SENERAL NEWS OF CANADA

Big Fire in Ottawa-Other Items.

NIAGARA FALLS, Aug. 14.—Saturday afternoon one of the crew of the new Mc d of the Mist saw a body floating face downward in the gorge below the Falls. An attempt was made to get the body, but it floated into an eddy on the Canadian side before it could be reached.

Mate William Glessbrook, of the Maid of the Mist, got a small skiff and secured the body, which was towed to the Canadian wharf by the steamer.

The body appeared to be that of a man about 50 years of age and about 5 feet 10 inches in height. It was entirely nude and had the appearance of having been in the water for some time. On the back were numerous bruises and the scalp was nearly torn from the head.

The body was in a bad state of decomposition, and will have to be buried immediately.

OTTAWA'S BLAZE

OTTAWA, Aug. 14.—A destructive fire broke out shortly before 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the rear of J. B. Abbott's carriage factory, Wellington street, right in the Chaudiere lumber district, and burned fercely for three hours, in which time about $30,000 worth of damage was done. The fire originated in a three-story wooden building in the rear of the carriage factory, Wellington and Bay streets, and swept the whole of the rear of the block 250 feet. A strong wind use blowing from the north and the fire worked its way through to Wellington street, and for a while it looked not only as if the whole block would go, but that the fire would get beyond control. Several times the buildings on the south side of Wellington stree caught fire, but were promptly put out by the firemen, who worked splendidly, fighting the fire not only with pluck and skill, but with excellent judgment. Only one house, that at the west end of the block, ocupied by J. Latremouille, entirely destroyed and the adjoining house, occupied by T. Forguson, and B. Haram, was guitted. The stores, with residences over, of J. E. Grant, jeweler, and C. W. Willmot, lapipary, were slightly damaged. Mr. Abbott lost two horses and forty new carriages, together with a large quantity of stock in the rear building, but his factory proper, which is a solid stone building, was only slightly damaged. He estimates his loss at $15,000, on insurance.

While this fire was at its height the fire alarm whistle in Eddy's mill across the river in Hull sounded, and it was thought his factory was again doomed. It turned out, however, that the fire was in a pile of mill wood at some distance from the paper and other mills, and although it burnt until midnight and destroyed 2,000 cords of wood it did not spread to any of the buildings.

Drowned in the Niagara.

Niagara Falls, Aug. 14.—Thomas J.

Tester, employed by A. Schollkopf as a blacksmith or the work of the hydraulic canal, met his death Saturday evening a little before 8 o'clock while in bathing accompanied by his helper, at the head of the new inlet canal known as the cofferdam. Tester could not swim, and had started to wade out to a large boom, which was anchored some distance from the dam.
He suddenly slipped into a hole, and before his companion could reach him he had sunk for the last time. The body was recovered. The drowned man was an Englishman by birth, and has been in this country five years.

Those Military Changes.

OTTAWA, Aug. 14.—The officer from England who is to be appointed Quartermaster-General, whose name for the presents withheld, is a friend of Major-General Herbert, and was along with him in the Egyptian campaign. There are also to be a number of other radical changes, transfers and so forth. Among the officers to be retired are Deputy-Adjutant General Straubenzie, of three and four district, and Villiers, of Winnipeg. The positions of Brigade Majors, with the exception of the one at Montreal, will be abolished, at all events such are the changes proposed by Major-General Herbert and which are said to be embodied in a memorandum waiting the approval of Council.

Teck Cramps and Was Drowned.

Petersenoo, Aug 14.— John Brown, painter, with four young men, went out on Goose Island, on Saturday, to have a bath. The five were enjoying their swim and Brown was out in the middle of the stream. Suddenly his companions noticed a peculiar movement of his hands and called attention to it. Before he could be reached Brown had sunk and rose no more. It is supposed that the unfortunate young man was overcome by cramps and was unable to support himself.

"A CRAZY SCHEME."

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—A confession may by Herr Rimler, formerly an assistant seretary in the Austrian Foreign Office showing that he was working in conjuntion with M. Pichon, a member of the Newsch Chamber of Deputies, incolves the showing that he was working in conjunction with M. Pichon, a member of the French Chamber of Deputies, involves the leaders of the Hungarian independents in a scheme for bringing about a Rassian, French and Hungarian alliance. According to Rimler's story he sent to St. Petersburg, where he offered the Rassian Government the aid of the Hungarian Radicais in a proposed attempt to force Austria to evacuate Bosnia. In exchange for this aid Russia was to assist Hungary to obtain complete independence. The plan was disclosed to Kossuth, the Hungarian patriot now living in exile in 'taly'. He declared that it was a crazy scheme of crazy men. The Russian Government declined to enter into negotiations with Rimler on the ground that the Hungarian Radicals would not be able to execute their promises.

The Times on Silver.

London, Aug. 14.—The Times, commenting upon the proceedings in the United States Congress, says that a parity between gold and silver must be maintained is agreed by all parties in the United States. If Mr. Wilson's bill becomes a law, the thing can be done; but, that it can be done if the Sherman act remains in force, or if silver be admitted to free coinage, is more than doubtful. In either case there is virtually no limit to the silver certificates or coin with which the country would be flooded. The silver men's bill and Mr. Bland's bill mentioned an increased ratio. Whatever this vague the country would be flooded. The silver men's bill and Mr. Bland's bill mentioned an increased ratio. Whatever this vague language may mean it may be taken as a certain ratio. It would not be high enough to be safe. If it were it would defeat the silver men's purpose. Moreover, whatever it might be at the moment there would be no security possible against its becoming unsafe and faulty. If Mr. Wilson's bill becomes a law there will be no difficulty remaining which cannot be easily overcome and credit may be expected to gradually revive. There can be no finality in such legislation as the silver men are advocating, nor does their past record give them any claim to be heard on the currency question.

A Complex Situation.

LONDON, Aug.—Discount was quoted during the week at 4 for three months and 3 for short. The Bank of England reserve is now £14,500,000. The withdrawal of another million from the bank will probably be regarded with equanimity, but anything beyond that amount is certain to cause the bank's rate to be advanced to 5 per cent. The present situation is a complex one and it is difficult to forecast the outcome. The concensus of opinion is that the present bank rate will check further serious demands from the United States. England and the Triple Alliance.

Berlin, Aug. 7.—Prior to his departure for Homburg Lord Rosebery, the British Foreign Minister, had a conference with Emperor William at Osborne House, Queen Victoria's residence on the Isle of Wight. As soon as the fact became known, the newspapers renewed the discussion as to England's adhesion to the triple alliance. The Hamburger Nachrichten, which is one of the orgates of Prince Bismarck, says, in commenting upon the matter, that after the Siamese failure England is trying to obtain Germany's support in her coming to the Siamese failure England is trying to obtain Germany's support in her coming conflict with Russia and France. The Nachrichten argues that Germany ought not to abandon her traditional friendship with England, but at the same time she cannot make a dangerous sacrifice for a power that is likely to offer only sympathy with Germany in time of the latter's need.

MORISSETTE GOES FREE.

The Boston Court Refuses to Graut Ex-Boston, Aug. 7.-Alfred Morissette, the alleged forger and fugitive from the Dominion of Canada, was before Judge Nelson in the United States Circuit Court here. James Kunbar, the crown prosecutor for the district of Quebec, read the depositions from Elias Mallioux and Eustace Germain, both of whom were accomplices

Germain, both of whom were accomplices of Morissette.

The testimony of both was very damaging to the alleged criminal, but Judge Nelson was of the opinion that their testimony could not be relied upon, and, furthermore, that no judge in Quebec would convict Morissette on such evidence. Mr. Dunbar made a plea to have the prisoner extradited, asying that he did not wish to have the man convicted but to be extradited under the new treaty, and that it was probable that the Canadian Government would find additional evidence to convict him at the trial. Mr. Dunbar cited cases and quoted law and then asked that the petition of the Canadian Government be granted. Judge Nelson took the case under advisement and discharged Morissette.

Case.

[Copyright, 1886, by Charles B. Lewis,]
I have been considerably pained and humiliated over the fact that an item is going the rounds of the press to the effect that I was bunkoed out of $500 at the World's fair. Some of the editors extend their heartfelt sympathies; others advise me to-apply to the courts for a guardian. Had it been an item charging me with sheep stealing, bigamy, arson or jail breaking I should have iaid back on my dignity and never let on that I was worried. As it is I feel that it is due my character to make an explanation.

real that it is due my character to make an explanation.

I was taking a stroll on the Midway plaisance when a stranger tapped me on the shoulder and joyfully exclaimed:

"Hello, old man! but who'd have thought of meeting you here!"

We shook hands, 'I didn't exactly remember whether his name was Jones or Brown, or whether I had met him at the Sullivan Corbett prize fight or at the opening of a new cemetery up the Hudson. I am no hand to go into all these little details.

tails.

"How are all the boys on Newspaper row?" he asked as he offered me a cigar.

"All well and content," I replied as I bit the end off.
"And my friend the mayor?"

"Tolerably fair, I believe."

"And the boys down in Wall street keep busy. I see?"

"And the boys down in wall street keep busy, I see!"
"Yes."
"Well, old man, I'm a heap glad I met you. Just 'does my eyes good to look at a man from New York! Remember our littip to Tong faland last summer?"
"I do."
I humbly acknowledge that I didn't remember anything of the kind, but I didn't want to hurt the man's feelings.
"And our excursion to Long Branch?"
"Yes."
I humbly acknowledge again that I

"Yes."

I humbly acknowledge again that I prevaricated, but what was I to do? You can't hurt a man more than to forget you went on an excursion with him.

"By George! but this is lucky," be feelingly exclaimed as he patted me on the shoulder. "You've got a family Bible in the house, of course?"

"I—I—yes."

"But you've no objection to a new one—something in Turkay—moroco—gilt-edged—2,000 illustrations—worth #25?"

"No."

"No."
"Then come with me. Big publishing house down here failed the other day, and I bought 100 Bibles for a song. Have given away all but five to my friends. Just a little token of remembrance, you knowsomething to keep my memory green."
Could I suspect such a man as that of having evil designs? Had I the slightest reason for taking him for a bunko munit's all right enough to say I ought to have known better than to go with him, but put yourself in my place. Does it seem possible that a bad man would want to present you with a gilt edged Bible worth ₹25? good many squares and flually turned boto a doorway and ascended a flight of stairs and entered a small room. There were five Bibles piled up on a counter—just such Bibles as my friend had described. He ordered a narrow minded young man to put one of them in a box and address it to me, charges prepaid. I was expressing my thanks in a broken voice when a sad faced young man called our attention to the fact that he was an agent for a Cuban lottery, and that he would be rejoiced to see us hit the corporation for about $20,000. I thought it real kind of him to express himself in that way, and I frankly told him so. That seemed to please him, and after that I think be gave me his full confidence.

The dear friend who had brought me to the Bible house didn't seem to take any interest in hitting $20,000 in that lottery—that is, he didn't for the first few minutes, it was only after the sad faced young man had explained how much good we could accomplish in the name of charity with such a sum of money that he threw off his mantle of indifference and took me aside for a private talk. He said we had struck a soft snap and that it would be almost criminal on our part not to take advantage of it. His half of what we struck would be turned over to a Chicago hospital, while I might do as I liked with mine. I believe we bought $100 worth of tickets. I think the idea was to hit all the prizes in the lottery at once and bankrupt the whole island of Cuba. Then we put up $250 apiece to prove to the sad faced young man that we were financially responsible for something or other. My friend seemed to know just what to do, and I let him manange the business. There was a drawing. It was a drawing without any great amount of ceremony connected with it. We didn't hit arothing the same and that it. We didn't hit arothing the same and that it. We didn't hit arothing the same and that it. We didn't hit arothing the same and that it. I was sittin in a saloon when a fellow rides up from the north on a played out mewl. He was a cross eyed man and looked as if he'd bin cryjin. The feller who owned the saloon was city marshal, and the cross eyed man calls him out and sez to him: "'Ar' this a free and enlightened kentry

"Waal, the feller sort o' tumbles off his ole mewl and calls up the crowd to licker at his expense, and he had to put down 18 big dollars to settle the bill.

"The case is jest this,' he says as he stands up on a bar'l so that all could see him. 'A feller who was campin with me up at Puma Creek stole my watch and dug out. I dug arter him. In crossin the creek he got mired in the quicksands. When I overtook, him his mewl had gone outer sight clean down to the saddle, but had struck hard pan and stopped. Our money was now all gone, and so we went out and walked up and down in the glad sunshine and spoke to each other only at long intervals. When we finally parted, my friend acted chilly and distant and left me abruptly. I haven't the least doubt that he had thought it all over and concluded I was a bunko steerer.

I don't want any sympathy. I won't ad mit that I was bunkoed. I simply met a generous man who took me for an old friend of his and wanted to make me a present. True, the Bible hasn't reached me yet, but there might have been a mistake in the address, or the express car might have been held up. He didn't want to go into the lottery enterprise. When I think of how I encouraged him and realize that my enthusiasm lost him $300 in hard cash, my conscience cries out that I am a villain. If we ever meet again, I couldn't blame him if he refused to recognize me. "'In course you opens fire on him?' sez

SALT RIVER JOE.—The other day there came riding up to THE KICKER office an ancient looking reptile who called for the editor and announced himself as Salt River Joe. Joseph was mounted on a one eyed, obtailed cayuse of the drift period, and Joseph himself had ha'r two feet long and a buckskin suit of the flavor of 50 years ago.

"What's all this yere about?" asked Joe as we stepped out.

"But yo' hain't no court of justice!' yells the man as he drops off the bar".
"Mebbe not!' sex the marshal as he pulls his gun and looks around. 'Mebbe some other reptile in this town is a court of justice! If so, let me hear what his voice sounds like. If thar's any dispute on that pint we might as well settle her now. I won't hear any shoutin, and so this year cross eyed tenderioot is fined $10 more fur back talk, and court is adjourned."
"But did he collect the fines?" I asked as Cactus Jin quietly chuckled over the reminacence.

BOTH OF US DANCED AND DODGED.

GUYED ON Apache avenue Monday afternoon. As is generally known and understrond, we want to be postmaster here. We have wanted for the last three years. From the present outlook we may want for three years to come. We were on our way to the bank at 2 o'clock when we encountered the critter who presides over affairs at the postoffice. He claims that we made a move to draw on him. His actions certainly led us to believe that he intended to get the drop on us. It seems that he fired five shots, and we fired four as both of us danced and dodged around on the street, and then the crowd interfered. We do not apologize for shooting at the postmaster, but for not hitting him. In fact, we haven't the cheek to look a Chinaman in the face since that event.
As editor of The Kicker we ought to have made at least one shot tell. As mayor we ought to have plunked him twice. As a representative of this great and glorious territory we should not have wasted a shot. We feel disgraced and humiliated and realize that we deserve the local censure and ridicule being heaped on our head. We aregoing over to Lone-Jack in a day or two to

Occasionally the Athens colony in Watertown furnishes the Reporter with a news item, and always something sensational. The latest to conthing sensational. The latest to contribute in this way is Mrs. Anna Cronk Denney, relict of the late James Denney. This forlorn widow had been living in Watertown and was without thoughts of matrimony until last Tuesday when she met James Watson, farmer, of Stone Mills. He met the widow, fell a victim to her charms, offered her a placeas his housekeeper and was refused. placeas his housekeeper and was refused. Then marriage was suggested, and after tears and smiles she consented. But the fifty-year old farmer forgot to mention that he had another wife. They were married and next day the They were married and next day and farmer told of his other spouse, and No. 2 at once returned to Watertown and told her story. Watson fled and is said to be in Canada. Mrs. Denney said she thought he was drunk when the nuptial knot was tied, but she thought it was a good opportunity to secure a home, and with that object

"Take this seat, madam."

The Broadway car was crowded, and a young lady with a strikingly beautiful face and sylphilke figure had just entered as these words were uttered. The speaker, a fine, manly little fellow of 13, had risen at once and stood smilingly in front of her, prompt to obey the generous impulse that had inspired him. So unusual a sight in New York could not but awaken surprise. The passengers craned their necks. Some titered audibly, and a horrified look came over the face of the fair passenger as she indignantly turned her back in the face of the precoclous youth, who straightway resumed his old position.

The very Rev. Dr. Innis, Dean of the diocese of Huron, preached a very eloquent and instructive sermon on Sunday evening last, in Christ church, Athens, taking for his text the 18th verse of the 1st chapter of St. Paul's first epistle to the Corinthians—"For the preaching of the cross is to them that perish foolishness; but unto us which are saved it is the power of God." The congregation completely filled the church.

At North Williamsburg on Wed nesday, Aug. 9, Mr. Truman Layng, son of Wm. Layng, Athens, was married to Miss Alice Empey, daugh-ter of Albert Empey, of North married to Miss Alice Empey, daugnter of Albert Empey, of North Williamsburg. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's father by the Presbyterian minister, Rev. Mr. Graham, in the presence of a few invited friends. The Reporter extends congratulations.

Many students anxiously scanned the columns of Saturday's Globe, Mail and Empire, for they contained the result of the midsummer exams, which always determine the immediate future of thousands of youths throughout Out-ario. We are pleased to find the result so satifactory in respect to Athen high school. We are not in possession f such information as would enable u to give a comparative statement, but it is certain that the Athens school has, as usual, taken a prominent posi tion among the very best schools in the province. Following are the names of the successful students.—

PRIMARY. W. Ackland, L. Austin, Z. Beach Buell, P. A. Donnslly, G. E. Ellis L. Buell, F. A. Dolmany, G. E. Ellis, A. Gile, M. E. Grenfell, M. Hall. Ella Halladay, E. Hickey, A. M. Hollings-worth, G. Hogun, B. Haskins, K. Jordan, B. Lockerby A. McRae, S. Mitchell, L. Moles, A. Scott, W. Sly, F. Stevens, C. Yates.

JUNIOR LEAVING.

A. Campbell, J. Eyre, B. Gile, C. Grenfell, J. Jordan, E. Knowlton, A. Lamb, B. Tennant, G. W. Wheeler.

Brockville Coll. Inst. Primary Exam-H. Byren, M. Con nell, W. Cooke, C. Cumming, L. Franklin, N. Hollingsworth, F. Horni-brook, M. Rath, T. Serviss, H. Taylor.

Junior Leaving — J. Buell, A. Dear, C. Lane, L. Simpson, R. Thompson. Senior Leaving — J. Brown, J. Mc-Nally, J. H. Sexton. Matriculation—S. Gollan (passed in English, Mathematics, French and German), C. Mylks (also passed in chemistry).

In the foregoing lists of the names of those who have taken honors in general proficiency, says the Recorder, it noticeable that while there are more than twice as many pupils from the town as there are from the country, exactly half the names are those of country pupils. In the appended lists of the successful candidates at the de-partmental examinations, the disparity s much greater still, fourteen out of the twenty names being those of country pupils. Had the town pupils done as good work in proportion to their numbers in the school as their classmates from the country, the total num-ber of names would have been about forty-five.
