

GOVERNMENT MUST FIX BLAME FOR HOME BANK CRASH

Yes, We Have No Gimme Girls Is Report of Local Sheiks

"Have Some" Maiden More Popular Here—Chatham's Case Not Ours.

CINCH FOR BOYS

Small Proportion of "Grabbers" Due to Surplus of Nice Girls.

"Gimme" girls may be successful in plunging Chatham youths into debt and desperation, but local young men have long since employed methods which have practically exterminated the "gimme" variety from this city. In fact the damozels of London are better known as "have some" girls, according to reports from experts.

Local youths are inclined to believe the existence of a surplus of flappers in this city accounts for the moderate demands the average London miss makes on the generosity of her movie escorts. Anyway, the boys declare, far from being of the "gimme" ilk, London girls realize that the path to popularity lies on the "have some" route. They claim the young ladies fairly pamper and spoil their beaux with all kinds of generous offers, such as "have some candy," "have some chicken," and "have some bananas."

Once upon a time, it is said, the ladies were accustomed to ask many favors from London sheiks, but when the invariable reply was, "Nothin' doin'" the girls reversed their tactics. Now when a young man requests a young lady to accompany him to a movie he expects the young lady's papa to pay half the expense. And for every movie he takes her to he gets a return invitation for a chicken dinner or 5 o'clock tea. As a matter of fact, local ladies say they get more for their money in this regard than any other known class of humanity.

"Gimme" Girls Out of Date. "The 'gimme' girl is out of date," the masculine devotee of pictures, peanuts and powder puffs, declared. "As soon as a girl gets the reputation for 'bleeding' her admirers, they immediately drop her. In London, the popular dames are those with substantial bank accounts, who invite lovers of all kinds of bun feasts, card games, etc. I know on good authority that some girls spend half their pocket money on wines, so as to have a supply on hand whenever prospective fiancés come to the house."

Another 5 o'clock tea specialist made the statement that 90 per cent of social functions given in London

One Out of Seven Gets Divorce

Associated Press Despatch. Washington, Oct. 3.—One divorce to 7.8 marriages in the United States last year is the record disclosed today by the census bureau's marriage and divorce survey, the first since 1918, when there was only one divorce to almost 9.3 marriages. There were 1,128,418 marriages recorded last year, while in 1918 there were 1,040,684. Divorces granted last year totalled 148,554 for the whole country, against 112,036 in 1918, an increase of 26,518.

were arranged and paid for by girls. Taxi fares are the least of masculine worries. In fact, a large proportion of ladies in this city have the use of father's Ford and the custom of a girl calling for her escort is fast gaining ground. If a young woman cannot afford to buy a car she must accept the alternative of going to dances with a girl friend. Some actually purchase their own dance tickets.

Dutch Treats in Favor. One broad-minded husband hunter declared this was as it should be. It is obviously unfair to make a man pay for all the pleasures before marriage, when he must shoulder the bulk of the expenses after marriage. Besides, London ladies have discovered that in the scramble for sweethearts the girl who "pays as she goes" stands the better chance of annexing a good man.

Local youths may be accused of being "lightweights," but they claim it is all a question of political economy. The girls, they say, have always been taught to believe that "the wronger" and they might as well get accustomed to it in youth. Verily, London ladies have discovered by experience that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach, and a million miles removed from his pocketbook. Of course, an occasional "gimme" girl breaks into the social circles once in a while, but her taboo sign is immediately pasted on her.

Of recent months the arrangement finding favor among the young folks is "Dutch treating." This means that when a lad takes out his lass the lady pays her own fare, and the lad pays for the return trip in one minute more than 21 hours.

Associated Press Despatch. Mexico City, Oct. 3.—The lobbies of the lower house of congress were the scene of a lively battle yesterday afternoon, when two deputies fought out a personal dispute with revolvers, causing representatives and spectators to join in with the belief that the struggle had political significance. Order was finally restored without casualties other than a bullet wound in the leg of Deputy Rueda Leon.

CURATOR AND ATTORNEY PLACE RESPONSIBILITY WITH THE GOVERNMENT

A. B. Barker Accredits Crash To Assets of Home Bank Being Insufficient to Meet Liabilities When Crisis in Institution's Affairs Arose.

SUBMIT TO DRASTIC QUESTIONING

Special to The Advertiser. Toronto, Oct. 3.—Although the report of the Home Bank failure issued at noon today from the office of A. B. Barker, curator, does not recommend what course of action should be taken to decide where to place the onus of responsibility, the curator and his solicitor, Glyn Osler, K. C., put the matter strictly up to the Ottawa government. Messrs. Barker and Osler submitted themselves to a drastic cross-examination by twenty newspaper reporters present after the report was issued. Scores of times they gave the answer: "I do not know" when pressed for important information.

They were asked, however, that the wrecked bank had not made adequate provision for losses during the past five years. Two copies of the report were handed to each newspaper and the Canadian Press. The first question was "What does your report disclose in relation to the report to the government—i. e., in June?" "We have not attempted to compare it with the figures of the last year," replied Mr. Barker. "There is a deficiency accounted for in the liquidation of liabilities, either by payment out of deposits or realization of securities, or the offset of securities against claims."

SAYS DAUGHTER ACCUSED FATHER OF KILLING BABE

Detroit Woman Alleges Alphonse Vlemminck Wanted in Belgium.

POLICE SKEPTICAL. Special to The Advertiser. Detroit, Oct. 3.—The Belgian Government entered the Greatrex baby mystery Tuesday when Mrs. Rose Mark, a Belgian, told police that in 1912 a man known as Alphonse Vlemminck, whose description in some respects partly answers that of the man held here as the murder suspect, fled from Ghent, Belgium, to France, just before his 14-year-old daughter made a death-bed confession, naming her father as the murderer of her child.

After the girl's confession and death, Belgian police found a tiny baby buried in the mire near their home. Whether Vlemminck is the man who killed his daughter's illegitimate child in Belgium in 1912 will require time to ascertain, but the facts of the two cases cause police to believe that perhaps he is. They follow the crime committed in Ghent, Belgium, where Vlemminck came from. It took place in 1912. Vlemminck came to the United States in 1913. The murderer fled to France. Vlemminck's papers show he sailed from France and not Belgium. The names are absolutely identical.

Says Features Same. Mrs. Marks says the Belgian child murderer's description tallies with that of Vlemminck. When shown a picture of Vlemminck she said the features were the same, but she would not identify him positively as the man who had been since she saw the picture of the Belgian murderer in a Brussels paper. Police are skeptical of her story, but can assign no reason why she should attempt to connect the two cases.

The Belgian consulate here has taken up the investigation, and pictures of Vlemminck will be sent to Brussels. Mrs. Mark's story is such as to make the timid lie awake until the sun is forgotten. After the child was born, the father, being the only attendant during the ordeal, the girl was forced to witness the murder of her own babe.

Father Flees Country. Hysterical, she fled. Her father, learning that she had been apprehended by police, escaped to France later in a hospital just after she told police of the murder. Vlemminck, when faced with the facts in the 1912 case, denied that he knew anything of it, that he had a daughter who died in Belgium, or that he was ever accused of an crime prior to his arrest here. He has a married daughter in Belgium, he said. Mrs. Mark will be taken to the police station today in an effort to identify him. The accused man, when questioned, reiterated his oft-repeated story that he had given the baby to a "strange couple" from Pennsylvania.

Police dogs taken to the Vlemminck home in an effort to trace the baby could find no clue to aid detectives working on the case. Police officials say that too much time had elapsed for the dogs to be of any service.

PAROLEE YOUTH GIVEN ANOTHER CHANCE BY COURT

Magistrate Graydon Frees Harry McAllister on Charge of Vagrancy. PROMISES TO WORK

"Give a dog a bad name and it will hang him" is an old saying that went by the boards in police court today, when Harry McAllister, a ticket-of-leave man, picked up on a charge of vagrancy by the local police, was given another chance to make good by Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon. McAllister, a well-dressed young chap, was arrested a week ago for acting in a suspicious manner late at night near the residence of the late Dr. C. S. Moore, corner of Wellington and King streets. A barber shop in the vicinity had been entered a few nights before, and the police were on the qui vive for suspicious characters.

McAllister when he appeared in court last week said he had worked at the Ford factory in Detroit for the past 17 months, but fell down badly in his story when he said he had been assembling speedometers for Ford, which didn't come equipped that way. Admits Serving Time. "Have you served a sentence in Canada before?" asked Mr. Graydon this morning. "Yes," admitted the prisoner. "You didn't tell me that the other day. Why?" asked the court. "I've been going straight, and I didn't want to have any more trouble," said McAllister. "You are on ticket of leave right now, aren't you?" pursued the magistrate.

"No, I was through last spring. I worked for my father in Meaford, but there isn't much doing there; it's only a small place." The prisoner stated that he was with the Johnny Jones shows, but didn't want to go south with them. "I know what it's like in prison, and I don't want to go back," pleaded McAllister.

Given Another Chance. "What will you do, chief?" asked Mr. Graydon. "We don't want him here," replied Chief Elwell. "How about sending you to your father in Meaford?" asked the magistrate. "I don't want to have to live on my father," replied the prisoner. I can get a job in Detroit, I think. "I'll give you a chance," decided the magistrate, and he was rewarded with a grateful look by the worried-looking young man in the prisoner's box.

THIEVES STEAL AUTO OF WESTMINSTER MAN

Push Car Hundred Yards to Road Before Starting Motor.

Motor car thieves, believed to be three in number, visited the garage of A. M. Scott, a farmer residing on concession 2 of Westminster Township last night at 11:30 and stole his machine. The men pushed the car 100 yards away from the premises before starting the motor, and have not been seen since. The license number is 70-386, while the serial number of the car is 359093.

Earlier in the evening the same trio, it is believed, tried to steal the automobile of D. Lane, a neighbor of Mr. Scott. There was no gasoline in the car, and they were scared away from the place when Mr. Lane got out of bed to investigate the noise at the garage. Residents of Wilton Grove are up in arms over the matter, stating that Westminster Township is abandoned without police protection at the present time.

GERMAN TROOPS KILL MONARCHISTS' PLOT Arrest Two Hundred Men Charged With Formulating Coup d'Etat. Special Cable to The Advertiser. Berlin, Oct. 3.—The military today arrested 200 men in the neighborhood of Doberitz camp, outside Berlin, charging them with gathering for an attempted military coup against the government. Authorities said the plot was similar to that at Kuestrin, which was broken by the loyalty of government troops. Doberitz was the starting point of the von Kapp coup of March, 1920, and always has been a center of monarchist plotting. It has a large and important garrison. An official statement of the events took place at Kuestrin today, bearing out in detail the previous despatches. The fate of the 300 plotters taken prisoner, when the outbreak finally was crushed yesterday morning, has not yet been made known.

Charles Baker, who will be 84 on Christmas Day, is having heaps of trouble with his wife, who had him haled to court today for a breach of the wives' maintenance act. The case was started in open court and concluded in the privacy of the magistrate's office. Mr. Graydon dismissed the action. "How do you live?" questioned the court. "My daughter keeps me," replied the prisoner. "When were you married?" pursued the magistrate. "I've been married to Jennie Maude Baker for two years," replied the defendant, vigorously tapping his cane. "It wasn't the impetuosity of youth that led you into your second marriage was it?" asked Mr. Graydon, with a smile. "This was too much for Chief Birrell, who turned his face away so the vulgar public would not see him smile. "Well, she wanted me to sell the place, and I didn't want to," declared Mr. Baker. "All right, I'll hear the rest of it in my office," said Mr. Graydon, thereby cheating the spectators of the balance of an interesting case.

SAYS GOVERNMENT FORESAW CRASH OF DEFUNCT BANK

East Calgary Labor Member Attacks Administration at Ottawa. RAPS "DOMINATION"

Canadian Press Despatch. Winnipeg, Oct. 3.—William Irvine, the Labor member for East Calgary, last night fired the first shot in the verbal barrage which is expected to continue until Oct. 24, when Hon. E. J. McMurray, recently appointed to the King cabinet as solicitor-general, will seek reconsideration of the electorate of North Winnipeg in a by-election. Speaking on behalf of Ald. A. A. Heaps, the Labor candidate, Mr. Irvine gave his reasons why Mr. McMurray should not be re-elected. His characterization of the King administration as one of "stand-pat policy which had outlived its usefulness," and to extend its tenure of office would be to retard the progress of the country. "The Liberal government represents a few eastern financiers, who completely control and dominate the Dominion, and indorsement of Mr. McMurray would mean the return of a representative of finance," he said. Declaring the blame for the failure of the Home Bank must be left at the doors of the King government, which, he asserted, knew of the impending crash, and was aware of the fact that further failures would occur during the next ten years under the existing banking system.

DISCUSS CASE OF THE HOME BANK

Meeting of Depositors and Shareholders is Held at St. Thomas.

BLAME GOVERNMENT

Special to The Advertiser. St. Thomas, Oct. 2.—A meeting of the depositors and shareholders of the Home Bank was held at the City Hall tonight. E. C. Saunders was chosen to represent the St. Thomas depositors' organization, at the meeting of the representatives from the different banks and organizations, established by T. E. Weidon of Lindsay, the solicitor for the depositors.

Mr. Weidon, in his address, blamed the government for the failure, for not furnishing proper inspection, and said that at the meeting of the bankers' association three or four months before the failure, the public were told that all the banks were secure. He stated that after the failure of the Home Bank, a petition, signed by thousands of people, had been forwarded, asking for government inspection, but without results. He explained that the assets of the bank, if placed in the market now, would have to be sacrificed, but other banks would take over the Home Bank's assets and realize on them, undoubtedly things would be better for the other banks, as well as for the depositors. He also explained that it was regrettable that managers and directors of banks should be allowed to make personal advances of money to themselves, as was the case with the Home Bank. He was of the opinion that the bankers' association should be made responsible for the break. The organization, so far, had three purposes in mind—to lay the blame for the failure on the government; to place a guarantee on the government in case of failure, insuring depositors against loss; that the government in the event of a failure of the $3,000,000 deposited by them in favor of depositors.

The officers of the local organization were: Chairman, J. E. Lang; secretary, J. E. Nelson; treasurer, Dr. T. C. Triggler; delegate to Toronto, E. C. Saunders. Three other members were: Mr. and Mrs. Logan—were appointed to form a complete executive along with other officials.

A similar meeting was held at Lawrence station, the executive consisting of: Chairman, F. W. Miller; secretary, R. McEwen; treasurer, A. G. McEwen; representative, J. McEwen; and a committee consisting of Arch. Turner, Angus Turner and Dan McEwen.

The same resolutions were passed. With one additional: That a branch of the Provincial Bank be opened at Lawrence station, and that a copy of the resolutions be forwarded to Premier Ferguson.

Council Meeting. At the regular meeting of the city council this evening it was decided to furnish means for the disposal of the water from the fire-floods the homes on Elm street near First avenue.

Representative of the Elgin County Plowman's Association granted $50 to furnish prizes for the plowing competition to be held here in the early part of the month. Elgin County came very near obtaining the international plowing meet next year, only losing it by two votes.

The proposition of holding an old boys' and old girls' reunion in St. Thomas in 1924 met with the whole-hearted approval of the council, the secretary being asked to reply to the trades and labor council to this effect.

Alderman Stoggett was appointed chairman of a committee to arrange polling booths for the coming election and was instructed to have them placed as far as possible, so as not to involve extra expense in rentals.

Attempt Holdup.

Word was received in this city today of the attempted holdup of L. W. Moedinger, a Refinery merchant, of Sparta, over the week-end.

During the evening two strangers were noticed in the garage, but nothing particular was connected with their appearance. Mr. Moedinger was called late in the evening from his home, to supply gasoline for two men. On his way home from the store after supplying the wants of the strangers he was surprised to find a man with a revolver on him. Turning around he saw two men approaching who fired a shot at him as he said: "Come over here." Mr. Moedinger continued backing towards his own gate, and a second shot was fired at him with the same demand. About 100 yards from the gate of an auto came into play on the two men, and they turned and fled. The provincial police were notified, but nothing has resulted as yet.

Hints British Are in Favor of Increasing Preference in Trade With Dominions

By GEORGE HAMBLETON. Canadian Press Cable.

London, Eng., Oct. 2.—"For us," frankly declared Sir Philip Lloyd-Greame, president of the board of trade, in opening today's inaugural session of the economic conference, "the vital problem is the problem of markets; the restoration of old methods of new markets."

It was essentially the development of inter-imperial trade that the conference discussed today. The speeches were merely a preliminary business, yet they indicated the lines of possible action. As was observed tonight, the key is in the lock, it is now to be turned.

For Great Britain to restore steady employment, Sir Philip emphasized she must do something more than wipe out the deficit on her export trade. Her population has increased. It was necessary to emphasize that the Empire settlement, "a great objective in itself and an essential step to the development of imperial resources."

Working out of a business-like scheme of credit facilities and financial co-operation between Great Britain and the dominions, "in the opinion of the speaker, is the only share and which will be to our mutual advantage."

Speeding up of development both in the dominions and the crown colonies. Sir Philip was quoted in his reference to imperial preference, yet he hinted at Great Britain's willingness to give some extension. We have definitely established the principle of imperial preference," he observed. "And we wish to apply that principle within the scope which is practicable for us so as to stimulate still further the development of imperial resources."

When came their significant addition: "Any increase which is possible for you to make in the rate of preference will be of real value to us."

Premier King, the official text of whose speech was not issued till late in the evening, referred to what Canada had already done in regard to the British preference, and he said that the increase granted at the last session of the Canadian Parliament. "We had in mind then," said Premier King, "the development of the trade in all-iron route, but had also very much in mind the action of the British Government in undertaking to take over the responsibility for the cost of our cattle into the British markets here. Throughout, the Canadian attitude was in favor of depositors.

The conference adjourned until Thursday. Empire settlement is the order of the day for the first topic considered.

RESERVES JUDGMENT IN FIRST COURT CASE

Judge Judd Will Examine Further Into Facts in the Seal-Borland Action.

Judge Judd reserved judgment in the first case on the docket of the non-jury sessions of the county court, which occupied all the morning sittings of the court today. Court was adjourned at noon until 2 p.m. The case in question involved James C. Seal, plaintiff, and Bertha Borland as defendant. Mrs. Borland possessed of certain furniture which Mr. Seal had placed in the house in which she lives and which she had bought with the money of Mr. Seal. She gave her the money to buy the furniture and she thought that she actually owned it. The judge, in reserving his decision, rendered no decision. McEvoy, Judd & Co. appeared for the plaintiff and J. M. Donahue for the defendant.

HAS NARROW ESCAPE FROM BEING DROWNED

Walbridge, Oct. 2.—On Monday afternoon Mr. C. E. Burlingham, living on the East Branch, had a narrow escape from drowning. Mr. Burlingham, who is an aged farmer, was crossing the River Sydenham in a small flat-bottom boat when it over-balanced and fell into the water under the boat. Young John Davis, twelve years old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Davis, who lives close by, witnessed the accident and immediately swam out to Mr. Burlingham, and helped him to get out of the water. But for the young lad's timely and heroic action Mr. Burlingham would have been in great danger of drowning. It is the fact that he was unable to swim.

On Friday evening Dr. Phair will give a lecture on medical inspection and social services under the auspices of the Women's Institute.

GERMAN LEADER FALSIFIES Political Situation in Country Now in State of Extreme Confusion.

Special Cable to The Advertiser. Berlin, Oct. 2.—Chancellor Stresemann's efforts to construct a national parliamentary coalition, giving united approval for his proposed "economic dictatorship," have failed to win the undivided support of all the Reichstag parties, and up to a late hour tonight he is still in a state of extreme confusion.

RELUKING SUPPORT

At the end of a day devoted to party caucuses and deliberations over the chancellor's "authorisation bill" by virtue of which he would receive sweeping authority in dictating economic measures, the United-Socialists informed him that while they were not altogether opposed to some of the cardinal features of his economic program, they were opposed to the chancellor's intention of putting into effect the bill by means of a resolution demanding its immediate repeal.

Upon receipt of this ultimatum, the chancellor immediately proceeded to Premier Ebert and apprised him of the situation. Ebert, who is put into execution would jeopardize his majority. After a long conference with the president, the cabinet again went into session, but practically nothing reaching a compromise if possible.

The parliamentary situation tonight is not unlike that when the Cuno government retired after the Socialists had informed Chancellor Cuno that they could not avoid supporting the communists' "no confidence" resolution. While the demand by the Socialists that the existing state of emergency be raised is viewed as a step towards a radical program and a high price for the radicals' further participation in the present coalition, it also throws a fierce spotlight on the chancellor's position, which, it is assumed, will have a decisive influence on the further development of the situation.

The chancellor's position is now being demonstrated whether by Stresemann as an indispensable prerequisite for the government's salvation can be put into operation without an active working majority in the Reichstag.

It is not improbable that President Ebert in the present crisis is destined to play a historic role, inasmuch as he is putting the gravest of the nation's operation without awaiting the Reichstag's approval.

His historic role, its endurance test along the Rhine and the Ruhr and its sequel, as reflected in the contemplation of trillions wasted on the futile attempt to force the Ruhr and such leaders of big business as were not wholly blind to the situation, are simply launched through an economic dictatorship, which would be removed from the government by the Reichstag.

Special to The Advertiser. Wallaceburg, Oct. 2.—Mrs. Rose Toulouse of Big Point was this afternoon fined $250 and costs or 6 months in jail, by Magistrate Carroll, for selling liquor. Crown Attorney H. D. Smith prosecuted, and C. M. LeBel defended. The defendant pleaded not guilty.

This case came to view following the arrest of Mrs. Toulouse, a woman named William Charron, for drunkenness. Some time after being edged in the Chatham jail, Charron made a statement to the effect that he had bought his liquor from Mrs. Toulouse for $2. In the witness stand she strongly denied this, stating that when Charron arrived at her house he was drunk, and offered her $2 to fill up his already drunk. She refused, telling him she did not intend to sell liquor. A witness for the defence, Albert Belleville, stated that when he drove up to the Toulouse house at the request of Charron (Charron was not drunk, neither did he see him with any bottle, nor was he drunk when Belleville left him at his home later.

The defending counsel asked for the minimum penalty, because it was the woman's first offence, and the crown attorney asked for a maximum. Her son Russell Toulouse was fined $200 and costs or 3 months in jail for having liquor in his house. He pleaded guilty. Both mother and son have chosen the jail term, and were taken to Chatham by Chief Peters.

William Charron was fined $100 and costs for consuming liquor in his house, and also for being drunk. The fine was paid.

Then We Shall Reduce the Debt.

Hon. Thomas White has answered Premier King's charge that the government of the day did not pay anything toward the cost of the war during the period of 1914-18. Mr. White may be satisfied that his explanation is good, but it does not cover the field in a wide way. It does not answer the charge that the problem of the government of today faces is the result of years of deficits piled up for it since 1911.

Table with columns: Receipts, Disbursements, Deficit. Rows for years 1915-1923 and totals for 1915-22.

The task that faces the King government, and more particularly its finance minister, Mr. Fielding, is meeting interest and providing principal to provide for eight years of war and demobilization. To this is added the deficits of 1912, 1913 and 1914.

No matter what Sir Thomas White or any other man may say, the fact is there that the present administration has not only to carry on the affairs of government but handle the total of $1,860,113,241 of debt. It is a big, worth-while task, and the extent to which there has been success can best be judged by the fact that this year's deficit is hardly a third of 1921, and far less than half of 1922.

The next step will be that of a positive reduction of the national debt, and if Mr. Fielding has been able to scale his expenses down to the point of balancing receipts and expenditures, there is good reason to believe he can go on and make the expenses come well below the receipts.

Wilton Grove Non-Support Case Aired at Much Length in Police Court.

VERDICT WITHHELD

There is an ancient popular song that mentions existence among the cows and chickens as "being the life," but Mrs. Mabel Learn and her children of Wilton Grove, R. R. No. 2, would certainly not warble the refrain with much zest...

My client is quite prepared to take his wife back, but the trouble is she won't live on the farm, stated W. G. R. Bartram, appearing for Mr. Learn.

The children can't be brought up in terror of their father, declared the court. "If they can't get on together, they should separate."

Questioned by Mr. Bartram, witness stated she never objected to living on the farm, but that it would be much nicer if they had city conveniences.

The daughter, in the witness box, substantiated her mother's story, stating she was afraid to live with her father.

"Yes, and it was the dirtiest house I ever saw in my life when my wife was away," declared Learn. "However, I didn't expect much."

"I don't want the girl to school for five more years. Why she won't even gather the eggs at night," concluded Learn.

Two days later all Lodi turned out to pay their last respects to their fellow townsman. All that is, except Sheriff Hicks and Deputy District Attorney Sanford.

The latter points out that while the official figures submitted by his assessors in their last report show the population as 61,887, or an increase of 492 persons during the year, this by no means represents the entire population of Lodi and its suburbs.

When all these people have been considered, without doubt the population easily to 65,000, although technically the city's official population would be about 62,000.

It is practically impossible to arrive at a real estimate until the official census is taken.

GUELPH WILL COMPLETE ATHLETIC FIELD THIS FALL

Special to The Advertiser.
Guelph, Oct. 2.—A decision was made by the city council at a lengthy session last night to complete work on Guelph's new $25,000 athletic park this fall. Arrangements were completed for the erection of steel and concrete grandstands with a seating capacity of 1,200 at an estimated cost of $16,000. The ground for the athletic field has already been leveled, and the 1924 sport season will be ushered in by the new inclosure, which is to be located at the north end of Exhibition Park.

STALENESS ALIBI CANNOT BE USED
Neither Giants Nor Yankees Are Overworked This Year.

By JOHN B. FOSTER, Special to The Advertiser.
Copyright.

New York, N. Y., Oct. 2.—The time-honored alibi of staleness through overwork cannot be advanced by either Yankees or Giants this year if one club fails to show up well in the big series. That apology has been trotted out year after year, sometimes in advance of the series, when a pennant winner had to work and pitch up to the closing days of the season in order to clinch his hold on the bunting.

But it's just the other way round this season. Timid folk are beginning to fear that the players of both teams have too much time to kill before the big event is called, and that they will be distraught when they venture forth upon the diamond, that they will have to be introduced to bat and ball before they will be able to solve the problem, "Why are we here?" Both clubs have been under wraps now for some days.

Rest Handicaps.
As a matter of history there is more to be feared from too much rest than ever there has been from too close proximity of the season's end and the series' beginning. No player that is not a quitter ever suffered because he had a series right on the heels of winning a championship. Arms, hands, feet and pitcher's legs were not likely to be backfire if you are not warmed up.

But the Giants were more handicapped when Herzog took a month's rest before the series than they would have been had they played one game in a second. Herzog never came back after the vacation he took to get on edge for the series. Lambeau, who pitched for both teams, possibly the pitchers of both teams will gain a little by the long intervals that must elapse before the series starts a week from Wednesday, but even that is doubtful. Sometimes a pitcher loses more in control than he gains in rest when he is dropped from the excitement of a real game.

Control Needed.
Never listen to the man who says the pitcher can't bear. He can't bear through a series without control. There is any time when the professional ball player plays a conservative game in a series, when a pitcher loses more in control than he gains in rest when he is dropped from the excitement of a real game.

Third baseman Kamm of the Chicago American squad led the record for assists in that league in Sunday's game against St. Louis. So Willie, the $100,000 California slugger, did do it. He pitched his first big league year to prove that he was a first-class singles in his fingers. His Sunday record was nine assists, a record first set by Turner of Cleveland in June, 1916, equaled four days later by Viti of Detroit, and again, June 18, 1920, by Weaver of Chicago. All the nine assists, you will note, were made on the pitcher's side. The eastern clubs of the league have not produced a player yet who could get that far up the ladder.

Down the Line In All Sports

Girls' games, at least in London, seem to call forth more vindictive rooting than any other sport attractions are able to call forth. Last night's Brownies-All Stars game at the Armories brought much unnecessary partisan rooting, in which hisses were intermingled.

If boys' sports caused this sort of uproar there might not be so many deficits suffered.

The batteries for the opening game of the world's series will be: Giants—Mazuma and Kale. Yankees—Dough and Cash.

Jack Powell, Mint League ump, who strutted throughout the season in Halligan's circuit, umpired his first game in the majors the other day. McGraw used a rookie lineup, and the crowd in a spiteful mood took their ill-humor out on Powell. He was handed the rawzberry with vinegar on it.

WON'T RACE ZEV SHORT DISTANCE
Final 3-Year-Old Trials Seem Unlikely Now.

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, Oct. 2.—Harry F. Sinclair, owner of Zev, declared this afternoon in a statement that he would not race his colt at a mile and a half against My Own at that distance after Oct. 20, the date of the international race, and the loss of which horse is chosen to meet Papirus.

Mr. Sinclair's attitude was interpreted as removing the likelihood of a trial race, unless Admiral Grayson should consent to the shorter distance. When deciding the issue now at a mile and a half, Mr. Sinclair said he would be ready to race Zev against My Own at that distance after Oct. 20, the date of the international race, and the loss of which horse is chosen to meet Papirus.

COX PILOTS ETHELINDA TO FUTURITY VICTORY

The Senator in Second Heat Equal Stake and World's Records.

Associated Press Despatch.
Lexington, Ky., Oct. 2.—The Good Time stable's Ethelinda of Goshen, Kentucky Futurity, won the Kentucky Futurity, after one of the most sensational races ever run in the history of the breed. The Senator took the lead in the second heat, and won the stake and the world's record for a 2-year-old filly. Ethelinda won the third heat, leading all the way in the last heat.

The unfinished Walnut Hall can be compared with the best of the breed. The summa of the race was $10,000.

Luis Is Peevish Over 'Marriage'

Has No Senora Parked Away in Argentine.

By FAIR PLAY.
Special to The Advertiser.
New York, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Luis Angel Firpo was all set up today because one or two of the morning papers listed his name as having reported the fact that he had applied for his first citizenship papers. It was a new marriage through the line, "I am not married," by which he had jumped to the conclusion that the Wild Bird of the Pampas had a senora parked away in the Argentine. If he was not wild before, he was after he was told that he was reported as being married.

Why he should be so excited is a mystery, unless he has some nice American girl picked out to take care of his money for him, which would explain also why he is applying for citizenship papers.

It seems to us that the Senator pulled a prize before in declaring his intention of becoming a citizen of the United States on the eve of his departure for the New World. When they hear the news in Argentina they will begin taking down the pictures and the bunting they have put up in his honor.

WON'T RACE ZEV SHORT DISTANCE

Final 3-Year-Old Trials Seem Unlikely Now.

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, Oct. 2.—Harry F. Sinclair, owner of Zev, declared this afternoon in a statement that he would not race his colt at a mile and a half against My Own at that distance after Oct. 20, the date of the international race, and the loss of which horse is chosen to meet Papirus.

SARNIA FAILS TO LAND TWO WALLACEBURG MEN

Special to The Advertiser.
Sarnia, Oct. 2.—Sarnia intermediates, with a strong aggregation, were figuring on an even greater strength through the addition of Roy Stonehouse, the Wallaceburg star, to their ranks. Through the kindness of an announcement made by Stonehouse, who was here last week-end, that he has cast in his lot with Petrolia, along with Bill Gordon, Ed Wallaceburg half. This will put kick into the Hard Oil, who look like being well padded for the local war of the roses.

BEGIN DRILLING FOR OIL AT SPRY

Operations On a Large Scale
Are Starting On 6,000 Acres of Land.

RUMORS CONFIRMED

Special to The Advertiser.
Wlarton, Oct. 2.—Oil drilling operations on a large scale at Spry in the township of Eastner are being commenced this week by a Chicago firm.
The oil drill and other equipment are expected to arrive this week in Wlarton.

J. H. Cook, the township clerk, is securing 20 teams to move the plant to the vicinity of Spry, where operations are expected to commence as soon as arrangements are completed.
The men in charge of the outfit are confident that success will reward them, and have secured a block of land on which to drill composed of nearly 6,000 acres. The equipment required two cars to bring it by rail, the boiler alone weighing over six tons, and good bodywood is required in large quantities for fuel.
For many years there have been rumors of plans to drill for oil in this section. Considerable money is being spent in the venture, proving the good faith of the company engaged. A Mr. Shaw of Chicago is in charge of the operations, and the whole neighborhood is very much interested in the venture.

VERNA KEEN PRESENTED WITH COMPETITION PRIZE

Before the students of the London East Collegiate Institute assembled in the central high school auditorium yesterday afternoon, Miss Verna Keen was presented with a five-dollar gold piece as first prize in the school color competition recently held. Miss Keen chose green and white as the colors, which will be representative of the new eastern collegiate. Miss Dorothy Williams and Miss Estelle Pettigrew won second and third prizes in the competition, and each was presented with a book by Principal O'Neil.
I. Goldstick made the presentation of first prize, and in a brief address told the pupils how the new college would rank alongside the Central and South Collegiates in every department of high school life.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S LEAGUE CONFERS

Session Opens At St. Marys
With Large Attendance of Delegates.

TALK ON MISSIONS

Special to The Advertiser.
St. Marys, Oct. 2.—The 15th biennial convention of the London conference Young People's League opened here today very enthusiastically.
Registering of the delegates started at 9 o'clock this morning, and before night over 125 had entered their names. These came from the following places: Monkton, Wheatley, Listowel, Clinton, Millbank, Gorrie, West Monkton, Lucknow, London, Charing
Cross, Bayfield, Warrick, Bethel,
West Lorne, Sharon, Gesto, Ethel,
Stratford, Wardsville, Auburn, Appin, Ridgeway, Belmiller, Granton, Watford, Chatham, Blenheim, St. Thomas, Port Lampton, Toronto, Fullarton, Kingsville, Courtright, Exeter, Mount Pleasant, Thorndale, Woodham, Parkhill, Centralia, Denfield and Gowans-town.
The afternoon session opened with Mr. F. C. White, president of Chatham, in the chair. The opening devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. A. E. Moorhouse. Mr. H. E.
Dickenson, president of the local league, gave a brief but interesting address of welcome.
—Miss Sparling of China dealt in an interesting manner with the missionary work.
"There are four classes in China," she said, "the scholar, the farmer, the merchant and the soldier, but there is no place for the soldier. The Chinese believe that no good man can make a soldier."
Miss Sparling showed the progress of the work in the last two years.
This address was followed by an address of welcome on the part of the St. Marys Ministerial Association by Rev. F. W. Duggan. Departmental conferences were then called for the different rooms.
The devotional department was led by Rev. J. E. Hunter of Granton; missionary department by Miss M.
Bolla of Goderich; citizenship by Oliver Bunt of Walkerville; literary and social by Rev. A. Johnston of Warwick; intermediate by Rev. J. E.
Findlay of Courtright, and junior by Miss Florence Thompson of Cedar Springs.
Round Table Conference.
The central event of today's proceedings was the round table conference, ably conducted by Rev. F.
Langford of Toronto, secretary of the department of religious education. Rev. F. Langford is a brother of Rev. A. Johnston, who was formerly stationed here, but who is now in Peterboro.
The various subjects dealt with were: "How to get leaders for boys' work." It was suggested that these might be obtained through training camps, boys' conferences, and mentors' classes of each church. "How to get young people to invest their money properly;" "missionary text books, which are this year chiefly on Japan;" "How to get material for the program each night;" "Recreation and prayer."
In a separate room the business session of the Stratford league was held.
Rev. Mr. Doan of Ridgeway pronounced the benediction.
A very interesting missionary exhibit was on view in one of the classrooms, the opportunity being given to any delegate to purchase many of the books shown.
Evening Session.
Rev. Mr. Millson took charge of the musical program for the evening.
J. W. Hibbert, Kingsville, past president of the conference, delivered a speech on "Courage," which dealt with young people, and was much appreciated. The speaker pointed out the splendid courage shown by the Japanese in the recent earthquake in which thousands lost their lives.
A solo was rendered by A. B.
Creighton of St. Marys.
Rev. Frank Langford spoke on "The Program of Jesus and the Young People." In the course of his speech he stated that God was the center of all things, and reminded the young people to think more about God and the happiness that comes to them if friends of God.
After the program Professor W. H.
Bishop, F.R.C.O., A.R.C.M., gave an organ recital in the church.

OCTOBER SHOW OF

Featuring the Fashionable Coats In Cloth and Fur

The entire store is a glittering show of fashion this week—a wonderful display of Frenchified modes and materials making a fascinating study in Coats, Suits, Hats and Dresses—the smartest modes imaginable

The Smartness of the New Coats Is Their smartness is not only a matter of design, but a matter of tailoring and styling that is to stay. Tailoring unseen, perhaps, but therefore doubly important. The modes are distinctive—wrappy, straight of line or cape styles—richly developed in luxurious fabrics, enhanced with luxurious furs, and possessing the original details of finishing that makes a garment look expensive. You will find them very moderately-priced.

To-day I saw

Gaiety and color everywhere! For our store is wearing its newest party dress in honor of the Fall Opening Days. Isn't it rather appropriate for the store to have a new dress right after Home Sewing Week? But the materials for this dress can't be bought by the yard
—they are the side flaming red and gold of maple trees, the deep brown of butrus-es, the exotic
plumage of birds of Paradise, and an effective tricolor of hangings in amber, brown and orange.

And the beauty of this attire is only a reflection of the colorful beauty and vivid loveliness of the garments which are awaiting your inspection during the Fall Opening Days. Each department offers a variety of new and beautiful things which are in readiness for your visit. I can only suggest the charm of these new arrivals.

Smart Knitted Suits from England, beautiful coats in camel's hair and velvet, coats which feature the side fastening, the flare bottom, the embroidered panels and the wrap-like lines of Fashion's dictate; luxurious collars of beaver and sable; Hudson seal coats of soft lustrous pelts with exquisite brocade linings; dainty lingerie in delicate shades; costume blouses—and the newest of chapeaux.

As for the French afternoon dresses which have just arrived they simply must have a column for themselves. And I'm going to firmly throw down my pen before it begins to describe them.
But if you want advance information about the style tendencies of the winter season, do come and see us during the Fall Opening Days.

COLLEGIATE ELECTION RESULTS ANNOUNCED

Students Display Keen Interest in Literary Society Struggle.

The excitement which has pre-valled at the London South Collegiate for the past week has come to an end in the announcement of the winners in the literary society elections.
A week ago the pupils held a nominating convention, and the nominations made, the various candidates set about the task of massing the greatest number of votes in the election, which took place yesterday afternoon. The number of placards which adorned the entrance hall of the building bespoke the lengths to which the candidates went in their efforts to capture the major positions on the literary executive.
The campaign is now past history, and the pupils and teachers alike are immensely pleased with the officers so democratically appointed by the student body. The new officers are as follows: President, Donna Gracey; vice-president, Mrs. Johnston; secretary, Lillian Westlake; treasurer, Willard Stanley. The counsellors are as follows: First year, Madeline Dickmeyer; Elizabeth Orchard; second year, Grace Cape, W. L. Smith, third year, Maurice George, Alex.
Fleming. Fourth year counsellors to be elected later.

eight o'clock. Mr. Switzer's car had a rear wheel completely knocked off and the body was badly dented. The Michigan car suffered a bent front

MUSICAL ART INSTITUTE TO COMPLETE PROGRAM

First Rehearsal of Society Will Be Held Wednesday Night.

The program of the Institute of Musical Art for this season will be completed on Wednesday evening, October 3, when they will hold their first rehearsal. The Musical Art Society choir has just completed arrangements for the purchase of the library of music of the Orpheus Society of Toronto, which is a valuable collection of works.
The Schubert Choir of Brantford, a similar organization, is purchasing a supply of this music also, and therefore the whole may be heard both in London and Brantford as a system of exchange may be arranged.
About 50 works were included in the purchase suitable for mixed choirs. A conservative estimate of its present value would vary from $300 to $1,000.
Owing to the fact that the Orpheus Society of Toronto is now disbanded the Musical Art Society Choir were fortunate in securing this music. Dalton Baker, who purchased the music, made a special trip to England and Europe for its selection.

CHATHAM BOYS SWEAR VENGEANCE ON CLUB

MAIDENS OF MAPLE CITY VOW THEY WILL GET EVEN WITH 'ANTI' BOYS

Chatham Girls Declare Members of League In For Fine Trimming. DENY CHARGES

Claim Youths in Their Home City Not Reckless Spenders.

Special to The Advertiser by a Staff Reporter.

Chatham, Oct. 3.—"Just let the boys wait till between Christmas and New Year's, that all. They have tried to carry out this stunt for a long time, and they will be sadly disappointed if they think they will be able to go out with us then. They won't."

With the above words, one of the girls who was responsible for the sending of the "in memoriam" to the Anti-Feminist League of this city, voiced her opinion of the stunt that five prominent young men of the city are now enacting.

Many are the opinions voiced about the movement started by Harland Rankin, president of the club, which has forewarned the company of women or girls for the next 60 days.

The girls themselves are very determined in their intentions to make the boys suffer when the date of expiration, Christmas Day, arrives. At that time the self-inflicted vow of the young men is up, but the girls say that for all of them they can keep it because once having started, it makes no difference.

"If they consider us extravagant and think that we expect the boys to spend all their money on us, they are mistaken," said one girl, who did not wish her identity known. She was, however, one of the last of the female sex to be seen out with Mr. Rankin.

Document is Signed. This morning a legal document, plentifully signed and otherwise decorated with seals and other insignia of legality, was signed by members of the club, confirming them in their determination to have nothing to do with girls for the next two months.

All efforts to secure a document were without avail. Mr. Rankin, president, stating that it was deposited in a safe at the bank, and that up with full legal phraseology and is absolutely binding on all the members.

Some of the provisions, according to Mr. Rankin, are that none of the members shall be seen on the street with any girl, that no telephone communication be held with them, that they do not invite them to their homes, that they accept no invitations extended to a dance or other function, and that the only recognition of the boys shall be a doffing of the hat when they are passed on the street.

The girls themselves are very reticent in the matter, but they are unanimous in their decision that the boys will regret taking this step all their lives.

This morning The Advertiser representative called on some of the parents of the boys, and, without exception, treated them as a joke, although they stated that if beyond doubt, if they would, will power that was more sufficient to carry them through life.

The girls themselves do not wish their names mentioned in the Advertiser this morning, saw two senders of the mourning wreath of flowers to the boys, and the girls in the long run the boys would suffer for their folly.

"I think they do look pretty good for these boys and they took this chance of perhaps making good not without the temptation," declared Miss Hazel Rice. "They are foolish and, for one, do not think out their plans. If they do, they had to, and believe me, the amount that they got rid of in making us out did not reach very high totals."

"Another thing that enters into consideration," she continued, "and that was endorsed by the local politician, is that these boys are going to suffer in the long run, and we have the vote as at present, we will remember this action and the other man will get our vote. We certainly would not vote for any person who thought these girls were not good company and well worth anything that was spent on them."

"There are as good fish in the sea as ever were caught, and these boys will always know it, until they are chastened with all matters both political and social."

MOTORIST PAYS $3 FINE FOR PASSING STREET CAR. Arthur Hill passed a standing street car on Dundas street near the Erie fire Brass Company on the morning of Sept. 28 and paid $3 and costs in court today.

"The doors were closed," explained Mr. Hill, "and I thought you could pass a standing car when the doors were closed."

"There is always the danger that the doors will open," replied the court.

Joseph Ward, a passenger on the car, stated he was standing on the top front step when the motor car whizzed past.

Hill, who is a mere youth, produced his driving permit, and was told by the court that he shouldn't be driving a car.

ABUSIVE LANGUAGE CHARGE DISMISSED IN POLICE COURT. Mrs. Myrtle Kelly Alleges Edward Whittaker Broke Into House. GIVES REPRIMAND

Mrs. Myrtle Kelly, 413 English street, had Ed. Whittaker haled into court this morning on a charge of abusive language.

Mr. Graydon asked, "Of what are you complaining?" "About an insult," replied Mrs. Kelly. "Friday at 4:30 Mr. Whittaker, insulted me very much. I asked him why he broke into our house and he called me as low as he could call me. I asked him why he said such things, and he just smirked and laughed."

Mr. Whittaker asked Mrs. Kelly just what were the words used, and the answer made even the reporters sit up and take notice.

The Chaperon and the Girl of Today Dorothy Dix

Plant Ideals in the Heart of the Maid of Any Era and She'll Carry All the Protection She Needs in Her Own Breast.

One of the questions that most perplex mothers in these free-and-easy days is how to take care of their daughters, and protect them from the dangers into which youth and ignorance and foolishness are always liable to stumble.

In the good old times this was easy. Then mother's first duty was to be an efficient watch-dog. She kept a wary eye on her girls, and they were never permitted to stir away from her skirts unless some other reliable woman was on the job.

But now! Oh, la, la! The girls have broken their leading strings, and they've got their own latches, and mother has become a nervous prostration lying awake at night listening for them to come home, and wondering what she ought to do about it.

Some women were discussing this question the other day, and one of them said: "When I was young, no 'nice' girl went anywhere without a chaperon. Such a thing as a lot of young people going off alone together on a lark, without some older woman along, would simply have been out of the question, and as for a girl going on a long ride alone with a man—why, you would hardly have done that with your own brother, and no decent young woman would have dreamed of such a thing as going to a restaurant with a man unless she had been properly chaperoned."

"Our parents took us to balls and parties, and when young men called, our mothers received them, and helped entertain them. When I tell my daughter this, she says that, thank God, the chaperon is as extinct as the dodo, and she simply wouldn't stand for anybody shadowing her, or her in the brutal candor of youth she informed me that her beaux do not come to see me, and gave me to understand that when young men came to call my presence in the drawing room was neither expected nor desired."

"Furthermore, when I tell her how my mother looked after me when I was a girl, she gives me, and asks me if I didn't have a very dull time, and she wonders how I ever managed to get married when I was under that sort of surveillance. She further expresses the opinion that no girl who has a mother who 'queers her' that way could have a good time, or catch a husband nowadays. She says the boys simply would pass her up."

"And she's right. Look at the Blank girls. Pretty, beautifully dressed, fine dancers, attractive in every way. And their parents spend loads of money entertaining them, but they never have a particle of attention from men, because, wherever they go, mother or father is along. Father and mother take them to places of amusement and come for them. If a boy asks one of the girls to go riding, mother appears in her automobile coat and hat to go too. If a young man calls, father sits and reads his paper in the back parlor, and it's Good night! with that youth. He never comes again. Every one of those girls is being chaperoned into the spinster's retreat."

"The chaperon went into the discard with a lot of other old traditions and conventions in the war," said another woman, "and perhaps she isn't as great a loss as we think she is. Perhaps she was always more of a figurehead of respectability than any real protection, because it has always been my experience that the people who have to be watched are not worth watching. Besides, there always comes a place where the watching breaks down. If a girl is wild and glady, she will give her mother the slip somewhere and go her own way. If she has got the right sort of sense and principle, she will go straight whether her mother's eye is on her or not."

"More than that, how are you going to chaperon girls when they don't stay put as they used to? Mother can't go to work with her daughters and play propriety in a store or office. And, anyway, it's absurd to suppose that a girl who has had enough to take a college degree, or to hold down a good job, hasn't got sense enough to know how to behave herself. Of course, it terrifies us mothers to see our little young daughters venturing outside of the sheep fold without our being there to protect them, but the girls say they know how to take care of themselves, and apparently they do, for there are no more scandals than there used to be. Certainly a girl of sixteen in these days is more sophisticated and harder boiled than her grandmother is at sixty."

"I think," said the third woman, "that we have to do our chaperoning in the critic, and that we do it so well, the balance doesn't matter. I mean that a girl's character is formed by the time she is twelve years old, and if from the time that she could understand anything at all we have taught her purity of mind and body; if we have impressed on her ideals of modesty and the beauty of innocence; if we have taught her to hold her honor above her life, then we don't need to worry about the balance."

"She won't need to be watched. She has got all the protection she needs in her own breast. She will be her own chaperon and require no other."

SOCIETIES and THE HOME

Interesting Plans Made At I. O. D. E. Meetings

Plans For Winter Activities Were Made At The Initial Meetings of Many Local Chapters.

Yesterday afternoon marked the initial meetings of a number of the primary chapters of the Daughters of the Empire. Interesting plans for the coming season were discussed, and among the leading questions was the deciding of the various booths to be taken care of at the mammoth fair, "The Streets of Wonderland," being held Dec. 3 and 4, under the auspices of the War Memorial Hospital committee, with the assistance of all the local women's organizations.

SEVENTH REGIMENT CHAPTER. Mrs. F. H. Butler presided over the meeting of the Seventh Regiment Chapter held at the officers' quarters in the armories. This chapter decided to take care of the fancy work booth at the corner of the mammoth fair, "The Streets of Wonderland," in conjunction with the Isabel Hampton and Senator Coffey Chapters, with Mrs. Butler, the regent, in charge.

Further plans for the fall meetings were made at an executive meeting of the Women's Canadian Club held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. W. G. R. Bartram, Richmond street north. An interesting speaker, who will address the club, Nov. 28, is Madame Blanche d'Aubigne Biele, who attended the Geneva conference, and who will speak on the conference from the standpoint of an on-looker. Plans for a "café chantant," to be held at the home of Mrs. William Beattie, Nov. 2, were also made. This affair will be held to augment the club funds.

Arrangements were also discussed for the observance of Canadian Book Week, Nov. 14, but nothing definite was decided upon. Further plans were also made for the meeting, Nov. 8, when Miss Carman will speak.

ENGAGEMENTS. A charge of 75 cents for one insertion, or $1 for two insertions is made for notices under this heading. Orders for insertion of engagement notices must bear the name and address of the bride and groom, and must be taken over the telephone.

Fashions by Wire. Special to The Advertiser. Paris, Oct. 2.—The quaintest of fashions seen today are the sort which cling by a single thread, so to speak, to the parent fashions. Attached by a bit of braid or a thin fold of cloth to the under-arms, this runaway sleeve slides down to the elbow, where it forms a sort of semi-detached cuff.

Hats Match Neckpieces. Paris, Oct. 2.—Very often these days the trimming on a hat matches exactly the neckpiece of a gown. This is especially true of fur.

New Additions to Furs. London, Oct. 2.—A glance at the notables in the Savoy on any afternoon proves that antelope, gazelle and suede are fashionable as dress and coat materials. The fur and antelope are among the newest additions to the category of furs.

Ribbon Ends Trim Frocks. London, Oct. 2.—The dance frocks seen today at such chic places as Claridge's are trimmed with long touches of ribbon ends. These form girdles, fringes about the waist, laces under-arms, this runway sleeve and striking shades on pale pastel gowns.

Onyx Grows Popular. New York, Oct. 2.—Black onyx is extensively used in necklaces and earrings now. It is a strong contrast with the crystals, corals and pearls so much in favor.

Shawl Should Remain a Shawl. New York, Oct. 2.—It is a mistake, artistically and sartorially, to try to make a Spanish shawl into a wrap. The shawl today should be worn around the shoulders frankly a shawl.

Cheville Braid on Veils. New York, Oct. 3.—With the other braids, cheville braid has come into the styles today. This attractive trimming has even been seen on face veils of contrasting color.

HOLD HARVEST HOME. Special to The Advertiser. Princeton, Oct. 2.—Harvest home services were held in St. Bartholomew's Church, Fallston, Sunday afternoon by Rev. A. S. Mitchell of Hayville, the Princeton choir and Miss Costain, organist, taking the musical part of the service.

MARK HARVEST HOME. Special to The Advertiser. Paris, Oct. 2.—Sunday was observed as harvest home day at the Bethel Methodist Church, Fallston, by Rev. Graham of Colborne Street Methodist Church preached in the morning, and in the evening H. B. Christie, editor of the Expositor, delivered a patriotic address. The choir rendered special music under the direction of Mrs. Brantford was the soloist for the day.

WEDDINGS OF THE MONTH. RIDLEY-FRITZ. A quiet wedding took place on Saturday, Oct. 2, at St. Paul's Cathedral, when Marjorie Marguerite, youngest daughter of Mrs. Josephine Fritz, was married to William John Ridley, son of Mrs. Janet Jackson. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Canon Tucker. Mr. and Mrs. Ridley will reside at 518 William street.

CAMERON-BRADY. St. Thomas, Oct. 2.—A quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Mrs. Flach, 88 Hinks street, when her niece, Miss Margaret Brady, was married to Hugh C. Cameron of this city. Rev. J. M. Macmillan officiated.

MCARDLE-STEWART. Stratford, Oct. 1.—A quiet wedding was solemnized Saturday night at the parish of Christ Congregational Church when Miss Ruth Stewart, 233 Front street, was united in marriage to Mr. Grover McArdle, of the Crown Point, performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate family. The bride was married in her traditional gown of navy blue with a bouquet of orchids, and she carried a bouquet of Opella roses. She was given in marriage by her father, and the attending groom was attended by Richard McArdle. The young couple left on the evening train for London, Detroit and Niagara Falls, and are expected to return about Thursday, after which they will be at home to their friends at 233 Front street.

SEATON-WYATT. Stratford, Oct. 2.—The marriage took place Monday afternoon of Miss Mary, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Wyatt, to William Seaton, a former Forest boy. The attendants were Miss Jean Laing of both at "The Streets of Wonderland." Following the meeting tea was served, with Mrs. T. McMullin and Mrs. Fred Lackie as hostesses. The tea table was centered with roses. The next meeting of the chapter will be held at the home of Mrs. E. M. Russell, 98 Windsor avenue. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. William Bendle.

MAKES FINAL PAYMENT. The proud announcement was made at the meeting of the Overseas Chapter held at the home of Mrs. Erwin, Thornton avenue, that the last $400 of the chapter's objective of $2,500 had been made to the hospital committee for the room endowed by the chapter in the War Memorial Hospital.

Encouraging reports of the sale of flowers were made at the lunch to the directors at the Western Fair were made. Mrs. H. G. Link was in charge of the flowers, and Mrs. Beaulieu, Mrs. Alfred Croden and Mrs. A. H. Clinger were appointed as delegates to attend the provincial meeting being held in Windsor.

This chapter has decided to take care of the smokers' supplies at "The Streets of Wonderland," with Mrs. Ella McArthur as regent. A bridge and euchre to be held at Wong's was also planned, and Mrs. Wenige and Mrs. Alfred Croden are appointed as joint conveners. At the close of the meeting tea was served.

TO EDUCATE YOUNG GIRL. At the meeting of the Nicholas Wilson Chapter held at the home of the regent, Mrs. George Macdonald, in Hyman street yesterday afternoon, it was decided to give a young girl a year's tuition at school. A sale of work was planned to be held in De la Salle street, with Mrs. A. D. Robertson as convener. Mrs. G. L. Macdonald was appointed to convener the baby booth at the Streets of Wonderland in the Winter Gardens. At the tea hour Mrs. Le Touzel poured tea. This was the opening meeting of the season.

ALEXANDER LEMERY, Miss Mabel Cross and Mr. Albert Utting. Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Gladstone of Geulph have been spending a few days with relatives in London. For the past three weeks they have been visiting in the vicinity of their old home near Ridgeville, also at Blenheim and Kingsville. Bishop David Williams and Mrs. Williams, who have been in Calgary attending the meeting of the M. S. C. C., have gone on to Vancouver, where they are guests with Mrs. Williams' brother, Mr. H. M. Burwell. They will leave for the East on Oct. 13, visiting in Banff on their return trip.

The engagement is announced in Hamilton of Miss Mary Hendrie, daughter of Col. and Mrs. William Hendrie of London, to Wilfred Stratton, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Stratton of Peterboro. Miss Hendrie is a niece of Mrs. E. B. Smith of this city, and has on many occasions visited London. An enjoyable and successful affair of yesterday afternoon was the bridge and tea given at the home of the president, Mrs. Ross Johnston, Waterloo street, by the Social Service Club. Ten tables of bridge were arranged and the hostess was assisted by a committee including: Mrs. Dr. George, Mrs. George, Mrs. G. M. Llewellyn Purdom, and Misses Gertrude Coates, Margaret Purdom, Helen Miller, Joan Rowatt, Rena Karn and Yerna Bridgman. Mrs. Jack Brown and Mrs. F. C. Maguire were joint hostesses of a delightful dinner shower, held at the home of the latter, on about 35 friends presented. Miss Beatrice Maynard and Miss Anna Goodman, brides-elect of this month, with a beautiful maderia and champagne, Miss Selwey presented the which were arranged in a dainty colonial bouquet of pink and white, each point of the lace-halter bearing a piece of maderia, and the large cloth draped around the silver hand tray. Mrs. A. E. Sevelly and Mrs. P. Harding assisted at the table, where huge white bells and pale yellow streamers were used as decorations. The house was profuse with asters of white, pink and mauve. Games and a happy time were enjoyed.

CATHOLIC WOMEN'S LEAGUE ARRANGES RUMMAGE SALE

A large rummage sale has been arranged to take place at 253 Dundas street Friday evening and Saturday afternoon, under the auspices of the Catholic Women's League, to raise funds to carry on the social service work of the organization. Despite the fact that the League lost its money in the Home Bank, the social work is being carried on as formerly, and it is necessary for the members to make an extra effort to supply the necessary funds. A special feature of the sale will be warm winter clothing, including both men's and women's suits as well as heavy topcoats. Miss Darcy is acting as general convener of the affair.

When the price of good tea is high, many poor, cheap teas are offered to the public. Those that buy them learn to their sorrow that price does not indicate their cost. To the pound, more satisfying and flavory cups can be brewed from a fine tea like "SALADA," hence its real economy in use.—Adv.

98 Out of Every 100 Women Benefited

An Absolutely Reliable Statement Important to Every Woman

Remarkable Results Shown by a Nation Wide Cansass of Women Purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. 50,000 Women Answer

For some time a circular has been enclosed with each bottle of our medicine bearing this question: "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?" Replies, to date, have been received from over 50,000 women answering that question. 98 per cent of which say YES. That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take the medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

This is a most remarkable record of efficiency. We doubt if any other medicine in the world equals it. Think of it—only two women out of 100 received no benefit—98 successes out of a possible 100. Did you ever hear of anything like it? We must admit that we, ourselves, are astonished.

Of course we know that our medicine does benefit the large majority of women who take it. But that only two out of 100 received no benefit is most astonishing. It only goes to prove, however, that a medicine specialized for certain definite ailments—not a cure all—one that is made by the most scientific process; not from drugs, but from a combination of nature's roots and herbs, can and does do more good than hastily prepared prescriptions.

You see, we have been making, improving and refining this medicine for over 50 years until it is so perfect and so well adapted to women's needs that it actually has the virtue to benefit 98 out of every 100 women who take it. It's reliability and recognized efficiency has gained for it a sale in almost every country in the world—leading all others.

Such evidence should induce every woman suffering from any ailment peculiar to her sex to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and see if she can't be one of the 98 THE LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO., Cobourg, Ont. and Lynn, Mass.

Centennial Choir Gives Program at Belmont. About fifty members of the choir of Centennial Methodist Church motored to Belmont Monday evening and presented a delightful program at the Methodist church. The program was presented under the direction of Mr. Theodore Gray, director of the choir. Charming solos were given by Mrs. Gertrude Hayward and Charles Hall, and enjoyable numbers were also given by the Mills quartet. A most attractive number was the quartet number given in costume by Mrs. Haywood, Mrs. Harrison Link and Misses Gladys Udy and Helen Thompson. Anthems by the choir were also enjoyed, also duet by Mrs. Hayward and Miss Udy. Clever readings by Mrs. C. Allan were greatly enjoyed. Following the entertainment supper was served, and a vote of thanks was given to the ladies of the Belmont Church by the president of the choir, Mr. Bert Weir.

Miles Meets Nazlo—Gives Him Startling Information Regarding Terry

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY.

Miles Sheridan is facilitating his wife's obtaining a divorce by creating a scandal about himself. He is taking a yacht trip, supposedly with Juliet Divine, a beautiful show girl known as the Million Dollar Doll. In reality, however, he is not with the Doll but with Teresa Desmond (Terry), Juliet's unbelievably innocent half-sister whom the Doll sent to masquerade as herself. Ever since a kindness Miles did her in her childhood, Terry has made him her dream prince, and they are now madly in love with each other, although he does not recognize in her whom he knows as Juliet Divine, the little girl he befriended so long ago.

Betty Sheridan, Miles' wife, is in love with Paul di Salvano, a handsome Italian fortune-hunter, who has deserted Betty for Rose Callahan, a somewhat ordinary young heiress, now traveling in Europe with her father.

Eustace Nazlo, a wealthy Greek, meeting Miles and the "Doll" at Monte Carlo, recognizes Terry Desmond, whom he knew and loved in New York.

Miss Caroline Sheridan, Miles' aunt, also writes to Betty about Terry's beauty and charm.

CHAPTER LXXI.

Rivals.

Miles had traveled only far enough to have the strange, table mountain at his back, when a tire punctured in the hot sand. The car had been going at such a pace that the pneumatic tore before the chauffeur could pull up. There was no stepney, and Sheridan foresaw three-quarters of an hour delay.

He offered help, but the chauffeur politely refused, and Miles walked restlessly about, picking up desert crystals of odd shapes here and there to take back to Terry (she would like them), examining without much interest the low-growing wild flowers, and glancing at his watch.

He never went out of sight from the car, as he did not wish to waste a needless moment. But half an hour passed and the chauffeur was still frantically at work, dripping sweat in the afternoon heat. It had occurred to Miles to offer aid again, when another motor came bumping over the stony desert with its little patches of rough grass.

It was a small, bright red car, and looked like one he had seen in a garage where he had hired his. A moment later the two occupants—both men, and in the front seat—caught sight of the stationary vehicle and slowed down.

"Yes, that's the one I saw," Sheridan decided. "I suppose the chauffeur recognizes my Italia, and means to stop."

The thought had hardly passed through his head when the scarlet automobile came level with him, and his eyes met those of the man sitting beside the driver. It was Nazlo.

"Somehow, Sheridan felt no surprise. He was aware that Nazlo had been following his itinerary since Monte Carlo.

Last night he had been ready to believe that the man had sent him a telegram in the name of Captain Yale, saying that Betty was on board "Silverwood."

Now, he knew through the reply to his wire received at luncheon that the message had come from Yale; yet it was possible that Nazlo had met Betty in Algiers, and had taken it pretty well for granted that her errand husband would rush back from Bousaada to see what she was doing there.

As for how Nazlo had found out to believe that in Bousaada, that was easy. Sheridan had told himself this in suspecting the origin of the telegram. Learning that the owner of "Silverwood" his companion and the maid, had gone off the yacht and left Algiers by motor, Nazlo would only have had to visit one of two garages to learn the car's destination. Then it would be like him to think of coming down and catching Juliet alone!

Nazlo spoke a word to his chauffeur, and the Shoe King sprang out. "How do you do, Mr. Sheridan?" he said, in the civil yet reserved tone one uses to a distant acquaintance.

"I thought it was difficult to see just how to stop him without a quarrel."

"No, thanks," Miles answered, gruffly. His mind was working fast. He did not want Nazlo to go to Bousaada, but he was difficult to see just how to stop him without a quarrel.

The possibility of a fight suggested itself to Sheridan; but he had that he was of any assistance? "No, thanks," Miles answered, gruffly. His mind was working fast. He did not want Nazlo to go to Bousaada, but he was difficult to see just how to stop him without a quarrel.

"Don't you?" asked Miles. "If you'll take a short stroll with me I'll tell you what I mean."

"With pleasure," Nazlo civilly replied.

Sheridan's hands tingled. But he choked his temper down, and the two walked out of earshot from both cars, whose chauffeurs at once joined forces.

"You've been following me about for some time," Miles began, "and guessing I was likely to leave Miss Divine in Bousaada, because of business in Algiers, perhaps you thought you'd run down and thrust yourself upon her when she had no protection."

As he spoke, his eyes, under frowning brows, dared Nazlo's to meet them. And Nazlo's did meet them with an infuriating calmness and benevolence.

"Mr. Sheridan," Nazlo said (the had

ON A MATTER OF "FORM"

On the BEACH
Have you noticed:
How some girls "GO ON,"
But seldom "GO IN?"
And oh! How they ALL talk!
For instance, if a girl
Has a LOVELY figure
She wears—quite LITTLE,
And says, very innocently—
"THIS is the only suit
In which I can swim!"
But if a girl is TOO thin
SHE wears a skirt,
Stockings and a cape,
And probably carries
A parasol—for effect,
And SHE says:
"Well, the way SOME girls Go about, why, they might Just as well go WITHOUT!"
And when a fat lady,
Big enough for two,
Bathes in public—
People say: "CAN'T Somebody DROWN her?"
She spoils the view!"
When you hear women
Talking SO, it's all
A matter of FORM, you know!

Mothers and Their Children

A Saturday Task.
I have taught my children to wash their own brushes and combs, setting Saturday morning after breakfast aside for the task, and allowing the child who washes his best to choose the Sunday dessert. This weekly chore not only helps me, but also impresses on them the value of cleanliness in care of the hair.

Overworked Mothers

We all know them. Mothers who in their anxiety to keep their homes neat and attractive, and their little ones as well dressed as their playmates, toil on day in and day out, sweeping, dusting, mending and cooking, often suffering from backache, pain in the side, headache, nervousness, sleeplessness, all symptoms of more serious ailments. Thousands of such women have found relief from such suffering by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as is evidenced by the letters of recommendation continually being published in this paper. For nearly fifty years this old-fashioned root and herb medicine has been restoring ailing women to health and strength.

Peter Rabbit Plays a Clever Trick On the Strange Dog

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Blacky the Crow grew more and more excited as he looked down on the race between Peter Rabbit and a strange dog. It was an exciting race. There was no doubt about that. Peter's white tail was bobbing along just in front of the nose of that yelping dog.

There is little that the sharp eyes of Blacky the Crow miss. He saw the little hole in the hedge for which Peter was heading. He saw that it was just big enough for Peter to go through, but too small for that dog to go through. "Run, Peter! Run!" cried Blacky, for it did look as if that dog would catch Peter before he could reach that hedge.

But what Blacky didn't know was that Peter wasn't running his fastest. He had a reason for this. He wanted that dog to be right at his very heels when he reached that hedge, so glancing back over his shoulders, he kept watch of that dog and ran only just fast enough to keep out of his jaws.

They were almost to the hedge, and Blacky the crow began to feel relieved. If Peter once got through that hedge he would be safe, so glancing back over his shoulders, he kept watch of that dog and ran only just fast enough to keep out of his jaws.

They were almost to the hedge, and Blacky the crow began to feel relieved. If Peter once got through that hedge he would be safe, so glancing back over his shoulders, he kept watch of that dog and ran only just fast enough to keep out of his jaws.

Blacky the Crow began to feel relieved.

of course, Blacky expected to see Peter dive through that little hole. But he saw nothing of the kind. No, sir, he saw nothing of the kind. Peter reached that hole hardly half a jump ahead of that dog. But, instead of diving through that hole, Peter made one of those quick turns for which he is famous. It was done so quickly that the dog didn't even see him do it. The dog had seen that hole in the hedge and expected Peter to dive through it. He had a plan of his own, had that dog. Just at the moment that he expected Peter to dive through that hole he himself jumped over the hedge. Of course, he lifted his eyes to do this. He expected to land on Peter when he came out on the other side. So, having lifted his eyes in order to see where he was jumping, he didn't see Peter make that quick turn.

Never was there a more surprised dog than was that one when he landed on the ground on the other side of that hedge and saw nothing of Peter Rabbit. He didn't know what to make of it at all. He was sure that Peter had dived through that hole. He had expected to land on Peter when he came out on the other side. They were almost to the edge, and

THE DAILY SHORT STORY

SARTORIAL EFFECTS.

By H. IRVING KING.

Dan was chauffeur for the Vanderbergs and Mary worked in a department store. Dan was in love with Mary. Mary was in love with Dan, and they were both of a marriageable age. Well, then, you will say, why wasn't the marriage license taken out and the ceremony engaged? The answer is because Mary dressed too well. She was as modest and pretty as a moss rosebud in June, but when it came to dress Mrs. Vanderberg Griffin herself did not wear quieter and more expensive-looking gowns than Mary McMahon, and Mrs. Vanderberg Griffin's clothes were the envy and admiration of her high and exclusive circle.

Dan Cassidy could not be chauffeur to Mrs. Vanderberg Griffin for five years and hear all the gossip of the servants' hall without having an inkling of what that lady disburbed for clothes in the course of a year.

Of course he knew that Mary McMahon never had an account of things, spend a fraction of the money which Mrs. Vanderberg Griffin squandered on hats and gowns and things, and he knew that Mary met him at the corner of Thirty-third street and Fifth avenue, from which strutting place he was to take her to the movies, and he knew that she wore a costume to all appearances a replica of the one which his employer had worn that afternoon, his heart, pocket-book and savings account all experienced a sinking sensation.

For some time now he had longed to speak the fateful words to the object of his adoration, but sartorial considerations had held him tongue-tied. How after marriage could he ever afford to dress her in the manner which she had been accustomed to? And his love for her was such that he hesitated to ask her to make the sacrifice.

The affection drew him toward the marriage altar and at the same time warned him away from it. Once or twice he had come near to making the plunge by telling Mary just how the matter stood. But when he had got as far as "Mary, your clothes always look as if you were worth a million and he'd initiated a little at going on, Mary, delighted at the appreciation of her costumes, interrupted with, "Oh, Dan, let me see the lovely gown I am going to have next month." Whereupon Dan would retreat into himself, sigh and change the subject.

To tell the truth, Mary often wondered why Dan did not propose. He came so near it so often and then, for some unaccountable reason, she off-though goodness knows she tried to make it easy for him—that at last she began to think that his hesitancy was caused by a growing fondness for "another"—and this thought made her very miserable.

She hinted her suspicion to Dan and his answer was partially reassuring. Then she began to wonder if he had some dark secret in his life. Perhaps, thought she, he had a psychic power, or a growing fondness for "another" from whom he had parted. An impalpable something began to form between them, a separating psychic force, an operation, a pre-arranged disaster; a ghost which accompanied them to the drug store where he bought her ice cream soda and sat beside them in the dimly lit halls of the moving picture theatres.
