INTRODUCTION

IN passing the C. A. A. Grounds, what a flood of memory comes over one. The fences are fallen down, the track is overgrown with grass and the grandstand is rapidly hastening to decay. Alas! Alas! It is but another evidence that, when Great Britain is at war, Canada is at war, and when Canada is at war, Prince Edward Island is at war; and the athletes of yore are now fighting the Empire's battles at the front.

How oft have the invincible Abegweits and the strong and skilful St. Dunstan's fought for mastery—or the Abbies and their brilliant rivals, the Victorias, struggled for supremacy in the manly game of football. When these teams—magnificent specimens of Island brawn and brain—lined up on that memorable field eagerly awaiting the referee's whistle to put the ball in motion, we recall cheering pictures of vivid life portrayed. Both teams straining every nerve and exerting every muscle, and calling up all their skill of strategy, knowledge and athletic experience to secure a touchdown or win a goal.

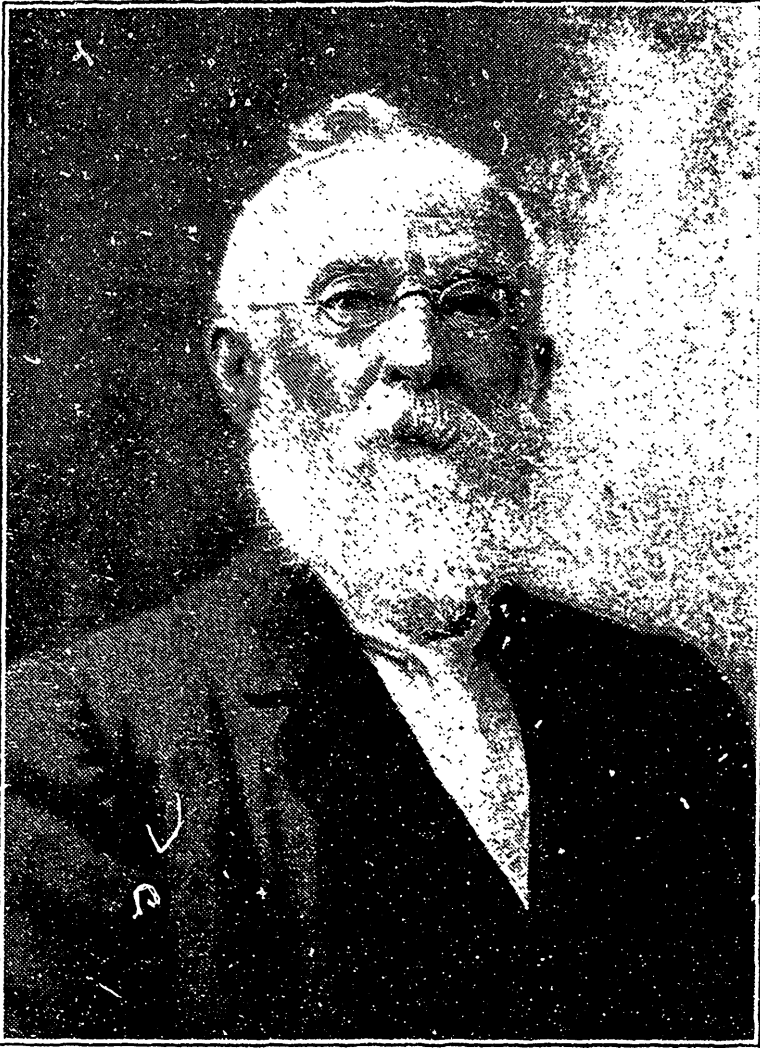

Again, call up from the depths of memory Labour Day and Dominion Day Sports and all they stood for. Track and Field events all filled with powerful, stalwart athletes, the brawn and muscle of the province. Time after time, cheering, enthusiastic thousands have watched the fleet-footed runners turn the corners and enter the home-stretch, while the Band struck up a lively and spirited tune, thus lending as it were additional strength and speed to the panting racers for the final and the winning spurt—the breasting of the tape.

But now to pass the old grounds, where such splendid sport was wont to be held, makes us "feel like one who treads alone, some banquet hall deserted."

The cannon ball has replaced the football and the one mile race and hundred yard dash have given way to 'over the top' and the bloody charge of the battlefields: the roar of mighty guns is now heard instead of the cheering of by-gone spectators on the bleachers. However, when General Foch puts the ball in play and

His Mos. Gracious Majesty King George V.

Austin Colin Macdonald

Lieutenant-Governor of Prince Edward Island

Lieut.-Col. W. B. Prowse, D. S. O.

the bugles sound the advance, all may rest assured that the football players, the stick handlers, the sprinters, the jumpers, the hammer throwers, the shot putters and the whole galaxy of Island athletes, shall surely make a touchdown, kick a goal, run to the trenches and carry the day, till the Germans realize that the Spartans of old had nothing on the athletic boys from the Province of Prince Edward Island.

The value of athletic training is without end in the war. Good physical condition makes for better soldiers and better fighters—and if misfortune does strike a strong clean body, well, better the chance of recovery.

Athletics give the wounded man the same advantage of 'winning out' in the struggle with death as it gives him when 'winning out' on the sporting field at home.

Everyone knows, and the Doctors in service abroad know it better than anyone else, that the athlete recovers oftener and quicker from wounds and disease. The same strong, clean, active body that made victory possible on the athletic field, will make victory possible to the wounded on the battlefield. So you see, athletics not only assist the soldier in 'going over' but assist him in 'coming back.'

Wellington said that 'the Battle of Waterloo, in 1815, was won on the cricket fields of Eton.'

What was true in 1815, is equally true in the present for, in this, the greatest and most colossal struggle of the nations, of their armies and navies, the athletes of the world are enrolled almost to a man, every true athlete exemplifying that—

"In peace there's nothing so becomes a man
As modest stillness and humility
But when the blast of war blows in our ears,
They imitate the actions of a tiger."

The ringing echoes of the bugle and the throbbing of the war drum had scarcely sounded throughout Great Britain and her far-flung overseas Dominion on that memorable August Fourth, nineteen hundred and fourteen, when, from the palace and the hamlet, from the old homestead on the countryside to the city dwelling, millions of the flower of the manhood of our ever-glorious Empire hastened to join the Colors and fight for the freedom and liberty of mankind and the righteousness of our cause.

Rev. George C. Taylor

Presbyterian Chaplain with 105th Battalion

Naturally, amongst the first to enlist, long before conscription was thought of or heard of were the boys—the splendid boys—of the tight little, right little, loyal and patriotic Province of Prince Edward Island. Thousands strong they have marched away. How oft we have followed them to the wharf or the station, to bid them farewell as they went boldly forth to battle.

Many of these heroic lads have won promotion and distinction on the battlefields of France and Flanders; the glory of their dauntless deeds will never fade, but as the years go by will shine with a rich lustre upon the “Parva sub Ingenti” of our Island Home. Their deathless fame will forever inspire the youth of coming generations.

Of those who have fallen on the field of glory—who have given their lives for our country—we believe they shall return:

“They shall return when the wars are over,
When battles are memories dim and far;
Where guns now stand shall be corn and clover.
Flowers shall bloom where the blood-drops are.

They shall return with laughing faces,
Limbs that are lithe and hearts new-born;
Yea, we shall see them in old home-places,
Lovelier yet in the light of morn.

Dream not they die, though their bodies perish;
Spirits like theirs, so free and brave,
Go on to conquer and vitally flourish
Spite of the sword and the grasping grave.

They shall return when the wars are over,
When battles are memories dim and far;
Where guns now stand shall be corn and clover,
Flowers shall bloom where the blood-drops are—
They shall return.”

Amongst the heroes—the quick and the dead, are numbered scores, yea, hundreds of Island athletes, most of whose names are

Rev. Pius McDonald
Roman Catholic Chaplain with 105th Battalion

upon the pages of this modest book. Some may have been left out. In such cases, gentle reader, it was a fault of the mind and not of the heart.

In the days of peace, which now seem so far away, how oft has our Island Press proudly proclaimed the notable victories won by Island athletes both at home and abroad.

“Here rose an athlete, strong to break or bind
All force in bonds that might endure.”

In this matchless province—the smallest in the great confederation of the provinces of Canada—our boys have singularly evidenced that “athletic soundness and vigour of constitution, which is seen in cottages where Nature is cook and Necessity caterer.” What names are these to conjure with in the annals of Canadian athletics:—

Abegweits,
Victorias,
Connaughts,
Prince of Wales College,
St. Dunstan's College,
Crystals,—Summerside.

How oft on track, on field and on ice have records been broken and the colours of these immortal teams been borne to victory through a baptism 'of blood and fire.'

In football, in hockey, on the track, over the bar, with the hammer an' with the shot has the laurel leaf of victory been intertwined around the name of Abegweits—

“I can see the white caps dashing,
And the ripples dancing, flashing;
I can smell the kelp and sea-weed,
For the wind is off the shore;
Out at sea white sails are flowing,
In my face the salt air blowing,
I am dreaming of the sand-hills,
I am home again once more.

Lieut Surgeon McKenzie

By the Southern waters roaming
I have seen the billows foaming
And felt the softer breezes
Flower-scented, blowing free;
There no heavy clouds are darkling
To obscure the water sparkling,
And the clear sky is reflected
In the blueness of the sea."

I still see the Abbies beating
Everything in sight, and meeting
The quickest and the strongest
Of the boys down by the sea.
Oft I've sat upon the bleachers
And screamed my loudest screeches
For the Abbies are the gamest lads
In all the world to me.

Championships for historical athletic events in the Maritime Provinces have frequently been carried home by one or the other of the teams mentioned; and the honour gained by Island athletes, would make an exhibition and scroll, of which any far more pretentious state or province would be justly proud. Thus, when the call of battle came—'ready, aye—ready' were our Island athletes—

"Their's not to reason why
Their's but to do or die."

Read their names in the pages of this book—note their records and their clubs: they lost no time, eager for the fray forth went they and their deeds on the blood-red battlefields of Europe far outshine and surpass their splendid achievements on the hard fought football fields at home.

The Island Boys always "Play the Game."

"There's a breathless hush in the close tonight
Ten to one and the match to win
A bumping pitch and a blinding light
An hour to play and the last man in;

Flight Lient. Frederick Nash
Prisoner in Germany.

And it's not for the sake of a ribboned coat,
Or the selfish hope of a season's fame,
But his Captain's hand on his shoulder smote—
"Play up, play up! and play the game!

The sand of the desert is sodden red—
Red with the wreck of the square that broke,
The gatling's jammed and the Colonel dead,
And the Regiment blind with dust and smoke.
The river of death has brimmed its banks,
And England's far, and Honor a name;
But the voice of a schoolboy rallies the ranks;
"Play up, play up! and play the game."

This is the word that year by year,
While in her place the school is set;
Every one of her sons must hear
And none that hears it dare forget.
This they all with a joyful mind
Bear through life, like a torch in flame,
And falling, fling to the host behind;
"Play up, play up! and play the game."

Let the hordes of German soldiers sit up and take notice, for the Island athletes shall play up, play up and play the game. All trades and professions here were represented and magnificently represented and Prince Edward Island athletes are in all branches of the Army, the Navy, and the Royal Air Force of the British Empire.

When a British ship is lost at sea, oh, then I know you'll find
That there's something in the British after all.
There's no panic rush for safety, where the weak are left behind,
For there's something in the British after all;
But the women and the children are the first to leave the wreck,
With the men in line as steady as a wall,
And the Captain is the last to stand upon the reeling deck,
So there's something in the British after all.

Old Government House. (Recently improved and made part of the new Convalescent Home.)

Though half of Europe hates them and would joy in their decline,
 Yet there's something in the British after all.
 They may scorn the scanty numbers of the thin red British line,
 Yet they fear its lean bat'alions after all.
 For they know that from the Colonel to the drummer in the Band,
 There is not a single soldier in them all
 But would go to blind destruction, were their country to command,
 And call it simply duty—after all.

Some day, "when the war drum throbs no longer and the battle flag is furled," the boys—but alas, not all the boys—will come home again.

Many sleep in Flanders Fields:—

"In Flanders fields the poppies blow
 Between the crosses, row on row,
 That mark our place; and in the sky
 The larks still bravely singing fly,
 Scarce heard amidst the guns below.
 We are the dead. Short days ago

We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved, and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders Fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe,
To you from falling hands we throw
The torch—be yours to hold it high;
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.”

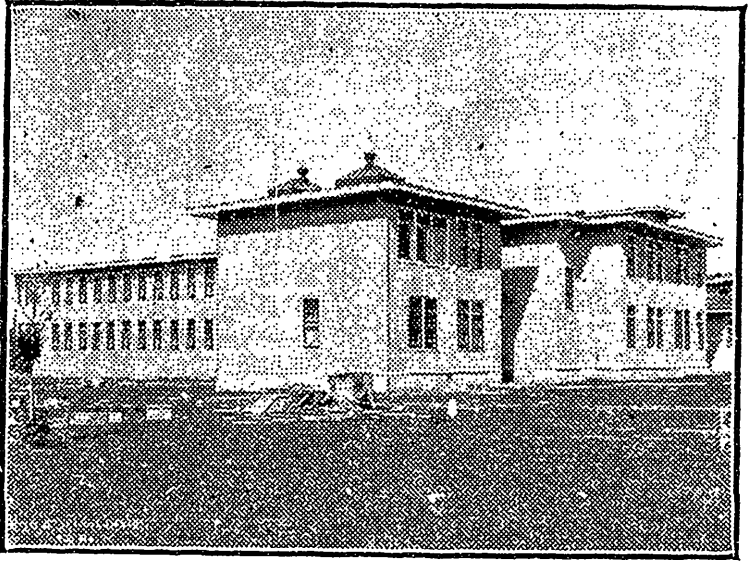

Several of the warlike nations of the past were especially famed for their prowess in athletic sports, notably the gladiators of ancient Rome and the matchless runners of beautiful Greece. And in modern times, as demonstrated at the Olympic Games the British Empire, the United States, France and Italy, and some other European nations have been splendidly represented in athletics and hold many championships and records.

Strange and remarkable as it may seem, however, Germany which proudly boasts of being the most warlike of all the nations, is comparatively unknown in the arena of sport on track or field. The Germans trained in compulsory military service—machine made soldiers—have never shone at athletic gatherings and have always been outclassed, defeated and humiliated, especially by the British and the American athletes, at any of the great Olympic Games, participated in by the best athletes in all the world. On such occasions the Germans were conspicuous as poor sportsmen and worse athletes. Then, as now, the Hun was beaten in the field, in the air, and on the sea.

S. S. CACOUNA

This Steamer conveyed the first Artillery Contingent to Sydney, C. B., at the outbreak of the War.

New Convalescent Home, Charlottetown.

This little book is respectfully submitted as a slight memorial of the Island Athletes, also in a desire to prove that athletics make a nobler, greater, braver and more self-sacrificing manhood than could possibly be achieved in any other way.

Dr. Beland says his war experiences and war observations have intensified his enthusiasm and admiration for all forms of clean and healthy athleticism. In a recent conversation, Dr. Beland declared “field sports have justified themselves again and again in the sterner tests of the battlefield in the conflict for freedom.”

Another matter in connection with athletics which is of transcendent importance is that with respect to the encouragement of the boys—in the Public Schools and others—all under military age,—to take up athletic exercises. “The boy is father to the man.” The boys of today are the men of tomorrow, hence the necessity of rounding out their characters, spiritually, intellectually and athletically. The throngs of people, especially parents, who witnessed the well contested games at the recent Gathering of the Clans in Charlottetown, must have been struck with the splendid material that was evidenced amongst our growing boys. All that is needed is to give stimulus to the younger and rising generation, by the older athletes and associated members of the different clubs. This can be done only through the promotion of field-day sports, also by precept and example. It will not be long before the boys, now of tender years, will prove themselves upon well contested fields of sport. Then, when the soldier boys come home again from the battlefields of France and the war is over, they, the old time athletes, will be anxious to see good athletics instilled into the boys who are to follow. The soldier boys, through experience, bought at a terrible price, will know how absolutely essential it is to train the coming generation in athletics, giving to them the best qualities possible for physical endurance, valor and discipline. Therefore it would be well for prospective young athletes to begin their training early in life and get into first-class physical condition now and not wait until the war is over or until their inclination is lessened by advancing years. It remains with the boys of today to uphold the honours and add to the lustre that their predecessors have won in hard-fought battles of sport throughout the Maritime Provinces. The perfection of the physical condition of Island athletes is known and honoured through Canada, and it is up to you boys to see to it, that the athletic Flag of Island Honour is held high and kept nailed to the mast.

This leads to the consideration of what the sporting Clubs have done in the war. In a brief review recently appearing in the Press, it is mentioned that these Clubs and notable athletes have carried out big gatherings and have given remarkable exhibitions and matches especially for the Red Cross Funds. Every cent of the receipts from one hundred thousand to one million, besides motors, ambulances, etc., have been promptly handed over to worthy organizations.

Tones up the System

because everything that is in it is tonic and strengthening.

There is

No Purer Water

than the water supplied to our city and with which our beverages are made; in addition to its purity we supply the tonic, germ-destroying power of the Carbonic Acid Gas and the Fruit Acids and flavoring essences.

What's more, the sugar that forms more than one eighth of the bulk of all our goods is a wonderfully strengthening food, especially in this easily assimilated form.
