TILLEY CONTINUES GOUGH'S DEFENCE

Getting Deposits Is Legitimate
Business, Noted Lawyer
Declares.

FLAYS "SECRETS"

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Jan. 9.—W. E. Tilley, K. C., defence counsel, continuing his attack on Judge Coatsworth in the trial of R. P. Gough, Home Bank director, this morning said there was no reason for a director to ask about bad and doubtful debts of a bank unless he was suspicious. Mr. Tilley speaking of the increasing deposits at the end of the fiscal year, said part of the business was to get deposits, and it was quite right to hold out bonuses for getting them, particularly in the Home Bank, where salaries were paid on a percentage basis.

"Getting deposits is a legitimate object of endeavor. When an effort is made to get deposits many are secured and some of them are held. It is the holding that is good business," Mr. Tilley contended there was no secret about the Home Bank increasing its deposits before the end of the fiscal year, because the monthly deposits were published, and anyone could see them. It was natural, he said, that the bank should ask R. P. Gough, a director of the Canadian National Railway, for a deposit or an account with the bank. It had nothing to do with the trial.

"Anyway the million was deposited, and it had to be shown in the statement to the government, or that statement would have been false," said Mr. Tilley.

Mr. Tilley said that the late Z. A. Lash would be the last to be deceived by those in the bank. W. A. Macdonald, in a letter to the minister of finance, stated that Mr. Lash was not getting the proper information from the bank. Mr. Tilley could not see how this would be possible, with a man of the wisdom of Mr. Lash. If Mr. Lash was alive he would justify every statement he made, said Mr. Tilley.

"The only way that we have to refer to dead men, and cannot have their confirmation of statements they made years ago," continued defence counsel.

Mr. Tilley said also that there would be no deception if anything the late Senator Macdonald deposited in the bank.

Things looked bad for E. R. McAllister, a local taxi driver, when as many as six street railway employees charged him with reckless driving in police court this morning.

Three of the railwaymen testified that McAllister had deliberately driven his motor car at them while they were walking along the car tracks on Hamilton road early Sunday morning. Although he sounded his horn he neglected to give them ample warning, they said. One of the men was struck in the leg.

McAllister justified his action, however, when he turned to give evidence. He said his car was caught in ruts of the road, and he was unable to turn out. He testified his horn, expecting the pedestrians to make way, but they paid little attention to his warning.

Magistrate Graydon declared that there was no plausible excuse for the street railwaymen to walk on the highway when sidewalks are made for the use of pedestrians. The case was dismissed when it was revealed that McAllister had brought his car to a halt upon approaching the men.

LONDON "BANK DIRECTORS" MAKE MONTHLY REPORTS

An amusing touch on current events cropped up at the inaugural meeting of the board of education last night concerning the appointment of the chairman, S. F. Lawrance, to the directorate of the Penny Bank of Canada.

Directly Mr. Lawrance had been appointed, Trustee R. N. Campbell, the retiring chairman of the board and the retiring director of the Penny Bank, spoke up: "You're a bank director now."

"Yes," rejoined Mr. Lawrance, "but will I have to go to jail?"

"No, but you'll have to make monthly reports," advised Trustee Campbell, amidst general laughter.

Col. Wm. Gartschke and W. N. Manning are the two other representatives of the board on the directorate of the Penny Bank.

New York, Jan. 8.—Charged with flying his plane so low over upper Broadway so as to terrify passing pedestrians below, Lieutenant James T. Hutchison, "second best pilot" in the army air service, went on trial by general court-martial at Governors Island today. It is the first case of its kind.

Lieutenant Hutchison pleaded not guilty and insisted through counsel that professional jealousy on the part of a fellow officer was responsible for his prosecution.

PRESBYTERIAL ENDS SUCCESSFUL QUARTER

At the Presbyterian executive meeting held yesterday afternoon in the First Presbyterian church, arrangements were made for the annual Presbyterian meeting, which is taking place in the Knox Presbyterian church, St. Thomas, on Feb. 17 and 18. The treasurer, Mrs. N. McEwen, reported that the society had passed its allocation of $15,505, having raised the splendid sum of $16,000.

Mr. McGowan of Rodney gave the excellent report of the finance committee, and Miss H. Ferguson of St. Thomas, gave a splendid and encouraging report on the mission fund of the Presbyterian. Mrs. W. She referred to the home coming of missionaries on furlough during the year, including Mrs. Wm. Gauld of Formosa, Miss Evelyn Mitchell, field secretary, Miss Lillian McVicar, of India, and Mrs. and Mrs. Goforth.

BOY SCOUT CAMPAIGN REALIZES MORE THAN $1100

Plans are now under way to make the boy scout campaign, which has been successfully held in the city for over a month, an annual event.

This was the statement of the local secretary, T. A. Blanchard, of this morning, who further stated that as many of the scout troops in the city are in need of funds at different times in the year, the boy scout drive each year would greatly benefit the troops.

With the greater part of the money raised this year a large camp for the London boy scouts will be held this coming summer to train the boys in scouting, as many of the boys have never attended a camp where the scout law rules in their lives.

Over $1,100 has been realized so far, and Secretary Blanchard says that the boys are still collecting.

Believes Site Should Be Secured and Favors Queen's Park Area.

SAVE PROPERTY

The residents of London East have no quarrel with the people of London South in regard to colleges," stated a member of the London East parents' association to the Advertiser, "but what we are afraid of is that if the college is built in the south that the school will be being, and we will be allowed to go on and put up with what we have had for another indefinite period. As far as school needs are concerned the situation in the east is worse than the one in the south. We are not claiming that the school is being, but it is at least in their own district while ours is about as far away as they can get. There have been a few suggestions and a few trips by some of the members, but the attitude of the board in general has never given us the impression that they were out looking for a location with a definite idea of going ahead and giving us the school we are entitled to.

Matter of Time.

"It is only a matter of time until the old Rectory street public school is closed. That district is becoming a business area and you will find that the families around there, many of them, will be moving a little farther out. There are enough public schools now to house the public school population without adding this one. We have Knoxwood Park school, Boyle Memorial, Lorne avenue, Trafalgar, Chesley avenue, Chelsea, Green, Eglinton, and Pottery school all in the east end, and that should be a sufficient number without the Rectory street school.

"I do not see why it would not be practicable to build the east end college in such a location that Queen's park or as much of it as is necessary, should be used for a playground, that would do away with having to spend so much money in purchasing a large site for a school.

Favored By Merchant.

"When Dr. Merchant was here some time ago we took the matter up with him and made that suggestion, and he agreed that such a plan would be all right, provided the school had a good location and was in a block of the park. The park is used only a couple of weeks in the year, and there is no good reason why all that ground should stand idle the rest of the year. For my part I would like to see a collegiate building where the old Crystal Palace building now stands at Queen's park. That place will have to come down anyway as it has served its usefulness. If that site did not meet with favor then get one right near the eastern entrance. The location would be central. If you will look on the map you can readily see how accessible it is to those coming from Knoxwood park and places between along Quebec, and from the west right along Dundas, while from the southeastern section it is very handy. What we want most of all is some definite action, something to show us that the board of education in earnestly taking the east end collegiate building is not going to be put on the shelf again."

200 FOWL CONFISCATED, NO ACTION IS PLANNED

Butcher Shops Yield "Left-overs" From Christmas Season.

Following investigations at city butcher shops, Dr. C. S. Tamlin and Sanitary Inspector R. H. Sanders yesterday afternoon confiscated about 200 chickens, geese, and turkeys. The poultry was stock left over from Christmas and is considered unfit for sale.

Authorities point to the city bylaw respecting the sale of meats and poultry and state that if birds are improperly slaughtered or drawn, or plucked improperly, or have been slaughtered too long when offered for sale, they will be confiscated.

Yesterday's seizures were made at several places, one shop offering nearly 150 birds. It is understood that none of the birds were being offered for sale and no police action will be taken against the butchers.

HANEY WILL TELL CLUB OF THE NORTH COUNTRY

A large number of London businessmen are expected to attend the Banquet of the Honourable Club tonight at the Blue Dragon tea rooms, when W. S. Haney, M.L.A., Sarnia, will address the members on the wealth of the north and the north country last summer and is in a position to give the club members some valuable information on the subject.

CLEAR AWAY DEBRIS.

A. B. Greer & Sons, whose York street carriage plant was destroyed by fire last month, have not arranged rebuilding plans yet. The firm is going ahead with wrecking of the burned building, and debris is being hauled away. However, this is merely a matter of protection, and building will not be started until the spring at the earliest.

Professor Devere's subjects deal with physics. The lectures will be delivered upon application to Col. W. J. Brown, executive secretary at Western.

CANADA'S BUSINESS GROWS STEADIER

R. G. Dun and Company Presents Annual Report For Year 1924.

Commercial failures in the Dominion for 1924 numbered 2,474, a decrease of 873 from 1923, according to the annual report just issued from R. G. Dun & Co. The total indebtedness in 1924 was $64,530,975 as compared with $65,810,382 in 1923. There were fewer defaults last year than in 1923 among manufacturers, traders and other commercial occupations, but among traders was the indebtedness less.

The report says, in part: "Geographical analysis of the Canadian statement shows that a smaller number of failures occurred in all of the ten provinces included in the record, although there was a decrease of only one default in New Brunswick. Only 5 failures were reported for Prince Edward Island, against 2 in 1923, while the reductions in Quebec where ranged from 21 in Newfoundland to 235 in Quebec. In point of indebtedness, Ontario and New Brunswick alone had larger totals, 600,000 in Ontario practically offset the decreases elsewhere, the largest of which was $3,000,000 in Quebec. The liabilities in Ontario in 1924 of $30,403,975 compare with $14,174,633 the year previous. In 1924 there were $22,302,112 of manufacturing concerns. In 1923 the liabilities for Quebec amounted to $30,969,750, and of this amount $17,481,324 was of manufacturing defaults. Last year Quebec reported $21,551,846 of indebtedness.

The salary list for 1925 approved by the board of education for the public schools, collegiate institute, and technical school, and also for the salaries of officers at headquarters, outside the inspectors, totals $14,800. The salary list for the public schools totals $415,250, or $73,350 more than last year, despite the organization of at least three new classes, together with the regular increase from year to year, in accordance with the salary schedule passed by the board in January, 1922.

The total of salaries for teachers in the collegiate institute is $148,650, and for those in the technical high school, $30,500.

PRIZE WINNERS.

Prize winners at the G. W. V. A. eucure drive last evening were Mrs. M. Kendall, Mrs. R. Donohue, L. Osborne and P. S. Enright. Mrs. Pyke and F. Gowd took consolation favors. There were 32 players present, and a pleasant evening spent.

INDOOR GOLF COURTS INSTALLED IN THE "Y"

While the snow lies deep on London's golf courses the indoor courts at the Y. M. C. A. are taking care of the long driving shots of city golf enthusiasts.

Last Monday the "Y" installed two indoor courts, and a third one will be in position early next week. The courts are made of heavy canvas. Each one has three targets. The balls are arranged to be thrown so that the golfer when making a shot aimed at one of the targets is really making a long distance shot, though the ball is brought to a stop and returned before it gets very far.

Russell Neilson, professional, who has been associated with the Y. M. C. A. indoor golf school, "pro," is in charge of the Y. M. C. A. indoor golf school. He will be coaching in that capacity until next spring.

AUTO PLATES CHANGED TO MAKE CAR SALE

Garage Man Admits Alteration in Order To Make Delivery.

A local garageman was willing to break the law in order to avoid losing the sale of a motor car. This was his own declaration in police court today.

He had sold a motor car, which was to be presented as a Christmas gift. No license markers could be procured in London on that day, and it was imperative that the car be put into use. He transferred license plates from his own auto to the newly-bought machine, made the delivery on scheduled time, and smiled inwardly at his own ingenuity.

It cost him $10 and costs in police court this morning, but at that he was the gainer.

If I hadn't transferred the plates I would have lost the sale," he admitted. "I think the law is wrong, and should be changed," he remarked to Magistrate Graydon, when the latter declared that changing license plates from one car to another had become too common a trick among auto dealers.

SLEIGHING IS EXCELLENT. COUNTY ENGINEER SAYS

County Engineer Charles Talbot states that excellent sleighing prevails in every nook and corner of Middlesex county.

"The roads are in fine condition for sleighing," stated Mr. Talbot. "There have been a few ditch holes near Lucan but the road force men have cleared them away. We have about the same amount of snow now as we had at this time last year. The expense to the county has been negligible so far."

Premier Declares Government Anxious To Alleviate Unemployment Situation.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, Jan. 8.—While assuring a delegation from the city council, the allied trades and labor council and the unemployed of Ottawa, that the federal government was anxious to co-operate in solving the unemployment problem in the capital, Premier Mackenzie King made it clear this afternoon that no money grants would be made from the dominion treasury.

"We have found it necessary to be quite rigid on that point," said the premier in commenting on the grant system which had been adopted in past years.

The government did not accept any obligations for unemployment resulting from the war, the premier also told the delegation. All the responsibility of prosecuting the unemployment problem fell on the shoulders of the provinces. On the other hand, under the constitution the primary responsibility for meeting unemployment rested with the provinces and municipalities.

However, the premier assured the delegation that the government was anxious to help, and would consider the suggestion of public works.

COUNTY POLICING IDEAS SOUGHT BY KENT MEN

Warden Beamish and Councillor Rankin of Kent county council headed a delegation of municipal officials from Kent to the Middlesex county buildings yesterday afternoon to ascertain just how Middlesex ran its county constabulary.

Kent county is apparently not satisfied with the present method of policing the county, and has started on a tour for information. Another delegation visited Lambton yesterday on similar business.

"We weren't able to give them much information," stated County Clerk John Stuart this morning. "They run their force on the same lines as we do in Middlesex. They have a paid high constable and the regular county constables on the fee system, which is the same as ours."

Pictures.

"This Woman," heralded as one of the best photoplays of 1924, pleased a crowded house at Loew's last night. The acting of Irene Rich, who has the reputation of portraying with exceptional skill sincere womanly roles, was all that could be desired, while Ricardo Cortez, Louise Fazenda and Marc McDermott are all convincing in their respective parts.

Heading the vaudeville bill are Mademoiselle Nina and a company of three in an act that combines some artistic dancing with clever roller skating stunts. Mademoiselle Nina won the audience with her interpretation of Oriental dancing. Supporting her are Miss Sophie Fontaine and Frank Bacon in roller skate dances. Allan Parado is the pianist of the company.

Moore and Sky, who weigh about 50 and 275 pounds respectively, score a laugh before they open their mouths. Their act would be funny even if they didn't say a word.

Donald and St. Clair in "moments musical" are not so good at the beginning of their offering, but keep getting better all the time. They received a generous share of applause and gave as an encore a "violin courtship."

PLAY PORTRAYS LIFE IN VILLAGE

Pathos and Sentiment of Cross-Roads Depicted in "The Love Test."

"The Love Test," a rural comedy of the ups and downs of village life is the offering of the Majestic play-ers at the Majestic theatre for the week. The play brings the small-town characters into the open, where they express the humor, pathos and sentiment that is usually associated with life at the crossroads.

The three acts center about the small-town hotel. The proprietor has died and left his wife in charge. Times are hard. The taxes are due. The son goes off to New York. He is charged with a crime he did not commit and after serving his term he returns to the home town.

The plot contains more than a little pathos, yet withal there is a lot of fun in it. Most of the old countryside jokes have been sneaked out and some modern slang sneaked in. At times it ripples along and excites chuckles. There has been enough sob material put into it to satisfy the sentimentalists.

"The Love Test" gives one an opportunity to renew acquaintance with the village banker, constable, and all the other small-town characters at work and play.

Arkansas City, Kansas, July 8.—A new remedy for hiccoughs, a malady which has worried scientists and those afflicted in spite of prohibition, was discovered here today.

It is simple, though costly. All one needs to do is to swallow a genuine pearl.

That at least stopped the hiccoughing of Louis Cochis, aged confectioner, who had grown weak from a continued attack.

Mrs. Harry Davis, formerly of Rumania, suggested the remedy and supplied the pearl.

has a lively part to play and is one of the bright spots. Rita Davis has a heavy and difficult role to fill. Malcolm Arthur, as the town policeman, is good for several laughs, and so is Matt McHugh as the village sport. Edward Cullen takes the part of Tom Hudson, jailed for a crime he did not commit. Gordon Anderson shows up well as Freddie Tryon, who opens banks for a living. Lyle Clement plays August Brenzler, the banker. In this role Mr. Clement does not have an opportunity to bring out his breezy humor, which we have enjoyed in the past.

EXCELLENT CAST IN "NORTH OF 36"

Ernest Torrance Stars in Feature Picture at Capitol Theatre.

"North of 36," showing the last three days of this week at the Capitol, is one of the very few films made dealing with the old west, in which exaggeration plays no part. Provided with an excellent cast, and taken fairly closely from the inimitable story of Emerson Hough, "North of 36" is a picture to see and enjoy.

When Emerson Hough wrote the book he was subjected to a flood of somewhat vicious criticism from the intellectuals, who claimed to know something of the old west as well as of everything else. Their attacks brought the real dyed-in-the-wool old timers into action, who falling back on personal experiences, demolished the criticism of the high-brows.

Thenceforth "North of 36" was universally recognized as being an historical story of the first cattle to be driven north of the old slave line for shipment to the east, where there was a market for Texas cattle.

Jack Holt, Noah Beery, Ernest Torrance and Lois Wilson form a cast to give life to any worthwhile picture. Ernest Torrance as the foreman of the Laguna Del Sol ranch in Texas, is the star of the picture, and in his performance natural and entirely devoid of the usual tawdry extravagance of would-be western heroes, is an epitome of the whole story as the film tells it. "North of 36" can be confidently recommended to anyone.

Cameron Geddes, the Canadian basso, a Christy comedy, featuring Neal Burns, and a Pathe news film complete the bill.

Safe, Speedy Relief from PAIN

Gentlemen:
For years I have been subject to severe attacks of sciatica, rheumatism and neuralgia. Until about three years ago I had found no treatment that was successful. Then I heard of Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules, they proved to be the medicine I needed. On one occasion I was in bed unable to turn because of the pain, three doses had me completely better and able to work. I am pleased to give this unsolicited testimonial to the merits of Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules.

Executive Committee.
The report of the nominating committee, consisting of Trustees A. R. Cairncross, B. N. Campbell and J. B. Wright, naming the executive committee of the board as Trustees S. F. Lawrason, chairman, A. R. Cairncross, Mrs. John I. A. Hunt and J. Thornley Bowman, M.D., was adopted unanimously. A separate school representative will be added to this committee, if elected to the board.

Six members were named from the board to sit on the advisory-vocational committee, in charge of the Technical high school, including Trustees George P. Copeland, N. F. Willmot, J. B. Wright, William J. Murray, Mrs. John A. Rose and S. F. Lawrason.

Arthur White, manager of George White & Sons, manufacturers, was re-appointed to the vocational committee as an employer of labor. Mr. White, who has been a member of the committee since its inception some ten years ago, is considered one of the most valuable members on the committee.

Dr. G. B. Sage was reappointed as one of three representatives on the public library board for the customary term of three years. The other two representatives are W. H. Winnett, (Jan. 1926) and Dr. D. L. McCrae, (Jan. 1927).

On Fair Board.
Trustees S. F. Lawrason and B. N. Campbell were appointed as the board's representatives on the directorate of the Western Fair.

Dr. Alfred J. Grant is the representative of the board on the senate of the University of Western Ontario.

Lack of suitable accommodation in the collegiate institute, technical school and some rearrangement of the accommodation in the public schools was stressed particularly in Chairman Lawrason's inaugural address.

He suggested a conference of the board in the near future in order to discuss the whole question of school accommodation, with a view to adopting a program which would have due regard to the various needs, could anticipate the future developments, and plan to meet them in the most economical manner.

Under the head of general business the board approved of the salary schedule for the public schools, collegiate institutes and technical school for 1925, submitted by Inspector-Administrator V. K. Groer, M.A., on behalf of the advisory executive committee.

A grant of $100, the same as last year, was passed by the board, on motion of Trustees Mess and Copeland, to the W. O. S. S. A. Principal E. A. Miller of the collegiate institute, is president of the association.

Following the selection of Mr. Lawrason as chairman, the meeting was opened with a word of prayer by Rev. (Col.) Wm. Beattie, D.D., C.M.G., pastor of First Presbyterian church, invoking a blessing upon the board's proceedings throughout the year.

A vote of thanks was tendered Dr. Beattie for his kindness in thus serving the board, a motion to this effect being proposed by Trustees Campbell and Mess.

Chairman Lawrason expressed the regret of the members of the board at the accident suffered by Trustee Mrs. Rose, which prevented her attendance at the meeting.

To Have No Back Pains, No Nervousness, No Kidney Disease, With Plenty of Life, Energy and No Blood Disease, Is the Wish of Every Young, Old or Middle-Aged Person.

To you—if you are sick—if you suffer—if you are afflicted with any ailments of MEN—if you are worn out, tired or failing, if you need medical advice—if you are not in perfect health—if life is a dragging, miserable existence—if you lack energy, vim and vigor that make life worth living, to you—rich or poor—young or old—you need my treatment at once.

Nerves and Blood Are Life
The lack of nerve force is found among men of all ages. This is true with men in all walks of life, from the day laborer to the mechanic or professional man. Merchant and clergy are alike sufferers—no man is exempt from the ailment, who has rebelled against nature's laws—so if you have the result of overwork, dissipation, sedentary habits or worry, and your vital organs are disturbed, remember, delay in seeing the right doctor makes it more difficult to overcome the symptoms, and you might reach an incurable condition beyond relief if you delay too long.

My Equipment
Is composed of the latest and best known agents in Electrical, Surgical and Mechanical Apparatus, and I am prepared by the knowledge of their uses and the experiences in prescribing them, so as to get the greatest uniform results from them.

I Am Prepared to Give You
Mercury, Bactericidal, Vaccines and any and all forms of treatment of this character that have been tried and proved a success.

No one can violate nature's laws and succeed. I have helped thousands physically, mentally, morally. I believe I (as I have thousands of other men) can help you. FARMERS TO ASK BAR AGAINST EARLY FRUITS

Western Ontario Growers Ask Protection From U. S. Products.

Members of the London Fruit Growers' Association are not satisfied to allow American fruit growers to make Ontario, particularly Western Ontario, a dumping ground for their early fruit and vegetables.

At a combined three-day convention of fruit and vegetable growers of Western Ontario to be held in London next month, they will introduce a resolution asking the dominion government to place a proper tariff on early strawberries from the United States, as well as other fruits and vegetables. They point out that strawberries are dumped on the Canadian market in order that the southern growers may hold up the price in American cities and by the time home grown berries are ready for the market, the buying public are tired of the berries.

Puzzles Hard, Cancels Paper

Difficult Cross-Words Rouse Ire of Puzzler.

Special to The Advertiser.
Sioux Falls, S.D., Jan. 8.—The crossword puzzle craze has cost a local daily newspaper one of its oldest subscribers.

A victim of the puzzle fad, he wrote from his home near Garrettson, S.D., and declared:

"I have taken your paper for 24 years and hitherto have found no fault with it. When you began running crossword puzzles they were very good and possible to work, but lately they have been harder and harder, and now are almost impossible to solve."

Being written you about this matter and received no satisfaction, I am compelled to abandon your good newspaper and take another which prints puzzles which can be worked without staying up all night.

"Inasmuch as I can take only one daily paper and no other crossword puzzles than those I get in newspapers are available, I am compelled to find a paper which is satisfactory in this department."

LOWER TAXATION URGED BY BANKER

Sir Herbert Holt Declares Future of Canadian Manufacturing Endangered.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Montreal, Jan. 8.—Sir Herbert Holt, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, declared today that the future of Canadian manufacturing is endangered by the high rates of taxation levied on the industry. He pointed out that in the United States, where the rate of taxation is lower, the manufacturing industry has flourished, and that in Canada, where the rate is higher, it is being driven to the wall. He urged that the government should reduce the rate of taxation on manufacturing to the level of the United States, and that it should also provide for the protection of the industry against foreign competition.

Dealing with taxation, Sir Herbert declared that the situation in Canada is "a very serious one." He pointed out that the government is spending more on taxation than it is receiving, and that this is a "very dangerous situation." He urged that the government should reduce the rate of taxation on manufacturing to the level of the United States, and that it should also provide for the protection of the industry against foreign competition. He pointed out that in the United States, where the rate of taxation is lower, the manufacturing industry has flourished, and that in Canada, where the rate is higher, it is being driven to the wall.

part of the dominion and recognize that these sections will not indefinitely remain in the confederation which is dominated by the mid-eastern interests. This western national party should present the following demands: "Ambassadorial representation in Washington at once to work out the closest possible relationship between Canada and the United States. A fiscal policy based on the needs of the treasury rather than on the policy of protection. Immediate completion of the Hudson Bay railway. Return of the natural resources to Western Canada and in making a 'freight rates structure equitable to all sections of Canada and measurably permanent. A national policy to take into account the legitimate claims of all other sections of the dominion.'"

Defends Agrarian Movement.

Defending the agrarian movement, Mr. Hoey said: "Supposing we had failed in some of our demands, what would we say of the Liberals and Conservatives who have 50 years of organization?" He said that today, in Manitoba, not more than six per cent of the eligible men and women were attached to the agrarian movement and in all not more than 18 per cent. Nevertheless, he declared, the movement had a record of achievement absolutely unparalleled in Canada. It had built up two great companies and had overthrown three governments. It had organized a great wheat pool which should lead the way to national and international co-operation.

Looking towards an international commonwealth, Mr. Hoey saw no reason why conditions in Canada should be any different from those in the United States. He declared that the people of Manitoba were immeasurably better off in their living conditions than they were 25 years ago, in better houses, roads, in telephones, motor cars and radio, and in educational advantages. "Ontario," declared Mr. Hoey, "is the center of Canada. The people of Ontario seem to have a balance, a strength of law which we western people have missed."

"Never again," he declared, "will Canadian agriculture submit willingly to be the pack-horse of Canadian civilization."

The day when Canadian agriculture was content to be the mere commissariat of Canada is gone forever. The agrarian movement had made the greatest contribution to Canadian life when it elected 55 Progressive members to Ottawa.

GOVT. MAY BE ASKED TO PLAN SCHOOLS

Matter Will Be Discussed by Urban School Trustees' Association.

An interesting bulletin has just been issued by the executive of the urban school trustees' association, which holds its annual meeting in London the latter part of next month. Excerpts from the bulletin are as follows: "There is a strong desire on the part of the trustees to make the association as helpful as possible to the various boards and the department of education, and to this end the association has secured a number of speakers on the newly-invented ventilating system recently installed in Boston, which is simple, not expensive, yet a great heat and fuel saver. The delegates will discuss the value of dental clinics and school nurses and the advisability of asking the department to secure a number of plans and specifications of school buildings for the use of any board contemplating erecting a school. Auxiliary classes of this kind of education had commercial education will be before the meeting."

TWO SHORT COURSES TO BE HELD AT NEWBURY

Announcements of the short course in literature and home economics to be held in Newbury from Feb. 2 to 27, were mailed to prospective students by R. A. Finn of the department of education. The short course was made possible through the co-operation of Mosa and Newbury councils and the voluntary work of the women of the Victoria public school building. It is possible that we shall lose the use of at least one of these rooms for the school year 1925-26. Some special provision will have to be made for taking care of the increase in the south unit for that school year.

use of three class-rooms in the new Victoria public school building. It is possible that we shall lose the use of at least one of these rooms for the school year 1925-26. Some special provision will have to be made for taking care of the increase in the south unit for that school year. The reorganization effected a year ago last summer has made possible an increase in attendance. Here the whole collection of the new building is being made to house as many students as possible in this unit until the congestion in the whole collection is relieved by the new buildings necessary.

SHINING CHAMBER WILL GREET 1925 COUNCIL

Rooms Resemble Dutch Parlor After London Siege of Renovating.

When the new city council meets Monday morning, the gathering will be held in a sparkling bright room, where a few weeks ago smoke-filled walls, opaque windows and ancient furniture were beheld. FOUR CHANGES ARE MADE IN VOCATIONAL COMMITTEE

There will be four changes in the personnel of the advisory-vocational committee in charge of the new technical high school for the current year. Those who were members of the committee last year will not be members in 1925 are Trustees R. N. Campbell, A. N. Day and Rev. R. D. Mess, and J. L. Walton. Mr. Walton has been succeeded by Mr. Hind.

MAKE-SHIFT PLAN.

"The Young Men's Christian Association is at present used for the technical high school students. This is, at best, a makeshift arrangement, and is going to and from the Y. M. C. A. It also involves the physical training for each class of students, and the total lack of assembly hall facilities is also acutely felt; and is a recognized necessity in a secondary school with the enrollment of the London Technical High School. The gymnasium and auditorium unit was planned for in the original building. Chairman Lawrence's closing remarks at the inaugural address were as follows: "In conclusion may I say that the program before us for the year can only be a successful one in proportion to the measure of co-operation that may be brought about within the board and by the closest co-operation among board members, executive officials, principals and teaching staff. The negotiations of the board with the mayor and council and the board's relation to the public at large should be one of frankness and readiness to co-operate to the mutual benefit of all."

Gossip Around The City Hall

Has served so many years as a receptacle for tenders at city council and committee meetings, is again on duty. It has been repaired since the memorable night when the hammer, corkscrew, screw driver and chisel were necessary to break a stubborn padlock.

Show shoveling gangs have been cut considerably by the city engineer's department. Much snow has been cleared off the streets during the past week and there is little work to be done on with. The work has been so thorough that complaint has been made in some circles that too much snow was removed to provide good sleighing.

According to plans which the new city council will consider, a new syphon for the main sewage system of the city may be built. At the present time the greater area of the city is served by the old King street sewer, but a syphon system is believed necessary at the western end of the city to properly care for the carrying away of sewage.

APPLE ORCHARD CARE
OUTLINED BY SPEAKERJoseph Nichols, Wyoming,
Speaks To Fruit Growers' Association.

The first of the winter meetings of the London branch of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association, held yesterday afternoon in the department of agriculture office was a splendid success.

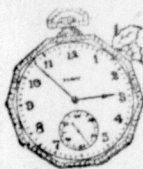

Some interesting information regarding apple growing was given the members by Joseph Nichols of Wyoming. Mr. Nichols has one of the finest orchards in Western Ontario, and he told the growers in detail how the orchards should be planted, sprayed, cultivated and fertilized. Mr. Nichols declared that the Northern Spy was the finest apple grown in the world, and that it could be grown to perfection in Western Ontario.

William England, Brick street, spoke on the relation of fruit to general farming. Mr. England stated that both lines could easily be looked after, although it meant a great deal of extra work in the summer months.

John Etherington, president of the association, presided at the meeting. Secretary A. J. Cody announced that a number of new members had been secured for the association.

MISSING LONDONER
IS LIVING IN SOUTHErnest Chapman Sends Letter
To Wife—Was Thought Dead.

Ernest Chapman is not dead. Mr. Chapman, who operated a candy store at the corner of Wortley road and Bruce street, and who disappeared some months ago, is somewhere in the Southern States. Mrs. Chapman says that she has received a letter from her husband, but cares to make no further statement.

The missing man left home early one morning, and all efforts to locate him proved futile. The police searched in vain. Several clues were followed but failed to reveal the lost man.

In one instance The Advertiser received a wire that a man answering Chapman's description had been found dead in a New Jersey town. Wires with the authorities were at once exchanged, but the dead man, although a Canadian and unknown, proved not to be the missing Londoner.

Whether her husband is well or whether he is returning to London Mrs. Chapman would not say.

for the presence of gas in the building or the pipes. They said that when a gas head was taken off yesterday no gas was detected in the pipes. A workman with an acetylene torch near the pipe is believed to have caused the explosion.

HEINTZMAN INSTALLS
RADIO DEPARTMENTMusical Instrument Company
Will Sell Radio Supplies in London Branch.

Elsewhere in this issue an important announcement is made by Heintzman & Co., Limited, 242 Dundas street, of which Mr. C. L. Gray is the district manager, of the opening on Saturday of this week, in connection with their London branch of a radio department second to none in Canada.

Speaking to The Advertiser Mr. Gray stated that their firm had considered the opening of a department for some time past, but desired to be absolutely sure that radio was perfected enough that instruments could be sold with confidence to their hundreds of customers. Feeling that the new Canadian General Electric line of radiolas in separate sets and the Brunswick Radiola in the combination phonograph-radio measured up to this, their firm accepted the agency for their larger branches throughout Canada, including London.

The local department will have in stock the console combination Brunswick phonographs and the C. G. E. Radiolas, retailing as low as $35, complete with tubes, loud speaker and head phones, in addition to the separate sets retailing as low as $45. Radios with tubes and head phones, up to the Super-Heterodyne instrument at $350, which requires neither aerial nor ground wire to receive the music. If placed in a steel vault big enough to receive the instrument and operator, with the door closed tightly, music will be received perfectly without the use of an outside aerial.

For some years Heintzman & Company have had the agency in London of the Victor Victorolas and Victor Red Seal records, which department will be maintained as in the past. In fact Mr. Gray states that now the Victor company had decided to place on the air their different Red Seal artists, the demand for records had materially increased. This was particularly noted after the New Year's concert broadcasted from New York, when John McCormack and Lucie Arncliffe entertained millions of radio fans with popular and operatic numbers. Announcement of a similar concert to be given Thursday, January 15 by other Victor artists will no doubt be pleasing news to those owning a radio.

Mr. Gray, on behalf of his firm, extends to all radio fans and their friends an invitation to visit their spacious record department following any of these concerts, where a competent trained staff will be pleased to play on the Victrola exactly the same program as rendered on the radio.

Their radio department is prepared to alter any console phonograph at a small cost, so that a radio panel may be inserted in the record compartment, making the phonograph a combination radiola and phonograph.

The new department will be in charge of R. A. Brandon, a man with years of radio experience.

The general public is invited to inspect the new department, which is located on the ground floor of the beautiful Heintzman & Company warehouses, located at 242 Dundas street.

"KID" MCCOY IS GIVEN
TERM IN SAN QUENTINFormer Pugilist, Found Guilty of Manslaughter, Is Sentenced.

Los Angeles, Jan. 8.—Kid McCoy, former pugilist, today was sentenced to San Quentin penitentiary for a term of from one to ten years.

Judge Charles S. Craig pronounced the decree, after denying the plea of defence counsel, Jerry Geisler, for a new trial.

McCoy was found guilty last week of manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. Teresa Mors, his ninth love.

McCoy took the sentence calmly. There were tears in his eyes, but he gazed through them with a smile and looked squarely at the judge, then he sat down.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 9, 1925.

Vancouver As a Seaport.

The development of Vancouver as a great seaport is a source of satisfaction to all Canadians. Vancouver during the last few years has made tremendous strides in the shipping business. She has now reached a point where only San Francisco stands between her and the supremacy of the whole Pacific coast, and it has recently been predicted by both American and Canadian exporters that the end of this decade will see Vancouver in first position.

Last year gave Vancouver a new record as a seaport. Over one thousand deep-sea ships entered her harbor as compared with 837 in 1923. Her grain export trade was more than doubled, her lumber shipments set a new high mark, and canned fish shipping gained sixty per cent.

The development of Vancouver has far-reaching possibilities. The progress and increased wealth of any Canadian city means assistance to the whole dominion, but in the case of Vancouver the geographical factor lends special significance. Vancouver as a new center of commerce will lend encouragement to all the western provinces, and assist in removing the cleavage which has marked the west as the producer and the east as the merchant—two conditions which have unavoidably filled the westerner with suspicion and had its effect upon the shaping of Canadian politics. Commercial development in the west must bring common interests and mutual understanding with the east, and wipe out that imaginary but nevertheless ominous boundary line at the head of the great lakes.

Vancouver as the great shipping center of the Pacific coast must also exert new influence on the railway situation. The trend of traffic from west to east, with the profitless haul back, seems likely to be corrected with Vancouver's growth, and part of the prairie grain crop will probably take the shorter route west through the Rockies as Vancouver provides new facilities for handling it.

Much of the wealth of every great country has been written in the story of its seaports, where the ships of the world bring trade, and every Canadian has reason to watch with interest and hopefulness the record of Vancouver.

No False Promises Here.

The Canadian government is following a surprisingly frank and courageous course in its invitation to British immigrants. New pamphlets circulated in England by Canadian immigration authorities, describing the "family" scheme of settlement, warn the prospective settler of what he must be prepared to face in language whose boldness must make the propagandists of the past hold up their hands in horror.

Listen, for example, to the following extract from the invitation: "Government assistance will not mean that any settler can expect more than the barest and most meagre living until he has himself built up a reserve fund of his own."

And again the prospective settler is told: "In early years a severe and rigid economy, which may regard as almost privations, is the only sure way in which to assure success and substantial comforts in later years. In the early months of settlement the mother should be prepared to face bravely and cheerfully a position of considerable loneliness as compared with her former life in a crowded country."

One may be inclined to feel that perhaps Canada's immigration methods have turned from the evil extreme of deceptive optimism to the other extreme of unnecessary pessimism. Certain it is, however, that the type of man who accepts Canada's present form of invitation is bound to be endowed with the pluck and determination which make good citizens. Like Service's "Call of the Yukon," it gives warning to the misfits and extends its greeting only to "men stripped for the battle."

A Home For Meighen.

From out of the west comes the crowning achievement of the year.

It is Sugar City, Alberta. Its name should be printed on the map in letters of bright red because Sugar City is to have no taxes. It has been so well administered that there is sufficient surplus from past collections to enable carrying on for another year without taxation.

This must be brought to the attention of the Conservative party in Ottawa. The friends of Arthur Meighen should immediately purchase for him a comfortable house and lot in Sugar City. Every time he passed the empty tax collector's office on his way to the store he would almost have to smile.

And anyway, could there be a more appropriate name for Arthur Meighen's home than Sugar City?

Churchill Takes a Hand.

Winston Churchill has made an auspicious start as chancellor of the exchequer by removing in forty minutes of informal conversation a disagreement between Britain and America which was looked upon in some quarters as irreconcilable and perilous to the success of the new Paris conference.

The compromise with James A. Logan, American representative, was characteristic of Churchill's vigorous, breezy personality. The allied ministers met in a brief preliminary session with the cloud of the Anglo-American difficulty hanging over them. As the session adjourned Churchill stepped up to Logan, tapped him on the shoulder, and remarked: "Let's walk over together and see if we can't iron this thing out."

Forty minutes later the whole thing was settled in a reasonable compromise by which America agrees to wait twenty-five years for her army of occupation costs and Britain concedes America a three per cent share in the annuities under the Dawes plan.

The solution seems simple in view of the grave fears which had gripped European diplomats. It is probable that Churchill's delightful informality, his dislike for the heavy dignity of the usual discussions, and his breezy friendliness accomplished what endless official notes and serious diplomatic procedure could not have done. Churchill always follows an unusual course. He is interesting even in the mistakes he has made, and the surprising part about him is that he does the right thing much more often than the wrong.

Churchill, as chancellor of the exchequer, is having his first unrestricted fling at handling foreign negotiations on a big scale, and he will undoubtedly introduce a new note in European affairs. The present conference of the allied finance ministers in Paris is of deep importance. And not a little of its interest will center around that figure of energy and surprises, Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill.

The New "Boogey Man"

The Ku Klux Klan is receiving proper recognition in Western Ontario at present; it is becoming our new "boogey man." The old warning of the mother to her children, that "the boogey man will catch you if you don't watch out," is changing. In a short time now mothers are expected to admonish their young by chanting, "The Ku Klux Klan will catch you," or something of that sort.

The blazing crosses on the mountain at Hamilton and a prank in London by university students seem to reveal the feelings of the people. Nothing was done, nothing was wanted.

On Tuesday a Wallaceburg woman received a note to meet a man on a bridge that night or "beware of the K. K. K." The woman turned the letter over to the police, and is still alive and unharmed.

That appears to illustrate the status of the Klan in Ontario. The torch and flowing sheet at midnight may seem a bit awesome to the children, but to the face of the adult the Klan brings a smile. It seems a bit silly and overdone to Canadians, and Canada's saving sense of humor supplies that ridicule which is a better safeguard against the troubles of our American friends than all the legal protests in the world.

Note and Comment.

That deer running wild in West Zorra must have broken loose from Santa Claus' team on Christmas Eve.

Prof. Oskar Foerster is given credit as discoverer of a cure for motor paralysis. The drug he used is called tetraphan. We have been using anti-freeze.

A Toronto husband is protesting in court because his wife wanted to make him cook some bacon. Quite right too. Most men feel that they have done enough when they succeed in bringing it home.

Tobias Dowdney of Winnipeg weighs 110 pounds, while his wife Annie tips the scales at 250 pounds. This is clearly a case of paying too much attention to the story of Jack Spratt and Mrs. Spratt.

Only last Monday The Advertiser told Woodstock not to boast too soon about no burglaries in 1924, and sure enough along came a burglar Tuesday night. But we had nothing to do with it. He got only one dollar.

It is good news that comes from the home of Col. T. J. Murphy, that his health is returning. An honorable, public-spirited citizen, one who was always willing to give of his time and means for the advancement of the community, Col. Murphy has a host of friends in all walks of life who will be delighted to hear of the recovery he is making.

Now Watch Out!

I notice how the mothers' club was meetin' here the other night, and tellin' how the schools in town was run in ways that wasn't right.

It seems as how some time ago they started on a system here, that took the kids through public school and chopped off their one whole good year. I ain't quite certain how it works, but judgin' from the things I hear, they took and crammed great wads of things and poured 'em in the children's ear.

And if it stuck there well and good, they'd be the family's joy and pride, the trouble come when half the stuff went runnin' out the other side.

And when the neighbors met at night why one would say as how her Kate was racin' through the public school, a-missin' all of old grade eight—she always knew that girl was smart, more so than others in the block, it beat the band the stuff that child had stowed away inside her crock. This caused a rumormongers in the place, for when reports was told to home, why teachers wrote as how the lad was rather backward in his home. And then of course the parents says as how they're shovin' them too quick, and forthwith goes onto the school and makes a healthy sort of kick.

So them what stand the speedin' up they seem to think the system's fine, while them what stub their toes and fall they smite the notion in the spine.

Now V. K. Greer, what will you do if all them women come to you, and threaten for to bruise your jaw and beat your carcass black and blue?

For you're the man, that's what they say, what's runnin' all the public schools, they say, as how you grab your pen and scribe ten kinds of laws and rules.

You better get your armor on and put a guard upon your door, and have a secret hiding-place carved quick 'neath your office floor—for sure as guns they'll call on you, and what they'll say it won't be dull, they're apt to smite you on the nose and bounce a brick upon your skull.—ARK.

Lump Sum Insurance

Agents Know How Often a Beneficiary, Experienced in the Ways of Business, is Persuaded to Let the Whole Thing Devolve Awey.

LIFE INSURANCE men are pressing more closely all the time the advisability of not leaving insurance in a lump sum. They have seen these legacies wasted; they have watched some unscrupulous speculator win the confidence of the beneficiary and gradually get all the money away; they have seen relatives coming for loans which they have never repaid.

Now and then a definite case in point gets into the press. The following from a Cleveland paper serves to show just what happened in one case:

Cleveland, Ohio.—The story of how a $15,000 cash estate was dissipated in one year was told to William L. McPheeters, general manager of the Union Central Life Insurance Company's Cleveland office.

The widow of Charles Anderson came to the office of Mr. McPheeters and with tears streaming down her face told her story.

When Mr. Anderson died he left a $15,000 policy which was to be paid in one sum to his widow, and a policy which would pay his widow $100 a month.

Before Mr. Anderson died he recommended that Mrs. Anderson consult a certain attorney who was said to be a remarkably shrewd investor.

Mrs. Anderson gave him the $15,000 to invest; he urged that she draw the proceeds of the other policy in one sum for investments, instead of having it paid to her at the rate of $100 a month.

Both the attorney and Mrs. Anderson demanded that this be done; but Mr. McPheeters explained that the contract had been made and could not be changed.

It was just one year after this demand that Mrs. Anderson revisited the office and told of the loss of the $15,000; the attorney had made a mistake and all was gone.

Nothing was left but the $100 a month which to the widow is a gift sent from beyond the grave. If Mr. Anderson had not stipulated that the money be paid monthly, there would be nothing today.

Editorial Opinion

HOW A FARMER MAKES MONEY.

(From the Forest Standard)

L. E. MOORE, of Mosa township, Middlesex county, shipped 26 bags of carrots to a commission firm in Toronto recently. Eight bags sold for 70 cents a bag and 18 bags for 40 cents a bag, making a total of $12.80. Express charges on the 26 bags were $10.32; commission for selling, $1.60; cartage, 78 cents, making a total of $12.70; balance 10 cents. Mr. Moore received a check for 10 cents.

He also had a load of cabbages ready for shipment when he received the check, but decided to keep them at home.

HOW JUDGES MAY DIFFER.

(From the Los Angeles Times)

THAT there is good reason for a feeling of dissatisfaction with the law as administered recently had a striking illustration in the courts of San Bernardino county.

Two young men, one being referred to as a "youth" and one as a "barber," were arrested for an assault upon a young school girl. The barber, apparently the elder of the two, was convicted by a jury and released on probation by Judge Olney, who sat at the trial.

The youth, when arraigned for trial, entered a plea of guilty before Judge Freeman, who sat in the same court, and was sentenced to from one to fifty years in the penitentiary. In delivering the sentence Judge Freeman said that school children are entitled to full protection on their way to and from school, and he felt it his duty to see that as far as possible it was given them. He declared that "probation is a dangerous thing," that it is reaping disrespect from the public and frequently the opposite effect from that contemplated in the law.

These two cases, involving one and the same crime, serve to demonstrate the wide divergence of judicial opinion as to the exercise of the somewhat remarkable powers conferred upon them by the probation law, when both may be conscientious in the performance of a difficult task.

CRITICAL TIME IN STEEL TRADE.

(From the Manchester Guardian)

THE British iron and steel trade, said Sir Arthur J. Dorman, at the annual meeting of Messrs. Dorman, Long, last week, "is passing through a time of trouble which, if not actually critical, is more serious than anything I can remember. . . . Our greatest difficulty today lies in the disparity which exists between the prices which continental makers are able to quote and those we are forced to maintain in this country."

Before the war the country's exports of iron and steel were in the neighborhood of 5,000,000 tons per annum. Today the figure is at the rate of about not more than 4,000,000 tons per annum, and as continental output increases, as it is doing, our exports are more likely to diminish than to increase.

Sir Arthur Dorman pointed out that, whereas the price of British steel today is less than 40 per cent above pre-war prices, the general cost of living is more than 70 per cent above that level. Railway charges, taxation, and local rates, among other factors, offer, in Sir Arthur's opinion, the possibility of reduction. Unless some effective reduction is made in costs he sees no alternative to a subsidy for the British iron and steel trade.

To the Editor

Too Many Denominations.

Kitchener Reader Agrees With Londoner That the Forces of Christian Workers Are Too Much Divided.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—I agree heartily with Robert Wilkins, in your issue of Jan. 5, that there is no justification for all the denominations that are in existence today. Because of the vast waste of our Lord's money through overlapping in very many communities, and also because of envy and strife among the sects, sectarianism is a great sin that ought to be blotted out of existence without delay.

St. Paul removed divisions in the city of Corinth. Before he went to the cross, Jesus Christ prayed that all his followers might be one, so that the world might believe that he was sent of God. The unity for which Christ prayed must be a visible unity, otherwise the world beholds four or five hundred sects fighting one another, and the question is which sect is right?

According to its constitution, the federal council of the churches of Christ in America aim "To express the fellowship and catholic unity of the Christian church." The evangelist of the Christian church, which was born in Canada, is a movement toward the unity of Christendom and more speedy Christianization and civilization of the whole world. In support of this crusade, contributions have been received from both Roman Catholic and Protestant clergy and laity, and the movement is gaining ground both in Canada and in the United States. I hope that this information will give at least some satisfaction to my friend, Robert Wilkins.

Sowing and Reaping.

Reader Tells of Lasting Impression Made On His Mind By An Old Painting.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—I thought while listening to the fine New Year's sermon of Dr. MacGregor especially for the benefit of young people on Sunday evening in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church that I would like to amplify the message in some way, especially that part of it where he emphasized again and again the necessity of beginning right and sowing well if we would reap well. I have made a word copy from a cartoon of the long ago ancient wise exhortation from the archives of the memory that I would like to hand up to the young of the New Year. The picture by Beard, I think, was entitled, "Sowing and Reaping," and was intended to illustrate the well-known text, "Whosoever sows seed, that shall he also reap."

In the foreground of the picture is the figure of a man in the very heyday of youth. He is dressed in the prevailing fashion, and his whole bearing suggests the careless ease and reckless abandon so characteristic of the prodigal. Over his shoulder is swung a bag labelled "Wild oats," and he scatters these with a liberal hand—a voluptuous leer flits across his youthful face. Over his head is a banner which reads in some way, "The first clause of the text, 'Whosoever sows seed, that shall he also reap.'"

To the right of the main figure in the middle distance is shown the figure of a man prematurely old. His thin hair hangs in disorder over his withered temples, his form is bent and decrepit, and his face, in expressive of abject poverty, is in tattered clothes and barefoot, he is swinging a stick, with which he is reaping his gruesome harvest consisting of coarse herbage, representing "sorrow," "wee," and "death."

In the background is shown a mound representing the last resting-place of the prodigal, with the tablet at the head inscribed with a viper.

Ah! That is the beginning and end of the prodigal, the wastrel, the voluptuary, the dissipated, the man soweth, that shall he also reap."

We tried it once and came to grief. We left out words and many a letter. Had we more space we could have done better.

And now, as sure as we're alive. Here comes another, 1925.

LORD BERTIE'S DIARY

What Britain's Ambassador Saw in the War.

There were many stirring incidents in the period covered by the following extracts from the diary of Viscount Bertie of Thame, wartime ambassador of Britain to France.

The decision to take proceedings against the Morning Post and Colonel Repington was, in Lord Bertie's opinion, an unwise one, for "Repington was right."

In a reference to scenes at the war office, the diarist tells of Sir Henry Wilson, on arriving to take over Sir W. Robertson's post of chief of the imperial general staff, being ordered out of the room by Sir W. Robertson, who said he knew nothing of any change.

Friction between French and American generals seems to have been French private interests and French sentiment.

Winston Churchill, in reviewing the general situation, sees little prospect of peace, and expects the war to continue for another two or three years.

Jan. 26, 1918.—Henderson, the leader of the Labour party, is circulating some baldheaded lie. If he had his way he will bring about a disruption of the British Empire! He talks of sweeping the country to the sea.

I hope that we are not coming to such an end; but, Bishopsgate seems to be a very serious disease and, unhappily, the Germans seem at present to be immune.

Jan. 27, 1918.—There is a Tenington letter in the Morning Post of Jan. 24, and leading article therein. He, Haig and Robertson are the one front, viz., the French front.

Wilson and Lloyd George are not of that opinion. What squabbling there will be at Versailles!

Jan. 30, 1918.—So much has spoken of the Geographical society about German designs in Africa.

He is evidently, and wisely so, against giving back anything to Germany, and he is right. The premature and unwise restoration of German East Africa to its former owners might have consequences reaching far beyond the confines of the African continent.

Perhaps I may be allowed to express the fervent hope that a land where so many of our heroes lost their lives may never again become a menace to the future peaceful development of the world.

Bravo, Smuts! Stick to it; and drive the silly-lies who preach retrogression!

Foch-Wilson Shares Up.

Feb. 1, 1918.—Lloyd George has left for England, direct from Versailles. There are rumors of a violent altercation between the two prime ministers—I doubt it being true.

Feb. 4, 1918.—Milner paid me a long visit today. He hopes that Clemenceau will continue to the end of the war. He was most cordial.

Russia is looked upon as useless except for the purpose of such general disorder as to prevent any separate peace and to keep the Germans occupied. Bolshevism is a contagious disease which, it is hoped, will spread to Germany. But, alas! the entente will have to adopt old-fashioned quarantine rules to keep out infection.

Pichon tells me that Clemenceau and Lloyd George had some differences, but that on the whole Clemenceau is satisfied. Pichon understands that the situation in England is very serious. Robertson is not intimidated by the prime minister, and spoke his mind.

Feb. 5, 1918.—Those here concerned with the results of the Versailles conference.

The Foch-Wilson shares are up and the Robertson-Haig shares are down. It is not thought that either of them will withdraw from their directorships.

Feb. 6, 1918.—I dined last night at the Ritz as the guest of Blinn. My co-guests were Lord Sutherland who, for reasons of health, is going south, Miss Tennant, who is one of the clerks in Bingham's office, Sir Charles Ellis, and the English or American wife of the syndicate of Rome's eldest son Colonna.

The subject of war dancing came up, and it gave me the opportunity of saying how "naughty" (unfavorably regarded) it is here by French people, and what a pity it is that English in Paris offend French feeling by going to houses where dancing takes place.

The duchess said that she had been to dances in London for the sake of a girl she was taking about, but she had not been to any dance here; I expressed gladness and said that I had heard that the authorities in England were now discouraging such a form of entertainment. This she knew.

Feb. 10, 1918.—Having heard that British officers and private individuals are seeking tickets to attend the Bolo trial, measures are being taken to prevent it. The trial has become a sensational show and the presiding colonel does not keep the audience in order. It would be very objectionable that our khaki officers should be seen in court. The Bolo affair is an internal question, and no opportunity should be given to the Anglophobes to blaspheme.

Robertson Gives Resignation.

Feb. 14, 1918.—The military attaché is quite "acquis" to Repington, and his conversation must, I think, be a repetition to me of what Repington has said to him. The Morning Post only arrived today, viz., the issue of Monday last containing Repington's attack, and the leading article on Lloyd George.

Le Roy-Lewis talks of both armies, British and French, dwindling, and the decision in the war being wholly here in France, of the absurdity of having a reserve army wholly under a French general who will not be in a position to know which of the two commanders-in-chief most requires reinforcements on given occasions.

Repington's information comes from Robertson and his friends.

It does not seem to me a wise decision to prosecute Repington and the Morning Post, for in the legal proceedings matters of which the publication must be injurious to national interests will necessarily come out on one side or the other, or on both.

Feb. 17, 1918.—Robertson has resigned and Wilson leaves Versailles for Whitehall with lesser powers than had Robertson.

The military attaché, whom I met in the courtyard this morning, and who represented the French, made a short walk which I accepted, says that there have been

New York, Jan. 8.—There will be at least ten per cent more sugar to all the sweet tooth of the world in 1925 than in the record-breaking year of 1924, and indications point to continued low prices for three months at least. Cuban raw sugar has slumped over 20 per cent in price in the last month, and the time of heavy selling of Cuban stocks is at hand.The Cuban mills are now bringing the largest crop ever known on the island. Weather conditions there have been exceptionally favorable recently, and the warm dry weather has counterbalanced any effects of excessive rains earlier in the season, which it was feared would reduce the sugar content of the cane.

Bridge and Dancing Gives Way To Treasure Hunt

Younger Set of Atlanta Goes Mad Over Imported Pastime.

HUNT IN CARS

By ARTHUR PARKER.
Special to The Advertiser.
Copyright.

Atlanta, Jan. 8.—Society here has gone stark mad on treasure hunting, a fad imported from London.

In the last several weeks a dozen hunts have been held, boxes of gold, ranging up to $50 have been found, the police have made cases against the best-known members of the younger set for smuggling the speed laws and one or two automobiles have been wrecked.

Fox hunting in the days of the old south was a mild sport compared with this modern pastime of racing an automobile at 50 miles an hour through the streets in search of clues leading up to a hidden box of gold.

The biggest hunt of the season so far was held Monday night when one hundred people gathered at Dan Conklin's home on Peachtree street. They were divided into couples, a boy and a girl, each equipped with an automobile—the speedier, the better.

The first clue led to Piedmont circle, the second to the attic of a house on Fourteenth street, another to a grave on Ponce de Leon road, and finally to the Conklin house, where Harriett Shedd and Jack Sharp found a box of gold pieces amounting to $50.

Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey MacDonald started the treasure-hunting fad here, but they little realized what they were stirring up. Bridge and dancing have been forgotten. Clues are distributed in various places, and the hunters, riding in automobiles driven at top speed, search for government streets or residence sections, searching for signs that lead to the box of gold.

Many of the clues are written in verse. At the hunt given by Miss Will Hawkins the first clue read:

"Under a rock, in a dry swimming pool,

At a club with a cigarette name,

You'll find clue No. 2, which will aid me and you.

In winning the gold hunters came."

The club was the Piedmont driving club.

Is It Better To Be A Spinster Than To Marry A Man You Do Not Love?

Dear Dorothy Dix—When I was about 22 years of age I had a proposal of marriage, but refused it because I did not care enough for this man to marry him. No other man has ever cared for me or proposed to me since then. Now I am no longer young. I suppose my chances for marrying are past, and I am wondering if I made a mistake in saying "no" to my first sweetheart, although I did not love him.

ALICE.

Answer: No, I do not think you made a mistake in refusing to marry a man you did not love, no matter if it does doom you to spinsterhood. It is far, far better to be unmarried than it is to be tied to a man for whom you do not care.

The old maid is apt to glorify matrimony, and to paint it in all the gayest colors of romance as a sort of elysium in which a woman lives in a love nest, with cherubic children playing about her and surrounded by the love and tenderness of a devoted husband who makes plenty of money and who is never cross, nor grumpy, nor fussy about his food.

Alas, Alice, matrimony is not often like that. For the great majority of women it is domestic slavery, hard work without wages, scrimping and saving, and trying to corkscrew money for the butcher and baker out of a man who regards having to pay the monthly bills, and the average wife would drop dead with heart failure if her husband should pay her an unqualified compliment or express any appreciation of what she does for him.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am very much in love and engaged to marry a man who works in the same office that I do. He used to come to see me every evening, but for the last three months he has only been coming to see me once a week. He says that he is so busy with his work in the office that he is sure I do not care to see him again in the evening.

Naturally, I resent his loss of interest, and yet I really believe he loves me. What shall I do? We plan to be married in the spring.

A. B.

Answer:

I should think that your fiancé was getting a-weary and was trying to force you to break the engagement. Certainly, from your description of the case, his temperature has cooled down from fever heat to sub-normal.

When a man begins to suggest to a woman that she has got enough of his society, he means that he is fed up on her. For as long as a man is really in love and keen about a woman, he never stops to consider her feelings as regards himself. He is Johnny-on-the-spot. He would be assiduously attentive to her if he granted that she wants to be with him every minute of the time.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Do you think all intermarriages are failures? So my parents say.

I am a young woman in love with a man of a different nationality from my own. He is a perfect gentleman, of fine breeding, and very gentle and kind. I love him very dearly, and there is no reason why I should not marry him except that my parents object to him because he is not an American.

I would like to hear what you say about this.

J. A. J.

Answer:

I think your parents are entirely mistaken. Many marriages of men and women of different nationalities are exceedingly happy, and your father and mother are very much at fault for trying to keep you from marrying the man you love if that is the only objection they have to him.

DOROTHY DIX.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

Canadian Women Are Slow To Follow the French Fashion for High Collars.

Concerning the collar or neck-line of a frock the Canadian woman first asks: "Is it becoming?" The French woman, "Is it smart?"

Once a Canadian woman has found a neckline becoming she seems to be much more willing to continue to wear it season after season than the French woman, with whom the craving for novelty in clothes is always strong. And as for the dress-makers and designers, contentment in any one mode, no matter how becoming, means business stagnation. If our old frocks still seem smart we will wear them until they are worn out—and that would never do.

The tendency with evening frocks nowadays is to make them fairly high in front. Backs are often cut to the waistline—or where the waistline would be if there were one—and shoulders are still left bare in a large number of evening frocks. But the frock that is cut low at the front, or that goes in the old-time V at the middle of the front, is still a rarity.

A new evening frock from Vionnet shows the fabric draped under one arm and over the other—with a straight diagonal line across the front—that somehow suggests the artless arrangement of the everyday frock of a South Sea Island woman.

High collars are, of course, more popular in France than here. It would seem as if Canadian women had become extremely sensitive at the neck and throat from the way they protest at the thought of any sort of high collar. They have even been slow to follow the French trick of tying soft silk scarves well around the neck. Meanwhile many of the new frocks show some sort of tie or jabot at the neckline. One clever designer places a jabot at the left side and finishes the neckline with a band of leopard.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

A HARE BY ANY OTHER NAME.

There are no pelts that seem to lend themselves to do so many different imitations and adaptations as those belonging to the hare family. By skillful plucking and dyeing this pelt can be made to imitate anything from chinchilla to leopard, seal to fox. What is known as the hare is found in New Zealand and Australia as well as throughout Europe, while the rabbit, really a hare, is found especially in Belgium, France, Germany and England, also in Australia and New Zealand.

This season, of course, hare came into its own under its own name, and dyed hare in all sorts of ways is being used by French dress-makers who used hare extensively. But it is still very often made to imitate the seal, ermine, mole, sable, leopard, fox and chinchilla. Rabbit and hare in imitation of seal sometimes go by such names as Australian seal, scabbie, Baltic seal, musquash, coast seal, electric seal, near seal and French seal. The chinchilla imitations have been given such names as French chinchilla and chinchilla. Squirrelle and squirrelle are the squirrel editions of the versatile hare or rabbit, and this year we have had French and Baltic hare, all of hare origin. Other fur terms that apply to versions of hare or rabbit peltry are blue-ette, visionette, which resembles mink, castorelle, sable hair, Baltic tiger, Baltic red fox and Baltic lion.

The Otters Move On, Seeking a Better and Safer Fishing Ground

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

The young Otter, who had left a toe behind in a trap, was so happy to be free again that he hardly gave the loss of that toe a thought. The cold water was good for the sore foot, and the young Otter being healthy, his foot healed rapidly. In fact, in two or three days his foot was practically well. But the young Otter didn't forget his dreadful experience. He never would forget it. He had learned a lesson that he would remember as long as he lived. All his life he would be suspicious of traps and on the watch for them. Never again would that young Otter be caught in a trap.

Of course the trapper found that toe in his trap. Such a disappointed trapper as he was! "There wasn't be a chance of catching that Otter again," said he. "I must have been careless in setting that trap. It should have caught him by the whole foot and not just by a toe. Probably those other Otters know all about it now."

When he discovered the new slippery slide he knew that his traps at the old slippery slide had been discovered. He set another trap at the foot of the new slide, but he didn't have much hope of catching any one in it. He understood perfectly that Little Joe Otter and Mrs. Otter were wise in the ways of trappers. "I guess," muttered the trapper, "that my best chance of getting one of those Otters will be to hide for a chance to shoot one of them. I'll spend the day over here tomorrow with my gun."

So he spent all the next day hidden near the slippery slide, watching with his terrible gun. But he didn't get a chance to use it. He didn't get so much as a glimpse of a sleek, brown Otter. And the reason was that Little Joe Otter and his family were far away down the brook. They had started early the night before. They were on their way down toward the Big River.

Little Joe and Mrs. Otter had talked the matter all over. "It isn't safe to stay here any longer," declared Little Joe. "I don't like to leave the good fishing, for we may not find another place where it is so easy to get plenty of fish. But that terrible two-legged creature will give us no peace. There is a trap now at the foot of our new slippery slide."

"You are quite right, my dear," replied Mrs. Otter. "I am worried to death for fear, in spite of all their watchfulness, one of the children will get caught in a terrible trap and be killed. I think the sooner we move along the better. Safety is the most important thing."

So one more day the children were a crust on the snow now, and they had a lot of fun sliding. Moreover, they didn't leave a trail, as when they had left the Laughing Brook in the soft snow. They followed the big brook on its way toward the Big River. Now and then they came to open places where the water was swift and hadn't frozen. There they stopped to fish. Sometimes they swam for quite a distance under the ice. It was all fun, exciting fun for the two young Otters.

So he spent all the next day hidden near the slippery slide.

Paris, Jan. 8.—Among the new woollen materials the more prominent manufacturers are turning out for spring costumes are heavy navy or black serges, ornamented with widely spaced stripes in the brightest of colors. Some, instead of stripes, have large plaids with enormous checks or small plaids alternating with large spaces of plain cloth.

PASTEL SHADES POPULAR.

New York, Jan. 8.—Earth, sky and sea and the waters under the sea are called upon to provide names for the colorines of the winter resort frocks, but when all is said and done, the frocks selected with best taste usually employ white and some simple variation of the ordinary colors. The pastel shades are especially popular.

OUTSIDE INTERESTS URGED FOR MOTHERS

Mrs. W. A. Tanner Addresses Members of Aberdeen Mothers' Club.

"Democracy in the Home" was the very interesting subject chosen by Mrs. W. A. Tanner, president of the London mothers' club, for her address before the Aberdeen mothers' club at their meeting held in the school last night.

The truly democratic parent, she said, must be intelligent. To be a good parent did not mean that it was necessary to confine oneself to within the walls of the home, but to go out, talk with interesting people and read good books. Then the parent's intelligence would grow with her family.

The spirit of self-control should be exercised by the parent if she wished to instill that spirit in her children, said the speaker. Politeness, she thought, was becoming a lost art. Was everybody living in such a rush that there was no time to practice the small acts that go to make the home happier?

The program also included readings by Miss Less, vocal solos by Miss Adamson and a duet by Miss Gillett, an act by Miss Rodda, Mrs. J. Walton, the president, was in the chair.

The members have decided to entertain the fathers and teachers of the school district at the next meeting. Following the program, a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments served in the domestic science room.

RED CROSS ANNUAL IS SET FOR JANUARY 19

Mrs. Pearl Allison Appointed Local Organizer For Home Nursing Classes.

The annual meeting of the London Red Cross society will be held, probably on Jan. 19, in St. Andrew's hall. This meeting will be featured by an address by Mrs. Ronald Harris, the president, and by the election of officers for the coming year.

Plans for this meeting were made at a recent meeting of the executive, under whose consideration also came the matter of establishing home nursing classes in the city.

In this connection Mrs. Pearl Allison, formerly of the child welfare nursing staff, was appointed local organizer and during the next six weeks will visit the organization of the city, factories and business staffs, with a view to having classes formed. Miss Hamilton, provincial organizer, arrives in the city on Monday, and will give preliminary assistance in this work of organization.

An appeal is being made by the Red Cross society for more knitters, the wool to be supplied on request. The need for warm garments at the Byron sanatorium is pressing, and for this reason the society is asking that completed garments be returned as soon as possible. The annual meeting of the Provincial Red Cross society takes place in Toronto on Jan. 21.

Two More Ontario Cities Sought By Mint President

Halligan Appears Satisfied With Result of Scouting Tour.

KNOTTY LEE ALONG

President Tom Halligan, who arrived here Wednesday with Knotty Lee, chief architect and contractor who built the old Canadian league, spent yesterday here as well, and the Mint prexy seems satisfied with the result of his scouting tour of Ontario.

Halligan will have nothing definite to say until the annual meeting on the 15th of this month, but he apparently knows just what the possibilities are in Ontario, and gives everybody else the chance to take the fling at him. The only definite thing that he has planned himself to do is that there will not be any teams in the league east of Toronto. Kingston and Peterborough are the only two clubs on the borderline. Toronto and Peterborough are the only two clubs in the league that are in a more or less stable position, especially if the new league started with the proper spirit and were prepared to keep strictly to the salary limit.

Between Two Forces. President Halligan is between two forces. Muskogee, Grand Rapids and Kalamazoo of the Central League would like to drop London and Hamilton and replace them with two more from the west. But the Ontario league is a more or less stable position, especially if the new league started with the proper spirit and were prepared to keep strictly to the salary limit.

Lower salaries will be paid next year, no matter what the league formation is. Halligan says, with some emphasis. He, however, does not intend to decrease the salaries of the players, though he may listen to reason as far as the number of the staff is concerned.

Several Possibilities. Guelph, which in the old days played major league ball as it was then, Brantford, St. Thomas and even Sarnia and Port Huron are all possibilities from which to choose two new cities. But it is believed, has been ruled out for the time being, owing to the depression. Sarnia and Port Huron are still the St. Clair river between them and memories of their former glory. Sarnia is probably next to be scratched. Brantford and Port Huron are the only two cities that have a chance of being added to the league of lower classification.

Sarnia is probably next to be scratched. Brantford and Port Huron are the only two cities that have a chance of being added to the league of lower classification.

Still Optimistic. The fact that Knotty Lee is associated with Halligan, this trip indicates that the old war horse might like another fling at his old business. Knotty Lee, which ever club it was, would be assured of success if the thing were possible at all.

Halligan is optimistic as usual. He figures that after surviving last year's debacle nothing worse could befall him as a league executive. The league, despite one of the worst years in its baseball history, finished the year clear of all debt. The sale of Grand Rapids players left something to be desired, but in the treasury. Halligan passed last year's test and still has his never-ending supply of money. It is an optimism that is contagious, and having set out to add two Canadian cities, the Mint men will probably come through.

GUELPH UNLIKELY

Special to The Advertiser. Guelph, Jan. 8.—President Tom Halligan of the Ontario baseball league, and Knotty Lee, the original promoter of the organization, are expected to be in the city early next week to look over the ground, and if possible induce local businessmen to place a team representing this city in the M. O. circuit.

Guelph's past experience in professional baseball would not lead one to believe that the promoters would be very likely to induce anyone in this city to become financially interested in any such project. Professional baseball has never been a success here. The owners of the local team in the old Canadian league lost a fortune in the experiment. On the other hand amateur baseball has gained a firm hold here and will be hard to supplant by the pro article.

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Take Salts to Wash Kidneys if Back Pains You or Bladder Bothers.

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day. Also take a salt occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid famous salts in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year. Adv.

What is your opinion as to whether a naturally left-handed person should learn to play right-handed?

Answered by TOM KERRIGAN Professional Swanow Country Club, Mount Vernon, N. Y. A consistent winner in big tournaments. In a British open, 1921, he finished third, two strokes behind Hutchison and Wethered, tied for first.

If a naturally left-handed person is considerably stronger and more efficient on his left side than his right, I would say, play left-handed. But the fact is a left-handed player is somewhat handicapped, because most courses are laid out for right-handers. So, if there isn't any considerable difference between his left and right sides, it may be better for him to start playing right-handed, and learn the game that way.

ENGLAND LOSES TO AUSTRALIANS

Commonwealth Cricketers Defeat Old Country Eleven by 81 Runs.

Associated Press Despatch.

Melbourne, Australia, Jan. 8.—England's hopes of ending Australia's sequence of victories in cricket test matches played in the Commonwealth during the last twelve years were rudely dashed today, when forty-five minutes play sufficed for the dismissal of the remaining touring players in the closing innings, leaving the antipodeans winners by 81 runs.

Australia scored 600 and 256, England replying with 479 and 200. The home players have now won the first two tests of the season. When play was resumed the morning after England had scored 259 runs for six wickets, requiring 112 runs for victory. The score was 112-100 when Douglas was retired and one run later Sutcliffe was caught by Gregory, his test being 125.

The other players also were out. Gilligan and Tate being dismissed with the first ball delivered. Chapman was not out with four to his credit when the innings closed for 229 runs.

Sutcliffe was awarded a wonderful ovation on the attainment of his two centuries in one test match and his third consecutive hundred in the present series. At the conclusion of the innings the crowd rushed on the ground, shaking and applauding for the great fight he had put up. Sutcliffe received showers of congratulatory cables from England, while in Australia a "shilling fund" has been started for his benefit.

PALMERSTON SEXTET BLANKS WIARTON 2-0

Home Team Scores Twice in Third After Two Time Periods.

Special to The Advertiser.

Palmerston, Jan. 8.—The local intermediate O. H. A. team was successful in defeating Wiarton 2 to 0, here tonight in a closely-contested game, and while there was no score in the first two periods, they were not what might be called good hockey. The last period was snappy, and it was in this that the local goalies were good all the time.

"Red" Glinder played a fast but rather rough game, and drew the only Wiarton penalty, while Barton and White for Palmerston made the balance of the three trips to the penalty box.

For Wiarton, Smith, the goalie, was at his best, and saved the game from a high score many times, even though the locals missed the nets and again, "Red" McDonald, ex-Wiarton star, was in the game for Palmerston, having been cleared by the O. H. A. of all charges presented by Listowel.

Jacobs of Toronto handled the game to the satisfaction of all.

"Peck" Kelly started, but had to leave the ice at the second period, due to an injury received at Listowel when he skated into the goal post.

Report Says Bellefeuille Has Signed With St. Pats

Three-Year Contract, at Salary of $4,500, Offered Local Hockey Star by Toronto Pro Club.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, Jan. 8.—Pierre Bellefeuille, refused a certificate to play with London in the senior O. H. A., has accepted N.H.L. and will be in the game against Hamilton here Saturday. The owners of the local club made their first bid for Bellefeuille's services when he was playing with Ironopolis Falls last season, but he refused to make the jump, and when the Three Rivers' boy was turned down by the O.H.A. last month they again made him a handsome offer, but he still entertained hopes of being granted a card and would not sign.

However, when the O.H.A. on Monday decided not to change its original decision and closed the case, the St. Patrick's representative made another trip to London, Bellefeuille practically agreeing to join the Irish, and tonight he confirmed by wire, saying he would report tomorrow or Saturday morning.

On the Side Lines

With C. S. G.

"Naughty" Knotty Lee. Halligan could not have chosen a more persuasive personality than Knotty Lee to help sell the idea of a re-vamped Mint circuit to two new Ontario cities.

Knotty, who formerly managed the Brantford club in the old Canadian League and in the Mint, and has since been business manager of the Toronto Leafs, was the most colorful of that crew of old-time pilots who gave the old Canadian league and the first formed Mint League the needful element of comedy. Baseball does not thrive upon the serious note. It's all right from the 7th inning on, but nine innings of deadly obviously serious baseball day after day would become a deadly bore.

Comedy is a very dangerous thing to play with in baseball. One step too far makes for burlesque. Knotty always stopped the right distance short of that.

SPORT SNAPSHOTS

Le Canada, Montreal French morning paper, commenting on Thursday's N. H. L. game, which Ottawa won from the Canadiens by a score of 2 to 0, says in part:

"Ottawa gave Canadiens a bitter pill to swallow when they defeated them 2 to 0, but the Red and White and Blue have one consolation—they still share the first place with the Canadiens, who took no chances. Credit must be given to Connell, who played a superb game. Ottawa goalie missed his job down to the last minute, and drew the only Wiarton penalty, while Barton and White for Palmerston made the balance of the three trips to the penalty box."

"The little lion of the capital" seemed to be all over the rink. Smith and Denney were also good, while Nicholson turned in his usual brilliant game.

"Of the Canadiens, Connell was the only one who seemed to play his regular game. The commencement of the game, Sprague, Cleghorn and Joliat were good, but in the second session they seemed exhausted."

ENGLISH LEAGUE SOCCER ECLIPSED

Cup Competition, Hallowed and Venerable Institution, Looms in Old Land.

Associated Press Despatch. London, Jan. 8.—For the next few days league football is totally eclipsed, and in its place looms the great annual struggle of Great Britain's football cup, the English cup, almost a hallowed institution, and a venerable one, for the cup play was a yearly tournament feature as far back as 1871.

The trophy represents to football fans all over the world what the Epsom Derby means to followers of flat racing. It is the event to which all things associated with English sport move.

Interest in the contest has never been better than this year, and the first round, scheduled to be played off on Saturday, has already produced the customary crop of prospects, wise followers of the game who have risen up boldly and proclaimed their faith. An equal number find themselves just as ready to confound the seers, willing to pin their colors to dark horses and take long odds.

Sixty-four teams will engage in these opening tussles, 24 less than the number comprising the league. This luckless minority have been eliminated through the slow process of qualifying rounds, for the English cup is a perfect exemplification of the survival of the fittest. The draw has brought together curious bed-fellows—first division teams well on the way to league honors meeting with third division clubs. The Corinthian amateurs, who toured Canada last summer, and who came out so badly in their tiffs with the Canadian amateurs, pitted against such seasoned fighters as Sheffield United and clubs who are running neck-to-neck in the same league, have a titanic battle all their own. These are the tidbits offered by the first round on Saturday.

Poke and Cross Checks

The 75's won tonight's game. A loss wouldn't put them out of range of the playoffs, but it wouldn't do them any good either.

Tonight would be a good night for the Kitchener Green Shirts to turn the other side. Preston, even with the loss of Talbot, should be able to turn the Pals back on home ice. This would tighten things up a bit.

Talbot looked like a good prospect for the first time he turned out here in a work-out. The league games proved the dope right. This will probably give "Speedy" Somers a chance to work on defence. Somers is too slow on the break to make much impression on a forward line. He should make a capable defence sub. This is all, of course, contingent upon whether "Speedy" is still taking the springs treatment at Preston.

Roy McKay played one of his cleanest games the other night, and was most effective. His check and his shot would look good in higher company.

MILVERTON O. H. A. JUNIORS SWAMP STRATFORD KIDS

Special to The Advertiser. Milverton, Jan. 8.—The local junior O. H. A. team defeated Stratford here tonight by the score of 8 to 2. The visitors were easily outplayed. The visiting goalkeeper was the busiest man on the ice.

Line-ups: Stratford—Goal, Gingsar; right defence, Walton; left defence, Wilson; right wing, Knechtel; left wing, Walsh; centre, Aeneas; sub, Mann, Sprue. Milverton—Goal, M. Bundsch; right defence, Kelterburn; left defence, Smith; right wing, Bastendorf; left wing, E. Bundsch; centre, Padden; sub, Schumier. Referee—Cully, Rocker, Listowel.

TONIGHT'S SENIOR GAME HERE MEANS HOLD ON FOURTH RUNG

Galt Terriers Looming As Stronger Sextet With Each Game Played.

"MIRACLE OUTFIT"

Tonight's senior game here means a footing on the fourth rung of the big six group with Galt if the 75's win. A short few weeks ago not one of the fans who saw Galt in action against Preston could conceive the 75's battling for the fourth rung, or any other rung for that matter, with Galt Terriers. The Terriers' form then was so mediocre that the fans waxed sympathetic. Even considering their lack of workout at the time there appeared even to the experts, to be few indications of even senior possibilities.

That view has been considerably changed since Galt received a setback in its initial engagement against the 75's on home ice, but since they started Kitchener on the down grade with a 5 to 0 victory, they have been the miracle outfit of the group. They took reverses in Niagara Falls and Preston, but defeated Stratford and Kitchener once more to prove that they are liable to bounce up any moment and do unexpected damage.

Their last accomplishment, does not mean great odds, as it may mean a lot in the rather hectic form shown in the big six to date. It might mean that Galt is growing better and Kitchener is, or it might mean that the Terriers after two stiff games had an off night. In any case, they'll be dangerous for the whole three periods here tonight.

Heverson will referee the game. It should be both clean and at top speed. A record crowd is indicated.

L.A.A.A. Rugby Team Honored

Banquet Is Tendered 1924 Intermediate Squad.

The first banquet ever tendered a London rugby team in the memory of the 1924 intermediate squad at the Peconish House last night.

The affair was a huge success and marked by a determination to give London still better things in the rugby line, and by a splendid fellowship developed in the task of giving London the best rugby season the city has experienced in a result of the final competition.

Chairman Gordon Marr of the L. A. A. rugby committee presided. "See-in-the-Arrow" Bill Baines, who acted as pep leader during the active season, switched to song last night and had them "hitting the line" hard, if they didn't hit all the first notes.

Following the banquet, Chairman Marr and the executive and players all made brief speeches. The former stated that some of the rugby enthusiasts had gone over into the hockey season, and he pictured a time when L. A. A. teams would provide sport that would make London's athletic pride a year-round thing. W. T. Lawrence urged development of rugby players on the playgrounds, public schools and colleges. Secretary Bill Friend, Treasurer Niven Judd and Capt. Jerry Goodman were among a host of speakers who predicted still greater accomplishments for London "next year."

Among the guests were Bill Haddon, who for many years was among those who kept rugby going even at an annual deficit. Manager, Nelson, who he Coach Doug, Hueter, were unavoidably absent.

PREMIER REFUSES TO DIVULGE STAND

Ferguson Declines To Comment On Statements Made By Henry.

PEOPLE WAITING

Special to The Advertiser.
Toronto, Jan. 8.—Premier Ferguson refused emphatically on his arrival back in Queen's Park today to comment in any way on statements made last week by Hon. George S. Henry, in which he suggested that the government might find a way out of the O. T. A. situation by recommending to the federal government the repeal of the Doherty act restricting liquor importation into the province.

"I do not wish to say anything about it whatsoever," Mr. Ferguson declared. "I have not yet had time to carefully read the interview reported to have been given by Mr. Henry, and even so I would not be willing to say anything about it at this time."

The premier was reminded that Mr. Henry's suggestion has stirred up a great deal of interest throughout the province in both wet and dry circles, and that three federal ministers, on a visit to Toronto this week, had accused Queen's Park of attempting to pass the buck.

"The people are awaiting some statement from you on the matter," The Advertiser suggested.

"I am not going to say anything about it," Mr. Ferguson repeated.

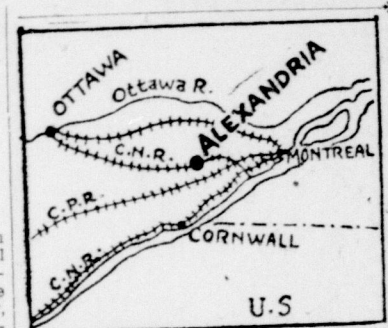

The premier was also reminded of pledges which he made in a letter to Rev. T. Albert Moore during the plebiscite campaign in which he promised definitely that the question of importation would not arise regardless of whether the vote was wet or dry.

"Will you still stand by this pledge?"

In reply, Mr. Ferguson again merely repeated his determination not to say anything.

"It's only a lot of newspaper talk," were his closing words.

CO-OPERATION CALLED FARMER'S REAL AIM

"History of Farm Movements in Canada" by Prof. L. A. Wood Reaches City.

An interesting book on the "History of Farm Movements in Canada" has just been written by Prof. Louis A. Wood, who two years ago was on the staff of the university here and who is now in charge of the department of social and labor economy of the University of Oregon.

The volume has been received at the public library. It shows that, contrary to present day conception, the farmer is in reality one who wishes to co-operate with his neighbor; that all through the past he has shown a strong tendency for organization. This is seen in the formation of clubs, societies and even political parties.

A connected and continuous account is given of farming associations covering operations from their beginning in Canada up to the present time. There are several chapters on the tariff.

'CHESTY' JOIE RAY CLAIMS HE CAN BEAT PAAVO NURMI

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, Jan. 8.—Joie Ray still thinks he can beat Paavo Nurmi on the indoor track, and he expressed his confidence this before leaving for Chicago, where he will race Nurmi on Friday night of next week.

"I need a little short of work, that's all," said Ray, referring to his defeat of Lewis in a couple weeks of racing.

Ray said Chicago's track was four-tenths of a mile, and his coach, Leonard, said it was a great advantage. "When Nurmi gets out there he'll find out what he's running means," said Ray.

World's Wrestling Title Passes to "Big" Munn, Rugby Star, Erstwhile Boxer.

FOUL MARS MILL

Youthful Giant Picks Champion, Up and Hurls Him to the Ground.

Associated Press Despatch.
Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 8.—An erstwhile university football player, who tried boxing but could not stand up against the punches and whose knowledge of the technique of grappling is that of a novice, is the new wearer of the world's heavyweight wrestling belt.

He is Wayne "Big" Munn, a youth who, by a prodigious bulk and strength last night threw off the fearful deadlock of the veteran, Ed "Strangler" Lewis and crushed him into submission.

Lewis today is in a local hospital, suffering injuries to his back. His strength last night threw off the fearful deadlock of the veteran, Ed "Strangler" Lewis and crushed him into submission.

Lewis today is in a local hospital, suffering injuries to his back. His strength last night threw off the fearful deadlock of the veteran, Ed "Strangler" Lewis and crushed him into submission.

A giant in stature and strength, Munn, despite his meagre boxing strategy, clearly demonstrated his power over the litleholder, although a foul, which resulted in a protest by Lewis' manager, marred the victory.

The championship clash, witnessed by 7,000 howling fans, all of whom seemed to be partisans of the challenger, developed the most tumultuous scene in the turbulent history of wrestling here.

Hurls the Champion.
The climax came after two minutes of wrestling for the second fall, when Munn, twisting free from a headlock, lifted Lewis high in the air with a body and enough hold, apparently the only weapon at his command, and walking to the ropes, hurled the "Strangler" outside on to the uncovered floor of the platform. Lewis' 235 pounds hit the boards with a terrific thud, and the titleholder rolled to the concrete floor. Chaos ensued. "Billy" Sandow, manager of Lewis, sprang into the ring, shouting "Foul!" and the crowd stormed the platform, but a line of police held back the frenzied fans.

Referee Walter Bates, a veteran arbitrator, announced that the fall was awarded to Lewis on a foul. Bates gave Lewis fifteen minutes to return to the ring, and announced the match would be awarded to the challenger if Lewis did not appear.

Sandow announced Lewis would continue under protest. Twenty minutes later Lewis came to the ring, handcuffed, and was assisted through the ropes. The match was over within a few minutes. Munn clamped on a body and crotch hold and hurled Lewis to the mat. Lewis lay prone, and a new champion had been crowned. It took less than five minutes.

Lewis was lifted high over the head of the young giant three times during the match and dashed to the floor. Munn gained the first fall in that manner in 21 minutes with the body and crotch hold. Lewis lay stunned five minutes.

The "Strangler" famed headlock, which has crushed many opponents into submission and sometimes unconsciousness, was used against the tremendous strength of the youth. By planting his feet firmly and heaving his powerful trunk about, the giant threw off his tormentor.

Munn asserted after the match he did not throw Lewis outside the ring. "I held him high, and he wriggled out of my clutch," he said.

Sandow declared he would contest the decision and contended Referee Bates erred in not awarding the match to Lewis on the fourth fall. However, he declared Lewis lost any right to a protest by coming back for the third fall. "There is no protest," he said.

Munn, a towering figure of 6 feet, 6 inches, weighing 260 pounds, played in the line of the university of Nebraska football team in 1923, and after leaving school, essayed a boxing career. He was a member of the professional wrestling outfit of the same name.

Lewis won the championship three years ago from Stanislaus Zyzanski, at Wichita, Kansas.

Rueher never pitched Brooklyn to a pennant, as he boasted he would do for the Giants, though he has a fine opportunity last year. His 1924 record was twenty-four wins and three losses.

If Rueher's arm has not gone back on him, if he still has some of the skill he evinced in the west, he may prove just what Washington needs. Left-hand assistance to the extent of about fifteen victories out of twenty-five starts would go a long way toward helping the Senators rep the American flag again.

Washington saved him from the miners by putting in a claim for him. And now he is again a member of a championship team, with a chance to make good.

RUEHER STILL FAR FROM GIANT CAMP

Portside Officially Bowled Out of National League To American.

By JOHN B. FOSTER. Copyright, 1925.

New York, Jan. 8.—The papers have been signed by Paavo Nurmi in his first appearance on an American track, when he shattered three world records, has stirred the experts anew to an effort to determine just what are the qualities that entitle him to the appellation, "Paavo the Perfect."

Ever since his performance at the Olympic games, explanations have been forthcoming to account for his speed and stamina. His ability has been traced, among other things, to a diet of dried fish and black bread, and to his method of dry rubbing and massage. Since he has been here, the ideas of diet, rubbing, and so on, have given place to the study of form, and he has been likened to some half dozen of the American stars.

Nurmi comes of a sturdy, fighting, hard working, and has not been coddled. He has had to work without advantage of dry rubbing, and so on, have given place to the study of form, and he has been likened to some half dozen of the American stars.

As to his form, his arm action, shoulder motion and foot balance are all particularly adapted to the conservation of energy, and his trunk muscles steady him beautifully on his stride and prevent any wobbling, even toward the end of a hard struggle.

Of one thing, however, it is probable the choice would fall on the steadiness of his torso at any pace, and at any time in a race. That body, held steady and strong, the arms keeping perfect time with the leg motion, and no swaying or wasted effort, is the supreme mark of the greatest of running winners.

TWO FALSE ALARMS SENT FROM SAME BOX IN WEEK

For the second time this week the firemen last night were called to a false alarm at the corner of Simcoe and Maitland streets. The call each time has come from box 613. The first time was on Tuesday night. It is the belief of the fire department heads that small boys are to blame for the crime. If the persons responsible are caught they will be dealt with severely.

Boston, Jan. 9.—After 48 hours deliberation, said to be a record in Suffolk county criminal cases, the jury trying William J. Corcoran, former district attorney of Middlesex county, and three others on charges of conspiracy to extort $50,000 from Victor A. Seabury of Boston and Atlantic City, N. J., today reported a disagreement in respect to Corcoran and attorney Barton refused to make public the names of men involved by Rosker as "higher-ups" until he has made further investigation.

DIET CAN BALANCE WHITE BREAD EVIL

Whole Wheat Product Is Healthier, Dr. W. H.
Hill Asserts.

To the average man who eats a fairly well mixed diet, white bread is not a danger, in the opinion of Dr. W. H. Hill, dean of the Institute of public health. On the other hand, he admits that white bread lacks certain things which are found in whole wheat bread. He puts it this way: "It is not that white bread is in itself a dangerous thing to eat, but that certain salts and the vitamins which are, of course, essential for the proper nutrition of the body, are lacking. If you are eating a properly mixed diet you will get these salts and vitamins in other things."

Dr. Hill does not agree with Dr. H. T. Crossley that white bread is one of the chief causes of constipation, although he says that it is a food that is practically the only diet of people, or one of the main things, white bread might have this tendency.

Downham, medical officer of health, 177 indigent sick cases were sent to Victoria hospital, 17 to St. Joseph's hospital, 21 to the Queen Alexandra sanatorium, 22 to the preventorium, and 90 cases were reported to which hospital treatment was not thought necessary.

This Lassie Has Her Colds "Rubbed Away"

The mother of this attractive little girl, Mrs. E. E. Emmans, of 215 Seventh Ave. N.E., Portage la Prairie, Man., is one of the many Canadian mothers who are enthusiastic about the valorizing salve, Vicks VapoRub, for treating children's colds. Mrs. Emmans writes: "My little girl had a cold at night pretty badly and Vicks did her a lot of good. I have also used it with very satisfactory results for head and chest colds. Vicks is just 'rubbed on' for sore throat, tonsillitis, bronchitis, croup or deep chest colds. When so applied, Vicks has a double direct action, internally medicated vapors are inhaled, while, at the same time, externally, it is absorbed through and stimulates the skin.—Advt."

CANINE ASSOCIATION PLANS BANNER YEAR

Program Is Outlined at Well Attended Meeting Held Last Night.

At a well-attended meeting of the London Canine association, held in the club rooms last night, the program for the year was outlined, and plans completed for what promises to be the most successful year in the history of the organization. Compiling with the wishes of the Western Fair association, with which the club is closely allied, it was decided not to have too many evening shows throughout the year, and for 1925 only one evening show will be held under the club's sanction. The date for this show is set for Jan. 22 and will be held in the downtown district. Jack Waggitt of Toronto was selected as judge of all breeds for this contest.

FIFTY ANIMALS SUFFER PAINLESS DEATH IN MONTH

A bill just received from Inspector George Tustin of the London Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals shows that there are 42 fewer dogs and 188 fewer cats in London than on Dec. 1. Dogs and cats that number, injured on the streets or rendered homeless through neglect, were killed, painlessly, by the society during December.

BASKETBALL IS POPULAR AT EAST END TOWN HALL

The east end town hall is being used almost nightly by basketball teams and other organizations. With the commencement of the winter series of the London Ladies Basketball league next Tuesday, accommodation will be taxed. In this league there are twelve teams, and many games will be staged. Request has been made to the city to provide seats for spectators, but this has not been found possible. The floor will likely be marked out again for basketball purposes.

Special to The Advertiser.
Woodstock, Jan. 8.—One of Oxford county's remarkable old women is Mrs. Stephen Wootton of Brookville, who was born in Brookville, Northamptonshire, England, 81 years ago, and is still able to thread a needle by moonlight without the use of glasses. TEACHER HONORED. Special to The Advertiser.

Wallaceburg, Jan. 8.—At a most enjoyable Sunday school banquet and concert of the Trinity Methodist church, a most interesting presentation was made to A. B. Carcellian, by the Adult Bible Class of which he is teacher. The presentation took the form of a Windsor chair and was made by Mrs. Minnie Ayres and an appropriate address was read by Mrs. Norris McPherson, president of the class. Mr. Carcellian replied with a few well-chosen remarks showing his appreciation of the remembrance of his class of which he has been a teacher for a number of years.

DRAWING AWARDS WON BY 3 EMPRESS PUPILS

Claire Armstrong, Ivah Steele and Janet Sonley Are Winners.

Three pupils of Empress avenue school have been successful in winning prizes in drawing contests under the auspices of the Ontario safety league. The pupils all in Grade VII and Grade VI, taught by Miss Lillian Beacom, are Ivah Steele, Janet Sonley, aged 13, and Claire Armstrong, aged 15. Ivah Steele was a prize winner in Class A competition on her drawing of the kitchen of a home with towels placed above the stove, bearing the inscription: "A good housewife does not leave towels hanging above the kitchen stove." The prize winning drawing in Class B, due by Janet Sonley, depicted the inscription: "Boys who play fair do not endanger themselves and others by hanging on the back of trucks and by playing on the streets." The drawing done by Claire Armstrong, also in Class B, showed a teacher warning her class against playing with matches.

EDUCATION BOARD LAUDS CHESLEY SCHOOL ARTIST

At the suggestion of Trustee Mrs. John L. A. Hunt, the board of education last night passed a resolution to forward a letter of congratulation to Maurice Day, pupil at Chesley avenue school, and also the school, upon winning a prize in a provincial poster competition under the auspices of the Ontario safety league. Mrs. Hunt's motion to the above effect was seconded by Trustee B. N. Campbell. Maurice Day, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Day, Hamilton road, was successful in winning this prize on a pencil drawing depicting an automobile accident on a sharp curve, due to the driver of the machine having failed to heed the warning sign posted near the curve.

STRATHROY TOWN WINS QUIT FOR INCOME TAX

Special to The Advertiser.
Strathroy Jan. 8.—Judge Judd tripped two cases in division court here today and disposed of several other matters. An action of Pledge against Smith, Ferguson, furnished a claim for alleged frozen potatoes was dismissed by the court in Arnold vs. McCallum, the plaintiff obtained judgment for $12. A suit for income tax for 1924-25 by the tax department against F. J. Bateman was followed by judgment against the defendant for $45.50. P. C. Denning obtained a judgment against P. Nevells for $151 on a store account, but the garnishee against Caradoc township was dismissed.

DURATION OF SURVEY COMMITTEE PENDING

Question of Reappointment Is
tive Body.

The question of the continuance of the survey committee of the board of education was introduced at the inaugural meeting of the board last night by Trustee B. N. Campbell. After some little discussion on the subject, however, the decision was arrived at that the committee should not be re-appointed and that the matter should be left in the hands of the executive committee. The opinion was expressed that since the heads of departments, Inspector-Administrator V. K. Greer, M.A., Principal E. A. Miller, M.A., of the collegiate institute, and Principal H. B. Beal of the technical high school, would be in touch with the executive committee constantly, any little difficulties encountered in the working out of the new administration, could best be ironed out by that committee. The original survey committee was composed of Trustees A. E. Cairns, cross, chairman, G. F. Copeland, W. N. Manning, B. N. Campbell, and A. J. Grant.

CROSS WORD PUZZLE NO. 75

Pull out your pencils and conquer this puzzle. If you think a word is right, pencil it in lightly till you are sure. This saves erasing of paper and temper. But never hesitate to try a word that may be right. The trial and error method holds in puzzling as it does in anything else. Here are three tips which are not to be used unless you are absolutely stuck: 51 horizontal, 23 vertical, 23 vertical, 23 vertical, 23 vertical, 23 vertical.

Each number in the puzzle indicates the position of the first letter of a word.

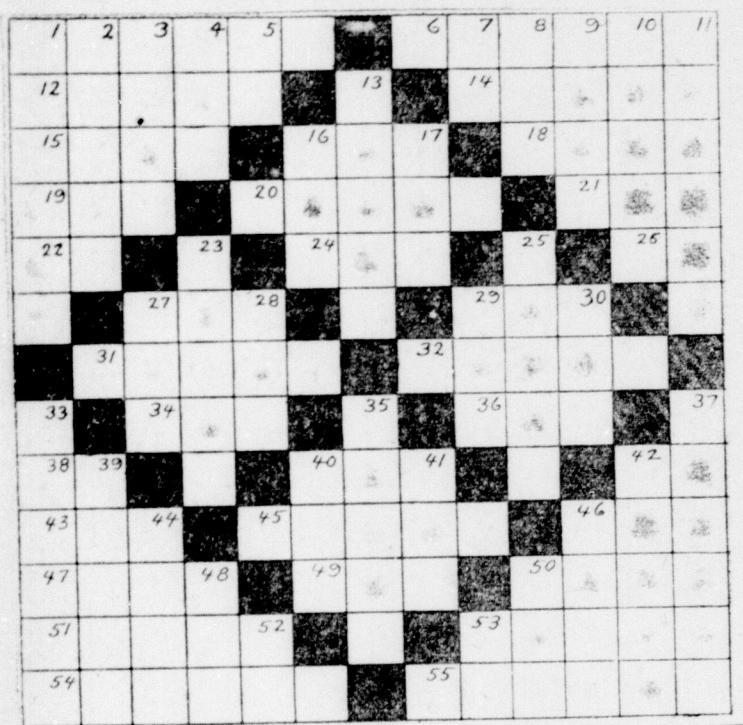

Each word reads from left to right (horizontal) or downward (vertical) according to position. Lettered in correctly, words that cross will interlock.

URGE U. S. ENTRY IN WORLD COURT

Resolution Introduced Into Congress Proposes Entrance To International Body.

Associated Press Despatch. Washington, Jan. 8.—A resolution proposing entry of this nation into the world court was introduced today by Senator Willis, Republican, Ohio. It carries a provision embodying the recommendation of President Coolidge that the U. S. shall not be bound by any advisory opinions of the court.

The resolution is in the nature of a substitute for that offered by Senator Pepper, Republican, Pennsylvania, at the last session, and, with other proposals, will come before the Senate foreign relations committee Wednesday, when the whole world court subject is to be considered.

Embodiment of the recommendation by the president in his annual message last month, the Willis proposal contains the reservation put forward by Secretary Hughes and approved by President Harding.

Free State Vice-President Not Alarmed by Present Trouble.

By WILLIAM H. BRAYDEN. Special Cable to The Advertiser and the Chicago Daily News. Copyright. Dublin, Jan. 8.—Vice-President O'Higgins of the Free State belittles the importance of the split which has arisen in the party organization supporting the Free State government. It began with the resignation of a dissatisfied cabinet minister, followed by nine members of the Dail, and was provoked by the elections. It has now extended to the local organizations, some of which located in the vacated constituencies, desire to secure a reconciliation with the seceders in the interests of unity, in the face of the De Valera menace.

A reconciliation with the seceders would mean a complete re-casting of the national policy and the alienation of the sympathies of persons belonging to different political and religious beliefs.
