Baltimore, Sept. 14. - John F. Peirce, aged 24, was found dead in his bedroom this morning, where he had strangled himself by tying a handkerchief about his neck and twisting it about the bedpost.

Peirce was bitten by a dog on Labor Day, and fear of hydro-phobia had worried him con-stantly ever since. The wound, which was in the thigh, had been treated by physicians, but Peirce's fears were not allayed, and he began to act strangely. His belief that he was in the incipient stages of the disease finally made him frantic.

One feature of the maneuvers, to be sure, caused considerable comment - owing to the flerce heat, so many soldiers were sunstricken that the ambulances and field hospitals were nearly as busy as during a real and sanguinary engagement. But when the news concerns Edward of England there is great pricking up of ears. The Germans do not think of Britain's ruler as "strenuous" in the sense that their Kaiser is, but they feel that he is powerful-powerful as a material fact and powerful in his world-wide influence. What did he do and say at Vienna? Did he greet the Kaiser cordially, and satisfy the world that German interests are in his mind? Or did he by his potent manner of Toronto, Sept. 14.-Mr. A. W. Wright polite indifference show that so far as he is concerned the Germans can fight their own battles? These are the questions that engross German minds. Prisoners Turn Out Bad Money Beneath Noses of the Officials.

Philadelphia, Sept. 13.—Following closely upon the exposure of gross irregularities in the cigar department of the Eastern Penitentiary, came the public anouncement tonight that the illegal coinage of minor silver pieces has been carried on by convicts in the big institution. No details of the counterfeiting scheme can be learned from any of the officials conbe learned from any of the officials con-nected with the prison, or from the Gov-ernment officials that have been assigned

From other sources, however, it was earned that dimes, quarters and half dollars were the coins manufactured. Later in the night further details of the counterfeiting scheme leaked out. These were to the effect that five men were engaged in the work, the head of the counterfeiters being a Philadelphian now counterfeiters being a Philadelphian now completing his second term for this of-fense. The others were professional criminal, who secured, through the plumbing department of the prison, the necessary metal, made of solder, tin and Hastily secreting their treasure, they ground glass. City Must Lower Springbank Dam, Says Appeal Court this afternoon states that in the court of appeal, this morning, judgment was given in the appeal in the case of J board of water commissioners, upholding the decision of Chief Justice Falconbridge, who ordered the commissioners to lower the Springbank dam. The case has been in the courts for ome years. It was instituted by Mr. Saunby, proprietor of the Blackfrians mill, who claimed that the waterworks dam affected the operation of his mill and entailed heavy loss on him. Mr. Saunby asked for damages and also wanted the dam lowered or removed in order that his business would not suffer. The contention was made that he presence of the dam caused the tream to lose its force, while if the dam did not exist ample pressure would instantly, while she thought the gentle girl was just as lovely as she could be.

It seemed as if she had been undergoing some refining process during the last two years, which had rendered her beauty more delicate and her manners more winning.

She had been charmed with her from the first moment of their meeting, and there was not the slightest feeling of envy or bitterness in her heart toward her for having so unceremoniously stepped into the home and fortune which for so many years she had regarded as hers; instead, she began immediately to love her with an affection almost equal to that which she had entertained for Miss McAllister. After they had taken tea they 'ed her upstairs.

"You must rest," Miss McAllister said, with an anxious look at the face, which was fast losing the color which the fates that she had not made known her intentions regarding the future dispositions of her property before the pair had left home. She had resolved to settle a handsome income on Arley, after seeing how nobly she had borne herself upon learning that she was not Captain Wentworth's child; she had been almost tempted to do it when she had sent for Mr. Holley to make over her fortune to Ina; but she rejoiced now that she had not done so, for she be lieved that Philip would have contin ned to live in idleness, and perhaps illtreated Arley until this day.

Miss McAllister then told Arley how Lady Elaine had come to her to learn the name of the vessel in which she had been sent home from India; ho she had asked for something which she had worn at that time, and then take away the little shoes and stockings, an emerald ring, hoping hat they might ai her in her search.
