs. A. B. Balfour and her granddaughter, Miss Clara G. Reid, were visitors at the home of J. W. Galbraith on Tuesday.

Rev. Mr. Hartley, Lochalsh, conducted an anniversary service in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday. He also preached at Eadie's.

The Presbyterian held a Shredded Wheat Banquet on Monday evening, and made the sum of $30 at the doors. John Rendell finished threshing for this season on Wednesday. Rev. J. E. Cooke, pastor of the Methodist Church here, preached two excellent sermons at the anniversary services at Mayne.

Rev. J. W. Andrews, of Fordwich, occupied the pulpit here in the absence of Rev. Mr. Cooke.

NEWBURY.
Newbury, Oct. 25.—J. A. Armstrong and Miss B. Fannell attended the meeting of the Teachers' Association, which was held in Stratford last week. Miss E. Campbell, of London, spent a few days here this week, renewing old acquaintances.

Mrs. Frumveller and son, of Port Huron, are the guests of Mrs. R. J. Haggitt.

J. C. Elliott, M. P., was in our village on Friday.

Anniversary services will be held in Knox Church on Sunday, Oct. 29, at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Rev. Mr. Nixon, of Hyde Park, will preach.

On Monday, Oct. 23, the regular meeting of the Gloucester Ministerial Association was held at the manse, Newbury. Ten members were in attendance, the chair being taken by Rev. S. W. Campbell, in the absence of the president. The following new members were cordially received: Rev. A. V. Campbell and A. Thibodeau, of Appleton; Rev. D. C. Stephens, and G. W. Baker, of Melbourne, and Rev. C. H. P. Owen, of Gloucester.

The year's programme was opened by Rev. Mr. Lindsay with a paper entitled "The Miracles of Our Lord," which was followed by an interesting discussion.

ARAB ATTACK HURLED BACK

Both Sides Lose Heavily in Fierce Fighting at Tripoli.

ITALIANS HARD PRESSED

Centre Was Smashed at One Time But Rally Slightly the Day.

Tripoli, Oct. 27.—After three nights of furious attacks on the Italian outposts, the Arabs, who have done most of the fighting, appear to have retired with heavy losses. The casualties in the attacks at Bumeiliana Springs and Shamsat alone are estimated at 1,000 Arabs and Turks killed and 500 wounded. The Italian losses are placed at 400. It is estimated that the attacking force numbered 6,000 men. They extended along the whole Italian front, and with reckless dashes often charged right up to the Italian trenches, where they were decimated by a withering fire from the Eighty-second and Fortieth Regiments, which remained silent until the Arabs and Turks were at close range. Afterward the Eighty-fourth Regiment leaped out of the trenches and by a magnificent bayonet charge scattered the enemy. They captured the green banner of the Arabs.

The three days' desperate attacks of the Turks and Arabs were made because the Italian garrison at Tripoli had been depleted by an expedition to the interior. The fate of this force is unknown.

Two Turkish warships attacked the Italian battleship Napoli near the entrance to the Dardanelles. The Napoli sank one and disabled the other.

The hundreds of unburied corpses are rapidly decomposing in the streets and giving forth an offensive odor. Owing to the contamination of wells it has been necessary to draw back the Italian front for some distance, but this disposition of the troops has an advantage, inasmuch as large numbers of the men of the defence line can be withdrawn and added to the reserves.

Aeroplane Riddled by Bullets.
Captain Piazza while making an aeroplane reconnaissance this morning was fired on. The wings of his aeroplane were riddled with bullets. An Arab who was arrested yesterday was the bearer of five hundred posters urging the Arabs to revolt against the Italians. Three Arabs carrying machine bearing arms were shot on the spot.

The Arab village near the Steam Mills has been burned.

Four Arab chiefs say that all the Arabs in the oasis received rifles and large quantities of ammunition which were landed from the transport Derna.

The revolt greatly surprised the leading chiefs, who now fear for their lives. The severe punishment which has been meted out to the Arabs has had a salutary effect, and they now are beginning to return to the doors of their houses and hand them over to the Italian patrols pass.

A Complete Surprise.
The Turkish military was made before daybreak and took the Italians by complete surprise. It was not until dawn that it was learned through the pilots of the military aeroplane that the attacking force numbered approximately more than 6,000.

The Arabian and Turkish cavalry found their arms to the entire Italian line, which was formed in a semi-circle behind the city, the ends of the line being the military aeroplane that the attacking force numbered approximately more than 6,000.

A Bloody Battle.
It was then that the combat developed into a sanguinary encounter. The Turks fought furiously, and on the Italian advanced to the trenches occupied by the Italian sharpshooters, slaying as they came.

For a time the fighting was desperate.

ate, and then suddenly the enemy was again reinforced by two large bodies of infantry that had been held in reserve and massed their whole strength to break the Italian centre, which they succeeded in smashing.

Eventually, however, the Italians rallied and drove back the enemy sustaining heavy losses. There was much hand-to-hand fighting with bayonet. A band of Arabs, which had secretly turned the Italian left, was discovered and a company of the Eighty-fourth Highland Infantry, in a brilliant sortie, captured a green flag from the Arabs after a desperate bayonet counter.

An exhibition of the Turkish spirit was afforded when a company of Turks and Arabs, which had fallen back, returned to the field in the face of almost certain death to recover the body of a fallen comrade. In the end, only half of the number were cut down by Italian bullets.

THE WATERWAYS COMMISSION IS TO REMAIN UNCHANGED
King George Ratifies the Appointment of Sir George Gibbons and Messrs. Geoffroy and Barnhill.

Ottawa, Oct. 27.—His Majesty King George, acting on the recommendation of the Privy Council, has formally ratified the appointment of Sir George Gibbons and Messrs. Aime Geoffroy, of Montreal, and Barnhill, of the Canadian members of the International Waterways Commission, established under the treaty between the British Empire and the United States of America, for the purpose of investigating the waterways of the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence River.

The personnel of the Canadian section of the commission was announced on Oct. 11 last by the Laurier Government. A cable was received from the colonial office early in September, in which the names submitted had been approved by his majesty, and that Ambassador Bryce had been notified.

A preliminary meeting of the commission was held at Washington on Sept. 18, and during that meeting were made to actively take up the work before the commission. Since the general election on Sept. 21 the formal papers have been received by the state department here from Sir George Gibbons and Messrs. Geoffroy and Barnhill, and the Canadian commissioners by the government.

The statements appearing in the Conservative press that the Borden Government would appoint new commissioners are therefore not authoritative, since the appointment is an imperial prerogative, and has already been approved by the King on the advice of Premier Asquith.

The commission will continue to act, and as soon as President Taft appoints a successor to the late Senator Carter, who was chairman of the American section of the commission until his death a few weeks ago, the joint commission will meet and actively take up many important questions now awaiting their consideration.

MR. BORDEN HOPES FOR SHORT SESSION
Has Had No Time to Elaborate Important Measures.
New York, Oct. 27.—Hon. R. L. Borden, K. C., the Canadian Premier reached New York this afternoon from Atlantic City. He spent the afternoon driving around the city, and tonight went to a theatre with Mrs. Borden and some New York friends.

The Premier, looking remarkably well after his brief rest, "I do not care to discuss business," he remarked to the Canadian Press representative, "I am in the first holiday I have had in a year, and I want to enjoy it to the full. We will leave here either Saturday or Sunday night for Ottawa, and on Tuesday I will start for Halifax. I would have liked my friends to postpone until January the banquet they are to give there, but they insisted, and so I must take the trip."

With regard to the length of the Canadian session, Mr. Borden expressed the hope that it would be short. The Opposition, when they were on our side of the House said that we, of the Opposition, regulated the length of the session, and now perhaps they will undertake to do likewise he remarked with a smile.

"We have had but little time to elaborate any important measures for presentation to the House, I had not had a minute's holiday for fully a year, and very much indeed. We will now have to get down to work for the opening of Parliament on the 15th of next month."

NEW YORK STATE AND CITY.
The city may not be as handsome as the state, but it is rather more expensive. Next year's city budget will be about $190,000,000. The state's is about $400,000,000. And the farmers are complaining at that.

I cannot praise these fruit tablets too highly."

goes to work to find the person who is causing the adverse influence in the household. Almost on the verge of discovering the cause, calamity descends upon the Wilton house. Bruce's fortune is swept away, and in such a way that he believes his wife the cause of his ruin. Husband and wife are separated, the home is destroyed, and yet the cause of all this disaster is unknown. Father Kelly, however, with resolute zeal, perseveres in his work to fathom the mystery and finally succeeds in his undertaking. The play will be seen at the Grand next Tuesday evening.

Lauder Sale Very Large.

The most successful foreign artist ever to visit this country will appear in this city in the course of a seven-weeks' tour of the country on Thursday, Nov. 2, at the Grand Opera House. Harry Lauder, commonly referred to as the world's greatest entertainer, and a noted portrayer of Scotch character types, will render the numbers and tell the stories that have made him the trader, and the pathos of the play lies in the conflict between the Indian and the white girl. At last, when she learns that she really has a white skin she decides that she wants none of the cities, and will stay and wed her French-Canadian lover and continue to wear moccasins. The performance as a whole was a sort that the north country would like to see more of. There was a real and highly successful attempt to portray real life. Very refreshing after the pasturing and highly artificial mode of representation so frequently seen behind the footlights.

Pepito Arriola, Pianist.

During the time of the World's Fair held in Paris in October, 1900, Professor Richter introduced to the Congress of Scientific Psychologists a little boy not yet three years old. It was Pepito Arriola. These men of science were held spellbound by the marvelous work on the piano of this phenomenal child. His efforts were so great that even the wonder deeds of Mozart as a child could not stand in comparison. Pepito's mother discovered his wonderful aptitude for the piano in a most interesting way. After playing a Beethoven sonata, Mrs. Arriola left the room for a few minutes and hearing someone at the piano, returned, as she had left only Pepito, her 2-year-old son, in the room. What, to her amazement, did she find but Pepito standing by the piano and playing the same composition—while not with the assurance of riper years, still with such rhythm and accurate melody that it was almost impossible to believe. Thus the birth of a promising genius. Mrs. Arriola took Pepito to Madrid at the age of 3, where he played before the Queen-mother and the King, who gave him rare gifts in token of their appreciation of his unprecedented piano work. Arthur Nikisch, the great German master, who was in Madrid, heard him, and begged to take the little genius to Leipzig to superintend his musical education. At the age of four he played before Emperor William, who decorated him with a jewel of emeralds and diamonds, and presented him with a large estate in Mecklenburg. He will appear Wednesday afternoon and evening at the Auditorium, Nov. 8.

MAUDE ADAMS IN CHANTECLER

Miss Adams has never been more enthusiastic over any of her long list of plays than over "Chantecler," which she will give at the Grand Opera House, in two performances, on Monday, Tuesday, Oct. 30, and Wednesday, Oct. 31. For she saw from the first how the primal symbolism of "Chantecler" was tuned to her own nature. Whether or not we have genius or are leaders of men there is a divine virtue in work. In the idealism of work lies the only true happiness. "Chantecler," a play which contains a message of even greater potency to America than to France. For the American's glory is the work he does, and "Chantecler" is a feathered epitome of the man to whom work is everything, and who, even in the face of loss of all that is dear, will find happiness in working. In staging so beautiful a bit of dramatic writing, both Maude Adams and Charles Frohman have desired scenery and costumes that would do justice to the quality of the verse and acting, and so have spent over one hundred thousand dollars in their efforts to alter, mend, and weave into birds and beasts. To produce such a result two difficulties confronted them, size and durability. As through the means of a prologue, Miss Adams tells her audience that the stage folk are small and comely, rather insignificant and that human beings must view the scene as if through a magnifying glass. "The White Squaw."

In reviewing "The White Squaw," the Canadian-American romantic drama, which will be presented at the Grand Opera House on Saturday next, matinee and night, an exchange says: "An Indian story with never a pistol shot or warwhoop in it, a moving play in which the villain is human, and the hero has his bad attributes in 'The White Squaw,' which so pleased the theatregoers at the Lyric last night. It is a real pleasure to see a natural, well-acted, well-staged Indian play; the contrast is so great to the usual lurid melodrama of the pulpit and the red man. The whole play has the smack of reality. Neamata, the white squaw, is a Montreal girl found in a forest by the Indian, Michabo, and she grows to womanhood in the wigwam. She falls in love with the Boston fur trader, and the pathos of the play lies in the conflict between the Indian and the white girl. At last, when she learns that she really has a white skin she decides that she wants none of the cities, and will stay and wed her French-Canadian lover and continue to wear moccasins. The Rosary.

Rowland & Clifford's play, "The Rosary," is repeating this season with remarkable success. The play from the start tells how Bruce Wilton has amassed a fortune, which he lavishes upon his wife, Yeta. Their home is a happy one; all there creeps into it a note of menace. No one hears of it at first except Father Kelly, a priest, the former tutor of Bruce. Quietly he

PAINTER PUZZLES THE SCIENTISTS

Although 92 Has Never Refused Himself Any Pleasure.

London, Oct. 27.—Harpignies, the landscape painter, who was 92 on July 24 last, is to receive the highest grade of the Legion of Honor, of Grand Cross. He is the despair of hygienists, for he has never refused himself any pleasure as a beverage. It is true that just at the present time he is not feeling as fresh as usual, and instead of walking down the Rue de Rennes about 6 o'clock for his horse salade, as he calls his abstinence, at the Cafe de Flore, he contents himself with coffee and milk at the Cafe de Versailles, which is much nearer his studio in the Rue Coteignon. When his promotion is duly gazetted he promises to celebrate it in a good period (abstinence), and is quite ready to accept his friends' proposition to celebrate his centenary at once on condition that they will celebrate it again in 1919 being troubled with no

Callaghan on Technicalities

Now, I suppose you think this is going to be so full of piano dealer's jargon that you won't be able to make head or tail of it. I quite realize that the public is not made up ENTIRELY of piano men, and that it would be a waste of my time and yours to go into the details of "Aggravated" or "Deceitful Construction." These specialties are of no use, anyway, unless the results are good. A piano is PURELY A MATERIAL THING. Therefore, I don't tell you that the piano I sell has a "personality," a "spirit," or a "soul." (I wouldn't expect you to keep from smiling if I did.) Instead, I tell you that the MARTIN-ORME is a mighty good piano to buy, and I state positively that value for value it is the best piano to put into your home. I am prepared to stand by my statement that it will keep its tone for many years and give satisfaction even to purchasers who expect more than is reasonable. It's a pretty strong claim, I know, but I'll be here to "come back at" it if it doesn't prove true. Just as soon as I receive your name and address I'll mail you those interesting details. If you'd like to see samples, why, call any time that suits you.

BOUNDARY SURVEY

Gang of Men Back From Demarking in the Yukon.

Ottawa, Oct. 28.—A portion of the international boundary survey party of 90 men, who have been engaged during the past summer demarking the boundary between Alaska and the Yukon territory, arrived in Ottawa yesterday. Mr. J. D. Craig, who is in charge of the Canadian branch of the survey, reports that the boundary is now marked along the 141st meridian to within thirty miles of the Arctic Ocean. This remaining portion will be completed next year. The surveyors have cut a path twenty feet wide along the whole line. Much of the territory was never before visited by white men, and the mountain part of the work has been exceedingly difficult and often dangerous. About two million dollars have been expended on the task since it was begun fourteen years ago.

The Man Zulu Spears Could Not Kill Thrilling Adventures of British Colonel

Colonel Colenbrander, C. B., Surrounded by Savage Tribesmen of Whom He Slew Seventeen—The Campaign Against Cetewayo—Detailed Story of Hand-to-Hand Fight.

MAN ZULU SPEARS—ONE OF THE

To be chopped in the head with a Zulu battleaxe and stabbed in a dozen places with an assegai; to wrestle in desperate life-and-death combat with a savage adversary for an hour with the latter's friends try to get close enough to finish the fight by striking the mortal blow; to leave the savage for dead only to have him revive and renew the fearful struggle; finally half-slain and blinded by the flow from dreadful wounds, to thrust the spear through the Zulu's body, and only by the narrowest margin to escape running one's self through at the same stroke—for an episode such as that the term "adventure" seems a mild and entirely insufficient title.

And to have it happen to an 18-year-old boy would be regarded by many as altogether likely to discourage the adventurous youth from seeking further excitement. Finally, to have the boy himself, who had been a member of the British conquest of South Africa to discover that, whatever the effect of such an encounter might have been on the ordinary youth, it did not deter Johan Colenbrander from winning a name that will ring long in the annals of the territory as a man of daring, courage and devoted patriotism.

Colonel John W. Colenbrander, C. B.,—that is his full name and title. The "Colonel" came when he was placed in command of the First Regiment of "Kitchener's Fighting Scouts," a famous regiment of frontiersmen, soldiers of fortune and fighting adventurers, modelled on the famous "Roosevelt Rough Riders," and which such a valiant part for Britain in the Boer war. And the "C. B."—well, few men who do not deserve more than well of their country ever have. Companions of the Boer war, and ever deserved the honor conferred by royal hands more than did Johan Colenbrander.

A native Afrikaner, of Dutch parentage who had emigrated to Natal after an unsuccessful venture in Java, the fifty-year-old of his life have been filled with adventures of a kind that recall Elmer Fergusson's legendary hero, Allan Quatermain. Indeed, it was from some of Colenbrander's adventures that the English writer drew the material for certain episodes which every reader of "King Solomon's Mines" will remember. Alternating fighting with big game hunting, and treasure seeking, he knows his Africa from the Congo to the Cape as few living men know it. It was because he is perhaps the best-equipped man in the world to lead an expedition into the heart of the jungle that Mr. John Hays Hammond and Major Frederick B. Burnham, learning a few weeks ago that Colonel Colenbrander was making his first visit to America—a trip to Mexico to visit his motherless little girl, who lives with her aunt in Vera Cruz—sent for him to come to New York and placed him at the head of the great game trapping expedition that is soon to start from the African West Coast to capture wild animals and restock the forests and plains of Western America, meeting in the interior of the Dark Continent the detachment under Major Burnham that will go in from the East Coast for the same purpose.

A day or two before he departed for Africa on his quest Colonel Colenbrander consented, after much urging, to tell the story of the most thrilling of all his adventures. As he sat in a New York cafe, calmly recounting the incidents of his youth, there was little about his appearance to suggest the frontiersman and the fighter. Rather above medium height, broad shouldered and grey bearded, Colonel Colenbrander looks the part of the military man in his bearing, but his placid blue eyes and somewhat portly physique suggest the staff rather than the line—the planner rather than the doer. But he is still able to ride over rough country for days on end and rough it with the youngest of them, and should the call come within the next twenty years it would be safe to bet that Colonel Colenbrander would again take the field against England's foes, at the head of his Legion of Frontiersmen, the great organization of ten thousand veterans of the old Rhodesian days that is to South Africa all and more than the Native Sons of the Golden West are to California, and of which he is the head.

Colonel Colenbrander is bald, except for a light fringe of grey hair around the sides and back of his head, and when he removes his hat the most noticeable feature of his physiognomy is a great scar, seven or eight inches long, that runs from the top of his head down over the left temple and into the cheek in front of the ear. And it was an inquiry as to how he got this terrific wound that led to the telling of the story of his fight with the Zulu.

"It was a Zulu's battle axe that gave me that little memento," said Colonel Colenbrander. "That was a long time ago. What year was that Cetewayo, the King of the Zulus, was captured? Someone supplied the date, 1879. 'That was the year, then,' resumed Colonel Colenbrander. 'I was a boy of 18 or so at the time. I had been such a valiant part for Britain in the Boer war. And the 'C. B.'—well, few men who do not deserve more than well of their country ever have. Companions of the Boer war, and ever deserved the honor conferred by royal hands more than did Johan Colenbrander.'

"After Cetewayo was sent into exile Sir Garnet Wolseley divided his territory up among his chiefs, and it was not long before tremendous rivalry broke out among them. One was John Dunn, a white man—perhaps you have heard of him. He became a Zulu chief and married many Zulu wives. He had 72 to my knowledge at one time. There was a chief named Sibepu whose territory was known as Mandider, who was Dunn's friend, but between whom lay the territories of two other chiefs who were hostile to both of them.

"I knew the native languages and ways, and when Dunn took possession of his territory he gave me an exclusive trading concession. I went up there and found that he was having a great deal of trouble in communicating with his friend Sibepu, so I soon found myself engaged largely in carrying messages between the two, across some hundreds of miles of hostile territory.

"Keeping Back Raiders. 'Sibepu became my friend, and I undertook to help him to keep back the raiding tribes that lay between him and John Dunn. These fellows would organize raiding expeditions, cross the boundary lines, kill the old men and women, capture the younger men and children and all the live stock they could drive and go back to their own territory with the loot. It was contrary to all their agreements, and if they did not want to bring down the punishment of the English on their heads.

"I tried to organize a little cavalry squad among the Zulu boys of my own age in Sibepu's territory. It was hard work, for horses did not like that country, but I finally got together a fairly efficient little corps, of perhaps twenty-five, and taught them to ride as to shoot. One night word reached us that the adjoining tribe had crossed the boundary and were looting thirty miles inside of our territory. We were fifteen miles from them when we heard it. Messengers were sent out to rally Sibepu's fighting men, and by 3 o'clock in the morning we had several hundred warriors and seventeen of my mounted boys. We started after the enemy, who had learned of our approach and were retreating as rapidly as possible toward their own lines, driving hundreds of cattle and goats and a hundred or more women that they had captured.

"Our men on foot could travel a little faster than the enemy, for the latter had to drive the captured stock. Still, we had gained very little on them at daybreak and we feared that they would get across the boundary line before we could overtake and engage them. I proposed to Sibepu that I take the mounted boys, make a detour and attack the fleeing raider from in front. It was a foolhardy, boyish proposal, for there were but seventeen of us against some three hundred or more of the enemy. Sibepu agreed to it, however, and added that he would go with us. He had a good horse and could ride women could take in aviation. She did not pretend that any woman could do what Beaumont and Vedrines did, as that was simply a strain of will and nerves almost breaking point; but she thought that the time would come when every woman who could drive her own car could also pilot her own aeroplane. All women are now in the study of aerobatics, as it was a new science, and it was delicate and exacting work. The address was followed by demonstrations, several models of aeroplanes being exhibited. They included a model of a new safety machine in course of construction which will, it is claimed, possess both lateral and longitudinal automatic stability, and will not capsize even if the owner loses control of the levers.

Mrs. Maurice Hewlett, the only Englishwoman who holds an air pilot's certificate, in the course of an address to the Women's Aerial League at the Inns of Court Hotel, London, England, recently, said her great ambition now was to get this country to take its proper place in the great new science of aviation. She agreed that it was no use buying English aeroplanes, as they were inferior, but she did not agree that France should make all their aeroplanes in the future. She thought this country should buy the license of the best types of machines, and then make them in this country and give practical application to them.

FIREMEN SAFE IN SMOKE AND FLAME WITH THIS GEAR ON.

A thoroughly efficient smoke mask for the use of firemen has been invented by James D. Halloran, of No. 20, New York City. The mask, illustrated above, looks like a football player's nose guard.

It is attached to a rubber tube that is connected with a metal chamber. From this chamber, a long piece of garden hose runs back to the open air of the street. When a stream is play-

AN AMAZING ADVENTURESS

Posed as Duchess and Debauched People—Her Extraordinary Career.

Extraordinary evidence was given at the London, Eng., sessions on Oct. 13, when a well-dressed woman, describing herself as the Duchess Adelaide de Villano, of Madrid, Spain, and her secretary, Gordon Russell, 25, of Westbourne Terrace, Paddington, pleaded guilty to complicity in a series of defrauds by means of worthless checks. The woman was said to be 48 years of age.

Mr. G. W. Jones, who presented, stated that the allegations of fraud concerned five worthless checks, drawn in the woman prisoner's favor. The checks were drawn on the West End branch of Parr's Bank, but her account there had been closed ten months previously, and she had omitted to return the disused checks, although requested to do so. She had opened two accounts at the Mercantile Bank of London in the name of E. G. Stanley Williams, but she evidently realized there was more chance of cashing checks if she posed as a duchess. Moreover, 41 of her Mercantile Bank checks had been dishonored within two months. There was a real Duchess de Villano in existence, added counsel. It was part of the case for the prosecution that the prisoner had no claim whatever to the title.

Detective Sergeant Hume stated that when he arrested the woman at Southampton she had in her possession visiting cards bearing the following names and addresses: Duchesse de Villandri, Belle Isle, County Tipperary, and Artillery Mansions, Westminster; Duchesse de Villano, Clodagh Court, Chingford, and 30, Haverly House, Regent's Park; Duchesse de Roscigno, Gordon Lodge, Malda Vale; Duchesse de Villano, 36, Malda Vale; Mrs. A. S. Williams, Fircot, Ashby Parva, Lutterworth; Mrs. Stanley Williams, Belle Isle, County Tipperary, and 47, Villa Victoria Emanuele, Poggio, and Mrs. Stanley Williams, Villa Vitar, Nice. The witness added that the woman handed him a marriage certificate which she said would prove that she was the Duchess de Villano. It showed that in 1897 a marriage took place at the Kensington registry office between William Forbes Leslie (Duc de Villandri), physician, of Kensington Court, and Adelaide Ivy Elizabeth Williams, formerly Manders, divorced wife of George Stanley Williams. Several alterations had been made, the words "widowed wife" being written over the original words "divorced wife." The defendant had with her a book entitled, "Libro d'Oro Nobilita Italiana."

After evidence had been given, the judge ruled that there was no evidence as to conspiracy, and on this count the jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

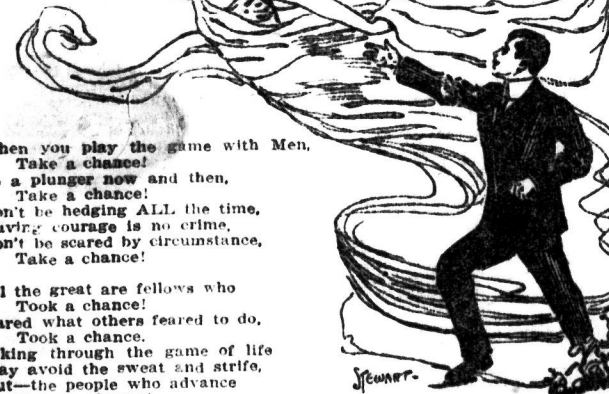

The jury found the woman prisoner guilty of obtaining money by false pretences and the man not guilty. Russell was discharged.

The Woman's Alleged Career.

Detective Sergeant Hume stated that the woman had been identified by her finger prints, having been sentenced in France in 1906 to 13 months imprisonment for similar frauds. For many years previous and since she had been carrying on a system of fraud, and it was evident that she was an accomplished swindler. In early life she married an officer of an Indian regiment, but very quickly eloped with a subaltern of the same regiment who was richer than her husband. A divorce followed, and she married a man who was a member of the Indian army, and she was again divorced in 1897. She again married. Her husband posed as the Duke de Villandri, a title to which he had no right, and the prisoner called herself the Duchess de Villandri. She was a gambler and exploited the title in her frauds. One of the bad features of the case was that the woman was a member of a gang of marriage brokers. She would advertise as a titled lady for American or European young ladies who wished to be introduced into society or charmed in England, and when an aspirant came forward she would be surrounded by impecunious

IN CUBES

EVERY mother should remember these two points about OXO Cubes.

An OXO Cube, in a glass of hot milk, increases the food value of milk enormously and greatly assists digestion.

An OXO Cube, spread on bread and butter, increases the food value of bread and butter enormously.

OXO Cubes are foods in themselves, and add to the value of other foods by helping digestion.

The telephone has had more effect than any other invention to increase the speed of modern life, and they have both been incorporated into the fabric of our society. It was not till as late as the year 1870 that the electric telegraph came into general use, taken over by the state, and only the other day saw the nationalization of the telephones, which have now become an indispensable feature both of business and private life.

Difficulties Overcome

The telephone industry which is rightly associated with the modern postoffice in most civilized countries has even been characterized by self-sacrificed devotion to public service on the part of all the officials. Many stories are told in its history of men and women who have been displayed by the letter-carrier and the itinerant minstrel, during the siege of Paris a balloon service, which reminds us of the aerial post of today, were employed to fly out messages from the beleaguered city. The basins of the ocean were their highways, and had

As soon as they had had a little time to think about it, Northerners and Southerners began laughing over it, and their merriment increased and will continue laughing as long as the history of the battle endures. Humor is born of conflict. It is the product between the action of the men at Bull Run and the action of the same men at the Seven Days, Gettysburg, and Fredericksburg, and Gettysburg, and in the awful Wilderness campaign. It is the fun of the nation that the war finds its chief inspiration.

Little has been said about the narrow streets which lie inside the ramparts. A maze of winding alleys, they pick their crazy ways through mud-splattered lanes, crossing one another against the broken sky-line the houses all but meet. At times they span the street itself, a cluttered avenue, through which scandalous natives are seen to scurry. The play of light and shadow and sunlight alternate in bewildering effect, but details there are, alas, which even a prejudiced enthusiast may not appreciate. It is better to pass than to dwell; and would walk at a quicker pace than usual.

What are you doing to give your children sound and healthy teeth? Out of 11,374 children inspected by the Medical Inspector in the schools of Toronto nearly 3,000 cases of physical defects were found. Of these 2,027 were credited to decayed and imperfectly formed teeth. Sound teeth and good bones come from thoroughly chewing a food that is rich in the phosphates. You can't build them with mushy porridges, soggy pastries or sweetmeats. Shredded Whole Wheat contains all the necessary phosphates in a digestible form. You HAVE to chew

The crispness of the shreds compels thorough chewing and a thorough mixing with saliva, which is the first process in digestion.

Shredded Wheat Biscuit every morning for breakfast, served with milk or cream, will build sturdy, robust youngsters and is a preventive of stomach and bowel disorders so common to children. Being ready-cooked and ready-to-serve it is so easy to prepare a nourishing meal with it in combination with fresh or preserved fruits—a meal that is deliciously satisfying to grown-ups as well as youngsters. Your grocer sells it.

And down at the bottom it was all due to one man—Themistocles, the father of the idea of the navy who created the Greek navy, and it was that navy that saved Europe from being Orientalized. Perhaps there was some woman whom he loved, larger debt of gratitude than we do to our Themistocles the Athenian.

It was sent in a packing case drilled with airholes and obviously intended to be carried by mail, marking the points of its journey. Soon after arrival at Kingston the cat was lost, and despite the most diligent searching, no trace of it could be found.

The matron of the nursing home has not recorded the cat's arrival, but she is stating that the cat has found its way back to its old home. It arrived emaciated and footsore and apparently had wandered the whole of the 123 miles.

The letter describes the cat on its arrival as "a mere shadow of its former self," and expresses the belief that the cat had been subjected to "long wanderings, it can be nursed back to a healthy condition—London Chronicle.

Borden Party Believes In Reciprocity, Says Mr. Stevens

The New York Journal of Commerce of Oct. 10, 1911, contains the following: "W. S. Post of this city, has received the following interesting letter from N. H. Stevens, president of the Canadian Four-Mile Committee, of Chatham, Ont., giving a side light on the recent defeat of reciprocity between Canada and this country. It will be noted that Mr. Stevens intimates that the Borden party are just as strong believers in reciprocity as the Laurier party." His letter follows:

"The Laurier Government was turned out, but not on the question as to the virtue of reciprocity or the good sense of the people, merely a bugaboo scare."

"Unfortunately, interested remarks of President Taft and Champ Clark and other American citizens uttered unconsciously to the people of the United States, showing why they should pass the bill of reciprocity were soon found in print from the Pacific to the Atlantic."

"The Conservative, siding out of power, wanted to get in and they talked disloyalty of Canadians to their reciprocity with the United States, that it was only the thin edge of the wedge to annexation, and no doubt the people of the United States never dreamed of such a thing as Canada being annexed to the United States. That day has passed by, and not a fractional part of 1 per cent. of Canadians today would tolerate the question of annexation, but the remarks above mentioned by President Taft and others gave the heaviest ammunition to the opponents of the Laurier Government to defeat reciprocity, and it is very unfortunate for both Canada and the United States and most non-sensical."

"It would have been a great advantage to Canada, to have passed the reciprocity agreement."

"It was the laboring class in the cities that defeated the Government. When it defeated Hon. Mackenzie King at Berlin by 500 majority it showed how easy such a feeling was worked up by the laboring class of our country, and if there ever was an ungrateful vote it was the vote that defeated Mackenzie King. He showed the most ability, his heart was in his work, and he was the best friend to the laboring class that we have in Canada; he was most successful in settling disputes, always finding and claiming and proving to the best of his ability the privileges and rights belonging to the laboring party."

"The geographical position in which Canada is situated compared with that of the United States, an imaginary or invisible line from the Atlantic to the Pacific nearly 4,000 miles separating two different climates that produce different kinds and qualities of fruits, vegetables, grain, etc., from the soil absolutely necessary, as well as the difference in the table of each country, it would be just as natural and just as sensible for the Government of Canada to change the course of our rivers as it is to try and change the natural lines in which the production of Canada should send her products to market."

"The Borden party are just as strong believers in reciprocity as the Laurier party, but they saw this opportunity to deceive the electors of Canada and they worked on the sympathy of the laboring class and spent hundreds of thousands of dollars covering up the billboards, barns and fences with the most ridiculous pictures, coupled with the remarks of President Taft or Champ Clark, how they were going to get Canada away from the people."

"Our farmers and laborers do not regret that they have been deceived and the changes that have been made in the country will prosper without reciprocity, but it would have made much greater progress with reciprocity."

"N. H. STEVENS."

The Peace That Christ Gives

The Closer One Walks With God, the Deeper His Peace of Mind and Heart—A Splendid Sermon.

"Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you; not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid."—John 14:27.

"Peace is a much used and a much abused word. 'Let us have peace' is a conventional phrase often on the lips of well-meaning people, who in most cases little realize what the word means. It is carried out in its fullest implication. There are many who speak fluently of the blessings of peace who fail to have any deep or vital conception of what peace costs. Peace is a sweet, even a holy, word, and its full import cannot be understood short of the sanctions of religion or apart from the teachings of the Gospel."

"Jesus Christ is the great Peace-giver. The world will never know the full blessings of peace until it receives and profits by His teachings regarding the methods of gaining of peace, and yields to the supreme motive of love which Christ announces as the only true law of life. 'I give peace,' is the sure, calm declaration of Christ concerning His own mission, and the peace which He gives is something that is peculiarly His own. 'My peace I give unto you,' was the word which Jesus spoke to His own immediate followers, in whom He trusted, and which is passed down to us. Language such as this implies that Jesus Christ has a gift of peace which is unique, inimitable and impossible of duplication. The world can imitate, but it cannot duplicate. What then is this peace of Jesus? It is the peace of atonement, and the peace of attainment."

"There is also the peace of attainment, which is an essential element in the pacific work of Jesus, and a natural outgrowth of atonement. The atonement of Christ effects the reconciliation judicially of God to man, and the reconciliation of man to God. It takes out the discord from the life and brings in the harmony. It attunes the harsh and unruly elements in the life to a close correspondence with the will of Jehovah. Whenever and wherever the will of man crosses the will of God there is friction and unrest. No man can be happy who is not happy in God's way. The sad mistake that is constantly being made by wordlings is in supposing that life can be successfully lived without any reference to the law of the great Creator. Such devotees of the world may sometimes be superficially happy, but they never sound the depths of perfect peace, or rise to the heights of exuberant joy. For the soul of man, as Augustine finely said, has been made for God, and must forever restless till it rests in Him."

"Christ peace is a progressive peace. 'Take my yoke upon you, and learn of Me, and ye shall find peace,' as Jesus said, and experience follows logically and historically upon the command, 'Come unto Me and I will give you peace!' There is a peace which the believer receives upon his conversion—the peace of sin's forgiveness—the sense of rest which comes in the thought that the past has been atoned for—but that peace is a promise and not a reality, until the peace of the Holy Spirit comes, and the peace of a richer, ripper experience which will arrive when the believer has grown in Christlikeness, and the peace of the Holy Spirit comes, and the peace of a richer, ripper experience which will arrive when the believer has grown in Christlikeness, and the peace of the Holy Spirit comes, and the peace of a richer, ripper experience which will arrive when the believer has grown in Christlikeness."

SUPERSTITIONS AND THE OPAL

Origin of Idea That They Are Unlucky—Belief of the Ancients.

The jewel of October is the opal. The Greeks believed it possessed the power of bestowing second sight to those under its influence, provided they did not use the power for selfish ends. By its name the opal became unlucky in love, disappointment and misfortune dogging their footsteps. The theory was started that for occult reasons the opal was unlucky or that it brought ill luck to its possessor, and succeeding generations have inherited the distrust that was thus aroused.

TOO LITTLE BLOOD

THE CAUSE OF NEARLY ALL THE EVERYDAY AILMENTS OF LIFE.

Too little blood—that is what makes men and women look pale and sallow and feel languid. That is what makes them drag along, always tired, never real hungry, unable to digest their food, breathless and palpitating at the heart after slight exertion, so that it is wearisome even to go upstairs. Doctors tell them that they are "anaemic"—the plain English being too little blood. If your face is pale or sallow, if your gums are pale instead of being scarlet, if you are easily tired and frequently despondent, if you do not rest after your meals, and small matters irritate you, it is a sign that your blood is thin and watery and that you are on the verge of a complete breakdown.

More weak, anaemic people have been made strong, energetic and cheerful by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills than by any other means. They actually make new blood, which reaches every part of the body, braces the nerves and brings new health and new strength. The case of Miss Nellie Welch, Essex, Ont., is proof of the great curative powers of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Miss Welch says: "A few years ago I was going into what my friends believed to be a hopeless decline. I was subject to severe headaches, had no appetite, was pale and grew distressingly weak. I tried several doctors, some of whom we counted the best in this part of the country, but they failed to help me. At last my heart grew so weak and nervous that I was unable to take to my bed and the doctor held out but little hope for my recovery. Like others I had often read of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and though the doctor opposed my taking them I determined to give them a trial, as I felt I might be well be dead as to be living in the misery I was in. In a month after beginning to take the pills I was up and around again, and steadily growing stronger until I was again enjoying the blessing of perfect health. Several years have since passed and my health has been the very best. It is therefore with great gratitude that I write you in the hope that my experience may be of some benefit to some other sufferer."

reasons the opal was unlucky or that it brought ill luck to its possessor, and succeeding generations have inherited the distrust that was thus aroused. The idea that opals were unlucky is thought by many to be on account of the unfortunate part Sir Walter Scott assigned to it in his "Anne of Geierstein." But the gem must have appealed to so great a lover of beauty in animate and inanimate nature as Sir Walter Scott, to assign the opal to a villainous character, to be the nation to bring such ill luck to the Russians during the disastrous war between these two countries.

The Romans of old placed the opal so well that they bestowed upon it the name of "lovely youth." It never occurred to them that it was a gem which carried ill luck to its possessor. Lucky indeed did that Roman esteem himself who was the owner of an opal that filled his neighbor with envy.

In the Middle Ages there were not wanting men who shared the Romans' weakness, for opals did not lose their popularity as time went on. Each century brought its own joys and sorrows, luck and ill luck to the human race, and each age brought its fashions in jewelry as in clothing, but the opal remained high in favor and entered largely into the adornment of both sexes. Its fragility was well known, but that was regarded not as a failing so much as a special claim on the care of all who handled it.

Along among jewels the opal defies the genuinity of the imitator. It owes its charm not so much to its own intrinsic merits as to the splendor of the rays of light that it reflects. It is a chameleon of stones. Pliny, writing 1,819 years ago, remarked that it "displays at once the piercing fire of carbuncles, the purple effluence of amethysts and the sea green of emeralds, the whole blended together and refulgent with a brightness that is quite incredible."

Unlike other gems, the opal is a stone with a temper. The diamond rises superior to climate, as also does the ruby, the emerald and the sapphire, but the opal has an organization so delicate that it loses color when exposed to severe cold and becomes dull under the influence of moisture. But when warmed by the rays of the sun or even by the temper-

THE AIR MILE

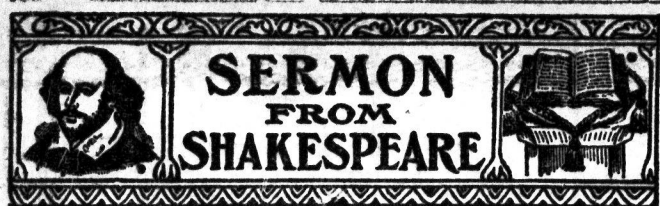

The "air mile" is a unit of measurement that has come into use with the advancement of aviation. We had the land mile and the sea mile, which is approximately one-seventh longer than your air mile of America. The nautical mile is often incorrectly called a knot, but a knot is a measure of both distance and time. It is correct to say that a vessel makes ten knots, but to say that she makes ten knots an hour is tautology. The air mile is measured differently from the land mile and the sea mile, it is a land mile minus the retardation of an adverse wind or plus the acceleration of a favoring wind. Thus an aviator could cover many air miles while hovering over a given point on the earth's surface.—Browning's Magazine.

SERMON FROM SHAKESPEARE

The Shakespeare Club diplomas have been sent to the winners. Any contestants whose names were mentioned by the examiner and who have not received their prizes or diplomas, should notify The Advertiser at once.

The tenth prize winner, who omitted to send her name with her papers, proves to be George Dundas, of Ontario. A diploma winner, who also failed to send her name, has been identified as Alice Gilliam, of Mount Brydges. The diplomas are signed only by the president of the local club. As the Century Club failed of organization, no general president for the associated newspapers was appointed.

The Advertiser is delighted with the splendid response of its readers, and wishes that other newspapers had had the same good fortune. The contest proved that a numerous company of Advertiser readers are enthusiastically interested in good literature. It is encouragement to this journal to maintain the high literary standard of the special features of its Saturday edition.

Rev. R. J. Campbell Makes Peace With Congregationalists

Famous Expounder of New Theology Explains His Position—Affirms the Historicity of Jesus—Christ the Centre Fact of His Spiritual Life.

Much the most striking and important episode of the British Congregational Union's gathering took place at a theological conference in Addison Street Congregational Church, Nottingham, recently. It was known that the Rev. R. J. Campbell was to take part in the discussion. Mr. Campbell has not spoken at the meetings of the union for the last four or five years, except on one occasion, when he attended to make a personal statement, and the knowledge of his presence and a rumor that a more sympathetic understanding was to be attempted between the principal exponent of the "New Theology" and its critics, filled the church the last week. The delegates were not disappointed. Mr. Campbell and Dr. Forsyth, who has been the leader on the other side in the controversy to which the "New Theology" has given rise, both spoke, and towards the end of the conference the delegates cheered what was accepted as a formal act of reconciliation. The subject of discussion was: "Does Christianity Necessarily Stand On An Historical Basis?"

The Rev. R. J. Campbell, who followed Dr. Warschauer, of Bradford, said that what they all had in their minds was the issue raised by the "Christ myth" controversy in Germany, and similar views put forward in this country by his friend Dr. Anderson and others. The question was, Did Christ live or did he not, and if he did, was his personality actually necessary, was it necessary now, to the Christian faith, and if not, why not? Mr. Campbell, still less Dr. Warschauer, had done justice to Dr. Anderson. Dr. Anderson did not deny the historicity of Jesus, and though in his judgment, Dr. Anderson greatly undervalued the significance of the earthly Jesus for the development of Christianity, he did not deny that Jesus might have had some influence on the development. Dr. Anderson had done much to make it clear that the new liberal Christianity, which no longer believed Jesus to be divine, was not identical with, but widely different from what was commonly understood as Unitarianism. He felt compelled to speak in a more merely negative side of the position taken by Dr. Anderson, while giving a cordial endorsement, as they would all do, to its positive side. "We are three hundred and thirty years ago," said Mr. Campbell, "that Jesus of Nazareth is inseparable from the eternal Christ." (Applause.) I notice that that remark has been received with some surprise. I hope I am not appearing here under false pretenses. No chance of any moment has been taken place in my theological opinions during the last five years, nor have I any announcement to make this afternoon. I believe some misapprehension exists in that particular. Stating the considerations to which he had referred, Mr. Campbell asked why the Christian Church had survived and prospered, and himself all the devotion formerly given to the pagan Christ. The answer was because Christianity had been able to retain the name of a living Christ but a living Jesus, and it was the latter that had made devotion to the former possible. He ventured to challenge all the negative criticism of the Christian sources to explain away this one fact. Why in the name of all that was reasonable should Christianity be the one faith with spiritual force enough in it to overthrow the Pantheon of Rome and to establish itself on the ruins of the innumerable cults which competed for supremacy in the western civilization in the early days of our era? Christianity succeeded by one thing only, and that was its influence on the purity of its religious idea, coupled with the intense devotion of Christians to their leader which was noted often by hostile historians. It was not abstract ideas that made history, but abstract ideas embodied in personality. "My own experience of Jesus day by day," said Mr. Campbell, "with its influence on me immune to all argument about his non-historicity." (Applause.) Jesus Christ is the central fact of his spiritual

18-Year-Old Hero Of the North Sea

[Henry C. Adams, in London Daily News.]

Albert Freeman, aged 18, is an apprentice on board the Ramsdale trawler Alfred, and on Sunday, Oct. 1, while on the fishing grounds, forty miles due east from the port of Lowestoft, the crew of his smack sighted the Lowestoft trawler Gratitude in a very distressed condition. The fearful sea that was then raging had blown her canvas to ribbons, she had shipped a heavy sea that had swept everything movable off her decks, and carried away three of her crew. Five hands were left on board, and the vessel, with its boom, small boat, all had gone. The two survivors, Richard Gennery, third hand, and Edwin Chappell, fourth hand, were rescued by the Gratitude. The vessel was in a very bad way, and the crew were exhausted. The Gratitude, under the command of the skipper, had been out for some time, and the crew were in a very bad way. The Gratitude, under the command of the skipper, had been out for some time, and the crew were in a very bad way.

unless some other course was pursued the Gratitude would drift away and founder before their eyes. Then it was that Albert Freeman, at the suggestion of Captain Denny, his skipper, came forward and volunteered to go in the vessel's small boat to the rescue of the doomed men, and alone in a mountain sea he braved the waves and made his way to the Gratitude's side. The third hand saw him coming, and, reaching over the vessel's quarter, he helped him on board just as angry waves smashed and stove in the boat against the smack's side. With the aid of his strong arm, the very next attempt by the Alfred to get a line aboard was successful, and with the Gratitude in tow, Lowestoft was sighted two days later, and the word being passed round that that port a powerful tug was quickly dispatched, and brought all safely into port on the Wednesday afternoon.

Deeds such as these make us proud of our island seamen. At the call of the distressed and falling, they risk their lives, and in this case, single-handed and with almost no food, he braved the sea, and, as it would seem, a very likely place for an experiment of the kind, when Mr. Broadhurst himself stood against a Liberal, and it perished altogether before 1880.

Mr. Henry Broadhurst, who died recently at Cromer, England, was a favorite of Mr. Gladstone's. Mr. Gladstone's later years, and though he was sufficiently in the swim in 1906 to win at Leicester by a majority of over 7,000, he somehow lost his best into the fight which he was yet to win by a busy afternoon of his life. He was, as someone has said, the first Labor member of the House, but about 1872, he was elected to the House of Commons, and he joined a labor representation league, which was formed to get workingmen into the House, and which did in 1874 achieve the return for Stafford of Mr. Alexander Macdonald, a moderate politician, whom some people would now describe as a "Lib-

SIR W. H. LEVER SPEAKS ON ECONOMY OF HIGH WAGES

The Soap King Says Every Man Must Have More Than a Living Wage—Laborer Must Be Regarded as a Brother—Low Wages Mean Bad Trade.

To his first gift of Lever Park, a large part of the hillside of Rivington, which he gave to the town of Rivington, England, a few years ago, Sir William Lever has lately added the gift of Rivington Hall, a fine old Georgian house, standing at the foot of the hill, overlooking the town. The hall has been somewhat repaired, and is now a beautiful establishment. It will be used, in the part, for a tea house for the public, and, as to the rest, to contain a museum of the soap business, and a picture gallery of the soap business. On Oct. 12, the Lord Mayor of Liverpool formally opened the museum, and the shadow of a face on the wall of the soap business, and a picture gallery of the soap business. On Oct. 12, the Lord Mayor of Liverpool formally opened the museum, and the shadow of a face on the wall of the soap business, and a picture gallery of the soap business.

Before the fact of the economy there was a luncheon in Rivington Great Barn, one of two ancient barns which, as Sir William Lever, pointed out later, cannot be sold for anything but a ruin. Sir William Lever presided, and proposed the toast of the trade and commerce of Liverpool and the other towns which were represented. People were beginning to realize, he said, more generally that towns and cities should have ideals, and among them the ideal of an open-air space, if possible high on the hillside, with an atmosphere different from that of the sea-level. Such questions were not so much questions of finance as of sound policy. He did not believe that these great boons cost much in proportion to the benefit which they conferred. The city should be a place of beauty, and the citizen should be the citizen who heaped all the benefits on the municipality. While the citizens might have ideas which individually they could not realize for themselves, it was in the power of the municipality, acting collectively, to realize all these rights and proper the city.

Raising Working-Class Conditions. It was being said that the nation was on the verge of a great crisis, a crisis greater than any in its history. These things were said in a crisis, if they were suffering from labor unrest, he feared that they had not always in the past done what was due to them, and that their troubles were troubles that they had brought on themselves by neglect of their opportunities. Nowadays they had opportunities of raising the conditions of the working classes. He felt that the time was coming when they would consider themselves as men living in the

BARRIER OF LIGHTS TO PRESERVE FISH

Danes Try Novel Experiment to Prevent a Piscatorial Emigration.

If the Danes cannot keep the Germans out of their territorial waters they will have lost the fish. At this time of the year there is a great migratory movement of fish from the Baltic to the North Sea, where they spawn, and the course of the schools lies through the Little Belt, between the islands of Fano and Funen.

On advice given by the Biological Institute of Copenhagen, the Government is attempting to make the fish spawn in home waters by laying a cable fitted with a continuous row of powerful electric lights across the straits. Fish are notoriously attracted by single lights, and Italian fishermen especially use lights for catching purposes very extensively, but the idea of the Biological Institute experts is that the fish will not cross a continuous electric light barrier.

The effect remains yet to be seen, but at all events there should be some grand sport for fishermen meanwhile in the Little Belt.
