Winter is Coming.

Already the chilly days of Autumn are here, and you should not risk the chance of catching cold in a house where the fires die out, or where a great delay of time is necessary to start them on a frosty morning. A little Gas Heater, Gas Grate, or steam radiator will furnish you with just as much heat as you require, and just as little, by simply turning a tap.

We have Radiant Fires, Chill-Chasers, Set-In-Grates, Steam Radiators, and appliances to suit all requirements of the Home.

CHAPTER IV.

"Yes," thought her ladyship, as she sank into a luxurious easy-chair, "I have done an excellent night's work. I have left him with two very clear impressions. One is that his daughter is not quite perfect; the other that he absolutely needs the help of some one moving in good society to win a place for him in the great world of fashion."

CHAPTER V.

The two ideas became mixed in Mr. Cameron's mind. There must be something wanting in the education of his daughter. Personally he could discover no fault, no flaw; to him she was perfect; but this kind-hearted lady of fashion had evidently seen something or other that she did not quite approve. It was true that Diana was free of speech—more free than the generosity of girls—that is, she said what she thought, expressing her opinions frankly; but that Lady Colwyn and Sir Royal had always assured him was one of her greatest charms. Diana's ideas and opinions were always original; she rarely gave utterance to commonplaces. Sir Royal said he would rather hear her talk than read a book; and Lady Colwyn admired her freshness of ideas and the freedom with which she expressed them. But Lady Scarsdale said such unconventionality was unpardonable in the eyes of the world. Who was right?

As they drove home that evening, Peter Cameron studied his young daughter more keenly and more attentively than he had ever done before. He failed to see any evidence of want of training. The pure light of truth shone in her blue eyes, and the sweet lips could utter no word that did not benefit them.

He watched her when she reached home, and, observing every movement, scrutinizing every word, he admired her more than ever. But what if he had made a mistake, if he had taken her from school too young, if he had entrusted to her too much authority

THE UNIVERSAL PIPE

The Wellington is a storehouse of good smokes—clean, cool and dry. Three things about a Wellington make it so. First, the well catches all moisture and stray tobacco. Second, the top-opening bit sends the smoke up—away from the tongue. And third—which is mighty important—the Wellington is a W.D.C. Pipe, of genuine French briar, guaranteed against cracking or burning through. All good dealers sell Wellingtons in all shapes and sizes $1.00 and up.

gazing fixedly at her, she looked up at him with a smile and said:

"How intently you are watching me, papa! Have you made any fresh discoveries as to my character?"

"No; you are always the same to me," he replied. "By the bye, Diana, we must have a dinner party—Sir Grantley and Lady Tresham, Lady Scarsdale and her daughters, Lady Colwyn and Sir Royal—and you must give us one of your most recherche dinners. I should like Lady Scarsdale to see Ferness."

If Diana had yielded to the impulse of the moment, she would have said: "I do not like Lady Scarsdale, papa." She would have said it frankly enough to any one else; but she seldom, if ever, opposed any wish that her father expressed.

"Do you hear, Diana?" he asked.

"Yes; and I will obey, papa. Would you like a few young people and a little dance 'afterward,' as Lady Tresham says?"

"No, not this time. I want Lady Scarsdale to see Ferness at its best. I should like to show her the house after dinner."

Diana looked fearlessly into her father's face as she asked:

"Why?"

"It is in her power to render me a great service, my dear," he replied, "and I want her to see the kind of people we are."

"What service can she render you, papa?" asked the girl. "You require services from no one."

Peter Cameron's face flushed. After all, he did not care that the clear eyes of his daughter should fathom an ambition that even in his own heart he acknowledged to be a mean one.

"I can hardly explain, Diana," he said slowly; "but she is intimate with people whom I wish to know, and she can procure me introductions I desire."

"Oh, no! Lady Scarsdale says the whole affair has been a mistake; she is quite sure it has. Remember, I should like everything to be seen at its best on Tuesday. I think we had better say Tuesday, Dian."

"Just as you wish, papa," she answered. Then she drew near to him, put her arms round his neck, and kissed his kind, round face. "Papa," she said, "I wish you did not care so much about this tiresome Duke."

"I cannot help it, Dian. You do not see the importance of the matter."

"Indeed I do not," she said. "To me it means of no importance whatever. Oh, papa, do pause before you lay yourself under an obligation to this lady, who seems, I think, just a little capricious! I wish—please bear with me, papa—I do wish that you did not care quite so much for grand people. Why should you seek the society of those who evidently do not care for you? You are so independent in everything else that I cannot comprehend your running after persons above you as you do."

"Dian," cried Peter Cameron, "you must not speak in that fashion to me!"

"I cannot help it, papa," she said. "You are so good and true that I cannot bear to see a single fault in you. Do not be angry with me. Never mind what Lady Scarsdale says; wait until the Duke asks for an introduction to you. He will do so in time."

not the Miss Cameron, heiress of Ferness, quite as worthy of honor and respect as the Duchess herself? She knew this longing for the Duke's acquaintance was as a thorn in her father's side, the one small cloud that dimmed the perfect sunshine of his life. For his sake she would have been glad had the Duke consented to recognize him; as for herself, she was quite satisfied with the existing state of affairs. Consequently her father's proposition with regard to Lady Scarsdale was not received with any eagerness.

After a few minutes' silence, she said:

"Papa, will you tell me what introduction Lady Scarsdale has promised you?"

He colored as his daughter asked the question, knowing that his answer could not fail to displease her.

"One that I have long wished for, Dian," he answered. "Lady Scarsdale is a personal friend of the Duchess."

"But do you not see that you will lay yourself under an obligation to Lady Scarsdale?" she asked, impatiently.

"Oh, no! Lady Scarsdale says the whole affair has been a mistake; she is quite sure it has. Remember, I should like everything to be seen at its best on Tuesday. I think we had better say Tuesday, Dian."

"Just as you wish, papa," she answered. Then she drew near to him, put her arms round his neck, and kissed his kind, round face. "Papa," she said, "I wish you did not care so much about this tiresome Duke."

THE RAILWAY WAGE QUESTION.

LONDON, Sept. 25. Sir Eric Geddes, Minister of Transport, and the entire Executive Committee of the National Union of Railway Men, conferred for two hours and a half this morning over the railway wage question, which is threatening a nation-wide railway strike. The conferences took adjournment until four o'clock this afternoon.

GOVERNMENT TO NEGOTIATE.

LONDON, Sept. 25. (Reuters)—The papers dwell to-day on the gravity of the threatened railway strike. They emphasize that the public, which is already paying heavily for railway and travelling transport, cannot safely be ignored by either side in this dispute. It is pointed out that the strike announcement was issued on the very day that the new Ministry of Transport came into existence and it consequently seems almost as if it were a challenge. Sir Eric Geddes, it is stated, cannot allow himself to be stampeded by a pistol held at his head. In other quarters the Govt. was blamed for its delay in settling the question of standard wage and it pointed out that the threat had always succeeded in compelling the reopening of negotiations which the railway executive had believed were closed. Consequently it is believed that the Government offer to negotiate will be accepted by the union officials. THE RAILWAY WAGE QUESTION.

LONDON, Sept. 25. Sir Eric Geddes, Minister of Transport, and the entire Executive Committee of the National Union of Railway Men, conferred for two hours and a half this morning over the railway wage question, which is threatening a nation-wide railway strike. The conferences took adjournment until four o'clock this afternoon.

GOVERNMENT TO NEGOTIATE.

LONDON, Sept. 25. (Reuter's)—The papers dwelt to-day on the gravity of the threatened railway strike. They emphasize that the public, which is already paying heavily for railway and travelling transport, cannot safely be ignored by either side in this dispute. It is pointed out that the strike announcement was issued on the very day that the new Ministry of Transport came into existence and it consequently seems almost as if it were a challenge. Sir Eric Geddes, it is stated, cannot allow himself to be stampeded by a pistol held at his head. In other quarters the Govt. was blamed for its delay in settling the question of standard wage and it pointed out that the threat had always succeeded in compelling the reopening of negotiations which the railway executive had believed were closed. Consequently it is believed that the Government offer to negotiate will be accepted by the union officials. The latter retort to the charge that they are wantonly precipitating a strike that the discontent of the men has become so acute that they are likely to force a stoppage of railway traffic at the week end.

BOLSHEVIKI ANNIHILATED.

LONDON, Sept. 25. Fierce fighting was in progress throughout the day and yesterday in Petrograd, where Esthonians annihilated two Bolsheviki Regiments, according to Esthonian despatches received here to-day.

A JOB FOR NORWAY.

PARIS, Sept. 25. The Supreme Council of the Peace Conference at this morning's session approved a report of the Commission on Spitzbergen, granting a Norway political suzerainty over the Spitzbergen Archipelago. The Council also decided that the Kengue territory in Northern Mosambique, detached from the German colonial possessions, should be given to Portugal.

POWER OF LABOR INCREASING.

HAMILTON, Sept. 25. Counselling wisdom and patience in an address dealing with labor problems in Canada, Ben Tillett, the British Labor M. P., addressed the Trades and Labor Congress this morning dealing with the great growth of the labor movement in Great Britain. Mr. Tillett declared that the Trades Union movement embraced 5,000,000 workers whose power was increasing rapidly. Events in the Old Country he said, were driving the various elements in the movement together. He then detailed the programme adopted by the so-called unskilled workers' union, including the dockers. After a reference to the trials of the pioneer of the dockers' organization, Mr. Tillett declared "and now we have the temerity to go before representatives of the Government and talk with an air of wisdom and confidence. We are inspiring a very healthy respect on the part of the other side too. In fact it might be called a two-in-one movement."

ITALIAN SITUATION GRAVE.

ROME, Sept. 25. In political circles where the Fiume affair is virtually monopolizing attention, it is commented on that Italy's internal situation is grave economically for want of food and raw material, and grave financially because American dollars are bringing a premium of one hundred per cent. It has been rendered far more serious, politically, by the recent Fiume developments.

ADVISED TO HURRY.

PARIS, Sept. 25. Speaking in the Chamber of Deputies to-day on the German peace treaty, Premier Clemenceau said that if he had any word to send the United States Senate it would be that it hurry the ratification of the treaty. Replying to criticism of the League of Nations was not as perfect as President Wilson would have desired, but that he (Clemenceau) had no criticism to offer. If Germany had not declared war, the Premier said during his remarks, she would have Germanized the whole world. The Socialists in the chamber where there was a full attendance of the deputies, protested violently against this assertion.

SINN FEINER ACQUITTED.

DUBLIN, Sept. 25. Patrick O'Keefe, Sinn Fein Member of Parliament for the N. STAMFORD, Conn.

The steamship Rosalind of the Red Cross Line went aground on Cow's Reef in Long Island Sound to-day. She was bound from St. John's and Halifax to New York, and carried 140 passengers and 90 of a crew.

(A further message from New York reads: "Advices received by officers of the Red Cross Line, owners of the stranded steamer Rosalind, were to the effect that number one hold was filled nearly completely with water and that there was a leakage around the boilers. The passengers had all been removed, according to traffic manager Cosgrove, and taken to a hotel in New Haven preparatory to being sent to New York by rail. Wrecking tugs, he said, had been rushed to the aid of the Rosalind.

Other messages relating to the Rosalind going aground were received by Harvey & Co., local agents, and Bowring Brothers, but no particulars were given. Mr. Fred H. Ellis received a message from his sister, Mrs. Lumsden, of the Rosalind, who was making her honeymoon trip with her husband, from Stamford, Conn., which read: "Landed at Stamford, Conn.; all safe and well.)

Whence the Inspiration?

In reply to that of Mr. Woods in yesterday's "Telegram" may I back up what was stated in "The Industrial Worker" on Saturday last by saying first that the Business Manager of the N.I.W.A. has helped the firemen to the best of his ability, whenever appealed to, and that since the firemen have been affiliated with the N.I.W.A. he has been to a large extent responsible for the increase in wages. Furthermore it was the Business Manager of the N.I.W.A. who was chiefly instrumental in getting the increased wage in the spring of 1912.

Moreover, the offer of $65.00 a month which was made the firemen at that time was accepted, without demur by the firemen's local and also by Mr. Wood's himself.

It was but a short time after this when a move was made to get higher wages, and was it not owing to the fact that the N. I. W. A. considered the settlement of the wage question so shortly before, as binding for the rest of the season, and so refused to intercede in the firemen's behalf that gave Mr. Wood's the opportunity he desired to again dominate the Firemen's Union, apart from the N. I. W. A. influence, and at the same time secure to himself a salary as delegate.

As to the question of arrears and the mortality fund, it appears rather strange that such an inspired writer could join an association without knowing what his monthly dues would be. (It would tax the credulity too much to believe that Mr. Wood's did not intend paying or that he conceived the idea of regulating the dues levied by his clear reasoning.) Despite Mr. Wood's cry of Humanitarianism we fail to see that there was any justification for his action in the hospital affair. It is really too bad that the Editor of the "The Industrial Worker" is not so straightforward as to back up what he is told by the delegate of the Firemen's Union, and apparently to judge from the tone of Mr. Wood's letter the present Editor is much inferior to his predecessor because he is not chummy with Mr. Wood's himself—too bad.

The loan of $200.00 by the firemen to the N. I. W. A. was, I understand, looked upon as a gift to the strike fund of 1915, but finding that the amount in question is considered as a loan by the firemen, the N. I. W. A. is willing and has been willing to refund—so I believe—to the Firemen's Union, but not to Mr. Wood's personally, who rumour said, claimed the $200.00 as due him for his delegatory duties.

In conclusion may I remind Mr. and "malicious innuendo is a coward's weapon" and also advise him to study up the word scab. (His latter would be much more profitable than some of his loud talkings.) The scab accusation was refuted 5 months ago and no man would hurl such a false invective at an opponent for the sake of denying the truth. I published the article of my own volition and as I publish all else, in the interests of truth, and un mindful of the effect upon personal vanities, and toadying to no one, not even to the superior intellect of Mr. Wood's or his letter writer.

At the City Hall.

The municipal council held its regular weekly session last evening. The Mayor presided and Councillors Mulhally and Vinicombe attended.

After reading of minutes, etc., the following matters were disposed of.

The secretary public works department asked if council's engineer would give report and estimate of cost of extending city water main to the Topgal Road sanitarium. This was ordered.

Deputy Minister of Finance acknowledged receipt of council's cheques in payment of interest and contribution toward the fire department.

The inspector general wrote he had instructed the policemen on the beat near the small park Freshwater and LeMarchant Roads to call there and try and prevent continuance of damage lately done.

Job Bros. & Co. sent a lengthy communication in connection with the water extension to their premises, south side. After considerable discussion it was decided to visit the locality to-day at noon.

A letter of greeting to the council was read from Deputy Mayor Morris from Toronto.

H. Dawe requested attention to drain of Pennywell Road. This will be attended to.

A. W. O'Reilly wrote about the condition of the breastwork rear of his residence Water St. West. Deferred for further enquiry.

E. G. Cousens asked if he would be allowed to build houses on his land south side road. He will be told no objection will be raised provided proper system of sewerage is installed. A. Goobie, Hamilton Avenue, asked attention to the drains and gulley. Ordered.

Many Permits Granted.

The Imperial Mfg. Co., wrote there would be no danger of any explosion from the carrying on of their business off Prescott Street. The health officer reported in this connection there would be no objection from a sanitary point of view in allowing repairs being made to the company's building. Permission to repair was therefore given.

J. Barter called attention to the fact of their being no lights on Golf Avenue. Matter is under consideration.

The following permits were ordered to be given:—M. Power, repairs, LeMarchant Road; Mr. Allan, repairs, Water Street; Goodridge & Sons, repairs, Water Street; C. M. Hall, fence, Bate's Hill; John Walsh, garage, Scott Street; Knight & Taylor, addition, corner New Gower and Springdale Streets; James Murdock, Bonaventure Avenue, house; D. White, George Sinclair, W. R. Antle, James Butler, Jos. Soper, Prince of Wales Street, houses passed; C. E. Bradbury, Pleasant Street, Coachhouse; C. W. Ude, addition, Bond Street; Mrs. A. Connors, repairs, New Gower Street; James Field, shop, Fleming Street.

Plan of garage for I. Goldstone, Leslie Street, passed. The question of a stable will have to be a matter of a separate application.

W. F. Kenny, Henry Street, asked permit build garage rear of his house. Held over for enquiry.

Plan of E. Kavanagh, south side, was held over. It was ordered some attention be given a number of city crossings. The health officer's weekly report was read. After passing pay rolls and bills and disposing of some other routine business the meeting adjourned.

At the Majestic.

Another big show lies in wait for Majestic patrons to-night, when a Clara Kimball Young feature, a Bairnsfather cartoon, and two comedies will be screened. Four pictures is a big show and to-night will no doubt witness a full attendance, or as much as the hall can hold of such, of all the patrons of this, the city's most popular moving picture house. The feature, written by Cynthia Stockley deals with South African life, and those who saw "The White Man's Law," will instantly see the possibilities of such a subject. The screen actress holds her reputation in the feature, and will disappoint none in her latest presentation. The Bairnsfather cartoon is the best yet, which, seeing that they have gotten better as they advanced, is saying something. The two comedies are mirth-provoking, hilariously funny ones that will set the spectator in one continuous round of laughter and keep him so until his sides are sore and the tears roll down his face. What better cure for the blues than that.

WHAT IT MEANS.

The sound of Mr. Coaker's whining appeal to the people of Bonavista is heard in the air, and wonder of wonders, the arch enemy of Coaker and Coakerism: the daily exponent of all that was bad and wicked in Coaker and his cult: the journal which frothed at the mouth (of its editor) in denunciation of Coaker and all associated with him, publishes this appeal of the lost leader of a lost cause. Thus have opposing forces joined together—not for the common good—but for the pooling of their various interests, and the deception of the electorate.

Coaker and Squires. Examine their political records. Coaker joined with Sir Robert Bond in 1913, having given a written guarantee of unwavering allegiance to that gentleman, and the ink of his signature was scarcely dry, when he was discovered to be entering into conspiracies against the Liberal Party and its leader. The result of Coaker's disloyalty and double dealing was that Sir Robert Bond resigned not only the leadership of the Liberal Party, but his seat in the House of Assembly for the District of Twillingate, which he had represented since 1900. The reasons for this were set forth in his letter to the Telegram published on January 10th, 1914.

Next Mr. Coaker is found indulging in a political flirtation with Sir Edward Morris, Prime Minister of Newfoundland from 1909 to 1917. This ended in Sir Edward retiring from political life and accepting a peerage at the hands of the Sovereign. The way was now clear for Mr. Coaker and he was not slow to take advantage of his opportunities. With the support of others of his party and some renegade Liberals, he elevated Dr. Lloyd to the position of Prime Minister, and so long as he could use that gentleman to his own ends, he did so. But he went too far and Premier Lloyd when he discovered the character of the man with whom he was associated, quickly repudiated and disowned him. Thus we have President Coaker occupying the role of betrayer to three Premiers, Bond, Morris and Lloyd. Quite a record in our political history.

The political record of Hon. R. A. Squires has been traced by his new associate, Mr. W. F. Coaker in forcible and emphatic language. The columns of Mr. Coaker's paper the Advocate contain many encomiums of Mr. Squires, one of which it gives us much pleasure to publish today. Our readers will enjoy it. There are some others which we hope to print later for general information. But concern is not for these just now. The spectacle of the union of Squires and Coaker is one which is nauseating to every sane and sensible man. These men, through their press connections have raked every social and political muck heap in order to procure filth with which to bedaub the other, and both have labored incessantly, and with considerable success, to prove that the other can't be trusted.

The semi-manifesto of Mr. Coaker published in Wednesday's Star is peculiarly Coakeresque. It is the whine of a beaten man, and of a man who fears to face his opponents in the district which "so nobly placed in the House of Assembly" the three F.P.U. candidates in 1913. The timidity of Mr. Coaker is genuine. He knows that he has to face an adversary in Bonavista district who knows not the meaning of the word fear. Hence his plaintive wail for election. Mr. Coaker capitalises himself as the big man of the Fishermen's Union. He claims to be the Atlas supporting its weight. He looks upon himself with that egoism so characteristic of him, as the one man capable of conducting the commercial, as well as the political affairs of the Union over which he presides, and that with him out of it, the Union would go to the bow-wows.

"Mr. Morine," he says, "will ask you to defeat me." Of course he will. That is one of the purposes of his candidacy for the district of Bonavista. Mr. Morine will not only ask the voters of Bonavista to put Mr. Coaker out of public life for the good of the dominion as well as for that of the Union, but he will show the people of Bonavista district and the North generally just what a shallow, noisy demagogue Mr. Coaker is, and how crassly incapable he has proven himself to be in managing the commercial ramifications of his own organization. Mr. Coaker threatens to retire from all connection with the Union if defeated at the polls. That threat has been made before. It is the cry of the parrot repeated. The President is getting,—to use a current slang phrase—cold feet. He is frightfully scared of facing a man whom he cannot browbeat. In making such a frantic appeal to the voters of Bonavista he has exhibited his own weakness, and written himself down to be an empty shan and a mere political charlatan.

Mr. Coaker's semi-manifesto, therefore, means nothing only fear of the fate that is sure to be meted out to him. He well knows that he cannot, with confidence, face the district which he left, that Mr. Morine, (then the best man in the Dominion) might secure a seat there. He knows, too, that his political fate is sealed. The handwriting is on the wall. Weighed in the balance and found wanting might well apply to Coaker, whose personal throne is crumbling away and the foundations of whose political house is tottering to a fall. Shedding crocodile tears will not save him now. His alliance with, as he himself styled him, that "black rascal" Squires has finished his career. The Union men of the North have taken his measure and will prepare his political coffin on Polling Day.

Salary Increases.

The pledge made by the Government regarding the increase in the salaries of Civil Service officials, pending the report of the Commission appointed to enquire into conditions of work, when final adjustment will be made, is now about to be carried out, and a substantial all-round advance over the present salary schedule will be made provisionally. This will prove a great help to all the smaller salaried officials who, notwithstanding previous increases have not had their wages brought commensurate to the prevailing high cost of living. With the new rate they will, however, be in a better position to meet current expenses. The increase now made will be effective from July 1st of this year, and the schedule is:

80 per cent. on salaries up to $1,000.
20 per cent. on salaries over $1,000 and up to $2,000.
15 per cent. on salaries over $2,000 and up to $3,000.
Over $3,000 no increase.

The telegraphers and police who recently have had their salaries readjusted will not participate in this advance, but the Government has decided that all schoolteachers will be sharers in the provision made for other officials, their salary increases to be on the same basis, which will mean an additional vote for education. Following the course adopted in the other cases the schoolteachers increase will also date from July 1st.

Pointers.

The thousand Loyalists in Burgeo and LaPoile will stand by James. Watch them! One thousand votes for the Liberal Progressive Party.

Who appropriated the official correspondence of the Provincial Grand Orange Lodge of Newfoundland, and published garbled reports of it in the Daily Star to further a base purpose?

The Liberals of St. John's West will vote the STRAIGHT TICKET for Bennett, Mullaly and Martin. Liberals of St. John's East will do the same for the "fighting trio," Higgins, Vintcombe and Fox, and Liberals everywhere will vote the STRAIGHT TICKET for Liberal Progressive Candidates.

Will men who are seeking Government assistance to protect them from trade losses be satisfied, if this is done, to pay into the public treasury all that they made in the way of profits, out of the help thus given? The answer is obvious. Then why should the people's money be used in such a way?

Bolshevist Applauder Badly Used.

New York, Sept. 10.—A man, seemingly of radical tendencies, who insisted on applauding acts of violence portrayed in a film, the theme of which dealt with conditions in Russia under the Bolshevik regime, precipitated an uproar in the Strand Theatre, at Broadway and Forty-seventh Street, which resulted in the disturber being severely beaten by the spectators and subsequently being arrested. According to those who saw the occurrence, it was only through the quick action of Trooper E. C. Roberts, of the State Constabulary, that the man, who was sitting in the orchestra, was saved from more serious injury.

The first time that the man, who gave his name as Manuel Lopez, aroused the ire of the audience was when the Reds were shown taking possession of homes of the wealthy and murdering the owners. Lopez clapped his hands loudly and was liberally hissed by those around him. He was warned to keep quiet by ushers, but he disregarded a second time when the Bolsheviks were pictured as enforcing the registration of women in connection with a nationalization law. Cries of "Put him out" were heard and he subsided for the time being.

There was a general rush in the direction where he was sitting. In a few seconds, Lopez was surrounded by an angry throng, including a number of women, who attacked him from all sides. His face was soon a mass of abrasions. Then Trooper Roberts came to his rescue. Aided by employees of the theatre, he begged the people to stand back and allow the man to be taken to the police station. Lopez, thoroughly lightened, crouched behind the stalwart trooper and was literally dragged out of one of the side-entrances of the theatre.

More than a score of persons followed the disturber out, and Roberts had his hands full saving Lopez from further injury until the police arrived. Lopez was then hurried into a taxi-cab and taken to the West Forty-seventh police station, where a charge of inciting to cause a breach of the peace was made against him.

Lopez, at the station asserted that he had a right to applaud.

Dressed to Kill.

BEAU BRUMMELLS OF THE PAST. Nowadays, when dress economy is preached, it is at the women the sermon is pointed.

But it was not ever so. Here is a contemporary description of a man dressed in the height of fashion in the days when Dr. Johnson was wont to shamble along Fleet Street in woollen stockings, a course brown suit, and his wig awry: "A mixed silk coat, pink satin waistcoat, breeches covered with silver net, white stockings with pink clocks, pink satin shoes with large pearl buckles; a marmoset coloured stock covered with fine pointed-lace, hair dressed high and stuck full of pearl pins."

When this fashionable gentleman went out for a walk he put on a cocked hat too small by half, perched rakishly on his pigtailed wig, carried a long tasselled walking stick in one hand and a bouquet in the other, and stopped every now and then to see if his "hat was straight" by the aid of a gold-framed pocket mirror.

But even he was beaten by the riot of rainbow colours which adorned his

His dressing table would put to shame the dressing room of an actress or a society beauty of to-day. Lip salves, powder-puffs, almond pastes, perfumes, lotions, salves, for removing moles or specks, and combs of all sizes including one for combing the brows and eyelashes.

He received his friends sitting up in bed in a gold embroidered dressing gown of many hues. His greatest pleasure was to sit among the ladies sewing.

Even when he "went to be a soldier" his regiments were splendid. He was a bandbox soldier. Yet he helped to win Ramilles, Malpasquet, and Blenheim. There was something game about this strutting fellow after all.

BROUGHT SHIPWRECKED CREW—MADE A RECORD TRIP OF 68 DAYS.

The Hudson's Bay Company steamer, Nascopie, Captain G. H. Mead, arrived in port at six o'clock this morning from her annual trip to the Company's stations in the far North. Leaving Montreal last July, she made the trip around the Labrador coast, through Hudson's Bay, and back to this port in the remarkably short time of sixty eight days. Considering that this is Captain Mead's first voyage North, this is all the more noteworthy. The season's fur and pelt results were well up to the average. Nothing of very great importance occurred during the trip around the Bay, but on the return a shipwrecked crew was picked up at one of the Company's stations, at Chesterfield, and brought back South. This was in this month.

The ship that was wrecked was the Finback, hailing from New York, G. Commer, Captain. She was commissioned by a mineral prospecting company, headed by Christian Leden, a Norwegian explorer of fame. He it was who discovered the gold down North in 1913, and the purpose of this expedition was to prospect the territory and ascertain the quantity of the mineral. The ship struck a rock at Fullerton, North of the Bay, and sunk, the crew escaping in open boats. Rowing South, they came to Chesterfield, and were taken care of by the Hudson's Bay Company officials. None but Mr. Leden were affected by the intense hardship experienced during the hours spent in the open boats, and he recovered very quickly after arrival at the post.

Mr. Ralph Parsons, the manager of the Newfoundland-Labrador branch of the great company, and Captain Mack, returned by the Nascopie, the latter, with Messrs. Mead, Commer, and Leden, now staying at the Crosbie. The Finback's crew will return to New York just as soon as possible, while it is not yet known what the Nascopie will do. It is not known whether or not she will proceed to Montreal, there to discharge her collection of furs and goods.

Wealth From Slate.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—The subjoined letter from London was printed in the New York Sun and may prove of interest to Newfoundlanders. It states that in Wales can be turned into wealth, why it is not possible to utilize the great deposits in Newfoundland in the same way? When I lived on the West Coast many attempts were made to work the quarries there, but for some reason or other success was negligible. The Sun's article may point the way to further efforts to turn these deposits into sources of wealth.

Yours sincerely,
W. M. DOOLEY,
Charleston, S.C., Sept. 18.

London, Sept. 1.—Wales is the latest country to go in for wealth from waste. Miles and miles of really valuable agricultural land are buried beneath the waste heaps from the slate quarries which are a blot on the landscape of an otherwise beautiful country. There is now a prospect that this scar will be removed.

Experiments have been conducted for several months at the Pantreinoig Quarry at Bethesda in the utilization of slate dust for different purposes, and it has been found that this hitherto waste from the quarry can be transformed into a number of useful articles ranging from tooth powder to bricks.

The waste slate is first reduced to uniform sizes in an American crusher, after which it is further ground by other machines the product passing through screens of 20 mesh to 200 mesh, according to the process for which it is to be used.

From these dusts bricks unsurpassed in denseness, strength and hardness are being made, whose crushing weight is 15,000 pounds to the square inch. Excellent common glass bottles, pottery and tiles are also being made, the glassware being self colored green or amber. Tests of the slate dust as a "filler" for low grade rubber goods, such as car and perambulator tires, boot soles, &c., have proved perfectly satisfactory.

But perhaps the most important and lucrative field in which the slate dust can be utilized will be found in the manufacture of Portland cement. The product of the quarry exceeds the Government standard below which it is forbidden to sell or manufacture. The Government standard demands a breaking strain of 450 pounds to the square inch after seven days settlement and 755 pounds a square inch after 28 days settlement (the tests applied to the Pantreinoig materials—slate dust and lime—gave a resistance of 700 pounds a square inch after 7 days settlement and 795 pounds after 28 days settlement. The pure cement withstood strains of 365 pounds a square inch after settlements of seven and twenty-eight days respectively.

The quarry company is limiting its activities to brick making and the supply of the different grades of powder to the trade. Already they are turning out powder by the hundreds of tons per week and have laid down a plant to produce bricks to the number of 10,000 per day.

At their works the company exhibits samples of toilet powders, tooth paste and disinfecting powders, the base of each and all being slate dust. These goods are performed just as the ordinary articles of the same kind are and are quite indistinguishable from them.

Experiments are in progress dealing with the use of slate dust in the manufacture of distemper paints.

The Country Waiting.

(Twillingate Sun.)

The country is waiting for a declaration on several important questions:—

(a) The Right Cost of Living; can it be reduced and are there not profiteers waiting fat off the people?

(b) The Cross Country Railway; and its existing branches which are in such a terrible condition; what steps do the various parties propose to take to remedy matters, or do they propose to take any?

(c) The Question of the Fisheries; what do they propose to do to develop them! The salt fish markets are strictly limited and talk of opening further markets for salted fishes is only election time bait. The markets of the whole world should be open to our FRESH FISH; what do the different parties propose to do about it?

(d) The Winter Postal Service; has any arrangement been made regarding an aeroplane service, or will the usual state of things happen of waiting, till all navigation has ceased, to engage couriers at exorbitant rates?

Our most unsatisfactory Telegraph Service; have any negotiations been made to consider the matter of long distance telephone connection, with the larger centers at least, to start with, or must we go on suffering for eight weeks out of fifty two an interrupted telegraph service? These are real questions for political parties to tackle, yet not one of them has made the slightest pronouncement on any of them. Do they think that the electorate are all a bunch of children to be fooled with the nauseating buncombe which is daily set forth in the city press?

Every sane man who has the welfare of his country at heart, and who has given any thought to these matters is sick to death of the indifference manifested to points of real concern by city politicians.

The people are straining beneath the load of high prices. They see business men getting wealthy in spite of profit taxes, and they believe there is profiteering going on.

They see the United States Government and the Canadian Government and other governments attempting to smother conditions and get after the profiteers; but they see their own politicians absolutely supine.

They see—and feel, when they travel—the dangerous condition of the Redd Railway; see passengers packed in like cattle, and the old oil lamps still waiting to claim some more victims. They see the price of their produce still going downwards—slack demand for cod, worse for herring—and they see no honest attempt being made to improve matters, as they can only be improved by the introduction of cold storage plants.

They see their public services growing steadily worse, and unable to meet the increasing calls on them; and for all the only remedy the politicians offer is jibes at each other and back-slash logic!

Then there are the questions of out-port Hospitals, and the matter of our Educational System, which is at once a relic of the dark ages and a disgrace to the Western Hemisphere. Yet not a word do our politicians offer of promise to the people and children of the colony.

Governments are not infallible. At best they can perhaps live up to only fifty per cent. of their promises. But first the country wants an acknowledgement by the politicians of the wrongs that need to be righted. That is the primal step on the road. Then a promise to do their best to right the wrongs.

Neither acknowledgement nor promise has yet been made by any party.

Beat the Train.

Among the many vessels now discharging cargoes at the wharf of A. E. Hickman & Co., Ltd., is the schooner Bull Bird, which arrived from Old Perlican, on Monday night, with a load of dry fish. Several passengers came along by the craft, preferring a sea trip to a journey on the train. The Bull Bird weighed anchor on Monday morning and cleared port with a stiff breeze blowing from W.N.W., and every promise of a fine time along. After rounding Greater Point, the wind veered ed down from S.S.W., dead ahead with a heavy pitch on, which made it look as though a dead boat was in store, with an all night tacking across Conception Bay, and some of the passengers who wanted to get in early grew despondent. But the Captain was not a bit put out, and told them if he could only get the wind, he would land them in St. John's ahead of the Heart's Content train. Knowing what the Bull Bird could do, he set everything tight and snug, and put the staunch little vessel right to it, and presently with the wind a point or so more in her favour she began to plough the waves right merrily, and everything holding fast, Captain Will was as good as his word and landed his passengers safe and sound at the wharf hours before the train for that day pulled into the station. The Bull Bird is regarded as one of the best little seaboard and saunders out of Trinity Bay, and that she may long make successful trips is the wish of the writer.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—When the good Brothers of St. Francis are taking up their annual collection, there are numbers of ex-pupils ready and eager to help on the good work by letters and articles to the press, but the deserving Sisters of Belvidere Orphanage have no such support offered to them, and it has therefore occurred to me that you would not refuse to allot a little space to remind our Catholic people of the immense importance of this good work so that they would give on Sunday as freely as they have always done and in a manner that will amply meet the increased cost of maintenance of the Orphanage.

Hundreds of dollars worth of coal must be bought; clean, wholesome food must be forthcoming in quantities; a hundred or more pair of little feet must be covered; clothing must be provided and there are no men earning for the institution.

Where then, are these good Sisters to get these things unless every Catholic parent and every young man who ever hopes to be a father, claims it to be HIS duty to lend to the limit, of the goods that God has entrusted to his care. This is not charity, but a proper payment of some of our wealth of good things to those who are not so fortunate as to possess the same; to those who have been deprived of that loving father that planned and hoped so much for his dear ones. It is plainly our duty and not a courtesy to give till it hurts and as a Catholic father, I appeal to you Catholic men and women who will give to that collection on Sunday next, to make a mental resolution to double your offering because of the great need for same.

You will never miss what you give and even though your reward may not be in this world, still it will not go unrecorded by Him who has promised reward for even a cup of cold water given in His Name, and anyway the consciousness of having helped some one, more particularly an orphan, should be ample reward for the most of us.

Give as much as you can possibly spare on Sunday, please, so that a collection may be taken that can successfully liquidate all the bills for living costs and for providing the simple clothing and shoes for the many little orphans of Belvidere who every day will from their innocent little hearts call down the blessings of Heaven on their benefactors.

Let us make it a collection to be proud of, on Sunday next.

I thank you for your valued space, Mr. Editor.

Yours very truly,
J. J. L.

FOREIGN PRESS OPINION.

AMERICAN. WHAT GERMANY WANTS OF THE SENATE.

Meanwhile German writers are felicitating themselves in the wholly mistaken belief that the Senate halts because it believes that Germany has been badly used. The fact is that no Senator has found the least fault with the terms imposed upon Germany. Germany carried on the war in a way which has left the German people with hardly a non-German friend in the world. There is, however, a possibility, which among some Germans is a hope, that the course which the Senate is taking may finally result in the creation of such a league as we should all be glad to join. It looks now as if we should amend the Treaty, and if the amendments are not accepted we should let the Allies make their own treaty and we will make ours.—San Francisco Chronicle.

MUST PAY HER PENALTY.

Germany escaped invasion during the war, but she paid toll for precipitating it, not in the conditions laid down for peace alone, but in the human lives sacrificed, in the sorrow in wrecked homes, in the despair that has come with failure. It is this tale that letters from there are conveying to American relatives. In many cases more than the worst fears are being realized, in some possibly no reply will come to anxious inquiries because none are left to answer. The cases of individual affliction are a by-product of the war to the historian who will deal with army movements and great actions, but to those who have suffered, individual losses will remain the chief feature of the clash of nations.—Pittsburg Gazette-Times.

A GREAT GULF FIXED BETWEEN.

General Ludendorff, in his new book, which is a defence of the German army in general and Ludendorff in particular, makes one statement by which the whole book can be judged: "The atrocities attributed to the German army in Belgium were nothing but a clever legend."—Boston Evening Transcript.

ENGLISH. AN OASIS IN THE DESERT.

The question is asked as to how the ambassadors of foreign countries will fare in a "dry" Washington. Perhaps the case of Iceland may be a precedent. When, in 1912, Iceland passed a law prohibiting the importation or sale of intoxicating liquors, the effect was to deprive the foreign consuls of their drink, so these gentlemen protested, pointing out that it was an infringement of the rights of diplomacy. The authorities accepted this view and granted the Consuls permission to import 800 litres per year of beer, wine or spirits, provided that the fluids be drunk only on the premises to which they were consigned. Technically, of course, the premises of any embassy are considered as belonging to the country which is represented by its occupant.—Manchester Guardian.

FAVORS STATE CONTROL.

If the importers, wholesalers, middlemen, and retailers object (as they will) to the restoration of Government control, the public will discover scant sympathy with their complaints. They have had their opportunity, and what have they done with it? Trade combinations, both at home and abroad, compel the state to take action. It will be a long time before the ordinary laws of supply and demand, which serve to limit profits, come again into operation, and during the interval profiteering, as it is called, must be restrained. Even under existing conditions it would be quite possible for all commercial interests concerned to gain a fair profit. But if they cannot content themselves with a reasonable percentage they must be prevented from abusing their position. If only there were the power of combination among consumers, the most effective method of checking profiteering would be a general boycott of any article, not indispensable to daily existence, whose price has been extortionately raised. Traders with unsaleable stocks on their hands would soon become reasonable in that case. But failing such self-help by the public, some drastic measure of regulation by the State is becoming inevitable.—London Morning Post.

THE CAPTURED GUNS.

Strong feeling prevails in army circles, we are told, over the action of certain towns refusing to accept captured German guns as trophies to the memory of the exploits of local battalions. The guns meant much to the men who lived in Trenchland, and emphatic protests are likely to be made if, as is suggested, the continued refusals lead to the pieces being melted down. The enemy guns were hated during the long years of war, but because of the price that had to be paid for their possession—because of their associations—they deserve a better fate than that of the furnace.—London Daily Chronicle.

CANADIAN. GETTING OUT OF RUSSIA.

Winston Churchill's declaration in the British House of Commons yesterday that there was no longer any hope of co-operation between the British forces and Admiral Kolchak, writes "mis" to the Allied attempt to save Russia from Bolshevism by the aid of the Russians themselves. It was not necessary for him to add that the decision to withdraw the Allied troops from Russia was "irrevocable"; without assistance from anti-Bolshevik Russia, Allied expeditionary forces have not a chance of success and, as The Star pointed out the other day, the only remaining problem is how these forces are to be got out of the country.

There is, however, some consolation in the announcement that at least some of the anti-Bolshevik Russians are to be preserved from the wrath of the Reds by being evacuated along with the Allied forces. Unfortunately, it will not be possible to remove more than a small portion of the population, and those that are left will in all probability have to pay a terrible price for their friendship to the Allied cause. It has been the hope of preserving these people that has delayed the Allied evacuation so long. But unless the Allies were prepared to remain in occupation of the Archangel and Murman regions indefinitely, no course other than the present one was possible. Happily, we hear no more of the mad project of attacking Petrograd. It surely could not have had even official consideration at any time, doubtless finding its origin in the bombardment of Kronstad some days ago. An attack on Petrograd would be the culminating stroke in alienating the last vestiges of Russian sympathy from the Allied cause. It is not clear that the Allies can do anything now to make up for initial mistakes in policy. The best that can be hoped for is the withdrawal of Allied forces from Russia without further loss, and that eventually Russia will see the impossibility of reconciling the aims of the revolution with subservience to German interests.—Montreal Star.

GLARING AUTOMOBILE LIGHTS.

In Quebec there is a law whereby a motorist is liable to a fine if his headlights inconvenience even a pedestrian who happens to be on the road. But Quebec is a long way from British Columbia. A great annoyance is caused in Vancouver by motorists who persist in misusing the headlights of their cars. There are two causes of trouble. One is the glaring lamp. The other is the fellow who, through carelessness or a mistaken spirit of economy, goes along the street with one light.

The glaring headlight is an evil which ought to be corrected. As there is apparently no law against it, the insurance company of a reform must be left for the present to the individual car owner. The legislature might with advantage deal with the subject next session. Hundreds of cars in this city have dangerous headlights, and the danger is increased by the negligence—not to say the deliberate insolence—with

HALCYON DAYS.

The happy days of war are gone, and peace's frightfulness is here, when we assemble on the lawn and cuss the ding-donged profiteer. In war we struck for noble things, to undermine the tyrant's sway, to overturn the thrones of kings, and now, we strike for higher pay. In war we loathed the foreign foe, and chased him on his cheap John shore, and now, alas, as all men know, we loathe the man who lives next door. In war we all united were we had one purpose and one end; but now we fill the air with fur, the fur of neighbor and of friend. I look back on the days of war, that bitter war of four long years, and wonder what we stopped it for, to usher in the profiteers. Far better on the field to die, with fame and glory as your bed, than starve for lack of coin to buy your share of angel cake and bread. Far better meet a stalwart foe and perish where your banner flies, than have a hoarder lay you low, with tricks a soldier would despise. We clamored for the boon of peace throughout the long and bloody fray, and now we yell for the police to take the blamed old boon away.

FACTS YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT CONGOLEUM:

First, it is sanitary and easy to keep clean. There is no burlap in Congoleum, so water won't hurt it. A damp mop will keep the patterns clear and bright. Think of it! All you need is a damp mop.

Second, Congoleum is very durable. The surface is wear-resisting and absolutely sanitary. Then, too, it lies perfectly flat without any fastenings. No fastenings needed because the felt base has no tendency to curl or "kick up" at the edges.

We have sold a great many of those remnants to the housewives about town and have yet to hear a complaint.

Their opinions of each other in the near past.

The Daily Star, March 24, 1919: The Advocate, April 14, 1919:
 Let us remind Mr. Squires right here that he will never again be regarded as a fitting man to represent a Northern District in the House of Assembly. The man that insulted the verdict of the electors in Trinity Bay rendered in 1913, by crawling into the Department of Justice, over Donald Morrison's prostrate political corpse, by taking a seat in the Upper House and in the Executive Council, in defiance of the wishes of the electorate, will never again be respected by any body of electors. His fate was decreed by Trinity electors in 1913, at the request of the Fishermen's Union, and the medicine administered to him, will be meted out to all traitors to the fisher- men's cause. The members of the Fishermen's Union will let Squires know and any of his clique know what they think of the F.P.U. and Coaker, when they get a chance to do so. The Squires clique who are moving hell and earth to kill Coaker and the F.P.U., will receive a greater surprise in 1919, than they received in 1913.

UNION MEN!

What do you now think of the man who betrayed you by selling you out to Squires, of whom the "Advocate"--- your own organ---said: "SQUIRES' CONTROL OF THE GOVERNMENT WILL MEAN THE DESTRUCTION OF THE F.P.U." What will your verdict of him be? Who is the traitor now? Is it not your renegade leader, W. F. Coaker?

"Mary" Decides for the Liberal-Progressive Party.

Editor Evening Telegram.
 Dear Sir:—Well, Mr. Editor, it is my privilege to be again spared to see at least the approach of another general election, and I am glad to tell you that Tom and myself were never in better trim for the pleasures of fighting an election. We had a consultation the other day, and we decided that the present Government is the best for the country at the present time, so we are going to vote that way. When I say we, I mean Tom and myself, for I can assure you Sir, that Thomas would not dare to vote contrary to my wishes. "He did so on one occasion, but immediately he returned home after casting his vote, I saw that tell-tale expression on his face, which convinced me that he had voted wrong. "But it won't happen again, I'll warrant you," as our old friend the late John Maddock would say.

Yes, Mr. Editor, we are going to vote straight Tom and I, for the present Government. Mr. Edward Parsons, who has represented this dis- trict as one of its members in the House of Assembly for a number of years is our choice. He is a man whom we all know to be humane, fearless,—though probably not fault- less—and as he is always here ready and willing to listen to our wants, and when at all possible, to attend our requirements he is the right man to put in the position again. If we elected a man, a resident of another district, we would be only sure to meet him during an election year, but with our Mr. Parsons it is dif- ferent. He is always here, and on that account I feel sure that his life is not a bed of roses. Tom told me that there was a young Squires, who being troubled with a swelled head, has an idea of coming out, and leading a party. "Who is this man Squires, Thomas, said I" "Oh, he is a son of Alex Squires, the Relieving Officer here, said Tom." Well, Sir, I shivered from head to foot, but as I have Tom to look after me, there is no fear of me going on the poor list, I simply let the matter drop for that day.

 The very next day we met again Tom and I, and we discussed ways and means etc. And there and then we came to the conclusion to do all we could for the Present Government, and all in our power to keep our country from being dishonored by having for its representatives men of the so-called Reform Liberal Party. If it were the old Liberal Party, not in the least reformed, then we would be there heart and soul.
 But as this is my first letter for a long time I must bring it to a close as I want it posted before night. This part of the town is rather dangerous to get about in after night as the road is not good. As you know, Mr. Editor, I have to go to town by way of Kitchen's Hill, which is in a disgraceful condition at present, but I feel sure something will be done to remedy the evil and also to place a light near the residence of Mr. Richard Ash, so for the present I must bid you adieu, promising a longer and more spicy letter soon. Yours for peace, right and fairplay, MARY.

The Man Who Banished Corns

Blue-jay was invented by a scientist of distinction. By a man whose lifetime has been spent in the study of surgical dressings.

This is a master's method—correct, complete and efficient. And the millions of people who know it, never think of enduring a corn.

All in One

The first step is to stop the pain. This is done by removing all pressure—by the soft protecting ring marked A.

The next step is to gently cause the corn to disappear. This is done by the remarkable B & B Wax, which no corn can resist.

This bit of wax—marked B—is centered on the corn. It cannot spread. So, unlike old-time methods, it acts on the corn alone.

C is rubber-coated adhesive. This snugly wraps the application, protecting everything. You apply this Blue-jay in a jiffy. The corn pain stops at once. The wrapping is comfortable and you forget it.

In two days you remove it and the corn can be lifted out. Only rare corns need a second application.

This is the scientific way, the easy, sure and right way to end corns. You will never return to any wrong method when you try a Blue-jay once. Try it tonight!

THE DAILY DOPE

BY THE CUB-EDITOR

THE BOLSHEVIL.

Oh, he preached it from the housetops, and he whispered it by stealth; He wrote whole miles of stuff against the awful curse of wealth. He shouted for the poor man, and he "ran" the rich man down; And also every King and Queen who dared to wear a crown. He hollered for rebellion, and he said he'd head a band To exterminate the millionaires, to sweep them from the land. He yelled against monopolists, took shots at every trust, And he swore he'd be an anarchist, to grind them in the dust. He stormed, he fumed, and ranted, till he made the rich man wince; But—an uncle left him money, and he hasn't shouted since.

PAT'S REGRETS.

Pat was very downhearted. He had just spent his savings to pay his passage over to this country from Ireland. He was roaming idly about the docks on the river front in Montreal, when he chanced to see a diver climb up out of the water, take off his helmet, roll up his suit and walk away. "Sure," said Pat, "if I had had sense enough I would have bought me a suit like that and walked over myself!"

THIS JOB LASTS.

A field marshal never retires, but remains on the active list and draws full pay till the day of his death. Over 4,000,000 pens are destroyed daily. Nearly 30 per cent. of all flowers are white.

ENGLISH AS SHE IS WRITTEN—IN SIAM.

The proprietors of a Siamese newspaper have distributed handbills containing the following notice:—"The news of English we tell the latest. Writ in perfectly style and most earliest. Do a murder git commit, we hear of and tell it. Do a mighty chief die, we publish it, and in borders of Siam. Staff has each one been collied, and write like the Kipling and the Dickens. We circle every town and extortionate not for advertisements. Buy it. Buy it. Tell each of you its greatness for good. Ready on Friday, Number first."

THE SOCIETY EDITOR'S TROUBLES

Sporting Editor—"At a lot of these swell affairs you are assigned to I don't see how you can tell the guests from the waiters."
Society Editor—"With the country dry it is harder than ever. Previously I could always spot the waiters because they were sober."

IN NO DANGER.

Michael Dugan, a plumber was sent by his employer to the Hightower mansion to repair a gas leak in the drawing-room. When the butler admitted him he said to Dugan: "You are requested to be careful of the floors. They have just been polished."
"They're no danger iv me slippin' on 'em," replied Dugan. "I hov spikes in me shoes."
Many a woman wants her husband to become famous so she can snub certain other women she has a grudge against.

Strike, but hear.
(Saying of Themistocles when Eurymachus, commander of the Spartan Fleet, raised his staff to strike him.)
The palace of the former German Emperor in Berlin at one time kept 500 housemaids and 1,800 liveried footmen in employment.
A Persian carpet has been in use for over 200 years in the main hall of the Shah's palace in Teheran.

THE GENTLE HINT!

"May I—er—kiss your hand, Miss Dolly?" "Oh, I suppose so. But it would be so much easier for me to remove my veil than my gloves."
"THE WISH IS FATHER—"
"What would you do if I turned you down?" she asked shyly, as they sat on the sofa.
The young man looked straight ahead, but said nothing. After a few moments of silence she nudged him with her elbow and said, "Didn't you hear my question?"
He looked around apprehensively. "I beg your pardon," he replied. "I thought you were addressing the gas."
Then gently scan your brother man, Still gentler, sister woman; Though they may gang apennin' wran, To step aside is human.
—Robert Burns.

HER LITERARY ASSISTANCE.

"My husband has found a way by which he says I am of the greatest help to him in his literary work."
"How nice that must be for you, my dear! But how are you able to do it?"
"As soon as I see him at his desk I go into another room and keep perfectly quiet until he has finished!"
—The Cub-Editor.

Wants Everybody in St. John's to Know What Tanlac Will Do

Cole Says He Believes It Most Wonderful Medicine On Earth.

"If everybody in St. John's knew what I know about Tanlac there's not a one who wouldn't think just as I do—that it's worth its weight in gold," said Walker Cole, top of Pleasant Street, in a statement while at Connor's Drug Store recently. Mr. Cole was born and reared in St. John's and is only here for a short stay, visiting the home of his boyhood. He has made Calgary, Alberta, Canada, his home for the past eleven years, and it was there that his experience with Tanlac began. "I am soon going back to Calgary," Mr. Cole continued, "and before I leave St. John's I want to tell the people how Tanlac has helped me and what a wonderful medicine it is. I had been in a very badly run-down condition for nearly a year, following an attack of 'Flu' last November. I was left with an appetite and such a bad stomach that what little I did eat seemed to do me no good. My heart would beat like a trip hammer at times, especially after the least exertion, and my nerves were so upset that I could hardly sleep. I was under special treatment and took a number of different kinds of medicine, but seemed to get no better, and I had become discouraged thinking nothing could help me.

"I first got Tanlac in Calgary, because it was helping so many people there, and I had not been taking it but a few days until I could feel my strength returning. I remember being introduced to a frail little woman in Innisville, Alberta, who had no color in her cheeks and looked like she might be suffering all the time. When I saw her a few weeks later I had to be introduced to her again. She had undergone such a wonderful change that I failed to recognize her and when I asked her what had made such a big difference in her health she told me she had been taking Tanlac. Right then and there I determined to try the medicine myself, and while I have not finished my second bottle there has already been a remarkable change in me. My appetite is so big I can hardly get enough to eat and food seems to agree with me perfectly, as I never have any trouble with my stomach no matter what I eat. I have also been entirely relieved of palpitation and nervousness, and can lie down at night and sleep like a child. I have gotten rid of that tired, worn-out feeling and have picked up in strength until I am like a different man. I don't believe there's another medicine on earth that equals Tanlac and I would advise anybody in a run-down condition to try it."

There is not a single portion of the body that is not benefited by the helpful action of Tanlac, which begins its work by stimulating the digestive and assimilative organs, thereby enriching the blood and invigorating the whole system. Next, it enables the weak, worn-out stomach to thoroughly digest its food, permitting the nourishing elements to be converted into blood, bone and muscle.

It overcomes, it is said, that great exciting cause of disease—weakness. It renders the body vigorous and elastic, keeps the mind clear and energetic and throws off the symptoms of nervousness and indigestion. It builds up the constitution weakened by disease and mental and physical overwork, quickens convalescence and is an unfailing source of comfort to all suffering from such troubles. Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac Representative.—adv.

"Cheerio."

(From the London Chronicle.)
An American clergyman told a Mansion House prayer meeting the other day that he had heard a new word which he intended to take to New York. It was "Cheerio!" In "Cheerio!" he found vision and vitality. "Cheerio!" is only one of many "war words" that we can ill afford to lose. Without going deeply into psychology one may bear in mind the power of "suggestion." The man with the cheerful word on his lips and the smile on his face—though it may be a conscious effort at first to get them there—will undoubtedly gain a happier outlook on life, and the troubles that once seemed overwhelming will be seen as trivial matters that smiling courage can overcome. During the war our men learned in hard places the value of the deliberate and painstaking smile and cherry word. It meant just the little bit of extra strength and spirits that mattered in the midst of death and discomfort, when a man shouted "Cheerio!" to his comrades. And how many men have been lifted out of weariness that was night unto despair by singing on the march "Pack up your troubles in your old kit bag and smile! Smile! Smile!" It would be hard to say. These cherry sayings and this cherry attitude are just as much wanted to-day. We want them to help us to face the difficulties and trials that still beset the nation. We shall have failed to profit by one of the most valuable lessons of the war if we do not remember the value of "suggesting" cheerfulness to ourselves and to our fellow-countrymen.

(By LUKE MOLUKE)
It is now generally stated that Lawyer Foote is going to contest Burn in the interest of the unholy alliance. Poor Sam! His case is so hopeless that he won't even get a F-O-O-T-I-N!

Lawyer Warren, so they say, for Squires is going to Fortune Bay. Now "Willie be wise" and don't go there, Or you'll surely court loss in Bay Despair.

With Bennett in the box, Martin behind the plate and Mullaly on first base, all backed by a strong team of fielders, the Squires outfit are only hitting at space.

Doc. Campbell's motto: "Scraps for all!"

L.R.P.—Least Respected Party.
R-A-Scal. So said Mr. Coaker.

A wolf in sheep's clothing—Squires masquerading as a Liberal.

When the ballots are counted in Trinity, Half-yard's score will look like the thirty second of an inch.

HUSH! Mr. Coaker may yet stand for the Funk Islands.

Twillin-Gate is for ever closed to Mister Coaker.

In the race for political honors in St. John's West, a Campbell hitched to an old Brown Rig is a sure loser.

WANTED—Three first class acrobats to fill the Squires-Coaker ticket in St. John's East. Must have long-flowing whiskers and fog-horn voices. Nomination money and election expenses guaranteed.

Want a New Climate.

NEWFOUNDLANDERS THINK THEY CAN MITIGATE SEVERITY OF THEIR WINTERS.

There is talk—and it may, never get beyond the province of talk—of making a change in the climate of Newfoundland, and incidentally mitigating the rigor of Winter along the coasts of the lower maritime provinces of Canada and of New England. The talk is based upon the comparative ease with which a fresh-water could be constructed across the straits of Belle Isle between this island and mainland, thus shutting off the cold Labrador current which now rushes through the straits and chills the water, and through it the air, for many miles to the south.

This current, it is explained, is the chief factor in making the climate of the regions mentioned. After passing through the straits, it circulates around the Gulf of St. Lawrence, gives the coasts of Newfoundland, Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia a cold bath, then passes on through Cabot Strait to the south, where it sweeps the New England Coast. It is claimed that this strong southward flow acts as a cold wedge which pushes the Gulf stream from these coasts, shutting that ocean river of tropical water off northeastward across the Atlantic to warm the British coasts.

Now, it is said, if the Belle Isle straits are dammed, the Labrador current would be blocked out of the Gulf of St. Lawrence and shoved off to the southeast, missing the mainland. The Gulf stream would be easily in against the continent, and instead of carrying all its warmth across the ocean, it would flow into the Gulf of St. Lawrence and warm all the surrounding shores and islands. Of course this influence would be left along the New England coast.

It is an enchanting picture that is drawn, but there is a fly in the ointment, found in the qualifying words, "it would cost an immense sum of money." Bearing this in mind, and considering the pressing demands for all the available money to meet present emergencies, it would be well for the residents of New England to postpone the planting of palm trees in their front yards for a few years, and if they have Winter homes in the real warm lands of the South, to hold fast to them. Yet he would be a bold prophet indeed who should declare that this thing would never be done, and the change never made.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.
