THE THREE LITTLE CHAIRS.

They sat by the bright wood fire,
The gray hair'd dame and the aged sire,
Dreaming of days gone by;
The tear-drops fell on each wrinkled cheek,
They both had thoughts they could not speak,
And each heart uttered a sigh—

For their sad and tearful eyes descried
Three little chairs placed side by side
Against the sitting-room wall;
Old-fashioned enough as there they stood,
Their seats of fluff and their frames of wood,
With their backs so straight and tall.

Then the sire shook his silvery head,
And with trembling voice he gently said:
"Alas, these empty chairs!
They bring us such sad, sad, thoughts to night,
We'd put them for ever out of sight,
In the small dark room upstairs."

But she answered: "Father, no not yet,
For I look at them, and I forget
That the children are away;
The boys come back, and our Mary too,
With her apron on of checked blue,
And sit there every day."

"Johnny still whistles a ship's tall masts,
And Willie his leaden bullets casts,
While Mary her patchwork sews;
At evening the three childish prayers
Go up to God from these little chairs,
So softly that no one knows."

"Johnny con as back from the billyow sleep,
Willie wakes from the battle field sleep,
To say Good night to me;
Mary's a girl and another no more,
But a tired child, whose play time is o'er,
And comes to rest at my knee."

"So let them stand there, though empty now,
And every time when alone we bow
At the Father's throne to pray,
We'll ask to meet the children above,
In our Saviour's home of rest and love,
Where no child goeth away."

TO LET.

I should like to describe my hero as a young and gallant cavalier of this nineteenth century, with the beauty of an Apollo and the wisdom of a sage, but truth compels me to acknowledge that Rupert Smithson, in spite of his fine Christian appellation, was neither one nor the other. His nephew and namesake, who was called in the bosom of his family Rupert the Second, said that his Uncle Rupert was a "crusty old bachelor," and I hammer my brains in vain for a more fitting description. A crusty old bachelor he undoubtedly was, more than fifty years of age, with grizzled hair, heavy gray beard, and a rough voice and manner. It is very true that he was always careful to keep the "cleanest" side of his nature on the surface, and had been discovered in the act of committing several secret deeds of charity and kindness, that belied utterly his habitual surly tone and abrupt manner.

Twenty years before, when the gray hair was nut-brown and clustered in rich curls over the brow, while iron-bred, when the brown eyes shone with the fire of ambition, the clear voice was true and tender, Rupert Smithson had given his whole heart to Kate Carroll, neighbor and friend, little sweetheart from childhood.

Urged by love as well as ambition, he had left his home, in a small Western town, and gone to New York to win a name and a fortune to lay at Kate's feet. The fortune and fame as a successful merchant came to him, but when he returned to Kate, he found she had left her home also, to become the bride of a wealthy pork dealer in Cincinnati. Nobody told Rupert of treachery to the pretty Katie, of letters suppressed, of slander-circulated, and parental authority stretched to the utmost in favor of the wealthy suitor. He had no record of the slow despair that crept over the loving heart, when the pleading letters were answered, of the dull apathy that yielded at last, and gave away the hand of the young girl, when heart seemed broken. All that the young, ardent lover knew was the one bitter fact that the girl he loved faithfully and fondly was false to her promise, the wife of another. He spoke no word of bitterness, but returned to the home he had hoped was his stepping-stone, and a life of loneliness.

Ten years later when his sister with her son and daughter came to live in New York for educational advantages, Rupert the First was certainly what his saucy nephew called him, a crusty old bachelor. Yet into this store, disappointed heart Katie's desertion had so wounded, the bachelor uncle took with warm love and great indulgence his nephew and niece, bright handsome children of ten and twelve, who, childlike, imposed upon his good nature, rioted over his quiet, orderly house, his staid housekeeper declared they were worse than a pair of monkeys, carressed him stormily one moment, and pouted over some refusal for a monstrous indulgence the next, and treated him generally as bachelor uncles must expect to be treated by their sisters' children.

There was some talk when Mrs. Kimberley first came to New York, of making one household of the family, but the wealthy widow selected a residence three doors off in the same block.

Rupert was so set in his filigree old bachelor ways, she said, "that it would be positive cruelty to disturb him."

Probably young Rupert and Fannie did not consider their bright young faces disturbers of their uncle's tranquility, but it is quite certain that out of school hours No. 49, their uncle's house, saw them as frequently as No. 43, where their mother resided. With the intuitive perception of children, they understood that the abrupt, often harsh voice, the surly words, and the demonstrative manner, covered a heart that would have made any sacrifice for their sakes, that loved them with as true a love as their own dead father could have given them.

As they outgrew childhood, evidences of affection ceased to take the form of dolls and drums, and cropped out in Christmas checks, in ball dresses and bouquets, a saddle horse, and various other delightful shapes, till Rupert came of age, when he was taken from college into his uncle's counting house and a closer intimacy than ever was cemented between the young life and the one treading the downward path to old age.

There had been a family gathering at Mrs. Kimberley's one evening in the month of March, and a conversation had arisen upon the traditional customs and tricks of the first of April.

"Senseless, absurd tricks," Rupert Smithson had called them, in his abrupt rough way, "fit only to amuse children or idiots!"

Oh, please, Uncle Rupert, Fannie said anxiously, you played April fool tricks too, when you were young.

Never! Never could see any wit or sense in them. And what's more, Miss Fannie, I never was once caught by any of the shallow deceptions.

Never made an April fool?

Never, and never will be! was the reply. There child, go play me that last nocturne you learned. It suits me. I hate sky-rocket music, but that is a dreamy, lazy air, and I like it.

The idea of your liking anything dreamy and lazy, said Mrs. Kimberley. I thought you were all energy and activity.

When I work, I work! was the reply; but when I rest, I want rest.

Uncle Rupert! broke in Rupert, suddenly, what will you bet I can't fool you next week?

Aha! The idea of getting to my age to be fooled by a boy like you.

Then you defy me?

Of course I do.

I'll do it. Keep your eyes open.

Forewarned is forearmed! But come, stop chatting. I want my music.

Pretty, saucy, mischief-loving Fannie, with her dancing black eyes and brilliant smile, did not look like a very promising interpreter of "dreamy, lazy music," but once her hands touched the keys of the grand piano-forte, the girl's whole nature seemed to merge into the sounds she created. Merry music made dancing elves of her fingers as they flew over the notes; dreamy music drew a mask of hushed beauty over her face, and her great black eyes would dilate and seem to see far away beauties as the room filled with the sweet low cadences. She would look like an inspired Joan of Arc when grand chords rolled out under her hands in majestic measures, and sacred measures, and sacred music transformed her beauty into something saintly. But once the rosewood case was closed, St. Cecilia became pretty winsome Fannie Kimberley again.

There were few influences that could soften the outer crust of manner in Rupert Smithson, but he would hide his face away when Fannie smiled, shamed of himself tears that started, or smiles that hovered on his lips as the music pierced down, down into that warm, loving heart he had tried to conceal with cynical words and looks.

So when the final chords of the nocturne melted softly into silence, the old bachelor stole away and left the house, bidding no one farewell. They were accustomed to his singular ways, and no one followed him, but Mrs. Kimberley sighed as she said:

"Rupert gets older and crustier every year."

But he is so good, Fannie said, leaving her piano stool with a twirl that kept it spinning round gaily.

Why don't he get married? said Rupert. It is downright shame to have that splendid house shut up year after year, excepting just the few rooms Uncle Rupert and Mrs. Jones occupy.

I mean to ask him! Fannie said impulsively.

No, no! said Mrs. Kimberley, hastily, never speak of that to your uncle, Fannie! Never!

But why not?

I never told you before, but your uncle was engaged years ago, and there was some trouble. I never understood about it exactly, for I was married and left Wilton the same year that Rupert came to New York. But this I do know: the lady after waiting three or four years, married, and Rupert has never been the same man since. I am quite sure he was very much attached to her, and that you would wound him, Fannie, if you justed about marriage.

But I don't mean to jest at all. I think he would be ever so much happier if he had some one to love him in return. It must be dreadfully lonesome in that large house with no companion but Mrs. Jones, who is one hundred years old, I am certain.

He ought to marry her, said Rupert; she always calls him 'dearie'!

Don't, children, just about it any more, said their mother, and be sure you never mention the subject to your uncle.

The first of April was a clear, rather cold day, the air bright and snapping, and the sky all treacherous smiles, as became the coquetish world of sunshines and showers.

Uncle Rupert finishing his lonely breakfast thought to himself:

I must be on the look out to day for Rupert's promised trick! He won't find it so easy as he imagines to fool his old uncle.—What's there? The last two words in answer to a somewhat timid knock upon the door.

It was certainly not easy to astonish Rupert Smithson but his eye opened with a most unmitigated expression of amazement, as the door opened to admit a tall slender figure in deep mourning, and a low, very sweet voice asked:

Is this the landlord?

The—the what?

I called about the house, sir.

What house? Take a seat—suddenly recalling his politeness.

Is not this No. 49 W—Place?

Certainly it is.

I have been looking out for some time for a furnished house suitable for boarders, sir, and if I find this one suits me, and the rent is not too high—

But—interrupted the astonished bachelor.

Oh, I hope it is not taken! The silver tinselled suit to call to bed eight and nine, and it struck eight as I stood upon the door step.

Oh, the advertisement! So, so, Master Rupert! This is your doing, is it? Will you let me see the advertisement, madam?

You have the "Herald" in your hand, sir, she said timidly. I did not cut it out.

Oh, you saw it in the "Herald"? and he turned to the list of houses to let.

The Abolition of Purchase in the Army.

A return to an address of the House of Lords, obtained by the Duke of Richmond, has been printed, showing the number of officers who have memorialized his Royal Highness the Commander-in-Chief with reference to their position and prospects consequent upon the abolition of purchase. The document contains the letters from the Generals commanding districts forwarding the memorials. The number of officers who memorialized was 2,245, and the number of letters from G-245. The letter from General Sir Hope Grant is the first letter, in which he declared that he was fully convinced as to the strong feeling of discontent and dissatisfaction which prevails among the masses of regimental officers, and that their case has never been gone into before an impartial tribunal, without some such recognition the feeling would go on increasing in intensity. He therefore submitted that a Royal Commission should be granted, before which the officers could unfold their views. The other letters complained of grievances arising from the new regulations for the Army. The officers considered they suffered from the abolition of the purchase system. The first letter, from Aldershot, was dated the 19th of April last, and the last, from Dublin, on the 19th inst.

ATTACK ON THE MEMONITES.—We purpose forbear this week from going into any lengthened criticism with regard to the attack by some Half Breeds upon the Menonite Disputation at White Horse Plains.

Those accused of participation in the affair are now in custody, and it would be unfair to all parties concerned to announce on, or condemn them for their conduct until at least they have been heard in their own defence. They have been incarcerated at the Stone Fort Gaol, and were brought up for examination on Thursday, but their case had not been concluded when we went to press. In the meantime we regret the tone taken by some of our contemporary journals with regard to the matter. It is the duty of a judge to hear the evidence before he convicts, and for a journalist to forbear comment until full particulars are before him.

PASTE THIS IN YOUR HAT.—Here are a few items of information known to some, but to a great many yet to be learned: How to lay off a square acre of ground: Measure off 208 1/2 feet on each side, and you will have an acre within an inch. Contents of distances: An acre contains 4,840 square yards. Measure of distances: A mile is 5,280 feet, or 1,760 yards in length. A fathom is six feet. A league is six miles. A day's journey is 33 1/2 miles. A cubit is two feet. A hand (horse measure) is four inches. A palm is three inches. A span is 10 1/2 inches. A space is three feet. A barrel of flour weighs 196 pounds. A barrel of pork is 200 pounds. A barrel of rice is 200 pounds. A barrel of powder is 25 pounds. A skin of butter is 56 pounds. The following are sold by weights per bushel: Wheat, beans and clover seed 60 pounds to the bushel; Corn, rye and flaxseed 56 pounds to the bushel.

A POLICEMAN IN A QUANDARY.—There is a policeman in Oil City who is in a quandary. He has levied on the contents of a torpedo magazine, which are many cans of the gentle glycerine. The proprietor has locked the door and put the key in his pocket. Now, the policeman could break down the door; but whether, after doing this, he would be in a situation to carry off the goods inside or he would, being able to find any goods or any inside in fact, are questions which he is in no hurry to have practically answered.

DISCOVERY OF A GOLD MINE IN SOUTH AMERICA.—A Buenos Ayres correspondent gives an account of the discovery in a Province of the Argentine Republic of a gold mine, said to be the richest in the world. Half of the site of the mine is said to have been sold for a hundred millions of dollars.

The Standard.

SAINT ANDREWS, JULY 30, 1873.

THE PACIFIC MIDDLE.—"Audi alteram partem."—Anglice "Hear the other party," is an old Latin proverb, which appears to be ignored by many at the present time; and if the rule was ever required in any instance, it undoubtedly is in the Pacific Railway charges. It is a rule in our Courts of Law, that the evidence of a criminal who betrays his associates, and turns Queen's evidence, is looked upon with suspicion and very properly so, for it is the price of "blood money," or what is tantamount, the loss of place, emolument, and character. Black as the Cabinet has been made by the charges, we are pleased to know, that there are many who will not believe the charges of corruption, until they are substantiated on oath and proved. How much money has been paid McMullen to publish his revelations? As to his motives, any one can trace them to the pure source from whence they emanate.

It is to be regretted that some people suffer themselves to be carried away by what they read against the Dominion Cabinet; they form their opinions too hastily without waiting as they should do, until the charges are investigated. They seem to forget, that men holding the high and responsible positions of Cabinet Ministers dare not betray the country nor ruin their own characters for a petty consideration of a few thousand dollars. Were the charges preferred against one member of the Government, it might be possible that he had been led astray in an unguarded moment, but the bare idea of the whole Cabinet having been guilty of accepting bribes, and selling their country to unscrupulous speculators is too absurd to be entertained.

The Opposition are sparing no efforts to get up a feeling against the Ministry, and to create a popular excitement which would result in a parliamentary vote injurious to the Cabinet, before the Committee meets to investigate the charges preferred against them. Another dodge of their's is to force the Governor General to continue the Session of Parliament in August, for the purpose of discussing the Pacific bill, while the public mind is excited by the one-sided evidence of guilt furnished by unprincipled demagogues, whose sole aim is to obtain place, power, and salary. They thus hope to gain over those members in Parliament who are ready to vote on what they suppose to be the winning side, and to secure the aid of that portion of the press, which is ready to jump the fence and class itself among the victors, to whom "belong the spoils." It is probable that the Ministry will take care of those "fence viewers," with their big trumpets which give an uncertain sound. And it is almost certain that the whole matter will be placed in the hands of a Commission composed of the Judges of the Dominion for investigation, whose decision will be against the conspirators, whose efforts to ruin the reputation of the leading men of the Dominion know no bounds. What a sorry condition the Maritime Provinces would have been in, had the Grits held the reins of power for the last six years.

Circuit Court.

The Summer Term of the Circuit Court was closed on Monday evening. Geo. S. Grimmer, Esq., Q. C., conducted the criminal business. The following is a list of the causes and verdicts:—

Criminal Docket—Queen vs. John Bradley. Tried and acquitted.

From the Boston "Journal" of Monday kindly handed us by Mr. Brown, of the Aroostook Express Co., we learn that Mon. Kiestaffly, private Secretary and one of the prelates of the household of the Pope, has arrived in New York, to enquire into the feasibility of sending a large number of Missionaries to preach Roman Catholicism to the negroes in the Southern States.

One hundred Mormons arrived from Europe, and departed for Salt Lake.

The movements of the Governor General are known only to himself, and it is useless for correspondents to state that he will visit this or that city at a specified time; in fact his Secretary has so stated in an official note to the publishers of the Daily News. In reply to several who have enquired, we are in a position to state that Lord Dufferin's visit to St. Andrews will probably take place during the latter part of August.

Biological Entertainment.

Professor STONE, whose ability as a Biologist is extensively known on this Continent and Europe, purposes giving two of his popular and interesting entertainments in Masonic Hall, on Friday and Saturday evenings next. Prof. Stone has given unbounded satisfaction wherever he has performed, and his gifts are as multifarious as his performances are unrivalled. We learn from several gentlemen who attended his entertainments, that his exhibitions of skill in his favorite science are really wonderful. The Professor has very handsome testimonials from the Press, and leading men of the Dominion. We trust his performances will be well patronized.

ARRIVALS.—"And still they come" will apply to the visitors which arrive daily here. Among them this week, were some of our Provincial notables—the Hon. Edward Willis, of the "Daily News," J. V. Ellis, Esq., of the "St. John's Globe," Jas. G. Forbes and H. Leonard, Esqrs., of St. John, J. McCaug, Esq., of Messrs. W. P. Howland & Co., Toronto, Prof. Stone and Mrs. Stone, and Rev. Hope Edwards, of England, were all at Clark's Hotel.

FOR ENGLAND.—Mr. Stinson, representative of Messrs. Odell & Turner, left here on Saturday last to take passage in the steamship "Hibernian" to visit the British Markets, and purchase a supply of merchandise for the Fall and Winter trade.

ENTERTAINMENT.—This evening and Thursday evening, the Laverde Children will give entertainments, assisted by a powerful combination of leading Stars and a splendid Orchestra, in the Masonic Hall. Press notices speak favorably of their entertainments.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—We are informed that while two men were skylarking near the Bridge St. Stephen on Monday evening, one of them struck the other good humoredly; he fell and broke his neck, and immediate death ensued.

We are indebted to our friend Capt. George Street, for a file of Manitoba papers.

RICH.—Fort Sullivan, at Eastport, is to be dismantled. Congressman Hale pleads eloquently against it, setting forth "that on the flag staff of the venerable fortress large numbers of emigrants destined to our shores catch their first view of the American flag." Mr. Hale must imagine that the people of the Dominion are annexationists, and that "Nova Scotians" as he calls the Canadians see through his spectacles.

The Hon. S. L. Tilley and Mrs. Tilley returned on Saturday last from their trip to Prince Edward Island.

The Hon. Dr. Tupper and Mrs. Tupper also returned last evening.

THE GERISH CABINET ORGAN, with Imperial Case, and flexible rolling cover, is very highly commended by the Press of the United States, and also by persons of undoubted integrity, who speak from actual knowledge. It is manufactured in eight different styles in the best and most finished manner, by W. H. Gerish, 1758 Washington Street, Boston.

NEW PUBLISHING FIRM.—The Hon. E. Willis has taken into partnership with him Mr. J. A. S. MOTT, who, for many years was cashier in the "Daily News." The firm is now Willis & Mott. We have known Mr. Mott for several years, and have invariably found him attentive, polite and obliging. We wish the new firm abundant prosperity.

The weather for the past week was unusually warm, and all that could be desired for haymaking. The crop we learn is abundant. The refreshing rain of Sunday last was of immense service to the growing crops.

Every reader of the ALDINE for August is sure to be charmed with its beautiful and seasonable illustrations, as well as pleased with its fresh and piquant literary contents. A magnificent full page marine view opens the number from the pencil of M. F. H. de Haas, N. A., one of our great painters of water scenes. It is a truthful sketch of what may be seen almost any day on Long Island Sound.

Mr. F. T. Vance, who has made the region a study, contributes a series of original pictures of the grand Adirondack mountains and lakes, which are very timely, as that region is now full of pleasure seekers. There is a page picture of "Lake Colden," remarkable for its lights and shadows, depth and feeling; one of "Avalanche Lake;" another of "Clamity Pond Brook;" and a charming one of "Flume Falls of the Opalescence"—four as fine views from the proposed great National Park, as ever appeared in an Art Journal. A tender and eloquent full page picture illustrates a poem "A Good Dog." The remaining illustrations, all fine works of art, are "Gloria Deer," by Specht; "The Expedition," after Herpfer; "Vot Do-sh You Peddles?" a humorous sketch by W. M. Cary; "Shoo Fly;"

and "Picking Flowers." The literary contents of the ALDINE keep pace with its general art, and are this month unusually interesting. There are two delightful stories: The Crowa Re-quiem, by Eckmann Chatrian, and a Graven Image, by Clara F. Guernsey. The miscellaneous articles are instructive, amusing and interesting. Subscription price $5, in advance. The ALDINE is published by Messrs. James Garton & Co., publishers, 58 Maiden Lane.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE for August contains contributions from several of the leading writers in the States, and is illustrated with eighty eight fine similes of the overworking of little children in New York city. The illustrations are beautiful and characteristic.

A comprehensive paper is contributed on "The Telegraph," covering every phase of the subject, and illustrated with forty engravings. Among the illustrations are representations of pictures and autographs transmitted by means of the telegraph.

Among the contributions are Clara Reader's serial, "A Simploton," several chapters of which have appeared in previous issues. The Easy Chair and other editorial departments, are as usual, teeming with information, useful, instructive, suggestive and entertaining.

The late L. Donaldson, Esq., bequeathed $6,000 for charitable purposes connected with the St. Andrews Society, of St. John.

England, Russia and Denmark.

The royal families of England, Denmark and Russia are married and given in marriage at a remarkable rate, and the leading members of these reigning families have been placed on the most kindly footing. The heirs apparent to the British and Russian Thrones are brothers-in-law; for the Prince of Wales and the Czar's eldest daughter, the Princess Alexandra and the Princess Dagmar, of Denmark. The Princess Royal of England, is the wife of the Crown Prince of Germany, first cousin of the Czar. And now the Queen's second son, Prince Alfred, Duke of Edinburgh, is about to marry the Czar's only daughter. All this would seem to indicate that a very kindly feeling subsists between the Royal Houses of England and Russia, and that England and Russia are likely to remain long on good terms with each other.

The Queen and the Czar, there is reason to believe, hold each other in the highest respect, and they have undoubtedly wisely ruled their respective nations. The Queen is undoubtedly the best constitutional Sovereign that ever occupied the English throne. The Czar is one of the most beneficent despots that ever swayed a sceptre, and he has conferred benefits of incalculable value on the Russian people. The entrance of the Danish sisters into the family of the Queen and Czar will tend to strengthen the ties founded on mutual respect, previously existing between these high personages.

These Danish Princesses were two of the prettiest girls in Europe, and are, it is said, as good as they are beautiful. One of them, the Princess of Wales, is a great favourite of the British people. Quickly after her arrival in England, she won the respect and affection of the nation, and has retained both ever since. The two sisters resemble each other. Their influence on the families with which, by marriage, they have been connected, cannot but be in the direction of the maintenance between them of amicable relations.

SUMMARY.

WHAT IS THOUGHT OF SIR HUGH ALLAN IN CANADA.—When his late affidavit was published Mr. Holton said he always knew Sir Hugh to be the greatest liar in Canada, but he didn't know before he would swear to his lies. Is Mr. Holton's estimate of the man to be proved correct?—[St. John Tribune.]

PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION at Fredericton takes place on the 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th of October. The building is being repainted, etc.

ALBERT ELECTION.—The following are a few of the prospective candidates:—John A. Lawrence, Esq., of Moncton, Martin B. Palmer, Capt. John Calhoun, Chipman Bishop, Dr. Lewis, Dr. O. R. Moore; C. A. Peck, Esq., and John Duffy.

There is no Cholera in Boston.

On (Sunday), a number of men in an establishment near the Toll Bridge were carelessly handling a gun, without knowing that it was heavily charged with duck shot. The gun was snuffed, and the contents lodged in one of the knee caps of a man from Calais named Whalen. The knee was seriously shattered. [Daily News.]

On Saturday evening, Alley Lodge of Freemasons at Baring was visited by Grand Master Ellis, accompanied by the Deputy Grand Master and other officers of the Grand Lodge. It is said the attendance was large and the visit a most satisfactory one.

Two men who committed some robberies at New London, Wisconsin, were caught at Shawano Thursday night. A vigilance committee of sixty took them from the sheriff, put a noose around their necks and hung them till they confessed where the stolen property was secreted.

The reason why cholera was not sooner arrested in Memphis was, perhaps, because the police hadn't been paid for five months.

The cost of the equipment of Massachusetts' railroads varies as to style and quality from less than $3,000 per mile, the lowest, to $18,425 per mile for the Eastern railroad, which stands highest on the list. Train brakes, Miller platforms, etc., are costly, but the public demand them, and their use involves economy in the last resort.

At the Penobscot Exchange in Bangor, old fashioned baked Indian pudding is the Sunday standard, and for convenience it appears on the bill of fare as "Baked Indian." One of the waiters was considerably startled Sunday to hear a stranger call for a "baked Modoc."

It is said that the contract between the Eastern and Maine Central combination, and the consolidated European and North American Railway was signed in Bangor Thursday.

Customs Department, Ottawa, 27th June, 1873.

SIR.—I have in command to call your attention to the following sections of the Act, respecting the admission of the Colony of Prince Edward Island, as a Province of the Dominion:—
Section 3.—If after the admission of Prince Edward Island into the Dominion, there be brought from it into any other Province of Canada, any article of commerce not being the produce of the Island or of Canada, and liable to any duty of Customs when imported into Canada from any foreign country, or any such article produced in the Island and liable to a duty of Excise if produced in Canada for consumption therein, then if such Canadian duty of Customs or Excise be greater than the duty of Customs or Excise paid on such article in the Island, the difference between the Canadian duty and the duty paid in the Island, shall be payable on such article when brought from the Island into any other Province of Canada, and such difference shall be collected under such regulations as the Governor in Council may from time to time make in that behalf; and any such difference of duty payable under this section, shall be a duty of Customs within the meaning of the Act respecting the Customs hereby extended to the said Island at the provisions whereof (including those respecting warehousing) and the penalties for contravention of such provisions, shall apply to such difference of duty.
Section 4 limits the operation of the above Section, to "the end of the next Session of the Parliament of Canada, and no longer."
As no Order in Council has yet passed for regulating the procedure of the Customs in collecting the difference of duty in the cases mentioned, I have to request you to carefully to examine such dutiable goods as may be brought to your post from the Island, and to inform you of the actual rate of duty paid thereon, and of the difference between the rate so paid, and the rate per Dominion Tariff, and upon the face of each entry to show the full original value of the goods, the rate and amount of duty paid, the rate and amount of duty under the Dominion Tariff, and the difference to be collected, and all such transactions are to be accounted for in your statistical books and returns, separately from the general specifications of imports.
If the goods brought to your post are the produce of the Island, and subject to duties of excise, the difference to be collected will be between the excise duty paid, and the excise duty of the Dominion; but in all cases the amount so collected is to be treated by you as an import duty of Customs.
The Act, and these instructions are enforced from and after the date which may be assigned for the admission of the Island to the Dominion by proclamation of Her Majesty the Queen.
I am, Sir,
Your obedient servant,
J. JOHNSON,
Assistant Commissioner of Customs,
To the Collector of Customs Port of Chagneton,
July 7, 1873.

Whisper softly, Mother's Dying.

Whisper softly, mother's dying,
Soon she'll close her loving eyes,
Angels wait to bear her gently,
To the home beyond the skies;
Kiss her lips, for soon she'll leave us;
Mother, clasp us to your breast,
As you did in days of childhood,
When you sang your child to rest.

Whisper softly, mother's dying,
Soon we'll miss the truest love,
And we'll miss the voice so loving,
When her spirit's flown above,
Mother, ask the shining angels,
Ask them if you cannot stay,
Who will care for us in sorrow?
When they've taken you away.

Whisper softly, mother's dying,
And she tells us not to weep,
She will watch o'er and protect us
Till the night when we're asleep;
Darling mother guide our footsteps,
Be with us from day to day,
Hark! the angels now are calling—
Mother dear has passed away.

A Tabernacle, whose adorable backed out after the minister got to the house, not being of the chicken-hearted kind, calmly turned to the assembled ladies, and said, "if there's another girl here that'll occupy this vacant situation, I'm her'n," whereupon the sister of the false-hearted one exclaimed, "Count me in, I aren't afraid," and the ceremony was performed, to the delight of all parties.

A grocer had a pound of sugar returned, with a note saying: "Too much sand for table use, and not enough for boiling purposes."

Why the Valve Jar is Superior to all Others for Preserving Fruit.

1. Because it is the only one in which the contents can be securely fastened, and cooked while thus fastened, without risk of an explosion.
2. It is the only one that is automatically sealed, therefore, the only non-sealing jar in the market.
3. It is so simple that no skill is required to use it successfully.
4. It is securely fastened when placed in the kettle, and being immersed, the fragrance of the contents is confined in the Jar, a more perfect vacuum produced and the handling of the jar is entirely avoided.
5. It is well known that fruit jars which are closed with rigid fastenings burst by expansion, and the effect upon the cost and surrounding well understood by many householders.
The cover of the Valve Jar is a perfect safety valve makes an explosion impossible, and entirely obviates every difficulty that exists in other fastenings.
