BRUCE PRESBYTERIAL

CONVENED AT TIVERTON

Fourteen Branches Were Well Represented at the Annual Meeting.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Paisley, Sept. 18.—The twenty-sixth annual meeting of the Bruce Presbyterian W. F. M. S., held in Tiverton Presbyterian Church, was largely attended. The fourteen auxiliaries of the presbytery were well represented. The president, Mrs. Norman Robertson, was in charge, and was assisted in the opening exercises by Miss Mason, of Pinkerton, and Mrs. McNabb, of Underwood.

A special hymn was sung for two lady missionaries who recently went from the presbytery to Honan, China. The president's address was a review of the year's work, and the responsibility of every member.

The secretary, Mrs. Ferguson, of Chesley, read a very encouraging report on the progress and work of the year.

The treasurer, Mrs. Dougherty, of Port Elgin, reported receipts totalling $1,151.99 for the year. Mission Band secretary, Miss Scott, of Paisley, collections, $134.

Mrs. McLennan, of Tiverton, gave the address of welcome, which was replied to by Mrs. George Grant, of Paisley.

Dedication prayer was offered by Mrs. Wilson, of Walkerton, and a solo was rendered most acceptably by Mrs. McLaren, of Tiverton.

Mrs. McClure, who has been for 30 years a missionary in China, gave a splendid address on present-day China, touching on the boundaries of that great empire, customs and habits of the people, and the great change for the better now coming when it was 30 years ago, and what the Gospel is doing in Honan.

Rev. Dr. McLennan, of Tiverton, presided at the evening meeting. Dinner and tea was provided for delegates. Tiverton Auxiliary in the section-room of the church.

Chesley was chosen as next place of meeting.

The officers were all re-elected until expiring term next spring, when the annual organization takes place, amalgamating home and foreign mission societies.

Stratford Brakeman Had Arm Cut Off

Guelph, Sept. 17.—James Whale, of Stratford, a Grand Trunk brakeman, was the unfortunate victim of an accident today, while working on a freight train near Acton. The train was doing some shunting, and Whale in some manner missed his footing or stumbled and fell in front of a car. He scrambled off the track as best he could, but his right arm was caught and cut off close to the shoulder. He was given first aid and later removed to the Guelph General Hospital, where an operation was performed on him, and he is doing as well as can be expected, although not yet out of danger.

Kincardine Grocers Have New Delivery

[Special to The Advertiser.] Kincardine, Sept. 18.—The grocers of Kincardine held a meeting in the council chamber yesterday and agreed to appoint Charles Wilson to deliver the groceries to their respective customers.

This action was decided upon as a result of Wm. Haldonby withdrawing from the union of grocers, which employ a special man to deliver their goods.

An assault case resulted incidentally, and was before Magistrates Barker and MacKenzie.

Decision was given against Charles Wilson for assault. He was ordered to pay $1.

The Grocers' Union requires $4.50 a week from each grocer to pay the deliverer, and it has been found that there was no protection, inasmuch as anyone could withdraw at a week's notice, whilst the agreement was supposed to be from year to year.

The agreement is now binding for a year.

ROBBERS GOT $2,000.

[Canadian Press.] Chicago, Sept. 17.—Four masked robbers forced an entrance to the delivery station of Mandel Brothers at 255 West Van Buren street today, shot and killed Michael Waschuk, a stableman, beat and bound three other employees, then broke open the safe and escaped with $2,000.

REDUCE STEEL BEAMS.

[Canadian Press.] Breslau, Germany, Sept. 17.—The German Steel Works Association today decided to reduce the price for steel beams and half-finished steel products by approximately $1.25 per ton for the last quarter of the year.

AMUSEMENTS

Maude Adams in Her Most Famous Success.

There were signs of activity around the box office of the Grand Opera House today when the management of the house placed on sale the seats for the appearance of Maude Adams in Barrie's "Peter Pan" on Saturday, matinee and night.

There have been so many inquiries regarding the coming of the actress that the sale is expected to be heavy. Miss Adams' tour in the Barrie play has thus far been in the nature of one big triumph. In all of the cities in which she has appeared she has been greeted by audiences limited only by the capacities of the theatres in which she has been seen. The audience that will view both play and player here is certain to be a brilliant one. At Montreal last week she played to record business, turning people away at nearly every performance, and breaking the record of the house for one week's business. It is to be hoped she will meet with the same warm welcome here which she so well deserves.

Mrs. Fiske in "The High Road."

The complete company which appears in support of Mrs. Fiske in "The High Road," which she is to present in London at the Grand Opera House Tuesday evening, Sept. 23, includes Arthur Byron, Eugene Ormande, Kenneth Hunter, Aldrich Bowker, Harry J. Holliday, Fitchell Daingerfield, Richard Hale, Fleming Ward, George Fearing, Charles Burleigh and Nina Melville. The play covers a span of 23 years, depicting the epoch-making periods in the life of the principal character, Mary Page, during that time.

"The Garden of Allah," most resplendent of all dramas, will be the attraction at the Grand Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and matinee, Sept. 25, 26 and 27. Nothing finer has been staged than this romance of North Africa, with its story of the lost soul, the monk, who in his search for happiness grasps at the shadow even though it be a love stronger than death, a marriage with the object of his affection and a happy father. The monk discovers that in renouncing his faith he has lost his soul, only recovered when Domini, his wife, compels him to make his peace with God. Domini could love enough to make a noble sacrifice. The desert, where people may lie to one another, but where one will not lie to himself and to God, constantly stretched before her, and while she found in her greatest happiness, she also found there her greatest sorrow. Boris, the monk, her soulmate, had committed a great wrong, and he must pay for it. Domini, whose love for him was great, must do more than have him with her; he belonged to himself, and the passage which has become a commonplace, "my life is mine to live as I see fit," takes on a great meaning. Domini's play, if nothing more, that it cannot be said of his life, or of other lives for that matter, that they are controlled by past and future, as well as by the present.

"But you have taken an oath," says his brother.

"I renounce that oath," says Boris weakly, although he is the man who in matters of love has been passionately violent. The sun has warmed him to eloquent expression, and the sun has warmed Domini and bathed her soul in the peace which only dwellers under the sun may know.

The cast presenting the play is one of the most important features in the success of the spectacle. Sarah Truax, Lawson Butt and John Reid are excellent in the three leading roles, while the rest of the cast, including Edwin Bratt, Frank Kingston and Florence Lester, leaves nothing to be desired. Seat sale opens Monday at 9 a.m. No phone orders will be taken.

The "Imperial Oxford" Range

MAKES COOKING A PLEASURE

This member of the Gurney-Oxford family is a model of perfection. Not only a perfect cooking range, but an ornament to the kitchen. The shining nickel plate, which will not tarnish, and can be lifted and polished, keeps it ever new.

THE "ECONOMIZER" is a feature not found on any other range sold in Canada. Notice the little lever, which regulates the heat in the oven to any degree you desire by simply raising or lowering, and is guaranteed to actually save you a ton of coal in every six if consistently used. By this simple device the temperature may be changed as desired, while the divided flue distributes the heat evenly throughout the oven. The Economizer is easily controlled by a little lever working upon six notches.

We invite you to inspect the new models. Stoves exhibited at fair may now be seen in department, third floor. Ask for catalogue explaining all special features of the new Gurney-Oxford Ranges, and get prices in Furniture Section, Third Floor.

No Other Way

BY GORDON HOLMES.

Author of "A Mysterious Disappearance,"
"The House of Silence," Etc.

Mrs. Delamar whispered something when Waverton was speaking, and presumably her communication accounted for the lawyer's next question.

"Did you fail to remember the name of your valet, Rice, when you were brought to Asphodel House after the accident?"

"I really cannot tell you," said Waverton coolly.

"Is the incident already buried in oblivion?"

"It is, if it happened; though I should be slow to believe that I had forgotten Rice's existence, for never was there a more faithful and devoted servant and friend than Rice had been when he was alive."

Trainer looked puzzled, as well he might be, and seemingly disregarded a second suggestion made by Mrs. Delamar. "What doctors have you consulted, Mr. Waverton?" he inquired.

The witness gave the names of three eminent surgeons, and Trainer sat down. Mrs. Delamar was anxious to discuss matters with him at once, but he was emphatic in his refusal to attend then to anything beyond the exigencies of the moment, because a discussion of the case would be a waste of time.

Forbes could not give a positive undertaking on that score, and Trainer pressed for an immediate verdict of suicide.

It soon became clear, however, that the coroner was opposed to any verdict that positively committed him to a precise finding, and the verdict ultimately took an unprecipitated shape. That the verdict was the effect of poison; but whether by his own act or by the act of some other person or persons there is not sufficient evidence to determine.

This was what is known as an "open" verdict. In other words, it left the court from frequent and perhaps useless adjournments, while it left the authorities free to pursue their investigation and take any subsequent steps they might deem necessary by proceedings before a magistrate.

Though Mrs. Delamar might well lay to heart the philosophy underlying the proverb, "Never believe till you are out of the wood," she had some reason to be satisfied with the turn of events. Notwithstanding the disastrous blow struck at her fellow-plotters' matrimonial scheme where Lord Waverton was concerned, she personally had almost escaped from a very serious dilemma. It was quite obvious that had she deviated by a hair's breadth from the facts known to the police, there was in waiting a whole host of evidence to disprove her statements. In that case, not only would the inquiry have been adjourned, but there would have been a probability that instead of driving off to apartments in a comfortable hotel, she might now be in an inmate of a cell in the police station house.

It was a curiously disquieting thought, and any woman might be pardoned if she dwelt on it to the exclusion of all else. But Mrs. Delamar swept it aside with the first breath of fresh air after she had signed her deposition, had fixed an hour for Trainer to call, and was free to get away from the vitiated atmosphere of the court. In very truth, her soul was wrapped up in a discovery that was almost stupifying. The Claude Waverton she gave testimony at the inquest was not the Claude Waverton she had wheeled from a suburban house where Lord Waverton was a shrewd judge of character.

She was quite certain that she could never have known this later Claude Waverton into her toils, and for that reason she would never have tried to achieve the impossible task. It was inconceivable that a rap on the head could convert a profligate into a man of fine instincts, a rake into a quiet-mannered gentleman, a brainless sot into an individuality of such strength that it dominated men like the district attorney, the coroner, and those preternaturally alert and sharp-eyed detectives.

Granted even these marvels might be accomplished, they did not account for the undoubted fact that Claude Waverton, the gambler and drunkard, spoke Spanish so badly that he was barely able to stammer through an order to a peon or a transition in a conversation with a "double." Moreover, he himself was aware of this distinction between the linguistic attainments of the one man and the other, and instantly she asked, with growing amazement, why he had dared to emphasize it in public.

Who was he, then? How had he attained such close knowledge of Waverton's history and associates as to step coolly into his shoes? Was he the man supposed to have been killed on the highway road? Was it possible that she could have been mistaken in his identity? She saw now that this astonishing discovery was possible. He had been carried to her house, a limp and pallid form, his face disfigured and his hair matted with congealed blood. Strange doctors and nurses had taken charge of him, and when she was first admitted to the room his head was swathed in bandages and his hair had been cropped closely to permit of the scalp wounds being dressed. She had, moreover, how like he was to the real Claude Waverton!

Mrs. Delamar's next thought was worthy of a woman who had contrived to live on her wits during the last few years. If the present Claude Waverton was an impostor, how could she best turn the discovery to her own advantage? And did she share the secret with any other person? Was there not a good deal of veiled innuendo in the curiously hostile attitude adopted by the district attorney, and why had New York interfered in a New Jersey inquiry? She, in common with most people in court, had wondered why Lord Waverton had no questions to put to Waverton; but, on the supposition that the authorities were on the same track as herself, it was easy to see that they were only holding their hands now in order to strike with irresistible force later. What they did not know they guessed, and they were waiting until supposition became certainty before they acted.

Then the notion came that she, as an ally, would be of immense value to a man in Waverton's place if called on to fight for the retention of name and estate. She smiled a little at that conception of a new role. Every adventurist must occasionally be candid with herself, whether she is consulting a mirror or her conscience, and Mrs. Delamar frankly admitted that she had grown rather tired of her domestic life since the day in Palm Beach when he was able to leave his room and calmly announce his intentions—that he meant to go forth with to a hotel, and that she must regard the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars won at Schwarz's gambling house as his farewell token of esteem.

True, she had tried to persuade herself that she would win him back as soon as his health was restored, and she encouraged her ambitions with regard to Lord Waverton as supplying a final cause of estrangement between husband and wife. But there ever had peeped up in her mind a lurking fear lest her plans might miscarry because of some new and unforeseen development in Waverton himself. Now she had learned the suspected genesis of her doubt. Never again would she distrust her intuition.

It was, perhaps, the strangest feature in a strange case that two women, one a charming and modest woman to her finger tips, the other a true daughter of the horse leech, who had willingly bartered her reputation for the doubtful gifts of fashion, should perceive and be swayed by the finer qualities of heart and brain displayed by the present holder of the name of Waverton as compared with his predecessor.

If Mrs. Delamar's suspicions were well founded, she hardly knew the man at all, and had not spoken to him on more than three occasions in her life; yet now she was weighing the chances that would make her legally his wife, insure for her the recognized position she coveted, and confirm for all time an audacious and almost unprecedented fraud.

MANY FEAR SWINDLE IN MONTREAL BUILDING FIRM

Sums Up To $120,000 Have Disappeared Very Suddenly.

[Canadian Press.]

Montreal, Sept. 18.—Sums variously estimated at from $60,000 to more than double that amount have disappeared from the Montreal building firm, well known in money circles, may yet be involved; the British Building Company (until last April known as the British Construction Company), with offices at 238 St. James street, has gone out of business, and the president and treasurer, both companies, Elijah Jones, is sought by the police.

The secretary of the company, D. E. Anthony, is in prison, remanded at the request of the court on a charge of false pretenses. He is said to have been in the company's office at 238 St. James street, who says he is out nearly $5,000.

The British Construction Company has been out of the Montreal business world about a year and a half ago, and advertised extensively that it would build houses on the installment plan for those who desired to own their own homes.

Alarming advertisements and circulars showed how the investor could pay for the house almost as he pleased, and the company would shoulder all the burden of the affair, financially and architecturally.

The plans by which many appear to have been misled seem to be two in number, at least, though the whole affair is very involved, and even the police and provincial officials have not yet managed to untangle the involved threads. One scheme involved taking a cash advance from a man who wanted to build, and by various excuses put him off and off with spurious promises.

The other scheme involved taking a cash advance from a man who wanted to build, and by various excuses put him off and off with spurious promises.

Seek Owner for Carrier Pigeon

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Duart, Sept. 18.—A fine specimen of the homing pigeon variety flew into the fish-house at the Cleaville station, and was captured by a fisherman. The bird is of a very dark blue color, and bears on the ring attached to its leg, the inscription, "P. C. 379, 1913." Careful search revealed nothing in the shape of a message to make known the owner.

LOST $200,000.

Big Steamship Line Was Swindled by Employment Agency.

[Canadian Press.]

Hamburg, Sept. 18.—The Hamburg-South America Steamship Company has been swindled out of $200,000, according to the officials, by employment agents, who hired stevedores for the company and systematically made returns for a larger number of men than actually worked. Two of the agents have been arrested, and it is said that some of the employees of the company are involved, having acted in collusion with the agents.

To Renew Complexion Without Cosmetics

[From the Dermatologist.]

If the excessive use of cosmetics only knew the impression her artificiality really makes upon others, she would quickly seek means of getting a natural complexion. Let her acquire the mercurized wax habit, discarding make-ups entirely, and she will soon have the kind of complexion that women envy and men admire. It is so easy to get an ounce of mercurized wax at any drug store, use nightly like cold cream, and wash it off mornings. And the results are so remarkable. Gradually the lifeless cuticle peels off, in almost invisible flakes. In a week or so there's a brand new complexion, clear, velvety-soft, of girlish color and texture. The treatment is so simple, harmless and marvellously effective, the wonder is that every woman whose skin is withered, discolored, rough, chapped, freckled or pimply, has not already adopted it.

Let wrinkled women quit pastes and massage creams, which mar the skin still more, and try this more sensible treatment: Dissolve one ounce powdered sassafras in half pint witch hazel; use as a face bath. Every line will quickly disappear.

SUFFERED AWFUL PAINS

For Sixteen Years. Restored
To Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Moretown, Vermont.—"I was troubled with pains and irregularities for sixteen years, and was thin, weak and nervous. When I would lie down it would seem as if I was going right down into some dark hole, and the window curtains had faces that would peek out at me, and when I was out of doors it would seem as if something was going to happen. My blood was poor, my circulation was so bad I would be like a dead person at times. I had female weakness badly, my abdomen was sore and I had awful pains.

"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used the Sanative Wash and they certainly did wonders for me. My troubles disappeared and I am able to work hard every day."—Mrs. W. F. SAWYER, River View Farm, Moretown, Vermont.

Another Case.

Gifford, Iowa.—"I was troubled with female weakness, also with displacement. I had very severe and steady headache, also pain in back and was very thin and tired all the time. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I am cured of these troubles. I cannot praise your medicine too highly."—Mrs. LNA MILLER, Gifford, Iowa.

Mrs. Pankhurst To Sail October 11

[Canadian Press.]

Paris, Sept. 16.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, leader of the British militant suffragettes, in a statement here, says that she will "positively sail for America on Oct. 11." She added that she had already booked passage.

"I do not believe the American immigration authorities will detain me, and certainly not for long," she continued. "I am not the least afraid of deportation and will not resort to any subterfuge to gain admission to the country."

"I will sail under my own name and am convinced I will receive fair play. As soon as I finish my lectures in America I shall return to England to resume my work."

BUSINESS AND LOYALTY.

The members of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association need not be accused of lukewarmness toward British connection if they do not welcome the grain growers' proposal of free trade with Great Britain on the instalment plan.

Loyalty is not involved in the tariff. Politicians pretend that it is when they have an axe to grind, but the manufacturers unmask this pretence when they approach the question of the British preference. The retiring president of the Manufacturers' Association, Mr. R. S. Gourlay, frankly demands an increase of the duty on British woollens, and the whole machinery of the organization will probably be directed to that end. A few years ago the association launched a formidable propaganda for more protection, including a higher range of duties against British imports. The Laurier Government stood firm, but the members of the association hope to do better with the present Administration, which is greatly in their debt.

We repeat that no question of loyalty is involved in this attitude. But many who would be insulted by the suggestion that they were lacking in imperialistic sentiment because they wished to raise the duty on British imports, industriously waved the flag and beat the drum when there was a proposal to cut down the duties on American imports in order to give Canadian producers the benefit of a duty-free American market. They regard the tariff as a purely business question when they are looking for more protection against British competitors, but immediately it becomes a sentimental one when the boot is on the other foot.

If there is no disloyalty in asking for more taxes on British woollens, there is no disloyalty in asking for higher taxes on foodstuffs imported from the United States. If there is no attack on British connection when the Canadian manufacturers demand a larger share of the home market by the exclusion of British goods, there is nothing anti-British in giving the Canadian farmers a larger share of the American market.

HOW DO THEY LIKE IT?

When certain Conservative journals say that the new American tariff will give Canada the benefits of reciprocity without any sacrifice on her part, they destroy their own campaign arguments.

They built their case against reciprocity, from an economic standpoint, on the assumption that the American market offered us no advantages. Canadian farmers were told that because the United States produced and exported grain, cattle, fruit, vegetables, and dairy products, there could be no profitable sale of these things to that country. This theory, which ignored the fact that commerce is between individuals, not nations, is about to be put to an immediate test. It will be instructive to watch the trade returns. Whatever these may be, our Conservative friends will pretend to find a vindication of their policy. If there is no marked increase in the Canadian exports to the United States, there will be a triumphant chorus of "I told you so's." On the other hand, any stimulation of exports will be set to the credit of the Borden Government, and we shall hear much of the marvellous presence of the Conservative leaders. We shall be told that they foresaw the reduction of the American tariff by which Canada would get for nothing what the Liberals were prepared to buy by the sacrifice of their country.

But Canada will derive from the new arrangement much less than the agreement of 1911 offered her. Reciprocity would have given us exclusive privileges in the American market, but now we must share it with all the food-producing countries of the world. Furthermore, Canadian horses, wheat, oats, barley, butter, cheese, hay, fruit, and poultry must still pay toll at the border, though less than at present. However, there will be free entry for a wide range of foodstuffs—cattle, sheep, swine, wool, milk, cream, and eggs—and Canada will also retain the advantage of contiguity. Undoubtedly the current of trade southward will swell at once. But this is the very danger which the opponents of reciprocity professed to see. In one breath they decry the American market; in the next they argue that its attraction would be so great as to effect revolutionary economic changes, which would have political results fatal to Canadian independence and Imperial unity. They are trapped by their own logic, or want of logic, for Canada is now face to face with the peril from which they claimed to save her. How do loyal Conservatives like this implication of their own teaching: that the destiny of the country is in the hands of Congress? According to their own campaign cry, when President Wilson signs the tariff bill he erases the boundary line by a stroke of the pen.

MR. BORDEN AT HALIFAX.

Mr. Borden, in his speech at Halifax, dismissed the navy issue with a few sentences, as cryptic as usual. "Our policy," he says, "is not a policy of contribution." Then what is it? It is "a policy of co-operation." Mr. Borden adds, "under such conditions that Canada's control of the three ships is absolutely unfettered."

This statement conveys nothing. The only conceivable alternative to contribution is the Canadian navy policy which Mr. Borden has expressly repudiated. The gulf between the two is too wide to be bridged. Mr. Borden told the House of Commons an effective Canadian naval service could not be built up in 50 years, and would be too costly. This disparagement of Canada's resources and ingenuity is the only positive declaration Mr. Borden has made as to the future course of the Government. It was made to reassure his Nationalist allies. The Nationalists prefer the contribution of Canadian money to the contribution of their anti-Laurier campaign, they dare not face their constituents on a Canadian navy platform.

Here is the key to Mr. Borden's vacillations.

The Ontario Government is giving the bilingual question a bifacial treatment.

The farmers of East Middlesex are surely too intelligent to look at public affairs through a glass, darkly.

No matter what the fruit and vegetable crops are, the canners' combine always comes out ahead of the game.

The school teacher in the White House wields his rod more effectively over Congress than did Roosevelt with the big stick.

The East Middlesex campaign is about to begin. Hon. Bob Rogers having been invited to the riding to start the bar! rolling.

Our local contemporary complains that the western grain-growers are ingrained partisans. Nothing shocks our contemporary so much as partisanship.

There is to be a social survey of this city. It may convince some good people who wear blinders that there is a social problem which needed surveying.

Now the women of Holland demand the ballot. There is pictorial evidence that the Dutch housewives are quite capable of mopping the floor with the men if they don't get what they want.

NOT A CASUS BELLI.

[New York Sun.]

However, the United States and Great Britain can't very well go to war over Harry Thaw.

SHOULD BE GOOD AT THAT.

[Boston Transcript.]

Warden (to new prisoner)—What work can you do? What was your occupation?

Prisoner—I was a cellist in an orchestra.

Warden—Well, then, we'll set you to work sawing wood.

RECOGNIZED HIM.

[Houston Post.]

"I saw my boyhood chum today, the one that has become a millionaire."

"Did he recognize you?"

"I guess so. He turned a corner when he saw me coming."

FAVORITE FICTION.

[Chicago Tribune.]

"Is Dr. Rybold in the audience? He is. Wanted immediately."

"By Request Miss Powder Will Now Favor the Company With an Instrumental Solo."

"Gentlemen, I have the Pleasure of introducing the Hon. John Smith, the People's Choice for Next Governor."

"I Smoke Occasionally, Doctor, But Never to Excess."

"Gentlemen of the Jury, I have Perfect Confidence That Your Verdict Will Be in Accordance With the Law and the Evidence."

"I Have the Best Husband in the World, But—"

"I Shall Occupy Your Attention Only a Few Moments."

THE MODERN POLONIUS.

[Louisville Courier-Journal.]

"My son, be polite until you have accumulated your first hundred thousand."

"Yes, dad."

"After that, the regulation thing is to be crisp and terse."

EXPLAINING HIS TASTE.

[Cleveland Plaindealer.]

"Binglewood has put that wild boy of his on a farm and the youngster writes home that he likes it."

"Likes it? Well, farming ain't what it used to be."

ADVERTISING PAYS 100 PER CENT.

[Kansas City Star.]

A Kansas man lost a $5 bill and advertised for it. In a day or two a man appeared in his office, saying that he had seen the advertisement, and handed him the bill. In a few days the Kansas man was going through his "other" clothes and found the original bill which he thought he had lost. Notwithstanding the fact that the events in this story may sound suspicious, the lesson is obvious.

GET AWAY TO A GOOD START.

[Anonymous.]

Be pleasant until 10 o'clock in the morning and the rest of the day will take care of itself.

CUSTER'S ENEMIES AS FARMERS.

[Springfield Republican.]

With the opening of the Fort Peck reservation in Montana this month the Sioux tribe that fought Custer will be come farmers. There are 1,500 of them and they are allowed 727,532 acres, or 100 acres each, if they all fertile; the whole man's share is 1,245,000 acres, making 3,495 farms of virgin land. During the last few years the Indians on the reservation have been making remarkable progress in agriculture, and the acreage under cultivation has doubled.

A BEETHOVEN SONATA.

[Thomas Mout in Fall Mail Gazette.]

Dark hair and soft as a raven's wing. Hiding her face.

And the shapely curve of her dear pale throat.

But I know as I watch her gliding hands.

Careless the keys.

Till her eyes are as a shore new-kissed.

By ebbing seas.

And I know while I sit in the firelit room.

Her wistful lips.

Are quivering in some beautiful dream.

As the music dips.

Like a lonely bird with a passionate heart.

And the summer gone.

And my heart is a lonely bird, as the tune.

Goes fluttering on.

WHAT'S THE ODDS?

[Chicago Tribune.]

There is continuity. Personality persists. So Oliver Lodge declares, and to many the thought will recur: What does it matter if, after death, the personality concerns itself with lost collar buttons and other trivialities of the previous existence? Better end it here than go trifling and puttering through eternity.

TWO VIEWS.

[London Standard.]

"You shouldn't be dissatisfied," said the Optimist, "Look at all you have."

"Yes," assented the Pessimist, "but look at all I haven't!"

REVELATIONS.

[Club Fellow.]

Ellis—This might be the Garden of Eden, from the paucity of costumes.

Bella—More like a page from the Book of Revelation.

HE SEEMS HUFFED.

[Ottawa Journal.]

If W. T. Jerome's reported remarks express what is in his mind, none of Canada's immigration officials will be invited to his next card party.

HIS FEAR.

[Indianapolis Star.]

"Are you afraid of an unloaded pistol?"

"No, but I am of a loaded motor car driver."

THE USUAL WAY.

[Rochester Herald.]

Americans are reluctant to leave Mexico. They, as is the habit of the innocent bystander, want to be on the spot when the thing blows up.

EASILY RECOGNIZED.

[Washington Star.]

"That man sitting in the back seat is the one who owns the automobile."

"Why, he is the only person in the party who doesn't seem to be having a good time."

"That's how I know. He's thinking about tires, gasoline and speed-limit lines."

A TEST OF CITIES.

[Chicago Tribune.]

Some persons, in fact, go so far as to insist that a city is no better than its garbage system.

"THE LADY OF OSTEND"

A MERRY PERFORMANCE

Sir Francis Burnand's Famous Farce Played at the Grand Wednesday Night.

If you were a newly-married man and momentarily straying from the straight and narrow path, made an appointment with a beautiful lady at a secluded spot on the beach, and having kept the appointment, kissed her rapturously, wouldn't it jar you, to put it crudely, if upon your return to the city, you discovered that the wretched situation had been "snapped" by the cinematograph man and transferred to the movies? And wouldn't you be further shocked when your wife and her mother recognized you, and the husband of the beautiful lady turned up a Goliath of a man with a Stone Age habit of tearing his enemies apart. Don't you think that these conditions would furnish some of the above is what happened to Dicky Whortles, around whose escapade swings the story of "The Lady of Ostend," presented at the Grand Wednesday night by Mr. Lawrence Brough and a company of English players.

A clever little play is this of Sir Francis Burnand, admirably acted. It races along at top speed from first to final curtain, and is one of the funniest farces that have been seen here in several seasons. The lines are bright, the story clean, the situations delightfully ridiculous, and for those who must have a moral lesson, the peril of a flirtation, however mild, are pointed out. Improbable, of course, the whole thing, but what does that matter in a farce?

There are two and a half hours crammed with capital fun, and if you are possessed of that unhappy combination, a weak heart and a capacity to laugh, you are liable to test Sir Oliver Lodge's theory of the continuity of existence after death.

"We Want Better Things Than We Used to Have," Declares Billie Burke, "Because We Have Gained in Knowledge"

A NEW AND HITHERTO UNPUBLISHED PICTURE OF MISS BILLIE BURKE.

[By Billie Burke.]
A man has written me a letter asking me to write against the universal extravagance of today.

We are the most extravagant people who ever have lived upon this earth, and the age we are living in represents the apex of expenditure, in brains, in time, in energy, in money and in desire.

Webster defines extravagance as "wandering beyond the proper limits," and right here is all the trouble; we do not know where to fix the "limits."

We are gaining a knowledge of what real living means faster than we acquire the reality. We are not satisfied with the simple necessities of life; indeed, things which were thought luxurious by our fathers and mothers have become necessities to us.

The man who longs for something outside the limits of his daily life and proceeds to get it is extravagant. He was satisfied with what he had until he knew better.

It has been said that the laborer wants the best out of beef; he wants his children to wear good clothes. This is natural. He has gained knowledge—he knows what these things mean. He knows they are good.

We insist upon having our milk brought to us in bottles that are hygienically treated and sealed, because we have learned that death lurks in the fifth which was accumulated by the old methods of distribution.

PROBLEMS OF THE FAIR SEX SOLVED BY CYNTHIA GREY

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies without a stated time. No letters can be answered privately.]

She Wears No. 13's.

Dear Miss Grey: I have read your interesting column ever since I was knee-high to a grasshopper, and hope to see my first letter to you in print soon.

1. Do you think 4 feet 10 inches is very tall for a girl of 13? All my friends think it is.

2. Is 105 pounds a good weight for me?

3. I have blue eyes and brown hair, a small nose a little on a tilt. Do you consider me pretty?

4. I take No. 13 shoes. Do you think I have a very large foot?

5. Am I far enough advanced in school, being in the senior fourth book?

6. How long should I wear my dresses?

Thanking you in advance for my taking up so much of your valuable space, I remain, yours sincerely,

SNORKIE OOKUMS.

A—1. Yes, I think that a very good height for you.

2. Rather light, isn't it?

3. My dear, if you told me that your house was painted green, and that you liked porridge for breakfast, I'd have been able to judge just about as clearly as from your description of yourself. Next time send me a photograph. Then I'll pass my opinion.

4. Why no, you take a very small shoe, I think.

5. Fairly well. Try, though, to pass the entrance before you are fifteen.

6. Three or four inches below the knee.

Kissing the Bride.

Dear Miss Grey: 1. At a wedding is it customary for all the guests to kiss the bride?

2. Do you think a blonde has a worse temper than a brunette?

I hope I have not bothered you too much. I am just 10, and I am writing for my big brother.

"OLD DUTCH."

A.1. Goodness, no! At least, I hope not, for the poor bride's sake. Only close relatives should do so, remaining guests must content themselves with a cordial handshake.

2. I do not think it makes the slightest difference, childie. I know some fair people who are exceedingly sweet-tempered, and also some brunettes for whom I can say the same. It just depends on the person, I think.

Rules for Manicuring.

Dear Miss Grey: Will you please publish directions for the manicuring of the nails, and your opinion of my writing? I am 15 years old. Yours very truly,

N. G.

A—1. First of all, scrub the nails thoroughly with a nail-brush, using a good soap and quite warm water. Dry the nails and the skin around them have become well softened, dry on a towel, and with an orangewood stick press back gently the scarf-skin around the base of the nail, taking care not to break the skin, or "hang-nails" will result. If you have been neglecting your nails this will probably have grown up considerably, and, if so, do not try to get it back into proper place at one treatment. Rub in a little cold cream and defer further pressure until the following day. Now trim the nails with the manicure scissors, smooth them with a fine emery board, dip again into warm water. Dry, and polish with a buffer, or in lieu of this, the back of an old suede glove or a piece of chamois. A little pink nail powder rubbed in with the buffer, or whatever you use as a polisher, helps to give a dainty lustre to the nails. This may sound like a very elaborate process, but after the nails are once in good shape it does not take long, in fact, only a few minutes each night or morning.

2. Your writing is very good, indeed. It is graceful, neat and easily read.

Doctors in Paris have begun a crusade against wearing veils, which they declare are perilous to health and mere receptacles for microbes.

In England, women are empowered by law to fill the positions of queen, marshal, champion of England, commissioner of sewers, governor of the workhouse, keeper of the prison gate, house of the dean and chapter of Westminster, sexton, returning officer, constable, and churchwarden of the poor. No woman, however, can be solicitor nor hold any other court position.

KATHERINE LESLIE'S HOME CHAT

THE ROOM, ITS HANGINGS AND CURTAINS.

This is a very good time to buy curtain material, crotonnes, chintzes and nets. They are all selling at ridiculously low figures and the wise woman who is shopping takes a moment to run through this department in the big shops. The other day I came across some really beautiful crotonnes selling at 14 cents which had been 40 cents! Of course, these were last year's patterns, but a good design and color in these materials is always a wise purchase. There are also many thin materials such as cheescloth in colors for the woman who has to pinch and save, and it is remarkable what can be done with a very little money in this line. Yellow cheescloth back curtains are most effective, and simply hanging from top to sill upon a brass rod, after being hemmed with a wide hem, they are quite charming with the light sifting through, giving a sunny effect to the room. Of course, yellow curtains may not be used in a red or pink room. It is well always to remember the coloring and general atmosphere of a room when buying hangings for windows or doors. I saw recently a pretty red and white room which cost next to nothing. The walls were washed a soft white, the bed was white and the furniture all white enameled wood. The low, wide window was framed by a short lambrequin of purple, red cotton, and by two straight widths hanging to the sill on each side; and cheescloth—soft white—was hemmed and run on rods across the glass. Some cushions of the Turkish red adorned the white chairs, and I noticed that the girl who invented this red and white for her room, had placed a small fish bowl of scarlet geraniums and green leaves on the white writing desk. She told me that the whole hangings and cushions had cost a little over $2! I complimented her upon her restraint in using the Turkish red, for the white prevailed and there was just enough of the red to take away the chill of an all-white room. A pretty red paper shade in form of a poppy shaded the electric bulb and gave a glow to the room at night. A note of black in the frames of a few little etchings with wide white mats was charming. I could not help thinking how very effectively some women work with so little money. While others who have much at their command so often fail when they undertake any such work as arranging a room. A room like this has to be to nothing. The walls were washed a soft white, the bed was white and the furniture all white enameled wood.

The Poet's Corner

ROCKED IN THE CRADLE OF THE DEEP.

Rocked in the cradle of the deep,
I lay me down in peace to sleep;
Secure I rest upon the waves,
For thou, O Lord, hast power to save.

I know thou wilt not slight my call,
For thou dost mark the sparrow's fall;
And calm and peaceful is my sleep,
Rocked in the cradle of the deep.

And such the trust that still were mine,
Though stormy winds swept o'er the brine,
Or though the tempest's fiery breath
Roused me from sleep to wreck and death.

In ocean's caves still safe with thee,
The germ of immortality;
And calm and peaceful is my sleep,
Rocked in the cradle of the deep.

—Emma Willard.

CHRIST IN THE UNIVERSE.

[By Alice Weyrell.]
Special interests attach to the writer of the following poem from the fact that her name was persistently mentioned some months ago in connection with the vacant poet-laureateship, previous to the appointment of Dr. Bridges:

With the ambiguous earth
His dealings have been told us; these abide;
The eternal to a maid, the human birth,
The lesson and the Young Man crucified.

But not a star of all
The unimaginable stars has heard
How he administered this terrestrial ball;
Our race have kept their Lord's entrusted word.

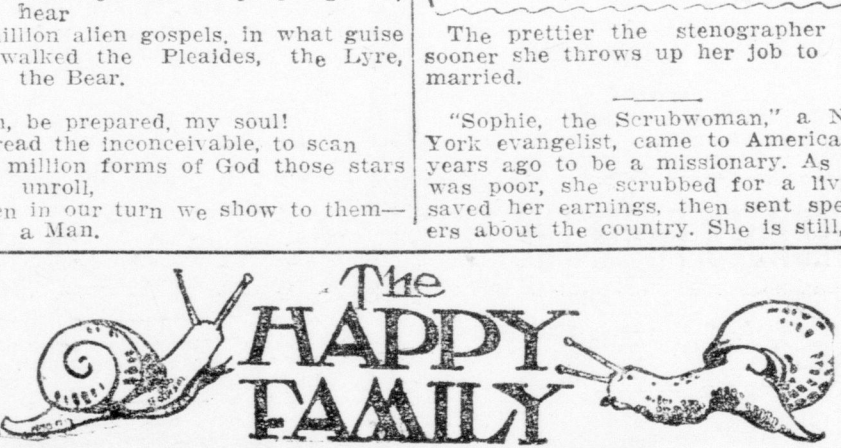

Of those earth-visiting feet
None knows the secret, cherished,
The terrible, shame-fast, frightened,
Heart-shattering secret of his way with us.

No planet knows that this,
Our planet, carrying land and wave,
Love and life multiplied, and pain and bliss,
Bears as chief treasure one forsaken grave.

Nor in our little day,
May his devices with the heavens be guessed,
His pilgrimages to thread the Milky Way,
Or his bestowals there be manifest.

But in the eternities,
Doubtless we shall compare together,
A million alien galaxies, in what guise
He walked the Pleiades, the Lyre, the Bear.

Oh, be prepared, my soul!
To read the inconceivable, to scan
The million forms of God those stars
When in our turn we show to them—
A Man.

AS TOLD BY AUNT GERTIE.

Chapter III.
"Pooh, pooh," said the daddy snail, with a shake of his shell.
"Hush, my dear," continued the mother snail. "A gooseberry bush is not so bad, and I must remind you that everyone cannot live in a burdock leaf grove."
"That is right. That is right," answered the old snail. "Well, I guess you may marry our son then."
With that brief announcement, the affair was settled for all time.
A few days later all the small living things of the burdock grove assembled under the big leaf where the happy snail family lived.
The parson frog arrived to read the wedding sermon!
Fireflies added their brilliance to the scene. The gnats were dressed in their best. It certainly was a gala event.
After the ceremony was over and everyone had gone home the old daddy snail went up to the newly wedded pair and said:
"Now, children, if you live peacefully you shall be given the chance to be carried up to the old mansion, cooked in the big kitchen and served on a silver platter and eaten by some great nobility."
"Better luck I cannot wish you, my dear children, for that is the most wonderful honor I know for a snail to experience."
After that little speech the two old snails went back into their shells and never came out again.
Their adopted son was provided for. There was nothing more for them to worry about. So they just slept forever.
What did the young snails do?
No one knows. But everybody believes they lived happy ever after under the burdock leaves!
[THE END.]

Needy Ones Looked After

By Y. W. C. T. U. Worker

Will Form Clubs For Self-Help—Visits to Shut-Ins Also Part of Mrs. Harrison's Labor of Love.

Up the back stairs of the neat W. C. T. U. rooms on Park avenue, climbed the Advertiser scribe yesterday morning (the front stairs were wet with fresh paint) and counted herself exceedingly fortunate in having a chat with Mrs. Harrison, the recently appointed worker of the Y. W. C. T. U., regarding her duties and plans for the coming months.

The engaging of Mrs. Harrison in this work is a new departure of the Y. W. C. T. U., a comparatively young society in this city, but already wonderful possibilities are opening up. "I have only been at my work for a couple of weeks, one may say," Mrs. Harrison told the scribe, tapping a little note-book which she held in her hand, "but already I have found plenty to do. There is more suffering and lack in London than some of us can credit, or care to think of."

"Our idea in starting this work is not so much to actually contribute money or clothing, although we desire to do that, too, when necessary, but to help others to help themselves. We wish to form small clubs for mothers, for instance a clothing club where they can deposit five cents or ten cents a week during the summer months towards the purchase of winter garments and bed-clothing. For it is only too true that the cold weather comes to some of the families that I visit, to find them totally unprepared. Many a woman who cannot take three or four dollars from the family income, for this purpose, could manage it nicely if she would set aside a little sum every week."

"Then we also have to have coal clubs. Our plan would be to buy pre-arranged a couple of tons of coal, and then the age of 60, an enthusiastic evangelist."

Four deaths and a case of insanity resulted from idle gossip in Warsaw, Poland. A young girl, told that her lover was to marry someone else, took poison. Her mother, from the shock, the lover shot himself. His mother, too, died of grief, while his father has become a maniac.

Although 86 years of age Mrs. Mary Scroggs, of Los Angeles, Cal., has just successfully completed a round-the-world trip, which required five months of almost constant travel.

Somebody is watching you. It is, therefore, best to be a good example, not the reverse.

How To Store Dahlia Bulbs

Though winter seems a long way off it will not come amiss to say something about storing the dahlias until planting time comes next year. The roots will not live if left in the ground all winter, though they need not be disturbed until the frosts have killed the foliage. The roots must be lifted carefully on a warm sunny day and allowed to dry on the ground until evening, when they should either be moved into a sheltered place or well covered with an old blanket. Uncover a week or ten days they can be placed in the cellar in boxes, and put in a place where the temperature is moderately even. It should never be lower than forty degrees nor rise above fifty. The roots must be watched carefully and if any show signs of decay the soft parts immediately cut out. They should also be guarded against rats as they are very tempt-

There is one home in London where cheese biscuits are so well liked the children are always begging for them. This is the way they are made:

Use the recipe for a good baking powder. Divide the dough into two parts. Roll it into sheets about one-fourth inch in thickness. Cover the one thickly with grated cheese, lay the other on top, cut into small blocks, sprinkle lightly with cheese and bake in a quick oven about twenty minutes. These should be eaten hot.

Line an earthen baking dish with thin slices of stale rye bread which has been well-buttered. Fill the dish with two cups of grated cheese, two cups of milk, one egg and one-half level teaspoonful of salt, all of which have been mixed together, and cover the top with more bread. Fill the buttered side on top. Let stand for ten minutes and then bake in a moderate oven for about twenty minutes, or until set. Serve hot.

With a radiator at hand it is a simple matter to keep several towels warm, and by using them in rotation it is surprising how fast the hair may be dried. Do not have them too hot.

A dainty little shawl of this sort, made either of silk or of Shetland wool, is just the sort of thing that many women are carrying, in addition to the auto trip for the summer and fall evenings out of doors. Over the head and about the shoulder it is most graceful and protects the neck where the coat or veil would not.

when a woman had deposited enough to buy a quarter of a ton, it would cost her at no higher rate than if she bought a ton at a time.

"For the clothing club we would do the same. Buy a bolt of flannel, and help the woman make up the garments required."

"We feel that in doing this there will be splendid opportunities for helping some of these poor souls, whose lives are very gray and commonplace, indeed, to learn a little more about the right care of the house and of themselves, and children, and incidentally to make them happier and brighter." And Mrs. Harrison's face fairly glowed at the prospects and possibilities of her work.

Would Help Girls, Too.
"And does your help extend to girls, too?" asked the scribe.

"Oh, yes, I want to get acquainted with the girls who work in factories and other places, and perhaps we can form some classes in embroidery or millinery, or music, or anything that girls are interested in. There are many temptations around the streets for our girls, and we want to save them."

"The sweet face and ready sympathy of Mrs. Harrison makes her, one feels instinctively, just the one to bear the heavy word to the shut-in, and to lend the helping hand to the needy and suffering."

"We are just creeping yet," she told the scribe, "but we hope with the aid of friends and kindness on the part of Londoners in general, to get onto our feet before long. There are many opportunities on all sides, and it makes the heart ache when one realizes that right in our midst sick ones are going without almost what we consider the necessities of life."

The dahlia fully deserves its long popularity, for it is one of the most beautiful of flowers, lasting well and blooming profusely in many varied colors. One of the chief charms of the dahlia is the ease with which it is grown, as it does not require carefully prepared soil or a selected sunny spot. Anyone with a back yard may produce a wealth of blooms to beautify the last of the summer days.

Caring For a Child's Hair

Baby's hair should be brushed with a soft brush which is kept especially for the purpose. At first the baby's head is washed every day, and even with an older child frequent washing is necessary to keep the scalp clean and free from dandruff. A little child's hair and scalp should be perfectly healthy; if they seem otherwise it is often due to the general condition of health, which should receive attention. Sometimes, however, a tendency to undue dryness or oiliness is inherited and constitutional. A little pure vaseline or olive oil may be gently rubbed into the scalp to counteract excessive dryness, which is sure to leave the hair thin. Apply at night, on the scalp, not on the hair, put on a thin muslin cap to protect the pillow, then wash off with warm water and pure castile soap in the morning. There must never be any strong tonic to affect the tender roots. Nearly always, cleanliness and careful brushing will be all that is required. Many small girls are sensitive about the scalp, and the brushing process morning and evening should be carried out with a steady soothing hand. Separate tangles gently with the fingers and when the comb is used on long hair, run it through the ends first, gradually extending the stroke until the whole length is straightened out. If the hair is thick, divide it into strands and brush each separately. Plait loosely in two braids for the night.

Physician Gives Good Advice.
"If you have dyspepsia, indigestion, sour stomach, belching, distress after eating, heartburn or any other stomach trouble due to hyperacidity (the usual cause of stomach troubles), you should take no medicine to act upon the stomach itself. That is positively not the way to cure the trouble. Again, you should not half starve yourself by going without the nutritious food that you need to rebuild waste tissues. Some foods are not good for people even when in perfect health—very rich, sweet, highly-seasoned dishes. Avoid these, but eat fairly substantial meals of plain foods. Eat slowly. Even if you drink nothing but water, you should not drink with meals. Drink before and after eating. Do not take peppin or other artificial stimulants. If you follow the foregoing simple instructions it is probable that you will not need any medicine at all, except if you want to call it medicine, a little antacid after meals. The best antacid is ordinary bisulphated magnesia, which can be purchased in any drug store. This is able to act upon the stomach, but on the contents of the stomach. The antacid, as you can learn by consulting your dictionary or encyclopedia, is merely to neutralize or counteract the excess acid of the stomach can digest the food normally. Take a teaspoonful of bisulphated magnesia in a little cold or hot water after each meal. But should get immediate relief, even if your case is severe. Careful, moderate eating and the use of bisulphated magnesia should put your stomach in normal condition in a short time; if you have not allowed dyspepsia to advance to the extreme stages of developing stomach ulcers or cancer." # FOUR-TIME GOLF CHAMPION

JEROME TRAVERS—KING OF AMERICA'S AMATEUR GOLFERS.

Jerome Travers, Amateur Golf Champion, 1907-8, 1912-13. Experience and class told in the national amateur golf championship at Garden City, L. I., when Jerome D. Travers won the national title for the fourth time, succeeding himself in the position. Travers defeated J. G. Anderson, of Boston, in the final round, 5 up and 4 to play. He was easily the class of a large field and was out of danger when the brilliant but unsteady Chicagoan, Charles Evans, jun., blew up in the semi-final round.

Baseball Babble

"Believe me," says Fred Clarke, "this Hub Perdue, the Boston pitcher, is a rare bird—the funniest character of all the southern players now in fast company. I was kidding him the other day and telling him how soft it would be for us if he did all the pitching against the Pirates."

"Git out," said he. "You nevah made but one hit offen me, and it was youh brother, Josh, he was a-playing left field fo' Boston, and we was playing you. I had you, two strikes, and one ball called. Youh brother Josh runs in from left field and told me to give you a curve ball, waist-high, for the third strike, saying you would nevah hit it. So I give you that kind of a ball and you done hit it fo' three bases. Right then I leashed that blood is thicker than watah, and that youh brother Josh had done put one oveh on me to save you. I done licked youh brother Josh after the game, and from that time on I've pitched mah own games, and ain't let nobody's brother pitch them fo' me."

AMES IN NEW POSITION.

"I wonder," says Leon Ames, of the Reds, "if any other pitcher ever had a career quite like mine? I was a second-string or reserve pitcher for ten years, and this is the first time I've ever been listed as a regular pitcher, taking my turn in an understood rotation. McGraw kept me ten years on his payroll, never giving me much work, yet never offering to let me go until this season. Year by year an idea grew in New York that I was unlucky—a hopeless hoodoo. Yet, how could that idea be really correct, when I never pitched enough games to show what I could or couldn't do?"

MIQUE FINN, FAMOUS SCOUT, ONCE TURNED DOWN LAJOIE.

Prosperity was not always Nap Lajoie's portion of the things handed out in this world.

There was a time in the long ago when the great Frenchman was willing to work for about half what he receives for a month now.

Mique Finn, noted minor league manager, scout for the New York Giants last year, and now engaged to manage the Memphis club, in the Southern League, told the story.

Mique was manager of the Waltham club back in the nineties. With the close of the season of 1895, the Waltham team was switched to Newport, R. I. In the spring of 1896 Mique received a lengthy letter from Larry, asking for a job as a catcher, mentioning a party named Costello, baseball writer of Newport, as reference, and stating that he would work for $55 a month.

Tommy Connolly, who was then umpiring in the New England League, advised Finn to look into the matter. A letter to Costello brought back the brief answer, "He won't do." Finn did not answer Larry's letter.

Early in the spring Providence was scheduled to play the Fall River club. Connolly, who had been on the scene for three or four days, awaited the arrival of Finn with glowing tales of Larry's prowess. Finn was on hand the day of the game. Larry was on second.

"Never saw any hitting like his before or since then," declared Finn in relating the story.

Along about July 4 of that year Larry went to the Philadelphia club. Finn's treasury would have been vastly increased if he had listened to Larry's plea.

Cobb Makes Biggest Gain He Has Shown On Eastern Trip

Ty Cobb made the biggest gain that he has shown on the eastern trip, in the double-header of Wednesday, when he got five hits in eight times up, a .625 performance. This puts him nearly 15 points ahead of Jackson, despite the latter's spurt, the figures being:

	G.	A.	B.	H.	P.C.
Cobb	108	385	148	370	.370
Jackson	128	494	189	374	.374
Speaker	128	509	188	369	.369

Jackson hit .500, but in one game only, while Cobb was gaining two contests, thus overcoming his slight losses of the day preceding. At the same time Speaker went hitless, and, on the best break the figures can give him, is now third in the race for the batting honors.

HYDRO OFFICIALS FIND OCCUPATION IS PROFITABLE ONE

Salary List of Electrical Department Has Jumped Over $500 in 21 Months.

INCREASE FOR FEW ONLY

Creation of Unexplainable Office and Fat Boosts for Others Responsible.

In less than 21 months salaries in the office and operating departments of the London hydro-electric service have increased more than $500. Making allowance for the increased clerical force that is necessitated in the electrical department by the additional electric subscribers, the increase is a surprising one.

The total of the November office and operating pay sheet in the year 1911—less than 21 months ago—showed a total of $468.33. The half monthly pay sheet of the electrical department shows a total disbursement of $786, or $1,372 for a month.

Neither of these pay sheets takes into consideration the construction crews or the other minor officials of the water commission. It is restricted exclusively to the office staff and the operating department.

It is true that the November pay sheet is a lower one than the other, but the year 1911, but the highest in that year—$1,219, or more than $250 lower than this month's—included the salaries of both General Manager F. R. Dark and H. J. Glaubitz, who was appointed in the early part of the year as head of both water and electric departments. It will be remembered that Mr. Dark had a year's contract with the commissioners, that the latter found impossible to break when consulting Engineer H. J. Glaubitz was taken over from the employ of Hon. Adam Beck.

During those four months when the board was paying salaries to Messrs. Dark and Glaubitz for the same work, the total of $1,219 was reached. When the services of Mr. Dark were at an end the salary list correspondingly sagged till the November level of $1,068 was reached. Since that time $594 has been added—HOW?

Creation Adds $200.

The creation of the office of assistant general manager of the electrical department—at a salary of $200 a month—is responsible for a large share of this $500 jump in salaries. Just why this office was created has been an unfathomable puzzle to the majority, and the generally-accepted version is that the water commission endeavored to placate interests formerly connected with the London Electric Company.

Making due allowance for the increased cost of clerical assistance, $500 of the increase is explained by salary boosts that have been given the officials of the electrical department.

General Manager Glaubitz, first on the list, has received an increase of $25 monthly for his electrical work, since Nov. 11. His first assistant, A. O. Hunt, with the title of assistant general manager, has a $200 monthly salary; his second assistant, Electrical Engineer E. Y. Buchanan, has had his salary jumped $55 per month since 1911. During the majority of that year he was receiving $80 per month. He was, toward the end, jumped to $100, and since that time to $125.

In 1911, Chief Operator C. H. Coby, was being paid $125 a month, half of which was charged to the waterworks department and half to the electrical department. Now the same official is receiving $140 a month, $70 being charged to each department, or a monthly increase of $7.50 chargeable to the electrical department. Similarly, Chief Meter Inspector Jackson, who was receiving $80 in 1911, is now drawing $100.

No Raise for Operators. Actual operating expenses have, with the exception of the chief operator's "boost," remained in the same position they were in 1911. Operators, now as then, are receiving $70 per month, half of which is charged to waterworks and half to electrical department. Assistant operators are getting $60, the rate paid in 1911. In the office, General Secretary Oliver Ellwood has had a salary increase of $12.50 per month for the electrical department work, while Assistant Secretary A. E. Carrothers has had one of $25.

Other increases that might be instanced are those in the storekeepers' department. In 1911 the office of storekeeper paid $60 per month. In August, 1913, the office paid $75.

FATALLY HURT

Italian Was Injured While Trying to Board Train at Tilbury.

[Special to The Advertiser.] St. Thomas, Sept. 17.—Dominico Fribidde, a native of Plat-Ucia, near Rome, died in the St. Thomas Hospital today from injuries received last night while trying to get on a Michigan Central Railway car at Tilbury. The deceased had been in Canada only since July, and was in the employ of the M. C. R. Five children survive him in Italy. Coroner Dr. Fred Guest has ordered an inquest.

Exeter Fair Was Bigger Than Ever

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Exeter, Sept. 18.—In spite of the heavy rain that prevailed Exeter fair was a great success. There was a considerably larger crowd than last year.

This year the directors increased their prize money and as a consequence the entries in many classes were far in advance of last year.

The crystal palace was well filled with fruit, vegetables, butter, honey, home-made dainties, flowers, etc. A number of town merchants had quite a display.

The town band furnished the music, playing inside the crystal palace on account of rain.

The heavy horses and roadsters were a large class and fine animals. Poultry entries were in excess of last year, and cattle, sheep and hogs of fine quality.

One of the most amusing features of the fair was a surprise. When Judge Captain Tom Robson called for the saddle horse, three boys entered on ponies and were awarded the prizes, after a trial around the half-mile track. Earl Powell, dressed as an Indian and riding on Topsy, won first; Joe Follick, dressed as an old man, riding Dan Patch, won second; while Delem Charlton on the Grey Stallion, came in third.

The other speeding contests were withdrawn on account of rain.

Southern Pacific May Give Up Line

[Canadian Press.]

San Francisco, Sept. 18.—R. P. Schwerin, vice-president of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, has left for New York for a conference with the Southern Pacific directors relative to the steamship company's future, it was announced today.

The conference, it is said, is expected to settle the question of whether the Pacific Mail is to continue to be operated in connection with the Southern Pacific, despite the refusal of the Government to permit railroad-owned steamships to utilize the Panama Canal.

If the Southern Pacific decides to retain the steamship company, the vessels probably will be converted into oil burners.

Find Way To Stop Fever Spreading

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Sept. 18.—Dr. J. B. Murphy, the surgeon who cared for Colonel Roosevelt in Chicago when he was shot, returned yesterday on the imperial from London, where he attended the International Medical Congress. It was demonstrated at the meeting that rubbing the patient with eucalyptus oil in scarlet fever cases prevented contagion, he asserted.

"If a child is rubbed daily with the oil directly the case of scarlet fever is discovered," he said, "no one else will contract the fever, and there is no need of going to the expense of quarantining the house or separating the child suffering from the fever from its parents. Another discovery reported at the congress by Dr. Henry Head, of the London Hospital, was that insanity eradicates itself in the third generation."

Steel Trust Is Invading Canada

[Canadian Press.] Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 18.—The United States Steel Products Company, a New Jersey corporation, has applied for permission to do business in Manitoba. While the application does not so state, it is believed this organization is the selling corporation of the United States Steel Trust.

WILL RUSH WORK

Big Government Elevators To Be Built at Moose Jaw and Saskatoon.

[Canadian Press.]

Moose Jaw, Sask., Sept. 18.—Barnett & McQueen, contractors for the Moose Jaw and Saskatoon Government storage elevators, are making preparations for immediate excavations. It is expected that the footings will be put in this fall. The contracts call for completion by December, 1914, so that they may help take care of next year's crop.

CANNOT RECOVER

[Canadian Press.]

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 18.—Playing tag with a number of companions, Wilfrid Thompson, aged 11, suddenly darted in front of Sir Rodmond Roblin's automobile as the premier was being driven homeward. The lad was knocked down, both wheels on one side of the car crushing in his face. He was rushed to St. Boniface Hospital, where he now lies dying. No blame is attached to Sir Rodmond's chauffeur.

MEETING IN SECRET.

[Canadian Press.]

Winnipeg, Sept. 18.—Nothing was made public yesterday regarding deliberations at the hotelmen's convention. All the meetings were held in secret and no word was given out as to what was done.

D. 1913, incorporating ARTHUR THOMAS LITTLE and EDGAR SIDNEY LITTLE, who are merchants, GEORGE SETTON GIBBONS, barrister, GRACE McNAUGHTON, bookkeeper, and AGNES PELTON, stenographer, all of the City of London, in the Province of Ontario, for the purpose of:

(a) To purchase or otherwise acquire and take over the business of the business now carried on in the City of London, in the Province of Ontario, and the City of Winnipeg, in the Province of Manitoba, under the name and style of Robinson, Little & Co., and assume the liabilities thereof, and to pay therefor in fully paid-up and non-assessable shares of the company, or otherwise; and thereafter:

(b) To carry on business as general merchants, importers and exporters of, and to buy, sell and deal in all kinds of goods, wares, merchandise and materials.

(c) To act as general agents or commission agents for any person or persons engaged in a similar business.

(d) To manufacture, buy, sell and deal in all kinds of articles necessary and convenient for use in connection with the business of the company, and to use any article dealt in by the company.

(e) To carry on any business (manufacturing or otherwise) which may seem to the company, or which may be conveniently carried on in connection with its business, or calculated directly or indirectly to enhance the value of or render profitable any of the company's property or rights.

(f) To acquire any licenses, concessions, trade secrets or information, patents or patent rights, trade marks, trade names, or pending applications therefor, the acquisition of which may seem necessary or convenient to the company, and to use, exercise, develop or grant licenses or concessions in connection with the business of the company.

(g) To grant licenses to others to use any patent, trade mark or trade name which the company may have acquired.

(h) To acquire by purchase, lease or otherwise, and to hold and to use and from time to time to dispose of all such lands, buildings, machinery and plants as may be necessary or convenient in connection with the company's business.

(i) From time to time to acquire, own, buy and sell real and personal property as the company may deem necessary or convenient for its purposes, and to acquire the same by purchase, lease, mortgage, exchange or otherwise, and to hold, sell, mortgage, alienate, transfer or otherwise dispose of the same.

(j) To purchase or otherwise acquire the whole or any part of the business, assets, property, privileges, rights and contracts, whether or not the business is situated, of any person or persons, corporation or corporations carrying on any business within the Dominion of Canada, and to pay for the said business, assets, property, privileges, lands, rights, contracts, undertakings, and to use, exercise, develop or grant licenses or concessions in cash or in fully paid-up and non-assessable, common or preferred stock, debentures, bonds or securities of this company.

(k) To enter into partnership or into any arrangement for sharing of profits, union of interests, co-operation, joint venture, reciprocal concession or otherwise, with any person or company carrying on or engaged in any business or transaction which the company is authorized to carry on or engage in, or any business or transaction capable of being conducted so as to directly or indirectly benefit the company, and to lend money to, guarantee the contracts of or otherwise assist any such person or company, and to take any other action which may seem necessary or convenient to the company.

(l) To purchase, acquire, own, hold, sell or otherwise dispose of shares in the capital stock, bonds or other securities of any other company, or to acquire, own, hold, sell or otherwise dispose of shares in any company, and to pay for such shares, bonds or other securities in cash or fully paid-up common or preferred stock, bonds or debentures of the company.

(m) To enter into any arrangements with any authorities, municipal, local or otherwise, that may seem necessary or convenient to the company, or any of them, and to obtain from any such authority any rights, privileges and concessions which the company may think it desirable to obtain, and to carry out, exercise and comply with any such arrangements, rights, privileges and concessions.

(n) To promote any company or companies for the purpose of acquiring all or any of the property and liabilities of the company, or for any other purpose which may seem directly or indirectly calculated to benefit the company.

(o) To promote and assist financially, by guarantees, advances of money or otherwise, or by endorsement, the enterprises or undertakings of any individual, firm or corporation with which this company may have business dealings.

(p) To install plants to produce or accumulate steam and electricity to be used for heating, lighting or motive power for the purposes of the company, and to dispose of any surplus heat, light or motive power, and for such purpose to lay mains or pipes and to erect towers as necessary, provided, however, that any sale or disposition of electricity or steam, beyond the limits of the company, shall be subject to local and municipal regulations in that behalf.

(q) To construct, improve, maintain, work, manage, carry out, or support of roads, ways and branches, or sidings on lands owned or controlled by the company, bridges, railways, waterways, wharves, manufactories, warehouses, electric works, shops, stores and other works and conveniences which may seem calculated directly or indirectly to advance the company's interests, and to contribute to, subsidize or otherwise assist or take part in the construction, improvement, maintenance, working, management, carrying out or control thereof.

(r) To establish any support or aid in the establishment and support of associations, institutions, funds, trusts, and conveniences calculated to benefit employees or ex-employees of the company, or its predecessors in business, or the dependents or connections of such persons, and to make payments towards insurance, and to subscribe and guarantee money for charitable or benevolent objects, or for any exhibition or for any public, general or useful object.

(s) To draw, make, accept, indorse, execute and issue promissory notes, bills of lading, bills of exchange, warrants and other negotiable or transferable instruments.

(t) To sell or dispose of the undertaking of the company, or any part thereof, for such consideration as the company may think fit, and in particular for shares, bonds, debentures or securities of any other company, or to divide the company, or in part similar to the company, and to divide among the shareholders any stock, bonds or securities so received.

(u) To adopt such means of making known the business, wares, or products, of the company, as may seem expedient, and in particular by advertising in the press, by circulars, or otherwise, by purchase and exhibition of books, or interest, by publication of books and periodicals, and by granting prizes, rewards and donations.

(v) To sell, improve, manage, develop, exchange, lease, dispose of, turn to account, or otherwise, all real or any part of the property and rights of the company.

(w) To do all or any of the above things as principal, agents, contractors, trustees or otherwise, and either alone or in conjunction with others.

(x) To do all or any of the above things as incidental or conducive to the attainment of the above objects.

LITTLE TALKS

[Copyright, 1913, The International Syndicate, Baltimore.]

No. 3

YOU remember, doubtless, the story of Aladdin. Whenever he rubbed his wonderful lamp, a genie appeared before him and said: "What wouldst thou have? I am ready to obey thee as thy slave, and the slave of all those who have that lamp in their hands; I, and the other slaves of the lamp."

You, Mr. Business Man—you, Mrs. House-keeper—you, Mr. Average Individual—you hold in your hands a lamp of equal power—the lamp of publicity—of advertising, if you please.

There is this difference: Aladdin existed only in the imagination of a clever writer of fiction. The lamp was a myth. Advertising exists as a real power, without any quality of magic, but with tangible want-satisfying and business-building possibilities.

Let's get down to facts. You need a cook. You insert a little Want Ad. in this newspaper. Thousands of genii instantly go to work for you. here, there, everywhere. Each copy of the paper is a searcher after the sort of services you want. One of these searchers finds that cook and puts you in touch with her. The "slaves of the lamp" have obeyed your command to go forth and bring back what you want.

Or you are a business man, say, and are in need of the services of a competent stenographer. A little Want Ad. will put you in touch with a score or more. And at a cost of twenty or thirty cents you have commanded thousands of little advertising genii to go out and find that which you seek.

Next time you've a Want, rub the lamp within your reach.

SALE OF LOTS AT PRINCE GEORGE BRITISH COLUMBIA

SITUATED at the confluence of the Fraser and Nechako Rivers in Central British Columbia, 450 miles north-east of Vancouver, B.C., and 467 miles east of Prince Rupert, B.C., or midway between Prince Rupert and Edmonton, Alta., on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.

By reason of its central location, Prince George will be the natural distributing point for the extensive territory comprised in the Pacific Province of the Dominion, and it has therefore long been the expectation of the general public that upon the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, Prince George will early become a large and important centre.

Having purchased what was known as the Fort George Indian Reserve No. 1 for the purpose of locating a townsite thereon, the Grand Trunk Pacific Development Company Limited has caused the same to be surveyed and platted and will offer lots in this townsite for sale by public auction at Vancouver, British Columbia, Wednesday September 17th, 1913, and at Edmonton, Alberta, Wednesday, September 24th, 1913.

The terms of this sale will be one-quarter cash and the balance payable in one, two and three years with six per cent interest. For further particulars and plans apply to:

WOMEN DEER TO ASSIST MEN IN LEAVING WALKS

The Ministers, Member of Parliament and Town Officials Toiled All Day.

SOON COVERED SQUARE

Public-Spirited Citizens of Ancaster Solved Problem in Novel Way.

[Special To The Advertiser.] Hamilton, Sept. 17.—Intermittent and the gospel, members of Parliament, village and township officials and 50 residents of Ancaster solved the cement sidewalk question by turning in at 7 o'clock this morning with pick, shovel, overalls and all other harness with the object of constructing a cement walk around the school square, which covers the main streets of the village.

Unable to finance. The materials are being supplied by the village, which found it impossible to finance the labor end of it, which by today's work is not costing a cent.

At 7 o'clock, in a drizzling rain, the residents, attired in the latest creations in the overall and smock line, got down to work, headed by Reeve Gust, Deputy Reeve Kenrick, J. T. N. Reagan, M.P.P., Reeves Bell and Webster, Mr. Farmer, Mr. Lloyd Gable, Mr. J. Thorne, Mr. Mr. W. J. Hodson, of Hamilton.

Women Thanked. Hundreds of women were on hand all morning, and some offered to help, but were thanked. The oatmeal water pail was rushed during the work, while a lunch basket meal was supplied at noon. The work was finished this evening.

Cost is Small. As many of the men behind the work are interested in the cement, gravel, lime and other industries the cost in that respect will be minimal while the water question is not causing any worry, as it is very prominent in Ancaster since local option was introduced.

INGERSOLL FAIR WAS HANDICAPPED BY THE WEATHER

In Consequence Turnout To See One of the Best Exhibitions Was Small.

RESULTS OF THE RACES

Oxford's Horse and Cattle Show This Fall Was of Unusual Merit.

[By Our Own Man.]

Ingersoll, Sept. 17.—Intermittent and treacherous showers of rain sadly interfered with the success of Ingersoll fair held here today and yesterday, from the point of view of attendance, but in the quality and number of exhibits it was the best in years. The attendance, altogether unworthy of the popularity of North and West Oxford's big fall exhibition, was not much more than 1,500 people, extremely adverse weather frowned upon on both days of this year's fair. A full program of races, including motorcycle races, novelty races, ladies' hitching contests, free-for-all, 2,500, and farmers' races, was curtailed, only the free-for-all and the farmers' trot being run off.

Victoria Poem, owned by T. L. Grey, of St. Thomas, won the free-for-all, and Minnie Brino, owned by J. W. Wilcox, of Brantford, came in first in the farmers' race. There were four to start, with three prizes given in each race, the results of which were:

Free-for-all—Victoria Poem, T. L. Grey, St. Thomas, 1 1 1; Dr. Ullon, M. Quite, Thamesford, 2 2 2; Jennie Mac, J. Stover, Avon, 3 3 3; Silver W. White, Tillsonburg, 4 4 4. Time—2:55.

Farmers' trot—Minnie Brino, J. W. Wilcox, Brantford, 1 1 1; Johnnie Medium, A. McEwen, Ingersoll, 2 2 2; Sid, H. McDermott, Ingersoll, 3 3 3; Pete, Alex. Belore, Mount Elgin, 4 4 4. Time—1:15.

Artistic Exhibits. The Twenty-second Regiment Band of Woodstock, provided an abundance of good music, and as far as possible made the visitors, crowded into the main building, forget the rain outside. The gallery of the palace was filled with fine exhibits of ladies' work and fine arts, the entries in ladies' work numbering 400 and in fine arts 150. Miss F. Enright, a talented young artist of Ingersoll, won five firsts and several seconds with original water colors and drawings.

The poultry exhibit was a feature of the fair. Five hundred birds filled the chicken building to overflowing, and the surplus birds were stacked in coops outside.

W. W. Reid, of Ayr, was a large exhibitor. Not a few fine birds came from the Shantz poultry yards, of the town, and James L. Vance & Son, of Ingersoll, and A. J. Glenn, of Glenora, were other leading exhibitors. Vance & Son showed some fine Bantams and Rhode Island Reds; Fred Franks, excellent Plymouth Rocks; Nate Vansickle, Games; Geolunson, pigeons, and Moore & Ferguson, Leghorns, Wyandottes, Black Minorcas, Games and Bantams, all being local poultry men.

Finest Lot of Horses. The exhibits of carriage and heavy horses was unusually fine. J. G. Hammer, of Burford, showed a carload of prize-winning horses and exhibited at London, and also at other exhibitions. Fine horses were also shown by Mr. Day, of Embro.

Among other horse exhibitors were N. C. McCarty, of Thamesford, and Fred Franks, excellent Plymouth Rocks; Nate Vansickle, Games; Geolunson, pigeons, and Moore & Ferguson, Leghorns, Wyandottes, Black Minorcas, Games and Bantams, all being local poultry men.

The Cattle Show. The cattle shown were also of the finest type and quality. I. N. Howe, of Putnam, was a large exhibitor in this class. J. G. Currie, of Ingersoll, showed some good Holsteins.

In fruits, roots and vegetables, a finer showing could not have been asked for. Mr. J. C. Harris, the well-known apple exporter, who judged the fruit, unhesitatingly declared the exhibit to be the finest he had ever seen in Oxford County, the quality being superior in every class. Among the horticultural exhibitors were William Eatten, Piper's Corners; John Branchflower, of Ingersoll; George A. Isonson, of Ingersoll, and A. H. Cropp, of St. David. Mr. Cropp won first with probably as many as an exhibit of peaches as could be found in Ontario.

Other fruit and vegetable exhibitors were W. E. Cragg, Lakeside; R. I. Smith, Belmont, and Peter Beasrs, of Ingersoll.

The Flower Show. There were a large number of beautiful flowers shown, among the exhibitors being Mrs. Fred Franks, Ingersoll, and Mrs. Byron Jamies, Ingersoll, Mrs. L. C. O'Keefe, Guilford, and Mrs. Wood, of Ingersoll, showed some very fair work in fine arts.

Altogether the exhibits in the various departments, in quality, were much in advance of other years. In most departments the number of entries also showed increases and the energetic secretary, Mr. George F. James, was a busy man taking care of them all. The officers and committees of the Ingersoll, North and West Oxford Agricultural Society, to whom much credit is due for the success of the exhibition, in spite of the weather, are: President, David Robinson; 1st vice-president, J. B. Thompson; 2nd vice-president, James Raymond; secretary-treasurer, Geo. F. James.

Committee of Management for Days of Exhibition—Horses of them all, A. Mitchell and James Raymond; horses (light), R. A. Skinner and E. S. Dodge; cattle, J. B. Thompson; sheep and hogs, F. Foster; poultry and grain, Wm. Colyer; roots and vegetables, R. Wilson; fruits and flowers, C. L. Henderson; manufactures, E. A. Sage; dairy products, E. Beasrs; ladies' work and fine arts, Mrs. Byron Jenvey and Geo. F. James.

General Superintendents—D. Robinson and Geo. F. James.

FRUIT LAXATIVE FOR SICK CHILD GIVE "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS"

Cleanses Tender Little Stomach, Liver, Bowels Without Injury.

Every mother realizes that this is the children's ideal laxative and physic, because they love its pleasant taste and it never fails to effect a thorough "inside cleansing" without griping. When your child is cross, irritable, feverish, or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, hay stomach ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember a good liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoon today saves a sick child tomorrow. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on each bottle. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs." Beware of counterfeiters sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other fig syrup with contempt.

AROUND THE CITY HALL

Cartage Question Up Again. Industrial Commissioner Gordon Philip, acting as secretary of the board of trade, will summon a meeting of the board shortly to discuss the question of railway rates, the decision of the big railways to discontinue their cartage service in the various cities of the Dominion arouses a storm of protest from boards of trade all over the country.

While the possibility has been broached in Toronto, and it is likely to be done so here as soon as Secretary Philip can call the board together.

Change Has Been Beneficial. While the premature transfer of the city offices to the Spencer Block has occasioned an untold amount of inconvenience to the majority of the city officials, there has been some compensation in the fact that the majority of them have secured better quarters than were possible in the old city hall. The question of light and ventilation, as well as more of space for those departments that needed it, has been decided in favor of the new quarters of the municipal administration, as against the old one.

Another Truck Coming. Another electric-driven auto truck is expected by the water commission shortly, for use in the electric department. The one now in service has not yet been paid for, being here on loan from the water department, and a competitive test to determine which is the best type for adoption by the department. There is a possibility that two may be purchased, one being turned over to the waterworks department for use.

More Electrification Dope. Aldermen of the finance committee and others of the council have resigned themselves to their fate, and will tonight sign a waste knowledge in the verbiage of the electrification reports. As at the previous meetings of the "star chamber" series of electrification discussions, the session of this evening will be held behind closed doors. Only aldermen and city officials, with a possible sprinkling of experts will be present.

Minor Contract Changes. Some minor changes have been made in the contract for the alteration of the court house. In place of the hardwood floors for the first story, as called for in the original contract, a composition flooring will be substituted. The electric chutes, plumbing and book cases have also been let.

Manager C. B. King Protests. When the board of works convenes tonight, the letter of protest sent by Manager C. B. King, of the street railway, as a result of the council's decision to allow Horton street sidewalks to remain in their old position, and thereby cut four feet off the roadway, will be presented. In his protest, the manager declares that the action of the council has left Horton street from Richmond to Talbot street in an exceptionally dangerous position. It will be impossible, he states, for a wagon to pass a street car on the south side of Horton street without considerable danger to both.

An Interesting Problem. Just where the garbage department is going to have its office in the Spencer Block is an interesting little problem for some of the "in the public eye" celebrities whose business it is to run London's affairs. The question is—will he stay? The answer has yet to be given.

Landscape Gardening? Not only has the water commission spent more than $4,000 in fitting up its new quarters, but it is going in for exterior decorations as well. A big square of cement is being laid on the Wellington street side of the building. A little landscape gardening effect is also being secured along the wide boulevard on this side. Next summer it is proposed to have a regular little park here.

New City Hall When? When will the new city hall be built? Strange as it may seem, this is a question that is troubling the city officials. The city hall is a very old building, but little. They are in the Spencer Block now, and the majority of them are settling themselves for the next decade. Even the most optimistic of the city officials do not anticipate being in the new city hall before five years at the earliest. They are prepared for a long stay, and indicate that their resignation to all possible fates, and the one of spending the next ten years in the Spencer Block, in particular, was justifiable under the circumstances.

Paying September Taxes. September taxes, the second installment being due at the end of the present month, are already coming in. The people hardly know where to find us yet," said Tax Collector G. W.

out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, hay stomach ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember a good liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given

TIVERTON FAIR

Big Tent Took Place of Buildings Blown Away in Gale. [Special to The Advertiser.] Tiverton, Sept. 18.—Tiverton agricultural exhibition was held yesterday. There was a fairly good attendance, a good show of horses, cattle, sheep, hogs, and poultry. The agricultural hall having been blown down last spring a large tent was erected for roots, fruit, and bread. Ladies' work was exhibited in the school house. There was a noticeable deficiency of fruits and roots of all kinds.

TOWN BADLY SCORCHED.

[Canadian Press.] Guayaquil, Ecuador, Sept. 18.—Half of the town of Duran, the Ecuadorian seaport, opposite this city, was yesterday destroyed by fire.

SERIOUS RIOTING IN DUBLIN; MOB ATTACKS STREET CARS

Innkeeper Who Served Non-Union Man Had His Premises Wrecked—Many Fierce Fights With Police—More Trouble Feared Over Strike.

London, Sept. 18.—Rioting has begun in Dublin, both the city and the county being affected by the strike of Transport Workers and the sympathetic strikers which have been called. The rioting in the city took the form of attacks on street cars, which were pelted with stones and bricks. In one case the women passengers rushed from the inside of the car to the top of the car, the cars in Dublin having seats on the top. The mob hurled stones at the women until they alighted.

Wrecked Hotel.

In the village of Finglas, three miles from Dublin, there was a clash between police and strikers, which arose from the fact that an innkeeper served a non-unionist who defied the strikers. The latter thereupon stormed the inn and smashed the windows. Four local policemen used their revolvers in an effort to stem the rush of 150 men, and one boy was shot in the shoulder. The policemen were forced to take shelter in their barracks. The district is wildly excited and reinforcements of Royal Irish Constabulary have been sent to the scene.

Rioting in North.

There has been rioting also in the northern part of the county, where have been destroyed, and machinery smashed by strikers. One farmer lost four acres of cabbage. Prices of food in Dublin are soaring. Many commodities have doubled and some tripled in price. There is much suffering among the poor. Six thousand strikers paraded through the city today. There was no disorder.

Traffic Paralyzed.

Nearly every freight yard in the city of Birmingham is closed, and traffic is almost at a standstill. Suburban passenger traffic is badly crippled through the local drivers joining in the strike. Long-distance traffic has not yet been affected.

The Birmingham strikers sent a resolution last night to the National Union of Railwaymen's executive committee, demanding that a call for a national strike be issued to support the English and Irish strikers. The committee will meet today to consider the demand. The national board does not countenance the Liverpool and Birmingham strikes, about which it was not consulted.

Connolly and Leach, the leaders in the Dublin movement, went to Belfast this evening and got a mixed reception. Many rather than there were many clashes with the police, several revolver shots being fired. The police charged the mob with clubs and dispersed the rioters. Many persons were hurt.

Sympathetic strikes of English railroad men are confined to Liverpool and Birmingham, and there they are only partial. The prospect of a settlement at Liverpool has improved. Some of the workers have gone back to their employment and the movement seems about to collapse, but two or three thousand men are still out.

On the other hand, the situation at Birmingham has become worse. The strikers exceed seven thousand.

NET DEBT OF LONDON FOUR DOLLARS PER HEAD

Latest Statement Shows Gross Debt Four and Quarter Millions.

While the per capita gross debt of London is $44 lower than the per capita gross debt of Toronto, its net debt per capita is only $4, and this on a basis of a population of 55,000. Revenue-producing properties in the Queen City are greater in proportion than they are in London.

Yesterday Toronto figured out its gross debt as $124 per capita. With revenue-producing properties deducted from this, the net debt of the city was left at $54.50 per capita.

This morning City Treasurer James S. Bell figured out London's per capita debt for The Advertiser, and a rather surprising set of figures resulted. The gross debt of the city is $4,418,158.19, according to the latest statement of the city of London. This makes the per capita gross debt $80.33, or approximately $44, lower than that of Toronto citizens.

Off the gross debt is deducted $1,403,278.72 for waterworks and electrical department debts and $363,364.52 for sinking funds, that makes a total reduction of $1,766,643.24. This makes the net debt $2,651,514.95, or a per capita one of $50.03.

Lorain Lad Again Makes For Canada

Gets as Far as Chatham, and Goes to Work on Farm.

Bert Dickinson, a boy who ran away from his home in Lorain, Ohio, last July and came to Canada to fight Indians, who was arrested in this city and later taken to his home by his father, ran away again several weeks ago, and was taken into custody by county constables of Kent County Wednesday.

The lad was working on a farm in Dawn Township when apprehended. About a week ago he ran away from home and rode his bicycle as far as Detroit, at which place he sold it for $4. With this money he reached Chatham and then secured work on a farm. He gave no reason for leaving home. The father arrived at Chatham Wednesday and took the boy back to Lorain. This is the second time the lad has left home within a year, and the father intends to take some action in court with him on their return to Lorain.

The lad was arrested at the Grand Trunk depot on July 13 last by Sergeant McDonald. The sergeant was walking along Richmond street about two o'clock in the morning and saw the lad hanging about the depot. He sent him to the police station in charge of Constable McRoberts. A search showed that the lad was armed with a large bowie knife and other paraphernalia for fighting Indians, and that he had a bank roll of $50 in his possession. His father, as soon as communicated with by the police, came to London and took the boy back home.

Grand Trunk traffic earnings from Sept. 8 to 14, 1913: For 1913, $1,144,856; 1912, $1,110,514; increase, $34,342.

Beautiful Hair and Skin

[Jane Tyrrel, on Beauty.] "The most delightful results imaginable are obtained if a dry shampoo mixture is used three or four times a week. A thoroughly reliable preparation can be made by mixing four ounces of powdered hazel, Apply to face, neck and throat. This is enough to last for months, as a teaspoonful is all that is required for the shampoo. Just brush the hair with the hair. The scalp is put in refreshed condition and the hair takes on a soft gloss, and its natural color is heightened. "A complexion rivaling lilies and roses naturally follows the use of a plain, nontoxic lotion, made at home by dissolving an original package of maytense in a half pint of water. Apply to face, neck and arms in the morning, and it will hold its own. It will not rub off nor show like powder, and corrects complexion blemishes. It makes the skin soft, smooth and lovely."

[Canadian Press.] Halifax, Sept. 18.—At the meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association today officers were elected as follows: President, C. B. Gordon, Montreal; first vice-president, E. G. Henderson, Windsor, Ont.; second vice-president, J. H. Sherrard, Montreal; treasurer, George Booth, Toronto; auditor, Wilton C. Eddie & Sons, Toronto. Chairman of Committee: Tariff, H. H. Champ, Hamilton; transportation, S. R. Parsons, Toronto; legislation, Thomas Findlay, Toronto; membership, N. A. How, Toronto; insurance, H. W. Fleury, Aurora, Ont.; technical education, H. H. Mason, Toronto; workmen's compensation, P. W. Ellis, Toronto.

A resolution was passed particularly commending the suggestion of the insurance committee that the incoming committee give full prominence to an effort to awaken members to a sense of the danger of the enormous and rapidly-growing fires of the Dominion. Another resolution, providing for the appropriation of money from the C. M. A. funds for scholarships in the industrial and technical schools was passed.

Help Agriculturists.

President Gordon said the association should work hand in hand with the agriculturists, in whose interests the Alberta legislation was being made. A resolution by Mr. Murray, of Montreal, favoring the executive council taking action toward a conference with the various provinces in reference to the establishment of a system of commercial courts, was sent to the executive.

The report of the workmen's compensation committee was then read. In answer to the letter sent by the Grain Growers' Guide, requesting co-operation in the procuring of British preferential tariff the association decided to send the following telegram today:

Willing to Confer. "The Canadian Manufacturers' Association, in its accredited representatives, is always willing to confer with the western grain-growers or any other organization on matters of mutual concern. Three years ago we made advances in this direction to the western grain-growers, and sent one of our secretaries to Winnipeg to extend this invitation personally to them. At that time there were, in our opinion, broad issues before the public regarding which a better understanding between the farmers of the West and manufacturers generally was imperative. Immediate delivery, 75¢ to 76¢ per bag, and future delivery, 85¢ per bag, on track.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

ACTIVE TRADING ON THE MARKET TODAY

Although rain threatened the local market this morning, there was a very good showing of wheat with produce from the surrounding country. The centre of the Market Square was occupied by the vendors, and also the eastern section.

Trading was noticeably active for a dull day, with prices generally firm. Grain was quiet, there being a very small offering. Prices consequently remained the same as formerly. Wheat is selling for 85 cents per bushel, and oats for $1 to $1.10 per cwt.

Previous to 9 o'clock this morning twelve loads of hay had been sold. The prices of this commodity dropped somewhat; the prices obtained today being $12 to $14.50.

Straw, too, has lowered and sold steadily at $5 to $7.50.

There was a fair offering of fruits with all prices steady. Melons sold from 40c to $1.50 per dozen. Plums are not as plentiful as formerly, and are bringing 30c per basket. Peaches remain stationary at 40c for small varieties, and 50c to 60c for Crawfords. Apples are still selling at 50c to 60c per bushel. Potatoes were offered for 60c to 65c. Green corn is somewhat scarce and selling for 8c to 10c. Other vegetable prices are as quoted on list.

Live stock remains firm and steady. Poultry also has not changed since yesterday.

The offering of butter and eggs is still too small for the demand. Prices are firm in consequence.

For other prices see the following list:

PRINCE GEORGE TOWNSHIP
The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway announces the sale by public auction of the townsite of Prince George, situated at the confluence of the Fraser and Nechako Rivers, in Central British Columbia, 450 miles northeast of Vancouver, and 467 miles east of Prince Rupert, British Columbia, or midway between Prince Rupert and Edmonton, Alberta. By reason of its central location, Prince George will be the natural distributing point for the extensive territory comprised in the Pacific province of the Dominion, and it has, therefore, long been the expectation of the general public that upon the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, Prince George will early become a large and important centre. Having purchased what was known as the Port George Indian Reserve, No. 1, for the purpose of locating a townsite thereon, the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and the Pacific Great Northern, have caused the same to be surveyed and platted and will offer lots in this townsite for sale by public auction at Vancouver, British Columbia, Wednesday, Sept. 17, 1913, and at Edmonton, Alberta, Wednesday, Sept. 24, 1913. The terms of the sale will be one-quarter cash and the balance payable in one, two and three years, with six per cent interest. All particulars and plans can be secured by applying to G. U. Ryley, land commissioner, Grand Trunk Pacific, Winnipeg, Manitoba.

"We are getting tired of this
monkeying," declared a Richmond street property-owner this morning.
"Here the conduits have been practically useless for years. We want to know when we are going to get something for our money?"

"As I understand the situation the water commission will have to levy
another local improvement tax on all of us who paid for the conduit construction, in order that cable can be purchased. If that is the case, the sooner they start on it the better."

Awaiting Board's Decision.
The explanation of the chairman of the water commission is to the effect that while the commission has power
to put the London electric wires underground and also its own, the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board has not yet decided what the telegraph companies will have to do. Therefore,
the said commission is waiting a decision from that board.

"If we put the cables into the conduits now we would have to change all
the private lighting systems served by the present overhead system," said the chairman. "We don't like to do that till
we have a large number of customers
on these streets. With the conduits, the power service would have to come from the bottom of the stores and buildings instead of from the top."

In reply to a query, the chairman said that this change had been comtemplated before the conduits were put down.

"Oh my, yes; we knew all about the change before we went ahead with the conduits," he said. He also denied that the conduits had been practically a useless expense for the past two years.

"Why, we used them for the street-lighting system," was his defence.

"SAFETY FIRST" TO
BE MOTTO OF THE
GRAND TRUNK MEN

Practical Talk Given Wednesday
Night to Large Body of Railwaymen.

REDUCE THE DEATH TOLL

Declares That in the Last Analysis Safety Depends on the Human Element.

"Safety first," and (it might be added)
"last and all the time," was the theme of a most inspiring and instructive practical talk by Mr. G. Bradshaw, safety engineer of the Grand Trunk
Railroad, to a gathering of employees
of the road, and their wives and friends at the Auditorium Wednesday night. Every employee on the division that could be spared from duty was there, and the hall was packed. A special train from Sarnia, which brought the men from that terminal and points
on route came in with three hundred on board. Men from every branch of the service were represented, and listened with the keenest interest to what the safety engineer had to say. A safety committee is to be formed immediately in this division, composed of the superintendent of the division, and representatives from every branch, whose work will be to carry on a campaign
of education among the employees in an effort to reduce to the vanishing point, if possible, preventable accidents.

Ways and Means.
Ways and means of doing this was the subject of Mr. Bradshaw's talk. His arguments and statements were clear-
cut and forcible in the highest degree,
and couched in familiar railroad language, his remarks simply carried his hearers with him. It was an inspiration to anyone interested in reducing the grim toll of deaths and injuries brought about in the operation of our railroads.

Mr. Bradshaw's talk was followed by a number of excellent lantern slides, showing actual conditions in many of the yards and shops, the right and wrong ways of doing things, and how
in countless small ways a little care
and forethought would prevent accidents which at the present time are so frequent.

A Great Question.
"If there is anyone in this audience who doubts that the question of personal injuries is not a great one,"
said Mr. Bradshaw, "I would like him
to take out his watch and look at it for just 24 seconds, and then try to realize that somewhere in that time,
either in the United States or Canada,
some railroad man is hurt or injured
— even seconds from year's end to year's end."

He then proceeded to illustrate in most practical terms how this awful percentage could be reduced, and the secret lay not in the safety devices, although these were a great help. "One
out of every eight of you are injured
during a year, in handling cars that are so loaded down with safety devices
that scarcely any more could be devised or thought of to make them
safer," he said.

The Human Element.
The weak point lay in the human element. The lives of every employee as well as the passengers, was in the hands of his fellow-employees. Carelessness on the part of one might bring death or worse than death to any number of the others, and it was his duty as a man to see that his
task was performed exactly right,
and when he observed another employee taking chances, to speak to him
and endeavor to impress him with the chances he was taking. Faults in the equipment should also be looked for

Businessmen Want
Council Abolished

[Canadian Press.]
Edmonton, Alta., Sept. 18.—The latest thing in municipal affairs here is a civic government league, organized by representative businessmen. The avowed purpose of the new organization is to secure in Edmonton five things—abolition of the city council, election of commissioners, to be placed in the field at the coming municipal elections.

Raspberries Still With Us.—Why talk of winter, when the raspberries are still with us? This morning on the local market Mrs. A. Goldsmith, of Byron, was the proud exhibitor of a box of splendid raspberries. They are the growth of a conscientious bush that appears to be working overtime, and one that moreover believes in the old adage, "Well done is good enough."

CONDUITS USELESS
FOR TWO YEARS,
SAY BUSINESSMEN

Despite Promise of Water Commission, Very Few Wires Are Underground.

THE CHAIRMAN EXPLAINS

Says That the Board Is Awaiting the Decision of the Ontario Municipal Board.

It is over two years since the water commission, with much flourishing of trumpets, announced that all wires in the downtown section of London would go underground, and that the city would no longer have the name "Forest City" applied in jest to the forest of poles that decorated (?) its downtown thoroughfares. The wires are not yet down, and prospects of putting them there are hardly the brightest, in spite of assertions on the part of the chairman of the water commission that he has great hopes that they will go down next year.

Property-owners along the main business streets, who were assessed for the conduit construction costs, are wondering when they will begin to receive something for the money that has literally been sunk in the ground.
At present only the wires of the ornamental street lighting service are underground, and all others—telegraph, power, light, and so on, are very much above ground.

"We are getting tired of this
monkeying," declared a Richmond
street property-owner this morning.
"Here the conduits have been practically useless for years. We want to know when we are going to get something for our money?"

"As I understand the situation the water commission will have to levy
another local improvement tax on all of us who paid for the conduit construction, in order that cable can be purchased. If that is the case, the
sooner they start on it the better."

Awaiting Board's Decision.
The explanation of the chairman of the water commission is to the effect
that while the commission has power
to put the London electric wires underground and also its own, the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board has not yet decided what the telegraph
companies will have to do. Therefore,
the said commission is waiting a decision from that board.

"If we put the cables into the con-
the private lighting systems served by
the present overhead system," said the
chairman. "We don't like to do that till
we have a large number of customers
on these streets. With the conduits,
the power service would have to come from the bottom of the stores and
buildings instead of from the top."

In reply to a query, the chairman
said that this change had been comtemplated before the conduits were
put down.

"Oh my, yes; we knew all about the change before we went ahead with the conduits," he said. He also denied that the conduits had been practically a useless expense for the past two years.

"Why, we used them for the street-
lighting system," was his defence.

"SAFETY FIRST" TO
BE MOTTO OF THE
GRAND TRUNK MEN

Practical Talk Given Wednesday
Night to Large Body of Railwaymen.

REDUCE THE DEATH TOLL

Declares That in the Last Analysis Safety Depends on the Human Element.

"Safety first," and (it might be added)
"last and all the time," was the theme of a most inspiring and instructive practical talk by Mr. G. Bradshaw,
safety engineer of the Grand Trunk
Railroad, to a gathering of employees
of the road, and their wives and
friends at the Auditorium Wednesday night. Every employee on the division
that could be spared from duty was there, and the hall was packed. A special train from Sarnia, which brought
the men from that terminal and points
on route came in with three hundred on board. Men from every branch of the service were represented, and listened with the keenest interest to what
the safety engineer had to say. A safety committee is to be formed immediately in this division, composed of the superintendent of the division, and representatives from every branch, whose
work will be to carry on a campaign
of education among the employees in an effort to reduce to the vanishing point, if possible, preventable accidents.

Ways and Means.
Ways and means of doing this was the subject of Mr. Bradshaw's talk. His arguments and statements were clear-
cut and forcible in the highest degree,
and couched in familiar railroad language, his remarks simply carried his hearers with him. It was an inspiration to anyone interested in reducing the grim toll of deaths and injuries
brought about in the operation of our railroads.

Mr. Bradshaw's talk was followed by a number of excellent lantern slides,
showing actual conditions in many of
the yards and shops, the right and wrong ways of doing things, and how
in countless small ways a little care
and forethought would prevent accidents which at the present time are so
frequent.

A Great Question.
"If there is anyone in this audience who doubts that the question of
personal injuries is not a great one,"
said Mr. Bradshaw, "I would like him
to take out his watch and look at it
for just 24 seconds, and then try to realize that somewhere in that time,
either in the United States or Canada,
some railroad man is hurt or injured
— even seconds from year's end to
year's end."

He then proceeded to illustrate in
most practical terms how this awful percentage could be reduced, and the secret lay not in the safety devices, although these were a great help. "One
out of every eight of you are injured
during a year, in handling cars that
are so loaded down with safety devices
that scarcely any more could be devised or thought of to make them
safer," he said.

The Human Element.
The weak point lay in the human element. The lives of every employee as well as the passengers, was in the hands of his fellow-employees. Carelessness on the part of one might bring
death or worse than death to any number of the others, and it was his
duty as a man to see that his
task was performed exactly right,
and when he observed another employee taking chances, to speak to him
and endeavor to impress him with the chances he was taking. Faults in the equipment should also be looked for
