The Earl's Son;

TWO HEARTS UNITED

CHAPTER XXVII.

"I have only just come home," he said. "Yes, yes, I know all; my clerk was in court. Why do you not take some rest, my lord; why not go to your room?"

The earl ignored the advice.

"There—there is no time," he said. "I—may die—good God, at any moment! before—before things are put straight! I want your help, Bolton."

He looked up and saw Talbot.

"Ah," he said in his faint, weak voice. "There is Talbot. What do you say, what do you mean to do? You know that it is true—he is my son!"

To the surprise of everyone, Talbot replied, gravely:

"You should be the best judge of that, sir. If you acknowledge his identity, his claim, I should not dream of disputing it."

The earl looked at him keenly, then drew a breath of relief.

"You—you are acting as a man of honour, a Denby, should act!" he said. "I—I am grateful to you. I need not say that you will—will be provided for. There is Wayneford, and—yes, yes, there will be enough for you both."

Talbot started and involuntarily glanced towards the safe. Had the earl destroyed the will in Veronica's favor? If he had not and he were to die suddenly, this fellow, this vagrant would take everything.

"Do not let my position cause you any anxiety, sir," he said. "We have to think of—my cousin." He brought out the word with a difficulty which the listeners understood and appreciated. Really, Mr. Talbot Denby was behaving remarkably well, with a generosity which could scarcely have been expected! "He is lying under a grave charge—"

"He is innocent—he is innocent!" breathed the earl, proudly. "My son commit murder."

"I have declared my belief in his innocence, sir, and I declare it still," said Talbot. "But—but you have remanded him, he may be sent for trial, and—and the evidence—"

"The earl groaned.

"I am rightly punished! Bolton, Saintsbury, what is to be done?"

"Everything shall be done that can be done to help him, my lord," said Mr. Bolton, soothingly. "We will have down the best counsel. We will—"

He stammered and faltered. His clerk, during their drive to Lynne Court, had impressed him with the gravity of the evidence. "Here is Doctor Campbell. You will follow his advice—"

"Campbell, I—I want to see my son!" said the earl, his fiery spirit battling with his physical weakness.

"Presently, presently, my lord!" said the doctor. "Just now you are not strong enough to risk an interview that would be trying to both of you. How soon you will be depends on yourself; you must rest, rest."

His stereotyped formula did not raise a smile at that moment.

"Presently, presently!" said the earl, echoing his words. "I want to speak to Bolton."

They all went out but the lawyer.

"Bolton," said the earl, in his feeble voice, "that—that will I made after Veronica left me, the will leaving Wayneford and my money to Talbot, where is it?"

"You have it; it is in the safe," said Bolton.

"Get it; let me see it. I want Talbot to be provided for. There are the keys."

Bolton opened the safe.

"Here it is, my lord," he said. "and here is the will you made in Miss Veronica's favor. That should have been destroyed. I will do it now."

"Not now—to-morrow. It did not matter. The latest will, leaving Talbot Wayneford and the money would stand, of course. He put both wills back in the safe."

Talbot had gone out with the others, who regarded him in an uneasy silence. But he seemed in no way cast down by the sudden turn of fortune's wheel.

"Of course you are sure of the accuracy of your statement, your memory, Mr. Saintsbury?" he said.

George Saintsbury inclined his head.

"Quite, Mr. Denby. I was present at the clandestine marriage. It was—I am ashamed to say—excellently planned. No one had the least suspicion that it was the earl who had been courting Janet; in fact, suspicion was directed in other quarters; I myself did not escape. As to the identity of the lady I saw in Australia there can be no doubt. We spoke of the wedding and she bound me to secrecy. She had sacrificed herself as the earl had said. Pride is not the monopoly of the upper classes, Mr. Denby; and Janet, I mean the countess, was as proud in her way as the earl himself."

Talbot nodded.

"But the identity of—of this young man?"

"That can be established," said Saintsbury. "There must be many persons who could help him to trace his history and connect it with that of his mother. In my own mind there is no doubt whatever."

Talbot smiled gravely.

"Then I am disinherited!" he said.

"Well, gentlemen, we are all in the hands of Providence. I—I think, if you will excuse me, I will take a turn in the open air."

It was only natural that he should desire to be alone, to face the blow in solitude; and the glances that followed him as he went out were not without sympathy.

He paced up and down the terrace for a time, then went across the lawn and entered the wood. The possession of the pocket-book could not be of much importance now, for there would be no great difficulty in procuring copies of the certificates, but he felt a strange desire to secure the thing, to know what had become of it.

He reached the fatal spot and, looking furtively round, began his search. His nerves had been severely tried of late, and every now and then there crept over him a subtle terror. It seemed to him that the ghost of the murdered man was hovering about the place; he heard his hoarse, husky voice in the rustle of the leaves; the grave still open was a terrible sight, and in imagination he went over every incident of the struggle and again bore the repulsive body in his arms and cast it into the grave. Trembling with a deathly sickness he hunted amongst the bracken and newly fallen leaves; but after awhile he realized the futility of his search, and reflected that the detectives would have left no inch of the ground near the grave unexamined. He rose and went slowly back to the Court, anxiously reviewing his position: After all he still stood to win. Even if the earl acknowledged Ralph Farington as his son and he were proved to be Viscount Lynborough, he was still lying under the charge of murder and might be convicted. How could any jury disregard the evidence? Yes, he would surely be hanged! But even if he were not, if he were proved not guilty, there was nothing, absolutely nothing to direct suspicion towards himself, Talbot; and he still had the world before him. He was a successful politician, was sure of office, perhaps very high of office while his party was in power. And the earl had promised to provide for him. There was Wayneford and the earl's private fortune. But though he had seemed to acquiesce in the earl's acknowledgment of Ralph Farington, he would only remain passive while the earl lived. Should the earl die before the legal recognition of Ralph he, Talbot, would fight for the earldom to the bitter end; and at the worst he might be able to effect a compromise.

Then, suddenly, his mind shifted to another subject: Fanny Mason. He had wearied of her very quickly, wearied of her so completely that he had discarded her and closed the house at St. John's Wood. He had endeavored to effect the separation "amiably," but Fanny in a fit of passion had refused the money he had offered her and had disappeared.

He dismissed her from his thoughts. After all, she could do him no harm. It was very unlikely that she would return to Lynne. She must have saved money from her allowance, and she had, of course, taken the jewelry he had given her. No; there was no need to worry himself about Fanny Mason. He forgot that she was wanted as a witness, and that detectives were searching for her.

He went slowly back to the house and met Doctor Campbell coming out of the library.

"The earl?" asked Talbot, with every appearance of affectionate anxiety.

"He is asleep. I was going to fetch Welford to sit with him."

"I will stay with him," said Talbot. "I would rather; he would like it."

"I am going for some medicine," said Doctor Campbell, "and I shall not be long. Don't let him agitate himself; if he should wake, keep him quiet."

Talbot stole in. The old man was lying back in his big chair sleeping the sleep of mental and physical exhaustion. Talbot sat down and looked at him keenly. He might die at any moment, in this death-like slumber. Was the will in Veronica's favor destroyed? His eyes went to the safe, and he started. The keys were in the lock. It would only take a moment.

He stole to the safe and, glancing over his shoulder at the earl, opened it. There was a number of papers and deeds filed methodically inside, and with noiseless haste he turned them over. Presently he found one endorsed "Will."

He untied the red tape and ran his eyes over the document. It was a will made soon after Veronica's flight, and left him Wayneford and the money! He smiled with satisfaction, then searched for the Veronica ment was on the top of the fire. It was just as he had found it, he heard a step outside, and with a start he tossed the wills back into the safe and stole to a chair. The step passed and he went back to the safe. A moment afterwards the folded parchment was on the top of the fire. It caught at once, and he watched it until it had smoldered into a heap of charcoal. He was gently and cautiously stirring it into the body of the fire when the earl awoke with a deep sigh and looked round him confusedly.

"Talbot!" he said.

Talbot got up and went to him with affectionate anxiety.

"Are you better, sir? Will you come to bed now; is there anything I can get you?"

Here and There.

EXPRESS DELAYED.—The Bruce did not reach Fort aux Basques until 3 p.m. yesterday, and the incoming express did not leave for here until 4 p.m. She is not due in the city until midnight. The delay is caused by the run-off on Wednesday last, which held the train near Badger Brook for nearly twenty-four hours, thus upsetting the steamer's schedule.

Detective Tobin left for Cape Broyle by the Trepassey train last evening to investigate the larceny of $75 from the railway station at that place, as reported in yesterday's Telegram. Passengers who arrived by to-day's train tell us that the thief entered the building by way of the window. Up to press hour no clue had been obtained as to the perpetrator of the theft. The affair has caused quite a sensation in the settlement of Cape Broyle, and fishermen from the banks in that port were at first suspected, but now it is thought that someone who is familiar with the place must have stolen the money. As stated in yesterday's issue the cash was kept in an ordinary cash box. We learn that the money belonged to the Express Department.

S. A. Congress.

The dates fixed for the Annual Congress of the Salvation Army, which is to be held in this City, is from August 8th to 12th. The Congress meetings this year will be conducted by Colonel Unsworth, the Army's Parliamentary Secretary at International Headquarters, London, England.

For quite a few years now the meetings have been conducted by representatives from the Toronto Headquarters, but owing to that branch suffering so severely in the Empress of Ireland Disaster it is not possible for any of the Canadian leaders to visit Newfoundland this year.

The Colonel will be the first International Representative to inspect the Army's forces here, since the visit of the late General Wm. Booth some years ago. He is a man of very wide experience, having spent 24 years in active service and during that period has held very important foreign commands.

The first meeting of the Congress will be held in the S. A. Citadel on Saturday evening, August 8th, when the local forces will welcome their visitor.

The T. A. Hall has been secured for the Sunday's services, and at 3 p.m. the Colonel will lecture on "The Salvation Army in the Mother Parliament." The Hon. Donald Morison has kindly consented to take the chair and he will be supported by a number of leading citizens. Extensive preparations are being made for the public meetings, and great enthusiasm prevails among the local Salvationists who are anticipating very successful gatherings.

Miss Alice Clarke.

PRIMA DONA COMING TO THE CRESCENT.

Miss Alice Clarke, the talented and magnetic prima donna, will commence a limited engagement at the Crescent, beginning next Monday, which announcement should prove a treat to patrons of this popular "movie house," and also be received favorably by lovers of good music and song. The services of Miss Clark were secured after much correspondence during which the following accounts of her successes were forwarded. Miss Clarke, who possesses an exquisite voice and charming personality, is an actress of merit. She was with Madame Modjeska and Louis James for several seasons and played the prima donna in "The Broken Idol"; B. C. Whittney's production of "Piff, Poff, Puff"; "The Isle of Spice," and "The Isle of Bong Bong." She also sang successfully the prima donna part in "Fortune Teller" and several other musical comedies. Miss Clark is the wife of Herr Spencer, who was formerly musical director and interpreter.

At the City Hall.

Hon. John Harris presided at last night's session of the Civic Commission in the absence of Mr. Gosling.
 I. C. Sullivan wrote the Board saying that a number of motor cars were being driven by persons without a license. He asked to meet a committee of the Board and the Secretary to discuss the matter. This was agreed to.
 P. Rioux, on behalf of the Reid Nfld. Co., informed the Board that the company would attend to the repairs of the street railway track.
 John Monk asked for a tank at head of Pleasant Street. Messrs. Ayre, Anderson and the Engineer will enquire.

the water service, i.e., to lay new pipes, and replace the smaller pipes by large ones.
 The Secretary was instructed to write Mr. Hunt concerning the rates and terms of insurance.
 Mr. McNamara called the Board's attention to the tank behind his store on Queen Street. It is now open to the public, and horses drive through at a rapid rate, making it dangerous for pedestrians. Mr. Morris endorsed Mr. McNamara's remarks and moved that the passage way be closed to vehicle traffic. It was so agreed, and in the meantime a special committee will enquire into the matter.
 A joint meeting of both road committees will be held as soon as is convenient.
 The meeting adjourned at 10.30 p.m.

Lame Back Strengthened Stiffness Taken Right Out

Was Relieved in an Hour, and Cured Over Night.

A lame back? Quite unnecessary. All you have to do is to rub on Nerviline. It's simply a wonder for back-ache—relieves after one rubbing. "Nothing possibly could cure an aching back faster than Nerviline," writes Mrs. Arthur Kobay, of Lower Chelsea, N.S. "I caught cold and was so prostrated with pain I could not bend over. We always have Nerviline at home, and I had the painful region rubbed thoroughly with this grand liniment. At once the pain departed. The lameness was rapidly reduced and in an hour I was able to be about my housework. I was rubbed again just before retiring, and awoke as usual in the morning with out a sign of my back trouble."

There is no sort of muscular pain that Nerviline won't cure quickly. Thousands swear by it for rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and lumbago. It sinks to the core of the pain—right through muscle, tissue and nerve—it penetrates where no oily, greasy liniment can go and invariably cures quickly. If you have an ache or a pain anywhere—use Nerviline—it will cure you. Family size bottle, very large 50c.; trial size 25c. at all dealers.

Slashed Girl Who Spurned Him.

Then Tried Suicide—Montreal Italian Arrested After He Cut His Throat—Both Likely to Recover.

Montreal, July 22.—Giuseppe Donatelli, aged 30, is in a hospital under arrest on the double charge of attempting to murder his sweetheart, Lucia De Gregorio, 741 Ontario Street East, and committing suicide. The attempt on the girl's life took place early this morning, when Donatelli is said to have slashed her throat with a shoemaker's knife just as she was about to enter her place of employment at the Sommer building.
 The assault was made because she had rejected Donatelli's advances. Donatelli was arrested at the home of an Italian compatriot, and as his throat was cut he was taken to the hospital. Both he and the girl are likely to recover, although at the hospital where Lucia is, it is said her condition is serious.

L. O. F. Officer Entertained Last Night.

Last night, Mr. J. R. Mathieson, Supreme Treasurer of the Independent Order of Forresters, at Toronto, who arrived yesterday by the Morwenna, and who is the first officer of high rank to visit here, was tendered a dinner at Wood's West End Restaurant by the local Courts, Avalon and Terra Nova. Mr. R. J. O'Neill, Chief Ranger of Avalon, presided over a gathering of fifty. Among the guests were Judge Woodgett, of Woodstock, N.S. After the menu was gone through the toast list was taken up and the visiting Forrester was introduced by the chairman. Mr. Mathieson gave a lengthy and eloquent address dealing with the work of the order in Great Britain, Canada and the States from the time of its inception to the present day. A vote of thanks to the speaker was proposed by Chief Rangers Hayes (Terra Nova), and Trelogan (Avalon), and tendered by Chairman O'Neill. Brief addresses were made by Judge Woodgett and Mr. P. Devine. The singing of the National Anthem terminated the happy affair at midnight.

B.I.S. Draw With the Feildians.

Last night's football match between the Feildians and B.I.S. resulted in a draw, neither team scoring. Both teams had new players in their ranks, but nevertheless a pretty good exhibition was given. In the first half play was even, but the Feildians had the game practically to themselves in the second. But for the back division and goal keeper of the B.I.S., that team would have gone down to defeat. Mr. F. Rabbits refereed the game and the players were: FEILDIAHS—Lush goal; Rendell, Ryall, backs; Payne, C. Rendell, Tait, halves; Edwards, T. Winter, Bugden, Hunt, E. Winter, forwards.
 B.I.S.—Clare, goal; Kavanagh, T. Duggan, backs; Bradbury, W. Duggan, Ryan, halves; Simms, Jackman, Kelly, Kearney, Brown, forwards.

Burlesque on Romeo and Juliet.

On Monday, Mrs. Rossley and Scully, the London actor and singer, will appear in a laughable sketch entitled, Romeo and Juliet, past and present. Mr. Geo. Scully will appear as Romeo, the gallant knight who climbs the tower to meet Juliet, against the wishes of her father. He then makes a change to Juliet's old crusty father, whose temper is not improved by the pangs of a gouty foot. Mrs. Rossley is the fairy-like Juliet, whom Romeo wishes to carry off in his noble arms. In fact he wishes to fly with her (though we all know he would have his hands full.) It is doubtful if Sandow could accomplish so herculean a task. The next change is the Romeo and Juliet of to-day, with Romeo just returning from the club with a great load on and he does not require a basket to bring it home in either. This laugh-maker is written and arranged by Mrs. Rossley herself and we know it will be all right.

Vandalism.

At last evening's meeting of the Municipal Board, it was reported by W. Clance, Swimming Instructor at Quidi Vidí Lake, that a quantity of material such as plank, rope, etc., had been stolen. Such a mean sort of vandalism should not be allowed to pass unpunished, and steps have been taken to prevent a recurrence.

Cable News.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, this a.m.—The German Imperial Railway Administration yesterday informed the management of the Belgian State Railways, officially, that all international trains in Germany would be suspended.

LONDON, July 31.—A run on the Bank of England has been started by note holders. The London Stock Exchange has been closed until further notice. The chief reason for this unprecedented action was the fact that the system of credit had practically broken down and it was impossible to carry on business in the ordinary way. This situation did not arise through over speculation, but because bankers could not collect margins which had been gradually shrinking, while at the same time the Continent continued to pour stocks into London. The Exchanges at Liverpool, Manchester, Glasgow and Edinburgh are also closed.

LISBON, July 31.—The newspapers of the Portuguese capital to-day reminded the public that the treaty alliance between Portugal and Great Britain requires Portugal to furnish 10,000 troops to England when she is at war.

BERLIN, July 31.—The most rigid censorship since the present crisis arose was put into effect to-day. The Government refused to pass any message dealing with the movement of troops or orders to the navy.

LONDON, July 31.—An Exchange Telegraph Company's despatch from Nish, via Salonika, says that up till last night the Austrian invaders at Semendry had not succeeded in forcing the pass held by Serbian troops. The possession of the pass would give them access to Moravi River Valley, and thus open up direct road to Nish. Another despatch from Nish says desperate fighting continues along the River Drina, and both Austrians and Serbians have sustained heavy losses.

WIRE WOUNDS.

My mare, a very valuable one, was badly bruised and cut by being caught in a wire fence. Some of the wounds would not heal, although I tried many different medicines. Dr. Bell advised me to use MINARD'S LINIMENT, diluted at first, then stronger as the sores began to look better, until after three weeks, the sores have healed, and best of all, the hair is growing well, and is NOT WHITE as is most always the case in horse wounds.

Fishery Reports.

July 25.—From Geo. P. Forsey, (Grand Bank).—The catch for last week was 3,900 quintals. Two traps are fishing. Five bankers have arrived with 900, 600, 300, 300 and 700 quintals respectively. Prospects are very poor, but there has been sufficient caplin for bait up to now. The lobster catch is very small. Very little codfish has been caught in punts or dorjes and the two traps out have about 170 quintals between them. They have been doing nothing lately and are about to be taken in.

War News.

People Recon- ciled to War.

ARMY ON A WAR FOOTING.
Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, To-day.—Facing the most perilous epoch in their history since they shivered before the spectre of Napoleonic invasion, the English people were the calmest nation of Europe yesterday. They felt that the decision whether Britain was to be drawn into a general European war was hanging in the balance. To-day they believe it is a probability rather than a possibility. There is no mistaking the fact that with the exception of a minority of peace advocates whose voice is hardly heard and seems to carry little weight the Nation's mind is reconciled to war. There have been no demonstrations, no flag waving, no music hall patriotism, but there is an apparent among all classes a sober and grim determination if Government declares that the National interest and obligations require us to take up arms side by side with Russia and France to see the business through to the bitter end. The belief of the average man is that the existence of the whole of Europe as an armed camp nervous and jealous could have but one ending, and if the hour for a general settlement has struck there will be no flinching. The change that has swept over the temper of the country within a week is marvellous. A week ago the people were wrapped up in prize fighting, Cowes Regatta and vacations on continent; to-day they are asking only can the British fleet play its part in protecting Island in isolation. This means in the first instance can it destroy the German Emperor's Navy. They are concerned also as to whether the food supplies can be maintained and to what extent private fortunes will be impaired by the financial upheaval of war. The mobilization of naval forces has been completed and the army is on a war footing, except for the calling out of territorial and the machinery for their mobilization needs only a word to set it in motion.

France Protecting Her Food Supply.

Special to Evening Telegram.

PARIS, To-day.—The French Cabinet Council deliberated until early this morning, discussing crisis. The President signed three decrees, the first, extending until August 31st, the terms of payment of obligations becoming due within that time; second, prohibiting the export of grains and other products of the soil; and third, the abolishing of duties on the importations of farinaceous products.

May Commandeer Railways and Motors.

LONDON, To-day.—

It is reported the Government has notified the London South-Western railway, and London, Southampton and Dover, that it might be necessary to take over their telegraph lines and train service. The London General Omnibus Company has also received notice to be in readiness to hand over its motor buses.

America Appealed To.

PARIS, To-day.—

A suggestion undoubtedly, has been made to us as the greatest Power not directly interested in the present situation, that the American Republic should ask the Powers of Europe if there is any possibility of using their services in an effort to maintain peace.

MINARD'S LUMBER MAN'S FRIEND.

King George Makes Effort for Peace.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, To-day.—King George, to-day, threw his full support in the cause of peace. He sent an urgent message to the Czar of Russia. It is reported in diplomatic circles that the message was an appeal for the Czar to stay his hand and avert the war catastrophe that threatens. As a member of the Triple Entente, England may be able to wield an influence that will curb Russia, and at the eleventh hour prevent the terrific clash to which all nations have been trusting for a week. The news that Germany had sent an ultimatum to Russia, and had demanded from France a statement of her position, is believed to have been the cause of King George's action. Premier Asquith dashed from his home to Buckingham Palace, in an automobile at two o'clock this morning, after receiving the latest reports from the Foreign Office. The King had not gone to bed, and the Premier was immediately received. The conference of the King and Premier, who is also Minister of War, was brief. Premier Asquith then returned to his home. Early to-day an official announcement was made that the King had communicated with Emperor Nicholas. With the threat of martial feet resounding throughout the Continent to-day, the shadow of war hung heavily over England as well as the rest of Europe. News of an actual declaration of war by Germany was expected to come at any moment. The only hope lay in King George's message to the Czar. Reports in official circles were that the English Sovereign was also in communication with the Kaiser. At dawn messengers were despatched by the Premier to all members of the Cabinet, summoning them to an immediate council.

NEW YORK, July 31.—

The North German Lloyd steamship line to-day announced that none of its steamers would sail from New York until further notice.

PARIS, July 31.—

La Province, a French trans-Atlantic line, was to-day requisitioned by French Minister Marine for service, France, which is not an auxiliary cruiser will sail Tuesday. The Council to-day ordered out all men between 20 and 48 years of age, capable of bearing arms.

PEKIN, July 31.—

Hong Kong is to be made British naval barracks. In case of war the German possession Tsing Tau is to be blockaded. Wei Hai has no fortifications while Tsing Tau is fortified by both land and sea. Germans believe the fortifications will afford them complete protection. British vessels leaving Wei Hai Wei took every effective man of the crews from British river gunboats and dismantled Hankow yesterday. They are to be taken on board the battleship Triumph which hither to has been manned by only one nucleus crew. The Austrian cruiser Kaiserin Elizabeth with a guard from the Austrian Legation, who embarked a few days ago, will not attempt the voyage homeward, and will remain at Tsing Tau. The Italian gunboat Caboto also is sailing towards Tsing Tau. German Wuejackets to-day dismantled the gunboat Vaterland at Hankow.

A TREATISE ON TEA!

When you buy our Teas in lead packages you are sure of getting Tea fresh, fragrant, strong, clean and, last but not least, airtight. It is impossible for tea not to get stale in packages not airtight, such as paper bags. In other countries for years past tea is sold by retailers only in lead or tin cartons.

If you have not been buying Tea that way, start in to-day.

It is necessary, however, to buy the right teas. They are as follows:

ARMADA: Packed in the most attractive package in the market. A pure Ceylon Tea, at 50c. per lb.

OLD HOME BLUE: In lead packets. A blend of Indian and Ceylon Teas, at 50c. per lb.

SERENDIB: An old favourite, price 40c. per lb.

OLD HOME RED: A blend of Ceylon and Indian, at 35c.

TIGER: Another old favourite, at 35c.

LION: At 30c.

FOR SALE EVERYWHERE.

Commissioners at Bell Island.

Yesterday the Dominion's Royal Commission visited the iron mines at Bell Island, and were the guests of the Nova Scotia Steel Company and the Dominion Iron and Steel Company. Besides the members of the Commission His Excellency the Governor and Lady Davidson, Sir Edward and Lady Morris and several others went over. The party motored to Portugal Cove and thence by the yacht Fife, arriving at the island at 12.30 p.m.

On their arrival they had the pleasure of watching a large ore freighter being loaded at the "Scotia" pier, the ore being put on board at the rate of 5,000 tons per hour.

Ascending the cliff, which is 240 ft. high, by way of the skip to the terminus of the track that traverses the island, they had lunch at the "Scotia" Staff House, before taking the cars for the mouth of the slope.

The surface plant was examined with interest, and was very much admired. They then descended to the submarine workings, those taking the trip being Sir J. W. S. and Lady Langerman, Mr. Mrs. and Miss Tatlow, Sir George Foster, Donald Campbell, Hon. J. R. Sinclair, Hon. E. R. Bowring, Tom Garnett and a number of St. John's ladies and gentlemen. It was an interesting experience for most of the party, that of being a thousand feet below the sea. Sir J. W. S. Langerman, who is much interested in South African Diamond Mines, and David Campbell, who is familiar with the Australian gold mines expressed their appreciation of the great system of the levels and headings and of the immense deposits of ore, and spoke in congratulatory terms of the arrangements for the drilling, loading and hoisting of the mineral.

The others of the party proceeded to the Dominion Iron and Steel Co.'s workings and were later joined by Sir J. W. S. Langerman and Mr. Campbell. The party witnessed the cars being loaded by an immense steam shovel, and taken across the island to the shipping pier. After the party had inspected the workings they proceeded to the Dominion Staff House where they were entertained by Mr. D. H. McDougall, the Co.'s Manager. After supper the members of the Commission boarded the yacht Fife, and left for Holyrood, where they boarded a special train for Grand Falls. They were accompanied by Messrs. Cantley and McDougall, Managers of the Nova Scotia and Dominion Companies respectively.

The other members of the party, including Sir Alfred Bateman, who leaves by the Florio for Halifax, took passage by the s.s. Hawk for Portugal Cove, where they motored to the city. The visitors speak in glowing terms of the many courtesies extended to them by Messrs. R. A. Chambers and C. R. Brown, the local managers of the Companies' interests on the island.

Gower Street Church.

Rev. Douglas Henneon B.A., late of Hamilton, Bermuda, the newly appointed Pastor of Gower St. Church, will occupy the pulpit to-morrow both morning and evening. Although many of the congregation are absent from the city on holiday, it is expected that a large congregation will gather at both services to welcome their new minister. Visiting friends will be welcome and provided with seats by the ushers.

C.C.C. DANCE.—The Prince's Rink has been elaborately decorated and is in splendid condition for the big dance to be held there on Regatta Night by the C.C.C. Boat Club. The affair will probably be the largest of its kind ever held in the city, and, no doubt, will be equally enjoyable. The fact of the Cadet band supplying the music is sufficient assurance of a jolly good time.

Money Market News.

We are indebted Mr. C. A. C. Bruce of Messrs. McCurdy & Co., brokers, for the following information:—
London office cables, according to best information we can get no such sale of Canadian Pacific Railway at 107. There was an unofficial and unconfirmed rumor that C. P. R. sold on the London curb yesterday at this price.

No dealings of any kind reported, but numerous enquiries for bargains. Holiday to-day and Monday.
Prospect of general war more imminent.
General Russian mobilization. The best hope is that Russia and Austria are conferring again.
The Bank of England rate raised to the ushers.

TROUSER TALK.—Our make Trousers are well-known for the stylish and up-to-date cut and finish, whether you require the full peg top or the neat English cut trouser. If you have an end of tweed, bring it along and have it made up, just for a trial.

McMurdo's Store News.

— SATURDAY, Aug. 1st, 1914.

If you feel like having an Ice Cream don't pass our store. For we have the tastiest and most delicious Ice Cream in the city. And then we have Sundae, College Ices, Ice Cream Sodas, and the now famous new drink Shock-Up. Ice Cream Drinks and Aerated Waters in moderation are healthful and stimulating, and produce no unpleasant effects of any kind. Price 10 and 15 cents each.

Many people find Oil of Citronella the best of all fly frighteners. In New Jersey, the citizens of which state are probably better acquainted with the mosquito than the inhabitants of any area of similar size in the world, the Oil of Citronella is the favorite way of saying "not at home" to the flies. We have a twenty-five cent bottle which is very handy. Why not take a bottle on your next trouting excursion?

FROM CARTHAGINIAN.—Messrs. Shea & Co. had a wireless message from the Allan Liner Carthaginian stating that she was 130 miles East of St. John's at 10 a.m. to-day. The steamer should enter this port at eleven o'clock to-night.

Watch for Next Saturday's Telegram.

All over the Island people are tired of poor rubbers. They want something which they will find difficulty in wearing out. That is why, before they buy a pair of rubbers next winter, they will "look for the Bear." When they see the mark of the Bear, they will know they have something they can depend on. Next week we shall begin to publish a list of the towns and villages in Newfoundland where BEAR BRAND Rubbers will be on sale this fall and winter. Look for the name of your town. If it is there, you can be sure of having a small "rubber bill" next winter.
LOOK FOR THE BEAR—TIS ON EVERY PAIR.

Situation No Worse.

The money market is the most sensitive barometer in indicating disturbance of international peace. Of actual war there is indeed not much, but what there is has its full effect on the money market. The extraordinary disturbance is due to the apprehended disturbance of peace relations between the Great Powers. Even the rumors and hurried preparations of these Great Powers to put themselves on a war footing has had the most disastrous effect on the market known for half a century or more. Exchanges went up to yesterday to $5.02 for a sovereign worth intrinsically $4.86 2-3. The difference between exchange is usually about 4 cents, the cost of the freight and insurance of gold. The extra ten cents or so is a measure of the efforts of banks to retain gold in their own country. Another indication of the same kind is shown by the way the discount rate of the Bank of England has soared. A few days ago it was 4 per cent. Yesterday it was 8 per cent. To-day it has gone up to 10 per cent. Another indication is to be seen in the way the insurance rates against the risk of war between Britain and Germany. To-day the quotation is 70 per cent. Another remarkable fact is the closing of the Stock Exchange. The Bourses on the continent have been closed for a week. Yesterday London, Manchester, Liverpool, Edinburgh, New York, Boston, Philadelphia were closed. This is to stop the dumping of stocks on these markets by Germans and others who are being compelled by their banks to

DAINTY DESKS

for "My Lady's Room."

NEVER was furniture of any kind, or at any period, more beautiful, comfortable, thoroughly attractive and well-made, or more eminently adapted to its own special use, than is the furniture of to-day. This is remarkably noticeable in some of the elegant articles that are made for the refined woman's use. We are showing examples in the handsome Writing Desks for Ladies we have on view this week.

These Desks are specially designed for daintiness and comfort, they are of Bird's-eye Maple, Mahogany, Circassian Walnut, Quartered, Fumed and Weathered Oak, also in early English finish; all have chairs en suite.

These Desks are suitable for drawing-room, boudoir, or sitting-room, in fact, used in any room they make writing a pleasure.

Gautemala.

By GEORGE FITCH.
Author of "At Good Old Swash."
Gautemala is not as important in the newspapers as Newport or the Federal League. Yet if Gautemala were to turn entirely over as it has vainly attempted to do several times during its volcanic and earthquake career, coffee would rise largely in price and thousands of Italians would have to buy street organs for want of bananas to sell.

For this latter reason we should regard Gautemala as a blessing and treat it with consideration.

At one time Gautemala also supplied most of the red coloring matter for the world, it being infested with a small red bug called cochineal, which when boiled and used as a dye, made beautiful red cloth. However, science has substituted chemical dyes and the cochineal bug now wanders unharmed through Gautemala and can only end its life by falling into the coffee.

Gautemala is situated in the center of South American hostilities and has been jostling Nicaragua, Honduras and Salvador for elbow room for almost a century. It is as large as the state of New York and contains over 2,000,000 people, a few of whom can read. Gautemala has no divorce question, this being avoided by cutting out marriage to a very great extent.

Most Gautemalans are Indians, many of whom work on the large German plantations and are perfectly free except that they cannot leave until they pay their debts and they cannot pay their debts without leaving. Gautemala has a beautiful constitution, modelled on our own, but the nation is like a young lady with a complicated automobile. It doesn't know how to work the thing. Gautemala has had almost as many presidents as Mexico and they have given as little satisfaction. It is the trouble maker of Central America and more than once the United States has had to rush down there in a gun boat and talk things over while holding two or more warring republics firmly by the ear.

Gautemala is a hot, moist land, profusely decorated with volcanoes and 13,000-foot mountains in its middle and with swamps filled with compressed malaria along the seashore. It has the most beautiful birds in the world and also the most ornamental postage stamps. There was once a highly civilized Indian government in Gautemala, with great buildings and a literature. The country is now slowly improving and may some day get back to where it was 500 years ago.

Fads and Fashions.

The more draped a dress the simpler should be the decoration of neck and sleeves.

Buttons of Russian malachite look extremely well on dark or light costumes.

Coral and lapis buttons or beads are charming, especially combined with feathers.

Most of the new fashions are very easy for home dressmakers to carry out, because fit seems to be the last thing thought about.

Collars which sit around the neck of their own free will are features of the latest costumes.

Some skirts are gathered to the knees, falling from there to the foot, like a wide flounce.

When sleeves are long they are moulded to the arm.

Straw belts are one of the novelties of the spring season.

Sashes serve to modernize an ancient dress.

To go with the new spring dresses are large shady hats, plateau shaped. Hat brims of two tones of pleated tulle are very charming.

The Watten-shaped hats have rich pompadour ribbons for trimming.

The best hat to choose for a tailor-made suit is the high shape of fine black straw, with a tall ostrich quill.

Tiny sailor hats with rows of wings poised around the crowns are among the newest.

Pique gimpes and collars are enjoying great popularity.

Boleros are so varied a chapter might be written about them.

The newest and prettiest red is called beetroot.

Plain line coats and skirts are immensely improved by rich girdles of pompadour ribbon.

Panner gowns are seen made altogether of Roman striped silk.

With the cape style, which many jackets affect, the Italian note prevails over the Oriental.

The absolutely plain robes, beltless, like Egyptian tunics, are very chic.

The trousered evening dress of chiffon is not half as bizarre as it sounds, but very few women can wear it successfully.

Among the new nightgowns are dotted swisses, made Empire style.

Pleated ruffles, edged with rose or blue linen, are seen on the new lingerie.

Divorced Life

By Helen Hesson Fuesler

Among the Elect

The diners at Mrs. Walther's lingered long at the table. The poet consumed many highballs and waxed eloquent in his denunciation of predatory wealth, unappreciative editors and a materialist public in general. He dashed off a graceful triquet between courses, dedicated to Marian's eyes. He read it with reckless unconcern of Miss Winthrop's feelings. The poem had originality and merit, and brought cries of "bravo" from the company. Marian, blushing furiously with embarrassment and delight, asked for a copy of the verses and received the original then and there.

"I'll rewrite it from memory," the poet told her, "sell it to some editor, and you are hereby invited to have dinner with me on the proceeds, and we'll pray Pegasus that it won't have to be at Child's."

Meadows, the handsome youth at Marian's side, had grown moody with several glasses of wine, and save for scraps of conversation with Marian, was latterly taking little part in the general conversation, which was bounding like a cork along the surface of the evening. Despite his slightly pugged nose, Marian thought Meadows handsome; his attractive distinction lay to a great extent in his poise, his genial eye, his graceful build, his finely modeled hand, his grooming; Marian was drawn to him by far more than to the other men present; the more she saw of Shurtleff, the publisher, the less she was interested in him.

"Cut it out, old man. You're in wrong," said Meadows to Shurtleff.

The theatrical manager, seated at Mrs. Walther's side, had begun to scold the hostess' hand in calm carelessness of any observation on the part of any of the others. The poet was deploring the mechanical tendencies of the movies, in alternating currents with the defense of film plays by the sad-eyed young woman who wrote scenarios.

Marian had touched her glasses of wine to but a scant extent. "Drink up," Shurtleff frequently urged her. "Get into the game, why don't you?" he inquired.

The poet overheard one of these remarks, paused in his discussion of canned drama, and said: "Let her alone, you tipsy publisher." He added that he himself proposed one of these days to eschew the goblet, and quoted a number of stanzas from Le Gallienne's "Omar Repentant."

"Shurt has an idea that he's a regular whale at framing up plots for stories," Meadows volunteered in a low tone to Marian. "If you value your time, don't act on any of his suggestions. Old Gilley is the brains of his magazine. It's wise to humor this chap, and then forget what he suggested, and write what you please. Gilley knows good stuff."

Shop-talk flowed on, and Marian felt more and more like a full-fledged recruit in the army of New York's writers as the curious, unconventional evening wore on.

Cancelled Sailings.

Special to Evening Telegram.
LONDON, July 31.

The Hamburg-American Steamship Company have cancelled the sailing of the steamer Imperator from Hamburg, to-day. The reason given is the uncertainty of the political situation. Eight hundred passengers are waiting here.

ADVENTISTS. — Elder Wm. C. Young will occupy the pulpit to-morrow evening, speaking on Pleasure and Wantonness. This is the third discourse in a series of five on the subject of Capital and Labor. Remember the hour 8 instead of 8.30 p.m. All seats are free.

Precedence.

The question of precedence is one that gives rise to many enquiries. A few of the occasions that cause discussion are church and theatre-going, entering and leaving rooms, etc. A woman going to church with her husband and boys precedes them up the aisle; the boys and her husband follow; she enters the pew first and her husband last. It is well to impress upon boys even at a tender age that ladies should come first. If the grandmother is one of the family party, she enters the pew first, as would any guest of the family, old or young. When entering a dining room for any family meal, woman precede men, and always precede them in entering a house, a room or in ascending the stairs. The exception to this rule is when in public there may be any inconvenience from crowding. Then the man goes first in order to make the lady's path easier. For the same reason a man alights first from a vehicle that he may offer his hand to assist her in descending. The question of who shall take precedence in a theatre has adherents on both sides, some preferring that the man shall first follow the usher down the aisle, standing aside to allow the lady to be accompanied to take her seat; others think that the lady should follow the usher. It really amounts to a question of personal preference. To return to the home. Where no maid is kept, and one of the women of the family opens the front door, the visitor, if a woman, precedes her into the sitting room; if a man, he follows her.

Upper Side of Sunset.

For every mile's ascent into the air 90 miles of view open out, so that at the highest point I have reached, more than four miles, one could see 200 miles on the earth's surface in every direction, unless low-hanging clouds lie between the aeronaut and the rest of humanity. Thus writes Augustus Post in the "American Magazine." He goes on: "Sometimes on and rose and gold, sometimes crimson with a sunset glow—it is a wonderful thing to see the upper side of a sunset! the hob of clouds, ever shifting, ever taking on more varied shapes, moves beneath you, or you rise through a high-floating bank, in order to see the upper side of the cloud floor may be red above the last rays of the sun, while waves of orange, purple, and sulphurous yellow stretch across to the cold blues of the east and the silver splendor of the moon; for it is at full moon that long-distance balloon races are always arranged to take place. Here and there fountain-like forms rise from the mass stretching beneath you and curl back like giant flowers; they are currents of hot air breaking through the cloud bank from below."

The Regatta.

Old Homers Race Put on the Programme.

Last night the Regatta Committee met at the T. A. Armoury to complete arrangements in connection with this year's Regatta to be held on Wednesday next and for the purpose of entering the crews.

Those present were: — President Hancock, Vice-President Higgins, Treasurer Ellis, Secretary Noonan, C. E. Hunt, Dr. Scully, L. G. Chafe, P. J. Henry, W. J. Martin, R. W. Jones, P. J. Morris, J. L. Slatney, T. McNell, N. Andrews, P. F. Moore, J. P. Crotty, J. Perez, N. J. Vinnicombe, T. D. Carey, P. F. Collins, R. Dowden, T. J. Moran and W. J. Crotty.

Mr. John E. Roche, of California, wrote intimating that he had forwarded the pendents, as donated.

A cheque for $25 was received as a donation from the Longshoremen's Union.

The collectors reported that the subscriptions received were up to last year and enough funds are on hand to run the Regatta.

It was decided that the Committee invite as their guests for the day Sir Wm. Horwood and Messrs. McCormack and Somerville, old Newfoundlanders, who have just returned from Boston.

So as the Committee Tent would not be beset by outsiders on Regatta Day, as happened formerly, it was proposed by F. J. Morris and seconded by Dr. Scully that the caretaker be given instructions for not to admit to anyone except a committee man or guest of the committee.

A lively and lengthy discussion took place on the Society Race. The T. A. Society, of Torbay, had entered a crew to row in the early part of the evening. The L. O. A., C. E. T. S. and St. Mary's representatives refused to compete with Torbay because the latter were alleged to be fishermen. A lot of discussion was heard pro and con and it was decided that although the Torbay crew were strictly within the rules and bona fide members of an organization still they could not be permitted to row as the future of the race in our Regatta had to be looked after by the Committee and to safeguard that race the rules were amended so as to debar crews outside the city competing in the Society race; a similar amendment was made regarding the Brigade Race.

It was agreed upon to allow the returned Newfoundlanders from New York and Boston to row and their race, which will be the last on the programme, will be known as the "Old Homers Race."

The crews entered as follows:—

SWIMMING.

C. E. Brooks, P. Pitt, D. S. Kerr, L. V. Hartley, R. Farrell, J. Snelgrove, Jas. Murphy, W. Thistle, R. Burns, L. Miller, J. St. George, J. Reddigan, R. Dooley, E. Martin.

Will Power and Want Power.

By RUTH CAMERON.

If you should ask a number of people if they thought they had strength of will, I think nine out of ten would have a real right to that is, if you gave these words their b e s t sense. Strength of will, in its best sense, means a high degree of determination and self command, united with a fair degree of reason.

This is the kind of strength of will which it is good to have. It is because these words commonly have this sense that we have come to think of the possession of a strong will as something to be proud of. But this is not the kind of a strong will which the average person who flatters himself on possessing this distinction really has.

"Yes, I have a very strong will," I heard a young man say the other day, with a facial expression which did not by any means imply that he hated himself.

He had been telling how he refused to do a certain thing which he had no particular reason for not doing and which would have been greatly to his future advantage. He told how all his friends urged him to do it and how he had held out against them. One of these feminine sycophants who are always ready to supply the draughts of flattery on which this type of men drink themselves into the stupor of complete self satisfaction, promptly offered the tribute which he expected, and he echoed it fatuously, "Yes, I have a very strong will."

A man like this shames the fine term will power by applying it to himself. If he had said, "Yes, I'm as stubborn as a mule," he would have come far nearer the truth. And he is but one of many people who think they have will power when all they really have is won't power.

Strength of desire is also confused with strength of will. To adapt the familiar epigram, "A great many people confuse their backbone with their wishbone." The famous Bronte sisters had a brother who was supposed to be the Star of the family. He had great talents and what at first seemed strong will power. But alas, the star of the family turned out to be a swift falling meteor. "We finally realized," sighed Charlotte after Patrick Bronte had wasted all his fine talents and brought disgrace and sorrow on his family, "the strength of passion should not be confounded with strength of will."

Self will is one of the commonest things in the world. A strong will is one of the rarest. Do not flatter yourself that you have the precious diamond when you have only the valueless bit of glass.

How a Newspaper is Produced.

(By William T. Stead.)

The Girl's Own Paper and Woman's Magazine publishes an article by Mr. W. T. Stead on how a newspaper is produced. This, says the editor, is probably one of the last things Mr. Stead wrote. She received it on April 4th, only a few days before the tragic voyage in the ill-fated Titanic.

The First Essential.

Mr. Stead wrote:—The first step in the production of a newspaper is for a man to take a hatchet in his hand and go forth to fell a tree. For a newspaper to come into being, the first essential is paper, and modern newspaper is largely the product of wood. The materials on which our journals are printed was a living tree in the forests of America or Scandinavia but a few weeks before it was pressed into the service of journalism. Every Sunday, New York newspapers consume thousands of acres of forests. What they will do when in thirty years no trees are left standing in the United States does not yet appear.

The Second.

But if the first essential for the production of a newspaper be paper, the second is news:—

As the foundation of the paper itself is the wood-chopper's hatchet, so the foundation of the news is the pencil of the reporter. He is the fundamental man. Without him the lordly editor, the brilliant leader-writer, would be merely inarticulate voices inaudible in a vacuum. The reporter, the penny-a-liner, the picker-up of unconsidered trifles, he alone is indispensable. He is the Tommy Atkins of the profession.

Automatic Production.

A great deal of the work of producing a newspaper is so systematized as to become almost automatic. There is a great sameness about the doings of mankind. The opening and closing of markets, the periodical meetings of local councils, the great racing fixtures of the year, recur with the regularity of the seasons. Three-fourths of the copy that streams into the sub-editor's office has been arranged for in advance, sometimes years in advance.

Some years ago all the more important newspapers considered it necessary to send their own reporter to take down the words of every notable speaker. It was a great waste of men and money. Nowadays, if they send their own man, he goes to do special descriptive articles to accompany the more or less official text of the agency whose report is accepted by all the papers.

If the greatest fool in the world determined to bring out a newspaper tomorrow, he need only pay cash down to a dozen recognised agencies, and he would find three-fourths of the material for next day's paper fed into him by telegram and "flimsy" without any more effort on his part than if he had put a penny in the slot and left the machine to do the rest.

The Man in the Saddle.

The centre of a newspaper office is the sub-editor's room. The editor is above the sub-editor no doubt, but the man in the saddle, the man in command, the man who makes the paper, is the news editor.

It is he who forces everything, arranges everything, distributes the work to be done among the men who have to do it, and when it is done, decides how much of it is worth printing, how it is to appear, and where.

The advertising pages are filled by the business side of the house. The advertising manager fills as much of the paper as he can, and leaves the residue to be made up with news and reading matter. As it is the advertisements which enable a paper to pay its way in the constant struggle between the two departments, it is usually the news side that goes to the wall. The advertising manager daily grows more insistent and aggressive, "Perspective" and "Scare Headings," of the work of the news editor, Mr. Stead says the study of the art of journalistic perspective is fascinating and elusive, for the perspective varies from hour to hour, sometimes from minute to minute. He also speaks of

Marvelous Balsamic Essences Cure Catarrh

No Drugs To Take—A Direct Breathing Cure!

Statistics Prove Ninety-Seven Per Cent of Canada's Population is Infested With the Germs of Catarrh.

This disease is most dangerous owing to its tendency to extend to the Bronchial tubes and lungs, where it causes Consumption. Unfortunately the people have had faith in sprays, ointments and snuffs, which can't possibly cure, and in consequence catarrhal disease has become a national cure. Science is advancing every day, and fortunately a remedy has been discovered that not only cures but prevents Catarrh. This new treatment "Catarrhazone" has sufficient power to kill the germs of Bronchitis, Catarrh and Asthma. It contains pure pine essences and healing balsams that go to the remotest part of the nose, throat and lungs, carrying health-giving medication to every spot that is tainted or weak. You don't take Catarrhazone like cough mixture—you inhale its healing vapor at the mouth and it spreads all through the breathing organs, soothing and curing wherever Catarrh exists. This is nature's way of supplying the richest balsams, the purest antiseptics known to science.

A sneezing cold is cured in ten minutes. A harsh cough is eased in an hour, the most offensive catarrh is thoroughly drawn from the system. For Asthma and Bronchial Irritation nothing can equal Catarrhazone—every physician and druggist says so, and we advise our readers to try this treatment if suffering with a winter ill. The complete outfit costs $1.00, medium size, 50c., at all dealers.

Special to Evening Telegram.

ST. PETERSBURG, This a.m.—An Imperial proclamation, calling all Army Reservists in St. Petersburg to the colors, was posted yesterday.

The Emperor of Russia had an audience with the German Ambassador yesterday, and subsequently presided over a full Council of Ministers, which was attended by the Chief of the Army General Staff.

The mail train for Germany was ordered not to leave St. Petersburg last evening. The line of boats running to Stockholm were also stopped from running.

LONDON, This a.m.

Premier Asquith called a meeting of the Cabinet at Downing Street yesterday. First Lord of the Admiralty, Churchill, carried a large package of documents, supposed to relate to the sessions of war measures taken by the naval staff during the last 24 hours. The Premier, who is also Minister of War, conferred with several attaches at the War Office before the Cabinet meeting began.

Extraordinary activity was evidenced around the Bank of England, which made it look almost like a "run" on the institution, directly due from depositors in local banks withdrawing their money, and who wanted gold instead of notes they had received. Very few banks were paying gold, but holders and depositors wanted it.

Lloyds, yesterday, raised a six months' rate against an Anglo-German war, to 70 per cent.

A momentous announcement was made in the Commons yesterday, by Asquith, when he said that Russia had proclaimed a general mobilization of her army and navy, and in consequence martial law has been proclaimed in Germany, and a general mobilization of the forces would follow. Asquith's statement was as follows: "We have just heard, and not from St. Petersburg, that Russia has proclaimed a general mobilization of her army and navy, and that in consequence of this martial law is to be proclaimed in Germany. We understand this to mean that mobilization will follow in Germany if Russian mobilization is general, and is proceeded with. Under these circumstances I prefer not to answer any further questions until Monday."

A Russian troops to-day blew up the frontier railroad bridge of the Warsaw-Vienna railroad.

ATHENS, This a.m.

A denial of the announcement of the fall of Belgrade was made in a despatch received by the Serbian legation last night from Nish. It stated the Austrian forces had renewed their bombardment of the capital, and several shells had fallen before the Royal Palace. The Servians did not reply.

BERLIN, This a.m.

Prince Frederick William, of Germany, was to-day appointed to the command of the first division of the Imperial Army Corps.

PARIS, this a.m.

Germany is mobilizing tremendous forces on the French border. While no mobilization orders have yet been issued to the French Army, the barracks and rendezvous are crowded with reservists, momentarily expecting a call to arms.

the great art of scare heading, the production of sensational titles in large print, which is one of the most important in modern journalism. It has somewhat run to seed on the other side of the Atlantic. Mr. Stead remarks in closing that before a single item of telegraphic news in the paper reaches the eyes of the public it has been read at least nine times.

Five thousand persons assembled in front of the Palace yesterday afternoon and cheered the Emperor and Empress. During the demonstration, Emperor William appeared in a window and addressed his subjects as follows: "A fateful hour has fallen for Germany. Envious people everywhere are compelling us to our just defence. The sword has been forced into our hands. I hope that if my efforts at the last hour do not succeed in bringing our opponents to see eye to eye with us and in maintaining peace, we shall restore it to its sheath again with honor. War would demand of us an enormous sacrifice in property and life, but we should show our enemies what it means to provoke Germany, and now I commend you to God. Go to church and kneel before God and pray for His help for our gallant army."

A Weak, Nervous Sufferer Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Kasota, Minn.—"I am glad to say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than anything else, and I had the best physician here. I was so weak and nervous that I could not do my work and suffered with pains low down in my right side for a year or more. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now I feel like a different person. I believe there is nothing like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weak women and young girls, and I would be glad if I could influence anyone to try the medicine, for I know it will do all and much more than it is claimed to do."—Mrs. CLARA FRANKS, R. F. D. No. 1, Maplecrest Farm, Kasota, Minn.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should be convinced of the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health by the many genuine and truthful testimonials we are constantly publishing in the newspapers.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) LTD., Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

POEMS.

JEST A-LOAFIN'.
(By Julia L. Peck.)
Ain't done nothin' all day long!
Jest bin loafin'.
Wasn't tired, an' wasn't sick—
Lollered all day by the 'crick,
List'nin' to a thrush's song—
Jest a-loafin'.

Really went down there to fish,
'Stead o' loafin'.
Didn't take no interest in it,
Seemed like God had made each
minute,
Fer a man to have his wish,
Jest fer loafin'.

N'ever spent a sweeter day,
Jest a-loafin'.
Never felt air soft as this,
Seemed most like a baby's kiss.
Kind o' made me want to pray—
Jest a-loafin'.

Saw the wild things in the trees,
Jest a-loafin'.
Picked a pretty bunch o' flowers,
Watched a squirrel fer two, three hours,
Lay down an' enjoyed the breeze.
Jest a-loafin'.

Can't think I bin doin' wrong!
Jest a-loafin'.
Feelin's somehow seemed so deep,
Tho' I dozed and went to sleep,
Thank God for the thrush's song—
Jest a-loafin'.

And the children stood watching
them out of the town:
For men must work, and women must
weep,
And there's little to earn and many to keep,
Though the harbor-air be moaning.

Three wives sat up in the lighthouse
tower,
And they trimm'd the lamps as the sun went down;
And they looked at the squall, and
they looked at the shower,
And the night-rack came rolling up
ragged and brown;
But men must work, and women must
weep,
Though storms be sudden, and waters
deep,
Though the harbor-air be moaning.

Three corpses lay out on the shining
sands,
In the morning gleam as the tide
went down,
And the women are weeping and ringing their hands,
For those who will never come home
to the town,
For men must work, and women must
weep,
And the sooner it's over, the sooner
to sleep,
And good-bye to the bar and its moaning.

THE BLISS OF THE BAIRN.
Have you ever felt the pressure of a tiny baby hand
Or a little upturned face against
your own?
Have you ever rocked a little one
away to slumberland,
When the sunlight day to eventide
has grown?
Have you listened to the chatter of a busy little tongue,
Of the glories where the child-
world plays a part?
Have you kissed the lips of laughter
when the sleep-songs have been sung,
Bringing dreamy rest unto the little heart?

Have you quieted the troubles of a tired little soul?
Have you listened to the little childish cares?
Have you crooned away the sobbings
with a sympathetic trol,
In a lullaby of old-time soothing
airs?
Have you seen the dancing sunlight
in the eager little eyes,
All a-gleam at mystic fairy tales
you'd tell?

Did you note the looks of wonder and
expression of surprise
O'er that charming spot where
gnomes and elfins dwell?

Have you heard the supplications
from the rosy little lips,
Ere the Saviour came around upon
his quest?
Have you felt a thrill of rapture from
wee, tiny finger tips,
As you hugged the little dreamer to
your breast?
Then give thanks above that little dimpled arms are yours to feel
In a clasp of love about your neck
at night,
When within the dusk of even at the
snowy cot you kneel,
Listening to the gentle breathing
soft and light.

THE MEANS TO ATTAIN
HAPPY LIFE.
Martial, the things that do attain
The happy life be these, I find—
The riches left, not got with pain;
The fruitful ground, the quiet mind.

The equal friend, no grudge, no strife,
No charge of rule, nor governance;
Without disease, the healthful life;
The household of continuance.

The diet mean, no delicate fare;
True wisdom joined with simple-
ness;
The night discharged of all its care,
Where wine the wit may not op-
press.

The faithful wife, without debate;
Such sleeps as may beguile the
night;
Contented with thine own estate,
No wish for death, nor fear of his might.

LITTLE BOY BLUE.
The little toy dog is covered with dust,
But sturdy and staunch he stands;
And the little toy soldier is red with rust,
And his musket moulds in his hands.
Time was when the little toy dog was new,
And the soldier was passing fair,
And that was the time when our little Boy Blue
Kissed them and put them there.

"Now, don't you go till I come," he said,
"And don't you make any noise!"
So, toddling off to his trundle-bed,
He dreamt of the pretty toys,
And as he was dreaming, an angel
song
Awakened our Little Boy Blue,— Oh, the years are many, the years are long,
But the little toy friends are true.

Ay, faithful to Little Boy Blue they stand,
Each in the same old place,
Awaiting the touch of a little hand,
The smile of a little face,
And they wonder, as waiting these long years through
In the dust of that little chair,
What has become of our Little Boy
Blue
Since he kissed them and put them
there.
—Eugene Field.

THE THREE FISHERS.
Three fishers went sailing out into the West,
Away to the West 'as the sun went
down;
Each thought on the woman who loved him the best,

speak clearly, mumbled sentences,

How to Sing a Song.
An instructive article describing the best, indeed the only, method which will enable a young singer to develop into a finished artist appeared in a recent number of The Music Student.
The writer, Mr. H. Ernest Hunt, after recommending careful consideration of the words, the soul of the song and
the melody, sums up by saying:
"Live, think, feel, and above all, love,
and then your voice will be but the vehicle of your heart and brain, and it will carry all the latest sympathy and love that lies in the song and which you are able to discern out and away into the world to awaken echoes
in responsive hearts and scatter love
and sympathy wherever it may go.

Where Responsibility Lies.
No matter how large, or how small,
a business may be, nobody can deny that its Office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the Office. An order is received at the Office, its history is recorded at the Office, and finally payment is received at the Office. If the Office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your office is moderately and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effectively you need the up-to-date equipment of the "GLOBE-WERNICKE CO." When sixty offices in St. John's have found this necessity this equipment can surely be of use to you. Mr.
Percie Johnson represents this world
known firm in Newfoundland.

Children's Acting.
Lest the language of some of our noblest literature become obsolete, we must let children drink early and deep
at the wells of "English undefiled."
We have constant examples of good work in this direction. Not long ago,
"As You Like It," acted by children,
held Whitechapel audiences entranced.
Only last month, "The Tempest"
was staged by the "Young Elizabethan Stagers"—a gallant little band
founded by a young elementary school teacher in South London. Acting would be advisable, if only as a means
of teaching children to speak well.
With perhaps the richest language in the world, how few English people

The Bitter Cry of the Children.
"One of the greatest causes of the present unrest is the bitter cry of the children. Mrs. Bramwell Booth, in her housing report, says that 316
girls under sixteen years of age within the last twelve months have been criminally assaulted; in the annual report of the National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, it is stated that 400 girls have been criminally assaulted; and the Church Penitentiary Association from 56 of its Rescue Homes reports that 793
girls under age came under its notice
within one year. When we know the conditions under which the poor live
do not make for lives of purity and chastity, and in the cramped spaces
self-respect is well-nigh impossible, it is futile to tell women that the matter is of no urgency, and that they can have no voice in a question that touches the home.

"It has taken a long time to blaze
the light and to bring the facts to the knowledge of women. What failed to find expression before is finding it
now in an unrest among women, and

Many a man's conscience
isn't on speaking terms with him.

Woman's Discontent--and Why.
It is folly to ignore it or treat it as madness. The rising flood of moral indignation is against tyranny and oppression. The women are met with a conspiracy of silence and a refusal to confront these ugly facts by Parliament, the Press, and even the Church,
where there is merely a desire to evade an overwhelming plea for justice to women and children.

"Militancy an Excuse for Delay."
"The Government and the anti-suf-fragists are always eager to clutch at any straw, and the present straw of militancy is an excuse for the delay
of a matter of vital importance to the community. You cannot control the great water floods, you may make underground sewers or drains; but what happened in Paris may one day happen here on a big scale. The flood of moral indignation has been suppressed and pent up, and by refusal to give it free outlet you may find yourself one day standing on the edge of a chasm yawning beneath your feet
ready to engulf the fair structures
reared by a civilization which in its blindness refuses to take into account
the moral and spiritual forces which have been at work.

"To treat unrest in a righteous
cause as crime, and give weightier sentences than those meted out to criminal assaulters and the White Slave traffickers, and to refuse to consider the justice of a plea put forward by highly educated, peace-
loving, law-abiding women, is the surest way to direct energy into channels which may endanger the whole fabric of society. To talk about women being filled with political ambition only shows ignorance of the subject. The vote is the ruling power of a democratic State, and to refuse it to women, or even to listen to them demanding it, is glaring hypocrisy."—Graphic.

Useful Things Worth Knowing.
It is possible to keep lemons almost indefinitely in all weathers by putting them in a jar of water with a lid. One must change the water once a week if the lemons are to be kept longer. But one will find them as firm and juicy as when fresh.

If table linen is stained with fruit
the stains can be removed by stretching the piece of linen across a basin
and pouring boiling water from the kettle, in a thin, steady stream directly on the spot. Then wring out the piece of linen and pour water on the reverse side.

To freshen a broom that has commenced to show signs of wear one has only to soak the broom regularly in hot suds and put it in the sun to dry,
and it will be found to have gained
new life and elasticity.

Great difficulty is often experienced
when trying to remove glass stoppers,
but this method will help to loosen
them. Pour a little olive oil or glycerine round the stopper and let it stand for an hour or so. The oil will work round the stopper and it should be easily removed.

To waterproof boots, melt together
two parts of beeswax with one part of mutton fat, and apply to the leather
at night; the boots should then be wiped next morning with a flannel.
When blacked the boots will not polish so well at first, but after the blacking has been used several times they will polish brilliantly.

White stains made on a mahogany table by hot dishes may be removed by rubbing in oil and afterward pouring spirits of wine on the spot and rubbing dry with a soft cloth.

Nails used in bathrooms and kitchen
on which damp cloths and towels
may be hung should be painted with enamel, so that they do not leave rusty
marks.

Washing soda will remove the most obstinate mud stains. Rub off with a cloth or flannel dipped in the soda,
then press well on the wrong side of the material with a warm iron.

To soften boots and shoes rub castor
oil thoroughly into the leather.
This will renew the elasticity and life of the leather. Any ordinary oil will answer the purpose, but castor oil is the best.

When the House of Commons Laughs.
"Let me write the songs of the people, and I don't care who makes their laws," is a frequently quoted aphor-
ism. It may be paraphrased in a form truthfully applicable to the House of Commons, writes Sir Henry W. Lucy (Toby, M.P.) in describing the humor
of the British House of Commons.
"Let us make the House laugh, and I
don't care who convulses it by argument."
This yearning after the lighter side
of things is natural and irresistible.
Having sat for eight or ten hours
listening to a succession of speakers
hammering away at a technical or otherwise tiresome topic, there is great refreshment in a burst of laughter. From period to period following on a series of general elections, the House of Commons necessarily varies
in individuality of character and consequently in general tone and aspect.
But it never loses its thirst for amusement. It is so grateful for any contribution to its amusement that it is not particular as to the delicacy
of the humor or the poignancy of the wit.

A Minister who, expounding a bill,
has furtively supplied himself with a tumbler of slightly colored water,
and, enforcing his argument, with
sweeping gesture upsets the tumbler,
is almost sure to get his bill read a second time without a division.

A private member who, concluding his speech, sits down on his hat, in-cautiously placed on the bench behind him, is a prime factor for the rest of the evening.

This particular development of unconscious humor is likely to pall by frequency of repetition. Last session it gained an effective accessory. A member, speaking from behind the Treasury bench, resuming his seat,
at the close of a speech, crashed down on the hat of his neighbor. It is good form in these circumstances for the victim to betray no annoyance. He should absolutely ignore the incident,
refraining to regard it as part of ordinary Parliamentary proceedings.

In this case it happened that the owner of the outraged hat followed its assailant in debate. Taking up the wreck, straightening it out with the air of being quite accustomed to find it in this plight, he commenced
his speech with the familiar remark:
"The honorable member who has just sat down—"
"On your hat," said another member, completing the sentence.

Time was when the Irish members
supplied both with Irish generosity.
They flooded the House of Commons
with rich and rare individuality of the kind heretofore familiar to the Saxon chiefly in the novels of Lever and Lover. That type has disappeared from the present House. The only Irish member who to-day habitually risks flights of humor is Mr. Tim Healy, and his style is severely sardonic. For the rest, the modern Irish member is as prosy as he is fluent,
his harangues being unlit by heavenly flashes of wit or humor.

Amid many other distinct types I recall a serious-minded Irish member named Blake, whose memory is kept green by a brief correspondence
he had to a delighted House. It was casually introduced in a speech delivered in debate on an Irish Sunday

Removing Stains.
If an ink stain gets on your frock,
remove it at once with salts of lemon,
if the color will not run.
If milk is spilled over it, wash at once
with soap and water.
If candle or other grease falls on
it, take out with an iron and blotting
pad, French chalk or benzine.
If it is rain-spotted, iron on the wrong side with a piece of muslin between the cloth and the iron.
If mud-stained, wait till it is dry,
then brush off lightly and sponge the marks afterward.
If paint falls on the cloth, remove it with turpentine. Coal tar is removed with butter and tea stains with plain water.
Coffee stain, even with cream in it,
can be removed from the most delicate silk or woollen fabrics by brush-ing the spots with pure glycerine.
They should be rinsed in lukewarm
water and pressed on the wrong side
until quite dry. The glycerine absorbs both coloring matter and grease.

Sing a Song of Sixpence
Here is an explanation of the rhyme, "Sing a Song of Sixpence":—
The four-and-twenty blackbirds represent the four-and-twenty hours.
The bottom of the pie is the world.
The top crust represents the sky.
The opening of the pie is the dawn
of day, when the birds begin to sing,
and surely such a sight is fit for a king.
The king in his counting-house
counting out his money is the sun.
The money the king is counting represents the golden sunshine.
The queen, who sits in the parlor,
is the moon.
The honey she is eating is the moonlight.
The industrious maid who is working in the garden before the sun has risen is the day dawn, and the clothes
she hangs out are the clouds.
The bird who so tragically ends the song by nipping off her nose is the hour of sunset.

War Expenditure.
Russia's weekly expenditure towards the close of the war with Japan was £1,097,250. Our own war in South Africa, the bill for which totalled the huge sum of £211,948,000, worked out at £1,500,000 a week. The total cost of the Crimean War was about £213,000,000. America's successful struggle for independence cost
the Mother Country £121,000,000, or just under £1,600,000 a week. France, however, has had to foot the heaviest weekly war bill on record, the total cost of her terrible conflict with Germany being £316,000,000, or over £7,000,000 a week.

Kitchen Comfort.
Rugs are needed in the kitchen or wherever much standing is done, as in front of the sink and the range or beside the table. They prevent linoleum or oilcloth from becoming worn in one or two spots, they are sometimes needed for warmth and they are always needed to spare the feet and back of the person who does the kitchen work.

There is a fancy for princess styles
made entirely of very fine embroidery.
