The Am. Novel of 1915.

MICHAEL O'HALLORHAN
 by Gene Stratton Porter.

This is the story of Mickey the news-boy and his ward-peacher, whom he found with a crippled back and cried for until she was cured. It tells of Mickey's part in the romance of Douglas Bruce and Leslie Winton; and of the kindness of Peter Harding and his wife to peacher, and finally of Mickey's own love story with the wife he found years before.
 The book possesses, like all of the author's works, a deep feeling for nature, the charm of the woods, the flowers and all growing things.
 Paper 65c; cloth 90c. Not a dull page in all the 500 pages.

Liniment Give it Marvelous Power.

RUB ON NERVILINE.

You'll be astonished at the rapid pain relieving action of "Nerviline." Its effectiveness is due to its remarkable penetrating power—it strikes deeply, sinks to the very core of the trouble.

Nerviline is stronger, many times stronger, than ordinary liniments, and it's not greasy, ill-smelling or disagreeable. Every drop rubs in, bringing comfort and healing wherever applied.

You would scarcely believe how it will relieve a sprain, how it takes out lameness, how it soothes and eases a bruise.

Thousands say no liniment is half so useful in the home. This must be so, because Nerviline is a safe remedy—you can rub it on even a child with fine results.

Just you keep Nerviline on hand—it's a panacea for the aches, pains and slight ills of the whole family. One bottle will keep the doctor's bill small, and can be depended on to cure rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, sciatica, toothache, pleurisy strains or swelling. Wherever there is a pain rub on Nerviline; it will always cure.

The large 50c. family size bottle is the most economical; trial size 25c. Sold everywhere by dealers.

"ECHOES of the Past; OR, The Recompense of Love!"

CHAPTER XXXII.

"And that charming melodramatic scoundrel, Koshki, do you feel any interest in him?" said Quilton, with a drawl and a face like a block of wood. "A man answering to his description, or, rather, I should say a body, was picked up in the river, down Sheerness way. He had been stabbed, no doubt in a row—probably caused by some act of treachery of his, for he appears to have been one of the gang of anarchists who find a safe and pleasant refuge in this land of liberty. One of those men, my dear Harvey, whose death, by any means, violent or peaceful, may be regarded as an unalloyed boon to any community. The police regard his taking off with complacency, which amounts to a serene satisfaction, and have not taken any particular trouble to discover the person or persons who has or have relieved the aforesaid inhabitants of this land of liberty of ours of one of its most distinguished aliens. Let me see, is there any other news? H'm—ah, yes! Do you happen to remember a Hindu woman who was servant to Lady Edith Chesterleigh? If so, did you ever notice anything peculiar in her manner? I ask you, because the poor woman has gone out of her mind. She is in a lunatic asylum, private lunatic asylum. I—er—happened to call at Lord Chesterleigh's on business, purely personal and private business, the morning after—er—your accident; and I found her raving about 'spies' and 'bodies floating on the river'; the kind of stuff we used to see in a blood-and-thunder play at the old Surrey theatres. Ah, you don't remember them perhaps? Being an old acquaintance, let us say friend of Lord Chesterleigh's, I took the liberty of having her at once placed under proper control; and I'm glad to say that Lord Chesterleigh, when he returned to town—he had been up to Scotland—quite approved of the steps I had taken."

The blood struggled to Clive's face and his eyes sought Quilton's anxiously; but Quilton still stared at the wall, as he said:

"Yes; I had a long talk with Lord Chesterleigh about—about various matters."

"He knows?" whispered Clive.

"He knows just as much as I choose to tell him," said Quilton coolly.

"And—and—she—Lady Edith?"

Quilton was silent while one could count twenty, then he said slowly and reflectively, as if they had been discussing a debatable point:

"I am one of those men, my dear Harvey, who consider, rightly or wrongly, that a foreign secretary should not be content with sticking at home, here in England, and grubbing away at an office in Whitehall; but should go abroad and make himself acquainted with the foreign nations with which he has to do business. Lord Chesterleigh appears to be of my mind; for, things being a bit slack just now, he has started on a long political tour." He paused for a moment. "And Lady Edith accompanies him, of course. Lord Chesterleigh has made arrangements which will permit of quite a long tour, and will be away for many months. He came to see you when you were at your very worst, your very 'barmiest,' and was, naturally, much distressed by your condition; indeed, he would not leave England until you had taken a decided turn for the better. He left a message for you. You would like to have it? Do you think I'd better give it to you now? Are you strong enough?"

Clive looked at him steadily. "Tell me," he said in his feeble voice.

"This is what he said," said Quilton. "Tell him," he said, "to remember the love, the affection, that has sprung up between us, and, remembering that love and trust, to forgive me and mine." He gave me a letter for you from Lady Edith; here it is."

Clive read it and drew a long breath. "Have I been lying here long?" he asked.

"Well, it seems a deuce of a time to me," said Quilton evasively; "and I shall not be at all sorry when you can get up, and begin getting yourself into some further trouble. Now, I've said all I'm going to say; and your best way of spending the time will be by going to sleep."

"Tibby?" asked Clive, in his apology for a voice.

A curious change came over Quilton's face; its impassiveness seemed to break up for an instant and something like a shadow of a smile, as curious as the change in his countenance, a smile like some teas, much mixed, played about his lips.

"Tibby," he replied reflectively.

"Oh, Tibby is all right."

"Not hurt, not ill, by that—that night's work?" murmured Clive.

"Not at all," Quilton assured him, with just a suspicion of pride in his voice. "Nothing but an earthquake or a new 'Fire of London,' or the refusal of Elisha to do as she told him, would break Tibby's spirit. Some day when you are strong enough to bear it, Harvey, I should like to tell you what I think of Tibby. It will take some time in the telling; for Tibby is a study to which a man might reasonably devote a moderately long life—and then he'd die without knowing much about her. She has the wisdom of a female Solomon, the pluck of a Nubian lioness, and the tenderness of a mother with her first baby. I was going to add that she is one of Nature's noblewomen; but it would be an outrage to apply such a hackneyed expression to so lady-hearted a girl as Tibby. When I think of her and talk of her—but I'm going to do neither now. I can hear the nurse on the stairs; and I'm going up to my room to earn a little money and to try and forget your troublesome existence."

He smoothed the bedclothes, and, in doing so, laid his hand gently on Clive's shoulder, gave it a gentle pressure and, with a nod, went out; Clive's eyes following him with mute gratitude and affection.

From that day Clive moved rapidly toward convalescence; but Quilton, who spent most of his time beside him, would not let him see any letters or even talk very much; visitors were, of course, out of the question. One day, the day Clive had regained sufficient strength to permit of his moving from the bed to a capacious chair, he said, after a long silence between the two men:

"I am going to resign the secretaryship and my seat, Quilton."

Quilton nodded. "Thought you would," he said. "My opinion isn't of any consequence; but I think you're right. You've got too much originality for a home secretary, and indulge in adventures which are quite unsuited to so grave and important an office. Yes; I should seek a change of occupation. How would it be if you fitted up a small vessel—a rakish craft—is, I believe, the accepted way of describing it—and started off to unknown seas in search of hidden treasure? Or you might go into training for the prize-ring; you'd make a splendid pugilist. There may, too, be an opening in the pirate business. I can quite easily picture you disciplining a blood-thirsty and unruly crew with a revolver. Seriously, you are right, Harvey. Anyhow, give Parliament and politics a rest, and let the People—with a capital P, please—find another friend to abuse and vilify."

Clive shook his head. "The people are all right, Quilton," he said; "it is I—How soon do you think I shall be able to go out? I want to go to her; I am starving for a sight of her. Day and night I picture her as she lay waiting for death."

Quilton laid his hand firmly on Clive's arm.

"That kind of talk is not allowed. That way madness lies. You shall go to her the moment I can drag you down to a cab. Until then, possess that hardened soul of yours in patience. I admit that she is worth worrying about, but it is my duty to point out to you that the more you worry, the longer you put off the happy hour when two hearts, etc."

"Did you give her my last message?" asked Clive, with suppressed eagerness.

"I did," replied Quilton; "and she said—nothing. I never knew any woman's silence so eloquent as Mina's. By the way, her voice has come back."

"Oh, thank God!" breathed Clive.

"Yes. It was the careful nursing after her illness; perhaps the relief, the joy of knowing that a certain Mr. Clive Harvey was progressing favorably. You can never account for these things, these sudden recoveries, especially in women. Who's that coming up the stairs? Why, its—"

He went to the door and opened it; Tibby was standing on the threshold.

Quilton and Clive, even in their joy at seeing her, were struck dumb by the change in her appearance. It was Tibby, right enough, but a new, transformed Tibby. She was dressed, not in the old nondescript garments, but in a tailor-made coat and skirt of blue serge; and in place of the extraordinary bonnet, she wore a neat and exceedingly becoming hat, properly disposed on an equally neat and becomingly arranged head of hair. She looked exceedingly, amazingly pretty, and, most marvelous of all the change, she had blossomed suddenly from her old child-girl period into a young woman of trim, though fairly-like proportions.

Quilton's eyes, which, for the moment, had become as saucers, were quickly hidden under their thick lids, and with his wonted impassiveness, he said, with a bow:

"Come in, Miss Tibby. The interesting invalid is now on view. Admission sixpence; free list entirely suspended."

As Tibby entered, he went out and softly closed the door behind him.

Gin Pills FOR THE KIDNEYS How They Help

ST. RAPHAEL, ONT.

Four years ago I had such pains in my back that I could not work. The pains extended to my arms, sides and shoulders. I used many kinds of medicine for over a year, none of which did me very much good. I read about Gin Pills and sent for a sample and used them, and found the pains were leaving me and that I was feeling better. So I bought one box and before I used them all, the pains were almost gone and I could keep at work. After I had taken six other boxes of Gin Pills, I felt as well and strong as I did at the age of 30. I am a farmer, now 61 years old.

FRANK LEALAND.

All drug stores sell Gin Pills at 50c. a box, or six boxes for $2.70. Sample free if you write to National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada Limited, Toronto.

Clive took her hand and held it; he could scarcely speak, and when he did so, he was only able at first to murmur:

"Tibby!"

She scanned him with her keen eyes and shook her head sharply.

"You've been very ill, I can see," she said.

He broke in upon her with:

"Mina! You've come from her, you've come to tell me about her? It's like you, Tibby! I can't express my sense of your goodness, your courage, Tibby! But you know all that, you know what I feel, Tibby, dear."

"Mina's all right," she said. And as she spoke Clive noticed a change in her tones which corresponded with that of her dress and appearance; it was more gentle, less aggressive and, in some indescribable way, a kind of faint echo of Mina's; as if she had cast off an affectation of roughness and commonness; but there was still enough of the old manner in her speech and voice to prevent the change from jarring.

"Mina's all right," she repeated.

"She's stronger than she looks, as I allus told you. Yes; I've come to tell you about her; and I've come for something else." She tried to look at him defiantly, but her voice quivered.

"I've come to beg your pardon, Mr. Harvey."

Clive laughed. "That sounds odd from you, Tibby!" he said affectionately. "What on earth have you got to beg my pardon for? Tell me about Mina."

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS.

A good rainy day game for the kiddies is played as follows: Dolls and toys have a way of breaking, it is true, but tears and pennies may be saved if they are laid away in a box—the crippled chair, the tallest dog and the headless doll—for a rainy day when the children are clamoring for something besides soap bubbles to play.

Then the trainload of wounded is brought in, the dolls and animals are put to bed each one numbered with a little ticket, and the furniture is put on the table, where nails, hatchet and glue are ready for use.

As each number is called, the patients are operated upon with needle and glue, and when they are once more hale and hearty the furniture is taken in hand and the hospital becomes the carpenter shop.

BONAR LAW.

ITALY MAY RAID SERBIA.
ROME, Nov. 9.
What appears to be a forecast that Italy will send troops to Albania to aid the Serbs, is contained in a semi-official note, which says that while Italy did not participate in the recent expedition of the Allies to assist Serbia, she has found a better way to oppose the Austro-German-Bulgarian attack upon Serbia. This way, the note says, was opened by the Bulgarians themselves when they threatened to invade Albania to reach the Adriatic, a design so dangerous to Italy's interests, that the mere threat must induce Italy to take appropriate measures to frustrate it immediately.

GREEK CHAMBER MAY DISSOLVE.

ATHENS, Nov. 9.
The prediction that the Chamber of Deputies would be dissolved is credited to Premier Skoufoulidis by the Patria, which asserts that he stated, when asked whether the Ministry would appear before the Chamber. The question is not formally settled yet, but will be voted upon at a meeting of the Cabinet this afternoon. I can say no more.

ZADIMIS POLICY.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.
The Foreign Office at Athens called the Greek Legation here to-day, as follows: The new cabinet intends to put through the same policies in foreign politics, as were maintained by the late cabinet.

GREEK PREMIER'S STATEMENT.

PARIS, Nov. 9.
Premier Skoufoulidis, in a telegram to Athos Romanos, the Greek Minister of the country, and of what it owes to the Powers, which are protecting Greece, to swerve from this line of conduct. It hopes that the friendly feelings of these Powers for Greece will not be at a moment, he influenced by malicious and misleading news, purposely circulated with the main object of changing the good relations that exist between the Entente and Greece.

THE SERBIAN PROBLEM.

LONDON, Nov. 9.
Many questions concerning the war were propounded in the Commons to-day, but little in the way of new information was brought forth from the Government. Foreign Secretary Grey made a long statement on the subject of political conditions in the Balkans, and the assistance promised to Serbia by Britain. The sympathies of King Ferdinand of Bulgaria, for Germany and Austria, he said, always have been known. The Government were aware, as early as April, that negotiations were in progress between Bulgaria and Turkey, under German influence. As to why no military assistance for Serbia had been available at the time of the opening of the campaign, Sir Edward declared he was neither willing nor competent to state. Secretary Grey made it clear that the movements of troops at Salonika, and from that point, were dependent upon the consent of Greece. Serbia was notified on Sept. 24th of the despatch of British troops to her assistance. The Foreign Secretary informed the Serbians that Britain was offering Greece to land forces at Salonika to assist her in fulfilling her obligations to Serbia. Britain had labored throughout, he said, to give Serbia all the assistance in her power. His use of the words "without qualification or reserve" in his statement before the Commons on Sept. 28th, when promising to assist Serbia, meant that concessions previously suggested to Bulgaria were at an end, and that British troops would be used solely to help the friends of this nation, and to fight for their and her interests. The promise was given to our friends of all the assistance in our power, Sir Edward added, and that has, in fact, been, and is being done.

GREEK ARMY REVIEWED.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.
A news agency despatch from Salonika, London, under date Nov. 8, noon, published here to-day, says: Prince George of Greece gave the Allies an object lesson to-day that his country has an army not to be despised. Thirty thousand perfectly equipped men, artillery, infantry and cavalry passed in review before the Prince at the water front here. The military display was in commemoration of Salonika's seizure by Greece from Turkey three years ago. British and French officers, soldiers and sailors mingled with the watching crowds. The Greek onlookers cheered the demonstration uproariously.

ALLIED TROOPS AT SALONIKA.

LONDON, Nov. 9.
The newspapers of Berlin, as quoted by a correspondent at Copenhagen of the Exchange Telegraph Co., says the Allies have already landed 300,000 men at Salonika.

AUSTRIAN ATTACKS REPULSED.

CETTINJE, Nov. 9.
Repulse of Austrian attacks is reported in the official statement issued by the Montenegrin War Office to-day as follows: Important artillery engagements occurred along the entire

BULGARIA THREATENS GREECE.

PARIS, Nov. 9.
The Temps prints a despatch from Salonika in which Premier Radouloff of Bulgaria, is quoted by the Sofia correspondent of the Pest Hirlap of Budapest, in Hungary, as declaring: The Grecian Government has now been warned that it cannot hold the Bulgarian Government responsible for the consequences of its future attitude. This notification, according to the correspondent, followed representations made by the Premier to M. Nacum, the Greek Minister to Bulgaria. Premier Radouloff, the correspondent declares, regards the facilities accorded for the disembarkation of the Allied troops at Salonika, as incompatible with Greek neutrality, and has informed Minister Nacum to this effect.

AIR RAID INSURANCE.

LONDON, Nov. 9.
A plan for insuring the property of the poor against aircraft raids, was announced in the Commons to-day by Herbert Samuel, Postmaster General. The payment of 12 cents will insure property to the value of $125 for twelve months against destruction or damage, resulting directly or indirectly from bombardment by aircraft and from the effect of anti-aircraft guns. The maximum value of the property insurable will be $375, which will require a payment of 37 cents. This insurance business will be transacted through the post office, which will accept payments and pay claims.

THE GLOBE SUSPENSION.

LONDON, Nov. 9.
"Is the Government afraid of Lord Northcliffe?" was the query propounded by Harry Anderson Watt, member for College Division of Glasgow, in the Commons this afternoon, but the Speaker promptly forestalled discussion of the topic by disallowing the question. The House was discussing the suspension of the Globe at the time. One inquisitor wanted to know why another evening paper, which had committed the same offence as the Globe, was not similarly suppressed. Sir John A. Simon, Secretary of State for Home Affairs, assured the House that any newspapers acting as the Globe did, would receive similar treatment. As to the length of the suspension of the Globe, and proceedings against its editor and proprietor, the Secretary said these questions were under consideration.

THE PRESIDENT'S NOTE.

LONDON, Nov. 9.
"Enlightened opinion here is not uneasy over President Wilson's note," says the London correspondent of the Manchester Guardian, who is in closest touch with public men. "The President's attitude," continues the correspondent, "is regarded on the whole as somewhat pedantic, but not in intent or in any degree menacing. He is conducting the controversy, it is thought, in such fashion as to keep American rights intact, unprejudiced and, at the same time, to keep the discussion from developing into a quarrel. It is regretted that the President has not thought fit to accept the British suggestion of appealing to a higher tribunal in this country, and if necessary of carrying the appeal eventually to some sort of international tribunal. The only danger that is foreseen here from the President's attitude, is of a political kind. The Presidential election in the United

Defy Dyspepsia!

Among the symptoms of Dyspepsia or Indigestion may be mentioned a heavy, cutting pain soon after eating; a thought, in such fashion as to keep and bowels; belching of wind and flatulence; a burning sensation in the stomach, which indicates acidity; heartburn; palpitation of the heart; oppression of breathing; pain under the ribs and shoulder-blades; headache through the temples and eyes; dizziness, coated tongue and constipation; sometimes nausea or vomiting.

Abbey's Effervescent Salt is the natural specific for all these conditions. Being an antacid, it immediately relieves the acidity of the stomach and stops the fermentation. It stimulates the secretion and muscular action of the stomach and bowels, and overcomes the constipation. When its use is kept up the normal action of all the organs of digestion is re-established.

States is drawing near, and in Presidential campaigns everything is put into the melting pot. There are big vested interests in America, notably the Chicago meat packers, that are aggrieved by our practices, based upon the Orders in Council of March last. A series of diplomatic protests against individual instances of the general British policy, might easily strain the campaign in America, and cause it to become undesirably exacerbated. In the meantime it is very desirable that British newspapers should refrain from any comment, bitter or quarrelsome.

NEW ADMIRALTY RULING.

LONDON, Nov. 9.
The Government has decided to rescind the order under which British ships, carrying wheat to ports in the United Kingdom were to be exempt from requisition by the Admiralty, which would enable them to start on another voyage, not necessarily in the North Atlantic, after discharging their cargoes. It is also understood that the Government has abandoned the plan to increase British bottoms, trading between foreign ports. With reference to the first order, the Chamber of Shipping of the United Kingdom has received the following letter from the Board of Trade: "With reference to a letter from this department on October 30, stating that the Admiralty, under certain conditions, was prepared to grant exemptions from the requisition of vessels fitted to carry wheat from Atlantic ports, the United States and Canada to the United Kingdom, I am directed by the Board of Trade to state that, owing to circumstances, only recently apparent, the Admiralty, with regret, finds it necessary to withdraw the promise of immunity with regard to vessels which can be shown to be fitted for this purpose before noon on Nov. 5th."

THE AMERICAN STEAMER LLAMA.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.
The American steamer Llama, seized and run on a reef by a British prize crew last week, has been washed off the reef, and has sunk. The American Consul at Kirkwall, reported to-day that only the Llama's masts were visible above the water. The State Department is investigating the circumstances of the vessel's seizure.

CHANGE IN CHINESE GOVERNMENT.

PEKIN, Nov. 9.
The Associated Press is authorized to state that the Chinese Government has decided that a change would be made this year in the form of the government of the country.

MEXICO.

LONDON, Nov. 9.
Britain, Sir Edward Grey told the Commons this evening, naturally wished, as in other matters, to consult her Allies as to the time and manner of recognizing the present de facto government in Mexico. The procedure which was now being followed, he said, had the approval of the representatives of the Allied Powers at Washington, as well as of the British Ambassador, who was in consultation with the Charge d'Affaires of Mexico. There was nothing to show, added the Foreign Secretary, that delay in taking action was injurious to British interests in Mexico.

BEATING DOWN PRICES.

I called on Rumbelow & Ratz, who deal in fancy Thomas cats, shipped in from France and Spain; I noticed when I stepped within that both the partners ceased to grin, as though they had a pain. And every place I go to trade, I see the smile from faces fade—I often wonder why; oh, why do merchants others greet with backs and bows and manners sweet, and meet me with a sigh? "My place is overrun with rats," I said, "I want twelve pounds of cats, so kindly quote your price." "Our cats," said Ratz, "are hale and sound; the price is seven cents a pound, which is a sacrifice." Great Scott! I cried, "your price is fierce!" John Jones sells tomatoes round; the partners answered, "Nix!" I stood and argued for an hour, and on their mugs expressions sour still deep and deeper grew, until they laid me on the floor and dragged me to the open door, and calmly pushed me through. I wonder why the merchants frown when I go shopping in the town, to buy all kinds of trash; they all seem happy when I quit; my winning ways don't make a hit, and no one wants my cash.

Drug Clerk Tells How to Cure Indigestion.

Recommends to Sufferers the Best Stomach Remedy in St. John To-day.

"It is a wonder some of us have stomachs left," remarked a well-known drug clerk recently. "While all drug stores sell a score or more of stomach remedies for which there is a wide demand, most of them are just peppy pills which aid digestion of the food that is in the stomach at the present time. They have no curative or strengthening effect on the stomach at all, and of course do not reach or cure the cause. So the same people keep on coming here and buying and using them until they are real chronic dyspeptics. When anyone really asks my advice, I swear by and recommend ordinary bisurated magnesia, which doesn't digest the food at all but acts as an anti-acid and sweetens the sour, fermenting contents of the stomach. That stops the pain, heart-burn, sour rising, wind, bloating, fullness, etc. In just a few minutes, and the stomach digests its food without help or trouble, which is the proper way."

"Doctors make mistakes sometimes, too," he continued. "My own aunt had all kinds of trouble with her stomach for years. She bought and used several styles of digestive pills but got worse right along, as naturally she would. Finally she went to a doctor, who nearly scared her to death by telling her she had cancer of the stomach. She came to me with his prescription and told me what he said. I thought it was nonsense. I sent her to another doctor whom I knew very well and he didn't tell her anything, but just gave her this same thing, bisurated magnesia. She took it two weeks and never had any stomach trouble since and that's three years ago. She's my own aunt and I know this for a fact. Yes, a lot of bisurated magnesia is sold in St. John's. All the druggists have it, I suppose, and all you take is a teaspoonful after every meal. It's all right."

Ladies' Costumes

Fall--1915--Styles.

Was there ever a more fickle lady than Dame Fashion? She is always making changes, and this season has surely surpassed herself.

There is a more decided change in this Fall's styles than has been known for many seasons. While materials are similar, Serges, Gabardines, Tweeds, Cord, etc., the designs are absolutely unlike any of their predecessors. Coats are of many styles, chiefly a la militaire, with high collars, snug-fitting sleeves, and the entire coat in some instances is beautifully braided. Skirts are much fuller, both pleated and gored, and are worn very short.

As descriptions are quite impossible, we can only say that we carry the largest and smartest line of Ladies' Costumes in the city.

The Greek Gift of Benevolence.

THE CRISIS IN GREECE.
The despatches of last night are mainly about Greece, as to whose attitude much concern is felt. Newfoundland is particularly interested in her as a purchaser of our staple, to whose market a number of cargoes have been sent which has not yet reached their destination, and which are being held at Gibraltar. The Greek Premier's telegram to the French Foreign Office will tend to allay any fear of hostility breaking out between the Entente Allies and Greece on the ground of the use of Saloniki as a base for the despatch of French and British troops to the aid of Serbia, for he states that the new cabinet accepts as its own the declarations of former Premier Zaimis, regarding the friendly attitude of the royal government as to the allied troops at Saloniki. Zaimis is the Premier who was defeated by Venizelos a week or so ago. He succeeded Venizelos when the latter was dismissed by King Constantine for endeavouring to carry out Greek treaty obligations to go to the aid of Serbia, when Bulgaria attacked her. This declaration of Premier Skouloides is satisfactory in this respect, for Sir Edward Grey yesterday in the House of Commons made it clear that the movements of troops at Saloniki and from that point were dependent upon the consent of Greece. He also stated that the original landing had been made to aid her in carrying out her obligation to aid Serbia. The unsatisfactory nature of the declaration of the Greek Premier is in the re-affirmation of the firm resolution to continue neutral. This intention is backed up by another statement attributed to him of a likelihood of the Chamber of Deputies being dissolved. The Chamber of Deputies has been in existence but a few weeks. The object of the dissolution is to gain time during which the Ministry can continue its policy of standing pat without the embarrassment of a hostile majority in the Chamber of Deputies. The same game was played by the Court last spring. Venizelos was favourable to intervention on the side of the Entente. King Constantine, influenced by his wife, the Kaiser's sister, was opposed to it. Venizelos was forced to retire. All kinds of devices were used in the way of delay. Eventually an appeal to the country was made and Venizelos was upheld by the country, and came back to power, to be dismissed again by the Germanophile King when he tried to carry out the treaty obligations of Greece to Serbia. Now, there is every appearance of a repetition of the game at a more critical time and under such circumstances as leads to the suspicion that it is the hope of the Greek court that Germany's aim as regards Bulgaria and Turkey may be accomplished before a new Greek Chamber of Deputies can be called together and that then the proposition may be put to them that Greek interests call for acquiescence. This gift of benevolence after the hostile scrapping of a treaty recalls the gift of the Greek horse to the Trojans and the classic caution: "I fear the Greeks bearing gifts."

EXPORT OF FISH TO GREECE FORBIDDEN.
Since writing the above we find that Great Britain is taking a firm stand with the Greek Government and is forbidding the exportation to Greece of—"Fish of all kinds, whether cured, salted or fresh."
"Any articles which could be utilized for warlike purposes, or to serve to build up national stock of supplies."
A Proclamation to this effect is also published in the Royal Gazette, and has already had an adverse effect on the prices of Labrador "log."
Greece has taken about 20,000 qtls. of the 70,000 she usually takes. Quite a number of cargoes have been detained at Gibraltar by the authorities.

At Rossley's Theatre. Carroll and Ellor, the Irish musical comedy artists and the finest female impersonator in the world again had their audience in roars. SCHOONER WRECKED.—CREW ESCAPED TO ROCK.—TWO OF THE THREE PERISHED FROM EXPOSURE.
The following message was received by the Attorney-General, Hon. R. A. Squires, from Magistrate McGrath, of Odegin, telling of a wreck of a schooner and the death from exposure of two of the crew:
"The schooner Madonna, Placentia, with Robert Sparrow, James Darmody and Michael Darmody the crew, bound from St. John's to St. Bride's, with general cargo, struck on Jude Island, on Saturday evening and became a total wreck. The crew reached a rock known as Little-Gull-Rock, but two succumbed from the exposure, the rock being sea-swept with high winds and heavy seas. James Darmody died on Sunday evening, Robert Sparrow on Monday morning, Mike Darmody was rescued Tuesday evening at three o'clock by John Pomeroy of Miramichi, who was passing West, and landed here. The distance from Odegin is less than two miles but the fog obscured the locality and stormy weather prevented boats being out the fishing grounds. Mike Darmody who is recovering from the ill effects of his trying experience is well cared for and will be sent to his home by the Argyle. Great sympathy is felt for relatives of the unfortunate men."

MAN KILLED IN EAST END.

Edward Brookings the Victim.
Another fatal accident, the second heard of in the East End of the city within the past week, occurred this morning when Edward Brookings, aged 48 years, was accidentally killed at Harvey & Company's Butterine Factory. The workman was employed as a general helper around the premises. Usually he was engaged out of doors rolling material when wanted, but owing to the down-pour of rain this morning was engaged in the storeroom on the front of the factory, and in company with a workman named Noseworthy, was hoisting barrels of oleo oil to a flat over head. Noseworthy was driving the winch used for hoisting, and Brookings was hooking on the packages, which were held with canhooks. About 8 o'clock Mr. A. G. Williams, Manager of the factory, passed along and advised Brookings not to stand under while the package was in the air. He replied that it was all right, meaning that he would take the advice. Shortly after Mr. Williams was in another section of the factory when he heard that the man whom he had left but a short while before had met his death.

KILLED INSTANTLY.
Noseworthy, who was driving the winch was the only witness. It appears that in some unaccountable manner the grips or canhooks released their holds off the chimes of the barrel or tierce of oleo. The package, which weights approximately 550 pounds, fell 25 feet with great force, striking right on the head of Brookings who was unfortunately standing underneath. The poor fellow was picked up in a heap with the life crushed out of him. His forehead, which the barrel struck, was badly battered. Dr. Roberts, who was summoned, responded quickly, and on examination found that the man's skull was broken, and life was extinct, and that death was instantaneous. Rev. Mr. Whitemarsh was the next who hurried to the scene. Upon him devolved the sad duty of breaking the terrible news to the grief-stricken family. Undertaker Carnell took charge of the corpse to prepare it for burial.
SAD CIRCUMSTANCE.
Deceased is survived by a widow and three children. Mrs. Brookings herself is in failing health, and only a few months ago buried her eldest daughter as a result of consumption. Only a few years ago Mrs. Brookings brother, a Mr. Button had the life crushed out of him in St. John's during a storm in the harbor. For these reasons the deepest sympathy of the community will go out to the family in their bereavement.
GOOD WORKMAN.
The Manager and everyone connected with the Butterine Factory give Mr. Brookings the very best of a name. He was faithful, a good worker, a member of Bowring Park, a strong man, sober and industrious.

Supreme Court.
Court met at 11 a.m. to-day, pursuant to adjournment. Present Mr. Justice Johnson.
Abram Kean vs. W. F. Coaker and The Union Trading Co., Ltd.—This is an action for libel arising out of an article which appeared in "The Fishermen's Advocate" during the time of the enquiry into the sealing disaster of 1914. Furlong, K.C. and Warren, K.C., for plaintiff; Morine, K.C. and Kent, K.C., for the defendants. The following special jury are in attendance: George Halley, Nicholas Worsley, George Neal, Joseph Barnes, Edward Rowe, Frederick Darcy, William Walsh, Denis O'Brien and John Flynn. Warren, K.C., states the plaintiff's case. Abram Kean is sworn, examined by Furlong, K.C. cross-examined by Morine, K.C. Kent, K.C., states the defendants' case. The evidence of Patrick J. At 1 p.m. recess was taken till 2.30 p.m. After recess Furlong, K.C., began to address the jury. The case will likely be concluded this afternoon.

Accident On Railway.
While an outbound special freight train made up of an engine and ten cars including one passenger car, was nearing Mount Pearl this morning, the last six cars of the train broke from the couplings and in running backwards two of the cars left the track and went over the embankment near Bowring Park, the remaining four being brought to a standstill about half a mile east of Waterford Bridge. Fortunately no person was injured. The special train left here at 7.30 this morning, in charge of Brakesman O'Reilly, acting conductor, and driver Jeans. The accident occurred at about 8 a.m. The conductor was on one of the six cars that broke from the couplings, and was fortunate to escape without injury. The two cars that ran off rolled completely over the embankment and were smashed to pieces. The passenger car was attached to the train was only a caboose used by the train hands to cook their meals on the way across country. As a result of the accident the regular morning train was delayed and did not leave the station until 9.15 a.m. While we are not in a position to state whether the accident was the result of defective coupling, or other cause, we think that in justice to the travelling public a rigid investigation should be made, as a similar accident might happen a mixed train with most disastrous consequences. In this respect the report of the Government Engineer will be awaited with interest.

Hot Water and Happiness.

Hot baths are necessary for health, in summer as in winter. But in households where hot water supply is dependent on the kitchen range, a hot bath cannot be secured during the summer months without turning the kitchen and its neighbourhood into a miniature inferno.

No wonder, then, that cook complains bitterly when nurse demands to have the fire made up, and that relations between the members of the household staff reveal a state of strain extending almost to breaking point.

It is here that the gas industry steps in to keep peace by means of its water-heating inventions, all of any of which, being entirely independent of the coal range, can give unlimited hot water at any moment without causing the least inconvenience.

Of all the boons and blessings that the twentieth century brain has devised, the gas water-heater is by no means the least.

BARS OUT BRYAN'S PAMPHLET.

SAN FRANCISCO, To-day. Ram Chandra, local Hindu editor, announced to-day a pamphlet which he says is wholly made up of translated excerpts from W. J. The pamphlet entitled Angan di Cahawi which is said to be a translation of Bryan's title.

GOVERNMENT WILL CURB DOMESTIC EXTRAVAGANCE.

LONDON, To-day. That the Government has under consideration the passage of sumptuary laws to insure the strictest domestic economy was the information given to Charles Bathurst, Unionist member for Wiltshire, by Asquith in the Commons yesterday. The Premier said he would be glad to receive any suggestions concerning such legislation. Bathurst had asked the Premier whether in view of the serious state of the nation's finances and the thoughtless extravagance and unnecessary luxury still being indulged in by many persons to the annoyance of their neighbors, the Premier would consider the advisability of passing drastic sumptuary laws which would insure the strictest domestic economy and put all classes upon a footing during the war of greater equality in their mode of living.

Speeches by French Ambassador and Mr. Arthur Balfour.

LONDON, To-day. At the annual banquet of the Lord Mayor of London, celebrated in the Guild Hall last night, Sir Charles Wakefield having been inaugurated during the course of the day, all city officials and many members of the Government and diplomatic representatives attended. The only difference between the function to-night and those of other years was the observed curtailment of the customary sumptuous menu for one more appropriate to war economy and the presence of many guests in military uniform. Asquith, wife and daughter were cheered when they entered the hall. Cheers were given for the Serbian Minister and for the representatives of the Allies notably the French and Italian Ambassadors, the Russian Grand Duke Michael, the High Commissioner of New Zealand, Hon. Wm. Thomas McKenna, brought his son who was blinded while serving in the Dardanelles. The young soldier was given an ovation. Earl Derby, Director of Recruiting, was warmly received as was the Belgian Minister. When the toast to the King was given, the assembly rose and sang the National Anthem. This was never done before. Sir John Simon, Secretary for Home Affairs, responding to "Our Allies," said the alliance would become stronger with the duration of the war. Paul Cambon, French Ambassador, said although the number of our enemies may have increased since last year, the number of our friends have been augmented. I am happy to see to-day our Italian colleagues. Describing the war, he said, on one side the tranquil courage, faith, an ideal justice will employ only legitimate means of defence; on the other a forgetfulness of all principles of humanity, the destruction of an open town, taking of a sort of perverse joy in the accomplishment of evil and a plan pursued with childish disregard of scruple to dominate the world by terror. He made reference to the execution of Miss Edith Cavell, saying quite recently she was a German military tribunal sentence a noble woman to death for a crime of generosity, and a German officer indulged in the pleasure, though not compelling to do so, of executing sentence himself by murdering this defenceless victim. The Ambassador concluded: When the hour strikes for the enemy to realize that all his schemes for world domination have broken down, we shall see him a prey to moral depression, which will make him fall suddenly from the height of his dream. Balfour, replying for the Army and Navy, said the French Ambassador in a speech burning with scathing eloquence, had told them what were the moral objects for which the Allies were fighting. He had to deal with means and weapons by which the great ends were to be attained. The whole strategy of the Allies, said the First Lord, was based on the Allied fleet. Never was there war in which dominant incidents connected with the Allied fleets were more essential than land forces. Their fortunes would have been very different from what they were going to be had it not been for the fact that the Allies from the first moment took command of the seas. Dealing with the armies, he said, to praise the armies which Lord Kitchener's genius had raised from the country was superfluous. What they had done was but a small earnest of what they would do. He declined to appear in the character of a prophet, but wished to point out one or two facts on which prophecies might be based.

CORRESPONDENTS VISIT BRITISH AVIATION CENTRES.

LONDON, To-day. For the first time since the beginning of the war newspaper correspondents have been allowed to inspect the great aviation centres of the British army. Yesterday representatives of two leading Paris, one Norwegian, one Australian and two New York leading papers, escorted by a war official, visited several of the principal bases in England where every facility possible for obtaining information was placed at their disposal. The only possible conclusion after the trip is that Britain has determined upon the mastery of the air the same as at sea. Further, she is in a fair way to accomplish her end, if indeed that is not already the situation.

THE NEW FRENCH GUN.

PARIS, To-day. The great French advance, which is clear to the German invaders out of Belgium and France, will be pressed home just as soon as the army is sufficiently equipped with the new gun about which there has been so much talk of late in military circles. It is understood nearly the number required are now in readiness. When these big guns are brought to the front they are expected to make short work of German trenches. Special interest in the character of these guns, which has not yet been officially disclosed, was aroused by the announcement made here regarding the driving project which is said to have done so much towards clearing the seas of German submarines. It is understood similar apparatus has been adopted and attached to projectiles used by the new large guns. They will be used against German trenches, and instead of the difficult task of turning soldiers out of these retreats it is expected that the French will dispose of the invaders by burying large bodies of them in their own trenches.

GREEK ARMY TO DEMOBILIZE.

ROME, To-day. A decree ordering the demobilization of the Greek army soon will be issued, according to an Athens despatch to the Giornale D'Italia, which says only 50,000 men will be kept under arms.

Tsing Ju Cheng, who was a member of the Monarchist Party, with his private secretary and daughter, the Japanese Consulate to attend the coronation reception when two revolutionists fired 18 shots at them from automatic pistols. Tsing Ju Cheng was taken to hospital but died shortly after.

LARGE QUANTITY OF AMMUNITION DISCOVERED.

LONDON, To-day. A despatch from Capetown asserts that Henry Burton, Minister of Railways, Union of South Africa, declared at Natal that huge quantities of ammunition had been discovered hidden in Damaraland, Southwest Africa. The Minister said there was a sufficient quantity of ammunition to equip sixty thousand men and that the Germans had hoped to overthrow the Government of South Africa with the aid of a rebellion.

54 MEMBERS OF ANCONA'S CREW LANDED.

CAPE BON, Tunis, To-day. Two of the Ancona's boats with 54 members of the crew were landed near this point; some of the men are injured.

SERBIANS REPORT SUCCESS.

LONDON, To-day. The Serbians operating in the defiles of Kutchink against the Bulgarians advancing from Plohub to Priarend, report important success, says an Athens despatch.

TWO GERMAN SUBMARINES SUNK.

LONDON, To-day. Telegrams received here from Algiers, Morocco, by way of Madrid, report that a British cruiser has sunk two German submarines in the Straits of Gibraltar.

ANCONA TORPEDOED.

LONDON, To-day. A despatch from the Stearn News Agency says that 100 shells were fired into the Ancona before she was torpedoed.

BULGARIANS CLAIM DEFEAT OF BRITISH AND FRENCH.

BERLIN, To-day. The defeat of French and British troops in Southern Serbia with losses which are described as enormous is reported in a despatch from Sofia by way of Budapest.

NEW WAR VOTE.

LONDON, To-day. Asquith will ask the Commons to-day for a vote credit of £400,000,000. This will make a total amount voted for purposes in the current year of £1,200,000,000. The amount voted in the financial year of 1914-15 and the sum allotted for war, including the new vote of credit, will reach an aggregate of £1,662,000,000.

BRITISH TROOPS IN GREECE.

PARIS, To-day. An official statement issued by the Franco-British staff at Salonika yesterday and transmitted to the Havas Agency, says British troops reinforced by a new division occupy solidly the region north of Doiran and are operating in the direction of Strumitsa, where encounters between British and Bulgarian patrols have been reported. The Bulgarian attack on Keivoliak testifies to the anxiety caused by the progress of the French troops beyond Grena River, and the occupation by them of regions of Monzlin, Camandol and Dobrista protecting the routes to Babuna Pass. Supplies trains are circulating freely between Guevgelii and Gradsko. Lt. General Sir Charles C. Munro is expected to arrive at once from Flanders to take command of the British forces.

PROFITS. By GEORGE FITCH. Author of "At Good Old Swash." Profits are what the storekeeper has after he has paid his bills and you have settled his account. If it wasn't for profits, the storekeeper could not live. This would cause the factories to close down, banks fail, and jobs would become as scarce as noble, high-minded burglars. Thus, it seems that it is profits after all that makes the world go round. But the trouble is that some people seem determined to make the world exceed the speed limit. There are three kinds of profits: fair profits, big profits and trust profits. There are also net profits and gross profits. The English call gross profits "takings." For a nation, which doesn't know a monopoly when it sees it, this is a remarkably clever definition. Profits vary greatly in various lines of business. You can buy a pound of silver for $8, but if a solemn man with long hair takes that silver, and hammers it into a tea tray full of sub-time dents, and sell it for $175. That is what comes of mixing profits with brains. On the other hand, the hardware man will sell you a small iron bolt for 5 cents, and will make 4 cents profit on it. But the automobile repair man will charge you 75 cents for the same bolt, and $3.25 for putting it in place, and a quarter for the wear and tear on his wrench and overalls. That is what comes of mixing profits with gall. Occasionally, a man gets all of something that there is. In that case, what he makes isn't profit. It is swag. Some men are better at making profits than others. The farmers are getting rich selling hogs at 9 cents a pound, while the packers claim they are getting poor selling pork at 25 cents a pound. Some presidents get $50,000 a year for their services, and die poor, while some aldermen get $1 a meeting and amass vast fortunes. Large profits are pleasant, but dangerous. They cause financial congestion, which has to be relieved by long applications of society, automobiles, gay sons, private yachts and tickler tapes. On the other hand, small profits are usually only light lunches for some other fellow's big profits. Take it all around, profits are a worry which only cease after we have died and the undertaker has made a 265 per cent. profit by mixing it with grief. The great trouble with this country is the fact that there are too many profits without honor in it.

Enemies and Enemies.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

"I wouldn't have any use for a man who hadn't an enemy," cried Molly, the little stenographer lady, with flashing eyes. Someone had been speaking with disapproval of a man who seemed to have a good many enemies. "Doesn't that depend?" questioned the Authorman. "On what?" "On what kind of enemies they are." "You mean—?" "Whether they are enemies of conviction or mere personal enemies." The Authorman's point is well taken, isn't it? It is rather the style nowadays to deprecate too general a popularity as the sign of a personality which has no backbone, but is a "mush of concession."

MANY PEOPLE ARE PROUD OF THEIR ENEMIES.

Now that may be all very true, but it does not prove the converse—namely, that unpopularity is a sign of a strong character. And yet that converse seems to be as generally accepted as the theorem itself and many people have the idea that an enemy, no matter of what nature, is something to be proud of. It is a foolish feeling and ought to be uprooted.

There are enemies and enemies. Whop by standing up for some honest conviction you antagonize someone and make an enemy, you have no reason to be sorry. If your conviction is part of some high purpose and you antagonize those who are against the best interests of the community, you have reason to be proud of this antagonism. Should You Be Proud Of Having Been Disagreeable?

If on the other hand, you say a disagreeable thing, or do something unkind, and thereby make an enemy, why should you be proud? On the contrary, you should be heartily ashamed and do your best to make him your friend again.

To take a slightly different aspect of the case, people are often proud of their own dislikes because they have the feeling that to like everyone is the sign of a weak character. Before you praise yourself for showing strength of personality in not liking everyone, ask yourself, "What are my dislikes founded on?"

Are they founded on envy, on resentment of some slight, on some old grievance, or are they founded on the fact that the person is mean or disagreeable, or has principles antagonistic to yours?

Hate The Sin But Not The Sinner. I question if even that latter class of dislike is justifiable, for one should, of course, hate the fault or the unworthy principle rather than its possessor.

As the tender-hearted children's poet once beautifully said: "If we could read the secret history of our enemies we should find in each man's life sorrow and suffering enough to disarm all hostility."

Fads and Fashions.

Ribbons are used to a great extent in trimming this year's dresses. Quantities of high collars are worn, but there are also many low ones.

Black patent leather strap trimmings are a new trimming for suit coats. Skunk fur and gold berries make a pretty trimming for a black beaver toque. Dance frocks are made entirely of net and they are one mass of ruffles. Plaid taffeta is combined with chitton in the making of pretty new blouses. Tiny bunches of shaded ostrich tips are among the prettiest millinery touches. Very small muffs are sometimes made of silk or velvet with the tiniest bands of fur.

All Children Love "Syrup of Figs" for Liver and Bowels

Give it when feverish, cross, bilious, for bad breath or sour stomach. Look at the tongue. Mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative;" they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

He says that the commonest of all disorders, and one from which few escape is Catarrh. Sir James firmly believes in local treatment, which is best supplied by "Catarrhazone." No case of Catarrh can exist where Catarrhazone is used; it is a miracle worker, relieves almost instantly, and cures after other remedies fail. Other treatments can't reach the diseased parts like Catarrhazone because it

Diphtheria Increasing.

Diphtheria is increasing in the city. Within the past three or four days seven cases of the disease were reported to the Health Office. In the majority of cases the patients are children. Yesterday three new cases were reported from the Southside, Alexander and Gower Streets. At present the Fever Hospital is filled, the nurses there having their hands full.

The Funeral of Benjamin Miller, H.M.C.

The remains of the late Benjamin Miller, arrived here in Trinity on Saturday, at 12 p.m. and was lodged in the Mortuary Chapel until Sunday, when the funeral took place. The widow and son who accompanied the remains, stayed at Mr. Ernest Morris's who is a nephew of the deceased. The deceased had many relatives and friends here and being a member of the L.O.A., S.U.F. and Masonic he had many brothers, as Trinity is well goes to the source of the trouble along with the air you breathe. Catarrhazone is free from cocaine, it leaves no bad after-effects, it is simply nature's own cure. Beware of dangerous substitutes offered under misleading names and meant to deceive you for genuine Catarrhazone which is sold everywhere, large size containing two months treatment costs $1.00; small size, 50c; trial size, 25c.

HEADACHES

Thousands of men and women suffer from headaches every day. Other thousands have headaches every week or every month, and still others have headaches occasionally, but not at regular intervals. The best Doctor is often unable to find the cause of many of these headaches, and in most other cases, knowing the cause, does not know what will remove it, so as to give a permanent cure. All he can do is to prescribe the usual pain relievers, which give temporary relief, but the headache returns as usual, and treatment is again necessary. If you suffer from headaches, no matter what their nature, take A-K Tablets, and the results will be satisfactory in the highest degree. You can obtain them at all drug stores in any quantity, 10c worth, 25c worth or more. Ask for A-K Tablets.

SICK-HEADACHES

Sick-headache, the most miserable of all sicknesses, today its terrors when A-K Tablets are taken. When you feel an attack coming on, take two tablets, and in many cases the attack will be wiped out. During an attack take one A-K Tablet every two hours. The rest and comfort which follow can be obtained in no other way.

Genuine A-K Tablets bear the K monogram. At all druggists.

COMPLETE CHANGE OF PROGRAMME AT THE CRESCENT.

There is a complete change of programme at the Crescent Theatre to-day. The new programme is a modern society drama, "The False Guardian," is the headline, Alice Hallister features in this drama. Bessie Learn features in "The Worthier Man" and a very laughable Vitagraph comedy with the favourite Wally Van is "The Chief's Goat." Dan Delmar sings a new ballad to-day. Mr. Delmar is delighting Crescent patrons every day, he has a splendid voice and sings his songs with great expression. Go to the Crescent to-day and hear him.

"Exploits of Elaine" at NICKEL THEATRE.

The "Exploits of Elaine" is the great attraction at the Nickel Theatre to-day. This is by far the most and most interesting serial story ever shown on canvas. There are fifteen episodes and every one is of the most thrilling nature. It is a highly sensational detective story, different from all others and entirely new to St. John's. Arnold Daly, Pearl White and Sheldon Lewis are in the principal roles which is sufficient to say that they will be able to sustain. Over five hundred theatres in greater New York have used "The Exploits of Elaine" and every where it has had wonderful success. Thousands of our people will want to see this picture. They will be able to see it after the stores close if they are not able to go earlier. Don't miss the first episode.

BRITISH THEATRE.

This might be called "Local Night" at the British Theatre. In addition to the singing of Miss Marguerite Mitchell, the film by the Nidd. Biograph Co., "Commemoration Day at Bally Italy Golf Club, August 4th, 1915," will be shown. This is a film of great beauty and varied interest. The different golf scenes are very interesting, and depict some of our crack players of both sexes in every department of the game. Golfers will appreciate this part of the film, while the striking beauty of the scenery will appeal to everyone. These features with the "Trey of Hearts," and other pictures constitute a programme of unequalled excellence. Next week a splendid film "Salmon Fishing on the Terra Nova River" will be exhibited.
