ANOTHER CONFERENCE OF POWERS
U. S. President Makes Momentous Address to Associated Press.
URGES SERVICE

Suggests a New Grip on World Problems After Reparations Settled.
(Canadian Press.)
New York, April 22.—President Coolidge announced in an address at the annual luncheon of the Associated Press here today that with firm establishment of a settlement of the German reparations question he would favor steps looking toward the calling of another world conference to consider further limitation of armaments and the codification of international law.

Disclaiming any ability to announce a formula that would guarantee the peace of the world, the President declared, however, certain definite things which should be done to relieve the world "of much of the burden of military armaments and diminish the probability of military operations."

Settle Reparations First.
"The Washington conference did a great deal to restore harmony, and good will among the nations," the President said, "but it is essential that the reparations question be settled first. I should favor the calling of a similar conference to achieve a settlement of armaments and initiate plans for a codification of international law."

Mr. Coolidge hailed the work of the reparations expert committees as having surpassed in importance by anything that had transpired since the armistice and declared that he would be every reason to hope that the report offers a basis for a practical solution of the reparations problem.

Foreign Relations.
The President devoted his address to the country's foreign relations. The whole address was based on the general theme of service and he drew the theme from the work of the Associated Press.

THINK LOST VESSEL IS CHAMPION
Vessel Left St. John Last Friday for Windsor, Nova Scotia.
NO WORD THERE
Eye-witness of Tragedy Off Spencer's Island Tells of It.

A small unidentified schooner foundered at noon on Saturday last off Spencer's Island, Minas Basin, before the eyes of several residents, who were powerless to do anything to aid two men, who went down with the ill-fated vessel. Fears are entertained here that the vessel is the schooner "Champion," which sailed last Friday morning from here for Windsor, Nova Scotia, and that the two men were her crew, Captain Andrew Baxter, of Lower Grandville, N. S., owner of the vessel, and an unnamed deckhand from Newfoundland.

First word of the tragedy reached here this morning, when Captain Wallace Lloyd, of the coastwise steamer "Glenholme," reported to J. C. Chesley, local agent for the Marine and Fisheries Department, that while passing Spencer's Island he had been hailed from shore and on landing had been informed by Baxter McLellan, harbor master, that a small two-masted schooner had gone down with two men on board.

RECALLS HAPPY DAYS AT TRINITY

Canon Armstrong Writes Feelingly in Annual Report of Church.

In making his seventeenth, and final, annual report to Trinity church congregation at the annual meeting last evening, Rev. Canon R. A. Armstrong said he did so with deepest regret. For he is to leave in the fall for a new field, Toronto. For nearly a quarter of man's allotted time, he said, he had worshipped and worked in Trinity and the parting was a severe wrench. After reviewing the work of the year, Canon Armstrong concluded:

"I thank most heartily the Corporation, which has always supported me loyally and shown me the greatest courtesy. In all the larger efforts, for the organ debt, the war memorial, the ever growing missionary appointment and such like, they have given the whole-hearted support which ensured success. No one knows, as a clergyman does, the many, many calls that fall on the church corporation, and I am deeply grateful for the willing response that came unflinchingly from the vestry. I recall especially my illness of ten years ago, when their treatment of me, their generosity and kindness, and patience were most wonderful. Their messages of sympathy and hope and affection were a great inspiration toward recovery.

"And it is the same with regard to the whole congregation. I shall never forget the love shown to me at that time, and the prayers offered on my behalf. The way was long and weary, and the prospects at times discouraging, but your sympathy and prayers were a great help. As I look back over the seventeen years spent in your midst they seem the happiest of my life. Here I brought my wife, a bride, and here my four little children were born. Here, too, I passed through deep grief, and here I found the kindness and consideration shown to me in the experience of my early years among you. Then came the gradual deepening of the ties that bind a clergyman to his people, the ministry in joy and sorrow, when I went in and out among you and gained far more benefit than I was able to bestow. I can never forget the whole-hearted welcome I received in your homes, the allowances made for my many mistakes and the perfect sympathy which you gave me. It all crowds upon my mind and I shall not try to express it in words, for that is impossible, but it will never pass from my memory, and I thank you, my dear people, with all my heart, may God bless you every one."

Those Called by Death. Referring to losses through death, the pastor made mention to Mrs. Patton, Mrs. Fanny Chandler, Mrs. Markham, mother of the curate, F. W. Fraser, Mrs. S. D. Crawford and others. Speaking of the late F. J. G. Knowlton, former ward, Canon Armstrong said that few could fully appreciate the service rendered to Trinity by Mr. Knowlton. He said in part: "He was a true friend and a devoted, loyal member of the church. For twenty-six years he was a member of the Corporation and for ten years warden. His wise judgment and keen foresight saved us from many a pitfall, and put the finances of the church on a solid basis. Deeply interested in everything pertaining to the success of Trinity, he has been greatly missed. A man of eminent ability and one who gave himself wholeheartedly to the cause, his will ever remain an outstanding name in our annals."

In trying to preserve the traditions of Trinity, the pastor said, he had endeavored to have placed in the church the flags of the 14th Regiment, which in the dead of winter, marched from New Brunswick to Quebec, but trace of the flags had been lost.

Regarding the services, Canon Armstrong expressed deep appreciation to James S. Ford, organist, and choir master; to Mrs. W. S. Clark, as choir mother; to Mr. Coupe, assistant organist; to E. J. Todd, for playing the chimes; and to the Chancel Guild. Also, to those of the congregation who served as ushers. He said there had been marked improvement in this line under leadership of Carl Fraser.

Respecting the work of the church, Canon Armstrong placed the Sunday school in the forefront. It took a large staff to man the school and he felt the congregation was deeply grateful to those who gave of their time to this important work. He referred to the work of the Women's Auxiliary in thankful terms. The resignation of Miss Scammell as corresponding secretary of the senior branch, was a heavy loss, he said. The departure of Miss Helen Bailey to train for foreign mission work was a great event in the Y. W. G. circles.

HEBRIDEANS GOOD SETTLERS, HE SAYS

Visiting Progressive Says Newcomers Gradually Finding Their Feet.

Among the many interesting things which he saw while in the city Alfred Speakman, Progressive member for Ired Deer, paid particular attention to the immigration shed and the facilities which St. John offered for the handling of the new citizens into Canada. He explained his interest in this feature of the port to a Times-Star reporter yesterday afternoon, by saying that the Hebrideans, who were all settled within a short distance of his native city, first set foot on Canadian soil at this port.

The sturdy Crofters, he said, were gradually finding their feet in the great West, but he said many of them were still homesick for a sight of their old home and rightly so, he said, for the change from the conditions under which they were reared and the ones to which they have to accustom themselves were very different. It was quite a change, he said, for a people who all during their lives had inhabited a rocky island, washed by the waters of the ocean, to be taken from that island and placed away in the interior of a new country.

"That they were to be some of the best citizens of Canada within a few years he did not doubt, but just at the present time he felt that many of them had wished that they had retained their holding in the rugged hills of the Hebrides. This fact, however, he said had not deterred them from going to work with a will and with the coming of the summer he expected that all would have settled down in real earnest to the work of gaining a living in their adopted home.

Mr. Speakman said that he was greatly pleased to find the facilities for the reception of the immigrant here such an exceptionally high order.

START MOVE TO BAN BILLBOARDS

'Frisco Organizations Plan to Eliminate Advertising Signs on Roads.

San Francisco, April 22—Definite steps by civic organizations to eliminate billboards from the highways of the Pacific Coast, are expected to result from the impetus given the movement by the Standard Oil Company of California, which has turned down 1,200 of its roadway signs in California, Oregon and Washington.

The company removed its highway advertisements on the ground that they detract from the beauty of the roads, and declared that hereafter such signs should be confined to commercial zones.

"There was instant public response up and down the coast," said Kenneth R. Kingsbury, president of the company. "We have had editorials, letters and telegrams by the hundreds indicating that a keen feeling exists concerning the marrying of our great highways by signs."

The Skyline Boulevard, a great highway being completed from San Francisco southward along the high ridges overlooking the Pacific ocean, is reported to be insured against billboards.

Civic organizations all over the west have adopted resolutions commending the stand taken by the Standard Oil Company, and calling on other organizations to eliminate highway signs.

SIMONDS CHURCH MEETING HELD

Easter Vestry Session Held Last Evening—Courtney Bay Reference.

The Easter vestry meeting of the Church of England in the Parish of Simonds was held last night at Little River hall. The wardens, R. J. Moore and W. T. Boyle, were re-elected. The following were elected vestrymen: B. E. Gane, W. W. DeWolfe, Austin Moore, W. Thorpe, Douglas Moore, F. Douglas, E. Roche, Joseph Jones, F. B. White and J. J. Jordan (vestry clerk).

The rector, Rev. C. W. Fleck, made a statement of the church finances, and explained the budget, the parochial assessment, the envelope system, and the "church box" system for the parishioners who cannot attend church.

It was unanimously decided that the rector appeal to the synod against any further increase in the parochial assessment at present.

There was a vote of thanks given to the Community Club for their kindness in allowing the use of Little River hall for the church services.

The three vestrymen residing at Little River were appointed a committee to arrange about all things necessary for church services there.

The rector stated, in answer to a question, that he was not responsible for the pastoral care of the church people at East St. John.

The rector spoke of the probable developments which may be expected at Courtney Bay during the next few years, and emphasized the importance of maintaining the Church of England services and Sunday school at Little River and of building up a strong church there.

MR. FISHER MUST COME OUT! In the issue of the TIMES on Saturday evening Mr. Fisher makes the following statements: "The return of POTTS would almost certainly result in a change in our Hydro Policy." I NOW DEMAND AND THE CITIZENS LOOK FOR MR. FISHER TO PROVE THIS STATEMENT. You are invited Mr. Fisher to PYTHIAN HALL at 8 o'clock on Tuesday evening, April 22nd, to tell the public what you mean; Star Theatre Wednesday evening, April 23rd, at 8.30 o'clock; St. Vincent's Auditorium, Friday evening, April 25th, at 8 o'clock. ACTIVITY, BROAD-MINDEDNESS, FEARLESSNESS AND SOMEBODY TO DO SOMETHING IS WHAT WE WANT AT CITY HALL. You say now you will do something for taxation. You have served the City almost six (6) years as a Commissioner and as Mayor and you are just waking up. My record as a City representative produced and shows results, and I DEFY you or any other man to prove to the contrary. I stand solidly for public ownership of HYDRO, but I am not for getting there are many other serious questions that demand attention and activity at City Hall.

LEAVING ST. JOHN OUT.

The Times understands that the Board of Trade is very properly taking up with Ottawa the absence of this port from a pamphlet, the chief feature of which is a map purporting to show Canada's ports and trade routes, issued by the Department of Trade and Commerce, and which it is proposed to distribute at the British Empire Exhibition.

Concessions chose the other, an offensive and humiliating war. Congress, in his view, had insulted Japan, and such affronts cannot be offered always with impunity; we are likely to hear from our misbehaving of foreign relations in the future.

A HAPPY AND USEFUL MEETING.

Meeting the Progressive Members of Parliament was certainly good for St. John and the Province, and they were good enough to say with evident sincerity that their visit had been good for them also. They saw much that gave them both knowledge and pleasure, and they were outspoken in saying that they had acquired an enlarged viewpoint.

PARKHURST AT EIGHTY-TWO.

When a Presbyterian clergyman made an extensive tour of New York's underworld in the nineties and bluntly told the public what he found, there was a storm of indignation which had far-reaching results. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst was denounced in some quarters and praised as a crusader in others.

To get known quality and economy make sure of the Simmons label

Never yet has man found economy in an article that did not also possess quality. In spite of this law of cause and effect, substitutes for Simmons mattresses are often bought by thrifty folk in the belief that their cheaper price makes them more economical.

There are two reasons why substitution continues to flourish in the mattress field. The first is that, in the minds of thousands of Canadian men and women, "Simmons" and "mattress" are practically interchangeable words.

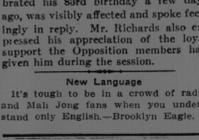

An important difference Unless you keep it clearly in mind that every Simmons mattress bears a Simmons label, you may easily accept a "substitute" as genuine.

In the second place, mattresses too often are bought on general appearance. Yet it is inside the cover that 99% of true quality conceals itself. The imitation of appearance is easy. Anyone can use an attractive ticking to conceal re-worked materials coming straight from a junk shop—or a public dump.

Get the inside facts! There are several styles and grades, but the price of each is the lowest at which a mattress of its quality can be built of safe, clean materials and by clean, sanitary methods.

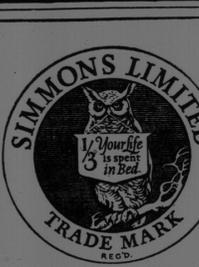

This Simmons quality is the vital thing that insures economy. No mattress can wear well, sleep well, look well, and possess that most essential element of all—through-and-through cleanliness—unless it has been built of materials of Simmons integrity and quality.

For the sake of comfort and economy in your new mattress, look for the Simmons label. It is your bond of service and satisfaction!

Laxatives do not overcome constipation

LAXATIVES and cathartics provide temporary relief only, at the expense of permanent injury. In time, says an eminent physician, an almost incalculable amount of harm is done by the use of pills, salts, mineral waters, castor oil and the like.

Some laxatives, according to an intestinal specialist, contain poisons which affect the stomach and intestines, resulting in grave disorders. Certain laxatives are a direct cause of piles.

FOR 15 YEARS WAS TROUBLED WITH ECZEMA

There is no other remedy like Burdock Blood Bitters that can possibly give such relief to all sufferers from eczema, salt rheum and all other diseases of the blood for the reason that this old and well tried remedy goes right to the seat of the trouble and completely and permanently drives these diseases out of the system by cleansing the blood and making it pure and rich.

Mr. F. W. H. Schultz, Pembroke Ont., writes: "Having been troubled with eczema for fifteen years, during which time I tried everything I could think of, including doctors, but without getting anything to do me much good, I finally decided to take Burdock Blood Bitters, and I was certainly surprised to find that two weeks after I had started to take it I was relieved of my trouble. This was nine months ago and I have not had a sign of it since I surely wish to thank you for this wonderful medicine and strongly recommend it to anyone suffering from the same trouble as I had."

The McGill students are returning to Montreal and some have already departed. Miss Helen Allison, daughter of Mr. Walter C. Allison, left yesterday. Mr. James Russell, of Douglas avenue, also left for Montreal.

Several small dinners were in order before the Rose Ball at the Pythian Castle Hall last evening. Among those who entertained parties of special friends were Mr. Percival Streeter and Mrs. Hugh McLean. At the latter dinner, which was very informal, the guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Caldwell, Miss Gwendolyn Warren, of Halifax, and Stephen Clark, Hugh Mackay, Jr., and Allan Thomas.

Friends of Mrs. Richard Hooper will extend sympathy in her recent double bereavement. Mrs. Hooper's aunt, Mrs. H. T. Bunbury, died at Hamilton on Wednesday, last, and her brother-in-law, John Dalzell Petrie, died on Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Hooper are removing on Wednesday from Carleton street to their residence, 13 Pine street.

Carleton Tower Lodge No. 38, Knights of Pythias, gave its fifth annual dance and bridge last night in the Masonic Hall, in West St. John. About 30 members and guests heartily enjoyed the evening. The hall was nicely decorated in the colors of the order, yellow, red and blue. Refreshments were served by a committee of ladies convened by Mrs. L. E. Rolston. The men's committee in charge of the general arrangements was convened by Past Chancellor S. M. Hamm.

Plants purchased from florists are almost always in small pots. Housewives often assume that the small pots are used as a matter of economy and forthwith shift the plants to pots with more generous proportions. This is a mistake and a common cause of failure in obtaining good flowers. If there is an excess amount of soil in a pot it becomes water soaked and sour, with the result that the leaves turn yellow and drop or else the plant takes on an unhappy and thriftless appearance. Some house plants, geraniums in particular bloom best when they are somewhat pot bound and in a soil that interferes with its growth. It occasionally happens that the ball of earth in a pot draws away slightly from the sides, leaving a crack through which the water escapes instead of percolating through the soil. A little pressure with the fingers on the soil is the remedy. Too much earth in a pot may also keep the proper amount of water from reaching the roots. When a plant is properly potted, the soil does not come within a half inch of the top. Then the water which is applied will gradually sink into the soil and not run off.

It is showing great lack of consideration for house plants to allow water to stand for any length of time in the saucer under the pot or in a jardiniere or tub. Pots standing in water will gradually sink into the soil and not run off. A deep receptacle should always be

ANNUAL ROSE BALL

IS GREAT SUCCESS

About 400 Present at Delightful Function at Pythian Castle.

Ushering in the post-Easter social season, the annual Rose Ball under auspices of the Valcartier Chapter, I. O. O. E., last evening, in the Pythian Castle, with about 400 guests present, was a distinct success. Mrs. Hugh McLean, Jr., regent of the chapter, was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Kenneth I. Campbell, first vice-regent, the former wearing a gown of coffee brown georgette with touches of brighter tints and with simulated ruffles outlined with monkey fur. Mrs. McLean carried an old-fashioned nosegay of sweetheart roses and pansies. Mrs. Campbell wore a crystal gown. Mrs. Arthur N. Carter, in charge of tickets, wore a handsome French gown of green moire. Those presiding over the tea cup were Mrs. G. Fred Fisher, Mrs. W. L. Caldwell, Mrs. George K. McLeod and Mrs. T. E. G. Armstrong. Mrs. Harold O. Clark had in charge of the bridge tables, while Mrs. F. M. Taylor had charge of tea, assisted by Mrs. Campbell. Miss Barbara Jack and Miss Audrey McLeod were conveners of the ballroom committee.

There were many pretty gowns among the guests, orchid, yellow and rose in varying shades vying in the color scheme. There were also vivid and delicate shades of blue and several of the younger set were demurely Victorian in their gowns of grey, one having hands of back velvet on her sweeping skirt.

Among the pretty gowns seen was one of royal blue, worn by Miss Lillian Drummond of Winnipeg, a Netherwood student, who is a guest at the home of Mr. Walter C. Allison, Rouses Point. This was quaintly made with boicé effect, and Miss Drummond wore a pretty wreath on the left side of her head, intended to her dark hair, making the semblance of the old-time style complete. Miss Marion Henderson wore a gown of orchid georgette, draped with flounce effect. Miss Jean Calkin was very smartly gowned in grey tulle, made with panicle effect, the skirt being full. Miss Mignon Kerr wore a gown of flame-colored crepe with heavy embroidery of beads. Mrs. Harry Peters wore a brocade gown of jade satin with side ornament. Miss Marion Belyea was in yellow georgette with robe effect with side ornament. Miss Nora Doss wore a gown of white-headed Canton crepe, and her guest, Miss Jean Vanbuskirk of Fredericton, wore a gown of gold with gold lace. Miss Inez Bedell was in flame satin, and her guest, Miss Maggie Cheneau, wore a gown of blue panne velvet. Miss Helen Smith wore an imported gown of yellow beaded satin. Miss Gwendolyn Richards Campbell was attired in an attractive gown of sheer white, simply draped and with little adornment. Mrs. Harold O. Clark was becomingly gowned in rose taffeta, made with bustle effect. Miss Hortense Maher was in white crepe de chine with pretty ornament as trimming, with just a touch of color. Miss Margaret Day looked well in orange brocade, with bandeau of the same on her dark hair. Miss Audrey McLeod wore a gown of deep blue with contracting gridle of soft satin and carried an old-fashioned nosegay. Miss Dorothy Fraser had a pretty gown of bright blue over gold and touched with gold. Miss Marjorie Power was in a gown of original design, in shades of rose and grey, with brocade of both shades. Mrs. Thomas A. McAvity had on a dainty jade green georgette gown with feather fan of exact shade to match. Miss Doris deVeber was gowned in black georgette of the panicle effect. Mrs. Harold C. X-RAY IS USED IN CRIME DETECTION

Highly Scientific Means are Adopted in Tracking of Criminals.

London, April 22.—The modern Sherlock Holmes does not rely on abstract theories, but tracks the criminal down by highly scientific means. Describing what happens when a crime of the first magnitude is reported, Dr. F. W. Crossley-Holland, lecturing at Bath, said:—

A party of technical experts, including a draughtsman, photographers and a fingerprint specialist, is soon upon the scene. The draughtsman prepares a detailed plan of the scene in its immediate locality; if there is a body the photographers photograph it and also photograph the interior of the room from practically every angle. A searching examination is made of everything. X-rays are of great value in the detection of crime.

Recently a large number of French war bonds were stolen after they had been paid and cancelled. A forger, by means of chemicals, removed the handwritten date of payment, and the printed date of issue. He then printed a new date of issue and presented the bonds for payment. Payment was made, but presently suspicion arose. One of the "suspected" bonds was submitted to the ultra-violet ray apparatus with the startling result that the scratched-out date of original payment showed up clearly.

10,000 LAYING BOARDERS IN "HOTEL DE CHICKEN"

St. Neots, England.—"Hotel de Chicken—finest location in England, situated at the highest point in Huntingdonshire, overlooking the charming valley of the River Ouse. All rooms outside rooms, bright and sunny. Electric elevator. Electric lights. Hot water heat. Running water in each room. Terms cash—one fresh egg per day."

A. E. Priestly, gentleman farmer of Paxton Hill near this little town, hasn't inserted any such "ad" in any newspaper for the simple reason that Leghorn and Wyandotte hens don't read the papers—as yet. But such an "ad" would well describe what is the biggest poultry house in all Great Britain and what is supposed to be bigger than anything we can show in the U. S. A. It is the skyscraper among hen houses and can be seen for miles away from St. Neots. When completed and in running order it will be the last word in scientific planning for intensive egg producing.

Priestly already has 22 acres of hen houses and chicken runs where little chicks are allowed to run at large while being fattened for the market of London.

But the Hotel de Chicken will be devoted only to two things—incubating eggs on the first floor, and egg-laying hens on the other floors. The building is five stories high, 100 feet long, and over 40 broad, with arrangements so that it can be doubled or tripled in size and use made of the same lighting and heating plant, if necessary. Something like 10,000 hens will be accommodated in the place. One of the mammoth incubators on the first floor can hatch out 2400 eggs at once. In another part of this same floor there are rooms for the mixing of chicken feed, which is then carried by an endless belt up to the other stories and automatically emptied into the containers.

"HOTEL DE CHICKEN" AND SOME OF THE FAIR ATTENDANTS.

The zinc floors of each story are to be cleaned by patent devices. Water, of which the birds drink 150 gallons per day, runs continually through the building. Over 2000 pounds of food are required for them weekly. The new England that has evolved out of the war is strikingly manifested in the type of employes who are to handle this vast army of chickens and big supply of incubators. They are all girls who have either had practical training on chicken farms or who have graduated from agricultural colleges. An elaborate system of records is kept, so that not only is the live product of each incubator noted down, but also the week-by-week egg production of every hen in the place.

NOT A DOLLAR FOR GAS IN JOURNEY

No Engine in the Car, But Owner Gets Across Continent.

Wherever motorists congregate there you are sure to hear discussions on the amount of mileage each driver is able to obtain from a gallon of gas and also how many miles he can go on a quart of oil. Of course each of these enthusiasts is sincere in his statement and "nothing but the truth" is ever heard, the only difference being that some handle the truth a little more carelessly than others, what in fact might be called "juggling it." However that happens in all classes of sport, even fishing, and the fishing season is just about to come into its own. However this is a motor story not a fish story and speaking of mileage per gallon, how would you like to make a trip driving your own car all the way to say California, or any place of equal distance at a cost of nothing for oil or "gas"? Can't be done you say. Oh yes it can and it has been done and that very recently. Listen and the tale we will unfold. Los Angeles is responsible for a story of the championship long-distance automobile economy run. According to a report from that city a man bearing the name of Alexander Packard, whose home was in Fort Scott, Kansas, recently arrived in Los Angeles in a car and his motor expenses for the trip of about 2,000 miles were just nothing for gasoline and an equal amount for oil. The despatch from Los Angeles states that Mr. Packard's left eye was much discolored and he was much mused up when he reached his journey's end, but that is explained in the story which, as related in the Indianapolis News, reads as follows:

How Mr. Packard managed to make his unparalleled economy run gives a new and interesting chapter to the history of motoring in the United States, and sets up an interesting side-light on the fellowship of motoring, for while Mr. Packard made the trip alone in his car he does not even know how to drive one, except to work the steering wheel, a trick learned from jorjiding on a mowing machine. And Mr. Packard sat at the steering wheel for the full journey from Fort Scott to Los Angeles.

Mr. Packard's car, a 1917 model, originally was owned by a friend of his back home. After the friend got tired of motoring, he decided to start a pickle factory and took the engine out of his car to supply the power for his factory. Then Mr. Packard came into possession of the car at a real bargain, and had hopes of putting an engine in it when he got the price. But about this time Mr. Packard experienced the urge to come to southern California. He did not have money enough to buy a railroad ticket, and so decided to make the trip in his car. No, he didn't buy an engine; just a stout tow rope.

Mr. Packard got his start to Los Angeles just outside Ft. Scott. A motorist heading west found him standing desolately beside his stalled car. The motorist offered aid and Mr. Packard produced the new tow rope. It was only a few miles to the nearest garage and Mr. Packard was left with his car, by his own request, in the road in front of the garage.

"That was the hard part," said Mr. Packard. "I had to push down the road a piece to wait for the next feller. It was like that all the way. And say, those garage fellers sure give me some dirty looks when I didn't turn in, but shoved along far enough to wait for the next fellow."

"Once or twice, in the big towns, I had to hire some feller with a span of mules to haul me out into the country again, but they were reasonable enough and most of the time it was great, just sitting pretty at the steering wheel and enjoying the scenery. I came through just a-lying. A feller can enjoy the trip much more, too, if he don't have to worry about a pesky engine, and gas an' oil and all them things that cost money. I don't know that I ever had a better time, or met more nice fellers. All of 'em were willing and anxious to help another feller with a car. It makes a difference, this owning a car. It was sure fine, most of the way."

Mr. Packard made no references to his discolored eye or cut lip. When questioned bluntly about it he was reluctant, saying it was just a personal matter, but when definitely pressed, completed the story of his trip.

"That? Oh, that happened out in the desert, near Los Angeles. That was my third tow before the last. He was a nice feller, too, spung me along for about twenty miles. Then he got nosy and looked under the hood."

JERUSALEM IS SCENE OF DISCOVERY

Carries History 500 Years Beyond What was Before Known.

GREAT TRENCH

Apparently Part of City's Defences—Oldest Known Holy Place There.

London, April 22.—A further discovery carrying the history of Jerusalem 500 years further than hitherto known, is reported in the Daily Telegraph by Prof. G. A. Reisner, who recently traced the ancient city of David.

This latest find in the excavation of the city shows a great trench sunk in rock older than the Jebusite wall previously found, and apparently formed a part of the city's defences in the early period.

On the surface of the trench, which is eight feet deep and eleven feet wide, there is a series of broken steps, now cleared for the first time of the silt and rubbish that cumbered them from before the time of Abraham.

Professor McAllister also reports finding at the top of the trench what he believes is a Jebusite altar, as a Jebusite sanctuary, and he describes it as by far the oldest known "high place" in Jerusalem.

MUSSOLINI MADE ROMAN CITIZEN ON ITS ANNIVERSARY

Declares Glory of Rome Must be Revived and Passed on (Canadian Press Despatch).

Rome, April 21.—Benito Mussolini, Italian Premier, was made a Roman citizen today in an imposing ceremony participated in by a distinguished assemblage on the anniversary of the founding of the city. The Premier received the honor from the hands of Signor Cremonesi, Royal Commissioner for Rome, who delivered a eulogistic address and presented the sign of the Government with a suitably inscribed parchment.

Premier Mussolini in reply thanked the authorities of Rome for the honor conferred upon him, expressing his great love for the historic city which he had purpose to work for a twentieth century Rome worthy of the ancient glory reflected from the Seven Hills.

"Fratelli," the Premier said, "I should have preferred Mother Rome to receive me as a citizen when my task was accomplished. What I have done for Italy is little; for Rome nothing or almost nothing. But if this exceptional testimony of my great love for the city then I accept with a grateful and tranquil conscience."

The problems facing Rome, he declared, were problems of necessity and moral grandeur, the latter depending on the solution of the former.

Demands Tenacity, He Says.
"Rome," the Premier concluded, "must not be a modern city in the banal sense of the word, but must be a city worthy of her glory which must be revived immortally and handed down to future generations as a heritage of the Fascist epoch."

"Already the vision of this new Rome appears to me a smiling vision, a living certainty. However, it demands the Roman virtue of silent and unflinching tenacity, which virtue must become the sacred patrimony of the Italian people."

"This is the wish I form today, the anniversary of the day when a Roman ploughshare traced the sign of an infallible destiny. I hail thee, goddess Rome, in behalf of those who were, are, and shall be your sons, ready to die and suffer for thy power and glory."

HOW TO UNTIE A HARD KNOT.
Sometimes a knot seems to defy all one's efforts to get it untied. Here is a plan by means of which a knotted cord, strap, shoe string, or whatever it may be, can be loosened. Put something hard under the knot and then pound it well with a hammer. Beat the knot on all sides. Then drop on the knot a little very hot water, or, if possible, dip the knot into scalding hot water for a few minutes. In most cases it will be found that the knot can then easily be picked apart with the fingers. When it is still a little hard to move use a skewer or similar instrument to pull the knot apart.

Mother Faces Death Penalty as Price For Her Daughter's Rosy Cheeks

By MAXWELL HYDE

Middletown, Conn.—The rosy cheeks of Lillian Tell, 14, will bear mute, yet eloquent witness for her mother, Mrs. Johanna Tell 32, when the latter is called to the bar to answer for one of the most ghastly murders on record in New England.

Mrs. Tell has confessed to the slaying of Charles Blair on his desolate farm at Killingworth, near here.

Four years ago she lived, a deserted wife, in a congested district of New York with her daughter. The girl was anemic, colorless, dispirited, the position as housekeeper on Blair's farm offered fresh air, fresh eggs and fresh milk. The mother, thinking only of her daughter, took it.

Summers and winters passed and the adolescent girl flourished like all the other things that grew under God's sun. Yet while the mother rejoiced in her daughter's new-found health, she worried about the relationship that had sprung up between herself and her employer.

Then one day Mrs. Tell packed up and took her daughter back to New York. But Conscience rode along. Conscience mocked her at every turn. It would not let her eat. No sleep. It drove her to tell her relatives a strange, strange story.

Then the pale, tired woman dragged herself into the Bronx police station in New York. She retold her story. It was that Blair, her employer, had tried to force his attentions on her, that when she spurned him he menaced her with an axe and that when she had shot him and hacked him with the axe.

"I didn't want my girl to know," the police say she confessed. "So I dragged the body into the cellar before she came from school. I washed the axe clean. I couldn't sleep that night. I buried the body next morning, but the sight of the grave drove me nearly mad."

She drew a diagram of the grave's location. The police found the body there. William Thomas, attorney for Mrs. Tell, has hired detectives. He says

N. BRUNSWICKERS ABROAD REUNITE

Many Provincial People Gather at Los Angeles at Home of Mrs. Laura Blakney

Recently at the home of Mrs. Laura Blakney, widow of the late W. E. Blakney, of Petticoat, now residing in Los Angeles, Cal., there assembled a goodly number of New Brunswick people. Those present were Mrs. James Smith, Miss A. Smith, Mrs. W. E. Campbell, Mrs. Talbot Morton, of Sackville, Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Crockett, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gibson, Mrs. Catherine Gibson, of Fredericton; Mrs. F. Lottian and Gertrude; Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Borden and son, Jack. Mrs. Borden was of the late W. E. Blakney.

"This was an informal meeting. The generous hospitality of the hostess and her daughters was most manifest throughout the evening. The occasion was one of delightful interest to all present, so full in reminiscence and abounding in happy greeting of the old friends of years long gone. To live over again so many delightful incidents. One could scarcely realize they were thousands of miles away from their early associations and the years had so quickly multiplied. Yet to look into each other's face and catch the hearty greeting of the hand made the return of youth not far away.

The time passed altogether too quickly interspersed with music both instrumental and vocal. Mrs. Crockett presided at the piano and charmingly entertained with her rare vocal efforts. One of the significant features was so many of the graduates of Mount Allison, expressed here tonight, and based on correspondence and reports received by George A. McNamee, secretary of the club. Two anonymous letters received by the minister had set April 13 as this last day. On one occasion, Rev. Mr. Smith said, he had gone to a place named in one of the letters at a time appointed. Two men were there, he said, but they walked away. The letters have been turned over to the police.

MONTREAL FACES BIG AUTO YEAR

Metropolis on Eve of Record Season From Entry of Cars, is Report

Montreal, April 21.—That Montreal is on the eve of its biggest automobile season and that from 175,000 to 200,000 cars will enter the province of Quebec this year is the conviction of officials of the Royal Automobile Club of Canada, expressed here tonight, and based on correspondence and reports received by George A. McNamee, secretary of the club. United States cars from Miami, Fla., Washington and Philadelphia have already reached Montreal and for the first time in the history of the club, citizens of the United States are enquiring for information as to car rates to Europe, indicating that they will visit New York, Chicago and other points to this city and take ship here for European ports.

SAY MAINE NEEDS CANADIAN LABOR

Senators Quick to Oppose Amendment to Limit Immigration to 5,000.

Washington, April 22.—During the consideration of the immigration bill Senator Willis Ohio, introduced an amendment providing that no more than 5,000 immigrants born in Canada, Newfoundland, Mexico, Cuba and the Central and South American countries could come into the United States in a year. Such a drastic amendment immediately drew fire from senators Fernald and Hale, both gaining the floor almost at the same moment.

Both Maine senators were brief but to the point and both bitterly opposed such legislation as unnecessary so far as the Canadian concern is concerned. They reviewed the long and friendly relationships between the Dominion and the State of Maine. Both dwell upon the Maine issue—namely, that Maine looks to Canada primarily for labor when there is a shortage in the state. Both the Canadians come into the state for the purposes of lumbering, farming, potato harvesting and working in the sawing factories. When their work is finished, the Canadians return home, and without their help we should be obliged to curtail many of our industries.

Both senators were opposed to any such legislation, and the Willis amendment was rejected by a vote of 60 to 12.

BRITISH STEAMER SUFFERS DAMAGE

Quebec, April 21.—The British steamer Alredale, the first ocean vessel to reach Quebec this year, suffered damage while bucking the ice on the way up from Sydney, N. S., it became known here tonight, when it was announced that the Lloyd's surveyor, Mr. Alderson, after inspecting the ship on Saturday, ordered that temporary repairs to her seams and rivets on both sides of her bow be effected, and cement boxes built into her bow.

The job was finished this evening and the vessel will sail tomorrow morning for Sault Au Monton, where she will load cargo for London. In England she will undergo permanent repairs and it is reported that 21 new plates will have to be taken out, having been dented by the ice on the way up the river.

SARNIA PRESBYTERY HAS HOT ARGUMENT

Sarnia, Ont., April 21.—At a meeting of the Sarnia Presbytery today a motion to petition the Dominion Parliament to pass the Church Union Bill without amendment was defeated on a tie vote after a hot argument. The unionists contended the merger plan was a God-given opportunity to join up with the Methodists and Congregationalists and institute into that church some good doctrine. The anti-unionists claimed it was a plot to submerge the Presbyterians.

SAYS 8-HOUR DAY COSTING MILLIONS

Hoboken, N. J., April 21.—Abolition of the 12-hour day in the steel industry was costing the United States Steel Corporation about $35,000,000 a year and was adding 10 per cent to the cost of operation, Chairman E. H. Gary told stockholders at their annual meeting today.

Officials of the Steel Corporation, Mr. Gary asserted, for years had been in favor of abolishing the 12-hour day, not because workmen desired it, but because there had been growing public sentiment for its elimination.

NAME OF MISS MACPHAIL IS LINKED WITH THAT OF DUNDAS PROGRESSIVE.

(Toronto Star.)
Owen Sound, Ont., April 19.—Is the world about to hear of another romance in high life? In today's issue of the Chesley Enterprise Editor William McDonald, for eight years Liberal member of the Ontario legislature for North Bruce, strongly hints at which would be one of the most interesting romances Grey has ever seen, and the principal figures are persons of no less importance and widespread interest than Miss Agnes MacPhail, Progressive M. P. for Southeast Grey, and the bachelor member, also of the Progressive party, from Dundas, Ont.

The Enterprise even hints at the possibility of a new candidate by the Progressives of a Grey riding. After telling about his own experience in the parliamentary café by Miss MacPhail for the wives of ten Progressive members, the Enterprise hints that the world to keep out of the social life of Ottawa, and these functions do not in the least detract from a member's usefulness.

SAYS 8-HOUR DAY COSTING MILLIONS

Hoboken, N. J., April 21.—Abolition of the 12-hour day in the steel industry was costing the United States Steel Corporation about $35,000,000 a year and was adding 10 per cent to the cost of operation, Chairman E. H. Gary told stockholders at their annual meeting today.

Officials of the Steel Corporation, Mr. Gary asserted, for years had been in favor of abolishing the 12-hour day, not because workmen desired it, but because there had been growing public sentiment for its elimination.

Montreal, April 21.—A $200,000 fertilizer factory erected two years ago is now on the market for sale at a cut price according to statements made by a representative of the Scottish Fertilizers, Ltd., of Wexford, Ont., who said that company would have an option but to close down and go into business as a result of the tariff reductions on fertilizers. The factory was being financed by English capital.

DRY CRUSADER'S HOUSE WRECKED

Buffalo Clergyman at Office Escapes Explosion by Few Minutes.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 22.—Rev. L. E. H. Smith, pastor of the Ontario United Presbyterian church and dry crusader for Buffalo church organizations, escaped by a few minutes a bomb explosion, which wrecked his home about midnight.

Had the explosion been delayed a few minutes the minister would have been there. The police examined the ruins, but failed to find any evidence of the bomb. Police Captain William H. Milan, who was at the scene directly after the blast, expressed belief that a time bomb had been planted. The force of the explosion was so powerful, Capt. Milan said, that a person hurling the bomb from the middle of the street would have been knocked flat. The vestibule of the house was blown back into the living room; oak door sills were splintered and foundation stones hurled out of place. Houses adjoining also suffered. All windows facing the Smith house were shattered and occupants sleeping in front rooms were thrown from their beds and showered with broken glass. The explosion was felt throughout the block.

Two anonymous letters received by the minister had set April 13 as this last day. On one occasion, Rev. Mr. Smith said, he had gone to a place named in one of the letters at a time appointed. Two men were there, he said, but they walked away. The letters have been turned over to the police.

Rev. Mr. Smith has been engaged in investigation of liquor and vice conditions in the city for several months.

APPRECIATE PROBLEM OF MARITIMES

Visiting Progressives Voice Desire for Betterment of All Canada.

Case Presented

Dr. Baxter and Others Make Plea on Behalf of Atlantic Provinces.

"We need a spirit national. Let each one do his best. To get the other fellow's view. Forget the east, the west, Join hands and work for Canada, And do it with a zest For Home and Native Land."

The spirit conveyed by this verse of a local Rotary song of welcome, sung with great fervor, marked the Rotary Club and City luncheon tendered the visiting Progressives at Pythian Hall yesterday. The singing, led by District Governor Spangler, was a feature that delighted the visitors, most of whom joined heartily in the choruses.

Promptly on the minute the Rotary president, Canon Armstrong, called the diners to order, and grace was followed by O Canada and a medley of Rotary songs. The visitors, along with Senator Daniel, Dr. MacLaren, M. P., R. T. Hayes, M. L. A., W. E. Scully, M. L. A., commissioners Frink, Bollen and Wignmore, President G. E. Barbour of the Board of Trade and other visitors were scattered among the Rotarians. The visitors, along with Senator Daniel, Dr. MacLaren, M. P., R. T. Hayes, M. L. A., W. E. Scully, M. L. A., commissioners Frink, Bollen and Wignmore, President G. E. Barbour of the Board of Trade and other visitors were scattered among the Rotarians.

The Mayor spoke in behalf of the city, extending a welcome and expressing the hope that the visitors would come again in winter weather.

Hon. Dr. Baxter, in the absence of Frink, extended a welcome for the province. He smilingly observed that the visitors, being free to comment on some matters of Government policy and approve others, should be a fair balance before the province. He said that the great steamer sail for the Orient. With regard to St. John, he said it was the front door of Canada, and that it should be thought of a householder who put in his coal through the parlor window. Houses have doors for that purpose in Canada's front door and should be so regarded by all Canadians.

Dr. Baxter's Address.
Hon. Dr. Baxter caused a laugh at the outset by addressing the visitors as fellow Progressives. He said this was a happy meeting, apart from Parliament, and that the visits had around a friendly bond and discuss problems awaiting solution. Lord Bryce had once referred to Canada as "3,000 miles in length and very narrow in some parts." Was he right? Geographically, perhaps yes; but our job was to get the province to be a part of another sense narrow in any part. It is up to those in the east to realize the intensity of the western problem. We may differ, perhaps, as to the best means of solution, but it must be a broad, national solution. We ask, said Dr. Baxter, that you apply the same rule to the problems of the east. The visitors, he said, had come from the centre to the west for that purpose, to help the province to solve the problems confronting those who live by and with the sea. He would urge them not only to gather all the information possible but to study the people and their aspirations; and they would find there is much yet to be done if the people here are to gain those advantages they may rightly expect to share. They would find here no futile, idle sentiment in favor of secession. We want to be in Canada perhaps more than she wants us to be in. These provinces were founded and built up by loyal people who desired wholly the unity of the Empire and of Canada. The visitors had seen some of the things done in St. John by a small band of people. Less than forty years ago the harbor was not to be compared with that of today. A people proud of their city, which they had seen scourged by fire, saw its wooden ship-building industry go out of existence and its lumber mills recede toward the forest; saw a hostile tariff preventing traffic with the United States; and saw themselves dying up, withering, ready to be blown away—these people, few in number and limited resources, put their resources at the service of the nation and began the development of their harbor. The C. E. B. had only been extended to the port a few years. The citizens had looked to the inducements offered at Confederation and hoped to get some part and a large part of the trade of Canada in winter and so build up a larger and better city.

Try Her Way

The way millions now employ to fight film on teeth

Try the method which is bringing the prettier teeth you see. It is the modern method of teeth cleaning. Millions now employ it. The results are seen in every circle, in those whiter, cleaner teeth.

It means new beauty, new cleanliness, new charm. Let this test prove that to you.

Why teeth decay and discolor
You feel on teeth a viscous film. Much of it clings and stays. No ordinary tooth paste can effectively combat it.

Food stains, etc., discolor it, so it forms dingy coats. That is why so many teeth are clouded. Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Very few escaped these troubles under old ways of tooth brushing. Just because they did not combat that film.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

Then decide if your home should adopt this modern method. Cut out coupon now.

CHICKENS ROOST IN CABINS OF GREAT SHIPS, NOW WAR WASTE

Wooden Fleet of the United States to be Burned Up Soon.

Philadelphia, April 22. — (United Press) — Ship cabins, designed for officers' quarters and built at great expense, now house chickens and pies on Virginia farms or furnish roadside dwellings for squatters or refreshment booths for tired tourists.

The deck houses of a giant fleet of 205 wooden vessels, built for the World War at from $500,000 to $800,000 each, have been sold as junk to whomsoever would pay the price—mostly trouble of carrying them away.

The built-in bunks are good nests for the chickens. The little houses, which resemble refrigerators and are built in much the same fashion, are practically useless for other purposes, because thousands of nails running through them at intervals of a few inches, makes salvage of the wood impossible.

The ships themselves, most of which never made a voyage except for a few in the last stages of dismantling, lie in the James River waiting to be towed to Quantico, Va., and burned in the shallow water of the Potomac. A salvage company expects to obtain from this configuration $4,000 tons of scrap iron when the hulls are reduced to ashes.

Every conceivable plan has been tried to prevent the bonfire, which will be the biggest in maritime record. The hulls were offered for sale at $2,000 apiece, which is about the amount the old iron in them would bring. But no buyers came.

The only nibble was from a New York amusement concern which proposed setting up a string of noise restaurants along the Atlantic Coast.

Three of the boats remain in Alexandria, Va., being stripped for the fire at the Virginia Shipbuilding Co. yard. The yard itself is a scar of the war. The big buildings, erected by Charles W. TELLS OF CONDITION IN THE NEAR EAST

Rev. A. E. Kochaly Describes Acute Sufferings of Armenians.

Conditions among the Armenian refugees, victims of Turkish atrocities, were vividly described by Rev. A. E. Kochaly in his address before the Easter meeting of the United Women's Missionary Societies yesterday afternoon in St. John's (Stone) church hall. In the absence of Mrs. W. Phillips, the chair was taken by Mrs. H. G. Fulton. The Bible reading was given by Mrs. N. C. Scott. Mrs. H. H. Gillis offered prayer and a solo was pleasingly sung by Mrs. Hugh Miller.

Mr. Kochaly had just returned from a tour in New Brunswick during which he visited among other places, Andover, Aroostook Junction, Perth, Plover Rock, Campbellton, Dalhousie, Moncton and Sunny Brae. He spoke before the Grand Orange Lodge and the Grand Lodge L. O. B. A. in Moncton and the Armenian Relief for which he is working was endorsed by both organizations. The sum of $5 will adopt an Armenian orphan for one month and the various lodges of the L. O. B. A. were to be asked to undertake the "adoption" of an orphan for one year.

At the latest report, Mr. Kochaly said yesterday there were 83,000 children in the orphanages conducted by the Relief Fund and 25,000 children were being given one hot meal a day. There were 5,000 children refused admission to the orphanages and all adult aid had been withdrawn.

In conversation Mr. Kochaly said conditions were so frightful that Armenian adults were eating grass, dog flesh and the flesh of dead people.

TWO BOOKS GIVEN HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The library of the New Brunswick Historical Society is to receive two valuable additions in two books recently presented through J. S. Flagg, president. The books, which will be handed over to the society at its meeting this week, are a copy of "The History of the Post Office in British North America 1639 to 1870," by William Smith, a former secretary of the Canadian Post Office Department, and a copy of the "Notes on the History of Fredericton Parish church, a paper prepared in connection with the seventy-fifth anniversary in 1922 of the consecration of the present church," by H. P. Gorman.

The History of the Post Office devotes 10 chapters to the postal service in New Brunswick and has information that is of great interest in this province. It refers also to the fact that the first post road on this con-

TWO LOSE MILK LICENSES.

Eight milk vendors appeared before a special meeting of the sub-district Board of Health yesterday in connection with the sale of unpasteurized milk in St. John. There had been a considerable quantity of unpasteurized milk sold in the city recently, it was said by an official of the board, and as a result of the conference with the vendors it was decided to renew licenses to two of them. Licenses are renewed on May 1.

Kellogg's Bran did more in two weeks than medicine taken in 20 years

Out of regard for your own health, read this letter:

Dear Sirs: Your "Krumbled Bran," used by me as a cereal, has done more for me in two weeks than the hundreds of dollars' worth of medicine I have taken in last twenty years for constipation. It is wonderful, and it is so simple.

Yours truly,
Arlington H. Carman.
(Address on Request.)

Mr. Carman's experience has been duplicated in thousands of homes. Why does Kellogg's Bran succeed when drugs and pills fail? The answer is simple. Drugs have an unnatural effect upon the bowels. They irritate the intestines. The more they are used, the more one has to use. Finally, they have no effect at all.

Kellogg's Bran STIMULATES the intestines. It cleans, sweeps and purifies them. It acts exactly as nature acts. And it is never necessary to increase the amount eaten. If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran is guaranteed to bring permanent relief to the most chronic cases of constipation, or your grocer returns your money. For Kellogg's Bran is ALL bran. Nothing but ALL bran can be so effective. That is why doctors recommend Kellogg's.

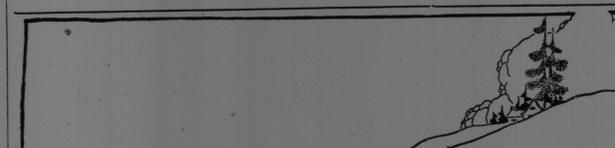

The wonderful, nutlike flavor of Kellogg's Bran is exclusive. It is delicious—totally unlike ordinary bran. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Eat it with milk or cream and in the recipes on every package. Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is made in Toronto, Canada. Sold by all grocers.

APPRECIATE PROBLEM OF MARITIMES

(Continued from page 9.) demonstrated its value as a winter port. It was necessary to disprove gross mis-statements about the dangers of the Bay of Fundy, and only the day before he had heard of the declaration of a commander in the Royal Navy that if a captain found himself in this bay and could not find his way in absolute safety to St. John he was not fit to be in charge of a vessel. But only a few days ago an Imperial Committee had been here to enquire about marine insurance and other discriminations against the port. It ought not to be so. We want a chance to live and breathe.

What was asked of the west, said Dr. Baxter, was to learn and remember what is reasonable in our claims for the sake of the unity of Canada. Unless that spirit prevails the whole system of federation fails and is like an untied bundle of sticks. No part of the country should be penalized for the sake of any other part, but he asked the visitors to turn their eyes to the eastern section, and see if they could not be given the same equal facilities at equal cost with those they have had in the past; and if so, give to St. John and Halifax the portion they should have of trade, and that Canadian money and effort may be devoted to upbuilding a real Canada that does not stop at Montreal.

Manitoba Heard From. R. A. Hoey, M. P. of Springfield, Manitoba, was the first Progressive to reply. He said it was a pleasure and a privilege to come to a section which in the past had given to Canada some of her most distinguished and outstanding men. These provinces had given to Western Canada many of its most sturdy, frugal, progressive and successful pioneer citizens. Referring to Dr. Baxter, Mr. Hoey said that gentleman had made the Progressives the subject of some of his most scathing and forceful attacks, but the speaker believed they were a group that deep down in his heart, the St. John member admired, and some day, no doubt, he would come to know and love them.

Mr. Hoey said that if there was any man he had a tendency to dislike or abhor it was he who spends two or three days in the west and finds a panacea for all its ills. Referring to the present visit to the East he said there were impressions made on the minds of the westerner. The first was that this section has a history. It is anchored to the past and the West is not, and it is well not to detach ourselves from the historic setting which fixes its impression on our institutions. The institutions here he found to be established on principals distinctly British, recognizing liberty, justice and tolerance. In Manitoba forty per cent. of the people were non-English speaking, and twenty languages other than English were spoken. The people in the East, perhaps, regret the departure of young men and women for the west. Do not regret it, said Mr. Hoey. They bring with them a philosophy of life, a conception of reform, a stability that make a contribution of the first magnitude to western progress. If they in turn become less eastern, we become less western. What is best is best calculated to bind us in the consciousness that we are of one stock, one blood, with common ideals. If these do not hold us, economic consciousness can never do it. In any country must arise from time to time class demands and sectional appeals, and we hear of them in Canada. It had been said by someone that class consciousness was a step in advance of individual consciousness; but two sessions in Ottawa had convinced him that Parliament was no place for sectionalism or class consciousness. What is required is a humanitarian consciousness, and sympathies as broad as our territory and as deep as the needs of the Canadian people in this crisis. He believed the majority had this consciousness and had faith in Canada; and, said the speaker, "if Canada cannot emerge soon from this crisis, I do not know of another that can survive at all."

for the first time and his horizon expanded. Perhaps some westerners were unduly narrow; perhaps they were too much influenced by provincialism; but they of the west had great problems. One of these was to get the worth of their products. Here in St. John they came again in contact with the marketing of the grain and learned it was not their problem alone but ours, and that we contribute an essential part to the commerce of the country. They wanted to know what our problems are. They wanted every trade facility developed as we do. The trade should not go through other than Canadian channels. There should be, as Dr. Baxter had said, equal opportunity for all parts of Canada, and where there are undue restrictions the difficulties should be removed and the barriers broken down. Continued adversity affects the point of view, and the west had had experiences that were apt to make them pessimistic, although they really posed as optimists. If in public expressions they drew too long a bow, due allowance must be made because of past conditions not yet lighted. He agreed that there should be wider knowledge and sympathy to solve problems east and west. He hoped great good would come of this brief contact and help to spread right ideas as to the adjustment of difficulties. He was free to admit that the western viewpoint may have been distorted. As to the Maritime Provinces, he had never heard such frank talk about Confederation, but nobody wants to go out of Confederation as a solution of the difficulties. We are all trying to gather the far-flung positions of Canada and weld them into a home for this and future generations of Canadians strongly united.

J. A. Wallace, M. P. for Norfolk, Ont., said he was glad to hear Dr. Baxter and to have him and Dr. MacLaren present, as both were known in Ottawa for their good qualities. He had believed the saying that nothing was impossible, but must realize that belief, as nothing could exceed the hospitality extended to the Progressives on this trip. It was his first trip east of Quebec. Especially had he enjoyed the fish served down here. He had never got the real taste of our fish until he came. As to the relative hospitality of Halifax and St. John, he could only say that they mutually excelled each other. The spirit back of the welcome was most appreciated, and the visitors hoped to be able some time to reciprocate. They had enjoyed the historic setting of St. John. Even Ontario had not the background of the Maritime Provinces, the cradle of the nation. He wanted to thank these provinces for the splendid men sent into central and western Canada, where they were filling some of the most important positions. The speaker said that the visitors had heard of the aspirations of these provinces, and concluded that the west is not the only portion that has problems. Those of the Maritime Provinces and the West correspond more than those of either do with central Canada. They must be solved in the right way by taking a broad view. The visitors were here to learn facts and that they might more intelligently discharge their duties. Their sojourn only whetted their appetites for more. They would like to spend a month in these provinces and learn all phases of their life and problems and aspirations. This concluded the speaking. Canon Armstrong was an admirable chairman. His terse but appropriate comment on each speech and in introducing each speaker was in excellent taste, and not a moment was wasted. The various speakers were heartily cheered and the genuinely social gathering ended with the national anthem. Advocates Co-operation. That the Maritime Provinces and the Prairie Provinces had the same problems and instead of fighting each other should combine to get a square deal nationally, was the suggestion put forward in an interview yesterday by Alfred Speakman, who represents Red Deer in the Dominion Parliament. To back up his argument, Mr. Speakman said that both the East and the West depended on the basic industries of farming, mining, lumbering and fishing, and both had to depend on export trade for prosperity. To both the question of transportation was a vital one and both had to contend with the centralization of manufacturing in Ontario and Quebec. Good Business, He Says. He, therefore, contended that it would be better business for them to form a working partnership to secure reasonable transportation for what they had to export than to fight each other and let the other fellow reap and benefit. Mr. Speakman expressed himself as highly delighted with what he had seen on the trip to the Maritime Provinces, and especially with St. John. This was his first visit to this city and he was amazed at evidence of preparedness for traffic. The harbor impressed him very much, and the facilities on the west side met with much praise from him. The potato and cattle sheds he was particularly interested in, and from what he said it will be a booster for this port for winter traffic in the future. C. W. Stewart, who represents Humboldt, Sask., in Parliament, said this was his first trip to the Maritime Provinces. What seemed to strike him was the fact that despite the rise and fall of tide it was possible to load ships at any time of the day or night with equal facility. D. W. Warner, who represents Strathcona, took a keen interest in the shipping facilities for potatoes, grain and cattle. He said they had heard a great deal about our potato shipments and were glad to see for themselves the picture painted by T. W. Caldwell, member for Carleton-Victoria, when he started out to enlist their support for the new potato shed. Several of the party paid tribute to the efforts of Mr. Caldwell to secure better shipping facilities here and their belief that in him the city had a good friend. CONCLUDE MISSION TOUR. Rev. A. MacDonald, C.S.S.R., and Rev. C. O'Reilly, C.S.S.R., of St. Peter's Rectory returned home last evening after a seven week mission tour in Newfoundland. Father MacDonald expects to leave on next Friday for Antigonish, where will preach a of life, but that greater attention should be given to the teaching of true Canadianism. "And by true Canadianism," he added, "I mean unity." "I do not mean the study of any one part of Canada, of Ontario, or Quebec, or the Maritimes, or the West alone, but of the whole of Canada. I recognize that our problems of the future must necessarily be greater than our problems of the past because of the advance of mankind; but surely, in an age of progress, all true Canadians desire that there should be a Canadian unity. They must feel that it is necessary for the development of Canada and that there must be a clear and friendly understanding of each other, in spite of the fact that 80 per cent. of the population is made up of French."

James McAfferty, McAllen's Lane, left his home on Sunday evening, says the Moncton Transcript, and there has been no trace of his whereabouts since that time. Ill for more than a year with a nervous disorder, Mr. McAfferty, who is described by his employers as a conscientious man, exceptionally steady and efficient, has been able to stay at his work although he was advised by the doctor to take a rest. He has never been absent from his home for so long a time on any previous occasion without notifying his wife. The missing man has three daughters and one son, the oldest a daughter, only 11 years old. They are with their mother at their home. When Mr. McAfferty, who is a short, stout man, of medium complexion, about thirty-seven years of age, returned soldier, left home, he was wearing a brown mackinaw, a gray felt hat, and blue trousers.

In opening his address, Premier Taschereau recognized that in a country like Canada, where there are two outstanding languages, the problems of education are apt to be difficult to solve. His plea was that in educational matters, the authorities should not confine their work to cult, but there is a way to face and the teaching of the routine subjects which are essential for the foundations

NEWS NOTES GATHERED FROM THE WORLD OF STAGE AND SCREEN

ROD LA ROCQUE HAS GIFT THAT IS BOON TO MAKE HIM SUCCESS

Refuses to Take Himself Too Seriously—Lives Quietly With Mother.

(By Jack Jungmeyer.) Hollywood, April 22.—A young man who can break every log in the decalog, defy his mother and kill Nita Naldi, as he did in "The Ten Commandments," and yet retain the sympathy of the just and unjust in diverse audiences—such a young man, Rod La Roque, is bound to be one of the screen's annointed.

Rod has the gift. Why it should so long have been overlooked for important roles, especially since he has been on the stage since boyhood and in films for years, is one of those mysteries by which producers move, their wondrous to perform.

La Roque has had a secure niche. His work has been sound. He has been a studio favorite. But with his performance as the bad brother in Cecil De Mille's big opus he suddenly forged into the vanguard of movie men most talked about. He has excited considerable curiosity among women. Women critics and interviewers, who help set the style in leading men, are raving over him.

Rod takes it quite calmly with his he-man grin, which is neither fatuous nor cynical, as if to say, "Let's laugh this off together."

And that is his characteristic manner, off screen as well as on. A refusal to take himself too seriously, a dread that he might be considered over-sentimental, a proper self-esteem which never becomes pompous, a frank, generous, but disciplined ego.

La Roque is one of Hollywood's most eligible young bachelors. But he's no boulevardier. No one. He doesn't parade himself at the cafes, at the beach, on the links. His name isn't bandied about with pseudo-romance. He lives unostentatiously with his mother and sister.

He knows the value of keeping something of one's vital nature always in reserve, of being somewhat inscrutable. He has built his actor's technique upon that philosophy.

"The Ten Commandments," he pointed out, much of his acting was with back to the camera so that the high dramatic spots sufficient emphasis.

"The full impact of your powers," he says, "should be reserved for the high occasions of life and play-acting, not frittered away. For ordinary occasions, keep something in reserve, that of the long distance runner rather than the sprinter. And Rod La Roque's ready plugging has been marked by that philosophy. Unquestionably, too, it has been responsible for slow appreciation of his full talents.

ALL A MATTER OF NAME. London, April 22.—Production of "Three Weeks," a screen version of Eleanor Glynn's novel, was forbidden here. The objection was raised by the censors. It is anything especially objectionable in the actual picture—but the name! They said it was awful! And so there is a picture running in London called "The Romance of a Queen." It's the old "Three Weeks" with a new title substituted. And the censors are leaving it absolutely alone.

SCREEN CLASSIC IS PROCLAIMED HIT

"The White Sister" Packs Imperial Theatre—Miss Galloway Sings.

Eastertide was ushered in the secular sense at Imperial Theatre yesterday with a glow of springtime color, a festival of music including a rich vocal rendering by Miss Galloway and a picturized story of spiritual content and fervor.

In "The White Sister," in which Lillian Gish stars, was the chief attraction. Here is a motion picture achievement than which nothing finer has ever reached the screen.

Miss Gish is magnificent. No actress of this generation on stage or screen has carried the flame of passion and hearing the warning screams of scowls of automobile horns, the shrill whistles of traffic policemen, one felt convinced that the last traces of New York's "Age of Innocence" had been obliterated. Yet from the curbing, only a few feet west in "Thirty-Fourth Street," there came presently this invitation, uttered with a respectful dignity that made its impression above the roar of traffic: "Car, sir?"

It seemed like a "flash-back" in the "movies"—the opening of a romance of other days—for there, dressed in a long green coat and tall hat, stood a Jehu of the old school, and behind him, with his great red wheels and brightly polished oil lamps, a hansom cab such as Dickens in his day had denounced as being too dangerous and speedy and entirely lacking in dignity, but which, nevertheless, a quarter of a century ago was considered the height of elegance.

The cab and its other hansom and victorias which still have their stands in front of the Waldorf-Astoria and Plaza hotels constitute the old guard of a glorious era. They refuse to surrender. Even a concerted effort to banish them from the city has failed to drive them away, for the undercurrent of sentiment which runs deep beneath New York's matter-of-fact exterior, came to the rescue of the old cab drivers with such force that no hired array of legal talent dared oppose it.

"Would you exchange your outfit for a nice new taxicab?" the venerable cabman was asked.

"That depends. If I could turn right around, sell the taxi, buy my old outfit back and keep the profit I might accept the offer."

"But if it had to be a straight trade . . . ?"

As Final Curtain Descends for Ellen Terry, She Would Live on to Serve Others

By MILTON BRONNER.

London, April 22.—It's Act Five in the life of Ellen Terry, England's greatest living actress—and the final curtain can't be far off.

With the burden of 76 years of strenuous life weighing upon her now frail shoulders and with her own sight dimming rapidly, she is devoting her sunset hours to the cause of the blind. The other day, as head of a league whose holy task it is to serve the blind, she spent the entire day superintending the selling of daffodils on London streets, the money to go to the Ellen Terry homes for blind children. She calls herself a "server of the blind."

Her league, she says, aims to be sure to get a ticket. That's the kind of Terry fans they are.

There's the pretty story of the cynical George Bernard Shaw, who has spent most of his life smashing popular idols. It was rumored that Miss Terry was to be made a Dame Commander of the Order of the British Empire. As a matter of fact, it was offered and refused. But before this was announced, Shaw said feelingly: "Ellen Terry made her own name more famous than any official title. Why should she condescend to be mixed up under the nursery rhyme designation of Dame with a host of comparative nobodies? I can't back a movement to turn Ellen Terry into a Dame, but I would gladly back a movement to turn the Dames into Ellen Terry—if that were possible."

"Ellen Terry—if that were possible," Ellen Terry said, "I prefer horses and people who like horses."

More talkative and bit of a philosopher was the cabman in front of the Plaza. Perhaps it was in this well-pollished old victrola of his that Jenny Lind rode to what is now the Acropolis on the memorable night when she made her first appearance there. At any rate the heart of many a Gibson girl must have fluttered when she set down against those elegant blue cushions. How many distinguished passengers could the vehicle boast of carrying?

"Do you remember some of the prominent persons who have used your cab?" the old Jehu was asked.

"Oh, yes," he answered, rubbing a faded velvet cuff over the double row of brass buttons on his breast. "Lots of them. Silk hatted gents and fine ladies. But I couldn't give you their names. That would be betraying a professional confidence. No, the taxicabs can't take our place, because we have a place of our own. We get the people who like pleasure instead of excitement, who like fresh air and want to enjoy the real beauties of nature and of the city. We have our place, all right." And so they have.

The afternoon had spent itself. The taxicab business took on increased activity in the light hansom cabs and victorias. The pair climbed in and presently the old vehicle turned into the park and began jogging slowly down the lane. There was a touch of spring in the air. Undoubtedly that particular cab had its place, and it was eminently all right.

ELLEN TERRY SELLS FLOWERS FOR THE BLIND.

because of falling memory, two years ago Ellen Terry made her debut in the movies. And she's a Charlie Chaplin fan, declaring him a real genius. And finally she says she would like to live to be 300. There is much she still wants to learn, particularly as she says she is just beginning to understand things.

"Cab, Sir?" Still Can Be Heard In Din Of New York's Traffic

Few Old-Fashioned Vehicles Appear in Busy Streets to Link Present With a Glorious Past

New York, April 22.—Standing at Fifth Avenue and Thirty-Fourth street watching the endless lines of motor vehicles passing and inter-crossing and hearing the warning screams of scowls of automobile horns, the shrill whistles of traffic policemen, one felt convinced that the last traces of New York's "Age of Innocence" had been obliterated. Yet from the curbing, only a few feet west in "Thirty-Fourth Street," there came presently this invitation, uttered with a respectful dignity that made its impression above the roar of traffic: "Car, sir?"

Drinkwater Would Save Legitimate Stage From Movies by Endowed Theatre

(By Clarence Du Bose.)

London, April 22.—A government of municipally endowed theatres may be necessary to preserve the legitimate English stage from the movies, according to John Drinkwater, famous playwright, author of "Abraham Lincoln" and other historic dramas.

"The cinema, however admirable in other ways, has no existence at all as an art," said Drinkwater.

He declared that with the exception of a few large cities in England the provincial theatre has already been killed by the movies—and now the threat of the cities are threatened. Drinkwater has no fear of the death of the legitimate theatre in London itself, but he objects to the situation whereby the people of most of the rest of England are limited to movies, unless they make a trip to London.

His government—endowment plan would start a string of repertoire theatres in the provinces, to be run on a "art for art's sake" basis.

Drinkwater said that, as a small boy, he traveled with the company of his father, who was an actor. "Some of the members of that company," he said, "received only $5 per week salary—but they adored their art, and each one of them is famous today. We had, in those days, a very real, perhaps crude, but most vigorous theatrical life in the provinces which has now entirely departed."

For the drama to decay, continued Drinkwater, means the decay of something far greater than the theatre alone. Therefore a "vicious and adventurous government" could well afford to endow repertoire theatres for the English provinces, because of the tremendous influence the revival of drama throughout the country would have upon the character of the country.

There is something about the works of Kate Douglas Wiggin which constitutes a human appeal not felt in many of the rural shows that are seen on the stage, and perhaps there is no vehicle in which this is more clearly demonstrated than in "Rebecca."

Throughout the piece is simple, wholesome story is evenly spread; it is plentifully garnished with heart-touching situations, and to make it all the more satisfying it possesses an abundant garnishing of the most piquant of clean, hearty humor.

It would be difficult to imagine a more typical Rebecca than Miss Preston, who has already romped through several kiddie parts to the delight of St. John audiences—Pollyanna, Fauntleroy, Dawn of the Mountains, etc., etc. And once again yesterday afternoon and evening she just played her way into the hearts of those who witnessed her performance in her juvenile impersonation. She was at one with the local kiddies who played the extra parts.

Miss Odeon also turned back the clock a few years—not many, perhaps, but far enough to reach the bare knees and gave a most delightful performance.

Mr. Coats had one of those fine breezy parts which he handles so well, and Owen Coll could not be improved in his character representation. Miss Kelson had to turn her good-nature photograph to the wall in order to portray the crusty attributes of Aunt Miranda, but she did it with fine effect. She was particularly good in the last act when the thawing influence of Rebecca's disposition began to tell on her. Miss Marsh was—to use an expression picked up from one in the audience—a "sight," but that was the intention of the author; Miss Marsh gave an excellent presentation of the English provincial female, whose husband, enacted by Mr. Brodbeck, had a shady past.

Mr. Swift, although his part was small, made the most of it and scored several upshots. Miss Heall was a bit, she demonstrated the fact that Mrs. Perkins could collect more gossip and broadcast it more thoroughly than all the rest of the community rolled into one. Miss Murre also did well in her role, while the local youngsters, Miss McGilivray, McMahon and Burns and Master Lawrence, rounded out a well-placed cast.

The stage settings were difficult, but they were up to the standard of Gordon, standard, and must have entailed considerable work on the part of his competent stage crew.

Richardson to try FOR BRITISH TITLE. He is Considered a Serious Contender for National Championship.

By HENRY L. FARRELL. New York, April 22.—(United Press)—Vinnie Richards, the 20-year-old former Fordham tennis star, has developed his game to a degree where it seems that he is a most serious contender for the national championship.

In winning the national indoor championship for the third time recently, young Richards displayed such brilliance in his play that Frank Hunter, the final round that it appeared that the youngster had finally arrived at the point that his game had always promised.

Hunter is one of the very best players in the United States and is one of the most improved players in the last year. He went through to the final round in the British championships at Wimbledon last year and was defeated only by Billy Johnston, the California star, who won the title.

Richards is sailing early in May to get ready for the British championship tournament and it is almost certain that he will win the title, because he is to be the only American entry of established ability and there is no player in Europe who can compare with the boy on the form that he has been showing.

JACK BOYLE STORY IS THRILLING ONE

"The Last Moment" at the Unique Has Lots of Action.

"The Last Moment," the J. Parker Read, Jr., production which was presented by Goldwyn at the Unique Theatre yesterday certainly lived up to all advance notices as being a genuine thriller.

Of course there was splendid acting throughout the entire picture, for with three stars in Broadway stage success appearing in the principal roles this was to be expected.

Louis Wolheim, who acted the title role in Eugene O'Neill's "Hair," gave a realistic portrayal of the brutal sea captain who enforces respect by swinging redoubtable fists to a sailor's jaws and, indeed, often swinging the recallant ones over the rail and into the sea.

Doris Kenyon, who is equally well-known to screen followers and Broadway playgoers, seemed lovely as ever in this film, and as usual, was convincing in the role of a society but who suddenly finds herself aboard a schooner with a murderous captain and an even greater terror menacing her.

Henry Hull, the leading man in "The Cat and the Canary," gave an excellent performance as the look-alike young rich man who loses his yellow streak and becomes a real man when he finds the girl he loves is confronted with death.

The picture was adapted by Mr. Read from a story by Jack Boyle. We can't tell you what the look-alike young thrill of the plot is, because that wouldn't be fair to others who will enjoy it. But, few, can imagine a finer acting than that of "The Thing" which menaced the hero and heroine.

TALENTED PIANIST HEARD IN RECITAL. Miss Poole Displays Fine Technique and Good Expression.

Miss Minnie Allen Poole, daughter of Rev. Dr. S. S. Poole, pastor of Central street Baptist church, and Mrs. Poole, gave a recital last evening in the Institute of the church that was a revelation to her listeners. Her first number was a heavy one being four movements from Chopin's Op. 10, No. 3; Presto, Largo a mesto, Menuetto and Rondo. Her runs and wonderful manipulation of the keys in the rapid movements was remarked as particularly skillful and very pleasing.

A good audience heard this musical treat, which was a repetition of the graduating recital of Miss Poole at Acadia University recently.

A good sum was realized for the Acadia fund. The concert was under the auspices of the Pinalia Club of the church. Miss Poole expects to return to the Conservatory for the remainder of the school year.

game and give up his amateur standing and if he does he will have to make the sacrifice of his game that Tilden intends to do, it is possible that he may change his mind and give up writing.

With Tilden out of competition in 1925 and Bill Johnston older by a year, Richards' winning a most wonderful chance to step out and win the national championship and perhaps start a reign of dominance similar to that enjoyed now by Tilden.

Richards will not be eligible for the Olympic team because of the rule passed by the committee prohibiting players from doing any kind of newspaper writing while they are under supervision of the committee.

This rule, if rigidly applied, may make it impossible for the United States to have any kind of a tennis team in the Olympic games.

Tilden, the Kinsey and practically all of the ranking players come under the writing classification and they are not eligible. Frank Hunter, regarded as the outstanding player for the team, recently purchased a newspaper in West Virginia and removed himself as a possibility.

The Olympic committee ought to make an exception of Hunter, as it is quite obvious that he is not cashing in on the reputation which he makes in a newspaper plant and becomes an editor. Paul Williams, secretary of the tennis association, is a newspaper editor and it is unlikely that he will be considered as a professional tennis player by his colleagues.

Bill Johnston says he can't go to Paris because of business reasons and Dick Williams is not going for the same reason. With Tilden, Hunter, Anderson, the Kinsey and many other players barred because of the anti-writing rule, it may become necessary for the association to enter the college players who are going to England next summer.

Immense Crowds Charmed At Imperial. "THE WHITE SISTER" A CLASSIC. Lillian Gish and Ronald Colman Faultless.

A GAIN TODAY AND TOMORROW this exquisite Italian love story will continue to delight those who appreciate the very best elements in moving pictures. The thousands who saw the picture yesterday will be the best advertisement it can possibly have. As a love-story "The White Sister" is supreme, as a scenic it is of the rarest, as a spectacular human tale during the dangerous times of Vesuvius's eruptions it is historically correct. Altogether it is one of the Imperial's finest offerings.

ST. JOHN TRAVELERS RETURN HOME

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Estabrooks Toured Many Lands.

Completing a three-months' tour that carried them more than 12,000 miles, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Estabrooks arrived home yesterday afternoon from Halifax where they landed from the steamer Scythia. Despite the length of the journey and the many climates they visited, Mr. and Mrs. Estabrooks enjoyed excellent health on their trip. They left here the latter part of January and sailed on the Scythia from New York, their first port of call being Madeira, Spain. Next the steamer touched at Cadix but rough weather prevented a landing and after a 12-hour wait, the steamer moved on to Gibraltar.

At this great fortress, Mr. Estabrooks and W. S. Fisher, who with Mrs. Fisher also was on the Scythia, looked up Edward Ellis, son of George D. Ellis of this city. Mr. Ellis at present is a sub-lieutenant on the battleship "Malaya" one of the largest in the British navy. From Gibraltar, the steamer moved on to Naples and then crossed over the Mediterranean touching at Algiers and Tunis. At Alexandria, Mr. and Mrs. Estabrooks left the steamer and traveled by train to Cairo. While in Cairo, they met Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Smith of this city. From Cairo, they journeyed to Luxor and the famed Valley of the Kings. They were unable to inspect Tutankhamen's tomb as at the time of their visit it was closed to the public. In all, they spent 10 days in Egypt and from there they traveled by train to Jerusalem, thence to Constantinople and Athens, where they took the steamer back to Naples. They left the steamer at this historic Italian port and journeyed by slow stages through Italy to France.

By Airplane Instead of using the train and boat for the trip to England, Mr. and Mrs. Estabrooks took the airplane route. It required three hours to make the trip, which usually is accomplished by the big planes in two and one-half hours. The plane carried Mr. Estabrooks, Mrs. Estabrooks, and two other passengers. A sickness similar to seasickness. While in England, Mr. Estabrooks said he endeavored to look up Hilton Belyea but was unsuccessful. He witnessed the Oxford-Cambridge classic on a steamer near the finish line. The Cambridge crew, he said, finished quite strong. While thoroughly enjoying his trip, Mr. Estabrooks said he and Mrs. Estabrooks were glad to get back home again. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher are still on the continent.

BELYEA IS BETTER THAN LAST YEAR

Barry Says St. John Oarsman is Now in Good Form.

Construction of Hilton Belyea's new shell by Sims Brothers at Putney, England, where the west sloop club now is in training for the Diamond Sculls and the Olympics, has been delayed owing to other business at the factory, according to letters received yesterday by Mrs. Belyea. In one respect this will prove a blessing in disguise, as Hilton was not quite satisfied with the model for the "St. John" shell which he had built at St. Catharines in July, 1922, after Dibble had moved into Hilton's place. The "St. John" was Hilton's favorite shell, and he used this boat in all his important races last year. He was unable to find the original model to his departure.

A few days, however, while his mother was doing some of the spring cleaning, the original model was found, and Hilton's wife cabled him last night, asking if he wanted it sent over. Hilton wrote that he is out working daily with Bert Barry, who was with him last year, and is in excellent condition. He is down to under 170 pounds and rowing between 25 and 30 miles a day. Barry says that Hilton is in much better shape now than when he rowed in the Diamond last year.

CHANGE AT CITY HALL

The chambers and city council chamber shifted their quarters today from the office which they have occupied so long, at the end of the counting room, to the former council chamber and George McKimney, who has charge of the collection of default taxes, has moved his desk into the room occupied formerly by them. It is believed this change will be for the benefit of all hands. It will give the chambers an opportunity to have a private office and will bring the staff into closer touch with each other and with the books. The council chamber and suite room have been thoroughly cleaned and the walls painted.

Compromise Effected in the Wage Dispute—Will Resume Tomorrow.

A compromise between the local contractors and the members of the Bricklayers' and Masons' Union, over the matter of wages was reached at a meeting of the local union last evening and the men who walked out on April 1 returned to work tomorrow. The union members presented a new scale to the employers early in the year, in which they demanded $1.25 per hour in place of 90 cents which was being paid at the time, the new wage scale to go into effect April 1. The contractors countered with an offer of $1 an hour, which the men refused to accept, and quit work. G. T. Thornton, a second vice-president of the International union, has been in the city for the last week, studying the situation and this morning he reported that the men had decided to accept the offer of the local contractors and return to work at the $1 an hour rate. Although practically the only job affected by the walkout of the men was that of the new Catholic church at East St. John, there has been considerable public interest in the wage question on account of the fact that contractors have been figuring on the new Cardinal Beary hotel erection, and the matter of wages would have a great effect on the contract price. General satisfaction that the whole question had been amicably settled was expressed by many this morning.

INSPECTED POINTS OF INTEREST

In addition to having been the guests of Mrs. Fry, wife of His Worship, at luncheon at the Riverside Golf Club, the ladies who accompanied the Progressive members of Parliament to St. John were given an opportunity to inspect the immigration quarters on the West Side and visited the Natural History Society museum and the Health Centre. Just before noon Mayor Fisher called with automobiles and took the ladies to the West Side and they expressed themselves as greatly delighted with the arrangements for the coming future citizens of the Dominion. They were also much pleased with the museum and the Health Centre. In the afternoon, after the luncheon, His Worship accompanied several of the men of the party through the market and the cold storage plant.

As Hiram Sees It

"Well, sir," said Mr. Hiram Hornbeam to The Times reporter, "a gal got in front of me in the meetin' house Sunday night an' chawed gum the full time. She never stopped a minute." "It may have been with her a form of religious or devotional expression—a sacred rite," suggested the reporter. "No, sir," said Hiram— "just a habit. She chawed while the organ was playin'—she chawed while the choir was singin'—she chawed while the minister was readin' the Scripture—while he was prayin'—an' when he was preachin'." "I fear you did not derive much benefit from the service," said the reporter. "Yes, I did," said Hiram. "I could tell you what hymns they sung—an' the text—an' what the minister said. 'Twas only one thing about it that sorto got on my nerves." "And that?" queried the reporter. "She didn't chaw time to the toons," said Hiram.
