Wounded and Invalid Soldiers Stage Demonstrations in Petrograd

Petrograd, via London, June 11.—Energetic support of the provisional government by the Cossacks has been pledged by their delegate to the Congress of Peasants, M. Kuban.

The delegate added that when "Leninist agitators came to Cossack territory they were greeted with the word 'Go,' and they went.

The congress of peasants, which is sitting at Novo-Tscherkask, capital of the territory of the Don Cossacks, has telegraphed greetings to the American, British, French and Japanese Ambassadors at Petrograd.

Wounded Heroes Petrograd, via London, June 11.—A host of wounded and sick soldiers from the hospitals paraded the streets yesterday in a grand demonstration in favor of a continuance of the war.

It is remarkable that, by the fortune of war, Mr. Redmond was picked up mortally wounded by an Ulster ambulance and was attended in his last moment by Ulstermen.

Resumption of Smashing Offensive on Franco-British and the Italian Front Presaged by War News of the Day

The wiping out of the German salient at Messines appears in the light of later developments, to be merely the prelude to a projected battle of a far mightier description, after a German reaction of a surprisingly feeble character.

The official statement of raids along the front is expressive of the recent frequently reported heavy artillery fire on the Belgian front.

In the meantime there are indications that General Sarrail is preparing to resume the offensive in Macedonia, the Bulgarian official announcement reporting a great increase in the violence of the Allied artillery fire on this front.

Another gleam of light has pierced the dark clouds hanging over Russia. The Cossacks have again voiced their determination to support the provisional government and there are indications that they will receive strong backing from the peasants.

Petrograd, June 10, via London, June 11.—President Wilson's note to Russia, dealing with the aims of the United States, in the war, is published today by all the morning newspapers.

The Herald, editorially says that the message is a clear and concrete presentation of America's, as well as the Allies purposes.

The Daily News says: "The message will be a powerful and welcome reinforcement to statesmen like Kerensky, who are laboring to preserve the stability and direct the liberated vigor of the Russian people."

The Mail, also declares that all the allies can readily accept every one of President Wilson's principles, and says that the message hits the mark in every sense.

Additional Advance by the British Troops at Messines Nets More Gains; Heavy Artillery in Macedonia May Precede Big Battle There

Bulletin, London, June 11.—The British have made an additional advance south of Messines, according to an official statement issued by the war office this morning.

The statement follows: "There was considerable artillery activity on both sides during the night east of Epehy. Bodies of hostile troops assembling in this area, were dispersed by our fire.

"Our own and the enemy's artillery showed great activity last night south of Ypres. Our line has again been advanced slightly south of Messines."

"Macedonian front: There was a hurricane fire of short duration by the enemy artillery at intervals in the Cerna Bend. During the night the artillery fire was fairly violent. German detachments reconnoitering successfully brought back prisoners.

CRISIS VERY NEAR IN CHINA

Dissolution of Parliament is Demanded by Rebel Governor

TROOPS REACH PEKING

President Determined Not to Accede to Rebel Ultimatum

Peking, June 11.—Events are moving rapidly toward a crisis in the political situation. General Chang Hsun, former military governor of Anhwei province, several thousands of whose troops have reached Peking, yesterday delivered an ultimatum, demanding the dissolution of parliament within 48 hours.

The Associated Press is informed officially that President Li Yuan Hung has refused to accede to this demand unless such action can be taken in accordance with the clauses of the constitution. Members of parliament are urging the President not to dissolve the legislature, thus forcing Chang Hsun to act against the regulations.

Peking, June 11.—President Li Yuan Hung has announced a willingness to accede to the demand of General Chang Hsun that parliament be dissolved and has drawn up a mandate of dissolution. Dr. Wa Ting Fang, the acting Premier, however, has declined to countersign the decree and his signature is necessary to give effect to it.

ROMANIAN SITUATION

Bulgaria Claiming Only Territory Where Her Language is Spoken

Berlin, via London, June 11.—Bulgaria has no intention of trying to carry the war into Greece, according to a statement made by the Bulgarian Premier, R. Radoslavoff, in an interview given to the Berlin newspapers on Saturday.

"It is not in the direction of our politics, however, to carry the war into Greece. The violations of international law, which the entente has permitted itself in Greece are no incentive for us to follow suit. In spite of the fact that the entente has forced Greece to remove the envoys of the central powers, the latter cherish only sentiments of friendship for Greece, which has been loyal to its king.

"Even without taking the offensive we are looking into the future on this front with complete confidence. Things are going our own way, and the same holds good on the Russian front. We are fully informed of the state of affairs in Russia, where confusion is far worse than admitted. No danger is menacing us from this source."

Asked regarding the Bulgarian attitude toward Roumania, Premier Radoslavoff answered: "The Bulgarians are only claiming territory in which Bulgarian is spoken. The Dobruja belongs to this area, as it was forcibly taken from us by the treaty of Bucharest. We are insisting that such territories as are populated by Bulgarian-speaking people become again part of the country. If the principle of the right of nationalities to determine their allegiance is recognized, the Bulgarian-speaking sections of Macedonia and Dobruja will be allotted to Bulgaria."

The minister declared that the political and economic situation in Bulgaria was wholly satisfactory. He said that the crops, both in Bulgaria and Serbia, promise to be the best in recent years.

Austrian Situation Berlin, via London, June 11.—The Budapest correspondent of the Berlin papers describe the appointment of Count Esterhazy as premier, as coming as lightning out of a blue sky. A Tageblatt despatch says that the failure of Dr. Wekerle to form a coalition cabinet was due to the refusal of Counts Andrássy and Apponyi to accept portfolios on the ground of their advanced years. Count Esterhazy, however, is said to have the support of both leaders.

LEAFS BROKE WITH ROYALS

Montreal, Though Out Hit, Took Opening Encounter By 4 to 2

FIFTY-FIFTY BREAK Leafs Won Second Game, a Heavy Hitting Contest

Montreal, June 11.—The Leafs and Royals broke even here in a double-header Saturday, the locals winning the first by a score of 4 to 2, while the visitors took the second by the score of 6 to 2.

Tripple and Gerner were the opposing heavies in the initial clash, the former being derricked in the fourth inning in favor of Warhop. In this spasm the locals put across three runs, and this virtually won the game for them, as the Leafs, while out-hitting the Royals, had their bingles wasted.

The second game was a free-hitting contest, in which Whiteman had two homers and Cather one. Thompson and Duffy were the respective pitchers, the former having a margin on his opponent at all stages. The scores:

First game—R. H. E. Toronto . . . 001001000—2 8 1 Montreal . . . 100300000—4 4 1 Batteries—Warhop, Tripple and Lalonde; Gerner and Howley.

WILSON AGAINST ANTE-WAR STATUS

Declares War Aims of U. S. And Stand on Annexations and Indemnities

MUST SECURE PEACE For Which Purpose Alone Power Should be Readjusted

Washington, June 11.—President Wilson, in a communication to the new Government of Russia, has made plain the war aims of the United States and its position on "no annexations; no indemnities."

"No territory must change hands except for the purpose of securing those who inhabit it a fair chance of life and liberty," says the communication.

"No indemnities must be insisted on except those that constitute payment for manifest wrong done."

"No readjustments of power must be made, except such as will tend to secure the future peace of the world and the future welfare and happiness of its people."

In unmistakable terms, President Wilson declares against Germany's proposal to restore the "status quo" before the war.

CANADIANS USED BURNING OIL

Heavy Losses Inflicted on Foe During Raid on Saturday Morning

(Specialist of the Canadian Press) Canadian Headquarters in France, (via London), June 10.—The raid of Saturday morning is now known to have resulted in the infliction of far more serious losses on the enemy than at first estimated, while our casualties were relatively light, considering the number of men engaged and the depth to which the enemy's position was penetrated.

In one section of the front, it is stated in the official report, thirty dead were counted, and twelve prisoners were taken by our men, whose losses were only 2 killed and five wounded.

As described elsewhere in this issue, the raid was on a front of two miles, penetrating to a depth of half a mile and followed the taking and holding of trench sections essential to preventing a flanking attack.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE STAGE AND SCREEN

“THE CRISIS” is the latest but kindly advice Miss Hesse Eyton, who plays Virginia Carvel in “The Crisis” which is coming to the Grand Opera House June 14, 15 and 16th, gives gratis to young girls who are “movie-struck” Miss Eyton ought to know better than most actresses who have succeeded in the silent drama what she is talking about, since her entire life has been spent in California in the heart of the studio country.

When the screen-struck legions apply, they are told it will be necessary to buy stock in the concern before they can work. Many of the girls make heroic sacrifices to raise the pitiful ten or twenty dollars required, and the swindlers, when they can put the importunate near-actress off no longer, decamp with their miserably-gotten gains.

“There was little opportunity four or five years ago for a girl to secure regular employment in the movies. To-day there is no opportunity at all. There are thousands of experienced actors and actresses on the waiting lists of all the movie concerns and some of these men and women are known to the stage artists. So you can perceive that the day when a girl with no stage experience is engaged to enact regular parts in motion picture plays is past.

Our Uncle Sam is slow to fight, no warlike bluff as tenders; he first makes sure that he is right, then busts his best suspenders. So, loath is he to mix in scraps, he is so mild a fellow, that Bill and other bone-head chaps imagined he is yellow.

looking gory. Since first our starry flag arose, by war-worn soldiers greeted, our uncle's met all kinds of foes, and never been defeated. For when he draws his shining blade, defeat must never dim it; and though in carnage he may wade, he'll always go the limit. That's what his shining sword is for, to knock a foe man silly, and this will be no writ-slop war; write that down, Kaiser Willie. Oh there'll be grief in German lands, and dark and gloomy weather, now Uncle Sam spits on his hands, and cracks his heels together.

Work of Chaplains During their stay in Bramshott, in England, which was short, the chaplains went to the hospitals to cheer up the wounded. Holding services, he said, was only a very small part of the work of the chaplains. They assisted in sorting out the mail for the boys, and declared that 99 per cent. of the blame for non-arrival of mail to the boys at the front came from the senders. Papers should not be tied with a bit of ordinary string, nor be addressed with a lead pencil, for they would never get there.

Little Rest at Rest Camps. Captain Jenkins graphically described the trip across the channel to France, which took six hours, to a “rest camp” where there was very little rest, a trip in French railway coaches, and a long march over cobbles stones when many fell on the way entirely exhausted from fatigue, and only the mechanical action of the lower limbs kept the others going. At the end of the journey a sigh of relief went up from the whole battalion.

At Godwoodville they disembarked and for the first time heard the sound of the guns which were at Ypres. They were quartered at farms, the men had by far the better accommodation, being quartered in the hay, while in one house nine officers were quartered in the kitchen. The family ate their meals on the sewing machine table, a bit of bread and butter being their principal menu. Only one dish, cooked by these people, was really delicious—the omelet, which contained 36 eggs.

The chaplain has peculiar duties to perform, going from bullet to bullet and from trench to trench doing what he can for the men, who entrust to him their jewelry, trinkets, prayer books, etc., some of which he writes a letter to wives or sweethearts. One lad asked him to chance a money order for him so that he could buy tobacco. This he willingly did, and it soon became known

DECLINE IN SUB. LOSSES On the accompanying diagram the weekly losses since the 4th of March are indicated, each ship of more than 1,600 tons being taken as a unit and each ship under that tonnage as a quarter unit. It will be seen that between the 15th of April and the 13th of May the losses were extraordinarily high, due to the German submarines slipping out of port through neutral waters.

RENEWING THE BLOOD Every drop of blood in the human body passes through the veins many times every day, carrying off the impurities of the body and getting cleansed of them in the kidneys, unless the blood is abundant, and rich and red, it cannot free itself of the impurities which it gathers on its way through the body, and then you get some sort of blood poisoning. The effect of this shows itself in many ways. Your face grows sallow and often the impurities in the blood force themselves through the skin forming pimples, and blotches. Other indications of poor blood are pale lips, frequent headaches, attacks of dizziness, poor appetite, a constantly tired feeling, shortness of breath at the least exertion, coupled with more or less violent palpitation of the heart.

"Why, Gwennie," he said smiling, in his natural voice; "this is a nice welcome for an old friend. Don't you remember me? I'm Weir Menzies."
She gave a quick exclamation and pulled the door back. Her face did not for a moment bear any very no-ticable expression of delight at the reunion. That, however, was only for a second. The next instant she had thrust out her hand with a bright smile.
"Why, so it is! Who'd have thought of seeing you here—and in a gig like that! Come right in. Mr.
Menzies. I am glad to see you."
"After you, Gwennie," said Menzies, politely but firmly. "Lead the way. Never mind the door. I'll shut it."
CHAPTER XI.
A Lady of Resource.
Gwennie Lyne was a lady with a reputation—or without one. It dependent on the point of view. As far back as Menzies could remember she had been a notable figure in the little coterie of master criminals who knew no nation and to whom the world is a hunting-ground. It was long ago, in the days when bank robbery had been a profitable pastime, she had organized and even played an executive part in exploits any one of which ought to have made her fortune.
Menzies knew her record almost by heart, for she was one of the very few "classic" criminals who brought to bear on an undertaking an ingenuity, enterprise and audacity that had won her through in a score of tight places.
At ten years of age she had assisted her mother and brothers to pick pockets in the West End of London.
At twenty she had married Tom Lyne, bank burglar and gun-man.
At twenty-one she had effected a particularly daring escape from a French prison. At twenty-five she had held a pistol to a watchman's head at a bank in Mexico while her companions ransacked the vaults. At thirty she had had probably more experience in every grade of professional crime—short of murder, which is not professional crime—than any person of her own age.

virtue of taste, at any rate, and probably the place had been taken already furnished—and for a purpose.
He wondered whether its purpose had been entirely fulfilled or not.
"Sit you down, Mr. Menzies," she said briskly. "It's early hours for a call, but I guess you've got some reason at the back of your head. You'll have some breakfast. I'll go and see about it and make myself tidy."
The detective's broad figure blocked the doorway. He smilingly shook his head and with one hand behind him felt for the key. There was none in the lock. He jerked a chair toward him with his foot, placed it against the door and sat down.
"No breakfast for me, Gwennie, thank you. And you look very charming as you are. Suppose we talk."
She made a graceful gesture of resignation and sat down, her hands in her lap. "I guess I wouldn't poison you," she said.
"Aren't you a deportee, Gwennie?" asked the man. "Surely my memory isn't playing me tricks. Wasn't an order of deportation made against you—let me see—six years ago now?"
You will remember a diamond tiara
in Bond Street."
She faced him placidly. "You've got a good memory. What are you going to do about it?" he asked.
"Oh, nothing much. I needn't tell a lady of your experience it would have been wiser to stay where you belong."
"See section four, vagrancy act eighteen hundred and twenty-four," she laughed. "That's it, isn't it? Oh, I've been there before. You can't alarm me any by talking. And Menzies knew the astute old lady was trying to make him lose his temper.
He lifted his clay pipe from his lips. "I've always admired your talents, Gwennie—the rose and sweet him mocking cursey—and we've been pretty good pals—business part."
"Lord bless the man!" she cried.
"Is this a proposal? I do believe he's making love to me." She shook a well-manicured finger at him. "I warn you—I might accept you." He grinned appreciatively at the threat, but shook his head reprovingly. "I'm out for business, Gwennie.
Let's cut out the funny stuff and get down to hard tactics. If you won't listen to him I have to take you along, that's all."
"And if I do?" she interpolated quickly.
"I'm making no bargains. Will you sit tight?"
"I'll be as good as gold," she

SIDE TALKS

Yesterday I rode to town beside a woman whom I have always admired but known very slightly.
She is one of those people who do wonders with a small income of both time and money. Her three children are always daintily dressed, her home is most attractive and she herself looks as smart as a business wa-man with three thousand a year to spend on herself.
Moreover she is always ready to help with any charity or philanthropy in the town, ever interested in the worthwhile things of the community or the nation.
She Has A Chronic Shopping List.
I have often wondered how she accomplishes so much and yesterday I discovered one of the factors in her efficiency—namely her methods of shopping.
In the first place she has a chronic shopping list.
That is, she keeps a little book in which she jots down the things she needs or will need in the near future.
She goes in town every other Monday morning because Monday is the usual bargain day. She goes early not only because one gets the best bargains then but because one can accomplish twice as much before the more crowded hours.
Monday Is Not Her Wash Day. promised, a demure half smile still lurking about her lips.
Menzies was too old a hand to make the mistake of despising such an antagonist. The woman knew every trick in the game as he did. An experience that went back to the cradle, and a cunning and brain power by which the organized detectiva forces of the world had often been defeated had placed her chief among and successfully carry out great coons.
On his side however, Menzies had one factor on which he placed hopes. There is no such thing as honor among thieves. Sometimes

MISSIE'S DRESS.
By Anabel Worthington.
This charming little frock has more than one good point, and they are all emphasized by tassets! It is so simple and the directions for making are so clear that any girl may safely attempt to make it for herself. In spite of its simplicity it has the indescribable something called style. Long sleeves were chosen as being most appropriate for this type of dress, but they may be finished in two ways—the bell shaped sleeves have applied trimming bands which give the effect of a cuff, while the full bishop sleeves are gathered into a deep cuff. The skirt has three gores and is gathered all around the waist line. The waist is without fulness across the back, but the gathers in front are concealed by two narrow belts buttoning in opposite directions. Buttons from neck to hem give a smart touch. A collar in the new shape and the latest thing in pockets are the final items which make this dress well worth having.
The misses' dress, No. 8,295, is cut in sizes 14 to 20 years. Width at the lower edge of skirt is 2 3/4 yards. As on the figure, the 16-year size requires 4 3/4 yards of 36 inch material, with 3/4 yard 38 inch contrasting material.
